2 Alert Deputies Nab Man

Mark J. Kirby, 25, was arrested at 3:05 a.m., Saturday inside a service station at 4th and Birdwell Streets here as a suspect in a shooting and kidnapping which took place Friday night in Mineral Wells.

An alert deputy sheriff and a night reserve deputy took Kirby into custody without resistance.

Deputies Robert Puenta and Violoso Garcia arrested the man after noticing that a car parked outside the station fit the description of one being driven by the wanted man.

The two officers said they found $217 on Kirby's person. A search of his car also turned up a .22 caliber rifle, according to Howard County sheriff A. N. Standard.

A man identified as an itinerant woodcutter wounded a barmaid twice, kidnapped two men, robbed several and upset patrons of Maulsie's Lounge in Mineral Wells Friday night.

According to Palo Pinto County sheriff Bill Harris, a man entered Maulsie's about 9:30 p.m., Friday carrying a short, .22 caliber rifle. Patrons later said they thought the gun was a toy.

He told Eva Edwards he was holding up the place. The waitress either did not hear the man or ignored him. He thereupon leveled the gun at her and fired twice, striking her in the chest and arm.

The holdup man rifled the cash register of its contents, then ordered the patrons to empty their pockets and pocketbooks.

The intruder forced Donald Lee Ellis into a car as a hostage but Ellis broke away and ran into some nearby brush, suffering injuries when he crashed against a barbed wire fence.

The bandit went back into the bar, got keys to a 1966 yellow Corvair, ordered Doug Hall to accompany him and took off again. He stopped to take $290 off Hall, who had just been paid, before starting his ride westward.

Hall succeeded in making his escape near Abilene and notified officers that the suspect was headed in the direction of Big Spring.

Two members of the Palo Pinto sheriff's department arrived late Saturday to take custody of the fugitive and returned him to Mineral Wells.

The suspect, according to Sheriff Standard, is wanted on three charges of armed robbery, car theft, one of assault to commit murder and abduction of hostages.

Area Bands Rate High

Big Spring and Forsan were among the first division bands performing in University Interscholastic League marching competition in Odessa Saturday.

Both of these bands, in their respective classifications, were awarded top rating firsts by all three judges and earned trophies.

Coahoma and Stanton were among the bands awarded second division ratings at the contest in their classifications. All bands also compete in the spring in concert and sight reading competition to round out their year's contests. Those placing first in all three are called sweepstakes bands.

Colorado City also placed second division in the AA portion of the marching contest. They recently captured a first in an area parade contest.

KISSINGER INSISTS Syria Will Not Attack Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told Israeli officials Saturday that he had assurances from Syria that it would not attack the Jewish state.

Simcha Dinitz met for 90 minutes with Kissinger at the State Department and told reporters afterward:

"I'm happy to say that the assurances that I received from the secretary of state as conveyed to him by our neighbors indicate that the other side does not have aggressive intentions."

Dinitz appeared to be joining with the secretary in trying to downplay speculation that recent developments in the Middle East were extremely dangerous and might lead to war at any time.

The Israeli official said that reports of an Israeli mobilization "are highly exaggerated and do not reflect the real situation."

He would not discuss specific numbers with reporters; however, State Department officials had said the Israeli mobilization amounted to a few thousand men.

Currently, Israel has about 150,000 men under arms with another 250,000 troops in reserve.

Dinitz explained the Israeli mobilization in terms of "precautionary actions" to prevent any possibility of his country being taken by surprise.

He said the calling up of the few reserves followed the unloading of sophisticated arms from 20 Soviet ships in a Syrian harbor late last week.

Dinitz' version of his conversation with Kissinger was approved by Kissinger before Dinitz met with newsmen.

Although State Department officials repeatedly denied the seriousness of the situation, it was evident there was concern about a new instability in the Arab-Israeli situation. This was underscored by urgent conversations Friday night on the telephone between Kissinger and Dinitz as well as a breakfast meeting Kissinger had at the State Department Saturday with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin.

Third Graders Take Hard Look At Economic Woes

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — About 200 Centralia third graders sat down to define something that's been a central problem for their elders lately: inflation.

With their concrete grasp of things, the youngsters came up with answers considerably more graphic than those of the experts who have been grappling with inflation.

"To me inflation means food prices going up. For one week plums cost 45 cents and the next week they were $1.65. That's ridiculous," said Tanya.

"Even though I am in the third grade I know what's going on."

What's inflation? "When you go to the cash register with the buggy and you have to put some groceries back," Erica said.

"To me inflation means high rising prices...Boy, even bubble gum has gone from a penny to two," Johnetta declared. "We're going to have a depression yet."

Peter would sooner you didn't ask: "Inflation is very bad. You shouldn't talk about it. Somebody might get mad. Don't talk about inflation. You might start a bad conversation. You hear it on the news."

Some kids hinted at solutions: "I went to the store and bought a pint of milk. The milk cost 11 cents and I went back there again and it cost 20 cents," Dwight. "I got so mad I could have eaten a cat and a dog."

Said Kevin in despair: "I don't like inflation. I just don't have the money."

Cemetery Searched

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Miller County sheriff's deputies and funeral home officials from Texarkana, Ark., obtained a court order here late Friday as they attempted to end a three-day mystery involving a missing casket and body.

Deputies earlier had obtained court permission to search Friendship Cemetery at Amity near here and located what Sheriff Leslie Greer and funeral home officials said was believed to be the missing casket.

Authorities were trying to determine today whether the body in the casket was that of Charles R. Markham of Texarkana.

Markham, who died in May 1973 had been buried at Rondo Cemetery at Texarkana. Greer said the casket search began Tuesday when funeral home officials discovered that Markham had been buried in a plot owned by another family.

When funeral home workers attempted to exhume the casket, they found it contained only bags of sand, Greer said.

Relatives of Markham were then interviewed and deputies found that Markham's family had disagreed at the time of his death over where he was to be buried, Greer said.

Information gathered by the sheriff's department led deputies to obtain the search order for the Amity Cemetery and a casket which funeral home officials say was the one in which Markham was buried was found about one foot under ground.

Israel Getting Ready For Possible Trouble

By The Associated Press
Death-dealing riots in support of Arab guerrillas swept the West Bank of Jordan on Saturday, and Israel announced it stepped up its military readiness following a Syrian army alert.

At the same time four empty Egyptian ships steamed into the Suez Canal on the first nonmilitary passage since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

In other Middle East developments: —Urgent letters from Washington and Moscow were reported delivered to Presidents Hafez Assad of Syria and Anwar Sadat of Egypt, but the contents were not disclosed.

—A White House spokesman said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger still "does not think war is likely and we are not in a situation of imminent conflict."

—U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim urged new restraint in the Middle East, and said U.N. observers had reported "slightly more air activity than usual" over the Golan Heights.

—Cuba's press agency quoted visiting guerrilla chief Yasir Arafat as saying in Havana, "the Zionist high command is ready to launch a surprise attack against its neighbors," and warning that nuclear weapons could be used if war breaks out in the Middle East.

In Tel Aviv, Defense Minister Shimon Peres said Israel took "suitable precautionary measures" after Syria placed its forces on an unusual alert.

Peres said this was not the first time Israel had taken such measures, and that Syria often heightened its alert in different branches of its military forces. He gave no other details.

On the West Bank of Jordan, riots, demonstrations and violence swept through three towns in the occupied zone, leaving a teen-aged Arab girl dead, scores injured and at least 50 persons arrested, officials said.

Thousands of Arab high school students hurled stones at Israeli police and shouted support of Arafat and his Palestine Liberation Organization.

Flanigan Is Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford withdrew on Saturday the controversial nomination of Peter M. Flanigan to be U.S. ambassador to Spain.

He acted at the request of Flanigan, who told Ford in a letter dated Saturday that a long delay in his confirmation "would not be in the best interest of your relations with the Congress nor the country's relations with Spain."

Ford, in a "Dear Pete" letter, told Flanigan: "Although I fully understand the selfless reasons which led to your decision it is nevertheless with reluctance and deep regret that I accept your request."

The nomination of Flanigan, who as adviser to former president Richard Nixon on international economic affairs, had generated controversy because of his involvement in the International Telephone and Telegraph antitrust case and charges that he helped large campaign contributors get ambassadorships.

Flanigan, 54, denied any wrongdoing or improprieties in testimony. His nomination died in October under Senate rules with the adjournment of Congress until next Monday but Ford had said he planned to re-submit it when Congress reconvened.

Flanigan, in his letter to Ford, referred to the controversy and said that while he believed his record as a White House aide and director of the Council on International Economic Policy would bring him Senate support, "unhappily the distortion of that record, despite the affirmative report given to the White House by Mr. Jaworski, throws that belief into serious question."

This was a reference to former special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Auto Barons See Continued Slump

DETROIT (AP) — Tentative plans by Chrysler Corp. to shut down virtually its entire production system for all of next month come amid a new sales pessimism in the car business. General Motors Chairman Richard C. Gerstenberg, usually not as pessimistic as most of his fellow executives, last week took another chunk out of GM's prediction of 1975-model auto industry sales.

"We started out talking about 10 million sales," he said. "Then ... we lowered it to 9.5 million. I would say it's now somewhere in the 9 million to 9.5 million range."

One Wall Street analyst, contacted Friday about rumors of the Chrysler plans, said he now believes a sales forecast "somewhere around 8.4 million" would be reasonable.

He said with a little bad luck — if the economy does not improve — sales could dip as low as 8.1 million.

That compares with 1973 industry sales of 11.8 million, and sales during the most recent 1974 sales year of 10.8 million.

A meeting scheduled for Monday between UAW officials and Chrysler Corp. executives could shed light on reports that Chrysler will close five of its six assembly plants for December.

The subsequent shutdown of manufacturing facilities could bring December unemployment at Chrysler to 80,000 or more. The company has about 100,000 production workers.

Chrysler President John Riccardo said no final decision has been made on the proposed production shutdown which, according to several industry sources, would be "unprecedented."

Car sales for the first 10 days of November were off 34 per cent from last year at Chrysler and 22 per cent industry-wide.

Chrysler's stockpile of cars was estimated as 110,000 as of Oct. 31, and one Wall Street analyst said such a large stockpile definitely requires "corrective action."

A United Auto Workers spokesman said a December layoff would rob workers' paid vacation during the month and could save Chrysler $20 million.

Reviewing the

Big Spring Week

with Joe Pickle

Thursday went into the records as the "first frost" date when the temperature dipped to 30 degrees. Actually, ice crystals were showing up several days prior as wind caused evaporation to lower readings to freezing in low places. So far, we've not gotten that "killing" frost, nor sorely needed so that producers can gather whatever our poor cotton crop will yield. The crop is not worth defoliating.

The hard-luck story of the week is that of the apparent shooting of the prize quarter horse "Panlapados" belonging to Carolyn Roane. She paid $2,500 for him and had been offered three or four times that, but Panlapados was her mount for intercollegiate Rodeo barrel racing. The horse was hit over the eye, probably by a stray bullet fired by someone in the Silver Heels area.

After a long-standing appeal to the Howard County Commissioners Court, the Texas Department of Public Welfare apparently is willing to proceed with establishment of a child welfare office here. Some court members have hinted it is a boondoggle; backers say it is a necessity. The court will talk more about it Monday, but anyhow, it appears the office will be opened.

'In Serious Recession,' FTC Member Concedes

DELAND, Fla. (AP) — Saying "we are in a serious recession," a member of the Federal Trade Commission has called for re-institution of wage and price controls.

"All of my training, what knowledge I have, and my instincts tell me that we are in a serious recession," Paul R. Dixon said Friday during a speech at Stetson University. "I do not join those in our society who believe it is inevitable that we must endure periodic booms and busts."

"Each recession inflicts its worst pains upon those least able to endure them," said Dixon, a former chairman and present member of the FTC. "I suggest the re-institution of wage-price controls...at least until a re-examination of the laws of the land can be frankly and seriously undertaken."

Symington: Ford Should Reduce His Own Salary

WASHINGTON (AP) — A well-balanced national economic program should start with heavy cuts in government spending, perhaps with President Ford voluntarily taking a $25,000 salary reduction, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., says.

"The budget of no department can be sacrosanct... the President could set a good example for the rest of the government by voluntarily taking a $25,000-a-year salary cut. That would lend credibility to his pleas for every American to adopt a more austere life style," Symington said in a weekly newsletter.

No mention was made of trimming congressional salaries. The President's salary is $200,000 a year. Members of Congress are paid $42,500 a year.

EX-BURGLAR HOPES TO REPAY VICTIMS Experience Is Put To Use

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP) — Larry Bomstead gained an expertise with locks during a career as a burglar. These days, Bomstead, 32, advises businesses on security systems and alarms to foil would-be burglars. And he hopes to use the profits from his locksmith business to pay back his victims. Bomstead is the proprietor of Alexie's Olympic Locksmith and Repair. "I became a locksmith because I was a very good burglar and I do know locks," he says. "It's a natural occupation." Two years ago he left McNeil Island federal penitentiary after a three-and-a-half year stay that capped a prison career Bomstead began at 21. In addition to burglary, Bomstead has served time for armed robbery and bank robbery. "When I offer people advice on security and alarm systems, I base it on what they're protecting," he says.

"I know how a crook would think about going after what they have." Bomstead says most of his commercial accounts are aware of his past.

"Some of them chuckle about it but they know I'm doing something now that I can do and do well." The new locksmith says he's written to "everybody I ever did anything to, offering my apology and offering restitution."

It was not known how many jobs Bomstead had pulled or how much money they had netted him. "Some didn't write back, but the couple whose car I took when I stole money from the Sequim bank wrote me and asked me to drop by and say hello."

Bomstead says he has sent some money to the insurance company that covered a bank he robbed and plans to pay off his debts in full when his locksmith business allows.

HOW FAR CAN POLICE GO?

U. S. Judges Are Studying Statutes

By JIM BARLOW Associated Press Writer HOUSTON (AP) — Three federal judges who peppered attorneys for law enforcement officials with hostile questions Friday, now have in their hands a decision on the use of laws to control sexually-explicit materials in Texas.

Fort Worth, Wichita Falls, Beaumont and College Station to prosecute operators of adult motion picture theaters and book stores. U.S. District Court Judge John Singleton of Houston was managing judge for the hearing Friday and bombarded lawyers for police with question after question about the conduct of their clients in trying to suppress the sale and showing of sexual material.

Lawyers for all sides predicted that any decision by Singleton, U.S. Circuit Court Judge Joe Ingraham of Houston and U.S. District Judge William Taylor of Dallas will be appealed all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court. Singleton said the U.S. Supreme Court in the recent past has first ruled that local communities can set their own standards on what is obscene, then turned around and overruled local standards in a case involving the movie, "Carnal Knowledge."

"The Supreme Court is now the giant board of censors," Singleton said. Arguments Friday centered on police tactics in enforcing pornography laws. They included in the 14 cases before the court:

—Obtaining a search warrant to look for obscene materials in theaters and book stores, then seizing the films in question as well as projectors, screens, coin machines, and even theater seats.

—Obtaining or threatening to obtain injunctions from district courts declaring movie theaters showing sexually-explicit films to be public nuisances. Operators would then be warned not to show films containing a long list of sexual acts, including intercourse, for a one-year period or face contempt of court charges.

—Charging a movie operator with commercial obscenity which carries a six-month jail sentence for exhibiting the picture "Deep Throat." Then charging the operator with use of a criminal instrument, a felony which carries a two-to-10-year sentence upon conviction. The "criminal instrument" in the indictment was the 16mm projector used to screen the film.

Singleton questioned Keith Burris of the Bexar County (San Antonio) district attorney's office about the seizing of four film projectors from the Fiesta Theater which was showing "Deep Throat." "In a book case would you have to have the lynchpin in evidence in order to test the obscenity of the book?" Burris said he felt the seizing of the projectors was necessary for the state's case.

"You say in order for the state to make a case on the film they have to seize the projector?" Singleton asked. "Yes sir," replied Burris. "Inconceivable!" Singleton said.

Burris had argued that in the San Antonio case the federal courts should let the state courts decide if the use of the criminal instrument charges was constitutional. Singleton replied, "What they (the movie operators) are saying is, as a matter of law, this is bad faith harassment. I frankly think that if 1601 (the statute in question) is not unconstitutional or hasn't been unconstitutionally applied, then I just don't deserve to be sitting here."

Gerald Weatherly of the Dallas County district attorney's office argued that the state has the right to obtain an injunction and stop theaters from showing sexually-explicit films as long as the alleged obscene acts are set out in the injunction. Weatherly said in a case he was involved in, the acts so stated included sexual intercourse, as well as other sexual activities.

"So procreation is obscene?" Judge Singleton asked. "What you're saying is that if you don't do it and the court doesn't do it, it's obscene and a nuisance," the judge added. Lawyers for King Arts Theater in San Angelo argued in the hearing that the state can't say a sexual act in a motion picture makes the picture obscene.

Marijuana Users 'Not Criminals'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marijuana users should not be treated as criminals, a top White House official has declared, stating that "criminal penalties have clearly failed to prevent widespread use of marijuana."

Dr. Robert L. DuPont, head of the White House Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention, said persons arrested on marijuana charges have "suffered the trauma of arrest... (and) will carry around that criminal arrest record."

Addressing the National Organization for Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML), he said, "For those convicted, the stigma of criminality may close some doors of economic opportunity... and for some of them, these laws may close the doors of a jail cell."

He said 420,000 persons were arrested for marijuana offenses last year, a third higher than in 1972 and more than double the figure of four years ago. Most of those arrested are between the ages of 18 and 25. The majority of those arrested on marijuana charges are not convicted, he said.

DuPont observed that enforcement of the laws is selective. U.S. Atty. Earl J. Silbert has told the Washington, D.C., police department his office would not file court charges against persons arrested with five or fewer marijuana cigarettes or up to a gram of the drug in any other form.

The Washington Post said well-placed sources revealed the policy shift was cleared with the Justice Department and top local police officials. DuPont said the legal prohibition against marijuana possession should not be dropped "but the key question is whether the benefits of deterrence are available at a lower social cost than the current criminal sanction. I think that they are."

He also said recent studies "seem to indicate that there may be serious risk to marijuana users."

New Price Hike For Newsprint

COOSA PINES, Ala. (AP) — Kimberly-Clark Corp.'s Coosa River Mill says it will increase its rates for 32-pound newsprint by 25¢ on Jan. 1. An announcement mailed to customers Friday said the price would go from $215 to $235.

"We regret adding to your cost burden and hope that you understand the necessity for this action on our part," the announcement said. It was the third price increase of the year. In March newsprint rates rose from $173 to $200, and in September from $200 to $215.

Co-op, 13 Info On Phone Company To Face Will Be On Party Line Charges

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Dairylea milk cooperative and 12 former and present employees were indicted Friday in a milk adulteration scandal in which Dairylea has already confessed to using powdered skim milk in its whole milk. The cooperative and seven of the employees pleaded innocent immediately after the indictments were handed up by an Albany County grand jury. The other five employees were not present.

The grand jury, convened by the state attorney general's office after the Department of Agriculture and Markets fined the cooperative $150,000 for adulterating its milk, handed up three separate indictments. One charged the cooperative with 89 counts of possessing false reports on milk processing, and with 89 counts of filing those false reports with the state. Both are felony counts carrying fines that could total $1.78 million.

The second indictment charged Dairylea and four present and seven former employees with conspiring to possess and file the false reports — a misdemeanor count that could subject the employees to jail terms of up to one year.

The third indictment charged a 12th employee with perjury. The auditors, to which the cooperative confessed in the Department of Agriculture and Markets proceedings, involved the use of powdered skim milk to adjust the fat content of whole milk to legal levels.

The department has said that none of the admitted violations involved health regulations. The rules banning such uses of skim milk are designed for the economic protection of the industry and for the general protection of quality levels.

The department found that the adulterations had taken place between 1967 and 1973, and may have involved millions of gallons of milk. It said it would have levied a fine stiffer than the $150,000 but for the fact that Dairylea was in difficult financial straits.

A statement issued by the cooperative, which covers more than 8,000 dairy farmers, most of them in New York State and New England, said "the indictments single out Dairylea and certain of its employees for harsher treatment than is accorded to others. Every month, 150 to 200 violations in the same general category are settled to the state's satisfaction, without recourse to the courts of prosecution."

The potentially explosive portions of the suit are primarily contained in requests that the court order Bell not to destroy or withhold certain records about political dealings and about rate-setting procedures until the court can explore them.

Also, the suit says Southwestern Bell possesses sophisticated wiretapping devices which the plaintiffs fear the company illegally will use against them.

The suit also hints of possible illegal corporate political activity. Southwestern Bell, based in St. Louis, is the largest telephone system in American Telephone and Telegraph (AT&T) operation. Gravit was a $90,000 a year executive who headed the Texas company when he committed suicide Oct. 17 at his Dallas home.

The suit says a conspiracy by Bell to harass the two men led to his death. The company Friday denied allegations in the suit and for the first time since his death said Gravit "was implicated in the investigation by company auditors and security agents in some areas of questionable activities."

As for Ashley, dismissed Nov. 1 for improper conduct, the company statement said "at the time of his dismissal, he threatened to do everything in his power to embarrass individuals and the company unless allowed to retain his job."

Bell said the loss of money uncovered by auditors in its own operations was not significant. The company said it had not accused Gravit before his death and had not suspended him, as some sources had said.

"While our investigation involved his area of overall responsibility, and although his name had been mentioned in a few cases of public wrongdoing, we could see no reason for him to kill himself."

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)

Court action here promises to shed new light on the nation's largest telephone company, charged in a civil suit with deceitful rate setting practices in Texas.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. is charged with harassing two of its Texas executives — one of whom committed suicide. The $26 million suit was filed by the family of T.O. Gravit, who took his life, and James Ashley, head of the company's San Antonio division which covered two-thirds of Texas, when he was fired.

As for Ashley, dismissed Nov. 1 for improper conduct, the company statement said "at the time of his dismissal, he threatened to do everything in his power to embarrass individuals and the company unless allowed to retain his job."

Bell said the loss of money uncovered by auditors in its own operations was not significant. The company said it had not accused Gravit before his death and had not suspended him, as some sources had said.

"While our investigation involved his area of overall responsibility, and although his name had been mentioned in a few cases of public wrongdoing, we could see no reason for him to kill himself."

The suit says Southwestern Bell possesses sophisticated wiretapping devices which the plaintiffs fear the company illegally will use against them.

The suit also hints of possible illegal corporate political activity. Southwestern Bell, based in St. Louis, is the largest telephone system in American Telephone and Telegraph (AT&T) operation. Gravit was a $90,000 a year executive who headed the Texas company when he committed suicide Oct. 17 at his Dallas home.

The suit says a conspiracy by Bell to harass the two men led to his death. The company Friday denied allegations in the suit and for the first time since his death said Gravit "was implicated in the investigation by company auditors and security agents in some areas of questionable activities."

The plaintiffs also want preserved, apparently for future court use, any records dealing with junkets and use of corporate funds and property for personal use, such as airplanes, hunting leases or expense accounts.

The plaintiffs claim other Bell executives initiated the investigation against the two when Bell became aware they were resisting company practices they felt were "deceitful and grossly unfair to the public."

The plaintiffs deny any dishonesty saying Ashley and Gravit were victims of libel, slander and defamation by the company. The suit notes that in Texas the company deals directly with local government on setting rates since there is no state utilities commission.

In an Associated Press investigation prior to the suit, sources characterized the rate-setting procedures in Texas as the following:

Dealing directly with city councils ranging from the smallest area to the largest, the company presents data about costs of services and revenues when it feels it needs a rate hike. Cities have to abide with company figures if they do not have staffs to independently check the accounting.

Years ago, the sources claim, Bell developed a system to maximize Texas phone revenues by taking advantage of the absence of a state utilities commission. Strong company lobbying has helped defeat numerous legislative proposals for such a commission.

Texas has annually supplied Southwestern Bell with the largest revenues from the states within the system, the sources say. Texas in effect is subsidizing the other states and is a key in enhancing the corporate picture of Southwestern Bell's parent, AT&T, they say.

AT&T is a defendant in the suit as well as Chester Todd, San Antonio area vice president who replaced Gravit when he was promoted to Dallas.

Source contacted by The Associated Press claimed that Bell, in effect, used "two different sets of books" in soliciting rates from city councils. They claim the revenue and cost figures provided to city councils did not always reflect accurately how much profit Bell was making in a certain area.

Bell also used favorable city officials, the sources claim, in the company's rate campaigns. Although claiming the rate solicitations practices were unfair and characterizing the practices as "corporate rapacious", the suit does not specifically make the claims the sources made.

The suit, however, alleges that the telephone company prepares "blue books" which, when the rate of return is shown to be low, are the basis for the filing of rate increase cases with each of the municipalities indicated therein.

The suit asks that any such "blue books" not be destroyed or secreted or modified by the company.

Tech Regents Honor Junell

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Retiring board member Frank Junell was honored here Friday at a meeting of Board of Regents of Texas Tech University and the Tech University School of Medicine.

Board chairman Clint Formy praised Junell, a San Angelo banker who served two terms as board chairman during the establishment of the medical school, for his "leadership, his service, and invaluable contributions to the board, the university, and to the State of Texas."

Tech president Grover E. Murray reported that the school will continue its efforts to establish a new pharmacy school despite a recent vote by the Texas Pharmaceutical Association to oppose its funding.

Formy directed Bill Parsley, public affairs vice president to develop a study on whether Tech could save money if it had access to a plane.

SIC Credit Company

Hook, 33, stopped traffic on Fifth Avenue Friday when he handed out 200 one-dollar bills with a leaflet on pacifism. The money, he hoped, would encourage people to read his message.

"It's either that or you set off a bomb," he said, explaining the greenback gimmick that almost led to his own tramping by the not-so-peaceful, dollar-hungry crowd.

Hook said he was independently wealthy and has a plan for world peace. He said he was the grandson of a steel magnate and the son of an Eisenhower administration subcabinet officer. Ann Hafter, a 21-year-old systems analyst whose office window overlooked the scene said "all of a sudden everyone ran over to this guy and he was throwing away pieces of paper."

"Somebody said, 'That's not paper — that's money,'" she added. Hook's leaflet said he was the victim of "secret plots," electronic eavesdropping and other attempts to "influence my political position" and thwart his peace plan.

He said he already has given out $200 at Columbia University this week. And there's another $600 ready. But he wouldn't say where or when.

DONS' BRACELETS — One of the Webb security policemen puts the handcuffs on a real "desperado" during the tour's stop at the security police department at Webb A.F.B. recently.

Webb A.F.B.'s flightline was a swarm of activity last week as 160 four and five-year-old boys and girls paid a visit to the base.

The tiny guests were members of the Big Spring School District's Head Start Program. For many of the students it was their first close-up look at Air Force jets. During the tour the youths and their teachers visited the base fire station, security police department, and looked at static displays of the Northrop T-38 and Cessna T-37, Webb's flying training aircraft.

The Head Starters visited Webb on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, splitting the tour into groups of about 55 children.

THEY BOOST ECONOMY

'Winter Texans' Get Welcome In Valley

WESLACO, Tex. (AP) — Colorful billboards just north of the Lower Rio Grande Valley proclaim, "Welcome home winter Texans — Valley folks are glad you're here."

When one looks at statistics from the Valley Chamber of Commerce, it's easy to determine why the valley is glad to greet persons who choose to spend at least part of the winter in the semi-tropical valley.

The chamber estimates that 1,278,000 persons, "winter Texans" they're now being called, visited the Valley last year. The chamber estimates each person stayed an average of six weeks and spent an average of $15.92 per day. That's $68.64 per person, a whopping contribution to the Valley's economy.

The billboards were erected by the chamber and a "winter Texan" committee was formed to make the tourists more welcome. Someone apparently believes the term

"winter Texan" sounds better than "snow bird" or even "winter visitor," the old terms.

C. L. "Smokey" Boyle has been named to head the "winter Texan" committee. Boyle said the project has two purposes.

"The first is to make them feel welcome and that they are part of the communities in which they spend their winters. The second is to make local people aware of what these folks really mean to the economy and to encourage a friendly, helpful attitude toward them," Boyle said.

In addition to the billboards, window cards and decals that say, "We Like Winter Texans," are being distributed.

There are predictions that more persons will spend at least a part of the winter in the Valley this year because more gasoline is available now than in the winter of 1973 and because of predictions of a colder winter this year.

Clark Is Selected President

Virgil Clark was elected 1975 president of the Prospectors' Club Thursday night.

Vice president will be Charles Leek; secretary, Mrs. Cybil Spielman; treasurer, Bud Lewis; historian, Mrs. Virgil Clark.

Mrs. Dick Lane will chair the refreshment committee. Army Col. (Ret.) J. H. Samuel and Pete Sanders will be responsible for programs.

Lewis will continue to coordinate work for the club bulletin, "Roadrunner," with reporters Nora Nixon, Donna Chaney, Letha Williams and Mary Samuel.

A rock hunt is planned today on the Morgan Ranch. The sixth annual Howard County Gem and Mineral Show will be held March 1 and 2 in the Howard County Fair Barns.

Maj. and Mrs. Nolan, who make sand pictures in bottles, will be here again.

New attractions include one by Ed and Mary McNamar, Des Moines, Iowa, who specialize in gold wire jewelry.

The Australian Mining Exploration Co., Acme, Pa., will show opals.

The Mineral Lapidary Arts and Crafts Shop of Ontario, Canada, will present gems, minerals and rocks.

In other business, Lewis advised that he is expecting a new shipment of Hong Kong jewelry.

Several members will display goods, rock jewelry and artifacts at the arts and crafts show in the county fair barns Dec. 7 and 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert White presented the program.

Folk Musical Highlights Thanksgiving Services

Something entirely different — folk musical — will highlight the union Thanksgiving services here Nov. 25.

This will be "It's Cool in the Furnace," the Buryl Red and Grace Hawthorne musical drama concerning the three Hebrew children and King Nebuchadnezzar. Approximately 150 children and young people will be involved in the production directed by Ken Sprinkle and presented at 8 p.m. in the City Auditorium.

The Howard County Ministerial fellowship, headed by the Rev. J. B. Sharp, First United Methodist pastor, will be in charge of the fore part of the services, including the invocation, call to worship, Scriptures, hymns.

There is no admission charge, although in keeping with a tradition, a free will offering will be taken, most of it destined for the High School Bible Class.

Besides the chorus and actors, there will be a 15-member instrumental group serving as the pit orchestra under direction of Gene Curry. Kim Thompson and Kelly Draper will be the lead narrators, the former taking the part of Daniel, the latter the king. Additionally, Becky Stevens, Tammy Greenfield, Diana Matthews and Mike Franco will have speaking parts.

The combined children's choirs under Sprinkle will come from Baptist Temple, led by Dan McClinton, College Baptist, Davis Norville; First Christian, Nancy Puckette; First Presbyterian, Jean Kuykendall; First United Methodist, Charles Parham; Immaculate Heart of Mary School, Cathy Cosden; St. Paul Lutheran, Ruth Frimma; Trinity Lutheran, Paulette Schafer; Wesley United Methodist, Libby Ford; Westside Community Center, Susan Dawes. Each of these has been working separately on the music and will come together for a general rehearsal Thursday evening and next Sunday afternoon.

Dramatics will be directed by John Gordon, who like Sprinkle, is with Howard College. The presentation included a variety of musical styles from Calypso to blues and gives children a chance to sing, shout, ring bells, shake tambourines, beat drums, all without losing a sense of reverence. Many dominant truths, such as "God takes care of those who trust, and we know God will care for us," run throughout the program.

Prizes for the program will be furnished by Big Spring merchants. The Century Club recently staged a mini-rideo and barbecue for enlisted personnel at the military base and attracted a huge turnout.

Mass Murder Trial Booked For Feb. 17

HOUSTON (AP) — A state judge has denied a prosecution motion suggesting a change of venue for David O. Brooks, 17, accused in the Houston mass murder case.

Slate District Court Judge William Hatten turned down Wednesday a district attorney's request for a hearing to see if the trial should be moved to another city because of massive news coverage.

Instead, Hatten ruled that Brooks, accused in four of the 27 deaths, will be tried here Feb. 17.

Hatten ruled earlier this year that Brooks' co-defendant, Elmer Wayne Henley, 18, should be tried elsewhere. Henley was tried in San Antonio on six counts of murder and assessed a 594-year prison term.

Hatten also granted a defense motion forbidding lawyers on either side to comment about the case.

Hatten said he believes publicity about the case is winding down since the discovery of the 27 victims in August 1973.

Six Shooter Junction Is Now Open

HARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Six Shooter Junction, the Lower Rio Grande Valley's newest tourist attraction, opened Friday.

Six Shooter Junction is the first theme park to open in South Texas and features an Old West village, complete with a stagecoach and a steam train. There are numerous shops and an Old West museum.

Study Of Signal Lights Begins

The City of Big Spring is initiating a program to determine if some of its signal lights are not needed. Signal lights in various locations will be put on flashing to see if it helps the motorist. One direction will be flashing yellow indicating caution and the other direction will flash red to indicate a stop. The area will be regularly patrolled and violators cited.

Comments on the ease or congestion which results at each intersection are requested, because the response will quite likely determine whether the city removes the signal and replaces it with a stop or yield sign. Only those signals where the traffic volume is relatively low for signal warrants will be affected.

The downtown area will not be considered. To comment, call 3-8311 and tell the switchboard operator whether you like the change.

Humane Society Meets Monday

Next meeting of the Humane Society of the Permian Basin will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Commercial Bank Community Room, downstairs, 2301 W. Wall, Midland.

An interesting program is planned. Guest speaker will be Steve Betton, DVM, who will tell about the diseases that can be transmitted from animals to humans — a topic important to all who own animals.

Century Club Will Stage Party For Webb Personnel

A bingo party for student pilots, foreign pilots, company grade officers, their wives and dates will again be staged in the Howard College Student Union building Wednesday evening, Dec. 4.

Chairman Ron McNeil of the Base Community Council Hospital Committee has announced on behalf of the Century Club.

The evening's entertainment likely will attract upwards to 500 persons. A similar event staged last year attracted a turnout of several hundred people.

A reception for the group gets under way at 7 p.m. The first bingo game is scheduled to begin at 7:30 o'clock.

State Hospital Hosts Society

The Big Spring State Hospital will host the Permian Basin Medical Society Tuesday, and Dr. Joseph Schollar, Houston, will be the speaker.

The hospital annually entertains the society for a dinner-scientific meeting. Dr. Schollar, M.D.-Ph.D., is director of the Texas Research Institute of Mental Sciences and is associated professor of psychiatry at Baylor University School of Medicine. His topic will be: "Pain — Its Implications, Management, and Use of Placebos in its Management."

Solar Heat Building Code

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — The City Council here is looking to the future for a building code designed for the simplest form of solar heating.

If approved it would require new home builders to equip the structures with light-colored roofs, more windows facing south and natural ventilation using outside air.

It is estimated such energy-saving features could cut $80 to $100 a year from electricity bills.

The proposed building code was based on the studies of a team of researchers.

Area Students Are In SWTSU

Among Big Spring area students enrolled are:

IT WAS FUN WHILE IT LASTED Who Pays The Piper When Crash Of Camelot Occurs?

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Margaret Medders and her husband found Camelot. On credit, and lost it again.

During six years, sometimes hectic, they blew $3 million of other people's money.

They thought they were the heirs, or might be the heirs, to a contested Texas oil fortune. On the basis of that they found people offering to loan them money. Credit exploded on their poor world.

I didn't believe it," Margaret said.

"I didn't believe — until I heard those lawyers," Ernest told her. He became a believer. Margaret began to wonder. The Medders produced birth certificates to prove their lineage from Ruben Medders, Ernest's great-uncle. They contributed small sums of money to finance the litigation against the oil companies.

PREOCCUPATION

W. T. Weir, a Mississippi attorney, took their case. He died a couple of years ago at the age of 93. In his later years, Spindletop and its ownership were his preoccupation. He filed suit for the Medders in Beaumont, Tex., in 1961.

The Medders, who, as Margaret put it, "hadn't been able to borrow a dime," began to learn that not only money talks, but the promise of money talks.

Eugene Riggs, Mrs. Medders' son by a previous husband, was admitted to Subiaco Academy, a Roman Catholic school near Paris, Ark., after a nurse who worked with Mrs. Medders at St. Joseph's Hospital wrote the letter said the Medders were unable to pay. Later, another son was admitted to the school.

Officials at the academy heard stories about the inheritance, but dismissed them as impossible.

But in a 1967 report to friends of the academy, Abbot Michael Lensing, who headed the academy, said, "We were eventually told the claims of the Medders to a part of this fortune were recognized and that the court had set a date when some of the accumulated royalties would be distributed."

So the academy loaned the Medders $20,000 to move from Memphis to Muenster, Tex. — to live in better climate for Ernest's health, the couple said. He's 64; she's 56.

Later, the money was repaid to the academy.

Once in Muenster, they wanted to buy 185 acres of land. It cost $60,000 over four years. The Poor Sisters of St. Francis Seraph Inc., of Mishawaka, Ind., put up the money.

The Medders built a 20-room house, dubbing it Colonial Acres, and the nuns footed the bill.

Ernest made out a will. It said that in his lifetime he intended to give $10 million to the order, and if he failed to do so, the sum should be given to the order from proceeds available at his death.

After the bubble burst, a spokesman for the order said it was their belief the Medders had acted in good faith. Over the years and to this day, the order declines

Mills Calls For Tax On Windfall Profits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee is starting one more attempt to shape tax revision legislation for enactment this year.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., has called for a tax on oil company windfall profits that are not reinvested for increased production and a start on phasing out the 22 per cent depletion allowance.

The committee, which meets Monday, also is expected to consider other tax revisions. These include a hike on the minimum tax on large sheltered incomes, tax relief for persons at the low end of the income scale and perhaps an interest exemption to encourage savings at institutions that finance home mortgages.

The committee was reported trying to agree on a streamlined bill that would replace both an energy profits tax it approved earlier but that never went to the House for action, and a broader tax revision on which it has been working for months.

However, if the committee reports out a slimmed down tax package including an end to the depletion allowance, the same obstacles will face it that blocked the earlier attempt. Deep division between those who wanted a quick repeal of the allowance and those who wanted it preserved or phased out gradually were never resolved by Democratic leaders.

If the House should pass a bill, similar conflict could be expected in the Senate, along with efforts to add more tax relief provisions. There appeared to be little chance that the Senate could act and the differences with the House be resolved in the few weeks remaining for the present Congress.

Trip To Moscow Convinces Buckley Of U. S. Assets

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Sen. James Buckley, R-N.Y., said today he has seen enough on his tour of the Soviet Union and Poland "to make me kiss the soil of my own country when I return."

He said there was a more relaxed mood in Poland than in Russia "but nevertheless they have the same system of harassment."

One example, he said, was the jailing of several Poles for distributing the outlawed magazine "Kultura," which is published in Paris by a group of anti-Communist emigre Poles.

In Moscow, Buckley was told by a top Soviet internal security official that allegations of harassment against Russian dissidents, religious believers and labor camp prisoners would be "investigated."

Mutscher To Be Given Sentence

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Former House Speaker Gus Mutscher and two associates are scheduled to be formally sentenced Nov. 22 on their 1972 convictions for conspiracy to accept a bribe.

State District Judge Neil Daniel set the date Friday for Mutscher and former Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth, and Mutscher's former aid Rush McGinty of Austin.

The Texas Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday that the trio must begin serving their five-year probation sentences immediately despite Mutscher's appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court on constitutional grounds.

Exiled Reds Share Book

PARIS (AP) — A book of essays on life in the Soviet Union by exiled Russian author Alexander Solzhenitsyn and six dissident intellectuals will appear at the end of this month, Solzhenitsyn's Paris publisher announced today.

The book, entitled "Out From Under the Boulders," will deal with "problems of social and spiritual life in the Soviet Union," YMCA Press announced.

The publisher said the new volume will appear first in Russian and then in English, French, German and Italian translations.

YMCA Press, a Russian-language publishing house not associated with the Young Men's Christian Association, first published Solzhenitsyn's "Gulag Archipelago" in December 1973. The book, a documentary about Stalinist labor camps, resulted in Solzhenitsyn's exile from the Soviet Union last February. He now lives in Zurich.

The publisher said three of the authors will remain anonymous. It identified the other three as Igor Shafarevich, a mathematician, Evgeny Barabanov, an art historian, and Vadim Borissov, a historian. All three are well known in Moscow dissident circles.

probably wants to believe somebody will have a fortune for them.

"But when people give the money, that's proof that they believe it. It helped make us believe."

The Beaumont court denied the claim by descendants of Pelham Humphries. The decision was appealed. The Texas Court of Civil Appeals ruled against the suit. Another appeal.

Finally, on Oct. 11, 1965, the U.S. Supreme Court dismissed the suit. Weir began exploring other avenues of recovery. The Medders continued to spend.

She had a $60,000 ring. She ordered an $80,000 mink coat. She wore a spectacular necklace. The tab ran into the thousands each month.

Relatives who had not received a penny from the lawsuit began to wonder Margaret and Ernest were getting the money.

One filed suit, fearing that the Medders had obtained the Spindletop fortune and were spending it, ignoring fellow heirs. The suit asked a declaration on the source of the Medders' money.

Ernest stood up in court and said it was all credit. His income: Social Security checks which were insufficient to pay even the utility bills at Colonial Acres. Within weeks, 200 creditors had filed suit against the Medders. The referee in bankruptcy ordered an auction. Cars, trucks, farm equipment, livestock, land, houses, oil wells went under the gavel.

Road To Baseball Career Took Profitable Detour

By The Associated Press
Charley Pride has made 22 record albums and 12 of them are gold. He's one of the top country artists in the United States today and the first black performer to make it as a top country artist. His "Mississippi Cotton Picking Delta Town" is No. 2 on the best-selling country chart of Nov. 2.

But, interesting as it is to hear him talk about today, it's even more interesting to hear him talk about the twists in the path to stardom. Maybe that's because he started out to become a Jackie Robinson and wound up instead an Ernest Tubbs.

Pride was born in Sledge, Miss., and picked cotton with his parents, seven brothers and three sisters. "My Dad is retired now; he doesn't ever have to work any more. I got him taken care of, in Lambert, Miss., 16 miles from where I was born."

NAMED CHARL
Pride's mother named him Charl Frank Pride and the year she died, 1956, she got copies of the birth certificates for all her children and found the midwife had written Charley instead of Charl. "I was in the Army so I had my name changed. When I was ready to be discharged, they had some embezzlement at the camp and they saw in the files I had two names. It took me two or three days to get it all straightened out."

Pride played baseball in the now-detunct Negro American League. "I pitched and played outfield. Jackie Robinson, and later Willie Mays, used to play their all-stars against the Negro American League all-stars. I've got a clipping, I was the winning pitcher 4-3 in relief, in that game in 1956, just before I went in the Army. It's the first time the Negro League all-stars ever won."

One team which cut Pride from its roster told him to go to East Helena, Mont., because Anaconda Mining's zinc smelter kept 18 jobs open for ball players, regulating their days off so they could have a team. "I called my wife and told her I'd be making 20 bucks a day; I'd never made that much in my life."

"One day a guy that ran a club that had music on Thursday when they had stock car racing called my foreman to see if he'd let me off two hours early to sing there. He'd heard me singing at ballgames over the PA system, when I'd be having a good night at the plate. I'd like to say I sang the National Anthem but I really did 'A Hole in the Bottom of the Sea.' My foreman said okay—I worked 3 to 11 p.m.—and I rented me a guitar and amplifier and sang country."

WITH ANGELS
"In 1961 I went to spring training with the Angels in Southern California. I tried to look good too quick and I looked worse and worse. The pitching coach told me I didn't have a major league arm. I when to Gene Autry and told him I knew somebody had to help him once, so please don't send me home. He said he didn't run the team. They sent me home with a tuna fish sandwich and an orange."

"In 1972 I went to the first day of spring training at the same park with the Brewers and I remembered 1961 and how desperate I was. A reporter said, 'Now you can buy the park,' I said, 'No, but I can afford more than a tuna fish sandwich and an orange.'"

"Gene Autry was there and he said he remembered when I'd come up to him. He said, 'I wanted to be a ball player, too, but I had to ride Champion.'"

"In 1963, Pride was to go to Mets spring training but on Jan. 28, a slag truck hit him at the smelter and broke an inner ankle bone. "I was crying all the way to the hospital, 'Oh, my baseball.' They told me I should worry about whether I'd have an ankle or not. It's got a long screw in it now."

"Local fans told me I ought to try recording in Nashville and I told them I don't think there's any country singers there with a tan this deep."

"But Webb Pierce was supposed to come and do a show and a disc jockey said he'd audition me. I went to the hall and the promoter said Red Foley came instead, with Red Sovine. He wouldn't tell me where they were but I hustled to the radio station, because artists usually go there and promote, and they said I should come to the show and maybe I could sing on the second half."

ON TO NASHVILLE
"I paid my $1.50 and went in and at the intermission I went back and borrowed a guitar from some of the pickers sitting there. They didn't have anybody out in the country to teach me to tune, so I tuned it straight across. I did 'Heartaches by the Numbers' and 'Lovesick Blues.' I remember it like it was yesterday. Red Sovine said I should go to Nashville, so I did, after a detour with the Mets.

"He told me to go to Cedarwood Publishing. I borrowed a guitar and tuned it open and sang 'Heartaches by the Numbers' and 'Your Cheatin' Heart.' They told me they might have to change my name to George Washington Jones III and dress me up patriotic and I said no. They had told Old Grav Wilson to find a Negro that sings country and they thought I was Old Gray's boy. "They wanted me to go back to Montana and not let anybody else hear me and I called Red Sovine and he said not to let them keep me hanging on with promises for six months. I went home on the bus and two days after I got home I got a contract from a manager. I called Red Sovine for advice again. Finally I made a decision and signed it. The whole year of 1964 we were in correspondence. I didn't know it but he was having trouble getting me signed after they'd see my picture. I was used to Montana where they accepted my color and I didn't realize this was happening." In 1965, Pride sent some songs to tape and instead of sending the tapes back, took them back and recorded "Snakes Crawl at Night," which went to No. 9 on the best-selling chart. Chet Atkins heard the tapes and signed Pride to RCA, where he still is. In 1969, Pride found that he needed to live in a town with more plane connections. He and wife decided to check Dallas and Phoenix and never got farther than Dallas. "I live about three minutes from Mickey Mantle and we met and became friends. We play golf together, when we're both home." Talking to Charley Pride, you get the impression you're talking to a happy man.

Computer Data Bank Keeps Facts, Gossip About You

NEW YORK (AP)—If you have ever applied for a loan, credit card, medical or life insurance, a mortgage or anything else that requires a routine check there's a record somewhere.

If you have ever attended school or been employed, or encountered the police, either as a defendant or complainant, then files and records on you exist in some known or unknown computer data bank.

These files may or may not be accurate.

And, they may or may not intrude on a right not mentioned in the Constitution but increasingly precious to most Americans: the right to privacy.

Take the case of a 30-year-old assistant professor at Princeton University, who was denied automobile insurance. The credit agency investigating her reported to the insurance company that she lived with a man who was not her husband. The woman had a record of safe driving.

From episodes such as this and from the Watergate scandal revelations, a growing public awareness of threats to individual privacy has emerged, and government is beginning to respond.

Right-to-privacy legislation is pending in both houses of Congress. Governors, mayors and private organizations have formed privacy committees. The Federal Trade Commission will bring the nation's largest credit reporting agency to trial at the end of the year for alleged abuses. And the American Civil Liberties Union continues to represent victims of privacy invasion and lobby for legislative remedies.

But there are ways an individual's privacy can be threatened that are not illegal.

For example, an elderly couple was relaxing in their backyard one evening in Albuquerque, N.M., when a spotlight hit the two from above and stayed on them for about five minutes. The light was from the Albuquerque Police Department's "spy-in-the-sky" plane for police surveillance. They no longer use their yard.

But for most Americans, the invasions of their privacy are less spectacular. The invasions usually have oc-urred from abuses and errors in the credit reporting business, school records and law enforcement data banks.

CREDIT REPORTS: Consumer reporting agencies annually provide about 100 million credit reports through 2,600 credit bureaus, according to estimates by Sheldon Feldman, assistant director for special statutes, Federal Trade Commission. Another 30 to 40 million reports are supplied by investigative reporting agencies.

James C. Millstone, assistant managing editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, has sued O'Hanlon Reports, a New York-based retail credit reporting agency, for $100,000 punitive damages. Millstone says he was denied auto insurance based on a credit report made by O'Hanlon.

"It said that I was a hippie with a beard and long hair and used drugs," the 44-year-old journalist said. "The report was inaccurate. If there were 10 statements in it, nine were wrong. They had my wife's name wrong and, of course, the nasty stuff was all wrong."

Millstone said he received his insurance because the agent who sold it to him also vouched for him. "But to actually find out what the report said, I had to sue," he said. "The worst thing is the procedures used by the investigators. They were paid $12 to investigate me. Let's face it, for $12 how much are they going to get?"

The report on Millstone was based on an interview with one disgruntled neighbor who is now dead.

U.S. District Judge H. Kenneth Wagelin ruled for Millstone Oct. 24, awarding him $40,000.

Retail Credit Co. is the largest reporting firm in the nation with over 1,800 offices and dossiers on more than 40 million people.

Credit reports also are being used for employment purposes, and some employers now can find out if an applicant has debts, emotional problems, criminal records and other intimate data.

The Fair Credit Reporting Act, passed in 1971, provides a somewhat limited remedy to adverse information made by credit agency sleuths. It gives an individual the right to know what is in the file and why credit was denied, but does not mandate that the credit agency reveal the identity of its sources.

SCHOOL RECORDS: School records have been another area of privacy abuse, often tagging some individuals for life with emotional, intellectual and personality evaluations based on questionable record-keeping practices.

The records begin on the first day of kindergarten and can reflect the personal whims and prejudices of teachers and other school personnel. Until very recently, school administrators tenaciously guarded these accounts from students and parents, but allowed law enforcement agencies, government representatives and prospective employers free access in most cases.

Some inroads have been made: New York City parents can see their children's school record and contest any errors. Wisconsin has ruled that all school records are confidential. New Mexico allows students to inspect their records and receive an explanation of any information in them. New Jersey has drafted regulations that would require school districts to expunge certain derogatory information after three years and restrict records to specific data.

GOVERNMENT FILES: There are more than 850 government data banks containing more than 1.25 billion records on individuals. As of Dec. 1, 1973, there were more than five million active files in the massive National Crime Information Center, run by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

This system is linked by computer to many state law enforcement operations and other federal criminal information banks. If a person has been arrested for, but not convicted of, a crime or violation, or if a person was a complainant, witness or victim in a case, the individual's record may be in the NCIC.

President Ford, in addition to telling Congress there would be no illegal invasions of privacy in his administration, also has ordered that no one in his administration may see federal income tax returns without his written permission. He also has ordered that warrantless government wiretaps will no longer occur. The ACLU has estimated that 31,000 to 84,000 persons annually are overheard on such government taps.

President Ford's action and pending legislation in Congress and in the states will not stop the information explosion.

The nation's banks, for example, are moving to a system of electronic checking under which data on customers will be stored in computers and made available to other banks.

What worries some Americans is not so much that dossiers on them exist. The troublesome questions are: "How are the dossiers assembled? To whom are they sent? Are they accurate?"

Three Teens Drowned In Lake Worth Friday

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Three teen-agers drowned when their car went out of control and plunged into Lake Worth late Friday night. Their bodies were recovered today.

The victims were identified as Randy Auerbach, 18; Patsy Ann Brown, 16; and Pamela Sue Bowling, age unknown, all of Fort Worth.

A fourth youth, Eugene Roberts, 17, fought his way out of the submerged car and swam to safety. He was treated for shock at a hospital and released.

Police identified the driver of the car as Miss Brown.

The incident occurred on a portion of a narrow, winding lake road that passes a finger of the lake known as Reynolds' Slough. Exactly how the late-model Pontiac left the roadway was unknown.

Roberts, who was hysterical when taken from the scene by an ambulance, could give firemen and police no coherent explanation of what happened.

"He was in shock," a policeman said after trying to speak with Roberts. "Nobody knew until they found the car whether there were three or four other kids in there."

Thirty Fort Worth and Lake Worth firemen and policemen were on the scene within minutes and a crowd of more than 100 gathered by 1 a.m. when members of the Fort Worth Fire Department rescue squad found the car.

A huge wrecker was used to haul the car near the shore, where firemen James Honzell and Al W. Usrey brought first the man and then the two women to shore at about 1:20 a.m.

Police at the scene searched for skid marks or other evidence of where and why the car left the roadway but all that could be detected immediately were broken branches along the shore some two dozen yards from where the car was found submerged in the sandy lake bottom.

Bank Sale In Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Former Gov. Preston Smith and four other Lubbock businessmen have purchased control of Texas Bank of Lubbock.

Controlling interest in the 20-month-old institution is being sold by Dallas financier Troy V. Post and the bank's president, B. J. McNabb.

Those associated with Smith in the transaction are B. R. Griffin, Dr. Royce C. Lewis Jr., Bill Edd McLaughlin and Roland Smith.

A letter to stockholders disclosed the deal Thursday.

Texas Bank opened April 16, 1973, in a temporary home. Post had unveiled plans in 1972 for an ambitious $7.5 million business complex on the bank's site near Texas Tech University, but it now is occupied only by the temporary bank building.

Three of the new owners are expected to be elected to the bank's board of directors. The board will be increased from nine to 11 members.

The directors also are expected to purchase two acres of land set aside in Post's original plans.

Planning To Exhume Police Dog

HOUSTON (AP) — Plans were under way today to exhume a police dog which was buried with full Houston Police Department honors.

State District Court Judge Andrew Jefferson granted a legal motion Wednesday ordering the Harris County medical examiners office to dig up the body of Art, a dog shot to death Aug. 25.

Lawyers made the request for Larry Wayne Murray, charged with attempted capital murder on Art's master, Patrolman Lee Yeoman.

Yeoman said the dog was killed by a shotgun blast aimed at the officer. He said the incident occurred when he stopped a van and made a driver's license check. Murray, 19, was arrested later.

The motion sought "state funds for an independent agency" to "disinter said canine ... and perform a thorough autopsy thereon" to discover the exact "means, manner and time of death."

Defense lawyers declined to comment on the motion but reportedly are attempting to determine the weapon that killed the dog.

Prosecutor Stu Stewart fought the action terming the dog autopsy "immaterial to the case of attempted capital murder."

Art was buried Aug. 28 at Houston Pet Cemetery as uniformed members of the police department stood at attention. Police Chief Carrol Lynn attended.

A spokesman for the cemetery said he was awaiting the necessary legal papers before allowing Art's grave to be disturbed.

Pot Smuggling Indictments

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A federal grand jury here has indicted five men in four separate indictments for smuggling marijuana into the United States through Del Rio, Tex., authorities said.

Julian Solano Pineda, 39, of Byers, Colo., was indicted Tuesday for bringing approximately 76 pounds of marijuana into the United States.

Glenn Arnette, 21, of Hamer, S.C. and Wardlaw Cox, 21, of Greer, S.C., are charged in an indictment with smuggling approximately 11 pounds of marijuana.

Raymond M. Fessel, 24, of Bogota, N.J., is charged with bringing approximately six pounds of marijuana.

Jimmy Dale Byford, 39, of Seagoville, Tex., is charged in an indictment with conspiracy to smuggle marijuana.

Sampling Is On Increase

Shirley A. Sewell, in charge of the Agriculture Marketing Service classing office in Pecos, received 2,548 samples this week compared to 235 last week. This brought the season's total to 4,747 compared to 15,069 last year at this time.

Grade 41 was the predominant grade with 37 per cent of the classings. Staple lengths ranged from 30 to 37 with staple 34 having 58 per cent of the classings. Mike readings in the 3.5 to 4.9 range made up 92 per cent of the classings. The average fiber strength on the Pressley zero gage was 80,000 psi.

Farmers received from $130 to $150 per ton for cottonseed in the Pecos territory.

Appraisal Progress

Good progress has been made by local taxing agencies toward a new arrangement for joint tax appraisal service for the separate agencies.

Representatives of Howard County, Big Spring Independent School District, City of Big Spring and Howard College have agreed to take the plan of a locally directed appraisal office to their various boards. Currently, the appraisals have been contracted to a private firm.

At this stage it is difficult to say whether this represents a step in a new direction or a return to a previous operation, because for many years the local agencies cooperatively hired the work done. However, the new plan envisions a board with a representative from each of the four agencies to serve as the policy and directing unit of the appraisal service. This may provide a buffer between the official boards and the service. This board may be in a better position to explore the need for and means of eventually revaluing properties, something currently stoutly resisted by rural interests as well as some of those who rent or lease. So it is just as well at the moment to consolidate, to beef up operations, and get the fundamental work thoroughly completed before facing the larger issue.

That time, however, may come sooner than most think because whatever the state does about school finances, it is apt to be tied to some sort of uniform market values across the state. This is a lot easier said than done, so there's no use to get excited pending the time that the Legislature must come up with some sort of answer.

No Surprise Here

After an extensive study, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has come up with a discovery of what every farmer and rancher already knew.

Since 1973, the report concluded, prices of goods related to farm products have risen by $197 per year for the average family. Further, 84 per cent of this went to the middleman, that is $166 to him and $31 to the farmer.

It takes no genius to figure out that something is out of balance here and that the returns on farm products has had relatively little influence on the phenomenal rise in food and fiber products. The farmer and rancher, who hold the key to whether we will have ample food, are being unfairly blamed and are not being rewarded proportionately for their efforts.

My Answer

Billy Graham

About nine years ago, I had a mental breakdown over religion. My husband says I'm not able to cope well with things generally. But even now, anything concerning religion scares me to death. How can I get over this? S.F.

The marvelous thing about the gospel is its simplicity, its tenderness and immediate effectiveness.

Whenever Christ came to people who hurt — for one reason or another — He had only great compassion and love. Fears and doubts were dissipated, while He generated confidence and hope.

Jesus called the daughter of Jairus "Little girl" (Mark 5). He spoke tenderly and forgivingly to the woman taken in adultery (John 8). The Old Testament had spoken of His kindness saying, "A bruised reed shall He not break" (Isaiah 42), and Christ proved it in every encounter with people in need.

Don't think of God as some far off unapproachable deity. Jesus said that He calls His followers "Friends," so you should never feel unwelcome or afraid. Concentrate on gospel basics — Christ's love and forgiveness, the Holy Spirit's companionship, and the hope of the resurrection with its life in the world to come. Pray simply and often for the removal of fear, and you will have it. It might be good for you to Wrong Trip Or Time?

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — When in doubt travel. That has been the prescription President Ford's recent predecessors have fallen back on when troubles at home have closed in. After all you get on television via satellite every night in an exotic setting with theoretically cheering crowds hailing your presence.

BUT FORD'S travels during the coming week are likely to be bedeviled by troubles abroad that cannot be resolved by a television spectacular. Whether or not this is the wrong trip at the wrong time is a question that hangs over the President's quick sortie to the Far East.

In Japan Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka is in a political crunch so acute that he can hardly survive the year. The underlying anti-Americanism has been sharpened by the revelation that American naval vessels in Japanese ports retain their nuclear weapons.

This was followed by a report of a secret agreement between the governments of Japan and the United States permitting transit of ships or planes carrying nuclear arms.

BUT THERE IS something to be said for the first visit of an incumbent President to Japan, if only to rebut the Japanese feeling of neglect and indifference on the part of the other great Pacific power.

Responding to an invitation that had been accepted by former President Nixon, President Ford would have caused serious offense if he had called the visit off.

It is the stop in South Korea after Japan that raises the gravest doubts about the disarray of America's nuclear policy. Besides 40,000 American troops, the United States has nuclear weapons in a dictatorship ruled by President Chung Hee Park in spite of frequent outbursts of violence.

THE PRESSURE on Ford to put Seoul on his itinerary came from forces, notably the military, believing that once on the scene he will endorse Park and the need to keep American troops in place.

Admiral Gene R. La Rocque USN Ret. in testimony before a Senate subcommittee revealed, more by inadvertence than intention, that American ships carrying nuclear weapons move in and out of Japanese ports.

BUT THE PRINCIPAL thrust of his testimony, as director of the Center for Defense Information, was on the danger of nuclear weapons deployed in countries where terrorists, by seizing one or more of these weapons, can blackmail the world. This was LaRocque's testimony on South Korea.

"I think we are in great danger, and it is growing all the time as long as Park stays in power and continues to increase his power in South Korea. It is just a matter of time before we have a major disagreement with the South Koreans. They have a larger military force than the North Koreans. . . They don't really need us there. If we can pull out gracefully with out nuclear weapons and our men we will get out with a whole skin. But if we wait until they throw us out, they may also decide to keep those nuclear weapons and use them as bargaining chips for whatever they want to obtain from the United States. It is a very hazardous situation."

THE SAME THREAT exists in both Turkey and Greece. The conflict on Cyprus and the Kissinger policy, or lack of it, have stirred deep enmities in both these NATO partners.

The outlook in Greece with the upcoming election is uncertain. Turkey refused to receive Kissinger on his recent swing, and demonstrators marched through the streets of Ankara denouncing him as a murderer.

All this points up the urgent need to bring order out of a random nuclear policy that has seen the military profligate in deploying the ultimate weapon with alleged friends around the world.

On his return, President Ford will have to come up with some tough decisions.

Prices Up, Activity Down

NEW YORK (AP) — It appeared this past week that the nation might avoid a prolonged coal miners strike, but the effects of even a short strike and a settlement remained undetermined.

Some 120,000 United Mine Workers struck across the nation Tuesday. A tentative settlement was reached by Thursday, but union officials were still debating it Friday night.

In practically its first hours, the strike led to related layoffs of some 20,000 workers in steel mills and on coal-hauling railroads. More layoffs, fuel shortages and economic disruptions were virtually certain during the course of a long strike.

CHAIN REACTION
The terms of the contract, including boosting miners' pay by 9 per cent the first year, led some to predict other unions would seek hefty contract settlements, adding to pressure for higher prices.

The price of coal has risen from about $14 a ton to about $40 a ton over the last year and the settlement proposal was expected to push it even higher.

The coal strike came during the week when the White House conceded the nation was "moving into a recession."

The economic pattern this past week saw the rate of new car sales in the United States in the first third of November fall 38 per cent from the year before.

CLOSING PLANTS
General Motors announced

This Week's Business

- Coal strike effects undetermined but will be felt
- Settlement may trigger other hefty demands by unions
- Recession signs multiply, car sales off 38 per cent
- October retail sales down .4 per cent due to car sale drought
- Housing collapses, not a single permit issued in all of Dallas

it was temporarily closing four compact car assembly plants and Fisher Body plant, idling 13,700 workers. The announcements pushed layoffs in the auto industry to 69,000.

Chrysler, meanwhile, cancelled plans to lay off 2,100 workers in St. Louis, but rumors spread of a December

Questionnaires

To Be Returned

More than a million persons, who will receive income questionnaires with Veterans Administration pension checks for November, must return them by Jan. 1, instead of the customary January 15 deadline.

Jack Coker, VA regional office director, explained that the new deadline was set to relieve the annual logjam in preparation of January checks when pensioners returned the questionnaires near or after the former Jan. 15 deadline. Pensioners are urged to promptly complete and return the questionnaires.

closedown of almost all other Chrysler plants.

The Commerce Department said October retail sales were off 0.4 per cent or $193 million, largely because of the decline in auto sales that month.

The Labor Department on the other hand, said sharply higher prices for 1972 cars and for food contributed to a 2.3 per cent surge in wholesale prices last month.

Over-all, the department said, wholesale prices in October were 22.6 per cent higher than a year before—the biggest 12-month jump since a 28.5 per cent hike in the year ending in June 1947.

The slump in the housing industry made itself known in Dallas, Tex., and Virginia Beach, Va., where officials said this past week that not a single building permit was issued last month.

Developers in both cities blamed lack of financing money and soaring construction costs, the same factors which have cut the issuance of building permits by nearly 50 per cent around the country.

Young Man Needs Help

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a young man, 23, rooming here. His parents are dead and his work pays only $60 a week out of which he must pay room rent and eat out.

He stammers terribly and has a bad cleft palate. He doesn't have enough money to pay surgery bills.

My grandmother who would be 128 years old now had a cleft palate and was an orphan. When she was 16, a doctor or doctors operated on her free of charge as she had no income.

But it seems to me there should be some way for him to get help. It's sure a handicap to him. If they could do surgery that long ago they surely could now. We would appreciate some kind of help or how to go about it to get help. — Mrs. A.J.S.

It's quite obvious that this young man needs some help — and it seems to me that somebody should have started helping him a long time ago.

Yes, they could repair cleft palates a century ago. They can do it better now, and usually do it years earlier in life. And correcting such a defect can have a great deal to do with his success in business and in life. Whether the cleft palate can be repaired at his age remains to be determined. A speech clinic could help his stammering.

Since this column appears in many states, I cannot offer any suggestion for getting help that will fit all localities, but in your state (among others) there are funds provided for crippled or afflicted adults. When they need medical or surgical care so they can perform as more effective members of society, arrangements can be made for them to pay what they are able, or to pay later when they are better able.

Your town is not very large; you may not have the community services and workers locally to steer this young man to the proper source of help. But you can find such help in the larger communities around you. A social services department in a hospital probably can give you (or him) some guidance. Check with your state representative as to what state aid is available. See whether the county welfare office can't do some useful steering.

You may well find a surgeon somewhere in your area who is willing to make arrangements within the young man's means (or future means) but that is only part of the problem. The surgeon can't shoulder the responsibility of the hospital bill!

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I heard about some medicine on a Hollywood game show which makes hair grow faster. I'd like to know the name of this drug. — M.F.

I'll tell you a secret, young friend. All sorts of nonsense and no-sense creeps into some of these "game" shows, and it does no harm, I guess, as long as nobody takes it seriously.

But if you are really trying to track down whatever the TV person had in mind — if anything — why not write and ask him?

The big shock in becoming middle-aged is that you discover you keep on growing older, even after you are old enough.

MY PRICELESS cousin, Price Everett, Bridgeport, comments: "When anyone asks me if I believe there are honest politicians, I feel like the Irishman who said, 'Sure I believe in leprechauns. Never seen any, but it stands to reason.'"

This is a common type of comment, and unfortunately, there is too much truth in it to ignore. But I can't bring myself to believe it's even close to 100 per cent.

As a former state publicity director of the Democratic party in Oklahoma who received two write-in votes in the Nov. 5 election I ask Price:

Could it be that distrust, as well as beauty, is in the eye of the beholder?

MY FAVORITE moment in the football game is the toss of the coin. It's about the only thing left which hasn't been changed.

Tough hamburger? If your name is Chris Hamburger and you're in the NFL, you have to be tough.

Ex-Quannah quiller, Troy Bryant, notes the shortest poem in the Oxford Dictionary of Quotations is on the Antiquity of Microbes and consists of the three words: "Adam, Had 'em."

I'd used that before under the title FLEAS, but scientifically speaking fleas probably didn't exist at that time since the dog had not appeared.

EX-HERALD reporter, Gordon Zeigler, now state editor of Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, while rehashing old times during a three hour visit last Sunday, remarked:

"This would be a much nicer world if there was just one thing left that is unmentionable."

Also, "It is possible the man who doesn't know his own mind hasn't missed a thing."

And "One man's platitude is another man's attitude."

Fits The Pattern

William F. Buckley, Jr.

The day before Arafat addressed the United Nations General Assembly, a move was taken against South Africa, the implications of which harmonize with the invitations to Arafat, and possibly outweigh it. The two episodes suggest what has struck many observers of the United Nations as inevitable: namely, that the General Assembly of the United Nations is going down into that state of ratified uselessness which its irresponsibility has invited.

CONCERNING SOUTH AFRICA, here is the background. a) Everybody dislikes apartheid. b) Everybody is supposed to dislike all forms of tyranny. c) In fact, at the United Nations, tyranny — defined as rule by the minority, by force — is the modus vivendi of most of the voters. The tyrannies range from such absolute despots as, say, Kenya. d) But the only tyrannies against which the United Nations mobilizes are those that are either counter-revolutionary in nature (e.g. Chile's), or racial: specifically, white against black (South Africa, Rhodesia). White against white (Russia) is all right, and black against brown (Uganda) is all right, but not white against black. e) Accordingly, South Africa has been the special target of the highly specified moralism of General Assembly rhetoric.

Now the problem arose a year ago. What could the General Assembly do about South Africa, given that the Charter prescribes that only the Security Council can admit a member to the UN, and only the Security Council can expel a member. In the Security Council, anti-South African specialists correctly concluded, England, the United States, and France would veto any move for expulsion.

SO THEY HIT on the idea of "denying" the credentials of the ambassador dispatched by the government of South Africa as its representative. Now in order to get a seat in the General Assembly, a thing called the Credentials Committee receives the papers of a delegate, and satisfies itself that these are properly executed by a responsible official of the government dispatching said delegate to New York (usually the Secretary of State, or his equivalent). This is a purely formal operation, but in it, the anti-South African strategists saw their opportunity.

Why not either pack the Credentials Committee so that it will "deny" the authenticity of the letter of accreditation; or, if they don't succeed there, why not ask the General Assembly to vote to reject the conclusion of the Credentials Committee?

LAST YEAR, the gang took this strategy right to the brink. The Assembly stopped just short of taking the credential away from the South African ambassador.

This time they went all the way. First they asked for South Africa's expulsion, which was vetoed. Then they denied the accreditation. And now by a vote of 99 to 22, the General Assembly has denied the South African representative the right to set foot inside the United Nations. This is, of course, the equivalent of ejecting South Africa. To be a member of the UN without the right to select your own ambassador makes membership in the UN an abstraction.

Deep Dark Secret

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Waldmeyer stopped by the office the other day. He seemed terribly nervous.

"Do you think because of the coal strike there's going to be an electric shortage this winter?" he asked me.

"I DON'T know," I said honestly. "Why do you ask?"

"If I tell you a secret, will you promise not to reveal it to anyone?"

"I promise."

Waldmeyer blushed. "I sleep with a night light."

"That's nothing to be ashamed of. There are hundreds of thousands of people right here in Washington, D.C., who sleep with them."

"But what if, as a conservation measure, they make us give up our night lights?"

"THERE'S NO way," I assured Waldmeyer. "The Night Light Lobby is even more powerful than the National Rifle Assn. If the government tried to do away with people's night lights, there'd be a revolution."

"I wish I was as sure as you."

"Look, Waldmeyer, the government isn't stupid. There's probably 30 million people in this country who are afraid of the dark."

"There's more than that," he said.

"ALL RIGHT, let's say there are more. If these people can't get any sleep, production will fall off, absenteeism will go up and we could have a serious mental health problem in the country. Believe me, the last thing that will go in this country will be night lights."

"But suppose some bureaucrat in the energy office who never had any use for a night light decides it has to go."

"You don't think they'd leave a decision like that to a bureaucrat, do you? Something that important would have to go to the President himself."

"You know, I tried to give it up last year."

"What happened?"

"The bogyman came and got me."

A Devotion For Today . .

"Whoever would be great among you must be your servant." (Mark 10:43 RSV)

PRAYER: Lord, help me to grow so that love may give birth to compassion and good works. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Three Are Convicted In Utah Hi Fi Trial

By The Associated Press
FARMINGTON, Utah (AP) — Dale S. Pierre and William Andrews, accused of the execution-style slayings of three Ogden residents, were found guilty today of three counts of first degree murder and two counts of aggravated robbery.

A third man, Keith Leon Roberts, was found guilty of two counts of aggravated robbery, but the jury said it could not reach a verdict on the three murder charges against him.

District Court Judge John Wahlquist scheduled a hearing Wednesday for the jury to determine sentences for Pierre, 21, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Andrews, 19, Dallas, Tex. Roberts, of Lawton, Okla., was scheduled for sentencing on Nov. 26.

First-degree murder in Utah carries a life term in prison or the death penalty. Aggravated robbery carries a five-year-to-life sentence.

None of the defendants showed any emotion as Wahlquist read the verdicts count-by-count shortly after 5 a.m. and nearly 12 hours after the case was handed to the jury Friday night.

But as Andrews, dressed in a black jean jacket over a white tee shirt, was escorted from the courtroom, he turned and briefly stared with clenched fists in the direction of Orren Walker, 43, who survived four attempts on his life. Walker was the state's key witness and described in detail the ordeal in the basement of the Hi Fi Shop in Ogden.

Walker's son, Stanley, 20, was one of the victims. Others were Mrs. Byron Naisbitt, 52, and Sherry Michelle Ansley, 18. Mrs. Naisbitt's son Courtney, 16, also survived with bullet wounds in his head. He has been hospitalized since.

Weber County prosecutor Robert Newey told reporters that he will study the verdict against Roberts before deciding on another trial.

The jury deliberated. Andrews and Pierre, separated by two tables, talked and joked, while Roberts visited quietly with his wife and mother and father.

The jury returned to the courtroom once during the night, to have some testimony repeated by the court reporter.

The trial was moved here from Ogden on a successful defense motion for change of venue.

Davis, in his summation Friday, told the jury his client "is not guilty of murder and he's not guilty of robbery."

Ezzell Resigns Post At Snyder

Mike Ezzell, recently elected as representative from the 63rd legislative district, has resigned his position as a counselor with the Snyder schools effective Jan. 13.

He is to take office at noon Jan. 14. During the past week he was in Austin for a reception of new legislators and was assigned his office. He said he hoped to visit several times in Big Spring prior to leaving for Austin.

Roberts' counsel, Donald Davis of Oklahoma City, said the verdict was a compromise.

"But I think Newey's statement is wrong. I feel, and I'm just talking from the gut, without looking at my books, that the verdict is in and the state must accept it."

The three defendants remained under guard in the courtroom during the hours

"WALLET MAN" DOES HIS THING — Harry Gersie, Chicago's Main Post Office "wallet man," checks identification in wallets before sending them back to their owners. It's Gersie's job to get wallets deposited in local mail boxes back to their rightful owners.

The Week

The various taxing agencies (county, city, schools, junior college) seem on the way to setting up their own tax appraisal service. They have been jointly financing a privately operated service. If the agencies bless the plan, they will create a four-member board to oversee administration of the program.

The Chamber of Commerce is due another year of vigorous leadership. Directors last week named Ken Perry, senior vice president of Cosden Oil and Chemical Company, to succeed Ralph McLaughlin. In another decision, the board voted to have the annual banquet Jan. 20, then adjourn en masse to see Campus Revue '75.

Another leadership post went to a Big Spring. Darlye Hohertz of Gary and Hohertz, was elected treasurer of the 2,900-member Texas Society of Architects, a step that may lead in a few years to presidency of this prestigious organization.

Texas Employment Service records indicated that of the employable work force here, there is only a .09 per cent unemployment pool. While this is good economic news, it doesn't leave much leeway in recruiting new workers. Hence the Industrial Foundation has approved a budget for advertising job opportunities in neighboring towns.

That unprecedented record of precipitation in September and October finally was reflected in water demand upon the Colorado River Municipal Water District. The October output was down 20 per cent, and all of this was in lessened municipal demand. A big blessing, however, is that Lake Spence quality has just about doubled on strength of new runoff.

A dramatic, split-second rescue may have saved the life of Rose Mary Hansen, 21. She was pinned beneath the motorcycle she and her husband were riding when it had a flat and skidded out of control on IS 20 east. Her husband, Mark Donald Hansen, instinctively pulled her free a moment before a following car hit the cycle.

The official canvass of the general election showed 6,833 votes cast, about 1,000 more than most observers had predicted. While that's better, it is a long way from good, because that means about 10,000 people did not bother to vote. Someone aptly said: "If you don't vote, don't complain."

Howard County won't have any teams in football playoffs. Forsan was bopped by Bronte Friday in a championship district game, but at that the young Buffs finished 8-2, the best of any team in these parts. Coahoma ended on a good note by clobbering Stamford. Big Spring gave the ball away nine times in about the most ragged game ever played in Memorial Stadium, and lost 27-6 to a San Angelo team that lacked a lot being that much better.

The Howard College Hawks, a perennial scourge of the Western conference, got off to a good start opening on the road with a 2-1 record. Harold Wilder has some good talent, but it's inexperienced.

From the notebook: Earnest Lillard, former public works director for the City of Big Spring and who holds that post in Wichita Falls, was picked by the Texas Municipal League's top PW director of the year; Chester O'Brien Jr., who grew up here, has been named executive secretary for New Mexico Baptists.

Outpost Staked In Conger Field
Stolz, Wagner and Brown No. 6-9 Hildebrand has been staked as a two-mile west outpost to gas production in the Conger multipay field 10 1/2 miles southwest of Sterling City. Located 1,320 from the north and 1,320 from the west lines of section 9-21, H&TC, it is scheduled for 7,950.

Also in Sterling, C&K Collins was past, 7,892; HNG No. 1-4 Foster was below 3,565, and Samedan No. 1 Durham at 7,250.

Wood & Cockburn No. 2 Hyatt will be a 9,700-ft. wildcat three fourths of a mile northeast of No. 1 Hyatt, now testing in north west Martin County. It is located 2,913 from the south and 2,292 from the west lines Ward CSL, 12 miles northwest of Tarzan. No. 1 Hyatt has tested for production in the upper Spraberry 7,995-8,398, the lower Spraberry 8,686-9,101 and currently the Dean 9,332-567.

Trade And Taxes Demand Attention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress returns to work Monday after its election recess with Democratic leaders pushing for passage of trade and tax measures before final adjournment.

Some of the leaders have said they expect the session to run until the 94th Congress convenes Jan. 3. But most members are hoping for a final gavel before Christmas.

Congress appears certain to reject the principal economic proposal submitted to it by President Ford — a five per cent income tax surcharge on middle and upper income families.

But Democrats say they will try to enact tax legislation aimed at soaring profits of oil companies before the session ends.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., Ways and Means Committee chairman, has called a session of his panel for Monday to start work on such a limited bill.

Under Mills' plan, a thoroughgoing tax revision aimed at numerous loopholes would be put over for the new Congress.

In the Senate, Democratic liberals announced they would support Mills' oil tax package but would seek to expand it to include tax relief for individuals as an anti-recession move.

They said they would work for $4 billion of tax relief, including not only cuts for individuals but also an expanded investment credit for corporations to encourage spending for new plant and equipment.

The liberals' tax package would include $4 billion of new revenue from the tax hike on oil firms and additional levies on the wealthy to offset the amount of relief granted.

The international trade bill containing new tariff-cutting powers appears to have the best chance of enactment of any major legislation in the remaining weeks of the 93rd Congress.

This measure passed the House last December but has been stalled since in the Senate Finance Committee.

However, the committee now appears about ready to approve it. A long controversy over trade concessions to Russia now appears to have been settled with new understandings with the Soviets about Jewish emigration.

Democratic leaders have said they hoped to pass tax reform and trade bills and a national health insurance measure in this Congress.

The health legislation, however, now is slated to go over to the 94th Congress when the Democrats will have greatly increased strength in the House and some additional Senate members.

Aside from legislation, the top chore before Congress in the post-election session is action on the nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller to be vice president.

The Senate Rules Committee hopes to finish its hearings on the nomination Monday. The House Judiciary Committee will open its hearings Thursday.

Democratic leaders in both houses have said they hope Rockefeller can be voted on before this Congress adjourns.

Something Is Amiss In Booze Budgeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — A General Accounting Office investigator wrote to the secretary of defense two months ago to inform him that the agency has found irregularities in Army and Air Force transportation accounting for wine and liquor sold to their clubs in Europe.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., made the Sept. 3 letter public Friday.

However, the Pentagon issued this statement in reaction to Aspin's charges: "Nonappropriated fund activities (clubs and messes) do ship liquor and wines by government transportation. However, charges resulting from these shipments are paid by the using activities."

Army and GAO spokesmen said they would check with the officials involved to determine what response had been made to the allegations. Aspin said the illegal practice of using appropriated funds to pay transportation charges on the beverages has been going on for nine years and costs the taxpayers $5,100 a month.

Under the law, if military planes are used to transport such foreign goods, sold by the services to clubs and individuals, the goods and transportation for them must be paid for out of "nonappropriated funds" — that is, club dues and the retail sales.

Aspin charged that the Army and Air Force, but not the Navy, are evading regulations by shipping the wine and liquor as "normal troop-support items" and covering the transportation costs out of the Defense Department budget.

Breast Cancer Seminar Set

Recent publicity regarding cancer of the breast has prompted increasing numbers of women to seek medical attention for the problem.

"Current Concepts of the Treatment of Breast Cancer" will be reviewed by doctors at Big Spring State Hospital in Big Spring Thursday.

The continuing education seminar is being sponsored by The University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio.

Starting time is 12:30 p.m. and physicians will participate in the San Antonio program by means of a teleconference hookup with the center there. Other physicians are welcome.

VANDALISM

James Brackett and Bob Ballard reported four windshields broken on cars parked at 4117 and 4119 Park. Damage: $450.

Many Types Of Cancer Can Develop Silently

NEW YORK (AP) — Betty Ford and "Happy" Rockefeller alerted American women to the danger of breast cancer. But doctors remind women to be just as vigilant about other types of cancer.

Specialists say the other cancers can develop just as silently but also are more curable with early detection. And at least one — lung cancer, now leaping forward at an ominous rate — is largely preventable by not smoking specialists say. Current estimates are that breast cancer will attack, but not necessarily kill, one in 15 American women; cancer of the colon and rectum, one in 22; lung cancer, one in 100; cancer of the cervix, one in 35; cancer of the uterus, one in 63; cancer of the ovaries, one in 75. Skin cancer may occur as commonly as all the others put together.

GUIDELINES Here, from officials of the American Cancer Society, are guidelines for women to better protect themselves against these cancers:

—Breast, the No. 1 cancer killer among women. "Ninetyfive per cent of all breast cancer is found by the women themselves," says Dr. Arthur Holleb, chief medical officer of the society. "The breast is a precancerous organ," he adds, recommending women perform a simple monthly self-examination in addition to periodic clinical checkups.

—Rectum and colon. This cancer ranks as the second major killer among women and men alike. But early diagnosis and prompt treatment can save three out of four of those the disease strikes. The key to early diagnosis is the proctoscopy exam as part of a physical checkup, especially for those over 40 years of age. High risk candidates for this cancer are those with a family tendency toward polyps.

—Lung. The leading cancer killer of American men has recently become the No. 3 cancer killer of women, its death rate having doubled in the last 10 years.

The increased incidence of lung cancer seems to parallel the increase in smoking among females over the past 30 years. Lung cancer deaths among women are one-fourth those of men and threaten to catch up. Not long ago their rate was only one-sixth that among men. Since lung cancer is mostly caused by cigarette smoking, it is a largely preventable disease, if smokers quit in time, the society says. It is also a difficult disease to diagnose in time for cure.

Goldberg Is Lacking In Grace, Says Lasky

WASHINGTON (AP) — The author of an uncomplimentary biography of former Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg says he didn't want to undertake the project because he considered Goldberg a dull man.

"But you can write a book about almost anything, including antichokes," said conservative author Victor Lasky in testimony Friday at the confirmation hearings of Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Lasky added that Goldberg lacks the grace to accept Rockefeller's apology for his role in the writing of the book.

The Lasky book has stirred a political hassle among Republican and Democratic members of the Senate Rules Committee. But several senators said it will not stop Rockefeller's eventual confirmation.

Lasky's book, "Arthur J. Goldberg, the Old and the New," was virtually ignored when it was published four years ago during Goldberg's unsuccessful campaign against Rockefeller for governor of New York.

The manner in which the book was financed and Rockefeller's role in its publication is one of the two issues delaying his confirmation.

The committee will explore the other issue on Monday, calling a series of witnesses who were among those current and former New York state officials to whom Rockefeller gave more than $2 million in gifts and loans.

Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., and other committee members said Friday that neither issue taken by itself is enough to cause Rockefeller to be rejected.

Rockefeller has said he made a serious mistake by suggesting that his brother Laurence seek investors to publish the Lasky book.

Laurence Rockefeller testified Friday that it was not until the FBI began its investigation following his brother's vice presidential nomination 88 days ago that he learned he had actually financed the book entirely by himself, paying all the $65,000 cost.

Laurence Rockefeller said he agreed to underwrite the project only because it was necessary to complete it before the end of the campaign. But he assumed other backers were being sought.

"I feel very badly I did not stop it," he said. "I feel that my brother has been too generous in accepting full responsibility."

By CLARK LESHER

It's great to be back home. I've been living out of a suitcase for the past week and can understand the feeling of a pro-athlete. My trip was unavoidable but not planned. I lost my mother Wednesday afternoon in Tulsa from heart surgery. She was tops.

Ray Overton, president of the Texas High School Coaches' Association voiced objection to a recent ABC TV documentary on the danger of sports. "Although there are injuries in other sports, 75 per cent of the show was devoted to injuries in football. Although there are injuries on all levels of football competition, only high school football received attention. I must believe the persons responsible for this show were not really interested in safety, but in attacking high school football."

Drawing special criticism was the report that 860,000 injuries are suffered each year by the nation's one million high school football players. The figure is misleading because it does not distinguish the type of injuries which require professional medical attention from injuries like bruises, blisters and scratches.

"It bothers me that there were no testimonials by those who have played football and are convinced of its benefits physically and mentally. Many boys need contact; it's inherent in their constitution. Football provides for controlled contact — contact which boys have been trained to accept, contact which is restricted by carefully formulated rules."

And if the ABC report should encourage parents to call for an end to high school football, they should know that football is among the safest activities a boy can have after school.

In fact, nine times as many high school boys per hundred thousand die in automobile accidents between 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. during the grid season than die as a result of playing football.

"We're going to have a growing year, make a lot of mistakes," said Ron Plumlee, Steer basketball coach. "Once we can get someone to be a leader we will become a respectable ball club."

The Steers open the 1974-75 season Friday night at Crane. Varsity contact is set for 8 and the JV tip-off at 6:15.

First Big Spring home game is lined up for Nov. 30. Plainview will provide the opposition. The Steers swing into district action Jan. 7 against Abilene High on the local court.

Plumlee's figures the average height for his 12 man squad is 6-0.

Big Spring scrimmaged Seminole on the Steer court Friday, Lubbock High there, Saturday and meet Kermit there in a drill next Tuesday. "We experienced state fight against Seminole."

Against Lubbock High, "We didn't make as many mistakes as against Seminole. We could have won if played under actual game conditions. I would have seen to that," Plumlee remarked.

"We need a lot of work in all areas. This can be accomplished only through game experience."

Owls Lose Florida Hit By Kentucky

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Halfback Bubba Bean scored two touchdowns and cornerback Pat Thomas scored on a 32-yard fumble recovery to spark 10th-ranked Texas A&M to a 37-7 Southwest Conference football victory over Rice Saturday afternoon.

The Aggies bombed punless and stumbling Rice for 21 points in less than five minutes breaking open a scoreless game on an interception and two fumble recoveries in the second period, the Aggies' strongest quarter this season.

The A&M victory in its last home game, played under the threat of rain before a crowd of 45,944, enhances its position in the wacky Southwest Conference sweepstakes.

Florida Hit By Kentucky

Kentucky bowled over ninth-ranked Florida 41-24 Saturday for its second straight victory over a team due for post-season college football action.

John Pierce tied the game at 24-24 with a 52-yard field goal and Kentucky, which upset Peach Bowl-bound Vanderbilt the previous week, ran away from the Sugar Bowl-bound Gators, who had scored 17 points in a little more than five minutes in the first half.

Freshman linebacker Jim Kovach recovered a Florida fumble on the Kentucky 47 to set in motion the home-team Wildcats' winning touchdown drive.

Florida was the only member of The Associated Press Top 10 to lose, but No. 5 Notre Dame and No. 7 Auburn had scares. Notre Dame beat No. 17 Pittsburgh 14-10 and No. 7 Auburn edged Georgia 17-13.

Top-ranked Oklahoma rolled 45-14 past Kansas; No. 3 Michigan mauled Purdue 51-0; No. 4 Ohio State topped Iowa 35-10; No. 6 Nebraska trounced Kansas State 35-7; No. 8 Southern California downed Washington 42-11, and No. 10 Texas A&M ripped Rice 37-7.

8-6 DECISION Bears Named Gra-Y Champ

The Bears wrestled an 8-6 verdict from the Rockets to grab the Gra-Y Flag football championship Saturday afternoon on Blankenship Field.

Turnovers and penalties defeated in the Rocket defeat.

The Rockets had two touchdowns called back and the Bears had one six-pointer deleted from their scorebook.

The Rockets scored late in the first period as Riley Bell ran 47-yards up the middle for paydirt. Name of the game was defense up until the last quarter.

The fired-up Bears started their game winning TD drive with six minutes left in the game. In that drive, the Bears were aided by three penalties. With 2:52 left, David Bonner scored from 12-yards out to deadlock the game, 6-6.

The two-point conversion proved to be the decisive factor as Bonner ran across the Rocket end zone from the three.

The loss snapped the Rockets six game winning streak and their first defeat of the season.

The Stars defeated the Shorthorns 36-14 for third place Saturday.

McCamey Bounced

COAHOMA — Encountering arch-rival McCamey, the Coahoma "A" girls basketball five won out in overtime, 73-71 here Saturday night. This was Coahoma's opening tiff of the season.

Coahoma scored eight points in overtime to McCamey's six point showing. Patti Hulme of Coahoma was high pointer with 38, while McCamey's Carolyn Ridley hit for 30.

Bears Advance 1 Step Closer

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Fullback Pat McNeil burst through 20 yards for a touchdown and defensive back Ron Burns set up another score with an interception Saturday as the Bears beat Texas Tech 17-10 and advanced within reach of their first Southwest Conference football title in 50 years.

Substitute quarterback Mark Jackson guided Baylor 55 yards to its winning score after Neal Jeffrey hurt his elbow in the fourth quarter. Tech befuddled Baylor with an eight-man offensive line in the first half and scored first on a 61-yard drive capped by Larry Isaac's one-yard run on fourth down.

Baylor tied it 7-7 in the third quarter after Burns, a freshman, pilfered a pass from quarterback Don Roberts and returned it 14 yards to the Tech 45. A 15-yard penalty for a late hit moved the ball to the 30 and Steve Beird got the score on a one-yard slant.

Tommy Coles blocked a Baylor punt to set up a 26-yard field goal by Brian Hall for a 10-7 Tech lead. But Baylor matched that score on a 32-yard field goal by Bubba Hicks which Jeffrey made possible by raking in Beird's third-down fumble.

The winning touchdown drive started after a punt to the Baylor 45. Jackson had runs of seven and eight yards and threw to Philip Kent for 22 yards to the Tech 20. On the next play McNeil, a 210-pound junior, shot through the left side and scored standing up with 4:51 left in the game.

Tech was ranked 20th in the nation before the game and has accepted a bid to play Vanderbilt in the Peach Bowl at Atlanta, Ga. Baylor could win its first SWC title since 1924 by beating Southern Methodist and Rice, if Texas should defeat Texas A&M in their season finale Nov. 29.

Tech's record is now 6-3-1 for the season and 3-3 in the SWC. Baylor is 6-3 and 4-1.

Beird, the SWC's leading rusher, ran 92 yards on 29 carries to make his season total 837 yards, a new Baylor record. The old record of 818 for one season was set by Pinky Palmer in 1968.

Hogs Spoil SMU Hopes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Quarterback Mike Kirkland came off the bench to lead a 24-point second-half rally that netted Arkansas a 24-24 tie with Southern Methodist in a wild Southwest Conference football game here Saturday.

Arkansas, down 17-0 at the half, turned to Kirkland, a starter last year who fell behind when he passed up spring football practice to play baseball, to apparently spoil the Mustang hopes for a share of the league championship.

The tie also probably knocked Arkansas out of Liberty Bowl consideration. Kirkland produced one touchdown pass and scored from one yard out to make it 24-23 with 4:35 left. Arkansas decided to go for one point and Steve Little converted to tie the score.

The Razorbacks' last hope died when Little's 61-yard field goal attempt in a steady rain landed in the end zone with less than 30 seconds remaining.

Freshman reserve Arthur Whittington returned a kickoff 100 yards to put SMU on top 24-17 only 14 seconds after Kirkland and Freddie Douglas had hooked up on a 37-yard scoring pass. For a while, it appeared Whittington's touchdown would be the winner.

The Razorbacks put together a 71-yard drive in the fourth period with Kirkland making the big plays. His touchdown run came on fourth down from the one.

SMU took a 17-0 halftime lead on the flying feet and, surprisingly, the right arm of sophomore quarterback Ricky Wesson.

Wesson ran for 107 yards and completed four of five passes for 130 yards and two touchdowns as the Mustangs built the 17-0 lead.

Steers Finish Best Season In 3 Years

By TROY BRYANT

The Big Spring Steers finished their best season in three years Friday night as the San Angelo Bobcats took a 27-6 win and a share of the 5-AAAA title, as turnovers spelled the difference in the ball game.

The Steers fumbled four times, were intercepted five times and had a punt blocked deep in their own territory, allowing San Angelo to cap drives of nine, 38, and 50 yards for their first three touchdowns. Their last touchdown was scored on the last play of the game on an 87-yard interception return.

The Steer defense kept the Bobcats from scoring four more times as they stopped San Angelo on downs deep in Big Spring territory.

Senior Kathy Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Perry, was named Football Queen in pregame activities.

The Steers took the opening kickoff on their own 18 yard line, but were forced to punt from their own 11

COSTLY INTERCEPTION — Steer Doug Robison struggles with Bobcat Larry Thompson for possession of a pass on the last play of the game Friday night, as Steer halfback Andre Hurrington tried to hit Robison with the pass in a last ditch effort to put more points on the board. Thompson intercepted the pass, his third for the night, and rambled 87 yards for a San Angelo touchdown, with no time left on the clock.

yard line where the Bobcats sacked quarterback Mark Moore. San Angelo took the punt on its own 39 and quickly drove downfield on the running of David Fielder before its drive stalled on the Big Spring nine-yard line. On fourth and four, a keeper by quarterback Rick Crain failed to gain the needed yards and Big Spring took over on downs with 6:52 left in the first quarter.

The Big Spring offense got cranked up then, as they drove downfield, mostly on running plays by Andre Hurrington and Jesse Doss and gained a first down on its own 44. Hurrington carried the ball on a sweep, but fumbled the ball on San Angelo's 37 yard line where the Bobcats picked it up.

This promptly took the ball to the Big Spring 36 where they fumbled it back to the Steers. On the Steers' first play, Larry Thompson intercepted his first of three passes of the night on Big Springs' 47 and returned it to the six yard line. A clipping penalty brought the ball back to the 38, but San Angelo scored anyway in two plays as David Fielder ran for the touchdown from nine yards away. Vance Jenkins kick gave San Angelo a 7-0 lead with 2:59 left in the first quarter.

Big Spring took the kickoff on its own 29, but were again forced to punt. The snap to punter Doug Robison was good, but San Angelo's Mitch Reed blocked the punt and carried the ball back to the Steer's nine yard line.

San Angelo scored on three plays as Marvin Williams carried for the touchdown with only 55 seconds left in the first quarter. Jenkins' kick made the score 14-0.

Big Spring took the kickoff on its own 28 as the quarter ended and drove down to their own 43 before the Steers fumbled again on a pass play from quarterback Mark Moore to Casey Lovelace. San Angelo took over at midfield and David Fielder bolted for 36 yards on the first play after an off-sides penalty put the ball on the Steers' 45.

Another penalty took the ball from the six yard line down to the three, where Fielder carried the ball the last three yards for the score. Jenkins again added the extra point, and San Angelo led 21-0 with 10:13 left in the half.

Throughout the rest of the half, Big Spring and San Angelo traded interceptions, Big Spring stopped San Angelo on downs at the Steer six-yard line and Big Spring drove to San Angelo's 30-yard line where the Bobcats came up with another interception.

In the third quarter, San Angelo drove almost the length of the field before the Steer defense stopped them on the eight where they turned the ball over on downs.

Quarterback Mark Moore then used clutch running by Doss and Hurrington and Ferrell and key passes to Casey Lovelace to drive down to the San Angelo 42-yard line where they were forced to punt. Punter Doug Robison drew some rough handling from the San Angelo team, giving Big Spring the ball again with a first down on San Angelo's 28 yard line. Moore then hit Lovelace again with a pass on the ten-yard line and he slithered in for the Big Spring touchdown with four minutes left in the third quarter. The passing try for two extra points failed.

San Angelo was forced to punt on their next possession, and Big Spring took the ball on their own 26 to open the fourth quarter of play.

It looked as if the Steers were driving for their second touchdown for the night, but another fumble, this one on the San Angelo 15-yard line, killed the drive.

Stan Partee came up with a San Angelo fumble on their possession and Big Spring took over again on its own 45, with 10:12 left in the game.

An interception by Kelly Norman killed the Big Spring drive at the San Angelo 23-yard line and San Angelo put together their own drive to the Big Spring 33-yard line where Lawrence Byrd and Jon Russ each broke up San Angelo pass plays in the end zone to keep San Angelo from scoring again, and Big Spring took over on downs on their own 33.

With 4:57 to play, Big Spring drove down to the San Angelo 40-yard line where another fumble stopped their drive and the Bobcats took over on their own 46, but were forced to punt after running the clock down to only 14 seconds left in the game.

A desperation pass by halfback Andre Hurrington with one second left on the clock was intercepted by Thompson, who returned it 87 yards for the final touchdown with no time remaining on the clock. The extra point was blocked and San Angelo preserved the 27-6 win.

Hamlin Advances To AA Playoffs

HAMLIN — The home team Hamlin Pied Pipers moved into the state playoffs, bumping Coahoma and Ballinger who held title hopes, as they defeated Colorado City 47-7.

Hamlin will move into Bi-district play as co-champions of 6-AA with Ballinger. They will play 5-AA winner, Denver City.

The Pied Pipers scored 34 points in the first quarter of the game and scored 13 more in the last half for the big win which left them with an 8-2 over-all record and a 5-1 season record.

Colorado City scored in the third quarter. Quarterback Gene Banks passed 20 yards to tight end Pete Parhan for the score. Banks added the extra point.

Bulldogs Crush Stamford 40-7

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs played like the game was for the District Championship as they routed Stamford 40-7, but a Hamlin win over Colorado City drowned all hopes of a playoff berth for the Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs ended season play with a 4-1-1 record, behind the co-champs Hamlin and Ballinger, with 5-1 records Hamlin will represent district 6-AA against 5-AA winner Denver City in B-district play.

Fullback Putt Choate rushed for 200 yards and dominated the scoring for Coahoma as he logged four touchdowns on runs of five, one, 12 and one and caught a third quarter pass for two extra points after his final touchdown.

Both of Choate's second quarter scores came on short drives set up by Stamford fumbles.

Coming into the half with a 19-0 lead, Coahoma exploded in the third quarter with touchdowns by Choate and Oscar Padron which drove up the score to a 34-0 mark at the end of the period.

Stamford's only touchdown came with 5:23 left in the game on a 15-yard pass from quarterback Byron Tabor to end David Bowlin, capping an 81-yard drive. Tony Rosas kicked the extra point.

Coahoma wrapped up the game with two minutes left on a seven-yard run by junior varsity halfback Danny Thomas. Coahoma's JV team played throughout the fourth quarter. The loss

Ex-Steer Finds A Place In Football At NTSU

By MONTE MILLER
NORTH TEXAS DAILY
Long and grueling practice sessions in steamy August heat... seemingly endless team meetings... strict curfew... the risk of serious or permanent injury... more practice. Kinda makes you wonder why young men play college football, doesn't it?

John Thomas Smith, Big Spring freshman for Hayden Fry's Mean Green at North Texas State University in Denton, says he simply plays "for the fun of it."

"I like the competition and contact," Smith said, "I love to stick people; it's a lot of fun."

Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nettles Smith, 206 N. Goliad, played under Coach Bob Burris at Big Spring High School and is one of several freshmen Fry hopes can help put the "Mean" back into the "Green."

The 6'1" and 170 lb. defensive back began his varsity career at North Texas on an encouraging note. It was early in the first quarter of the season opener with SMU. After stopping the Mustangs on their initial series of downs, NT took over the football, but likewise, failed to muster a first down and was forced to punt. On the play, the SMU punt return man bobbled the ball and Smith recovered it in the end zone for a touchdown.

In the second game of the season against Missouri Valley Conference co-champion Tulsa, Smith continued his aggressive play, figuring in on 15 tackles, eight unassisted and seven assisted, and was named outstanding defensive back for the game.

Smith had replaced All-MVC safety Don "Red" Dunlap who was sidelined early in the game with torn knee ligaments. Following the game, Dunlap underwent knee surgery and has been lost for the season. Dunlap's loss left a hole in the defensive secondary, but Bill Brasier, defensive backfield coach, had no reservations about filling it with Smith.

"We were fortunate to have a man of John Thomas' ability to take Red Dunlap's place," Brasier said. "John is a sure tackler and he likes to hit people." Brasier said that Smith had good range in the defensive secondary and a knack for getting to the football while it is in the air.

Although Smith has the ability to play free safety, Brasier says his lack of experience has resulted in some key game mistakes. Brasier said while Smith continues to learn his position, he will back up Fort Worth sophomore Gary Easley at free safety. Smith will continue to play on defensive specialty teams where he has excelled all season long.

"I have had a little trouble adjusting to North Texas' style of play," Smith said, "I have been over pursuing and laying back enough on defense which has caused me to get beat a few times by my man on offense, but it's nothing I can't correct; I feel I can do the job."

Smith came to North Texas with good athletic credentials. While playing cornerback and split-end at BSHS, he earned all-district, all-South Plains and all-state football honors, and was named honorable mention all-America his senior year.

A versatile athlete, Smith played varsity baseball and basketball in high school. After graduation, several major universities sought his talents. Among them, he at first favored Texas A&M and Nebraska, but Smith finally selected North Texas because he felt he would have a better chance of logging more playing time as a freshman.

"I chose North Texas because I didn't want to sit on the bench my whole freshman year and I felt I had a good chance to play a lot," Smith said.

Coach Brasier, who recruited Smith, was also confident Smith could play as a freshman. "While watching game films of district 5-AAA teams, I kept noticing Smith's outstanding play as a defensive back and as a split-end on offense," Brasier said. "He could catch the ball well and had quick reactions on defense: I knew he could play several positions for us. He is just a great competitor."

Smith has an older brother, J. T., who is a sophomore running back for MVC member West Texas State University. "My brother and I got together last summer and talked about where I would play college football. I didn't know that much about West Texas State and, besides, J. T. told me he thought it might be better for me to go somewhere else."

West Texas' loss certainly turned out to be a gain for North Texas. And, when a freshman scores his teams only touchdown in the opening game of the season, the North Texas coaches and fans can hardly wait to see what he will do in the future for an encore.

It was only fitting that the Class 4A district which had seen four of its members in the Associated Press Top

Class A kingpin Aledo rested its unblemished record, but the nine other division pacemakers won their games. No. 2 Rankin ripped Iraan 33-6. No. 3 Brookshire-Royal slapped

East Bernard 28-8. No. 4 Jim Ned Whitewashed Rotan 17-0. fifth-rated Falls City humbled Jourdanton 60-0. No. 6 Schulenberg manhandled Burton 71-20. No. 7 Grapeland crushed Elkhart 54-0. No. 8 Knox City beat Haskell 40-8. ninth-rated Memphis slapped Claude 55-0 and 10th-ranked Whitewright crumbled Fannindell 66-0.

Workshop Is Scheduled

STEPHENVILLE — Tarleton State University and the Stephenville Senior Citizens, Inc., will conduct a 40-hour workshop on "Social Service and Activities Programs in the Nursing Home." The workshop will consist of 40 contact hours, divided into two 20-hour sessions: Nov. 19-20 and Dec. 5-6.

The program is designed for newcomers to social service and activities work. Two areas will be emphasized: (1) understanding the resident and his family, their capabilities and limitations, behavioral and psychological problems; and (2) techniques for successful interviewing, record-keeping, program building and evaluation.

In addition to group sessions, various exhibits are planned for participants. Tarleton's Dick Smith Library will show reference books and professional journals, local arts and crafts groups will display materials and products, business firms will provide displays of equipment and supplies; and senior citizens plan entertainment.

The workshop staff will be from the TSU Sociology faculty, Department of Public Welfare, and experienced nursing home personnel.

Staff members are: Dr. Jack W. Murray, professor of sociology, TSU; Charles Hampton, MSW, instructor of social welfare work, TSU; Barbara Williams, MSSW, consultant in social work, Texas Department of Public Welfare; Henry Adams, MA owner and administrator of Stanford Convalescent Homes, Fort Worth; Moses Herrera, B.D. Chaplain, Stanford Convalescent Homes; Helen L. West, MA, clinical psychologist, Presbyterian Village, Dallas; and Mary Sue Staig, MA, professor of Gerontology, TSU.

It was announced that Continuing Education Units will be awarded to participants who desire them. The Tarleton Registrar's Office will make a permanent record of CEU's earned. A transcript will be furnished on request.

Mrs. Staig said that over 400 invitations had been mailed to social workers inviting them to attend the sessions.

Information on the seminar is available from the Tarleton Social Science Dept., Tarleton Station, Stephenville, Texas 76402.

More than 130 persons have been killed in a wave of political violence in Argentina since Isabel Peron assumed the presidency July 10 on the death of her husband.

Mrs. Peron was to address the nation tonight.

Eva Peron body To Be Returned

MADRID (AP) — The body of Eva Peron, the fiery inspiration to Argentina's "shirtless" workers a generation ago, will be flown to Buenos Aires shortly, Spanish and Argentine sources said Saturday.

Argentine leftist guerrillas have often demanded the return of the body of the late Juan D. Peron's second wife, terming her the "true revolutionary."

MOSCOW HAS CHANGED Guns Are Missing But Soldiers In Evidence

MOSCOW (AP) — I felt a momentary sinking sensation and wondered if it was more than the effect of a descending airplane.

The lumbering TU-154 pierced a floor of clouds so thick that we braced for a thud, but the windows just went gray. The clouds then shut behind us and when the windows cleared, we caught the first glimpse of our new home — Soviet Russia, emerging below as a green quilt of fields and forests.

This was my second glimpse, for I had visited Russia as a tourist in the fall of 1968. But my wife — had no prior experience to lean on, and uncommon anxiety showed on her face.

"I wondered if I was breaking some law against spying when I was looking out the window," she confessed later. Laughable, perhaps, if we hadn't been warned that it was forbidden to take pictures from the plane while flying over Soviet territory.

From the moment our Aeroflot jet landed at Sheremetyevo Airport on the outskirts of Moscow, I sought comparisons with what I had seen six years ago. Then, the first Soviet I saw was a soldier carrying a sub-machine gun.

UNARMED
Sure enough, at the bottom of the ramp stood a soldier — but this one, besides appearing younger, was unarmed. None of the soldiers standing around the terminal was armed, as many were last time.

It all became clear later when, after a quick whisk through customs, we were greeted by a large red billboard outside the airport. It read "We are for peace — lasting, just and in the interest of all the people."

But military presence remains a feature of this capital city.

The tobacco-brown uniforms of army officers and the cinched-belt tan dress of soldiers dot the sidewalks. Olive drab trucks, looking like U.S. vintage from World War II, chug along the streets. In vacant parking lots, squads practice marching and stand inspection.

Add to this the blue uniform of city police and the blue-gray suits and red neckerchiefs of "Young Pioneers," and a stranger might wonder if this is an occupied city.

But the most striking difference from six years ago is the increase in automobiles. The wide avenues of Moscow, once dwarfing a meager population of vehicles, now are fulfilling their destiny with a gusto reminiscent of Rome or Paris. Volgas, Moskvichs, Chaikas and the Zhigulis — a Russian Fiat — now vie for open stretches of city street. Occasionally a black, curtained ZIL, carrying an official comes by, and all traffic comes to a halt.

The look of the city is more colorful, but compared with the West, a sameness of brown and gray clothing predominates.

Street advertising has not arrived in the colorful western fashion, except for exhortations on bridges and atop buildings to build communism. Stores usually do not have names, just numbers or the announcement of their function — "Milk" or "Shoe Repair."

SHORTER LINES
Queues in stores and outside vegetable or fruit stands are still here, but they seem shorter. A line was even eliminated in a neighborhood bread store. Once there were three — one to order bread, one to pay for it and a third to pick it up. Now you pick up the bread when you order it.

We are told more goods are available in the stores. It is easy to make generalizations about this city of seven million people, but they seldom are accurate. Just as I was inclined to believe all Muscovites wary of foreigners, an old babushka grandmother gave me five kopeks when I couldn't find change for the bus, and chatted amiably with me until I got off.

As a tourist, I didn't feel the grip of government controls as I do now. Foreign residents are huddled in compounds guarded by police "mili-men" who keep track of comings and goings.

If a foreign resident has a domestic matter that needs attention, he must contact a central government agency known as "UPDK" — Service Administration for the Diplomatic Corps. It assigns tutors or maids, rents a piano, fixes the plumbing or sends an exterminator for the cockroaches.

It is widely assumed that activities of foreign residents are closely monitored here. One American who scoffed at this "melodrama" had his apartment swept for listening devices to placate his wife. No fewer than 28 bugs were located, he said.

Details of living here take on unaccustomed importance. As a tourist, I was issued coupons for breakfast, got good theater tickets on request and had a map to guide me back to the hotel.

Without constant attendance of Intourist officials, however, residents learn that there is a certain way to do things, over circuitous. You cannot, for instance, flag down a taxi. You must go instead to a designated taxi stand, where a debate might ensue as to which driver wants to go in your direction.

Some West Texas Cotton Rotting

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Recent days of dry, open weather have been welcomed by farmers and ranchers throughout Texas. The wet conditions kept some farmers from their fields although they still had crops to harvest. The same wetness was causing some livestock to lose weight. The prolonged wetness caused some losses to cotton, sorghum and peanuts still in the field in the plains and western areas, said Dr. John E. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Some West Texas cotton is stringing out of the bolls while some rotting of the crop is being reported in Far West Texas (Fort Stockton). Lodging as well as regrowth is a problem in some corn and sorghum fields in western areas and in the Plains.

Small grains made generally good progress with the favorable moisture conditions. Also, grazing of small grains is limited due to wet fields.

Harvesting of citrus, vegetables and sugarcane continues in the Rio Grande Valley, with vegetable harvesting also active in the San Antonio-Winter Garden area, Coastal Bend and Far West Texas.

Livestock are in generally good condition, Hutchison said. Ranchers are in a quandry about what to do in the wake of the current market situation—some are culling their herds closely while others are trying to hold on to calves.

District Extension agents reported the following conditions.

PANHANDLE: Cotton in western counties was killed by recent freeze. Open weather is allowing fields to dry. Lodging is heavy in some corn fields. Wheat is making good progress although leaf rust is appearing in many fields. Stocker cattle numbers are still light. Some carrots and sugarbeets are being harvested.

SOUTH PLAINS: Open weather this week is improving field conditions so that harvesting can resume. The corn harvest is nearing completion but harvesting of sorghum and soybeans is only about half complete, and the cotton harvest has just scratched the surface. A short cotton crop is expected.

ROLLING PLAINS: Only about five per cent of the cotton crop is in, and most producers are still awaiting a killing freeze to defoliate the crop. Some small grains remain to be planted while early fields are making good growth. Early pecan varieties are being harvested. The quail crop is excellent.

NORTH CENTRAL: Harvest operations made little progress due to wet fields, but open weather the past few days should help. About 40 per cent of the cotton crop, 70 per cent of the peanut acreage and most of the soybean crop remain to be harvested. Some small grains are still to be planted, with early fields furnishing grazing for livestock. Pecan harvesting continues.

NORTHEAST: A considerable amount of corn still remains to be harvested along with some sweet potatoes. Some sweet potatoes have rotted in the field due to wet weather. Harvesting of a light pecan crop has started. Wheat and oats are making good growth. Livestock are in fair to good condition with some increase in marketing.

FAR WEST: Prolonged wet conditions have caused some cotton to field rot. Open weather is needed to get the cotton harvest into full swing.

Harvesting of some vegetables continues. Range conditions are above average due to good moisture conditions, but warm weather is needed to boost grass growth. Early planted small grains are providing grazing.

WEST CENTRAL: Farmers are waiting on fields to dry to harvest cotton, sorghum and peanuts. Some cotton is beginning to string out and quality has been reduced by wet conditions. Lodging is a problem in sorghum, and prolonged wet soil is damaging the peanut crop.

CENTRAL: A few fields of cotton and sorghum along with much of the peanut crop remain to be harvested. Wet fields have caused lengthy delays and considerable deterioration of the crops. Foliar diseases have been heavy in peanuts where no control measures were taken.

SOUTHWEST: Wet fields are delaying completion of the peanut harvest and are also slowing some vegetable harvesting. Blackeyed peas, squash, peppers, cucumbers and eggplants are ready to harvest. The pecan crop looks good, with some harvesting underway. Cattle marketing is increasing.

SOUTH: Citrus, sugarcane and vegetables are being harvested in the Rio Grande Valley. Harvesting also includes peas and guar in Jim Well County, cucumbers in Brooks County, and cabbage in Willacy County. Planting of winter vegetables continues active. Range and livestock conditions are generally good although screwworms continue to cause problems.

ON THE AIR — SSgt. J. M. "Skip" Karnes begins his broadcast of "Webb in Review" from the studio at KBST in Big Spring. The program is also aired from two other local stations.

'Webb In Review' Voice Belongs To Skip Karnes

Three times each week, SSgt. J. M. (Skip) Karnes, the voice of "Webb in Review," comes your way over three local radio stations.

Beginning with KBYG at 11:30 a.m. each Monday, Sergeant Karnes brings Webb and the local community up to date on what's happening on base. On Thursday afternoon, Karnes switches from the country and western sounds of KBYG to the "Top 40" music at KBST. The 30 minute show begins at 2 p.m. on Friday, at 4 p.m., it is back to country and western music from the studio of KHEM, which is heard simultaneously on its sister station, KFNE-FM.

The Webb in Review program is an internal information program directed primarily at Webb personnel. It includes the latest in important Air Force news and highlights of past and future events involving Webb people. In addition, it offers the civilian community a chance to keep up with what the people are doing and trying to accomplish here.

Karnes, a Victoria, Texas Frontier Can't Drop Flights

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — Frontier Airlines has been ordered to continue passenger service to McAlester, Okla., and Paris, Tex., it has been learned here. The order, which came from the Civil Aeronautics Board earlier this week, also included permission for Frontier to discontinue service to Muskogee and said McAlester needed the "accessibility to the national transportation network" while Muskogee, only an hour from Tulsa's airport, did not.

Frontier has attempted to drop the flights for more than eight years, claiming the three cities were not fulfilling the CAB requirements of five passengers per day.

Family Homicide

AMITYVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — A couple and four of their five children have been found shot to death in their home in this wealthy Long Island community.

Police early Friday said they knew of no motive for the slayings of Ronald DeFeo Sr., 43; his wife, Louise, 42, and their children Dawn, 18, Allison, 13, Mark, 11, and John, 9. Police said there were no apparent signs of forced entry into the three-story gray frame building. And police said they planned to conduct a search of wooded land behind the house for the murder weapon.

Another son, Ronald DeFeo Jr., 23, reported finding the bodies Wednesday evening after he returned from work at the Buick automobile dealership in Brooklyn where his father was employed as service manager, authorities said. Mrs. DeFeo's father, Michael Brigante, owns the firm.

The bodies, all clad in nightclothes, were found in bedrooms on the second and top floors of the house.

Police would not comment on the time of deaths pending autopsies. Neighbors said they heard dogs barking at 2:30 a.m. Wednesday morning at the house.

Sgt. William Smith of the Amityville police said the victims were apparently shot while they were sleeping, and there were no signs of a struggle.

The Busy Bees

By JO BRIGHT

The Busy Bee Hobby Club, organized two years ago, is composed essentially of home-oriented women who enjoy a common interest — and an uncommon talent for turning ordinary things into objects of art.

An empty canvas evolves into a painting, a bundle of yarn becomes an afghan or a pound of plaster is transformed into a calico cat.

Whatever the beginning, the women cut, glue, trim, mold, stuff, tie, stuff, tack, pin, rub, paint, sew, weave, spray, braid or bend the base materials until they are beautiful. When finished, the decorative articles may be something to wear, use, display or sell.

The club, which meets every Thursday, is headed by Mrs. J. H. Duke, president; Mrs. Don McGonagill, vice president; Mrs. E. A. Williams, secretary; Mrs. Ben Jernigan, treasurer; and Mrs. Morris Robertson, publicity. To get new ideas, the group regularly travels to area towns, attending workshops, fairs and arts and crafts stores.

In October, the Busy Bees held a bazaar, selling their creations to earn money for a resident at Big Spring State Hospital.

'Christmas Barn' Opens December 7

The Howard County 4-H Club's "Christmas Barn," an arts and crafts fair and sale, is scheduled Dec. 7-8 at the new Howard County Fair Barn, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday and 1 to 6 p.m., Sunday.

Reservations for booths are now being taken at the Howard County Extension Office in the basement of the courthouse. Booths are 10x10 and are being sold for $5 per booth plus 10 per cent of sales. Exhibitors may rent as many booths as desired, and exhibitors are responsible for setting up their own booths. Booths may be left up overnight. The building will be locked and a night watchman will be provided.

All types of arts and crafts will be welcomed, but they must be handcrafted by the exhibitor. It is hoped there will be a diversity of items such as pottery, needlework, baked goods, wood carving, oil painting ceramics, water colors, lapidary works, sculpture, candles, etc. Exhibitors are encouraged to demonstrate their art or craft. For further information call the Howard County Extension Office, 267-6671; Mrs. Don Hale, 267-5064; or Mrs. Bruce Griffith, 263-0965. This will be a good opportunity for the public to buy or sell original handcrafted Christmas gifts.

Couple Will Wed Nov. 30

Mr. and Mrs. Domingo Hernandez of Coahoma announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Albina, to Daniel Arguello, son of Mr. and Mrs. Belen Arguello, also of Coahoma. Vows will be exchanged Nov. 30 at St. Thomas Catholic Church in Big Spring.

Heed These Tips On Turkey Preparation

By SHERRY MULLIN

(HD Agent)
 Buy turkeys when they are on "special" and store in the freezer if not to be used right away. At zero temperature they may be stored 6 to 9 months; six months for parts.

To buy enough for each person or a certain number of servings, allow at least one pound per person for bone-in selections, or one-third pound for boneless. Buy more if you expect to serve it for two meals, and allow for seconds and sandwiches.

If frozen when purchased, and not to be used right away, get it home and into the freezer quickly. Give the turkey an overwrap of moisture-proof, vapor-proof wrap; if the original wrapping does not appear adequate for long storage.

If fresh and to be cooked within two days, remove neck and giblets and wrap the turkey loosely and store on the coldest (38 to 40 degrees) refrigerator shelf. Otherwise, freeze immediately.

Frozen turkeys may be thawed by one of several methods. The important point in all the methods is to keep surface of bird from warming while allowing interior to thaw.

1. Place turkey in its original wrap on a tray in the refrigerator. Allow up to four days for whole birds, 18 pounds or over, to thaw. This keeps juice loss to a minimum.

2. Leave bird in original wrap. Place in deep pan filled with cold water, changing water frequently. For medium to large turkeys allow 6 to 12 hours to thaw.

3. Letting the bird set at room temperature is more safely used at end of one of the other methods, when time is a factor and bird can be put into oven to cook right after setting at room temperature. Place bird in original wrap into a paper bag and close bag tightly.

Start working with turkey, preparing for cooking as soon as it is pliable. Thawed turkey should not be refrozen. Once thawed, it should be handled as carefully and quickly as possible, keeping cold in refrigerator if not put right into oven.

Dear Abby

Maybe She Can't Leave It Alone

DEAR ABBY: For the last five years I've been very much in love with a widowed grandmother, age 61. I am 40, and in the process of getting a divorce in order to marry my lady friend. Now, the problem: When my lady and I dine, he orders "a martini" before dinner. I have one, too, but she always has a second, and then a third. She enjoys wine with her inner. I order a bottle, and he drinks most of it. After inner she likes not one (fer-dinner drink, but two. When we are at her place, the bottle is always out, and he "relaxes" with "a few rinks." When we're at my place, she always helps herself to the liquor. She never gets drunk or out of line, but she seems to be drinking a great deal of it.

A good tongue lashing for their inconsiderate behavior. Shame on them. But if they do it to you again, shame on YOU!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif., 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You have good reason to worry. Tell her of your concern, and suggest that if she can take it or leave it alone, you'd like her to leave it alone for a while. Her reaction to your suggestion should tell you all you need to know.

DEAR ABBY: We are an elderly couple who invited three relatives to stop over for the weekend during their vacation travels. They accepted.

We hired a woman to help with the extra work — bought extra company food that stretched over our social security allowance, and arranged our sleeping facilities to accommodate them.

They arrived 24 hours late with no explanations or apologies! Then they said they could stay only a "few hours" as they had made other plans!

I explained to them as calmly as I could that we had been terribly worried, waiting hour after hour, not knowing what had befallen them. It would have been a small effort on their part to have phoned us. Needless to say, none of us enjoyed their hurried two-hour visit.

Please say something in your column about the above situation.

THE MEMORY BOOK created by Mrs. A. B. Jernigan, left, is finished in gold and features prized pictures and appropriate writing. This is only one of her many hobbies.

Hyperion Club Hears Advice On Jewelry

Gems and precious metals were discussed by Ralph Brooks of Blum's Jewelers at the Tuesday meeting of 1970 Hyperion Club at the home of Mrs. Virginia Moore, 2500 Ann.

The speaker said that 80 per cent of gem stones come out of Africa now and 14 per cent of the diamonds come from Russia. There are no active diamond mines in America today. Brooks described diamond grading and said fancy cut stones are usually more expensive than round ones. The 90 precious gem stones, less costly and durable than diamonds, are also more common, less brilliant and are easier to copy and cheaper to simulate.

Brooks also discussed gold and the various contents used for jewelry from "high fashion to cheap." Three types of gold are filled, plated and solid. The speaker said silver is becoming more expensive and that platinum is one of six in the group of metals that cost 35 to 40 per cent more than 14-carat gold. There are no national standards on silver or platinum. The most valuable pearls are rose in color, according to Brooks, who pointed out that imitation pearls are numerous. He said there is much turquoise in the United States but the most expensive comes from Persia. He cautioned against getting synthetic or simulated stones.

Cohostess was Mrs. Dennis Warrington, and guests were Mrs. Gay Cowan and Mrs. Linda McDowell.

Mrs. Robert Massengale presided as plans were made for the traditional Holiday Sampler party for members and their husbands. It will be

Dec. 12 at the Texas Electric Reddy Room. A gift exchange will be held at the regular meeting Dec. 10 in the Massengale home where the fourth anniversary of the club's founding will be observed.

Tip For Filling

When making tuna fish or salmon and mayonnaise sandwich filling, add enough raw grated carrots to make it of spreading consistency. This will stretch the quantity, add color and a new taste.

Better Broth

Duck giblets, alone, simmered in water do not give a rich broth. Add some of the duck fat (cut from the bird before roasting) and you'll have a more robust broth.

Need Noticing

The need for social approval and recognition increases with age, Dorothy Taylor, family life education specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service notes.

Policeman Speaks On Drug Use

What parents can do to help fight the drug problem in schools was spelled out by Ed Kissinger of the Big Spring Police department Thursday for Boydston Parent-Teacher Association.

The most important step in curbing use of drugs among younger children is for parents to clean out their medicine chests and discard old prescriptions that contain drugs, said the officer. Many children have no idea of the contents but take the pills, or capsules because of the attractive colors. A film preceded the talk.

Pursuing the project of purchasing a piano for the school, the PTA will sponsor a bake sale at Furr's Supermarket and at the Highland Center Nov. 23 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mrs. Jerre Sink brought the devotion, and Mrs. Patricia Conway's class won the room count.

Community Activities At Center

A total of 129 older adults of Howard County and their guests joined in a community-side meeting Wednesday at the Kentwood Center.

During the morning hours, the program was a sing-along with Marshall Brown as leader. Pianists were Mrs. Leighton Mundt and Mrs. Bertie Westbrook. The Hobo Band from Big Spring State Hospital entertained prior to the covered dish Thanksgivinguncheon.

In the afternoon, Tom Castle and his band furnished music, and homemaking students of Mrs. Sharon Storey visited the center to observe crafts in progress which included crocheting, knitting, hairpin lacemaking and loom knitting. They also sang for the group. Games continued until 4 p.m.

The next community wide meeting will be Dec. 11.

Tim Haynes Sings Gospels

Timothy Haynes, 10, a student at College Heights School, presented a musical program Thursday for a meeting of the Big Spring School Food Service. He sang four gospel songs, accompanied by Mrs. Ron Freeman, pianist.

Ray Lawlis, president, presided as plans were made for a Christmas party at 6 p.m., Dec. 14 in the Big Spring High School cafeteria. Cafeteria managers will be in charge of the event.

At Thursday's meeting, 41 persons were served refreshments from a table decorated in the Thanksgiving theme.

Apathy Is Dangerous Attorney Tells Forum

Apathy is a danger the nation faces today, according to District Attorney Bob Moore who spoke to The Woman's Forum Friday in the home of Mrs. Lonnie Coker.

Dwelling specifically on the lack of responsibility shown by citizens in serving on juries, the speaker said, "We are endangering our system of government." He enumerated those who are automatically excused from duty; those over 65 years, mothers with children under

PTA Council Elects New Chairmen

The executive committee of the Parent-Teacher Association City Council filled two committee chairmanships at a meeting last week presided over by Mrs. Vonda Townsend, president.

Marvin Wise, president of the Marcy PTA, will be PAFLE chairman, and Mrs. Glenda Bartee of Boydston School will be safety chairman.

The council will sponsor a parliamentary and leadership course the latter part of November or first of December, with further details to be announced.

The next council meeting has been changed to Dec. 3, 10 a.m., at St. Paul Presbyterian Church. At that time, gifts will be collected for needy school children; each council member bringing a gift suitable for children in elementary school. Wendall Ware, Lakeview Principal, was in charge of the project. Also, a program will be presented by Jake Glickman.

Lomax Club Plans Dinner

All "oldtimers" are invited to bring a covered dish and participate in a Thanksgiving dinner to be held at 6:30 p.m., Nov. 22 at the Lomax Community Club. The building, which was donated for community use by Everett Lomax, has recently been repainted. Plans for the dinner were made Wednesday afternoon at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Russell Tidwell.

10 years of age in the home, and students.

He said many citizens past retirement age are still mentally alert and physically able and could be good jurors, as well as young mothers whose children are in school the greater part of the day. He pointed out that 100 prospects are called, in order to get 12 jurors.

Moore pointed out that all citizens enjoy the same treatment from the courts and should take their turn in helping to carry on the jury system or suffer losing it one day. He said serving on a jury is a privilege that is the heritage from our founding fathers. He suggested that in time, with failure of citizens to serve, decisions in the courts might fall to the discretion of one person, instead of 12.

The speaker suggested that there is too much government today, and said many offices could be eliminated, and the work delegated to fewer workers.

Moore also said he hopes someday to sponsor legislation that will provide for speedier trials that will lessen the number of accused persons held in jails over long periods of time, awaiting court action.

The Christmas party will be held at the Dec. 20 meeting at 1 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Charles Harwell, 1602 Indian Hills. There will be a covered dish luncheon and $2 limit gift exchange. Mrs. Omar Jones and Mrs. John Knox will assist Mrs. Harwell.

Reports were made from the Westside Youth Center by Mrs. Clyde Johnston, and Mrs. W. N. Norred said the Forum would entertain ward 9A at the state hospital Christmas party.

Mrs. T. H. McCann assisted Mrs. Coker as cohostess.

Quotable Women

"Our hope is consumers everywhere will cooperate in a venture that will profit them price-wise and health-wise." Arline Mathews of American Consumers Together, one of the organizers of last year's meat boycott, announcing plans for a boycott of sugar in an effort to drive down prices.

"I try not to select or deselect anyone. I just give them a realistic picture — not a travelogue but a realistic picture — of what it's going to be like, and if they don't think they can handle it they'll drop out." Dr. Homa M. Snibbe, who teaches a specially designed course on Iran for the Hughes Aircraft Co. in Los Angeles, to help families assigned abroad cope with culture shock.

"I select the photographs with the publisher, Douglas Lambert, on the basis of which will appeal to women. He relies on intuition, and sometimes we disagree." Marin Scott Milam, editor of Playgirl magazine which features male pin-ups.

FOR YOUR PLEASURE Drama, Music Advancing Center Stage This Season

Drama and music shortly will be crowding athletics from the center stage of entertainment.

Already, "Sound of Music" has received rave notices from the Colorado City Opera house, and will wind up its run there Tuesday evening. Costuming, staging, stinging and acting under direction of Tandy Curlee all having run the bell.

Coming up Nov. 22-23 will be "Harvey," that perennial favorite of slightly lush Elwood P. Dowd and his pooka rabbit, "Harvey," which will be presented by the Big Spring High School dramatists. Tickets ($2.00 and $1.50) now are available from speech and drama students, or at the high school (a call will bring you personal delivery), or at the door 8 p.m. Scott Sullivan carries the title role. His sister, Veta Simmons, is played by Janie Petty; her daughter, Myrtle Mae by Julie Gatts; Wilson by David Wrinkle; Dr. Chumley by Sean Grathwol; and Judge Gafney by James Williams. It's a great comedy that can't miss.

Put down Dec. 6-7 as the dates for the Hawk Players dinner theatre presentation of Neil Simon's "Come Blow your Horn." You get not only a choice of ham steak or roast beef entree plus salad, and the trimmings, but an evening of fun all for $4. Reservations should be called to Howard College. Mark Sheedy plays Allen; Kathy Bull is Connie; Mary Mullen is the mother; Charles Grizzard, father; David Duggan, little brother; Lois Bair, the other woman; Jan Plummer, the visitor.

Time flies, and come Dec.

2, the Steer band personnel buckles down to serious rehearsals of CR '75 which will have "Be What You Are" theme. Already the CR '75 mini-show has been presented by several clubs, and is available to others. Dates are Jan. 20-25 (Except Wednesday Jan. 22).

The end-of-the-marching season banquet given band members has been scheduled for Nov. 26. Incidentally, the band was in Odessa yesterday (Saturday) for its UIL contest competition.

Dates soon will be announced for the choir's annual Christmas concert, and two features are in the offing. The Meistersingers will do Harry Simeon's "Sing We Now of Christmas," a recently published collection of Christmas tunes. Traditional numbers will be by the boys and girls choirs. The other new offering may be the Community Chorus; at any rate an organization meeting is due this week, and Bowers says that if the idea jells, a choir of some 25 voices from the town may be featured in the program.

That display of his personally hand-made violins by Denver Pettitt is still on exhibit at Heritage Museum. Last Sunday's debut, with music to match, drew a fine response. Pettitt took first prize in the 1974 Texas State Arts and Crafts Fair at Kerrville, then was taken to Austin, and repeated at several points over the state. At the Texas State Fair in Dallas, members of the Dallas symphony praised the tone and quality of his creations. Meanwhile, the exhibit of some two score examples of the works of pioneer H. W. Caylor, (he came here in the early 1890s) are still on display and may be seen from 2-5 p.m. today as well as all this week. Interestingly, Mr. Caylor was probably one of the last Big Springers prior to Pettitt to have a personal exhibit at State Fair — his more than half a century ago.

The museum is taking orders for its 1975 historic souvenir calendars ($2.65) which should be ready soon for delivery. The supply this year will be limited. New and renewed members for the week include Pearl Bates Hague, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard M. Keese, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Harwell, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Baird, B&PW and 1953 Hyperion Clubs.

The Sand Art Association at Monahans, has Monday as the day for receiving entries to its annual showing at the Art Center on the Kermit Highway. Show dates are Nov. 24 from 1-4 p.m. for watercolor, graphic and acrylics. Best of show carries a $25 award, and three places will be paid in each division. Information may be had from the Art Center.

Merle Haggard headlines an all-star Concert Express at Ector County Coliseum Sunday, Dec. 1, at 3 p.m. Barbara Mandrell and Don Bowman are guests on the show.

Big Spring area families are needed to entertain English-speaking European teachers as guests in their homes for a 10-day period next summer, it has been announced by the American Host Program (Hotel Commodore, Suite 2100, New York, N.Y. 10017). Some 5,500 teachers thus have been exposed to grass-roots Americana in recent years. Host families provide a private room, meals, opportunity to meet friends, neighbors and chance to see points of interest in the area.

"Famous Trees of Texas," a favorite book of many teachers and nature lovers, is still available for the same $5 for an exquisite 200-page volume. These may be ordered from Texas Forest Service, College Station, Tex. 77843, but the supply is dwindling.

Helen Reddy will replace Mac Davis on the Sunday Feb. 23, program at the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. Miss Reddy has a glittering trail of hits such as "I Am Woman," "Keep on Singing," "Ruby Red Dress." Other Houston dates include the Osmonds Feb. 21-22; Conway Twitty, Feb. 24-25; Olivia Newton-John Feb. 26; Charley Pride, Feb. 27-28; Charlie Rich, Mar. 1-2

Quilting Seen By HD Club

A program on quilting was given by a guest speaker, Mrs. Peggy James, when the Lees-Drumright Home Demonstration Club met at 2 p.m., Tuesday in the Community Center.

Mrs. V. E. Phillips presided as plans were made to "adopt" a resident of Mountain View Nursing Home. Also, on Nov. 19 at 10 a.m., members will go to Stanton to hear a program by the Texas Electric Service Company.

Lois Ivey Named 4-H President

Lois Ivey was elected president of the Lucky Acres 4-H Club during last week's meeting at the Fair Barn. Other officers are Richard Jenkins, vice president; Lita Cox, secretary; Jerry Leonard, treasurer; Timmy Martin, council delegate; and Christi Martin, reporter.

The club's current project is the making of candy Christmas wreaths for Big Spring State Hospital.

Instruction on how to do method demonstrations will be given at 10 a.m., Nov. 23 at the Fair Barn. The next regular meeting of the club will be at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 9 at the Fair Barn.

Sewing Club Will Give To Needy

A committee was appointed to assemble a food basket and plans were made for a Christmas dinner when the Sew and Chatter Club met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. S. R. Nobles, 405 Washington.

Guests were Mrs. Fannie Bezona, Corning, N.Y., who is visiting her sister, Mrs. M. E. Broughton, and Mrs. H. J. Agee.

Food, clothing and a blanket will be included in a Thanksgiving basket being prepared for an elderly couple 'adopted' by the club. The committee to prepare the basket is composed of Mrs. Lee Porter, Mrs. Bill McIlvain and Mrs. Irvin Daniels.

A Christmas dinner will be served at 7 p.m., Dec. 11 at the Porter home, 1919 Parkwood. Mrs. Daniels will be cohostess.

This week was Round-up Week at Sands. Wednesday students participated in "Slave Day". The Juniors and Seniors were the masters and the Freshman and Sophomores were the slaves. Best Slave and Master were chosen, and they are Linda Franco and Patsy McDonald. Thursday we had "50's Day."

All students dressed in clothes representing the 50's. The winners were Kay Hunt and Randall Moore. Friday was "Brown and White Day" and "Sign Day". Winners were also chosen. They were Cindy Shaw and Gary Webb.

The week was topped off by a Grand Bonfire. The Bonfire was built by the students and headed off by the Student Council President, Byron Hill. The Pep Rally was held at the Bonfire and the students did a Snake Dance to the center of town where the cheerleaders did more cheers. Round-up at the Sterling City vs. Sands game was presented by the Pep Squad and Elaine Martin. President did the planning.

The half-time ceremony consisted of the crowning of the Round-up Queen, presentation of the Football Sweetheart, and the squad hero. This year's Round-up Queen is Rachel Mojica, the Football Sweetheart is Ann Nichols. Pep Squad Hero is Ray Franco.

EXPOSED POLICE CORRUPTION

Serpico, Honest Cop, Awaits Death Abroad

NETHERLANDS (AP) — Frank Serpico, the lonely crusader who helped expose wide spread graft in the New York City police department, gazed out the cafe window at two long-haired Dutch cops going by in a mini squad car.

The one next to the driver was a lady cop, blonde and pretty.

"Happy as larks," observed the former plainclothesman whose fight against police payoffs and official cover-ups shook the administration of Mayor John Lindsay and became a best selling book and hit movie. "Cops over here are respected. They relate to the people. They aren't plotting ways to put you in jail to meet arrest quotas."

COP-EARRINGS OK

"Policemen in Switzerland are even listed in the phone book, so someone in trouble can call them up at home. In New York it's still a big deal getting them to live inside the city limits. Here cops on the beat can wear long hair, beards, earrings, anything they like."

Serpico, known to prostitutes in the other Harlem as "The Beard," studied his own collar-length hair and neat spade beard in the mirror. He tugged the gold earring in his good ear and ordered up a generer, a "young" Holland gim.

"Hey, you know something," he laughed, "I never caught a European cop cooping." Cooping is police slang for sleeping on the job, in school boiler rooms and tenements basements, a custom Serpico early encountered as a rookie cop in his native Brooklyn.

A horse-drawn barrel organ cascaded a waltz across the cobblestone square where Serpico's mobile camper was parked at a meter. Alfie, his shaggy English sheep dog and "only true friend," peered patiently out the window.

IN EXILE

For more than two years now, Serpico has been in self-exile abroad, almost constantly on the move, trying to find himself and maybe — he smiles wanly at the suggestion — trying to lose somebody. Both he and Alfie have trouble sleeping.

He was warned, he testified in court, they were going to "do a job" on him and he could end up "face down in the East River" for giving evidence against fellow plainclothesmen on the take from gamblers.

Six months after appearing as a key witness at the perjury trial of a plainclothesman who denied taking thousands of dollars in graft, Serpico was shot in the face while making a narcotics arrest.

'SERPICO' (R) will be screen at the Jet Drive-In Theatre starting Wednesday.

Serpico stood apart in the ranks of the New York police department, the nation's largest, as one of the few officers ever to report corruption and then voluntarily take the stand against crooked cops. For breaking the unwritten precinct house law that in effect puts cops above the law, he was shunned and hated by his fellow officers and written off as a "psycho" by his superiors.

WENT TO PRESS

Four years had gone by since a cop on riot duty in Brooklyn handed him an envelope containing $300 with the words "It's from Jewish Max." It had been more than three years since he tried to get high administration officials interested in the existence of a "pad," an organized system of bribes from numbers operators that was netting dishonest cops $800 a month in the south Bronx division to which he was assigned.

Frustrated at departmental foot dragging, Serpico at last took his story to The New York Times. The resulting newspaper series caused a sensation. In the fallout of related events, the embarrassed mayor appointed the independent Knapp Commission to investigate police corruption. Amid a welter of indictments and federal investigations, the police commissioner resigned, the department was reorganized and its rules revamped, holding field commanders responsible for the conduct of their men. Precinct captains were banished to the sticks and there was an exodus of retiring top brass.

Walking the streets of the old Harlem, which long ago gave its name to the New York ghetto, Frank Serpico, now 38 and retired on a disability pension, tries as much as he can to forget the past and live in the present.

I don't look beyond tomorrow," he said, turning his right ear to the peal of bells from the town hall clock. "The way my head is now, I don't think I'll be around very long. Who wants to live forever?"

Besides the unknown enemies Alfie listens for, there is the enemy within, the bullet fragments still lodged in his brain that could begin moving at any time, bringing total paralysis or death. The lost hearing in his left ear causes him to lose his balance in the dark and become confused when sound comes from several directions.

Always a loner, The Beard abroad has become even "more radicalized, more anti-establishment" than in the days when his hippie clothes, bushy hair and swinging Greenwich Village life-style made other cops suspicious of him. He was a crack shot and a karate expert, but he didn't "belong to the club." He liked ballet and opera, kept T. S. Eliot's poems in his locker and, he laughs, "didn't stash money in mason jars out in the backyard to avoid embarrassing bank accounts."

QUOTES POETRY

The dust has settled now, and every crooked cop he testified against has served his sentence and gone free. Serpico wonders if he would do it all over again.

"Dare I disturb the Universe?" he quoted his favorite Eliot poem, "The Lovesong of J. Alfred Prufrock."

Serpico keeps notes for a possible book, "not a behind-the-scenes, sour grapes look at my past but something on the philosophy of justice." He was asked to address the police academy in a Swiss city and pulled together some of his theories on police training, "like allowing 18-year-olds on the force to train with an experienced partner, having a ghetto family and maybe a guy doing time rap with the recruits and re-examining the whole deal of arrest records versus citizen rights."

He attended a World Police Federation meeting in Lausanne, Switzerland, and was disappointed to find it "a big beer drinking fest that had nothing to do with resolving problems of better law enforcement."

Milland, Screen Drunk, 'Hardly Drinks At All'

NEW YORK (AP) — Ray Milland glances with disinterest at the champagne chilling in the silver bucket sent to his suite by the manager of a luxurious mid-Manhattan hotel.

"I hate champagne — in fact, I hardly drink at all," confided the man whose Academy Award-winning role in "The Lost Weekend" made him the international symbol of an alcoholic.

"It makes me throw up," "But I smoke too much," he added, sarching for a lozenge to ease a throat irritated by a day of back-to-back interviews and television appearances on behalf of his just-published autobiography, "Wide-Eyed in Babylon."

A bit heavier, graying, and a good deal balder than he appeared in some 200 movies, Milland retains the sophisticated charm that has kept him on the screen for more than 40 years.

And despite the fact that he is in his mid-60s he's still there, having made six pitrues in five countries during the last 16 months.

"I don't have to worry about the youth syndrome any more," explains the foot-2 actor who played a father in "Love Story" and a grandfather in his latest movie, "Gold," and who actually has a 2-year-old grandson.

"As you get older you don't have to strike any poses any more and you can just be yourself," he goes on. "My greatest worry when I was young was my head of jet black hair. The first thing in the morning I had to check and see did I sleep on it wrong so that it stood out like wire all over my head. Now I don't have any hair so I don't have to worry."

Though most of the hair may be gone, Milland still has one indelible reminder of his younger years — a tattoo that he acquired the summer he worked on a tramp steamer in the Mediterranean.

"That's one of my big regrets, but then I was only 15," he admits, rolling up the sleeve of his bright blue shirt to display a skull on his right arm, fadinb but still clearly visible.

The brief stint as a sailor was only one of the early careers of the former Reginald Truscott-Jones, who took his professional name from the mill lands of his native Wales.

As a member of the Queen's Household Cavalry for three years he took part in the colorful changing of the guards ceremonies. An expert horseman, he was also a crack marksman, which is how he got his start in the movies after he left the service.

"A champagne making a picture needed a sharp-shooter, so they asked me to show them what I could do," he recalls. "I did something I've never done before or since — put 13 shots off into one hole — and they gave me the job to do trick shooting."

While he was in the middle of that picture the leading man in another was hurt and he was asked to take a screen test.

Financially Troubled Programs May Get Help

AUSTIN — The State Board of Education will seek a $7 million emergency appropriation from the 64th Legislature in January to help financially troubled vocational education programs in public junior and community colleges.

Enrollments which have expanded by over 13,000 in the past year have forced 32 of the junior and community colleges in Texas which operate vocational programs approximately $2.6 million over their appropriations for the fiscal year which ended August 31, 1974.

An additional $4.4 million will be needed to cover similar problems in the current year, which ends August 31, 1975.

The Board Saturday (November 9) authorized Dr. M. L. Brockette, state commissioner of education, to submit a request for supplemental legislative appropriations.

The Texas Public Community Junior College Association had appealed to the Board for support in seeking the additional funding.

Funding for the programs in 1973-74 totaled $37,160,645, including a contingency appropriation of $1.9 million, according to Joseph D.

Godsey, Texas Education Agency director of post-secondary occupational and technical education.

But based on the funding formula included in the Appropriations Act passed by the 63rd Legislature, the junior colleges earned $3,488,680 over the appropriation.

The Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, governs academic programs in junior and community colleges, transferred $905,000 in contingency funds to the Texas Education Agency to make up some of the difference, but the remaining $2,583,680 will be sought under the emergency appropriation.

Estimates also forecast a $4,416,320 shortage in contingency appropriations for the current fiscal year.

Under the Appropriations Act, $40,739,264 has been budgeted for 1974-75 including $2.4 million in contingency funds.

Unexpected rises in enrollments have caused the major problem for the colleges, Godsey said. Students in regular and adult vocational education classes totaled 146,700 during 1972-73, or before the current appropriations were considered.

Estimates of current enrollments now place the figure at approximately 160,000, an increase of some 13,300 students in one year.

Junior and community colleges affected and the amount of funds they have earned over their 1973-74 allocation include Howard College with $45,901 compared to Alvin Junior College, $22,739; Angelina College, $21,778; Blinn College of the Mainland, $12,237; Dallas County Community College District, $146,873.

Also, El Paso Community College, $151,349; Galveston College, $45,595; Grayson County College, $81,793; Henderson County Junior College, $2,194; Hill Junior College, $10,992; Houston Community College, $333,352; Kilgore College, $62,767; Laredo Junior College, $43,944.

Also, Lee College, $53,469; MLenna Community College, $98,654; Midland College, $21,212; Navarro College, $22,836; Paris Junior College, $41,052; San Antonio College, $380,576; San Jacinto College, $174,791; Southwest Texas Junior College, $39,735.

Also, Tarrant County
