Glow Of Thanksgiving Is Dimming For Many

Government, auto industry and coal strike-related layoffs are dimming the glow of the approaching Thanksgiving and Christmas season for more than a quarter-million workers. While in Washington, U.S. Labor Department statistics announced this week showed the purchasing power of workers' paychecks at the lowest level in three years, despite higher wages. It said the buying power of

Big Spring Week

The good news of an over-the-top finish for the United Way came last week. Instead of the $121,777 goal, UW leaders, workers and contributors combined to reap a $126,000 plus harvest. The more than a dozen agencies depending upon it can breathe a bit easier.

Coahoma, which collects for sale of water from the Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 to residents in Coahoma and Sand Springs, blew on the embers of a recent court decision which said Coahoma had to pay a $4,000 arrears. The resulting announcement of a $4 across-the-board increase may generate some heat. That comes out to 74 per cent on 4,000-gallon unit inside the district and 44 per cent outside. The water district contends its contractual charges will result in early payment of obligations; Coahoma contends early retirement means more payment now.

The Texas department for Mental Health and Mental Retardation looked to Big Spring State Hospital for its next superintendent at the Rusk Hospital in the person of Dr. Robert Sheldon. Once before, the department tapped out Dr. Frankie Williams, who now heads the Vernon unit. Dr. Wallace Hurter succeeds Dr. Sheldon here as clinical director.

Hijack Attempt Proves Flop

TOKYO (AP) — A 16-year-old youth brandishing sticks resembling dynamite attempted to hijack a domestic Japanese airliner today, but was subdued by an American crew member, police reported. The youth entered the cabin of the All Nippon Airways Boeing 727 as it headed toward Tokyo from Sapporo, northern Japan, and said, "I have hijacked the plane." John F. Vivian, 32, a flight engineer from Philadelphia, overpowered the boy, but was slightly injured in the scuffle, police said. Authorities withheld the name of the would-be hijacker because he is a minor. The youth, a high school student from Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island, was reported to be distressed over college entrance exams.

Thieves Are Pocketing Sugar In Restaurants

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A newspaper survey here showed that some residents are fighting rising sugar costs by putting sugar in their pockets rather than their coffee. Craig Edgerton of Hamburgers by Gourmet said keeping sugar behind the counter "cut sugar consumption 60 per cent and gave us a pretty good clue" how much was being taken. Other restaurant workers say they are using open bowls and pour-top containers rather than the individual packets to cut down on thefts, but even that doesn't always work. "They pour into little bags," moaned Buddy Holloman, manager of the Kettle Restaurant. "They'll do anything to get it out."

Heifers Become Prime Targets

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — "I can't guarantee every hunter a deer, but I can guarantee a steer or heifer," says rancher Bob Boyd, who's making just about everything on four legs fair game on his land. The price is $200 a day. He says hunters can take a steer, heifer, buck, doe, rabbit and an armadillo, dead or alive. Boyd said he has 250 head of cattle more than he can take care of at current feed prices — "They're not even worth hauling to market anymore." "It's more of a protest to dramatize the plight of the rancher," he said. "It's a lot better than people slaughtering calves and putting them in a ditch." Although he says he has had calls from as far away as California and Missouri, he's had no takers.

Dick Cavett To Depart ABC When Pact Expires

NEW YORK (AP) — Latent talk show host Dick Cavett says he will go to work for another network when his contract with ABC expires Dec. 31. A spokesman for CBS-TV confirmed that negotiations were in progress with Cavett but added it was not definite that he would join the network or what type of program was being discussed.

Arbiters Are Set To Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's chief labor troubleshooter moved Saturday into contract talks between the coal industry and striking United Mine Workers, citing the "mounting toll" being inflicted by the nationwide coal strike. W.J. Usery Jr., director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, requested bargaining committees of the union and coal industry to meet with him at 10 a.m. EST Sunday. "The mounting toll this dispute is inflicting on the nation now makes it imperative that a resolution be reached promptly," Usery said.

He made the request in a telegram to Arnold Miller, president of the UMW, and Nick Camicia, chairman of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association. Earlier, Usery had avoided direct participation in the contract negotiations, saying it would be in the best interest of the nation and the coal industry if the 12-day-old strike could be settled without direct government intervention. In his telegram to Miller and Camicia, Usery said: "This work stoppage has brought an adverse impact upon the entire nation, and the condition grows more serious with each passing day."

U. S. Near Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Saudi Arabia have ended the first round of negotiations that could lead to the sale of billions of dollars of American arms to the oil-rich Arab nation over the next 10 years. U.S. officials stress that the two weeks of talks, which took place in Washington and Saudi Arabia, were preliminary and no deal was made. However, they said there was progress toward shaping the ultimate program.

As the basis of their talks negotiators are using secret Pentagon recommendations that would give the Saudis a highly mobile and mechanized army along with a larger air force and greatly expanded navy. The American view was presented during a week-long visit earlier this month to Saudi Arabia by two high-ranking U.S. officials. This past week, Saudi Deputy Defense Minister Prince Turki was in Washington for more detailed discussions. The Pentagon's still-classified recommendations proposed: —Four mechanized brigades with three mechanized infantry battalions attached. —A tank battalion with other combat and support units. —An airborne brigade and three airborne infantry battalions. —Two assault helicopter battalions attached to an aviation group headquarters. —One attack helicopter battalion. —Two air cavalry battalions and two assault support helicopter companies.

Gunmen Kill 1, Liberate 13

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — Three Palestinian gunmen who earlier had executed a German hostage released 13 of their captives Saturday night, but continued to hold 27 others in a commandeered British jetliner. Six women came down a ladder placed against the door of the British Airways jet's cockpit and walked to the terminal building. Three hours earlier five women, a child and a man were freed the same way and subsequently were whisked off to a Tunis hotel.

None of the freed hostages have been allowed to talk to newsmen at the Carthage airport near Tunis. After the first release, Tunisian Interior Minister Taher Balkhodja told newsmen negotiations with the hijackers were "proceeding actively" and the drama might soon be resolved. The negotiations took place by radio from the airport tower as spectators looked out at the floodlit plane. Earlier in the day, hundreds of horrified spectators looked on from the airport's terminal building as one of the gunmen marched German banker Werner Gustav Kehl to the open door of the airplane and shot him in the back. Kehl, the 43-year-old father of three, dropped 12 feet to the tarmac and 10 minutes later was taken to a hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

IT MAY BE DANGEROUS USDA Kicks Stuffing Out Of That Turkey

WASHINGTON (AP) — If your Thanksgiving turkey is stuffed, it may be dangerous. That warning comes from the Agriculture Department, which says that cooking stuffing inside a turkey increases the danger of salmonella poisoning.

The department issued the warning this week in reporting the results of a survey of food safety practices in the home. The survey indicated that many American homemakers would flunk tests for cooking turkey safely.

Fresh meat and poultry may contain salmonella bacteria, which cause a disease characterized by flu-like symptoms such as severe headaches, vomiting, diarrhea, cramps and fever. It can cause death in particularly susceptible persons such as infants, elderly persons or those with chronic diseases. Although salmonella can be killed when the turkey is cooked, it may be transferred from the turkey to the stuffing, the department said. "Therefore, for absolute safety, stuffing or dressing should be cooked in a separate container," it added.

"If the homemaker insists on cooking stuffing inside the turkey, it is imperative that she cook the stuffing thoroughly," the department said. "In the cavity of the turkey, it takes longer for the stuffing to be sufficiently cooked."

It should reach a temperature of at least 165 degrees during roasting, the department advised.

"Just because the outer surface of the turkey appears to be done does not necessarily indicate the stuffing is safely done, too," it said.

The risk of cooking the stuffing in the turkey is further compounded because the stuffing is packed tightly because it does not allow the oven heat to penetrate as quickly, the department said.

WEAPONS PACT

Ford, Brezhnev Near Agreement

VLADIVOSTOK, U.S.S.R. (AP) — President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev moved toward agreement Sunday on guidelines for a new 10-year treaty limiting offensive nuclear weapons. "We are in the same general ballpark," Secretary of State Henry A.

Kissinger told an early-morning news conference after more than six hours of talks between Ford and Brezhnev. "Enough was done to give impetus to the negotiations in Geneva. We have come closer to our goal." Kissinger said the summit was certain to provide "some guidelines" for American and Soviet negotiators in Geneva seeking a 10-year treaty limiting missiles, bombers and other means of waging nuclear warfare.

The U.S.-Soviet pact restricting certain weapons systems expires in 1977. At the last U.S.-Soviet summit, Brezhnev and former President Richard M. Nixon failed to make substantial progress on a SALT pact, but agreed to work toward a 10-year pact.

"For a variety of reasons things were not right for an agreement" last July, Kissinger said in an obvious reference to Watergate. The Ford-Brezhnev talks were "in a different atmosphere," he said. "I have the impression the two men get along excellently."

The Russians issued a statement, approved by Ford, that spoke of a "determination to make all necessary efforts" to give recent improvements in U.S.-Soviet relations "an irreversible character."

Ford and Brezhnev were meeting again Sunday and were expected to turn to the Middle East and other topics shelved along with dinner Saturday night to maintain the momentum of their discussion on the complex nuclear weapons issue.

Plane Report Is Unfounded

NEW YORK (AP) — An Air France jet landed safely at Kennedy Airport today after the airline said the plane had been hijacked, but police said the report was unfounded.

In Washington, Federal Aviation Administration spokesman William J. Daley said the report of the hijacking was a false alarm.

Air France had said the pilot of a Boeing 707 enroute from Paris to New York had been hijacked. The plane, according to police, carried 71 passengers and a crew of 12.

The FAA spokesman said authorities boarded the plane after it had landed and determined that nothing was wrong.

WEIGHTING IT OUT — A comely young Big Spring miss, armored against the cold and laden with packages, obviously didn't like what she saw when she first climbed aboard a weighing machine here the past week. First the purse and packages went, then the shoes and finally the coat and cap — all of which wound up in a neat little pyramid beside the scales. Ah, that seemed to be much better, the miss seemed to be saying to herself in the last photo.

Capote Felt Guilty About Early Success

PALM COAST, Fla. (AP) — "I learned to read at the age of 4 and write at the age of 6, for no explainable reason and with no model or particular motivation," said Truman Capote.

Mixing talk with his Bloody Marys, the short, wispy-voiced author revealed fond but poignant memories of becoming a "reader and writer" in an Alabama farm community.

Aided in his learning by an old woman hardly literate herself, he had by age "7 or 8" begun writing "little stories almost every day." Recently, Capote sat quietly in the hotel bar between sessions of a recent intellectual conference here. He seemed ready to apologize for his literary beginnings. But he spoke with greater hesitancy about his literary future. At age 17, he traveled to the big city to ask "that ferocious man" Harold Ross, editor of New Yorker magazine, for work.

"I looked like I was 11," Capote recalls with a laugh. After an embarrassing confrontation in which Ross demanded of his secretary, "What's this kid doing here?" Capote got the job. He had made an impression with earlier contributions to the magazine, and the start of World War II had depleted the available staff.

He later left the New Yorker because he feared becoming stereotyped by its style of writing. Capote's first novel, "Other Voices, Other Rooms," vaulted him into national acclaim and began what he refers to as his "nervous, uneasy success."

"I became very nervous. I felt guilty about the book's success. I didn't think that I could be any good if I was successful," an idea he now dismisses as "ridiculous."

His other books, among them "The Grass Harp," "Breakfast at Tiffany's" and "Private Places and Public People," met with similar success. He began writing for movies and television but felt he was "wasting my time and talents."

Capote said that the question of which medium he should use to express himself still troubles him. "This leaves me today with a certain tremendous inner conflict that I haven't resolved yet," he said. "I don't know how I will or if I will."

The publishing of "In Cold Blood," a work in which he details the crimes of murderers in a "personal commentary," served as an impetus.

He said he recently completed novel "Then It All Came Down," is somewhat of a sequel.

"It's an offshoot of 10 years of research on the multiple homicidal criminal," he said.

His next book, Capote said, will deal with "the international people," the jet set.

Cotton Harvesting Is Picking Up In Areas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — The return of open weather sent farmers back into the harvest fields in the plains and western areas of the state last week.

The recent freezing temperatures are expected to speed up cotton harvesting. Some corn, sorghum, peanuts, sugarbeets and vegetables remain to be harvested.

The East Texas sweet-potato harvest is about complete, but with considerable losses due to prolonged wet conditions. Peanuts in Central and West Central Texas have also suffered from the wet weather. Dr. John E. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said.

Sugarcane, vegetables and citrus are being harvested in the Rio Grande Valley. The pecan harvest is making good progress. Soybeans and rice are being harvested in Southeast Texas.

ALMOST FINISHED

Farmers are almost finished planting wheat and oats. Early plantings are making good growth and are providing grazing for livestock except in extremely wet areas. Wheat fields are offering good grazing in the Plains but only light numbers of stocker cattle are available due to the depressed cattle market.

Hutchison said livestock are in generally good condition. Cattlemen are culling their herds closely due to the cost of carrying animals through the winter.

District Extension agents reported the following conditions.

PANHANDLE: Cotton has been killed by freezing and the crop will be short. Some cotton, corn and sorghum harvesting is underway. Harvesting of carrots and sugarbeets is active. Wheat is making excellent growth although some rust and mosaic are showing up.

SOUTH PLAINS: A killing freeze has terminated cotton growth, and the harvest will get into full swing in a week to 10 days with open weather.

Cotton is being harvested. Harvesting of corn, sorghum and soybeans is making good progress.

ROLLING PLAINS: After delays due to wet weather sorghum, peanuts, sunflowers and cotton are being harvested. Small grain pastures look good. Small grain planting is nearing completion.

NORTH CENTRAL: Because of long delays from wet weather about 30 per cent of the cotton crop is still out. Yields and quality are poor. Wet fields are delaying soybean and peanut harvesting. Pecan harvesting is about 25 per cent complete, but the crop is generally poor.

NORTHEAST: Harvesting of corn, sorghum, cotton and sweet potato is about complete. Prolonged wet weather has lowered yields. Harvesting of a light pecan crop continues. Livestock have good grazing conditions.

FAR WEST: Drier weather is allowing farmers to move ahead with the cotton harvest. Harvesting of cabbage and pecans is active. Tomato harvesting in the Dell City area is about complete. Some alfalfa is still being cut for hay.

STILL WAITING

WEST CENTRAL: Farmers are still waiting for fields to dry so they can resume harvesting of cotton, sorghum and peanuts. Prolonged wet weather has damaged the quality of cotton and peanuts. The pecan crop is average. Sunflowers will soon be ready to harvest in Nolan County. Small grains are making excellent growth.

CENTRAL: About half the crop is harvested, but yields and quality of the crop have been reduced by the prolonged wet weather. The pecan harvest is making good progress. Small grains are providing good grazing.

EAST: Harvesting of cotton, corn, peanuts and sorghum is virtually complete. Vegetable production has been slowed by cool, wet weather. The pecan crop is short.

SOUTHWEST: Peppers, green beans, squash, eggplants, cucumbers and carrots are moving the market. The soybean harvest is underway. Pecan harvest is active and the crop looks good to excellent. Small grains are making good growth.

SOUTH: Citrus, fall vegetable crops and sugarcane are being harvested in the Rio Grande Valley. Cucumbers are being harvested in Brooks and Kleberg counties. Harvesting of buffelgrass seed continues in Brooks and Starr counties. Flax planting is active in northern counties, with the crop up to a good stand in Jim Wells County. Range and livestock conditions are generally good although screwworms continue to be a serious problem.

Recount Likely In Senate Race

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — Incumbent Republican Sen. Milton R. Young defeated former Democratic Gov. William L. Guy by 177 votes in the race for the U.S. Senate, the State Canvassing Board announced today.

A recount is expected.

Although the report was not signed by the five canvassing board members, Secretary of State Ben Meier said the vote could be considered official. He said the report would be signed after the board finished its count of the legislative races in North Dakota.

Final totals from the State Canvassing Board showed Young with 114,852 votes and Guy with 114,675.

Cost Of Fords Is Going Up

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has raised shipping and optional equipment charges on cars and trucks in a maneuver that could push up the price of an average vehicle an estimated $75.

The firm did not announce the price increases, which took effect Monday.

A Ford spokesman estimated today that the increase on the average car or truck would run 2 per cent, or about $75, per vehicle.

The increases came on top of an 8 per cent increase implemented at Ford when the 1975 model year began in September.

The Ford spokesman confirmed that increases were sent to dealers last week and said an announcement was not made because "we don't normally announce" this type of increase.

HISTORIC MILL — This water powered mill, built in the 1830s by slave labor, still turns out ground corn at Bitting Springs in eastern Oklahoma.

Mill Built In 1830s Is Still Being Used

TALHEQUAH, Okla. (AP) — She had lived in Muskogee and was vaguely aware that Texas had become a Republic and disavowed land grants held by the Cherokee Indians. Tom Taylor and his wife came to the northeast Oklahoma and bought it and set up a milling built a water-driven mill to grind corn.

Today the restored mill still operates near Bitting Springs, a special project of Golda Unkefer.

The state's only remaining water-driven mill operates from the sparkling water rushing along to the ancient flume built on the banks of the clear Goingsnake Creek.

The Taylors, both Cherokees, built it with their slaves they had brought from Texas. They also built a big log cabin with a fireplace in every room.

The house is long gone. The present millrace and flume were put in by Dr. Nicholas Biting about the turn of the century when he lived there. His wife was related to the Taylors.

The mill, located just a little distance south of Oklahoma 51, is between Tahlequah and Stillwell. For the first time it is not listed for a weather-worn sign with arrows.

The mill grinds corn as always, but just enough to sell to the 250 to 500 visitors who find their way there each month.

"I thought we would always be on the map," the present owner said. "But on this latest one, the mill isn't even mentioned."

Her biggest problem came last year when she broke her foot and couldn't get around. She is back on her feet now and with her longtime helper, George Dixon, is operating it regularly.

Just recently she got more details on the mill's early days. Member of a Cherokee family were visiting and had with them an old member of the family whose father had helped install the wheel.

"He was a wonderful old Indian man who told me the mill was put in place by four men," she related. He also told her the mill's original wooden wheel was replaced by a metal wheel which was made in France.

Her interest in the mill comes naturally.

WRITES BOOK ABOUT HIS FRIEND He Thought Picasso Would Live Forever

NEW YORK (AP) — David Douglas Duncan, like some Phoenician merchantman, plies his trade between ports of violence and pleasure, war and art.

His photographs have won him fame from the Korean war to the art treasures of the Kremlin, from the siege at Khe Sanh to the Villa La Californie of Pablo Picasso in the south of France.

He is an itinerate between extremes. He was born in Kansas City, Mo., but lives in France, in the soft breath of the Mediterranean and amid olive groves. He is a retired World War II Marine officer who speaks in a voice sometimes too soft to be heard. He says he would like to get back into action photographing the news again "because there is so much going on." Yet he contemplates as his next work a photo book about a very special dachshund, named Lumpe, his pet and for a time Picasso's.

Which is why, when he sits in his tasteful room in New York's Plaza Hotel and savors his tenth book as though it were human, there is a certain stark black and white quality to the story he tells of the first picture he ever took, the first camera he owned.

The first camera? "My youngest sister, Jeanie, gave it to me on my 18th birthday. I was at the University of Arizona and she sent me a 39-cent Bakelite camera called a Univex."

The morning after it came in the mail he tuned in the radio in his college room and heard the news that the Congress Hotel in downtown Tucson was afire. He got as far as the sidewalk before he remembered the camera.

"I thought, my God, a fire and the camera. I didn't even know how to load it. I loaded it while I was running."

The hotel was billowing smoke when he got there and he worked his way to a smoke-less side.

"And I saw from the firelines a guy who was much older, middle-aged, rather slight, half-dressed, arguing with a fireman, trying to go back inside, saying, 'Look, my room's not burning yet. I was startled by the fire and I want to go back for my baggage.'

"And finally the fireman said, 'Okay fella, I'll get it.'"
Duncan snapped the fireman arguing with the man, going back in and returning, coughing and spitting. He promptly forgot the incident and looked for other pictures. The film was still in the camera the next day when he read the headlines, "Dillinger Captured At Crown Hill Fire."

He read about how a fireman had dared the smoke to retrieve a guest's luggage, had stumbled on the way out. The suitcase broke open, spilling guns and money on the stairs. And the film was still in the camera.

NO MARKET
In college he studied first to be an archaeologist at Arizona, then a marine zoologist at the University of Miami. But those were depression days and there was no market for either. He begged the American Museum of Natural History for a job. No luck. So he turned to free-lance photography. Then through a family friend, he met Michael Lerner, an avid sports fisherman, invited young Duncan to be the photographer on an expedition for the American Museum to the Humboldt Current off South America, an expedition that finally yielded the Museum's Hall of Fishes.

His advice for good pictures to the layman: "There's nothing to it. One thing, remember, the way they make cameras now with automatic exposure meters they're going to give you exposure, so remember one thing and you cannot fail. Just move in close. If something interests you, just move in close and fire. You're going to get it. Whether you're in Afghanistan, or Tucson, or it's Dillinger, you're going to get it. It's almost foolproof."

Today, at 58, Duncan's professional treasures are his capital investment: four Leicas custom built for him about 1954. He uses them for compact, fast-action situations, and says that in combat he wears two of them "crossed, bandolier-style across my chest, one with a normal telephoto lens, one with a wide angle."

His work as a Life Magazine and war photographer notwithstanding, almost all of his life since 1956 has in some way been tied to Picasso, whose work revolutionized 20th Century art.

There have been three books: "The Private World of Pablo Picasso," "Picasso's Picasso" and the latest, "Goodbye Picasso."

Duncan has never painted himself. "I've always said I've a friend who is the best painter of this century, the most provocative, the most revolutionary, and the dearest guy."

Picasso is dead. Duncan says he thought that the old man would live forever.

Boycott Move Is Pushed Suicide Note Likely To Result In Probe

ST. JAMES, La. (AP) — A newspaper ad urging Louisiana shoppers to boycott high-priced sugar twanged a lot of sensitive nerves down here where they remember the "Dance of the Millions."

"They'll think twice before they do something like that again," F.A. Graugnard Jr., president of the St. James Sugar Cooperative Inc. said Friday.

He helped mobilize the protest to National Supermarkets, Inc., which ran the ad. But it would be difficult to fight many similar messages from alarmed customers across the nation.

They range from other supermarket chains to individuals like Mayor Nicholas Panuzio of Bridgeport, Conn., who came up with a T-shirt emblazoned, "Revenge is Sweet, Boycott Sugar."

In Washington Monday, sugar prices come under scrutiny by the federal Council on Wage and Price Stability.

In some instances, price hikes by separate companies have been for identical amounts on the same day, exciting suspicions of illegal price fixing.

Sugar prices move up so often lately some supermarkets, rather than stamp a price on the sugar sack, post it on a blackboard and keep chalk and eraser handy.

In southern Louisiana, where big cane trucks crowd the roads and sand-colored raw sugar piles high in the warehouses, this harvest marks the biggest boom since 1919, when demand soared after World War I.

"That was the time called the 'Dance of the Millions' and sugar went from 22 to 24 cents a pound—and then the next year it was back to 3 cents," said Graugnard.

There were hard dollars and low taxes then. Calculated on relative buying power, the 1919 price had almost as much impact in its day as today's price, which hovers around 64.4 cents a pound on the spot market.

There is little "free" sugar in Louisiana for the spot market. Most of it already is under contract, with the price based on a world average over a period of months.

"Right now it's averaging $44 a hundred," said Graugnard.

"Here at the sugar grower level, we are unable to influence market prices," he added. "But we watch the market—and we're smiling."

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A suicide note left by a top executive has thrown Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. into a court case which may examine charges of corporate-political entanglement in a state that does not have a utility regulations commission.

"Watergate is a gnat compared to the Bell system," T.O. Gravitt, 51, said in a handwritten suicide note he left Oct. 17 shortly before he died of carbon monoxide poisoning in the garage of his $115,000 Dallas home.

Gravitt, a fast-rising star in the Bell system, was Bell's vice president for Texas at the time of his death. He reportedly also left two additional notes to his family outlining steps to follow in the event of a suit against Bell.

When Gravitt died, Southwestern Bell was conducting an internal audit that, officials said, uncovered some irregularities in Gravitt's area of responsibility.

The suicide note was found by two Bell executives going through Gravitt's desk at his home shortly after his death. The note was given to Gravitt's son.

Gravitt listed names, dates and places of what he said were Bell improprieties in political activities and in personal use of company property by Bell VIPs. His family said in the suit Gravitt was hounded to death by Bell as he and James Ashley resisted "corporate rapacities."

Gravitt's family and Ashley are plaintiffs in a $29 million libel and defamation suit against Southwestern Bell. Ashley was fired during the internal audit from his $60,000-a-year job as commercial manager for Bell in the San Antonio area.

The first hearing in the suit is scheduled for Monday when the plaintiffs will ask the court to allow depositions to be taken from 17 top Southwestern Bell officials, including one in the headquarters of the company's parent firm, American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Ashley and Gravitt's family have asked the court to restrain Southwestern Bell from destroying specified records and documents that might support their case.

The company has denied all charges and said Ashley was fired for misconduct, but declined to elaborate.

Sources, however, said here this week that Ashley has tape recordings of conversations of two company executives which reportedly confirm Gravitt's allegations of corporate-political ties.

The recordings, the sources said, describe subterfuges used by the corporation as political conduits, including inflated across the state. Southwestern Bell's president, Zane Barnes of St. Louis, said the company's "rate applications in Texas are filed in accordance with state laws that provide a fair value basis for rate making."

(AP WIREPHOTO)
T. O. GRAVITT

A consultant to a legislative study group, Jack Hopper of Austin, called the statement "a bunch of fog" and said there are no laws in Texas that set a "fair value basis."

Sources said some of the notes left by Gravitt and the tapes in Ashley's possession indicate possible invasion of privacy by the large corporation.

Gravitt's suicide note claimed the company's security men, who are mostly ex-FBI agents try to make a case of alleged sexual promiscuity against him.

Ashley expanded on the suit's allegations of deceitful and unfair rate-setting practices, claiming the company, in effect, keeps two sets of books and juggles the figures in one set to argue their rate requests before Texas city councils.

Ashley's charges have spurred some legislative proponents of utility regulations into action and a state senator already has pledged to have his committee investigate state utilities.

At the same time a number of city councils throughout the state have announced they will delay any discussions of rate increase requests by Bell until the lawsuit is decided.

For years lobbying by Southwestern Bell, the largest single telephone company in the nation, has turned back efforts for a state commission that would set rates for phone service

Less Oil Due From Canada

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada has announced plans to reduce oil exports to the United States next year by up to 28 per cent and completely eliminate them by 1982.

The plan was announced in a Friday night address to Parliament by Energy Minister Donald Macdonald. Macdonald said the 900,000 barrels a day now being exported to the United States — about 15 per cent of U.S. oil imports — would be reduced to 800,000 by Jan. 1, 1975, and be further cut to 650,000 in July if the main oil-producing provinces, Alberta and Saskatchewan, agree.

Macdonald said the immediate purpose was to arrange for sufficient oil to be shipped to eastern Canada when the country's first east-west pipeline link is completed, while the long-term objective was to avert an oil shortage predicted for the next decade.

The proposed cut to 650,000 barrels a day is tied to a government promise to pipe oil from Canada's western states to Montreal by 1976 for use in markets in the east of the country. A pipeline extension capable of carrying 250,000 barrels a day is scheduled to be built to Montreal from Sarnia, Ont., but it won't be ready before 1976.

The minister told newsmen later that if Alberta and Saskatchewan raise serious objections, the 800,000 level would be maintained throughout 1975. However, this would not affect the long-term intention of phasing out exports by 1982, the date when existing supplies of crude oil are expected to fall below domestic demand.

Macdonald said the proposal to "lock up the oil ahead of time" is primarily a political move in response to criticism over the volume of exports now going to the United States.

Eastern Canada, cut off from its country's oil by the lack of an east-west pipeline, has relied until now on imported oil, mostly from Venezuela and the Middle East.

Year May Be Recalled For Terror Epidemic

By The Associated Press
Already holding dismal records in many other respects, 1974 seems destined to enter the books as the year of the great terror epidemic.

All year long bombs have spewed sudden death among innocents. Hostages have been seized and threatened with cold-blooded murder. Quixotic rebels of all manner of political persuasion have warred on establishments.

One frightening aspect of the contagion is the tendency of extremists to imitate one another, thus making it dolefully likely that what has happened is only the beginning.

Last week brought shocking but far from untypical performances. Scores, including many teenagers, were killed or maimed in bombings in Birmingham, England. Hijackers seized an airliner in Tunis to spur the release of arrested Arab terrorists.

In Argentina, police battling extremists in an anti-terror drive left four suspected terrorists dead.

Elsewhere in Latin America, other terrorists were active, particularly in Mexico, which experienced a rash of political kidnappings.

The Dominican Republic witnessed a spectacular seizure of the Venezuelan consulate where seven hostages, including a U.S. woman diplomat, were held for 13 harrowing days and nights.

In the Orient, young Japanese have been running riot. One August day an extremist group calling itself "Red Army" killed eight persons and injured 300 more with a bomb, and it threatened more of the same.

In the Middle East, there is no letup in the deadly cycle of random and often bloody Arab terror against Israel, answered by efficient military counterterror against the Arabs.

Northern Ireland's ancient fratricidal feud grew in fury this year and many innocents died, caught between hatreds.

Once again last week, that violence spilled over into Britain, where Britons were noting that the "Irish war" had come to their shores with a vengeance and feeling ran high against the Irish.

The United States once was relatively free of such phenomena, but lately it has experienced frequent, if sporadic, terror, in the form of bombings, kidnappings, etc.

Political terror probably is as old as politics. In modern times, there is a wide variety of it, from the sort born of deep emotions and ancient conflicts to that used by states against their own peoples, as in dictatorships of the right and left.

What's behind it all? It appears that general world instability has much to do with it and there seem to be no discernible signs of cure on the horizon. Restlessness is widespread. Small wars, big feuds, ideological conflict and revolutionary ferment have made violence commonplace for many areas.

Suit Is Amended

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A suit against former officers and directors of the Home-Stake Production Co. by new officers of the Tulsa-based firm has been amended to increase claims from $11 million to $218 million.

The suit alleges that investors sank about $130 million into the tax-shelter, oil-drilling company and all but $30 million went astray.

The Securities Exchange Commission called it a classic scheme in which swindlers pay off early investors with money from more recent investors.

Chief defendant in the amended lawsuit, filed late this week in Tulsa District Court, is Robert S. Trippett, former board chairman of the company.

The original lawsuit was filed by the new directors after they took over operations in July 1973. New defendants are Trippett's three daughters, Mary Susan Trippett, Virginia S. Trippett Murphy and Constance S. Trippett, and William E. Murray, New York City attorney, and Kent M. Klineham, also of New York City.

Miles of Pipeline Being Built All Over The Face Of The Globe

HOUSTON (AP) — The energy crisis has heightened pipe line construction all over the world.

Such is the report by Pipe Line Industry magazine, which estimates worldwide construction in 1975 will total 27,353 miles, compared with 24,103 miles this year.

The estimated price tag for the 1975 projects exceeds $7 billion.

U. S. projects next year indicate more than $2.5 billion has been earmarked for the construction of 7,435 additional miles of line. An estimated $2.2 billion is being spent this year on projects totaling 6,299 miles.

Pipe Line Industry reports that current trends indicate the cumulative U.S. capital investment in pipelines could reach $78 billion by 1980.

Currently, the United States has 1,110,000 miles of line, including 175,000 for crude oil and petroleum products, 261,000 for natural gas transmission and 674,000 miles for natural gas distribution.

OVER MILLION
The magazine forecasts a 1980 total of 1,286,000 miles will include 196,000 for crude oil and products, 278,000 for natural gas transmission, and 812,000 miles for natural gas distribution.

The publication also reports worldwide annual output for construction of pipe lines and related facilities is expected to increase from this year's $6.2 billion to more than $14 billion a year by 1985.

It estimates construction outside the United States and Canada between now and 1985 will exceed 84,000 miles.

"The majority of this mileage is scheduled to be built during the next several years, and this total is only part of the mileage that will be built eventually," the magazine reports.

"In fact, new pipe line prospects are being announced so frequently it is difficult to prepare a current mileage total."

Norway has proposed building a submarine pipe line in the North Sea across the Norwegian Trench to its coast.

"This is considered feasible and could be put in operation by 1980," the magazine reports.

"Engineers claim that equipment and technology to lay pipe in sea depths of 1,000 feet and more will be available by then."

IN NORTH SEA

The annual survey also indicates at least six new gas and oil pipe lines involving about 1,500 miles will be constructed in the British sector of the North Sea by 1980, with some to be built by 1976.

"The coming years may prove that this area, extending out to and beyond the Continental Shelf, contains one of the world's largest deposits of oil and gas," the magazine reports.

"If so, the recent $2.9 billion estimate for 1974-1980 for United Kingdom oil and gas pipe line facilities may be conservative."

In what the magazine describes as one of the world's most ambitious construction projects, Italy plans to build a 1,563-mile transmission line to import gas from Algeria.

"This project will include a Mediterranean submarine section to be installed at 1,600-foot depths, more than three times deeper than any offshore pipe line laid to date," the survey report states.

"Construction is expected to take four years at a cost of $1.2 billion for the Algeria to Sicily portion alone."

Pipe Line Industry also estimates that 8,000 miles of pipe line construction are planned or proposed for Asia and the Western Pacific, 6,000 miles for Africa and the Middle East, and 9,000 miles for South America, Central America, and Mexico.

Train Hits Car, Wrong Flaps Position May Be Cause Of Crash

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Six motorists died Tuesday night when a Southern Pacific freight train hit their car in suburban Schertz, on the northeast edge of San Antonio.

Scherz police listed three of the dead as William Gardner, 54, and his son-in-law and daughter, S.Sgt. Ronald Vadnais, 25, and Pamela Gardner Vadnais, 21, all of nearby Universal City. Vadnais was stationed here at Randolph Air Force Base.

Officers withheld the names of the other victims. Authorities reported the freight train locomotive struck the car broadside and knocked it 200 feet down the track at a Farm Road 3009 crossing.

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — The crash of the Lufthansa Boeing 747 jumbo jet at Nairobi airport Wednesday was due to faulty positioning of wing flaps, according to the airline.

The crash killed 59 passengers and crew members. Twenty of the 98 survivors were hospitalized.

Lufthansa said Friday that an investigating team found that "not all lift devices were in the usual position upon takeoff."

"While the trailing edge flaps were at their correct low-degree position as reported earlier, it has meanwhile been established that the leading edge flaps were not in the extended position after takeoff," Lufthansa said.

the aircraft got airborne after its normal takeoff run but could not develop full climb capability due to insufficient wing lift," the airline added.

The plane crashed moments after takeoff. Authoritative sources said the pilot, Capt. Christian Krack, and the co-pilot, Hans Joachim Schacke, both told investigators Friday that they had completed all the usual preflight checks and "everything was in a normal condition."

Cool In The Furnace

Between 150 and 175 young voices will blend Monday under the Scriptural admonition of "come into his presence with singing" and "make a joyful noise unto the Lord."

It's a new approach to the traditional Union Thanksgiving service and will be the presentation of Burl Red's musical, "It's Cool in the Furnace." Time is 8 p.m., Monday, and the place is the City Auditorium. Children from 10 church choirs will take part.

In addition to the young voices, there will be all sorts of animation and accompaniment including drums, percussion instruments, kazooes, etc., and a 17-piece pit orchestra under the direction of Gene Curry, who arranged all the orchestration.

Ken Sprinkle will direct the production, and John Conroy has been in charge of the dramatics. Both are from the Howard College faculty.

Red, contemporary composed, who has created such pieces as the rousing patriotic medley as the Texas Boys Choir sang here last year, has developed the drama and music around the confrontations of Daniel (Thompson) and King Nebuchadnezzar, (Kelly Draper), and the Hebrew children — Shadrack, Mescha and Abednego. Others with substantial speaking parts are Tommy Greenfield, Diana Matthews, Mike Franco and Beck Steven.

Charles Parham of the First United Methodist Church, said that the production is shaping up well with great participation and enthusiasm.

The Rev. J. B. Sharp, president of the sponsoring Howard County Ministerial Fellowship, will preside. There will be a call to worship, Scripture, hymn offering. Proceeds go to the expenses of the production, and to the Fellowship's projects, including the Bible Class.

Dod A Cold? You Can Kiss

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A researcher on the common cold says you probably won't catch one by kissing, but beware of shaking hands. And rubbing noses.

"The most important method of transmission is when the fingers become infected and go to the nose," Dr. Jack H. Schieble told a health care seminar at Alta Bates Hospital.

Dr. Schieble, a research specialist for the California Health Department, said experiments have shown kissing is not likely to transmit a cold because very few viruses remain in the mouth.

Cost Of Sugar Likely To Stay High

WINDSOR, Colo. (AP) — Sugar farmers and processors are reaping record prices and profits. At a time of spiraling costs for everything sugar men use, from pumps to po- ish, don't expect the price of the scarce sweetener to go down soon.

Relief, if it comes at all, looks months or more away, or the short term, expect till higher prices.

Increasing worldwide

demand for sugar the last several years combined in 1974 with massive sugar purchases by Arab countries and a concentration of disastrous weather that harmed sugar cane and sugar beet crops in virtually every sugar-producing country.

As clamor for sugar outpaced available stocks, the price zoomed upward in a classic example of the economic law of supply and demand at work.

NO CHANCE

The increase in costs at farm and mill indicate, however, that sugar prices won't ever return to their previous lows. If they did, producers and processors would operate at big losses — and presumably go out of business.

The price of sugar this year has more than tripled in grocery stores and for such big sugar-users as soft drink and candy manufacturers.

No softening of those prices seems likely until another cane and beet crop is planted and harvested next year — and then only if the crop is big enough to cut the demand gap.

Right now, however, sugar prices are going up so fast that, ironically, sugar at the grocery store costs less than imported raw sugar. This is because today's grocery shelf sugar was purchased days or weeks ago by refiners for processing, when the raw sugar price was lower.

So it can be sold for perhaps 55 cents a pound, while the raw product is bringing more than 60 cents a pound.

Raw sugar is a partly processed crystal product with some molasses content which is produced from the cane or beet. When refined, 108 pounds of raw sugar will produce 100 pounds of pure sugar.

The United States depends on foreign sources for more than half its sugar.

Refiners who process foreign raw sugar have had to meet worldwide competition to get their supplies, and thus have paid higher and higher prices.

The producers and processors of sugar grown in the United States, in turn, get about the same market price for their output as the foreign sellers.

The sources of sugar — beets and cane — differ in a number of ways. But similar cost pressures affect the growers of each, reducing what might have been a bonanza year for them into simply a good one.

BEST YIELD HIGH

Domestic beets yield about 30 per cent of the sugar consumed in the United States. They're grown in more than half the states, mostly in the upper Midwest, the Rocky Mountain states and the Far West.

Sugar cane is the source of about 10 per cent of the sugar consumed in this country. It's grown in Louisiana, Florida and Texas.

Manuel Pineda and Jack Boegel are typical beet growers in northern Colorado, a state which has 10 of the nation's 52 sugar beet processing mills.

Because beets should be grown on the same land only once every three or four years, each man also farms other crops such as corn, pinto beans and alfalfa. And each feeds cattle.

Each man estimates production costs for beets this year at between $500 and $550 an acre, 50 per cent higher than the previous year.

"Gasoline and diesel fuel doubled this year," said Boegel.

"When we were a quarter of the way through this year, we were already up to all of last year's fertilizer bill," said Pineda.

Boegel said tractors this year cost 35 per cent more than a year ago, and repair parts are up 55 to 60 per cent.

"And there's a parts shortage," he added. "You better have your parts ahead of time."

Pineda complained that "the government stops a wheat sale to Russia, but it takes a year to get a tractor because they're being shipped to Eastern Europe. I'd like to see the government stop the shipping of equipment and fertilizer abroad."

Although their 1974 beet crops are already harvested and delivered for processing, farmers like Pineda and Boegel won't know until nearly a year from now how much they'll be paid.

Their contract with Great Western Sugar Co., the nation's largest beet sugar processor, provides that the payment to growers will be a percentage of the price Great Western receives for the sugar made from the beet crop.

IN OCTOBER

Processing of the 1974 crop began in October and will continue for about four months. But the sugar produced will be sold until next September, when another harvest begins.

In a time of rising prices, this payment system works in the farmers' favor. Had they been paid in the autumn of 1973 for the value of their crop when it was delivered, they would have received far less than they eventually got as a result of the rising 1974 sugar price.

Thus, while sugar at the time of the 1973 harvest was selling in grocery stores for about 16 cents a pound, the beet farmers wound up getting about 15 cents per pound of sugar produced from their beets as the price escalated.

Initial payments right after the harvest are made on a basis of projected sugar prices. Subsequent payments are made during the year as the actual prices unfold.

Beet sugar companies like Great Western process the beets directly through the raw sugar stage and into refined sugar, ready for consumption.

Sugar brokers act as middlemen between the sugar company and the wholesale purchasers.

If 100 pounds of sugar were sold for $50, or 50 cents a pound, the sugar broker's commission would be about 12 cents.

Other sales costs for the sugar company — including such post-manufacture items as freight, taxes, sales staff salaries, insurance and any special packaging costs — might total $2.25 to $2.50.

If $47.50 remained from the price after deduction of these costs, about 64 per cent would go to the farmer. The sugar company would retain the rest to cover its production costs.

As the sugar moved to the retail grocery shelf, it would pick up added freight and administrative costs plus perhaps 1 per cent for the grocery's profit. It would wind up in five pound bags selling at the $2.79-$2.89 range seen on some suburban Washington, D.C., store shelves this week.

About 20 per cent of sugar is sold for direct use by consumers, while the rest is used in the manufacture of foods.

If the price stayed at the current level through the rest of the crop sales year, the farmer would get a healthy return of double his direct costs.

LOSSES CANCELED

But for diversified farmers like Pineda and Boegel, profits this year from sugar are being used to cancel losses from cattle feeding.

The Week

Also, while on the subject of promotions, the Forsan school board last week selected J. F. Poyner, high school principal for the past seven years, to be the new superintendent July 1 to succeed Herb Smith, who is retiring. Poyner was given a three-year contract.

Those who complained that the traditional Union Thanksgiving service was too traditional will find something decidedly different Monday 8 p.m. at the City Auditorium. This year 175 youngsters from 10 church choirs will present a colorful musical. It promises to be a great production.

Oilmen get some jolting news when the House ways and means committee reported a proposed tax bill which would wipe out the depletion allowance. Rep. Omar Burleson, who is on the committee and fought vigorously against it, said that when consideration first started only three members were against wiping out depletion allowance. The final vote was by only a one-vote margin, but it was a margin.

Howard College last week gave its blessing to the proposed cooperative tax appraisal pact, and the Big Spring Schools and City of Big Spring probably will follow suit this week. For the same money as has been invested, the four local agencies can have more personnel and probably better service.

The U.S. Geological Survey and U.S. Engineers are joining hands on a project to pin down the source of natural saltation on the upper Colorado River. They will do extensive qualitative gauging of the river, plus numerous test holes to the Santa Rosa, which many feel is the basic source. The long-range result could be better water for all of us.

The Howard College Hawks, who are getting a lot of pre-season experience badly needed by cause of a dearth of veterans, beat Cisco 97-94 in a cliff-hanger overtime thriller and they took Temple College 117-109 in the first round of the Odessa tournament before bowing to Odessa 123-119. They were to play Saturday evening for third place in the tourney.

Ellwood Freeman succeeded Fred Barrington as head of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce at the annual banquet last week, which celebrated the landing of the Feather Fabrics Inc. plant. This latter development simply underlines the fact that Lamesa and Dawson County, the state's top cotton producer — have a lot more than just agriculture going for them.

Final statistics are out on the football season and the Steers finished fifth in offense and last in defense. They had several leaders in pass receptions, and Doug Robinson might have won the punting averages (he had a 38.7-yd average) had not one been blocked in the final game here.

Newest business in town is Western Kawasaki, operated by Jerry Reid and located in the completely remodeled and renovated Homan building at Third and Scurry.

From the notebook: The House appropriations committee last week included $1,929,000 for Webb AFB in the new military construction bill voted for House consideration.

Firmer Food Stand Taken

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of American religious leaders has launched a national campaign to force the Ford administration to agree by Thanksgiving Day to a major increase in world food aid.
Although President Ford recently turned down a request from the U.S. delegation to the World Food Conference for an immediate increase of one million tons of food for needy nations, these religious leaders say the American people want to do more.
"I believe public support for a decision to feed the world hungry is widespread and broadly based among the American people," said Terence Cardinal Cooke.

Roman Catholic archbishop of New York and one of the leaders of the movement.
The leaders, who include Protestants and Jews, want President Ford to announce by Thanksgiving an increase of two million tons in U.S. food aid and to agree to another two million tons of next year.
They are supported by the League of Women Voters, the National Farmers Union, the United Presbyterian Church, the National Education Association and a large number of other groups and individuals.
Estimates of the number of people in the world suffering from severe malnutrition and starvation vary.

ARRESTED IN CONNECTION WITH SLAYING — Tommie Lee Case, 35, was arrested Friday night by police in Bossier City, La., after being charged earlier in the day with the slaying of a Dallas, Tex., youth, the kidnapping of the youth's girl friend and robbery. Case, a former Texas convict, had been the object of a five-state bulletin issued earlier by Texas authorities. Case was listed as a prime suspect in the killing of Tom Turner, 19, at Padre Island last Sunday and the abduction of Frances Gardner.

Holiday Toll May Decrease

CHICAGO (AP) — A general tightening of the belt because of the economy may reduce long range highway travel during the Thanksgiving holiday period and help lower the traffic death toll, the National Safety Council predicted Saturday.
The council's forecast of 525 to 625 traffic fatalities is its lowest in the six years it has been making such forecasts for Thanksgiving.
The holiday period begins at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday.
Higher costs of travel and enforcement of the 55 mile-an-hour speed limit are factors in the projection which also includes 23,000 to 27,000 disabling injuries during the holiday span.
For the 1973 Thanksgiving period, the council projected 625 to 725 fatalities and 27,000 to 32,000 disabling injuries.
The 1973 toll, however, proved well below the estimate. According to the council, 542 deaths and 23,000 disabling injuries were recorded a year ago.
A spokesman said this reflected the onset of the nation's energy crunch which included gasoline shortages. The 55 m.p.h. speed limit did not become federal law until this spring.
The council said last year's Thanksgiving experience, as well as lower traffic fatality trends in the first nine months of this year helped form the 1974 projection.

Udall Says He'll Be In President's Race

BEDFORD, N.H. (AP) — Telling Democrats to unify or face defeat in 1976, Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., became Saturday the first Democratic candidate to announce officially for his party's presidential nomination.
"There's a name for a political party that can't get together, and that name is losers," Udall, 52, said at a news conference in this Manchester suburb.
The liberal congressman also said he would enter New Hampshire's earliest-in-the-nation presidential primary in March 1976. President Ford has said he would seek the Republican nomination.
Udall said Democrats must deal with inflation and appeal to all segments of the American population in all regions of the nation if they hope to regain the White House.

He said his party is made up of a nearly equal mix of conservatives, liberals and undecided voters.
"That's the opportunity for our party — that we can't get leaders who can bridge those divisions and put this majority party into a majority on election day," he said.
Udall has been in the House since 1961.
Other potential Democratic candidates who recently visited New Hampshire to test their presidential ambitions include Sens. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas, former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia and Boston Mayor Kevin White.

Udall said the large field of possible candidates already lining up for the nomination was a hopeful sign because it would offer voters a wide choice.
"I really have to get known. The fact is that unless I can demonstrate broad appeal in every section of this country... I don't think the nomination is going to do me much good or anyone else much good," he said.
Udall said he would not pursue a national strategy because he did not think it was "humanly or financially possible" to enter every state primary.
"But I think I owe it to the electorate to enter a fair cross section of the primaries," he said.
Democrats in New Hampshire will "have a special obligation to act as surrogates for the rest of the party membership — as a national nominating committee," he said.

Udall, known as an environmentalist, said the next decade would be dominated "by what I call the three E's — environment, economy and energy. They're like a pretzel, you can't pull them apart."
"The monkey is on the back of the Democrats" to produce some economic solutions before the 1976 election, he said.
Udall said his goal as president would be cast in the mold of Franklin D. Roosevelt who dealt with the Depression and rebuilt the economy in the 1930s.

Bears' Bowl Dreams Remain Alive, 31-14

DALLAS (AP) — Baylor's stubby Steve Beard churned for three touchdowns and Don Bockhorn kicked a school record 59-yard field goal Saturday to keep the Bears' Cotton Bowl dreams alive with a 31-14 Southwestern conference victory over SMU.

Ricky Wesson hit Freeman Johns on a 14-yard touch-down pass with 16 seconds left and the Bears held a shaky 14-7 halftime lead. Just as the momentum in the game appeared to turn around in SMU's direction, Bockhorn kicked his prodigious field goal which rode a 17-mile an hour wind just over the crossbar.

Baylor made it 24-7 late in the third period on Pat McNeil's eight-yard run. The Mustangs took advantage of a poor Baylor punt and drove 43 yards for a touchdown climaxed by Wayne Morris' one-yard run.

Table with 2 columns: Baylor, SMU. Rows: Firstdowns, Rushes-yards, Passing-yards, Return-yards, Passes, Punts, Fumbles-lost, Penalties-yards.

American Airlines, which features the NFL Game of the Week on its transcontinental flights, will do some old-fashioned advertising over four NFL games on the East Coast today.

American has employed a skywriter to fly over four stadiums where the following games are being played: Miami at NY Jets, New England at Baltimore, Philadelphia at Washington, and St. Louis at NY Giants. The message will be "Fly American. See NFL Game of the Week."

The Punt, Pass & Kick competition sponsored by the Ford Dealers of America in cooperation with the NFL, had over 2,000 girls among the more than one million youngsters who registered this year.

Area champions are being determined in all 25 NFL franchise cities, with the survivors advancing to the conference finals at Pittsburgh on Dec. 14 for the AFC and at Washington on Dec. 15 for the NFC.

The national champions will be crowned at the NFC Championship Game on Sunday, Dec. 29 at the site to be determined. When Kansas City (42) and Denver (34) put together 76 points in last Monday night's game in Mile High Stadium in Denver, it was the highest scoring battle of the season and the highest ever on the Monday night series that started in 1970 on a regular basis.

Denver set an NFL record with 25 first downs passing in the Monday game with Kansas City. The old high was 24 by Houston in 1964 and Minnesota in 1969. The Broncos and Chiefs tied another NFL record with a combined total of 58 first downs, set Oct. 24, 1954 by Los Angeles (30) and Chicago Bears (28). The Broncos had 34, the Chiefs 24.

When asked about the show, Kyle replied, "The show is a little different... it's sports news with a purpose, a more or less in-depth report of sports of the week.

The sports show is presently programmed for 13 weeks and will be sponsored by the Texas Ford Dealers.

In the Cisco clash, Howard College trailed at half time, 36-35. The score was tied with five minutes left in the game. Marvin Johnson hit three jump shots and the Hawks took the lead for good.

Johnson was high-point man of the game, netting 27 points. David Giles and Johnny Harris trailed teammate Johnson in the scoring department, banking in 16 and 14 points respectively. Cisco's Robert Daniels recorded 18 points.

DALLAS AT HOUSTON

Cards Lead East By 1

By The Associated Press. If St. Louis Cardinals quarterback Jim Hart looks over his shoulder Sunday, he'll see more than the New York Giants' defensive line rushing in.

The Cardinals lead the National Football League's Eastern Division by one game over the Washington Redskins.

On Sunday, St. Louis travels to New Haven, Conn., to take on the Giants while Washington is at home against the Philadelphia Eagles.

St. Louis has already won eight games, the most since 1968 when they captured nine NFL contests. The Cards knocked off Philadelphia last week to halt a two-game skid.

The Giants have become tougher lately, but suffered two close losses in their last outings. Last week, New York was edged by Detroit 20-19 on a field goal in the final two seconds. In other NFL games Sunday, Buffalo is at Cleveland, Denver travels to Oakland, Kansas City goes to Cincinnati, Miami takes on the New York Jets, New England meets Baltimore, Atlanta is at San Francisco, Chicago is at Detroit, Minnesota meets Los Angeles, Dallas is at Houston and San Diego travels to Green Bay.

Pittsburgh clashes with New Orleans in the nationally-televised Monday night game. Washington has captured its last three outings and six of its last seven games. Right now, the Redskins have a two-game advantage over Dallas, Detroit and Green Bay for the NFL "wild card" spot in the playoffs.

Only Oakland has sewed up a divisional championship, clinching its third consecutive American Conference West crown last week. The Raiders own the best record in the league, 9-1, while Denver is 4-5-1.

The winner of the Minnesota-Los Angeles collision will move a step closer to a post-season spot. The Vikings can clinch the NFC Central title if they win and Detroit and Green Bay both lose.

BEARS SCORE — Baylor University tailback Steve Beard (24) carries through the Southern Methodist University line from the 7-yard line to score in second period of SWC game in the Cotton Bowl Saturday. Trying to make the step is SMU's safety Mickey Early (42).

THE WINNER — Baylor coach Grant Teaff is being carried by his players following the Bears win over SMU in Dallas Saturday. The Players are Steve Beard (24) and linebacker Darrel Luce (46).

'Hogs Spike Tech's Holiday Invitation

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Ike Forte spiked Texas Tech's holiday Peach Bowl with a heavy dose of bitters Saturday as he led Arkansas to an uphill 21-13 Southwest Conference victory over the fumbling Red Raiders.

Forte romped 17 and 9 yards for touchdowns in the final period as the Razorbacks, concluding their own season of frustrations, stung Tech with its first hometown loss in two years.

Field goals of 47 and 32 yards by Steve Little kept the Raiders off balance most of the sunny, windswept afternoon and Forte supplied the coup de grace in the closing minutes. The Raiders, now 6-4-1 and 3-4 in SWC play, led 7-6 entering the fourth period seizing the lead temporarily in the third quarter on Billy Taylor's two yard touchdown scamper. The Raiders scored the second time on a 26 yard pass from Don Roberts to Lawrence Williams as time ran out.

The loss had no bearing on the Raiders' Dec. 28 Peach Bowl date with Vanderbilt but nonetheless stirred vigorous dismay among the partisan Tech crowd of 38,327.

Forte, a junior halfback from Texarkana, shredded the once formidable Tech defense for 215 yards on 32 trips as the Razorbacks closed their campaign with an identical 6-4-1 slate. They were 3-3-1 in conference action.

Table with 2 columns: Arkansas, Texas. Rows: Tech Firstdowns, Rushes-yards, Passing-yards, Return-yards, Passes, Punts, Fumbles-lost.

North Carolina State, the new bully on the block, is the No. 1 college basketball team in the nation in The Associated Press' annual pre-season poll.

The Wolfpack, conquerer of longtime kingpin UCLA in last year's NCAA championship round, scored 934 points with the help of 33 first-place ballots from sports writers and broadcasters around the country.

UCLA, which won the NCAA championship seven straight years before getting knocked out by North Carolina State in the semifinals in March, was picked as the country's No. 2 team by the voters. The Bruins got 13 ballots for first place and 878 points.

Indiana, which shared the Big Ten title with Michigan and lost a playoff game to the Wolverines for a berth in the NCAA championships, was in third place, well back with 663 points.

Maryland, which lost to North Carolina State in a drama-filled playoff for the Atlantic Coast Conference title, was given two votes for first place and selected as the country's No. 4 team.

'Dogs Nip Steers

PLAINVIEW — Big Spring High played a see-sawed battle with Plainview here Saturday night but the Steers lost out, 50-47.

The Steers led almost the entire first quarter. Plainview assumed the lead late in the second period though the score was tied at half time, 28-28.

The lead changed hands repeatedly in the third, with neither team holding no more than a two point advantage.

Plainview grabbed a 39-27 lead as the fourth quarter clock ticked off. The home five moved ahead by five points with less than two minutes left in the game.

Robert Aldridge hit on two jump shots with less than one minute left to bring the Steers within one, 48-47.

Plainview stalled the remaining time left, when Big Spring was forced to foul Wade. Wade hit on two free throws to ice the game.

Big Spring's James Zapp paced all scorers with 15. The Steers Aldridge and Jim Ray sank 11 and 10 points respectively. Plainview's Ricky Hart totaled 14.

The Steers next game is with Snyder, there.

USC Trojans Handle Bruins

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pat Haden ran for one touchdown, passed for another and handed off to Anthony Davis, who romped 195 yards, as the Southern California Trojans hammered crosstown rival UCLA 34-9, clinching a Rose Bowl berth for the third straight year.

The eighth-ranked Trojans, nailing down their seventh Pacific-8 Conference championship in nine years, marched to scores the first three times they had the ball.

Then they put the contest out of reach 24-9 when Davis knifed eight yards up the middle to cap an 81-yard drive with the second-half kickoff.

Steers Eke By Crane

CRANE — Coach Ron Plumlee's Big Spring High cagers started off the cage season on the right foot here Friday night as the Steers nudged powerful AA Crane, 62-60.

Crane had the half time advantage, 27-20.

The Steers had a Saturday night game lined up with Plainview on the Bulldog home court.

The Golden Crane lost out in the final period from lack of steam, and inability to keep control of the ball.

Barnes' Mother Upset

NEW YORK (AP) — Marvin Barnes, the free spirit of the Spirits of St. Louis, is about to catch it from his mother and his agent.

Lula Barnes is "very upset" about his sudden departure from the American Basketball Association team. She told The Associated Press Friday night that she would have a word or two with her son and that he was heading home to Providence, R.I., for the chat.

The Spirits' $2 million bonus baby, unhappy with his contract and irked at some fines, bolted from the team Wednesday to attend a billiard tournament in Dayton, Ohio.

His mother said that Barnes left for home Friday with a stopover in New York to talk to a lawyer.

Meanwhile, Bob Woolf, an attorney who helped Barnes negotiate his contract, was perplexed and angry over the incident.

Steers Place Third

Big Spring High placed third in the 4A regional tennis tournament Saturday morning at the Figure 7 Center. The Steers topped Permian, 11-7.

Abilene High was to face cross-town rival Cooper for the championship Saturday afternoon. Both teams qualify for the state meet at San Antonio, Dec. 13-14.

Big Spring's Carolyn McKee, Linda Little, Dori Crooker, Debbie Watson, Terri Gilliland and Patti Brackett all won their double matches against Permian.

Hugh Porter and Ron Mercer won their singles matches, and Little-Crooker, Watson-Gilliland, and McKee-Brackett picked up doubles victories Saturday.

Against Abilene, Big Spring girls were the only winners. McKee, Little, Crooker, Watson and Gilliland collected singles wins, and Murphy-McKee grabbed the lone local doubles decision. Abilene won Friday's match, 12-6.

Buckeyes Apparently Earn Third Straight Bowl Trip

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A record-shattering four field goals by Czechoslovakian-born Tom Klaban lifted fourth-ranked Ohio State to a 12-10 Big Ten football victory over No. 3 Michigan Saturday, apparently earning the Buckeyes an unprecedented third straight trip to the Rose Bowl.

Michigan's Mike Lantry attempted a 33-yard field goal with 16 seconds remaining that sailed wide to the right and touched off a momentary celebration by a record Ohio State throng of more than 88,000.

LET'S GO FISHING

COLOR AND THE SENSORY SYSTEM OF FISH

Everybody has heard stories about the fish that got away, but very seldom is the story accompanied by an explanation of why.

Sometimes the fisherman never knows, but other times he soon realizes that what he had almost landed by skillfully taking advantage of the fish's scent and sound preferences was lost because the fish saw something frightening.

So the angler's problem is twofold—how to use color as an enticing lure on the one hand and how to prevent color from frightening the fish on the other.

And it's quite a problem, because it's amazing how well fish see color. In fact, some species see colors at the violet end of the spectrum that are invisible to humans. So the general rule to follow is to match color and brightness to the environment.

The big flashy lures that are so frightening in a small pond can be dazzlingly effective on a bright choppy lake. And a brown fly that blends into a murky beaver pond should be replaced by a yellow one that will beam like a beacon in fast water.

There are loads of colors from which to choose. All shades catch fish, but some are more effective than others under certain conditions.

For example, dark-colored worms work best at night and on dark, cloudy days, because they blot out more light and cast a heavier shadow than light-colored worms. Thus they are more easily seen.

The lighter colors work better in shallow water, in the early morning or late evening. However when fishing deep on bright sunny days, return to your dark colors for best results.

Color in spoons also makes a difference. Copper and brass are favored colors for stream trout, although lake trout seem to prefer bright chrome on one side and brass or copper on the other. As for jigs, although their action is more important than their color, color may spell the difference between success or failure on tough days.

Smallmouth bass and walleyes like blue, yellow and white jibs, while largemouth bass and pike prefer black. Trout on the other hand favor orange, moves there, whether bright or dull, may induce a strike. Several other things pertaining to color should be kept in mind in addition to matching lures to the environment. For example, knowledgeable fishermen are always conscious of where the sun is in relation to them, because they know fish respond favorably to a large shadow cast on the water.

To a fish that's always primed to protect itself, a shadow means a bird, an animal or a bigger fish with mayhem on its mind. The fish's natural reaction is to run for cover or head for deeper water if no cover is handy.

So if possible, approach shallow-water fish facing into the sun. If the sun must be at your back, stay low and try not to make any sudden moves.

At night, point flashlights away from the water and avoid crossing between a steady light and the water in which you are fishing.

Also, be careful about the color of your clothes. White t-shirts, for example, reflect sunlight as if they were mirrors. A less reflective shirt should be worn over them.

Sometimes the color factor can be very baffling. For example, gamefish such as bass show a greater preference for a variety of colored worms than they do for an exact copy of a nightcrawler. This makes many anglers think there is something other than color imitation that causes fish to strike.

Thus every attractive visual element comes into play. By experimenting with different lure colors, sizes, shapes and actions, you not only should get an answer to what is preferred by the fish lurking below you also should have an assortment of strikes.

Dear Virgil:
The biggest bass I have caught was about 12 inches and weighed two pounds. Could you tell me about some good bass lures?
JERRY Morris
Chatsworth, Ga.

Dear Jerry:
I find that the best all-around bass lure is a Bass Buster Beetle spin. It is available in 20 colors to suit almost any fishing condition.

Bronte Climbs In B

By The Associated Press
Top-rated Wichita Falls Rider faced a stern test in the first round of Class 4A Texas schoolboy football playoffs Saturday, taking on seventh-ranked Midland Lee in a 2 p.m. game at Wichita Falls.

Other members of The Associated Press 4A Top Ten still in the playoffs did well in bi-district play Friday night. The top game pitted No. 3 Plano and No. 5 Longview, with Plano holding that form with a 28-21 victory. Second-ranked Fort Worth Arlington Heights beat cross-town rival Eastern Hills 24-6, and No. 4 San Antonio Churchill topped San Antonio Fox Tech 35-14. No. 6 Brazosport played Austin Reagan and 10th-ranked Amarillo Palo Duro met Lubbock Monterey in bi-district games Saturday night.

In Class 3A, top-rated and defending state champion Cuero jumped a big hurdle with a 14-13 triumph over No. 5 Brazosport. Three other games paired ranked teams—as No. 8 Jacksonville blanked No. 2 Beaumont South Park 13-0, No. 3 Brownwood crushed sixth-ranked Snyder 42-0, and No. 9 Gregory-Portland ripped No. 4 Donna 41-14. Tenth-ranked Navasota meets Belton tonight at College Station.

Newton, ranked second in Class 2A, reversed form in beating No. 1 Hampshire-Fannett 14-13. Eighth-ranked Alpine outscored 10th-ranked McCamey 35-21 in another game involving Top Ten teams, while Bowie clubbed No. 3 Comanche 23-12. No. 4 Freer spanked Port Isabel 35-0. No. 5 Kennedy slashed George West 47-7. No. 6 Cameron blanked Belton 14-0 and seventh-ranked Hooks nipped Quitman 20-13.

Aledo, No. 1 in Class A, had no trouble advancing to regional playoffs as it beat China Spring 42-6. EMILE GRIFFITH LOSES Vito Antuofermo, the winner

10-ROUND DECISION Italian Beats Former Champ

NEW YORK (AP) — If attitude means anything, Vito Antuofermo is going to be a big winner in the fight game. "Before I went into the ring I had him beaten already in my mind," the 22-year-old Italian middleweight said Friday night after scoring the biggest victory of his career—a unanimous 10-round decision over Emile Griffith at Madison Square Garden.

Antuofermo's confidence got a big boost and so did his reputation in beating Griffith in the Garden.

Griffith, who claims to be 35, is a former three-time welterweight champion and twotime middleweight king. He beat highly ranked Benny Briscoe in his previous fight and he is a "Garden fighter," having won 24 of 27 matches in the famed arena.

The fight was close through the first six rounds, but then Antuofermo began taking command, getting inside and simply out-punching Griffith.

It was Antuofermo's 27th win as a pro against one loss and one draw.

Griffith's record 24th Garden main event ended in his 17th loss against 80 victories and one draw in a pro career that began in 1958. And the defeat before a crowd of 6,255, paying $56,589, has to hurt his drive for another title fight, which would be his 26th.

Griffith, who weighed 158 as did Antuofermo, is scheduled to fight Donato Paduano Dec. 10 at Montreal.

Antuofermo did not know when his next fight would be or against whom.

"If they tell me to fight the champion tomorrow, I will," he said.

Hunting Should Be Fun
LUBBOCK — Most Americans look down on the few inconsiderate game hogs that make up only a small fraction of the well-mannered, legal sportsmen that go afield each year. These individuals should be singled out and identified.

When a hunter is asked how he feels about the hunting of surplus animals and birds, he or she sometimes cannot explain hunting as a condition of instinct and emotion. Man was born a hunter, even though it is not necessary for the modern day Texas hunter to hunt for food.

As beginning hunters, we had one purpose and that was to kill game and prove our prowess.

As we grow older and gain more knowledge of the game we pursue, and harvest, a change occurs that may not be noticeable. The hunter gains a strong respect for the creatures he bags.

Only after long years of varying experience in the out-of-doors will a hunter acquire this respect, and this is the hunter's greatest reward.

The manner in which a hunter conducts himself is the best indication to a hunting companion or an observant landowner whether they consider him safe to be near.

Many hunters go into the field by themselves. But, some sportsmen consider a hunting friend an important element of the successful hunt.

Hunting is for fun, and this is impossible if your companion hogs the shots, is dangerous or selfish.

Choose your companion with care and match your interests, stamina and determination with this companion. Some men do most of their hunting in a cafe, and some keep on the trail from sunup to sunset.

Competition between hunters or fishermen is not good if game is hogged or wounded because of a careless snap shot.

A real hunting companion is one who shares the experiences of the field, and helps with the camp chores without being asked. A man is lucky to find this kind of friend. He's the one you will want to ride the trail with in the coming seasons.

College Requests Drop Out
DENTON, Tex. (AP) — North Texas State University regents faced a request Friday to withdraw the school's athletic teams from the Missouri Valley Conference.

Faculty athletic committee members voted unanimously Thursday to withdraw from the conference effective next Aug. 31.

The recommendation went to university President C.C. Nolen, who was to forward it to regents at their meeting here today.

Athletic Director and head football coach Hayden Fry recommended dropping out of the conference, saying it would help NTSU's recruiting program. He refused further comment until after the regents meet.

"We are not wedded to independent status for an indefinite length of time," Dr. William A. Miller, faculty committee chairman said.

He said Fry would be authorized to explore future conference possibilities.

North Texas has played Missouri Valley Conference football for 16 seasons, joining in 1956. NTSU began championship competition with 1957 spring sports.

COAHOMA — Height and experience proved the key factor here Friday night as Coahoma whalloped Forsan 81-22.

This was the Bulldogs second win in a row. Coahoma opened the season Thursday with a 100-62 victory over Westbrook.

Jody Bennett, Don Kelson, Keith Stone and Bill Jennings sparked Coahoma floor play.

Bad passes coupled with inability to hit on clutch shots kept the Buffs from keeping up with Coahoma.

Bennett was Coahoma's high pointer with 21 points. Stone followed teammate Bennett in the scoring department,acking 11.

Three Star Rookies Turn In Sun Suits
By The Associated Press
World Football League owners, bloodied but unbowed by recent reversals, meet again today in Memphis in an effort to bring order out of the chaos that has marked the league's first season.

"There's nothing wrong with the WFL, that strong ownership won't cure," said Memphis owner John Bassett, chairman of the executive committee. "I am quite confident we're going to have a league in 1975."

Today's session will be devoted to meeting with potential new investors.

Bassett said, however, that there will be no announcements of new owners until after the first of the year.

Friday, Christopher Hemmeter, a real estate developer and co-owner of the Hawaiians, was named president of the WFL. He succeeds Don Regan who succeeded league founder Gary Davidson last month.

Bassett also announced that a new commissioner would be named early next year, that the league would shift its offices from California to New York next year and that the WFL could have from eight to 16 teams next season.

Bassett denied rumors that Arab oil money was behind the new funding of the debt-ridden Florida Blazers.

"It's good, solid money from American banks," said Bassett. "There are no camels parked at the front door."

In Orlando, Fla., Robert Prentice, who put up $1.5 million as a down payment for the Florida team Wednesday, said he decided to get involved with the WFL when his wife urged him to "get involved in something daring."

Prentice name was promptly added to a lawsuit filed by attorneys for David Williams Jr., a reclusive Orlando millionaire who has invested $1 million in the club and wants to block the sale.

In Portland, developer Bob Harris said he and 10 other Canadian investors were withdrawing their support of the Portland Storm. Harris said ownership of the team would revert to Californian Bruce Gelker.

Portland has reportedly run up $2 million in debts, which include bills, taxes and back salaries. The Internal Revenue Service has filed a lien against the club for $168,000. The IRS also has liens against Birmingham for $237,000, Americans' owner Bill Putnam for an additional $160,000, and against Jacksonville for $105,551.

Meanwhile in Anaheim, three star rookies have deserted the Southern California Sun, claiming to be free agents.

Sale Price Of Blazers Kept Quiet
ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—The purchase of the World Football League Florida Blazers for $1.5 million-plus represents only a small part of a $100 million investment undertaking, says the head of a mysterious syndicate which saved the franchise from bankruptcy.

Robert D. Prentice, 58, a Cape Canaveral financier, made the cryptic disclosure Thursday night after delivering a check for $1.5 million as a down payment on the purchase of the Blazers.

Prentice refused to disclose the total sale price or details of the investment, but ridiculed published reports that the deal was being bankrolled by Arab oil interests.

"The same one that wrote that must have written James Bond," Prentice said. "I wouldn't know an Arab if I ran into one."

Prentice said the deal was being financed through several banks, but declined to name them. "I don't know where they get their money," he said.

Bob Deutsch, Blazer managing general partner, also said the syndicate plans to make an offer to "financially stabilize" the entire WFL, but refused to elaborate.

Prentice said he and Rommie Loudd, who founded the Blazers under a limited partnership that fell apart two months ago, would hold most of the stock in the new Blazer corporation.

Ponies Win Number 2
WESTBROOK — The Sands Mustangs won their second straight game here Friday night, defeating Westbrook, 76-36.

The Ponies, who return to competition at home Monday night against Tahoka, had only one player in double figures but dominated play all the way. Frosty Floyd tossed in 32 points for the Cayuses.

In the girls' game, Sands prevailed, 68-31. Ann Nichols tallied 18 points and Connie Hughes 17 for the Ponies. The Sands feds took part in a basketball clinic at Alpine Saturday.

The Sands boys' B team also won, 76-41. Martin Nichols paced the visitors with 19 points while Stan Feaster accounted for 16.

Boys' game: SANDS 76-31; Floyd 14-4-32; Rodriguez 3-0-6; Anderson 3-0-6; Roodie 2-0-4; Bodine 0-4-4; Zant 2-2-2; Corda 2-2-4; Kenner 2-3-7; Grigg 2-5-4; Dyer 0-1-1; Totals 30-15-76.

Sports In Brief

VANCOUVER (AP)—The 1975 Grey Cup game will be played Sunday, Nov. 23 in Calgary, the Canadian Football League decided Friday.

Jack Gaudaur, commissioner of the CFL, said the date for the championship game was set during a meeting of owners. He added that both Toronto and Montreal have bid for the 1976 game, but a decision on that game won't be reached until the league's annual meeting next February in Toronto.

Deprogramming Didn't Help, Family Still Lost Its Son

BETHEL, Conn. (AP) — A week after Derek Neve abruptly joined a secretive religious sect called the Children of God, his parents were startled by the suggestion of a senior Canadian police officer: "If I were you, I'd knock him on the head, bundle him in your car and take him home."

Three years later they did just that. But even that didn't work.

In the intervening years Brenda and David Neve said they used tears, angry words and hours of patient argument to change their son's mind.

They flew in an evangelical preacher from Texas to reason with him. They brought in a Roman Catholic priest who specialized in exorcism.

When his parents tried to remonstrate, to seek an explanation, they said Derek slammed the phone down.

That was the first of a series of shocks. And the Neves were ill-prepared. They had raised three children in the Canadian arctic where Neve worked as a government administrator after migrating from England in 1957.

Derek went to grade school in places like Great Whale, Yellowknife and Annavik, remote settlements at the edge of the Arctic Ocean where he was one of a handful of white kids among scores of Eskimos and Indians.

"I couldn't answer the question that if the Children of God has a worthy movement, how come it hurt my parents so much?"

It was after Derek's attempt to have his sister Wendy join the sect that her parents said they began feeling serious concern.

FALSE IDEA

At first, they thought the Children of God was just a youthful, rigidly fundamentalist group of Christians who were disillusioned with the world and sought isolation in communes.

But as the Neves acquired more literature and information about the movement, they said a seamy side appeared. Through a national organization called "The Parents Committee to Free our Sons and Daughters from the Children of God" (FREECOG), they learned about the "No" letters written by the man who founded the section 1968, David Moses Berg.

These rambling letters written from Europe, where Berg is in hiding, give the movement guidance on everything from international politics to sex. They are spiced with four letter words, sexual instructions and crude line drawings. The New York attorney general's report interpreted the "No" letters as advocating incestuous behavior and the nonsanctity of marriage and family.

This reporter phoned Derek at his commune in London, Ontario, to get his comments. A man who identified himself as Derek said that a "general statement" on what he called "press misrepresentation" of the sect would be issued soon. Then he hung up.

Increasingly concerned about their son, the Neves flew in to Toronto the Rev. Buddy Hicks, a Texas preacher who had worked with young sect members. A Roman Catholic priest, a specialist in exorcism, also talked with their son. He said he could do nothing.

So Neve decided that force was necessary to remove his son from the sect.

KIDNAPPING SET

They said they finally decided to kidnap Derek, and to hand him over to a team of professional "deprogrammers" flown in from San Diego, Calif., to do overnight what they had failed to do in four years.

"It was a cold, calculating thing I was doing. I was going 100 per cent against what I always thought was right. And it was probably illegal," said the father, David C. Neve, general manager of an electronics company with a factory here.

His 25-year-old son was furious. "You've gone too far this time, Dad," his father quoted him as saying after the first few hours of captivity. Ten days later Derek was back with the Children of God, his parents' expenditure of heavy emotional stress — and $2,600 — all in vain.

The frustration that pushed the Neves toward direct action has gripped thousands of other parents in America. Their sons and daughters have helped swell the ranks of the proliferating religious sects spawned by the hippie and Jesus movements of the 1960s.

Some parents have resigned themselves to the aberrant way of life of the youngsters.

Others fight back. The most visible battle is against the Children of God, with more than 100 communes in North America and Europe. It is a fundamentalist sect which applies a sexual as well as a spiritual interpretation to the Bible.

According to a recent report by the New York attorney general's office, the sect has changed "from a religious hippie-oriented group to a cult subservient to the whims and desires of its leaders."

The report outlined what it called "shocking testimony of sexual abuse, rape, brainwashing, solitary confinement of recalcitrant proselytes and demands that children kill their parents."

But the report said the attorney general could take no direct action because the Children of God has an "outwardly religious appearance" giving it First Amendment protection.

OFFICE CHARGED

A leader at the sect's Dallas headquarters, Cornelius Copp, charged that the attorney general's report relied "on false witnesses to vilify us" and resulted from religious intolerance.

"The accounts contained in the report of incest, rape, sexual promiscuity and cultish behaviour, while sensational and lurid, are simply false. We deny them," Copp said.

The Neves had never heard of the Children of God when the phone rang at 2 one morning in 1971. It was Derek, their eldest son. They said he calmly told Neve said he decided that his son had become involved with something evil. "I wouldn't say he was possessed by a demon. Oppressed by a demon is more like it."

The parents said they thought their son was undergoing a Jekyll and Hyde transformation. "He had been a trim 6-foot-3, with neatly clipped dark hair when he entered the Children of God. But since then we have seen him always in dirty, tattered clothes, bearded and with unkempt scraggly hair," Mrs. Neve said.

And they felt he abused his sister Wendy's trust by attempting to have her join his sect. "My parents asked him to leave me alone, but he wrote me convincing letters, and in a visit home at Christmas, 1972, he won me over," Wendy said in an interview.

Her parents told Wendy: "You're 21, you know what you're doing. But you are breaking our hearts." Wendy changed her mind in the end, "because

Dollar Paid For Meat Stretched Many Ways

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The dollar you plunk down at the meat counter is being stretched almost as many ways as the family budget these days. The biggest chunk goes for the cost of the meat itself and the next largest portion pays the wages of the butcher and other employees.

Supermarkets traditionally have claimed they lost money — or made very little — on meat departments. But they refused to release specific figures.

Now, under pressure from government officials and consumers who want to know why farmers are getting paid less while retail prices are going up, the stores have agreed to disclose some figures to back up their claim of low profits.

A spokesman for Jewel Supermarkets, a Midwestern chain which says it lost $5 million on $95 million in meat sales during the first nine months of 1974, provided The Associated Press with a breakdown of where the consumer's meat dollar actually goes.

For every dollar you spend on meat, the spokesman said, Jewel pays out: 81.7 cents to the wholesaler for the meat; 12.4 cents to store employees; 1.6 cents for employee fringe benefits including health, accident and life insurance and payroll taxes; 1.6 cents for wrapping and packing; 3.8 cents for rent, depreciation and interest; 1.2 cents for advertising; .8 cents for warehouse and transportation costs; 1 cent for remodeling, repairs, property tax and insurance; and 1.6 cents for all other costs.

That adds up to $1.057, the spokesman said, and shows that for every dollar you spend on meat, Jewel is losing almost six cents.

Comparable figures for 1973 were not available.

Other supermarket sources, while declining to release specific dollars and cents breakdowns for meat department expenses, said that labor costs went up 18.4 per cent over the past year, light and power 38.6 per cent, paper bags 31.5 per cent, interest rates 55 per cent and laundry costs 40 per cent.

A recent Cornell University survey showed that supermarket expenses in fiscal 1973-74 actually represented a smaller percentage of sales than they did in fiscal 1972-73. Gross margin — the difference between the amount the stores took in and the amount they spent on merchandise, expressed as a per cent of sales — also declined.

The government, however, says retailers are getting a bigger chunk of your money than they used to.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says the average price of a pound of beef during the week ended Nov. 2 was $1.358 — just about the same as it was at the start of a meat boycott in April 1973. The USDA says the farmer is getting almost 7 per cent less than he did in April 1973.

Crafts Sale Slated Dec. 7

Arts and craft enthusiasts can take advantage of the "Christmas Barn" Arts and Craft Fair and sale Dec. 7 and 8 at the new Fair building in Big Spring.

This event is sponsored by Howard County 4-H Clubs.

Booth rentals are now being accepted at the Howard County extension office in the courthouse (phone 267-6671) on a first-come, first-served basis.

Any type of art or craft is eligible. However, all items must be handcrafted. Individuals who are involved in any type of art or handcraft are encouraged to participate.

Club officials said this will be a good Christmas shopping opportunity for the public.

Other events will be a cake walk Saturday (4-7 p.m.) Sunday (2-4 p.m.) There will also be a concession stand — popcorn, candy, sandwiches, cokes. All proceeds go to the Howard County 4-H Clubs.

President of the Howard County 4-H Adult Leaders Association which is providing leadership, is Ovis James, who is general chairman of this event. Working with him are Mrs. Raymond Phillips, Mrs. Charles Arbuckle, Mrs. Bruce Parker, Mrs. Woodie Long, Mrs. Delmar Hartin, Mrs. Millard Saunders, Mr and Mrs. Lee Freeze, Mrs. Dois Ray, Mrs. Cromwell Rhoad, Mrs. Bruce Griffith, Mrs. Don Hale, Mrs. Ovis James, Mrs. Floyd Earls and Mrs. Dick Nichols, also all 4-H members.

Spiro Agnew Is In Chips But He's Still Unhappy

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is reportedly making $100,000 a year from one business venture and might have another six-figure income from commissions, but he is still unhappy over Watergate.

"I'm bitter," Agnew is quoted as saying in the December issue of McCall's magazine.

"I'll never get over the distortions and inaccuracies in the press. I don't like 90 per cent of the press. I don't need the press," Agnew adds in the article.

Following his conviction on a tax evasion charge and resignation as vice president, Agnew began a career as a business broker. Now he "could be well on his way to becoming a millionaire," says Nick Timmesch, author of the article.

According to the magazine story:

—Agnew has used an unspecified advance on an uncompleted novel to finance Pathlite Inc., a land-owning, managing and consulting firm.

—He also has a four-year contract with Midwest land developer Walter Dilbeck that pays $100,000 annually, plus one third of profits.

DEPRESSION ART 'FOUND' Public Offered Art Prints

Imagine, if you can, finding several thousand sets of antique prints of the world's greatest paintings that were lost for more than 35 years! It actually happened . . . and this is the true story of the discovery of that lost treasure.

Eleanor Roosevelt
Back in 1937, immediately following the depression years, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and a select group of a dozen nationally prominent people formed a voluntary national committee for art appreciation to create an art program that would give the public a well-needed moral lift. It was the committee's decision to select the world's most famous paintings from the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, and 20th centuries — the best paintings of Matisse, Van Gogh, Renoir, Picasso, Gauguin, Titian, etc., and to reproduce them in full color as perfectly as humanly possible and make them available to the public at a price within the reach of nearly everyone.

Abandoned In 1937
For some unknown reason, after a quantity of these beautiful reproductions were made, the entire project was abandoned and this collection of perfect reproductions was stored in a Brooklyn warehouse, where they remained undisturbed since 1937.

Through a series of rare coincidences, the lost collection was "rediscovered" and leading lithographers and art critics agreed that the subject matter and quality of detail and color reproduction was incredibly accurate. Over $500,000.00 was spent to make finely engraved glass printing plates. It would be impossible to reproduce prints such as these under existing methods, and for that reason these prints are literally collector's items. Once they have been sold, there will be no more available. A truly excellent art "investment" that makes a fabulous gift.

Available to Public
These authentic original 1937 prints have been appraised by the American Appraisers' Assoc. at $7.00 each print. Now, these full color 11"x14" prints are finally available to the public at $19.95 for a collection of 18 prints. Send cash, check or money order to: U.S. Surplus, Dept. C85, P.O. Box 605, Tarzana, Calif., 91356. Fully GUARANTEED. Certificate of authenticity given with each set. Mastercard and BankAmericard OK (give card number). (ADV.)

HOWARD COLLEGE: Project Re-Entry

By JO BRIGHT

"If anyone still doubts that there is a 'changing woman' in America, a look at the enrollment figures in colleges and universities can be eye-opening."

That, and similar statements are being made by educators all over the nation as women students are returning to campuses after educational moratoriums during which they assumed the roles of housewives or career women.

Educational institutions have been quick to recognize the special needs of those women and are endeavoring to ease their adjustment to college life and encourage their educational goals.

Project Re-entry is to be held at Howard College Dec. 5 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the parlor of the Dora Roberts Student Center.

"Project Re-entry is designed for the mature woman interested in re-entering the educational mainstream," said Dr. Wayne Bonner, director of Guidance Services. "The program is for women who did not complete high school, high school graduates who have not taken advanced or skilled training, for women who withdrew from college and for college graduates interested in graduate school opportunities.

"Panelists will be women from the college staff and women who have re-entered the educational setting to complete the G.E.D., for special skill programs, for life enrichment and for the college degree."

Discussion will focus on the financial needs of women in education, academic response to the mature woman and traditional and non-traditional modes of education.

Registration will be held at 9 a.m., with the program to get underway at 9:30 a.m. with a welcome from Miss Anna Smith, dean of students.

"Getting It Together" is the theme of introductory remarks by Dr. Bonner, conference co-ordinator and counseling psychologist at the college.

Topics for discussion will be "Academic Response to the Mature Woman," "Financial Assistance," "Non-traditional Educational Modes," "Psychological Needs" and "Careers."

Panelists and discussion leaders, who are women staff members and students, will be Gina Allen, Johnnie Lou Avery, Mary Bailey, Shirley Callison, Mary Dudley, Joey Grathwol, Doris Huijbregtse, Ellen Keele, Loretta Mallar, Wanda Reese, Jimmie Winborn and Karen Winn.

All area women who are interested in learning how they may continue their education are invited to attend the Project Re-entry seminar. Further information may be obtained by contacting the college.

MATURE WOMEN, all of whom are wives and mothers, will be panelists for the upcoming Project Re-entry at Howard College. Participants will include these four, all currently enrolled at the college. From left, they are Mrs. Ellen Keele, returning to school after 26 years; Mrs. Kay Winn, enrolled after an absence of 17 years; Mrs. Shirley Callison, who has not been in school since 1953; and Mrs. Gina Allen, who is continuing her education after a postponement of 19 years.

Photos By Danny Valdes

COLLEGE STAFF members who will be discussion leaders during the Dec. 5 seminar are pictured in the Dora Roberts Student Center. From left are Miss Anna Smith, dean of students; Mrs. Mary Bailey, social studies instructor; Mrs. Doris Huijbregtse, business instructor; and Mrs. Mary Dudley, psychology instructor.

A LOVELIER YOU Beauty Aids For Girls "On The Go"

When you plan to be away from home all day and evening — working or shopping — and restaurant dining — do you wish for really effective beauty aids to perk up your appearance? There are now some good ones, especially packaged to stow in a purse or desk drawer.

For example, a leading hair spray is now contained in a "mini-sol," a major packaging breakthrough. It's a purse-size 3-4 ounce, plastic aerosol with a simplified valve that is sturdy and easy to use. To open, twist top to right and press down for a fine spray. Then you twist left and it locks back in place. No button to jam, no top to lose, no leakage.

Or how about a cream deodorant-antiperspirant on a stick for your purse? Cool, non-messy, and effective, the stick cream is a blend of emollient waxes and a high degree of aluminum chlorhydrate. The balance is exact so as to provide a soft cream that adheres to stick form. What's more, it has a fresh, long-lasting apple

Installation Of Gold Star Officer Slate

Mrs. Huey Rogers, president, and other officers of the local chapter of American Gold Star Mothers Inc. were installed Thursday morning by Mrs. Truett Thomas, state president, and Mrs. Felton Smith, installing chaplain.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. W. J. Barnes, 2206 Johnson, where a coffee hour was held prior to the business session.

Mrs. S. R. Nobles was honored for her 15-year service as hospital chairman. She reported that refreshments were served Wednesday to 77 patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

The women made plans to meet at 9 a.m., Dec. 9 at the VA Hospital to decorate the Christmas tree in the lobby.

scents like an apple on a stick. What would your reaction be to an everything-in-one cream? Impossible? No, it's not. Contained in a totable tube, applications cleanse, moisturize and soothe. Of course you follow up with your purse-kit makeup.

Whatever you long for between day and dinner to ease your feelings and appearance, the chances are it's on tap in purse-size, from foot sprays to fragrant towelettes. Naturally you tote only what you most need and can carry. But a desk drawer will hold a cosmetic department.

STRICTLY PERSONAL Everything you need to know about deodorants, antiperspirants and dipilatories is contained in my leaflet, STRICTLY PERSONAL. All doubts are cleared up about why, what, when and how to use these safeguards of femininity. For your copy, write to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin.

Will It Freeze Well? Use This Check List

By SHERRY MULLIN

(H.D. Agent)
This is the last in a series of articles on using and maintaining the home freezer. A home freezer can be a necessity or a luxury, depending on the uses made of it. Use only fresh, high-quality foods for freezing. Freezing does not improve quality.

Plan space in freezers not only to save money, but also to save time. There are many foods that can be frozen that are not commonly known. Some hints for those things that do freeze well are:

Skim off as much fat as possible from chicken or meat broth because the fat tends to become rancid.

Refreeze bakery items, if necessary. Quality changes little.

Candies, both homemade and commercial, freeze well. Wrap, box and all, in moisture-proof material. Thaw package unopened to avoid moisture condensation on candy.

Cook macaroni and spaghetti only partially when using in prepared dishes to be frozen.

For best quality, freeze meat loaves baked rather than unbaked.

Season lightly with black pepper, garlic, cloves, green peppers, pimiento, celery seasonings and imitation vanilla. These tend to increase in strength when frozen. Onion seasonings, salt and chili powder decrease in flavor.

Cooked dried beans freeze especially well. Cook them only until barely tender because freezing softens them somewhat.

Beat or stir sauces and gravies when reheating because they tend to separate when frozen.

Bake cakes, cookies, biscuits, fruit and nut breads and yeast breads before freezing. Pizza, rolls and refrigerator-type cookies can be frozen unbaked.

Use a buttercream or confectioner's sugar frosting for cakes when freezing. Here are some freezing don'ts:

Don't freeze salad greens, raw tomatoes, celery, radishes, cucumbers, apples or grapes. They become limp and watery.

Don't put potatoes in stews and soups before freezing because they become mushy and may darken. Add potatoes when ready to use. Don't freeze cake batters. Volume will be reduced in baking.

Don't freeze cream fillings or custards. They tend to separate.

Don't use excessive amounts of fat when preparing foods because fats have a tendency to separate when frozen.

'Quotable Women'

By The Associated Press Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"I'm really amazed at how well I feel. I've lost 40 pounds." Singer Beverly Sills speaking between acts at the San Francisco Opera House, where she performed less than four weeks after she underwent surgery for cancer.

"I just had a good home. But now I'm kind of lonely. This boy came along and he wanted marriage. I put all the blame on him." Wealthy Rachel Fidler, Philadelphia socialite who plans to marry a 29-year-old Welshman, her former chauffeur.

"I think there's a need for a recount. I think it's apparent there's something wrong, something's rotten in Denmark." Brothel madam Beverly Harrell, formally filing for a recount of votes cast in the state Assembly district she lost by 120 votes to her opponent.

"It didn't go well. I forgot what song was coming next. But I'll get better." Fame Fox, the Tidal Basin Bombshell, after her appearance as a stripper in a Boston theater.

"It's easy to say, 'Man, we killed them tonight.' But that statement within itself can be dangerous. You should forever stay as humble as you can possibly stay. It's the only way of insuring yourself of being able to live with the success once you get there." Singer Gladys Knight of Gladys Knight and the Pips, in a New York interview.

Wedding Performed In Lutheran Church

MRS. MICHAEL EUGENE KLOSS

Miss Lola May June became the bride of Michael Eugene Kloss in an afternoon ceremony held Saturday in Trinity Lutheran Church with the Rev. Lester M. Utz, pastor, conducting the nuptial rites. Music was by Mrs. Bernice Silen, organist, and the couple exchanged vows before an altar adorned with white vases arranged with apricot carnations and leather leaf foliage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. June, Gail Rt., Big Spring, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kloss, 4210 Muir.

Carrying a cascade of white carnations, apricot roses and English ivy tied with white satin streamers, the bride was attired in an empire wedding gown. Made of white satin, the long-sleeved gown was enhanced with a wide lace ruffle at the rounded neckline. Her waist-length veil of bridal illusion fell from a headpiece fashioned of crystal flowers and lace.

Miss Brenda Sladek, San Antonio, was the maid of honor, attired in a long-sleeved, formal gown of green and white design on an apricot background. She carried a single, long-stemmed apricot carnation with salal leaves and lily of the valley tied with satin ribbons.

BEST MAN

Howard W. Kloss served as his brother's best man, and altar tapers were lighted by Miss Ruby Jean June, sister of the bride.

Immediately after the ceremony, the couple was honored at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church where refreshments were served by Mrs. E. W. Graham and Mrs. L. L. Kaning, the latter of Snyder.

The table was covered with a white lace cloth over pink linen, and the centerpiece was an arrangement of apricot flowers.

Wood, Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hill, Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sladek, San Antonio; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Shrahak, Austin; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Osborn, Olney; Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Stork, Rockdale; and Mr. and Mrs. Tenner Lhose, Fluvanna.

Hubby Claims To Be 18 And Single

DEAR ABBY: First let me tell you that my husband is 38 and I am 36. We have been married for six years, after dating for eleven years. We wanted to be sure we were ready for marriage.

I was not snooping, because I am not that type, but before the Goodwill people took away an old trunk which had been stored in our attic for a long time, I looked through it, and came across about 200 letters, addressed to my husband in care of a post office box in a nearby town. (He has to go through that little town on his way to work.)

My curiosity got the best of me because these letters were in three different handwritings, all addressed to him in care of the same box number. Some were dated as far back as two years ago!

It seems he is corresponding with three young girls (13 and 14-year-olds) through some pen pal club. I don't know what he has written to them, but they think he is a single 18-year-old boy, interested in a romantic relationship.

He is college-educated and I only graduated from high school. He is a religious man, Abby, and respected in his community. Why would he do something like this? Is he sick? What should I do about it?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Your husband could be sick. Tell him exactly how you came upon the letters and insist that he see his doctor. His behavior is symptomatic of a serious physical (and/or mental) illness, which, if treated in time, can be helped.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to the same man for 30 years. When he picked a wife, he wanted a church-going girl who didn't drink, smoke or dance. One who was quiet, modest and not sexy.

I was that girl. I gave him two children (now 28 and 26, both married). Now my husband has decided that he no longer loves me. Instead he wants a younger woman who is sexy, can dance and "turn him on." He does not care if she smokes or drinks either.

Behind my back he had divorce papers served on me. We are both 52. He never let me work because he wanted me to stay home and be a full-time wife and mother, so I have no skills. I don't want a divorce, and am contesting it. I left my home and am living with my daughter. I attend church regularly, and I still love him regardless.

The lawyers say we could live separately and come and go as we please, but that's against my way of life. I don't believe in divorce, so what do you advise?

MARRIED FOR LIFE

Gift Shower Honor For Bride-Elect

Miss Vickie Johnson, bride-elect of Scott Medford, was the honoree at a bridal shower held recently in the home of Mrs. Garland Sanders, 1701 Johnson. There were nine hostesses.

Corsages, in pink and burgandy, were presented to Miss Johnson, her mother, Mrs. Carl Johnson of Carrollton; and her fiancé's mother, Mrs. Jimmy Medford.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a white cutwork cloth. Appointments were of crystal, and the centerpiece of pink and burgandy flowers was flanked with pink tapers.

The couple will be married Dec. 21 in the Northside Baptist Church, Carrollton.

Gifts Will Go To Patient

A basket of Thanksgiving gifts was prepared for a resident at Big Spring State Hospital when the Busy Bee Club met Thursday morning at 1005 Eleventh Place.

The club will have a Christmas party, with gift exchange, at 9:30 a.m., Dec. 3 at Coker's Restaurant, 309 Benton.

Party Slated At Nursing Homes

Plans were made for jointly sponsoring a Christmas party for nursing home residents when the American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 355, met Thursday at the Legion Hall.

The auxiliary will join other veterans organizations to sponsor Christmas parties in two local nursing homes in early December. Ollie Bransom is in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Jim Wiley reported the most successful poppy sale ever held by the auxiliary, and Mrs. Ernest Grubaugh, membership chairman, said there are now 77 members registered.

Mrs. Matthew Mooney returned to the auxiliary after several months absence due to illness. The auxiliary will conduct Bingo games Tuesday night at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Cheering Achievement

The good news is that the Howard County United Way not only attained its goal but went over it by about 4 per cent. This is impressive especially because there was some air of uncertainty due to the economic uncertainties, inflation, etc.

More than pride is wrapped up in this attainment, for the United Way is the life's blood for several agencies, and where agencies are not totally funded by UW, they are heavily dependent upon it. Hence it is reassuring that these will certainly get at least their allocations.

Another reassuring facet is that every division exceeded its goal, some by more than others — but over in every case.

An analysis of the results may reflect where more attention needs to be paid in the next campaign. For instance, the goal of employee giving was 31.22 per cent of the original goal; employee giving of the total raised and pledged was 30.9 per cent. Among public employees, the goal was 6.36 per cent of the total target; the amount raised was 7.74 per cent of the total raised. Among general private employees, the goal was 22.89 per cent of the total target; of the amount raised and pledged, it was 23.22 per cent.

From the big gifts division, the target was 36.0 per cent of the total and the amount raised was 36.17 per cent of the total given.

These reflect a comparative closeness of goals with achievements. However, when taken against the context of the total public payrolls and of the private payrolls, the percentage of investment in the United Way is only a fraction of one per cent. If we are to succeed in meeting responsibilities in the future, somehow we must get this up appreciably so that the people in general will be matching the ratio of the businesses or larger givers. Meantime, let us rejoice in what has been done and thank all who helped and who gave.

The Next Shortage

One interesting spin-off from the world food conference was a prediction that the next global crisis will be that of a water shortage. Lester Brown, a U.S. economist and advisor, predicted: "the lack of fresh water rather than of land may be the principal constraint on efforts to expand world food output."

Several under-developed nations asked for $2 to $4 billion in aid to find new sources of water or make better use of present resources. They implied affluent nations would have to get along on less water, but it abuses reason to see how this would increase water for less developed countries.

It is encouraging, however, to note a growing awareness of the water problem everywhere, and that research, development and conservation will become increasingly imperative. Our area has the land to produce vast food and fiber surpluses if only it had the water.

Barry Goldwater says our financial problems arise from the fact that we're spending money we don't have for things we don't need. Isn't that "the American way"? It certainly made us what we are today — nearly bankrupt.

MY PRICELESS cousin, Price Everett, Bridgeport, writes: "To my acrimonious comment about dishonest politicians you replied 'Maybe distrust is in the eye of the beholder.'"

If I did, I want to be the first to surrender.

A. J. VAUGHN, Sage of Scurry Street, takes a stand: "We're inclined to agree with the small boy who, upon being marched up to bed, vowed 'There is something wrong with the time system when you go to bed when you're wide awake, and get up when you're fast asleep.'"

My Answer

Billy Graham

Even though eleven years have now passed since the John Kennedy assassination, I can't help but feel the spirit of anarchy and treachery is still around. Isn't there hope for achieving a society where crimes of such violence are eliminated?

D.J.

There is hope for some day finding such a society, but it will not be anything we have achieved. It will come only in the righteous reign of Christ where the absence of evil is pictured, in the words "the wolf and the lamb will lie down together." (Isaiah 11:6)

You better get prepared for not only a continuation of crime, but an escalation of it. Recent FBI statistics bear that out. The Bible says man will get worse and worse (2 Timothy 3) as we move to the end of the age.

I wish I could tell you there was some way to escape the gathering storm, but the Bible would deny that. It says that sooner or later we must leave our dream world, and face up to the fact of God, sin and judgment.

The problem of security is becoming the number one concern among many people. It's going to add to the cost of every retail product and service, but simple survival now demands it. How it

Feed The Fire

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Herewith my long-awaited solution to the oil crisis.

First, a little perspective. As recently as 1970, producers were paying the Persian Gulf States about a dollar a barrel for oil. By 1973, before the embargo, this had risen in response to what one might call natural economic forces, to $1.75. At that point came first the embargo, then the huge administered rise — to the present level of about $9.50.

MEANWHILE, ON the home front, there is what they call "old oil," and new oil. The old oil was discovered before the embargo and the price of it was controlled at $5.25, to which it had recently risen from $4. Figure a buck to transport a barrel from the Persian Gulf to the east coast of the United States, and you note that U.S. crude was about a dollar a barrel more expensive than Persian Gulf crude before all the excitement. That differential was owing to import controls. These were justified on the grounds that for the sake of national defense, we had to encourage local production. Those controls, needless to say, have been anarchized. Now we charge a flat 18 cents per barrel on imported oil, a trifle.

It is, under the circumstances, reasonable to assume that in the absence of political manipulation, crude would be selling for about $5 a barrel. Let us accept that figure for the sake of analysis.

CONGRESS SHOULD proceed to levy a tax on imported oil as follows. For every dollar an American importer pays in excess of the $5 per barrel, a tax should be levied of one dollar. Thus, an importer paying the price currently charged by Saudi Arabia, which is $11.25 per barrel, would have to pay a tax of $6.25 per barrel. This means that Saudi Arabian oil would cost American importers $17.50 per barrel, which means that they would search frantically for cheaper oil. And that, of course, is the purpose of the exercise: to break down the cartel by exaggerating the cartelized price — by doing one's best to price it out of the market. The objective, obviously, is to put a premium on cheapness. Those exporting countries that desire a large share in the American market will in effect have to bid for it. At the same time, the tax, which will be passed on — necessarily — to the consumer, discourages the profligate consumption of oil.

NINETY FIVE per cent of our imported oil comes from the following countries at the following rate. From Canada, 25 (about 300 million barrels per year), from Nigeria, 20. From Iran, 20, from Indonesia, 9, from Saudi Arabia, 9, from Venezuela 8, from Algeria 5. Canada is not a member of OPEC, but might as well be. She has slapped a $5.25 per barrel export charge on oil, so as to cash in on the bonanza. Very well, let's make that $10.50 — in effect.

THE POINT need not be elaborated. To the extent that the consuming public absolutely has to have the oil, it will pay the increased price for it. But the demand will slacken, and when that happens, you will find Canada reducing its export tax. And you will find Nigeria's representative meeting a big American buyer on a park bench and whispering out a proposed deal.

The best way to combat a cartel is to force it to go beyond the economic limit it is itself careful not to traverse. And supply a quick inducement to those who will break away from it in order to maximize income.

THERE ISN'T an alternative that combines the effectiveness, and the sense of fairness, of this one. By now we have come to terms with our extra-military incapacity to solve the problem. The suggestion that we should embargo the shipment of grain to the Arab States breaks down under scrutiny.

Government sues Top Utility

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
AP Business News Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Settlement of the Justice Department's biggest antitrust case is sure to be a long way off, as is the answer to the question of whether or not its end result will be lower prices.

Target of government attorneys' suit this past week was no less than American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the world's biggest public utility. In terms of its $67 billion in assets, AT&T is the biggest company in the world.

AT&T operates more than 80 per cent of this country's telephones. With 1,010,000 employees, its payroll is second only to that of the federal government. Its stock is owned by more Americans than that of any other corporation.

Justice Department attorneys charged this past week that AT&T was illegally monopolizing the telecommunications industry, making it difficult for others to link up with the nation's various types of communications networks

This Week's Business

- Terms of $67 billion assets, million employees, AT&T biggest
- Government wants AT&T to divest self of Western Electric
- Petition claims vertical monopoly restricting competition
- AT&T chairman, however, says dissolution would boost prices
- Previous try to separate Western Electric system failed and hence difficult for others to compete at all with Ma Bell.

They argued that AT&T should give up its giant Western Electric Co., the efficient producer of most of the nation's telephone equipment.

They also said AT&T should either get rid of most of its long distance operations or at least some of the 23 local telephone companies which spread the Bell system across most of the nation.

Justice Department officials said more competition would result and hopefully bring lower prices.

AT&T Chairman John D.

de-Butts, however, said the action would hurt the nation's telephone network.

"If that happens, telephone service would deteriorate and cost much, much more."

DeButts said AT&T saw no room for compromise and would fight antitrust action "to the end." Justice Department officials themselves said the case could take at least three years.

The government tried once before, in 1949, to split Western Electric from AT&T. That suit, started in the Truman administration, was settled in 1956 under President Eisenhower — without the divestiture.

He Remembered The Clue

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A chain of circumstances occurred because of a recent article of yours that aided in saving the life of my niece.

A few months ago an article of yours on Rocky Mountain spotted fever appeared in the newspaper, and I remembered the symptoms and your warning about ticks carrying the disease.

Then, my brother in San Francisco phoned me that my niece was ill with a high fever and getting nowhere. So I got in touch with her. She told me about her fever (104), violent headache, pain in back of ear, rash on hands. When she mentioned having been bitten by a tick, I remembered your article and told her to have a check for Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

At first they were reluctant to check at the hospital but they finally did and the test showed she had the disease. By the time her temperature ran to 107 they rushed her into intensive care and called a specialist on the disease from Boston and managed to save her life.

So, between my brother's call, your article and my memory, my niece is convalescing. I thought it might be interesting to you. — R.H.H.

Might be interesting? It decidedly is.

I write principally about how to treat or how to avoid the common ailments that afflict folks, but every now and then I discuss some of the less usual problems, never knowing whether it will be a waste of time — or whether sometimes there may be a situation like yours. I have to tip my hat to you for your sharp memory.

Rocky Mountain spotted fever and some other diseases which are known to be prevalent in certain areas can be baffling indeed when they appear in some distant location. But airplane travel has its effects. Someone contracts a disease 3,000 miles away, and it doesn't appear until the person is back home. I'm hearing about such instances more frequently in recent years — diseases from the Pacific areas or even farther off appearing "mysteriously" in Florida or Maine. "Mysteriously" until the whole story becomes known.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have taken Zylolprim for two years for uric acid (gout). I do not say that the medication has not helped the gout condition; however, it appears to cause loss of hair growth and lethargy. Should I continue or should I change doctors and/or medication? — C.L.N.

The drug is known to cause hair loss in rare instances. Rather than changing doctors, report the situation to your doctor. The dosage may be altered or, better still, another medication may be used.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am writing you about a problem that is breaking my marriage apart.

My wife seems to have what the doctors call sperm agglutination. They told us to use rubber preventives for three months and then they would take another test.

The next test showed the problem had just barely gotten better, and the doctors said my wife may never be able to have children. But they did not say she definitely would never have them.

She has now talked herself into believing she will be childless, and because of this, she has left me to think things over. — J.C.B.

I don't pose as a marriage counselor, but it's my impression that if your wife is leaving you over this she is acting hastily and perhaps a bit foolishly. All that's happening, in simplest physiological terms, is that your wife's system has become triggered to produce antibodies hostile to sperm. By protecting the vaginal tissue from direct contact with sperm — as with the use of a rubber condom, the production of antibodies will stop. Even a slight improvement in three months is encouraging.

WASHINGTON — "Gov. Rockefeller, there's a man outside and he says he has a book he'd like you to publish."

"I CAN'T see anyone right now."

"He's been here three days and says he won't leave."

"All right, send him in."

"Mr. Rockefeller, my name's Lasky, and I'd like to do a biography of Harold Stassen. I thought you might publish it."

"I'm not in publishing any more. I lost a bundle on the Arthur Goldberg book."

"But Mr. Rockefeller, this is better than a Goldberg biography. Harold Stassen is one of the greatest men in the country. Everyone wants to read about him. You could sell a hundred thousand copies with your eyes closed."

"THAT'S WHAT they told me about the Goldberg book. They promised me that the Book-of-the-Month Club would take anything about a former justice of the Supreme Court."

"But Mr. Rockefeller, you can't just quit publishing because you had one flop. My book could put your company in the black."

"I DON'T know. It's not easy for a Rockefeller to have an investment that goes sour. We thought we had a sure thing with Goldberg. After all, he was a labor lawyer, a Supreme Court justice and an ambassador to the United Nations. You would have thought people would break down the bookstore doors to buy the book. We were even hoping to sell it to movies with Robert Redford playing Goldberg. But after the lousy sales, Redford didn't want to touch it."

"But my book has more excitement than Goldberg's. Harold Stassen is a legend in America. He was governor of Pennsylvania, president of a university and a presidential candidate four times. Redford would give his eyeteeth to play him in a movie."

"Miss Jones," said Rockefeller, "get me my brother Laurence . . . Laurence, Nelson here . . . Listen, I have a fellow in my office that wants to write a book on Harold Stassen . . . Don't hang up on me, Laurence! . . ."

"I know you lost your shirt on the Goldberg book, but . . . Please Laurence, this could be our big break. We could become rich. I heard Robert Redford wants to play him in a movie . . . You will do it? Thanks a lot, Laurence . . . Believe me, you won't be sorry . . . Goodbye."

"Okay, Mr. Lasky, you can go ahead with the project. How much of an advance do you want?"

"Ten thousand dollars."

"All right, now this is what I want you to do. Go to a telephone booth on Third Avenue and 59th Street at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon. A man will pick you up . . ."

"What? And have the public know the Rockefeller are back in the publishing business?"

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

The law enforcement officers involved in the recent raid of the American GI Forum should be publicly commended for their efforts and expediency in bringing to public attention the illegal act of selling alcoholic beverages without a license by this organization. This dastardly act is without parallel in the criminal history of our community. The audacity of these individuals being involved in such a clandestine undertaking simply to award a few scholarships to underprivileged students, donate wheelchairs to destitute amputees, assist monetarily the poor stricken by illness or other tragic events, and sponsoring recreational events for our youth is an insult to the intellectual concept of law and order.

The aforementioned officers, motivated only by their outstanding dedication to their professional duty, acted unselfishly within the scope of their obligation and in the best interest of our community. To even consider that this flagrant violation of our liquor control laws could have been corrected through a conference between the agencies involved and the GI Forum is, perhaps, not consistent with the modus operandi on these matters. To have done this, a violation would have been corrected and the function placed in its proper legal perspective. However, this simple procedure would have eliminated publicity for our heroic officers and embarrassment to the GI Forum. Two elements that, due to the lack of a better substitute, may have been the sole reasons for the raid.

There are extenuating circumstances involving this matter which I will not mention since they may reflect unfavorably upon some individuals who have been very kind to the GI Forum. To identify these persons and detail the circumstances would serve no particular purpose at this time. Let it suffice to say that the GI Forum has had a discrepancy brought to its attention and that necessary steps are being taken to correct same.

CREATING one's own space is fun as boys and girls get involved in the 4-H home environmental program. The young people design, build, rebuild and create living spaces they can call their own, as they compete for honors in the national program.

4-H Youths Improve Home Environments

Decorating a room, fixing an old worn piece of furniture, turning an unused space into a bright, lively area can be fun, says 4-H'ers in the national 4-H home environment program. Sponsored nationally by The S&H Foundation, Inc., young people in the program enjoy the rewards of creativity and satisfaction as they decorate and create their own living space, utilizing a variety of furnishings and equipment.

Supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service, the 4-H'ers design their home environments much as they would the natural environment. They provide for safety, beauty, comfort, health and adequate space. And utilizing design principles of form, scale, light, patterns and texture, boys and girls in the program are able to plan, create, refurbish and build their own unique living spaces for themselves, friends and family.

The foundation encourages these interior design minded

4-H'ers with incentives and recognition. A maximum of four medals of honor were awarded winners in each county and a top winner in each state receives an expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Dec. 1-5. At that annual event six national winners, each receiving $700 scholarships, will be announced.

Janice Touchstone, of Petaluma, Calif., one of the 1973 national winners in the 4-H home environment program remodeled, "a small, dark, ugly bathroom in a farm corner" of her home into a second bathroom. She recovered the floor with scraps of linoleum, repapered one wall and refinished the others with paneling. She also replaced a sink with a second hand fixture and found a used counter top to replace a worn one. Total cost for her remodeling job was $43.

Peggy Molloy, of Littleton, Colo., gained the reputation as a top resource person in home decorating as a result of her 4-H work. Another 1973 national winner, she conducted workshops in the program in the county and district and served as judge at county and state fairs.

Through her work in 4-H home environment, Miss Molloy started her own small business making pressed and dried flower pictures. She also remodels rooms using antique furniture as a central focus.

For more information on the 4-H home environment program contact the county extension service office.

GOLIAD JR. HIGH Assembly Presented By Choral Students

By JENNIFER SMITH

The three Goliad choirs, with a total of approximately 140 students presented an assembly Nov. 19. During the assembly, solos were sung by Carol Meek, Brenda Beil, Jim Robison, Brian Jenkins and Mike Workman.

An ensemble was done by Kristi Haynes, Keely Joseph, Patti Morris, Kathy Turner, first sopranos; Brenda Beil, LaVoy Moore, second sopranos; and Penny Ray, Tammy Long, and Gail Mathews, Altos.

The Goliad Science Club met last Tuesday afternoon and toured the Meteorologist Station at Webb Air Force Base.

The Goliad Mavericks will be involved in a Basketball Tournament Dec. 6th and 7th. The tournament will begin Friday afternoon and then continue for most of the day Saturday.

Two of Goliad's teachers, Mr. Charles Arnold and Mr.

Lynn Kizer went to the 21st Annual Match Conference November 21st and 22nd in Austin. This convention is for the advancement of mathematic teaching.

The Goliad Boys P.E. classes started tumbling this past week.

Two of Goliad's teachers have birthdays this week. Mr. Lee Freeze has one on the 25th and Mrs. Diane Kitchen also has one on the 25th.

Goliad enrolled one new student this week. She is Rachel Davila who is an 8th grader.

The Student Council and the student body of Goliad Junior High School, geared into action by a plea for help in refurbishing 96 schools in Honduras which were destroyed by a hurricane a couple of months ago, collected close to 1000 pounds of school supplies to be donated to the Honduras schools.

The Student Council sponsored the project, and a coke party was awarded to the three top classes in collecting pencils, paper, notebooks, chalk, scissors and other school supplies for the Honduras children.

The supplies were picked up by a truck Thursday sent from the Honduras Relief Committee in Odessa, headed by Dr. Joseph Bastein of UTPB.

The supplies will be taken to the Honduras consulate in San Antonio and will be flown to Honduras.

MEGAPHONE NEXT WEEK

Although most schools will hold only three days of classes next week, a Megaphone will appear in next Sunday's edition of The Herald.

For that reason, it is suggested that all Megaphone reporters submit their school news, even if they are planning to be gone through the holidays.

SPIRIT BOOSTERS — Things were turned around at Big Spring High School Thursday when these boys led the cheers and the girls in the upper classes faced the girls in the lower classes in a Powder-Puff game at Blankenship Field. From the left, they are Brad Carr, Ed Pekowski, Charles McKinney, Doug Robison and Steve Wilson.

Acclaimed "Space Odyssey" Returns

Stanley Kubrick's "2001: A Space Odyssey," one of his most widely honored and acclaimed motion pictures, is now showing at the College Park Cinema Theater and will continue through Tuesday, released through United Artists.

Cited as the year's Best Picture a couple of years ago by some 85 leading publications and critics, and hailed as a masterpiece by Kubrick's film colleagues, the motion picture was originally released by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

"2001: A Space Odyssey" was produced and directed by Kubrick after he had made his controversial and widely successful "Dr. Strangelove, Or How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb." His epic-scaled adventure into the future encompasses a sweep in history from the dawn of man to some twenty-seven years ahead of the present. Filmed in Super Panavision and Metrocolor, "2001: A Space Odyssey" was co-written by Kubrick and Arthur C. Clarke, noted space authority and science writer. Six months before the cameras turned, Kubrick and Clarke were joined by a team of thirty-six technical designers from twelve countries whose responsibility was to anticipate and visualize in sets and props the startling technological progress of the start of the 21st century.

Starred in MGM's "2001: A Space Odyssey" are Keir Dullea and Gary Lockwood with a cast of international stage and screen players, including William Sylvester, Dan Richter, Douglas Rain, Leonard Rossiter, Margaret Tyzack, Robert Beatty, Sean Sullivan and Frank Miller. Keir Dullea achieved overnight international fame with his portrayal of David in "David and Lisa" for which he received the Best Actor Award at the San Francisco International Film Festival. His other films include "Bunny Lake Is Missing" and "The Fox." Gary Lockwood is best known for his MGM television series, "The Lieutenant."

To ensure the scientific and technical accuracy of "2001: A Space Odyssey" from the film's inception, Kubrick worked in close cooperation with many elements of NASA and with leading American and British industrial, research and academic organizations. Top scientific consultants were permanently attached to the film throughout production.

Midland Girl Student In Austria Opera

GRAZ, Austria (AP) I George Lond, former American operatic superstar, is one of the teachers in the "American Institute of Musical Studies" AIMS here.

"When you were once way up as a singer, you have the obligation of passing on your experience to others," Lond, now director of the National Opera Institute in Washington, said in an interview with The Associated Press.

AIMS holds the courses at the Teachers' Training Institute in this town in the south of Austria. The Institute accepts singers who have either completed studies or nearly finished.

For the first time this year, the advanced vocalists of the Institute decided to perform a complete opera. They chose English composer Prucell's "Dido and Aeneas." Sharon Bookhout of New York sang the female title part, Mervin Wallace of New York and Louisiana that of the male one.

Other top singers in it were: Barbara Horn Wichita, Kan., Pamela Sewell and Sue Smith, both of Boston, Beth Griffith, Midland Tex., Lana Caradimas and Mimi Sherwin, both of New York, and Ralph Bruneau, Phoenix, Ariz.

Local newspapers described Lond as "one of the 10 to 12 superstars of the operatic stage." An illness forced him to give up his career as a singer several years ago. He sang the role of "Don Giovanni" when the war-damaged Vienna State Opera re-opened in 1955; he got rave reviews as "Boris Godunov" at the Moscow Bolshoi Opera.

The Montreal-born baritone grew up in Hollywood. He had his debut at the San Francisco Opera in 1943, as "Rigoletto."

"There are very, very gifted singers here," Lond exclaimed. "I don't regret at all that I came here, it gives me great pleasure. It is a good setup."

He wanted to give the aspiring singers "an awareness at least, of what represents top standard in the opera field, understanding of styles in different operatic repertoire, interpretation at the highest level, also to some extent perhaps even a deeper understanding of their vocal, technical problems."

He added, "I want to tell them about what it takes to really start and go ahead in an operatic career."

AIMS has 140 students: 30 study for the orchestra, another 30 for the chorus, and 80 as "advanced vocalists."

The AIMS director is Richard Owens. Teachers of the "master classes" include American singers, such as Texas-born William Blankenship of the Vienna State Opera.

Boy And His Dogs Star In "Red Fern"

"Where the Red Fern Grows", starring James Whitmore, Beverly Garland, Jack Ging, Lonny Chapman and Stewart Peterson and filmed in the Oklahoma hill country starts Wednesday at the Ritz Theater.

The movie rated G for the whole family, is about a young boy and his dogs. More than anything else, Billy Colman wanted a dog.

When at the age of ten he saw an ad for two coon-hound pups, he resolved to earn their purchase price of $50. Two years later, having scrimped and saved, he attained his goal — the dogs were his, and he named them Old Dan and Little Ann. Billy spent weeks training his dogs to hunt their ring-tailed quarry.

Arkin's Career Spans Decade

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With laced high boots, jodpurs and slouch hat, he looked like a seedy Cecil B. DeMille. This was Alan Arkin playing a director of B Westerns in a new movie, "Hearts of the West."

He was scarcely recognizable, but then, that has been true throughout his film career.

With little use of makeup, Arkin has managed to submerge himself into such characters as the submarine officer in "The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming," the killer in "Wait Until Dark," the deaf mute in "The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter," Yossarian in "Catch 22." Mike Nichols has called him America's best actor. Yet he has not achieved the status of superstar.

"Once I got a letter congratulating me on my performance in the 'M-A-S-H' television series," he admits. "I think the writer must have confused me with Alan Alda. Except that it was signed, 'The Alan Bates Fan Club.'"

The major reason Arkin has never reached superstardom appears to be Arkin himself.

He has never gone after the sure thing, building his career with blockbusters. He has selected films that fit his particular taste, devoting part of his time to the theater.

G. Maharis, Pal Arrested

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor George Maharis and a male hairdresser have been arrested for investigation of sexual perversion, police said.

Maharis, who starred in the defunct television series "Route 66," and Perfecto Telles were arrested at a service station Tuesday afternoon, police said Thursday. Maharis was observed by officers who had staked out the station's restroom, police said.

Maharis, 46, and Telles, 33, were released after posting $500 bail. They will be arraigned Nov. 26 in West Los Angeles Municipal Court.

PLANS TO RETURN HOME, SOMEDAY — Alexander Solzhenitsyn, Nobel prize-winning Russian author, recently outlined a program that would allow him to return home. The plan is aimed at a bloodless revolution in the Soviet Union that would overthrow the present Communist system.

Council's Agenda

Emergency readings of ordinances amending the zoning rules and one setting paving assessments will be heard by city Councilmen at their regular meeting at 9 a.m. Tuesday in City Hall.

An emergency reading of a resolution authorizing the mayor to sign the cooperative tax appraisal contract will also be heard; so will a first reading of a resolution authorizing participation in the multi-agency crime prevention project sponsored by the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission.

The council will appoint an audit committee; appoint a tourism and convention committee; and review the traffic commission minutes.

Expected changes at FM 700 and Goliad will be aired. Contracts will be awarded for land located next to the American Legion, tennis court lighting, fencing and asphalt.

Permission will be sought for bids for a truck cab and chassis for dump truck, for a gasoline storage tank, a rotary mower, and a one-turn aerator.

The recommendation on changes at FM 700 and Goliad will be as follows: The State Highway Department would like to suggest that the service roads be kept two-way at their intersection with Goliad; that their lights be removed and replaced with stop signs; that the south service road allow only right turns from it onto Goliad to serve the residents of Highland South; and that the lens shields on the signal servicing the Goliad approach from the north be removed to allow drivers on the north service road to easily view the signal.
