

60 Said Executed In Purge

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopia's military rulers put the country's armed forces and police on full alert today after the execution of 60 aristocrats and former officials. There was no unusual deployment of troops on the streets of Addis Ababa, however.

Those executed included members of the deposed royal family and the general who led the overthrow of former Emperor Haile Selassie. Residents of the capital expressed shock at the speed and extent of the violent removal of so many prominent people, but there was no evidence of unrest.

Radio Ethiopia announced the executions early Sunday, then resumed normal programming. By nightfall, there were only a few pedestrians and motorists on the streets of the capital.

The executions, at midnight Saturday, were ordered by the 120-member military council, now headed by 36-year-old Maj. Mengistu Haile Miriam, a little-known officer.

The council called the executions "an act of justice" against persons who had sought to disrupt the country's popular movement, abuse authority or enrich themselves while this East African nation of 27 million was racked by famine and poverty.

The executed included Gen. Aman M. Andom, chairman of the council since it took over from the 82-year-old emperor two months ago. There was no word on the fate of Selassie himself.

Selassie's son, Crown Prince Asfa Wossen, 58, designated by the military leaders as a future ceremonial king of Ethiopia, refused comment. He has lived in Geneva since suffering a stroke last year.

Aman was relieved of his post just hours before he was shot. A moderate who frequently clashed with council radicals over the pace and scope of reforms, Aman was accused of acting dictatorially.

TRIO EXECUTED — Former Ethiopian premiers Akiliu Hapte Wold, top, and Endalkache Makonnen, lower right, were among 60 former aristocrats and officials executed Sunday, a Radio Ethiopia broadcast announced. Also reported executed was Rear Adm. Alexander Desta, grandson of deposed Emperor Haile Selassie, lower left.

Gambling Gear Hit

Bookmaking items, including betting sheets and names of bettors were seized Saturday afternoon by Texas Ranger George Frasier, members of the Department of Public Safety Intelligence and state troopers.

The warrant was served on a mobile home located near the south city limits of Big Spring, Guy Talbot, special investigator for the district attorney, said.

Peace Justice Gus Ochotoren Jr. issued the warrant. No arrests have been made, but the case will be presented at the next term of the grand jury.

Under the new penal code, it is now a felony to place a bet with a bookmaker, as well as being a felony to work as a bookmaker, Talbot said.

SUSPECT IN BIG BANK ROBBERY NABBED — FBI agents drag Curtis Ray Michelson, 35, from a house in Newport Beach, Calif., where he and another man were arrested Saturday as suspects in the robbery of a Reno, Nev., bank, described as the largest bank job in bureau memory. The robbery of the First National Bank of Nevada Sept. 27 netted $1,044,000, of which half has been recovered. A third suspect is being sought.

Terrorists Win Vow Of Asylum

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — Tunisian officials today arrested four Palestinian hijackers who abandoned their threat to blow up a British airliner and its three crew members in return for a promise of asylum.

The four left the plane with seven other terrorists who had been flown to Tunis from Egypt and the Netherlands as ransom for the plane, its three-crew and more than 40 passengers.

The guerrillas used as shields the three flight crew members, the last of the hostages, as they left the plane. They later turned them over unharmed to Tunisian officials.

Asked under what conditions the government arrested the hijackers after promising asylum, Foreign Minister Habib Chatti said his government had only "verbally accepted the (hijackers) conditions."

"There was no agreement, even less any written conditions or a commitment," Chatti said.

It was not clear what would happen to the seven ransomed terrorists. "They are in a safe place," Chatti said. "A decision on what to do with them will be taken later in consultation with the other Arab governments and the Palestine Liberation Organization."

He said it was premature to say whether the hijackers would be placed on trial for murdering a German passenger on Saturday.

Chatti paid a special tribute to the role played in the tense negotiations by Salah Khalaf, reputed leader of the Black September terrorist group and second in command of the Al Fatah organization. Khalaf was sent to Tunis on Friday by PLO leader Yasir Arafat to help with negotiations.

The Palestinians left the aircraft after Tunisia's information director announced that the government had decided to grant them asylum.

Chatti was asked about the earlier announcement but he did not give a direct answer. He said no decision has been made on whether the men will be prosecuted.

He said the men were in a suicidal mood when they discovered that no Arab country would give them sanctuary. "We were concerned with saving the lives of the three British crew members and also of the seven Palestinian prisoners, whom we also regarded as hostages from the moment they were handed over," Chatti said.

The hijackers, the seven Palestinians and the Britons evacuated the plane without incident. Explosives experts then examined the jet and made certain that no active explosives had been left on the plane.

The grant of asylum was the third major concession to the guerrillas. On Saturday, Egypt flew to Tunis five Palestinians being held in Cairo.

Grant Approved For Airport

Congressman Omar Burleson today announced the approval of an Airport Development Grant to Howard County Airport for $27,835.

The grant is to be used to construct a fire station and acquire one firefighting and rescue vehicle for the Big Spring facility.

Woman's Heroics Cut Death Toll

IN TEXAS FLOODING

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A rescuer credited with saving a young son in a raging loss of life in flash flooding which claimed 12 lives and a Mrs. Slezak, who lost a hausted and minus most her torrent, tried to swim for aid and was swept more than a mile down a muddy creek before being found exhausted and minus most her clothing in knee deep water. "If it hadn't been for her coming up to us, we might not have known about that car," said volunteer rescuer Bill LeBlanc of the vehicle in which Mrs. Slezak and nine other persons were plunged into the runaway creek.

A MILESTONE OPERATION Two Hearts That Beat For One

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Heart transplant pioneer Christiaan Barnard this morning implanted a second heart inside a 56-year-old man in a milestone operation, Groote Schuur Hospital announced.

The patient, who was not identified, was reported in satisfactory condition in the intensive care unit. Both hearts were beating together, a hospital spokesman said.

Barnard's heart transplant team, making its 11th operation but its first to implant a heart without removing the patient's diseased heart, began work at midnight Sunday. The heart used in the operation was that of a 10-year-old Cape Town girl killed in an accident Sunday.

The spokesman said that after the child was clinically dead, her heart was kept beating artificially inside her body until the life-saving surgery could begin. The South African Press Association said the recipient is married with children.

Barnard performed the first heart transplant operation on Dec. 3, 1967, at Groote Schuur. He was assisted in his latest operation by his brother, Dr. Marius Barnard, and the Groote Schuur transplant team.

The patient's original heart was left in the body, and the second heart was transplanted to help the damaged heart and "improve the patient's blood circulation," according to the hospital spokesman.

Hospital authorities identified neither the recipient nor the donor.

The operation was Barnard's first heart graft since Dec. 2, 1973. There have been 13 previous heart transplant operations in South Africa, including two in Durban by Dr. Ben le Roux and one by Marius Barnard. All three patients died, Le Roux's shortly after the operation and Barnard's after 51 days.

Two of Christiaan Barnard's patients are still alive. They are Miss Dorothy Fisher, who received a new heart on April 17, 1969, and Dirk van Zyl, whose operation was May 10, 1971.

SEARCH GOES ON — LeBlanc's story was told as a search continued for 8-year-old Martha Scheumack, one of those in the auto.

Martha disappeared with her mother, two sisters and a brother shortly before midnight Saturday when cloudbursts dumped as much as 10 inches of rain in the Austin area.

Officers recovered the bodies of the mother, Linda Scheumack, 28; her daughters Natalie, 9, and Dena 11, and son Mason III, 6, along with those of Trent Slezak, 5, and Eunice M. Garrett, 18, all of Austin.

LeBlanc said he and others heard Mrs. Slezak screaming. "Help me! Help me!" near a trailer park three and one-half hours after their stalled automobile was tumbled off a crossing and carried down the creek.

She told rescuers that all 10 occupants climbed atop the car, driven by her husband Charles, after it stalled in the flash flood, which struck without warning.

After it upset, Mrs. Slezak related, she shouted for her husband to keep the children clinging to a fence while she started swimming amid water snakes and chunks of debris, toward lights in the distance.

Once she was forced to climb a tree and wait an hour, she estimated, until the torrent subsided enough for her to try swimming again.

She suffered minor injuries in addition to losing nearly all her clothing. LeBlanc's wife, who provided garments for Mrs. Slezak, credited her with "a valiant effort to save her family and friends."

SWEPT AWAY

Three members of another Austin family drowned when the fast-moving flood waters slammed into their car at a railroad crossing and swept the vehicle away.

Officers recovered the bodies of Joe Rivas, 28; Joe Jr., 5; and Cynthia Rivas, 8.

Floodwaters coursing over a creek crossing near Kyle, Tex., south of Austin, washed away a car containing two New Braunfels, Tex. women, drowning both of them. They were identified as Romana Molina, 40; and Carolina Figueroa, 42.

State police said 50 cars were stalled during the night, and early Sunday at the Dry Creek crossing.

UP IN 70s

It will remain sunny and warmer today and tomorrow, with the temperatures not so cool tonight. The high today will be in the mid 60's, the low tonight near 40 and the high Tuesday in the mid 70's. Expect South to Southwesterly winds from 10-20 mph today and tonight.

Mrs. Rockefeller Has Breast Surgery Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Happy Rockefeller underwent surgery today to have her right breast removed, only five weeks after losing her cancerous left breast in a similar operation.

A hospital spokesman said the surgical team began the operation at 8:23 a.m.

Shortly after she entered Memorial Hospital on Sunday her husband, Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller, said at a news conference that her frame of mind was "pretty good." "She has total confidence in the nurses, doctors and the whole atmosphere in this hospital," Rockefeller said.

The former governor of New York added that his own frame of mind "is to thank God that this was found out prior to the spread of it to the rest of her body."

Mrs. Rockefeller's left breast was removed Oct. 17 at the hospital, a part of the Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center.

At that time, a biopsy was performed on Mrs. Rockefeller's right breast. Rockefeller said technicians found the next day "a pinhead of malignant cells, but it was dormant."

Rockefeller voiced concern for his 48-year-old wife's psychological and emotional well-being and asked her doctor, Jerome A. Urban, not to say immediately that a second operation was needed. Urban removed her left breast in the first operation.

During the intervening four weeks, other physicians were consulted about alternatives to surgery, including radiation therapy and drug treatment.

But Urban's position held, and when Mrs. Rockefeller asked a week ago about the biopsy results he told her dormant cancer cells were found. Urban told her the cells might not move about the body for years, but should be removed.

Rockefeller said that when his wife accompanied him last week to hearings in Washington on his confirmation as vice president, she knew she would enter the hospital for the second operation.

"I can't tell you how very much I admire her courage," he said.

In the first operation, Mrs. Rockefeller's left breast and the lymph nodes were removed in a radical mastectomy. Most of the chest muscle was left intact.

Mexicans Can Commute To U.S. For Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that thousands of Mexican laborers may legally commute to the United States for seasonal farm work.

The 5 to 4 decision is important to California and Texas farmers who rely heavily on alien workers.

The court reversed a decision of the U.S. Circuit Court in Washington, which outlawed seasonal commuting.

The Supreme Court upheld a portion of the circuit court decision which permitted alien workers to enter the United States on a daily basis.

"If alien commuters are to be abolished or if seasonal commuters are to be treated differently than daily commuters, the Congress must do it," Justice William O. Douglas wrote for the Supreme Court.

Joining the majority opinion were Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Potter Stewart, Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist. Speaking for the four dissenters, Justice Byron R. White said the federal law governing alien workers "simply will not bend to

Zarb Is Named To FEA Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford announced today he will nominate Frank G. Zarb, now an associate director of the Office of Management and Budget, to head the Federal Energy Administration.

Zarb, 39, will succeed John C. Sawhill, who was fired from the post, which is considered by Ford one of the most important energy posts of his administration.

Doesn't Stand A Chance

A fellow who should know, House Speaker Carl Albert, says that President Ford's proposal for an inflation fighter, a tax surcharge, will not make it through Congress.

The 5 per cent additional bite on families with incomes over $15,000 annually, according to the Oklahoma Democrat, is unfair since the same rate applies to "the man who makes $250,000." Further, Albert contends, Mr. Ford's entire 10-point program to fight inflation would make little real difference. Albert referred to it as "a program of gimmickry."

Speaker Albert has not outlined his own or his party's blueprint for cooling inflation.

It is entirely possible that Albert's assessment of the Congressional mood and, for that matter, of the Ford package is accurate.

If so, however, the American public is aware that the lawmakers have been confronted with a body with the inflation problem far longer than Mr. Ford as President. The public has a right to expect Congress to come up with alternatives.

A big reason the surcharge didn't stand much of a chance in Congress is that all the congressmen are in that particular wage bracket. When they call for sacrifices, they mean someone else should do the sacrificing.

Largess For Hierarchy

According to reports, a note left behind by a telephone company executive who took his own life claims that irregularities among the company executives make Watergate look like a Sunday school picnic. We have no idea, of course, as to whether this is true in any degree, although it seems extravagant.

But we do know that many of the practices of largess hinted at are widespread among many corporate executive hierarchies. To the extent these individuals are given princely favors and allowances, to that extent stockholders, customers and taxpayers are picking up the bill.

Hatred Kills Reason

Tommy Hart

Hatred consumes reason, a sermon I absorbed early in life.

THE SORDID performances of the Irish Republican Army and those faceless guerrillas who operate with such dedicated and lethal purpose in the Middle East have reassured me that my precursors spoke with profound wisdom.

The guerrillas forfeit world sympathy when they massacre women and children. Some of the Micks fancy they will die happy if they can involve the whole of Northern Ireland in an Armageddon in which everyone dies.

AND HOW can the cause of the IRA be furthered by the defacement of such priceless masterpieces as the Adoration of the Magi and the bombing of historic Westminster Hall in England's House of Parliament?

Where have all the flowers gone?

MORE MARITAL discord than is admitted is caused in this world by snoring, yet it is an affliction not many of its victims take seriously enough to try and correct.

Many couples retreat to separate bedrooms because one or the other snores, yet some doctors will tell you that cures are possible in 50 per cent of the cases and another 30 per cent can be helped by palliative measures.

In many cases, snoring is caused by swelling of the tissues of the throat and nasal passages, obstructions and growths in the nasal passages, deviation of the septum, smoking, obesity, neuroses, drinking and air pollution.

DIETING CAN help in some instances. Throat surgery has been performed to correct some problems. Allergy and sinus treatments have been prescribed to eliminate other conditions.

Let it be said snoring is one ailment in which others suffer far more than the victims themselves, and the victims rarely endure discomfort in silence — because those affected are prone to complain about it.

Avoiding Schism

Robert Novak

HILTON HEAD, S.C. — Feisty from his overwhelming triumph in New York, Gov.-elect Hugh Carey flew here Sunday afternoon to the Democratic governors' conference in an impatient mood, quickly translated to Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss in a private, two-hour session in Strauss's Hilton Head Inn suite.

CAREY'S MESSAGE was blunt: with unemployment soaring and housewives in revolt against inflation, the Democratic party must "stop blowing the trumpets" about party reform, end the suicidal struggle over racial quotas and try to fill the leadership void in President Ford's weak administration.

CAREY FLEW home early Monday morning, but not before outgoing Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan, with Strauss's blessing, had decided to line up all governors and governors-elect here behind a compromise on the torrid issue of racial quotas which had one singular advantage: anything else would be worse. Gilligan's "compromise" was to finess the question of new language by inserting the anti-discrimination, delegate-selection procedures already agreed on for the 1976 presidential convention into the party's new charter (which will apply only to 1980 and beyond and which is the heart of the problem of racial quotas).

By Monday noon, the mood of the three dozen governors and governors-elect here had hardened into solid agreement for Carey's warning that a country sliding into possible depression would not accept endless "political haggling over procedural reforms." They agreed unanimously to Gilligan's masterful appeal for the compromise.

THAT OPENS the door wider than a crack to squeeze the Democratic party through its midterm convention in Kansas City two weeks hence without a major party-splitting walk-out. The new charter, including rules on nondiscrimination for selecting delegates in the 1980 convention, will dominate the Kansas City meeting.

But at least as important as Gilligan's compromise to the future of the election-fattened Democratic party was the surprising unanimity of old and new Democratic governors. Governors' conferences are always long on rhetoric, short on consensus.

ONE OF THE aides of Al Barkan's

chief political operative of the AFL-CIO, when he first learned that the governors had done, was apologetic. "The governors operate way up there in the stratosphere and they don't know the first simple fact about rules and procedures of delegate selection," he told us. "They're going to regret not closing the door completely on racial quotas." The Gilligan compromise outlines "mandatory" quotas, but says nothing explicit about voluntary quotas (which every governor here is against). Governors are following the example of every successful national Democratic party leader since Franklin Roosevelt: build from the center out, avoiding the extremes.

IF THE Gilligan compromise is adopted at Kansas City, prediction about how it will or will not work for the 1980 convention is senseless. But at the least, it would prevent the party, in Gilligan's words, from "tearing ourselves to shreds" at Kansas City and beyond and bring the White House within reach in 1976.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

The international relief effort so quickly mounted by the neighbors of Honduras to help that little Central American republic in the wake of a devastating hurricane is a welcome reminder of what can be done when the human need is clear and political divisions are forgotten.

Help in the form of food, clothing, medical, and other supplies is coming not only from the United States with its vast private and governmental aid resources, but from nations with lesser economic means such as Nicaragua and Guatemala.

The need is great, for whole towns have been wiped out and thousands made homeless to a degree that makes the storm one of the most destructive in recent times.

Much more remains to be done in the field of early warning systems, against tropical storms and improved shelter provisions.

If the relief effort in Honduras helps to sharpen awareness of this need — and a little of what can be accomplished through working together — then something of lasting value may yet be salvaged from the storm. — WALL STREET JOURNAL

Very well, let's continue with your (Quack!) fiscal examination. . .

Still Debt-Laden

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — While families have shown recently a tendency to resist purchases of big ticket items and to reduce their debts, many of them still have a heavy burden of bills as the economy drifts into recession.

Most financial analysts still maintain there is no great danger in the big bills owed by households, but there isn't one of them who isn't watching closely the statistics on loan delinquencies.

Fear does exist among some bankers, for example, about the ability of the most overburdened families to pay their creditors, especially as the jobless figures rise and overtime is eliminated.

In the fiscal year that ended June 30, there were 168,787 personal bankruptcy cases. Indications are that in the present fiscal year the rate is higher, probably near 1967's record of 191,729.

A check of court records in various large cities by Business Week magazine, showed more cases filed in the first 10 months of this calendar year than in all of last year.

The Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. notes in the current issue of its "Survey" that the amount of consumer debt, including mortgage loans, increased by 42 per cent between the end of 1970 and the middle of 1974.

While that figure seems large in itself, the significance is that after-tax personal income in the same period rose by only 37 per cent. It commented: "A bigger share than in the past of people's incomes is already committed just to make payments on past purchases."

Much of the American public, it appears, not only attempted to raise their style of living in spite of inflation but, when frustrated in doing so, took out loans to pay the bills.

Now, when repayment ability is weak, these bills are coming due.

Morgan observes that delinquency rates for both installment loans and mortgage loans have risen over the past year.

Don't Heal Readily

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband and I are both vegetarians and in our 20s. Last week my husband went to the hospital with blood poisoning from a wound in his wrist. This week red streaks are plainly visible from a cut on my knuckle.

Could the lack of meat be causing some sort of deficiency? And what foods would supplement it? We're also having problems just healing small cuts.

—R.S. Those streaks from the cut on your knuckle indicate that infection is spreading, so the first urgent item of business is to have immediate medical care for that.

Now as to your diet: your difficulty in healing could be related to lack of enough essential proteins. Meat supplies these proteins, so vegetarian diets can easily be deficient in them.

Frankly, I'm not much sold on the far-out forms of vegetarianism. The arguments in favor usually strike me as a bit thin — "it's better for you," without any proof, or "I think it's wrong to kill animals," or some such.

However, if people decide to become vegetarians, that's their business, and I'm not going to tell them they mustn't. But I am going to say that, for health, they must see that their food contains adequate protein from some source or other.

If you are trying to be "pure vegetarians," you have your work cut out for you — by "pure vegetarians" I mean avoiding ALL animal sources of food and living solely on vegetable products.

If you are "limited vegetarians," things become much simpler. There are animal proteins which do not involve meat as such — milk has a little protein, and the protein content is concentrated after it has been converted into cheese. Eggs are rich in protein. So eggs, cheese and dairy products can be very useful in providing a balanced, healthful diet.

I don't know how many vegetarians accept fish or other seafood in their vittles, but fish is a fine source of protein. I suggest you consult some vegetarian cookbooks for more detailed instructions on how to get the protein you need.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there a physical condition in some men known as "a white liver?" All my life I have heard that men with "white livers" cause the death of their wives, and have buried three or four wives.

Is "white liver" a scientifically true condition? If so, how can one detect it? — E.B.I. The term is sometimes used to describe a liver that is infiltrated with a lot of fat. "Fatty liver" is a much more accurate term. It is a condition found in excessively obese individuals, or in those whose livers have been damaged by poisons, chronic infection, diabetes or metabolism disorders. The stories you have heard are sheer nonsense.

Courts Avoid Theology

Two factions of a church were locked in a bitter struggle over the powers of a controversial minister. Finally they took the issue to court for settlement.

BUT THE JUDGE refused to take sides. Calling attention to the constitutional separation of church and state, the judge said:

"Courts do not inquire into questions exclusively ecclesiastical. If the courts should deal with litigation of that nature, the whole subject of theology would have to be examined. Such a course would establish the courts as the final arbiter in every religious controversy."

THIS IS THE law's usual attitude toward religious disputes, declining to intrude into "things that are God's." However, the courts can and do take a hand in "things that are Caesar's."

For example, in one case a pastor had a disagreement with his church about the terms of his employment contract. A court had no hesitation in weighing the opposing arguments and in ruling (on strictly legal grounds) against the church.

LIKELIKE, COURTS have dealt with such mundane matters as the ownership of church real estate or the administration of trust funds left to a church.

Furthermore, of course, churchmen are just as subject to the criminal law as any other citizen.

THUS: A MINISTER, while denouncing sin in his sermon, described it in unusually vivid language. Outraged members of his congregation complained to the police, and the minister was duly haled into court on a charge of using obscene language in a public place.

FINDING HIM guilty, the court commented: "He has a right to propagate his religious views, but will not be permitted to commit a breach of the peace under the guise of preaching the gospel."

WHAT OTHERS SAY

The good news from Washington is that the Interior Department still has some hope of starting oil exploration off the Atlantic Coast next year. If the search should succeed, there would be a dramatic and favorable impact on the economy.

Many geologists believe that there is an abundance of oil out there. If they are right, it could go a long way toward relieving U.S. dependence on foreign price gougers and slowing down or reversing the present inflation.

The bad news is that the search for Atlantic oil has been stalled so long by well-meaning, misinformed ecology zealots that relief may have come too late.

The Interior Department made public (recently) a memo calling for sale of leases on 10 million acres along the Atlantic Seaboard with possible new leases along the coast of Alaska.

Frank Ikard, President of the American Petroleum Institute, was of two minds about the memo.

"On one side, I say 'great'; let's get on with development," Ikard said. "On the other side, I say, 'Where are we going to get the money to bid?'"

The oil industry, after all, has not been exempt from inflation and high interest rates. Capital for extensive new offshore drilling operations will not be easy to find.

What we have here is a sort of continuing cycle of national self-punishment. By failing to develop Atlantic oil reserves and other potential new sources of energy, we contribute to inflation and high interest which makes the search for new energy even more expensive and difficult. Meanwhile, the Arabs and other foreign suppliers, including our good friends in Canada, continue to jack up their prices and laugh at us.

Americans are slow learners. Even now some are mapping strategy to kill the 1975 Atlantic drilling plan. — TULSA DAILY WORLD

My Answer

Billy Graham

I found out that my 15 year old daughter let her boy friend make love to her. She is a pretty girl, and not rebellious or wild in any way. I think I may have failed somehow, but what can I do now to help?

You better arrange to chat with her immediately. Be factual and be practical. Make sure she understands the peril of excessive petting, and the price a girl pays for sexual indiscretion.

More importantly, since you also wrote that she's a Christian, help her to see that her body is the "house" in which the Holy Spirit lives (1 Corinthians 6:19). It needs to be clean and free from those contaminations which the Bible calls fornication (1 Thessalonians 4:3).

Help your daughter to see that sex is a beautiful part of God's plan for marriage. But emphasize that purity is expected for those in the single state. In this regard, you'll have to counteract all the peer pressure she probably gets in school — pressure to ignore Biblical standards, and pressure to be initiated sexually.

Perhaps you have "failed." Most parents would have to admit this. But it's never too late to start over again, and "new beginnings" are what the Gospel of Christ is all about.

A Devotion For Today . . .

"In all things I have shown you that by so toiling one must help the weak, remembering the words of the Lord Jesus . . . 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'" (Acts 20:35 RSV) PRAYER: Our loving Father, we are grateful for all You have given us. Help us to express our gratitude as we share with others what we have received from You. In Jesus' spirit. Amen.

Greyhound Runs Again Monster Buffs Should Watch Show Tonight

All schedules were operative for Greyhound Buses here today, and the buses were beginning to fill once more.

Big Spring got its first east-west Greyhound schedule at 11 p.m. Sunday evening, and since that time all buses have been arriving and departing on schedule, said James Owens, terminal manager.

The initial trips were from the nearest dispatch point, which in the case of Big Spring, are El Paso and Abilene.

Owens was hopeful that the Thanksgiving traffic would bring the passenger loads quickly back to normal.

"All during the Greyhound strike, we have had our regular north-south schedules," said Owens, "but we're real glad to have all operations back in full force now, and in plenty of time to move people for the holiday season."

NEW YORK (AP) — Would everyone in the room who doesn't believe in the Loch Ness monster, Bigfoot or the Abominable Snowman please stand up? Thank you, sir. The rest of you kindly watch CBS tonight.

The network is airing an excellent one-hour study of these beasts in a Smithsonian Institution special called, "Monsters! Mysteries or Myths?" A warning: Monster buffs won't appreciate its conclusions.

Nevertheless, the show, narrated by Rod Serling, is valuable in that it puts the pros and cons of the three highly publicized monsters in one arena in which viewers:

— Can inspect purported film footage of Bigfoot, a Northwest version of Nepal's

Abominable Snowman, and of Scotland's Loch Ness monster. (Alas, they'll only get photos of purported Snowman tracks.)

— Hear accounts of claimed sightings of the beasts direct from the purported eyewitnesses and learn what the infidels — scholarly types who haven't seen the monsters and have doubts about them — have to say.

The show also has an illuminating segment about a major hazard for lay monster-hunters — the hoaxster. One such citizen in Washington state periodically makes bogus Bigfoot tracks.

Why? It's not to fool the scientists, Serling notes, but rather the monster-hunters. The hoaxer involved says he began doing this after some hunters asked if he'd seen a Bigfoot lately.

He told them he didn't believe in such things. Whereupon, he adds, "one gentleman said, 'Well, you hicks around here probably wouldn't.'" attached to his boots and romped gaily through the snow in the wooded search area.

That was a grave mistake. As the special shows, the hick promptly made some false Bigfoot feet from wood.

"By the time the day was over," he gleefully recalls, "there was seven, eight hundred people lookin' at the tracks, from all over the country."

But most of the show is devoted to the pursuit of truth, not flim-flam.

Vatican Takes Hard View On Abortion

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In its strongest declaration on abortion in recent times, the Vatican declared today that nothing could justify abortion, even risk to the mother's life or the possibility of an abnormal child.

"Never, under any pretext, may abortion be resorted to, either by a family or by a political authority, as a legitimate means of regulating births," said the Vatican Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith.

The congregation said the 5,000-word "Declaration on Procured Abortion" was approved by Pope Paul VI.

"In reality," the declaration said, "respect for human life is called for from the time that generation begins. From the time that an ovum is fertilized, a life is begun which is neither that of the father nor of the mother; it is rather the life of a new human being with his own growth."

The declaration acknowledged the gravity of the problem posed in specific cases, but said:

"It may be a serious question of health, sometimes of life or death, for the mother; it may be the burden represented by an additional child, especially if

Traffic Deaths Are Still Down

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas traffic accidents have killed 2,601 persons so far this year, compared with 3,208 during the same period in 1972, the Texas Department of Public Safety reports.

there are good reasons to fear that the child will be abnormal or retarded... We proclaim only that none of these reasons can ever objectively confer the right to dispose of another's life, even when that life is only beginning...

The movement for the emancipation of women in so far as it seeks essentially to free them from all unjust discrimination, is on perfectly sound ground... But one cannot change nature, nor can one exempt women, any more than men, from what nature demands of them."

Parolee Taken

City juvenile officers today took into custody a 15-year-old girl from Miami, Florida who is a parole violator. She was found in the home of her mother here, according to Lt. Jim McCain of the police juvenile division.

Orange Growers Thinking Of Converting To Sugar

ORLAND, Fla. (AP) — A spokesman for an association of Florida orange growers says they should consider converting their crop to more profitable sugar.

"The question is what do we want to do with our crop," said Wilson McGee, general manager of United Growers, Inc. "If sugar solids are more valuable than juice, why not market them?"

"I know one thing—there's no way growers can make any money the way prices are now."

Concentrate plants could convert juice into sugar without any additional expense, McGee said.

"All they've got to do is keep taking the water out of it," he explained. "This is nothing new. When they first started experimenting with orange juice concentrate, they ended up with sugar."

Turning orange juice into sugar would increase the value of Florida's 1973-74 crop from $265.3 million to $700 million, and would boost the growers selling price of a standard 90-pound box of oranges from $1.51 to $4.20, he said.

McGee said he based his estimates on the current $70 per hundred weight wholesale price of sugar cane.

While the price of fertilizer, labor and other production costs have skyrocketed, the price of orange juice concentrate has remained relatively stable.

"There are a lot of growers who are going to go bankrupt," McGee said. "Maybe conversion of juice into sugar could save them."

Lowest priced car in America* Corolla 2-Door Sedan.
*Based on a comparison of manufacturers' 1975 suggested retail prices.

Basically, our '75 Corollas are gas-pining economy cars. But they come with more than basics.

For instance, our SR-5 sports such items as AM/FM radio, tach, clock, radial tires and a 5-speed transmission.

Fancy stuff, sure. But you don't pay a fancy price. Because it's all standard.

Still one of the world's great bargains.

As you can see, our other models are nicely endowed, too.

Even our lowest priced car, the power front disc brakes and white-wall tires.

So you see, it's not so much the price that makes it a bargain. It's what you get in the bargain.

Two extras that don't cost extra.

There are a couple of things we put in every '75 Corolla which we think you'll especially like.

First off, there's extra room. Which should make you feel comfortable about driving a small car.

Second off, there's extra care. We care that things fit and work right.

In short, we build every Toyota exactly the way we'd like you to own one.

Sugar Growers Have Problems

WINDSOR, Colo. (AP) — If you think the current price of sugar is a "puff," don't take your gripe to a sugar farmer unless you're ready to listen to his money problems.

The domestic farmers who grow sugar beets and sugar cane are the original source for nearly half the sugar consumed in the United States.

As greater worldwide demand and weather disasters around the globe push sugar prices far beyond levels of a year ago, the payments and potential payments to farmers are jumping up too.

But sugar beet growers like Manuel Pineda and Jack Boegel of this northern Colorado farm area will tell you that burgeoning prices for fuel, equipment and fertilizer are eating away at their seeming bonanza.

And for diversified farmers like these men, some of the sugar money is just an offset for their recent losses in the cattle business.

Fuel costs have doubled in the past year, pushing up the cost of operating tractors, harvesters and other implements in the $75,000 fleet of specialized equipment that Boegel uses on his 199 acres of sugar beets.

"Damned fertilizer," Pineda grumbled at another expense. "When we were a quarter of the way through this year, we were already up to all of last year's fertilizer bill."

Many in the sugar growing business say costs are changing so rapidly that growers' traditional accounting analyses figures can't keep up. But they estimate it's taking a market sugar price of about 30 cents a pound just to break even.

With sugar now past 50 cents a pound, that means good profits for farmers and processors.

But it also means that a year ago sugar prices of 16 or 17 cents a pound aren't likely to return.

Despite profits running as high as 20 times those of a year earlier, sugar processing firms say their previous earnings were so low that a big jump is not inconceivable.

They'll have a chance to make their case to the government this week at hearings on sugar prices called in Washington by the Council on Wage and Price Stability.

They're also expected to have their say at congressional hearings next week when the House

Agriculture Committee inquires into soaring sugar prices.

In the wake of this year's weather-devastated cane and beet crop, there seems no prospect for improved supplies until the next crop comes in next year.

Bigger supplies in relation to demand could ease prices. But sugar men, from farmers to financial experts, don't predict any big rush to increase U.S. production until they see whether prices will hold at or near the current levels.

With those fuel, fertilizer and equipment costs going up for farmers like Pineda and Boegel, and with four years lead time needed to build a big sugar mill, forecasts remain wary despite current good times.

Evangelist Is Honoree

SWEETWATER — More than 200 friends surprised Rev. Grady Wilson, long-time associate of Billy Graham, at a breakfast here Saturday, setting in motion events to be climaxed with a Grady Wilson Camp Meeting at this afternoon.

The camp meeting will be at the Ranch for Christ 23 miles south of Sweetwater 2:30 p.m., and upwards of 3,000 are expected. Dr. Roy Fish, Fort Worth and formerly of Big Spring, and Mrs. Millie Dienert spoke at the breakfast. Drownings Send Death Toll Up Within State

By The Associated Press

Unexpected flash flooding produced by cloudbursts in Central Texas, primarily around Austin, gave sudden and dramatic impetus to the violent death toll over the state during the weekend.

Thirteen and possibly more persons drowned as a result of the deluges, including up to 10 inches of rain around Austin in a short time.

Early today the weekend count by The Associated Press for the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday listed 31 fatalities, including 13 drownings, 12 traffic deaths and six from gunfire.

Here is how some died:

Austin area police said floodwaters swept a car containing 10 persons off a county road at Dry Creek in East Travis County Saturday night. Those drowned included Linda Scheumack, 28; and her children Dena, 11; Natalia, 9; and Mason III, 6. Officers said another daughter, Martha, 8, was missing and presumed drowned. Others drowned in the incident included Trent Slezak, 5, and Eunice Marie Garner, 18. All were from Austin.

Two women died when their car was washed off a creek crossing near Kyle, west of Austin. They were Romana Molina, 40, and Carolina Figuera, 42, both of New Braunfels.

Three members of another family drowned in Austin when flood waters surged over a railroad crossing and shirked their car away. They were identified as Joe Rivas, 28; Joe Rivas Jr., 5, and Cynthia Rivas, 8. Juanita Garrett, of Schertz, Tex. drowned in a similar incident in Guadalupe County.

Lucille Smith White, 59, of Rosebud drowned late Saturday night when her car ran into a washed-out culvert after heavy rain in Falls County. The accident happened about one-fourth mile south of Cedar Spring, which is southeast of Waco.

Four persons were killed Saturday in a head-on collision seven miles east of Sulphur Springs on Interstate 30.

They were identified as Jacob McClinton, 42, of Youngstown, Ohio; Irene Pena, 29, and Velma Pena, 5, both of Phoenix, Ill.; and Guadalupe Ramos, 50, of Chicago.

Rocky's Chances Look Favorable In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some anti-abortionists and critics of Nelson A. Rockefeller's conduct during the Attica prison riot were ready to testify against his vice presidential confirmation.

Witnesses scheduled to testify today before the House Judiciary Committee included New York Assemblyman Arthur O. Eve, who filed a resolution to impeach then-New York Gov. Rockefeller after 43 persons were killed during the Attica prison riot. Other witnesses include a representative of the National Right to Life Committee, which opposes abortions, and Curtis B. Dall, chairman of Liberty Lobby, a conservative organization.

Rockefeller completed his initial testimony Friday. The House committee was scheduled to complete hearings next week and vote on his confirmation the week after.

The Senate Rules Committee approved Rockefeller's confirmation Friday nine to zero. Questioning before the House panel so far indicates only about six of the 38 committee members will vote against recommending

Arms-Reduction Pact Finally Locked In

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford returned from his Soviet summit meeting with an arms-reduction pact that an aide called "one of the most significant agreements since World War II."

The pact reached between the President and Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev in Vladivostok placed a numerical limit on the number of U.S. and Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles and submarinelunched missiles carrying multiple independently targeted warheads.

The agreement includes bombers for the first time.

AWAITS STATEMENT

It's understood that Ford is awaiting a written Soviet statement detailing the exact terms of the verbal agreement before announcing publicly the numbers of warheads and missiles systems involved.

"Ceilings on the strategic forces of both nations have been accepted," Ford told an airport welcoming audience Sunday night. "A good agreement that will serve the interests of the United States and the Soviet Union is within our grasp."

Ford will brief Democratic and Republican congressional leaders Tuesday and other members of Congress later in the week. One official indicated the President might reveal details of the agreement in a nationwide television address within a week.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen, who praised the agreement as one of the most significant since World War II, predicted that the summit would produce a SALT agreement that almost certainly will be signed next year.

Former President Richard M. Nixon "could not achieve this in five years" but Ford "achieved it in three months," Nessen said.

The agreement was called a breakthrough in strategic arms negotiations by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Kissinger told reporters in Vladivostok that the total number of Soviet missiles, bombers and other delivery systems would be below current Soviet strength. U.S. missiles in place in Europe would not be counted against the American total, he said.

STAND OFF

The Soviet Union has more and larger missiles, while the United States has more intercontinental bombers.

In a joint communique signed by Ford and Brezhnev in Vladivostok, a Soviet port city on the eastern coast, the two nations said a long-term nuclear weapons agreement "would be a significant contribution to improving relations between the United States and the U.S.S.S.R., to reducing the danger of war and to enhancing world peace."

The communique also expressed the leaders' concern about "the dangerous situation" in the Middle East and reaffirmed an intention to bring about "a just and lasting peace." It called for resumption of the Geneva peace conference as soon as possible.

Ford was greeted upon arrival at Andrews Air Force Base by his wife, who did not accompany him on the journey because she is recovering from breast cancer surgery, and one of his daughters, Susan, who brought along the family's dog, Liberty.

Dying Man's Wish Oked

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A former American Air Force sergeant, who says he is dying of cancer, has had his request for a permanent Philippines visa granted by President Ferdinand E. Marcos, an official said Saturday.

John Andrew Ellis, 28, of Boston came here with his Filipina wife and three children in October after he said doctors told him he had a form of cancer known as Hodgkin's disease and only three weeks to three years to live.

Ellis had claimed that the disease was service-connected but in September 1973, a veterans' appeals board in Washington, D.C., turned down his request for family benefits. He made an unsuccessful appeal to the Massachusetts Legislature last spring to receive a state pension.

Ellis said he made the move here because his family will receive $331 in monthly social security payments from the U.S. government after his death, enough to manage in the Philippines but not in the United States.

They are living in his wife's hometown of Cebu City, 300 miles south of here. Ellis met his wife in 1967 when he was assigned to the Mactan Air Force Base in Cebu.

Krogh Takes Rap For Bungled Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Egil "Bud" Krogh testified today that he — not Watergate coverup defendant John D. Ehrlichman — was responsible for the 1971 break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Under questioning by Ehrlichman's defense lawyer, William S. Frates, Krogh said that the break-in had been bungled and could be traced to the White House and so went beyond any instructions or authority he had from Ehrlichman.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica limited attempts by Frates to include former President Nixon in the discussion of who should be responsible for the plumbers operation.

"It was in every respect a botched operation," said Krogh, once a close family friend to Ehrlichman.

Frates sought to demonstrate that Ehrlichman's part in the Watergate cover-up was motivated by his concern that a national security operation — the Ellsberg break-in — would be exposed to public scrutiny.

Krogh headed a special White House investigative unit called the plumbers which carried off the break-in against California psychiatrist Dr. Lewis J. Fielding in an attempt to obtain Ellsberg's medical records.

Ehrlichman was convicted in an earlier trial for approving a "covert operation" against Fielding and Krogh has served four and one half months in jail for his part in the same crime.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica limited attempts by Frates to include former President Nixon in the discussion of who should be responsible for the plumbers operation.

"You mean anyone over 21 years of age even if they are experienced lawyers or businessmen, even if authorized by the President of the United States, they have to go along with it willy-nilly?" Sirica declared when Frates developed that Nixon had ordered creation of the plumbers.

Social Services Get Attention

Controversy surrounding child welfare services, a proposed joint-governmental tax appraisal agency, the city-county landfill and a federal program for on-the-job training for disadvantaged persons arose in County Commissioners Court this morning.

suggested men be named for the training positions, instead of women.

FURTHER STUDY
Mrs. Leslie V. Walter was present to take notes on the child welfare discussion and report to the Parent Teacher Association City Council.

But County Judge A.G. Mitchell told Mrs. Walter a committee was going to visit child welfare agencies in some other cities before the court considered the question.

Discussion of a proposed tax appraisal agency which would replace Southwestern Appraisal was postponed until next week. Mitchell wanted time to study the proposed contract and see what action the Big Spring city council takes.

Both Mitchell and Commissioner Simon (Cy) Terrazas objected to what they had read.

"You're flat taking your government away from the farmers and ranchers when you take it and give it to the city," Mitchell said.

CITE SIMILARITY
Terrazas questioned the legality of the proposal. Commissioner Jack Buchanan pointed to similarities with the agreement existing between the city, county and school system for appraisal by the firm in the courthouse.

And Commissioner Bill Crocker said Mrs. Zarah L. Bednar, county tax assessor-collector, said she would have a "stronger voice" under the proposed arrangement.

SAYS CITY BALKS
Mitchell accused the city of failing to uphold the agreement entered for the city-county landfill, forcing rural residents to dump on county roads.

City Manager Harry Nagel told him, Mitchell said, that the city did not have an employee who would work weekends and if the landfill was left open unattended youths would start fires.

"That's not what we agreed to," Mitchell said. "They haven't done a thing they said as usual."

"That's where our trouble is," Terrazas agreed. Mitchell said the city agreed to keep the landfill open seven days a week.

"People call me all weekend wanting to know where they can dump their stuff," Mitchell complained.

EMPLOYEE MATTER
Nabar Martinez told the court the county extension office and Peace Justice Gus Ochotorena Jr. could use federally-paid employees for 90-day or longer work-training sessions.

Killing Freeze 'About Right'

"We had just about the kind of frost that was needed for the cotton crop last night," Bill Fryrear, leader at the Big Spring Experiment Station, said today.

The temperature dipped below freezing at 1 a.m. this morning and was still down to 29 degrees at 8 a.m. at the station, with a low temperature of 27 degrees recorded.

The frost was apparently not that beneficial all over the county, though, according to Fryrear. Reports indicate that some parts of the county may not have received the killing freeze.

If the cotton leaves were killed last night, large scale cotton harvesting may begin in about two weeks.

UFO May Have Been Meteor

An object streaking across the east-southeastern sky about 6:30 p.m. Sunday prompted a couple of calls to the Big Spring Police Department reporting a UFO.

According to a witness, the object was small, moving very fast and was burning in a greenish white color. After only a second or two, it burned out, prompting the witness to theorize that the object was a meteor.

Is Sentenced

MOSCOW (AP) — A 25-year-old Armenian has been sentenced to seven years in jail for his alleged part in organizing an Armenian national party, physicist Andrei Sakharov reported today.

Miners Pick Up Clout

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Mine Workers negotiators, with some help from the Ford administration, have won further concessions from the coal industry in a proposed new three-year contract.

UMW President Arnold Miller must now sell the new package to his 38-member bargaining council, which balked at an earlier proposal. The council must approve any agreement before it can be submitted to the union's 120,000 members, who went on strike Nov. 12.

Union and industry officials declined to discuss details of the new package hammered out Sunday night. A union spokesman said its contents would not be released until after the bargaining council meets, on Tuesday at the earliest.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, who played a role in negotiating the new proposal, called it "an improved package."

The original proposal announced Nov. 13 contained wage and benefit increases of about 50 per cent over the three-year period. But council members told Miller to reopen negotiations and seek major changes, including wage increases higher than the 9 per cent proposed for the first year.

In a joint statement Sunday night, Miller and chief industry negotiator Guy Farmer said both sides had "agreed in principle on improvements in the tentative contract package."

"We intend to devote Monday to the task of finalizing contract language so that a complete and final document can be presented for the ratification process without delay," the statement said.

Miller issued a separate statement praising chief federal negotiator W.J. Usery Jr. "His even-handed treatment of both parties bridged the difficult gap between us at the crucial time," Miller said.

Usery and Simon intervened Sunday after noting that the mine workers and the industry had been unable to resolve their differences themselves.

The steel and railroad industries already have announced more than 20,000 layoffs because of the strike which enters its third week Tuesday. Government economists say a four-week strike could idle as many as 400,000 persons.

Strike Over, Buses Are Back On Road

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Greyhound buses idled by a one-week nationwide strike were back on the road again today after tentative agreement on a new contract which a union official said provides a 16 per cent increase in wages and benefits over three years.

T. E. Arnold

reached Sunday, also provides an over-all raise of 5 per cent in 1975 and again in 1976, he said.

Some 16,000 drivers and related employees, who walked out Nov. 18, began reporting to work within hours of the accord. Ratification votes by 31 union locals across the country were expected to be completed in about three weeks.

The strike had shut down regularly scheduled routes for the bus company, which serves an average 190,000 passengers each day.

Buses first began moving again in Buffalo, N.Y., Greyhound officials said. A check of terminals here and in other parts of the country revealed that some of the first runs were made without passengers.

All scheduled coaches were to be back in operation today, company officials said.

Drivers had been paid about $5.35 an hour or 21.8 cents a mile, whichever was greater, under a contract which expired Oct. 31. Brummitt said. An earlier reported figure of $5.76 an hour was in error, he added.

Hourly wages for drivers would increase by 11 cents the first year and 10 cents each of the following two years, he said. However, Brummitt explained that most drivers are paid by the mile and would be affected more by a first-year raise of 5.5 mills (a little over one-half cent) provided by the tentative pact.

The agreement also calls for mileage raises of 4 mills the second year and 3 mills the third, he said.

The largest hourly raise, 35 cents this year, 30 cents next year and 26 cents in 1976, would go to mechanics who "have been underpaid as skilled laborers," said Brummitt.

Officers Find Missing Man

Deputy sheriffs, police, six men on horses and members of the Big Spring Five Watters Club joined forces in the successful search for Walter Alexander, 75, Saturday night.

Alexander, who had just undergone an eye operation on his one good eye, was said missing from the Wasson Ranch south of Webb Air Force Base. He was last seen there at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, and a club member found Walter behind the 7-11 store on Wasson Road at 12:10 a.m., the sheriff's office reported.

Alexander, who was described as weak and cold, was taken to Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital.

Bobbies Seeking Bombs

LONDON (AP) — London police scoured public buildings today after Scotland Yard said it had reports that Ulster secessionists planned bombing attacks to coincide with the announcement of tough new measures against terrorism.

Six Irishmen accused of the fatal bomb attack in Birmingham were led into court through a furious crowd shouting "dirty Irish bastards" and "dirty Irish bastards." The six were returned to jail to await a hearing Thursday.

The blasts in crowded Birmingham pubs last Thursday killed 19 persons and wounded 184, and set off a wave of anti-Irish fury throughout Britain.

Home Secretary Roy Jenkins promised tough new laws the day after Thursday night's Birmingham bombings. He was expected to announce emergency laws outlawing the IRA and its political arm, Sinn Fein, in England, Scotland, and Wales. The IRA is outlawed in Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic, but Sinn Fein is legal.

Life Style, Beliefs Of Amish Examined By Hyperion Club

Life styles of the past and present, study theme of the 1905 Hyperion Club, was continued Thursday at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Coy Nalley, with Mrs. Miller Harris presiding.

"The Amish, an in-depth study of the Amish people, was presented by Mrs. Clement R. Jones and Mrs. Joe Whitten.

Mrs. Jones said the Amish are a segment of humanity which has chosen to live by fixed social customs within a machine civilization. Although totally shunning what are regarded as necessities of modern farming, including anything but horse power for draft power, the Amish farmers are some of the most prosperous.

"The outsider becomes aware of the distinctiveness of the Amish people when he observes the Amish team of horses, the carriages, the farm homesteads and the dress of the people," said Mrs. Jones.

All old orders maintain a practice of non-conformity to the world. The Amish are forbidden to engage in war, politics or in a business with an outsider as a partner. The core values of the community are religious beliefs. The hymn book dates from the 16th century and has never undergone a major revision. A prevalent mode of thought is "The old is the best, and the new is of the devil."

The basic social unit of the Amish community is a small, self-governing district containing 30 to 40 households. They take turns having bi-weekly religious services in their homes because there is no central building for ceremonial functions. The three types of clergy are bishop, minister and deacon. Married men are selected for these positions and serve on a lifetime, non-salaried basis. They may not rely on notes when speaking.

Self-sufficiency is a way of life, and woman's work is at home where there is a lack of time saving machinery.

"The Amish have no schools of higher learning and have built elementary schools to avoid the external influence that comes with centralized school systems. As soon as the law allows, Amish children are taken out of school for work at home.

"Recreation consists of barn raisings, wood cuttings, husking bees, quiltings, weddings and funerals," said Mrs. Jones.

The Amish repeatedly go to Washington, D.C. to protest social security assessments as they are opposed to receiving any kind of government aid such as pensions, subsidies, etc. They do not object to paying taxes, however.

The Amish were among the early settlers in Colonial

America, and they believe in full obedience to the rules and orders. Their 18 articles of faith include no wearing of bright colors, nothing ornamental or showy. No parting of hair among men or curling or waving among women. Women are to wear shawls, bonnets and capes in public, and aprons are worn at all times. A full beard should be worn by men after baptism. No radios, cards, party games, movies, fairs, etc. are allowed.

Amish children are taught two languages, English and German, and there are no words of courtesy or endearment.

The second part of the program was by Mrs. Joe Whitten, who took the part of "Rachel Yoder" to tell of her life as a young girl and bride.

Young people are encouraged to marry young, but secrecy surrounds the courtship until plans are announced two weeks before the wedding. Weddings always take place in the fall when the men are not busy in the fields; the ceremony lasting four hours. The groom lives in the bride's home for two weeks prior to the wedding, and the young couple lives with relatives until they can build a house. Parents do not attend weddings. They stay home and prepare the wedding feast.

The program was concluded with the question, "Can the Amish survive in a changing world?"

The club's next meeting will be Dec. 12 with Mrs. G. T. Hall as hostess.

Dear Abby

Abby Shares Her Favorite Recipes

DEAR READERS: If you want to treat your family to a marvelous dessert for Thanksgiving, this column is for you. Otherwise, skip DEAR ABBY today.

Nearly 15 years ago, I was honored at a dinner party at the Phoenix Hotel in Lexington, Kentucky. Pecan pie was served for dessert. But what pecan pie! Never had I tasted anything so delicious. After dinner I went to the kitchen to congratulate the pastry chef. He was so pleased, he gave me the recipe.

I tried it at home. Mine was every bit as good as his. And it was so easy to make that I wrote and asked permission to share the recipe with my readers. He cooperated, and I published it.

Notes came by the thousands saying, "That was the best pecan pie my family has ever tasted." So here is the recipe:

KENTUCKY PECAN PIE

1 cup white corn syrup
1 cup dark brown sugar
one-third tsp. salt
one-third cup melted butter (or margarine)
1 tsp. vanilla
3 whole eggs (slightly beaten)

1 heaping cup shelled whole pecans

Combine syrup, sugar, salt, butter, vanilla and mix well. Add slightly beaten eggs. Pour into a 9-inch UNBAKED pie shell. Sprinkle pecans over all. Bake in pre-heated 350 degrees oven for approximately 45 minutes. When cool, you may top with whipped cream or ice cream . . . but nothing tops this!

You don't care for pecan pie? Too rich? Well, here's an alternative for you. If you like cheesecake, you'll love this. It's super. But it requires a spring form pan.

ABBY'S CHEESECAKE

Crust: one-third cup powdered sugar
1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
¼ pound butter or margarine

Melt butter and add to graham cracker crumbs and sugar. Line the bottom of a spring form pan, packing firmly.

Mix well: 1 cup granulated sugar
8 eight-ounce packages Philadelphia cream cheese
1 generous teaspoon vanilla flavoring
4 eggs

Pour above ingredients into spring form pan (the crust is as yet unbaked) and bake in preheated oven at 350 degrees for approximately 50 minutes. Do not turn off oven. Remove cheesecake and top with one pint commercial sour cream and return to oven for another five minutes. Let cake cool. Top with one can (21 oz.) prepared pie filling or topping. (Take your choice of blueberry, cherry or strawberry.) Chill overnight.

Please let me know how your cheesecake and — or pecan pie turned out.

P.S. And don't forget to have one of the children say the blessing. (Or say it yourself.) Here is mine:

"Oh, heavenly Father, we thank Thee for food and remember the hungry. We thank Thee for health, and remember the sick. We thank Thee for friends, and remember the enslaved. May these remembrances stir us to service — that Thy gifts to us may be used for others. Amen."

Have a wonderful Thanksgiving, and may God bless you and yours.

LOVE,
ABBY

That's How It Was — With Women In '76

What were women doing at the time of the American Revolution?

That question, and others, was answered by Mrs. Jerry Dudley in a program

Moss Pupils Participate In Gardening

Twenty-two students in the Moss Elementary School participated in a gardening session held at the school by the Oasis Garden Club.

Working with the students in planting bulbs in containers were Mrs. Bill Conger, Mrs. Dub Rogers and Mrs. Henry Schaefer.

The children also discussed the many different varieties of bulbs, using the broad sense of the word bulb, to include corms, tubers and other bulb like organs.

On Dec. 19, Mrs. J. D. Leonard, Mrs. C. A. Aagesen and Mrs. Conger will have a Christmas party for the children in the program at the school.

entitled "The Forgotten Spirit of '76" which she presented Thursday to the 1948 Hyperion Club. The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Ben Bancroft.

Commenting that her report was "HERstory" rather than "HISTORY" Mrs. Dudley said, "In 1776, women did heavy labor, with feeding the family being the most urgent daily chore. There was also spinning, carding, weaving, quilting and the cutting and stitching of garments.

"Women were the usual doctors, and most men would rather trust themselves to a local woman rather than a young man with a medicine degree from Edinburgh who might kill them by bleeding or massive doses of calomel.

"The average woman had many children, not infrequently as many as 20, but the infant mortality rate was appalling. No frontier man wanted to live with a woman who might faint at the sight of blood or could not handle weapons in self defense.

"The thousands of women who worked and fought with the American Army and who suffered for the patriot cause, at least as much as the men they followed, have been totally blacked out of the historical record. These women nursed, mended, cleaned, carried water and even loaded and fired field pieces."

Mrs. Dudley said that women actually had more rights previous to 1776 than now and, to this day, they have not recovered all of the lost ground.

In 1940, Charles Francis Adams, grandson of Abigail and John, could write, "The heroism of the females of the Revolution has gone from memory with the generation that witnessed it and nothing, absolutely nothing, remains upon the ear of the young of the present day."

It was said that correcting this situation would be an excellent way to celebrate the Bicentennial.

Mrs. Frank Eldredge of Fort Worth was a guest at the meeting.

Wayes Feels Conference Must Revamp Bowl Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coach Woody Hayes of Rose Bowl-bound Ohio State thinks the Big Ten must change its procedure for selecting its representative to the New Year's Day classic.

"The selection now has become more important than the game," Hayes said Sunday before learning the Buckeyes were the Big Ten's choice in a secret Rose Bowl vote by conference athletic directors.

"We're going to have to change this thing. It's not right," he said. Hayes suggested the Big Ten adopt a plan such as the Pacific-8 uses in selecting the Rose Bowl team.

The Texas Aggies can clinch the host spot in the Cotton Bowl with a victory over hatted Texas, leaving the Longhorns with a Gator Bowl trip to Jacksonville, Fla., and Baylor with a wonderful record and no place to go.

Both Baylor and A&M are 5-3, but the Aggies smothered the Bears 20-0 in their head-on meeting. Texas is 4-2 and could share the crown if it defeats A&M and Rice upsets Baylor—but under those circumstances the Bears would still go to Dallas New Year's Day because they have never done so.

Texas A&M last visited the Cotton Bowl in 1967. Texas' string of six consecutive trips was ended Saturday when Baylor put a 31-14 haymaker on Southern Methodist.

After a good deal of back-slapping, someone wrote on the blackboard "Hook 'Em Horns" and that was the chant as soon as the team meeting broke up.

"I promised these guys before the season started that if they had a winning season they'd go to the Cotton Bowl or some bowl," Teaff said. "Now, Texas has got to win to get me off the hook."

Texas Coach Darrell Royal has been quoted as saying "If we can't go to the Cotton Bowl, I hope Baylor can...they've waited a long time."

Now the 'Horns have a chance to do the Baptists a favor. It won't be easy for the tough Aggies, who haven't defeated Texas in Austin since the Bear Bryant era of the 1950s.

Of course, Baylor hadn't beaten Texas in 18 years either until this season. Baylor's upset of the Longhorns set in motion the nerve-twanging windup to the tightest SWC race since 1960.

Jeffrey said "We weren't as emotional as we were against Texas, but to my mind this one was twice as important. The pressure is off us now and on A&M. They've got to beat Texas or we're going to the Cotton Bowl."

"You can just see this team grow in maturity and pose each week. It's so obvious. It all started against Florida State when we were behind 17-0 at the half and came back to win."

Bears Big Wish: 'Hook 'Em Horns'

The chant and the sign seemed a little ridiculous coming from a Baylor dressing room, but the point was quite clear what the Bears wanted Friday: "Hook 'Em Horns!"

"I've never pulled for Texas in my life but you'd better believe I will be this time," said Baylor Quarterback Neal Jeffrey.

"I really think Texas is going to win it," chipped in tailback Steve Beard.

"The Texas offense is going to be too tough," added kicking specialist Don Backhorn.

The final script for the 1974 Southwest Conference football campaign will be written in a 48-hour span starting at high noon Friday in Austin before the national television cameras and some 77,000 fans.

After a good deal of back-slapping, someone wrote on the blackboard "Hook 'Em Horns" and that was the chant as soon as the team meeting broke up.

Dallas Not Counted Out In NFL Eastern Playoffs

By The Associated Press

The Miami Dolphins have been submerged by the New York Jets — and now it's sink or swim for the defending National Football League champions.

Shocked 17-14 Sunday by the Jets, the Dolphins were thrust into a flaming three-way fight for the National Football Conference's Eastern Division title.

With just three games left in the regular season, the Dolphins find themselves treading water with the Buffalo Bills and just a kick or two ahead of the New England Patriots.

The Bills, 15-10 conquerors of the Cleveland Browns, are tied for first place with the Dolphins, each with 8-3 records. The Patriots, 27-17 winners over the Baltimore Colts, moved within a game of the top at 7-4.

Most of the other races in the National Football League look almost as tenuous.

The Minnesota Vikings became an uncertain leader in the NFC center by losing a 20-17 nerve-thriller to the Los Angeles Rams, front-runner in the NFC West. The Green Bay Packers knocked off the San Diego Chargers 34-0 and the Detroit Lions, who beat the Chicago Bears 34-17, each climbed within hailing distance of the Vikings — only one game back. The St. Louis Cardinals and Washington Redskins are running 1-2 in the NFC

East, and not very far apart, either. The Cardinals, who beat the New York Giants 23-

21, hold a one-game lead over the Redskins, who battered the Philadelphia Eagles 26-7.

The Dallas Cowboys still have a slight chance in that race and kept their hopes alive by stopping the Houston Oilers 10-0.

The Cincinnati Bengals, with a shot in the AFC Central Division, handily defeated the Kansas City Chiefs 33-6 and moved within a game of the division-leading Pittsburgh Steelers. The Steelers face the New Orleans Saints tonight.

Major Undefeated List Narrowed Down To Pair

By The Associated Press

Past! Have you heard Ohio State's going to the Rose Bowl again?

That was the outcome of this year's performance of 'I've Got A Secret by the Big Ten athletic directors, a procedure which is becoming almost as traditional and controversial as the annual Ohio State-Michigan showdown itself.

Ohio State, ranked fourth in The Associated Press poll, won Saturday's shootout over fourth-ranked and previously unbeaten Michigan 12-10 on four field goals by Tom Klaban.

The score of Sunday's vote was not disclosed. Only Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Dake and the conference attorney know for sure. Even the respective athletic directors weren't informed of the final count and they promised not to divulge their individual votes... so it should be at least a few more hours until the tally leaks out. Ohio State won a double-header last year — 6-4 over Michigan in the athletic directors' vote and 42-21 over Southern Cal in the Rose Bowl.

The Pacific-8 Conference doesn't need any such silliness to decide Ohio State's Rose Bowl opponent. It will be Southern California. Isn't it always?

The eighth-ranked Trojans saw to it that they'll be in Pasadena to meet the Buckeyes on New Year's Day for the third year in a row by trouncing UCLA 34-9.

Elsewhere, No. 1-ranked Oklahoma rallied behind a 482-yard ground assault to beat No. 6 Nebraska 28-14 while fifth-ranked Notre Dame ack-acked the Air Force 35-0. The other Top Ten teams were idle — second-ranked Alabama, No. 7 Auburn, No. 9 Texas A&M and No. 10 Penn State.

Stanford upended No. 19 California 22-20 on Mike Langford's 50-yard field goal at the final gun while the other teams in the Second Ten — No. 12 Miami of Ohio, No. 13 North Carolina State, No. 17 Texas, No. 18 Pitt and No. 20 Florida — have either finished their regular seasons or were not scheduled.

The number of teams with perfect records was reduced to Oklahoma and Alabama when Harvard scored with 15 seconds left to beat Yale 21-16 and grab a share of the Ivy League title.

UNDER PRESSURE — Dallas Cowboys' quarterback Roger Staubach (12) under pressure from Houston Oilers' Elvin Bethes (65) and Tody Smith (85) during the second quarter of the NFL game at Houston Sunday afternoon. Staubach's pass went incomplete. The Cowboys took the game 10-0.

Cowboy Defense Superb

HOUSTON (AP) — Just when the Houston Oilers were becoming the Cinderella darlings of the National Football League, the clock struck midnight in the Astrodom Sunday.

The Dallas Cowboys' Doomsday Defense played one of its best games of the season and emerged with a 10-0 victory over the Oilers and kept very slim hopes alive for a post-season playoff berth.

At the final tick of the clock, poof went Houston's four-game winning streak and fantasies of a wild card playoff berth. Their sparkling streak had turned into an ordinary 5-6 record.

Sports At-A-Glance

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Top-ranked Texas A&I University, 11-0, will be host to No. 5 Cameron University and third-ranked Elon College will meet Henderson State Dec. 7 in the football semifinals of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics' Division I.

Grambling, ranked second in the final NAIA regular season poll, chose an appearance in the Pelican Bowl at Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 7 against the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference representative rather than participate in the NAIA playoffs.

Texas A&I, at Kingsville, won the Lone Star Conference with its perfect record after finishing 2-8 last year.

Cameron, of Lawton, Okla., will make it first NAIA playoff appearance under first-year Coach John Linville. It lost its first two games and then streaked to a 9-2 record.

Elon, N.C., and Henderson, of Arkadelphia, Ark., will play at Burlington, N.C. Both are 10-1.

Elon, Carolinas Conference champion, lost in the NAIA Champion Bowl last year to Abilene Christian. Henderson, making its first appearance in the playoffs, is Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference champion.

CARACAS (AP) — South Africa's Bobby Cole, never one to take a big lead for granted, worried his way to a double victory in the 22nd World Cup Golf Tournament.

"I really wasn't very sure we would win," said Cole after his victory Sunday. "You know, if you haven't done it before you're not sure what you can do."

Cole and teammate Dale Hayes combined to give South Africa team honors by five strokes over the Japanese team, and Cole captured the individual title by five shots over Japan's Junbo Ozaki.

Cole, 26, and the 22-year-old Hayes became the youngest pair ever to win the World Cup.

Cole fired a closing two-under-par 68 over the 6,763-yard Lagunita Country Club course for a 72-hole total of 271. Hayes finished with a 72 for 283, giving the South Africans a 554 total, six shots below par.

The United States, which had putting problems all week, finished third at 563 with Hale Irwin winding up third in individual play at 283 and Lee Trevino two shots back at 285.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — If the Pittsburgh Steelers aren't frightened by the New Orleans Saints, at least they admit they are interested.

Tonight's national television clash sends the splendid defense of the Steelers against a blossoming New Orleans offense in a contest that could bear heavily on Pittsburgh's Super Bowl hopes.

Though a definite underdog, the Saints have the momentum and health — except for a couple of aching kickers slightly damaged in a minor traffic accident Sunday while en route to practice.

Punter Tom Blanchard came out of it with a bruised ankle and field goal specialist Bill McClard had a bruised kicking leg. Both were scheduled to play.

New Orleans doesn't exactly boast a 4-6 record, but the Steelers don't want to be deceived. Last Sunday, the Saints suddenly put together an offense that trampled another championship contender, Los Angeles 20-7.

ALPINE — Sands' girls 'A' team wheeled by Alpine, 54-41 in a game in conjunction with the Big Bend Cane Clinic here Saturday.

Ann Nichols of Sands neared 29 points.

In the defensive drill Erlinda Calvio, placed second. Connie Hughes and Cindy Shaw were awarded third and fourth spots in the tire jump.

Sands has three games scheduled tonight on the Mustang court. The "A" and "B" boys and "A" girls are to compete against Tahoka.

First game is lined up for 5:30 p.m.

Together, Two Women Make Quite A Person

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "To put it rather coldly," said Mrs. Lynne Scroggins, "I supply the brains and Margie supplies the muscles. We're a team. Between us, we make a whole person."

TWO TOGETHER MAKE ONE — (AP WIREPHOTO) Dynamic, restless Lynne Scroggins, crippled for years by a creeping, irreversible form of muscular dystrophy, says she would not be alive if it were not for Margie, the severely retarded young woman who is leaning on the back of her wheelchair. Mrs. Scroggins says she supplies the brains, Margie the muscles, and between them they are a whole person.

Nixon Is Set For Checkup

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A court-appointed medical team today checks whether former President Richard M. Nixon is well enough to testify at the Watergate cover-up trial.

The first steps are to meet with Nixon's surgeon and to examine medical reports, Dr. Charles Hufnagel, head of the three-man team, said after arrival here under order of the Watergate trial judge.

If a study of Nixon's medical records indicates a physical examination might cause excessive stress, "we would so state and not proceed," Hufnagel said.

Hufnagel said the three physicians would meet with Nixon's surgeon, Dr. Eldon Hickman, at Memorial Hospital Medical Center of Long Beach at 9 a.m. PST today.

If medical records are favorable, the trio will examine Nixon at his San Clemente estate, probably sometime today.

Their report on whether Nixon is healthy enough to give testimony is to be made by Friday to Judge John J. Sirica of the U.S. District Court in Washington.

"We would like to spare Mr. Nixon all the stress possible," Hufnagel told an airport news conference in Los Angeles Sunday.

Hufnagel said the physicians would arrive at their opinion much as they would determine if a disabled employe could return to work.

Nixon underwent surgery Oct. 29 to prevent blood clots from breaking loose in his phlebitis-stricken left leg and travelling to his heart and lungs, where they could be fatal.

The 61-year-old former chief executive was in critical condition for six days after the operation and later had reports of unexplained jumps in his blood pressure at times of physical or mental stress. He returned to his San Clemente home Nov. 14.

Hufnagel, chief of surgery at Georgetown University Hospital in Washington, was selected by Judge Sirica to head the panel. The other doctors are Dr. John J. Spittel Jr., 49, of the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., and Dr. Richard Starr Ross, 50, of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md.

Size Of Lending Fund Questioned By Solon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon faces questions from the Joint Congressional Economic Committee about United States participation in a new $25 billion international lending fund to help countries caught in the energy crunch.

Simon's appearance before the committee today follows Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's statement earlier this month that the $25 billion would be for 1975 alone and that the U.S. contribution would be $8 billion.

The fund would be financed by the world's industrialized nations to help participating countries cope with problems caused by the steep price rise in oil imports. Italy is regarded as one of the first beneficiaries of such a plan.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of the House subcommittee on international economics, said he wanted to know why the fund was so large, how the United States will raise its share and what will be done to require nations receiving the loans to curb their oil import needs.

Reuss said in a statement he also wanted to know if the proposal would go into effect before Congress approved U.S. participation in the planned International Energy Agency, which was launched in Paris Nov. 18.

Simon's testimony will be followed Wednesday by that of Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns. The committee also has invited Thomas O. Enders, the State Department's economic and business chief, to appear later.

Kissinger said in a speech Nov. 14 in Chicago that the loan facility would be used to redistribute among the industrialized nations the billions of dollars being reinvested in the West by the oil-rich nations.

He said this should be accompanied by a speedup in national programs to conserve energy to cut dependence on oil imports to no more than one-fifth of the industrialized world's total energy consumption.
