LAY ALONGSIDE BODIES OF HER SLAIN FAMILY

Double Murder-Suicide

GREENFIELD, Wis. (AP) — Mary Jansen, 9, lay alongside the bodies of her slain family for nearly two days. She believed she would also die of the bullet wounds inflicted by her mother.

DON'T BLAME MOM
But she lived, and told ambulance attendants on her way to the hospital Tuesday: "Don't blame mother for the shootings."

Police said the girl's mother, Mildred Jansen, apparently despondent over the death of her husband in an industrial accident two months ago, shot and killed her own mother, Mary's brother and herself.

Mary was shot three times, twice in the chest and once in the shoulder. Her condition was described as serious but stable.

"She knew her mother wanted everyone to be in heaven with dad for Thanksgiving," Mary's fifth grade teacher said after a conversation with the child.

WENT RED
Police in this Milwaukee suburb said Mrs. Jansen, 39, David, 5, and Mrs. Jansen's mother, Helen Bronkalla, 71, each died of a bullet wound in the chest.

They were shot Sunday evening when Mary, a slender, black-haired girl, remembers hearing a noise.

"Everything went red" and she "couldn't stand any more," she told police.

Police said Mary and David were shot as they stood in the bathroom, and Mrs. Bronkalla was shot in the hallway just outside as she ran to their side. Mary's mother placed a pillow under each victim's head, then turned the .32 caliber pistol on herself.

Police believe that Mary lay in the bathroom for about 43 hours before she answered the telephone late Tuesday afternoon. She told the caller, a cousin, that "mommy shot everybody." Police Sgt. James Scheidt said.

SORRY
The cousin called Mrs. Jansen's sister, who went to the home and discovered the bodies. She called her husband, who called police.

"She was pretty much resigned to the fact that she was going to die, and she was just hoping, wishing for it to hurry up," a police spokesman said of Mary. "She thought she was going to die."

One of four notes addressed to the police pleaded for forgiveness:

"No one is responsible but me. If any one of the four of us survives this, all I own and possess goes to them. Nothing to the state. I'm sorry everyone."

"My children are small so I'm sure God will receive them. Mom, I'm sure God will receive you too. God help us, forgive me, Mildred Jansen."

OH, HAPPY DAY — Mr. and Mrs. John A. Durkin and 3-year-old daughter, Shelagh, were all smiles this morning at the New Hampshire State House. Durkin, 38, was declared the official winner of the U. S. Senate race against U. S. Rep. Louis C. Wyman.

Wins Recount By 10 Votes

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Democrat John A. Durkin, a former state insurance commissioner and self-styled consumer advocate, has won the recount of New Hampshire's U.S. Senate race by 10 votes.

Secretary of State Robert L. Stark said today the recount of the closest statewide race in New Hampshire history showed that Durkin received 110,924 votes to 110,914 for U.S. Rep. Louis C. Wyman, a Republican.

Wyman had gone into the recount 542 votes ahead in official returns.

Stark said he would certify Durkin as the election winner with the Secretary of the U.S. Senate.

Any appeal first would go to the state Ballot Law Commission, but the decision on a winner might ultimately be up to the Senate itself.

A Durkin victory would mean that the new Senate would be made up of 62 Democrats and 38 Republicans, a gain of four seats for the Democrats, assuming that a recount in North Dakota confirms Sen. Milton R. Young as the winner in his reelection bid.

If the election is upheld, New Hampshire would have two Democrats in the U.S. Senate for the first time since the Republican party was founded in the 1850s.

Durkin and Wyman ran for the seat of Republican Norris Cotton, who retired. Democrat Thomas J. McIntyre has held the state's other U.S. Senate seat since January 1967.

Contacted at his home in Manchester, Wyman said he would appeal the election to the state Ballot Law Commission. If he fails there, Wyman would have the option of taking his case to the U.S. Senate. Under the Constitution, the Senate is the final arbiter of who is seated.

More than 32,000 ballots have been contested by both sides in the recount.

Man May File Injunction Suit Over Rate Boost

COAHOMA — At least one customer of the Coahoma-Sand Springs area has paid his new water bill under protest. He wanted the City of Coahoma to reconsider.

On the current bills, Coahoma, which lost a suit brought against it by the Howard County Water Control District No. 1, for arrears payment raised the rates $4 a month across the board.

"It is my opinion that your letter is not truthful in many respects and is very misleading in others," wrote Harvey C. Hooser Jr., attorney and Sand Springs resident. "I do not consider a $4 increase justified, but arbitrary and unreasonable."

"I am paying my bill under protest, and I think it is only just to tell you I am contemplating filing an injunction suit against the City (of Coahoma, which bills both Coahoma and Sand Springs residents) to prevent such increase."

The World At-A-Glance

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The vote could come late today on the cliffhanger of the General Assembly's current session — the Chinese-African bid to oust Cambodian President Lon Nol's pro-American government from the United Nations and seat Peking-based Norodom Sihanouk's exile regime. The United States and its supporters favor an alternate measure asking both sides in the Cambodian conflict to hold peace talks with the assistance of U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The father of 10-year-old Jennifer Schrikker, whose heart was used in an historic transplant operation, said today he is trying to raise about $150 to bury his daughter. Frederick Arthur Schrikker, 38, said he is seeking the financial aid of heart specialist Dr. Christian Barnard. Barnard implanted Jennifer's heart in a 58-year-old man, making him the first man ever to have two hearts.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico has broken diplomatic relations with Chile, culminating a period of hostility that began with the violent overthrow of the leftist Allende government more than a year ago. The government announced the break Tuesday night in a brief statement that said the Mexican charge d'affaires had been recalled. Mexico and Chile have had no ambassadors in each other's capital since the September 1973 overthrow of President Salvador Allende.

LONDON (AP) — The crown prince of Ethiopia, once designated as the African country's next king, says last weekend's execution of 60 Ethiopian officials was a mockery of justice. "This is an affront to all Ethiopians, young and old, who are struggling to create a just system in our country," said Asfa Wossen, 58-year-old son of deposed Emperor Haile Selassie.

Jobless Insurance Claims Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 14 per cent jump in new claims for unemployment insurance in October helped push the government's indicator of future economic trends into the sharpest sustained drop since the Korean war, the Commerce Department reported today.

The Commerce Department said its index of leading indicators dropped 1.3 per cent in October.

At the same time, the department revised what had originally been reported as a 2.5 per cent drop in September to show instead a 3.3 per cent drop for the month.

October marked the third straight month of decline in the index, which now stands 5.3 per cent below where it was in July.

The September drop was the worst monthly decline since the government began compiling the index in 1948, surpassing the previous largest drop of 2.9 per cent in June 1951.

The latest decline is the first time since 1970 that the index has declined for three straight months.

The index is composed of 12 elements designed to reveal in which direction the economy is heading.

Although the index has sometimes provided confusing signals during periods of economic strength, its downturns are considered more reliable.

The report issued today was based on eight of the elements of the index and six indicated declining economic activity. A revised report will be issued at a later date when figures are available on the other four elements.

New claims for unemployment insurance totaled 396,000, an increase of 50,000 over the previous month.

Workers still on the job sustained a decrease of one-tenth of an hour in their average work week, indicating paychecks shrank from lack of overtime. The work-week averaged 40 hours in October.

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House sources indicated that Ford might be willing to accept a 20 per cent increase for the four million eligible post-Korea veterans and seven million Vietnam era veterans.

At a meeting of Republican senators after the veto Tuesday, not a single senator raised his hand when the GOP leadership asked who would support the veto, according to a participant. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford had no illusions that the veto would be sustained in Congress.

The veto override vote will come in the House next Tuesday. If the House votes to override, the Senate will vote on the issue the next day.

The President's veto message said his veto decision "has not been an easy one" but that it was necessary to avoid adding another $500 million to the budget.

He again urged Congress to vote an 18.2 per cent increase, which he said would give a veteran with a wife and child $352 a month compared with the current $298. The vetoed bill would provide $366.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — It has been three years since the skyjacker called Dan Cooper parachuted from a Northwest Airlines jet with $200,000 in ransom money and wrote himself into the folklore of the Pacific Northwest.

TWO TO GO
Two more and he'll be home free — if he's alive.

"The federal statute of limitations on that crime is five years," said Sidney Lezak, U.S. attorney in Portland.

According to the U.S. Department of Transportation, Cooper is the only person ever to hijack a domestic airliner who has not been killed or brought to justice.

"We know nothing more about him today than we did at 11 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 24, 1971," said Julius Matson, special agent in charge of the Portland FBI office.

These are the events of that Thanksgiving Eve as authorities reconstructed them:

A man who gave his name as Dan Cooper bought a one-way ticket at Portland International Airport to Seattle aboard Northwest Airlines flight 305 which originated in Washington, D.C.

HAVE BOMB
In the air, Cooper handed stewardess Tina Mucklow a note saying he had a bomb. Following Cooper's orders, Miss Mucklow sat beside him and wrote down instructions to the pilot.

He wanted 10,000 $20 bills to be delivered to him at Seattle in a laundry sack, along with two sets of parachutes. Otherwise, he would blow up the plane, he said.

Airline officials and FBI agents complied and Cooper allowed the passengers and two of the three stewardesses to disembark at Seattle.

Then he ordered the plane to fly south to Reno, Nev. The crew was to stay in the cockpit.

After takeoff from Seattle, a red light flashed in the cockpit indicating the plane's rear boarding ramp had been unlatched.

LANDED IN RENO
When the plane landed in Reno, the rear ramp was down and Cooper, the sack of money and one set of parachutes were gone. The skyjacker, who had carefully reclaimed his note to the stewardess, had left no fingerprints.

Authorities pinpointed Cooper's jump point near Woodland, Wash. The little town was transformed into a bustling command post for a small army of newsmen, FBI agents, police and soldiers from Ft. Lewis, Wash.

With planes, helicopters, jeeps and track dogs, they combed the vast, densely wooded region northeast of Woodland.

The skyjacker had left the plane clad only in a light business suit and street shoes. He parachuted into the blackness of a raging thunderstorm, into a 200 m.p.h. wind and 7-degrees-below-zero temperatures.

He could not have survived, the police reasoned. They were simply looking for a body and a bag of money and that could wait until the spring thaw. A week later, the searchers went home.

Then, late in March 1972, 300 soldiers combed the thawing terrain for 18 days and found not a trace of Dan Cooper or his bag of money.

Matson says the FBI is still actively searching for Cooper. "I just wish we had a development, something to go on," he says.

CONGRESSIONAL OVERRIDE LOOMS

GI Benefits Bill Vetoed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ford objected to a provision in the bill to allow 45 months of undergraduate study instead of the present maximum 36. He said "the present entitlement of four academic years is sufficient time to permit a veteran to obtain his baccalaureate degree and enable him to adjust to civilian life."

He objected also to a provision that would establish a $600-a-year loan program. He said this is "inefficient compared to available guaranteed loan programs which provide substantially more assistance to the veterans at less cost to the taxpayer."

And Ford said he wants higher benefits to start Jan. 1 instead of being retroactive to Sept. 1, as the vetoed bill did.

By substituting his proposal for the vetoed bill, Ford said Congress would save $500 million of the $814 million first-year costs of the vetoed bill.

The $500 million was included in a $1.1 billion cut-back in the Veterans Administration budget that Ford proposed on Tuesday as part of a total of $4.6 billion in budget reductions in government departments.

PENSION
The balance of the VA budget cut would be accounted for by halting the plan to increase from 8 to 10 years the period that veterans have to use their benefits and to reduce planned pension increases.

Predictions that Congress would override the veto of the veterans benefits bill came from Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., and Rep. William Jennings Bryan Dorn, chairman of the Senate and House Veterans Affairs committees.

House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., said he will vote to override and was confident the House will do so.

Noting that Congress overrode two Ford vetoes last week and that similar action awaited the veterans bill, Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., said Ford "is ill-served by disastrous defeats on vetoes. I'm greatly disturbed by it."

Keeping Bees Is Sweet Idea

LA HABRA, Calif. (AP) — With the price of sugar soaring, a Presbyterian minister says that keeping bees is a sweet idea.

The Rev. John A. Baxter, 47, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church at La Mirada, is producing honey with three hives in his backyard.

"We use honey every day, and at present prices it makes sense to produce your own," he said, pouring a spoonful into his cup of tea.

The Rev. Mr. Baxter has been raising bees for about a year. One Sunday he took a hive to church and preached a sermon about the bees' virtues.

Five years ago the price of honey was about 15 cents a pound. Today it is 43 to 53 cents, depending on quality.

At these prices, a lot of people are considering keeping bees.

But Dixon M. Hunter, a biologist for the San Bernardino County Department of Agriculture warned they can get stung in more ways than one.

"An amateur who goes into this business will lose his shirt," he said.

While the price of honey has risen sharply, the cost of supplies has gone up even faster. A queen bee could be bought for $1.50 only 18 months ago but now may cost $5 or $6. A starter package, containing workers as well as a queen, has gone from $6 or $8 to as high as $19.

Buying a few hives for your backyard doesn't make you a professional, cautioned Hunter. You should have between 800 and 1,000 hives for a full-time business, and most professionals have around 2,000.

With that many hives, you don't have time to coddle your bees, and you have to expect to get stung frequently, Hunter said.

"There's a lot to beekeeping," he added. "A lot of work other than set them out and go get the honey."

Bees perform a double service. In addition to making honey, they fertilize crops.

Without the aid of bees, Hunter said, farmers raising alfalfa seed would only get half the crop. Bees are also important for almonds, cucumbers and melons.

Bill Huston, owner of the Huston Honey Co. of Corona, said the bee business is experiencing "the strangest marketing conditions I have ever seen."

A few years ago, he said, alfalfa was selling so cheaply that no one was raising it. This year alfalfa seed has jumped in price and farmers have been paying as much as $12 a hive to rent bees for pollenization.

Inflation Hampering Farmer's Operations

Uncertain farm market conditions and a presently poor cotton prices drew the attention of Delbert Donelson, vice president of State National Bank, in a talk at the monthly agricultural breakfast this morning.

"We're not even sure we can sell the cotton, much less at a good price," Donelson said.

But most farmers will be selling in this market from "strong financial positions" due to several years of normal prices and moderate expenses and a tremendous crop and price last year, Donelson said.

Excess profits from last year were invested in short-term liquid assets like savings and loan accounts and treasury bills, equity in equipment, and in real

Kidnaping Raps Filed

FORT WORTH (AP) — Two Dallas men have been charged with aggravated kidnaping and armed robbery in connection with an alleged extortion attempt last week at the First National Bank.

Charged and ordered held on $15,000 bond each were Paul Johnson Jr., 19, and Larry Neal Wesley, 22.

The incident occurred Friday when John Morrow, a Bell Helicopter employee, and his family were abducted from their home at gunpoint.

Morrow's wife, Dorothy, and their child were left in a house while Morrow and another man went to the bank, police said.

At the bank, the man with Morrow demanded that he withdraw about $2,000 from a savings account. Morrow bolted into the teller's cage and the abductor fled.

Investigators arrested three men and a woman. Morrow's wife and child were released unharmed.

estate, the banker said.

Several years of eight and nine per cent inflation are beginning to be felt by farmers, Donelson said. He noted that farmers cannot negotiate prices for equipment and material in this era of shortages, but must sell their products at prices controlled by a market, not themselves.

"The era of the 50s and 60s was fairly stable," Donelson said.

Economists could "plug" eight or ten factors into a computer and arrive, with 80 per cent accuracy, a projection on the market, Donelson said.

Now, Donelson said, maybe 100 factors influence the market.

"One political decision can make everything go wild, as we have seen in the last year," Donelson said.

Before, cotton price fluctuation of 2 cents in a month was termed a "wild" market, he said. Changes of percentages several times in one week are no longer uncommon.

While it is not true locally, Donelson said some banks have difficulty justifying farm loans when they have the alternative of government insured loans.

Asked for comment, Bill Read, president of Coahoma State Bank, said, "What we miss mostly this year are those government checks."

He was referring to less adequate amounts supplied by the federal government for a floor on farm products.

Bruce Griffith, county extension agent, said the next agricultural breakfast is scheduled Dec. 17.

'LITTLE GIANT' Heartbeat Away From Presidency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Day after day since the evening of Aug. 8, a team of neatly dressed Secret Service agents has been following Carl Albert as he moves through the routine of the Speaker of the House.

From his apartment in a high-rise complex in Arlington, Va., to his suite in the Rayburn House Office Building, from the Rayburn building to his offices on the second floor of the Capitol.

From the Capitol offices down one floor in the elevator, through the revolving doors, to the waiting limousine. From his office to, perhaps, a reception or some other Capitol Hill social function and, eventually back across the Potomac River to his home. The agents are constantly in his shadow.

One of these days — the day the nation has a new vice president — the agents won't be there anymore, Carl Bert Albert will no longer be one heartbeat away from the presidency.

As Speaker of the House, Albert has been first in line for the presidency since Richard M. Nixon left the White House and Gerald F. Ford entered it, just as he was during the 58 days between Spiro Agnew's resignation and Ford's swearing in as vice president.

With Ford out of the country, as he was for one week on his Far East journey and for a one-day trip to Mexico, Albert has been the top official in the United States.

The unique position, which he describes as "one of the spare tires of the presidency," is a bit easier now than it was one year ago.

That burden last year was increased because the President's own hold on the office was becoming tenuous.

"I realized that if I did anything that gave any impression that I was trying, through the impeachment process and the resignation process to veto an election, it would cause a major and perhaps permanent division in this country," Albert said in a speech at Oklahoma State University.

"I have had no problem with my conscience and I have come through the experience feeling that I could have done no better," he said.

Sitting at his desk, Albert discussed his new, but temporary, job as President Ford's understudy.

"I don't feel like some shadow of gloom is hanging over me," said the man known as the "little giant" in the House because of his 5-foot-4 stature. "The chances of Jerry Ford, who's a terribly athletic man, of anything happening to him are very slim. So, I've got mathematics on my side."

But maybe, Albert thinks, he should never have been in this position. Maybe the Congress, in writing the 25th Amendment to the Constitution, should have provided for an election of a new vice president, rather than the appointment and confirmation of a presidential nominee.

Meanwhile, Albert has waited, next in line, with the president pro tem of the Senate, James O. Eastland, D-Miss., right behind him.

"It might have been a good thing when they enacted the 25th Amendment if they had thought to have an election at a reasonable length of time if you were a long way from an election," Albert said.

Should the odds fail him, Albert admits he has a few ideas about what he would do as president; as a Democrat inheriting a Republican administration; as a chief executive who, for the second time in a row, had not been elected to the position by the people.

"I have my own ideas but I would rather not speculate on that. I would rather not talk out loud about that because it might cause me and others some problems," he said.

Albert, a member of the freshman congressional class that included John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon, professes no desire to move to 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

The bidding: North East South West 3♦ Pass 3NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♠.

For the most part, contract bridge is a relatively simple game—it is the players who make it complicated.

Instead of taking the easy way to set the contract, East posed a problem for his partner, with the result that declarer scored a game that should have been defeated.

North's opening bid of three clubs does not have the unqualified admiration of this department, though at this vulnerability and with such a good suit, this type of preempt is not unreasonable.

No fault can be found with South's decision to convert to three no trump, and the final contract was a sound undertaking.

Faced with a choice of major suits to lead, West selected his fourth-best spade rather than the top of his heart sequence. He reasoned that he had to develop tricks quickly, and if he found partner with either the ace or king of spades, his side might develop three tricks on the go. East's king won the first trick, and the return of the deuce was taken by declarer's ace. Declarer ran the nine of clubs to the king, and East returned the three of spades, allowing the defenders to score two spade tricks to complete the defensive book.

Unfortunately, this straddled West with the lead, and he didn't know which red suit to attack. He chose to exit "safely" with the jack of hearts and East went to bed with his two diamond tricks.

East maintained that his lead of the three of spades on the third round of the suit, rather than the five, was a suit preference signal for diamonds—had he wanted a heart led, he would first have played the five and then the three. In top flight circles he might have had a valid point. However, I fault East fully for not defeating the contract.

At rubber bridge, an extra 90 points does not make much of a difference one way or the other—the main object is to defeat the contract.

East should have reasoned that, after declarer held up the ace of spades at trick one, West became marked with both the queen and jack. Thus, East could count five tricks for the defense if he simply cashed the ace of diamonds after winning the king of clubs and before returning another spade. That would have stopped the opponents—from becoming vulnerable and at the same time would have struck a blow for partnership confidence by relieving partner of a difficult decision.

Guilty Of Killing Basketball Player

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A former Missouri college student convicted in the 1973 fatal shooting of Missouri basketball player Calvin Patterson was sentenced Monday to eight years in prison.

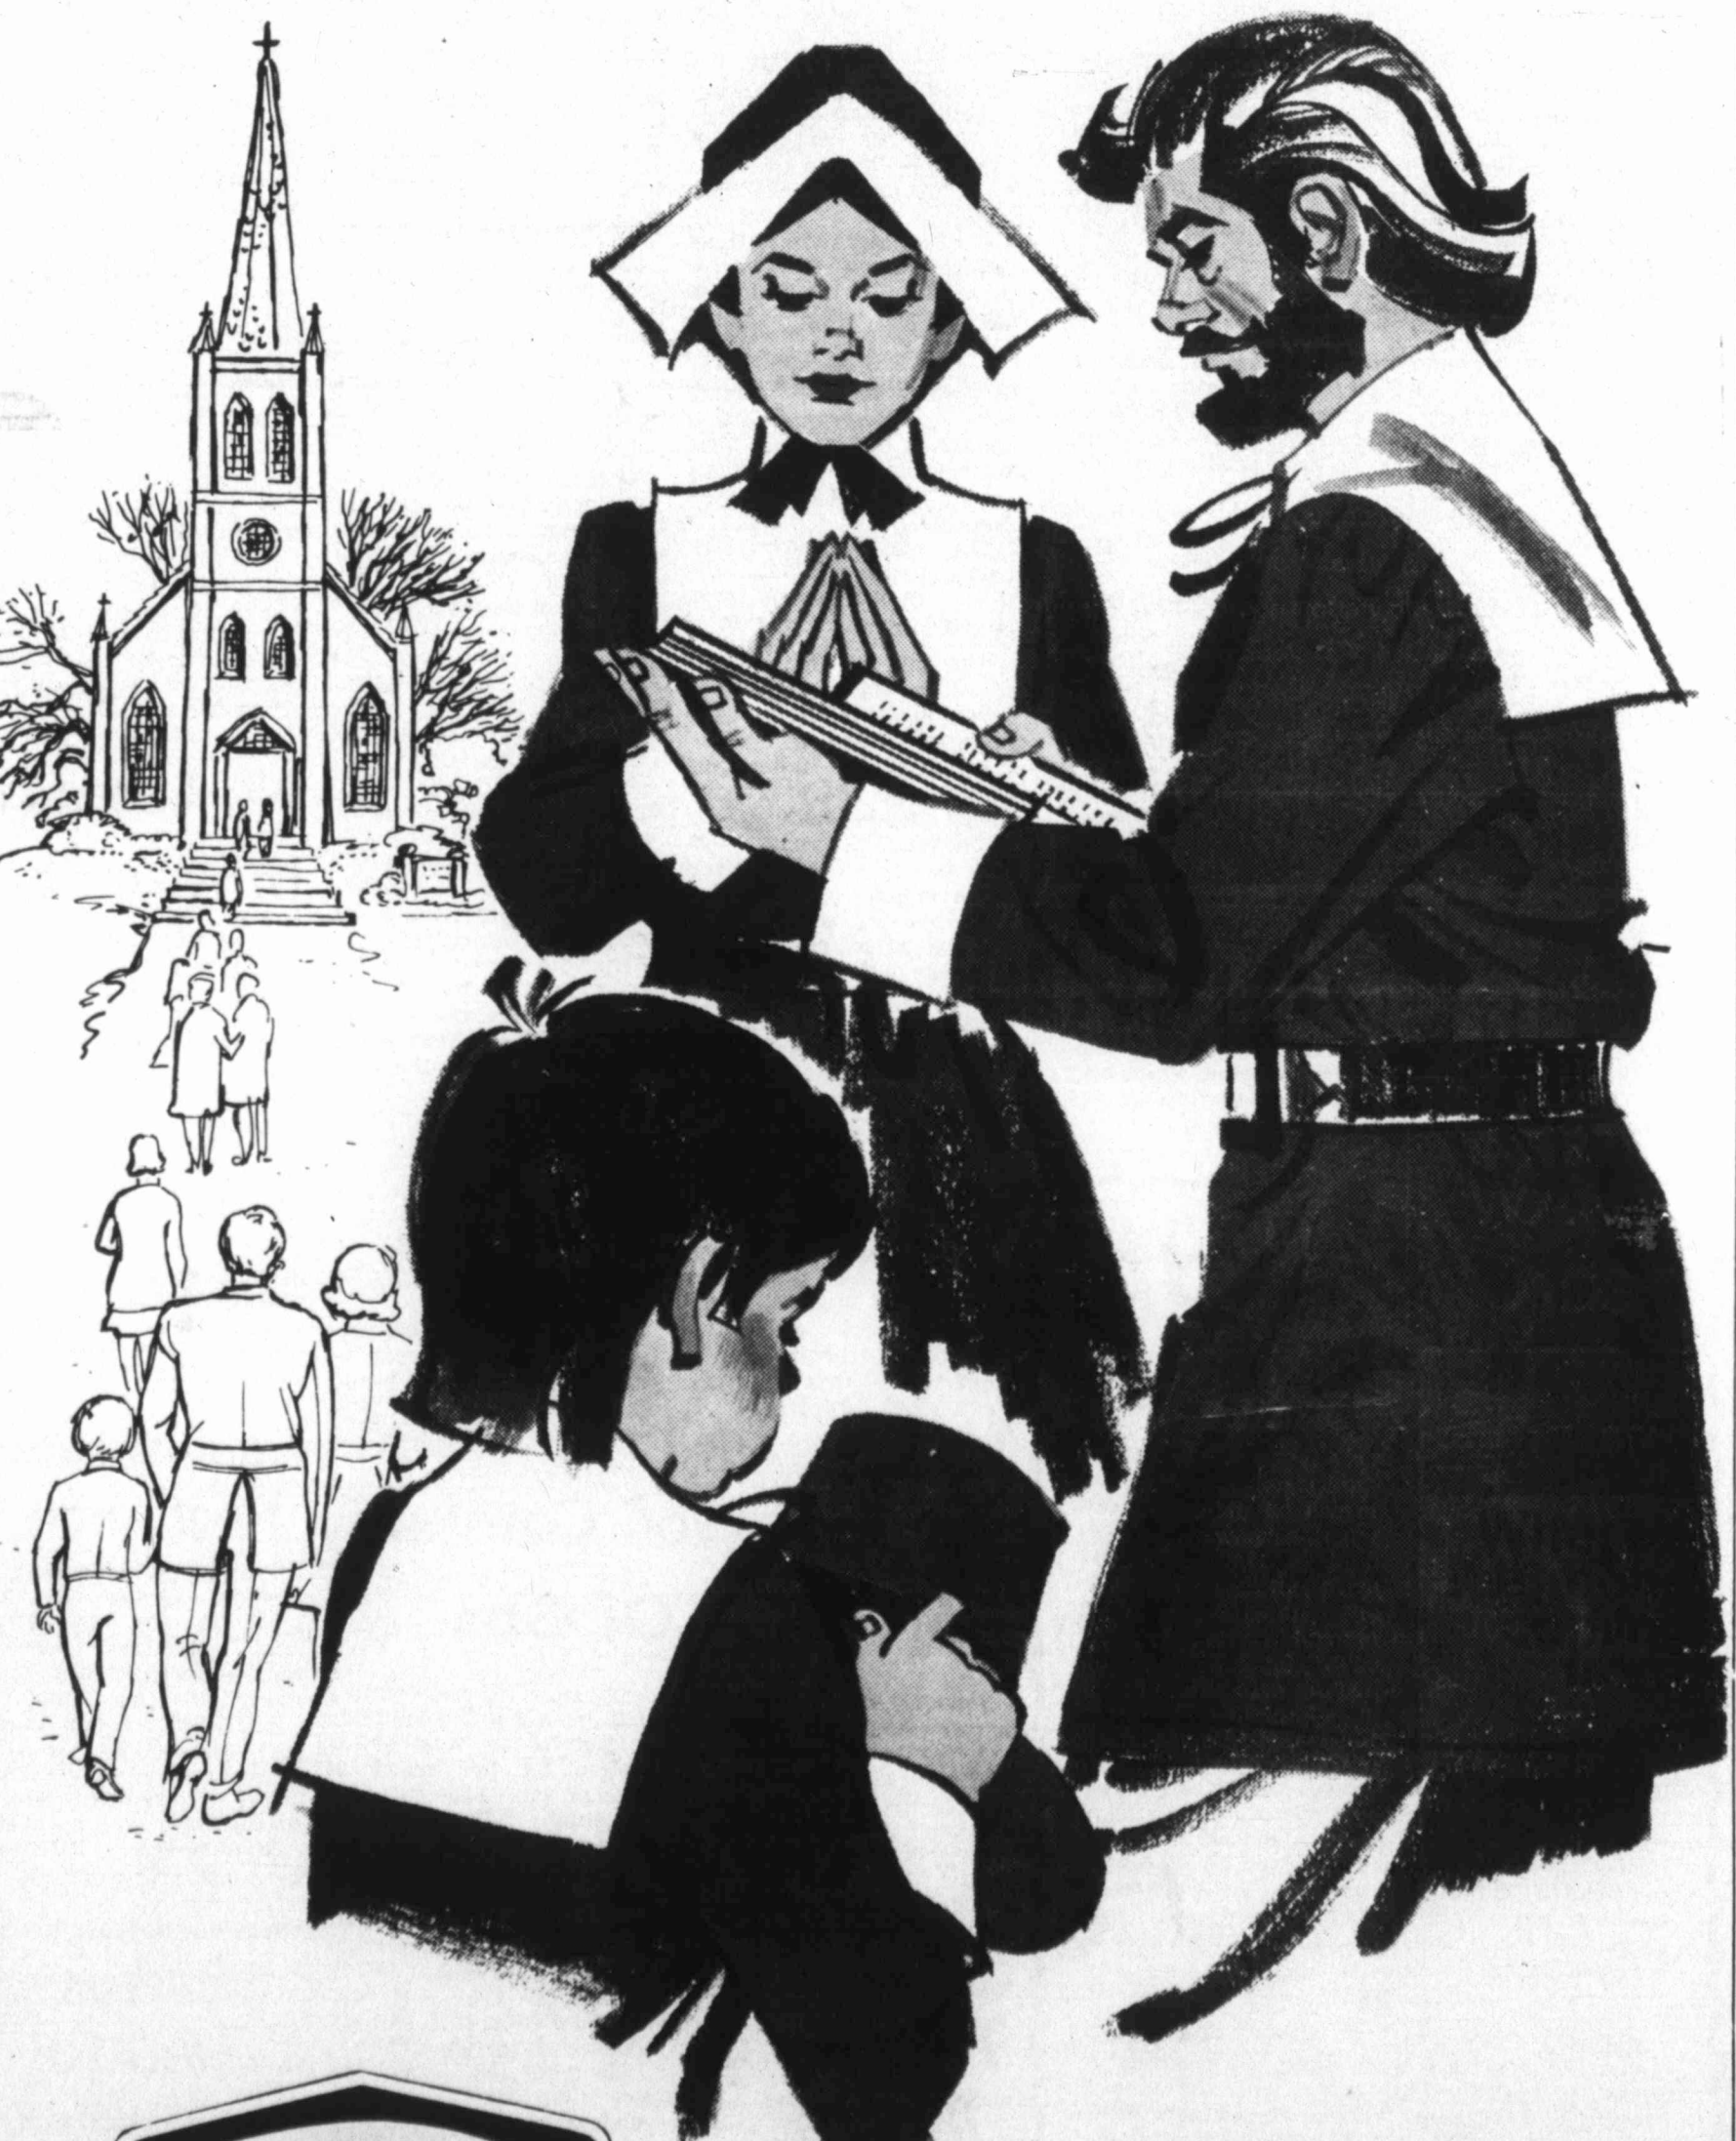

Larry Nathaniel Smith, 25 at the time of the May 24, 1973 shooting, was convicted last August of manslaughter by a Boone County circuit court jury. A previous conviction of second-degree murder was overturned because of a procedural error.

Patterson, 23, from Miami, Fla., had transferred from Navarro Junior College in Corsicana, Tex. He played in five Missouri basketball games as a junior in 1971-72 and saw action in only two games his senior year before being declared academically ineligible.

Patterson was shot four times. Testimony at Smith's trial indicated the two were arguing in front of the Black Culture House near the campus, where Patterson lived, because Patterson wanted to borrow a dollar.

Something Wrong With This Couple

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman in my early 40s. When I married, four months ago, I was a virgin. My problem is, I still am.

I am a school teacher, but quit teaching to marry a very fine divorced man in his mid 40s. We seemed perfect for each other after a two-year courtship. Neither he nor I believe in pre-marital sex.

After four months of marriage, he has yet to consummate our marriage. He had been married for 12 years (no children) and he admitted to having had "some difficulty" performing his bedroom duties, but he didn't say he couldn't perform at all, which is the case. He said he's seen doctors, who have told him there was nothing wrong with him — he probably had a "mental block" because there was no love between him and his wife. Well, we love each other and the mental block is still there. So how can that be explained?

I feel he married me under false pretenses. He's a fine person otherwise. Perhaps I'm placing too much emphasis on the bedroom scene, but after waiting all my life for a beautiful, complete love relationship, I feel cheated.

CHEATED OUT EAST

DEAR CHEATED: First your husband should be examined by a urologist to determine whether his problem is physical or psychological. If it's physical, you have two choices. Continue in a marriage without sex, or get an annulment. If it's psychological your husband should seek psychotherapy. If he's unwilling (or unable) to overcome his problem in this manner, you still have the original two choices. Only you can determine how important the bedroom scene is.

DEAR ABBY: I have this

Pins Given By Elbow PTA Unit

Mrs. E. M. Bailey received a 25-year pin for her services as a teacher at Elbow Elementary School Monday evening, along with seven other teachers who were honored by the Parent Teacher Association.

Mu Zeta To Give Baskets

Plans were completed for Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for the adopted family served by Mu Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi at a meeting Monday in the home of Mrs. Billy King, 1108 Mt. Vernon.

A Thanksgiving meal, complete with turkey, will be included in the basket to be delivered to the family. The sorority will join Marcy Elementary School's three sixth grades in preparing Christmas gifts for the family. Six grade students plan to make toys for the children, and clothing and other gifts will be prepared for the adult members. There will also be food.

The chapter will assist in the state hospital party Dec. 17 and is continuing the sale of stationary and casserole cookbooks.

Future meetings will be held Dec. 9 with Mrs. Darlene Boehmer, 74-B Ent, and with Mrs. Michele Teetz, 4019 Vicky, on Dec. 13 for the Christmas party.

Mrs. Boehmer led the program on verse making, which she described as natural poetic speaking. She distributed quizzes to illustrate three forms, jingles, nursery rhymes, and haiku, which has 17 syllables in all.

AEC To Weigh Safety Factors

GLEN ROSE, Tex. (AP) — The Atomic Safety & Licensing Board of the Atomic Energy Commission says it will try to rule in December on whether the AEC should issue a construction permit for a nuclear power plant here.

The board concluded two days of public hearings Tuesday.

Texas Utilities is attempting to construct the power plant.

Dr. Robert Lazo, chairman of the safety and licensing board, said its purpose is to weigh the safety factors affecting the 2,300-megawatt nuclear fission plant thoroughly, not quickly.

As the hearing drew to a close, attorney W.B. Conner, Jr., who represents the utility, told the board it would be helpful for the plant's construction schedule if the permit could be issued by the end of December.

Conner and Gregory Fess, attorney for the AEC licensing staff, agreed to file a joint proposed findings for the board by Dec. 2.

The newest participant in the AEC proceedings, the state attorney general's office, will receive a copy of the ruling proposal.

Robert Pendergraft, an attorney on Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill's staff, testified at the beginning of the hearing here that the state intends to participate in the AEC proceedings and wishes to maintain its right to intervene.

Tuesday Lazo and board member Lester Kornblith questioned the AEC staff and Texas Utilities employees about the technical aspects of the plant.

Texas Utilities board chairman T.L. Austin told Kornblith Monday the company is "thinking about" building more nuclear plants in the future, with construction possible between now and the time the Comanche Peak plant is operable in 1980.

This week's hearings, which weigh safety factors, will be the basis for the board's decision on the issuance of a construction permit, which will allow the utility to work on the full range of the $799 million plant.

It is the last major AEC licensing step that must be cleared until 1980, when the utilities will seek an operating license.

MARCHING BAND AWARDS — Cindy Coleman was runner-up and Jay Huskey was recipient of the John Philip Sousa Award at the band banquet Tuesday night. Robert Bradbury won the best marching spirit award and Pat Daniel was presented the band director's award.

Jay Huskey Wins Sousa Award At Band Banquet

Big Spring High School Steer Band climaxed another successful marching season with the ninth annual marching season awards banquet held at Howard College Union Building Tuesday night. The event is sponsored by the High Noon and Morning Optimist Clubs.

Jay Huskey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Huskey was recipient of the John Philip Sousa national band award. Runner-up was Cindy Coleman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coleman.

Jay has served as bus lieutenant, percussion lieutenant, member of the stage band, campus revue accompanist, member of honor band, solo accompanist, student conductor of CR pit band and received first division ratings for two years on piano solos and two years on percussion solos. He plans to major in music education in college and become a band director.

Pat Daniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Daniel, earned the band director's award.

Best marching spirit award went to Robert Bradbury, son of Mrs. Bob Bradbury. He is also band president.

Outstanding junior high band student at Goliad is Scott Vick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Vick and at Runnels is Mike Christian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Christian.

The Barney Schultz awards symbolize Big Spring and Band Spirit and go to the ten best marchers each year.

This year they went to Becky Blalack, clarinet; Elias Chavez, tuba; Cindy Coleman, cornet; Karen Fortson, flute; Jay Huskey, percussion; Janet Ivery, bass clarinet; Miki Reed, flute; Karyl Thames, alto saxophone; Stan Vick, clarinet and Rene Wash, horn. Rene also received an appreciation award from her section. Cathy Cowan was named crew sweetheart and the percussion section received the section award.

Indictments Dismissed

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Indictments accusing a Texas banker and six other men of trying to smuggle guns for the alleged overthrow of a Latin American government have been dismissed.

U.S. Dist. Judge Herbert Christenberry said Saturday that delay in bringing the case to trial prejudiced the defendants' right and threw out all the charges against them.

They faced a second trial Dec. 9. Christenberry declared a mistrial in the first last June because the defendants were not able to confront a Mexican witness, Jaime Fernandez.

Christenberry said the government had made feeble efforts to bring Fernandez to the country to testify. The defendants were Texas banker-rancher Richmond Harper of Eagle Pass, Tex.; Marion Hagler of Eagle Pass; Adler B. Seal, James M. Miller and Joseph Mazzuka, all of Baton Rouge, La., and Murray Morris Kessler of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Francisco Flores of Mexico was charged but listed as a fugitive.

The case stemmed from arrests at a Shreveport airport on July 1, 1972, during which agents confiscated almost seven tons of plastic explosives and detonators.

Indictments stated the munitions were to be shipped to Mexico, but U.S. officials indicated strongly that the ultimate destination was Cuba.

BIG SPRING TEXAS

Scrapping Most Of State's Rural Prison Units Urged

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A special advisory committee on Texas prisons has recommended new approach to corrections that would involve abandonment of most of the present, rural institutions.

The committee's hundreds of specific recommendations also included conjugal visits—at least on an experimental basis—to help hold prisoners' families together.

The committee made its report to the Joint Committee on Prison Reform, which will suggest measures to the 1975 legislature.

"I see some very, very close votes on prison reform, and we are going to be better off in this area," said Charles Sullivan, advisory committee chairman.

While the prison system has its good points, it generally fails to prepare inmates for life on the outside, makes it hard for them to maintain family relationships and often brutalizes them, the report said.

By far the most far-reaching recommendation would change the structure of the state's correctional system, shifting from a cluster of institutions around Huntsville. The new system would include greater use of probation and parole, regional correctional centers near cities, programs where offenders live at home but go to special centers for training and counseling and "halfway houses."

STAY ON JOBS

The committee quoted W.J. Estelle Jr., prison system director, as saying 40 per cent of the inmates don't belong there, and recommended that they be promptly identified and transferred to parole or other programs and institutions.

"Keeping the offenders in or near the community from which they come will provide a minimum amount of disruption of family life, enable the person to continue at a job or to take vocational training, receive the varied benefits of local agencies and programs, avoid the negative impact of massive institutionalization and help offenders to better cope with problems encountered in attempting to behave in accordance with the norms of society," the advisory committee said.

Time For Action

By a vote of 9-0, the Senate Rules committee has voted to recommend the approval of the nomination of Nelson Rockefeller to be vice president of the United States. The Senate is expected to act upon it soon after return from the Thanksgiving recess, and a heavy affirmative vote by the Senate is a foregone conclusion.

But that doesn't mean that Mr. Rockefeller will be approved soon, and that the country at last will have a vice president. Far from it, because the House Judiciary committee must take up the matter, Long-drawn-out hearings might be expected, if experience is any criterion. Already, some of the committee members are plowing the same ground as that in the Senate committee, those on the left attacking his great wealth, and those on the right his liberal philosophies in their view.

It's time to bring this matter to a head. The House has access to all the Senate testimony and investigative reports, and any gaps (it's difficult to imagine any) could quickly be closed. There have been practical political reasons for delaying final action until after the general election on the grounds of neutralizing Mr. Rockefeller's campaign clout, but even these no longer exist.

The House should attend to this matter before knocking off for Christmas. The mechanics of the 25th amendment is that the President makes the vice presidential nomination in event of a vacancy. The House should approve or disapprove. If the procedure isn't satisfactory, efforts can be made later to alter it. The global tours of the President simply emphasize that we need a vice president—now.

The Peers Report

The "Peers Report" released last week bears out what we should have known all along, that the American image of our fighting men as always being the guys in the white hat is not entirely accurate. If all's fair in war (as in love), only the naive would believe that we invariably are lily white.

The report points out that not only was the My Lai attack ordered, but that top officers in the American Division took measures to cover up the incident, and that continues to this day. The report estimates that some 347 My Lai residents were killed during the March 16, 1968 attack by three American platoons. It says that GIs committed "individual and group acts of murder, rape, sodomy, maiming and assault on noncombatants and the mistreatment and killing of detainees."

No wonder it calls the incident a "dark chapter in the Army's history." None can argue that. We ought to learn from it, and certainly we can insist that the American ethic will not countenance anything so wanton as this.

The Army says that it is closing the books on the My Lai incident. That's too bad, for those responsible—not just one lieutenant—ought to be brought to account or obliged to explain.

Advance Prophet

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

Howard Drew and Texas Electric Service Company may be more than slightly interested in a piece in The Furrow written by Franz-Peter Leibig, the magazine's European correspondent.

FOR MORE THAN 20 years now, Drew has been contending that discharge of power plant heating water into reservoirs is a highly beneficial practice. I suspect that in the beginning studies in this direction were calculated to head off irate sportsmen at the pass. Even then ecologists (who went under other banners) were capable of creating an uncomfortable ruckus, and one of the things they complained about was recirculating warm power plant water into a reservoir. It would, so the theory went, ruin the fishing.

DREW, WORKING with state biologists, were pleasantly surprised with their findings. Lake Colorado City, a relatively small reservoir, not only did not follow the usual pattern of flourishing with game fish for a few years and then subsiding as rough fish and low propagation rates took over. On the contrary, the lake has remained to this day as one of the best fishing spots in West Texas. To check findings, similar studies were conducted at Lake Alcoa, which also has power plant water discharge. Both lakes have consistently yielded 50 per cent of better game fish. In contrast, the deeper, colder lakes such as Inks and Granite Shoals above Austin, have produced 20 per cent or less game fish.

RESEARCH by state biologists, with Drew and others cooperating, showed that maximum growth for game fish occurs in water between 75 and 85 degrees. Also, it was discovered that the recirculated water has more oxygen and due to its circulation distributes nutrients better.

Capitalizing on this, Frank Kelly Jr. put in a catfish "factory" in the recirculated water area of Lake Colorado City and for years has done a thriving business.

BUT BACK to Herr Franz-Peter Leibig. He reports that the German Research Institute for Fishery demonstrates that carp like warm water, and that when water is kept warm, fish grow the year around. Differences in growth rate have been spectacular. Carp, kept at a constant temperature of 73 degrees, weighed 40 times as much at one year age than those grown in an outdoor pond with heated water in the winter. The reason is simple—when the water is cold, the carp's metabolism slows down, and so does its food intake and growth.

ANOTHER DISCOVERY the researchers made was that the ideal fish must have abundant water space is a myth. They found that apart from food, carp need nothing to perform well but fresh water high in oxygen. If need be, the volume ratio of water to fish can be as low as 3 to 1.

These same researchers found that the Texas A&M Extension Service has been preaching, namely that pelleted dry feed produces quite as good (if not better) results than natural feeds. A weight gain of a pound for fish for each two pounds of pellets came to be standard (although results of one a pound of fish from a pound and a half of grain were recorded).

WHAT ELSE CAN produce that ratio of feed conversion to meat? All of this not only should make Howard Drew a prophet before his time, but it should further underline the potential of pond fish production even in West Texas. A section of fair grazing land may be expected to yield something like six tons of beef. A 100x100x10-ft. pond, kept heated to the right temperature and fortified with pellets and oxygen, could produce nearly twice as much in fish.

My Answer

Billy Graham

What is comparable in the Protestant religion to the Catholic novena?

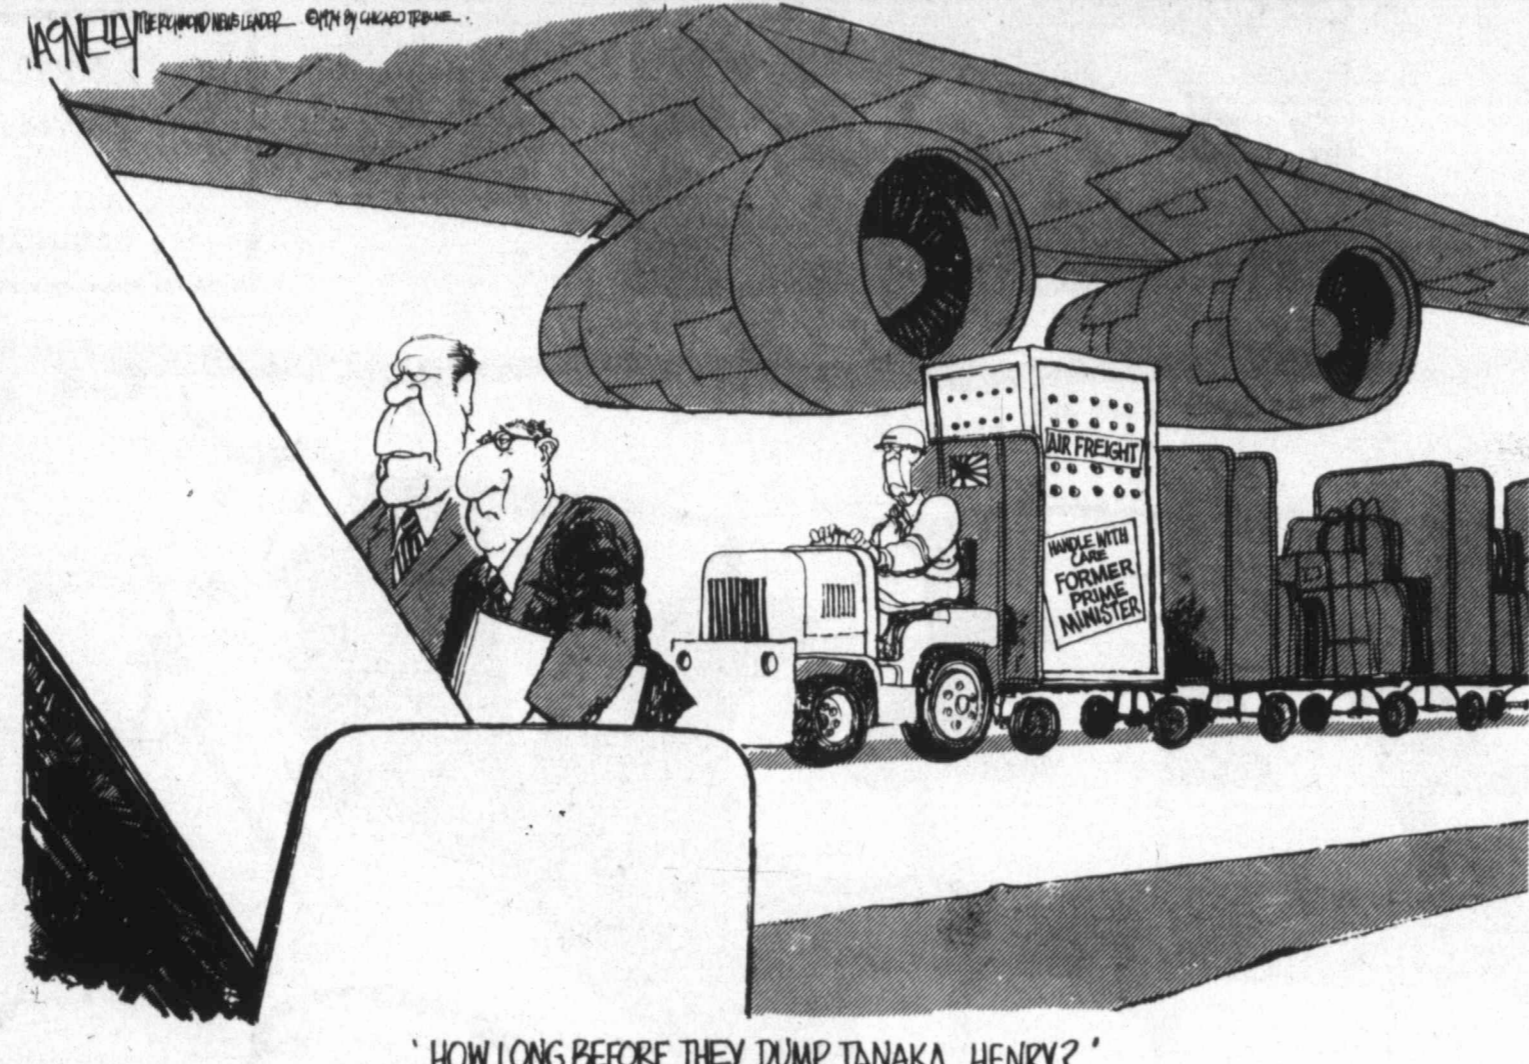

According to the Catholic Encyclopedia, a novena is a prayer for some special reason or on some special occasion that is carried on for a period of nine days. The term "novena" comes from a Latin word meaning nine or ninth.

A novena may be either public or private and may be said in petition, in thanksgiving, or in honor of some Church saint or feast.

First, let me say that there doesn't seem to be any justification in the Scripture for selecting the number nine. Actually, the number seven more often seems to make something sacred or perfect. The Catholic dictionary goes on to say while the novena is not itself superstitious, it was, in the history of the church, often suspected of becoming so.

Now, nothing in the Protestant faith would really correspond to this. James does speak of fervent prayer (5:16), but this infers nothing necessarily about repetition. To be effective, James says it must come from a "righteous man"—that is, one who has a real faith in Christ.

There's one thing both Catholics and Protestants would agree on—that's the need for prayer in these crisis days.

Grim Prospects

William F. Buckley, Jr.

The style of Arafat is now transcribed and it spells danger to Israel, of course, but elsewhere also. We learn that he had been most strenuously coached by those—for instance, French diplomats—who cared greatly that he should leave a civilized impression with the United Nations and the American Public. It was even urged upon him that he shave that morning, and perhaps even wear a tie. On this one he went half-way—shaving, but leaving off the tie. What distinguished him, almost immediately, was his determination to play an imperial role, imperiously.

IT TOOK HIM an age to get down to the problems of the Palestinian refugees. First he felt the necessity of giving us his synoptic view of the world scene, much as, say, it would have been expected of Pope Paul, or Winston Churchill, or Thomas Baginton Macaulay. Suddenly one found oneself listening to Arafat giving his views on Cambodia, which are as interesting, and as well informed, as Li'l Abner's. Then on to the dreary and conventional rhetoric about the rich nations and the poor nations, a lot about Africa, and a fight against colonialism: and, finally, to Palestine.

The camera flashed on the seats of the Israeli delegation. They were empty: even as, a few hours later, most of the seats in the General Assembly were emptied when Ambassador Tekoah rose to denounce Arafat, the PLO, and all their works. But it was Arafat's day. He had carefully touched on the liveliest prejudices of the United Nations General Assembly, massaging them all: the fight for liberation in Cambodia, capitalist exploitation, imperialism, colonialism, the debt owed by the large nations to the exploited nations. His intention was to establish that here was no parochial desert rat, interested only in the narrow question of irredentism for his confused constituency. Here was a voice of a people declaring their solidarity with that overwhelming majority of the United Nations that, flouting tradition, had invited as a de-facto representative of a non-existing state, a spokesman pledged not only having his way through the use of terror (that has become conventional, and the wonder of it is that the World Council of Churches hasn't yet appropriated bundles for Arafat, as it did for Felimo in Mozambique; he pledged himself to a solution in the Middle East which requires the lowering of Israel's flag. He did not use those words, preferring the standard euphemism, which speaks about a secular state, where "Jews, Muslims, and Christians live together in justice, equality and fraternity."

NOW THIS is probably a bargaining position. If Arafat had taken the occasion to inform the United Nations that he was prepared to recognize the sovereignty of Israel over an expanse of territory, however redefined, he'd have had to leave the chamber protected by all those helicopters and submachine guns not from Jewish terrorists but from Arab terrorists who would have been out for his treacherous blood. If the Palestinian Liberation Organization finally yields on the matter of a sovereign Israeli state, it will have to come as the evolution of extensive negotiations, probably interrupted by mini-wars.

THE FACT of it is that we are all much, much worse off than pre-Rabat. The decision to recognize Arafat transfigures a fresh irreversibility into the negotiations. Arafat is fired by a people irreversibly bitter by what they consider 20 years of persecution and exile. A few months ago—even a few weeks ago—the moderate Arab States were an apparent control and a rhythm had been established. Now the Sadat, who spoke reasonably with Kissinger, is made out to look like a quivering King Hussein is presented with the requirement of yielding his claim on the west bank to Arafat, and weakening his already deteriorated position. And, in Syria, one can almost hear the guns, tattooing a renewed resolution to holy war.

Unfilled Jobs

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP)—While the job market continues to weaken as the economy heads deeper into recession, a paradox has appeared: Some employers are looking for workers and can't find them.

A survey by the National Federation of Independent Business, which claims more than 400,000 members engaged in small- or middle-size businesses, shows 20.3 per cent of them with unfilled jobs.

More than 33 per cent of the membership claims to have had unfilled jobs for six months or more, and close to 27 per cent report they have had unfilled jobs from 30 to 90 days.

Moreover, the federation believes there are more openings now for unskilled labor than there were at the beginning of the year.

"Earlier in the year," it states, "responses to the NFIB-sponsored survey indicated that demand for unskilled labor had reached the vanishing point, but latest data shows 3.4 per cent have jobs for unskilled labor."

To some extent there is always a mismatch of job openings and job seekers. Sometimes the jobs are in one area of the nation, the workers in another. Certain skilled workers are always in short supply. And many jobs are considered undesirable by job seekers.

But the federation still sees significance in its findings, especially "at a time when there is discussion of providing government work to take up the alleged slack in employment."

It asks: "If independent business is experiencing difficulty in filling bona fide jobs, how extensively will low-paid public service jobs attract the presumed unemployed?"

General Executive Services, a New Canaan, Conn., firm that attempts to match executive job seekers with corporate openings, reports continued strength in above-$15,000 market.

"It is significant that the demand for executives to set up and lead completely new ventures continued strong in October," said William Breitmayer, president. He claims the ability to monitor 80 per cent of the total market.

The total of new executive openings reported during October was 3,172, Breitmayer said, compared with 3,527 in September and 3,624 in October 1973. This, he believes, indicates stability, and more.

"It suggests confidence in the future for new products, new markets, and new projects by at least some segments of industry," he said, a conclusion he feels is supported by "continuing strength in capital expenditures in new project startups."

Relative In Nursing Home

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read the letter signed E.C. saying that nursing homes should provide physical therapy.

My experience has been that visits with the patients are what is needed. You can't realize the pleasure of a smile when a patient sees you, then to be taken for a walk, or, if in a wheelchair as many are, to be taken for a ride around the home.

And just "mental stimulation" is so rewarding to them. They love to be remembered by name, a smile, a pat on the shoulder or a shake of the hand.

I show movies once a week. These have to be travel films. For one thing, regular movies cost too much. And another, the patients' attention cannot be kept to follow the continuity of a story. I also take their pictures on slides. You can't know the pleasure this gives them, to see themselves on the screen.

We have, at our home, an activities director who organizes arts and crafts for those interested. Bingo three times a week. We have a volunteer organist for sing-alongs, piano players, and volunteers who come in to sing and dance. These are mostly children.

We have a coffee hour on Saturday, a birthday party each month, parties for various celebrations. All are invited to come but there are some who would rather not. If a relative or friend were there, the patient could be encouraged to join the group. Some can walk but need an arm to steady them.

Why not come out and try something like this? With no visitors it can be a lonely life for them. They get confused, feel left out and lonesome and abandoned by friends and family.

Some people cannot go into a home. It depresses them. This is not needed. Come with a smile on your face, a greeting.

The world will be much brighter for you, and you will be rewarded by the response from the patients. Just to have someone to talk to, someone who cares, means so much.—Mrs. A.M.

Need I add anything to this letter? The nursing home must do its share—but so must you!

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please advise as to why you think my novel would be sore. At times it is crusty and itchy.—S.K.

There could be several possible reasons, but any one of them requires medical treatment. The most likely cause is that some sort of infection has established itself. See your doctor to avoid the possibility of it developing into something serious.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'll be finished with high school in three more years. I plan to go to college and would like to be an anesthesiologist. I'd like to know if women can be just as good as men. How long does it take in college and medical schooling?—N.M.

There may not be many women who are physician-anesthesiologists, but there are some. I know at least one woman who is head of the anesthesiology department in a big hospital, and she is so good that other doctors (mostly men) want to take specialty training under her guidance.

It takes a long time to become any type of doctor—usually four years of college, four more in medical school, and then a year as an intern. After which another year or more as a resident before taking an examination for a special rating. Then you have to keep studying to stay up but it's worth it.

'It's All Over'

Robert Novak

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Gov. Ronald Reagan, his recent notions of leading a new political party crushed by vital financial backers, has abandoned even shrouded plans for challenging President Ford in 1976 either inside or outside the Republican party.

MOST REAGAN advisers and probably Reagan himself now believe Mr. Ford really will seek a full presidential term as he promises. "I think it's all over for us," laments one Reagan insider. If so, Mr. Ford's early announcement of candidacy has fulfilled a major purpose.

Nevertheless, melancholy in Sacramento is no cause for unrestrained jubilation within the Ford White House. Reagan does not dismiss the possibility that Mr. Ford's record will be so bad by 1976 that he will have to abandon his candidacy. Reagan then would be the most probable nominee. Furthermore, Mr. Ford's prospects for success may not be enhanced by Reagan's intended public role as an ideological policeman to direct the Ford administration into conservative orthodoxy.

BUT THIS PASSIVE role was not what Reaganites envisioned only a month ago when they felt Mr. Ford's political stock dropping after the Nixon pardon and the hospitalization of his wife, would not run. That certainly seemed Reagan's view after returning from national barnstorming for Republican candidates in September and early October.

While lionized at Republican rallies, Reagan noticed a strange phenomenon: the name of Gerald R. Ford was never mentioned at these partisan events. When Reagan and his aides compared notes after rallies, they agreed there really seemed to be no incumbent Republican President; it was as though a Democrat were in office.

'Switch' Stings TV

NEW YORK (AP)—Nearly every game show on TV has a play-at-home version on sale in toy stores. But a new play-at-home TV game now coming on the market isn't seen on television. Nor is it likely to be.

The reason: Its goal is to encourage less TV viewing by children.

The game is "Switch." It's being sold by mail by Action for Children's Television, an activist group which since 1968 has demanded higher quality children's programs without commercials on television.

The general aim of the $1.50 plaything "is to let families know there's something else to life than television," says Peggy Charren, president of ACT, based in Newtonville, Mass.

The game, printed on folding paper, starts with an imaginary TV set switched "on." It takes a player a maximum of 56 moves, fewer if luck prevails, to reach victory, which in this case is "off."

There are 10 draw cards which let the combatants make from one to five moves at a time.

A Devotion For Today . . .

"We know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to his purpose." (Romans 8:28)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, O God, that especially in the things which seem to deny Thy goodness we can find Thee as our ever present help. Draw near to us now as we pray the Prayer taught us by Thy Son, "Our Father who art in Heaven, hallowed by Thy name. Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory for ever. Amen."

Grant O'Bryan Mental Tests

HOUSTON (AP) — A motion seeking psychiatric tests for Ronald Clark O'Bryan, charged in the poisoning death of his young son, has been granted by a state judge.

O'Bryan's son, Timothy, 8, died Halloween night after eating candy following a trick or treat tour. Authorities said the candy contained potassium cyanide.

O'Bryan, a Pasadena optician, also is charged with four cases of attempted murder. His trial is scheduled Jan. 6.

State District Court Judge Frank Price granted Tuesday the motion by Harris County Asst. Dist. Atty. Mike Hinton.

Hinton said in the motion that "due to the circumstances surrounding the alleged commission of the offenses, psychiatric examination is proper and just—not only for protection of the state's case but for the defense as well. The accused's mental state at the time of the alleged offenses will be a critical issue at the trial."

The capital murder indictment returned against O'Bryan said he "caused the death of Timothy for remuneration, and the promise of remuneration, namely the proceeds from life insurance on the life of Timothy."

O'Bryan is a former Big Spring resident.

Letter X Special

There's a special meaning in the X when it is written Xmas.

"X" is the Greek letter symbol that is used to represent the name, "Christ."

This symbol has been discovered by many archaeological expeditions on the walls of early-Christian period catacombs.

Quite recently, a group of scientists discovered the name of Jesus, carved before 70 A.D., among the inscriptions on eleven early-Christian urns.

These urns were uncovered in a cave on the Bethlehem to Jerusalem Road.

It is believed that these writings were left by a sect of Hebrews who were followers of Christ and had denounced Pontius Pilate.

Garage For Fire Vans Authorized By Court

County Commissioners Court plans to authorize construction of a garage in the 1200 block of Sheppard Lane for two fire trucks to be utilized by the sheriff's office, County Judge A. G. Mitchell said.

Neel Barnaby, county engineer, will design and supervise construction by members of the road department.

Housed in the structure to prevent freezing will be two trucks, one already owned by the county and one obtained without cost through Civil Defense.

One will sprinkle grass fires as it moves, Sheriff A. N. Standard said, and one truck must be stopped to operate.

If deputy sheriffs are going to a fire, Standard said, "we might as well take our truck with us and be of some assistance out there."

Standard said his office would be backing up volunteer departments occasionally when a grass fire is severe.

"We're not going to be answering fire calls," Standard said. "We're not going to be in competition with volunteer fire departments."

The decision to build was made informally Monday afternoon, Mitchell said, and approval will be entered into the minutes Monday.

Denies Phone Employees Helped In Illegal Taps

HOUSTON (AP) — A security officer for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. says company personnel have never assisted law enforcement agencies in illegal wiretapping.

Houston Bell security chief Jerry Slaughter denied allegations Tuesday by Houston lawyer Phil Green that Bell personnel helped tap telephones to gather information for about 70 narcotics cases.

Slaughter called Green "a damn liar."

Green spoke out after The Associated Press learned from other sources that Southwestern Bell security officers have provided law enforcement agencies with information needed to conduct illegal electronic surveillance.

"Never have Southwestern Bell security people provided assistance to federal, state or city officers in illegal wiretapping," Slaughter said.

Slaughter noted, however, that Bell personnel had the know-how to tap telephones. There are about 3,000 in the Houston office with this knowledge and he could not vouch for them, he said.

"If we know of any personnel involved in illegal tapping, we would fire them and we have not fired any because of wiretapping allegations," Slaughter said.

Green said the telephone of one of his clients was tapped for about a year and the tap required the assistance of "security personnel" from Bell.

Green took newsmen to the back of a motel in Houston to show them a telephone he alleged was used the 1969 to tap his client's telephone.

He said a connection was made in a terminal box on the pole and then connected to a room in the rear of the motel. Agencies, such as the FBI, Customs, city and state police and other federal agencies could listen in on telephone conversations of an alleged drug pusher, Green said.

Robert R. Frank, special agent in charge of the FBI's Houston office, denied his office was involved.

U.S. Atty. Anthony J.P. Ferris said in Houston, "if any federal agents were involved in any illegal wiretaps this evidence has not been brought to his office."

Green said Bell security personnel provided police and other agencies with the exact location of the terminal for the telephone they wanted tapped.

Houston Police Chief Carol Lynn has said that fewer than a dozen Houston police officers may have participated in illegal taps. Evidence has been presented to a federal grand jury, he said.

Earlier a high Texas police official said numerous people have been convicted on information gathered in illegal wiretaps.

One Bell system employee who worked outside Texas said company workmen often tapped lines and listened in merely to pass the time.

The Texas police official said illegal wiretapping "just became a way of life."

Take a two-minute tour of our important lignite coal operation.

We start our tour on this land near Fairfield, Texas. Beneath it lie large deposits of lignite, a soft, low sulphur content coal.

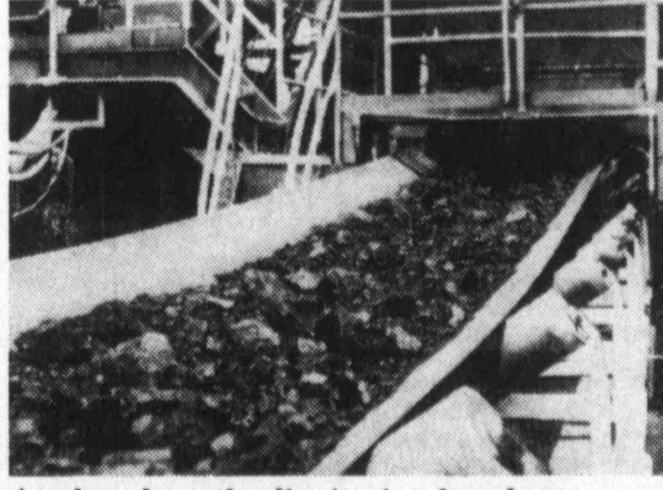

First, the overburden, which is from 40 to 130 feet deep, is removed by this giant dragline.

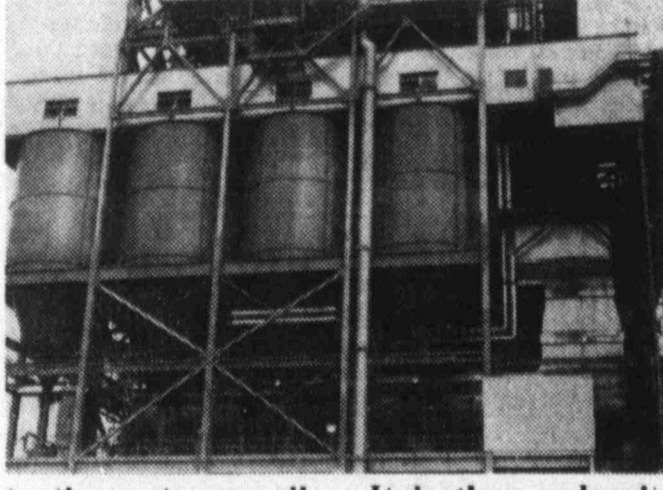

This exposes thick seams of lignite coal over 100 feet wide and a mile or more in length. The lignite is removed, loaded . . .

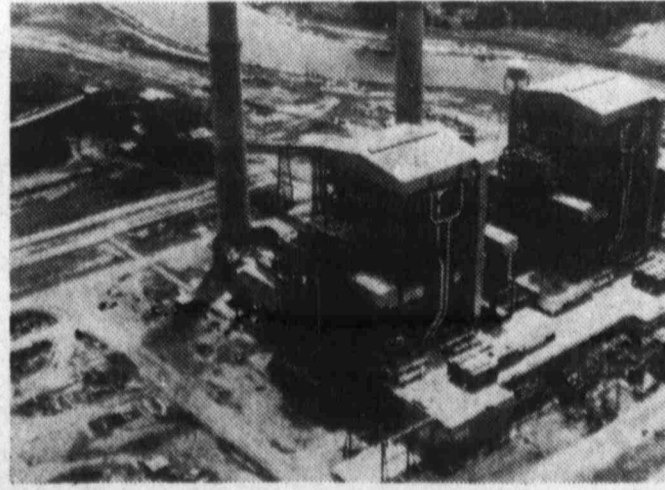

. . . and trucked a few miles to our lignite-fueled Big Brown electric generating plant.

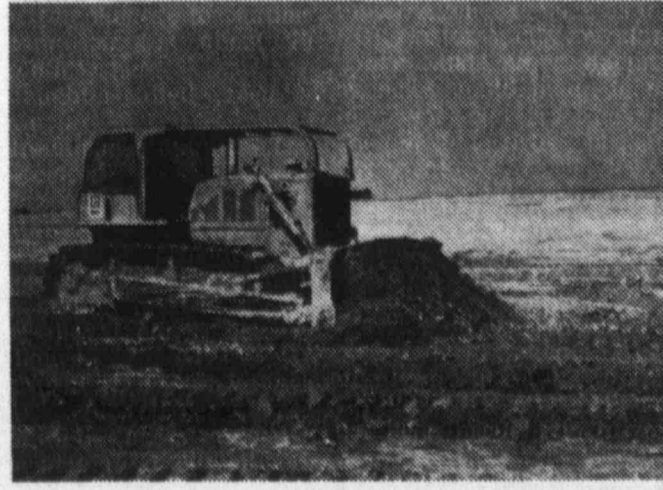

At the plant the lignite is placed on a conveyor belt which takes it through a series of crushers . . .

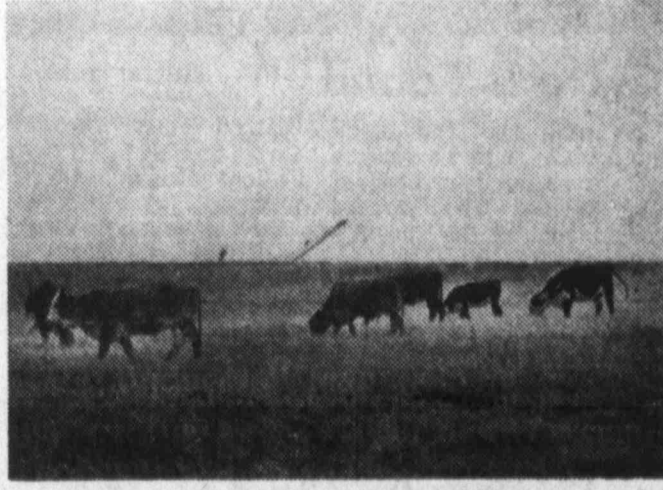

to these storage silos. It is then pulverized to a fine powder which will burn much like natural gas . . .

to make the steam that runs the turbine-generators. We need this lignite to help reduce our dependence on natural gas and oil, because both are increasingly expensive and hard to obtain.

After removing the coal we need, an extensive reclamation program begins. Within months this same land is used for raising crops . . .

or as pastureland. At Texas Electric, we're continuing the orderly development of our power system so that you'll continue having the electricity you need.

New Landfill Cannot Be Used, Says Nagel

"The reason that the city-county landfill operation is not open 24 hours a day is that we never have gotten into the new landfill location," Harry Nagel, city manager, stated here Tuesday.

This was in answer to questions which arose after County Judge A. G. Mitchell accused the city in an open county commissioners meeting of not living up to their agreement on the landfill.

Mitchell claimed that they were not keeping the facility open 24 hours a day as agreed. Nagel said, "We haven't ever gotten into the facility on which we made the agreement. We cannot keep the old facility open because people keep setting fires."

"The new landfill is supposed to have trenches where if a fire gets set, it can be quickly covered up. The trenches and roads to the new facility are not complete and as soon as they are, we will begin to operate it and maintain it as per the agreement."

Mrs. Virginia Black, county auditor, has a copy of the agreement and it states that "the county will build and maintain all roads in and around the landfill and trench the area." It also states, "The city will maintain and operate the landfill in an approved manner under city ordinances and state health regulations."

Ford Seeks Spending Cuts Of $4.6 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has proposed new spending cuts of $4.6 billion, but he has given up his former spending ceiling in the face of a deepening economic slump that has stiffened congressional opposition to such economy moves.

The proposed cuts include a $1.7 billion reduction in medical and welfare programs administered by the Department of Health Education and Welfare; $1.1 billion in the Veterans Administration budget; $325 million in the food stamp program administered by the Agriculture Department; $381 million in Defense Department spending and other cuts.

The cuts would mean poor people would have to pay more for food stamps and the elderly would pay more of their medical bills.

Ford set a new spending target of $302.2 billion for the current fiscal year, discarding his previous goal of $300 billion just a day after Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said the nation may be facing the longest recession of the postwar period.

The worsening economy also has increased pressures on Congress to maintain or increase existing social programs. Many of the Ford proposals had been put forth previously without winning congressional approval. And hours before his new announcement, earlier cuts Ford had proposed were rejected by a House committee.

—The House Rules Committee dealt a probably fatal blow to a bill authorizing $2 billion in federally-backed loans for America's railroads to upgrade their physical facilities, improve track and increase their freight-car fleet.

—Congress sent Ford a

—The House and Senate passed without debate and sent to Ford an $851 million vocational and rehabilitation bill identical to one which he had vetoed a month ago.

CHILD WELFARE SERVICES

State, County Cooperative Arrangement Is Stressed

Child welfare services are not something imposed from without but may be a cooperative arrangement between the state and county, heads of two supporting groups said here today.

Joey Grathwol, president of the American Association of University Women, and Vonda Townsend, president of the city council of Parent Teacher Associations, commented on the issue because of recent discussions. They said they felt there had been misunderstandings of the nature and scope of the problem as well as proposals to deal with it.

This service is required of the state for Aid Families with Dependent Children, but it leaves out the non-AFDC. The state pays for care expenses of the AF Children, and this may include foster care, medical and dental care, and other services such as counseling and referral to other agencies for help, they said. Other dependent and neglected and abused children, who might through court action be moved to the care of a foster home or some other type of care, must have their expenses paid for by the local county. Often, and this is what they said local efforts have been directed toward, the county enters into an agreement with the state to provide the services. The state provides the workers, salaries, office equipment, job related travel expenses, and the care expenses for AFDC. The county provides funds for the payment of non-AFDC children's care — foster care where required, medical expense, clothing, school supplies, etc.

"The amount of money that the county sets aside or commits is negotiable — it is worked out between the Commissioners court and the State Department of Public Welfare," Mrs. Grathwol and Mrs. Townsend said. "The state does not tell the court where it has to put X number of dollars. This is based on what the county feels it can do."

In Midland County, they said, this arrangement resulted in the county's expenses for aid to children being reduced from $30,000 to $16,000 a year.

The Texas Department of Public Welfare is stepping up its campaign against child abuse and neglect, they said, and has installed a 24-hour WATS line so that anyone may report anytime a suspected case of abuse or neglect by dialing toll free 1-800-292-5400. Such reports are referred immediately to the locality for followup investigation.

It is a misdemeanor not to report a suspected case of abuse or neglect. The law provides immunity from prosecution for all who make such reports without malice. Even anonymous reports are checked.

Usually, this service means that reportable cases increase sharply. In Texas in 1973 there were 4,000 cases of child abuse reported to the state department of welfare, and 2,509 or 63 per cent of these were confirmed. During the year at least 104 child deaths were identifiable as resulting from abuse.

"The most frightening statistic of all is the one that is unavailable — the number of abused children who are not reported," they said. Abuse — whether physical, sexual, or emotional — and neglect may take many forms and they cut across all spectrum of society, they added.

Discovery Is Indicated

Coquina No. 1 Hanks has indicated as a Pennsylvania reef discovery in southwest Borden County.

Operator ran an one-hour and seven minute drillstem test from 8,156-166 and recovered 4,400 feet of oil and 200 feet of heavily oil and gas-cut mud. Gas surfaced in five minutes at the rate of 353,000 cubic feet per day but subsided to a negligible level at the end of the test. Flowing pressure was 377-67, the one hour shutin pressure 2,261 and the two final shutin pressure 2081. The venture is located in the northeast quarter of section 19-32-3n, T&P.

Glasscock County gained two mile and a half outposts to the marginal Calvin (Dean) Field. Saxon Operating No. 1 Rape will be 1,320 from the south and west lines of section 34-34-5s, T&P, and No. 2 Rape will be 1,320 from the north and west lines. The field produces at 7,596 feet.

In Dawson, Mitchell Energy No. 1 Reeves made hole below 4,210, and in Sterling County, Samedan No. 1 Durham was circulating at 8,340 in lime and shale.

Revised Pay Package Sent To Coals Fields

WASHINGTON (AP) — Regional officials of the striking United Mine Workers have approved a revised contract offer and sent it to the coal fields, where it received a cautious reaction.

UMW officials said if the package is agreed to by the union's 120,000 striking members, the nation's coal mines can be reopened sometime next week.

The union's bargaining council of regional officials voted approval 22 to 15 Tuesday night, reversing the vote taken earlier in the day to reject the pact. The approval broke a deadlock that threatened to seriously prolong the walkout, now in its third week.

FATTEST UMW President Arnold Miller said the package provides a 64 per cent increase in wages and benefits. "That's the fattest labor settlement in this decade," Miller said. Union officials said they will explain the contract to district officials at eight or more regional meetings on Saturday and that voting by secret ballot will begin Monday.

Initial rank-and-file reaction to the proposed settlement was mixed, with many miners apparently taking a wait-and-see attitude. "They don't really know what's in it," said Howard Moore, president of UMW Local 6108 at Slab Fork, W.Va.

And Richard Stineman, president of Local 1619 in Indiana County, Pa., said miners will have "mixed emotions" about the council's sudden turnaround vote. "It will raise questions," he said. "I don't know what will happen at the local level."

The bargaining council last week rejected the first tentative settlement, sending Miller back to the bargaining table to seek modifications. He won new industry concessions in two key areas — wages and vacations.

J. ARNOLD MARSHALL Named On Fund Panel

J. Arnold Marshall, who has served the past two years as Lone Star District Scout chairman, has been named to the Buffalo Trail Council Scout Camp and Program Development fund, steering committee Frank Cowden, Midland, committee chairman announced.

The council has embarked upon an effort for a need for $500,000. It is being conducted on a three to five-year pledge basis.

Among the prime objectives are a new camp at the Buffalo Trail Scout Ranch in the Davis Mountains, where, Cowden pointed out, present sites are crowded to the point that tents and campers are having to use roadways; the improvement of support camps such as Lake Colorado City where a fishing and boat pier are needed for the aquatic camp; along with numerous other improvements; restroom facilities and troop sites at Camp Tejas; water supply at Camp Murphy on Lake J. B. Thomas; restroom facilities and troop sites at Camp Pegasus.

Massive Thanksgiving Grid, Cage Events Set

The arm chair quarterback who wants to spend time with his family had better do it fast as an array of sports events are on the docket for the local scene as well as on the tube.

From Wednesday through Monday a grand total of 14 shows will flash before the TV screen plus four local attractions.

Howard College starts off the five-day extravaganza with the Jayhawks entertaining Navarro College at 7:30 p.m. today.

From Thursday on, excitement builds up. Thanksgiving Day dinner

Hawks Bounce Ball Tonight

After a day's rest sandwiched between four games in the last six days, Howard College bounces back onto the Hawk hardwood court tonight at 7:30.

Navarro is the opponent and the visiting juco representative is expected to provide HC with stiff competition.

The Hawks own a respectable 6-2 overall record. HC's two setbacks have been at the hands of College of Mainland and Odessa College.

Howard College outlasted McMurry JV in its last time out, 83-71, on the Hawk court last Monday.

Tickets for each HC home game is $2 for adults and $1 for students. HC students will not be charged upon presentation of their ID cards.

Buffalo Needs Baltimore Win

NEW YORK (AP) — They're playing Cowboys and Indians in the National Football League on Thanksgiving Day and the Redskins will get the Turkey.

The Cowboys must scalp the Redskins to keep alive their flickering hopes for a playoff spot. And that's exactly what they will do.

Last week's showing by guest Pro Pigsaw Picker Fred Rothenberg was 7-6 — which dropped the season's effort to 96-46-1 — or 676. Blame it on the offense — or the defense, or something.

Anyway, here's the Thanksgiving menu:

WASHINGTON (8-3) at DAL-LAS (6-5): The Redskins won 28-21 when these two teams met 10 days ago in the nation's capital. The two teams have made a habit of splitting their games in the past few years and Dallas is a slight favorite. So ... COWBOYS 24, REDSKINS 21.

DENVER (5-5-1) at DETROIT (6-5): Don't count the Lions out yet. They've won six of their last seven games and could catch the Vikings yet. But not bet on it ... LIONS 31, BRONCOS 27.

And on Sunday:

KANSAS CITY (4-7) at ST. LOUIS (9-2): A victory will

Coahoma Baffles Stanton

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Bulldogs extended their seasonal output to four straight wins without a loss as they collared Stanton, 79-43 here Monday night.

Coahoma's Keith Stone flipped in 23 points. Gordon Eiland of Stanton scored 10.

In a junior varsity boys' event, Stanton won 52-39. High point man was Stanton's Menefield with 18 points. Ken Kelso of Coahoma scored 13. Coahoma's record for the year stands at 1-1.

The Coahoma girls' are even on the scorebooks for the young season. (2-2), downing Stanton, 87-59. Stanton's Sherry Smith was high scorer, netting 25 points. Coahoma's Barbara Ward contributed a double digit figure of 23.

In a junior varsity girls' test, Stanton was the winner, 49-28. Stanton's Tammy Biggs banked in 24 points and Rhonda Bingham of Coahoma had seven.

Coahoma now sports a 1-2 total.

Cardinal Honored Redskins, Thomas To Haunt Cowboys

NEW YORK (AP) — Bake McBride, the wing-footed center fielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, was named the National League Rookie of the Year today by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

McBride ran away from the field with 16 of the 24 votes to rout his two competitors, Greg Gross of the Houston Astros and Bill Madlock of the Chicago Cubs. Gross collared seven of the votes and Madlock received one.

The sturdy McBride, who hit .309, knocked in 56 runs and stole 30 bases, became the first Cardinal to win the award in 19 years and only the third in the history of the organization. Wally Moon and Bill Virdon won it consecutively in 1954 and 1955 for St. Louis.

Two writers from each of the 12 National League cities voted for the award.

Reacting logically to the prize, McBride picked up and kissed his wife when he learned that he had won.

"I was just happy," he noted, pointing to the help of teammate Lou Brock as a significant factor in his splendid season.

"I owe most of the honor to Brock," noted McBride. "He's some kind of fellow."

Fish Term Definitions

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — With fishing gaining new converts daily, now might be a good time to define some of the everyday terms used by the sport's devotees.

FISHERMAN: A jerk at one end of a line awaiting a jerk at the other end; also one who seldom tells the truth.

NOVICE: A fisherman who obviously doesn't know much about the sport but who often, somehow, manages to catch the biggest and most fish.

EXPERT: A fisherman who has caught two fish.

FISHING WRITER: A fisherman who writes stories mostly about other fishermen's catches because he rarely catches anything himself to write about.

LANDING OPERATOR: A guy who assures you they'll bite tomorrow because they bit yesterday.

FISH CAMP: A place where fishermen swap lies, play cards and occasionally weigh and clean small fish.

SPORT FISHERMEN: Anglers who brag about seldom killing fish but who keep secret the fact that they often don't catch any fish to kill.

Amarillo Native Earns Award

By The Associated Press

One of the nice things you can say about Tim Black is that he never makes the same mistake twice.

Of course, Southern Methodist wasn't saying too many nice things about the sophomore Baylor defensive end from Amarillo Saturday after he almost personally wrecked the Mustangs' vaunted Wishbone-T offense.

Black was credited with 16 tackles—SIX of them behind the line of scrimmage in Baylor's 31-14 victory over SMU to earn The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week award.

Black, who was a highly courted blue-chip prospect in high school, received a quick education in football SWC-style as a freshman. His early dose of experience showed up Saturday.

SMU gained yardage on the trucky little play where the quarterback makes a quick pass to the split end on Black's side.

The Mustangs decided they would try it again in the second half on a crucial third down and six play.

"Tim was ready for it and he almost intercepted that—finally batting it away from SMU's split receiver," said Baylor defensive coach Corky Nelson.

Nelson said "Boy, Tim really hurt SMU—he cost 'em 30 yards in losses behind the line of scrimmage."

Nelson says Black makes up for the week grip by "playing with a great deal of intensity."

Razorback Fullback Is Rusher

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles didn't want to take a chance that his quarterback might misread the option play in the second half Saturday against Texas Tech.

Not, that he doesn't trust quarterback Mike Kirkland.

Broyles just wanted to be certain that fullback Ike Forte was going to get the football.

"Since we wanted him to carry the ball, we called what is commonly known as the base play," Broyles said. "We had the threat of the option, but Tech didn't know we weren't running the option play in the second half."

Forte, who had 56 yards on 10 carries in the first half, was called on 22 times in the second half and responded with 159 yards. His total of 215 yards ranks third on the Arkansas career rushing list. He also scored both Arkansas touchdowns in a 21-13 victory over Tech.

Klondike Wins Test

KLONDIKE — Garden City has failed to win in four outings as the home team suffered a 52-37 defeat from Klondike here Monday night.

Randy Airhart and Rex Carr bounced the ball into the hoop for 12 and 10 points respectively for Klondike. Garden City's Bobby Doe and Carlos Banuelos each garnered eight points apiece.

Klondike ran past Garden City, 69-39 in a "A" girls contest. Jana O'Brien was credited with 25 points. Becky Hirt of Garden City chalked up 23 points. Garden City now owns a 3-2 record.

In a girls' "B" outing, Klondike gained a six point decision over Garden City, 41-35. Klondike's J. Bradford earned 28 points and Linda Schwartz of Garden City settled for 19.

AT DALLAS Redskins, Thomas To Haunt Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) — When the Dallas Cowboys traded Duane Thomas, they never really thought the Washington Redskins running back would ever come back to haunt them.

Thomas paced the Cowboys to the 1971 Super Bowl title but Coach Tom Landry tired of making special favors for him and of his possible eroding influence on team unity.

The Cowboys front office figured that would be the case anywhere Thomas went ... too moody ... too much of an introvert.

For awhile it looked like they were right as he bounced from team to team, but Thomas was to be in the starting lineup against Dallas Thanksgiving Day as Washington attempted to nail down a National Football League playoff berth.

The previous week Thomas gained a game ball in a 65-yard effort against Philadelphia, prompting a rare smile.

Redskins Coach George Allen said it was "Only the third time I've seen Duane smile. The first was when he joined us, the second was when we took him back after being suspended in a dispute with an assistant coach and the third was when we gave him the game ball."

The Cowboys hinted this week that they would rather see Thomas in the lineup rather than Larry Brown, who has been injured most of the season.

How much will your son know about business when he applies for his first full-time job?

Plenty—if he's ever been a newspaperboy. Through route experience he's already a lap ahead of his classmates. While they both mastered ideas, the boy with a newspaper route was able to put them to practical use.

The benefits of managing a newspaper route are an equation for a future successful citizen. A great number of today's prominent men started their public careers as newspaperboys. And they all vouch that a newspaper route gives a boy a head start on the future.

If you'd like more information for your son or any other interested youngster, get in touch with our Circulation Department.

A first Thanksgiving...

On a desolate morning in 1623 the New England colonists gathered for a day of fasting and prayer to bolster their faith and renew a fading dedication to the new land. A lingering drought had stunted their crops and dimmed their future in a merciless test of their pioneering spirit. Then, almost in mid-sentence, their prayers were dramatically answered like the timing of an unearthly melodrama. Water-heavy clouds drifted across the sun and ripples of thunder rattled through the fields. The hand of God swept across the drying earth and the sky in silent sympathy poured out His blessings. Though things have changed since those early days and technology has taught us to split the atom and add comfort to our lives, we, like the colonists, still depend upon the grace of God for the essentials of life.
