Slump Worsens, Index Reveals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government index designed to anticipate the economy's future declined for the third month in a row Wednesday, forecasting a deepening recession. Statistics released by the Commerce Department outlined a winter of increasing unemployment, less overtime for workers, reduced business spending on the new production facilities which generate jobs and little enthusiasm among shoppers to borrow money. On Capitol Hill, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns told the Joint Economic Committee that the United States must confront the international energy crisis by adopting a policy of austerity at home, including a possible gasoline tax. Asked what such a policy might mean, Burns said "The automobile industry, already depressed, will suffer more. The recreation industry also would be affected more. And homebuilding, which is already in a decline, would be hurt more." There were also additional layoffs in some industries and a Massachusetts electronics firm said it was planning to cut employ salaries by up to 10 per cent this winter. The Commerce Department said its index of leading indicators dropped 1.3 per cent in October. At the same time, the department revised its September figures to show a record 3.3 per cent plunge. Last month's report had originally pegged the September figure at 2.5 per cent. The index has now declined 5.4 per cent since July, making it the deepest sustained drop since a 6.3 per cent decrease when the economy was shaking off the effects of the Korean war.

James L. Pate, the Commerce Department's top economist, said the decline "reflects the continuing weakness in the economy."

"While the index continues to be distorted by inflation and other factors," he said, "the present reading is consistent with the consensus view that the moderate decline in the economy will continue until the early months of 1975."

The index is composed of 12 individual factors, only eight of which were available in the initial report. The index has given off confusing signals in the past, but its bias tends to be overly optimistic.

The October figures were marked by a 14 per cent jump in new claims for unemployment insurance to an average of 396,000 a week. A year ago new claims were averaging 237,000 a week.

The average work week declined from 40.1 hours in September to 40 hours in October.

The September figure for the change in the size of consumer installment debt, which was available for the first time in the latest report, showed it grew $8.12 billion, compared to $18.14 billion a month earlier. Usually consumers show more willingness to borrow in September. Last year, for example, total installment debt jumped $16.3 billion.

At first, the Tuckers, Mike McClain and Mike Butler thought the bones were pottery. The skull, teeth, ribs, vertebrae, pelvis and thigh bones were red colored and piled in a heap.

Exposure to the air changed the bones to white. "He was all intact when we first got him," Tucker said. "He's not now."

A rough ride in the boat caused the bones to crumble some.

Also, the explorers located bones of an animal about one foot long, but of a much more recent era, judging from their "perfect" condition.

Tom Rutledge gave part of the bones to Howard College for the group, Tucker said. Later, the four hope to return to the cave for the animal bones and more excavation.

E. Lee Thackrey, head of the Howard College geology department, took some of the bones to the University of Texas at Austin for carbon-14 dating.

Thackrey thought the bones looked similar to those of the Midland man found southwest of Midland and placed at 25,000 years old.

Uncovered Bones Could Belong To Ancient Man

By JOHN EDWARDS Bones said to look like those of the 25,000-year-old Midland man shocked a group of local fishermen at first Saturday afternoon. "That kind of shook us up that first day, and we stopped digging," Mrs. Sonny Tucker said. But they returned later. Before the discovery, the fish weren't biting. So Mr. and Mrs. Tucker and two employees of Sonny Tucker Transport, Vealmoor, stopped their boat to hunt for Indian arrowheads by Devils River about 25 miles north of Del Rio. On a cliff 300 feet up, they found color pictographs of buffalo, wolf, lion and a totem pole, and a shallow cave large enough to stand in. Digging three and one-half feet through several layers of ashes and burnt wood took them about one inch from rock bottom. Here, they found the bones.

Arabian New Lord In U. S. Finance

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — He's an Arabian with the confidence in U.S. business of a bullish Wall Streeter. He operates as a Howard Hughes of the Mideast, behind a screen of worldwide holdings. He travels in a DC9 outfitted with an office, all the comforts of home and a sophisticated communications system that keeps him in touch with his diverse, burgeoning $80 million empire. And Adnan Khashoggi, 39, the son of the personal physician to Saudi Arabia's late King Ibn Saud, is on his way to controlling almost a half-billion dollars in banking assets in the San Francisco Bay area.

He's an example of the increasing number of Arab businessmen who are investing in the United States. In his latest deal, the round-faced Arab agreed to buy 650,000 common shares of First National Bank of San Jose for $14.3 million.

Khashoggi already controls Security National Bank and Bank of Contra Costa, both in nearby Walnut Creek. The banks have combined assets of $155 million. If the deal is approved by shareholders, it will give the Stanford University-educated Khashoggi one-third interest in the bank, which has assets of $306 million.

"I understand it is purely a personal investment and that he doesn't want to be involved in the bank's operations," said Vernon Ingraham, First National's vice president. "He said he chose us because of our assets, potential and strength of management."

After a hurried trip here to wrap up the San Jose deal, Khashoggi flew to New York on Tuesday, preparing to jet to London before returning to Beirut, where his English wife and their five children live. Khashoggi attended Chico State University north of here and then Stanford's graduate school of business. For a while, he lived on the San Francisco Peninsula and acquired extensive commercial real estate interests.

Building, Approved By Bill

The House of Representatives approved Tuesday the military construction bill for fiscal year 1975, including $1,929,000 for Webb AFB. Congressman Omar Burlison advised today.

Part of this, however, is included in work under way and will assure completion of the airmen's dormitories, plus runway reconditioning. Specifically included were $43,000 covering the cold storage facilities (underway), $111,000 for dining hall facilities, and $999,000 for the airmen's dining hall. These total $1,153,000, and the difference between this and the $1,929,000 total in the bill is $776,000 for altering of taxways.

The three building projects were included originally in the 1974 fiscal year appropriations, but rising costs twice caused bids to exceed authorized funds.

Rep. Burlison said that he understood the Senate would take up the military construction bill soon after reconvening following the Thanksgiving holidays, and that action could come within a week from then, leaving ample time to adjust difference in the conference committee prior to final adjournment.

Work Is Started On Building

Construction has started on the new headquarters building for the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

J. W. Little Construction Co., has moved in, and additional dirt work for preparation of the site at the northwest corner of the FM 700-Goliad intersection has been completed. The new facility will contain in excess of 8,000 square feet.

Man Is Moved To County Jail

Ricky Winters was transferred to Howard County jail this morning, under a $3,500 bond, charged with theft over $200. Jimmy Moore is in city jail on the same charge, also in lieu of a $3,500 bond.

Policy Of Austerity Needed, Says Burns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns said Wednesday the United States must confront the international energy crisis by adopting a policy of austerity at home, including a possible gasoline tax.

In testimony before the congressional Joint Economic Committee, Burns said the Ford administration's measures to limit energy consumption have been inadequate.

He said much sterner measures must be taken to demonstrate to the world that the United States, the largest consumer of energy, can lead the effort to reduce oil imports and to diminish over-all energy consumption.

The international energy situation is so grave, Burns said, that stringent U.S. steps are needed, and he said preliminary planning should begin at once on varying options.

"These might include a sizable tax on gasoline, or on imports, of oil, or on automobiles according to their weight or horsepower," Burns said.

Two days ago, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon told the same committee he also thinks a tax on gasoline might be in order.

President Ford has repeatedly denied that he is considering such a tax and has chided top advisors, such as Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, for suggesting a gasoline tax is being studied.

After Wednesday's hearing, Burns was asked why the President keeps insisting he wouldn't ask for a gasoline tax when his top advisers keep urging him to consider it. "Ask the President," Burns replied.

He declined to say if he had recommended a gasoline tax to Ford. Burns and Simons were testifying on a proposed $25 billion international lending fund which western industrial nations would establish to help members countries retain their financial stability in the face of steeply rising oil import prices.

Unless the price of oil goes down, Burns said, "there will be a massive redistribution of economic and political power among the countries of the world. This of itself carries dangers for our country's future."

ARTHUR BURNS

Bit Colder

Weather conditions should be clear through today, turning to partly cloudy tonight and Friday. Expect little temperature change today, but it will be slightly colder tonight and Friday. The high today will be near 70, the low tonight in the lower 30's and the high Friday in the mid 60's.

FORD'S 30-30 CLUB Ex-Teammates Relive Old Times At Brunch

WASHINGTON (AP) — From as far away as South Africa, President Ford's 1930 high school football teammates are gathering for their annual Thanksgiving Day reunion—this time at the White House.

President and Mrs. Ford will entertain the 52 team members and wives for an eggs Benedict brunch in the Blue Room.

They're known as the "Thirty-Thirty Club" because there were 30 members of the state championship team at South High School in Grand Rapids, Mich. in 1930. Ford, who played center, has kept up with them all through the years.

No one planned to miss the reunion hosted by the President. Edward A. Preston, an Interpace vice president stationed in Johannesburg, was making the longest journey to Washington from South Africa.

Most of Ford's teammates, however, chose to live near Grand Rapids where they grew up. They flew to Washington from Detroit Wednesday afternoon.

One teammate, Silas McGee, a retired longshoreman, journeyed from San Francisco after benefactors helped provide plane fare and funds for a new suit.

The only other non-Michiganers in the group were Michael Burdell, Charleston, W.Va.; Dr. Allan R. Elliott, Shippensburg, Pa.; Leon A. Joslin, Seattle, Wash., and Richard J. Zylstra, Chicago Heights, Ill.

Arthur G. Brown of Grand Rapids, secretary-treasurer of the club, and his wife were the only persons invited by the Fords to be overnight guests at the White House Wednesday night.

Mrs. Ford planned a special 11 a.m. brunch for the group menu consisting of honeydew melon with strawberries, eggs Benedict, asparagus, and hot apple pie with ice cream.

That will start the Thanksgiving festivities at the White House. President and Mrs. Ford and their daughter Susan will have a private, traditional turkey dinner later in the day.

IN PURCHASES Texas Delegation Resists Slashes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., and the Texas congressional delegation plan to fight President Ford's plans to cancel $261.5 million in purchases by the Defense Department of airplanes assembled in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, an aide to the senator said Wednesday.

The aide said no firm plans have been made on how or when the Texas delegation will oppose the action since Ford's plans were only disclosed Tuesday afternoon as Congress recessed for Thanksgiving.

Among the $4.6 billion in budget cuts Ford asked Congress to approve were cancellations of twelve F11F strategic bombers made by General Dynamics in Fort Worth, twenty-four A7Ds made by LTV Corp. in Garland, and 48 Huey helicopters made by Bell Helicopter at Hurst.

The planes were not included in then-President Richard Nixon's fiscal year 1975 budget but were added by Congress.

The helicopters were added to the military appropriations bill by Tower on the Senate floor without the recommendation of the appropriation committees.

"While the President's desire to cut government spending in the battle against inflation is a goal I share and have advocated," Tower said in a statement, "I nevertheless feel him inadvised in seeking cuts in programs vital to the defense posture of the United States. I will oppose those cuts."

Under new budget procedures enacted this summer, a President wishing to defer or rescind appropriations must submit a list to Congress for its agreement or rejection within a set time period.

Ford has asked rescissions or cancellations effective Dec. 16 of $248 million for the $215.5 million F11F program and the $110 million A7D program, and $13.5 million of the $18.5 million Huey appropriation.

Tower's office explained that the difference between the appropriated amount and the rescission figure results from money obligated through the manufacturers' subcontracts for parts of the planes.

SAYS HUSSEIN PLO Not Keeping Secret Pledge

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein said Wednesday the Palestine Liberation Organization is not keeping a secret pledge to end its opposition to him but that he still plans to turn over to the guerrilla group responsibility for the West Bank.

However, the tone of his remarks in an interview with The Associated Press suggested he has reservations as to the wisdom of the decision of the recent Arab summit in Rabat, which declared that the PLO is the sole representative of the Palestinians and should assume responsibility for the West Bank if Israel withdraws.

Hussein said Jordan had felt the Arab governments should have kept their options open for some more months.

But he said that once the decision was taken—then he corrected himself to say imposed—Jordan would carry it through. The West Bank, joined with Jordan in the war which followed the partition of Palestine in 1947, has been occupied by Israel since the 1967 war.

Hussein indicated the still-secret resolutions of the Rabat conference included a PLO pledge to end its public opposition to him.

"We are a little embittered of late by possibly irresponsible statements... indicating that some people might not be adhering fully to the Rabat agreement," he said.

Hussein indicated that one such statement was by Yasir Arafat's No. 2 man in the PLO, Abu Iyad, who said attempts had been made to assassinate Hussein in Rabat and would continue to be made.

Hussein said the attacks on his rule were jeopardizing the PLO's chances of joining a policy meeting with himself and Presidents Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Hafez Assad of Syria in the near future.

The king welcomed the reported success of U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim in winning agreement from Syria to extend the mandate for the international peace force on the Golan Heights another six months.

CRASH INEVITABLE? — One crop-dusting plane appears headed for a head-on crash with another in this photo. In fact, the photographer reversed the film and created this illusion with a double exposure. The crop duster has been very active in the Howard County farm fields.

Bilingual Education Pushed By State Body

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Board of Education recommended Wednesday that the 1975 legislature extend bilingual instruction to kindergarten pupils and provide more state money for driver education.

Those proposals were part of a 14-point program—in addition to a new school finance scheme—sent to the legislature and Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

No price tag was placed on the recommendations, which would add considerably to the cost of public education.

Bilingual education is now available starting with first grade, but the board said it really ought to start in the initial contact a non-English-speaking child has with public school. This would require training of more bilingual teachers.

The board said driver education is not reaching thousands of eligible high school pupils. It now is funded by federal money and the Texas Traffic Safety Fund, with school districts receiving $16.85 per pupil taking the course.

"It is doubtful that funding at this level would make it possible to reach the 210,000 or more newly eligible students each year... Even with the present state and federal support, in the majority of the districts it is necessary for students to pay a laboratory fee, often as much as $45, thus preventing participation by many students—usually those from lower socioeconomic levels," the board said.

"In recent years the number of incidents of students threatening and-or attacking school employes has increased to such an extent that teachers in many schools are reluctant to enter school buildings alone," the board said.

The board requested increased state funds for the instruction, required by state law, on drugs and crime prevention.

The main need in this area, the board said, is more training for teachers. It also said the programs, now given in grades 5-12, should be expanded to include kindergarten through fourth grade.

Also included was a request to change the textbook adoption law so a variety of instructional materials—in addition to texts—can be used.

The board sought funds for a pilot program for not more than 100,000 pupils in which youngsters could attend school more than the required 180 days without paying tuition.

Under the new three-quarter system that starts next year, a pupil can attend school an additional quarter, but only if he or she pays tuition. Coupled with that recommendation was a request for authority to allow school calendar designs other than the quarter system.

Some Prophecies Good, Others Miss The Mark

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Well, gang, I guess it's time to retrieve the Fearless Forecast of September and see how many predictions on the fate of 24 new series offered then hold up now.

The prophecies were made without reference to Nielsen ratings or tea leaves. The networks only used the Nielsen—I think—in deciding to cancel 11 of the new series midway through the season.

In any event, here are the final returns.

SUNDAY — The Forecast said the Cher-less "Sonny Comedy Revue" with Sonny Bono on ABC was an immediate goner. ABC has agreed.

MONDAY — CBS' Forecast

"Rhoda" was given a long life and NBC's "Born Free" a short one. Both calls proved right. Honest.

TUESDAY — CBS' "Sons and Daughters" and "Manhunter" got quick-demise declarations. CBS now says the first is leaving, the second staying.

At NBC, "Little House on the Prairie" was called out by spring. Whereupon the series sprang back with a mid-season renewal. Oh, well, at least we got "Lucas Tanner" and "Petrocelli" right. They'll be on a full year.

At ABC, "That's My Mama" and "Get Christie Love" were declared certain mid-season ax victims. Wrong and wrong, again. They'll stay.

THURSDAY — A fair Forecast day. NBC's

"Sierra" was pronounced a mid-season loser and "Movin' On" given a full year. Both calls were right. The Forecast was foiled on "Paper Moon," which ABC is folding at mid-season. We gave it a season and no more. "Harry O," which we gave at least two years, is certain of one.

FRIDAY — CBS' "Planet of the Apes" was given half a season and then no more bananas. CBS agreed. At NBC, the right call — continued success — was given "Rockford Files," but a pink-slip prognosis for "Police Woman" was a wrong. "Chico and the Man" got a reluctant one-season Forecast. NBC seconded the motion, but enthusiastically.

At ABC, "Kodiak" didn't look bearish and drew warnings of a mid-season ax.

WELL STOCKED FOR CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS — White's Stores Inc., located at 1607 Gregg St., has prepared well for the Christmas shopping season. Toys and home appliances prove to be especially popular items at this time of year. Whether you're shopping for the kids, a husband, wife or a friend, the place to stop, explore and shop is White's.

Label Bags, Hill Says

By JOHN HILL
Texas Air General

AUSTIN — Few things can aggravate and inconvenience an air traveler like losing his baggage. In previous columns, we've discussed other problems of the air traveling consumer, along with his rights and responsibilities in regard to an airline.

When a consumer purchases an airline ticket, he is also purchasing certain services, such as the safe handling and return of his baggage.

Here's what the Civil Aeronautics Board, the Texas Aeronautics Commission, and the Attorney General's Transportation and Consumer Protection Divisions recommend to passengers.

Notify airline personnel immediately if your bags don't appear at the baggage claim area. They may still be on board the plane so, the plane can be checked before its next take off.

If the bags aren't located right away, make sure airline personnel fill out a form reporting your loss. This will require your description of the bag and what it contained, including purchase date for items, their original cost, and their value when lost.

If your bags aren't found in three days, the airline will send a claim form which should be filled in and returned within 45 days, the maximum time for filing claims. Airline agents will check the claim, perhaps asking for sales tickets or other documentation of value.

Consumers often fail to realize that an airline may not reimburse the full amount paid for items, because value usually depreciates after purchase.

Never release your baggage claim check or throw it away until you have your bags or your claim has been settled.

FBI Operates Roulette, Blackjack Table, Slots

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — "Step into our version of Reno," said Charlie Parsons, swinging open a door to reveal a roulette wheel of the finest quality, slot machines, blackjack table, craps table, all nestled into a hideaway in the heart of FBI territory.

In fact, the FBI itself operates this particular casino in one corner of a nine-building complex in the woodlands of Virginia some 40 miles south of Washington.

It's all for an honorable purpose: training FBI agents and local police officers in the gambling trade so they can detect and arrest illegal gamblers.

The paraphernalia is real, confiscated from actual gambling operations and turned over by the courts for the FBI to use in training. Some of it is rigged to guarantee the operators profits far larger than an honest game would allow.

Assistant FBI Director Joe D. Jamison presides over the casino and the rest of the FBI Academy, situated on 139 acres of a Marine Corps base in a new complex opened two years ago to replace an older and smaller facility nearby. He has a $9.2 million budget to train, feed and house more than 1,000 students a year.

Five reporters who regularly cover the Justice Department accepted an FBI invitation to tour the facility Tuesday. The invitation was part of Director Clarence M. Kelley's effort to modify some of the agency's traditional secrecy. The academy is where FBI agents receive 14 weeks and five days of training immediately after joining the agency. It's where a new class of 250 local police officers comes four times a year for 12 weeks of training paid for entirely by the FBI.

The state and local officers are nominated by their chiefs subject to FBI approval.

It costs the FBI $4,000 to give each local cop college-level courses in such things as criminal law, police labor relations, basic budgeting, firearms and, yes, gambling. We were taken to the indoor firing range where 23 paper silhouettes of a human figure dangle above 23 firing positions. It looks something like a bowling alley. The officers are scored on their accuracy with the highest score — nine — going for a direct hit to the heart.

"You teach them, then, to aim to kill?"

"Yes," replied Inspector Edward L. Campbell.

"There's no such thing as aiming to wound. There's no one in the world who's a good enough shot to do that. A better way to say it is that you're aiming to neutralize the adversary."

But Campbell and George A. Zeiss, head of the firearms training, insisted that agents rarely draw their weapons.

HE HID OUT FOR 30 YEARS Rip Van Winkle OF WWII Had Trouble Readjusting

TOKYO (AP) — A former intelligence officer in Japan's old imperial army who hid out in a Philippine jungle for 30 years is disenchanted and having difficulty adjusting to a new life after a gap of three decades.

In the half year since he came back to Japan, former Lt. Hiroo Onoda has written a best seller on his experiences, brushed up on his tango steps, gone in for Japanese fencing, started driving lessons and traveled up and down the Japanese islands.

He has also moved frequently to escape the news media and the curious public. The 52-year-old Onoda now declines interviews and refuses to answer questions, but on a recent visit to Brazil he told Sao Paulo newsmen that he plans to move to Brazil, because he is disappointed in his homeland.

DISILLUSIONED
Information from persons who have been in contact with him and from published reports in two Japanese weekly news magazines show he is disillusioned. This came despite the hero's welcome he was accorded when he returned home after his surrender on Lubang Island, 75 miles southwest of Manila, March 10, 1974. He gave himself up only on orders from his onetime superior officer.

Since he emerged from the jungle and returned home, Onoda, like another straggler before him, has been sought after eagerly to tell about his experiences at public gatherings. The earlier straggler, former Sgt. Shoichi Yokoi, was captured by two fishermen near his jungle hideout in Guam after hiding 28 years. He returned to Japan in 1972, six months later married a 44-year-old spinster, toured the country giving lectures, ran unsuccessfully in the parliamentary elections last July and also wrote a book.

His return, activities and adjustments were different from Onoda. The two news magazines, Shukan Asahi and Shukan Shincho, reported in extensive articles that one of Onoda's problems is that he doesn't like being tied to his mother's apron strings. Material pieced together on him was said to show:

His mother, Tamae Onoda, 88, a former women's college teacher, is proud of the Spartan-like education she and her husband Tanejiro, 86, gave their five sons and two daughters. Now that he's home, she expects Hiroo to show devotion. He feels that they are being selfish.

DID DUTY
"I did my duty and didn't bring shame on the family," he said. "Now I'd like to lead an ordinary life."

Two weeks after his return to Japan he left Kinan, his hometown in southeasterly Honshu, for seclusion to write his memoirs. His book, "My 30 Year War in Lubang Island," first serialized in a popular weekly magazine, has sold 170,000 copies.

After finishing his memoirs, for which his publishers reportedly paid a minimum 36 million yen ($120,000), some say 70 million yen ($233,330), Onoda came out of hiding. He and two friends began touring the country, visiting the graves of his dead buddies and "rediscovering Japan."

He occasionally dropped into the bars on the Ginza. He doesn't touch a drop of hard liquor but enjoys singing prewar songs. He likes to dance, having learned in China as a clerk in a lacquer ware export house before he was conscripted in 1942.

As a youth, Onoda was known as a dandy who also loved the blues and the waltz. The 5 foot 2 former officer is again a natty dresser, wears fashionable glasses and keeps trim by calling at a kendo, Japanese fencing, hall where he displays the finesse of the old Samurai warrior, swinging the bamboo sword from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. once a week against some 10 opponents.

Speculators Stopped By Lack Of Backing

THE SPECULATOR'S HANDBOOK. By David Smyth and Laurance F. Stuntz. Regnery. 284 Pages. $12.95.

The misers among us usually have unexciting but accumulative existences, leaving nothing to chance and aspiring to success only in steady little increments, taking satisfaction and security just from having. The investor, as opposed to the saver, relies a bit more on chance but doesn't forsake knowledge in his quest to improve his fortune. Generally, if secretly, he aspires to sizable, dramatic changes in his life.

The speculator? Here is a person who lives by his wits and his predilection to view everything as an opportunity regardless of the risk and the spills he must endure. He is dazzled by the possibilities.

I suspect there are more speculators among us than we realize, forced however to remain inactive because, unlike the saver or investor, they have no banker or broker prodding or guiding them. Here, then, is the prod and the guide to the goods and services of the world presented as opportunities: wine, whisky, race horses, coffee, sugar, plywood, diamonds, real estate, lotteries, options, gold.

Presented they are, not as goods or metals or hobbies or beverages, but as vehicles to wealth and perhaps its opposite. Here, Walter Mitty, are the ingredients of the dream. You take it from here.

Deputy Returns To His Duties

HOUSTON (AP) — A deputy sheriff found innocent of a murder charge will return to work Wednesday, Sheriff Jack Heard said Monday.

Charles Edward Gendrett, 43, was cleared by a jury Friday in the fatal shooting last Dec. 13 of Guadalupe Lopez, 19. Gendrett said he shot the youth after a car chase when Lopez slashed at him with a knife.

Another deputy, George Wilson, 44, also was indicted in the case and his trial is pending. Both men resigned from the department after indictment was returned.

Developers To Comply

HOUSTON (AP) — Two land development companies and an individual developer agreed Monday not to make misrepresentations about developments in northern Harris and southern Montgomery counties.

An order signed by District Court Judge Paul Pressler also requires the companies—Cape Conroe Ltd. and Ves-Tex Land Development, Inc.—to refund money paid for land by five individuals.

The order enjoins the companies and James H. Wilkerson, president of American Land Co., from making false representations about the utilities and recreation facilities at two developments, Spanish Cove and Cape Conroe.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Kathleen Burckel said prospective buyers were told tennis courts, an Olympic-size pool, a marina and built at the development sites when such was not the case.

Cowboys And Indians War On Turkey Day

DALLAS (AP) — Washington and Dallas, two National Football League clubs with a running feud that for pure ferocity equals skirmishes between the Internal Revenue Service and bootleggers, go to war again Thanksgiving Day with a possible playoff spot at stake.

Should Washington capture the nationally televised contest and Detroit lose earlier in the day to Denver, it would hand the Redskins the National Conference "wild card" berth.

Washington is 8-3—only a game behind NFC leader St. Louis, Dallas is 6-5 and a loss would kill its hopes of a record ninth consecutive appearance in the NFL playoffs.

Both Detroit and Green Bay have five losses in the other NFC divisions. Washington has beaten Green Bay in a headup meeting.

"They hate our guts and we hate theirs," says Washington tackle Bill Brundige "and that's going to make it another great game."

The computer-like Cowboys don't quite dip to such earthy language to describe their distaste for the Redskins.

"We can still beat Washington," says Cowboy running back Calvin Hill, who probably won't play because of a sore toe.

"We'll beat them," says quarterback Roger Staubach.

"We have a natural rivalry with Washington and we have enough pride to want to beat them," says Cowboy Coach Tom Landry.

The Cowboys will have the opportunity to greet a former teammate, Duane Thomas, who is starting at running back for Washington against Dallas.

"We won't change our game plan just because he (Thomas) is in there," says

Aggies, Horns Rest Today, Big Clash Slated Friday

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Longhorns and Texas Aggies break a tradition Thursday by staying home on Thanksgiving.

But Friday at noon the two schools will meet for the 81st time in a football series that began in 1894.

The contest will be nationally televised.

Eighth-ranked Texas A&M can clinch at least a tie for the Southwest Conference championship and host spot in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas Jan. 1 by beating No. 17 Texas. Should A&M lose, Baylor will play Penn State in the Cotton Bowl.

Howard's Hawks Trip Navarro

Howard College hit the century mark for the fourth time this season as the Hawks played probably their best game in drubbing Navarro, 116-105 here Wednesday night.

The Hawks are now 7-2 in the scorebook and next face on their home court, Lubbock Christian JV, Saturday, then Hardin-Simmons, Monday, and Odessa College, Dec. 5.

Howard College took a quick 7-0 lead on the floor effort of Larry Erves. Johnny Harris, and David Giles before the Navarros realized what had hit them.

The visitors narrowed the margin down to two points twice in the early stages, but Hawk fire power proved too much to overcome.

Largest margin HC had was when Erves' shot hit the century total for the Hawks and a 24-point spread, 100-76.

The referees were kept busy all night as a total 62 fouls took place. HC led at half time, 63-50.

Navarro staged a late last half overhaul try but the Horns regained poise in time to check the situation.

Four Hawks hit in the double figures. Marvin Johnson led off with 35 points then followed Hawk teammates Larry Erves, Johnny Harris and Giles, netting 27, 21, and 16 points respectively.

Donnie Chambers was Navarro's leading scorer, hitting 29.

By CLARK LESHER

Tip Jacobson, Big Spring High assistant football coach, announces his retirement from the gridiron scene come next year. Jacobson has 35 years of coaching experience to his credit most all of it accumulated in Oklahoma.

Jacobson was influenced to come to the Lone Star state when Bob Burris took over the Steers' head football coaching reins two years ago. "I'm proud to have had Tip with us," said Burris.

Terry Hansen of the Chamber of Commerce office said both Seagraves and Jim Ned squads should arrive in Big Spring early Friday afternoon.

The two class A schools meet at the Memorial Stadium field that same night at 7:30 p.m. A regional playoff game is scheduled. Both will chow down after the contest, then head for home.

The C of C still has its hunting sites aimed toward landing another playoff game week. Possibilities are Wichita Falls Rider, El Paso Coronado, Alpine and Olton.

Kansas State's Vince Gibson, whose Wildcats suffered a 1-6 Big Eight season, resigned. KSU closed out its 1974 season last Saturday by thrashing Colorado, 33-19.

Vince has done wonders to upgrade KSU's grid program, new athletic dorms, new stadium and an astro-turf field. He will be one hard PR man to replace.

Fritz Shurmur, was released from his contract at Wyoming and Paul Dietzel stepped down at South Carolina.

Bill Arcenibia, 16, a sophomore at Big Spring High will compete in the National Junior Handball Tournament, Cincinnati, Dec. 27-30.

Bill won the state junior title in San Antonio last July. It took him four matches to come out on top.

The champion, co-champions or tri-champions will pose out the SWC's 60th football season this weekend, only question being who's on first.

Texas A&M is at Texas in a nationally-televised (ABC-TV) Friday meeting and Baylor entertains Rice Saturday in games that will decide the first three places. Member-elect Houston ends its regular season Saturday afternoon against MVC champion Tulsa.

Here are the possibilities — the only possibilities — confronting the three contenders:

Victories by A&M and Rice would give the Aggies the outright championship;

Victories by A&M and Baylor would result in those two being co-champions and would send A&M to the Cotton Bowl against Penn State;

Victories by Texas and Rice would result in a three-way tie and Baylor to Dallas;

Victories by Texas and Baylor would give Baylor the outright championship;

An A&M-Texas tie, plus a Baylor victory would give the Bears the outright tie; an A&M-Texas tie, plus a Rice win, would give the Aggies the outright tie; a Baylor-Rice tie, plus a Texas victory would give the Bears the outright tie; a Baylor-Rice tie, plus an A&M victory, would give it to the Aggies; and ties in both games would leave the Aggies and Bears co-champions, and sends the Aggies treading toward the Cotton Bowl.

Dallas, Detroit Favored Today

NEW YORK (AP) — There will be no Thanksgiving Day turkeys—not in the National Football League, at least.

A couple of weeks ago, it might have seemed that the NFL was giving the fans the bird with Denver at Detroit as one of its holiday television specials. But that was before the Lions, all but given up for dead, unseathed their claws and scratched their way back into playoff contention.

They'll keep scratching Thursday, putting the bite on the Broncos.

And that's only the appetizer. The main course will be served in Dallas. The Cowboys are in desperate need of a victory to stay alive in the scramble for the playoffs.

Washington needs one, too, but not as badly. And the Cowboys, who played badly in the first half against the Redskins a few weeks ago before pulling themselves together and turning a laugh into a nail-biter, will carve up Washington.

On Monday night, just about the same time the last of the turkey salad, turkey sandwiches, turkeyburgers and the rest of the leftovers are being consumed, the Miami Dolphins will feast on Cincinnati.

We contracted a case of pre-Thanksgiving indigestion last weekend, getting our stuffings knocked out with a hard-toss/wall 7-6 mark that put the season record at 92-50-1 for a .648 percentage.

Lions 24, Broncos 17

Greg Landry or Bill Munson, it doesn't matter who quarterbacks Detroit. Both can get the job done against the hot-and-cold Denver pass defense.

Cowboys 28, Redskins 20

Duane Thomas is counting on having a field day against his old teammates. Don't count on it. Count on Roger Staubach to have a sharp afternoon. And despite his big-toe injury, count on Calvin Hill to be in there.

Dolphins 27, Bengals 21

The Dolphins just don't

It's TV Football And Turkey For Thanksgiving Holiday

By TY BRYANT
For me, football lovers, this Thanksgiving holiday will be torn between turkey dinner, turkey sandwiches, turkey casserole and of course football games — twelve football games, to be exact.

For the five day period from Thursday until Monday, five college games, six NFL games, and one WFL game will be broadcast, with each of the three major networks, ABC, CBS, and NBC getting into the act, along with TVS.

The biggest games for fans in the Big Spring area will be the CBS telecast of the Washington-Dallas game at 2:30 p.m. Thursday and the ABC telecast of Texas-Texas A&M game on Friday.

The Denver Broncos and the Detroit Lions will get the grid marathon underway on Thursday morning at 11:15 as KMTD, Channel 2 will carry the game live through the NBC television network.

A little later, at 2:30 p.m. Washington and Dallas will pair off from Dallas, with KOSA, Channel 7 carrying that game through the CBS Television Network.

The ABC Network will get into the act later that day over KWAB, Channel 4, and WFAA, Channel 8 with the broadcast of the NCAA contest between Penn State and Pittsburg beginning at 8 p.m.

At 11:30 p.m. Friday, Texas and Texas A&M will kick off that day's action over the ABC network followed by another NCAA game, Auburn and Alabama, beginning at 3 p.m.

The World Football League Semi-final playoff game between the Memphis Southmen and the Florida Blazers will be telecast over TVS with KWAB Channel 4, and KTVT Channel 11, carrying the game. That game begins at 7 p.m.

The traditional Army-Navy clash will be televised on Saturday on ABC, as part of a double header. That game will begin at noon on Channels 4 and 8 and the second part of the double header will begin at 5 p.m. as Notre Dame takes on Southern California.

The ABC Monday Night football game, featuring the Cincinnati Bengals and the Miami Dolphins will round out the weekend of football on Channels 4 and 8, beginning at 8 p.m.

Food Gift To Family

A basket of food for Thanksgiving was taken to a needy family by members of Alpha Kappa Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, today.

The group met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Clay LaRochelle and finalized plans for the Santa Visit project which will be held on Dec. 16-20. Plans were also completed for the couple's Christmas party that is slated for Dec. 7 in the home of Mrs. Lynn Magruder, 91-B Ent.

Mrs. Magruder brought the program on fiction and gave mini reviews of Truman Capote's "In Cold Blood," Agatha Christie mysteries and "Catch 22." There was also a houseware party.

accepted the resignation of Mrs. Eldon Marsh at the Tuesday meeting in the home of Mrs. Gerald Wooten.

Mrs. Marsh, who has been serving as recording secretary and publicity chairman, is being transferred to Universal City, Tex. A replacement will be named at the meeting of the executive board in January.

The Christmas party for club members will be on Dec. 10 at the home of Mrs. Horace Rankin. Fondue will be served, and gifts will be exchanged.

Gifts for patients at the Big Spring State Hospital were brought and will be taken to the hospital for the Dec. 17 party.

Mrs. Wooten was moderator for a group oriented discussion on the gift of sight, and how it is neglected until there is a danger of losing it. The members also talked of the instability of marriage, the high cost of divorce, and the consequences.

Thanksgiving Affair Held At Coahoma

An old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner was held Monday night for members and guests of the 1941 Study Club of Coahoma at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Allen.

Fifteen couples attended the affair, and women wore old-fashioned dresses. The tables, covered with provincial print, were set for foursomes and were centered with soup containers that held arrangements of artificial vegetables.

The Christmas party will be held at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 9 at the home of Mrs. Don McKinney with Mrs. Rob Etheridge as cohostess.

Gifts will be exchanged by the members who will also bring gifts to take to residents of a nursing home.

Secretaries Hear Gregg

Peter Gregg of the Veterans Administration Hospital Social Work staff, was speaker for the National Secretaries Association dinner meeting at the Holiday Inn Monday evening.

Gregg showed a film strip, "Myths and Realities," which dealt with the problems of aging. He defined aging as early as middle and late old age.

Guests were Ms. Judy Horner, Ms. Johnita Hintona and Ms. Alyce Butler.

Reports were made on the Nov. 9 seminar held in Big Spring with 77 paid registrations.

The Christmas party will be held at 7 p.m., Dec. 16 at the Texas Electric Reddy Room. There will be a salad supper and gift exchange.

Beauceants Plan Giving

Plans for distributing Thanksgiving gifts were made by the Social Order of the Beauceant at the Monday evening meeting in the Masonic Hall.

Mrs. W. C. Fryar presided and honored 12 of the 14 past presidents by dedicating a poem to them, which she read.

A baskets of toiletries will be taken as gifts to a group at the Big Spring Nursing Inn as a Thanksgiving activity. Initiation will be held at the Dec. 9 meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Wright Vickers, Mrs. Grover Wayland, Mrs. Homer Thorp and Mrs. C. R. McClenney.

The table was decorated in the Thanksgiving theme in shades of yellow and brown. Fruit and fall leaves accented with miniature paper turkeys, were arranged together for the centerpiece.

Lunch Sweets

Looking for a sweet surprise to put in your youngster's school lunch bucket? Try a packet or two of after dinner mints. They'll make a sweet finale any child will enjoy.

Add Cubed Ham

Adding diced or cubed ham to salads boosts their nutritive value and contributes to an appealing appearance. The addition of chilled cubes or pieces of ham makes super salads out of cabbage, potato and Waldorf salads, to name a few. The ham can be heated for inclusion in hot salads such as German potato and wilted lettuce.

Many Injuries From Matches

Book matches were responsible for an estimated 6,000 injuries in the last half of 1972. These injuries require hospital emergency room treatment. Consumers now have a chance to suggest safety standards to the secretary of the Consumer Product Safety Commission by this month, according to Lynn Bourland, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Armstrong Is Leaving

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential counselor Anne Armstrong, top-ranking woman in the Ford and Nixon administrations, is leaving her White House post by Jan. 1, sources say.

By the end of the year, Mrs. Armstrong will have served nearly two years in the $42,500-a-year counselor's job that former President Richard M. Nixon gave her with Cabinet rank.

She had been co-chairman of the Republican National Committee from January 1971 until she started the White House job Jan. 19, 1973.

Trupest Meaning Of Thanksgiving

Dear Readers: It's Thanksgiving, and I am mindful of my many blessings. Among them is the privilege of writing this column. The responsibilities are awesome, but the rewards are great.

May I share a few of the choice "rewards" of 1974 with you?

Dear Abby: Our problem son left home two years ago, giving us no clue as to where he was headed.

Then out of the blue we got a phone call from a volunteer from "Operations Peace of Mind" in Houston, Texas. (We live in Maryland.)

She said our son had dialed the toll free number he got from the DEAR ABBY column, and he wanted someone to call us to say that he was doing fine.

When we got that message, we told the volunteer that if our son called again to tell him that we would gladly accept a collect call from him.

The next morning our son called! He told us that he had been living in a religious commune in Santa Barbara. It's Christian with Jewish overtones.

The end of this wonderful story is that our son came home to spend Thanksgiving

Dr. Patrick Speaks To Altrusans

Dr. Kenneth Patrick, First Baptist Church pastor, was speaker for the Altrusa Club meeting held Tuesday noon at Coker's Restaurant.

Mrs. Beth Kay introduced the speaker who used Philippians 1:3 as his scriptural background for the Thanksgiving talk. He admonished the group to give thanks to God for this land of the free and said he was glad to be an American.

The program was arranged for by Mrs. Kay and Miss Ruby Billings.

The table was decorated in the Thanksgiving theme accented by autumn colors.

Mrs. William Sullivan reported delivering gifts to the state hospital for the Christmas party.

The club Christmas party will be at the Big Spring County Club on Dec. 5, at a total cost of $4.50.

Mrs. Fiveash Heads Lodge

John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge, 153, met for a covered dish meal and election of officers Tuesday evening in the IOOF Hall.

Officers elected were Mrs. Gladys Fiveash, noble grand; Mrs. Mable Morrison, vice grand; Mrs. Hazel Lamar, recording secretary; Mrs. Pauline Petty, finance; Mrs. LaVerne Rogers, treasurer; Elmo Martin, three year trustee; and Mrs. Lamar, team captain. The installation will be held in January.

The Christmas party will be on Dec. 10.

Miss Juanita Hamlin was in charge of the program which centered around the Thanksgiving season. Poems were read by Mrs. Virginia Moore, Mrs. Margaret Beechly, and Mrs. Rogers.

Approximately 15 members plan to attend a meeting of the Snyder Lodge on Dec. 7, and on Dec. 17 will assist with the party at the state hospital.

Blackshers Entertain

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Blacksher were hosts to 29 members and guests of the Hannah Class of College Baptist Church Tuesday evening at their home.

The group was served a Thanksgiving supper in the basement recreation room of the newly constructed home on the San Angelo Highway.

Fall foliage was used to decorate the foursome tables.

The Dec. 10 meeting for the Adult Three Department will be held at Furr's Cafeteria.

Chapel Women To Host Dinner

The Webb Women of the Chapel will host the quarterly Airmen's Dinner on Dec. 7 at 7 p.m. in the John H. Lee Recreation Center at Webb AFB. Assisting in food preparation will be the Non-Commissioned Officers Wives Club and the Officers Wives Club. The menu will consist of barbecued chicken, salads, and desserts. All airmen, single and married, families and guests are invited to this free dinner.

Sneed To Head Men Gardeners

Men's Garden Club members elected officers and made plans for future activities when they met Tuesday night at the Big Spring Experiment Station.

Bill Sneed was elected president; Will Johnson, vice president; and L. R. Saunders Jr., secretary-treasurer.

The club voted to change the meeting day to the fourth

Tuesday of each month, but will have the next meeting on Dec. 17 to avoid conflict with Christmas Eve. The meeting will be in the home of Bob Butler.

The annual ladies night dinner and installation of officers will be held on Jan. 28 at Furr's Cafeteria.

Sneed projected a film, "The Big Country", that was taken in British Columbia.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise: Do you have glass-topped tables with a gallery edge? Ever get tired of turning them upside down to remove the glass for cleaning? A small rubber suction cup will lift the glass easily.

The one I use is attached to a plastic hook, but they also come in children's dart games.

Mrs. James Pratt

After countless times of searching through my kitchen cabinet drawers for the round pressure gauge for my pressure cooker, I finally got the idea of using a wire twistem and putting the twistem through one of the gauge holes and fastening the gauge to the handle ring.

Now it is always there in plain sight with it's needed.

Mrs. Karen King

Talent Fair Set Saturday

The annual Senior Citizens' Talent Fair is scheduled to be held Saturday in Highland Center Mall from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., with sale items to include baked goods, canned foods, crochet, knitting, quilts, afghans, etc.

All proceeds from the sales will be retained by the person selling the items.

Area citizens are urged to attend the event, which will offer an opportunity for Christmas shopping as well as a chance to help the senior citizens of Howard County.

Arrangements for the sale have been made by Miss Sherry Mullin, county extension agent, and Miss Bessie Love.

During the event, donations will be taken for a hand-made quilt which will be awarded sometime in December. The quilt is in a Texas Star pattern, pieced and quilted by senior citizens at the center on Howard College campus. All proceeds from the donations will go to help supplies for the center.

A discarded automobile distributor cap makes a tremendous pen and pencil holder.

The plug cups hold pen or pencils of assorted sizes and colors that are easy to see and easy to pluck.

Made of black plastic, it is ready to use or it can be sprayed any color to match your room. They are also easy to clean.

Mr. Ellis Burkett

Don't you think the Golden Years are wonderful?

T.R.G.

...any year is wonderful as long as we make it so. It's all up to us to my way of thinking.

How About Letter Dictated By Phone To Post Office?

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In 1975 your crystal ball may show a satellite in your future. The drum-like spacecraft covered with solar cells that are spinning around the world may soon provide your home with space-age efficiency. Within the decade with satellite antenna on your rooftop, you may be able to transmit your own letters, push buttons to get the latest news, do your shopping and banking and even school your children by means of the interaction of satellites, video, computers, microwaves and other electronic wonders. You may even conduct your business at home with the help of satellites.

So says Russell W. McFall, chairman of the board of Western Union, whose second domestic satellite has just been launched. He doesn't venture a guess on how the lady of the house will react to all that togetherness making inroads on her day, but we may soon know.

UNIVERSAL USE
"It is all technically feasible now, but it is a question of how long it will take to change people's habits," he explained. The economy has a lot to do with it, too.

Business and government are big in the new electronic era and many of the tests that are being made by these users will eventually be enjoyed by smaller domestic users, he says.

McFall's conversation is an example of the changing vocabulary that might accompany our space-age lives. Such electronic terminology as transponders, earth stations, megabits, gigahertz, issue from his lips as he discusses upcoming possibilities.

For example, right now there is the capability for sending a letter into the mail system from a certain type of electric typewriter now being tested, he explains. That giant step toward an eventual home-to-home, do-it-yourself letter is also evident in the recent inauguration of the mailgram system — you dictate a letter to an operator over your telephone and it automatically goes to the post office for delivery the next day.

As for your newspaper, it will not need to fear a paper crunch in a satellite era, he maintains. It will still perform its main function, gathering and transmitting news, and you will no doubt pay for your newspaper subscription and whatever services you use — print-outs perhaps, of some things you may want to save — recipes, batting averages, weather forecasts, a news story, which may be obtained by pressing buttons.

TRAVEL TOO
Travel, too, will be "revolutionized by the adoption of such systems," he says. In addition to persons conducting conferences from home with their long-distance business contacts (as some do now from their offices on closed circuit television), a family can see more of its loved ones in far-off places. You'll merely dial to see your grandchildren or new grandchild without making the expensive trip every time.

HAVEN FOR SMART SHOPPERS — The smartest in ladies' fashions is always shown at Swartz's shop, located at 125 E. 3rd St. Stuck for an idea about what to buy for one's wife or daughter? You can always find it at Swartz or Swartz Junior Shop, located at 119 E. 3rd St.

WIDE RANGE — Carter's Furniture, located at 202 Scurry St., stocks a wide range of quality household goods. Those who are at a loss to determine what they want to give loved ones at Christmastime need only stroll through the store for ideas. Chances are they'll find it there — at Carter's, a one-stop store.

"And you won't have their sticky hand prints on your furniture," McFall, a genial man, says facetiously. "When our own grandchildren go home, and my wife asks what we are going to do next, I always suggest that we begin by washing all the doorknobs," he laughs.

One advantage of a complete satellite system will be the dispersion of people from cities, McFall predicts. Instead of everyone being crammed onto 5 per cent of the land, any person may enjoy the good life by moving wherever he wants to move. He can still be in contact with the world.

His company welcomed "the revolution in communications" because it could no longer provide many personal services they had long given, walking dogs and even supplying a third and fourth for bridge.

"We regularly supplied 10 messengers in uniform to a retired Army colonel who felt the need to drill troops, but such special services have had to disappear with the upstairs maid."

Lady Marine Learns Assignment Speedily

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — When the new tank mechanic reported for duty at Camp Pendleton, they didn't know what to make of this Marine.

That was last February and the Marine Corps Base had never had a woman tank mechanic until Regina T. Musser arrived.

"Our restroom facilities and our language had to be changed," said Master Sgt. William R. Rowell, tracked vehicle maintenance chief.

"Neither were acceptable for women, but we needed someone in optics and she fit the bill."

computers. "I was unhappy when I first learned I was going to be a tank repairman," she admitted.

After boot camp they sent her to an Army post for 19 weeks to learn about fire control mechanics.

"I didn't even know what fire control was," she said. "Now I can maintain all the units responsible for launching ammunition and that's what fire control is all about."

The 5-foot-5 tank repairman, who spends her off duty time painting, drawing, writing poetry, singing and studying the Bible, said, "I enjoy my job very much now because I do different things every day."

Nixon Reported Still 'Weak'

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon, 61, has been confined to a newly installed hospital bed in his seaside estate.

"He's just very weak," said an aide a day after the former chief executive returned home, from three weeks at Long Beach Memorial Hospital Medical Center where he was operated on for a blood clot condition in his left leg. "It tires him even to talk after a while," the aide said. "He gets winded very easily."

It was still uncertain when three court-appointed doctors would come here to determine whether Nixon can testify at the Watergate cover trial in Washington.

Thanksgiving

LORD, behold our family here assembled.

We thank Thee for this place in which we dwell; — for the love that unites us; for the peace accorded us this day: — for the hope with which we expect the morrow; — for our friends in all parts of the earth, and . . . Let peace abound in our small company.

LET THE BELLS RING — A bell-ringing trophy will be presented by the Salvation Army this year to the club contributing the most to the Christmas-Bell ringing appeal. G. G. Morehead, vice-chairman of the board, is chairman of this year's Christmas effort and is shown with Capt. L. Z. Sullivan, commanding officer.

Bell-Ringing Appeal Will Begin Dec. 6

The Salvation Army will kick off the annual Christmas bell-ringing appeal Dec. 6 at their annual advisory board meeting. Major David Jones division secretary of Dallas, will be the guest speaker. The dinner will be held at the First Methodist Church.

At that time, Jack Worsham will preside and introduce guests. Johnny Justiss will give a financial report and G. G. Morehead will present the calendar of activities for Christmas.

Capt. L. Z. Sullivan will install new officers, including two new board members, Dan Wilkins and Malcolm Patterson.

Officers include Worsham, Morehead, M. A. Snell and Justiss and other board members are Jack Alexander, George Bair, Lowell Jones, Wendell Parks, Winston Wrinkle, D. A. Brazel, Oliver Coter, Robert Dean, J. D. Jones, Tom Locke, A. J. Prager, Rev. Clayton Hicks, Maj. James Rogers, Clyde McMahon, Earnest Morgan, Don Newsom and W. L. Wilson Jr.

Last year, some 350 families of 2,791 individuals received aid.

Advisory board members will start the bell ringing on Dec. 7 on opening days following the participation of several clubs.

Those include the Kiwanis Club, Rotary, Morning Optimists, Downtown Lions, American Business Club and the Big Spring Pastors Association.

Appeal letters will be mailed Dec. 5 and 12.

The Salvation Army will begin taking Christmas applications on Dec. 2 through the 18 for the give away food baskets and toys which will be distributed Dec. 23.

Reduction Of Taiwan Force Being Pushed

PEKING (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger conferred again Wednesday with top Chinese officials, who were understood to be looking for signs that Washington is prepared to reduce its commitment to the Taiwan government.

The Chinese believe that would advance the normalization of relations between Washington and Peking set out as a goal in the 1972 Shanghai communique.

The mood of the meeting, held in almost total secrecy, was described by the American side as very friendly.

Kissinger apparently is playing a waiting game on Taiwan, partly because the eventual succession to Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou Enlai is unclear. Also, Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's outright rejection Tuesday of a Chinese proposal to settle the border dispute with Moscow makes an immediate easing of tensions between the two Communist powers unlikely.

On Taiwan, the central committee of Nationalist China's ruling party issued a manifesto declaring that the Communist regime on the mainland remains a threat to world security no matter how its relations change with the Soviet Union or the West.

The manifesto, adopted unanimously by 1,100 party leaders, condemned efforts by Western nations to seek detente with Peking as being "like trying to mix oil with water."

Kissinger and Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping and their aides shuttled between the Great Hall of the People and the guest house where the secretary of state is staying. Officials on both sides are divulging none of the substance of their conversations.

Still, it was learned that U.S. and Chinese officials have begun separate negotiations on some $200 million in frozen assets of Americans who were living here at the time of the 1949 revolution. Offset against this would be about $80 million worth of Chinese bank assets frozen in the United States during the Korean War.

Terms of a settlement may be agreed to by the time Kis-

Firm Lays Off

DALLAS (AP) — Spectronics, Inc., Dallas-based opto-electronics company, reported Wednesday a layoff of 70 employees at its plant in suburban Richardson.

A statement said the reduction "was related to both adjustments in staffing levels and to the transfer of additional products" to the firm's Juarez, Mexico, manufacturing facility.

It is expected that approximately 20 people will be added to the company's Juarez work force, the statement said.

Deaths

A. L. Louder

Funeral services are slated for 10 a.m. Friday in Stanton for Albert Lee Louder, 81, longtime Stanton resident and retired farmer.

Louder died Wednesday morning in a Big Spring hospital.

Rev. Clint Eastman will officiate at the services, which will be held at the First Baptist Church. Burial will be in the Evergreen Cemetery under the direction of the Gilbert Funeral Home.

Louder was born Feb. 14, 1893, in Rockwall County and moved to Stanton 47 years ago. He married Viola Florence on Oct. 6, 1917 in Rockwall County. She preceded him in death.

He is survived by a son, T. R. Louder, Stanton; two daughters, Mrs. Jack Adams, Lewiston, Idaho, and Mrs. Jack Ireton, Stanton; two sisters, Mrs. Nell White and Mrs. Agnes Whitson, Midland; two brothers, Raymond Louder and Henry Louder, Stanton; six grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Proposed Changes Will Hit Independent Oilmen

Punitive laws against the petroleum industry will only penalize the independents now but in the end will deal the domestic supplies a staggering blow according to Ed Thompson, Midland, executive vice president of Permian Basin Petroleum Association.

Recently the House ways and means committee reported out a bill to abolish the oil depletion allowance, yet "depletion is not being eliminated on the other 113 depletable items — only on domestic crude oil. Not only on domestic natural gas," said Thompson. "They say we need an incentive to go out and look for natural gas. In fact it is not even being eliminated on foreign oil and gas operations."

This, along with such other proposals such as recapturing of intangible costs will hit principally the independent operators.

"Without the domestic independent segment of the petroleum industry, 87 per cent of the wildcat wells won't be drilled, and 80 per cent of the new reserves won't be discovered," Thompson declared. Thousands of stripper wells, not economically producible by major companies, but which are continuing to be operated by independents, will be shut in, plugged and abandoned. In one stroke, we will lose as much production as we will gain from the North Slope."

Trio Of Firsts Won By Officer

Capt. Thomas Depue of Webb AFB took three first and three second places in the 1974 Air Training Command's photography contest.

Captain Depue, a class commander in the 78th Student Squadron, won his first places in the color print and color transparencies category, with picture stories in each instance. He took second places in cinematography, scenic color prints, and color transparency experimental.

Captain Depue also received an honorable mention. As a prize, Captain Depue received a $100.00 savings bond.

SSgt. Ron G. Stancill of the Webb photo lab received an honorable mention in the black and white category.

The contest attracted 63 photographers from twelve Air Training Command bases.

Cotton Industry Seeking Help

The Texas Employment Commission here does have listings of openings for gin operators and cotton strippers.

Dying Bit Expensive

YREKA, Calif. (AP) — Emil A. Liloiva ran up a medical bill of more than $10,000 during the last 70 hours of his life. Now the administrator of his estate wants doctors to justify every cent.

Liloiva was wheeled unconscious into Siskiyou General Hospital last Dec. 11 and died nearly three days later after two unsuccessful heart operations.

"I don't think you should charge $11,000 or $12,000 for dying," Siskiyou County Administrator Charles Hurley said Monday. "I want the claims proved. That's quite a hospital bill for only a couple of days."

Hospital administrator Earl Van Wagener conceded the bill was high, but said the hospital would make only $250 after expenses.

One doctor already has filed suit and others are expected to take similar action against Liloiva's estate to force payment of the bill.

The insurance company paid $6,672.40 and the balance was passed on to Hurley for levying against Liloiva's estate, whose estimated value is less than $4,000.

Light Streusel Cake For All Occasions

This Cinnamon Streusel Cake is made high, moist and decidedly different with a new and unusual combination of streusel and glaze. The sensational streusel is not only a filling but a topping as well. It is enhanced by a delicious glaze drizzled over the entire cake.

Make this delectable dessert to serve after meals, as a coffee cake, to entertain guests, as a mid-afternoon snack, a lunchbox treat anytime. This Cinnamon Streusel Cake blends the extracts and spices in a refreshingly different way — try it and see!

CINNAMON STREUSEL CAKE

BATTER
 1½ cups sugar
 ¾ cup shortening
 3 large eggs
 4½ cups flour
 ¼ tsp. salt
 1½ tsp. baking soda
 2 tbsps. baking powder
 1 tsp. almond extract
 1 tsp. vanilla
 1 tsp. lemon extract
 4 tps. butter flavoring
 2¼ cups buttermilk

STREUSEL
 1 cup sugar
 4 tsp. cinnamon
 ½ tsp. nutmeg
 2 tbsps. margarine, softened

GLAZE
 5 tps. milk
 ¼ tsp. almond extract
 ¼ tsp. vanilla
 ½ tsp. lemon extract
 ½ tsp. butter flavoring
 1½ cups confectioner's sugar, sifted

CINNAMON STREUSEL cake is made high, moist and different with a new and unusual combo of streusel and glaze seasoned with spices and extracts.

BATTER. Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Cream sugar and shortening. Beat in eggs one at a time. Sift and measure flour; sift again with salt, baking soda and baking powder and set aside. Add flavorings to buttermilk and blend well. Add milk to batter alternating with flour; beat until smooth. Pour 2-3rds of batter into a 10-inch stem pan that has been lightly greased but not floured. Crumble 2-3rds of streusel over batter in pan; cover with remaining 1-3rd of batter and 1-3rd of streusel. Bake one hour or until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean. Allow cake to cook 30 minutes before removing from pan. Turn cake out and invert to streusel side up.

STREUSEL. Combine sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg. Blend in softened margarine. Crumble as directed in batter directions.

GLAZE. Combine milk and flavorings; add to confectioner's sugar and blend well. Drizzle over cooled cake.

Nutritious

This hearty and especially nutritious bread has a better protein balance than most regular white bread.

THREE-GRAIN PEANUT BREAD

1 cup flour, fork-stir to aerate before measuring ½ cup quick-cooking oats
 ½ cup yellow cornmeal
 ½ cup nonfat dry milk solids
 ½ cup sugar
 3 tps. baking powder
 1 tsp. salt
 2-3rds cup creamy peanut butter
 1 egg
 1½ cups regular fluid milk

In a large mixing bowl stir together the flour, oats, cornmeal, dry milk solids, sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in peanut butter until particles are small. Beat egg and milk to blend; pour into flour mixture and stir to mix well. Turn into a greased and floured 9 by 5 by 3 inch loaf pan and spread evenly. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 70 minutes. Place pan on wire rack to cool for 10 minutes; loosen edges; turn out on wire rack; turn right side up; cool completely. To store, wrap tightly in plastic film.

ELEGANT TURKEY PIE is the solution to using the leftovers but making them taste like a specially planned dish. A touch of sherry heightens the flavor.

Leftover Turkey Makes Tasty Pie

Elegant Turkey Pie is the perfect solution to the problem of how to serve after-the-big-dinner turkey. It's an impressive yet simple, tasty dish that will make your family feel they're company.

The cooked turkey is combined with a sherry sauce and spooned into a crust easily made from refrigerated rolls. Vegetables are added for color and balanced nutrition. A simple fruit salad and dessert will round out the meal. The pie is also a quick but hearty warmer-upper after skating, skiing or sledding.

To make sure you'll have enough turkey left from the big dinner, allow about 1½ pounds ready-to-serve turkey per person. This amount will provide second servings as well as nibbling and later meals.

ELEGANT TURKEY PIE

2 cups cubed roasted turkey
 10 oz. package frozen green beans
 ¼ cup boiling water
 ½ stick (¼ cup) butter
 ¼ cup flour
 ½ tsp. salt
 2 cups milk
 2 eggs, separated
 2 tbsps. sherry
 8 oz. package refrigerated crescent dinner rolls
 2 tbsps. sesame seeds

To prepare filling: Partially cook green beans by placing in ¼ cup boiling water until thawed. Add turkey and set aside. In an enamel skillet, melt butter. Stir in flour and salt to make a smooth paste. Remove from heat. Gradually add milk. Stir constantly and cook over medium heat until mixture thickens as white sauce. Beat egg yolks. Blend about ¼ cup white sauce into egg yolks then add to rest of sauce. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Blend in sherry combine sauce with turkey and vegetables. Heat thoroughly. Turn into baked sesame pie shell and back in 350 degree F. oven about 20 minutes. To prepare pie shell: Separate refrigerated dough into triangles. Roll

Cling Peaches In Desserts

Canned cling peaches make a dependable dessert as well as a popular one. They're good chilled or heated. They become company fare, hot or cold, if dressed with whipped cream. You might flavor the whipped cream with flaked coconut, grated orange or lime rind, candied ginger or grated sweet chocolate.

Caramel And Cereal Candy

Children may like peanut butter caramel bars. Heat 6 cups of puffed wheat in shallow baking pan in preheated 350-degree oven about 10 minutes. Pour into large greased bowl. Melt a 14-ounce package of caramels and ½ cup of water in top of double boiler over hot water; stir occasionally until smooth. Beat in ½ cup of chunk style peanut butter and 1 teaspoon of vanilla. Pour over cereal; stir to coat evenly. Press into greased 11 by 7-inch baking pan. Refrigerate until set; cut into bars. Makes 20 bars.

Croutons

You can make delicious croutons to add to a toasted green salad by frying the cut-up bread in olive oil, use a teaspoon of oil for each slice of bread. Cut the bread into neat small squares.

Baked Beef And Squash In Shells

This economical dish combines beef, cheese and zucchini squash and makes dinner in a shell.

JUDY'S BAKED SQUASH

½ pound lean ground beef
 Crushed garlic clove
 ¼ tsp. cinnamon
 ½ cup soft bread crumbs
 ¼ tps. grated Romano cheese
 2 tbsps minced parsley
 1 egg
 Salt and pepper to taste
 2 zucchini, each about ¾ pound and 9 inches long

Sauce, see below

In a 10-inch skillet cook the beef with the garlic, crumbling with a fork until it loses its red color; pour off any excess fat. Stir in the remaining ingredients except the squash and the sauce. Halve zucchini lengthwise — do not pare; cover with boiling water and boil 10 minutes; drain; scoop out flesh leaving shells about ¼-inch thick; chop flesh, stir into meat mixture and then pile into shells. Place in an oblong glass baking dish (11¾ by 7½ by 1¾ inches) or similar utensil; pour Sauce over. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until very hot — about 30 minutes. Makes 4 small servings.

Sauce: Heat a 10¾-ounce can of condensed tomato soup (undiluted) with a clove of crushed garlic and a finely grated small onion.

Sandwiches With Top Of Fondue

Plan for the day after Thanksgiving when turkey sandwiches, with a little different approach will be appreciated by the family. Try this Turkey-Fondue sandwich.

TURKEY-FONDUE SANDWICHES
 8 slices cooked turkey, ¼ inch thick
 8 slices sandwich bread
 4 slices process American cheese
 4 eggs
 2 cups milk
 ½ ts. salt
 Paprika

Butter a 9-inch square glass baking dish. Make four turkey and cheese sandwiches. Place sandwiches in single layer in baking dish. Beat eggs until light and frothy. Add milk and salt. Pour over sandwiches. Sprinkle top with paprika. Bake in slow oven (325 F.) 40 to 45 minutes.

Sweet-Sour Spicy Beans

This sought-after Pennsylvania recipe gives a sweet-sour flavor to wax beans.

GLADYS MORGAN'S MUSTARD BEANS
 ¾ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
 2 tbsps. flour
 1 tsp. plus 1 tsp. dry mustard
 ½ tsp. salt
 ¼ tsp. celery seed
 ¼ tsp. turmeric
 ¾ cup cider vinegar
 1 jar (1 lb.) cut wax beans, well drained

Casseroles Versatile

Wondering what to do with that holiday left-over meat? Who wants to prepare another big meal? No problem — try a casserole. Most American families enjoy this one-dish meal because portions can be individualized to suit each appetite — and, since casseroles need little or no watching, they are each to prepare.

TURKEY CRUM-CHEESE CASSEROLE
 1 packet crackers (20)
 6 tbsps. butter or margarine
 ½ cup chopped onion
 ½ cup chopped celery
 1 10-½ ounce can condensed cream of chicken soup
 1-3rd cup milk
 1 tsp. salt
 4 ounces (2 cups) noodles, cooked
 2 cups cubed cooked turkey
 2 cups (½ lb.) shredded sharp Cheddar cheese

Crush saltines into medium crumbs; saute in 4 tablespoons of melted butter, stirring occasionally. Cook onion and celery in 2 tablespoons of butter until tender; stir in soup, milk and salt. In a 1½-quart casserole, layer half the noodles, turkey, soup mixture and ¼ cups cheese. Repeat layers reserving cheese. Border edge of casserole with cracker crumbs, sprinkle remaining cheese in the center. Bake at 350 degrees, 25 minutes. (4-6 servings).

TASTY TURKEY ENSEMBLE

2 packets crackers (40)

½ cup butter or margarine
 ½ cup diced green pepper
 ½ cup diced celery
 1-3rd cup finely chopped onion
 2 cups diced cooked turkey
 1 tsp. salt
 Dash pepper
 6 eggs, beaten
 1 cup shredded process American cheese

Reserve 8 double or 16 single saltines. Coarsely crush the remaining saltines and toss lightly with 6 tablespoons melted butter. Cook green pepper, celery and onion in remaining 2 tablespoons butter until tender. Add with turkey and seasonings to the crushed saltines, mixing lightly. Place in a 9-inch square baking dish. Pour half of the combined eggs and milk over all. Let stand for ten minutes. Sprinkle with cheese. Arrange reserved saltines over top. Pour remaining egg and milk mixture over saltines. Cover and refrigerate for at least one hour. Bake at 325-degrees for 1 hour or until set. Let stand 10-15 minutes before serving. (6-9 servings).

Asparagus In Phyll's Soup

Easy to make diet soup is made with asparagus and chicken broth in a blender.

PHYLL'S DIET SOUP
 8½-ounce can all-green cut asparagus spears.
 1¼ cups clear fat-free chicken broth
 Salt and white pepper to taste

In an electric blender puree the asparagus with its liquid and the chicken broth. Heat, adding salt and pepper. (Color will be olive green; you can brighten it by sprinkling servings with minced parsley.) Makes about 2 cups.

To Be Thankful

Thanksgiving Day is a worthy national holiday if for no other reason than it reminds us of the grace of being thankful.

To be above thankfulness is to be haughty, arrogant, selfish, and isolated.

To be thankful, however, is to have a sense of appreciation; to weight the possessions and blessings of what one has against the hazards of not having.

To be thankful is spirit of gratitude, to be simply grateful.

To be thankful, is to be in a proper attitude, to be humble by recognizing one's own lack of self-sufficiency and, therefore, dependency upon forces and events beyond our own destinies, and to confess transience in the presence of the eternal.

To be thankful is to acknowledge that there is a source of good things and that therefore we are trustees (not gods), of these, and that we should be willing to share them.

Yes, to be thankful in its most blessed meaning is not simply to be thankful for, but to be thankful to.

Not Lightly Taken

The American Association of State Highway and Transportation, which represents all 50 states; favors retaining the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit now in effect on the nation's highways.

The association based its recommendation on the findings of its study team which credited the sharp decline in traffic deaths primarily to the reduced speed. The study group said that its findings indicated less than one-fifth of the 23 per cent reduction can be attributed to a decline in travel.

This refutes a basic argument of proponents of increased speed limits that less traffic on the highways was the major contributor to the decline in fatalities.

According to the study, traffic fatalities dropped from about 26,000 during the first half of 1973 to some 20,000 in the first six months of this year. The saving of 6,000 American lives isn't something to be treated lightly, and the highway association is to be commended for its stand.

And we still have a lot to be thankful for . . .

The price of groceries has gone sky high. But that simply means, either a little less will be cooked for the big special dinner or else we'll eat leftovers longer. And we cook too much for that meal anyway.

Thankful for in 1621? Enough to eat. The fact that they had lived safely through another year. The fact that after some very lean winters, they had a harvest.

What did they have mainly other than gratitude?

It's possible that it was hope. They were 155 years from the Declaration of Independence. And it has been 198 years since that declaration.

THE PRICE OF GASOLINE has gone up. But that simply means that the family will run around a little less after they get home. Most of them will still manage to get home.

The Texas-Texas A&M game has been changed to Friday. This is especially frustrating in that it is the first time in years and years that the game has promised to be very interesting and probably close, and now it's moved to a time when working people can't watch it. This may not be a communist plot, but it is a frustrating whim of national television, to which we have all become enslaved.

Observing Thanksgiving does not assure us of an automatic easy year forthcoming. Although we get where we expect to put our prayer into the slot and have a good year forthcoming. Like a penny in a gum machine.

But we still observe Thanksgiving. There's an old hymn about it. I wasn't thinking about "We Gather Together to Ask the Lord's Blessings" although that's a good one. I was thinking of "Name your many blessings. Count them one by one."

The rain came at the wrong time this year. It rained at planting time and rained and rained at harvest time. But somehow we will muddle through.

POLITICS HAS BECOME distasteful to everyone. It was probably distasteful all the time and we were fortunate enough not to know it.

Inflation is peering around every corner. Strikes are eminent. The economy — especially our own is bleak. And yet it is Thanksgiving. So what do we have to be thankful for?

What did the Pilgrims have to be observed Thanksgiving did not make his own future any easier.

My Answer

Billy Graham

I think Thanksgiving is a lost holiday. It's almost completely swallowed up by merchants promoting their Christmas wares. Can't you do something to revive the occasion? f.r.

I think the difference between the first celebration of Thanksgiving by the Pilgrims and ours today is that their sentiments were born out of need and desperation. We don't have such sentiments often today, and in the spirit of affluent self-satisfaction, we find little for which to give thanks. With this recession, however, that may be changing.

I would agree that Thanksgiving is rather eclipsed by Christmas. As a matter of fact, Christmas decorations in a store near me were set up in mid-October.

Shakespeare said: "God's goodness hath been great to thee. Let never day nor night unhallowed pass, but still remember what the Lord hath done." Any thinking person, conscious that God has provided for our salvation through Christ, provided for our needs by a creation that "gives forth its fruit," and provided for our companionship by the gift of the Holy Spirit, will refuse to be thankless. Actually, one of our greatest needs today is to acquire a thankful spirit.

The only way the Thanksgiving holiday can be revived is by Americans getting back to God. If we see Him as the author of life and the fabricator of every blessing, we'll return our gratitude in the form of thanks-living.

Productivity Puzzle

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — One likely effect of the mass layoffs and other cutbacks by industry is a rise in productivity, which has been plunging at one of the sharpest rates in the years since World War II.

Although the postwar increases in productivity have averaged between 2 and 3 per cent, declines have been registered in five of the past six quarters. In the third quarter the drop was 2.4 per cent.

Productivity, or output per man hour, is not a measure solely of how diligently production workers attend to their chores. Instead, it measures how effectively manpower, capital and technology are used.

While to some extent the measure can be changed by poor worker attitudes on the assembly line, decisions by white collar workers in the front office are far more likely to raise or lower productivity.

Two of these decisions, it now seems clear, were to keep work forces at capacity and to continue high production schedules despite a dropoff in demand, most noticeably in the automotive industry.

The situation isn't at all unusual. Productivity often drops during the latter stages of a period of economic expansion as various inefficiencies — big inventories, oversized staffs, poor discipline — erode output per man hour.

One of the most obvious factors in the decline is the employment of marginal workers, those with little or only poorly developed skill. Overtime work, sometimes as premium wage rates, can also cut into output efficiency.

As various large corporations begin housecleaning both on the production line and in the executive office an increase in the productivity rate generally can be expected. That has been the experience.

However, many economists will be looking closely at the figures over the next few months. Some of them believe that the nation's productivity will be slow to recover, and that it might never reach its old plateau.

Among the reasons they give are changes in the work ethic, the channeling of corporate efforts into "nonproductive" areas, such as ecology, and the enormous bureaucracy that mature companies must support.

List Wife's First?

Are you in doubt about whose name goes first on Christmas cards printed or engraved? The suggested way is to list the wife's name first, then the husband's.

If a Christmas card is engraved with the sender's names, with "Mr. and Mrs.," should these be at the top or bottom of the card?

Always at the top. Otherwise, they might seem like a signature.

When signing the card, whose name is written first — the husband's or wife's?

It is courteous for the person signing the card to write the other's name first. For example, if you sign the card for yourself and your husband, it should read: "Tom and Mary."

You Can Ask

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When a patient leaves a state can he or she request and/or demand his medical history covering a span of 20 years or more, from his physician? — Mrs. L.D.F.

I don't know of any "bill of rights" specifying what you can "demand." But you certainly can ask. In my own case, I never had any reluctance about sending a summary if a patient moved away and then sent me the name of a specific physician to whom to send it.

Twenty years is a long span to cover. A reasonable summary, to my way of thinking, would include the salient episodes of that time: say appendectomy in 1960, gold treatment for arthritis 1965-67 — items of that sort.

Most doctors will accommodate with such a summary, in my experience. But asking for a detailed account of every visit for the last 20 years is something else. And keep this in mind: "sending a record" isn't just a simple matter of copying off a few notations. The record a doctor keeps ordinarily consists of a lot of notations involving his own abbreviations or home-made shorthand, little reminders to himself, for use from visit to visit, and so on.

Much of this detail would be useless to another doctor 10 to 20 years later, and would take a lot of interpreting to make it clear.

Recent data (blood pressure, blood chemistry, etc.) can be quite significant and I think should and would be included in a summary, but such details from the distant past usually wouldn't. They could be added if they are currently pertinent.

In other words, it's reasonable to ask for a summary, but usually not reasonable to try to demand "medical history covering 20 years or more."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: At the beginning of a bowel movement I get a scratching feeling. Or should I say like a cut opening up? I am 60. Please advise what it can be and what to do. Do you have a booklet that could help explain it to me? — Mrs. C.R.

Sounds like the beginning of a fissure, or break or tear in the membrane. If so, the sooner it is repaired by your doctor the easier it will be to do. For a full explanation, the booklet you want is "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids," since it also tells you about fissures and fistulas, which are companion problems. Send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed and stamped envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband and I are thinking of adopting our second child. I would like to breastfeed this infant as I did my own child. Is there a drug or other means to induce the breast to produce milk? — Mrs. M.K.

The possibility of success in this is decidedly unpredictable; however, you can get in touch with the LaLeche League, 9606 Franklin Ave., Franklin Park, Ill., for further information.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you give some of us new mothers a bit of information on baby walkers? I've heard that it's bad for their feet and they start to walk later. — Mrs. R.B.

Walkers don't help babies walk any sooner. I doubt if a walker is bad for a baby's feet, but babies just don't need walkers, and don't benefit by them.

Unless properly treated, both glaucoma and cataracts can lead to blindness. If you are afflicted with either of these ailments, or know someone who is, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald, for his booklet, "Cataracts and Glaucoma." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 25 cents.

De Merci Donnant

Art Buchwald

(One of the greatest privileges Americans have every November is the opportunity to reread this classic column explaining Thanksgiving to the French which Mr. Buchwald wrote in 1993 when he was 6 years old.)

ONE OF OUR most important holidays is Thanksgiving Day, known in France as le jour de merci donnant.

Le jour de merci donnant was first started by a group of Pilgrims (pelerins) who fled from l'Angleterre before the McCarran Act to found a colony in the New World le nouveau monde where they could shoot Indians les Peaux-Rouges and eat turkey dinde to their heart's content.

They landed at a place called Plymouth (now a famous voiture Americaine) in a wooden sailing ship called the Mayflower (Fleur de Mai) in 1620. But while the pelerins were killing the dinde, the Peaux-Rouges were killing the pelerins, and there were several hard winters ahead for both of them. The only way the Peaux-Rouges helped the pelerins was when they taught them to grow corn maïs. The reason they did this was because they liked corn with their pelerins.

IN 1623, AFTER another harsh year, the pelerins' crops were so good that they decided to have a celebration and give thanks because more maïs raised by the pelerins than pelerins were killed by Peaux-Rouges.

Every year on the jour de merci donnant, parents tell their children an amusing story about the first celebration.

IT CONCERNS a brave capitaine named Miles Standish (known in France as Kilometres Deboutish) and a young, shy lieutenant named Jean Alden. Both of them were in love with a flower of Plymouth called Priscilla Mullens (no translation). The vieux capitaine said to the jeune lieutenant:

"Go to the damsel Priscilla allez tres vite chez Priscilla, the loveliest maiden of Plymouth la plus jolie demoiselle de Plymouth. Say that a blunt old captain, a man not of words but of action un vieux Fanfan la Tulipe, offer his hand and his heart, the hand and the heart of a soldier. No in these words, you know, but this, in short, is my meaning.

"I AM A maker of war jesuis un fabricant de la guerre and not a maker of phrases. You, bred as a scholar vous, qui etes pain comme un etudiant can say it in elegant language, such as you read in your books of the pleadings and wooings of lovers, such as you think best adapted to win the heart of the maiden."

Although Jean was fit to be tied convenable a etre emballé, friendship prevailed over love and he went to his duty. But instead of using elegant language, he blurted out his mission. Priscilla was muted with amazement and sorrow rendue muette par l'etonnement et la tristesse.

AT LENGTH SHE exclaimed, interrupting the ominous silence: "If the great captain of Plymouth is so very eager to wed me, why does he not come himself and take the trouble to woo me?" (Ou est-il, le vieux Kilometres? Pourquoi ne vient-il pas apres de moi pour tenter sa chance?)

Jean said that Kilometres Deboutish was very busy and didn't have time for those things. He staggered on, telling what a wonderful husband Kilometres would make. Finally Priscilla arched her eyebrows and said in a tremulous voice: "Why don't you speak for yourself, Jean?" A chacun son gout?

AND SO, on the fourth Thursday in November, American families sit down at a large table brimming with tasty dishes, and for the only time during the year eat better than the French do.

No one can deny that le jour de merci donnant is a grande feste and no matter how well fed American families are, they never forget to give thanks to Kilometres Deboutish, who made this great day possible.

Bill's Intent

William F. Buckley, Jr.

The administrators of many of the country's colleges and universities are these days grateful for their long experience in the civil disobedience of their students. They are preparing something of the sort in protest against the promulgation of the so-called Buckley Amendment, which went into effect last Tuesday, having earlier this year been tagged on to the omnibus educational subsidy bill at the urging of the junior senator from New York, Mr. James L. Buckley. The rider is known as the "Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974."

IT PASSED AS a result of one of those infrequent and felicitous conjunctions of right and left wing pressure. Mr. Buckley, desired to protect the privacy of students, found himself in the same camp with the American Civil Liberties Union, which desires the same thing. Usually the ACLU desires that kind of thing in order to protect people from being prosecuted, or convicted. Sen. Buckley desires it in order to protect students from wandering around the country for the rest of their lives with a hidden albatross around their neck — hostile information, of a factual or evaluative nature, that is often available to almost anyone who wants to look at the file — except the man the file describes.

The rider gives to the parents of students in primary and secondary schools the right to inspect these files, to protect their children against malice, and otherwise to respect their privacy. At the college level, the bill permits college students to march into the relevant offices and demand to see their files.

A Devotion For Today . . .

"In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you." (1 Thessalonians 5:18)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, our Father, that our times are in Thy hands and Thou art working out all things for our good, through Jesus Christ our Savior. Amen.

Jury Selection Is Continuing

HOUSTON (AP) — Jury selection continues today in the second trial of Dr. Archie Burkhalter, accused in the slaying of Dr. Robert E. Pendleton Jr., in 1966. Pendleton was a former business partner of Burkhalter. The prosecution alleges that the doctor hired someone to kill Pendleton. Burkhalter was convicted Oct. 1, 1970, of being an accomplice to the murder and sentenced to life in prison. However, in February of 1973 the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ordered he be tried again.

WIDE VARIETY OF ITEMS — A storefull of lovely gifts await your selection, at The Casual Shoppe, in their new location at 1004 Locust. Now carrying a complete line of junior fashions, the shop also has beautiful lingerie, costume jewelry, bags, and nationally known name brands. Ready to help you pick out the perfect gift are Ruby Englert, Willie Mae Brunson, Margaret Hamby, Pat Hamilton and Evelyn Fraquhar. Not pictured is Ruth Conway.

No Workable Plan Yet Devised To Stop Lean

ROME (AP) — The Italian government said Tuesday that a two-year search for a way to halt the "lean" in the Leaning Tower of Pisa has produced no workable plan.

The Tuscan landmark on shifting ground has been leaning since it was built in the Middle Ages. The studies were undertaken because Italian authorities feared any more lean could endanger nearby buildings and perhaps the tower itself.

The Public Works Ministry, which sponsored a contest to figure out how to stop the tilt, said a commission of experts turned down all the projects entered by architects and engineers from three continents. A total of 14 were studied, half of them Italian. The others came from Japan, Mexico, Britain, Holland, France, Belgium and Sweden.

"There were good ideas in them but they were not enough," said Giovanni Travaglini, president of the commission.

He declined to go into details. Rules set down for the contest required that the project should stabilize the tower without straightening it and that whatever work had to be done should leave no visible trace on the monument or on the "Square of Miracles" where it stands close to Pisa's Romanesque cathedral. Travaglini said the experts would meet again next month. "We can try to work out a solution ourselves and contact the authors of some of the projects to see whether we can borrow various parts of their proposals and combine them," Travaglini said. "We have ample freedom to decide what we deem best."

Italian authorities have been moving slowly on the tower question. It took the Public Works Ministry four years before publishing rules for the contest in 1972 after parliament gave it the go-ahead.

But the tower of Pisa is accustomed to slow work. It took the Pisans 178 years before they completed it in 1350. At the time, the tower was already 4 feet 4 inches off center. Its slant is now 17 feet.

The tower is 179 feet high and weighs 14,000 tons.

How much will your son know about business when he applies for his first full-time job?

Plenty—if he's ever been a newspaperboy. Through route experience he's already a lap ahead of his classmates. While they both mastered ideas, the boy with a newspaper route was able to put them to practical use. Business? He's learned the basic principles from the first day he started delivering newspapers. He bought at wholesale, sold at retail. Made collections. Kept his own books. Dealt with people face to face. Quickly found out that "profit" and "loss" are more than textbook terms.

The benefits of managing a newspaper route are an equation for a future successful citizen. A great number of today's prominent men started their public careers as newspaperboys. And they all vouch that a newspaper route gives a boy a head start on the future.

Farmers Must Pay Tax

COLLEGE STATION — Farmers who pay cash wages for agricultural labor must report and pay social security taxes on each employee, says Dr. Wayne Hayenga, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Agricultural labor refers to all services performed for hire on a farm and also includes domestic work in a private home. However, wages paid to a son or daughter under 21 years of age or to an employer's wife or husband are not subject to social security taxes.

"An employer must pay Social Security taxes on each employee who worked 20 days or more for any amount of cash wages during the year or who was paid $150 or more in cash wages during the year," points out the Texas A&M University System economist.

"The employer can deduct half the tax due from an employee's wages but must pay the other half himself. The Social Security tax rate for 1974 is 5.85 per cent for the employee and the employer, which makes the total tax 11.7 per cent of the first $13,200 in wages paid to each employee.

LASTING GIFT SUGGESTED — The Staff at Gray Jewelers are ready to serve you this Christmas. They offer a complete line of diamonds, watches and jewelry, plus many more items that will be wonderful to give. They also offer you watch and jewelry repair service done in their store. This Christmas give jewelry, a lasting gift to be handed down for generations. Gray's is located in Highland South Shopping Center.

Farmers Recruiting For Cubs Is Stepped Up In District

AUSTIN (AP) — Agriculture Commissioner John White said today that 1974 might be a red ink year for Texas farmers and ranchers.

White testified before the Senate Agriculture Subcommittee that when the books are closed, production costs might exceed receipts.

He said current predictions for 1974 cash receipts by farmers and ranchers total $5.5 billion—down $1 billion from last year. Production costs in 1973 were $5.2 billion, and prices have risen dramatically since then, White said.

"This year, we are faced with the very real possibility of our production costs equaling or even exceeding our income in agriculture," White said.

He added that not all segments of agriculture will suffer equally. Livestock and dairymen have been especially hard-hit by high production costs and low, unprofitable prices, White said. Other sources of losses include cotton abandonment, floods, drought, unharvested acreages and lower prices, he said.

Farmers Must Pay Tax

COLLEGE STATION — Farmers who pay cash wages for agricultural labor must report and pay social security taxes on each employee, says Dr. Wayne Hayenga, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Agricultural labor refers to all services performed for hire on a farm and also includes domestic work in a private home. However, wages paid to a son or daughter under 21 years of age or to an employer's wife or husband are not subject to social security taxes.

"An employer must pay Social Security taxes on each employee who worked 20 days or more for any amount of cash wages during the year or who was paid $150 or more in cash wages during the year," points out the Texas A&M University System economist.

"The employer can deduct half the tax due from an employee's wages but must pay the other half himself. The Social Security tax rate for 1974 is 5.85 per cent for the employer and the employee, which makes the total tax 11.7 per cent of the first $13,200 in wages paid to each employee.

Environment Award Posted

A national awards program for teachers in the field of environmental education will be conducted this coming year according to W.L. Wilson Jr., chairman of the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District.

The awards program, sponsored by the National Association of Conservation District and the Allis Chalmers Corporation, offers a cash prize of $1,500 to the top winner and a trip to the NACD national meeting.

Farmers Recruiting For Cubs Is In Red?

AUSTIN (AP) — Agriculture Commissioner John White said today that 1974 might be a red ink year for Texas farmers and ranchers.

White testified before the Senate Agriculture Subcommittee that when the books are closed, production costs might exceed receipts.

He said current predictions for 1974 cash receipts by farmers and ranchers total $5.5 billion—down $1 billion from last year. Production costs in 1973 were $5.2 billion, and prices have risen dramatically since then, White said.

"This year, we are faced with the very real possibility of our production costs equaling or even exceeding our income in agriculture," White said.

He added that not all segments of agriculture will suffer equally. Livestock and dairymen have been especially hard-hit by high production costs and low, unprofitable prices, White said. Other sources of losses include cotton abandonment, floods, drought, unharvested acreages and lower prices, he said.

Texans Find Multitude Of Blessings In Lives

By The Associated Press

In spite of recent political scandals, rising prices, and increased unemployment, Texans say there are still some things to be grateful for this Thanksgiving season.

In random telephone calls across the state, many Texans said they were thankful to have health, families, and the basic necessities.

"I'm grateful our economy is not any worse than it is," said Cassie Townsend, 27, a secretary in Austin. She said she was thankful her family was "happy and here and alive" after the recent Austin area flooding that claimed 14 lives.

"I'm also grateful that there's a ray of hope that the country is getting back together again. After the Texas Sharpshooter scandal and Watergate, people are putting their trust back in government."

"I'm thankful for good health and beautiful weather and making a good start," said Eva Schein, 63, a widow who just moved to Corpus Christi from Sharon, Pa.

Of the economic conditions she said: "I don't think things are as bad as painted. We just have to make the best of it."

Otis Perkins, 58, of Austin and Joe Longoria, 46, of Grand Prairie both said they were grateful to be alive. Perkins, a retired Air Force electronic maintenance officer, and Longoria, a bicycle shop proprietor are recovering from heart attacks.

Virginia Rocha, 26, an unemployed divorcee in El Paso, said she was grateful that she had her health and enough to eat.

"I'm thankful we'll be having a happy Thanksgiving," said Martha Garcia, a salesman's wife in El Paso. "We're having a big family gathering and the only things missing will be two of my brothers. I'm thankful that with the inflation, we'll still have that turkey."

Paul Harmon Jr., 45, vice president of Fort Worth's First National Bank said he is grateful that "we live in a democratic society where supposedly the will of people dictates what our futures should be. As a result, I'm hoping that the seeming mandate will cause some reflection by our congressmen and senators to concern themselves with the domestic problems of this country."

Ray Moritz and his wife own a small farm in Stamford. They said they are "thankful what little the farm produces will help other people." The Moritzes, who have operated the farm since 1948, ran a dairy business for 20 years until it became unprofitable.

The farm was hurt by this year's West Texas drought, but the couple said they are grateful and happy about the small farm and don't intend to expand. "We're just hopeful that next year will be better," said Mrs. Moritz.

Sees World Thieves Thrive, With Too Many Folks Reminds Chisum

MY PETITION FOR MORE SPACE. By John Hersey. Knopf. 182 Pages. $5.95.

During the past few years more and more "mainstream" writers have been turning to science fiction in order to say what can't easily be said in the conventional novel, so it comes as no surprise to find John Hersey — of "A Bell for Adano" and "Hiroshima" fame — using the form in order to present his vision of a not very far off future in which the population has exploded.

The hero, if he may be called that, of Hersey's novel is a man named Poynter. Poynter lives in New Haven. Not the contemporary New Haven, but a future place where "every square inch of concrete and asphalt is taken up" and "it takes a walker 15 or 20 minutes to move a single block." Under the law in this computerized, bureaucratized future, a single person is allowed 8 feet by 12 of living space. Poynter has 7 by 11. So he has arisen before dawn and sandwiched himself into a line so crowded that one cannot turn to see the face of the person behind one to present a petition for more space.

The book, often reminiscent of the horrors Franz Kafka dreamed up, deals largely with what happens to Poynter as he stands in the line — his thoughts and his relationships with the people jammed against him, front, back and on each side. Seemingly static and yet not so, because as Poynter inches forward hour after hour the world of the line becomes the real world and what happens there — however insignificant — becomes magnified and frighteningly alive.

Hersey writes so effectively that by the time Poynter reaches the window at which he can present his petition the reader feels as if he too had just spent hours being crushed in a vise made of people.

Hersey's vision of what could happen the day after tomorrow is haunting, chilling the reader long after the book has been finished.

Most stores that are plagued with shoplifters put on extra duty people during the holidays, partly to watch for these culprits.

People are urged to keep their homes locked as well, and to report any unusual persons lurking in their neighborhood. Neighbor can help neighbor in law enforcement, especially during the holiday season.

Women are urged to keep a tight hold on their purse and not to carelessly set it down on counters while looking over merchandise. Men are urged to keep their eye on their billfolds.

"It's supposed to be a happy time of year, but it is a recorded fact that there are crimes — both big crimes and little crimes as the Christmas season progresses.

Grilled Bird

What could be more handsome on your holiday table than a big tom turkey done to a juicy, golden brown on an outdoor grill?

A barbecued turkey will tempt the appetite — and the eye — of dinner guests. It will also save time and precious oven space, and that's an important consideration when preparing those big holiday dinners.

Most of us stop cooking outdoors when harsh weather set in, but if you have a gas grill, its ease and convenience should be taken advantage of all through the winter months. With gas there's no messy charcoal briquets, long heat-ups, uncertain cooking temperatures and no fuss with cleanups, either.

Plants Give Lasting Joy

A number of year-round flowering plants can supplement your traditional gifts of poinsettias. Most popular favorites include clay-potted chrysanthemums, miniature roses, azaleas, African violets or perhaps a lovely cyclamen or anthurium plant.

The gift plant in your home should have as much light as is possible, preferably a sunny window. It should be kept away from drafts and heating elements. The plant likes a 65 to 70 degree day temperature and 55 to 60 degrees at night.

Instruments Fine Idea

Do you want to make your 1974 Christmas gifts the kind that will bring enjoyment the whole year round? Or start someone on an exciting, and satisfying new hobby? Then consider a gift of music.

A variety of instruments and accessories designed to appeal to every age group, budget and experience level is available this season in music stores, according to the American Music Conference.

A piano, still the most played instrument, can start at about $700. And today's new learning techniques make tickling the ivories much more fun.

The organ is also a gift the entire family can enjoy. With all the new "stops" available, most organs can make one amateur sound like an entire combo in performing. Some units priced at about $400 which can start the family off on a unique musical adventure.

For the amateur already taking lessons, the holiday season might be a good time to replace his present instrument with a new one. Those who play in a band or orchestra might welcome a new trumpet, violin or flute.

If you've given an instrumental gift to a beginner, it might be a good idea to toss in a set of group music lessons.

Ford's Mistrust Seen By Author

GERALD FORD AND THE FUTURE OF THE PRESIDENCY. By Jerald F. terHorst. The Third Press. 240 pages. $9.95

This is a timely and valuable study of the personality, predilections and political philosophy of Gerald Ford. It is particularly timely in view of the continuing development of new American relationships with the Communist world. The Ford background suggests he'll have his own specific impact in that respect.

Jerald F. terHorst's workman like biography of the new President pictures him as only recently dubious about and mistrustful of both the Russians and Chinese, despite his support of his predecessor's detente policy.

In that respect as well as in others, the terHorst biography raises intriguing questions, generated by the sort of journalistic integrity that moved terHorst to quit as the new President's secretary because of Ford's pardon of his predecessor, Richard M. Nixon.

terHorst knew his subject for many years and his basic liking for Ford the man comes through clearly, but this doesn't deter him from making sharply critical judgments.

A picture emerges of Ford as a one-time Republican rebel, an internationalist who ousted an isolationist incumbent in the 1948 House race and then applied his abundance of energy and zeal for his job so earnestly that he won the reputation of being the Congressman's Congressman.

But Gerry Ford in the House was no rebel. As Minority Leader he hewed to the party line, piling up a consistently conservative voting record, tending to favor the status quo and reject liberalism.

Ford attacked President Lyndon Johnson on Vietnam, but with a far-from-dovish stance. Rather, he was the old school Cold Warrior inveighing against a "no-win policy."

The author sees Ford as having been politically faithful to a fault, one whose "loyalty to the Nixon presidency would seem to transcend all other considerations." Ford's support of the Republican administration's policy in Indochina "did little to project Ford's image among young people and the nation at large as anything but a 'kneejerk' supporter of Richard Nixon," writes terHorst.

Speculation about detente arises from Ford's evident apprehensions about the approaches to Peking and Moscow. In public he dutifully supported the Nixon initiative, but he had to be persuaded first that the ultimate objective was to end the American involvement in Vietnam. Ford is quoted as saying, "I still don't trust the Russians—or the Chinese either, but if the President's overtures help get us out of Vietnam, I'm for him."

Chou En-Lai In Hospital

TOKYO (AP) — Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, who reportedly suffered a heart attack last May, is still recuperating in a Peking hospital, China's official Hsinhua news agency says.

Chou was visited Sunday by an economic delegation from the government-in-exile of Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Hsinhua said Sunday.

The agency did not mention Chou's condition.

I'm First A Person, Singing Star Says

NEW YORK (AP) — A star, a woman, a mother, a wife and the author of a children's book, Susannah York is all of these and none of these.

"I'm first and foremost me," she proclaimed. "Every human being is first and foremost he, or she, and that is the most important thing about anybody. I don't want any labels stuck on me. I don't want people making an easy assumption about me, because the most important thing is the person. The individuality."

The blonde British actress with the throaty voice was here on a promotional tour for her latest film, "Gold," a drama set against South African gold mines.

"Like when I did 'The Killing of Sister George,'" Miss York went on, warming up to the subject. "It was exploited as a film about lesbians. But, first and foremost, it was a film about a tired marriage, and the marriage happened to be between two women."

"For instance, 'Childie,' whom I played ... It's not that 'Childie' was a lesbian, but she was 'Childie.' And one of many things 'Childie' was happened to be a lesbian. First, it's her. The person."

Well, then, what kind of a person is Miss York? A very successful, busy, happy and fulfilled one, thank you. "I've been incredibly lucky," she declared.

Career wise, it has been smooth sailing ever since she left the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art. Making her film debut in "Tunes of Glory" as Alec Guinness' daughter, she has appeared in such well-known films as "Tom Jones," "A Man for All Seasons," "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?" "The Killing of Sister George," "Sebastian," "Duffy," "Country Dance" and "X.Y. and Zee." Her co-stars range from Michael Caine, Peter O'Toole and Dirk Bogarde to Roger Moore. In a few months, she'll start filming "Conduct Unbecoming" in London with Michael York.

"I've had marvelous parts," she said, explaining she has won all of these parts without begging or resorting to politics.

"I'm very proud," she said. "I wouldn't dream of bowing or kowtowing to get parts. Anyway, I've had a good agent and have never had to push. I've proved myself enough now."

Miss York is also having a very serene private life. In her teens she married Michael Wells, a former actor who now writes plays, and she is still happily married to him.

"We live in a big, strange, lovely house an hour out of London in the country. It's Victorian Gothic and was built in 1850," she said. "We've put much work into it. I'm a great painter and plasterer."

There, when she is not working, she cooks, looks after their daughter, Sasha, 2, and Orlando, 1, and writes children's stories. Her first book, "In Search of Unicorns," was recently published.

"Many actors turn to writing. There is a tremendous link between actors and writers," she said. "Actors often turn to writing as a new way of expression."

And as if all this is not enough, Miss York and her husband have opened a Greek-style amphitheater on a hillside near their house. There they plan to produce two plays a year. Last summer, they staged their

Free Seeds Would Cost Plenty, Critic Says

By The Associated Press
If the government offered you three packages of vegetable seeds free would you take them and use them as intended to fight inflation? Or would you take them and waste some or all or give them away, as opponents of the proposal fear?

Legislation to provide the free seeds was filed by Rep. James A. Burke of Massachusetts, who told Congress, "We could start an effective program ... that would have terrific benefits to everyone."

PRODUCTIVE

The opposition, on economic grounds, is raised by the American Seed Trade Assn. (ASTA), which contends: "It seems obvious that Congressman Burke is not a gardener, since he would realize that from the figures he compiled to justify the expenditure by Congress, American taxpayers could end up paying far more for their 'free seeds' than buying them from traditional sources, such as local stores and seed catalogs."

Burke figures about "40 million packages of seeds would be the approximate need of the entire nation," adding, "This would be most productive."

The Agriculture Department, he informed him that the average wholesale price of a package of garden seeds to the retailer is about 20 cents. But a check with merchants, he added, indicates the average retail price of seeds is 25 cents a package and "they enjoy a 40 per cent markup which puts the price down to 15 cents."

"However," he said, "when you take into consideration that the Department of Agriculture would be buying up to 40 million packages of seeds at a considerable discount, the price would be no more than 12 cents, which means that for less than $10 million we could start an effective program ..."

The seed industry spokesman said Burke's account did not take into consideration all the costs of distribution and administration "which could easily take the price way past 15 cents per packet."

"Then," he continued, "figure the wastage factor. When a person pays for a packet of seeds out of his own pocket there is an incentive to plant them and finish the job through, reaping a harvest from the modest investment. When a person receives a packet free, however, the incentive disappears."

"The packets can get lost, or the homeowner can give up on them at the slightest excuse. Many families without gardening facilities will take the seed just to get something for nothing or give them to the kids as 'cut outs.' It is unlikely that one in every five packets will ever get planted, while some skeptics put it as high as one in every 10."

"One in every 10 would put the unit price at 75 cents. Even if the improbable happened and one in every two packets got planted, the unit cost would be 30 cents - which is five cents above the lowest store or catalog price where the public has far greater freedom of choice, and a selection of varieties suited to his area."

HAD OPPOSITION
Derek Fell, director of the ASTA's National Garden Bureau, Gardenville, Penn., recalled a similar project at the turn of the century. He said the seedsman who got the contract then went to Washington and vigorously opposed it.

"They wanted to know why he was selling them his seed, yet criticizing the program," Fell related. "He replied: 'My seeds are for sale, but my conscience isn't.'"

"Please, Mr. Burke - save the American taxpayer some money and don't give us free seeds," Fell added. "At 25 cents a packet it's still no hardship for American families to buy their seed, and Congress has already approved the use of food stamps to buy vegetable seeds. How about free gas instead?"

In supporting his measure, Rep. Burke said:

"Soaring food prices is the cause of nationwide concern. The average family today can have one real way of fighting high prices and particularly in the urban areas ... where people have small lots of land that can easily be turned into growing all kinds of nutritious vegetables. This healthy outdoors activity can benefit the entire populace. It can have a direct effect on holding prices down in the food area."

Rep. Robert O. Tiernan of Rhode Island, supporting Burke, recalled that Victory Gardens were promoted vigorously during World Wars I and II and said:

"Today we are engaged in a war against inflation. In a like manner we should encourage the victory-over-inflation garden."

Lip Service Is Helpful

NEW YORK (AP) - Johnny Cash, Pearl Bailey, Helen Reddy and Bill Cosby are some of the stars paying lip service in the cause of good health.

They are flexing their tonsils in a new experimental television series that aims to encourage better health habits among millions of Americans.

The series, "Feeling Good," starts its premier season of 26 weekly, hour-long shows Nov. 20 on the Public Broadcasting Service. The program features comedy, satire, songs, animation, short documentaries and a stream of celebrities.

In the series' debut, Cash sings of the benefits of getting help for mental health problems, Miss Reddy and Cosby urge women to obtain medical care when pregnant, and blues singer B. B. King sings cooking hints for keeping more nutrients in cooked vegetables.

In other shows, celebrities doing their bit for better health include Howard Cosell, Charley Pride, Charlie Callas, Tammy Grimes, Rosey Grier, Ken Berry, Jody Miller, Anne Murray, Mel Tillis and Joe Williams.

Games Are Different

When Christmas rolls around most of are more apt to visit Grandma in a station wagon than in a horse-drawn sled. Happily, though, most other familiar symbols of the Yule season haven't changed one bit.

What has changed, though, is the kinds of gifts we like to give.

Here are some off-beat suggestions guaranteed to provide long hours of provocative pleasure even after the Christmas decorations have been packed away. All would make great stocking stuffers. They're small and inexpensive, costing less than two dollars each.

1. Adult coloring books of beautiful abstract designs together with an assortment of bright colored felt tipped pens — to bring out the touch of Michelangelo in all of us.

2. Soft-cover foreign language phrase books. Just about every language is available so travelers and would-be voyagers can quickly find the right words to cover all contingencies, no matter what the country.

3. Challenging paper games for two players. There are many quick and absorbing games, printed on colorful pads. These mind-benders are called Hex, Snare, Thorns, Naval Battle, Hedron, Nab, Plasm and a new version of Tic Tac Toe.

4. Mini portable board games like chess or Chinese Checkers to get the grey matter going.

5. Specialized pocket dictionaries.

6. Pocket-size abacus, oriental counting board to assist accidental calculations.

7. Soft-cover books of crossword puzzles.

Wallace Unsure He Will Run

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, who ran for president on a third party ticket in 1968, says he is still undecided whether to run in 1976.

He did not say he would not run.

"I haven't made up my mind," Wallace said Sunday. "I don't know whether I'm going to run or not, and I haven't made any plans to run in any primaries."

Most People Have Yen To Paint A Picture

By The Associated Press

The secret desire of most people is to be able to draw or paint a picture. Having become aware that such yearnings exist, artist Conni Gordon says she has been helping people realize their artistic goals — in minutes.

Her "paint parties" have become popular entertainment in Europe, the Orient and the United States, where she is featured in shopping centers, banks and conventions. She visits hospitals and jails and goes to sea on cruise ships to demonstrate the unconventional painting technique that she devised when she was a lieutenant in the Marine Corps in charge of arranging entertainment.

THEY LOVED IT
"Basically it develops when I had to fill in for the entertainment, which was late in arriving by plane. I called my show 'Draw Your Own Conclusions.' The fellows loved it."

It was not difficult to pinch hit — she was accustomed to the limelight. Her parents had entertainment agencies in Hartford, Boston and New York. In fact, she had entered the Marines through chaplain's school because she played the organ.

"If the idea could go over with the Marines, it should go with other groups, I had decided. But after the war I had a hard job convincing people that the technique was for entertainment and not to be taken seriously as a new method of painting. For years I was criticized because I didn't follow conventional patterns, but my own idea had been that people want to paint for pleasure even though they will never be great artists and study seriously."

Now she is so much in demand — she often gets a request for a return engagement paint party when she completes one — that she can scarcely keep up with the bookings.

A typical session of housewives or business men in shopping centers or conventions might go like this: The future artist sits at a palette with some paint pots containing yellow, blue, green, brown and white paint, some turpentine, a little sponge, a brush and some rags.

To paint an autumn landscape, a yellow line is drawn across the little canvas and a wavy line below it. A big heavy X of white paint is made above the wavy line and over the straight line. Then, a row of yellow dabs; a row of orange dots above the yellow and a row of blue dabs above the orange is made. All of that is smudged smoothly across the paper with a finger and, presto, you have a beautiful sky.

Now the canvas is turned upside down. And using the edge of the brush, dipped in yellow and green paint, dab paint just above the wavy line and across the very top of the canvas. When the canvas is again turned around, one should have handsome bushes of yellow-green, which begins to define the painting which will have either rolling hills or water and a couple of trees.

"They are always amazed to see that a little sponge dabbed into some yellow and brown can give them the look of feathery autumn leaves on their trees and that the wood point of the brush can be used to make tree branches merely by streaking out from the trunk," she says.

WON'T LEAVE

Although men are slow getting to the canvases, she has difficulty wrenching them loose, she says. And they are likely to leave with one or more of her many books — easy-does-it techniques of painting, drawing, mixing colors, watercolors, acrylics, flowers, portraits, seascapes and fine art.

One bank used a store to provide a paint party for their community and was overwhelmed at the response. A large shopping center in Paramus, N.J., where she had given four shows a day, wrote that they had to have a return engagement for at least three days. Her success in European shopping centers was interpreted there as "in the American style, a new instant method for painting."

Miss Gordon is the first to contradict that assumption because "serious painting still requires serious study," she insists. "My painting act should be considered entertainment for those who want to create something with a minimum of effort. It provides another facet to their abilities and they can have fun with the knowledge."

Part of the fun is her witty running commentary which keeps them going on their paint-along.

Some might think of themselves as would-be Corots when they paint an autumn scene with colorful trees.

Walla Walla Man Has Big Coin-Buying Team

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) — That jingle in your pocket is the $5 million gleam in Bob Naimy's otherwise tired and cynical eye.

"I'm just that ugly middleman," says Naimy, who at 48 has exchanged his wife's troublesome penny collection for a multimillion dollar, nationwide assault on America's spare and hoarded change.

Naimy owns Prestige Coins here, and for 14 years, he's spent most of his time on the road, buying silver, gold and rare coins for resale to speculators, investors and collectors.

He estimates that his three full-time buying crews make his operation the largest of its kind in a money-conscious nation.

The method of operation is spectacular. Moving through 60 of the nation's largest cities a year, his crews purchase full-page ads in newspapers.

"Immediate Cash!" began one that ran in a New York State paper last month.

"Paying 250 per cent of face for U.S. silver coins dated 1964 or before," the alluring appeal continued.

For higher silver content coins, Prestige will pay $1.25 for each half dollar, 62 cents for each quarter, 25 cents for each dime and $3.50 for each silver dollar dated before 1935.

A $1 gold coin gets at least $40.

THE EUROPEAN DISCOVERY OF AMERICA: The Southern Voyages. By Samuel Eliot Morison. Oxford University Press. 758 pages. $17.50.

A great historian and a fine sailor has completed, at 87, the most exciting and personally retraced narrative of American discovery ever attempted.

Three years ago Rear Adm. Samuel Eliot Morison, author of a Pulitzer Prize-winning biography of Christopher Columbus and the 15-volume "History of U.S. Naval Operations in World War II," published the first volume on early American discovery along the northern routes — the Vikings, Virginia, New England, French Canada. Now he completes the tapestry, weaving in the stories of the earlier southern voyages, from Florida to Cape Horn and from Columbus in the late 15th-century to the Dutchman Willem Cornelison Schouten's discovery of Cape Horn early in the 17th.

Since he first wrote on Columbus a generation ago, after following the Discoverer's transatlantic route with the Harvard expedition, Morison has insisted on tracing out the explorers' courses, by ship or plane.

Taft Applauds TV Celebrity

TAFT, Okla. (AP) — Television star Redd Foxx turned over $10,000 to this tiny eastern Oklahoma community for a start on a swimming pool so the children "won't have to go 10 or 12 miles to go swimming in the summer."

Foxx, star of "Sanford and Son," came to this predominantly black community Sunday. An estimated 500 persons — probably more than the population of Taft — jammed the Taft elementary school auditorium for the ceremony.

It was Foxx's second trip to Taft. Last summer he was named chief of police of Taft. Asked why he picked Taft to help, he told newsmen, "Taft selected me."

Door Wreaths Add To Gaiety

The way you greet your neighbors at the door can set the tone for the holiday atmosphere within. What better way than with a handmade wreath upon the door. Start with a plastic foam base, affix pine cones sprayed in bright colors, add mini-bows, then hang clusters of nuts interspersed with red berries from dainty ribbon streamers. Visitors will remember fondly the home that says "Welcome" so uniquely.

Since the Christmas holiday period means large crowds of well-wishers, consider their personal comfort, of course.

Microwave Oven Fast

No matter how hasty some family meals have to be, Christmas dinner is one that shouldn't be tampered with. Tradition and togetherness prevail. Holly and Mistletoe... candles and chocolate Santas... sprightly elves and blue angels. This year, however prepare the dinner in a microwave oven. Stick to the family-pride menu, but take advantage of the speed, convenience and energy-saving assets of a microwave oven. It's as lively and quick as good old St. Nick. Let's see what a microwave oven can actually accomplish with your holiday dinner. For starters, take the turkey. In the microwave, oven, turkey will need only 7½ minutes per pound instead of the usual 25 minutes. That means 90 minutes, not 5 hours, for a glorious, golden brown 12 pound bird (which slips readily into the roomy oven interior). Chestnut stuffing was first mixed in the microwave, then cooked within the gobbler. Note: If you plan to begin with a frozen solid turkey, you can use the oven's automatic defrost cycle. This handy feature will save hours of normal defrosting time. The microwave energy cycles on and off every 30 seconds, thawing the food without cooking it. During the 20-30 minutes of standing time before carving the turkey, you can make other parts of the meal. A glazed sweet potato casserole takes under 10 minutes.

Lake To Close

Moss Creek Lake Park will be closed for a month starting Dec. 3. It will reopen sometime after New Year's. Ed McCain, park manager, said the purpose of the annual closing is so renovations in the park can be undertaken and for a vacation. The park is traditionally closed in December when there is very little traffic in the area.

Concerned Pair Study To Help Dire Shortage

PHILADELPHIA, (AP) — Twenty-year-old Bonnie Metzger and 19-year-old Maureen Maguire are so concerned about physician shortages in the small towns where they were born and raised that they're doing something about it. They're studying to become country doctors.

Friends since the seventh grade, the girls grew up near Wilkes-Barre, Pa., an area which has only one physician for every 3,500 residents — sharply below the one-per-1,000 figure generally considered adequate.

Both Bonnie and Maureen are freshmen at Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital, a major Philadelphia medical center which believes it has the answer to physician scarcities in outlying areas:

PAINSTAKING

"Start out with the right medical students, and you'll soon end the national shortage of country doctors," declares Wharton Shober, Hahnemann's president and chief executive officer. "We have a program to accomplish just that. Its essence is the painstaking care with which students are chosen."

"The only way we're ever going to have doctors in rural areas is to select medical students who are happiest there. This is a free society. You can't force people to work where you want them to — even for the most persuasive of reasons."

Shober said the accelerated Satellite Campus program was undertaken by Hahnemann, regional colleges and community hospitals in upstate Pennsylvania to turn out doctors who are committed in advance to practice family medicine in their home towns.

"Bonnie and Maureen are typical of the group. They're 'superkids,'" says Dr. Wilbur Oaks, chairman of Hahnemann's Department of Medicine and one of the architects of the Satellite Campus program. Adds colleague Douglas Geary, the department's executive director: "These students are handpicked for their personal attributes as well as for their academic attainments. They are warm, outgoing young people who care very much about the welfare of others."

Bonnie and Maureen are emphatic about their intention to practice medicine in a rural environment after graduation. Bonnie, from Parsons, Pa., states:

"For me to be a doctor I would want a close personal relationship with the people I'm serving. In Parsons, this would be an expansion of a relationship which already exists. My neighbors are really waiting for me to come back."

ROOTS DEEP

Maureen comes from Bear Creek, Pa. "My roots are planted there. My family and friends are there."

The two are similar in outlook. In particular, each is very close to her family.

"My mother has always showed her concern for me. She always cared. And my mother always trusted me," says Bonnie, whose father died in 1966. "When I decided to go into medicine, I talked it over with my mother. She helped me morally. She gave me confidence. She believed in me."

"At night my mother and I used to sit around and talk. We did a lot of things together."

"My parents realize I'm intelligent and that my opinions can be stated and my feelings taken into consideration," Maureen points out. "They're willing to sit and listen to what I have to say and I'm willing to sit and listen to what they have to say."

Each of the girls chose medicine as a vocation early. "I was 9 or 10 when I first became interested in medicine," Maureen recalls. "In tenth grade I took my first chemistry course and became interested in science as a major," says Bonnie. "I looked around for something to do with it, to combine it with my interest in people, and it seemed that medicine was the logical choice."

Their grades are outstanding. Maureen graduated fifth in a class of 300 at Coughlin High School, Wilkes-Barre, and Bonnie ranked seventh in the same class.

Each hopes to combine her medical career with raising a family. "I would like to get into a clinical setting because there a doctor has more time to spend with his or her family," says Bonnie.

"Before I get married I'm going to tell my future husband that I'm not going to give up my career," Bonnie declares, decisively. "He'll have to be somebody special."

Aussies To Hot Dog Moving Restore Big From Ball Park Fun Trap

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — City officials have ordered a massive redevelopment of roaring Kings Cross, Sydney's neon-lit strip of restaurants, souvenir shops, sex shows and bars that draws tourists and curiosity-seekers 24 hours a day.

The seven-block hilltop area, a 10-minute walk from the center of Sydney, was a big attraction to the thousands of American servicemen who visited Australia on rest and recreation leaves during World War II and the Vietnam conflict.

City authorities want it to remain popular with tourists, but hope to transform its center into a grand boulevard where high-quality shops will flourish and motor vehicles will be barred.

They also hope an influx of "better-type people" attracted by the redevelopment will ease out the petty thieves, prostitutes and sex spots that have brought "The Cross" the nickname of "Australia's Times Square."

A hundred years ago, the Cross — so named because it was at the crossing of two major roads — was the center of Sydney's Jewish community. It later became a haven for writers and artists and finally a food and amusement center.

By The Associated Press

Despite all the fuss in recent years over what goes into frankfurters, the sausage makers must be doing something right. Americans eat 8.5 billion of them annually, and that's nearly 1.5 billion pounds of hot dogs.

Now the affable young head of a Brooklyn meat packing house comes along with ideas for creating a gourmet image for the frank which has mainly been associated with ball parks, boardwalks and street corner vendors.

"Our company kitchens are experimenting all the time on the epicurean aspects of the frankfurter," says 34-year-old Jerry Kleinberg, who obviously avoids the term hot dog when referring to his product.

"Almost any dish in the gourmet class that is made with beef can be made with our frankfurters," says Kleinberg. He stresses beef because he makes a kosher product that is limited to the flesh of that animal. Regular frankfurters often contain mutton, pork and other meats. Five years ago, U.S. authorities stirred up quite a furor when they okayed the addition of 15 per cent chicken meat content to the Wiener.

Kleinberg acknowledged that the growing popularity of the diminutive hors d'oeuvre frankfurter since World War II hasn't done his cause any harm. From the amusement park to the cocktail lounge is a big step.

The hot dog is considered about as American a food as you can get, but its origins are vague. The ancient Romans stuffed ground meat into casings and served it at their banquets. The mixture was heavily spiced, historians say, probably to drown out the strong taste of any overripe meat that might have gotten into the mixture in those days of no refrigeration. For years, frankfurters have been consumed in both Germany and Austria.

Hot dog seems to be an American term, and Harry M. Stevens, who ran a concession at New York's old Polo Grounds, carried it a step further. One cold day he told his hawkers to go through the stands hollering "Get your red hots!" The call became famous.

As to the gourmet aspects of the frankfurter, here is a recipe tried out in Jerry Kleinberg's test kitchens.

FRANK-A-BOBS

- 1 pound all beef frankfurters
- cut into quarters
- 1 envelope brown gravy mix
- 3 tablespoons onion soup mix
- 8 ounces burgundy wine (red)
- 1/2 cup salad oil
- 3 cloves minced garlic
- 1 tablespoon oregano

1 teaspoon garlic powder
Mix all ingredients in bowl, except franks. Add franks and marinate overnight in refrigerator. Then place frank quarters on skewers alternating with sliced green peppers, sliced water chestnuts, canned mushroom caps (or fresh) and raw onion slices. Top each skewer with a cherry tomato.

Broil about 5 minutes, turning once. Brush frequently with the marinade in which the franks were kept overnight. Good over rice, with a bottle of robust Burgundy. Serves 4.

Universities Experiment In Travelling Theatre

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

Six Southern universities are testing a new kind of professional theater. "If it takes root this season," says actor Anthony Quayle, a principal backer, "it could become an extremely important movement."

The ideas sound simple: establishment under multi-campus auspices of a top-notch acting company to provide quality drama regularly for artistically undernourished communities in a number of states. Getting the project started, however, meant overcoming intercollegiate rivalries, bridging attitude gaps and adjusting to economic realities. All somehow done in less than a year.

GOES ON TOUR
After a three-week stand at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, Quayle and a dozen other recruits from the professional ranks of Actors Equity Association are now well into a crucial let's-find-out tour, with a lavishly mounted production of "Everyman."

Picking that Medieval classic for debut display was a calculated gamble by the venture's chief instigator, Ralph G. Allen, a 40-year-old thespian activist from Philadelphia via Canada who heads the speech and theater department at the Knoxville institution.

"People always think that play is dull," he says. "If you can dazzle audiences with it, you're making a big leap." He estimates more than 10,000 spectators, "divided 50-50 between school and community," saw the drama in Knoxville, and he expects at least that many will attend during the current five-week tour.

CAPITAL OUTLAY
The total cash outlay of $250,000 was provided chiefly by the Knoxville school; by Clarence Brown, an alumnus whose film career included directing "National Velvet" and seven Garbo movies; and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The federal agency put up $49,000 toward the undertaking as a pilot venture rather than as an educational service. Bureaucracy draws fine distinctions when allotting funds. An NEA spokesman says no precisely similar program exists anywhere else. Yale and the University of Missouri have resident professional companies that serve home communities, but do not travel widely.

Physicist Can't Rush In Paris Get Clearance

MOSCOW (AP) —

Physicist Andrei Sakharov, a leader of Soviet dissidents, says the government has refused to grant visas to his stepdaughter and her husband so they can study in the United States.

Tatyana Semyonova and her husband, Yefrem Yankelevich, have been invited to study at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. They applied for visas 20 months ago.

Sakharov said Thursday he thought the refusal was a device to put pressure on him.

Panovs Arrive In America

NEW YORK (AP) —

Valery and Galina Panov, the ballet dancers who emigrated to Israel after a two-year struggle to leave the Soviet Union, have arrived here for a dance tour of the United States.

"We are filled with admiration and delight at being in this country," Panov said recently as he and his wife received a warm welcome at Kennedy Airport.

Turpike Income Stamp Commemorates Shows Decrease 632 MPH Rocket Ride

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas Turnpike Authority will study to determine if the Dallas-Fort Worth Turnpike can become toll-free by 1977 since revenues so far this year are behind expectations.

The turnpike generated 13.1 per cent less revenue the first nine months than the same period last year.

The Dallas North Tollway revenues dropped about 7 per cent in a similar comparison. They are the only toll roads in Texas.

Engineer-manager H.M. Reilly said nearly $46 million of the $58.5 million owed on bond is issued to build the Dallas-Fort Worth Turnpike has been paid.

The 20th anniversary of a record-setting 632 miles per hour rocket sled ride is commemorated by the 22nd Milestone of Flight cover in the popular series sponsored by the National Air and Space Museum of the Smithsonian Institution.

On Dec. 10, 1954, Air Force Lt. Col. John P. Stapp was strapped into the seat of a high speed rocket sled at Holloman Air Force Base in New Mexico. Stapp was research project officer for deceleration and impact tolerance tests at the Aeromedical Laboratory on the Base.

SUDDEN STOP
He rode the sled along a

3,500-foot track to a speed of 632 miles per hour. Then he slammed to a halt in 1.4 seconds as metal scoops under the sled ploughed through a trough of water between the rails of the track.

Stapp, an Air Force flight surgeon, had set a world land speed record, but that had not been his purpose. He aimed to learn how a man would react to violent deceleration. The test was the last in a series designed to determine the effect of supersonic bailouts on airmen. Stapp hoped to demonstrate that a man could survive a supersonic bailout in an ejection seat without having an elaborate ejection capsule.

EQUALS 1,000 MPH
The 22nd Milestone of Flight cover — distinctively cacheted and appropriately postmarked on the anniversary date of the Stapp ride — is $1.00. It can be ordered from: Milestones of Flight, National Air and Space Museum, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C. 20560. There is a limit of five covers per customer, the check or money order remittance payable to the Smithsonian Institution.

When John Stapp slammed to his sudden halt at the end of the rocket ride, he experienced a peak deceleration of 35Gs and windblast pressures as high as 1,108 pounds per square foot. These conditions were equivalent to those undergone by a man ejecting at 35,000 feet altitude from an airplane travelling at 1,000 miles per hour.

His one tone sled was accelerated by nine rockets with a total thrust of 40,000 pounds. During the acceleration Stapp's vision blacked out. The blackout became a redout at the point of rapid deceleration at the end of the ride. Causing the blackout was the draining of blood from his eyes under the 7½G to 9G acceleration. The redout was caused by the pressure of his eyeballs against his eyelids during the deceleration.

As a result of the ride Stapp suffered from two black eyes, burns from his straps, and bruises from bits of sand; his sinuses were blocked for three days.

In the course of this historic ride and 28 others he made (1946 to 1958) on the project, Stapp helped establish impact tolerance limits for aircraft ejection and design criteria for aircraft and ground vehicle safety design.

Drills Oil Well In Backyard

NOWATA, Okla. (AP) — Did you ever dream of owning your own oil well, maybe in your back yard? Douglas Mitchell did. And he made the dream come true with a well producing oil that sells for more than $11 a barrel. If his luck holds out, he may make enough to pay off the mortgage on his farm and help finance his children's educations.

Cutup Trade Is See-Saw

LONDON (AP) — If you are the proud owner of a new car, steer clear of Frank Perkins. He cuts them in half. In fact, Frank will chop up any part of a perfectly good car — bodies, engines, gearboxes and even gas tanks.

Frank is a specialist — an engineer with the touch of a surgeon. British Leyland actually pay him and his team of engineers to cut up even the most expensive models the company makes. Frank, 60, is Technical Display Engineer, based at the British Rover Triumph factory at Coventry, England. For 25 years he has prepared cars and parts of cars for display at auto shows throughout the world. Millions of visitors to the shows have seen his displays of sectioned and animated cars and engines. Says Frank: "It's very creative work and knowing where and how to cut is vital. There are lots of trade secrets."

AS a seasoned expert in the car cutting business, Frank has pioneered most of the secrets himself. This year, his crowning achievement was the preparation of a sectioned cylinder head of a Triumph Dolomite Sprint. This advanced, 16-valve unit won for British Leyland a Design Council Award.

Making the dream come true was not easy. He had to buy his own drilling rig, borrow completion equipment from friends and then pay for oil tools. Mitchell, a native of Bartlesville, Okla., has a master's degree in wood technology and general forestry.

CABLE TOOL RIG After five years working in the wood industry, he and his wife returned to northeastern Oklahoma and a year later he bought an old cable tool drillin rig for $500. The rig was often in the repair shop and one day it fell apart, almost killing Mitchell. He had to seek employment in the oil fields, and even worked at a smelter and ran some cattle to make ends meet.

Finally, the family bought their own home, a farm house between Nowata and Bartlesville. Then he acquired a K-type star spudder and last January raised it in his back yard. Aided by his wife and 13-year-old son, Jim, he drilled the well to 1,287 feet. But he had to go to friends to get equipment to complete the well.

MAKES OIL When the Douglas & Linda K. Mitchell No. 1 well was completed, it was bringing in 76 barrels of oil a day with water from perforations at 1,006 to 1,016 feet. Mitchell originally received $10.20 a barrel for his oil, but now is getting $11.20. He drilled a second well, which was dry, and is now preparing to drill a third about 500 feet from the original one.

Since April, when it was brought in, the well has produced 2,759 barrels, but production is declining. Mrs. Mitchell, who has a bachelor's degree in English, recently quit a teaching job in the Bartlesville-Delaware schools to become a full-time housewife. Her cooking, incidentally, is done over gas produced from another well Mitchell drilled.

Wire Walker To Stay In Circus

VENICE, Fla. (AP) — Philippe Petite, who has often offended authorities but thrilled onlookers with unannounced strolls — like on a tight-rope 1,350 feet above the streets of New York — says his stunts will be in the proper spotlights from now on. "I will work above the center ring, alone," Petite says with a touch of pride of his planned show with the

Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus

The Frenchman's Jan. 3 debut in this southwest Florida city, winter headquarters of the circus, will be one of the few times he has performed without the likelihood of arrest. The native Parisian gained worldwide attention Aug. 7 by an unsanctioned balancing act between the skyscraper towers of New York's World Trade Center. But police were waiting for him when he got back down to earth.

Texan Elected

WASHINGTON — Thomas H. Watkins, 34, of Austin, Tex., has been installed as president-elect of the National Association for Mental Health (NAMH) at its 1974 annual meeting here. He is a former National Association vice president, vice president of the Travis County (Tex.) Mental Health Association, and president of the state Mental Health Association. He also is active in the Methodist Church.

Former Sex Symbol Is Ill

LONDON (AP) — Diana Dors, 43, one-time movie sex-symbol, has been hospitalized with meningitis. Her husband, Alan Lake, said the actress who recently has performed in character roles on the stage and television, became ill at their Berkshire home after complaining of a headache. The National Hospital for Nervous Diseases said Miss Dors' condition was serious but that she was resting comfortably.

Imported Artists Sharing Cultures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Out in Iowa, a Mexican performer with an Irish brogue is drawing enthusiastic audiences with poetry recitations, lectures and guitar concerts.

Down in Kentucky, a wood-carver from Ecuador is demonstrating and conducting workshops in a craft which has declined over the years — the rich tradition kept alive by isolated artists like himself.

Up in Maine, a Brazilian poet and composer of operatic, religious and folk music is giving performances, accompanied by his wife on the flute.

And in Ohio, another Brazilian, a folk dancer, is instructing and participating in theater and the dance at a Cleveland community arts center known as Karamu House.

Resident artists program is sponsored by the Partners of the Americas people-to-people organization and supported by funds from the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs of the U.S. State Department.

The Artist-In-Residence program is providing an opportunity for gifted Latin Americans to share their native cultures by teaching, performing and lecturing in small towns as well as big cities.

The program is designed to build a greater mutual understanding and communication between the cultures of Latin America and our country, explains Alan Rubin, president of the Partners of the Americas.

Through that organization, 41 U.S. states maintain direct, highly personal working relationships with 43 Latin American states or areas in 18 countries.

MATCHING PROGRAM

Outlets for the artist's talents include not only the campus but the community as well.

Augusta College in Georgia was the first of the schools to serve as an artist's residence. Joao Batista de Querios, a Brazilian from the state of Pernambuco, conducted the school's first course in sculpture and helped design the college's first studio for sculpture.

Partners plans to extend participation to more states, to provide a broader mix of artists' skills, and to expand the program, with artists visiting more than one state.

Beginning next year, U.S. artists will be visiting Latin America under a Partners of the Americas program which complements the Artist-In-Residence program.

Kudirka Will Visit Base

MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Lithuanian-born Simas Kudirka has been invited to visit the U.S. Coast Guard cutter where he made a desperate bid for freedom that got him 45 months in Soviet prisons.

Kudirka and his family, who were allowed to leave the Soviet Union on Nov. 5, has been living here with the family of Dr. Roland D. Paegle.

Kudirka plans to accept the invitation to visit the cutter Vigilant in New Bedford, Mass., on Saturday, the fourth anniversary of his request for political asylum.

Kudirka spent 6½ hours aboard the boat on Nov. 23, 1970, after leaping to its deck from a Soviet fishing trawler.

GIFTS WITH A PLUS — Anticipating an unusual demand, Hemphill-Wells Co. department store here has stocked bountifully for the Christmas season. But in striving for variety and individuality, Hemphill has

Arts Need To Draw Money

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The arts in America need new sources of revenue if they are to survive. The warning was sounded at a convention here recently by RCA Chairman Robert W. Sarnoff, who is also chairman of the Business Committee for the Arts. He stressed that unless additional aid is forthcoming to the nation's performing arts and other creative activities, their $1-billion-a-year deficit may triple by 1980. He added that the increased revenues must be accompanied by a more businesslike attitude in the arts organizations since "in many cases their financial troubles are complicated by inept management."

He suggested three fresh fund-raising approaches: A system that would enable individual taxpayers to add from $5 to $50 to their income tax bill as a tax-deductible contribution to be turned over to the National Endowment for the Arts for distribution; wider adoption of the federated community fund-raising technique that has gained support for the arts in several of the nation's cities, and wider use of the principle of matching grants by government and private institutions supporting the arts.

Washington State Has 'Canadian' Land Boom

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP) — The Great Canadian Land Grab is on.

Attracted by lower prices and greater availability, Canadians, mostly from British Columbia, are purchasing land and homes in northwestern Washington in record-shattering volume. Realtors are reporting that as much as 90 per cent of their recreational land sales are to Canadians these days. Whatcom County treasurer Hugh Cory says one out of every five tax statements now goes to a Canadian owner. There are a whopping 12,000 Canadian owners of land in the county out of a total of 60,000 owners, he said.

CANADIAN THRUST

Fully three-fourths of the parcels on the picturesque Point Roberts are owned by Canadians. The point, a peninsula accessible by land only through British Columbia, is symbolic of the Canadianization of the county and is a "local problem of international proportions," county planning director Harry Fulton said.

"This is an alarming situation," says Fulton, echoing warnings against uncontrolled sales now being sounded by increasing numbers of area public officials and citizens.

In the past year, over $121.5-million-worth of land and homes were sold in Whatcom, up from less than $58 million just five years ago. Fully $27-million-worth of property has been sold to Canadians in the past year.

Former Rep. Hal Aranson Jr., a Bellingham realtor, estimates that between 70 and 80 per cent of all recreational lots and second home sales are to Canadians.

LAND 'FREEZE'

The soaring popularity of land and homes in Washington stems in part from a land freeze in British Columbia under which agricultural lands are set aside permanently as protection from urban sprawl.

British Columbia is Canada's fastest-growing province, with one-fourth of the nation's growth occurring there. While Washington's population grew 20 per cent over the past decade, the province's grew 40 per cent.

Despite the B.C. population boom and the fact that the province is 5 1/2 times as large as Washington, most of its people live along the border, mainly in Victoria and Vancouver. Due to topography and weather conditions, 55 per cent of the population lives on one-half of one per cent of the land.

Because of mountains and other natural problems, expansion tends to move south into the state. But the prime reason is in the pocketbook.

Interest rates are from one to three per cent lower in Washington than in the province; recreational land costs are one third more in British Columbia, and housing and land costs in the Vancouver metropolitan area are considerably higher.

LOWER PRICES

A home in Bellingham, for instance, costs from $10,000 to $25,000 less than in the Vancouver area just an hour to the north by freeway, realtors say.

Law Bans Caste System But India Still Has It

India's constitution abolished untouchability, but discrimination by upper caste Hindus continues. Millions of untouchables have menial jobs, live in segregated pockets and draw water from separate wells, despite a government campaign to end the segregation. — Ed.

By EDWARD CODY
Associated Press Writer

DEOLI VILLAGE, India (AP) — In all his 70 years, Dharma Anand has never entered the homes at the other end of his village.

"No, not inside," he said. "I may go along the road, but not inside the houses."

Anand is an untouchable, the lowest rung on a strict Hindu ladder. The homes down the road belong to upper caste Hindus, his religious, social and economic betters.

Their closed doors illustrate inherited prejudice still poisoning human relations across India a quarter-century after untouchability was abolished by the Indian constitution.

Despite thousands of pious words from government officials and a set of special laws, the 80 million untouchables continue to suffer the vicious discrimination assigned them by ancient Hindu laws.

UNCHANGED

"It is 27 years since India became free, and it has not changed," said Kishur Lal, who runs a school for untouchable children in New Delhi.

"Outside there is a show, but inside things have not changed much. Old people are unable to get out of the rut. It is for the young to build a new order."

Upper caste Hindus often enforce their centuries-old domination with violence. Indian newspapers carry frequent reports of beatings, rapes and group attacks against untouchables.

A private opinion poll this spring found that one in seven villages surveyed had experienced group violence by dominant castes against untouchables.

In one documented case in Gujarat state, two untouchables were killed with spears and staffs by a mob of caste Hindus enraged because untouchables had drawn water from an upper caste well when their own went dry.

DEFILED

The trend was driven home to Nafe Singh Tanwar 28 years ago when he first entered a classroom with the upper caste children in this village 15 miles from New Delhi.

Because he took a drink of water, the teacher caned him on the hands and buttocks. The, to make the lesson clear, the teacher smashed the earthenware water jug to make sure upper caste children would not drink from a vessel defiled by the lips of an 8-year-old untouchable.

It is perhaps a gauge of progress that Tanwar, a 35-year-old electrician, now regularly enters the homes of upper caste Hindus — to fix broken lamps.

Tanwar's job makes him a local success story and he heads the untouchable association of Deoli Village. He believes his generation can force better relations with high castes and looks forward to an easier life for his five-year-old son.

The basic law is Article 17 of the Indian Constitution, which abolished untouchability for India. A 1955 law makes discrimination against untouchables a crime.

The caste system stems from sacred Hindu scriptures dividing society into Brahmins for priestly and educational work, warriors for defense, merchants for commerce, and peasants for agriculture.

Below all four categories came noncaste common laborers — untouchables for dirty work.

In villages where 80 percent of India's 580 million inhabitants live, tradition goes on unperturbed by the 20th Century, despite some progress in big cities.

A delegation of untouchable peasants marched on government headquarters in Gujarat on Indian Independence Day Aug. 15 to complain that dairy cooperatives refused to market their milk because it was considered unclean.

"Even if we go to court, the laws may say one thing, but the policeman and judges are caste Hindus," said Tanwar. "Naturally they will decide in favor of their fellow caste Hindus."

Knocked Goofy

DENVER (AP) — Terry Hauf, 25, was hunting game birds on a farm near his home Yoder, Wyo., home when he was struck and knocked unconscious by an eagle. He estimated the bird's wing span at between 4 and 6 feet.

Punishment Fits Crime

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — While Nancy Nowak was returning home from a party celebrating the end of a teachers' strike in suburban Fairport, a policeman stopped her for running a red light.

After learning that she was an English teacher, the officer said, "Good, I've been waiting five years for this." He handed her a clipboard pencil and paper and directed her to write 10 times "I will not run red lights."

She did better than that, adding the phrase "... or even yellow ones."

The officer, apparently pleased, then cut her sentence in half and required her to write the oath only five times.

Look Inside Toy Box, Expert Says

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When Richard A. Givens shops for toys and games for his two children he insists on seeing what's inside the sealed box — and he advises all consumers to do the same.

By this action, he suggests, the public can guard against such deceptions as finding only a tiny item in a large, fancy package; absence of parts or necessary additional equipment; an assembly job advertised as simple enough for a 2-year-old that really requires the know-how of a graduate engineer; and safety warnings inside that were not specified on the outside.

"I won't buy a pig in a poke and neither should anyone else," declares Givens, who as the Federal Trade Commission's New York regional director is concerned with deceptive packaging. "Both consumer action and legal action are needed to stop questionable practices."

ORDERS

He reports that recent legal action in six cases against toy manufacturers for alleged deceptive practices resulted in three consent agreements and two cease-and-desist orders, with one still in the process of being settled.

"The theory of the complaints has been upheld and we have a firm legal foundation for going forward with enforcement," adds Givens, whose office serves some 20 million consumers in New York, New Jersey and Puerto Rico. "I see some improvement but more enforcement action is needed and we need help from the public to find out how much."

Though the store is not obliged to show a sample of a product in a sealed package, he points out that by refusing to shop at stores that decline to do so the purchaser can exert pressure to change the policy.

One major source of irritation, Givens explains, is a gift for a child that is opened on a holiday and can't be used because it needs batteries or glue or paint that have not been specified on the box. "It's important for children not to be disappointed. Their attitude toward the market place is formed by whether or not they've been misled."

Negative features of the item, such as necessary warnings and the fact that "it's in 400 pieces and complicated to assemble," should also appear on the package, adds Givens, who believes that the majority of manufacturers are honest.

As for the consumer who finds he has been "cheated" by getting contents that are minute in relation to the size of the package, finding parts missing or assembly more difficult than promised, he advocates taking the purchase back to the store.

HALF BATTLE

"But getting an individual refund is only half the battle," he maintains. "We want the customer to let us contains only cardboard."

The argument has been made that people want a gift to look impressive and that manufacturers are catering to consumer taste, Givens says. "That's assuming the giver doesn't care that the recipient will be disappointed, and we don't accept that argument. And it's environmentally harmful to waste packaging for the sake of making an item look big."

"Some manufacturers have been able to get away with it, toys being less expensive than an automobile or refrigerator so that few people complain. The practice has been perpetuated because if the price tag is under $50 many people will just absorb the loss, but people are becoming less and less tolerant of being deceived."

Givens, who practices what he preaches while shopping for his daughters, Susan, 14, and Jane, 10, was appointed to his present post in January 1971.

COMPLETE MOTORCYCLE SERVICE — If it's on two wheels or three, you'll probably find it at Western Kawasaki, one of Big Spring's newest retail businesses. Jerry Reid, owner and manager, stocks one of the biggest selections of motorcycles in the Big Spring area at his 200 West Third Street location. The facility is complete with service department to repair almost any type of motorcycle and the showroom is full of a fine assortment of accessories for the entire family. Western Kawasaki is also the only dealer in the area for Columbia Bicycles, America's First bicycle.

Down-To-Earth Singer Wants To Stay Humble

By The Associated Press

Gladys Knight and the Pips are making it big this year. They won two Grammy Awards, their first ever: "Neither One of Us (Wants To Be the First To Say Goodbye)" winning for best pop vocal by a duo or group and "Midnight Train to Georgia" winning for best rhythm 'n' blues performance by a duo or group.

They sang in the movie "Claudine"; Miss Knight married Barry Hankerson, executive assistant to the mayor of Detroit, in the mayor's mansion in October; two weeks later the group opened in a big New York hotel, that engagement followed by one in a big Las Vegas hotel.

The thing to do about all of that, Miss Knight says, is to stay as humble as you possibly can. And, if a short visit with her is an indication, Miss Knight has been able to do it. She seems as down to earth, unpretentious and good humored as one's best friend, neither self-important nor sanctimonious.

"We're careful with our conversation," she says about herself and the Pips — her brother Merald Knight and cousins William Guest and Edward Patten. "It's easy to say, 'Man, we killed them tonight.' But that statement within itself can be dangerous. You should forever stay as humble as you can possibly stay. It's the only way of insuring yourself of being able to live with the success once you get there."

PEP TALKS

"If one of us is overtired or mentally worn out, then we'll give each other pep talks. One thing I love about my guys; we've been a force in each other's lives, the four of us. If we see one in the group going off in the wrong direction, we'll say, 'Come back.'"

"We say a prayer together before a show. I think we always will. It's a part of our lives. Everytime that is printed, some act says, 'So they prayed and look at the success they got.' This is not what we're about at all. It is not like we're praying for a hit show or hit record. We'd like for God to be with us. We're thankful for the things He has done for us. We're not always asking for something."

When Miss Knight announces during a show that the group is 22 years old, a gasp goes up from the audience. "Well, I'm 30," she says later, "and I started at 8."

"I started at 4 singing, having my recitals at church. When I was 7 I went on Ted Mack's Amateur Hour and won grand prize. After that I toured with Mr. Mack for a while. Then I was kind of homesick and wanted to come back home and my mother said okay."

"My brother had a birthday party and I had turned 8 and we got together to sing at that party. That's how we got together. The next week my mother approached my cousin about handling the group and he got us a date at the YWCA for a tea. We sang, 'Canadian Sunset.' I'll never forget."

That group didn't have Edward Patten. It did have Miss Knight's sister Brenda and William Guest's sister Eleanor. Patten came when the two older girls left.

Animal Legends Offer Challenge To Science

By S. DILLON RIPLEY
For AP Newsfeatures

Through the ages, man has manifested a need to believe in scientifically unproven facts as a way to reinforce his other beliefs. Such myths have become part of the traditional folklore of many civilizations, both old and new, as humans seek to explain somehow a practice, a belief, or a short or long-lived phenomenon.

What is fact? What is fiction? The scientific method often can be used to ferret out the truth. Mythology, however, still confronts modern science with some animal legends that offer challenges to those who seek to explain them.

One of the most fascinating, interesting, and rewarding things that the Smithsonian Institution's large staff of scientists and cultural historians does, is to verify whether "facts" brought to our attention are really facts.

STONE STUDIED
A good example was our study of the famous Kensington stone, a piece of rock found in Minnesota that appeared to have runic inscriptions on it, leading one to believe that the Vikings may well have explored the interior of our continent as early as the 14th century. We spent considerable time studying this stone and finally concluded that it was a hoax.

Over the years we have often been challenged by the question of whether certain animals actually occur in the world or are merely myths or hoaxes. On one occasion a report that seemed at first fantastic turned out to be true. The coelacanth, a fish thought to be extinct for 60 million years, was found in 1938 still alive near South Africa in the Indian ocean.

One report that I have had a particular interest in for a long time is the existence of the so-called Abominable Snowman. For years I have been traveling in the Himalayas, that range of mountains that fringes Northern India and Tibet and Pakistan, trying to make a definitive tabulation of all the species of bird life indigenous to that area. But I am also interested in mammal species and have been fascinated with rumors and reports from natives and travelers of a strange creature in those mountains called the Abominable Snowman.

No hard evidence has turned up that such a creature exists. I've examined a scalp that was purportedly that of a Snowman and the hairs that were embedded in the scalp were from a goat antelope or serow, not from a primate.

The scientific method, which we at the Smithsonian endorse, consists of ferreting out facts and real evidence, which might be a skull, hair, bones, digestive leavings, or some other solid, objective piece of evidence by which trained scholars can make dispassionate conclusions.

CAN TELL
Hair, for example. The Abominable Snowman is reportedly a mammal, and must have long fur to keep it warm in cold weather. Experts at the Smithsonian can examine the cellular construction of hair under a microscope and tell whether it belonged to a pig or a bear or to a primate. So far no primate hairs have been found.

Footprints that have been seen in the mountains and photographed are very elusive and controversial because in the snow footprints enlarge or become smaller with the melting and freezing cycle in the high mountains. There is nothing that really enables one as a scientist to say that the footprint is quite obviously a primate, a higher primate, a gibbon, or some equivalent animal.

And, of course, there is the fact that a great many of the reports concerning natural events from the people who live high in the Himalayas—Tibetans, yak herders, Chinese, Sherpas, Nepalese—often are thought to be fanciful and mythical. Naturally, there is a remote possibility that there are animals up there which we have not yet discovered. I wouldn't totally exclude it, because the vastness of the landscape, the distance, the difficulty of moving, as a human being, through these high altitude mountain ranges, is immense.

This animal, if it exists and is not just a series of folk tales, certainly should not be called "Abominable" or a "monster." If it's the sort of small harmless primate gibbon-like creature that I think it could conceivably be, it's certainly not abominable; it is merely some living species of animal, that is as yet unknown.

TABULATE SPECIES
Our purpose at the Smithsonian is to make a tabulation of all the species of plants and animal forms, on the face of the earth and under the seas and in the skies. It will require generations to complete this task, and there are many, I am

Author Is Dead

NEW MILFORD, Conn. (AP)—Louise Perkins Fitzhugh, 45, author of children's books, died Tuesday. Her most widely known book was the children's best-seller "Harriet, Spy."

Make Different Yule Stockings

What can you do this Christmas with the following material: calico prints, glazed chintz, pieces of patchwork and nubby chinchilla cloth? You can make some highly original Christmas stockings, of course! Not just the traditional boot-shaped stockings either. For example, consider some "different" stocking shapes this year—such as huge stars, candy canes, gingerbread men and gingerbread houses, and even snowmen... and snowwomen. You can trim these holiday cutouts cleverly, too. Try yarn tie for hair, assorted buttons for eyes, noses and belly buttons, shoe laces for bows and colored confetti or sequins scattered 'round the festive shapes for added sparkle. You'll have Christmas stockings which will be admired and remembered 'til the Christmas after next, at least.
