

The World At-A-Glance

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's auto makers have closed the books on their most tumultuous year since World War II and opened 1975 with announcements of new production cutbacks and hints of more to come. They also have confirmed independent industry estimates that new car output in 1974 sunk to its lowest level for a nonstrike year in more than a decade. Additional bad news is expected to come Monday when the industry reports its year-end sales totals. Deliveries since September have trailed year-before levels by 30 per cent. Another sales drop in December, as anticipated, would trigger a new round of production cutbacks and layoffs.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Railway Minister L. N. Mishra died today of wounds from a bomb that exploded while he was inaugurating a new rail line in his native Bihar state. Mishra, 51, was the first cabinet member assassinated since India became independent 27 years ago. Bihar has been rocked by political violence since last March.

LONDON (AP) — A slowdown for higher pay by a fourth of the doctors in Britain's National Health Service is threatening to spread to the rest of the doctors manning the state medical program. The 12,000 specialists who serve as consultants at the nation's hospitals announced Thursday that they would work only their contracted 38 hours a week — and no overtime — for the Health Service in protest against new regulations reducing their government pay if they treat private patients.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, nursing a stiff "football knee" after a skiing holiday, is planning to sign the trade bill and confer with advisers on the CIA controversy and energy problems. Ford is meeting today with Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, and there was speculation that at least part of the session is with allegations that the CIA maintained files on 10,000 U.S. citizens and engaged in illegal domestic intelligence activities. Schlesinger is a former CIA director.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government plans to auction off about $350 million worth of gold Monday, but bidders will have to pay a minimum of around $70,000 for the precious metal. A spokesman for the General Services Administration, whose office of stockpile disposal is handling the sale, said Thursday the office has received about 30 sealed bids.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Watergate cover-up trial ended, Special Prosecutor Henry S. Ruth is looking ahead cautiously to the day he can close down the unique office spawned by the scandal. Unfinished business remains, but Ruth said in an interview Thursday that he does not intend to try to extend the terms of the two special grand juries still considering Watergate matters. The 18-month term of one of those panels expires in mid-February. The other runs out in June.

Police Ring Armed Indians

GRESHAM, Wis. (AP) — Armed Menominee Indians say they have rejected a bid to convert a northwoods mansion they are holding into a tribal hospital.

Indian spokesmen said officials of the religious order which owns the besieged 175-acre estate offered to convert it into a hospital if it could remain under their control.

But the Indians, holding fast to their demands that the land and buildings be turned over to them, said they rejected the offer unless the hospital would be under Indian control.

The Indians dined on Civil Defense rations Thursday night as they watched police tighten a security ring around the estate, which they took over early New Year's Day.

"We're not worried," Melvin Chevalier Jr., 25, said Thursday in a telephone interview from inside a 64-room mansion located on the 200-acre estate owned by the Alexian Brothers, a Chicago-based Catholic order.

"As far as we're concerned, they're the vulnerable ones." Indian spokesmen said about 200 persons were inside the 64-room mansion located on the estate that was used as a novitiate until 1968 when the order moved to Chicago. Officials, however, put the number of persons in the mansion at 50 or less.

The Indians took over the estate located along the Red River in east-central Wisconsin early Wednesday. They sent a caretaker, his family and two friends from the site about two hours later.

The Indians said they claimed ownership of the land on the basis of treaties signed in the 1800s that provide that religious lands no longer used as missions or schools should revert to the Indian owners.

They said the site should become an Indian hospital or school. Mike Sturtevant, 30, said the Indians rejected an offer from Circuit Judge Gordon Myse to grant amnesty from prosecution if they abandoned the site.

Survey On Departure Times Sought By Flying Service

El Paso Air Transport, an airline which recently agreed to provide regular air passenger and freight service between Big Spring and Dallas, has asked the Chamber of Commerce to conduct a survey to determine the best departure times for Dallas and also to determine which other cities may be added to the schedule in the future.

According to EPAT officials, they want to provide the service that will meet the needs of the majority of people in Big Spring, and the survey will help determine what those needs are.

Some cities that have been considered as additions to the schedule are El Paso, Midland, Austin, and San Antonio.

Persons who wish to express their preferences in departure times and in the matter of additional cities on the schedule should mail a card to the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, Box 1391 or call 263-7641.

EPAT has prepared their application, and will be making their application to the Texas Aeronautical Board for regularly scheduled service. They are now providing air service to Dallas on unscheduled flights.

More Than Six Million Americans Without Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate soared to 7.1 per cent of the work force in December as Americans without jobs totaled more than six million for the first time since the Great Depression, the government reported today.

The 7.1 per cent rate is the highest in 13 years. Not since 1940 — when the nation was shaking off the effects of the Depression — have more than six million been unemployed. Some 8.1 million were jobless then, about 14.6 per cent of that era's smaller labor force.

The Labor Department said the December increase in the jobless rate, from 6.5 per cent in November, was the biggest monthly increase since October 1960 when the unemployment rate also rose six-tenths of a per cent.

The unemployment rate is now at its highest level since

May 1961 when it also stood at 7.1 per cent. The last time it exceeded that level was during the 1958 recession when it hit 7.4 per cent in August of that year.

Heavy layoffs in the auto industry helped boost the number of unemployed last month by 560,000 to a total of 6.5 million. There were 5,975,000 workers unable to find employment in November, the government said. President Ford, who returned Thursday night from a skiing vacation in the Rockies, will meet Saturday with his key economic policy advisers.

Today's job report is almost certain to receive much attention at the meeting. With unemployment rising more sharply than anticipated as the recession worsens, the President will be under increased pressure to consider major tax cuts in order to help stimulate the economy.

Over the past 12 months, unemployment has increased by more than two million. The nation's unemployment rate averaged 5.6 per cent in 1974. The jobless rate in 1973 averaged 4.9 per cent.

The Labor Department said job losses last month affected both white and blue-collar workers and virtually every major worker category.

Two other indications of the economic sag came Thursday when the Commerce Department reported that new orders for factories declined 2 per cent in November and new construction slumped 2.7 per cent that month.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

SHARP RISE — The nation's unemployment rate soared to 7.1 per cent of the work force in December, the government reported today. That's a six-tenths of a per cent hike over November's 6.5 per cent figure, and marks the first time since the Great Depression that more than six million people were without jobs.

Response Light To Program

Response to the Big Spring Industrial Growth and Development's job opportunity program was light in its first day of operation Thursday, according to Ron Mercer, Chief Executive Officer of that group.

Mercer said that most of the persons who came by the office or called about finding jobs here were local people with jobs, looking for better jobs. Some out-of-town job seekers did call, however, and more are expected later.

Mercer said that the advertisement came out in most newspapers in the late afternoon Thursday

Two Still Missing

The new year began in Big Spring, with two persons who vanished in 1973 still among the missing.

One is George T. Jordan, 24, who disappeared on last June 5. An extensive search was made for the young man with the sheriff's department even utilizing helicopters in the search.

Police records continue to show him as missing. His brother, Raymond Jordan, also listed as 24, was dead on arrival at Medical Center Hospital June 23 on what was tentatively ruled as an overdose. After results of an autopsy were studied, the ruling was changed to natural causes by Justice of the Peace Walter Grece.

Near the end of the year, the city jail cook took two days leave Dec. 6 and never returned. Millard Weber departed without taking the new television he was purchasing or without picking up his last paycheck. Nothing has been heard from him since.

Reds Launching New Onslaught

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The battle for Phuoc Binh, the isolated capital of Phuoc Long province, raged back and forth today with government forces claiming early successes and the North Vietnamese launching a new onslaught.

Military officials said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong hit the besieged city 75 miles north of Saigon with infantry, tank and artillery assaults. The officials said a tank column led ground forces against government positions in the southern part of Phuoc Binh, and street fighting was reported Friday night.

Western diplomatic sources said the Communists had fired more than 3,000 shells into the city of 50,000 people since the attack began before dawn Thursday.

Earlier today, the South Vietnamese military command announced that its ground and air forces had driven back the North Vietnamese forces that fought their way into Phuoc Binh Thursday. The South Vietnamese claimed they knocked out another tank, the second in two days.

The communiqué said the South Vietnamese air force flew nearly 150 strikes, and pilots estimated they had killed more than 150 soldiers. The Saigon command said South Vietnamese forces also repulsed Communist forces attacking Hoai Duc, a besieged district town in Binh Tuy province 75 miles northeast of Saigon.

Phuoc Binh is the last government foothold in Phuoc Long, a rural province on the Cambodian border. It is the first provincial capital threatened by the Communists in nearly three years.

The assaults on both Phuoc Binh and Hoai Duc are part of an offensive the Communists began Dec. 6

BESIEGED CITY — Communist-led forces have captured the provincial capital of Phuoc Binh, 75 miles north of Saigon, Radio Hanoi said today. South Vietnam had no official comment on the claim but said its forces suffered heavy losses.

Chicago Hero Buried, No One Knew His Name

CHICAGO (AP) — A Chicago hero was buried this week, but no one knows his name.

The sole markings on the simple, gray casket are "Male-White-Unknown." On Aug. 23 the unidentified man, believed to be between 25 and 30, tried to defend three teen-agers who were being attacked by a man with a knife. He foiled the attack, but he was stabbed and died from head and chest wounds.

TATTOOED BODY

Police charged Richard Wilson, 35, with murdering the unknown man.

The unknown man's tattooed body remained at the morgue for four months as police sought his identity.

Ken Simon, a clothier on Chicago's South Side, read about the futile efforts of police and city officials to identify the stabbing victim. He also read that the man would be buried in a pauper's grave at the Cook County Cemetery in suburban Willow Springs unless relatives or friends were found.

"I thought, 'Oh God, here's a man who has done something, something good. Here he is and no one's claimed him,'" Simon recalled Thursday. "That's a hell of a reward to wind up in Potter's Field."

Simon contacted a minister, a rabbi and a priest who agreed to provide a burial for the man.

DONATED CASKET

"He's the hero... as far as the burial is concerned," said the Rev. Emery Percell. He (Simon) contacted the morgue, the cemetery, the funeral parlor. He paid for the grave."

Simon paid $243 for the grave, while a funeral parlor prepared the body and donated the casket. Simon, his wife and two friends were among the seven persons and three clergymen who attended the funeral Monday at Oak Woods Cemetery.

"I felt glad that we were able to bury this man where we did," he said. "His family has to be found somehow. I don't know what to do myself."

Police said four tattoos on the man's body may hold a clue to his identity.

$29 MILLION AT STAKE

Bell Suit To Move From Closed Doors

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)

The $29 million damage suit against Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. was to move from behind closed doors today into the open courtroom for a hearing on six motions.

One of the motions, filed by Bell, seeks to have many pretrial matters considered in private.

Another motion, filed by plaintiffs James Ashley and the family of T.O. Gravit, asks for a court order for Bell executives to answer questions in depositions about political slush funds, wiretapping, "rate data falsification" and other specified matters.

Attorneys for Ashley, who was dismissed in an internal Bell investigation, and the Gravit family claim that the first two Bell executives, to give secret testimony refused to answer questions on such matters. The Associated Press was told the executives refused to respond on advice of their lawyers.

Bell has denied in news releases that it operates a political slush fund or that it unfairly solicits rates in Texas or that it wiretaps illegally.

Ashley and the family of Gravit, Bell's Texas vice president when he committed suicide in Dallas Oct. 17, are asking for damages for alleged libel and defamation of the two men. The suit claims the men were investigated because they resisted "corporate rapacities."

In another motion to be heard, the plaintiffs ask that a judge order Bell to produce teams of documents, including any which concern the alleged political, wiretapping or rate activities. The plaintiffs also want any documents Bell retains about any alleged sexual conduct in the company by Ashley or Gravit.

Bell is asking for any documents which the plaintiffs have which the plaintiffs believe will substantiate allegations against Southwestern Bell, the largest phone company in the Bell system.

Bell wants "a broad protective order" which would keep any depositions sealed and would have any motions relating to depositions or discovery of evidence filed in private and heard outside the courtroom in a judge's chambers.

A spokesman in state District Court Judge James Onion's court said Onion was to call his docket at 9 a.m. today, but that it contains other matters besides the Bell suit motions. The spokesman said Onion may reassign the Bell motions to another court after the docket call.

TIME TO TIGHTEN OUR BELTS

Briscoe Hopes To Trim About 53 From Payroll

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe hopes to trim his governor's office payroll to about 400 persons by the start of the state's business next year Sept. 1.

"It was up around 500 when we came in (1973)," said Ken Clapp, Briscoe's special assistant for administration. "Right now in all the various divisions and counting the people on short term contracts, we have 453."

Back in the 1880s, most Texas governors operated with a staff of three—himself, a secretary and a porter.

Gov. Jim Hogg once made a special appeal to the legislature to give him another $1,500 for a filing clerk but vetoed the appropriation when the state treasury looked almost bare.

Times have changed a lot since the early days, records of the governor's office staff show.

Gov. William P. Hobby had a staff of five, during the 1930s the staff grew to eight, Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel had 11 and Gov. Coke Stevenson 12.

After World War II, the economic and industrial expansion of the state forced enlargement of the governor's staff. There was a staff of about 30 for Govs. Beauford Jester and Allan Shivers.

Gov. Price Daniel Sr. in 1961 had 56 full-time and 15 part time employees.

ANOTHER BIG JUMP

Another big jump came during the administration of Govs. John Connally and Preston Smith, much of it caused by new state-federal relationships which of necessity centered in the governor's office.

Smith noted in a 1971 report that the governor's office had been expanded and enlarged by the Economic Opportunity Act that made the office a service agency to all local action groups, state and federal acts making the governor's office the planning agency for state-federal assistance grants, the Federal Partnership Health Act, the Omnibus Crime and Safe Streets Acts and others.

The executive office, which includes Briscoe's personal assistants and staffs, has 44 employees presently. Most of the other personnel are in the accounting and budget preparation divisions, the Committee on Aging, Comprehensive Health Planning division, Education Research and Planning, Equal Employment Opportunity division, Information Services, Planning Coordination, the Texas Film Commission, Traffic Safety Division, Office of Criminal Justice Planning, and others.

Most of the support for the Health Planning, Criminal Justice, Information Services, Aging and some others comes from federal grants.

Close Methodone Treatment Center

WACO, Tex. (AP) — The Mental Health and Mental Retardation Department's regional board has revealed that a methadone program here had trouble from its beginning.

In a special emergency session, the board agreed Thursday to suspend the program pending further study of its effectiveness and safety.

The board admitted that on the first day, one client did have serious reaction and was treated with Larfan, a drug described as a treatment of narcotic overdose.

Methadone is a synthetic drug used to help reduce a person's dependency on heroin.

Susan Reese, director of Adult Mental Health Services said the measuring device used for the methadone dosages did not indicate whether the unit of measurement was milligrams or cubic centimeters.

A cubic centimeter is a measure of volume while a milligram is a measurement of weight.

Ford Moving To Raise Prices At Commissaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is moving to make military commissaries self-sufficient by raising prices sharply, the Army Times reports.

The non-official publication said the White House plan calls for the change to occur over a two-year period beginning next October.

It quoted experts as estimating the markup of goods for commissary customers, military personnel and their families may amount to as much as 16 to 18 per cent.

"It requires increasing charges to the customers enough to pay for all store employee salaries, including the military personnel used in the commissary system, all new store construction, new equipment, and all transportation costs," the Army Times said.

About three million Americans are authorized to shop in military commissaries in the United States.

Some members of Congress have criticized the commissary system on the ground that commissaries should not be allowed to operate in competition with commercial stores in urban areas where such stores are easily available to military families.

The Army Times said that officials predict that ultimately all commissaries will be closed except those in isolated locations.

TAKING AIM AT REDS FBI Worrying About Nuclear Blackmail

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI is raising fresh warnings about the possibility that nuclear weapons may fall into the hands of terrorists and about the continued activities of Communists in the United States.

In an annual report released this week, the FBI also reported that bank robberies reached a record high in the 1974 fiscal year. Convictions for white collar crimes were double the number for the previous fiscal year, the report continued.

NUCLEAR BLACKMAIL

The report covers the year which ended last June 30. Discussing the internal security situation, the FBI noted that "publicity concerning the possibility of nuclear blackmail by terrorists has made available to the public detailed information relative to nuclear energy, radioactive material and the storage and transportation of nuclear weapons."

Consequently, there has been "an increase in the number of investigations involving possible violations of the Atomic Energy Act," the report said.

"This trend is expected to continue." Discussing Communists, the FBI report said that Soviet bloc travelers and diplomats in the United States "always have included elements of the foreign intelligence services."

By July 1974, the report added, "the official Soviet bloc presence had increased to 1,492," compared with 557 in 1960.

COMMIE THREAT

The People's Republic of China had 86 staff members at its United Nations mission in New York and 68 at its liaison office in Washington as of July 1, the report continued.

The staff increases and "the entry of thousands of East-West visitors and commercial representatives, required the FBI to assign additional personnel to maintain the constant vigilance necessary to detect and deal with foreign-inspired threats to the security of the United States," the report said.

The report said the Communist Party USA now has a membership of about 4,200 and is working to infiltrate trade unions. One party unit "is targeted against the American penal system in connection with the party's concentration on alleged political repression," it continued.

The report said bank robberies, burglaries and larcenies "soared to a record high of 3,485 during fiscal 1974, in contrast to declines in fiscal years 1972 and 1973."

Use Of Force To Lower Oil Prices Considered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has declined to rule out the possibility that the United States would use military force against Mideast oil producers "to prevent strangulation of the industrialized world."

"I have said repeatedly that I did not think it would come to that point. I'm confident the problem will be solved without the use of force," Kissinger told reporters Thursday night.

NOT SAYING

But, he added, "I'm not saying there is no circumstance where we would not use force."

After Kissinger returned from a vacation in Puerto Rico, reporters questioned him at Andrews Air Force Base near the capital about an interview he gave Business Week magazine.

In the magazine interview, Kissinger said of the possible use of force in the Mideast, "We should have learned from Vietnam that it is easier to get into a war than to get out of it. I am not saying that there's no circumstance where we would not use force. But it is one thing to use it in the case of a dispute over price, it's another where there's some actual strangulation of the industrialized world."

TOO DANGEROUS

At Andrews, Kissinger said, "I warned against military action. For oil prices it is too dangerous." Previously, Kissinger had refused to discuss the possibility of U.S. military action against the oil producers.

In the Business Week interview conducted Dec. 23, Kissinger said he doesn't anticipate another Arab oil embargo unless there is another Mideast war.

"I am not even sure of an oil embargo in the event of a war," he added.

And he said the danger of another Arab-Israeli war "is talked about much too loosely."

"Both sides lost grievously in the last war. Neither side really won. I think the readiness of either side to go to war is often exaggerated," Kissinger said.

Wright, 83, was president of Sunray for 22 years and chairman for 10 years before his retirement. The firm later was merged into the Sun Oil Co.

Bonfire On South Lawn Good Idea?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide John Ehrlichman said today that "as a matter of historical perspective you can make a pretty good argument that a bonfire on the South Lawn wouldn't have been a bad idea" after the public disclosure of the White House taping system.

Ehrlichman, convicted Wednesday of conspiring to obstruct the investigation of the break-in at the Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate complex, said he believes the 20 hours of conversations made public provide a "highly warped view of what went on."

man said the tapes have been "helpful in elucidating what really happened," provided that listeners bear in mind that they're hearing only "about a tenth of one per cent of all the tapes. My argument is that if you're going to hear that much, you ought to hear them all. Then you'll get some balance in this thing."

Ehrlichman said he learned of the taping system about the time that it was disclosed to the Senate Watergate Committee in July 1973, after he had left the White House.

Peril Of Deficit Spending

A somber, almost chilling, reminder of our precarious federal budgetary situation came out of a study by the Joint Economic Committee of Congress the other day. Based on sharply diminished revenues in the face of rising costs, the 1975 fiscal budget may well be $23 billion out of balance. And if things continue as they are now, prospects are that the fiscal '76 budget will be $36 billion in the red.

The White House still hopes to hold the 1975 deficit to $9.2 billion, but as recession continues, or even deepens, prospects of this are diminishing. Moreover, the pressures are mounting for action that will stimulate the economy and reverse the recessionary trends. There now is talk of a tax cut which would save taxpayers some $20 billion. Conversely, this means that the government would receive $20 billion less in revenue, that is unless taxpayers went on a buying spree that created demands for goods and hence more and more jobs.

Secretary of Treasury William Simon pointed out that government spending at all levels in the nation today "accounts for about 35 per cent of our gross national product. Unless we cut back this tremendous explosion in growth and federal expenditures, we could very easily cross the 50 per cent mark in the next 15 years."

This, of course, would be insane, and Mr. Simon says in a low-key note that "I would consider this destructive to the free enterprise system." No nation can have half of its productivity going into the support of the government, for that would equate to one who draws his living from some level of government.

Most economists agree that one of the chief contributors to inflation in any country and at any time is the government deficit financing. Translated to terms most of us comprehend, it simply means that the government is putting more money into the market to bid for relatively the same amount of goods. And so the price goes up.

Typically, this reaches a critical point or collapse and recession sets in to apply the brakes. But now we experience our country's highest rate of inflation in the face of a serious recession. So old dogmas may not be infallible. Nevertheless, we are walking among eggs, and one of the best things we could do is somehow exercise the personal and corporate discipline required to cut out deficit spending. You don't put out a fire with gasoline.

Not Far Off The Limit

A recent Belden survey of public opinion in Texas showed that most Texas drivers (53 per cent) prefer to keep the 55 mph speed limit, although many (45 per cent) want to raise it. Of the latter group, 14 per cent each want it from 60-64 mph and 65-69 mph, while 16 per cent want it 70-74 mph.

It is true that most Texas drivers fudge a bit on the 55 mph level, but our observation is that there are relatively few who are zooming 15 or 20 miles past this limit. Most of them hang near the 60 mph. Probably, if the limit were raised to 60, most would drive 65.

Nothing New

Robert Novak

GUST TYLER (Substituting for Robert Novak)
NEW YORK — A most un-scholarly war — not untypical of academia elsewhere in these tense times — is presently raging on the campus of the City University of New York among professors who disagree on a tangle of sticky items like admissions, scholastic standards, course content, white radicals, black academics, and general educational philosophy.

SUCH IMMEMENTAL wars among people whose profession it is to split hairs is not new. What is new is the present move to split heads. The faculty Senate appointed a special panel to investigate the behavior of five dissidents, who — insisting on their academic freedoms — just refused to appear before a panel set up by an uncongenial body. Whereupon the panel recommended that the Senate censure all five and suspend or remove their ring leader, Dr. Stanley Page, because of "his continuing unsubstantiated charges" against administrators and colleagues.

SINCE THE eye of the storm is the history department, they should be able to derive some guidance from past episodes of a like character. For instance:

Galileo stated publicly that the earth revolved around the sun. For this "unsubstantiated" opinion, he was hailed before a tribunal, found guilty, and sentenced to be burned at the stake. Those were the days before academic freedom.

Because a teacher by the name John T. Scopes taught in Tennessee that man, in his evolution, was related to apes, he was fired from his job. He was prosecuted by the great William Jennings Bryan for teaching an "unsubstantiated" opinion and defended by the equally great Clarence Darrow. Scopes was found guilty.

JESUS WAS brought before Pontius Pilate for a whole collection of "unsubstantiated" opinions, was found guilty and was crucified.

For centuries, scholars were hounded for daring to suggest that the world was round and not flat, that insanity was a disease not a deed of the devil.

And now, in the year 1975, the faculty at City College — famed for its open-mindedness, tolerance, even radicalism — is trying one of its scholars for his "unsubstantiated" charges.

ETERNALLY, the question is the same. Who decides what is "substantiated" and what is not? Every day, in a million courtrooms, this matter is debated at the shadows of truth and untruth skit through the minds of judges and juries.

What is freedom except a climate in which the people who are in charge of knowing what is right allow others the right to be wrong?

The shocking thing about the case is that those who are bringing the charges would ordinarily be identified with the minorities in revolt against the "Establishment." But, in the role of the Establishment, they appear to be playing the ancient role of the intolerant. They will allow disagreement as long as the critic speaks in truth and not in error.

AND WHO, pray, decides what is "truth" and what is "error"?

No doubt, much more is involved in this scholastic rharb than the charges of "unsubstantiated charges." But it would, in deed, be a great setback for academic freedom if members were fired because they dared — even unsubstantially — to make "charges" against their peers or even their betters.

What Others Say

The Public Broadcasting Service, sometimes still called educational TV, is the nation's noncommercial television network. Funny thing, though, many of the high-quality programs seen over PBS are there because of a very commercial collection of American corporations.

They include such blue-chip companies as Bristol-Myers, Martin-Marietta, IBM, Polaroid, AT&T, Xerox and Minnesota Mining, which underwrite a wide range of popular public TV programs such as "Masterpiece Theater," "Evening at the Pops," and "Zoom." They do it even though no commercials are permitted and the only mention of the company comes as a credit line at the beginning and end of a program.

A newcomer this year is Atlantic Richfield, underwriting "In Performance at Wolf Trap," a series of seven music and dance specials taped at Wolf Trap Farm for the Performing Arts near Washington, D.C.

Public television has turned to these major corporations because, as Ward Chamberlain, senior vice president of PBS, says, "At present federal funding levels, we can't support public TV at the quality levels we want."

This year, a total of 17 companies are providing more than $12 million for public television programming. NEW YORK TIMES

If there has been one anti-inflation measure on which there has been universal agreement, it is that of curbing federal spending. Indeed, deficit spending by the federal government has been repeatedly spot-lighted as a major villain in producing our current runaway inflation.

President Ford, in his economic message to Congress, cited the necessity of cutting back federal expenditures not just in the future budgets but during the current fiscal year as well.

He was careful in that address to make Congress an equal partner in the effort that must be made to whittle the current budget. He urged the lawmakers to vote to set a target spending limit of $300 billion. (The budget submitted by former President Nixon last January set a total expenditure of $304.4 billion for the fiscal year beginning last July 1.)

He told the members of Congress if they would thus signal their firm determination to hold expenditures down, he would take on the tough and politically hazardous job of deciding where the deferrals and cuts should be made to meet the $300 billion goal.

The fact that the President included the sensitive Defense Department — he has always been an ardent advocate of national defense — as a target for possible spending cuts shows that he means business. — DALLAS TIMES HERALD

"After the Nixon recession of the past year, things will surely be better for us in '75. right Mr. Ford? Mr. Ford...?"

Decline In Rental Units

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The precipitous decline in new home construction has produced lamentation about the inability of most young Americans to purchase single-family homes. But there's more to the problem than that.

Relatively unpublishized is a situation that some housing authorities believe will cause considerable difficulty during 1975: the decline in availability of rental units.

Private housing starts in general are down, but the drop in multiunit projects is far sharper than for single-family homes. Builders of apartment houses have found money hard to get, costly and sometimes encumbered by conditions they choose not to accept.

Moreover, the rising price of fuel and the general increase in upkeep costs has made multiunit developments questionable as investments, at least to a sizable number of would-be landlords. This fear of the future has also encouraged the construction of condominiums rather than rental units. Rather than making long-term commitments, builders prefer to turn over ownership and headaches to tenants.

In addition, existing rental buildings all over the country are being converted to condominiums as owners seek to escape the uncertainties of future costs.

Kidney Infection

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend of mine has an infection of the kidneys and bladder. She went to a clinic in a nearby town and they told her to take a teaspoon of soda twice a day for a few days when she felt it coming on.

It really works, but I wondered if it was harmful in any way. I have it and I am crank of what I eat, and I drink cranberry juice, which was recommended. — Mrs. C.C.C.

The problem of recurring urinary tract infection is not a simple matter, and it requires careful analysis.

For example, is the infection in the kidneys or confined to the bladder and lower urinary tract? Is it complicated by the involvement of a mechanical factor, such as a narrowing of the urethral outlet or a sagging of the bladder as in cystocele?

It is important to identify the germ involved in the infection so that an appropriate antibiotic can be selected for treatment. You can see by this that treatment is not quite as simple as a spoonful of soda or a glass of cranberry juice.

However urine is normally acid, and making it alkaline, as with baking soda, can be effective in certain cases. About the cranberry juice. This is a pleasant way to acidify the urine, which could be desirable depending on the organism causing the problem.

But identifying the organism is important, and then it is most important to continue with the proper drug treatment over an extended period. Too often, treatment is stopped prematurely followed by a recurrence of the infection.

Sufficient fluid intake and frequent urination is just as important. One must never hold back, but attempt to urinate every few hours if possible.

Diet is important, particularly regarding foods you might be sensitive to. These commonly are citrus fruits, tomatoes, chocolate, eggs, coffee, cola drinks, milk, or wheat products. The soda is harmless unless your friend has high blood pressure, in which case her sodium intake should be restricted.

There is no short-cut treatment for recurring urinary tract infection.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In a recent physical I was found to have nodules on my lungs caused by histoplasmosis. How is one to know the symptoms of the disease, and how can it be determined if you still have it, and what is done for it? — Mrs. D. H.

The symptoms are primarily cough and fever. An X-ray will detect the nodules which resemble those of TB. The disease can be confirmed by taking a culture of the sputum which will show the presence or absence of the fungus. An appropriate skin test would show a positive reaction.

The course of the disease is usually mild, and when the cough and fever subside the patient feels better. However, the nodules remain in the lungs. There is really no treatment for the disease at this stage.

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble" — It could be dangerous. Read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need to Know About Them." For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Why 100 Years?

Around The Rim

Troy Bryant

I KNEW SOMETHING important had just happened Nov. 22, 1963, when the principal interrupted our sixth grade geography class and said that President Kennedy had been shot, but it seems that every year since then, new implications are made about his death.

A few minutes later, he announced that Kennedy had died and that school was dismissed so that we could watch the reports on TV. I watched all that I could the next few days, but still I was not convinced that Lee Harvey Oswald, singly, killed Kennedy.

Later, people began expressing their doubts too, and I remain a doubter, even though I do not have a theory about who did kill him. One theory I did find interesting is one I came across this week in a magazine interview with Fidel Castro, an old adversary of Kennedy's in the Bay of Pigs affair and in the October Missile Crisis in 1962.

Castro, in answering a question about if he believes that the CIA had anything to do with Kennedy's assassination, he said:

"For a while, the CIA was attempting assassination of some of our revolutionary leaders. Some say the decision was on Kennedy's desk several times. We do not know... I have heard that some documents will not be published for 100 years, and I ask myself why. What secrets surround the Kennedy assassination that these papers cannot be published? I ask myself why would the man who commits such an act try to come here? As you know, he applied for — and was denied — a permit to travel to Cuba. And one must take into account the fact that a few days after killing Kennedy, he himself was killed. How can the conclusion be avoided that there are others behind all this? Who knows what goals they were seeking by killing Kennedy?"

"SOMETIMES WE ASK ourselves if someone did not wish to involve Cuba in this, because I am under the impression that Kennedy's assassination was a conspiracy organized in the United States by reactionaries with possible connections to the CIA. This is my opinion, and my opinion is that the man who carried it out was an agent provocateur. The other mystery is that this other man, Ruby, who had no moral ideals, no political ideals, no political passions, becomes so enraged by Kennedy's assassination that he kills the assassin right in front of the police. It was incredible, inconceivable. That does not happen even in the most mediocre of movies."

We listened to the radio for hours, following the developments until his death was announced. And everyone was saddened. It was really such a tragedy.

Castro, unless he did order the assassination of Kennedy, can't know just what happened Nov. 22, 1963 in Dallas, but his theory is interesting.

He had been coping with acts of sabotage against harbors, factories, and other targets which he says that the CIA encouraged, so maybe he knows something.

Perhaps we will have to wait 100 years to find out for sure, but in the meantime, perhaps the CIA could supply some answers.

TV Ready For Them?

By BOB THOMAS (Asso. Press Writer)

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In what was once the vast Wasteland of Television, it's surprising to find a prime-time musical series starring a Greek-Puerto Rican and two black women.

No one was more surprised than Tony Orlando when he started getting feelers for a CBS show to star himself and his two singers, Telma Hopkins and Joyce Vincent Wilson.

True, they had enjoyed enormous success as Tony Orlando and Dawn, especially with their "The Yellow Ribbon" round the Ole Oak Tree."

But was television ready for them? Fred Silverman thought so. He is the programming chief for CBS, and he and his wife flipped over the trio when they appeared on the Grammy awards telecast last spring.

"We were only on the show for 3 minutes and 10 seconds," Tony recalled. "But Fred saw something in us that seemed promising. He asked our agent what we had done in Washington, and our agent sent him three shows we had done in England for BBC. Then he came to see us perform at Westbury (N.Y.)."

The result was a CBS summer show. As with Mac Davis on NBC, the summer show provided a good break-in. Both Davis and Tony Orlando and Dawn provided mid-season replacements for series that had faltered in the fall—"Sierra" valid way to proceed since it's and "Sons and Daughters," respectively.

Orlando has covered a lot of territory in the 30 years since he was born to a Manhattan furrier in the Hell's Kitchen area that has produced movie stars and felons. Orlando saw many of his friends sent off to prison; he himself went into the music business at 13, singing demonstration records for songwriters. One of them was an unknown named Carole King. In 1961 he recorded her "Hallway to Paradise" and it proved a hit. So did his next record "Bless You," and Orlando seemed on his way to fame.

The Beatle revolution halted his career. Musical styles changed overnight, and Orlando gave up singing to become a music publishing executive. Four years ago he went back to recording with "Candida," singing with two girls who called themselves Dawn, after the name of a record executive.

Other hits followed: "Knock Three Times" (7 1/2 million worldwide), "Yellow Ribbon" (6 million), "No. 1 record in 17 countries), "Say, Has Anyone Seen My Sweet Gypsy Rose?" "Stepping Out," "Gonna Boogie Tonight."

WHAT OTHERS SAY

After several false starts and some horrendous bungling in Washington, it's beginning to look as though the U.S. Bicentennial is going to be a birthday party to remember for another century after all.

The main reason for the change has been wrested from the hands of big government and entrusted to the Orlando and Dawn provided mid-season replacements for series that considered, that's a historically had faltered in the fall—"Sierra" valid way to proceed since it's and "Sons and Daughters," respectively how it all started a couple of hundred years ago.

But the whole concept has been decentralized from Washington to the local communities, where it belongs and has been transformed into something which should be an impressive showcase of the past and a vision of the future — LOS ANGELES TIMES.

My Answer

Billy Graham

I read recently that engagements are less important today than in the past. What Biblical significance if any is there to the engagement period, and what about cousins marrying?

In Jewish marriage, the engagement was very important, really marking the beginning of the marriage ceremony itself.

From early times, the engagement was a period during which the bride was still dependent on her father. She was, however, consecrated to her fiancé, and forbidden to all others.

After the engagement, she took about a twelve month period, usually, to assemble her trousseau. The man worked to settle the payment of his bride. This payment was not regarded as a purchase price, but as compensation for the loss of a daughter. One old record indicates that in the event of the prospective bride's death, there would be a refund of the amount plus twenty per cent interest.

In Semitic society, cousins could marry. The cases of Isaac and Rebekah plus Jacob and Leah in Genesis illustrate this. But I would say that the purpose of the engagement period is even more important today, when just and license set aside the place of marriage. It should be a time for each to get to know the other, and both to grow in their faith. Christ's first miracle was at a wedding and He alone knows the secret of unsuccessful marriage.

A Devotion For Today . . .

"How sweet are thy words to my taste." (Psalm 119:103 RSV)
PRAYER: Dear God, open our eyes today through Thy living word. Make us ever ready to heed its truth and make it our very own. Help us to grow wiser in Thy truth and love. In the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed by thy name. Thy kingdom come, they will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory forever. Amen."

PROTEST SHOOTING Standby Alert In Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP) — All policemen were held on duty late Thursday to avert possible violence in this southeast Texas city after an emergency meeting of the Port Arthur city council, officials said.

Council told about 200 blacks during that they would wait for a grand jury report before taking any action in the fatal shooting of a Negro man by police earlier this week. The group had asked that three officers be suspended until the death is fully investigated.

After the meeting, black community leaders said they were not sure if they could maintain order. Members of their community gathered peacefully outside the city hall earlier Thursday to protest the death of Clifford Dexter Coleman, 22.

Police said Coleman was shot as he attempted to escape from the city jail Sunday. He had been arrested for disorderly conduct.

The Rev. Willie Motley, a protest organizer, said the shooting was unnecessary because Coleman had picked him up anytime. City councilmen said after their meeting they would abide by the recommendations of the grand jury.

Sheriff's deputies were placed on standby alert Thursday night as a result of two lumber yard fires the night before in which fire officials said they suspected arson.

The Rev. Mr. Motley said no blacks were involved in the fires.

JOHN SCHIEBEL

Y Post Assumed

John Schiebel has assumed his duties as physical director for the Big Spring YMCA.

A Snyder native and a former Howard College student, Schiebel regarded his new assignment as coming home. He will be in charge of the entire physical education program of the Y, said Curtis Mullins, executive vice president, but use will be made of his educational background in family living.

As a student in HC in 1968-70, Schiebel was a high jumper in track and later was a member of the track team at Texas Tech, where he took his degree in physical education. He was aquatic physical director at the YMCA at Florence, Ky., just outside of Cincinnati for almost three years before returning to Texas at Austin, from whence he comes to Big Spring.

At Florence, he started a woman's water polo team which placed second in national competition, and he also completed his YMCA senior directors certification.

He is married to the former Patricia Pierce of Clyde, who was Miss Howard College in her sophomore year. Like her husband, Mrs. Schiebel is a graduate of Texas Tech with a home economics degree.

JUST YOUR ORDINARY PET LION — Kilo, a 25-pound, three-month-old pet lion, rests in lap of 4-year-old Todd Carver at home of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Carver in Portland, Ore. Family plans to move as soon as their home can be sold, and Mrs. Carver has asked city council for temporary permit to keep the cub in the residence until the sale is made.

Lion Roaming Around House

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Claudia Carver has a 25-pound problem, and it's all because it is illegal to own a wild animal within the Portland city limits.

For the past two months, Kilo, a three-month-old pet African lion, has roamed at will around the 13-room home of Mrs. Carver, her husband, Steven, and their 4-year-old son.

Mrs. Carver, an experienced handler of exotic animals, asked the city council Thursday for a temporary permit to keep the cub in the home until the family's residence is sold.

She said the family planned to move to a more spacious location in adjoining Clackamas County after the sale.

Mrs. Carver said the declawed cub is not old enough to present any safety hazard to the public. But Portland Mayor Neil Goldschmidt replied: "You may be able to control the animal, but you can't always control the external circumstances."

Goldschmidt said the lion, which will weigh between 300 and 400 pounds when fully grown, must be caged if it is to remain within the city.

Mrs. Carver said a room in her basement may meet the safety standards prescribed by the city. She was given one week to measure the room, during which time the city will require a permit

Should Neighbors Be Told Of Wild Parties?

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor couple went on a vacation and left their 19-year-old son home alone.

There was a party going on at their house every night. I could see (and hear) the cars coming and going at all hours.

One night was noisier than all the others. There was yelling and screaming in the house, loud music, and someone vomiting in the back yard. It lasted until 4 a.m. The whole neighborhood was disturbed.

The boy disposed of four large garbage cans of beer cans and bottles before the parents came home.

My question: Should the parents be told what went on while they were away?
CINCINNATI NEIGHBOR

seemed eager to accept. She had two, then I asked her to join me for dinner. She did. We had a nice time chatting about the people at the office.

After dinner she said, "Your place or mine?" I laughed, and said it sounded like she was propositioning me. She said she was. I nearly fainted. Then I said I didn't think it would be a very good idea because I was a married man, and besides we had to work together.

The next day I heard that she told some of the girls at the office that I had spent the night with her and that I was a "lousy lover." It's pretty embarrassing. Abby, I'm wondering if maybe the best way to handle it is to quit my job and clear out.
BAD-MOUTHED

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Yes. If the boy were YOUR son, wouldn't you want to be told?

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 15-year-old girl who has a thing for firemen. I live just around the corner from the fire station, which makes it nice. I've got a crush on a fireman right now. He's married, but he's a real neat guy. I dream about him all the time. Is this wrong?
ALL FIRED UP

DEAR FIRED: You're not responsible for your dreams, but when you're awake, concentrate on "meat guys" your own age. And quit hanging around the fire station. That's playing with fire!

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 46-year-old married man who works in a large office. We're all pretty friendly.

Last Sunday, my wife was out of town, so I went to a neighborhood restaurant alone. A young woman who works at the office came in (alone) and sat at the bar. Since I was at the bar I offered to buy her a drink. She DEAR BAD: Quit your job? Never! Just tell a few of your men friends at the office that nothing happened. They're believe you, and you can bet they'll circulate your side of it.

DEAR ABBY: I was in the war in Vietnam and was wounded when I stepped on a mine. I was hospitalized for a long time. I finally pulled through, but my sex life was ruined.

Recently I have met a beautiful and intelligent girl and we have been dating regularly. We are becoming more and more intimate and I am getting to the point where I feel I have to tell her about my problem, but I don't know how to do it. Can you help me?
DEEPLY TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: The only way to tell her is directly and in simple language — just as you have told me. Don't put it off. The longer you wait, the more difficult it will be.

North Birdwell Lane Methodists Set Note Burning Here Sunday

By MARJ CARPENTER
On January 5, Bishop A. H. Carleton will preside over the special dedication service as he dedicates the North Birdwell Lane United Methodist Church, now debt free, to the glory of God's work here on earth.

Assisting the Bishop will be the District Superintendent of the Big Spring District Dr. O. A. McBrayer, the Rev. Fred Witt Jr., pastor and two former pastors, the Rev. Elra H. Phillips and the Rev. Jack Thompson. Participating in the burning of the mortgage note, during the service, will be Mrs. Lynn Whitaker, Mrs. Nancy Campbell, Floyd Travis, Raymond Hamby, Barney Edens, Denver Pettitt, Mrs. Minnie Cannon, Mrs. Viola Burchett, Mrs. Vida King, Alden Ryan, and the Rev. Thompson. From 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. Bishop Carleton will be meeting with the members of the congregation and old friends over a cup of coffee in the fellowship room. From 11 a.m. to noon, the Bishop will officiate at the dedication service. One of the highlights of the service will be a solo by Mrs. Marilyn Newson. As this is the only service the Bishop will be conducting in Big Spring, the church officers urge those old friends who wish to say "Hello" to come and attend these services. North Birdwell Lane United Methodist Church is a composite of three former Methodist Churches. It originated in 1945 when members of the Susanna Wesley Class of the First Methodist Church established a Mission

Sunday School at the West Side Community Center in 1945.

A house was secured in 1946 as a meeting place and in 1948 the Park Place Methodist Church was organized by Dr. O. P. Clark, then District Superintendent. In 1952 the remaining membership of the old pioneer Center Point Church, when it was closed, merged with the Park Place Church.

As the area around the Park Place Church became commercialized the congregation looked for a different location on which to build a new church. The church officials were offered two acres of land by Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Edens on North Birdwell Lane in the William Green addition.

This offer was accepted and the first services in the new church were held on Thanksgiving day 1965 and 90 people became members of this church which now was renamed the North Birdwell Lane United Methodist Church. In 1967 an addition was built giving the church 3 additional rooms.

Then in March of 1974 this church and the former Kentwood United Methodist Church merged. This merger brought with it additional members as well as assets and made possible the early paying off of the mortgage.

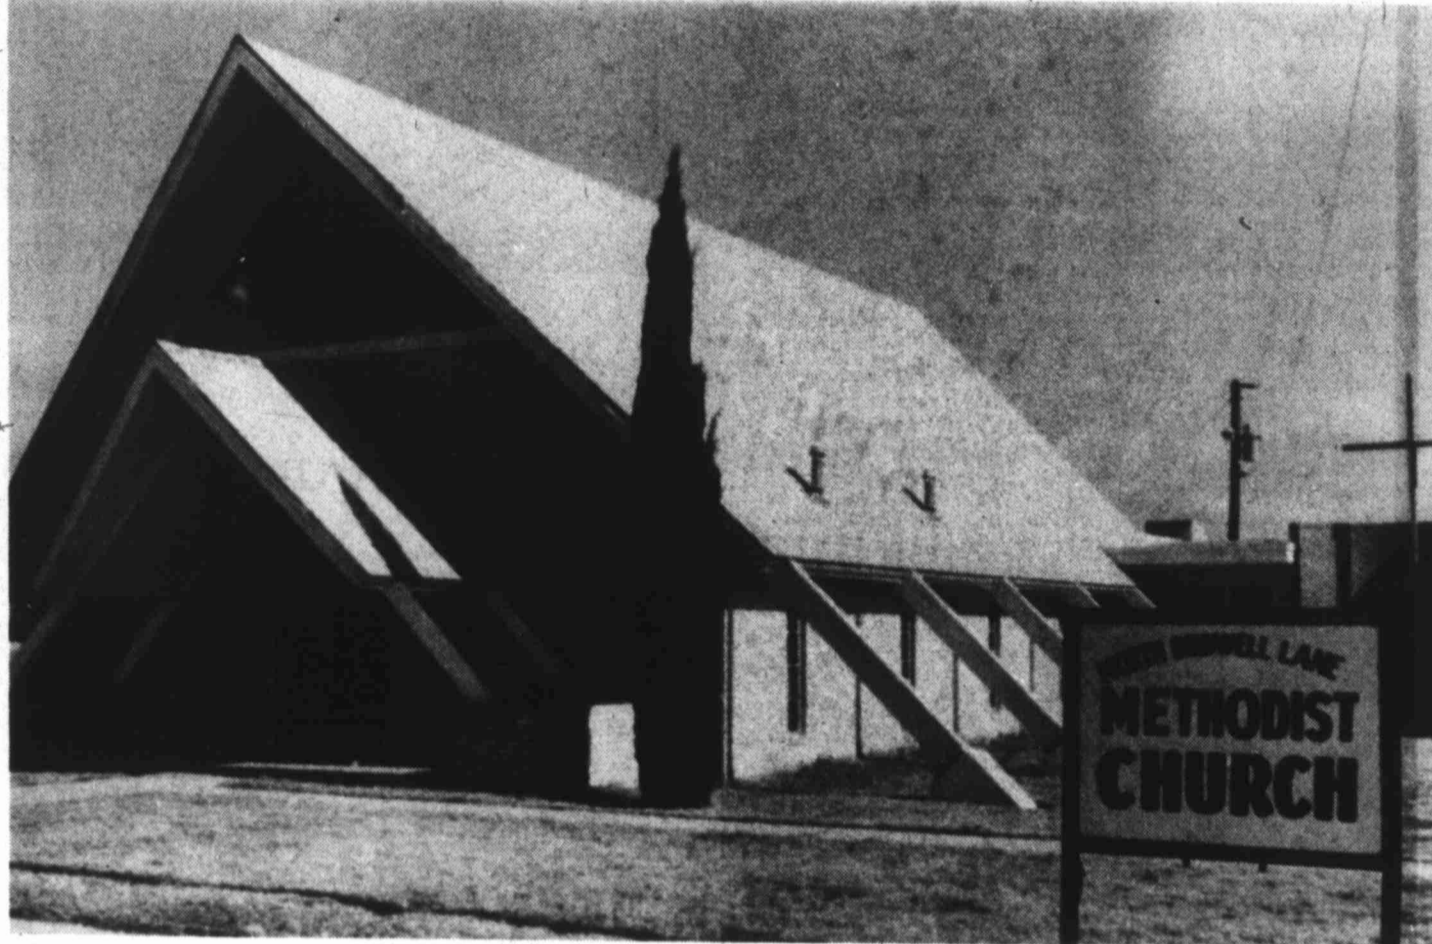

Barney K. Edens, chairman of the administrative board of the church for 1975 stated, "As the church, with 95 members and a debt free church plant, enters the year 1975, I am looking forward to a year of growth and real Christian fellowship."

THE REV. MR. C. PAUL RUSSELL was named CROP Regional Director in Texas recently. His appointment was announced by Roy J. Cates, executive director of the Texas Conference of Churches. CROPS Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Service in Texas is a general department of the TCC, although it operates directly under the Texas CROP board of directors and the national CROP board.

A native Texan, the Rev. Mr. Russell is a graduate of College of the Ozarks in Clarksville, Ark., and McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago.

The Rev. Mr. Russell is an ordained clergyman of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and has served various pastorates in Nebraska. Immediately prior to joining the CROP-CWS staff, he was pastor for five years of the Alamosa Presbyterian Church in Alamosa, Colo.

Catholics Launch Film Set At Trinity Jewish Effort

NEW YORK (AP) — On a worldwide basis, the Roman Catholic Church is launching an effort to rid itself of insinuations against Jews and establish deepened, working bonds with Judaism.

Although that faith gave birth to Christianity, mutual misimpressions have marred their attitudes toward each other for 2,000 years, the Vatican says, adding that conditions now are open for building a "new relationship."

"The spiritual bonds and historical links binding the Church to Judaism ... render obligatory a better mutual understanding and renewed mutual esteem," the Vatican said Thursday in guidelines spelling out steps for seeking that goal.

A Jewish leader hailed the document generally, saying its implementation "would constitute nothing less than a revolution in esteem between Catholics and Jews everywhere." But he sharply deplored certain aspects of it.

Rabbi Marc H. Tanenber, cosecretary of the International Jewish Committee for Interreligious Consultations, said the guidelines assert a "conversionary intention" toward Jews, implying that Judaism is inadequate for them, and that God's covenant with Israel is everlasting "and not subject to substitution."

He says the matter will be taken up with the Vatican's new commission on Catholic-Jewish relations at a meeting in Rome Jan. 7-9.

properly identified, as enemies of the system.

Filmed on location in Iowa, this picture portrays with devastating reality the Biblical prediction, "There will be no place to hide." One does not merely view this film, he experiences it. Every thinking person will seriously consider its impact.

The show was given the "Best Film of the Year" award by the National Evangelical Film Foundation of Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. The lead actress, Miss Patty Dunning, was given the "Outstanding Female Actress" award at the same time.

The film has been produced by Mark IV Pictures, Inc. of Des Moines, Iowa.

While the attire here is a bit more formal, this scene could be Coney Island. Everywhere the beaches are crowded!

We don't know what brings penguins together in such number, but where people are concerned, it's the quest for recreation.

Interesting word: RE-creation. . . as if the work of God at the beginning of time has to be done over again. . . man, the creature, needing to be created again.

Physically recreation implies a restoration of energy and vitality through refreshing diversions.

But the idea has spiritual implications worth pondering: The Sunday morning a family devotes to worship is a time of recreation. It does more for the soul than the crowded beaches can do for the body and mind.

Glider Pilots Being Sought

A search is under way by the National WW III Glider Pilots Association to locate all former military glider pilots who were on active duty during World War II. These were the pilots who flew the Army Air Force's CG-4A combat glider and had a "G" on their silver wings.

So far, the association has located about 1,100 of the original 6,000 men. Those who qualify are being asked to contact Dick Cramer, 2026 Cedar Valley, Dallas, Tex., 75232. The association, formed about four years ago, holds annual reunions and publishes a quarterly news paper called "Silent Wings".

Labor Failed To Keep Pace With Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) - American labor failed to keep pace with inflation in the past year, and recession and rising unemployment will make it even more difficult in 1975. Contract negotiations in the new year are set against a background of continued economic uncertainty and growing union concern over the loss of jobs and the erosion of real wages.

Ordinarily, the next 12 months would have provided almost a breathing spell in the nation's labor relations. The bargaining calendar is relatively light, with 800 major agreements covering only 2.5 million workers, about half as many in 1974. But "these aren't ordinary times," says the chief of the Federal Mediation Service, W.J. Usery Jr., and a number of potential trouble spots lie ahead.

In addition to the expiring contracts, more than 500,000 workers are covered by agreements written during wage controls that run until 1976. Usery says these pacts fail to provide "adequate protection against soaring living costs" and "need to be worked out - or thawed out - by the parties, individually, according to their own circumstances." A hint of this came in November when the United Electric workers urged General Electric to lift the ceiling on their contract's cost-of-living escalator.

On the West Coast, where contracts covering dock workers run until June, the International Longshoremen's union, fearing the Ford administration may reimpose wage controls, is pressing for an early reopening. During nearly three years of controls, organized labor showed a remarkable degree of restraint in its demands while inflation nibbled away at paychecks. But with the end of controls last April, labor's militancy began to rise - and so did wage settlements.

Strikes spread across the nation and during one week in July the number of walkouts topped the 600 mark, the most in any week since the tumultuous post World War II years. Although there were large numbers of strikes, most involved supply industries, construction and an increasing number of public employees. With one major exception, most of the key industries settled peacefully - steel, aluminum, canning, copper, communications and longshoring.

The United Mine Workers union won after a 24-day nationwide strike the fattest settlement in its 84-year history, capitalizing on the nation's demand for energy to make up for 20 lean years in the coal industry. Wage settlements, which averaged 5.8 per cent in 1973, shot up to 9.2 per cent in the second quarter of 1974 and by the third quarter to 11.1 per cent. Despite the heftier settlements, they were still running below the nation's 12 per cent inflation rate. But some economists were predicting wages would continue climbing in 1975 and threaten to prolong inflationary pressure.

Usery predicts settlements in the coming year will roughly equal the inflation rate. However, the deepening recession and growing unemployment could affect wage demands. With workers struggling to hold on to their jobs - union's may be willing to trade-off big pay hikes for new or improved cost-of-living escalator clauses and guarantees of better job security. More than six million were unemployed by year's end, the most at any time since 1940.

None of the big pacesetting contracts are up for negotiation in 1975. But there still could be inflationary settlements in the always troublesome construction industry in the spring. Contracts covering some 60,000 oil and refinery workers expire in January and strikes in that industry could aggravate the nation's energy problems.

Mid-year bargaining is scheduled for most workers in the maritime and shipbuilding industries, and in the fall pacts covering 130,000 apparel workers expire. The biggest labor negotiations will involve the 600,000 employees of the U.S. Postal Service in July. On the legislative front, organized labor won some major victories. Congress increased the minimum wage for the first time since 1966 and adopted pension reform legislation which for the first time guaranteed workers protection of their retirement incomes. Labor, led by the AFL-CIO, pumped more than $3 million into the fall congressional campaigns, helping to elect overwhelming Democratic majorities in both houses of Congress. The unions will call on those it supported to repay their debt by passing favorable trade legislation, bargaining rights for public employees, a costly national health security bill, tax reform and measures to stimulate the economy.

Despite differences over policy, President Ford since taking office in August has maintained cordial relations with AFL-CIO President George Meany and the rest of the labor movement. However, they are likely to cool in the coming months as the recession sharpens.

Records Set By Railroad

The Missouri Pacific System again is establishing new records in all significant areas of its operations in 1974 and announcing an all-time high capital expenditures budget of about $132,000,000 for 1975.

For 1974, new corporate records will be set for: Net income, gross revenues, ton-miles of service and expenditures for modernization. It is also quite possible that MoPac will experience a greater percentage gain in revenues than any other major railroad in the United States. During the past year, MoPac invested approximately $125,000,000 in capital improvements, including $84,000,000 for the acquisition of 2,519 freight cars and 91 locomotives. Already on order, as part of its $132,000,000 capital improvements program for 1975, are 80 locomotives and 2,500 freight cars at a cost of $100,000,000. It represents the largest equipment order in the 124-year history of the Missouri Pacific System.

While final financial results for 1974 are not yet known, it is apparent that MoPac will substantially surpass its 1973 earnings. By the end of the third quarter of 1974, consolidated net income totaled $41,354,000 compared with $30,895,000 for all of 1973.

During the past year, stockholders of the primary Missouri Pacific System companies, The Missouri Pacific Railroad, the Texas and Pacific Railway and the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad - approved merger of the three railroads. The Missouri Pacific Railroad would be the surviving company. This proposal is now before the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval.

 There was little you could be certain of when you were defending and Trump Coup was all. You could just about reckon that the ace of king-queen of trumps could produce one trick for your side, but that was all. What made this so remarkable was that the rest of Tommy's game was, at best, mediocre, and his bid was as crazy as a clock work orange. Yet he continually made impossible contracts' trump tricks vanish into thin air.
