Take Depositions In Tax Contest

A deposition was taken in Dallas last week for the tax suit filed in federal court against Howard County, the City of Big Spring and Big Spring schools, W. H. (Bill) Eyssen Jr. told County Commissioners Court today.

Pretrial proceedings are scheduled in Abilene Friday, County Attorney Eyssen said.

Eyssen, school attorney G. Ben Bancroft, and City Attorney Jim Gregg went to Dallas for the deposition. The three attorneys are coordinating their defense of taxes levied against the Permian Building.

"I feel like there is a good possibility the judge will throw it back to the state court level," Eyssen said.

"I think the thought of a Howard County jury passing on some of these fact questions (in the tax suit) was not pleasing to them," Eyssen said, of the plaintiffs.

"We feel like it's a local question, and we want local citizens to pass on it," Eyssen added.

REVENUE CHECK

A $61,101 federal revenue check for the last quarter of 1974 arrived this morning, Mrs. Virginia Black, county auditor, told the court.

The court approved acceptance of a 1975 Chevrolet donated to the county by Mrs. Doris Cole and John Otis Cole.

"As long as it's being made directly to the county,

I see no legal problem in it," Eyssen said.

Eyssen explained the donation cannot be designated for a particular county department.

"You can make donations to any governmental outfit that you want," Eyssen said, but you can't specify.

The auto will be used by the sheriff's office.

"MOST UNUSUAL"

C. Y. Clinkscapes of Pollard Chevrolet told about Mrs. Cole purchasing the vehicle minutes before the bank closed for the last time in 1974 so she could make the donation.

"This is the most unusual sale that I ever closed," Clinkscapes said.

"Most people want to get something from the county not give to the county," County Judge Bill Tume said.

Members of the court planned to send a letter of appreciation to the Coles.

OTHER ITEMS

Other business included: Hearing Neel Barnaby, county engineer, question whether anyone in the sheriff's office could operate the fire fighting vehicles which would be housed in a structure planned at 12th Street and Sheppard Lane.

"I just don't think it's worth the money, gentlemen," Barnaby said of the proposed structure.

Discussing problems with individuals and business firms dumping trash on private property by Baylor Street north of 25th Street and in a caliche pit across from the Gandy's Dairies Inc. building on Farm Road 700. Both Doyal Grice and Commissioner Ikie Rupard planned to seek relief from the problem. The sheriff's office and city-county health department will be informed.

Approving an easement which would allow Cap Rock Electric Cooperative Inc. to install overhead lines by County Road 34.

Talking with Bruce Griffith, county extension agent, about a $176 addition to the bid for the livestock scales at the county barns. Griffith said $3,361 bid amount included installation but the firm did not include leveling in its definition of installation.

Authorizing Bill McClendon, president of Big Spring Aircraft Inc., to have a heating and cooling unit at Howard County Airport checked. The heating part must be either repaired or replaced, McClendon said.

And considering obtaining workmen's compensation coverage through the Texas Association of Counties as what is promised to be a lower cost.

Six McAlester Prisoners Flee

McALESTER, Okla. (AP)—At least six convicts were believed free after fire Sunday night gutted the trusty dormitory outside state prison walls, authorities said.

Prison guards, highway patrolmen, Pittsburg County sheriff's officers and a civilian emergency squad searched for the men through the night after a "rough head count" established that at least half a dozen were missing.

Warden Richard Crisp said the fire broke out about 6:30 p. m. in the center of the one-story brick building and raced through the structure. There were no reported injuries and no immediate estimate of the damage.

Only the brick walls of the building's three wings remained standing. It took McAlester firemen about 90 minutes to control the flames.

"It's impossible to determine at this time the cause of the fire," Crisp said Sunday night. There were reports from inmates that the fire started in electrical outlets

Nixon Wasn't Ruthless Enough, Says Ex-Aide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Convicted Watergate burglar G. Gordon Liddy says former President

Richard M. Nixon did not act ruthlessly enough in coping with the scandal and should have destroyed the tape recordings that eventually drove him from office.

G. GORDON LIDDY

In a televised interview Liddy also characterized former White House counsel John W. Dean III as a "stool pigeon" and former Nixon re-election committee head Jeb Stuart Magruder as "an accomplished, skillful liar."

"I think in all fairness to the man you'd have to put him right up there with Judas Iscariot," Liddy said of Dean, who along with Magruder was a chief prosecution witness in the Watergate cover-up trial.

Liddy said that if he is returned to prison, he would prefer not being sent to the minimum security facility where Dean is held because "I'd rather have an honest bank robber any day in the week" as a cellmate.

Liddy served about 18 months in prison before being released on bond while one of his sentences is appealed. He has been sentenced to 6 years and eight months to 20 years for his role in Watergate, 18 months for contempt of court and 1 to 3 years for his role in the Ellsberg conspiracy case.

Liddy said he identifies with U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, the man who imprisoned him and who has presided in most of the Watergate cases. "I really can't be too critical of Judge Sirica ... He believes that the end justifies the means. He puts that into practice. He does what is necessary," Liddy said in an interview with Mike Wallace for a CBS "60 Minutes" program broadcast Sunday.

He told Wallace that Nixon was "insufficiently ruthless" in dealing with "these domestic difficulties in which he was engaged." Liddy said that when the existence of the White House tapes was disclosed, he would have stated publicly that "they are being destroyed, in fact, they have been destroyed."

Liddy refused in the interview, as he has before, to break his silence on what he knows about Watergate. But he described Watergate as a "justified intelligence-gathering operation."

'MORALLY, I AM RIGHT'

Officials Drawing Salaries, Pensions

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Seven county officials in California have found a way to beat the soaring cost of living. They collect a salary and a pension for the same government job.

By retiring from office for only a few days, the seven — including five sheriffs — have taken advantage of a loophole in state law. They are now eligible for two checks a month.

All seven left office Dec. 31 after up to 32 years service. They begin new elected terms in the same offices today and will begin to receive both pension and salary checks.

Monterey County Sheriff W.A. Davenport was the first official to declare this year he would take advantage of the loophole. He will get a $1,500-a-month pension along with his $2,400-a-month salary.

"I think morally and honestly I am right," said the 55-year-old sheriff of his annual salary and benefits totaling $46,800. "I know that I am right legally."

Officials at the Public Employees Retirement System, the state agency that runs the county pension programs, agreed that the officials' actions are legal — if not exactly what the legislature intended.

One spokesman for the system said that use of the legal provision is not uncommon, since any local elected official over the retirement age — which varies from 50 to 55 — is eligible.

The short-term retirements have drawn adverse reaction from two legislators who have introduced bills to close the loophole.

And Gov. Ronald Reagan, who leaves the state's top office today to draw a little more than $19,000-a-year in pension, voiced his own doubts.

"I don't think anybody ever intended that someone should be able to have pension and salary from the same governmental body," he told his last news conference Friday. "I think that it is a loophole that somebody ought to take a hard look at."

News stories about Davenport's retirement apparently sparked a spate of similar moves by others.

Arabs Reacting Angrily To Henry's War Talk

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Arab world has reacted angrily to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's statement that the United States would intervene militarily against Middle East oil producers if they threaten "strangulation of the industrialized world."

His comments, published by Business Week magazine, prompted a storm of editorial and government protests in Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya and Iraq over the weekend.

A pro-Palestinian Beirut newspaper, Al Moharrer, published a cartoon showing Kissinger in a Nazi uniform decorated with the Star of David receiving congratulations from President Ford.

"America puts world on powder barrel," said a headline in the paper.

Libyan Premier Abdel-Salam Jalloud declared: "We are not afraid and we will fight for freedom."

A member of the Kuwait cabinet, Abdel Aziz Hussein, told Egypt's official Middle East News Agency: "American Organizations have been making such threats frequently, so it is now established in people's minds that their purpose is to check the freedom of oil producers to set a just price for their oil."

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahrām said Kissinger's threats were evidence of a U.S.-Israeli conspiracy to attack the Arabs "in the same way Israel joined France and Britain in attacking Egypt after nationalization of the Suez Canal in 1956."

The paper urged the Arab states to "lay down a new strategy immediately at the economic and military levels so they may face the possibility of U.S. action against Arab oil fields."

In Jiddah, Saudi Arabia, the newspaper Al Nadwah advised Washington to "stop making threats and stop blaming the oil producers for the economic crisis in the world." It urged all oil-exporting countries to ask the United States to lower the prices of its commodities.

The Iraqi newspaper Al Jumhuria also said that the United States erroneously "tries to give the impression there is a link between oil prices and the crisis now faced by the capitalist world."

President Houari Boumediene of Algeria said American military action against any Middle East oil nation would lead to the destruction of the oil fields.

Reveal Gain

COLORADO CITY — Mitchell County bank deposits for the period ending last Dec. 31 amounted to $16,229,234.82, a record.

At the same time a year ago, deposits in the two banks totaled $15,824,811.82, a previous high for the quarter.

Goal Surpassed

LAMESA — The $38,250 goal of the Lamesa-Dawson County United Way has been surpassed. The goal was approximately three per cent higher than a year ago.

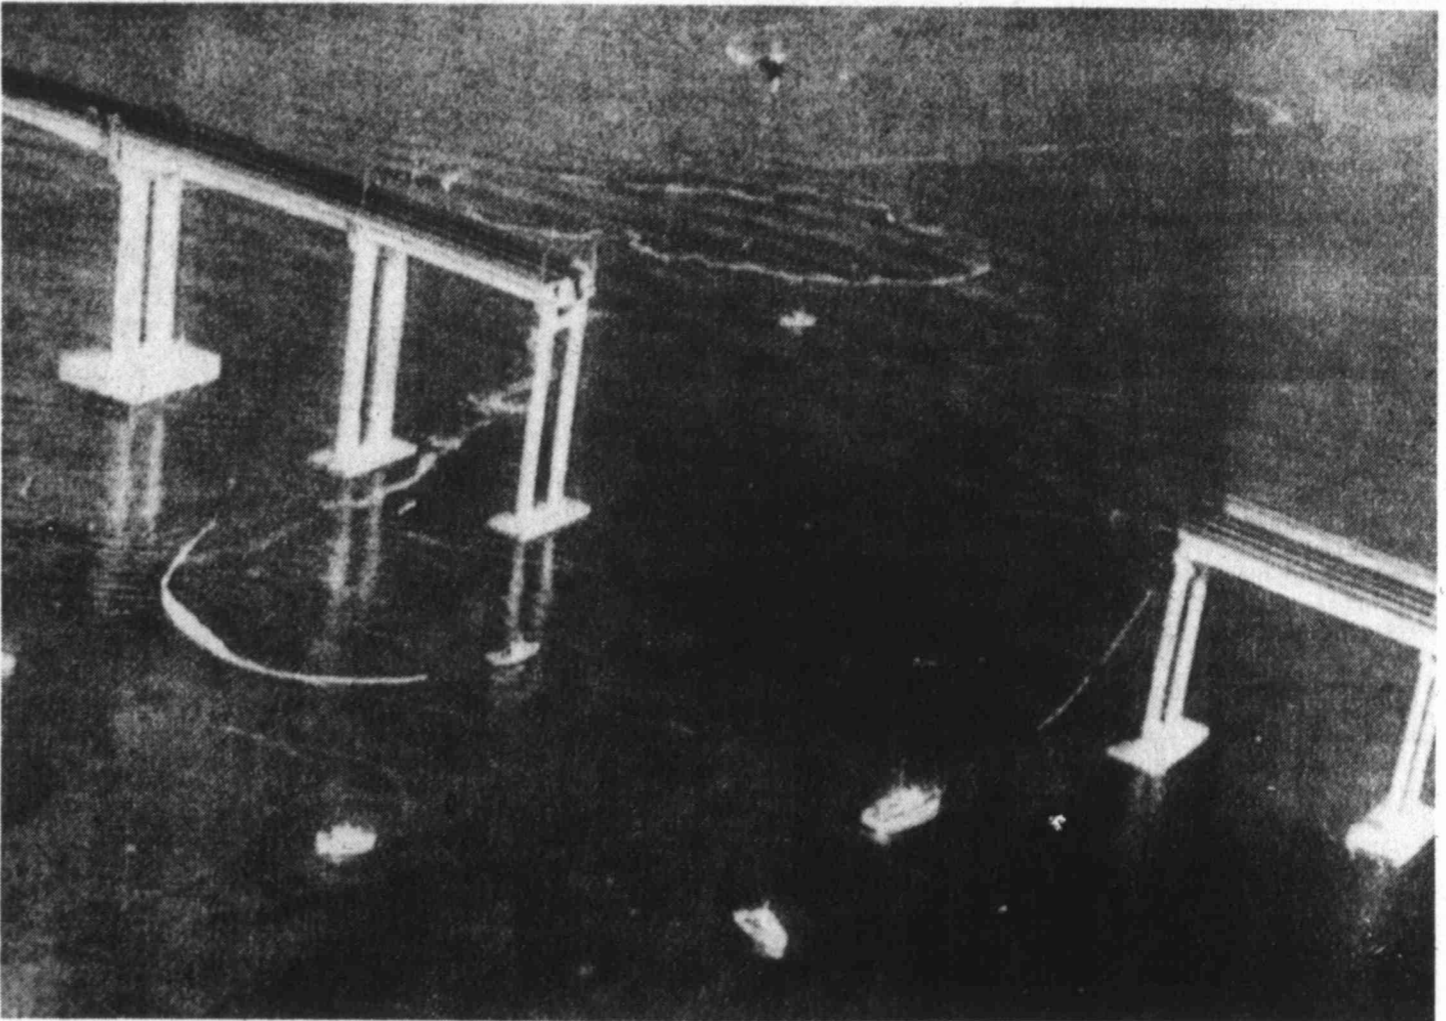

He accused Washington of resorting to psychological warfare and warned that the United States "will need Arab oil and gas for a long time yet."

In other Middle East developments: Egyptian authorities and police sources said 120 persons, including 30 members of the outlawed Communist party, have been arrested for instigating antigovernment disturbances in Cairo last week.

The Shah of Iran and Empress Farah flew from Tehran to Jordan for a three-day visit with King Hussein and his wife. The two monarchs were expected to discuss the possibility of Jordanian mediation between Iran and Iraq, whose forces have clashed repeatedly along their border. The Shah will also visit Egypt and then go on to Austria for a medical checkup and to St. Moritz for some skiing.

BRIDGE COLLAPSES — The Tasman Bridge across the Derwent River at Hobart, on the Australian island state of Tasmania, is shown after it was struck Sunday evening by the freighter Lake Illawarra, causing the collapse of a bridge section on the freighter, which sank. At least six persons were killed and searchers were looking for missing motorists and crew members of the freighter.

Fumes Kill 2

STANTON — Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Preston Garner, who were found dead at their residence two miles north of Stanton Sunday afternoon, are pending at the Gilbreath Funeral Home.

Sheriff Dan Saunders said that indications now are that they died of carbon monoxide. Two kitchen burners were lighted when their bodies were discovered, two and half days after their death.

Mr. and Mrs. Garner, who had lived in Las Vegas, N.M., were moving into a three-bedroom home situated on five acres 3 1/2 miles north of Stanton on the Lamesa highway. They had gone back to Las Vegas, probably to get some things, and returned Thursday night, said P. G. Yates, who lived north of them.

Sunday when their daughter, Mrs. Ed Lawson, had not heard from them, she called Las Vegas but got no answer. Darla Lawson, 16, and Dean Lawson, 12, went to the home north of town, spotted the Garner camper and went into the house only to discover the bodies of their grandparents.

Sheriff Saunders and Dr. Tom Miller, county health officer, said Mrs. Garner had gone to bed in a single bed and he had made bed roll on the floor in the partially furnished home, then seemingly became ill and got as far as the bed before collapsing.

Five years ago Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fryar lost their lives in a similar mishap at Lenora.

"We are not assuming anything at this point and are carrying on a full investigation one step at a time as though there had been foul play," said Sheriff Saunders.

"This is the only way to do it, and we're not passing up anything. However, at this stage of the investigation, I can see no indication of foul play whatever. We are awaiting returns of an autopsy."

Mr. Garner was born May 5, 1911. Mrs. Garner was born Aug. 6, 1914, in Denton, Texas. Both are former Odessa residents. They were married Aug. 27, 1934.

Survivors include a son, Ted Preston Garner, Spring, Tex., and two daughters, Wynne Lawson, Stanton, and Mrs. Natha Hudson, Colorado Springs, Colo., eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Mr. Garner is also survived by four sisters, Mrs. Velma Logan, Kerrville, Mrs. Mary Campbell, and Mrs. Nellen Sherrod, both of Fort Worth, and Mrs. Lola Labaume, Dublin, Tex.; a brother, Clay Garner, Dublin; and his mother, Mrs. Leonard Garner, Dublin.

Mrs. Garner is survived by three brothers, John Brown and Eugene Brown, both of Ruidoso, N.M., and Ray Brown, Ballinger.

At Least 10 Die When Bridge Hit

HOBART, Tasmania (AP) — Officials believe at least 10 Sunday night and brought down a 240-foot section of the span that took the 11,200-ton ship to the bottom.

The bodies of five of the ship's 42 crewmen were recovered, and two other crewmen were missing. But police said they believed two and possibly three cars plunged from the bridge into the Derwent River 150 feet below. They had no idea how many persons were in the cars.

The ship, the Lake Illawarra, stayed afloat for about 10 minutes, and the other 35 crewmen got off alive. Three were hospitalized. The survivors included the ship's captain and the chief engineer.

The four-lane, mile-long bridge connected the business district of Hobart, on the west bank of the river, to residential areas on the east side. The city is the capital and largest city of Tasmania, the Australian island state 150 miles south of the mainland.

The accident occurred about 9 p.m. during a light rain, officials said.

"The ship steered to the left of the navigation span and hit the bridge on the third pylon from the eastern shore," said Maurice Allan, who saw the accident from his home. "The ship went straight down after the bridge collapsed on top of it after wavering for about 60 seconds."

Allan's son, Gordon, 20, said he heard "a big bang and saw a car heading into town swerve across the bridge. It hit an oncoming car and both fell into the river."

Freddy C. McAnear and his wife, Gedda, both of Midland, were in satisfactory condition late Sunday at Medical Center in Odessa.

McAnear was treated for lacerations and possible head injuries, while his wife suffered minor lacerations.

Both were passengers aboard an aircraft piloted by F. T. Levens of Midland. Neither Levens nor his wife, Estilee, also aboard, suffered serious injuries. Both were checked and released from Midland Memorial Hospital.

A spokesman for the Midland Sheriff's Office said the plane was coming in for a landing at 7:00 when it struck the line, then crashed on the southwest runway near FM 1788.

Levens said he thought he was in a normal glide path when the plane snagged the line, plummeted to the runway and cart wheeled

Scott Supporting Move To Cut Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposals for a tax cut to help revive the economy have picked up three more congressional supporters, including Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

"If we lost $20 billion through a tax reduction, we can recoup $12 billion to $15 billion by other taxes," Scott said Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., chief deputy majority whip in the House, said a tax cut is a major ingredient of the Democratic program being prepared for the 94th Congress, beginning Jan. 14.

The package also includes measures to ease the flow of credit for housing, a further increase in public service jobs and a "wage-price mechanism" to curb inflation, Brademas said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Also calling for a tax cut was Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., who suggested a reduction of $10 billion, designed particularly to relieve low and moderate income families. In addition, he suggested a $25 credit for all taxpayers or a reduction in payroll taxes for social security.

Reuss, appearing on CBS' "Face the Nation," joined Brademas in calling for general tax reform. Reuss also urged creation of an "administrative agency" to stop and roll back price increases.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sermon urged "dynamic faith and hope" and said "the future is not a stacked deck. The present mess is not our destiny."

Among those in church: President Ford, his wife Betty and his daughter Susan.

The President attended St. John's Episcopal Church across Lafayette Square from the White House Sunday. The Rev. David A. Williams, assistant minister, spoke of pain and suffering in the world and the need to respond to it.

It was the Fords' first weekend back at the White House after their skiing vacation in Vail, Colo. Aides said the President spent the rest of the day with his family and working.

At 101, Minister Still Going Strong In Kansas

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The Rev. James E. Newman celebrated his 101st birthday and vowed to continue as pastor of St. Peter's Baptist Church "as long as I am able."

"I feel just the same as I did when I was 25," he told wellwishers Sunday at a reception at the Grant Chapel A.M.E. Church. "I just thank God for the privilege of being here this long."

He has served as pastor of St. Peter's about 40 years.

Consumers Paying Dearly
For Lack Of Competition

NEW YORK (AP) — Limited competition among drug companies is costing consumers at least $180 million a year in the purchase of expensive antibiotics, the Council on Economic Priorities has found.

The council, a nonprofit public interest organization, said in a study released Sunday that "market domination" by large drug companies has created a situation where one company can sell the highest priced version of an antibiotic and still retain a major share of the market.

Warmer and windier is the forecast for today, with temperatures in the mid-60s this afternoon and dropping into the mid-30s tonight. The high Tuesday will be in the low 60s.

Load Limits Upped

Proving once again that the hand is quicker than the eye, the trucking lobby slipped through a 10 per cent increase in big truck weight limits by sandwiching the measure in between sections of the highway bill dealing with safety and beautification.

The Senate approved the weight hike, but the House turned it down with a good showing of determination. The notion was prevalent, though, that key House members would cave in on this issue when the $752 million highway bill went to conference, which is just what happened. So the trucking industry has made its highest haul yet, in the halls of Congress. Highways could be less safe because of the bulkier trucks, which also will inflict more damage on roads and bridges, to be repaired with public funds.

In some degree, this rich reward was bestowed on the truckers as a consolation prize for forcing the 55 m.p.h. speed limit on them, over their shrill objections. Since the highway monsters will be traveling slower, the argument goes, the heavier weights really won't crack the pavement and imperil motorists any more than loads now carried. That thesis would be hard to believe even if there were evidence of the lower speed limit being obeyed by most trucks. Anyone who listens in on the citizens band of warnings about "Smokey the Bear" knows well that there is a conspiracy to circumvent the speed limit.

Skewered On Another Petard

When Jimmy Hoffa, the former Teamsters Union boss, was pardoned by President Nixon, he gladly accepted the condition that he not participate in Teamster activity until 1980. Once out, however, he began a long battle to regain the right to be active in unions affairs, contending he now would be out of prison without any strings attached.

However, in a parallel case, the Supreme Court has ruled that the President can impose conditions that are not specifically authorized by statute. The instance was that of former Sgt. Murice Shick, under sentence to die, who was pardoned by President Eisenhower with the provision he never be eligible for parole. Once off the hot seat, so to speak, the sergeant had second thoughts, especially in wake of the 1972 Supreme Court decision overturning the death penalty. Nevertheless, the court overturned his plea that he would be eligible under present law for parole, noting that had it not been for the commutation, he might well be dead.

And so, Mr. Hoffa has been skewered on someone else's petard.

The Silly Age

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

Perhaps we've reached the ultimate in silliness. I see by the papers where athletic coaches of two major universities offered to take lie detector tests over recruiting methods. There was a time when polygraph tests were used almost exclusively on persons of criminal bent.

IT'S AN established fact that the two colleges involved plunder the high schools of the talent they want, then let the other schools fight over what's left.

The pattern in college and high school football rarely changes. The institutions with the financial muscle and the persuasive alumni invariably dominate, and the have-nots are taught to stand still and absorb the clout. The people who run the programs at the less fortunate schools console themselves that they're molding self-confidence but I can't see what a punch in the mouth has to do with building character.

The fans regard each season as an Armageddon and compare each upset to Horatius' gallant stand at the bridge. Karl Marx once described religion as the opiate of the masses. That may have once been the case, but that dictum has since been supplanted by organized sports.

SOMEONE SAID recently that in the fanning of fanaticism, nothing comes close to sports in the seizure of men's souls.

That critic also remarked that the passion for sports is hampering the spread of ideology the world over, that it used to be that the things worth dying over were abstract ideas (frequently covers for more material gain), whereas nowadays a box score, an umpire's call, a foul play—all these—pressure color on the cheeks of strong men and inspire palpitations among the weaker species.

A group of young men can beat each other black and blue with hockey sticks and the violence spills over into the streets. Compare that with the lack of emotion in a polling booth on election day.

FORTY PEOPLE can perish when tempers erupt at some soccer match in a remote banana republic and we smugly tell each other the Latins take it all too seriously, yet we are entirely capable of becoming so enraged at what we reason is an improper call of a football maneuver that we vow retribution—if it takes a lifetime to achieve revenge.

In all the civilized world, sports persuades people to put their own vital interests second or third behind the misadventures of athletic strangers. It is becoming increasingly common for a hot-eyed fan to smash his television set into kindling wood if a decision should go against his adopted team—even if that assemblage of people is active on a playing field half a nation removed from his living room. It is as if the inanimate object were the cause of his frustration.

ANYTHING IS better than martial conflict, you say? Perhaps so, but there is increasing evidence that sports, rather than alleviating tension, is adding to the problem and the proliferation of sports has done little to lessen the incidence of war and terrorism.

Some of the most belligerent creatures I have met down through the years have been fanatics hurling invective from the stands and relatives of young men and women involved in athletic activity.

Sports have achieved the impossible in that they give the masses the illusion of action flowing through the television tube, while simultaneously reducing them to the least moveable degree of inertia. How many countless weekends have we squandered indoors counting goals and totaling up field goals or runs?

WE'VE BECOME a race of figure filberts, ready to quote a statistic or argue the relative talents of athletes we have never known—worshipping at the small screen and taking communion with a six-pack.

Somewhere along the way a lot of the fun has gone out of it. Perhaps we need such preoccupation to shield ourselves from the awful realities of life. If that be the case, our problem is critical. What I have seen emerging in the last decade or two are utterly spoiled individuals who come to feel that they make a far greater contribution to the good of all mankind than is actually the case and who all too often can be counted upon to abuse the privilege of their station.

MOST PROFESSIONAL athletes hold the great unwashed in utter contempt, and for good reason. Time and again, they've seen the paying gentry make utter fools of themselves.

My Answer

Billy Graham

I'm in love with a man who is a member of the Rosicrucians. He's one of the most beautiful people I've ever known—not on the outside, but the inside. He has taught me that "God helps those who help themselves." Please tell me what Rosicrucianism is, S.C.

The Encyclopedia says that many Rosicrucians categorically deny it is a religion. They hold it to be rather a philosophy. Apparently there are many branches of Rosicrucianism.

Some claim the teaching was started by a man named Christian Rosenkreutz. He was on a pilgrimage to Damascus in the 17th century, when he claimed he received the secret wisdom that makes up Rosicrucianism.

Evidently, it's a combination of Egyptian Hermeticism, Gnosticism and cabalism, with a mixture of alchemy, and some occult beliefs and practices. Their symbol is the cross and the rose another accounting for the name. However, you should know that the Rosicrucian interpretation of the cross does not match the New Testament interpretation of Christ's death as the Redeemer for the sins of the world.

I agree the man you describe is unusual, but you better check out the compatibility of your beliefs. Read 2 Corinthians 6:14. Far too many couples minimize the importance of their individual faith, and marriage is thereby greatly jeopardized if not destroyed.

Projections Revised

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — So fast is the recession overtaking the once extravagant economy that forecasters today are busily revising the projections they made only a matter of weeks ago.

Some observers maintain that the wild expectations of some gold merchants were tamed by this mood, which consists of foreboding, fear, suspicion and a variety of other negative attitudes that foreclose new commitments.

At any rate, the public didn't buy gold, and neither are they buying automobiles. Car production fell 24 per cent to 7.34 million units in calendar 1974, and it isn't difficult to find forecasts of another 10 per cent drop in 1975.

In Washington, where a tax increase was talked about not many weeks ago, there seems to be a growing consensus for a tax cut instead, the theory being that a cut would stimulate more spending.

It was only six months ago or less that government, corporate and academic economists were wondering how in the world they could cut the extreme buying demands of the public.

Now, it appears, the public has provided the answer, and the economists now are wondering how in the world they can incite, provoke or encourage the public to embark on new spending ventures.

But with 6.5 million Americans out of work, almost everyone knows somebody who was cut and there is nothing more depressing to economic activity than that. Saving rather than spending becomes the goal.

The most optimistic view of things now is that a recession is also a renewal. It forces people to work harder, forego frivolous purchases and otherwise return to stable virtues.

On a corporate level it forces a weeding out of unhealthy practices. Efficiency improves and a greater premium is placed on innovation, which in a sense is a preparation for the next upturn.

The gloomiest view of the situation is that whatever is done now by the federal government, such as a tax cut, probably won't have a major economic impact for several months to come.

The Die Is Cast

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Through two arduous days of economy-energy discussions at President Ford's ski chalet in Vail, Colo., it became clear that Secretary of the Treasury William Simon had lost his only disagree but intensely dislike inflationary budget in the face of recession.

ALTHOUGH NO decision was announced by Mr. Ford, even Simon's lieutenants concede he is the loser of a year-long struggle with lame-duck budget director Roy Ash. The President will support not only income tax cuts but high federal spending to stimulate business, insuring a colossal budget deficit that could surpass $40 billion.

Both to recoup part of that loss and to conserve energy, Mr. Ford last weekend definitely approved a new excise tax on oil imports (probably $1 to $3 per barrel) that is part of an over-all energy package, approved at Vail, to reduce consumption and increase production while abandoning the old Nixon-Ford concept of solving the energy crisis by voluntary action.

THUS, DRESSED in ski sweaters in the winter resort, the President and his top officials on Dec. 27 and 28 buried economy-energy policies of Mr. Ford's first five months and their Nixon roots. Mr. Ford belatedly changed economic direction at a time when public confidence was falling quickly.

THE MOST basic debate came Saturday morning, beginning the second day of meetings. Simon made his last pitch for budget restraint. While advocating anti-recessionary tax cuts, the Secretary of the Treasury warned that federal spending must be checked to prevent perpetual inflation. Indeed, Simon has hoped tax cuts would permit reducing both federal spending and the government itself.

But the new draft budget prepared by Ash for the next fiscal year beginning July 1, Simon declared Saturday, did not begin to cut set-chaiet in Vail, Colo., it became clear that Secretary of the Treasury William Simon had lost his only disagree but intensely dislike inflationary budget in the face of recession.

SIMON, ARTICULATE and forceful, brought up specific budget items he claimed Ash did not trim adequately. The saturnine Ash, due to leave office after this budget, displayed encyclopedic knowledge of budget details to argue there was no more blood to squeeze. The consensus: Ash was the winner.

Dr. Arthur Burns, who as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board may tighten the money supply if the budget line is not held, backed Simon to the hilt. But Alan Greenspan, the President's supposedly arch-conservative chief economic adviser, was considerably less ardent an economist than Simon. In Ash's corner were William Seidman, White House economic coordinator, and the President's political advisers.

THE PRESIDENT himself seemed to back Ash. Even Simon's adherents concede his attempt to hold the budget deficit to $20 billion is doomed. While hoping the deficit will be forecast at $25 billion, they admit the actual deficit may hit $40 billion or higher.

Thus, messages to be sent to Congress by Mr. Ford this month are a sharp departure from the Republican "oldtime religion" embodied in Mr. Ford's Oct. 8 economic message. The Oct. 8 remedy of voluntarism to conserve energy was similarly abandoned at Vail.

WHAT'S IMPORTANT is that decisions are finally being made after the long Watergate freeze and Mr. Ford's difficulty in taking hold quickly. Economy-energy policymakers left Vail last weekend hopeful he had finally turned the corner.

The 'Home' Chemists

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Of all the new pastimes, my mother-in-law and her elderly friends have started to check everyone they can with Ketostix. I patiently gave in to quiet her down. Now she thinks I'm ill.

I stand 5 feet, 1 inch, weigh 110 pounds and am small-boned. I feel perfectly well, full of energy. I eat a well-balanced diet, except I don't care for sweets and eat very little bread, potatoes or starchy foods.

On the Ketostix, I show purple. She is sure I have something wrong because with everyone else the Ketostix has stayed buff-colored.

I don't think they know any more about reading the Ketostix than I do (absolutely nothing).

I just had a good checkup three months ago.—Mrs. D.J.F.

If your checkup included a urine sugar test and your doctor was satisfied, then you have little to worry about.

Ketostix are strips of paper, chemically treated to show the presence of ketones in the urine, which could be an indicator of the presence of sugar. Although I'm not big on home laboratory analysis, the Ketostix, sold in drugstores, are quite useful to diabetics who must keep a close check on their body metabolism. High ketone readings are a sign of faulty metabolism.

The combination of your mother-in-law's "findings" and your admission that you don't eat carbohydrate foods is interesting, however. A little more carbohydrate in your diet could change the test.

Ketones can appear in urine of persons on low-carbohydrate diets, a fact that those advocating such diets usually neglect to mention. The ketones, in fact, are organic acids left behind by inadequate "burning" (utilization) of carbohydrates.

They are stored in the body fluids and excreted in the urine. It's a sign the body has fallen back on protein and fats for energy.

This resultant excess acidity may be what your mother-in-law turned up.

It might be wise to take another look at your "balanced" diet.

You certainly should have a professional urine test—a good advance, incidentally, for anyone going in for a general health checkup. Since you are not a diabetic, your doctor might want to see you getting a bit more of these starchy foods you ignore.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Four years ago my ankles got swollen and arthritis pains hit me, and I got congestive heart failure.

A doctor gave me the medicine for this condition. I immediately lost 22 pounds and my three troubles went away four years ago.

Why doesn't my doctor want to try out to see what would happen if I stopped taking the medicine for a few days?—M.M.

Well, I don't know about any medicine that will take care of arthritis, congestive heart failure and obesity, and you don't make it clear which medicine you are speaking of.

Anyway, don't you think your doctor could answer this better than I? He knows your condition.

Since you seem to be doing well, why change horses in mid-stream.

Never take a chance on diabetes? For a better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald, for a copy of his booklet, "Diabetes—The Sneaky Disease." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35

A Devotion For Today . . .

"Our soul waiteth for the Lord: he is our help and our shield."
(Psalm 33:20)
PRAYER: Holy Spirit, teach us to keep the things of this world in proper perspective that we may focus our lives on what is real and enduring. Help us to love God, live His laws, and turn for the help He has promised. Amen.

INVESTIGATING THE INVESTIGATORS—This is the headquarters of the Central Intelligence Agency in Langley, Va., about eight miles from downtown Washington. Sunday, President Ford appointed Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller to head an eight-member presidential commission to investigate allegations that the CIA had illegally spied on American citizens.

Trio Held In Kidnap

HILLSBORO, Tex. (AP) — Three persons remained jailed under $20,000 bond each today after being charged with the abduction of a Cleburne service station owner and his daughter.

Joyce Brewer, 41, and her son, Don Basham, 25, both of Arlington, and G.D. Goforth, 36, of Oklahoma City, Okla., were charged with aggravated robbery and kidnaping before Peace Justice George Raymer of Hillsboro.

Mrs. Brewer and Basham were arrested Thursday in Arlington and transferred to the Hill County jail here. Goforth was arrested and jailed Friday in Oklahoma City.

Congress To Continue Investigation Of CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders say their planned investigations into the CIA's alleged domestic intelligence work will proceed even though President Ford has appointed an eight-man commission to probe the spy agency.

Ford named Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller to head the commission Sunday which was created to "determine whether the CIA has exceeded its statutory authority." The agency, which is limited by law to foreign intelligence, allegedly has spied on Americans in the United States.

The panel is to report in 90 days. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the report would be sent to Congress and released to the public.

The other commissioners appointed by Ford were former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, retired Army Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, former Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold, AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Joseph Lane Kirkland, retired University of Virginia President Edgar F. Shannon, former Commerce Secretary John T. Connor and former Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon.

PEAISES GROUP. Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott praised the commission members as "distinguished men, without personal axes to grind" and as "men of great national reputation." But Scott said it was necessary for the congressional inquiries to go ahead. CIA investigations previously were announced by Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., chairman of the House CIA oversight committee; Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate CIA oversight panel; and Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., incoming chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Nedzi, vowing to continue his panel's probe, welcomed the appointment of the presidential commission and said he would appreciate any insights the commission may offer "into the problem of reconciling a secret agency with an open society."

The House CIA subcommittee will meet next week to map its investigation. Nedzi said he will urge that the panel's work be done in public.

Neither Stennis or Sparkman was immediately available for comment.

Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., who conducted his own personal inquiry into the CIA's links with the Watergate scandal, commended Ford for creating the commission. Baker added that the commission did not reduce the need for independent congressional action.

The make-up of the commission came under some criticism. One lawmaker, who asked not to be identified, said the close personal relationship between Rockefeller and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger made it a "self investigation."

URGED FORD. Kissinger also serves as head of the National Security Council, which is directly responsible for the CIA. Kissinger is known to have urged Ford to create such a commission.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the panel was "very one-sided."

"With the exception of Griswold, members of the panel haven't been very conspicuous for their championship of civil liberties," Proxmire said.

He also said he was concerned about the fact that Rockefeller "has been on the President's foreign intelligence advisory board for five years" and about the close relationship between Kissinger and Rockefeller.

Nessen was asked Sunday whether the Kissinger-Rockefeller friendship and Kissinger's CIA relations constituted a conflict of interest.

"The President didn't think so," Nessen responded. Lemnitzer, as a former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, also had contacts with the CIA, but Nessen said they were "not in a sense that would hamper his role on the commission."

In establishing the commission, Ford restricted its investigation to "CIA activities within the United States."

He praised the agency for its "many successes" in intelligence and counter-intelligence, but declared: "It is essential in this Republic that we meet our security requirements and at the same time avoid impairing our democratic institutions and fundamental freedoms."

Ford also said he was writing to department and agency heads responsible for the government's intelligence activities "emphasizing that they are at all times to conduct their activities within the scope of their respective statutory authorities."

Ford's investigative commission will swing into action this week, holding an organizational meeting and hiring staff, White House aides said.

Movie Critics Dub '74 As 'Year Of Copycat'

By BOB THOMAS Associated Press Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) — If the current Oscar race seems duller than usual, perhaps that's because 1974 was the Year of the Copycat. The studios seemed to aim their big guns at repeating past successes, thus depriving the screen of real innovation. Big budgets were expended in an effort to match the disaster epics such as "Airport" and "The Poseidon Adventure." Alas, imitation rarely produces art. Although they are succeeding at the box office, "Airport 1975," "Earthquake" and "The Towering Inferno" are attracting no serious attention for the Academy Awards, except in special effects.

ISSUE. Likewise the impact on the awards by "Godfather Part II" is blunted because it is a sequel. Some critics have proclaimed it better than the original, but it lacks the startling newness and the performance of Marlon Brando.

Other Oscar hopefuls seem to have a derivative nature. "Lenny" borrows heavily from Orson Wells' classic "Citizen Kane." The marvelously funny "Young Frankenstein" is based on previous screen material, as are "The Front Page," "The Three Musketeers" and "The Great Gatsby."

All this doesn't mean that the Oscar race is any less spirited. The studios are now loading the guns of January, trying to win favor in the nominations, due Feb. 24. The 3,000 Academy voters are invited to screenings here, there and everywhere. Trade papers bulge with ads. Usually exclusive stars turn up on television talk shows.

The awards season produces heartaches for studios like MGM and Columbia with no Oscar hopefuls. Also heartaches for those studios with too many. For instance, Paramount must give equal treatment to "Chinatown," "Godfather II," "The Little Prince," "The Great Gatsby," "The Longest Yard," "The Conversation," "The Gambler" and "Murder on the Orient Express."

Not all are Oscar caliber, of course, but the makers and stars of the films need to be placated. Hence, Paramount publicists can show no favor-it-is.

Eligibility for the 1974 awards is now closed, since potential nominees had to appear in a Los Angeles theater before Dec. 31. Here is how the race looks to this observer (selections are more or less in declining order):

BEST OF LOT. Best picture — "The Godfather, Part II," "Lenny," "Chinatown," "Scenes from a Marriage," "The Conversation," "Murder on the Orient Express," "Young Frankenstein," "A Woman Under the Influence," "The Parallax View," "The Longest Yard."

Best actress — Liv Ullmann, "Scenes from a Marriage"; Gena Rowlands, "A Woman Under the Influence"; Faye Dunaway, "Chinatown"; Valerie Perrine, "Lenny"; Ellen Burstyn, "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore"; Diahann Carroll, "Claudine"; Goldie Hawn, "Sugarland Express"; Best director — Francis Ford Coppola, "Godfather II"; "The Conversation"; Bob Fosse, "Lenny"; Ingmar Bergman, "Scenes from a Marriage"; Roman Polanski, "Chinatown";

During the current cotton harvest season, samples from 136,800 bales have been classed at the U.S.D.A. Cotton Classing Office in Abilene. According to B. B. Manly, in charge, 20,000 samples were classed during the week ending Jan. 2. By the same date last season, 468,000 samples had been classed.

During the past week 73 pere cent was graded light-spotted, 17 per cent white, and 10 per cent spotted. Grade 42 was the predominant grade at 45 per cent, followed by grades 52 and 41 with 24 and 10 per cent. Sixteen per cent of the samples were reduced in grade because of bark or grass content.

Staple lengths were 45 per cent staple 31; 24 per cent staple 32; 21 per cent staple 30, and 8 per cent staple 33. Micronaire readings were 66 per cent within the 3.5 to 4.9 range.

Cotton prices reported to the Agricultural Marketing Service ranged from 23 to 28.5 cents per pound for various qualities. Prices declined by as much as two cents per pound, but the market was considerably more active in some areas. The price paid farmers for cottonseed ranged from $125 to $140 dollars per ton.

The Trial of Billy Jack
PG PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED
Starring DELORES TAYLOR and TOM LAUGHLIN

When fears speak louder than facts.

America is a strong country, the richest and the strongest in the world. Buying the goods free enterprise produces—whether cars or clothing or houses—is the lifeblood of American business. Buying trims down idle inventories, steps up production, increases the number of jobs, and generates tax revenues. Buying keeps America's economy humming.

Consider these facts: (1) our new cars, on the whole, deliver better mileage than in previous years, even as they emit less pollution; (2) they require less scheduled maintenance, so they cost less to run and to keep up; (3) used car values have never been higher.

In short, a new car is a good investment. Right now is the time to buy a new car. And that's a fact.

Dear Abby

She's Thankful For Life After Much Loss

DEAR ABBY: I wish you would print this for all the women who write to complain about the size of their breasts — either too small or too large. I would gladly change places with any of them.

I had one breast removed at the age of 38, when my children were three and seven years old. Twelve years later, I had a second breast removed.

Fourteen months ago I was told that I had inoperable cancer of the abdomen. With chemotherapy, prayers and the love and support of my family and friends I am still able to enjoy life.

Women with two breasts — regardless of their size — should thank God every day for them. And women with only one breast should thank God for that one. I thank God for every day that I'm alive (at the ripe old age of 52) to be with my family and friends. I am reminded of an old proverb that goes something like this: "I wept because I had no shoes, until I met a man who had no feet."

I can still find people who are worse off than I am. Sign me.

seek professional help. My husband flatly refused to see either a doctor or a marriage counselor.

The total absence of a physical relationship has left me frustrated. My husband claims he "loves" me, and that his coming home right after work, buying the food, etc., rather than drinking and gambling, is proof of his love. He says "hugs, kisses and sex" do not prove love.

He is a good man, and an excellent father. But I refuse at 27 to forego an active sex life. In the past year I've even had erotic dreams about some of the 18-year-old boys in my classes. Please help me.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: If your husband flatly refuses to get professional help (which is the only solution to your problem), you have two choices, (1) Accept things as they are, or (2) make other living arrangements. Personally, I think he's being unfair to you, and unless he changes his mind, I see an unhappy ending to this otherwise perfect marriage.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20 cents) envelope.

'Quotable Women'

By The Associated Press

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"It's very strange to hear people talk about him because he is so idealized. Ninety-nine point nine percent of the people I've talked to about him have said only good things. It's as if he was a superhuman person."

Actress Taryn Power, 21, talking about her father, Tyrone, who died when she was 5.

her Ph.D. at the University of Iowa in Iowa City, grandmother of 15 and great-grandmother of five.

"We've picked up a lot during the campaign, too. I was a lot shyer. Now I think any of us could meet people, stand in receiving lines." Marianne Carey, 18-year-old daughter of Gov. Hugh Carey of New York.

"Usually I have some kind of trouble — they won't give me a reservation or won't let me board the plane. But Sunday was the first time I've ever been put off a plane." Polio victim Judy Heumann, forced to disembark from a Washington-bound National Airlines jet in New York because she had been traveling unaccompanied and did not have a medical certificate.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — If you're eating too much meat or not enough asparagus and don't know it, the University of Wisconsin's computer has some advice for you.

ACBL Play Completed At Club

Big Spring County Club held its ACBL member championship game Friday with 10 tables in play.

Over-all winners were Mrs. Fred Kasch and Mrs. A. Swartz, first; Mrs. Hayes Stripling Sr. and Mrs. E. O. Ellington tied with Mrs. Birt Allison and Mrs. Morris Rhodes, second and third; Mrs. R. E. Dobbins and Mrs. Ward Hall, fourth; Mrs. Ed Corson and Wilbur Cunningham, fifth; and Mrs. Myrtle Lee and Mrs. J. H. Parks, sixth.

North-south winners were Mrs. Allison and Mrs. Rhodes, first; Mrs. Parks and Mrs. Lee, second; and Mrs. R. L. Tollett and Mrs. W. J. Harris, third. Winners in the east-west position were Mrs. Kasch and Mrs. Swartz, first; Mrs. Stripling and Mrs. Ellington, second; and Mrs. Dobbins and Mrs. Hall, third.

what to eat.

Under the program, people fill out computer cards of everything they eat for a day or even a week, says Prof. Nancy Johnson, university nutritionist.

The data is fed into the computer, digested and then returned to the subject with percentages of various common nutrients in the diet for that day or week.

"From this information, we can then tell the person what he needs more or less of," said Mrs. Johnson. "We are very specific."

For example, she will check the computer's assessment of the person's diet and then recommend more asparagus, less meat or other changes in the individual's eating habits.

"We do this with an eye toward the cost," she said. "Many people eat more meat than they need, so we tell them to cut down and spend their money on other less expensive foods they need. When people are short on Vitamin C, we'll often tell them to eat more cabbage because it's a cheap source of Vitamin C."

She said the computer's calculations are based on recommended daily intakes of a dozen nutrients, taking into account the person's age and sex.

Mrs. Johnson said the program is aimed primarily at university research, but has been opened to the public.

A LOVELIER YOU Good Talk Based On Topical Ideas

It is thought that conversation reveals three kinds of people: Those who talk about ideas, those who talk about "things," and those who talk about people.

The woman who belongs to the first group is well on her way to being a good conversationalist. You enjoy her company whether her subjects are close to home or of international import — new theories on child education, lets say, or the trends for keeping world peace. If she is articulate and has a light approach, she'll hold your willing attention.

People who talk about things — worldly possessions — become bores after a short time. Who cares how much Mr. X paid for his greenhouse, or Mrs. X for her new ring? When the things belong to the speaker, such talk becomes embarrassing.

But the woman who only tells tales about other women had better watch out. There is a very thin wall between discussing people and gossiping. The words "I heard" indicate an overactivity of the ears and an underactivity of the mind.

The accomplished conversationalist is never shallow. Her interests are genuine and wide. She never talks a subject to death. Too, she is aware of the other side of the conversational coin, and lends her ear ungrudgingly.

Let's give thanks for good talk. And let's talk good talk.

Strawberries with marmalade cream is a recipe from Victorian England. To make 6 servings, beat together until smooth 1 package (8-ounce) softened cream cheese and 1/2 cup whipping cream, not whipped. Stir in 1/2 cup bitter orange marmalade. Chill. Serve with 1 quart fresh strawberries, washed, hulled and sliced.

Coconut Fruit

For a fresh-tasting dessert, combine orange segments, sliced bananas and pineapple chunks. Serve chilled with the combined juice of the fruits and sprinkled with flaked coconut. You might add a few sliced almonds to top it off.

WINTER WONDERLAND — The snow-frosted winter wonderland at Mount Revelstoke National Park in British Columbia looks like an illustrator's dream for a Christmas card; the scene, however, is quite real.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

School Finance Issue Is Back

(EDITORS: Three years after Demetrio Rodriguez of San Antonio won a federal court decision that Texas' school finance system discriminates against poor communities, the legislature appears ready to tackle the problem. This, the second in a series of pre-legislative stories, examines the issues and prospects.)

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Like an unwanted dog that can't be chased away, the school finance issue is yapping at the legislature's door.

This time that starving hound will get fed, legislative leaders predict. Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker-apparent Bill Clayton all say they are committed to the elimination of inequities in the state school aid system and to beefing up school district budgets with more state tax dollars.

Timing, details and competition from other state programs for available dollars — starting off with a $1 billion surplus — are the stumbling blocks that could overwhelm these good intentions.

The Foundation School Program. The FSP prescribes how much money must be spent on various items, such as teacher salaries, to give children a minimum "foundation" education. It also lays out an extraordinarily complex formula for deciding state and local shares of the cost of the program in each district.

A committee headed by Leon Jaworski, who later became special Watergate prosecutor, found the system inherently unfair, but its recommendations died in the 1969 legislature.

In 1973, another push was made for school finance reform because of a federal court ruling that the FSP unconstitutional, discriminating against children in poor districts.

school district's wealth, and it includes such irrelevances as payroll, agricultural returns and number of pupils.

"The economic index is the biggest villain of all," said Rep. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale, whom Clayton is expected to replace as chairman of the House Education Committee.

The governor's education office, the State Board of Education, the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, the present House Education Committee and the TSTA all have urged abandonment of the economic index.

In its place, they say, should be a single measurement of a district's ability to pay for Foundation School Program expenses: actual market value of taxable real estate.

Real estate, the argument goes, is the source of all school district taxes and is the only accurate index of financial strength or weakness. State aid makes up the difference between foundation program costs and taxing ability. Clayton, Hobby, Mauzy and Kubiak all said they expect the legislature to adopt the market value approach.

Differences begin to emerge when talking about raising the level of state expenditures on the foundation program.

It is probable that the legislature will quickly pass an emergency bill funneling $80 million into the financially strapped school districts shortly after it convenes.

After that, the schools will be vying with the other state agencies for their share of the treasury surplus and future revenue.

The governor's plan, using a "weighted pupil" method for determining expenditures, would boost state spending by $600 million over the next two years. The State Board of Education, mainly increasing present program allocations, would cost $495 million. The Texas State Teachers Association, seeking large teacher pay raises, has offered a plan that would cost $2 billion.

Both Mauzy and Clayton, recognizing that state agency pressure for more money will be strong, say they want the school finance bill passed ahead of the general appropriation bill.

"It is imperative to pass a school finance bill before the appropriation bill," Clayton said.

Sam Anderson To Get Honor

S. M. (Sam) Anderson, former superintendent of Big Spring ISD, will receive an honorary life membership in the Texas Association of School Administrators Wednesday. Anderson retired on June 30, 1974 after 42 years of service to the education profession.

A total of 64 recently retired Texas educators are being presented honorary life memberships by TASA President J. D. Carlisle at the opening session of the Texas Education Agency's School Administrators Advisory Conference in Austin, Jan. 8.

State's Violent Death Toll Escalates To 18

By The Associated Press

Major league baseball star Don Wilson, who pitched for the Houston Astros in the National League, was among persons who met violent death in Texas during the weekend.

Wilson and his son Alexander, 5, were found dead Sunday in their Houston home, which officers said was filled with automobile exhaust fumes. Mrs. Wilson, who suffered a broken jaw, and her daughter Denise, 9, were taken to a hospital and attendants said both suffered from inhaling carbon monoxide. Verdicts on the causes of death were withheld pending autopsy reports.

Altogether there were reports of 18 violent deaths between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday, also including eight in traffic, six from gunfire and one drowning.

These were among the other victims:

Police Chief Charlie Mitchell said one of his officers at Harker Heights, near Killeen, shot and killed Ascencio Compoz Delgado early Sunday after Delgado threatened policemen with a knife at a bar.

Donald Wayne Adams, 22, of Houston died Sunday when his pickup truck plunged off a highway overpass.

Police said Feroi Rodgers Chandler, 73, of Groveton died Sunday when the car she was driving collided with a van about a mile north of Groveton.

Edward Bazan of Brownsville drowned Sunday in the Rio Grande about 12 miles south of Brownsville. An employee in the U.S. Agriculture Department's tick eradication program, Bazan was helping a friend check livestock and drowned when he tried to retrieve an animal that had gone into the river.

The body of John E. Sledge, 34, was found about a block from a Dallas police substation early Saturday. Police said a man later admitted shooting Sledge during an argument at the suspect's house and Sledge tried to make his way home but collapsed.

Arlie W. Boone, 54, was killed Saturday and another man was wounded in a shooting at a Fort Worth residence. Richard Thomas Boone Jr., 56, suffered a shotgun wound in his shoulder. Police held another man for questioning.

Four persons were killed Saturday in three separate collisions in Houston. A three-car accident on the Southwest Freeway resulted in the death of Travis Guehl, 18, of Houston. Juan Gamez of Houston died when his car hit a curb, crashed through a bridge railing and fell 60 feet into a bayou. A collision on a city street killed two Pete Galvin and David Apprecio, both 17.

Beverly Jasper of Houston was killed in a flaming two-car crash in the suburb of Pasadena.

Antonio Recendez Leija Jr., 42, was shot and killed late Saturday night at a lounge in Temple. Three other persons were wounded. Police held a suspect without immediate charge.

Steelers Desire To Alter History

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — If there is one play both Minnesota and Pittsburgh would like to see next Sunday, it's a reverse.

The Vikings would like to see a reverse of their fortunes in the Super Bowl and the Steelers are hoping for a change in history.

As the teams got their first looks today at the practice facilities they'll be using as the prelude to the National Football League championship game at Tulane Stadium, both had to be thinking back a bit as well as looking ahead.

Grant's first setback came right here five years ago, when the Kansas City Chiefs upset the Vikings 23-7. The other was last year's 24-7 loss to the Dolphins.

The Steelers, meanwhile, have never lost an NFL championship game — but that's because they have never played one. It's their first shot at all the marbles in 42 years.

And, like the Vikings, they'll be trying to alter a bit of Super Bowl history, mainly that first time entries can't cut it against teams that have been there before.

They've played here four times and have managed only a split, including the 28-7 victory this year.

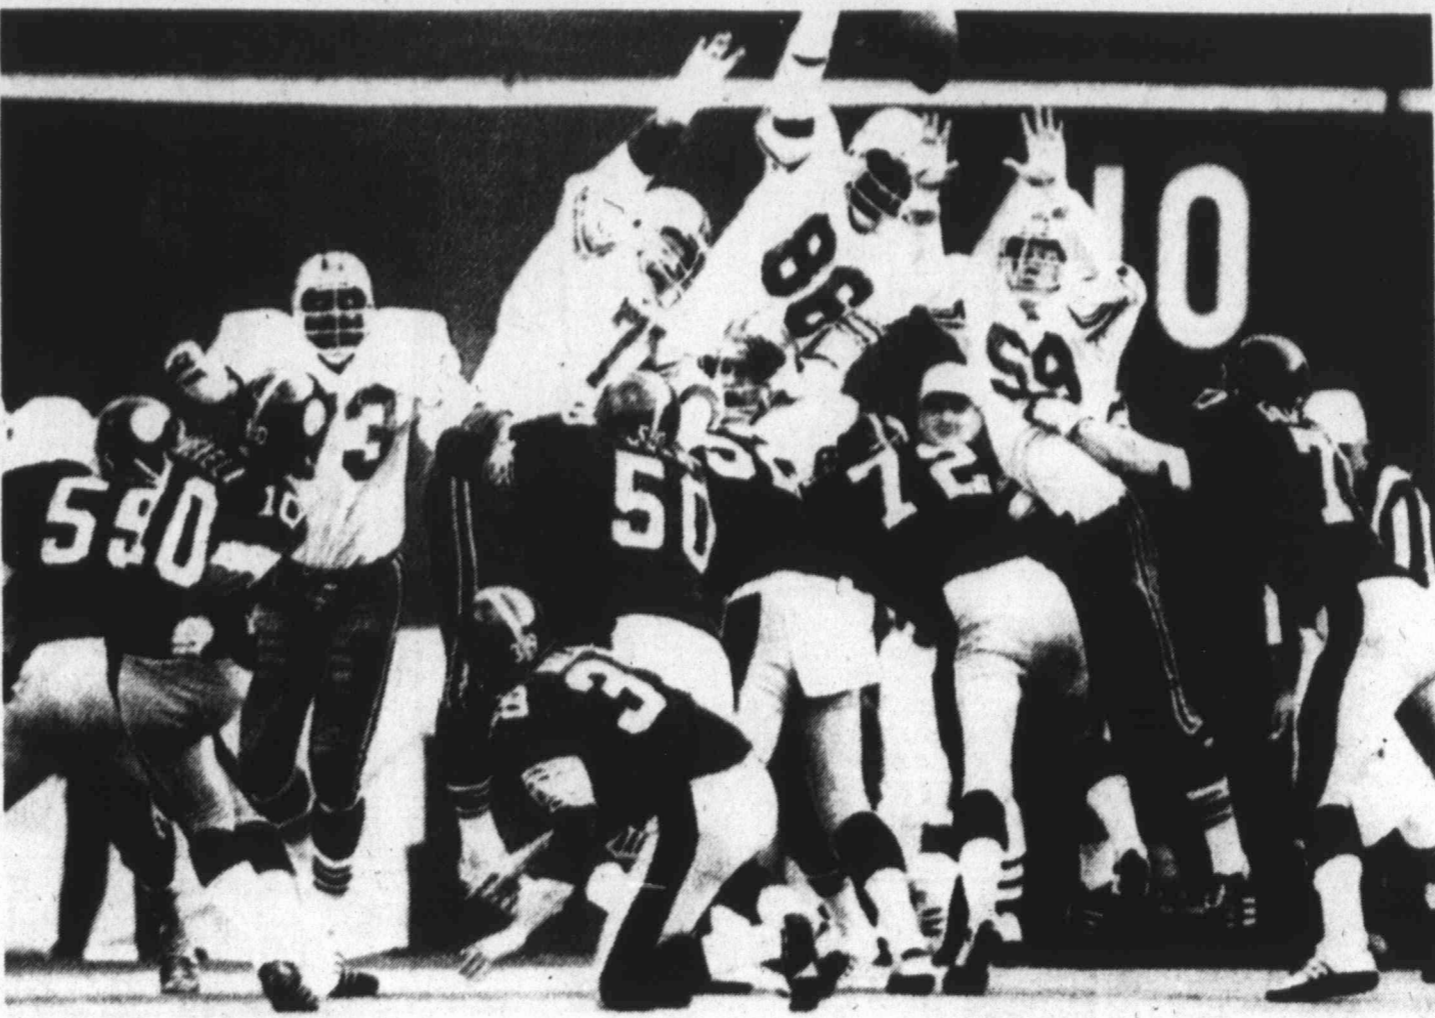

Bulldogs Lose Tourney Pair

BIG LAKE — Coahoma lost out to Wall, 55-52, to take home fourth place in the Big Lake Tournament here Saturday night.

With Crane's Lewis pouring in 34 points, the Golden Crane upended the Bulldogs, 87-73, in Saturday afternoon semifinal action. Coahoma's Don Kelso scored 17 points.

Keith Stone and Jody Bennet led Bulldog scorers in the wall contest, banging in 14 points each. Wall's Dierschke had 22 points. Coahoma stands over-all for the season, 16-4.

Vacancy Needs Filling

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least four candidates have been interviewed for the Vanderbilt head coaching berth left vacant by Coach Steve Sloan's sudden move to Texas Tech last week.

Commodore's athletic director Clay Stapleton, here for the NCAA's 69th annual convention, confirmed that Memphis State's Fred Pancoast and Richard Williamson, backfield coach at Arkansas, and present Vanderbilt defensive coordinator Bill Parcels were among those interviewed.

Although he declined to name any others, a fourth prospective candidate was believed to be Tommy Owens, longtime prep coach at Montgomery Bell Academy who was on the Vanderbilt staff when Bill Pace left two years ago.

SWC REPORT A&M Tough On Boards

Southern Methodist Coach Bob Prewitt took time out from his problems—and it may be a long season for the Mustangs if their star center doesn't win an appeal to regain playing status from the NCAA—to seize up the other Southwest Conference basketball teams and Prewitt says it should be a wild ride.

"Texas A&M, Texas Tech, Texas and Arkansas are improving every week," Prewitt said. "I can't see either A&M or Tech losing as many as four games in the conference race."

"And you can't count Texas out and Arkansas is improved," Prewitt said.

The Aggies are tough on the boards but Tech probably has the best balance in the league. The other teams are capable of causing trouble but it's hard to see TCU, Baylor, Rice or my team winning the title. We just don't have any depth without IRA."

Terrell, who admitted he accepted a small amount of money, has been ruled ineligible by a three-man NCAA committee. SMU will take the case before the full NCAA board in Washington, D.C. this week.

Dale Brown's Louisiana State basketball team lost a battle and eventually lost the war to Kentucky.

But like Douglas MacArthur, he promises to return. "There will be a day when I shall return with a team that will beat Kentucky in Lexington," the LSU coach said Saturday night after his troops were routed 115-80 by the Southeastern Conference's big guns.

Wilson, Son Found Dead

HOUSTON (AP) — Autopsy reports were expected today on the bodies of Houston Astros pitcher Don Wilson and his 5-year-old son, Alexander, both found in their carbon monoxide filled home Sunday.

Wilson, 29, preparing to start his 10th season with the Astros, was found slumped over in his car in the attached garage of his fashionable home in the city's southwest section.

Young Alexander was found in a bedroom above the garage. Mrs. Wilson was listed in fair condition at a hospital with injuries that included a broken left jaw.

The Wilson's 9-year-old daughter Denise, was in critical condition at a hospital and remained in a coma late Sunday night. The tragedy started unfolding early Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Wilson phoned the fire department.

Fire department ambulance service spokesman Jack Mac-Gillis said a woman called saying she could not wake up her children and her husband was in the car. He said the call came in at 1:24 p.m. CST.

Juvenile officer T. R. Trinkle said he talked to Mrs. Wilson at the hospital but she was under sedation.

He quoted her as saying she awoke after hearing a car motor running and went to check on the children. She said the children "sounded like they were crying in their sleep."

Trinkle quoted her as saying she picked up the boy and took him to the master bedroom and shut the doors to both the daughter's bedroom and the master bedroom. She said she could not go back to sleep because the car motor was still running so she went to check and found her husband.

She said she called a registered nurse friend who told her to check for a pulse. She said she did not know how she suffered the broken jaw.

Authorities said the garage and house were filled with the odor of exhaust fumes and hospital attendants said Mrs. Wilson and her daughter had inhaled carbon monoxide. The assistant Harris County medical examiner, G. Sheldon Green, declined, however, to speculate on the cause of death.

"It was a terrible shock," Astros General Manager Spec Richardson said. "The whole organization is very sorry over this tragedy."

Another Astros pitcher, Dave Roberts, watey eyed in the hospital lobby waiting to visit Mrs. Wilson. "I couldn't believe it, he said. "I had everything going for him. He had it all together."

Wilson tailed off to an 11-13 record and a 3.07 earned run average last year, but he pitched two no hitters in his career and narrowly missed a third last September when Manager Preston Gomez pulled him after eight hitless innings.

Wilson's wife said she could not go back to sleep because the car motor was still running so she went to check and found her husband.

NCAA Studies Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — An effort to eliminate the abuses of recruiting high school athletes highlights the 69th annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association which officially gets underway today.

The some 800 delegates face a package of 131 proposals which, in addition to recruiting reform, deal with the collegiate battle against inflation.

The recruiting proposals would, among other things, prohibit a college from contacting a student-athlete off campus until after his junior year and ban arrangements for summer jobs before enrollment in college.

Another proposal would prohibit arrangements for loans for athletes while one other would restrict schools to a maximum of three in-person, off-campus contacts with an athlete during his high school years.

NCAA officials deny the many recruiting measures being proposed to the convention are a result of last year's wooing of Moses Malone, the Petersburg, Va., high school basketball sensation who agreed to attend Maryland but later turned pro with the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association.

Jones, Attles Named

NEW YORK (AP) — K.C. Jones of the Washington Bullets and Al Attles of the Golden State Warriors were officially named today as the coaches for the East and West Conference teams, respectively, in the National Basketball Association's All-Star Game Jan. 14 at Phoenix.

They are the first blacks ever to coach in the NBA's mid-season contest.

They were selected because their teams had the highest winning percentages in their conferences through games of Sunday. The Bullets, Central Division leaders, had the best record in the Eastern Conference with a 26-12 mark for a .684 percentage, while the Warriors, Pacific Division frontrunners, topped the Western Conference with a 24-12 record for .667.

This will be the first All-Star appearances — either as coach or player — for Jones and Attles, both former standout guards in the NBA. Jones, now in his second season as Bullets coach, played nine years with the Boston Celtics, and Attles, coaching the Warriors for the sixth season, played 11 seasons with the same franchise when it was in Philadelphia and San Francisco.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Former catcher Mike Ryan has been named manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates' Charleston, S.C., baseball farm club in the Class A Western Carolinas League.

Ryan was released as a player by the Pirates after last season, in which he saw only limited action because of a back ailment.

He came to the Pirates last January in a trade from Philadelphia, where he had spent six seasons. He had previously played with the Boston Red Sox.

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots have signed on two former Green Bay Packers staff members as assistant coaches for the National Football League squad.

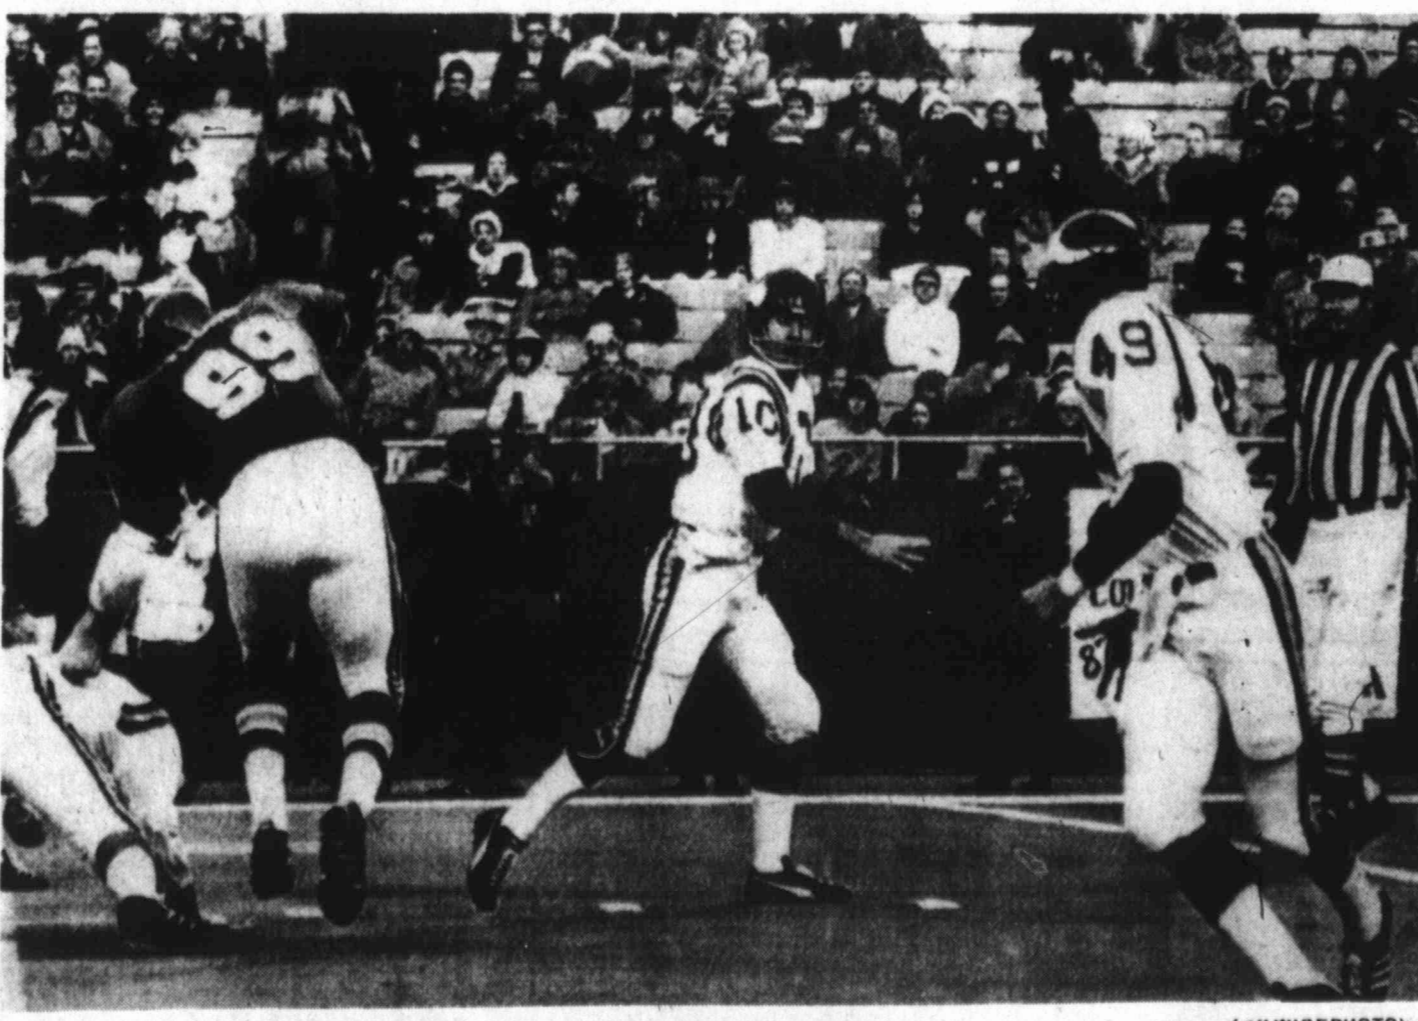

John Polonchek, 47, and Rollie Dotsch, 41, both one-time Green Bay assistant coaches, were released by the Packers with the departure of Dan Devine to Notre Dame.

Polonchek will serve as quarterback coach and Dotsch will work with linebackers.

BOSTON (AP) — Whitey Ford, a member of the Hall of Fame who won 236 games for the New York Yankees before becoming the team's pitching coach, has won the 17th annual Judge Emile Fuchs Memorial Award.

The award is given by the Boston Baseball Writers for meritorious service to baseball. Ford will be honored by the writers at their 36th annual dinner Jan. 23.

NEW YORK (AP) — A Rhode Island franchise in the American Soccer League has been awarded to George Duffy, a veteran sports executive in Providence, R.I. Duffy, general manager of the Rhode Island Oceaners as they won the ASL championship last year, said Saturday he paid $25,000 for the franchise.

WITH HIS EYE CLOSED — Looks like Fran Tarkenton's eyes were closed as he got off pass to teammate Ed Marinaro (49) in a game this past season. The Minnesota Vikings quarterback expects to see action when the Vikings meet the Pittsburgh Steelers in the Super Bowl Sunday in New Orleans.

South Over North

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Tampa quarterback Freddie Solomon gave up a trip to the Hula Bowl in Hawaii to play one last time before the hometown crowd in the All-America Bowl football game. And he's glad he did.

"The people of Tampa wanted me to play in this game," Solomon said Sunday after running for two touchdowns and passing for another to lead the South to a 28-22 victory over the North. "I felt like I owed it to them."

Solomon, named the South's most valuable player, connected on all three of his passes for 66 yards and gained 45 yards on 11 rushing attempts.

It was Solomon's 26-yard scoring pass to Florida's Lee McGriff that won the game after a flurry of scoring in the final 75 seconds.

With the score tied at 14-14, Solomon tallied on an eight-yard run, then passed to McGriff for a two-point conversion.

Vet Determined To Get Medals

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—The Vietnam War never really ended for Michael J. Davis, who wants the Army to return the medals it once awarded him.

Davis began hitchhiking from Spokane to the Pentagon last week, carrying in a red, white and blue knapsack the 10 pounds of correspondence accumulated since he began writing to the Army five years ago.

The medals, while important to Davis, are but a small part of the ton of his possessions stored in an Army warehouse in Bangkok, the capital of Thailand. There also are a deactivated sub-machinegun, a huge ceramic Vietnamese water urn, aircraft mechanic's tools and much else.

The Thai government claims Davis owes it $183,922 baht—$191.51 dollars.

The property that the Thai government wants to auction for claimed storage charges during an earlier customs dispute includes a redwood walking stick. Davis says the stick was whittled by his great grandfather, who broke his foot during the 1849 California gold rush.

"Since I was shot in the foot in Vietnam and must occasionally walk with a cane, I could use this family heirloom," Davis said.

Discharge papers for the highly decorated veteran show that Davis, 31, is considered by the Army to be 30 per cent disabled due to a bullet wound in the foot. He received the wound during the 1968 Tet offensive in Bien Hoa.

When he received the Distinguished Flying Cross, one of his 17 decorations, the Army noted he flew a helicopter in "repeated low level passes into withering automatic weapons fire to pinpoint enemy positions" during an offensive on Saigon.

Davis' second war, he said, began after he returned to his home in Austin, Tex., five years ago. He claims the Army told him his belongings could be shipped without duty to Bangkok, where he hoped to get a job as an aircraft mechanic.

But when he arrived, the Thai government imposed a $9,000 customs charge. Davis said he couldn't get work without his tools. He blames the charge on negligent misinterpretation of regulations by the Army.

Gilbreath Retires

Hoyt Gilbreath, operator at the Martin County pump station, has become the first regular retiree of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

He was honored last week by his colleagues at the district headquarters here and was presented a watch by the board of directors as a memento of his retirement.

Mr. Gilbreath began his service with the district in 1957, serving as pumper at the McWhorter station on the Howard-Martin line until that station was automated, when he transferred to the station in the Martin County well field.

He will continue to make his home in Stanton, where he has one son, Ronnie Gilbreath.

NOT EXACTLY ROLLING IN CLOVER — Strongman Walter Cornelius, 54, a 224-pound, $57 dollar-a-week swimming pool attendant in Peterborough, England, digs into a dish of clover and grass Friday. American Family Falling Apart, Author Contends

NEW YORK (AP) — The traditional family is breaking down, and for good reasons, says noted novelist Rona Jaffe.

Author of the best selling novel, "The Best of Everything," Miss Jaffe has now published her eighth book, "Family Secrets." All in a period of 14 years... "which is not bad," she said as she perched on a couch in her Manhattan apartment.

"The actual writing was not long. It was a book that I wanted to do for the last 14 years, but I wasn't ready because I didn't have the right perspective to write about all the relationships and all the different people. I was also too young and too involved in my own interpretations of things. Now seemed like the right time because I felt I had the compassion and the understanding to look at people from all sides," she says.

Smiling broadly over the fact that this, her "latest," is also being considered for a movie, Miss Jaffe goes right to the point when expressing her views on the modern family in America.

"What I wanted to do was to write about the American family and I wanted to show why the family is falling apart, or at least falling into the situation that it has, which is different from what it used to be," she says, explaining why "Family Secrets" includes four generations and spans over 70 years.

"This is the first time I have written on a subject which spans a great deal of time. It has the present, but I wanted to show why certain characters developed in a particular way. And I wanted to start with the founding father."

The idea, she said, was to show how an adventurous young man came to America and because of his "wanderlust" became rich and successful.

"I thought it interesting that all these pioneers who had such a need to find new frontiers later proceeded to settle down and squelch their children. To think they were doing the best by them by forcing them in the mold of 'You will go into my business,' or 'You will go to this college and study what I want you to study,' and 'You will marry whom I want you to marry.' What they forgot is that if they hadn't been mavericks, we would all still be living in poverty back where they came from," she says.

Miss Jaffe, who is decidedly single, beams when she speaks about "today."

"I think women's lib is terrific," she declares. "In the old days, I don't mean the 1900s, I mean in the '50s when I got out of college and everybody was trying to get a husband, I used to sit around with my girl friends and we used to talk about all the guys we knew. About what rats they were because they wouldn't marry us, or call us or whatever it was. We never used our minds to discuss the important interesting things that we knew. We could have had such an interesting time. And today that's all changed," she said.

Compaing the '50s to today, Miss Jaffe feels channels are opening up for women in a positive way. She no longer sees women having to give up their "dreams" when they get married, nor men having to give up their goals in order to support a wife and children.

Sweetwater Man Is Found Dead

SWEETWATER — Dwight Evan Cooper, 58, a Sweetwater road construction worker, was found dead in his car near Longworth about 3:30 p.m. Friday.

Fisher County Sheriff's officers are investigating the death.

Born Dec. 5, 1916, in Roby, he married Emma Lee Hancock June 10, 1940, in Roby. They moved to Sweetwater in 1940. He was a service station attendant for several years.

Survivors are his wife; three daughters, Mrs. Raymond Tidwell of Santa Anna, Calif., and Mrs. Lester Halsey and Mrs. Troy Johnson, bot of Sweetwater; two sons, Airman I.C. Jimmy Cooper of Elsworth, S.D. and Billy of Sweetwater; his mother, Mrs. Fannie Cooper of Arnett, Okla.; two sisters, Mrs. Matthew Beers of Canton, Okla., and Mrs. Chester Beagle of Vega; two brothers, John B. Cooper of Dunca, Okla., and the Rev. Art Cooper of Salem, Ore.; and 10 grandchildren.

Miss Jaffe picked March 1902 to begin her book by going through old New York Times editions on microfilm in the library. Finding that there had been a heavy rain storm during that time, she thought it a good opening for her novel.

"I found the project exciting because I'm interested in the past and the changes in social attitudes this country is going through. I feel we should use our older people more for remembering history as it was really lived," she says. "Right now, I'm old enough to be a part of history. When someone says 'Pearl Harbor,' I can say 'I remember that,' which is nice because it brings back memories and it all comes alive for you again when you remember."

'Why Do People Keep Smoking?'

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A cancer researcher at Duke University said Saturday that antismoking campaigns have failed and the best way to curb lung cancer may be to reduce the level of cancer-causing agents in cigarettes.

"I don't understand why people continue to do this," said Dr. W. W. Shingleton, director of the university's comprehensive cancer center. "That's one of the great mysteries to me."

After release of the 1964 Surgeon General's report, which linked smoking to lung cancer, Shingleton said he thought smoking would decrease, especially among the young.

"I recall that there was some decline in the number soon after the report," he said in an interview. "This trend has turned the corner and now we have come up to the pre-surgeon general's report level."

He said about one in four Americans will develop some form of cancer in their lifetimes.

Last August, the National Clearing House for Smoking and Health released a report showing that the percentage of girls ages 12-18 who said they smoked regularly jumped from 8.4 in 1968 to 15.3 in 1974.

During the same period, the percent of boys of the same age who said they smoked increased from 14.7 to 15.8, the report said.

Since smokers seem reluctant to give up their cigarettes, Shingleton said he favored legislation to establish permissible levels of tars in cigarettes. A similar law has been enacted in Canada, he said.

The National Cancer Advisory Board has recommended to President Ford that he ask the cigarette companies to reduce their tar and nicotine levels voluntarily. In the past, cigarette companies have resisted voluntary reductions.

"The direction we're now going is to identify what the carcinogenic substance is and try to reduce that substance to make cigarettes safer," he said.

Shingleton said there has been a significant increase in the number of women developing lung cancer, especially those types identified with heavy smokers.
