Covered Up $20,000 Phone Bill?

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - A former Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. division manager at Austin says payments ranging from babysitting for the boss' granddaughter to retiring a politician's $20,000 phone bill have been regularly covered up in financial reports.

Bill Holman disclosed several such telephone company expenditures in a tape with ousted Bell executive James H. Ashley.

This nation no longer has the big agriculture sur- national Development pluses of the past, but there are about 150,000 tons of food which could be given to needy nations and probably should be.

According to James J. Burns of the U.S. Civil Defense Preparedness Agency, the vast amount of food stockpiled as a precaution against nuclear attack will spoil unless it is used in the next few years. The anticipated "shelf-life" of five years already has been exceeded, but much of the food still is good.

Burns said nutrition experts have estimated the amount of food still in storage could feed about 10 million people for 60 days. It is stored in fallout shelters maintained by cities throughout the country.

Last fall 19 cities contributed about 5 million tons of whole wheat crackers to Bangladesh and countries in Africa and South America. About 8 per cent of the original 165,000 tons stockpiled has been distributed, primarily through CARE and the Agency for Inter-

In view of the probable spoilage of the food, it would make sense for the U.S. to contribute the stockpile to needy countries. If the government and the American people still believe food should be stockpiled against the threat of a nuclear attack, then regular replacement of the older stock should be implemented. Food should not be wasted in today's world.

There seems to be no hope for me. I try being pleasant and attractive, but to no avail. I'm 27, divorced and very lonely. I approach life timidly and afraid — afraid of being hurt again. The number of people like you around the country is increasing rapidly. Many churches I know are forming "singles" groups to minister to those with such special needs.

Now even though you said, "Religion is out," I must tell you that faith provides the only remedy I know. First, remind yourself constantly that you are loved - by Christ. God's Spirit reaches out in a special way to the lonely, the hurt and the ostracized. See John 8:1-11.

Secondly, as a Christian, you have tremendous resources at your disposal. You have the Scripture to encourage you, you have the power of God to chase self-pity and discouragement, and you have the Holy Spirit to lead in plans for the future. And prayer will provide the vehicle for you to vent all your feelings.

Thirdly, cultivate a few friends who care for you and can counsel

And finally, have work to do. Live for that daughter of yours, and perhaps get employment outside the home if needed. You'll require you. A Bible believing congregation can provide these. Ask the pastor with the Lord, you'll make it.

stantaneous decision of CIA director William Colby to fire counterintelligence chief James Angleton the moment Angleton came under fire from the New York Times caused consternation and worry about its impact on the Central Intelligence Agency at the highest levels of the Ford administration.

CONTRARY TO rumors, Colby's abrupt ouster of Angleton was strictly his decision. Neither President Ford nor Secretary of State Henry Kissinger played the slightest role.

Indeed, there was shock in high government circles outside the CIA at the implications of Colby's quick decision. Even if the charges against Angleton's use of CIA's counterintelligence section for internal security purposes prove accurate, they fear Angleton's ouster could further corrode morale inside the embattled CIA. The three top Angleton aides who quit in protest to his sacking provide some confirmation.

PRESIDENT FORD'S high command is worried by the potential disaster to U.S. intelligence capability and damage to policymaking if the CIA's men believe they will be sacrificed to public demands for blood.

Whatever sin the secretive, supersuspicious Angleton may have committed, his summary dismissal even before judicious investigation of the charges against him may create just such a climate of fear inside CIA, Ford aides say.

"Every secret in the agency may be up for grabs by the media," they claim. "If they see a witchhunt coming they may want to save their own skins by quitting and spilling the beans.

THAT PARTIALLY explains the pronounced conservative establishment bias on the President's blueribbon commission to investigate a conservative mold to reassure the CIA that no witchhunt is in store.

A footnote: former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, a member of the blue-ribbon panel, was typically the very first to submit a request for full travel and expense allowances for the staff he wants to bring with him to Washington. As the favorite campaigner for conservative Republicans, Reagan's travel bills for himself and his large entourage consistently left his hosts bug-eyed.

IF VICE PRESIDENT Nelson Rockefeller has his way, the two top staff jobs on the President's Domestic Council will be filled by two senior Rockefeller aides during his last term as governor of New York: James Cannon, his agent and lobbyist in Washington, and Richard L. Dunham, state budget director.

President Ford has not yet said yes, but is expected to go along. THE DOMESTIC Council rises in importance because the President intends to limit the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), under incoming director James Lynn, strictly to budget matters. That would end the pervasive control over policy built up by lameduck OMB director Roy Ash. If Mr. Ford sticks to that, Rockefeller could emerge with power over domestic policy as head of the Domestic Council equal to Henry Kissinger's power over foreign policy as head of the National Security Council.

PRESIDENTIAL however, made one strategic change in Rockefeller's early draft of the forthcoming executive order making Rockefeller vice chairman the Domestic Council. The change, which may forebode a certain White House wariness over Rockefeller's potential power, would prevent the Vice President from calling meetings of the Domestic Council. Instead, only the President can call the council into session.

Just before Christmas, crusty old president George Meany of the AFL-CIO added his formerly favorite politician, Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, to the lengthening list of the agency. It was deliberately set in bread-and-butter Democratic liberals he would like to take into the

The total impact really cannot be measured yet. To the extent that higher energy prices discourage frivolous use of energy there'll probably be a gain. But most energy usage is considered essential and probably can't be cut much.

If the program spurs development of domestic supplies it also will be a plus. But a disquieting factor is the cost of the Ford proposals. A budget deficit of $30 billion is possible for fiscal 1975, to end this June, and an even larger deficit is possible in the following Plastic cards were being mailed Tuesday to the last of about 10,039 registered to vote in Howard County, Mrs. Zirah L. Bednar, county tax collector, said.

Of this number, about 1,000 cards were returned by the post office to the county tax office.

In addition, there are about 6,221 who have failed to vote for several years. Mrs. Bednar said notification of the need for renewal was mailed to these but the Post Office was unable to deliver about 1,000 notices.

Returned for renewal of voter registration were 1,000 applications. The new plastic cards, which replace old paper certificates, will be mailed to those seeking

IN BIG SPRING, TEXAS

You may be using a ton of coal a year without even knowing it.

The reason you don't know you're using this coal is because it comes to you in the form of

We now have one power plant that uses Texas lignite coal. It accounts for about 15% of our total generation. We figure it uses an average of about one ton of coal annually for each residential customer.

Two other lignite plants are under construction. By 1980, when almost half of the electricity we generate will be with lignite, you may be using three to four tons of coal a year. We're using lignite because new supplies of natural gas and oil - our traditional fuels - are hard to get and increasingly expensive. The higher costs of building power plants that use lignite, together with continuing inflation, are pushing the cost of producing electricity up. But the lignite fuel is more economical. It will help us keep the price of electricity from increasing as much as it would if we tried to depend on new supplies of natural gas and oil.

One other big advantage of lignite is that it isn't being used extensively for anything other than the generation of electricity. We're continuing the orderly development of our power system so that you'll continue having the electricity you need.

One of the ways we're doing it is by using a fuel that you can't use yourself.

FISTICUFF FUN — Muhammad Ali, left, gags it up with former champ Carmine Basilio Tuesday as the two displayed the 1974 Hickok Professional Athlete of the Year award just presented to Ali. Basilio won the award in 1957. Answering questions at a news conference that followed, Ali said that Chuck Wepner deserves the chance at the title that Ali is scheduled to give him in March. But Ali added: "If I'm like I should be, Wepner has no possibility to win."

Ali Says Wepner Deserves 'Shot'

NEW YORK (AP) -Muhammad Ali says Chuck Wepner, a journeyman heavyweight who makes more money selling liquor than in the ring, deserves the shot at the heavyweight championship Ali scheduled to give him in Ali also said Tuesday as he received the Hickok Professional Athlete of the Year Award for 1974, a year in which he beat Joe Frazier and regained the title from George Foreman: "If I'm like I should be, he (Wepner) has no possibility to win.'

This immediately brought up the question of whether the public will buy a fight, even an Ali fight, against an unranked opponent who has been called the "Bayonne Bleeder" because of his reputation as a bleeder.

"Go to the promoter and ask him why he put up the $1.5 million," replied Ali.

The bidding shown occurred when Norway sat North-South. North's two club response was artificial, requesting South to describe his hand further. The two heart rebid showed a sixcard suit with a minimum opening bid. North's bid of three hearts was invitational, and South elected to go on to game. The defenders took two diamond tricks and East then shifted to the king of clubs. Though declarer guessed the spade position, finessing the ten, he still had to lose a trick in each black suit in addition to two diamonds for one down. If there is any flaw in point count valuation, it is that the 4-3-2-1 count tends to undervalue aces and kings and inflate the value of queens and jacks. On most hands this does not matter, as the two tend to balance out. However, when a hand consists predominantly of queens and jacks, the point count is overvalued. This was certainly the case here, where no king with three queens and three jacks. Thus, South would have been wise to devalue his hand and pass three hearts.

Not that his decision made the points raised in the book much of a difference in this is that point count should particular match. When the serve as a guide to accurate hand was replayed, the bidding, and that players Swedish South also reached should beware of letting four hearts, though on a difpoint count become master ferent auction. At this table instead of servant. This West elected to make the principle was overlooked by gambling lead of the king of both the Norwegian and spades, with disastrous con-Swedish South players on sequences. Declarer took the this hand from their match ace, drew trumps and at the recent European finessed the ten of spades, Championships, played in thus limiting his losers to two diamonds and a club.
