

Parade Underscores Farmers' Bid For Better Public Image

HONDO, Tex. (AP) — Farmers must plant their seeds at the grassroots level if they are to grow more understanding with urban consumers, a farm wife seeking a better public image for agriculture says.

Alice Wiemers, whose idea became a parade of combines and tractors through this South Central Texas town's streets Monday, said such local programs are the key.

Price tags dangled from some of the farm equipment as it snaked through the town, led by an Air Force color guard and the high school band.

LITTLE BAD PUBLICITY

"We feel that we have a little bad publicity, to those who don't understand, because they see the high price of food in the market and they think the producer is getting it," she said.

Mrs. Wiemers said she disagreed with such tactics as cattle kills, milk dumpings and destroying of chicks and said a more positive effort is needed.

"We want the good word to go out.

And we need help, we really need help and we want the understanding of the consumer," she said.

"Individual farmers must reach out and tell the consumers. He can tell his story—how hard it is—but not complain," she added.

Mrs. Wiemers said she set up the demonstration after hearing of such affairs at a farm women's forum in Milwaukee, Wis., earlier this month.

"We need people everywhere doing this," she said. "We feel that we must let the urban consumer...know how much the entire economy of America depends on agriculture such as it has been, a free enterprise," she said.

SHARING THE FOOD DOLLAR

Farmers can't "just produce cheap food so everyone else can have cheap food and still make a living for ourselves," she added.

"This is an awareness parade—an awareness endeavor," she said after the lines of equipment had dispersed to various points in town where displays were set up.

Mrs. Wiemers, whose husband raises grain and beef north of Hondo, added that consumers should know "that the reason they have the abundance of quality food is because of this profit-motivated type of agriculture that we have."

"It is not the producer who is making the money. I don't know that anybody is getting rich at it," she said. "It is just the way that we're accustomed to having things—in convenient packages—that is costing us."

She said handlers, pickers and transportation workers are among those sharing in the food dollar.

King Faisal, Staunch Friend Of U.S., Slain

FAISAL SLAIN — King Faisal of Saudi Arabia was shot and killed today by a nephew, radio Riyadh reported.

NEW KING — This is an official portrait, taken in May, 1974, of Crown Prince Khaled Ibn Abdul Aziz, who was proclaimed king of Saudi Arabia to succeed his assassinated brother, King Faisal, according to Riyadh radio.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, a staunch friend of the United States and at the same time a bankroller of Arab wars against Israel, was assassinated today by a "mentally deranged" nephew, the official Saudi radio announced.

His 62-year-old brother, Crown Prince Khaled Ibn Abdul Aziz, was proclaimed king of the oil-rich nation a few hours later.

GUNSHOT

The gunshot slaying further clouded the future of the Middle East, following shortly after the collapse of an U.S. effort to find a peace settlement in the area.

The official radio in Riyadh, the Saudi capital, said Faisal's nephew, Prince Faisal Ibn Musaed Ibn Abdul Aziz, pulled a gun and shot the king several times after approaching him to offer salutations on the occasion of Prophet Mohammed's birthday, being celebrated throughout the Moslem world today.

The broadcast added that Faisal died later in a hospital. It did not mention the fate of the nephew.

The Riyadh radio then announced that Prince Khaled had been proclaimed king and that he had named another brother, Prince Fahd, 53, as the new crown prince.

BLOW TO U.S.

Officials in Washington said Faisal, whose age was variously listed as 69 or 70, was a moderating influence in the Arab world and that his death would be a blow to U.S. policy in the Middle East.

An Israeli diplomat in Geneva said: "This will send shockwaves through the world. It may have vast consequences, not only in the Middle East."

The announcement set off repercussions in the world. Oil shares fell and the U.S. dollar dropped in value in London.

The rapid transition of power in Riyadh appeared designed to quell any possible speculation about a power struggle within the large royal family.

Khaled was crown prince and first deputy prime minister under Faisal. Fahd was second deputy prime minister as well as interior minister.

The new Saudi monarch has been in ill health. He underwent open heart surgery in a Cleveland, Ohio, clinic last year.

Because of Khaled's illness, Fahd had been mentioned as a possible successor to Faisal. He is expected to wield considerable power as crown prince.

RELIGIOUS MAN

Faisal had been sending Fahd in his place on important missions abroad.

Faisal was a highly religious man who counseled moderation in the Arab world. But in time of conflict, he poured his nation's oil millions into arms for the Arab war machine.

During the Middle East war of October 1973, Faisal was among the leaders of the Arab oil boycott against the United States and other nations that supported Israel.

Still, he maintained a friendship with the United States and a stiff opposition to communism.

BAD TIME

The assassination came as a jolt to Washington where President Ford had announced just the day before that the United States would review its policy in the Middle East — after years of solid support for Israel.

"My God, it couldn't come at a worse time," one official said.

He referred to the failure by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to arrange a settlement between Egypt and Israel during his most recent round of shuttle diplomacy.

Kissinger had counted on Faisal to maintain an element of stability in the Middle East, since he represented one of the more politically conservative and anti-Communist regimes in the region.

Today's Bright Spot

Financial institutions and bond sales indicate Big Springs saved $105.5 million in 1974, 12 per cent more than the year before.

While a strong friend of the United States, Faisal was at the same time a bitter opponent of what he considered Washington's pro-Israeli stance.

He led the oil embargo by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries—OPEC—against Israel's friends during the Arab-Israeli war of October 1973. The United States, Europe and Asia suffered the most from the embargo and production cuts. Saudi Arabia accounts for the largest amount of oil imported from the Middle East by the United States, some 9 per cent of U.S. imports.

PLAYBOY

Faisal, who ruled since 1964, bankrolled the Arab war effort against Israel with Saudi Arabia's oil billions, and vowed to recover Israeli-occupied territory so he could pray in Jerusalem's Islamic shrines before he died.

Faisal made it clear that he was ready to use his oil for the recovery of war-conquered Arab territories.

The sad-faced Faisal, exercising skillful leadership and a steady hand, saved Saudi Arabia from bankruptcy when he peacefully deposed his brother Saud in 1964.

Saud's irresponsible playboy rule was replaced by stability and an oil boom under Faisal. The vast desert nation on the Arabian peninsula became the biggest oil exporter in the world with the largest monetary reserves. Saudi Arabia currently earns more than $30 billion a year from its oil.

King Faisal believed in building roads, irrigation projects and factories, but on a balanced budget.

He was once described as a "man of Jeffersonian austerity."

Faisal was a far cry from his half-brother, King Saud, whom he succeeded to the throne of his oil-rich country in November 1964. Saud spent freely on trips abroad and once tipped the crew of a ship bringing him to the United States $20,000.

Their father, the legendary King Ibn Saud, left Saud, the oldest of his 40 sons, an income of about $300 million a year. Faisal preferred to have the money used to improve the lot of his six million subjects.

When their father died in 1953, reform-conscious

Faisal began a long rivalry with his brother who ascended to the throne.

RESIGNED

Faisal took over as prime minister in 1958 but resigned two years later because he opposed the king's high living, which he claimed had plunged the nation into a financial crisis.

In 1962, Saud's health began to fail and he asked Faisal to return as premier. The crown prince accepted.

Two years later, Saud handed over the crown to his younger brother and left the country. Saud died in Greece in 1969.

Faisal neither smoked nor drank. An ascetic with ulcers, he lived exclusively on grilled meat, boiled vegetables and stewed fruit.

Though he was entitled to four wives under Moslem law, he is said to have had only one at a time. He last (1964) lived with his third wife, a Turkish educated woman called Ifrah.

The World At-A-Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fear of a new Arab-Israeli war within a year caused President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to order a "total reassessment" of the U.S. policy in the Middle East, administration sources say. The review, disclosed Monday by the White House, will be conducted by the National Security Council and should be completed within three or four weeks. It followed Kissinger's abortive effort to arrange another Egyptian-Israeli settlement, which in turn deflated American influence among the Arabs.

seriously strain the already shaky South Vietnamese economy, Pentagon analysts say. They are concerned that the increased economic strains, coupled with jolting military setbacks in recent weeks, may undermine morale in the South Vietnamese civilian population and armed forces.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration, warning of an economic recession late in this decade because of a lack of electricity, is proposing federal subsidies to spur construction of new electric power facilities. Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, chairman of President Ford's Cabinet-level Energy Policy Council, said any subsidies must be limited and temporary.

BULLETIN

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The United States, using contracted commercial airliners, will begin Thursday an airlift of 10,000 refugees a day from Da Nang, Western diplomats said today.

Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city about 350 miles north of Saigon, has become vulnerable to attack since the North Vietnamese overran two provincial capitals to the south and the Saigon government abandoned Hue 50 miles to the north.

Thousands of refugees have been fleeing to Da Nang, which normally has a population of 500,000.

Sunflower Cropping Studies Authorized

The Agricultural Research Service of the Department of Agriculture has designated the U.S. Experiment Station in Big Spring to participate in studies on sunflower cropping.

Marshall D. Levin, assistant administrator of the program division, advised Cong. Omar Burlison, that the Big Spring station, headed by D. W. (Bill) Fryrear, will share in a three-pronged project.

Sunflowers are being examined as an alternate seed-oil crop, also because they can be planted and matured when this area normally has its optimum moisture conditions. Earlier tests have indicated they may yield far more vegetable oil per acre than cotton.

Part of the study, said Fryrear, had begun. Already, two varieties have been planted to correlate findings here with the Bushland and Vernon stations on best varieties. Other plantings are slated this week and April 15.

Fryrear also has begun studies to determine the ability of sunflowers to withstand wind damage. Preliminary checks have indicated that young sunflowers can stand about five times as much wind as cotton.

This week, Fryrear will take the portable wind tunnel of the station into the field and subject the young plants to much more vigorous wind tests (they already have come through 58-mph winds). This time, sand will be infused with the tunnel blast to ascertain comparative sand damage of the sunflowers with young cotton.

One reason for the early planting dates is to establish at what time sunflowers can be put in the ground with hope of maturing ahead of the normal appearance of most insects.

Entomologists are seeking to pin down ways to control insects, particularly the carrot beetle which attacks the base of the plant. Another threat is a ring beetle which prefers to eat at the base of the head, causing it to droop or fall. Early maturity may help escape worst threats by these pests, Fryrear said. At any rate, insect traps will be put on the fields. Also, early planting keeps sunflowers maturing when temperatures do not fall below 70 degrees (which seems to improve quality of the oil).

Delivery Restraints Sought By Coahoma

The City of Coahoma, in a suit filed in 118th district Court here Monday afternoon, asked that the Howard County Water Control and Improvement District be restrained from serving individual customers.

Coahoma buys water from the District and sells it to its residents and to those in Sand Springs as well as to out-of-district customers.

Last year Coahoma contended the District was making an unnecessary charge for water and balked in paying, but a 118th Court trial resulted in Coahoma being ordered to pay according to contract.

Coahoma then increased water rates to meet the costs, it said, and recently, contending it had recouped expenses, lowered rates.

The District, however, expressed an interest in serving individual customers and indicated somewhat lower rates. The distributing lines, however, are owned by Coahoma.

The Water District, with which the Coahoma governing body has been at odds for several months, had made inquiry about acquiring City distribution lines for the purpose of serving private customers.

SOLE CUSTOMER

Under terms of a contract March 30, 1955, Coahoma contends that it is the sole customer of the Water District. Also, the City says that it is obligated to furnish, through water purchases, the revenues for the District, and to permit the District to take on other customers would be inequitable.

It also said that the City is required to maintain not only its own distribution system, which reaches into Sand Springs and also to out-of-district points, and that District Customer service would create an impossible situation. In another part of the pleadings, the City also argued that it possesses title to all water from the Water District, and separation of the water between District and City-served customers would be impractical if not impossible. The same would apply to losses in the line, according to the petition.

ASKS INJUNCTION

"Plaintiffs pray," said the petition filed by Mayor Jack Cauble and other Coahoma aldermen, that the Defendant (Water District) be temporarily restrained and enjoined... from selling or attempting to sell, delivering or attempting to deliver water to persons or firms located within or without the limits of Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1."

It also asked that the District be restrained "from selling or attempting to use any of the existing water lines within the limits of the (District) to transport or deliver water to persons or firms other than Plaintiff City... pending final hearing."

Should the court find that the District be found to have any interest in the water or properties claimed by the City, Coahoma asked that the court specify the nature and extent of the interest.

House, Senate Tangle On Tax Reduction Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional negotiators are trying again to agree on a tax-cut bill after Treasury Secretary William E. Simon reportedly warned that President Ford will veto the tax bill if it "reached the proportions" of the measure passed by the Senate.

House and Senate members of the tax-cut conference committee were meeting again today to work out a compromise between different tax-cut bills passed by both chambers.

BEHIND DOORS

The conferees concluded eight hours of closed-door talks Monday with no major agreement and then departed through a side door. Aides said they wanted to avoid newsmen.

Simon told the lawmakers earlier that "if the bill reached the proportions of the present Senate bill, he had no doubt that the President will veto it," according to Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli, R-Pa., one of the conference members.

"... Exactly at what point he would or will not veto it, I think, depends on what is in it, not the size of it," Schneebeli said.

OIL TAX

This marked the most explicit threat thus far that the President would consider vetoing the measure. Past administration statements have criticized the various congressional tax-cut proposals but have given no firm indication that a veto was being considered.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House delegation at the conference, said he expected agreement later today, while Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., another conferee, said, "I just think there may be a chance this thing won't end up before Easter." The lawmakers face the planned start of the Easter recess on Wednesday.

According to new figures supplied to the conferees Monday by their tax staff experts, the Senate bill provides tax breaks totaling $34.3 billion in a blend of 1974 tax rebates and 1975 tax cuts.

Along with $3.7 billion in business tax boosts mainly for oil companies, the bill is a net $30.6 billion package of tax reductions and spending.

This compares with the House's total of $19.8 billion in 1974 tax rebates and 1975 tax cuts. Accompanied by a $2.2 billion tax hike for oil firms through repeal of the petroleum depletion allowance, the House bill represents a net $17.6 billion tax reduction.

Along with $3.7 billion in business tax boosts mainly for oil companies, the bill is a Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, during a break in the conferees conference on proposed tax-cut legislation Monday in Washington. The conferees set another meeting for today after an unsuccessful eight-hour effort to write a compromise to the House and Senate passed tax reduction measures.

Reaping A Whirlwind

The disturbing frequency with which sandstorms have been visited upon this area in the 1975 Winter and Spring season once more underlines the need for basic research into the cause and effect of these annoying phenomena.

The easy answer is that sandstorms are caused by windblowing over bareland. That is only superficially true. This year we have perhaps more cover crops than ever (admittedly only a small fraction of our total cultivated acreage) and virtually all of the fields have been listed. Yet, we are experiencing wave after wave of these dust-moving fronts.

The U.S. Experiment Farm here has been attempting within the framework of meagre funds, to uncover some of the contributing factors to wind erosion and to pinpoint more accurately what are the costly effects. A Congress, and a Department of Agriculture, so beset by other problems, has not been persuaded that this sort of research is urgent.

It is true that wind erosion is not the emotional issue that mass transit is, or the discomfort of air-borne dust particles is as weighty as refunds to cities, or more popular than funds for food stamps or welfare payments. But in the long run, in terms of what is happening to land, the problem of wind erosion may be translated into the critically important issue of food and fiber. Thus, even is health and comfort rate ignored, the matter of lost fertility from areas, which must be called upon for those important net gains of production, is of crucial importance.

Now, even knowing what causes wind erosion, or aggravates it, won't entirely halt it. But a better understanding of this might well minimize it. Even curbing the damage in a small degree would return tremendous dividends. Not much progress can be made in that direction, however, until we change our priorities from the immediate irritants of society to the long range implications of land that loses its productivity. We have been reaping the harvest of a great era of basic agricultural research in the past generation; now, with a virtually-dried up research pool, we may find ourselves reaping the harvest of the whirlwind.

Loan Bill Questioned

For a time it seemed that State Sen. Bill Patman was conducting a lonely and futile battle to defeat a bill (Senate Bill 69) which would permit exorbitant interest rates on consumer loans up to $5,000. Its passage was virtually assured in the Senate, after an abbreviated committee hearing. Now its chances are doubtful after a number of senators rallies to the Parman side.

The present legal rate on a $1,000 loan for 37 months is 19.54 per cent. That rate would be increased 25.4 per cent under SB 69, a lump in interest rate alone from $39.17 to $425.50. Banks and savings and loan association could also charge the same rates authorized for loan companies.

Patman argues persuasively that the simple statement made by loan companies that they need a higher interest rate to stay in business is not enough. He insists that the burden of proof of need must be met by the loan companies, supported by independent audits of all loan company operations.

Until remedial legislation was passed, the Lone Star State was known as "The Loan Shark State." The cries of loan companies for more profit at each session of the legislature should be examined most carefully.

Choose With Care

Around The Rim

Jo Bright

Spring graduations will see another wave of young people looking for jobs — or colleges or vocational schools they can afford.

ACCORDING TO "Changing Times," now, more than ever, what counts is having a skill you can sell. Finding a school that will give you your money's worth is a different matter — and who has money to waste?

According to the experts, if a vocational school you're considering does the following, reject it:

1. SAYS OR implies it will "guarantee" you a job after completion of the course. (Only employers give out jobs.) A number of major U.S. firms own vocational schools, but graduation from them is no assurance you'll land a job with the parent company.
2. Advertises for students under such headings as "Help Wanted," "Employment" or "Business Opportunities." Legitimate ads for students belong under the headings "Schools," "Education" or "Training."
3. PRESSURES you to sign a contract quickly.
4. Makes extravagant claims about the success of graduates, your prospective earning and the demand for workers. The New York City Consumer Affairs Department recently found that potential computer school students were being told that their opportunities would be virtually unlimited, when in truth the market for programmers without a college education had become extremely tight.

IF YOU find yourself enrolled in a vocational school you believe is a gyp, here's where you can turn for help. Put your complaint in writing and provide details.

1. The state attorney general's office or your local consumer protection bureau. (None here that I know of.)
2. The organization that accredited your school.
3. The state or local government agency in charge of regulating commercial schools, such as the business licensing bureau or department of education.
4. A lawyer if the money involved is substantial.

INTERESTED PERSONS may contact me, and I'll provide a list of federal agencies that keeps tabs on vocational schools and use records of students' complaints in drafting new rules and regulations, and sometimes to build legal cases.

My Answer

Billy Graham

My husband and I are Christians, and our marriage is above average. He has been unable to work, so I am the wage earner. Two or three times a week, he visits the young lady next door — claiming, of course, they are just good friends. She's even come to our house when I am gone. I don't think I am jealous, but I think it is a dangerous situation. Am I being foolish about this?

P.P.M. A word you don't hear much is prudent. It stands, however, for things vital to successful living. The dictionary defines it as "wisdom shown in the exercise of reason, foresight and self-control."

Proverbs 16:21 says "the wise in heart shall be called prudent." Your husband is being imprudent. Perhaps this relationship with the neighbor is an altogether innocent one, but he must reckon with your displeasure, the possible aggravation of the woman's husband, and the matter of appearances with the neighbors. I Thessalonians 5:22 makes a good case of that. Also read Romans 14, especially verse 22.

In addition, he is tempting himself. Regardless of his physical condition, he is yet a man, and susceptible to all the pitfalls of an extramarital relationship. The saying is true that claims "opportunity often makes the thief."

Talk with your pastor or a counselor. Certainly if your husband is at all resourceful, he'll find ways to occupy his time that do not have trouble built-in.

Profits Prejudice

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — "Some of these businesses should fail," said Arch Booth, contending that federal subsidies for companies threatened with collapse might not be in the best interests of the nation.

"We've got a fine record of giving birth to new companies in this country," said Booth, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Subsidies, he said, "would tend to preserve the weak, inferior ones."

He continued: "So many people, even those in positions of leadership, are trying to find out how to get more out of the federal government. Everyone today gets subsidies. Too many businessmen are turning to the federal government."

In an interview, Booth, 68, reflected on changes during his more than 30 years with the national chamber, 25 of them as top administrative officer, the past five as chief spokesman, during which he voiced an opinion on every major business issue.

"I am a determined man but we're suffering some losses," Booth conceded. "It is a changing battle, an evolution of values. I'm aware I sometimes stand on an unpopular side."

Here are some other observations by Booth, who retires next month although he will remain a director of the chamber:

MERCHANTS AND CUSTOMERS — "The customer is more valued today. The only way to succeed is to have a satisfied customer, and business is working at it. It's an evolutionary thing.

"People are more demanding, but we've got better informed management by far today than 30 years ago. Better educated and more sensitive to customers' desires. And competition is tougher.

"The way to live with competition is to live more effectively with the customer. Give better service and quality, and stand behind it."

PROFITS — "There's a prejudice against profits. It's a never-ending challenge to explain, why they are needed, why profits are in the interest of the job holder.

"The nation may regret bitterly not taking steps to encourage savings, investments and the creation of investment capital. If we are going to make more jobs in this country year after year we've got to encourage individuals to save money and invest it. And we're going to have to make it possible for business to make a profit and reinvest it."

"Maybe we shouldn't talk about profits. If a company says profits are higher it is thought to be making too much. Maybe we should emphasize savings — a business being able to make some savings so that out of such savings it can spend for new equipment and new plants."

REPUTATION OF BUSINESS — "What distresses me is to read in the newspapers about charges that the oil industry is gouging everyone and making unimaginable profits, manipulating."

The assumption that businessmen are crooked "sets us back light years in our ability to be credible with the kids in schools and the folks out there buying."

Just Plain Folk

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The other evening I watched Barbra Streisand on a TV special from Kennedy Center where she sang at a benefit for the Special Olympics for the Mentally Retarded.

SHE RECEIVED a tremendous ovation after one of her songs, and she said she was surprised because she thought people in Washington were "stuffy."

It occurred to me that Miss Streisand was speaking for many Americans who somehow think that those of us who live in the nation's capital are different from other people in the country.

Well, it's not true. We're just simple folk with the same dreams and aspirations as everyone else. In the morning we insert our legs in our pants, one at a time, just as men and women do in Topoka and Peoria. And after a breakfast quite similar to ones eaten all over America, we go to our offices where we do our simple work.

THE WORK is no different than that done in Hartford, Conn., or Atlanta, Ga. Some of us will pass laws, one at a time, just as men and women do in Topoka and Peoria. And after a breakfast quite similar to ones eaten all over America, we go to our offices where we do our simple work.

WE COULD give a billion dollars to the space program or cut $500 million to education. We'll tap telephones if we have to and add to files of suspected subversives.

Some people might be assigned to following Russian diplomats all over town, and others could be in charge of selling them wheat.

We might work on ways of giving the American people a tax cut or figure out methods of bailing large corporations out of debt.

SOME OF US will lunch with lobbyists, while a few will eat with their secretaries and take the afternoon off.

People should stop thinking just because we live in Washington we're different.

We indict attorneys general and White House aides, pardon previous Presidents, defend multimillion-dollar antitrust suits and try to get government agencies off our clients' backs.

WE CUT food stamp aid, raise Social Security rates and declare budget deficits. Some of us lie to grand juries, and others like to Senate committees. We make speeches for TV audiences and hand out press releases telling how wonderful we are.

Some of us work for the media and, no matter what we say, we're always right.

We're a typical community. After work we may go over and have a few drinks with the ambassador of Iran or play a game of tennis with the secretary of the Treasury. On some nights we might go to have dinner with the Fords, and on other evenings we'll have the Kissingers in for bridge and a light buffet.

IF THE weather is good we could have a cookout at the Tidal Basin or wander down to the local tavern and have a few beers with Nelson Rockefeller. If there is a good movie in town and Barbra Streisand is singing beforehand, we might even go to that. Otherwise we'll stay at home and read the Congressional Record.

It's said that although we live in Washington people think we're something special. We're just average Joes, a little better educated, more informed, rarely in error, and know what's best for the country. Why would Barbara Streisand think we're stuffy?

One Meal Not Enough

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What are the dangers to health for a working man, 52 years old, in eating one meal a day only? Wouldn't this be harmful to the system?

He has had low blood pressure in the past accompanied by dizzy spells. — A.C.S.

I assume that you mean he eats one meal only and nothing else the whole day. If so, then I would call it undesirable. Studies have shown, for example, that efficiency and well-being are improved with a fairly substantial breakfast meal. I assume also that your husband's single meal is in the evening after work. If this is so, then he had better avoid any heavy work around the house afterward, especially with his history of low blood pressure.

The dizzy spells he has can be due to a drop in his blood sugar, a result of his periods of fasting. Three squares a day would tend to offset this. If your husband is a confirmed one-meal-a-day man, it will be difficult to break him of the habit. I hope he will read this and see the prudence in trying to space out his nourishment a bit.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had leg cramps and take calcium for them, which seems to help for a time. My question is whether taking calcium for this will cause kidney stones. I have them, too.

I have been warned to leave dairy products alone. I wonder if there could be something else to take instead of calcium. Also, please send me your booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps," for which I'm sending 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to you in care of the Big Spring Herald. — J.M.

Taking the calcium medication would not ordinarily lead to kidney stones. However, since you have them already and have been warned against dairy products, it would be wise to use other treatment.

Quinine sulfate and aminophylline compounds can be taken instead. Did your doctor know about your stone history before he started you on calcium? If not, he should be made aware of this. And the alternative medication I suggest should have about the same effect on your leg cramps as the calcium has.

Despite continuing controversy, nuclear energy is becoming a major source of electric power. Nuclear power plants now generate 7.4 per cent of the nation's electricity. By the year 2000, nuclear reactors may be supplying as much as 50 per cent of U.S. electrical needs. Even proponents of nuclear power admit that it carries some serious risks. One area of vital concern is the disposal of high-level radioactive wastes.

Procedures for handling nuclear wastes are controlled by the Atomic Energy Commission. The AEC requires that liquid high-level wastes be solidified within five years. The solidified wastes are then "Canned" in steel canisters and stored at fuel reprocessing plants for no more than another five year. They are then to be shipped to the AEC for storage and ultimately for permanent disposal.

Although many permanent waste disposal methods have been investigated, no permanent depository has been constructed. Of all the possibilities for permanent disposal, the one considered the safest and most practical is deep burial in a stable geological formation, such as salt beds, shale, granite or limestone. Dr. Frank Pittman, director of waste management for the AEC, estimates that it will take two or three decades to perfect permanent disposal methods. Until then, temporary facilities will be used. — ELPASO TIMES

NONE OF the tapes I have seen show Nixon to have been more directly engaged in trying to use the press to cut down the political opposition than Kennedy was. "You ought to cut Rocky's ass open a little this week," he once suggested to Bradlee, "you" meaning "Newsweek." Segretti went around dropping dirty stories about potential rivals of Nixon. JFK apparently sought to make Newsweek his Segretti.

The President asked if we were going to take a look at Rockefeller's war record. It is interesting how often Kennedy referred to the war records of political opponents. He had often mentioned Eddie McCormack and Hubert Humphrey in this connection, and here he was at it again with Rockefeller. "Where was old Nelson when you and I were dodging bullets in the Solomon Islands?" he wondered aloud. "How old was he? He must have been 31 or 32. Why don't you look into that?"

NIXON, who was sick sick sick, managed an entire political campaign against Hubert Humphrey without once bringing up Humphrey's war record.

The story about JFK vs the steel companies is revealing, not to say robust. Bradlee variously quotes Kennedy: "Are we supposed to sit

Mixup Claimed In Plane Crash

SEATTLE (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration blames a tragic mixup in instructions by an air traffic controller for the crash of a military jet in which 16 servicemen died. The mixup sent the Air Force C141 Starlifter transport into a collision course with 7,743-foot Mt. Constance in Western Washington's rugged, rain-swept Olympic Mountains.

The Military Air Command Starlifter, in-bound to McChord Air Force Base from Yakota Air Base, Japan, hit at the 6,000-foot level late Thursday. The 10 Air Force crewmen and six Navy passengers died.

SHOCK
The FAA said Monday that an air traffic controller at Seattle mistakenly ordered the C141, instead of an A6 Navy plane he was guiding in to Whidbey Island Naval Air Station, to descend to 5,000 feet from 10,000 for its landing approach.

McChord is 35 miles south of Seattle. The naval station is 70 miles north of Seattle. The Air Force flight was designated 40641; the Navy flight, in bound from Portland, Ore., 28332.

The FAA did not identify the controller involved. It said he had been relieved of his duties and is under a doctor's care. The man reportedly went into shock as a result of the tragedy.

LIGHT TRAFFIC
Northwest regional FAA chief Chris Walk said the controller was also handling two civilian aircraft, in addition to the two military planes, but Walk described traffic as "very light."

On Monday, the FAA played for newsmen a tape of the fatal radio conversation between the ground and the air.

It showed that the Vancouver, B.C., Area Control Center turned over the Air Force plane to the controller, identified only as SEAD3, at 10:45 p.m.

At 10:56, the Air Force jet told the controller, "And Seattle, 4-0-6-4-1 is level at 10 (thousand feet)."
"Four zero six four one, maintain (cleared to, descend to) 5,000," the controller replied, a command the FAA said was meant for the Navy jet.

"Five thousand, 4-0-6-4-1 is out of 10 (thousand feet)," the Air Force plane replied. It was the last message it sent. It descended through stormy weather to 5,000 feet and disaster.

NO VISITORS Deaf Mute Lives 90 Years In County Home

WAYNESBORO, Pa. (AP) — Mary Heist, a deaf mute, has lived 90 of her 95 years in the county home. No one at the institution, now called the Franklin County Nursing Home, can remember anybody visiting the frail little lady or hearing her speak a word.

"She'll look at me and reach her hand out," said Sarah Kramer, housekeeper at the home. "She's a marvelous person."
Her snow white hair, cropped short, frames a face worn and wrinkled by years of steady work and the infirmities of old age.

At 10:58, the Navy jet radioed, "Seattle Center, 2-8-3-2-3 level 10,000."
With obvious surprise, controller SEAD3 asked, "Two-eight-three-two-three at five (thousand)?"
"Negative, level one zero thousand."

AH, SHOOT! Training cleared the Navy plane to 5,000 feet.

At 11:04, the controller due to take over control of the Air Force jet asked D3: "Where is MAC 4-0-6-4-1?"
"Ah, shoot, I forgot to ship him to you," SEAD3 replied. "Stand by."
"Where is he, though?" the new controller pressed.

During the next four minutes, SEAD3 tried 10 times without success to raise the Air Force jet.

It already had crashed into Mt. Constance. The FAA said the inadvertent switch of numbers was discovered about an hour later.

Instructor Pilot Of Year Named

Capt. David F. MacGhee, a flight examiner with the 78th Flying Training Wing Standardization and Evaluation Division, DO, has been selected as the 78th FTW Instructor Pilot of the Year.

Selected ahead of four other finalists, Capt. MacGhee will represent Webb in the competition for the Air Training Command Instructor Pilot of the Year Award. The final five pilots nominated for the Webb honor were Captains MacGhee; John W. Dickey Jr., 3389th Flying Training Squadron; Robert H. Jessup, 83rd Flying Training Squadron; Tracy Rhodes, 78th Student Squadron, and 1st Lt. Russell Huffer, 82nd Flying Training Squadron.

MacGhee was selected by a board of officers. The board picked the Instructor Pilot of the Year on the basis of his performance both as an Air Force officer and as a part of the local community.

In fact, Col. Horace W. Miller, deputy commander for Operations, said, "Capt. MacGhee's off duty activities had one 'heck' of a lot to do with his selection."

In the letter nominating Capt. MacGhee as the Webb nominee for the ATC honor, Col. Robert A. Owens, 78th FTW commander, cited him as an absolutely superior

Rule Change Is Helpful

A $400 increase in income limits for Veterans Administration pensioners saved 74,000 veterans, widows and children from reduction or termination of benefits this year and made others eligible for the first time, Jack Coker, VA Regional Director, said today.

Coker said there is no estimate to the number of new eligibles under the increased limits.

Potentially eligible, he explained, are veterans 65 years of age or older and younger veterans who are totally and permanently disabled from non-service-connected causes. Other income must not exceed $3,000 annually if there are no dependents. The annual limit is $4,200 for veterans with spouses or children.

Similar limits apply for widows of veterans who died of non-service-connected causes and for parents receiving dependency indemnity compensation (DIC). Children drawing benefits under the current pension law are limited to an annual income of $2,400.

The annual income limits were increased $400 above last year's levels by Public Law 93-527, effective January 1. The legislation also provided a 12 per cent increase in pension rates for 2.3 million veterans and survivors on VA pension and DIC parent rolls.

Coker emphasized there is no income limit for veterans being compensated for service-connected injuries or for the widows and children of veterans who died of service-connected causes.

BAD DAY FOR PARRS Duval County Judge Ousted

SAN DIEGO, Tex. (AP) — Duval County Judge Archer Parr was temporarily out of office today after District Court Judge O. P. Carrillo granted a petition to remove him.

The petition, a quo warranto petition, was filed by Dist. Atty. Arnulfo Guerra. It alleges Judge Parr, 48, is guilty of "incompetency, gross carelessness, and official misconduct."

Judge Parr is the nephew of George B. Parr, the aging "Duke of Duval."

TAX EVASION
At almost the same time Monday, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans upheld the conviction of George B. Parr on federal income tax evasion and perjury charges. He faces five years in prison for the convictions.

Filing here of the petition against Judge Parr came during a power struggle between the Parr and Carrillo families for control of this always politically volatile South Texas county.

Guerra, contacted at his office at Rio Grande City, denied that the motion had anything to do with the power struggle. He said the petition was filed in connection with a grand jury investigation into the county's affairs. Guerra launched the investigation last month.

"I have no interest in their internal political problems. I was elected to do a job and I intend to do it," Guerra said.

Judge Carrillo granted the motion and ordered Texas Ranger Gene Powell to serve Parr with a copy of the notice. Parr left the courthouse before Powell could serve the notice. Judge Carrillo said Parr will technically remain in office until notice of the petition is served.

THEY UNDERSTAND
The judge appointed County Commissioner Dan Tobin Jr. to replace Parr temporarily.

Guerra said he talked both with Judge Parr and George B. Parr before he filed the motion, saying they were "concerned but calm."

"I think they understand I'm just doing my job," he said.

One of the allegations in the petition to remove Judge Parr stated he had been convicted in federal court on felony perjury charges. Another allegation concerned testimony given in a bitter divorce case involving Judge Parr and Mrs. Jody Martin Parr, his late wife.

Mrs. Parr, who later took her own life, testified that Judge Parr had received an estimated $450,000 in money and services from the county in the form of cash payments and the use of county employees.

Judge Parr was convicted at San Antonio last year on charges of lying to a federal grand jury concerning payment of $121,500 he allegedly received from the Duval County Conservation and Reclamation District. Judge Parr claimed the money was for legal services.

U.S. District Court Judge D. W. Suttle sentenced Judge Parr to six five-year prison terms, two of them to run consecutively and ordered him to pay court costs and fines of $63,810.80. The county judge is free on $121,500 bond and is appealing the conviction.

RULE THREATENED
The Parr family has ruled Duval County since shortly after the turn of the century. During the height of their rule, politicians, ranging from those seeking county office to the presidency, sought endorsement of the Parrs. In times past, a Democratic party candidate could not carry South Texas without their endorsement. Their rule became threatened when both George and Archer were convicted and given prison terms.

Asked who would take over after the Parrs, County Commissioner Ramero Carrillo once told the Associated Press "the Carrillos" would take over. Other members of the Carrillo family include the county commissioner's two brothers, District Judge Carrillo and former State Senator Oscar Carrillo and their father, D. C. Chapa.

POWER STRUGGLE
Chapa, whose given name is David Carrillo Chapa and prefers to use the "Chapa" surname, has long been considered one of George B. Parr's oldest friends and closest political ally, at least until the current power struggle.

Extended Coverage

Most burglaries happen when no one is home. So it makes sense to make your home look occupied, even if you're not there.

Timers to turn lights on (and off, that's important) will give your home a lived-in look. If you can have TV or radio turned on and off, too, so much the better.

Window locks are really as important as door locks, especially at ground level. (If you have bars or grates, be sure they can be opened quickly in case of fire.)

Going away? Stop all mail, newspaper and milk deliveries. Don't publicize your trip in advance.

Keep garage door closed and locked at ALL times, especially if there is a garage entrance into your home.

Theft insurance is helpful in case of loss, but the best coverage is self-protection. Consult with us at Stripling-Mancill Insurance Agency, 102 Caylor Office Building, 600 Main.

Lawman Killed Convict?

HOUSTON (AP) — One of the three convict-gunmen may have been killed by a lawman firing into the man's head at point blank range in the final moments of last summer's Huntsville prison shootout, a Texas Ranger testified Monday.

Texas Ranger Capt. J. F. Rogers, testifying in the capital murder trial of Ignacio Cuevas, the only surviving convict-gunman, said he saw a department of Public Safety intelligence officer fire into a tangle of bodies on a prison building ramp.

Rogers identified the officer as Winston C. Padgett. The incident occurred after the three gunmen, walking inside a crude rolling shield, forced hostages to guide the protective device from the prison library, scene of an 11-day siege, down a winding ramp.

Near the bottom of the ramp, the shield, made of rolling chalkboards and law books, was intercepted by lawmen armed with pistols and by prison guards using high pressure water hoses.

After two bursts of gunfire, the shield was turned over, leaving the gunmen and four hostages inside the shield sprawled on the ramp.

Rogers said at that point he led a group of officers to the "pile of bodies."

He said he saw Fred Gomez Carrasco, leader of the gunmen, lying among the tangle, apparently dead.

"I could see a wound on his head and it was obvious he was dead," said Rogers.

Cuevas, he said, was also unmoving, but X Rudolf Dominguez, the third gunman, was obviously alive.

At that point, said Rogers, he heard Padgett shout a challenge.

"I heard him say 'you move and you're dead.' Then he shot," said Rogers. "I could see him lean over the pile of bodies and shoot down. There were two shots fired."

Father Joseph O'Brien, a prison chaplain who received serious gun wounds in the shootout, testified today he later learned that it was Padgett whom he saw fire two shots.

Father O'Brien could not identify the officer, however, when Padgett was asked to step inside the courtroom.

"I cannot make a positive identification," the priest said. "I wasn't in condition but it was a large man in a flak jacket."

"You saw him fire two shots?" asked Dist. Atty. Jerry Sandell of Huntsville.

"Yes," Father O'Brien replied.

Over objections from Will Gray, chief defense lawyer, Father O'Brien removed his coat and vest and showed the jury the scars he suffered from the gunfire.

Father O'Brien said he was struck in the left arm just above the elbow by a bullet that exited near the armpit. Fragments from other bullets caused two chest wounds.

Father O'Brien repeated earlier testimony that he saw an officer approaching the shield and the officer asked where Carrasco was.

'Ambulances Can't Be Manned By Firemen'

By JOHN EDWARDS
After meeting privately for two hours Monday afternoon, County Commissioners Court considered proposals for new state and federal highways in Howard County and discussed seeking a 50-percent grant for two ambulances and emergency medical communication equipment.

The court heard a report from Max Green, a certified public accountant, during the closed session. The session concerned a "personnel situation" which may legally be discussed privately, County Judge Bill Tune said.

The report concerning the 1974 audit "possibly might be brought out at a later date," Tune said.

No funds were missing, Tune said, and the report did not concern any possible criminal offenses.

The 1974 audit itself will be presented at an open meeting Monday, Tune explained.

EMERGENCIES
"Right now, it's not the intention of the city council to go into the ambulance business," City Manager Harry Nagel later told the court.

The City of Odessa fire department can provide ambulance service because of the number of firemen, Nagel said. "We can't do that in Big Spring," Nagel explained.

Nagel mentioned the rumor that L.A. Hiltbrunner, owner of Alert Ambulance, was interested in selling his firm because of a heart condition.

And the special ambulances could be leased to the firm contracting to provide ambulance service here.

"(You've seen the television) program, 'Emergency,'" Nagel noted. "I can see the day we're going to have to have people of that caliber (manning ambulances). It's going to be required."

Before taking action on the request for 50-percent federal funding for emergency medical services equipment, the court wants to hear how many ambulances Harley Reeves of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission (PBRPC) thinks the city and county will need.

The city has requested Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. to determine the cost of making 911, the single emergency number for the fire department, police, sheriff's office and ambulance service.

Unless independent phone exchanges serving rural areas of Howard County installed a similar 911 system, rural residents would continue using the separate numbers to reach fireman, police, deputy sheriffs or ambulance attendants, Nagel said.

HIGHWAYS
Proposals for making federal and state highways out of some county roads and creating highways where no road now exists were discussed also in the afternoon session.

Joe Smoot, resident engineer of the Texas Highway Department (THD), explained the department's tentative proposals.

The intersection of the Gail Highway, Farm Road 700 and the Snyder Highway could be connected diagonally with U.S. 87, the THD thought.

Another highway is projected running south from Vincent and Moss Creek Road north of IS-20 and the old Colorado Road might be converted into highways.

No decision has been made on which new highways the commissioners court will go on record favoring. And the court is to number the proposals according to priority.

Confirmation Of John Clark As DA Revealed

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — John Clark began officially his term as U.S. attorney for the Western District of Texas Monday after an informal swearing in ceremony.

Senators confirmed Clark, a Republican, in a vote earlier this month but necessary papers had not arrived.

He replaces William Sessions, who resigned last December to become a U.S. district court judge.

Clark had been Sessions' first assistant and was instrumental in an investigation which resulted in an income tax conviction for South Texas political boss George B. Parr and a perjury conviction for Parr's nephew, Duval County Judge Archer Parr.

Archer Parr was temporarily suspended from his post by a state judge Monday shortly after Clark took office.

Chief U.S. Dist. Court Judge Adrian Spears of San Antonio presided at the informal ceremony here.

Formal swearing in will be April 11, Clark's office said.

Hugh Shovin, an assistant U.S. attorney, acted in the interim after Sessions' appointment to the federal bench.

Sen. Ervin Raps ERA
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Retired Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. returned to the state capitol where he started his career as a lawmaker in 1923 to urge the North Carolina General Assembly not to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

His silver hair gleamed and his eyebrows fluttered as he brandished law books and quoted the Bible in opposing the ERA. He told the legislative committee considering the amendment that it was not needed and would throw the legal system into chaos.

The city golf course, vandalism, and wandering dogs were three items discussed by the city commission when it met in regular session at 9 a.m. in city hall.

A lengthy discussion of the city golf course and its problems evolved around a letter from the municipal golf association. Jack White, vice president of the group, appeared before the council.

Mayor Wade Choate requested that representatives of the golf association, the golf park, and recreation director, the city manager and attorney and possibly others form a committee to study problems and needs.

SET UP REWARD
In discussing vandalism to city property and other vandalism around town, it was agreed to set up a rewards system with a maximum of $200 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons destroying city property.

The agreement was also to keep the informer anonymous. It was further discussed that this might be used in other extensive vandalism cases.

LUBBOCK — Spokesmen for Texas Instruments Inc. Monday announced that approximately 200 production workers could be recalled to jobs in Lubbock this week.

Approximately 450 persons, including a number of supervisory personnel, have been laid off at the plant since last November, at which time the company announced a worldwide cutback in production. Prior to the layoffs, Texas Instruments employed more than 2,000 in Lubbock.

Obstructions Get 2nd Look
A second go-round is scheduled by the city traffic safety coordinator at clearing street intersections of obstructions.

Last year several intersections were cleared of visibility obstructions. Monday, four intersections had bushes and trees removed at 3rd and Settles, 3rd and State, 6th and Caylor and 600 Edwards Circle.

Citizens wishing to report a blind intersection may call Mrs. Susan Thomas, traffic coordinator, at 3-8311, extension 75.

Paula Jane Stuteville, 20, 701 E. 13th St., pleaded guilty in the 118th District Court Monday to forgery.

She was given five years of probation.

Voc-Ed's Background, Program Are Outlined

By MARI CARPENTER
An executive session of the schoolboard was held Monday after a tour of vocational facilities to discuss with the tennis coach recent matters which had arisen concerning the tennis program.

One set of parents requested a hearing with the board to discuss the matter. At the conclusion of the discussion, the board instructed Novice Kniffen, tennis coach, to outline in writing the division of duties between tennis coaching and managing the tennis center for the city so that these can be carefully reviewed. No other action is contemplated and several board members expressed confidence in Coach Kniffen.

Prior to the executive meeting, the board continued their practice of learning more about the system through the second meeting of the month and toured the entire vocational building.

John Smith, school principal, outlined the history of vocational education in the Big Spring schools and listed the 26 vocational units by outlining the history from the first one in the early 60s up through today.

NOW 50 PERCENT
He was followed by John Bagnall, vocational coordinator, who briefly explained the various programs and told the board that half the student body at the high school are now involved in some type of vocational program.

"The false idea that if you take a vocational course, you can't go to college has been eliminated. We have some students who use courses as electives and others who concentrate on vocational courses and go right to work. There are also some who use their vocational training to help work their way through college," Bagnall added.

Harvey Rothel, vocational counselor, showed the board a series of slides in connection with the program. It is a group of slides which they show to students to interest them in the program.

The group then toured each classroom, with the teacher in that particular room explaining their unit. They did not include the eight homemaking units in the tour.

EXPLAIN PROGRAMS
Truett Vines and Rex Seay explained the FFA and vocational agriculture program in a room that held over 100 banners won by the boys through the years. The auto mechanics department is headed by Perry Mathis, who was ill. John Anns discussed furniture repair and upholstery in a room

TV Station Locks Doors To Keep Out Pie Tossers

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP) — Television station managers who shivered with fear during the streaking craze last year have a new threat to the security of their live newscasts. Pie throwers.

Lanny Pogue, general manager of KTRE-TV here, issued a memo Monday directing his employees to keep all doors to the station locked, especially during newscasts.

He said that was station policy during the streaking craze last year, but the rule apparently was relaxed when the phase died out.

Sunday night, during KTRE's 10 p.m. newscast, anchorman Robert Brashaw was reading news copy when he got two pies in the face from two men wearing ski masks who burst into the studio.

"When you're on live, you just sit there like a pigeon," Pogue said.

Brashaw had read a wire story on his 6 p.m. newscast about a pie throwing craze in California in which a company agrees to throw pies at anyone in exchange for $25.

Two men in Lufkin took the story to heart, apparently, as they entered the station through unlocked doors and pelted Brashaw with one pie each at close range.

"I'm sure it was set off by the 6 o'clock story," said Pogue. "I told Brashaw he set himself up."

Pogue said the two men were in the station only 30 seconds and seemed to know their way around. He said police were not called in because "there's not much we could do to them once we found out who did it. Pressing charges would just cause adverse publicity to the station."

Confirmation Of John Clark As DA Revealed

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — John Clark began officially his term as U.S. attorney for the Western District of Texas Monday after an informal swearing in ceremony.

Senators confirmed Clark, a Republican, in a vote earlier this month but necessary papers had not arrived.

He replaces William Sessions, who resigned last December to become a U.S. district court judge.

Clark had been Sessions' first assistant and was instrumental in an investigation which resulted in an income tax conviction for South Texas political boss George B. Parr and a perjury conviction for Parr's nephew, Duval County Judge Archer Parr.

Archer Parr was temporarily suspended from his post by a state judge Monday shortly after Clark took office.

Chief U.S. Dist. Court Judge Adrian Spears of San Antonio presided at the informal ceremony here.

Formal swearing in will be April 11, Clark's office said.

Hugh Shovin, an assistant U.S. attorney, acted in the interim after Sessions' appointment to the federal bench.

Sen. Ervin Raps ERA
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Retired Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. returned to the state capitol where he started his career as a lawmaker in 1923 to urge the North Carolina General Assembly not to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

His silver hair gleamed and his eyebrows fluttered as he brandished law books and quoted the Bible in opposing the ERA. He told the legislative committee considering the amendment that it was not needed and would throw the legal system into chaos.

The city golf course, vandalism, and wandering dogs were three items discussed by the city commission when it met in regular session at 9 a.m. in city hall.

A lengthy discussion of the city golf course and its problems evolved around a letter from the municipal golf association. Jack White, vice president of the group, appeared before the council.

Mayor Wade Choate requested that representatives of the golf association, the golf park, and recreation director, the city manager and attorney and possibly others form a committee to study problems and needs.

SET UP REWARD
In discussing vandalism to city property and other vandalism around town, it was agreed to set up a rewards system with a maximum of $200 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons destroying city property.

No other action is contemplated and several board members expressed confidence in Coach Kniffen.

'THE GUY FREAKED OUT' Romanceless Roomies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Wise, who's engaged to be married to a Texas woman, said his fiancée doesn't mind his living with a woman "for the time being."

Lori Hock, 21, found her nonsex relationship with roommate Jim Cole, a divorced project engineer, "a little bit scary."

"My mother told me I should put a lock on my bedroom door," said Lori, adding that she acquired Cole as a new roommate because the previous male couldn't afford his share of her $325-a-month rent.

"I really prefer men as roommates," she said. "It means fewer hassles. They're more independent and reliable. Girl roommates seem to get into horrible fights."

Bullock Claims Surplus Shrinks

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock has issued a revised revenue forecast showing that legislative spending since January has cut deeply into the state's surplus and that the question of a tax bill may be here today and not gone tomorrow.

"It's as close as bark on a tree," Bullock said of the likelihood of a tax bill. "It rests solely on the priorities the Legislature sets in the next 60 days."

Bullock's revised estimate shows a drop of $312.2 million, leaving $3.7 billion the state can expect to be available for the 1976-77 budget. The new estimate shows the state's surplus will be $750.6 million at the end of this budget year on Aug. 31, down $248.8 million since January because of emergency spending bills passed by the Legislature.

Losses Force Closing Of Bank In Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The Franklin Bank was closed today for liquidation and a spokesman for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. said about 95 per cent of the deposits are insured or secured.

Charles Pickett, FDIC regional counsel, said deposit records are being verified as "we could be ready for payoff as early as Thursday."

A news release Monday said directors had determined the bank "is currently insolvent and its capital impaired."

A statement on the locked revolving door of the bank said that losses found by state and federal examiners centered primarily on old real estate loans and investments which had "deteriorated materially" in value.

REAL ESTATE
The news release said the losses were "primarily writeoffs of real estate loans" and that the lack of liquidity of such loans, coupled with "current adverse economic conditions, including depressed real

Bottle Dated 1835 Found

The Prospectors Club held a rock and artifact hunt last Saturday on the Morgan Martin Ranch about 15 miles from Big Spring. The convoy, consisting of 18 cars, left the Highland Mall parking lot at 1:00 p.m. Approximately 40 people participated in the hunt.

A variety of unusually shaped rocks were uncovered. Among the finds were some flint with different colored bands and spots, fossils, cactus driftwood, a large perfect arrowhead, and two smaller ones. Something new for 'rock-hounds' was found — an active beehive in an opening in a cliff overlooking the creekbed. Some pieces of honeycomb, without the honey, were found on the ground. Also, two of the young men were hunting for rattlesnakes and captured three. The rattlers will be held for the Rattlesnake roundup this weekend.

An old dump ground was searched for bottles, and a bottle dated 1835 was found.

Yellow spring flowers were everywhere, the group noted, and there were other flowers in vivid colors of blue, pink, and purple.

May Have To Sterilize Prolific Patriarch Bobo

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The days of parenthood may soon be coming to an end for the prolific patriarch of the Louisville zoo's lions, Bobo.

Zoo officials say Bobo has fathered so many cubs—and the cubs are so hard to give away—that the animal may have to be sterilized.

Robert Bean, zoo director, says a vasectomy would solve the problem of too many cubs and would still leave the 17-year-old lion with his masculine traits and thick mane.

The zoo now has six surplus cubs, which officials say once would have been easy to give away to other zoos across the country.

Now, however, zoo officials say some captive species have become overpopulated. They also say federal regulations restrict their ability to buy and sell animals to other zoos.

In particular, they point to the Endangered Species Act of 1973, which barred commercialization of animals in danger of extinction.

Department of the Interior regulations require permits

An Interior Department spokesman, however, said the agency is just trying to follow the intent of Congress.

By JAY SHARRUTT
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—As a playwright, Frank Gilroy is supposed to be a quiet, morose, world-weary chap whose college major was brooding.
But Gilroy, who won the 1964 Pulitzer Prize for his play, "The Subject Was Roses," cracks jokes, talks a mile a minute and generally appears he's about to emit "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

At least that's the impression we got in talking with the New York-born author about his first TV show in 14 years, a 90-minute

NBC drama called "Gibbsville," which he wrote and also directed.
After learning the show consists of 10 John O'Hara stories Gilroy made into one and that it airs April 12, we also learned he once almost became a career Dixieland trumpeter. Four things stopped him.

He (a) didn't like to practice; (b) didn't like to play customer requests; (c) didn't have a real desire to be a professional musician; and (d) found he really wanted to be a writer.
He said all this became clear in the summer of 1950 when, after graduating from Dartmouth, he led a Dixieland band in New Jersey.
"It was a wonderful cathartic summer for me because I had a great time and found out that while I could appreciate jazz, I was never meant to be a player," he said.

Gilroy, 49, is a member of that hardy clan of New York writers whose careers began when TV was young, in the early 1950s when live TV drama flourished, written by such unknowns as Rod Serling.
"It was almost like the Oklahoma land grab," he recalled. "Suddenly there was this new virgin territory opened up and it was unstructured. No one had an agent. Everyone wrote on speculation."
Gilroy's next project is a Charles Bronson movie he wrote and will direct. He said he got into directing five years ago partly for the creative satisfaction and partly to avoid the demons that plague writers when the Muse fails to come across.

The first TV piece he ever sold was a 10-minute sketch for "The Kate Smith Show."
"I got $350," he said, then laughed. "I immediately quit my job, which was renting beach cabanas on Long Island during the winter. Whereupon I didn't sell anything else for 11 months."

'Nation Can't Survive As Separate Entity'

The 1948 Hyperion Club, which met Thursday in the home of Mrs. W. E. Archer, 802 Edwards Blvd., heard the club president, Mrs. W. F. Winn, in a program entitled "The Pendulum Swings to 1976 - Emergence of Global Interdependence."

The program focused on the enormous growth of interdependence among nations, as witnessed during the last 25 years, brought about by the stresses on the earth's ecosystems and competition for scarce resources.

Mrs. Winn said that in the United States, whose relationship with the world was one confined to international trade, economic interdependence now includes the complex international monetary system and the expanding production of multinational corporations (with affiliates) which increased between 1950-1966 from 7,000 to 23,000 in numbers.

"To this, add ecological, technological and natural and social interdependencies, and we begin to see how dependent we are on resources and cooperation of other nations," said the speaker.

"The events of the 1970's confirmed this, with the OPEC nations quadrupling the price of oil and the 'developing nations' (custodians of one-half the world's known resources of raw materials) taking their cue from the oil producers and making demands for new global economy that would narrow the disparity between the world's rich and the world's poor."

Mrs. Winn quoted from Lester Brown, author of "World Without Borders," when she said, "It's ironic that as we prepare to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the independence of our country, we suddenly discover that we are losing much of the national independence that we have traditionally enjoyed."

We're discovering that we no longer live alone; we are all on a space ship. A nation can no longer survive as a separate entity. How can we make the right decision for survival?"

In conclusion, the speaker presented a statement from the Columbia University economist, Emile Benoit: "Our earth, we now begin to realize, does not and cannot supply us with an unlimited amount of usable energy, raw materials, foodstuffs, safe dumping grounds for our waste products, or even standing room." He said the earth's resources are limited, and the critical question is what the time limits are. Consequently, the need to slow industrial growth to sustainable rates is affecting thinking in all fields; "the world's supply of energy, its financial stability and its peace appear to be bound up together."

Mrs. Winn presided as the club agreed to participate in the local bicentennial celebration. Mrs. Merle Stewart, cohostess, assisted in serving refreshments.

The next meeting will be April 17 with Mrs. J.W. Kuykendall and Mrs. Harvey Williamson being cohostesses. The program, "The Next Crises - Universal Famine?" will be given by Mrs. R. Earl Price.

MISS KARYL THAMES, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thames, Sterling City Route, is hoping to be named Miss Diamondback at the Jaycee-sponsored contest this evening. A senior at Big Spring High School, she was named Band Sweetheart, Key Club Calendar Girl and is a member of the Meistersingers. She plans to attend Howard College.

"Eating is an elemental fact of life," concluded Mrs. Holtorf. "Though foods we eat may be similar, the way we eat them and how we present them make the difference."

Mrs. Phyllis Cox, cohostess, assisted in serving refreshments.

The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. April 30 in the home of Mrs. Hanselman, 191-B Hunters Drive.

Well People Don't Like Visits From Sick Ones

DEAR ABBY: Will you please try to get it across to people who are sick that they should stay home? And if their kids are sick, they should keep THEM home, too?

One night last week, we invited another couple over for bridge. When they arrived, I opened the door, and Mrs. X, greet us with a voice so hoarse she could hardly talk. Then she wiped her dripping nose and went into a coughing fit.

I said: "Oh, if you aren't well, maybe we'd better make it another night - when you're feeling better." She said: "Oh, I'm not THAT sick." Then she walked in and sat down. Her husband said he just got over something that had been going around and he must have given it to her.

She kept wiping her nose and coughing all evening. She even asked if she could see the children (Imagine?) I told her I thought maybe she'd better not.

Abby, I couldn't wait until that couple went home. I wish you'd put this in your column for all those inconsiderate carriers who insist on going to work and school to spread their germs around.

SICK OF CARRIERS

DEAR SICK: Here's your letter. I'm as sick of inconsiderate carriers as you are.

DEAR ABBY: On last New Year's Eve, I drove 150 miles to surprise my husband. I surprised him all right! Him and her both.

After she left and I finished my screaming and cursing, we settled down to a sensible conversation. I don't know what made me give him to chance to explain, but I'm glad I did. He told me that I am the woman he LOVES, and I believe him.

We have talked many times since then and are slowly recovering from this single act of unfaithfulness. My husband travels for a living, and what happened to him is more likely to happen to a traveling man, no matter how much he loves his wife.

We all make mistakes. But the biggest mistake of all is refusing to forgive and forget.

LOVED IN KENTUCKY
DEAR LOVED: Hooray for you!
Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Ara's Vacation Lets Him Take It Easy

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Ara Parseghian is taking life a lot easier these days and his friends, colleagues and family say it's much easier being around him.

"He's a lot looser. You can tell the difference," says Roger Valdiserri, sports information director at Notre Dame.

Valdiserri said "you could tell the strain" in Parseghian before he resigned as football coach of the Fighting Irish after their Orange Bowl victory over Alabama.

Parseghian admits the strain of 25 years in coaching had gotten to him. "I just felt emotionally and physically drained," he said in an interview in his new office at the rear of the Athletic and Convocation Center.

A man who normally wouldn't even take an aspirin for a headache, last fall Parseghian found himself downing two blood pressure pills a day, a tranquilizer and an occasional sleeping pill.

"That's no way for a guy to live," the 51-year-old French-Armenian from Akron, Ohio, told himself. "I had a warning from my doctor four years ago that I had to slow down. Not a warning in the sense that anything of major consequence would happen, but I should somehow or other slow my pace down."

Friends say Parseghian's wife played a major role in his decision to step down, leaving behind a record of 94 victories, 17 losses and 4 ties, second only to the 105-12-5 record of Knute Rockne.

"The pressure of recruiting is off," he said. The pressure of the season is gone. When the season comes around again, I won't have to worry about it. I feel much more comfortable now than I did before."

But don't be deceived by talk of a slower schedule. Parseghian was on the road five of the first seven weeks after his resignation.

When he's in South Bend, he still gets up by 5:30 a.m. and heads for Mill's Grill, where he reads the Chicago Tribune, Chicago Sun-Times and Wall Street Journal over breakfast.

Reaching the Notre Dame campus early, Parseghian and his secretary work at a backlog of correspondence.

Though not technically holding any position at the university, Parseghian has a small office out of sight of the coaching offices. "I'm back in a dungeon without windows," he said.

At noon, Parseghian heads for the racquet ball court and a vigorous one-hour workout, usually pairing off with someone from the coaching staff. A quick shower and he's back at his desk, taking time for a bowl of soup or a salad brought in by his secretary.

Parseghian also does public relations work for a Florida land development corporation and is national campaign chairman for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

He has promised his wife Katie he will stay out of coaching for one year—1975. He refuses to discuss what the future may hold.

The closest he has come to giving a clue to the future was during an interview in Indianapolis earlier this month when he said, "The next level of ascension is the pro ranks. If I take the option, I would guess it would be in that area."

Valdiserri agrees with the statement. "I look for him to get back into coaching... in the pro field. Where do you coach college after Notre Dame?"

TAKING IT EASY — Former Notre Dame football coach Ara Parseghian relaxes in his office in South Bend at the rear of the Athletic and Convocation Center. He is taking life a lot easier since he resigned "emotionally and physically drained" after 25 years of coaching. Parseghian on the sidelines led the Fighting Irish to a 94-17-4 record. He said he was taking pills and "that is no way for a guy to live."

Exhibition Performance May Be The End For Steve Blass

By The Associated Press

"Same old stuff, eh?" Steve Blass said, looking up wearily from the stool in front of his locker.

"What do you think now?" the questioner asked. "I don't know. I just don't know." This time he didn't look up.

It was another disastrous outing, one of many the 32-year-old Pittsburgh right-hander "has experienced since his career hit the skids after a 19-8 record in 1972.

He allowed 10 runs and 11 walks as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Pirates 16-4 Monday to split an exhibition baseball doubleheader. The Pirates won the opener 8-2 and got some good pitching news when right-hander Bob Moose, who was sidelined most of last season after surgery to remove a blood clot from his pitching arm, allowed only two hits and two runs—in five innings.

Blass, the 1971 World Series hero who spent last season in the minors battling control problems, started the nightcap and allowed two runs over the first three innings. His moderate success came to an abrupt halt in the fourth when he walked home five of Chicago's eight runs in the inning before being lifted.

It may have marked the end of the road for the personable Blass. Manager Danny Murtaugh sat in his office afterward, his rocking chair going at a faster pace than usual, and said he was undecided whether Blass would get another chance. Blass has said he won't go back to the minors.

"I was pulling so hard for Steve," Murtaugh said. Then he cursed, something he doesn't often do.

Elsewhere, Ron Cey drove in seven runs with a pair of homers and the Los Angeles Dodgers hung on for a 13-12 victory over the Boston Red Sox in a wild game featuring 36 hits, 17 of them for extra bases.

Bill Lee, who took a cortisone shot for an aching elbow one week ago, was tagged for 12 hits and six runs in five innings but insisted his arm was fine.

The Cincinnati Reds rapped St. Louis relief ace Al Hrabosky for three runs on five hits in the eighth inning and won 6-4.

Greg Luzinski homered, tripled and singled as the Philadelphia Phillies outslugged the New York Mets 9-7. Bill Robinson also homered for the Phils while New York's Dave Kingman hit two more.

Jim Barr, scheduled to face San Diego on opening day, pitched seven strong innings and hit a bases-loaded inside-the-park home run for the San Francisco Giants in a 15-3 walloping of the Padres.

Angel Mangual's two-run homer in the ninth inning off Horacio Pina lifted the Oakland A's past the California Angels 8-7. George Scott's two-run single highlighted a five-run fifth inning and Ed Rodriguez pitched five innings of three-hit ball, leading the Milwaukee Brewers to a 7-6 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

The Texas Rangers scored seven runs off Minnesota ace Bert Blyleven in the first four innings and trimmed the Twins 8-5.

Ron LeFlore led off the bottom of the 10th inning with a triple and scored when shortstop Fred Stanley's relay throw to Detroit Tigers a 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees.

Bruins On Top In NCAA Again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach John Wooden says his UCLA Bruins might be on top of the college basketball ratings but it wouldn't be an upset if they lost in the NCAA championship playoffs.

"It might sound like a cliché, but when you get this far along anyone can beat anyone," Wooden said of the NCAA semifinals and finals this weekend in San Diego.

"If anyone is weak, they've fallen by the wayside. There is hardly such a thing as an upset when you get to the final four," Wooden said.

The Bruins, after an 89-75 victory over Arizona State to win the West Regional, were voted No. 1 in The Associated Press major college basketball poll as they looked towards their ninth NCAA title in 11 years.

The four teams in the finals held four of the six top spots in the poll.

Kentucky, an upset 92-90 winner over previously unbeaten and top-ranked Indiana, won the Midwest Regional and was voted second with Indiana, 31-1, third.

Louisville, which won the Midwest Region from Maryland, was fourth with Maryland, fifth, ending its season 24-5.

The falling of Indiana from the top ripped through the poll standings and saw Louisville drop a notch from third even though they defeated last week's No. 4 team, Maryland.

Syracuse jumped all the way from 20th to among the leaders. Rounding out the Top 10 are Arizona State as number seven, followed by North Carolina State, North Carolina and Marquette.

UCLA takes a 26-3 record into the semifinals, where the Bruins will face Louisville, 27-2. Syracuse, 23-7, opposes Kentucky, 25-4.

"Some thought it was an upset when Kentucky defeated Indiana," Wooden said.

"I had picked Indiana to go to the championship but I still didn't consider that an upset. As I said, when it's this far along there are no real surprises."

Wooden said, "There is a lot you could say about making any one of the teams the favorite."

The Top Twenty teams in the weekly Associated Press major college basketball poll, with first place votes in parentheses, season records through games of Sunday, March 23, and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20:18:14:12:10:9:8 etc.

Colonels Wear Out Stars

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — "Our main worry tonight was not to wear people out," Coach Hubie Brown said after his Kentucky Colonels gained a methodical 99-84 American Basketball Association victory over the Utah Stars.

Monday night's victory pulled the Colonels within 3 1/2 games of the idle New York Nets in the ABA Eastern Division. "We're 3 1/2 down with seven to go," Brown said.

The game was the only ABA action of the night. There were no National Basketball Association games played.

Since Kentucky plays New York only twice more, a triumph over the Nets Wednesday night in Uniondale, N.Y., is a must, along with a loss by New York at some point, if Kentucky is to win the division title. And the Colonels have only eight healthy players.

Forward Jim Bradley is recovering from a broken foot, and guard Gene Littles is in the hospital with pneumonia. "We're not in great shape, let's face it," the Kentucky coach said.

"We even played Marvin (forward Marvin Roberts) at guard the last four minutes so that he would get familiar with it in case Teddy (McClain), Louie (Dampier) or Bird (Averitt) gets hurt," he said.

Brown said he wasn't being pessimistic, however. "The last three times we've been in New York, we were ahead at the end of three periods. "We played pretty well against the Nets, so I'm feeling good about it," he said.

Ali Kayos Wepner, Claims Dirty Bout

CLEVELAND (AP) — "I tried to kill him, I tried to annihilate him, he was a dirty fighter... eye for an eye, tooth for a tooth."

Muslim Muhammad Ali reached into the Bible to find words to describe the bitterness that swept him after a wild last-round victory over obscure Chuck Wepner that preserved his world heavyweight boxing championship Monday night.

It wasn't one of Ali's most glorious hours. For 14 rounds and most of the 15th, the big, awkward, bar room brawler from New Jersey stood toe to toe with the world title-holder, taking Ali's best shots without buckling.

The great Ali was booed in the sixth round when he stood in the corner, covering his face from Wepner's marshmallow left hooks and looping rights.

Ali dropped to the lower strands of the ropes in the ninth for a disputed knockdown. He was only a shadow of the great fighter that battled his way to the heavyweight crown only to have it taken from him unjustly and then regain it.

He wasn't the Ali who fought two great battles with Joe Frazier and smashed George Foreman into submission last October in Zaire, Africa—and he admitted it.

But, like a choreographer, he rallied for a stirring finish that left his legion of followers again chanting, "Ali, Ali, Ali."

With seconds left in the 15th round, the champion unleashed a devastating attack. He nailed Wepner with a left and then shot a straight right to the jaw that had the impact of a sledgehammer.

Wepner was bleeding from a cut over the left eye and his face was reddened and bruised from scores of unblocked punches. He collapsed against the ropes and dropped to the canvas like a stricken moose.

Pluckly, the challenger groped to his feet at the count of nine but referee Tony Perez interceded. Ali was the winner by a technical knockout in 2:41 of the 15th round. It will be recorded as a knockout because TKO's are not counted in heavyweight title fights.

As Wepner was literally dragged to his corner by manager Al Braverman—while the crowd of 14,847 in the Cleveland Coliseum yelled wildly—Ali on the other side of the ring, slumped to the floor.

He lay there momentarily—as if unconscious from exhaustion. There were moments of high tension. It appeared to be a fight ending with both boxers prostrate. But it was a Muhammad bag. Boxing's greatest actor was on stage again.

"Too many fools were climbing into the ring," he said. "I just lay down."

In one breath, Ali praised Wepner as a creditable fighter—"better than you all gave him credit for. George Foreman and Ken Norton were easier,"—and in the next breath he lashed out at both the ring tactics of his opponent and the performance of Perez, the referee.

"He was a dirty dog," Ali said of Perez. "He let that man keep banging me on the head. I got two welts on the back of my head. Wepner butted me and he kicked me once. The referee didn't say anything."

Easter Seal Meet Begins Thursday

The Howard College Stars will take on Coahoma in the opening game of the Easter Seals Invitational Basketball Tournament Thursday at Howard College gym.

The 6:15 p.m. game will kick off the two day tournament featuring eight area teams.

At 7:30 p.m., the Smith-Coleman Oil Co. team, Big Spring will take on Heap Equipment Co., Odessa and other first round action pits the State National Bank with San Angelo Sheriff's Posse at 8:45 p.m. and Cabot and Nickel Chrysler-Plymouth of Midland will square off at 10 p.m.

Fridays games will be at the same hours, with both a champion and consolation bracket champion named.

First, second, third, and consolation trophies will be awarded. Admission is 50 cents each per night of action.

Quarry Hangs 'Em Up After Loss To Norton

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Quarry, his face battered and covered with blood after a devastating loss to Ken Norton, quietly announced his retirement from boxing Monday and exited Madison Square Garden asking that he be allowed to keep his pride.

Harassed by photographers' flash bulbs after being stopped in the fifth round of the scheduled 12-rounder, Quarry said: "No more damn pictures. 'I want to go with a little pride."

Norton scored repeatedly throughout the fight—a closed circuit television preliminary to the Muhammad Ali-Chuck Wepner bout—with left-right combinations and left jabs.

Norton, 29 like Quarry, immediately thrust himself back into the heavyweight championship picture when he opened a gash above Quarry's right eye in the third round and then closed Quarry's right eye in the fifth.

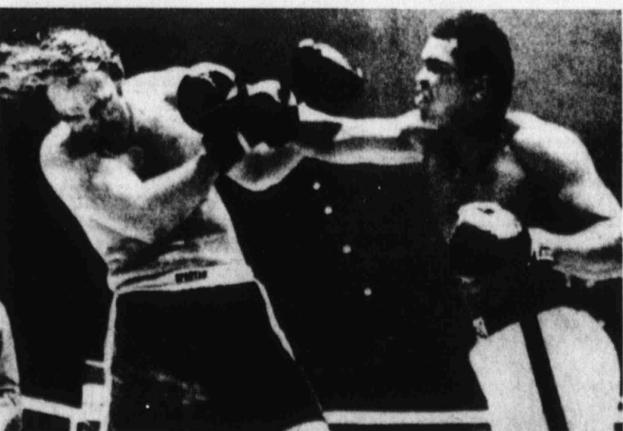

Norton scored with a left-right combination, landed another hard right, then a left jab and referee John LoBianco stepped in and stopped the fight at 2:29 of the fifth round. "I couldn't see," said

Quarry, whose only real flurry of scoring punches came in the third round. "We gave it a try."

"The time has come to quit," the heavyweight said as he was escorted into a private elevator with his wife and left the Garden area in a taxicab.

Norton, picking up his 33rd victory against three losses, began battering Quarry in the first round with left jabs and several right uppercuts.

After a brief Norton flurry in the third, Quarry appeared to be the aggressor as he backed Norton into the ropes and failed away.

Public Hunting Hearing Planned

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department has set the time and date for public hearings on proposed regulations of particular interests to sportsmen in Texas.

Individuals interested in hearing the new proposals and wishing to make comments about these items should be present at the county courthouse in Big Spring at 10:00 a.m. Wednesday.

The department holds these hearings every year to gather information concerning proposed hunting, fishing and trapping regulations.

All comments made at each hearing will be recorded and presented to the Parks and Wildlife commission for their consideration at a later date.

Texas game wardens and biologists have been gathering pertinent information during the 1974 hunting, fishing and trapping seasons. This information is studied, discussed and it will be presented as a new proposal at each hearing.

Each meeting will be headed by a hearing officer, an inland fisheries biologist, a wildlife biologist and a law enforcement official.

Upon approval of these proposals by the Parks and Wildlife commission, the proposals will become law and listed in the new 1975-76 hunting, fishing and trapping regulations to be available prior to the start of the 1975 season.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department invites anyone having comments about wildlife proposals or wishing to hear the new proposals to attend their county hearing.

More information about the hearings can be obtained by contacting your county game warden or by calling Amarillo (806) 355-9246 Lubbock (806) 744-6847 or Abilene (915) 673-3333.

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu today ordered his prime minister to reshuffle the cabinet into a "fighting government" and invited "qualified anti-Communist nationalists" to participate, Radio Saigon announced. The order comes on the heels of a three-week-old North Vietnamese offensive which has forced the Saigon government to abandon 11 provinces and the major northern city of Hue. Da Nang, the country's second largest city, was gripped by fear as the North Vietnamese tightened their hold on the northern quarter of the country.

DEFEAT INVADERS
The announcement quoted Thieu as ordering the move "to better cope with the emergency situation in our country and to answer emergency requirements in essential areas." He said these areas were "the defense of the country, (to) provide refugee relief, stabilize the urban areas, increase production to support the battlefield, mobilize the national spirit for the anti-Communist struggle and defeat the North Vietnamese invaders."

Associated Press Correspondent Peter Arnett reported that the South Vietnamese army was forming a new defense line around Da Nang. He said the southern anchor was at Thanh Binh, 25 miles to the south, and the northern perimeter beyond the Hai Van Pass, perhaps 15 to 29 miles to the north.

REINFORCED
Vietnamese sources said the northern perimeter was being reinforced with marines. Da Nang, where U.S. combat troops first entered the Vietnam War in March 1965, was tense and jammed, its population of half a million more than doubled by refugees. Streets were clogged. Panicky civilians swamped the Air Vietnam terminal, trying to get out of the city. Some soldiers deserted and joined their families on overloaded boats for Saigon.

Official sources told Arnett it did not appear that the Communists would try immediately to take Da Nang. They said intelligence reports indicated no units were targeted against the city.

Between 300 and 400 Americans were still in Da Nang, including families of diplomatic personnel and civilians working under contract for the South Vietnamese government, Arnett reported.

STANDING BY
The abandonment of Hue, 50 miles north of Da Nang, and two other provincial capitals, Tam Ky and Quang Ngai to the south, extended the Communist command's control to about 50 per cent of South Vietnam's 66,000 square miles, including 11 of the country's 44 provinces. The population of those 11 provinces numbered more than 3 million, or about 15 per cent of the country's total 20 million, before the government's reverses this year.
