

CONNALLY TRIAL CONTINUES

Acquittal Move Is Turned Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief U.S. District Judge George L. Hart refused today to order acquittal of former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, charged with bribery.

Hart's ruling means Connally's trial will continue with the defense presenting its case.

Connally's lawyer, Edward Bennett Williams, had asked the judge to order the jury to acquit Connally because of insufficient evidence and because prosecutors chose the wrong law to accuse him of violating.

Hart disagreed on both counts.

Connally is accused of taking two illegal $5,000 gifts in 1971 for urging President Nixon to order an increase in milk price supports.

Williams argued that the chief witness in the case, Jake Jacobsen, gave testimony so tainted by Jacobsen's prior perjury and his plea bargain with prosecutors that no jury could believe his accusations beyond reasonable doubt.

Jacobsen, one-time lawyer for Associated Milk Producers Inc. swears Connally took the gifts.

Assistant special prosecutor Frank M. Tuerkheimer said the government had produced evidence to support Jacobsen's testimony. Judge Hart ruled that given the most favorable interpretation of the prosecutor's case, "reasonable men could find him (Connally) guilty beyond reasonable doubt."

Williams spent most of his oral arguments attempting to show that Connally could not be guilty of the bribery charges because his advice to President Nixon did not constitute an "official act." The law under which Connally is charged makes it illegal for a public official to accept anything valuable because of acts done in his official capacity.

Williams argued that only the secretary of agriculture has the legal authority to set price supports, and that the President may fire him but may not legally order him to set any particular level. Williams argued that the advice given by Connally as secretary of the treasury was political advice, not of official advice. But Hart was not persuaded.

"The court holds as a matter of law that the secretary of the treasury...was advising the President on price supports while acting in an official capacity," Hart said.

The arguments for a directed verdict were presented in open court but with the jury absent.

Jacobsen says he lied under oath on previous occasions when he swore Connally didn't take the money. He accused Connally only as part of a deal in which the government reduced a number of felony counts against Jacobsen to a single bribery count.

"Jacobsen, as the evidence has shown, claims to be an accomplice to the crimes charged against the defendant," Williams said in his legal brief.

"Moreover, he has served as an informer paid by the government—not in money, in the more valuable coin of whitewashes of his other crimes. He is also, by his own admission, a perjurer."

Chad Army In Power

N'DJAMENA, Chad (AP) — The leaders of Chad's army have seized power after overthrowing President Ngarta Tombalbaye. Official sources said the president, who had survived seven previous coup attempts, was killed in a brief but bloody attack on his palace.

The sources said a number of persons were killed or wounded Sunday when troops and national police attacked the presidential palace with mortars and artillery shortly after dawn.

Some firing was also reported from a military camp in the center of the city, which was named Ft. Lamy when Chad was a French colony. Chad is a poverty-stricken republic in north central Africa.

The palace guard resisted for about four hours, the sources reported. After the firing subsided, jubilant troops drove through the streets shouting: "We've won! Tombalbaye is dead!" Gen. Noel Odingar, acting commander of the armed forces, ordered a dusk-to-dawn curfew on the country and appealed for calm.

Masked Men Take Over Car

When Mrs. Lucy Martinez, 22, got into her car at the 7-11 store, shortly after midnight Sunday, two men rose from the floor of the back seat. "Just Drive," said the masked men, according to Mrs. Martinez.

Her husband reported to police at 1:18 a.m., that he was worried about her whereabouts and gave a description of the car. She drove them for approximately two hours before they got out at FM700 east of Birdwell Lane, she said. She was unharmed. Police urged persons going into stores to keep their car locked while they are out of the vehicle.

STUDENTS HOT

Facility Cost Is Defended

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M officials say student anger is unwarranted over a new $1.4 million meeting facility for the university's board of directors.

"There is always someone who doesn't like this bench or that couch," says Gen. A.R. Leudeke, vice president for planning and construction at A&M. "You have to look at the whole thing."

The "whole thing" takes in much of the furnishings of the board of directors annex, which is used for gatherings of the nine directors who meet about six times a year. They are appointed by the governor.

Among the furnishings is a $9,068 Cloisonne vase dating back to 1740. There is a 19th century Chippendale dining table with a $4,500 price tag, and a 17th century eight-panel Japanese screen which hides a rear view projection screen.

The facility also houses a $4,200 pair of Italian marble busts of Roman senators, a $15,000 original painting of "Miles of Bluebonnets" and several custom-designed rugs.

In the dining room, guests eat from a $24,300 Pickard china service and from a set of $42,615 sterling silver. The settings are for 450, substantially more than the room will hold.

"I live in a dorm built in the 1920s. The paint is peeling. There are ants everywhere," says Jamie DeWitt, a freshman student from Dallas. "If I come in after my roommate is asleep, I wake him because everything squeaks. And they're spending money like this."

Most of the grumbling about the expensive new facility has come from students. They have asked their student senate to vote on whether the Texas Legislature should investigate the expenditure.

But trustee William Lewis Jr. of Waco defends the directors' facility and the elaborate furnishings.

"In the old one (a 1912 mansion), we'd have to spend eight or nine hours a day meeting because there wasn't enough room for all the architects, engineers and projection screens we needed," he said.

Leudeke has taken in stride the students' complaints about the $470 hairy cowhide benches with brass feet and a display of mounted animal heads in the new student center.

"This stir is unwarranted," he said. Few of A&M's 21,000 students have seen the directors' facility because it is kept locked and is opened only on special request.

Gunman Cut Down

WHEATON, Md. (AP) — A smiling gunman carrying a knapsack of ammunition and a machete killed two persons and wounded four others in a suburban shopping district before police shot and killed him.

For 15 minutes the gunman walked through the area Sunday night firing pointblank into cars stopped at traffic lights and in one case at a pedestrian. "He was smiling. I thought he had been shooting blanks," said 19-year-old William Painter, one of an estimated 40-50 witnesses to the shooting binge.

"Some witnesses ducked for cover. Others just stood their and watched in disbelief," said police Capt. Miles R. Daniels.

Two policemen shot and killed the gunman when he ignored their orders to surrender and he fired into another auto.

Police said there were indications the shootings were racially motivated. All of the victims were black and the gunman was white. He passed up at least one car with whites as he walked down a highway looking for another auto, said Police Supt. Kenneth Watkins.

The gunman was identified as Michael Edward Pearce, 29, an unemployed carpenter who lived with his mother in nearby Silver Spring, Md. Police said they found two shotguns and two rifles along with a large cache of ammunition at his home.

MOON LANDING MURAL — A new mural, painted by Allyn Cox, showing the highlights of the moon mission, which was climaxed on July 20, 1969, with the first landing by men on the moon, now decorates one of the hallways of the Capitol in Washington. The mural shows American astronauts blasting from earth and landing on the moon.

Big Drop Noted In Inventories

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by a big decline in the backlog of automobiles, inventories of the nation's businesses fell by a record $1.5 billion in February, the Commerce Department reported today.

RAPE TRY CLAIMED

Little Attorneys Want Trial Moved

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Defense lawyers for Joanne Little, charged with killing a jail guard she said tried to rape her, begin arguing pretrial motions today.

Attorneys Jerry Paul and Karen Galloway will ask Judge Henry McKinnon in Beaufort County Superior Court to move Miss Little's first degree murder trial away from the county. They have indicated their arguments will be based on the results of an extensive survey of residents' attitudes in Beaufort and surrounding eastern North Carolina counties.

The defense will also seek a delay in the trial, which was once set for Monday, arguing that Miss Little's health is too fragile for her to stand trial. Her doctor stated that she needs rest and treatment for a thyroid condition.

McKinnon, appointed as a special judge to hear the case, said he may order an independent medical examination of Miss Little before ruling on the motion.

Miss Little, a 20-year-old black, is charged with the ice pick slaying of Clarence Alligood, a 62-year-old white jailer. Alligood was found nude from the waist down in Miss Little's cell.

Miss Little, who was awaiting appeal of a breaking and entering conviction, fled the jail in the early morning of last Aug. 27. She turned herself into state authorities in Raleigh eight days later.

More than 1,000 eastern North Carolinians were interviewed in the defense poll as attorneys sought to determine where Miss Little would be most likely to get a fair trial.

Six Lives Are Claimed In Louisiana Collision

THIBODAUX, La. (AP) — A car carrying seven persons veered off and back on the highway and collided with another car, killing six persons Sunday, state police said.

Officers said they did not know why the car went out of control.

The lone occupant of the second car, Joseph E. Ward of Morgan City, La., suffered minor injuries.

The only survivor in the other car was identified as Mary Ann Barnes, 27, of Labadieville, La., who was reported in serious condition.

Names of the dead were withheld until relatives could be notified.

The accident happened seven miles north of this Southeast Louisiana town.

Application For Funds To Be Discussion Topic

The first of two Town Hall meetings will be held by city officials at 7:30 p.m. today at the Northside Fire Station.

Purpose of the meeting is to receive citizen input into ideas for the application to be filed by the city for HUD funds for lower income portions of the city.

The second meeting will be held next Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the city auditorium. Any interested citizen is invited to attend.

Ehrlichman Suspended

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman, former White House aide convicted of Watergate cover-up charges, was suspended today from the practice of law before the Supreme Court.

The court gave Ehrlichman, who at one time was former President Nixon's chief domestic adviser, 60 days to show why he should not be disbarred.

Ranks Thinner But Vets Spry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The day is rapidly approaching when the ranks of America's oldest veterans, those who fought in the Spanish-American war, will dwindle to fewer than 1,000. But many are still surprisingly spry.

The Veterans Administration counted 1,098 Spanish-American war vets alive last month. That compares with 1,595 alive last July and 1,804 alive in July of 1973. There were 392,000 Americans who participated in the turn-of-the-century hostilities.

The oldest is believed to be 105-year-old Nelson Norton of Whitestown, Ind., whose 95-year-old brother, Everett, of Palestine, Ill., makes them the only known Spanish-American war brothers alive. Nelson lives with his 70-year-old daughter.

The youngest veterans of that war are probably 87 with the average around 95. There are 36 who are 100 years or older.

More than half require somebody to help them get around, but that's how the VA discovered many are still going strong.

All Spanish-American war veterans are entitled to VA pensions, and the agency set out last year to see if some who also might be entitled to a special aid-and-attendance allowance were not getting it.

Although many get that special allowance, the VA counselors found a 90-year-old vet skinning logs for two new cabins he was building at his hunting camp. He suggested he was in better shape than his visitors and got no argument on that score.

A 95-year-old brushed off VA officials, saying he is able to manage on his income, although he was worried about the state of the economy.

A 98-year-old, informed that his situation warranted an increase in his monthly stipend, turned to his wife of 59 years and said: "I'll take you dancing tonight" with the money.

The VA found one 90-year-old still working. He operates an elevator.

Another, age 98, had just returned from 18 holes of golf. He explained it helped restore his strength after a series of heart attacks and he mentioned that he is still "dating."

VA counselors shared lunch with a 95-year-old veteran who had given up his heating business only four years earlier. After lunch, he crushed an empty beer can in his hand.

All the states have Spanish-American war veterans, with California having the most by far, with 180.

Mayor Will Be Named Tonight

COLORADO CITY — The city councilmen will elect their mayor tonight in the annual reorganization of the council and will also name a mayor pro-tem.

The long agenda will also include a public hearing on the budget. The council will consider naming a city attorney. They will also consider a city and engineering report on a water pipe over the west river bridge, award bids on a road grader, consider renewing a contract for collection of delinquent taxes and consider a request for funds from the Little League.

Auto Industry Could Get 'Food Stamp Plan'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is considering a bill to boost employment in the depressed auto industry by having the federal government buy 121,000 new cars and trucks to replace virtually all of its nationwide fleet.

The proposal, characterized by one supporter as a "food stamp program for the automobile manufacturers," would cost $443 million. Its provisions are included in the emergency employment bill which has passed the House and is pending in the Senate.

Instead of replacing its vehicles only after six years or 60,000 miles, the government would replace all but those bought after May 1974.

But President Ford feels the measure is uneconomical, says White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen. James T. Lynn, director of the Office of Management and Budget, says the provision is one reason he would recommend the President veto the bill in its current form.

Because not all of the $443 million would be spent in the same fiscal year, administration officials are hard pressed to figure out exactly how much the measure would add to the budget deficit for fiscal 1976, which

State Agency Has Cut Unlicensed Centers

(This is the second of a series of articles for the Week-of-the-Young-Child, April 6-12, sponsored by the National Association for the Education of Young Children. These features are furnished by the Texas Department of Community Affairs, Office of Early Childhood Development.)
State Department of Public Welfare (DPW), the state agency in charge of licensing and overseeing day care in Texas, has made dramatic strides in reducing the number of unlicensed centers in Texas in the last year.

There is a new legal push to assure that all day care centers are meeting minimum standards and are licensed.

DPW representatives claim that the new day care licensing standards now in effect are at least partially responsible for the better protection offered to Texas children.

Anne Leatherman, DPW's Director of Policy and Standards for the Licensing Division, spoke on the matter recently. She was asked: Why should a day care center seek licensing?

"It is an advantage for a day care center to seek licensing."

"The main reason, and the most obvious, is that it is illegal to operate without a license," she replied.

The operator of a day care center who continues to stay open after court injunction against it can be fined or otherwise penalized by the court.

"Another reason a center should seek license is that when a center is licensed, competition which does not adhere to the standards is cut out," Ms. Leatherman pointed out. "Those who remain in operation are required to live up to the same minimum standards and so can compete on more or less the same basis."

"Third, and most important of all, from the standpoint of the child, a licensed center can offer better protection to children.

Certainly that should be a strong selling point to parents seeking good child care," she said.

"Those going into the day care business need to think through their program. In the planning stage, we give them support, information and even technical help."

"We are striving for a uniform application of the law."

Considering all these advantages, the real question might be, "Why should a day care center avoid licensing?"

Ms. Leatherman was also asked:

Why should a parent choose a licensed center at a higher cost when it may be possible to find an unlicensed day care center around the corner at a cheaper rate?

"Unfortunately that's a problem," says Ms. Leatherman. "That's just what a number of parents do."

"The standards met by licensed centers are rooted in the needs of children. The younger they are, the more vulnerable they are — and the more they need protection. Since a child can't verbally explain what is happening to him in an inadequate center, parents may not know."

"When parents seek out good licensed centers, they have at least some assurance of minimum protection against such things as harsh physical discipline."

"In a licensed center, the child is better protected from aggressive injury on the playground.

"Since there are statutory requirements for children having had all their shots in licensed centers, there is preventive health care involved and a child's health is better protected," she said.

"Information is obtained from the parent when the child first enters the licensed center as to the child's health, and there is a written policy and a procedure for contacting the parent or a physician if the child should fall ill or be injured accidentally."

"The Health Department and the Fire Department have to check out the center before licensing."

'Boring Job Is Better Than No Job At All'

LORDSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The young militants don't sing the "Blue Collar Blues" so loud at General Motors' sprawling plant these days.

The blues — complaints of boredom on the assembly lines, the need for change, the foremen who mistreat workers — have been muted by mortgages, car payments, grocery bills, families and a few years.

"A boring job is better than no job at all," said Sam Di-Petro, one of 2,800 workers laid off at the plant that makes all of GM's Vegas and many Chevrolet and GM vans. Some 1,900 were due back today.

When the most automated auto plant in the world opened here in 1966, the workers' average age was in the early 20s. It was still in the 20s during the big strike in March 1972.

Now the average age is over 30.

ON THE ASSEMBLY LINE — Four nuts are pretty hard to screw on to an air filter one at a time, so Troy Edwards uses a power tool that attaches four at one time in a matter of seconds. Edwards works on the assembly line at the General Motors plant near Youngstown Ohio.

"They have other things on their minds now: car payments, mortgages and families they have to support," said Marlin "Whitey" Ford, 33-year-old president of United Auto Workers Local 1112.

Three years ago last month Local 1112 struck the Lordstown plant set on rolling farmland on the edge of the Cleveland-Akron-Youngstown industrial complex.

The union blamed grievance and contract language for the walkout. Workers voiced another reason: assembly line work was demeaning.

Psychologists called it the "blue collar blues."

Softly in the background in these recession times the blues wail on. "There are some nights I can't wait to get out of there," said James W. Forsyth, 29, a laid-off assembly line worker. "It's the same thing over and over and over."

Ford, the union president, said: "Of course, automation was an issue. It always is. But, the underlying thing was you had a different management that came in trying to run things over people. The people fought back."

In October 1971, GM replaced Chevrolet Division and Fisher Body management at the plant with General Assembly Division executives.

The division eliminated some jobs and combined others. The line was speeded up. Workers rebelled. Many of the 100 Vegas produced each hour had to go to the repair yard for broken key locks, slashed electrical cables and for parts that weren't installed.

The union walked out first in March 1972 for three weeks. In fall 1974, union workers struck again and stayed off the job seven weeks.

Bitterness from that struggle remains. Forsyth said some Lordstown workers are "so down on GM they won't even buy one of their cars."

But, DiPetro, at 41 a representative of the older union faction, thought the crippled economy and the $240-a-week contract minimum wage had mellowed some of the more militant workers.

Management spokesman John E. Brincko thinks, too, that tensions have eased since 1972. He also feels the blue collar blues were overrated, that the 1972 dispute was "just a plain labor dispute."

Eye, Or Kidney — Hard Sell Needed

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — One Pennsylvania man wants to sell an eye; another offers a kidney for cash. Both have drawn inquiries and donations, but it's unlikely any hospital will handle their hard luck cases.

"First of all, it's medically improper and unethical. In addition, a physician could in theory be charged with the English Common Law crime of mayhem — deliberate maiming," says Dr. Cyril Wecht, who has degrees in medicine and law.

"We will not do it. It's sad a person would be faced with this," says Dr. Daniel Brooks of Presbyterian University Hospital, where all of Pittsburgh's kidney transplants are done.

"If somebody is that desperate ... well, it's horrible," says Dr. Keith Hruska of Barnes Hospital in St. Louis, which turned away a Pittsburgh man after he found a possible buyer for his kidney.

Wecht, also the Allegheny County coroner, acknowledged some individuals might benefit from such transplants.

"But the overall harm would be too great," he said. "For example, a man who had waited months for an acceptable kidney might lose it to somebody who simply had more money."

"It would be organs to the highest bidders," Wecht said such "commercial cannibalism" also would increase the malpractice threat.

"A humanitarian operation is one thing," he added. "But imagine the unfavorable atmosphere for the hospital and the physician in a purely commercial transaction."

Wecht said donation of human body parts is regulated under the Anatomical Gift Act, and he encourages people to make such donations in their wills.

"There is a definite shortage of kidneys," he said. "Donors for corneal transplants are not as hard to come by."

Last month, Barnes Hospital in St. Louis refused to even test the Pittsburgh man who made his kidney offer after reading of Donald Schlopy of Kane, Pa., who pledged to sell an eye to the high bidder. Schlopy, 52, said he made the offer to pay debts and move his three children in to a "decent" home.

"There's been a lot of talk going around about whether I started this as a gimmick and never intended to sell the eye to begin with," said Schlopy. "I'm going to stick with the offer."

Finding a potential buyer was no problem for Robert Nuzum, 26 of Pittsburgh, who offered to sell a kidney to pay off $4,700 in debts.

Nuzum, an out-of-work carpenter, found a taker in Harold Jacobs of Crossville, Ill., who's been using a kidney machine for two years.

Barnes Hospital, however, refused to perform the operation on moral and legal grounds. It also said the odds were a "million to one" that Nuzum's kidney would be acceptable for the transplant.

We pick up where Medicare leaves off.

A lot of people think that when they get older is when they can least afford health insurance. The truth is, that's when they can least afford to be without it. Because, by itself, Medicare only covers part of the cost of an accident or sickness.

The Tax Tangle

The Legislative Property Tax Committee, engaged in a lengthy study of the state's property tax law, has released its Phase II interim report, dealing with market values. And included in that report is a powerful argument for statewide property tax valuations.

For its survey, the committee studied statistical samplings of five categories of real property in 35 representative school districts for the 1973 tax year. It projected its findings in these sample districts to arrive at statewide totals.

The survey shows that the 35 districts examined undervalued property on their tax rolls by a combined total of more than $5 billion, or nearly 40 percent. The amount of undervaluation in all Texas school districts is estimated at about $80 billion. That means, on the average, $400,000 of every $1 million worth of taxed property is lost to undervaluation.

Straightening out this tax mess would go a long way toward getting Texas school districts the additional funds they need.

Many urban districts are further penalized, because they tend to tax their property owners at much closer to market values. Statewide, the average undervaluation is from 61 percent for rural property to 25 percent for single-family and commercial property.

Rural counties, therefore, are giving their property owners a break at the expense of urban property owners and school districts. Unless a sizeable productivity factor is cranked into the equation, the amount of undervaluation per student ranges from $800,000 in districts of 100 or less students to about $19,000 in districts with more than 3,000 students.

It is obvious that Texas cannot solve its educational finance problems without bringing uniformity to taxation of property. That will allow the state to put its aid where it is most needed — into those districts already making maximum tax effort, but still falling short of revenue required.

Blocking Action Avenue

The Senate State Affairs Committee has kept from the arsenal a weapon which might have been most effective of all in the enforcement of pollution statutes.

The committee shunted to subcommittee (where the bill will rest in peace in all likelihood) a measure which would have given the attorney general authority to initiate legal action against alleged polluters. As it is now, he can't move unless and until the Texas Water Quality Board or the Texas Air Control Board makes a request. They've been notoriously slow about asking for action, almost as slow as county attorneys in their own localities. It would be helpful for a third source of relief could be provided as an avenue for action when the other two refuse to move. This, however, is likely not to come out of the present session.

My Answer

Billy Graham

I'm discouraged. Maybe you can perk me up. I sponsor a youth group, and it's slow going. What's the secret of success? D. W.

Let me answer your question with the story of the famous New York Fulton Street prayer meeting.

It all started in the 1850's when a New York businessman named Jeremiah Lamphier gave up his business to become a city missionary. One day, he sent out an advertisement for a Wednesday noon prayer meeting to be held in the Dutch church on the corner of Fulton Street. At the appointed time no one showed up, but after half an hour, six had come. Next week there were twenty.

Soon they decided to hold it daily instead of weekly, and within 6 months, 10,000 businessmen were meeting every day to pray for revival. Success and prayer are inseparable.

I know the part prayer plays in our crusades. I'm suggesting that you really go to prayer about this youth group. Enlist others to pray with you and in accordance with Matthew 21:22, believe that you'll see results.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir: The half-page advertisement against the Equal Rights Amendment would have been amusing if it weren't so serious. For a MAN to place such an ad reminds me of all the plantation owners who worked so hard to convince the slaves that they were better off in the slave quarters with "ol marster" looking out for them. Both blacks and women have been considered too incompetent to assume adult responsibilities and full citizenship (and all that cheap labor would be missed). I would be much more receptive to such an advertisement if it were financed by a woman. But, of course, few women have that much money to spend. If the ERA is passed, perhaps a few generations from now this will no longer be true.

Sincerely, Mary Dudley 2510 Lynn Drive

Dear Editor: This letter is in reference to the ad in your paper recently on the Equal Rights Amendment.

The ERA passed by an almost unanimous vote of Congress in March of 1972. The State of Texas ratified the ERA over 2 years ago. And none of the "terrible" things the opponents speak of have happened during that time.

The "Help Stop ERA" ad claims that women have all the rights that "most" women want now. True, there are a few laws that can help women, but it is ridiculous to have to argue in court, case by case, about the interpretation of such laws just so a woman can be judged as an individual. The ERA will forbid discrimination against women as a group or class. Women are not legally persons under the Constitution of the United States and will not be until the ERA becomes part of it.

During World War II a bill was introduced to draft single women between the ages 20 and 35. Gen. Eisenhower said in 1948 that if there was another war that women should be drafted just like men.

All women would not serve in combat any more than all men did. In 1971, only 5 percent of eligible men were drafted and only 1 percent ever served in combat. There are physical requirements for draft and for combat, presumably, whatever a particular woman is physically unable to do she would be exempt from doing, just as men were. I do not want my sons drafted any more or less than my daughter. Women won't be taken away from their children to be drafted just as men have always been exempted for family responsibilities.

Child custody has always been decided by the court, as has child support. Most fathers have to pay because they have the finances to do so, not because of "customary right of child custody."

The ERA will not abolish a woman's right to stay home and rear her children. It will protect women from selfish husbands who might try to take away all of the family property in those states which still leave all the family assets in the hands of the husband.

It is untrue that a woman will be "forced" to place her children in a federal day care center. These will be set up in order that a woman, who so desires, may have a clean, safe place to leave her children while she works.

It would be impossible to write an amendment to the Constitution that would make everyone happy, but I do believe the 27th amendment will be beneficial to all people, of all races, and to both men and women.

Sincerely, Sue Drake 500 W. 17th

All Signs Favorable

NEW YORK (AP) — Seldom has there been such a solid consensus on the future of the economy as the one that now exists. Almost all forecasters see the likelihood of a recovery later this year.

Two more important forecasts were added over the weekend, by the First National City Bank and the Conference Board, a non-profit research and education organization supported mainly by business.

The Conference Board proclaimed: "With the expected stimulation a tax cut will provide, the odds are now nearly 100 percent for a recovery in the final quarter."

Even before the tax cut, the board's economists felt that several factors were combining to tilt the odds in favor of recovery: declining rates of inflation, liquidation of inventories, lower cost and more plentiful credit.

Stanley Reber, director of business analysis for the board, notes that wholesale prices fell at an annual rate of 6.2 per cent in the three months ending with February, compared with a 35 per cent jump in the July-September period.

Reber believes that inflation likely will remain above 5 per cent forever. But he adds that the recent monthly figures on wholesale and retail prices indicate that double-digit inflation is dead.

The reduction in inventories, largely built up in the latter part of 1974, isn't likely to be as pronounced as the drop in the inflation rate, although Reber looks for stability.

Manufacturers inventories continued to rise in January, but the increase amounted to only $3 billion compared with $27 billion worth that accumulated in December.

The Conference Board cites the five month decline in the prime interest rate to less than 8 per cent from more than 12 per cent as the reason to be optimistic about the future economy.

Citibank, while citing some of the same reasons for its optimism, hedged a bit in comparison with the 100 per cent certainty of the Conference Board.

"A recovery is in the making for late 1975," it said, but added that "this recovery, like its predecessors, may be marred by some disappointing although short-lived setbacks."

Its economists do not fear, as many economists do, that the impact of heavy Treasury borrowing will serve to exclude private borrowers from the credit markets in 1975.

It cites as one reason for its optimism that "The counterpart of unusually heavy Treasury borrowing ... is likely to be an unusually large decline in the borrowings of households and businesses."

But it continues, "the judgement concerning the current calendar year does not necessarily hold for the longer run." As the economy recovers from the recession in 1976 and beyond, private demand for credit likely will grow.

As the economy nears full employment in 1977 or 1978, "the monetary authorities will face a painful dilemma unless the federal deficit and related Treasury borrowing diminish sufficiently."

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

That Low-Grade Fever

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am writing in regard to our 17-year-old daughter, who for a year now has had a slight temperature. It runs about 99.4, and she just gets it a while in the afternoon or evening, and not every day.

We were wondering what could cause this. We have had her to a doctor, but the tests never show anything. She has no pep and has a heart murmur. What do you think about this?

Mrs. F.H. I think you may have cause for some concern.

The average body temperature, as almost everyone knows, is 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit, although elevations of up to 99, even 99.2, degrees are considered to be within normal range after an active day.

In your daughter's case, I would regard the 99.4 as indicative of some trouble, especially since the reading has been obtained over a considerable length of time a year, according to your letter. At 17, her body temperature should have become stabilized from the periods of fluctuation expected during her early years. Low-grade fever is only a symptom, not a disease, however, so it would be wise for you to begin looking for its cause. There can be several.

The usual cause for a fever of undetermined origin (FUO is the medical shorthand for it) is an infection, and physicians frequently begin with this assumption either to find the source of the infection or to rule it out.

Other disorders not of an infectious nature can produce a chronic low-grade fever. Collagen (or connective tissue) disease comes to mind as an example.

In the female, especially, we often suspect a urinary tract infection. At her age, the possibility of tuberculosis must be considered. If your daughter has not had a tuberculin skin test and a chest X-ray, she should have.

Another thought in passing. Since you live in a rural area, the possibility of undulant fever from an improperly processed milk supply might be investigated. In this, however, fever is intermittent, low in the morning and rising toward evening. Other symptoms include fatigue and headache.

Considering her "lack of pep" and her heart murmur (normally of rather little significance in itself), the possibility of infection in a heart valve lining should also be investigated. This condition is called "subacute bacterial endocarditis." Rheumatic fever is another possibility.

I've given you a lot to think about, with the hope that it will not raise ghosts for you, but impress upon you the complexity of dealing with a low-grade fever and fevers of undetermined origin in general. It has been and continues to be a puzzler for physicians.

The possibilities listed above can be investigated rather simply with modern medical equipment for blood agglutination tests, blood cultures, urine cultures, and others. Some, however, may require a brief hospital stay.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple — write to Dr. Thosteson, P.O. Box 3090, Elgin, Ill. 60120 for a copy of his booklet.

The Sunny Side

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

According to one expert's estimate, if one percent of the solar energy falling on the Sahara Desert were converted to electric power, it would supply all the world's needs until the year 2000.

GOODY! GOODY! Sun's what we got plenty of.

Alas, although the sun delivers about 300 BTU per hour per square foot (nearly enough to operate a 100-watt light bulb an hour), capturing and putting all that energy to work isn't exactly simple. Scientists have been hacking at it for a long time, but, in view of the energy pinch, they may get more serious than ever.

According to Texas Energy, solar buffs had created a sun-powered engine which was a major attraction in the Paris Exposition of 1878. This drew off enough heat, which, converted to steam power, turned a small printing press. This is essentially what is called the hydroprop process of solar energy conversion.

A 1,900-SQUARE-FOOT home on the Connecticut shore has been designed by an architect and engineer to capture enough solar energy to take care of about 55 percent of its heating requirements. The heart of the system is a series of copper plates, fronted with clear glass to hold in the heat, and backed by insulation on the reverse side. Water or other fluid courses from these plates through copper tubing to a storage tank below. When heat is needed, hot water is circulated from the tank through coils, over which fans blow air to be delivered through regular ducts and registers to all parts of the house. The tank is large enough to hold enough hot water in the event of three successive cloudy days.

IT'S NOT surprising, therefore, that most experts feel that supplemental home heating and cooling is the best application immediately for solar energy. Yet, there are only 25 homes in the country which are heated largely by this process. Cooling systems also can be operated by the same process, although it is not as efficient — but scientists are working on it. Thus, we may find the same source of energy which makes our homes hot in the summer will go far toward making them cool.

THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA has been experimenting with what it calls "solar farms" concept. Again, this gets back to an absorption of the sun's rays from acres, if not miles, of plates, concentrating the heat into molten chemicals to store the energy and thus permit the orderly withdrawal to generate electricity. If, claim the experimenters, a solar farm could cover 5,000 square miles, it would absorb enough energy for one million megawatts of electricity — about three times the present United States needs.

The ultimate approach to power from solar energy, however, may be the photovoltaic or solar cell. This has been used extensively in space programs to power equipment in the outer reaches of space. One drawback is that they are terrifically expensive.

THE "SOLAR TOWER" concept is to mount thousands of heliostats on towers over a square-mile area, then redirect solar-beam radiation into a central receiver, thence directly to power sources or to be used in steam generation of electricity. Experimenters have cited West Texas as an ideal area for commercial application of this concept. One little problem is an estimated $35 billion in capital investment, but it would create some 50,000 new jobs and while supplying vast amounts of power. Tower-concept backers say this kind of power might be competitive with $8 oil. That's a comforting thought in case we ever run short of oil in this area. Meanwhile, what better place to experiment with harnessing the sun than on our sunny acres?

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor: Regarding the recent ad campaign to stop the Equal Rights Amendment, I would like to make some comments.

First, the exact wording of the ERA is unknown to a large number of people so I would like to quote it. It goes as follows:

Section 1: Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex.

Section 2: The Congress shall have the power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

Section 3: This amendment shall take effect two years after the date of ratification.

The ERA was first introduced in Congress over 50 years ago. It was passed by an almost unanimous vote in Congress in March of 1972. It has been endorsed by both major political parties; the last five presidents; the AFL-CIO; the United Auto Workers; Church Women United; Jewish Council of Women. The list goes on and on.

In reply to the charge the women would have to serve in the military, even now Congress has the power to draft any one they please in case of an emergency. During World War II they considered drafting nurses but it wasn't necessary because the nurses and many other women volunteered to serve. The only difference the ERA would make is women would be required to register for the draft as men now do. Why shouldn't women be required to serve their country? It's their country, too. Historically, women have fought beside the men since this country was first settled. They handled guns and stood up to dangers as bravely and as well as any man. It's time the importance of the role women played in settling this country is duly recognized.

Opponents of ERA constantly quote the Constitution and constitutional sources in "support" of their views. Have they forgotten it was written by imperfect human beings and not by a perfect God? Under Article I, Section 2, the Constitution says: "Representatives ... shall be apportioned ... according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons ... (excluding Indians) three-fifths of all other people." Does this mean we are to ignore two-fifths of the "other persons" (which were slaves) in this country? Are we to deny they greatly contributed to the development of this country? Just because this is in the Constitution does that make it right? I think most people with a conscience would say no.

Perhaps we should take a closer look at our Constitution and start correcting the inequities it contains. Ratification of the ERA is a step in the right direction.

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

Winter-Spring, 1775:

The Committee of Safety in Portsmouth, New Hampshire, takes under "serious consideration the practice of Gaming, more especially that at Cards and Billiards [all of which were proscribed by the Continental Congress], which there is great reason to think still prevails in this Town." The Committee urges "all those who furnish the accommodations for these purposes to discontinue their unjustifiable proceedings at this time, when all the Colonies are involved in deep distress and danger; otherwise they may depend upon seeing their names in the public Papers." The Committee also recommends that merchants dealing in European goods "not take any advantage of the times by raising the price of Goods, lest they be found violating the Grand American Association, and of course deemed and treated as inimical to the glorious cause, so zealously espoused by every friend to the just rights of mankind."

Lamesa Man Is Charged

LAMESA — Odon Vallego Vasquez, 35, of Lubbock has been charged with murder in connection with the shooting death of a Lamesa woman, Emma Vasquez, 51, here early Sunday morning.

Lamesa police were called to a residence in east Lamesa about 1:15 a.m., Sunday.

Odon Vasquez was taken to a hospital in Lubbock with eight bullet wounds in what evidently was a shootout. The Vasquez woman was pronounced dead at the scene. The accused man and the victim apparently are not related.

The shooting apparently broke out after a fight. In all, more than a dozen shots were fired inside the small house.

Services for Emma Vasquez will be conducted at 2 p.m., Tuesday in St. Margaret-Mary Catholic Church. Burial will occur in the Lamesa Cemetery.

Survivors include her son, Johnny Vasquez, Lamesa; and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Vasquez, Lamesa.

Peace Justice Richard Nelson set bond for Odon Vasquez at $100,000.

TITANIC SURVIVOR — Edwina McKenzie holds newspaper headlining the sinking of the Titanic 63 years ago. She is now nearly 91 and believes she is the oldest survivor of the April 14, 1912 sea tragedy that took 1,600 lives. Mrs. McKenzie credits her long life to taking things easy and having the good sense to get off the Titanic after it hit an iceberg in the Atlantic. Many of the passengers thought the ship was "unsinkable."

Rock Island Line Is Big In Texas

DALLAS (AP) — The bankrupt Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad, commonly called the Rock Island Line, is big in Texas.

Not only does it pump a $9.5 million annual payroll and $400,000 in state taxes (1974) but it also furnishes the only rail service to 102 communities and 27 counties. Forty-two trains run daily on the line's 958 miles of track.

The Texas Senate has been among those urging the federal government to authorize $100 million in loans for the railroad.

The railroad turned to the federal government after the U.S. Railroad Association, a governmental body, turned down a $100 million loan request.

Part of the $100 million would go to upgrade routes, such as the "grain run" from Iowa, through the Panhandle to the Gulf Coast. A Rock Island spokesman said in Chicago that derailments cost the Rock Island $14 million in 1974.

Dallas could feel the impact should the line go under. One industry would be that which mines concrete aggregate. It's now hauled from the Chico Ridge Limestone formation 80 miles to the northwest.

Trinity Division of General Portland Corp., which along with Gifford Hill, Vulcan materials Co., and Texas Industries (TXI) ship concrete aggregate by rail from Chico to Dallas, estimates it would have cost about $500,000 more last year on transportation had it been forced to ship its product by truck.

Gifford Hill said it hauled about three million tons of aggregate from Chico last year, and about 10 per cent of that was by rail to Dallas. Had the Rock Island line not been there, it would have cost another $250,000, the company says.

A Texas Industries spokesman said it would be prohibitive to ship the aggregate to by truck, since they send it as far away as Amarillo.

"Such added freight costs would have been passed on to the customers," a TXI spokesman said. "That is the only way we can operate."

However, the Chico run may be a moot point since the Interstate Commerce Commission has a contingency plan which suggests the Fort Worth & Denver Railroad could take over where Rock Island left off.

The FW&D had a parallel line which runs about 10 miles south of the Rock Island rails.

The Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973 allows another railroad to take over the failing railroad employees and equipment for up to 240 days and the federal government would reimburse the takeover line for operating losses and allow a "reasonable profit."

But one Rock Island spokesman said:

Gun Play, Fires Take Heavy Toll In State

By the Associated Press

Traffic accidents were blamed for fewer than half the violent deaths reported in Texas during the weekend.

The toll recorded between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday was five fatalities on streets and highways, five shootings, two fire deaths, a drowning, an electrocution and a death in an explosion.

These were among the victims: Thomas A. Johnson, 54, was shot and killed in a parking lot near a Fort Worth night spot early Sunday. Witnesses told police he had followed a woman acquaintance from the place. Officers held a man, 26, and his sister, 31.

Robert Marquis, 22, of New Hampshire was struck and killed by a car while walking beside Texas 157 late Saturday in Fort Worth, police reported. The vehicle knocked him about 80 feet.

Tracey McKinney, 4, died at a Fort Worth hospital Sunday after being rescued from the family swimming pool the night before. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garry W. McKinney of Hurst.

Estelle Ards, 39, of Houston was fatally shot at her home late Saturday night, police said. A man was held for questioning.

Casper Coleman, 18, of San Antonio was killed Saturday in a shooting at a San Antonio lounge. Police sought his assailant.

Two youths were killed Saturday in a two-car collision near Baird in West Central Texas. They were Stephen Mike Tolle, 18, of Clyde and Randall Morris Weed, 17, of Baird.

Jesse Picheco, 19, of Amarillo was killed by a shotgun blast fired as a car drove alongside his automobile, Amarillo police said. Officers said a 17-year-old youth surrendered later.

Jose Barajas Leyton, 31, of Matamoros, Mexico, was dead on arrival at a Brownsville hospital Saturday night. Officers said he was thrown from the car he was driving when it hit a curb on U.S. 77-83.

Jason Bland, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bland of Port Arthur, died Saturday of injuries suffered when his minibus hit a tree stump south of Burkeville.

A justice of the peace ruled accidental death in the electrocution Saturday of Abdon Medino Vargas, 18, near Saratoga. Police said the Mexican national was working in an oil field.

Siltsbee authorities said Dr. William Ewing Huffines III burned to death in his bed

Saturday. An inquest and autopsy were ordered.

Houston police said Berry M. Perry, 57, was found dead in an alley Saturday with several cuts on his head and a shot through his chest.

Kings Even Series

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Nate "Tiny" Archibald made like a tricky football quarterback Sunday.

The basketball ace of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings baffled Chicago with a dazzling exhibition of penetrating the Bulls' defense. If the Bulls played Tiny to pass off, he went in for the layup. If they played him for a layup, he passed off.

After it was all over, the Kings had conquered the Bulls 102-95 in a National Basketball Association Western Conference semifinal playoff game that wasn't as close as the score indicates.

"I really didn't know whether I was going to penetrate all the way for a layup or pass off," said Archibald. "They were trying to prevent me from going all the way for a layup."

Often, Archibald, with seemingly easy shots close to the basket, flipped the ball to Jimmy Walker or Larry McNeill.

The Kings' victory evened the best-of-seven series at 1-1. The teams play again Wednesday night in Chicago where the Bulls held Archibald to 12 points and won the opener 95-89 last week.

Two games are on tap tonight with Boston and Golden State getting into playoff action for the first time. Boston opens a best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinal series against the Houston Rockets. Houston earned the right to go against the defending champion Celtics by eliminating the New York Knicks with a convincing 118-86 triumph Saturday.

The Warriors go against the Seattle SuperSonics in game one of a Western Conference semifinal series. Seattle advanced by dumping the Detroit Pistons 100-93 Saturday night.

Dodgers Bop Astros, 7-4

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros fans boo Los Angeles outfielder Jimmy Wynn when he comes to bat but Wynn, a former Astro, says it doesn't bother him.

"Maybe it helps me relax at the plate," said Wynn Sunday after he contributed a two-run home run in the Dodgers' 7-4 victory over the Astros.

Wynn also said he gets no special thrill out of beating his former teammates.

"Houston is just another team now," he said.

Wynn's two-run homer in the fourth inning off Houston starter and loser Doug Koniczny broke a 3-3 tie.

'Horns Close-In Pro Cage On Championship Roundup

By the Associated Press
Texas can turn out in the lights on the rest of the Southwest Conference baseball teams in Austin this weekend.

If the Longhorns sweep Texas Christian in a three-game series, it will propel the defending champions into the Dist. VI NCAA playoffs. Texas holds an 18-0 SWC ledger.

Texas A&M is the closest challenger at 14-4 after winning two out of three games from Texas Tech. The Aggies are at Rice for three games.

Texas must travel to College Station for a three game windup series in two weeks and it would be comforting to the 'Horns to know they wouldn't have to win a game to claim the first place trophy.

The Aggies are scrambling for a good overall record so the NCAA will select them for the 32-team playoff tournament. A&M is 26-5 and are virtually assured of getting a slot in either the Western Athletic Conference or Big Eight Conference playoff areas.

Texas is 36-4 for the year. TCU is the biggest

MASTERS CHAMP BY ONE SHOT Unprecedented 5th Title For Nicklaus

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — There Jack Nicklaus stood on the 16th hole — Augusta's par three Red Bud hole — looking at a 40-foot sidehill putt that must have looked more like a mile.

His ears were still ringing from the cheers of the thousands lining the long par five No. 15 just behind him where tall Tom Weiskopf had just knocked home a 12-footer for a birdie that sent him into the lead of the 39th Masters Golf Tournament with three holes to play.

"Sometimes you get a feeling about these things," Nicklaus said afterward. "I thought I could make the putt. I decided to use a different style. I decided to hand-stroke the putt rather than hit it."

"I knew Tommy, watching from the tee, would have a hard time playing the 16th after watching me make a two. So I struck it and it rolled in. That, for me, was the tournament."

A momentarily shaken Weiskopf proceeded to leave his five-iron tee shot 80 feet short on No. 16 and watch his approach putt roll to the left, still 18 feet away. He bogeyed and there was a two-shot shift in those dying moments of one of the greatest golf tournaments ever played.

"I got the two shots back that I had lost on the 14th," Nicklaus said.

Thousands pouring over Augusta's floral acres and millions viewing on television watched the battle go down to the final hole — a no-quarter, no-choke shooting involving the three finest golfers of the age.

Nicklaus emerged the winner, an unprecedented fifth Masters, his 15th major crown, the first leg on the only honor that still evades him — the elusive Grand Slam, encompassing the Masters, U. S. and British Opens and the PGA, all in a single year.

Nicklaus finished with a fourunder-par 68 for a 72-hole score of 276 but called it "the greatest Masters I have ever played, better than when I set the record (271) in 1965."

Weiskopf, a tall princely man with a swing of graceful power, and young, tow-headed Johnny Miller, at 27 rated by many as Nicklaus' heir apparent, were just one shot behind at 277, both barely missing birdie putts on the final green that would have tied them for the championship.

Steers Look To Midland

Big Spring makes its second move toward the second half 5-4A baseball championship, Tuesday, at Midland High, at 4 p.m.

Dick Battle, more than likely, will get the starting line assignment from Larry Horton, Steer head coach.

The Steers pounded the Bulldogs, 7-5, in the first round played in Big Spring. Big Spring is 1-0 in 5-4A and 10-0 overall.

Midland High just missed sitting in the first round cellar, placing next to last with a 1-6 total. Overall, the Bulldogs are 10-13.

Name of the game was defense Saturday as Big Spring belted Abilene High, 3-1, there. This was the initial start of second-round action.

The Steers looked like champions against the Eagles committing no errors and played outstandingly in the field.

(1) Wes Bouliouin's quick thinking in both the fifth and sixth innings kept Big Spring from running into difficulty.

(2) Abilene filled the base paths in the fifth but Steer winning hurler Pat Carroll escaped unscathed.

(3) Barry Canning and Dick Battle snagged long flies on the run in the first and third frames respectively.

Battle came on in relief of Carroll in the seventh.

Abilene pushed across only one run the second. Big Spring slammed home three in the third. A wet ground forced the rescheduling of the Midland vs. Permian match Saturday to Thursday.

Steer notes: Jan Moulder, sports editor of the Abilene Reporter-News reported that if Big Spring continues to excel like they did against Abilene, the Steers are a shoo-in for the district flag. "The Steers played 5-4A ball at

FOCUS ON FAMILY LIVING Select Fabric, Then Find Color, Texture

By SHERRY MULLIN (Courtesy HD Agent)

One of the most important factors in constructing a successful garment is the proper selection of fabric. If the fabric is "wrong" no amount of sewing skill can compensate for the poor selection. To avoid costly errors, consider the following. What is the intended use of the garment? Are you making a pair of rugged, all-purpose pants for gardening, hiking, or horseback riding, or pants appropriate for evening or at-home wear? Certainly the fabric selected would differ for these two types of garments.

Fabrics recommended on the pattern envelope are always safe choices; and unless or until you have a basic knowledge of fabrics, it would be wise to follow those suggested. Avoid those fabrics specifically mentioned on the pattern envelope as not suitable for the particular pattern.

Pattern companies test patterns as to their suitability for various fabrics; and if they caution against using a given fabric, don't use it, unless you're willing to pay not only the monetary price, but the cost in time, toll, and frustration, with the possibility of unsatisfactory results.

What colors and textures do you like, feel comfortable wearing (psychologically as well as physically), and look good in? Is there some optical illusion you want to project regarding your figure (slimmer, taller, shorter, heavier)? Is there an air you want to convey (sporty, casual, sophisticated)? These, too, will affect your choice.

What style garment are you making — one with few pieces (therefore fewer seams), or one with much construction? This will influence the fabric pattern you select. For example, if the garment has a great deal of seaming, a plaid may be a poor choice because of the extensive matching of pattern required and because the over-all effect of the plaid may be lost if there are too many seams.

Is the fabric on grain? Fabric is grain perfect when the crosswise and lengthwise threads are at right angles to each other. Check carefully to determine whether they are in this position. If material is slightly off grain, it usually can be straightened at home. However, bonded, heat-set, and permanently "locked" in an off-grain position during finishing processes and are impossible to straighten. If these fabrics are much off grain, buy; but don't attempt to straighten the grain — sew as is.

If you are considering a stripe, plaid, check, or pattern that is printed on rather than woven into the fabric, check the design relative to the crosswise grain. If printed off grain (design is neither parallel to nor perpendicular to crosswise grain), it will be particularly noticeable at the cuffs, waistline, and hemline of the finished garment. Better look further.

Does the fabric have a nap (fiber ends that have been mechanically raised from the surface yarns by brushing) or pile (clipped or looped yarns interwoven with the base fabric)? Does the fabric have a one-way design or a pattern that requires matching? If so, extra fabric is required. The pattern envelope will supply yardages needed for napped, pile, or one-way design fabrics. If you must match a pattern, consider the distance between repeats in the pattern when estimating yardage needed. The larger the pattern or the greater the distance between repeats, the more fabric you'll need.

Appraise your sewing skill, choose fabrics wisely and the results will be successful.

4 Give Program

Music was the topic of a program given for the Beta Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi at the Thursday meeting in the home of Mrs. Cynthia Hanselman with Mrs. Sue Wynne as cohostess.

Short biographies of Mozart and Beethoven were given by Mrs. Barbara Bowen and Mrs. Barbara Walton on the theme "Enjoy Music."

Mrs. Sally Martinez and Mrs. Sally Norsen using "Music's Influence in Your Life" expressed different ways that music can effect one's life. The four on the program joined into a quartet and using kitchen utensils as instruments, accompanied the group as they joined in a sing-along.

The chapter will support the fund for Janet Tinsley as State Project for Beta Sigma Phi. Mrs. Aralyn Williams was a guest. Ritual of Jewels test was given earlier in the week for Mrs. Janie Hinojas, Mrs. Wynne, Mrs. Sharon Lindsey, Mrs. Hilde Yops and Mrs. Linda Wittman. They will take their ritual April 17 at the home of Mrs. Jean Denton, 188-A Hunter.

Dear Abby

Many Different Views On Handicapped Replies

DEAR ABBY: Thank God someone wrote in to say she had had it with clods who always asked handicapped people, "What happened to you?"

I am engaged to a handsome, 24-year-old man who lost his left hip and leg to cancer surgery. He wears a prothesis, but it doesn't function like a real leg, and he must also use crutches and has a lot of difficulty getting around.

It never fails, no matter where we go. Some idiot will come up to him and ask, "What happened to you?"

When he tells them, they reply that they know about a dozen people who had the same thing and most of them just died from it. This is the God's truth. We have gone to restaurants and have had drunks come up and fall all over us slobbering and crying about what a pity it is to see such a good-looking young man in such terrible shape.

Believe me, we have taken to staying home lately rather than to go out and run into such stupid numbskulls.

Please ask parents to teach their children to be a little more considerate of handicapped people. They've suffered enough. ALSO HAD IT WITH CLODS

DEAR ABBY: Can you stand one more "clod" letter?

I have a friend who has one leg and a marvelous sense of humor. Someone once asked, "Chum, how did you lose your leg?" He replied, "I didn't lose it. I know where it is!"

Don't forget that the concluding program of the current Big Spring Concert Series comes up at 8:15 p.m. today at the Municipal Auditorium, billed as "One Third Ninth." This is an unusual trio, widely acclaimed for their variety as well as virtuosity, formed from three principals of the Calgary Philharmonic Orchestra. They are Gloria Saarinen, originally from New Zealand, and pianist with the orchestra also on leave from the University of Calgary; Moshe Hammer, Israeli violinist who was concertmaster for the orchestra; and John Kadz, principal cellist. In more than 150 concerts, they have drawn glowing critical reviews. This, as other programs on the series, will be on a membership basis, but all Howard College students with activity cards will be admitted.

Still attracting considerable interest is the new Brandin' Time exhibit at the Heritage Museum. Meeting with the museum trustees last week was Mrs. Polly Mays, chairman of the Historical Survey committee, who briefed the board on projects the survey panel has going, including mapping of scenic-historical tours, plus installation of several markers.

Among those on the membership roll for the week were Mrs. Hollie Shick, Lillian Dawson, Dr. and Mrs. Houston J. Zinn, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ezzell, Mrs. Elmer Boatler, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Creighton, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Locke Jr., Mr. and Mrs. R.H. The ninth annual Southwestern Area Art Show at the Museum of the Southwest in Midland has been set for May 3-30. Paintings, sculpture, ceramics, drawings, photographs and graphics will be accepted on April 19-20 at the museum. (If shipped, they must arrive April 20). Entry fee is $3. Elks Lodge Is Ransacked

The money box at the Elks Lodge had been ransacked during the night Sunday and had $142 in cash and around $500 in personal checks missing. Both back doors were reported unlocked and there were no signs of forced entry.

"I don't think we've ever turned our backs to anybody," Terrazas said. "We've seen times here when the state has run out of money."

"I'm with Cy on his thinking of duplication of services," Commissioner Ikie Rupard said. Sweatt said Mrs. Ruby Phillips of the county welfare association "would have more time to devote to her other responsibilities. We are not asking you to do away entirely with county welfare."

LIMITED FIELD Mrs. Phillips was praised by several for her work. The DPW has the authority and responsibility under state laws and federal mandates to investigate all reported incidents of child abuse or neglect. By contracting with the state, commissioners court would be giving the DPW the right to continue regardless of whether the child comes from a DPW welfare family.

"We have seven children under foster care at this time," Sweatt said. "We have investigated 58 complaints since Jan. 1."

"If we need more people, we ought to put more to work with Mrs. Phillips," Terrazas said. By funding $90,000 toward the DPW child welfare office, the state would save the county money, Sweatt replied.

"TAKING AWAY" "You are taking away our God-given responsibility," Mrs. Charlie Creighton said. "We are (would be) accountable to commissioners court through the child welfare board," Sweatt said. The court would appoint members of this board which would monitor and administer the state welfare program. One woman claim police took custody of eight children in Dallas three weeks ago without notifying the parents in advance. All the children were kept in custody for 10 days, she said, because someone reported one 11-year-old boy "was spanked too hard leaving marks on him."

Either police or welfare officials could take custody of children determined to be abused or neglected by a state district judge, Sweatt said. "I don't believe we are in possession of all the facts relating to that incident," Sweatt said.

"I could give you a large number of other incidents where the intervention of protective services worker has saved the child's life," Sweatt said.

LOCAL LEVEL Rev. Roy E. Honea of the Grace Baptist Church said: "Judge (Bill) Tune, my feelings are completely that we should keep it as a local job."

"You know my feelings on it," Mrs. Vonda Townsend said. "I'd like to see a contract" with the state. She identified herself as a representative of the Parent-Teachers Association, which she said had voted to make the subject an area project.

Another woman disagreed, saying Mrs. Towns represented only herself. In other business, the court:

Voted to advance sick pay to a 50-year-old road department employee who is in the hospital with mumps. The patient has accumulated only three days of sick pay, but has eight children. Advance sick pay will be considered weekly.

Discussed replacing the 21-year-old air conditioning water tower with either another water cooled tower or an air cooled tower. Roof repairs were also considered.

Tabled the only bid for a road stabilization material for further study. County Engineer Neel Barnaby is to prepare cost estimates for this method and asphalt. Midland County is conducting a similar experiment with the material.

For 20,000 gallons a firm wants $7,000 or 42 cents per gallon. Also, the county must borrow one piece of equipment and rent another for $900 per week.

And authorized ordering a new 15-foot wind sock for Howard County Airport and heard plans made to mow area prior to a Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) inspection next Monday. J.W. McClendon, president of Big Spring Airport, Inc., told about the need to get the yearly recertification from the FAA.

Tests Due Here For Suspect

SAN ANGELO — A San Angelo man was ordered to undergo a psychiatric examination at Big Spring State Hospital by the 51st District Court during his pretrial hearing for the murder of his wife.

Harold Justin Lisenbee, 43, was charged with the Feb. 5 cutting death of his common law wife, Mary Jo Ward, 49.

Court Turns Down Child Aid Funds

County Commissioners Court late this morning voted to reject a proposal that the county contribute an estimated $15,000 yearly toward a child protective services program.

The proposal drew criticism from most of those present.

Ron Sweatt of the DPW "is talking about a service that we've already got, that we've already had for years," Commissioner Simon (Cy) Terrazas said.

"I don't think we've ever turned our backs to anybody," Terrazas said. "We've seen times here when the state has run out of money."

"I'm with Cy on his thinking of duplication of services," Commissioner Ikie Rupard said. Sweatt said Mrs. Ruby Phillips of the county welfare association "would have more time to devote to her other responsibilities. We are not asking you to do away entirely with county welfare."

Homosexuals Find New Tranquility

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Some of America's homosexuals are forsaking the anonymity of the big cities for the tranquility of the farm lands.

They say that among their new farm and small town neighbors they are enjoying a peace and acceptance of themselves as human beings that they never knew in the bustle of cosmopolitan living.

"They judge us by our gardens. We talk about our crops, the weather, the crops," said Alan Kern. Kern, 30, teaches psychology at Mankato State College in southern Minnesota, where he also runs a small farm with another man.

He was one of approximately 400 persons attending the Midwest Gay Pride Conference at the University of Iowa in the heart of the nation's farm belt this past weekend.

"In the cities, ... you find reinforcement of your lifestyle in numbers," he said. "As oppressed people, we felt we needed that reinforcement. But as we come to accept ourselves for what we are, we ask why we should have to retreat and hide," Kern said.

"I like the country. I don't like the hassles of city life. The farmer may not like our gay lifestyle, but he chooses to ignore it. If I'm trying to farm and ask his advice — how to mend a fence, how to raise goats or plant a crop — he responds. He accepts me for my abilities as a person and for what I'm trying to accomplish," Kern added.

"Gay people are finding they don't have to go to New York or Chicago or wherever to survive," said Fred Brungard, 28, a conference organizer and television station production assistant who lives in a rural area outside of Iowa City. "You still have to maintain a great deal of discretion in small towns. But if we don't force our homosexuality on people, they don't hassle us about it, and for the most part we're just like everybody else. We're accepted as human beings," Brungard said.

"I've watched the civil rights movement, and now I see more blacks in positions of authority and stature," said a 26-year-old Kansas woman, who declined use of her name. "Now there's the women's movement and we're beginning to see more women in government. As the public becomes educated, as we demystify gay people, we will come to see them accepted."

By funding $90,000 toward the DPW child welfare office, the state would save the county money, Sweatt replied.

Nine Are Dead; Father Suspect

BEULAH, Ala. (AP) —

Grief-stricken relatives in this rural Alabama area today prepared for burials of nine children who burned to death in a fire allegedly set by the father of five of the victims.

The children, ranging in age from 5 months to 14 years, died Friday night in a fire that quickly engulfed a small home near the Beulah community in northeast Lee County. Charged with murder and arson in their deaths was 29-year-old Sylvester Brown Jr. of nearby Fairfax, authorities said. The Brown children are tentatively scheduled to be buried Tuesday after services at the Concord Baptist Church in Salem. Funeral arrangements are pending for the other four children.
