

Leaders Of Fallen Cambodian Government Beheaded By Captors

By the Associated Press
Communist-led forces consolidated assault positions around Saigon and continued their sweep down the central coast, the Saigon military command reported Sunday.
Americans were lining up to leave the frightened South Vietnamese capital and three U.S. aircraft carriers put to sea in the Western Pacific.
Saigon command spokesmen said North Vietnamese tanks and infantrymen were attacking government defenders at Ham Tan City, 75 miles east of Saigon and the capital of Binh Tuy province. Battle details were not available, but it was believed the North Vietnamese force was the same that overran Phan Thiet, another provincial capital 30 miles to the north, two days ago.

Meanwhile, Cambodian refugees said insurgent forces executed 43 former government soldiers after taking control of a provincial town, and Khmer Rouge radio claimed most of the men who led the fallen Phnom Penh government in its last agonizing days had been beheaded.

The Saigon command reported only sporadic fighting at Long An province 25 miles southwest of Saigon in the Mekong Delta, but there were signs the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were moving into strategic positions in the province. Log An is the delta gateway to the capital region.
The Saigon command also said more than 20 artillery and rocket rounds hit Bien Hoa air base 15 miles north of Saigon, another possible point from which to move on the capital. Light action was reported continuing at Xuan Loc, 40 miles east of Saigon.

The U.S. Defense Department in Washington did not reveal the destination of the three aircraft carrier. It has been considering the use of carriers for evacuations from Vietnam if necessary.
The ships Midway and Okinawa sailed out of Subic Bay in the Philippines and the Hancock from Singapore. Two other carriers, the Enterprise and the Coral Sea, are also in the Western Pacific.

At least 215 Americans, some with Vietnamese wives and children, landed at Clark Air Base in the Philippines Saturday on U.S. military flights from Saigon. Some of the arriving Americans complained that evacuations were being held up because the South Vietnamese government was delaying exit visas for Vietnamese wives and children of many of the Americans.

U.S. officials at Clark said 1,324 persons — including nearly 900 Americans — have been evacuated since April 5.
Government sources in Washington say little more than 3,000 Americans remain in Saigon, but the embassy put the figure at closer to 4,000.
In Thailand, the former governor of Pailin, a Cambodian gem-mining town 220 miles northwest of Phnom Penh, said the 43 government soldiers were slain Friday after he complied with rebel orders to raise white flags over the town.

"When the Khmer Rouge came they beat up my troops and shot people who resisted," said Col. Horl Tone. "They ordered my soldiers to wear their uniforms, then shot 43 men."
The governor was among more than 1,000 Cambodians, including 300 troops, who fled the five miles to the Thai border, where they were disarmed.

Jail Employes Regain Control, Inmate Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inmates seized control of the District of Columbia jail's maximum security cellblock, held 11 employes hostage for 16½ hours Saturday, then released them after several hours of negotiations.

D.C. Corrections Commissioner Delbert Jackson said the released hostages, who were being examined at the prison infirmary, appeared to be in "excellent condition."

One of the inmates involved in the takeover, Percy Floyd, said afterward that authorities had agreed to set up a committee to monitor procedures at the jail.
The prisoners' aims had included more frequent family visits, increased medical attention, more time per day outside their individual cells and halting of inmate transfers to prisons operated by the federal government.

Jackson said the committee "will take a look at some of the things the residents were concerned about" and "will come in periodically to see that there's no abuse."

He did not elaborate on how authorities would respond to the inmates' specific grievances.
The prisoners also sought immunity from prosecution for being involved in the takeover, but gained only an assurance authorities did not intend to take a hard line against those participating.
Floyd, who took part in the negotiations, said the U.S.

attorney "is saying he will prepare a case but he won't make any recommendations" as to actual prosecution. "That's the best we could get under the circumstances without anybody getting hurt."

Jackson refused to comment on the presence of any weapons within the cellblock. Earlier, he had said authorities had been told that the prisoners had a gun during the takeover.

After authorities regained full control of the jail, police said one inmate was found dead, but gave no further details. Washington TV and radio station WMAL reported the inmate was found hanged in a cell.

It was not immediately known, however, whether the inmate's death was directly related to the cellblock takeover.

During the negotiations which ended in release of the hostages, five inmates and 10 members of inmates' families met face-to-face with eight officials to discuss the list of prisoner complaints.

The takeover began at about 1 a.m., when two inmates overpowered an unarmed guard at gunpoint escaped. Other prisoners were apparently prevented from joining the escape when the guard managed to get away and sound an alarm, authorities said.

Police could not explain how the inmates obtained the gun.

Jackson was in telephone contact with the inmates before the negotiations began, according to prison spokeswoman Kathy Ross.

While the inmates were in control of the cellblock, Floyd said when asked how the hostages would be held: "It's not a matter of how long, it's a question of being heard. We don't want to do harm to anyone."

The Sixth Regional Training Sessions, held here for members of 17 clubs in Texas and New Mexico, attracted Chuck Blythe, the national president-elect from Peoria, Ill.

Others included Ken McCausland, district governor from Hobbs, N.M., and Bill Pearson, the national secretary from High Point, N.C.

TEXANS VOTE TUESDAY 'Low Profile' Bid By State Solons To Hike Their Pay

AUSTIN (AP) — Texans vote Tuesday on what some state legislators have called a "low profile campaign" to get their salaries raised.
As few as 10 per cent of the state's eligible voters are expected to vote.

Expected big turnouts by public school teachers, state employes and friends of state legislators—all directly affected by the vote—may dictate the outcome of the two proposed constitutional amendments.

The two propositions on the ballot are:

—Increase the pay of the 181 state senators and representatives from $4,800 to $7,200 a year, increase their daily personal living expenses while in session from $12 to $30, and give them travel pay of 16 cents instead of 10 cents a mile. The raise would cost $1.4 million the next two years.

—Consolidate all the scattered current constitutional provisions about state and local retirement systems, and most importantly, lift the ceilings on what some contributions to the state employes and public school teachers retirement funds from 6 per cent to 10 per cent. The change would immediately affect about 45,000 retired teachers and 9,600 retired state employes, including 96 retired legislative and state elected officials. The combined cost to the state would be about $124 million.

If approved, neither issue would be affected if voters adopt a new state constitution Nov. 4. The pay legislators are receiving on Nov. 4 would continue until a salary commission is created and acts, probably some time in 1977. The current contribution rates to retirement funds on Nov. 4 would be phased into the new constitution.

Robert Johnson, head of the Texas Election Bureau, which will gather unofficial results, predicts a turnout of about 500,000. In 1973, another nonpresidential election year, saw only 605,000 voters turn out when there were nine proposed constitutional changes on the ballot, including one on legislative pay raises and annual legislative sessions. The pay raise carried in only 12 of the 254 counties.

Several weeks ago, a group of Texas House members, calling themselves an "ad hoc committee for pay raises," urged fellow legislators to conduct a "low profile campaign" to attract the attention only of supporters, particularly state employes and public school teachers.

"Keep the others home," advised an instruction pamphlet for House members. "That means not much press, publicity or public speaking, but a lot of personal contact."

There have been no other announced organized efforts for or against the two amendments.

Reviewing the

Big Spring Week

with Joe Pickle

Most everyone had expected that the first quarter bank deposits would show a substantial dip from the comparable time a year ago. Figures then were inflated by proceeds from a record (1973) cotton crop at record prices, but this year followed a near-complete failure in 1974. What happened? The $93,013,515 was up $4,834,623 over a year ago, or 6.2 per cent. Resources of $103,520,110 were up $6,323,790. There may be a lot of factors in this, one of which is that we still are in pretty fair economic shape in these parts.

The first of two public hearings on a city plan to consider filing for HUD funds drew a good turnout last Monday, and the second this Monday evening in the city auditorium is expected to do the same. The city wants funds for water and sewer extensions, particularly in marginal areas. Big Spring Property Owners Association, which so far has spearheaded questions, fears that the requirement for filing a housing plan or inventory may mean an authority that might end up building rent-subsidized units.

HOUSING AUTHORITY, RENT MONEY AMONG TOWN HALL TOPICS MONDAY NIGHT

How To Spend $300,000 To Be Discussed

The second and final town meeting for citizens to present their ideas on possible HUD Community Development funds will be held at the city auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

As a background, Big Spring, along with many other cities applied for a portion of the funds for cities less than 50,000 in population. Such cities as Odessa and Midland, which are over 50,000 have already had their funds approved.

Midland received $259,000 for the first year and over a five and one half year period will be eligible for the balance of $4.7 million. Back in 1974, the city had public hearings on this fund request and at that time were afraid that a housing plan was to be linked to the application.

"We already have a Housing Authority under Section 23 of an old program," Walter Ashby, urban planner for the City of Midland stated.

"However, we found that in this current plan, you do not have to set up a Housing Authority. You do have to have a housing assistance plan as part of the application," Ashby added.

"The plan is just one of the many weird HUD requirements," Wink received its funds early because it was on an old urban renewal plan which made it eligible.

All the other interested West Texas cities, and some Texas cities in North Central Texas and some in New Mexico were then lumped together for $7.9 million, which has already been allocated for the project.

A city's rejection of the funds saves no tax dollars because the funds will simply go to another city.

425 CITIES APPLY

The Dallas HUD office reports that 425 cities applied for these funds. Of that number of pre-applications, 48 were selected as the most needy and were asked to submit full applications.

One of the cities selected was Big Spring. In its pre-application, officials had requested $600,000 for paving, water and sewage plus demolition of abandoned and dilapidated buildings in low income areas.

On Big Spring's zone map, it marked the north side and a few blocks on the south side of the city as the target areas.

When the pre-application was approved, it was cut back to $300,000. Since there were so many applications, HUD agreed that cities under 10,000 in population would be eligible for $100,000; cities between ten and 20 thousand would be eligible for $200,000 and those above 20,000 would be eligible for $300,000.

In the Permian Basin's regional planning area, three cities were selected as eligible. Grand Falls, which has a city gas line losing 80 percent of its gas, was listed for $100,000; Fort Stockton, which has a drainage problem, was listed for $200,000 and Big Spring was down for $300,000.

The HUD officials deleted the Big Spring paving request, stating that water and sewer lines were more necessary. A small amount was left in for demolition of buildings.

This then will probably be the projects for which the city requests on its full application. The application is being prepared by Paul Feazelle, city administrative aide, who studies and prepares grant applications.

Feazelle also states that a Housing Authority is not needed. Like the Midland planner, he said that a housing assistance plan is required.

Working on the assistance plan which the city must submit includes "accurately surveying the condition of the housing stock in the community and assessing the housing assistance needs of lower-income persons, including elderly and handicapped lower-income persons, large families and persons displaced or to be displaced."

It also asks them to "specify a realistic annual goal for the number of dwelling units or persons to be assisted including the relative proportion of new, rehabilitated and existing dwelling units and the sizes and types of housing projects and assistance best suited to the needs of lower-income persons in the community."

It then "indicates the general locations of proposed housing for lower-income persons with the objective of furthering the revitalization of the community, including the restoration and rehabilitation of stable neighborhoods to the maximum extent possible, promoting greater choice of housing opportunities and assuring the availability of public facilities and services adequate to serve proposed housing projects."

Feazelle says that Big Spring proposes to enter as its housing plan the project around supplemental rents that has already appropriated $72,000 to Howard County. If the county or city do not choose to shepherd this program, it will be administered through the HUD office, probably out of Lubbock.

HELP RENTERS

These funds ($72,000) are to be made available to low income renters who are paying more than a fourth of their income in rent. The funds would make up the difference over the 25 percent level.

This act was explained in San Angelo this week by HUD attorney Jack Stark of Dallas. It is called the new Housing Assistance Payments Program established by Section 8 of the federal housing and community development act.

It simply allows eligible tenants to rent houses or apartments from private owners or from public housing agencies at fair market rents. Stark also told the group there that Texas state law has allowed the establishment of housing authorities since 1937. Many cities choose not to have a housing authority.

Mayor Wade Choate said that "At this time, the city has no plans to set up either a Housing Authority or a Community Development Advisory Committee."

The council itself can review each application for Community Development Funds and decide whether to approve. All council members in a recent meeting stated that they were not considering a housing authority at this time.

Harold Hall stated, "If we had been wanting a Housing Authority, it could have been set up for years under the old law. Why is anybody getting excited now?"

Members of the Big Spring Property Owners Association, with Jack Watkins as their spokesman, have expressed concern that a Housing Authority might be set up.

Clyde Emmon, chief field supervisor of Community Planning Development in Dallas, said that a housing authority is not a requirement in the application for the funds.

ALL SAY NO

Emmon said he had tried to explain this on the telephone earlier to some interested citizens in Big Spring. I don't know how else to say it except "You do not have to have a Housing Authority to receive these funds if they are approved."

Jerry Shrauner, director of planning at the Permian Basin Regional Planning Council, says, "J.C. Hays, West Texas representative on this program says that you do not have to have a Housing Authority and that he has checked on his 'hot line' to Washington to make sure of this point."

Jolly Dyer and other officials from the Lubbock HUD officer were unavailable for comment this week because they are making the rounds of cities explaining the supplemental rent funds.

The $300,000 which Big Spring is applying for would probably be listed for sewage and water improvements. The citizens objecting to the project claim there is no necessity for that much money to be spent on sewage and water on the north side.

However, several people came forth at the North Side Town Hall meeting and said they had needs for a sewer or running water.

HELP LOW INCOME

Harry Nagel, city manager, said recently, "The Town Hall meetings come after the pre-application which is a cart-before-the-horse situation. We've already pre-applied, for specific water and sewer funds and will probably follow along these lines with the full application."

"However, this is a continuing five-year program and we are learning about citizen's needs and want for future years. And I firmly believe that when funds are already allocated and are going to go to some city to help low income people, that Big Spring should be interested. We have low income people who need assistance."

Main projects which came forth at the Town Hall meeting last week were needs for sewage, water, paving, playgrounds, a day care center, and, if possible, individual assistance to upgrade homes to code enforcement requirements.

At this time, loaning money to individual property owners is illegal in Texas. This was also explained at the Town Hall meeting. A second Town Hall meeting is scheduled Monday night.

Probated Sentences

District Judge Ralph W. Caton ordered several probated sentences after hearing guilty pleas in Martin and Howard County cases.

Robert Wayne Claxton and Robert Allen Bell, both 18 years of age and from Colorado City, were given five years of probation for burglary of a motor vehicle.

The car, belonging to Lloyd W. Duncan, was entered by burglars on March 9 in Howard County, according to the files of District Attorney Robert H. (Bob) More III.

William Arthur Reed Jr., 19, Box 76 Jonesboro Road, and Steven Anthony Morris, 18, Gail Route Box 2, were both given six years of probation for an attempted burglary.

On the night of April 9, Stanton Police arrested the two Big Spring youths where burglary of the Walgreen Agency Drug Store had been tried.

Choir Gets Applause

The Westside Center Choir got an enthusiastic reception in its third annual concert Thursday evening in Howard College auditorium.

The 25-voice group of youngsters, under direction of Mrs. Joseph Dawes, performed a formidable program of more than 20 numbers, some with special accompaniment, others in costume, and one with choreography. It was their Bicentennial offering and a colorful production. Mrs. Charles B. Parham Jr. and Mrs. Robert D. Ford were accompanists. Joining them for the rousing "When the Saints Go Marching In" were Donny Green, Cliff Graham and David Norville on trumpet, trombone and drums. Mrs. Doris Pace and David Norville backed up "Step into the Sunshine," a bit with a beat.

The first section was made of spirituals, following "America" and "Welcome." Becky Stephens and Suzanne Barragan played piano numbers in one section. In another, there was some gay costuming, with sailor straws, for "While Strolling through the Park." The last section, and which provoked much applause, was taken from a series of Walt Disney Musicals.

Soloists included Suzanne Barragan, Becky Stephens, Robin Kinman, Frank Saiz, Debra Abreo, Johnny Franco, Jimmy Carrillo, and Rachael Barraga. Choreography for the "Siamese Cat Song," which also was cleverly costumed, was by Ms. Carlisle Robison. Rev. James Collier, St. Paul Presbyterian pastor and board president for the center, presented Suzanne Barragan with first prize for designing the program cover.

Five Years Punishment

District Judge Ralph W. Caton revoked probation being served by Louis Luther Brown, 30, Friday afternoon and assessed punishment as five years in prison.

Brown of the rear apartment at 506 N.W. 4th St. was serving a five-year probated sentence ordered in September of 1974 for forgery. He was arrested after an unsuccessful attempt to pass a forged check at State National Bank Tuesday, District Attorney Robert H. (Bob) Moore III said.

To Graduate

REXBURG, IDAHO — Cheryl Rene Horn and Patricia Kay Miller, both of Big Spring, are among those who will graduate at Ricks College here April 23. Ceremonies will be conducted in Hart Auditorium. Texans will earn associate degrees at Ricks.

THE WEEK

The idea that public bond issues don't pass these days refuted by Lamesa voters last week. They approved by better than 3-1 margin $600,000 principally for water and sewer extensions.

Weather continued to make news, including a blistering 95 degrees on Thursday, and much cooler readings Friday along with damaging windstorm which whipped dust clouds a mile and a half high. They also unroofed a mobile home, blew in a Cosden building plate glass window cutting Nell R. McCrary in the process as well as damaging the lobby ceiling.

The welcome mat has been out for the American Business Club Region VI (practically all of Texas) training conference which climaxed with formal dinner last evening. ABClubbers and wives really did it up well, including sun bonnets for all the visiting ladies. Speaking of gatherings, that crop-range-livestock judging event at Howard College a week ago drew some 500 4-H and FFA members. Stant 4-H teams and individuals hogged the honors.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department cave specialists spent a day here last week exploring the possibility that there might be a cavern under Scenic Mountain. They came to a conclusion (which, everytime we voiced it, made somebody mad) that the "caves" were crevices or enlarged cracks and there isn't much likelihood of a bona fide cavern.

On the heels of an item that the National Climatological Research Administration was exploring the possibility of some connection between dust in the air and tornadoes, two NCRA airplanes showed up here Thursday evening in advance of a weather front. Well, by the time they were prepared to take off Friday, they had plenty of loose soil more than a mile high to work on.

In one of the first acts of the new administration, the City of Coahoma council last week voted to join the Permian Basin Regional Planning association.

Trans-Regional Airways, armed with a Texas Aeronautics Commission permit to fly between Midland, Big Spring and Dallas, is having difficulty in getting off the ground — or rather in ironing out plans for regularly scheduled service. The Chamber of Commerce aviation committee has offered its help.

One of the more sparkling team records in this vicinity is coming from the Howard College Rodeo team, which now leads the region in standings. Jack Himes has a strangle hold on the all-around cowboy, bull and bronc riding lead, not only in the region, but in national collegiate circles.

Big Spring was selected as the site for a series of sub-district meetings of the Rio Grande Methodist Conference which is planning to launch its first $150,000 capital funds drive. The conference is comprised of Spanish-speaking constituents who are undertaking this appeal to supplement minister salaries and retirement. Two other meetings are due here before the end of the year.

Eye Weather Modification Experiments

O. H. Ivie, general manager of Colorado River Municipal Water District, will be one of three Texas representatives conferring on the Bureau of Reclamation Hixley project this week. He will fly to Champagne, Ill., for a meeting with Bureau representatives, and those of Montana and South Dakota. Others presenting Texas recommendations to the Bureau on weather modification will be John Carr, director of research and weather modification for the Texas Water Development Board, and Ted Smith, president of Meteorology, Inc., of Altadena, Calif., which has been evaluating the CRMWD modification efforts.

The conference will last a day and a half and will touch on numerous facts of weather modification experiments by the Bureau at Big Spring, also in South Dakota, and Miles City, Mont.

The Texas group plans to propose the Bureau's role in studying the major frontal systems which sometimes bring heavier rains into the area. Present studies, being continued by the district and monitored by Meteorology Research, have to do with increasing rain potentiality of cumulus clouds.

Calnan Speaker

Wilfred Calnan, director of Howard County Family Service Center at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, will be the speaker for the monthly meeting of Big Spring Health and Welfare Group. The meeting is set for Thursday noon in Downtown Tea Room, 500 Main. Any interested person is welcome, and no reservations are necessary. Calnan will describe the services his agency is seeking to provide for Big Spring and Howard County.

HC Trustees Meet Tuesday

Trustees of Howard County will meet 12:25 p.m. Tuesday in the Dora Roberts Student Union Building.

Among the items up for consideration are a fiscal advisor's report on financing of a proposed community building on which architects will report progress; recommendations on a new computer; recommendation of vehicles for the 1975-76 school year; reports on legislative action; recommendations on the welding lab; report on reorganization of administration and departments; report of delegates attending the America Association of Community and Junior Colleges.

Rider Killed

ODESSA — The third traffic fatality in four days was recorded here Friday. Kenneth Kendall, 31, Odessa, was killed when his motorcycle and a car driven by Richard Barnett collided on FM 1936. Kendall suffered massive head, face and lower abdomen injuries.

Lesser Demands Cut Into Revenues, Expenses Rise

Revenues are falling slightly under a year ago and expenses are higher through the first quarter of the year for the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

A cooler-than-usual Spring dulled municipal demands by 193 million gallons for the period, and even oil field repressuring deliveries were off slightly. This accounted for first quarter revenues of $1,086,428 as compared with $1,092,300 the same period last year. At the same time, operating expenses were up $61,000 in amounting to $418,000. A portion of this, or about $22,000, was an expense attached to changing over to a new retirement system. Another $16,000 was in increased power costs for less pumping.

For the first quarter, revenues from municipal customers amounted to $629,370, down $8,000, and from oil companies $440,410, down $1,000. Recreational revenues of $13,762 were about the same, and miscellaneous income was up about $2,000.

For the first quarter the excess of revenues over operating revenues was $667,873, or $67,000 less than a year ago, leaving $675,000 for transfer to the net revenue fund (from whence debt service and indenture expenditures are made).

The club will meet at the Rodeo Arena on Tuesday at 6 p.m. to get the Arena ready for the rodeo slated for the following Friday and Saturday.

They will also meet Monday, April 28, to clean up after the rodeo. Also at their meeting, they made plans to add an event for children in the audience, a calf scramble for ages 1-10.

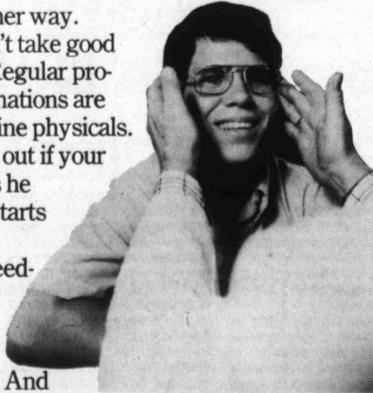

How does life look to your child?

Your child may be seeing life exactly the way it is. But he could be getting a completely distorted view and never know the difference. That's because he's never looked at life any other way.

You simply can't take good vision for granted. Regular professional eye examinations are as important as routine physicals. And the time to find out if your child is seeing life as he should is before he starts back to school.

If eyewear is needed, depend on TSO to fill the doctor's prescription to the exact specifications. And you can choose from a wide variety of good-looking frames that are as durable as they are stylish. The cost is reasonable, too.

We know you want your child to see life at its best. So do we. At TSO, we care how you look at life.

THEY BELIEVE IN AMERICA Feeling Of Helplessness Envelopes Vietnam Veteran

By MARJ CARPENTER

Mr. and Mrs. Truett Thomas visited Coy's grave last Sunday because April 13 is the day that he was killed in Vietnam in 1966.

"I will not believe that our son died in vain. We're going to believe it was necessary," Mrs. Thomas said here this week as South Vietnam began to fall and the Cambodian government crumbled.

"Coy fought for freedom and a way of life that he thought was right. It is sad. The story coming out now is so sad. I'm sure it's true, but it is very, very sad," Mrs. Thomas mourned.

"Maybe our boys gained time while the world changed a little. Maybe they kept the Communists from surging quickly through South Vietnam and on to other countries. But it has to have been worth something."

All across the United States, loved ones of the 50,000 Americans who died in Vietnam are asking these same questions. Perhaps, many like Mrs. Thomas, can recall that it was something that her son "truly believed was right," while others will only hold bitterness in their hearts.

"One time," Mrs. Thomas recalls, "Coy wrote us that 'We see children begging for a bar of candy and if we have it we give it to them, knowing in our hearts that their parents may be out setting booby traps or getting ready to take a shot at us at night. But this is such a sad country.'"

HOMER TAYLOR of Midland, who is a patient at the Veterans Administration Hospital here, was in Vietnam about the same time that Big Spring's Coy Thomas was there. Taylor was in Vietnam in 1965 and came home in September 1966.

"Even while I was there, I wasn't quite clear on why we had gone in the first place," Taylor recalls.

"I enlisted in the army in 1960 after graduating from high school in Waco and I liked army life. I had traveled some and had

Building Repair Is On Agenda

The courthouse roof, cooling tower and air conditioning, which all need repair, will be discussed in County Commissioners Court Monday. Salaries of two peace justice secretaries, Colleen Henry and Doris Lewis, will be considered. The court will confer with Bennie Marquez about the Fair Barns, also with District Clerk Peggy Crittenden.

Drilling Is Up

Oil well drilling in the United States last week continued 14.67 per cent above the rate of a year ago, or 1,610 active rotary rigs, an increase of 205. Texas had 632 of these rigs, which was a gain of 164, or 35 per cent. Figures are taken from the weekly report by Hughes Tool Co. to the International Association of Drilling Contractors.

gotten some college courses off from the University of Maryland's program in Munich, Germany, and was doing pretty good.

"Then suddenly it was my turn to go to Nam. Well, I did and I suppose I'd go again if I was sent. I never have had much use for the draft dodgers, although as it's turned out some of them might have been partly right. But a lot of them were just scared.

"We were scared plenty of times too. I saw a lot of buddies die. As a matter of fact 85 per cent of my NCO academy class at Fort Riley, Kansas, died.

"My number just wasn't up. I was a surgical technician and I sure saw a lot of badly shot-up guys. But if they were able, they could always joke and laugh. The American GI has an underlying sense of humor that other armies may not have. You can still find humor running through a VA hospital such as this one.

"This doesn't apply to everyone. There are a lot of bitter guys and some of them probably have a right to be." Taylor sat and thought a bit. Another Vietnam veteran, who is a patient at the hospital here talked a while.

LEWIS W. McMAHON is also from Midland. He graduated from Odessa High back in 1961. He was drafted in 1965 and served in Vietnam in 1966-67.

"I came home on March 19, 1967. We can all remember the exact date we got out of Nam. It wasn't a very good place to be.

"Those people were kind of likeable, but they didn't have any initiative. I'm not surprised they're losing. They never did fight very hard while we were there."

"They took the attitude: Let the Americans do it. The only time they stood up and fought was when the rumors started that the United States was getting disgusted and might pull out."

Taylor interjected, "I've seen them go off and leave equipment. I think they thought we would always send some more. I suppose if we could evacuate some of the helpless, it would be good. However, I think other countries ought to help. We can't give them all jobs. Jobs are hard enough to find around here.

"I'M LUCKY, because I'm a machinist and there are plenty of those jobs, but jobs are getting scarcer."

McMahon, who was in the engineers, remembers when the ammo dump blew at Ben Hoa. "Boy, we were plenty scared," he said, "but fear was a way of life over there."

Taylor added, "We were there in the early years before narcotics and alcohol and those things got so bad. People weren't quite as disgusted then as later on.

"I guess we were just fighting because we believe in America. We thought we were doing the right thing," McMahon added.

And Taylor said pensively, "Well, maybe I was just dumb to enlist, but I didn't think so. It's what seemed right at the time. I have a kind of feeling of helplessness now. Maybe we were right. Maybe we weren't. But I think nearly everybody was doing what they thought was right."

"I don't see how I could have done differently. And I am helpless about doing anything now. We hope it's right."

'I'm Not A Bitter Person,' Says Connally

HOUSTON (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John Connally says bitterness produces nothing but frustration.

"I don't want to be frustrated. I've been frustrated for a year," a tearful Connally said Friday as he returned home from Washington after being acquitted on bribery charges.

A crowd of about 200 was on hand at Houston Intercontinental Airport when Connally and his wife, Nellie, arrived.

"I'm not a bitter person," he said as he wiped tears from his cheeks. "I don't think in those terms. My mental processes don't function that way."

A Washington jury returned verdicts of innocence Thursday after deliberating almost two hours on two counts of taking an illegal payment. Perjury and conspiracy charges relating to the bribery case were dropped against him Friday.

When he was asked about his feelings now about former friend and chief accuser Jake Jacobsen, Connally replied: "I don't even want to talk about him."

Later at a news conference, Connally disclosed that he received telephone calls of congratulations from President Ford and former President Richard Nixon. Connally served as Secretary of the Treasury and special counselor under Nixon.

Connally declined to elaborate on the conversations.

LIVING IT UP — Trent Baird is living it up — up a tree, that is. The grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Baird, Trent has practically taken up permanent residency in the tree house on his visits.

Isle In Sky Exciting

By MARJ CARPENTER

When Trent Baird, 4, comes to visit his grandparents at 109 Canyon Drive, he prefers to live in the tree.

This is since his Grandpa, Vernon Baird, and dad, Ronald Baird, constructed him a fantastic tree house.

He and his friend, Kelly Gafford, 5, head for the tree as soon as Trent arrives and up the ladder they go. They come down to get important items like food and drinks, blankets, toys, and the dog, Stinker.

It cannot be vouched for that Stinker loves the tree house, but the dog loves the boys so he tolerates the surrounding.

The boys are the envy of the neighborhood. In between Trent's visits, the acie attracts neighborhood children. Fortunately, the Bairds love children.

The Bairds have three granddaughters who live in Texas City. They are aged 16, 11 and 4. The 16-year-old will probably not be interested, but when summer comes, women's lib in the person of the two younger granddaughters may invade the realm of tree house at the Bairds.

This may cause as much excitement as the first time Stinker was taken up the tree. The cat across the street once thought the treehouse had been built for him and took up homestead claims.

When the boys came up the tree, the cat didn't seem to mind. But when they brought the dog, the cat wasted no time in deserting the island in the sky. With a swish of his tail, the cat indicated that dogs in trees are for the birds.

But then the birds know from instinct that life in a tree "ain't bad" and Trent Baird agrees with them.

JAILED — Rep. George V. Hansen, R-Idaho, Friday was sentenced to two months in federal prison. Hansen pleaded guilty earlier this year to two counts of violating federal campaign reporting laws. Hansen was named Idaho 2nd District congressman last fall, a post he held for two previous terms.

Paid $650 Month To Kill Coyotes

KEIGHVILLE, La. (AP) — Most communities have their policemen, firemen, sanitation workers and dogcatchers. Few have their own trapper.

Tall, rangy Clyde Williams is paid $650 a month by Caddo Parish—county—to trap out the mushrooming coyote population.

He's been in the varmint-killing business 29 years and on an average day bags anywhere from two to seven of the wolfish-looking animals about the size of a large dog.

There has always been an abundance of coyotes in northern Louisiana. Williams says they formerly dined on jack rabbits. They dined so well the rabbits disappeared and the packs started killing cattle and sheep. That's when the farmers petitioned the parish to hire a professional coyote killer.

The 52-year-old former high school coach says he averages 200 calls a year from farmers or cattlemen. He's in the woods from sunup to sundown six days a week and likes to leave a day's work strung out on the barbwire fences that crisscross the countryside.

"If a man sees a dozen or so coyotes hanging by the road he knows I'm earning my keep," he says.

Firearms, Two TV Sets Stolen

Seven firearms and two televisions sets were stolen from the Frosty Robinson residence, 1602 Cole Lane, police learned Friday afternoon.

Several of the guns were identified as "collector's items."

The rifles were a 30-30 lever-action, .3006 bolt-action, a single-shot .22 and semi-automatic .22. A 12-gauge pump, 16-gauge double-barrel and .410 shotguns were taken.

One of the television sets was a black-and-white model, and the other a color set.

Robbed, Jailed

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Charles Michael McDonough, 25, found an unsympathetic ear Saturday when he complained he'd been robbed.

Police said McDonough told them a man with a large-caliber handgun took his money — and some heroin.

Police promptly locked up McDonough on a charge of possessing a controlled substance with intent to deliver. The robber couldn't be found immediately.

Tires Floating In Creek Found

A vehicle was backed up to a railroad flat car, wooden crates opened and eight mounted implement tires stolen Friday night, police said.

Burford O. Williams, 1219 Lloyd Ave., reported finding the tires floating in a creek near the site of the theft, west of the east viaduct. The tires were worth an estimated $480.

THEFTS

A color television, stereo equipment, jewelry box and its contents and coffee maker were stolen from the home of Sue Armstrong, 2401 Marshall Drive, police learned Friday afternoon.

L. A. Hiltbrunner, 2602 Cindy Lane, told police Friday a citizen's band radio was removed from a vehicle parked in his garage.

Joe Conwell, 1406 Oriole St., Friday told police a bicycle had been stolen.

A 24-inch, boy's bicycle was stolen from the front porch of her home at 1409 Aylford St., Judy Grimes reported Saturday.

A 15-gallon trash can was said missing from the J. Oliver Williams residence, 801 Lancaster St., Saturday. The Westward Ho Motel, 3500 West U.S. 80, lost room rent from two men, police were told Saturday.

A fiberglass antenna was believed to have been broken from a car belonging to John M. Barnett, 2911 West U.S. 80, apartment 8, while it was in the Pollard Chevrolet parking lot, 1501 E. 4th St.

Tax Rate Is Lowered

COAHOMA — The Board of Directors of the Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 voted to lower the ad valorem tax rate at its regular meeting Thursday night.

The rate was lowered from $.80 per $100 valuation to $.70 per $100 valuation.

The board is in the process of obtaining an engineering survey of the present and future needs of the District in supplying water.

Board president Oscar Cagle said that the growth of the Sand Springs area could possibly cause the people on the far end of the lines in Coahoma to be out of water in the future.

The survey would determine just what improvements are needed on the lines to insure that the easternmost customers would have an adequate water supply.

The board also elected new officers. Cagle was re-elected president, new member Carl Gray was elected vice president and Pete Earnest was elected secretary.

MRS. SYED AND HER KIDS — Mrs. Safi (Aisha) Syed really doesn't use the broom on her kids when she drives the bus, but a friendly threat now and then certainly doesn't hurt. As a bus driver, she and the other 17 regular drivers for Big Spring schools take on a tremendous responsibility every day, the delivery of the world's most valuable cargo, our children.

Sense Of Humor Helps Bus Driver Survive

By TROY BRYANT
Mrs. Aisha Syed is a humorous person. Some people say she looks and acts like Carol Burnett.

But, there is one thing she is very serious about — the safety of the children who ride her bus.

Mrs. Syed has been driving a school bus for the Big Spring Independent School district for several months now and has become used to the noise and the responsibility involved, but she will never get used to careless drivers who endanger the lives of Big Spring school children every day.

It's a state law that traffic in both directions must stop when a school bus has its flashing red lights on to take on or let off children, but many people still ignore school buses.

ENDANGER CHILDREN
"We frustrate other drivers sometimes when they are in a hurry, and we also make mistakes," Mrs. Syed said. "But there is no reason for drivers to endanger the lives of these children just to get home a couple of minutes sooner."

"One elderly woman was driving down a street with a 30 mile-per-hour speed limit, ignored my lights and zoomed by going about 50. She could have killed one of the children crossing the street," she said.

Mrs. Syed turned the woman's license number over to the police.

She hardly knew what to expect when she decided she would like to drive a bus last October, and had no idea that driving a bus could be so difficult.

babysits 65
In addition to keeping control of the bus, watching out for other drivers, and protecting her valuable cargo, she must babysit with anywhere from 40 to 65 children and try to keep them in line.

The discipline was one of the toughest things to achieve, according to Mrs. Syed. One of her fellow drivers, Mrs. Sharon Harris, taught her to drive a bus, but handling the kids was her

Directory Is Being Compiled

The manpower office in City Hall, under the CETA program, is compiling a directory of community services for the purpose of listing all charity programs.

A manpower enrollee is compiling the material. Don Minyard of the Social Security office is mailing out questionnaires.

The directory will include community service agencies, names of directors, how to contact them and who is qualified for service.

Any group or club who helps with social service projects should contact the manpower office by calling City Hall and asking for Nabar Martinez or Betsy Howell.

Gideon Rally

The annual Spring rally of Gideons International here will be held May 3-4, it has been announced. A former Gideon field man will be among the featured speakers at the May 3 dinner. The following day, Gideon speakers will be guest speakers in many churches in Howard and adjoining counties.

own project.
"During the first week, the kids were a nightmare. They hung out the windows, changed seats, screamed, pushed, threw paper wads, set off firecrackers and smoked cigarettes before I finally got through to them," she said. "Once I got them to understand that as long as they are on the bus, I'm their 'mother', then things became simpler."

She still has an occasional cut-up or two, but she has learned to handle the children as well as the driving.

RESEMBLES CAROL
The kids nicknamed her the "Carol Burnett bus driver", because she looks like the TV star. Like Carol, Aisha says some very funny things.

She always counters such comments and questions as "I wouldn't have your job for a million bucks," and "How do you handle such a hair-raising job?" with "we scarcely earn that" and "with lots of hair spray."

She and her 14 companion woman bus drivers and three men bus drivers have come up with several experiences that indicate some of the situations that a driver can get into.

One time a driver encountered a bull loose on the highway, who planted his horns in the grille of the bus. Another stalled her bus across three lanes of traffic on an IS 20 overpass and tied up traffic for 45 minutes. And another one had a big, black dog jump on the bus and try to get out through the back window.

EARLY START
Most of the bus drivers rise at about 5:30 a.m. and are at the bus barn by 6:30. Each driver sweeps out his bus and clears the windows and lights and gasses up.

By 7 a.m. most of the buses are rolling and the drivers witness the sunrise each morning.

Following the morning run, they all gather over a cup of coffee and discuss mechanical problems, traffic hazards and how to handle the kids. In short, how to survive. They gather again about 3 p.m. to begin the afternoon run, taking the children home.

Mrs. Syed puts about 53 miles per day on her bus. There are other routes that are much longer. One route requires a 50 mile drive to pick up the first child.

STOP
Mrs. Syed, wife of Safi Syed, Webb Exchange manager, is a native of New England and is probably the only local bus driver with a college education.

She decided to try to drive a bus because she wanted a part-time job and also likes children.

The Syeds have three children, Asima, 16, a senior in high school; Wasi, 14, a freshman; and Ali, 11, a fifth grader.

She said, "I have one important message for every driver on behalf of all the bus drivers and school children. When you see a bus pull over and the flashing lights come on, STOP — let us load or unload our children safely."

Planting Is Increasing In Plains, West Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Spring planting is increasing in the plains and West Central Texas after recent rains brought valuable moisture, Dr. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says.

Cotton planting is increasing in central Texas with about 75 per cent of the crop planted in Williamson County, he said.

Some sorghum replanting is under way in Central Texas where freezing temperatures several weeks ago caused considerable damage, Hutchison said. Tomato plants have been field set in Falls County once again, some for the third and fourth times.

Planting of corn, sorghum and rice is making good progress over South Central and Southeast Texas, and peanut planting is about complete in Southwest Texas, he said.

Some flax and small grains are nearing the harvest stage in southern areas but most small grains have been grazed out because of lack of moisture to produce a grain crop, Hutchison said.

Irrigation of young crops is active in the Rio Grande Valley, but elsewhere in South Texas crops need rain for continued growth. Cattle marketings are increasing over South Texas as forage remains short.

District agricultural extension agents gave these reports:

Panhandle: Moisture is still short in northern and western counties. Corn and sorghum planting is active. Sugarbeet planting is about 85 per cent complete. Dryland wheat needs moisture. Most pastures and ranges are below average.

Rolling Plains: Central and western counties remain dry. Some spraying is under way for alfalfa weevils. Sorghum is being planted where moisture is sufficient.

North Central: Dry weather is needed to allow spring planting to progress. About half the sorghum and 35 per cent of the corn acreage has been seeded. Pastures and ranges are showing some improvement.

Northeast: Dry weather is needed for small grains and pastures. Some dry land is being prepared for cotton, corn and sorghum. Hay pastures are beginning to green up. There has been some increase in cattle marketings.

Far West: The area needs rain for planting moisture, pastures and ranges. Small grains are beginning to head. Livestock conditions remain good. Goat shearing is complete. Sheep shearing continues.

West Central: Some small grains are heading. Land preparation continues for cotton. Despite heavy freeze damage to pecan and fruit crop in early April, average crops are still expected in some counties.

Central: Extensive

replanting of sorghum continues because of cold weather damage earlier. Cotton planting is in progress. Small grains look good. Some field are heading. Livestock conditions are improving.

East: There is surplus soil moisture over much of the area. Sorghum planting is from 10 to 50 per cent complete. Cool, wet conditions are slowing plant growth. Pastures remain short.

Southeast and Upper Gulf Coast: Corn and sorghum planting is about 80 per cent complete. Rice planting is at the 70 per cent mark. About half the cotton crop has been seeded. Some hay pastures are being fertilized.

South Central: About 20 per cent of the cotton crop has been planted. Corn and sorghum planting is near the halfway mark. Pecan trees are in bloom. Livestock are in fair to poor condition.

Southwest: Some small grains will be harvested soon but much of the oat acreage has been grazed out. Early peaches will be ready to harvest about May 1. Pecan prospects look good. Cattle conditions are improving.

South: Soil moisture remains short. The flax crop has been hurt severely by the drought. Some grain has been replanted in the Rio Grande Valley because of poor germination and white grub damage. Onion harvesting is in full swing. Cattle are losing weight because of lack of forage.

McGee One Step Ahead Of Field

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Jerry McGee, a nine-year veteran still looking for his first four victory, shot a five-underpar 66 in the rain-drenched $125,000 Pensacola Open golf tournament Saturday and took the lead after three rounds with a 54-hole total of 201, 12-underpar.

The 31-year-old McGee, whose best finish ever was a third in the Greater Greensboro Open two weeks ago, claimed a one-shot edge over quiet Wally Armstrong, an obscure 29-year-old who also had a 66 for a 202 total.

McGee, winner of $40,000 so far this year, said, "I've got only one thought—to win the golf tournament. I've been close but I've never won. I want to win."

McGee had an erratic front side, scoring two birdies, two bogeys and an eagle three with a 12-foot putt on the 542 yard sixth hole.

He moved into the lead following a 34-minute rain delay that left water all over the flat, 6,679-yard, par-71 Pensacola Country Club course.

McGee was on the 13th green facing an 18-foot birdie putt when play was suspended.

"I just tried to visualize it going in and, lo and behold, when I hit after the delay, it did go in," he said.

He closed with two pars after lipping the cup with a 20 foot birdie try on the 15th and adding a birdie from 10 feet at 16.

Armstrong, who also has never won, recorded six birdies in his round, three on each side, and took his only bogey of the day on the par-three seventh.

Meanwhile, the rainstorm seemed to destroy the game of second-round leader Don Iverson, who faded badly with a 73 that dropped him five shots off the pace at 206.

Following the storm, Iverson, who shared the lead at the time, took a double-bogey six on the 13th and then a bogey on 14, fading out of the picture.

Australian Bruce Crampton, one of only eight $1 million winners and young Roger Maltbie, were tied for third at 205, four shots away.

Crampton had a 68 and Maltbie a 69.

Iverson was joined at 206 by veteran Miller Barber and Australian Graham Marsh, both firing one-under 70s for the day.

There was a six-way tie at 207, including defending champion Lee Elder, who had a 69, and opening round leader Andy North, who had a 70.

Steers Demolish Permian

By CLARK LESHER
 Permian's ace right-hander Alex Kager received a good old-fashioned pounding here Saturday afternoon as Big Spring broke the Mojo magic spell by winning, 8-2.

Probably the best crowd of the year was on hand at Steer Park to see Big Spring hand Permian its first second-half defeat. The Steers continue to hold on to first place with a 3-0 record and 10-10 over-all. Permian falls to 2-1 and 12-7. Big Spring cashed in on 12 solid hits in scoring their fourth win in a row, longest streak of the campaign.

Kager, starter and loser, went the full route. He was undefeated in 5-4A play, 5-0, before running into the Steers.

Pat Carroll pitched marvelous ball for Big Spring through six frames, yielding only six safeties. He was relieved in the seventh by Dick Battle. Carroll also aided his only winning cause by going for four at the plate. Big Spring quickly banged the scoreboard for a run in the first. Carroll scored on a single by Dick Battle.

In the second, the Steers unloaded for five runs. Arthur Olague walked. Ken Murtrey singled. Bouliouin's reached first on an attempted sacrifice error.

With two outs, Carroll singled in both Olague and McMurtrey. Ray Don Box doubled, sending both Wes Bouliouin and Carroll scampering across home plate. Battle completed the scoring frame by driving in Box.

Permian could only muster across two runs off Carroll. Chuck Gray of Permian poked a solo homer in the third and Kager scored on Marc Fieldon's Texas League single in the fifth.

The Steers went on to pick at Kager for back to back single runs.

In the fourth, Carroll singled, Box singled, and Newsum took first as he was hit by a pitched ball. Olague walked to force in Carroll.

In the fifth, Tracy Thompson singled, Wes Bouliouin sacrificed, and Barry Canning singled. Carroll stepped into a Kager pitch that drove in Thompson.

Byrd still feeling the effects of a pulled leg muscle suffered in the Midland game only brief service Saturday.

Fans from Odessa remarked how big the attendance was at Steer Park. Horton was pleased in the number of Big Spring fans present. "It helped morale alot," he said.

Sickness had kept Carroll from the practice field since Wednesday. He was somewhat weak though it wasn't shown.

Comments heard from Big Spring students, "It's hard to believe we beat Mojo, but it sure is nice."

Steer Sidenotes: Lawrence

"It has to rate the best game we played all year," said Larry Horton, Steer head coach. A team's confidence is build up after you play a top-flight pitcher like Kager."

Big Spring won't have long to enjoy the Mojo victory, bumping into another toughy in Lee, there, Tuesday. A win over the Rebels would certainly put the Steers in the second half driver's seat toward a shot at the district flag.

Howard College, in the final NJCAA final basketball statistics, finished No. 8 regarding total points scored. The Hawks hit the hoop for 95 points based on 31 games and 2,952 total.

Western Texas College, national champions, placed No. 11 in defense, yielding 67.5 points per game. The Westerners' Bob Miller was sixth in free throw shooting. He tossed in 139 of 152 for a 91.4 percentage.

New Mexico JC's Lee Lewis lead the nation in free throws with a 93.8 total. Lewis made 45 of 48. His teammate, Mike Russell placed No. 5 in rebounds. The 6-7 Prep All-American pulled the ball down 561 times for a 19.3 average.

Snyder's Welton Cobb has been selected to play in the annual Texas High School Coaches Association All-Star Football game.

The game is booked for 7:30 p.m., Thursday, July 13, in the TCU Stadium in Fort Worth. He played linebacker on defense and tailback on offense.

Cobb, a senior, made All-District for three years and was selected to the 3A All-State second team. Last season, he gained 969 yards on offense, averaged 7.1 yards per carry and scored 48 points.

It was an honest to golf mistake but three golfers at the Rockford course in Fort Worth were a little teed off.

A young park ranger who had never played golf saw divots flying the other day as the golfers swung around the municipal links.

Opps, the officer thought, that looks like a violation of Ordinance 5637 — the one that says thou shalt not deface city property. He didn't know about divots the small hunk of dirt and grass that a normal golf shot dislodges.

The ranger issued tickets, including one to Richard Renteria 27, who said he was "astounded" and a little aggravated.

When Mel Justice, special activities superintendent for the city park and recreation department, heard about the tickets he gave officers who patrol the golf course a lesson on divots.

The ticket was dismissed. Golfers, he said, won't have to put up with tickets any more.

Dr. Jim Granberry, former mayor of Lubock and a candidate for governor in 1974, will be the featured speaker at the All-Sports Banquet for Western Texas College athletes at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, in the Scurry County Coliseum.

"We hope there is a good turnout to support our athletic teams," said Sid Simpson, WTC athletic director. "It's not every day college wins the national championship."

Tickets are $5 each.

Gilstrap Retires

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Chena Gilstrap, 60, athletic director at the University of Texas-Arlington, will announce his retirement next week, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram said Friday.

Gilstrap would neither confirm nor deny the report but the newspaper said the word is expected to come next week from UTA President Dr. Wendell Nedderman.

UTA officials said Nedderman was out of town Friday. Gilstrap reportedly will still be head of the physical education department, choosing the teaching post because of his age and his tenure, the Star-Telegram said.

"The athletic council reportedly felt it was necessary to split the duties of athletic director and head of the physical education department," the newspaper said.

Gilstrap came to then Arlington State in 1953 as head football coach and proceeded to build one of the premiere junior college programs in the nation.

Cards Face Colts

The Big Spring Cardinals have a twin bill lined-up today with the Midland Colts, there, at 2 p.m., at Cub Stadium.

For the season, the Cards are 2-1. They opened the year with a win over Odessa Orioles, April 6 and split a pair with Pecos last Sunday. Cardinal mound chores will be handled by Orlando Olague, Jody Flores or Tony Fiero.

Probable Card starters: Felix Martinez, shortstop; Sammy Rodriguez, second base; Pat Martinez, Jr., first base; Jessie Zapata, center; John Moreleon or Bill Pineda, third base; Flores, left; Joe Martinez, catcher; Tommy Tune or Joe Canehead, right.

After the Colt clash, the Cards return home for a doubleheader, April 27, against the same Colts.

This will be the Colts' seasonal opener. Last season, the Colts lost only one game while thumping some of the best semi-pro clubs in West Texas.

Former Midland High athlete, Donnie Spain, will pitch the opening game. Eddie McNeal will toe the rubber in the second contest.

JV Defeated By Permian

Big Spring's Junior Varsity suffered its second straight setback falling to Permian's JV, there, Friday, 13-10.

For the season, the Steer JV's are now 5-6. Billy Cudd took the loss. Big Spring's Mike Harris went three for three.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Pitchers Richard Wortham and Martin Flores handcuffed Baylor to give the Texas Longhorns twin victories by scores of 19-3 and 14-0 and clinch the Southwest Conference baseball championship Saturday.

The Longhorns are now 21-0 in conference, five games ahead of the Texas A&M Aggies whom they will meet next weekend in a final three-game series that closes the regular season. The Longhorns are 39-4 for the year.

Wortham, 10-0, scattered nine Bear hits, struck out six and walked two in the opener. The Longhorns' Charles Proske went 3-4 and drove in five runs, including two when the Longhorns exploded for 10 runs in the first inning.

Dean Slayton, Howard Payne head football coach, will be featured speaker. He has posted an 18-13 record since taking over Yellow Jacket reins.

(CLEVELAND AP) — Tom Miner has been named West Coast and Rocky Mountain-area scout for the Cleveland Browns, the club announced.

Appointment of Miner was described as a step to strengthen the National Football League team's scouting staff. Miner has been player-personnel manager of the San Diego Chargers since 1967.

The Browns also have announced signing free-agent defensive tackle Mike Olive of Hubbard, Ohio.

The 6-foot-4, 270-pound Olive played with minor league football in 1973 and 1974.

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A University of Nebraska at Omaha junior with a desire to coach a boys' midwest baseball team was crowned as queen of the 1975 NCAA College World Series.

Miss Williams is one of two women enrolled in the school's baseball theory class. A recreation major, Miss Williams says she would like to coach a boys' midwest team this summer.

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Lobbs announced the signing of Kerry Melville, Wendy Turnbull and Raz Reid for the 1975 World Team Tennis season.

Miss Melville and Reid, who will be married April 27 in Greenville, S.C., are returning favorites from the 1974 Boston Lobsters.

WATCH AROUND HOME Snakes Part Of Spring

AUSTIN — Like it or not, snakes are a part of springtime.

The presence of snakes should not dampen your enjoyment of the outdoors since snake safety is largely a matter of preventing poisonous bites.

Officials at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department say that a significant number of snake bites occur around the home. At home it is a matter of making the environment less attractive for snakes.

Vacant lots should be kept mowed, trash piles picked up and lumber and wood stacked off the ground. Rattlesnakes depend on rodents for food. Rid your home site of rats and mice and you will make it less attractive for snakes.

Most people are bitten on the hands and feet. Keep your hands out of armadillo holes or tree hollows. Use a stick or other lever to turn over a log rather than your hands. Don't gather firewood at night.

As much as possible, keep to open ground. Avoid dense grass and weeds. High-top shoes worn with long trousers will protect against most copperhead bites and strikes from small rattlesnakes.

Ten-inch hunting boots and trousers will protect against many rattlesnakes but you frequent notoriously snake-infested areas such as the South Texas brush country, consider wearing snake

Sacker Causing Concern

ROYAL OAK, Mich. (AP) — The new second basemen at Royal Oak St. Mary High School is turning some heads with unexpected speed and a rifle arm.

Her name is Sue Welsh. The 18-year-old senior was recruited by boys baseball coach Leo Quatro, who is pleased with her performance so far.

"I saw Sue play softball last year and invited here out for baseball this year," Quatro said. "I was impressed with her arm—she's an excellent fielder and can handle any infield position. She has aggressiveness and is very quick, runs as well as the average boy and is quite knowledgeable about baseball."

Sue got the starting nod this week in the school's opener against Hamtramck Conception High.

In two appearances at the plate she popped up and laid down a perfect squeeze bunt to score a run. She handled five routine putouts in four innings at second base.

Sue says she's just playing ball and isn't trying to prove anything about equality of the sexes.

"I would not have thought about it if the coach hadn't asked me," she said. "It's good experience and lots of competition."

"The ball is smaller and harder to hit. It comes at you harder, the throws are longer, but I'm not afraid."

Sue says she hopes to attend Western Michigan University next year and wants to play basketball and softball or tennis—but not baseball.

So far, Sue says, she hasn't had any trouble with her teammates.

"The boys are all right," she said. "It's a small school. We're all good friends. They keep the locker room talk in the locker room."

High School Athletic Director Phil Young says Sue is "the sweetest and shyest kid. She has a nice personality and is a top student."

HANDBALL'S HIS THING! — Pro handball player Lou Russo practices at a Patchogue, N.Y., health club recently. "The nature of our sport makes hand ball players the most superbly conditioned athletes in the world," says Russo, who would like to prove his statement. Russo is serious — among the top names he cites is that of Muhammad Ali.

Wooden Vows Not To Watch

HOUSTON (AP) — John Wooden, who retired in March after leading UCLA to 10 national basketball championships in 12 years, doesn't think he's leaving big shoes to fill.

"To say that coaching at UCLA this year will be the toughest job in America is underestimating the talents of players like Marques Johnson and Ralph Drollinger," Wooden said after a speaking engagement here Friday.

Gene Bartow is the new UCLA coach and Wooden says he doesn't want to be around when basketball practice starts next October.

"I'm a basketball coach," Wooden said. "I retired and I can't back out now. They've got another coach. Gene has asked me to stay around and help, but I hope to leave by Oct. 15. That's the day practice starts. I think it would be better for me and the players if I left before it starts."

Making the decision to retire after 27 years at UCLA came on the way to the dressing room after a tough overtime victory over Louisville in this year's NCAA semifinals, Wooden said.

"I made the decision on the way to the dressing room," Wooden said. "When the year began I intended to come back for one more year. But then a lot of little things happened that made me feel I couldn't be advisable to return. I wasn't sure it was the right decision."

"After the championship game was over one of our enthusiastic alumni came up to

Allison Looks Good In Drill

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Although the list of injured linemen continues to grow, new Texas Tech coach Steve Sloan displayed a bevy of quality running backs and may have uncovered a quarterback in Saturday's scrimmage.

Defensive tackles Willie Thomas and Fred Shussler both went down with injuries Saturday making nine offensive and defensive trenchmen out with injuries with spring drills three weeks old.

But the encouraging thing about Saturday's two-and-a-half hour workout was the play of backs Rufus Myers, Billy Taylor, Jimmy Williams and Larry Isaac and sophomore quarterback Rodney Allison.

Myers rushed for 68 yards on 13 carries, while Taylor had 59 yards on nine totes, (including a 28-yard run) and Isaac 34 yards on seven carries.

Reds Slip By Astros

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tony Perez started a three-run ninth-inning rally with a home run and Dave Concepcion capped it with a game-winning single that carried the Cincinnati Reds to a 9-8 victory over the Houston Astros Saturday.

Perez slugged his third homer of the year leading off the ninth against Ken Forsch and, after Cesar Geronimo struck out, Ken Griffey singled. Dan Driessen walked, George Foster fanned, then Pete Rose tied it 8-8 with a single before Concepcion lined his hit to left, sending the Astros down to their sixth straight setback.

New Fish Supply At White River

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department released 500,000 walleye fry in White River Lake last Monday and a blue catfish release is planned for September.

"White River has an abundance of rough fish," Roy Bamberg, fishery biologist, said.

"These walleye will help the established bass and catfish population control the carp and shad that inhabit the lake," Bamberg continued.

The current release of walleye were the results of the department's egg procurement at Lake Meredith and San Angelo this spring.

The daily creel limit on walleye is presently set at five per day with ten in possession. Many anglers catch walleye on minnows, worms, spoons, spinners and bass plugs. The eating quality of this fish is excellent.

required to bring their gloves for tryouts set for 8 p.m. Managers and coaches will be briefed on the draw method to be employed.

All managers and coaches will attend a meeting, at 7 p.m., Tuesday, May 1, at the Goliad Junior High cafeteria. League rules and team rosters will be discussed.

Royals Sock Texas, 5-2

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — John Mayberry slashed a two-run double in the fifth inning to lead the Kansas City Royals past the Texas Rangers 5-2 Saturday night despite Jeff Burroughs' two-run homer.

The Royals, leaders of the American League West, equalled the best start in the club's history with eight victories in 10 starts.

Kansas City jumped to a 1-0 lead off Ranger starter Bill Hands in the first inning on Vada Pinson's double and Hal McRae's RBI ground out.

Burroughs, the AL's most valuable player, blasted a 398-foot homer over the left field wall in the third inning to give Texas a 2-1 lead.

Fred Patek singled and Amos Otis walked ahead of Mayberry's wrong-field double which cleared the glove of Lenny Randle in the fifth. George Brett singled home another Kansas City run in the eighth and Patek tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly in the ninth.

Paul Splittorff recorded his first victory of the campaign with relief help from Doug Bird.

One thing is guaranteed... many readers will find something new every week... and to keep things even more interesting you will find an occasional hint about the easy way to solve a problem you may be having around the house or on the farm or ranch. Comments on the column will be appreciated. Anybody's... anytime.

Appeal Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Rifle Association has issued an urgent appeal for funds to shoot down what it calls the "most drastic and devastating threat to gun owners" in recent times.

The NRA, leader in the fight against tougher gun control measures, says it needs up to $41,666 a month to carry on the battle against laws that would "confiscate our legally owned guns and ammunition."

NRA Executive Director Maxwell Rich told members in a letter that the organization could not continue to fight without "immediate and maximum financial help of $50, $100 or even $1,000."

"I never thought that I would have to come into your homes with news so incredibly bad," said Rich. "But the threat to our legally owned firearms — our own private property — is so real that I have no choice but to ask you to make an emergency contribution..."

Rich, contacted Thursday at the NRA's annual convention in San Diego, Calif., said the letters were mailed April 15 to each of the association's one million members. He said it was the first such direct mail campaign in his four years with the organization.

His letter mentioned a widely publicized U.S. district court order instructing the federal Consumer Product Safety Commission to consider whether handgun ammunition should be classified "hazardous" and banned.

GREAT KICKBALL CONTROVERSY — Mrs. Maurice J. White of Corpus Christi, Tex., vows to spend all of her income tax rebate to keep her son, Jeffrey Daniel White, 10, from being banned from the Corpus Christi All Girls' Little Miss Kickball Association. Jeffrey demonstrates his ability at the sport.

MOTHER PROTESTS Jeffrey Banned From Kickball

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Maurice J. White vows to spend every last nickel of her income tax rebate and then some to keep her 10-year-old son from being banned by the All-girls Corpus Christi Little Miss Kickball Association.

"If it comes down to it, my husband and I will take it to the Supreme Court," says Diane White, who feels Jeffrey Daniel White is a victim of discrimination.

"We've got girls playing on boy baseball teams and I certainly didn't expect this type of reverse discrimination," says Mrs. White.

The Whites have lost round one. They were turned down in an attempt to get an injunction against the CCLMKA but have appealed the case to the 13th Dist. Court of Civil Appeals. The three-judge panel is expected to rule sometime in June.

The suit against the CCLMKA claims Jeffrey tried to register twice in the league. Kickball is played like baseball only the pitcher rolls a soccer-sized ball to the plate and the batter kicks it then runs to first.

"The kids play in shorts and T-shirts and there is very little body contact," says Mrs. White. "There are no boy leagues in the sport outside of school. I would certainly prefer him to be in a boy's league. We have a nine-year-old daughter, Kirsten, playing in the same kickball league."

Young Jeffrey appeared in court, barely visible above the guard railing, at the hearing in District Court March 27 in Corpus Christi. He testified he wanted to play kickball with the girls because the boys didn't have a league.

"The defense said we were just out for publicity and I've been told that they thought

NFL Talk Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators in the National Football League contract dispute will meet in subcommittees this week in an attempt to iron out major differences between the owners and players.

Joint subcommittees on economic issues and working conditions were announced Thursday following a day-long meeting held under the auspices of federal mediator James F. Searece.

During the session, the NFL Management Council responded to the union's April 4 proposals by suggesting that all issues, including the controversial Rozelle compensation rule, be placed on the bargaining table for discussion.

In their proposals, the players omitted the compensation rule because, they said, the matter is before the courts for adjudication. Searece termed the day-long bargaining session here productive.

He said the parties agreed to establish joint subcommittees to explore possible solutions of issues remaining in the dispute. The subcommittees will meet this week, he said, and when they establish sufficient progress, they will report back to a full session of the negotiators.

Attempts to reach a contract agreement failed last year, setting off a 42-day strike which ended when the players went to camp and played the regular season.

The council, bargaining agent for the owners, estimated the union's economic proposals at some $40 million annually, an increase of $27 million over 1973 levels of $12.8 million.

The council said the economic proposals should be considered part of a negotiating package with the structural issues brought up by the union — the draft, option clause, option compensation, waivers and trades.

"All of those subjects are interwoven and none can be considered in isolation," said the council.

Newcombe Expects Fans To Back Him

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex. (AP) — When Australian John Newcombe clashes with U.S. Open winner Jimmy Connors April 26 in the nationally televised tennis grudge match, Newcombe says he expects the crowd to back him.

That is because Newcombe has been on top in tennis for eight years, he gives his best and he doesn't make disrespectful gestures to the crowd, "You know, like Connors does," the mustachioed Australian said this week.

Newcombe, sun-bronzed and relaxed during a break from training at his tennis ranch near here in the rolling Texas hill country, said the winner of the match at Las Vegas, Nev., would get about $400,000 with about $200,000 going to the loser.

"I can't say exactly because there's TV money and everything like that to be split up," he said. Despite a ragged midweek workout which he blamed on lack of concentration after two hours of television interviews with CBS, Newcombe pronounced himself almost ready for Connors and said he would be ready by match time.

Newcombe told an AP photographer scheduled to cover a women's tournament near Austin, Tex., this weekend, "when you're there, if you see Chrissy Evert, tell her I'm going to beat her man and after that I'm going to teach him to dance... as a special favor to her."

Women's tennis star Chris Evert and Connors were engaged once, but called off the wedding several months ago. They still date.

Newcombe said his remark would have special meaning to Miss Evert, but he declined to elaborate. Connors and Newcombe came close to a preview match in Denver last weekend when Connors unexpectedly tendered a last minute entry in a World Championship of Tennis meet there.

Game Proposals To Be Reviewed

AUSTIN — Proposed hunting, fishing and trapping regulations for 1975-76 head the list of items to be considered by commissioners of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department when they meet in Austin, April 28 and 29.

The hunting and fishing regulations will be considered in both a staff briefing which starts at 9 a.m. April 28 in Room 100 of the John H. Reagan Building. A public hearing is set for 9 a.m. April 29, in Room 105 of the Reagan Building.

LAKE SPENCE Arthur Reels Record Catch

The past week saw a continuation of crappie catches, a quickening of white bass totals at Lake E. Spence, but it still was a week of the big striped bass.

Richard Arthur, Robert Lee, set a new record for a striped bass on rod and reel when he pulled in a handsome 18½-lb. specimen. He also held the previous record of 17 lb. 9 oz. David Hodnett, Big Spring, caught a 14-lb. 14-oz. striper, and A. L. Routh, Midland, caught one weighing 11½ lb.

Several hundred crappie were included in the week's reports, which included these:

Y. J.'s Marina — Scotty Turner, Lubbock, 50 white bass to 2½ lb.; Cecil Cherry, Odessa, three black bass to 3½ lb., 30 white bass to 2½ lb. A. L. Routh, Midland, 11½-lb. striped bass.

Dink's Bait — Harvey Chapman, Odessa, five blue cat to 7 lb.; Bob and Jean Brannon of New Mexico 30 crappie, 25 white bass to 2 lb., and 5-lb. and 7 lb.

Important Day Tuesday

All signs point to another disgracefully light turnout Tuesday when Texans are asked to decide the fate of two constitutional amendments.

Two important matters are up for consideration, and we will have to live with the results one way or the other. One would consolidate several state retirement systems, broaden opportunity for employee participation, and reach back to more adequately help those who retired before participation scales provided realistic pay. The other would increase the salary of state legislators from $400 to $600 a month, and the per diem during sessions from $12 to $30 a day.

Providing a means for combining retirement systems makes sense, and it also enables localities (counties and cities) to set up retirement plans through the state. Most of all, by appropriating something like $120 million, it would find so long as they live those who retired prior to the inflationary wave providing them with desperately needed relief. Most of the state employees and teachers affected weren't handsomely paid prior to retirement anyhow, and this seems simple justice to us.

As for increasing the salaries of our state representatives and state senators, they have not had a raise since 1960, and certain things have about doubled in cost in that 15-year period. The same can be said for the per diem increase. Most of all, the proposed scales would make it more nearly possible for individuals to serve without taking a personal financial penalty or face the temptation of becoming beholden to others in order to exist.

So we favor the passage of both. But whatever your opinion on the matter is, we do plead with you to do your duty as a citizen and vote. This is your most precious right — you must use it — or someday lose it.

No Case Established

A federal district court jury in Washington, D.C. came to the same conclusion that most objective people had arrived at by finding John Connally, former governor of Texas, secretary of war and treasury, not guilty of having received a political bribe.

When it was all shaken out, the government's case did not appear to be based on anything other than the testimony of one man (Jake Jacobson) who had been promised immunity from certain other prosecution in exchange for his testimony. Logic would not seem to support the thesis that a man of Connally's stature and wealth would, even if he had been inclined to such mischief, have copped out for a tiny mess of pottage. The government's case certainly didn't contravene logic, or establish any degree of guilt, much less beyond a reasonable doubt. Connally's worst mistake, it appears, was getting involved with Jacobson and a sinking administration.

My Answer

Billy Graham

The Governor of our state was given a huge Bible by his church. On TV he read his favorite quotation from Ecclesiastes, "There is a time to work and a time to play, a time to love and a time to hate." Aren't we only suppose to love — or does the Bible have contradictions? M.H.L.

The quote you referred to is in the third chapter of Ecclesiastes where the wisdom writer shows how God arranges even the smallest details of our lives.

In verse 8, you have the curious statement, "A time to hate." Now hatred can be bad or good, depending on how it is directed. Where it is of the malicious sort, it is condemned in both the Old and New Testament. You have to understand, however, that in the Old Testament, hatred of evil and evildoers is commended. It was born of a loyalty to God and a spirit of moral indignation.

The New Testament brings the whole matter, however, under the higher law of love (Matthew 5:43, 44). Sometimes, though, in the Bible, the word "hate" is used in a relative sense to express strong preference. It would be like Luke suggesting in chapter 14 that father and mother are to be hated in comparison with Christ.

THE IRON BRIDGE

By BILL D. BROOKS

When I was growing up we lived near a creek (it would have been a stream but there was seldom any water in it). The meandering creek crossed an old dirt road at two places near our house. Big iron bridges, common to most parts of the country, were placed there to make crossing possible for the early-day automobiles.

This type of bridge was made of two big riveted iron trusses spanning from one creek bank to the other. Heavy wooden timbers attached to the trusses formed the roadway. They were narrow, allowing only one lane of traffic to cross at a time. The iron was always rusty because it was never painted, at least the ones I saw were never painted.

Designers of the bridges apparently knew only one way to situate their creations, that being directly across the creek, perpendicular to the stream bed. Therefore, if the stream bed met the road at an angle, one that proved to be a dangerous problem when the bridge did too. The majority of the bridges were at some angle with the road, in fact, I don't remember a single one that was straight with the road. I'm sure that at the time they were being built, this seemed like a great money saving idea but the grand old bridges were done away with and few remain today. They served the purpose for which they were intended at a time when they were adequate to the job but from the standpoint of safety, we're better off now that they're gone.

REMEMBERING...

Has Economic Spring Sprung?

NEW YORK (AP) — It's still premature, in the economic world at least, to say spring has sprung, but events of the past week indicate the buds are beginning to form.

Government statistics for March showed continuing declines in housing starts and factory output, but both by lesser margins than in recent months, thus offering the hope that a turnaround is close at hand.

And the nation's personal income inched 1 per cent higher during the month, with the first gain in private industry payrolls since last October.

The most dramatic news history in the British Museum, could hardly have envisioned the B-1 and the new Trident submarine. But if these new weapons are not in preparation for an eventual war — to keep the peace is the Pentagon rationale — then they are the most costly museum pieces the mind of man could devise.

The issue to be fought out is whether, in refutation of the Marxist thesis, the huge sums to be spent on the new weapons, which are overkill by many times, could not be transferred to needy public enterprises producing far more employment.

ACCORDING TO the Rockwell charts, the B-1 will create 192,000 jobs at the peak of production. This includes persons directly employed in building the bomber and the butcher and the baker, as Rockwell puts it, in support of those on the assembly line. But the Bureau of Labor Statistics has developed estimates to show that other forms of publicly supported employment can produce a higher ratio of jobs. The Bureau's estimate is that $1 billion spent on private defense contracts creates 51,952 jobs. For public housing and VA health care, to take two examples, the estimates are 60,126 and 88,955.

IF THE FIGURE for the current fiscal year is included, the Pentagon has already spent $2 billion-plus on the B-1. For the next fiscal year a total of $749 million is sought, of which $672 million is research and development and $77 million a start on building the first plane.

Carbide's 26 per cent, Xerox's 5 per cent, all from year earlier bids.

On the downside, such big name firms as RCA Corp., American Telephone, Polaroid, Motorola and General Telephone took beatings, while two airlines — UAL, Inc., and Trans World Airways — operated in the red.

The Federal Trade Commission, after having its first antitrust consent decree with Xerox knocked out by complaining competitors, came back with a stiffer decree acceptable to the copier.

Nerves And Loss Of Hair

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read somewhere that nerves cause some people to lose their hair. Is this true? Is there any known medication to stop a rapidly receding hairline?

For the past few months I have noticed 10 to 15 hairs in the sink each morning after I comb my hair. I don't believe it is a family trait, because my father always had a full head of hair. I am in my early 30s and am quite concerned. — Mr. M. A. K.

Dear Doctor: I have an unusual nervous habit. When I am sitting around I pull hair out of my head. Now, after six months, I have a large bald spot in my head. I must know, will it grow back? — Miss M. B.

I'll answer Mr. M. A. K. first. It is true that nerves can cause the patchy loss of hair, a condition known as alopecia areata. It is sometimes associated with extreme nervous shock. However, with your rapidly receding hairline you are probably undergoing a process called "male-pattern baldness," which often starts in the 30s. It is usually hereditary, and the fact that your father is not bald doesn't mean much. How about grandpa?

There is no remedy I know of to stop the process. One study did show that a reduction of salt intake helped somewhat. You might be checked for anemia or a thyroid deficiency, both of which can contribute to baldness. In such cases, hair returns with proper treatment.

Adequate protein in your diet is necessary to maintain a flourishing head of hair, but there is no evidence that increased protein beyond normal required intake will actually grow hair. It may prevent conditions in the scalp, though, that can lead to excessive hair loss.

I have to tell another reader (G. F.) that the vaunted virility of bald-headed men is a lot of hogwash, probably invented by a desperate baldy.

Miss M. B. has an obviously nerve-caused problem but a more manageable one. The medical term for it is "trichotillomania," and its origin lies in neurotic anxiety. To overcome it requires self control and sometimes counseling. But since hair grows in cycles — the rate varying from person to person — Miss M. B. can expect regrowth of her pulled-out hair in about three months. Fortunately for such people, hair follicles turn out to be pretty stubborn mechanisms.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is using an ultra-violet lamp on the face dangerous in any way? I have heard that these lamps are good for acne if not overdone.

How does this type of lamp work, and what, if any, effects can it have on my face? — T. A. D.

The ultraviolet lamp can be dangerous in two ways. One is in injury to the eyes if they are not adequately shielded. The other is in skin burn from overexposure. They are the same dangers, in fact, to be encountered with sunlight, a natural source of ultraviolet light. This is why the lamp you refer to is also called a sun lamp. The lamp, though, holds more dangers because the rays tend to be more concentrated.

Properly used, the lamp can be beneficial in acne, and for reasons that are not entirely clear. Don't rush into self-prescribed ultraviolet treatment.

Acne is a terrible problem for anyone growing up. If you are afflicted with it, or have children who are, write to Dr. Thosteson, P. O. Box 3999, Elgin, Ill. 60120, for a copy of his booklet, "Controlling Acne, Blackheads and Pimples." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Yes, that is a new picture, and it took the complete cooperation of the photography department, as well as my mother.

I'M NOT GETTING any younger (to coin a phrase) so they gave me the complete treatment — left foot on chair, left elbow on knee, turn camera's stretch neck as far as you can, push tongue against roof of mouth.

And smile!!! I would have said there was no way I could smile under those circumstances, but I did.

THE JOKES were rather ribald and when the laughing stopped I stood there, bent over staring at the camera and expecting a miracle.

Flashy Danny Valdes' pictures came out great, but there was one other problem — shadows. So he printed a large picture and had other experts reduce it to about half a column — and viola!

I hope you like it, because I'll probably use it for the rest of what I laughingly call "my career."

I don't think the photo department and I could stand such an ordeal again.

EDITORIALS / OPINIONS

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I am a young wife, mother and homemaker with a college degree. I teach part time in the public schools and am active in church and civic work. I would like to express some facts concerning the controversial Equal Rights Amendment and the newspaper advertisements concerning it.

There have been many letters published criticizing the ads and Mrs. David Elrod. Many criticized the money spent to publish the large ads, but this seems to be the only way those opposed to the amendment can express our opinions and inform the public of the evils of ERA. The ads on Stop-ERA were endorsed and paid for by countless women (not just a MAN, as one ERA proponent stated). A list of these can be had by calling 394-4481. Also, about 20 women from Howard County went to Austin April 14 to the Constitutional Revisions Committee concerning HCR57 (to rescind the federal ERA in Texas). After hearing legal and public testimony in person, we were all further convinced of the ERA being unnecessary, uncertain and undesirable.

I would like to point out several important facts that proponents and opponents concerning the ERA were forced to agree on, when questioned by committee members in Austin April 14. If ERA is passed:

1) All women will be subject to draft and must sign up at age 18; they will be subject to combat zones, if necessary (U.S. is involved in war every 10 years).

2) Homosexual marriages with privileges of tax breaks, adoption of children and legal status will be permitted if contested in courts (Check Big Spring Herald April 10 for a case in Colorado of two legally homosexual men — because of ERA). This is one of countless examples of incidents pro-ERA said would not happen.

3) One pro-ERA gave an impressive list of Texas laws and codes in one letter April 13. These concerned husband-wife support laws, rape laws, homosexual marriages, etc. I commend her on her knowledge of present Texas laws, but I must again point out that both sides of ERA agreed "the most recent constitutional amendment takes precedence over prior amendments and all state laws that do not conform."

4) Both pro and con ERA lawyers and legislators admitted federal ERA was a loss of states rights and state laws would have to be changed to conform with federal ERA. True, the people of Texas (who were deceived because of the wording and were not informed of the legal implications) did pass a state ERA by 4-1. But we had no vote or opinion of the federal ERA — our state legislators did this March 1972, and only they can vote to rescind — which is legal. ERA means loss of states rights! One sign in Austin stated it well: "Big Brother already is big enough!"

5) Both pro and anti-ERA reported that a woman would still have to file against her employer if she felt discriminated against on pay, status, etc. She can file and is protected now under Civil Rights Act of 1964, Equal Opportunity Act of 1972, and many more present laws. Pro-ERA people in Austin clearly stated ERA would not automatically mean complete equality for female employment. A woman will still have to file suit against her employer, which she can and should do now. Therefore ERA is unnecessary.

In closing, I want it clearly understood that I am definitely for a woman getting equal pay for equal work, equal job "opportunities," more legal status, etc. And the federal ERA is not "all bad," either. I further agree that a lot of women are discriminated against. But the federal Equal Rights Amendment is not the way. Because it states there can be no sex discrimination against ANYONE concerning ANYTHING, the evil legal implications far outweigh the good points.

I urge the silent majority to please speak up and get involved. There is an urgent need to write the subcommittee members consisting of Miller, Delco, Close, Sullivan, and Wyatt and tell them how we feel. Their address is the same as Rep. Mike Ezzell's, listed in the Herald. As God's children, it is our Christian obligation to act against the women's liberation movement, who now may have their own version of the creation story in the Bible and would prefer to say God, the parent or person (instead of Father) and Christ the child (instead of Son).

I do not mean to cause any ill-feeling toward anyone and hope I have not offended anyone, male or female. It took courage for me to write this, knowing of the embarrassment and irate phone calls Mr. and Mrs. Elrod have received for endorsing the Stop-ERA movement. I feel sympathetic to women discriminated against in employment, but I strongly feel that ERA stands for Evil, Revolutionary and Anti-Christian, and if ERA becomes federal law, I will be a woman discriminated against by those screaming equality for women.

Guns Or Jobs

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — Guns or butter was the choice in a long-gone era with the totalitarians opting for guns while the affluent West boasted that both were within the reach of the free world. Today the choice is written up by many defanging the $104 billion defense budget as: guns or jobs.

CUT THE DEFENSE budget and jobs are lost at a time when, according to the latest Administration estimates, unemployment will go above 9 percent in the months ahead.

This is a potent argument being pushed by lobbyists for new weapons systems. It sounds loud and clear in California where cutbacks in aerospace contribute to a jobless rate of 10 percent or higher. The center of the conflict just ahead in Congress is the B-1 manned bomber. Pentagon estimates put the cost for the full program of 244 B-1s at $18 billion plus. Knowledgeable (Rep. Lee Aspin calls it the "flying pork barrel") outsiders put it closer to $53 billion when all the weaponry and a new tanker fleet plus operational costs are included.

LOBBYISTS for the prime contractor, Rockwell International of Palm Dale, Calif., have swarmed over the Capitol with high-pressure salesmanship supplemented by elaborate charts showing how many jobs would be lost in at least five states if the opposition succeeds in cutting back or even killing the program entirely.

With the opposition in Senate and House insisting that bombers, even bombers flying at twice the speed of sound, are obsolete since they would arrive at a war five hours after it was over, the job argument is heavily relied on. Intercontinental ballistic missiles would have been there before the B-1 could drop a bomb or fire a cannon. In the present state of the economy the guns-or-jobs choice puts the debate over these fantastic new weapons with their fantastic price tags in a new context.

THE MARXIST thesis is that capitalism can only survive through wars or in preparation for war. Karl Marx, that gloomy philosopher who spent so much of his life raking over history in the British Museum, could hardly have envisioned the B-1 and the new Trident submarine. But if these new weapons are not in preparation for an eventual war — to keep the peace is the Pentagon rationale — then they are the most costly museum pieces the mind of man could devise.

The issue to be fought out is whether, in refutation of the Marxist thesis, the huge sums to be spent on the new weapons, which are overkill by many times, could not be transferred to needy public enterprises producing far more employment.

ACCORDING TO the Rockwell charts, the B-1 will create 192,000 jobs at the peak of production. This includes persons directly employed in building the bomber and the butcher and the baker, as Rockwell puts it, in support of those on the assembly line. But the Bureau of Labor Statistics has developed estimates to show that other forms of publicly supported employment can produce a higher ratio of jobs. The Bureau's estimate is that $1 billion spent on private defense contracts creates 51,952 jobs. For public housing and VA health care, to take two examples, the estimates are 60,126 and 88,955.

IF THE FIGURE for the current fiscal year is included, the Pentagon has already spent $2 billion-plus on the B-1. For the next fiscal year a total of $749 million is sought, of which $672 million is research and development and $77 million a start on building the first plane.

REFUSES TO RUN Beaten By Hooded Men

LAKE WALES, Fla. (AP) — "I'm mad and I'm not going to run," says a World War II veteran who was abducted, beaten and threatened with death because he let a racially mixed couple live at his home.

"I was told to be out..." Leonard J. Harvard said Thursday. "But I'm staying right here. I'm not afraid."

"I'm going to do what I can to see that this don't happen to anyone else, then I just might leave."

Harvard, 55, told police he was abducted Wednesday night by hooded men and beaten because he allowed the couple to live at his home in this Central Florida town.

How to select the right nursing home.

We Americans are not just living longer, we're living more useful, productive lives.

But an increasing number of the chronically ill, the old, the convalescent, need some place other than the hospital and their home where they can receive personal health care, round-the-clock attention and the opportunity to continue to live their lives with meaning.

As your community extended health care facility we want to help you make the right decision. Here are some guidelines: see your family physician to determine the kind of care needed; feel free to visit our facility; ask us for our costs in writing and financial advice about Medicaid; examine all of our facilities; check our food quality; verify our safety features; and finally, observe how our residents spend their time.

There's a lot more to selecting the right nursing home. We want to help. If you have any questions, please call or visit us.

ASCS Dates Are Pegged

Several important dates are coming up for agricultural producers participating in Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service programs.

May 1 is the extended date to request more cotton allotment for farms, and it is the last day to release cotton acres and to file for transfer of cotton in and out of the county for 1975.

Another deadline is June 2 (Since May 31 falls on Saturday this year) for application for 1974 cotton loans at the lowered interest rate of 6.125 per cent.

The ASCS Office is in the process of making farm payments under the 1974 program, and checks should be arriving soon. Concerning this year's program, the office reminded that cotton must be planted or receive "prevented planting" credit in order to be eligible for consideration for disaster or low yield payment. The office also reminded that sweet sorghum used for ensilage is no longer a grain sorghum.

Planned Parenthood Open House Today

By JO BRIGHT

Permian Basin Planned Parenthood Inc. opened its doors here less than a year ago — with little more than the knowledge that it was needed — and a handful of helpers — and the hope that it could survive.

Today, the patient load numbers well over 300.

To celebrate its first year of service in Big Spring, the clinic staff and volunteers are hosting an open house this afternoon at the Planned Parenthood Offices in Room 202 of the Permian Building. On hand to help mark the occasion will be two regional board members, Nabor Martinez and Mrs. Mary Dudley.

The public is invited to attend, tour the facility and learn how its services are helping the families of Howard County.

Mrs. Mildred Ford, R.N., a nurse practitioner and director of Permian Planned Parenthood Inc., conducts all-day clinics in Big Spring every other Thursday.

"When I first went into planned parenthood, I did not feel that family planning was a worthwhile medical facility," recalled Mrs. Ford. "I felt nurses should be working with sick people." Since then, Mrs. Ford said she has seen situations where lives were probably saved and now, she is convinced that family planning is "truly a worthwhile medical facility."

The PBPP, which began in Midland in 1965, is a member of Planned Parenthood World Population, a private, non-profit national network of nearly 200 affiliates. It is supported by United Funds and the federal government.

The local offices are supported by private donations and some funds from HEW.

The following services are provided: birth control services (pills given, IUD's inserted, diaphragms fitted and foams, jellies and condoms given), pap smears, physical examinations, pregnancy testing, counseling and referral, pre-marital counseling, venereal disease referral, educational classes, literature and films, and a speaker's bureau is maintained.

Mrs. Ford said a valuable service is the instruction given patients concerning their method of birth control. The only service which requires payment is a pregnancy test for non-patients.

Several local physicians serve as medical consultants.

According to data from the State Department of Public Welfare, there are, in Howard County, 1,887 women of child-bearing age in need of subsidized family planning care. In the first year, Planned Parenthood has served 225 of these women, and a spokesman said the patient load is growing rapidly.

The spokesman said, "Much human suffering can be averted by making family planning available. It is the poor, who can least afford children, who have always had the highest birth rates. It costs Howard County an average of $1,200 to maintain one child on AFDC for one year — $12,600 for 18 years — yet, it costs Permian Basin Planned Parenthood only $32.50 to provide total contraceptive care to one patient for one year. Planned Parenthood is proud of the facilities and the services being offered in Big Spring. We hope everyone will take this opportunity to tour the clinic, meet the staff and discuss Planned Parenthood programs and objectives."

The clinic is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

INFORMATIVE literature, printed in both English and Spanish, is free upon request at the Planned Parenthood Offices in the Permian Building. Among those who will be on hand today to assist with the open house are Ms. Lois

Mitchell and Ms. Bessie Stoker, Outreach workers who staff the office; and Mrs. Mary Dudley and Nabor Martinez, regional board members. Not shown is the clinic director, Ms. Mildred Ford, R.N. and Nurse Practitioner.

MRS. CLAY LAROCHELLE

Honored By Sorority

The local chapters of Beta Sigma Phi have named Mrs. Clay (Lou) LaRochelle as Howard County's Woman of the Year for 1975.

Mrs. LaRochelle, along with each chapter's Girl of the Year and Pledge of the Year, will be honored at the annual Founder's Day Banquet Thursday evening in the Officer's Club at Webb Air Force Base.

Mr. and Mrs. LaRochelle reside with their children, Karri, 4 and Kyle, 20 months, at 600 W. 16th. Mrs. LaRochelle lists her occupation as "housewife", but she finds time for many activities which benefit the community.

In her sorority work, she is incoming president of Beta Sigma Phi City Council (a post she has held previously) and she has also served as chapter president, advisor to the council, Valentine Sweetheart and chairman of numerous committees.

Mrs. LaRochelle helped organize and participated in the multiple sclerosis fund drive, is a Little League Team Mother and has been a longtime worker and supporter of all Girl Scout activities. She is currently a troop leader, service unit chairman and delegate to the annual meeting. For three years, she was recipient of the Girl of the Year award. Her religious affiliation is with Hillcrest Baptist Church.

Secretaries Week — April 20-26

GUEST SPEAKER for Wednesday's luncheon hosted by the NSA will be John Wilson, a local CPA, shown here discussing his part on the program with Mrs. Jan Steward and Mrs. Jean Jennings, chairman of National Secretaries Week. Bosses of members will be guests at the luncheon.

The 24th annual Secretaries Week, April 20-26, is again being observed in Big Spring, but with less fan-fare than usual. The secretaries (and their bosses) are too busy taking care of business.

The local observance, which will take the form of a luncheon Wednesday at La Posada, is sponsored by the Big Spring Chapter of National Secretaries Association, Inc. which is described as "the world's foremost secretarial organization."

Today, however, the members will attend worship services in a group with their current president, Mrs. Juanita Seitzler, CPS, at the First Baptist Church.

When members honor their bosses and guests at the luncheon Wednesday, the Secretary of the Year will be announced.

During Secretaries Week, NSA will stress its commitment to support the ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment; to increasing awareness of the Certified Professional Secretary (CPS) rating; and to encouraging upcoming generations of secretaries through the Future Secretaries Association (FSA) program. Locally, there are seven members who have taken the examination and obtained the rating of CPS.

An NSA representative presented the following facts which were recently prepared by the American Association of University Women:

"The average working woman is 38 years old and married. As a rule she works for the same reason men work — because she has to.

Nine out of every 10 American women will work at some time in their lives. Currently, 44 percent of all women of working age are employed.

Women with children account for the largest increase in the number of U.S. working women. But women, traditionally, are paid less than men for doing identical work. Costs of feeding a family continue to rise. When a mother must support her family, should her income be less than that of a single man, simply because she is female?"

Mrs. Jean Jennings, chairman of Secretaries Week, is being assisted by a committee composed of Mrs. Jan Steward, Mrs. Marie Steagald, Mrs. Camille Patterson, Mrs. Phyllis Grammann, Mrs. Carol Martin, Mrs. Alyce Butler and Mrs. Elsie Koenig. Mrs. China Long is serving as chairman for the Secretary of the Year committee.

In declaring National Secretaries Week, President Ford said, in part, "Nothing is more taken for granted in the work of government and industry in this country than the efficiency of the secretary. Countless Americans daily express their understood trust in their secretaries. We charge them with many vital details, on which much of our success depends. At this time, we all have a perfect opportunity to recognize this fact and salute the accuracy, diligence and — above all — devotion of the American secretary."

A Salute To Working Women

WILL WED — Mr. and Mrs. D.G. Whitten of Houston, formerly of Big Spring, announce the engagement of their daughter, Susi, to Frank Nelson Leonard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Leonard of Denton. The ceremony will be held May 31 at First Presbyterian Church, Arlington.

Child Is Born In New York

Sgt. and Mrs. James Bradwell, Cleveland, N.Y., announce the birth of a daughter, Terra Cruz, at 2:30 p.m., April 17 in Murphy Memorial Hospital, Rome, N.Y. The infant weighed 7 pounds. The mother is the former Angelita Valles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Esequiel Valles Sr., 1410 Bluebird, and Mrs. Valles has gone to New York to be with her daughter.

Freewheeling Husband Takes Advantage Of Wife

DEAR ABBY: My parents used to fight about money all the time, and now I can see the same thing happening in my own marriage. We both work, but my husband expects me to pay the bills with my paycheck, while he gambles and plays the big shot with his. He treats his friends and lets the bills go, then borrows and gets deeper into debt all the time. Right now we are over our heads so bad I can't see how we will ever get out. For the first time in our marriage, I think the only answer is for me to divorce him. The kids and I would be better off without him, and we wouldn't have this constant fighting about money.

Whoever said, "money is the root of all evil," was sure right. It has got to be the number one reason why marriages break up. Right? BITTER HALF: Money is not the root of all evil — it's the lust for money that's the root of all evil. When marriages fail, it's easy to blame money, but it's not necessarily the cause. Where there is genuine mutual love, money is not high on the list of priorities. Some of the "richest" people I know don't have much money. And many millionaires are very poor indeed.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old, newly-married girl with a problem I can't handle. When my parents come for an evening's visit, they never seem to know when it's time to go home. My husband has to get up at 5:45 a.m. and I get up to prepare his breakfast, so we like to go to bed before midnight. But how can we with my folks sitting here? Our hints about how "tired" we are and how early we have to get up seem to fall on deaf ears. We can't just turn off the lights and leave them sitting here, can we? While I'm complaining, I might add that even though I always serve refreshments, my father and mother both raid the refrigerator and pantry later and think nothing of looking in all my drawers. They bring my little brother over (he's 2-years-old) and let him do whatever he pleases. Last week he empties a quart of oil on our brand new carpet. Can a daughter tell her parents how to act? NAMELESS, PLEASE: She shouldn't have to. But in your case, I'd make an exception. Tell them respectfully when they arrive what your bedtime is. And make it stick. Also, keep your eye on your little brother, since no one else seems to. And lotsa luck. Honey. You need it.

B&PW Honors Mrs. Michael

In conjunction with the world-wide observance of International Women's Year, the local chapter of Business and Professional Women has named Mrs. Margaret B. Michael as "Woman of the Month" for April. Each month a woman will be selected for the honor because of outstanding accomplishments in a particular career field or professional area. Mrs. Michael, with her husband, V.F. Michael, helped establish Fiber Glass Systems Inc. in Big Spring in 1968, and she is currently director of cost engineering and secretary-treasurer of the corporation. Before moving to Big Spring, Mrs. Michael worked as a consultant to an oil company in Wichita, Kans., performing crude oil evaluations and, later, cost engineering. During World War II, she worked for an oil company in Tulsa, Okla. doing spectrographic research on oil field salt waters and on rocks from oil bearing formations. After several years, she retired temporarily to rear the couple's two children. Mrs. Michael was the first woman to receive the BS and MS degrees in chemical engineering from the University of Texas at Austin. While an undergraduate, she was elected to membership in Iota Sigma Pi, national honorary society for women chemists. During the time she was in graduate school, she served as an instructor in the Chemistry Department. In Big Spring, Mrs. Michael has served on the Christian Education Committee of First Presbyterian Church and has been a member of the board of Community Concert Association. She is president of the Altrusa Club and a member of the 1948 Hyperion Club. Also, she is active in the Texas Section of Society of Women Engineers and has served as the section representative to the national organization.

Dinner Theatre Will Climax 'Spring Frolics' At College

"Spring Frolics," an activity of the Fine Arts department at Howard College, begins Monday and climaxes Friday and Saturday with presentation of "The Fantasticks" as a dinner theatre project. Reservations for these showings are filling steadily, and each evening is restricted to 100 places half of which are taken. Fee is $5, which includes meal and show starting at 7 p.m. in the college cafeteria.

First activity of the week is an art show of faculty and student works from 7-9 p.m. (by invitation) in the Dora Roberts Student Center, also "ragtime" music in SUB cafeteria with Harlen Thornton, pianist, and Kenney Baker, drummer; Tuesday — art show all day in SUB faculty lounge; Wednesday, 9:45 a.m. — "The Choraliers" in a program of pop favorites conducted by Kenneth Sprinkle; Thursday, 8 p.m. — dress rehearsal of "Fantasticks" to which students are admitted without charge.

FANTASTICKS — El Gallo (Kenneth Sprinkle) beguiles the girl (Cathy Mays), while the boy, (Charles Grizzard) intercedes. They are part of "The Fantasticks" cast which performs Friday and Saturday at Howard College.

CR-'75 won't be seen this year at the Texas Association of Student Governments in Austin. A version of the show (held in January) was presented at Webb AFB during the weekend, but instead of a warm-up for Austin, it was a last round before mothballs. Reason: the student convention was shifted from the Austin coliseum to a gymnasium, and the show simply couldn't be staged there. Bill Bradley, director, said the band had been invited to put on its centennial show at next year's state meet in Waco.

The Meistersingers, BSHS's famed singing group, leaves Wednesday morning for a short spring tour. They sing at Texas Tech, then at ENMU at Portales, N. M., also Amarillo High; then in the Greater Southwest Music festival. They return late Saturday, said Jack Bowers, director.

May 19 (Monday) has been fixed as the date for the annual Chuck Wagon party of Heritage Museum. This is a fun affair restricted to museum members and their guests. Invitations go out within a few days. Meanwhile, things are hopping at the museum, where numerous school groups are taking in "Brandin' Time" and the Caylor art exhibits. More can still be accommodated, said Gerri Atwell, curator.

"Wizard of Oz," perhaps the loveliest fairy tale ever written by an American, opened its musical version Friday at Globe of the Southwest in Odessa. There will be a show at 8:30 p.m. today, also others Friday, Saturday and next Sunday (a 3 p.m. matinee). There are lots of sure-fire tunes from the hand of Harold Arlen, such as "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" and "We're Off to See the Wizard."

Also, today at 8:30 p.m. in the Coronado Room of University Center, Texas Tech, the Opera Workshop will present scenes from "Marriage of Figaro," "Barber of Seville" and "Falstaff." It is open to the public without charge.

Odessa College music scholarship auditions have been scheduled May 3-10. Ten are available for either band, choir, voice or keyboard instruments, either for music or non-music majors. Maurice Alfred, director of choral music at OC, can furnish information.

University of Texas Drama department is accepting reservations for the 13th annual high school theatre workshop to be held June 11-July 5. Twenty girls and 20 boys, who will be sophomores or better next autumn, may apply by writing Lynn Murray, UT Drama Department, Austin, 78701 by May 19.

Midland Community Theatre's new production, one of John Preston's trilogy on West Texas, "The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia," will be presented May 1-3, 9-10, 16-17. Patrons are advised that this earthy sketch isn't for children and contains a goodly sprinkling of profanity which might offend some adults.

Mrs. Mary Skalkicky, head of the Fine Arts department, Howard College, is listed in the 1976 bicentennial edition of "Personalities of the South" as well as "International Biographical Dictionary" to be published this fall.

Beverly Sills, prevented by untimely surgery from appearing in Dallas Grand Opera last fall, is booked to open the spring season in Rossini's "Siege of Corinthe" Thursday, May 15. Other offerings of the season will be "La Traviata," Verdi's popular work, May 16; also, Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" May 17 in matinee performances, and Puccini's "La Boheme" for the closing evening performance, May 17. Reservations may be made through State Fair box office.

Opera buffs, whose schedule puts them in Southeast Texas, may want to consider the Houston Grand Opera's spring offerings of "Freemason's" May 23 (the first time this opera will be done by a professional company). Other performances are May 25, 27, 31, June 2 and 4.

Those with poetic instincts are invited to submit offerings to "World of Poetry," 801 Portola Drive, Suite 211, San Francisco, Calif., prior to June 30. Poems of any subject matter or style may compete for various prizes.

Bordering on the spectacular will be the West Texas premiere of "Beginnings," a religious musical drama by Buryl Red and Ragan Courtney, in two performances at 8:15 p.m. next Sunday and the same hour Monday, May 28. There is no charge. Dramatic sequences on three stages are backed by choir, piano, organ and extensive percussion. The event will be held at First Baptist Church.

If you're pegging dates, gala opening of "Texas," the musical pageant staged in Palo Duro Canyon, is June 18 for the 10th year at Canyon. Also, the Kerrville Folk Festival is May 22-25. Top names from folk to country Western will be there. Texas Arts & Crafts Fair comes up at Kerrville July 4-6, spotlighting more than 200 resident artists and craftsmen; plus the Country Western Jamboree.

Demonstrates Terrariums

Mrs. Ruby Bruns, a guest Thursday of Elbow Home Demonstration Club, demonstrated how terrariums are constructed, and each member made one for herself.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. R. D. Soles, Garden City Rt., with Mrs. R. B. Covington Jr. presiding. Mrs. B. N. Borroughs won the door prize. The announcement was made of a program entitled "Rescue Your Food Dollar," which will be held April 29 at 1:30 p.m. in the Howard County Fair Barn.

Doctor develops Home Treatment to

in 15 minutes

Look! See them come off on your cleansing tissue—and without squeezing or digging!

See Blackheads "Wipe Off"

After a Single Queen Helene Skin and Beauty Treatment

INA LEE, Beauty Consultant

A leading New York dermatologist has developed a simple medicated home treatment that rinses away blackheads and whiteheads in a matter of minutes.

I saw it demonstrated recently on five women and two teenage boys. The results were almost breathtaking. Blackheads really rinsed away. In fact, many could be seen on the cleansing tissues that finished each treatment.

But this wasn't all! In the case of two older women, I saw enlarged pores reduced, and rough, muddy complexions made cleaner, clearer and smoother looking. In the case of teen-agers, I saw acne pimples improve after one application... After seeing these results, I can well understand why so many beauticians are now acclaiming this doctor's treatment as one of the most important beauty discoveries.

Floats Dirt off Face

The treatment starts with a thorough skin cleansing. A special laboratory-developed whipped cleansing cream is used that takes off not only surface dirt, but also softens and loosens pore-caked grime with its emollient action. It liquefies as soon as it is applied and literally floats the dirt right off your face.

After this is rinsed off, a delightful mint-scented cream is applied. Within 2 or 3 minutes an absorbing agent called Argilla dries and turns this specially medicated cream into a plastic-like masque. As it firms and hardens, its suction action draws on waste matter in the pores... In 8 or 10 minutes you simply rinse the masque away with lukewarm water which dissolves it immediately. When you wipe your face, you can see blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your tissue. And your skin feels clean—really clean—and refreshed and smooth, like velvet!

Pore Sponging & Closing

The third step in the treatment is an exhilarating application of a unique antiseptic astringent—a facial "mint julep" that sponges and tightens emptied pores and leaves a protective invisible film that helps guard your skin against dust, dirt and bacteria for hours and hours.

Nothing Else Like It

Even after a single treatment, women who have been troubled by blackheads for years see a marked improvement. Many find it hard to believe their eyes. Some blackheads and whiteheads just rinse away. Others are softened and made ready to be drawn out by future treatments. Enlarged pores appear to be smaller. The skin looks smoother and firmer—feels fresher and more alive!

In short, after a single treatment taking only 15 minutes, you can expect to see results that normally you would not dare hope for even after many weeks... but don't expect everything at once. Damage done by years of neglect can't be undone in a day. Yet with 3 or 4 treatments a week, you may confidently look forward to startling complexion improvements within 30 days. Then one treatment a week—or every second week—will probably be all your skin will need to keep it clear, lovely and healthy looking.

The medically developed products used in this treatment are manufactured and quality-controlled by QUEEN HELENE. They are Queen Helene Whipped Cleansing Cream, Queen Helene Medicated Masque and Queen Helene Penetrating Astringent. The three items are sold as complete skin and beauty kit for 5.00. Quite a bargain when you think of what it will do for a person's good looks—and self esteem!

Hyperions Hear District Execs

Top officers of the Western District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, brought a program on accomplishments of the federation at the Thursday meeting of the 1905 Hyperion Club.

Mrs. Clyde Angel was hostess with Mrs. J.C. Pickle as cohostess.

Mrs. Lance Williamson, club president, introduced Mrs. Frank Sandel Jr., Big Lake, and Mrs. Marion White of Odessa, district president and vice president, respectively.

Mrs. Sandel spoke on "The Ins and Outs of Federation" in which she urged women to strive to improve themselves, "serve others and glorify God." She noted that Texas has 100,000 federated women's clubs, 1,200 of which are in the Western District.

Mrs. White enumerated federation accomplishments as preserving the Alamo, establishing 85 percent of the libraries in Texas and, later, turning them over to the counties, being instrumental in establishing the M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston and in founding Texas Women's College in Denton, campaigning for 95,000 acres to be set aside as a park in the Big Thicket, sponsoring drivers' education in schools and working for blinking safety lights on highways to warn of danger. She said, in the Western District this year, 43 clubs had completed 7,000 projects that were worthwhile to the communities and state.

Also, she reported that the Penny Fund has amounted to $62,000 and only the interest has been used for the giving of scholarships to five or six girls for continuing their education.

An original poem, written by Mrs. White in honor of the forthcoming 70th birthday of the 1905 Hyperion Club, was read by the author.

Mrs. Williamson reported on the recent district convention she attended at which the club won two first place and four second place awards. The year book received an honorable mention.

Mrs. Rogers Hefley read a proposed change in the bylaws which will be voted on soon.

The May 15 meeting will be a salad luncheon at the home of Mrs. Joe Whitten at which time the club will celebrate its 70th year of organization.

Mrs. John Needham was welcomed as a new member, and Mrs. Florence McNew was a guest.

The introduction was St. Francis of Assisi's prayer for serenity and love.

Mrs. Yops read "Desiderata" giving its summary and history, and presenting each member with a copy. Mrs. Yops and Mrs. Vander Ven described life situations, and members were asked to offer a solution to the problem, after which a reading was given from the Desiderata about the problem.

The next meeting, May 8, will be at 7:30 p.m., in First Federal Community Room, at which time installation of officers will be held.

Tail, Teeth, Legs: Dog

By SUSAN CONLEY
CHILDREN'S LIBRARIAN

"The dog is man's best friend. He has a tail on one end. Up in front he has teeth. And four legs underneath."

—Oden Nash

Every boy or girl who has owned a dog knows that they are true friends. When nobody listens, a dog will listen. When everyone is mad, a dog greets you with sloppy licks and a wagging tail.

Dogs are also good for solving problems. Edward in "A Dog on Barkham Street" has a problem. Martin, who is bigger and older, is always picking on Edward until Argess arrives. Argess is a big collie who soon puts an end to all the bullying.

Dogs can also cause problems. Ribsby, a thin mutt who appears in "Henry Huggins" and "Ribsby" is always getting Henry into trouble. For example, there's the time Ribsby knocked a can of green paint all over Henry. For several weeks after that, Henry had green hair and a greenish tint on his face and ears.

"Old Yeller" by Fred Gipson and "Good-bye My Lady" by James Street are two stories about boys who become very attached to their dogs. In the end, both boys sadly must part with their dogs.

Stories of dogs who perform brave deeds and who are devoted to their masters can be found on display in the children's department of the Howard County Library.

Photos Shown

By SUSIE RITZ
OF COUNTY LIBRAR

Keith Thompson is a dentist by profession and a photographer by interest.

Although photography and color printing are his hobbies, he has been perfecting his skill in these areas all of his life. He took up photography as a nine-year-old boy and has never lost his interest in it.

A sampling of his work is currently on display at the Howard County Library.

AREA SITES

The work displayed is primarily landscapes of familiar West Texas scenes. Among the scenes depicted are a windmill north of Coahoma, and a road near a windmill near the Martin County line on Interstate 20. There is an interesting angle of a barn north of Cabot. The West Texas sky, through Thompson's camera, makes dynamic interpretations of rustic sights.

Thompson uses a RB67 camera for his work.

While he seems to have had an emphasis on landscape shootings he says he does a little of everything. Little League sports hold a prominent position in his previous works. Two of his three children are former Little Leaguers.

Thompson has two sons, Steven and Coleman, and his daughter, Elizabeth heads the list on his fan club.

PHOTO EXPLAINS

He has lived in Big Spring for eight years. He refers to a photo of his town Mandau, North Dakota, whenever he is asked why he stays here. The winter photo shows snow 25-foot-deep and flakes still falling.

He is working on advanced methods of dental photography. He hopes to publish the results of this work in a professional dental publication.

START SIMPLE

"A new photographer should start simple and progress gradually into the more professional areas of photography," Dr. Thompson said.

He claims his best teacher was "ole trial and error system." To amateurs who will be having their film developed by someone other than themselves, Thompson suggests that all frames on one roll of film be exposed under similar conditions. This should provide for uniformity in the printing process.

162 FEMS ANSWER Seeks Want Ad Wife

OXFORD, Mich. (AP) — Wayne Bennett, a 41-year-old widower, is considering 162 responses to his advertisement for a new wife.

Bennett ran an ad in the Oxford Leader, which began: "Wanted one wife: Experience not needed, will train the right person...."

He says many other respondents have been turned away because his ad specified "no phone calls."

His crusade for a wife has given him an unusual sort of local prominence, which he concedes has been good for his real estate business.

But he insists his motives are pure.

"I believe that the one person that I'm looking for is out there and it would take me a lifetime, in the conventional way, to find her," he said. "And I feel that by advertising I can shorten that time."

Bennett's first wife, Marie, died of a heart attack last year. She was 37. They had been married for nearly 20 years and had two teen-aged children.

"The ad was an attempt on my part to replace some of the joy that had gone out my life," he said.

So far Bennett has dated and talked to a few of the applicants.

He says he's ruled out one woman who sent a letter saying her friends call her "Playful Sue, if you know what I mean."

"My idea of a wife is not Playful Sue," Bennett said.

Zone Change In College Park Center Requested

Consideration of a resolution authorizing submission of community development application will be heard by the city council in its regular meeting at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Unitization Plan OKed

STANTON — In a history-making decision Monday, the Martin County Commissioners Court voted to unitize the county's road building equipment and to hire a road engineer.

The decision, one of the biggest to face a Martin County Commissioners Court in more than a decade, was prompted by the commissioners' wishes for better roads in the county.

Under the system known as unitization, all county road building machinery and funds will be pooled together, with a road engineer hired to coordinate the projects.

This is the system used in Howard County by Commissioners Court, and is also used in Midland County.

Purpose of the unitization is to face problems created by dividing up a county's funds and equipment among four precincts.

Other items on the agenda include the final reading of an ordinance requesting a zone change in College Park Shopping Center from retail to light commercial, consideration of the first reading of an ordinance setting a fee for appeals to the Zoning Board of Adjustment, the first reading of an ordinance setting fees for residential curb cut and commercial curb cut permits.

Councilmen will also consider the first reading of an ordinance changing building permit fees, one on animal redemption rates, and discuss permission to award bids for the tennis center's new courts.

They will also seek permission to advertise for purchasing 23 sets of sanitation container lids, seek approval of additional expenses for purchase of truck cab and chassis and discuss a $200 reward for vandals.

They will eye a request to advertise for bids for six patrol cars and one detective car, hear a claim for damages from C. H. Cox and discuss the penalty and interest on taxes.

The names of a committee to study litter problems and ordinances will also come before the council.
