U.S. FORCES WITHDRAWAL COMPLETED

Ship, Crewmen Rescued

Under a protective blanket of fire from U.S. warplanes and naval guns, the last U.S. Marines were rescued tonight from a small Cambodian island, a White House source reported. They had weathered 14 hours of heavy, intermittent Khmer Rouge fire following the armed recovery of the U.S. merchant ship Mayaguez and its 40 crewmen.

A Pentagon spokesman said earlier that two aircraft carriers and a half dozen other U.S. warships were either close to the island or en route, apparently to aid in rescuing the Marines if needed.

The Mayaguez, seized Monday, was reported steaming toward Singapore, manned by its own crew following its recovery.

In Laos, student demonstrators threatened to kill three Americans unless the Laotian government removes alleged corrupt provincial officials and right-wing reactionaries.

In Saigon, the new South Vietnamese government said it is willing to open diplomatic ties with the United States.

The Pentagon said one Marine was killed in the initial assault on the Cambodian island. Earlier, Pentagon sources said two were killed and at least eight wounded.

Two helicopters also were reported lost in the operation, and one pilot was quoted as saying there were many wounded when his chopper crashed in the first minutes of the attack.

The Marines were hit in a helicopter assault against Koh Tang, an island about 30 miles from the Cambodian mainland, the Pentagon said. It said U.S. fighter planes and Navy destroyers kept up attacks on the island as darkness fell to cover the helicopter evacuation of the Marines to the aircraft carrier Coral Sea.

A Pentagon spokesman said a number of helicopters approaching the beachhead were driven off by heavy Khmer Rouge fire.

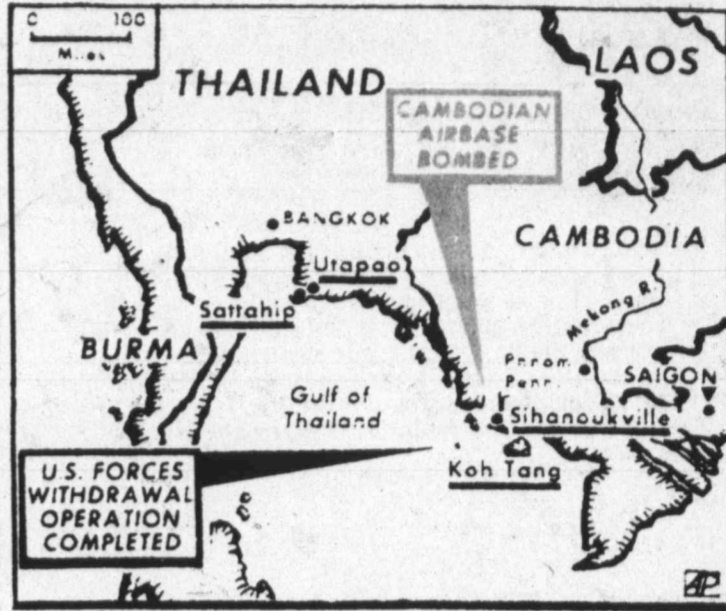

The Marines retook the Mayaguez after U.S. planes sank three Cambodian gunboats Wednesday in the Gulf of Thailand and later attacked airfields on the Cambodian coast. The Cambodians also surrendered five Thai fishermen captured by the Khmer Rouge while fishing in the Gulf of Thailand.

In a broadcast early today, President Ford said he had ordered the attack to retake the Mayaguez "for the purpose of rescuing the crew and ship which had been illegally seized by Cambodian forces. I have now received information that the vessel has been received intact and that the entire crew has been rescued."

In Bangkok, Premier Kukrit Pramoj said America acted in an "unfriendly" way by disregarding his requests and using Thai bases to stage the armed rescue of the Mayaguez. He said he would take steps to prevent any such incidents in the future.

A Thai Foreign Ministry spokesman said earlier that Thailand is preparing a "diplomatic move" over the Mayaguez episode.

Rolls Out New School Funds Plan

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — House Speaker Bill Clayton rolled out a new school finance plan today in the hope that representatives would pass to the Senate a "responsible" bill that comes close to existing state income in its money requirements.

Representatives were invited into Clayton's outer office to examine a quickly prepared computer printout showing the impact of the plan on their local school districts.

The plan is a revised version of the one that Clayton backed when the school finance debate began Tuesday. Its cost for the next two years is estimated at $721 million, slightly more than can be financed within Gov. Dolph Briscoe's "no new taxes" policy.

It would delay for two years full implementation of actual market value of real estate as the sole measurement of a district's need for state aid to pay for the Foundation School Program.

Teachers would get a $1,400 per year across-the-board increase this fall, followed by $200 next year, another $200 in 1977-78, 10 per cent in 1978-79 and 5 per cent thereafter.

By his or her fifth year of teaching, a teacher would receive $990 a month for the 10-month school year.

Poor districts would receive "equalization aid" based on the ratio of their required local spending per pupil to that of the state as a whole and a maximum aid figure of $22 per pupil.

Earlier this week, the House added so many amendments to Clayton's original plan, including a $2,400 pay raise and duty-free lunch periods for teachers that the cost was pushed to an astronomical $1.8 billion for the next two years.

Wednesday, the House abruptly adjourned after rejecting Briscoe's weighted pupil plan for determining total state and local school spending in each district.

Senators, meanwhile, planned to take up their version of a $12.6 billion two-year state budget bill this afternoon.

Two Briscoe aides, administrative assistant Howard Richards and former Rep. John Poerner, director of the governor's committee on aging, worked hard to hustle votes for the weighted pupil plan Wednesday. Clayton, however, ended their floor activities when a point of order was raised that they were violating a rule against lobbying in the House chamber.

Drunk Says He Prefers Jail

One drunk took another to the Big Spring State Hospital at his request Wednesday afternoon.

The hospital admitted one and was getting ready to admit the second, but he said, "I'd rather be in jail."

Police were called and he was placed in jail, charged with public intoxication.

Doctor Says Schaffer Isn't Dangerous Now

By JOHN EDWARDS James A. Schaffer, 40, who is being tried by jury for the May 4, 1974 murder of his wife, cried on the witness stand in 118th District Court Wednesday afternoon.

Richard Milstead, who represented Schaffer with the assistance of Mike McKinney, had asked the defendant if he loved his wife.

"LOVED HER" "More than anything in this world," Schaffer said. To him, her death was "just like losing half of your life," Schaffer said. He covered his eyes and started crying.

District Judge Ralph W. Caton told the jury he would recess the trial. A few minutes later, an outwardly composed Schaffer returned to be cross-examined by District Attorney Robert H. (Bob) Moore III.

Dr. Robert B. Shelton, a psychiatrist and superintendent of the Rusk State Hospital, was the first defense witness.

"He is not dangerous to himself or others at this time," Milstead asked. "That's right," Dr. Shelton repeated.

The former clinical director at the Big Spring State Hospital said Schaffer had "no mental illness at this time," referring to a 15-day period of psychological, psychiatric and physical examinations in February.

MEMORY LAPSES Schaffer had a "full-scale 110 I.Q.," Dr. Shelton said. But the former surgeon believed Schaffer was truthful when he said he could only remember some of the events in the hours before and after the fatal shooting of Mrs. Sandra (Sandy) Schaffer.

Such blank spots in memory are "commonly associated with traumatic events like death," Dr. Shelton said.

But the psychiatrist confirmed Moore's statement that failure to remember some things are just as easily explained "by an alcoholic blackout as it is by the attendant emotional trauma."

TRUTH? Dr. Shelton said it would be difficult to prove whether Schaffer was telling the truth, but later added that, as a psychiatrist, he had made similar subjective judgments with 5,000 other patients he had seen.

Schaffer said he remembered leaving, with his wife and a .44 magnum revolver, from the Richard Moncus mobile home early in the morning of May 4, 1974.

The next thing he recalled was leaning against the wall about one foot from his wife, Schaffer said.

"If you go back down there and say something to Mr. Moncus, he'll beat the hell out of you," Schaffer recalled his wife telling him.

Next, Schaffer remembered being pulled and falling down.

WAKES UP Upon "waking up or coming to," Schaffer said, "I was laying on the floor across my wife."

The defendant said he would not disagree with the way law enforcement officers described his wife's position. Later, though, Schaffer told Moore he could not remember what his wife looked like when he regained consciousness.

Schaffer said he went next door and called an ambulance.

While Schaffer claimed he remembered seeing someone with somewhat "long hair" like Guy Talbot, special investigator for the district attorney, the accused man said he did not remember Richard Doane, then a deputy sheriff.

Schaffer said he was sitting in a car "and I wanted a cigarette, and I couldn't move my hands."

"CLICKED" "Something clicked," Schaffer said, and someone laughed, commenting "he's tightening up his handcuffs."

He has been confined since then.

In 1971, Schaffer said he bought the .44 magnum, western revolver, which sounded "like a cannon." His wife purchased the exhibited bullets, including the one which took her life, Schaffer said.

DAY BEFORE Schaffer said he went home after leaving work at C & M Electric Co. on the afternoon of May 3, 1974.

His wife Sandy, and Mrs. Richard (Pat) Moncus were drinking and had a vodka and gin bottle out, Schaffer said. He had a drink or two, and they were out of liquor.

"I told her 'you don't need no more to drink,'" Schaffer said.

But his wife insisted and drove with him and Mrs. Moncus as passengers, Schaffer said.

She wrote with lipstick on a mailbox where a name had been removed and stopped by the home of the Mt. View Trailer Park owner and manager, Dennis Clyde Cravens, now of Kingsland, who testified earlier about Mrs. Schaffer cussing him because of an eviction notice.

"If I ever saw a person that was drunk, she seemed to be," the former farmer said.

WILD RIDE Cravens, who apologized to women in the jury for quoting Mrs. Schaffer, said his frequent "trouble with her was her cussing." He also agreed that many of her arguments centered on her son, Mike Thon, now 15.

Schaffer described a wild drive during which his wife threw the keys out the window, he pulled his own key, his wife kicked out the windshield and both women walked home.

His wife was later involved in a disagreement with the Van Ness family, and Schaffer told of seeing a group of people in front of the Van Ness mobile home.

Schaffer loaded his camper on his pickup, because he wanted to move back to St. Louis as his wife wanted.

On May 3, Schaffer decided to pass up an offer for a partnership in the electrical contracting firm in Big Spring despite arrangements to buy land here, the defendant told the prosecutor.

Schaffer said he loaded his pistol, noting "Mr. Moncus had been up to (his) trailer house before with a gun."

"SEE THIS" Driving the car to the Moncus home, Schaffer said he honked on arrival.

"See this, I don't want no trouble out of you,"

Schaffer said he told Moncus. "All I want to do is see Sandy."

Moncus reached into the car, Schaffer said, and "yanked it."

"Let loose of it," Schaffer said he told Moncus. "I'm not going to shoot you."

"HE'S LYING" It was later when talking with his wife and the Moncus couple in the mobile home that Schaffer alleged he made another statement, not then out in his vehicle.

Schaffer said he told Moncus he would have shot him, others or "or anybody in this trailer park that was hurting Sandy, Mike or Christi (his wife and stepchildren)."

Unlike Moncus, Schaffer said he kept the bullets from the gun when he visited his wife and the Moncus later that night.

The district attorney called Moncus again, and Moncus said "he's lying" in response to a list of questions from the prosecutor.

The 6'1" and 160-pound man offered different versions of fights with his wife on earlier occasions in other cities where he was stationed.

His stepchildren had told about him beating their mother.

"TOPLESS" One time, Schaffer said he and his wife were drinking, and she told him to go for more beer. He refused. She said she would go.

Not without a blouse, you won't, Schaffer recalled telling her. And he ripped her blouse off.

Yes, she said she would. Not without your bra, Schaffer said.

"I'll go topless," his wife said, according to Schaffer.

The same thing happened with her pants, Schaffer said.

She went out the back door, and he turned on the light to find her, Schaffer said.

Another time, "she reached down and grabbed me. I just swang and hit my wife," Schaffer said.

On another occasion, Schaffer said his wife accused him of "running around" when he was on duty at an Air Force base.

They had been planning to ride their horse, and they wrestled over the bridle lead rope, Schaffer said.

The time he broke her jaw, Schaffer said he was trying (See Trial, Page 4-A, Col. 7)

Call Ford's Action 'A Great Success'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders of both parties said today the recovery of an American merchant ship and its crew from Cambodia will help restore U.S. prestige that was damaged by recent Communist victories in Indochina.

Melvin Price, D-Ill., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, called Ford's action in securing the return of the Mayaguez and its 40-man crew "a great success and a tribute to a show of strength. He got the results he deserved and it was a great boost to the country."

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who had urged a strong response, said of Ford's action: "This country needs an indication of strength and leadership in the President's office and he's finally come through with it. Had he not done what he did, every little half-assed nation in the world would be taking shots at us and I think now they're going to think twice before they try it."

Sen. Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said, "I am sure the people will support the President, and if Congress is listening, I am sure they will too. He's shown he is a strong President and a man whose resolution held up under stress."

"It indicates again to the world that we're not a paper tiger," said Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan. He called the success of the rescue a "plus" both for the country and the President.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said he was "relieved and thankful" the rescue mission succeeded. "I think the President is very much against reinvolvement in Indochina," Mansfield added.

"I must say I give him high marks for the way in which he handled it," Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said in an appearance on NBC's "Today" program. Jackson, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, also said he thought Ford did not exceed his authority by using force in the rescue mission.

However, on Wednesday Jackson had questioned the wisdom of U.S. attacks on Cambodian ships and said this is "not the time to use excessive force beyond that which is essential to our own defense."

Projected Bill Would Up HC Appropriations

Howard College ($388,019 occupational and $561,254 academic).

The House committee recommendation is $121,526 or 17.26 per cent above the 1974-5 original appropriations, but only $4,526 or .6 of a per cent above the present level of funding when a $117,000 supplemental appropriation for this year is included.

The Senate bill is $61,961 above the present level of state funding (including the supplemental appropriation for the current year), or 7.53 per cent.

The House appropriations bill has proposed a lesser figure which will go to the House floor next Tuesday. If it passes, the two measures will go to free conference committee where junior college administrators are hopeful that the Senate figures will be acceptable.

The House appropriations panel recommended for the first year of the biennium $826,308 ($329,366 occupational and $496,942 academic), and for the second year $949,273

SEVEN CHILDREN KILLED IN RAILWAY ACCIDENT

NORRKOPING, Sweden (AP) — Two express trains collided today at the Norrkoping station in central Sweden, killing nine persons, seven of them school children, officials said.

About 15 injured passengers were taken to hospitals. Railway officials said there were around 400 people on the two trains. A northbound train which just started from the station smashed into the last car of an incoming train from Stockholm crowded with school children on a sightseeing trip to the Kolmarden animal park.

Though the speed of both trains was described as very low the car overturned and broke apart. Some of the victims were found lying under it.

The dead children were all between 10 and 12 years old.

Coahoma Officials Likely Will Seek U.S. Funds

The city of Coahoma is seeking the possibility of receiving government revenue sharing funds.

This was disclosed at the meeting of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Council board of directors Wednesday in Termini.

Ernie Crawford, director, told the board that the city of Coahoma is now a member of the council and its first request was for the BBRPC to see if it would be possible for them to start receiving these funds.

When the funds were first sent to all governmental agencies, the city of Coahoma received national publicity for turning them down.

42 YEARS BEHIND BARS

'Nobody Ever Really Trusts An Ex-Con'

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — John Targett has served his time and says he's ready to go straight now. The native Texas made the decision after spending 42 of his 79 years in prison.

For all his years behind bars on various charges of homicide and robbery — he pulled his last holdup at the age of 76 — Targett says he has come to this conclusion:

"The worst thing you ever see is that nobody ever really trusts an ex-con. That gets to you after awhile and it stays with you."

Targett, two months from his 80th birthday, was paroled on his latest armed robbery sentence a month ago, leaving the Arizona State Prison at Florence. He is living temporarily at the Salvation Army men's service center here.

"I'm a 10-time loser," he says. "That means I'm not too smart."

It was on a farm near his hometown of Pyote, Tex., in 1933 that Targett's life as a criminal began.

"I came in from plowing and caught a man in the house raping my mother. I killed him with a shotgun."

After a long sentence in a Texas prison for the killing, Targett pulled a number of armed robberies and did time in other prisons in Texas and Oklahoma. Finally, he was ordered to serve 20 years in the Arizona State Prison in 1971.

"When I first went in there, I was bitter," he says. "I didn't think I'd live out the sentence, so I didn't care if I got killed or not."

"I picked out the roughest inmate I could find and beat his head with a crowbar. After that, nobody fooled with me. I spent a lot of time in isolation. I didn't give a damn. I had no respect."

Somehow — apparently Targett doesn't really know himself — his attitude changed.

"I don't want to steal anymore," he says. "Right now, I've got only $2.20 in my pocket and it doesn't bother me one bit. I've already done half of my life in prisons, and if I fall again, I'll get life."

"I think it would kill me to go back, and I'm damned if I'll commit suicide," he says.

Despite his age, Targett says he wants to get a job so he can feel "useful" and have enough money to live on his own.

"I'm not going to tell you I'm a devout Christian, but I will say I believe in God," Targett says. "I feel that God has forgiven me for the things I have done. Now all I want is for society to forgive me, too."

Assassination Figure Ruby Ex-FBI Informant

DALLAS (AP) — A letter to the Warren Commission that investigated President John F. Kennedy's assassination shows that Jack Ruby, a central figure in the case, once was an FBI informant, it has been disclosed.

A talk show host for a Dallas radio station displayed Tuesday a copy of a letter from the late FBI director J. Edgar Hoover to the top Warren Commission lawyer. The letter shows that Ruby was asked by the FBI to give information on criminal activities in Dallas.

Talk show host Lou Staples of Station KRLL said the letter discloses publicly for the first time that Ruby was an FBI informant.

Staples also displayed during an interview another Warren Commission document which he said shows that Kennedy's accused slayer might have been traveling with Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) employee two months before the assassination.

Hoover's letter and the FBI document which mentions the CIA employee were not included in the 26-volume Warren Commission Report on the assassination, Staples said.

He said the letter and the other documents were classified and withheld from the public by the National Archives in Washington until 1972. Staples said he obtained the documents from persons here who are privately studying the assassination.

Ruby shot Lee Harvey Oswald, identified by the Warren Commission as Kennedy's assassin, Nov. 24, 1963—two days after the President was slain in Dallas.

"The Warren Commission in violation of its purpose, of its trust, did protect at least two agencies of the federal government—the FBI and the CIA" during its investigation, Staples said. The FBI document that might indicate a CIA man traveled with Oswald is dated Nov. 27, 1963, and the letter from Hoover to Warren Commission lawyer J. Lee Rankin is dated June 9, 1964. The commission issued its report in September 1964.

KRLL broadcast an editorial Tuesday asking the federal government to release to the public all Warren Commission material still under key.

Staples said one document still classified is Oswald's 1962 income tax return.

"What could he possibly have put on his income tax return that could have been dangerous?" Staples asked.

Hear All That Clucking

CHICAGO (AP) — There are fewer hen laying eggs in this country, but those that are seem to be enjoying it more, according to a recent report in Prairie Farmer.

The magazine says the numbers of laying hens in the U. S. are at their lowest level in many years. But those that are laying eggs, are doing so in record-breaking numbers. Ralph Baker, Ohio State University economist, says hens are producing about one egg more per hen per month. This trend has been going on for the past five years. The increase amounts to an additional 3.4 eggs per hundred hens per month, since 1970.

Why are the nation's hens laying more eggs now than a few years ago? Baker thinks a major reason is that they're generally healthier than they were a few years ago.

Fire Escape Bill Bit Hot

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A whiff of smoke from the "Towering Inferno" seemed to have seeped into the Senate chamber Wednesday.

Unlike that movie, however, the Senate debate on a fire escape bill was for real.

Sen. Ron Clower, D-Garland, shouted in protest—"We could have fire disasters in this state if we pass this bill."

"No one's enforcing the old bill," replied Sen. O.H. Harris, R-Dallas. "Every conscientious fire marshal in the state is enforcing it," countered Clower.

Harris asked his colleagues to amend a 1923 law requiring a certain number of fire escapes per square footage in a building. According to Harris, the bill would, for example, require 19 fire escapes in a building of 20,000 square feet.

Harris' bill would enable cities that have adopted a nationally recognized building code to avoid complying with the old law, which he claims is "antiquated."

Clower contended that the 1923 law was enacted by the legislature "after a series of fires around the country" and that Harris was trying to change the law merely as the result of a Dallas lawsuit.

The lawsuit was filed by the survivors of a woman who died in an apartment house fire. The suit was settled out of court, but a district judge appointed a special prosecutor's court of inquiry to investigate Dallas fire deaths.

Harris said his bill would still require buildings to contain an escape that could withstand fire for one hour.

That's not enough protection, insisted Clower. Harris said his bill was written by the Dallas city attorney, with the support of the Dallas fire chief.

Senators tentatively approved the bill, 20-9, but must vote again before it can be sent to the House.

ONE LEG NO HANDICAP — Raymond Flores, 10, Miami, Fla., might have settled for a handicapped life, but he never has. He lost his right leg when he was 11 days old, but he's determined that one leg is as good as two. And when a Cub Scout baseball game comes along, Raymond is in there pitching and running. Raymond was born with a tumor above his knee. About his leg he says simply, "You can do more than other people, you can hammer stuff."

One Arrested For Burglary

A 16-year-old juvenile male was arrested by city police at 3 a.m. and charged with burglary of the Giant Food Store on the Lamesa highway.

Entry had been gained and merchandise stacked near the exit when three city patrolmen, Pete Garcia, Mike Pearson and Josh Sullivan, noticed the activity at the store.

Three youths fled on foot. They ran toward the south, then were headed back north by the patrol unit. Patrolmen got out and pursued the trio on foot, taking one into custody.

Lt. Jim McCain said here this morning, "The one 16-year-old claims he was alone at the scene."

10-Year-Old Asks: 'Me Handicapped?'

MIAMI (AP) — "Me handicapped?" asks Raymond Flores, a 10-year-old boy who would just as soon play baseball without his artificial leg as with it.

"I can run pretty fast," he says, then demonstrates by "running" on one leg to first base and sliding into second. He also pitches for the team.

"I like exercises and outdoor games. I like kickball the best," he says.

When Raymond was an infant, doctors amputated his right leg to save his life. He was born with a tumor above the knee.

Raymond was walking with the help of a wooden rod device for balance when he was about 15 months old. And at about 6, he was fitted with a more sophisticated artificial limb.

He usually wears the artificial limb all day, except for swimming and riding his bicycle. But the limb bothers him sometimes, such as the day of the Cub Scout picnic.

"So he went without it to play baseball," says his mother, Magaly Flores. "He hops just as well. He doesn't care, whatever way he can get there the fastest."

"He's amazing. Any place we go, anywhere we are, he's just like the other boys."

She says fitting Raymond's artificial leg "is like getting new shoes. At first it is a little long, by the end of the year, it is a little short."

Mrs. Flores says she's proud that her son gets an A in physical education and is particularly interested in science. But she says she is also proud of Raymond for another reason.

"He's happy. As happy as anybody with two legs and two arms. I've really been lucky."

Nice Work If You Can Get It

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Agriculture Commissioner John White and his wife made a trip to Acapulco, Mexico, in a state-leased plane for a weekend at the Pacific resort, the Austin American-Statesman said today.

White told the American-Statesman the trip in his department's Beech King Air 100 was a working trip.

"Acapulco is my least favorite place to go in Mexico," he said.

The American-Statesman said that flight logs show that the plane, which is leased by the State Agriculture Department made a six-day trip April 8-13 from Austin to Brownsville to Queretaro, Mexico, then to Acapulco, Monterrey and back to Austin. White said his wife was with him although the log showed only White and two pilots.

Mexican Cattlemen's Association meeting in Acapulco on that weekend and he went there to "get acquainted."

"Last year we exported $75 million in cattle and sheep to Mexico and we have more than a million dollars worth of export facilities set up on our border. We need a closer working relationship," White said.

He told the American-Statesman that the Mexican cattlemen's association is holding a convention in Acapulco in June and "I plan to go back for that."

Continue Hunt For Hijacker

DALLAS (AP) — Authorities continued a search today for a hijacker who took William Bisetti, 24, of Dallas for a ride between Tyler and Terrell and fled in Bisetti's car after freeing him.

Officers thought they had identified a suspect Wednesday but Bisetti was unable to identify a photograph of the man as his abductor.

The Dallas man was kidnapped about 9:30 p.m. Monday when he said he stopped to help a man, about 30, and a teen-age youth in a car stalled near the intersection of Interstate 20 and Texas 271.

Bisetti said three guns and $140 were taken from him.

to knock her out so he could get her out of a field where she had run.

Schaffer said his wife had had an abscessed tooth removed, weakening her jaw.

BLOODY CLOTHES

"It is my opinion, judging from the cross-shaped tear and the pattern of powder found on the cloth, that the muzzle of the gun was in contact with the blouse when it was fired," Ron Urbanovsky, a forensic chemist with the Texas Department of Public Safety testified Wednesday.

He was the last witness for the prosecution Wednesday morning.

Urbanovsky said he ran extensive tests on the blouse, firing test shots at different ranges and studying the effects on the cloth.

He also identified stains on several items of clothing, earlier introduced as evidence, as human blood.

Earlier, former deputy sheriff Doane was recalled to the stand where the items of clothing were introduced as evidence. He testified about the origin of the clothing and how the clothes were identified, sent to Austin for tests, and kept under lock and key until the trial.

Introduced as evidence were James Schaffer's blood-soaked pants and shirt and the bloody pants, blouse, panties, and bra that Sandra Schaffer was wearing when she died.

With a smaller work force this year, District Clerk Peggy Crittenden shows more receipts for the first four months than during the same period of 1974.

She counted $1,761 in criminal court costs and restitution collected from Jan. 1-April 30, 1974. The amount for 1975 was $3,416.

Civil fees totaled $7,613 for the 1974 period and $9,266 for the 1975 months.

Received for court ordered trust fund deposits was $32,620 during the 1974 period and $71,654 for 1975.

The district clerk's office collected and distributed $128,945 in child support payments during the first four months of 1974. For the last four months, the comparable figure is $142,116.

M. Fern Cox, then district clerk, employed two full-time deputies during 1974. His successor to office, Mrs. Crittenden, tried operating the office with one for a while and then obtained approval of County Commissioners Court to employ a part-time deputy, also.

Mayaguez Families Say Prayers Answered

By the Associated Press

"Every person who had relatives on the ship can now say our prayers have been answered. We'd like to thank the President, Congress and everyone who made the freeing of the ship possible."

The words belonged to John Mullis of Wilmer, Ala., whose brother, James Jack Mullis, was among the 40 crewmen of the cargo ship Mayaguez rescued by U.S. Marines Wednesday.

And though the sense of relief and even outright joy was widespread, it was tempered by a concern for the Marines who risked heavy enemy fire to return the ship's crew to safety. There were early reports the Marines had suffered heavy casualties, but the Pentagon said later preliminary reports showed two killed and eight wounded.

"We all feel great now," said William Earl Gilbert of Pascagoula, Miss., whose father, Earl C. Gilbert, was aboard the ship. "We're sorry for the marines who had to go in."

"Everybody is relieved. My mother is really relieved. We've had to take her to the hospital twice since this started, because of nerves and all. We'll all try to relax a little bit."

Jerry Gilbert, another of the crewman's sons, said, "I'm tickled pink that everything turned out okay. I'm sorry it had to come to a military conflict. I'm sorry for the families of the Marines who were lost but the action had to be taken. Talking didn't do it."

"Great," said Linda Shemper of Hattiesburg, Miss. Her father, Frank T. Conway, was a Mayaguez crewman. "That is fantastic. We've been waiting for word. I think we've been lucky. And the reports of a lot of Marines being killed is terribly unfortunate. I'm just thankful that the crewmen are alive."

"I'm sorry about the Marines that are in there," said Mrs. Ervin Anderson of New Orleans. Her husband was one of those rescued. "They are losing their lives. I know it had to be done to release them."

Clifford Myregard of Van Nuys, Calif., father of second mate Jared Myregard, said he agreed with the decision to send in the Marines.

"This is the only way to do it, otherwise it could have dragged on for four or five years."

Ada Doyle of Toledo, Ohio, whose younger son, John, was one of the crewmen, agreed with Myregard.

"If President Ford had waited... it would have just been stretched out and out and out."

She said when she learned of the capture earlier this week, "it about broke my heart." Since the release, she said, "I've been thanking the Lord for answering my prayer."

"I don't know what I'll do when he gets home, except maybe grab him to make sure it is him," said Mrs. Marion J. Bock of Bogata, N.J., wife of Mayaguez radio officer Wilbert N. Bock.

"When we first got the news, we were kissing one another," she said, referring to herself and her son, Nicholas.

Mrs. Bock said the President "did a very good job, but I feel bad about the Marines who got hurt. The only thing I couldn't figure out is why the Cambodians would do a thing like that."

'SHOW AND TELL' Strip Knocked By Church Unit

DALLAS (AP) — Several weeks ago stripper Diana King did her "show and tell" time at a suburban Unitarian Church.

Now other area Unitarians are saying Diana showed too much, but their criticism doesn't seem to be along religious lines.

"We deplore the use of a church and its worship services as a means of commercial promotion, whether in behalf of the services of an exotic dancer or another commercial venture," said a statement Wednesday by the North Texas Association of Unitarian Universalists Societies (NTAUUS).

NTAUUS accused the suburban Richardson, Tex., church of publicity-seeking "exploitation."

"Unitarians have a long-standing commitment to the women's liberation movement. We believe the striptease as a form of entertainment is sexist, tending to present women as objects rather than persons, and we wish to disassociate ourselves from this kind of exploitation."

The Rev. Bill Nichols, minister of the church, defended Miss King's dance, which ended with her in nothing but a G-string, at the time she stripped and again after the critical report.

"Diana performed during a sharing portion of our service. We have had witches, psychologists, people into yoga and other representatives of different things in our culture perform during this (show and tell) period. She was merely sharing what she does for a living. When she was through she was nearly nude but no one considered it a striptease," he said.

Miss King, however, considered her clothes-off routine "fantastic. A real high. It's something I've wanted to do in church for a long time."

She said she has plans to strip at the church again, encouraging members of the congregation to join her.

"Our objection is not that it was done in church but with the striptease itself, it is sexist," said the Rev. Dwight Brown of First Unitarian Church of Dallas.

Miss King, a Unitarian, appears nightly at a Dallas strip club.

'A Wide Funnel' Smacks Feed Mill Near Cowtown

By the Associated Press
What one witness described as "a wide funnel" wrecked half of a feed mill at Haslet, near Fort Worth, as Texas' protracted siege of wild weather held on Wednesday night.

Other tornadoes threatened areas near Dallas, Beaumont and Corpus Christi and thunderstorms from around Vernon and Wichita Falls to the coast loosed more rain on many already sodden areas.

By this morning the turbulence subsided into scattered showers in North Central and East Texas. Skies were generally clear in other sections of the state. Owner Glen Brooks suffered cuts and bruises as one of the twisters hit his Haslet Feed Mill.

A witness, Marlin Collins, said, "It (the funnel cloud) exploded and picked up the mill and dropped it in the intersection and moved on."

The tornado likewise damaged two homes and toppled utility poles at Haslet, and truck driver Raymond Smith said it turned his flatbed vehicle around.

Sightings of at least four tornadoes were reported west of Beaumont. One licked down from a black thunderhead and damaged a tractor.

The National Weather Service said a waterspout, as a seagoing tornado is called, apparently came ashore and knocked down telephone poles in the Flour Bluff area east of the Corpus Christi airport.

Early morning temperatures sagged to 47 degrees at Dalhart and 49 at Amarillo in the Panhandle while it still was 71 at Brownsville in the extreme south. Wednesday afternoon's top marks went as high as 94 at Brownsville and 95 at neighboring McAllen.

Forecasts called for clouds and scattered thundershowers to linger over Northeast Texas into tonight. Fair weather was predicted in other sections.

Three Jurors Still Needed

HOUSTON (AP) — The capital murder trial of Ronald Clark O'Bryan entered its ninth day today with three jurors still needed before testimony begins. One juror was selected Wednesday, bringing the total selected in eight days to nine — one woman and eight men.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Thurs., May 15, 1975 5-A

O'Bryan is accused of killing his son, Timothy, 8, by giving the boy poisoned Halloween candy. The youth died last Halloween night shortly after eating the candy.

The state, which is seeking the death penalty, contends O'Bryan, 30, poisoned his son to collect insurance money.

Conservation Awards Presented Area Men

Two Scurry County conservationists were recognized as the outstanding conservationists in their respective areas at the Region I Texas Conservation Awards Banquet held in the Student Center at Texas Tech University in Lubbock recently.

Ray Herring of Fluvanna, a cooperar with the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District, received the regional honor as the outstanding resident conservation farmer.

William R. McMullan, vocational agriculture teacher at Snyder High School received the regional honor as the outstanding conservation teacher.

The banquet was attended by about 250 persons representing 47 soil and water conservation districts.

W. A. "Bill" King, director of the statewide program sponsored by the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, presented awards in other categories to winners from Hale, Hall-Childress, Ochiltree, Floyd, Lubbock, Scurry, and Cochran counties.

Herring is credited with having been among the first in the area to install parallel terraces, a new development in an old concept designed to spread rain water evenly over croplands instead of allowing it to run off into borrow ditches otherwise to escape from fields.

He has about 740 acres each in a conservation cropping system, a crop residue management plan, and a contour farming program.

The conservation-minded farmer has maintained a balanced cropping operation, using soil improving crops in rotation with cotton, and has constructed an earthenware reservoir to impound water for his livestock and provide recreation for his family and community, officials of the Upper Colorado SWCD said. William R. McMullan, vocational agriculture teacher at Snyder, was named the outstanding conservation teacher. He holds a similar award from the Texas Advisory Committee on Conservation Education.

"For 23 years, he has instilled in his students a deeper understanding of soil, water, and plants in their relation to the environment," King said. McMullan's 1973 grass judging team scored a total of 1,199 points of a possible 1,200 at the Houston Livestock Show.

The A. W. Dalrymple Award, presented to an outstanding student in the Department of Range and Wildlife Management at Tech, went to Darrel F. Shepard, a senior from Lubbock who has maintained a grade point average of 3.68.

Shepard, listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, has been president of the International Council of Student Chapters in the Soil Conservation Society of America. He was founder and first president of the student chapter at Tech.

A veterinarian from Bella Vista, Ark., Dr. Raymond Hander, who owns land in the Hall-Childress SWCD, won the region's award for conservation work by an absentee landowner.

Russians Building Giant Space Launching Complex

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Soviet Union is building a massive space launching complex in a remote desert of central Asia three astronauts—the first Americans to visit the facility—said here Wednesday.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. Slayton said at a news conference that the Soviets are building a city of 50,000 called Leninsk and constructing a launch complex "three to four times as big as the Cape" referring to the American space port at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

"It is definitely a forward going program," Stafford said of the Soviet space effort. "They are not slowing one bit."

The astronaut said the Soviets indicated they planned several manned flights a year in the future, in contrast to the American plans which do not include a manned flight after this year until late 1979.

Stafford, Brand and Slayton will be the American crew for a joint U.S. Russian space flight set for launch in July. They visited the Soviet space center as part of the preparation for that mission.

Stafford said the city of Leninsk and its launch complex is so large that when the astronauts flew out of it at night that they passed lights of launch pads for 15 to 18 minutes after takeoff.

The sheer size, said Stafford, makes the Cape "look pretty puny."

Stafford said the astronauts were confident of the safety of the Soviet spacecraft after inspecting the ships in Russia. He said he was confident the mission would be launched July 15 on schedule.

"Everything is right on schedule and ready to go," he said. "We see no hitches to a successful mission."

Plans call for a Soviet craft with two cosmonauts on board to be launched from Russia followed by the launch several hours later of an Apollo from Cape Canaveral with three astronauts on board.

Gold Bolts By Whites

Before an impressive gathering, the Gold bolted by the White, 36-6, in a Big Spring High football controlled practice game Wednesday afternoon on Webb AFB's soccer field.

Mark Moore, varsity quarterback, controlled the White unit at the start, then switched sides to the Gold halfway in the drill. Mike Valenzuela mapped out strategy for the second unit.

Though 42 points thundered across the grassland, Bob Burris said, "I felt we played somewhat sloppy." This was mainly contributed to five players being late or practice, team not prompt in boarding the bus and overall carefree attitudes in pre-game calisthenics.

The Steers received a costly first casualty. Jerry Marques, tailback, tore leg ligaments in Tuesday night's test. He was to be operated on today in Midland to repair the break.

Moore had a hand in all but one of the Gold's scoring efforts.

Scoring Highlights:

Gold — Randall Jones moved through the middle of the line for five yards.

Gold — Moore passed to Tom Churchwell for eight yards.

Gold — Moore passed to Ricky Watkins for 50 yards.

White — Valenzuela passed to Greg Spears for 30 yards.

Gold — Moore pitched out to Steve Hughes who ran for eight yards.

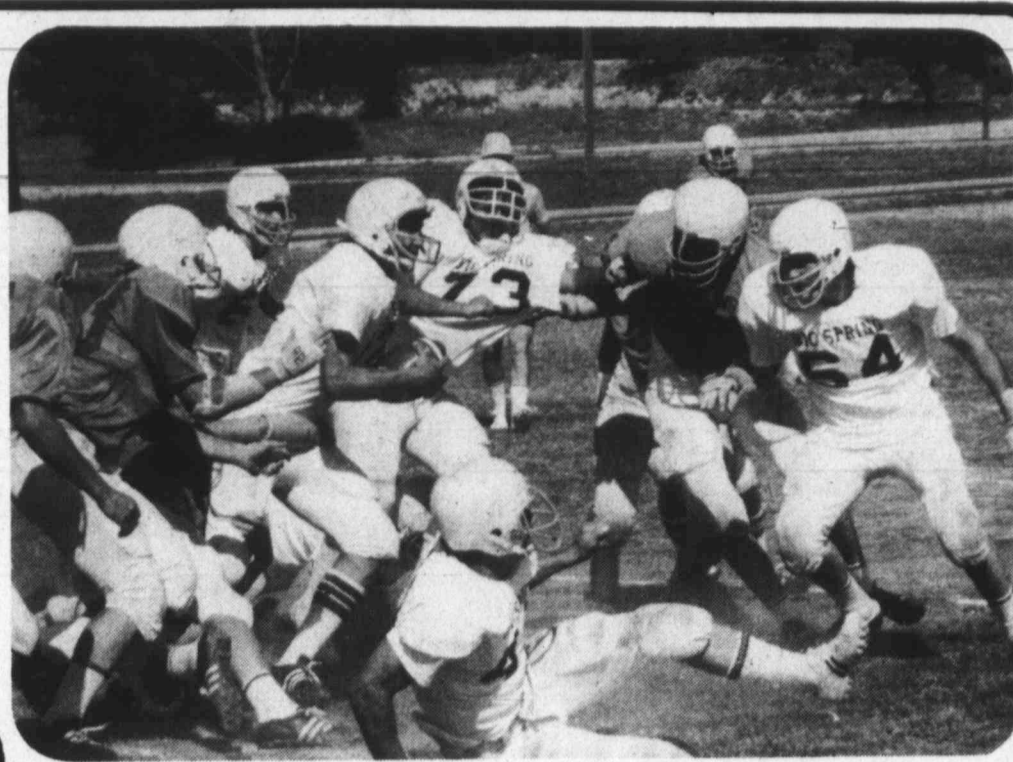

Gold — Moore passed to Watkins for 50 yards.

Gold — Moore passed to Mike Harris for 40 yards.

Big Spring is nearing the close of the second of three weeks of UIL-sanctioned spring workouts.

The Steers will practice today at 6:45 p.m. Friday's schedule leans toward an afternoon meeting.

The week concludes Saturday with a 9:45 a.m. drill.

Battle Plans Drawn

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The battle plans have been drawn for tonight's opening game of the Stanley Cup finals. They are surprisingly similar for both clubs.

Stop the other team's top center.

After the Philadelphia Flyers completed their light workout Wednesday, they spoke almost unanimously about Buffalo Sabres' center Gilbert Perreault—the man they all feel has to be contained to insure a successful defense of the National Hockey League championship they won last season.

"The only guy we've got to stop before he gets out of his zone is Perreault," said Flyers' defenseman Andre Dupont. "He's really good with that puck, so we've got to forecheck like crazy. If you hawk him all night, he's bound to panic. So we'll be out to get a piece of him every time he touches the puck."

First, they've got to catch Perreault, one of the sport's most elusive players. And if Philadelphia succeeds, they still have to contend with Rick Martin and Rene Robert, the wings on Perreault's "French Connection" line.

The trio amassed 291 points in the regular season as Martin collected 52 goals, Robert 40 and Perreault 39 to lead the league in scoring by a line. But if they have a nemesis, it lies in the Flyers, who have not lost to Buffalo in the last 13 games—exhibition and regular season.

Further, the five-year-old challengers to Philadelphia's NHL crown never have won a game on Flyers' ice.

Tigers Pounded

The Cubs pounded the Tigers, 11-3, in American Pee-Wee League play Wednesday.

Series Slated

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — Anticipating large crowds for a weekend baseball series between Pan American University and Texas A&M, local officials announced a series of promotions, including "Aggie Night."

The Broncs, 56-5, and the Aggies, 31-8, are using the five-game series as a warm up for the NCAA baseball playoffs later this month. Both teams will participate in different playoffs for berths in the College World Series.

Pan American University athletics promotions director Jon Schill jokingly said "on Aggie Night (Friday), we'll charge one Aggie a dollar, but we'll let in two Aggies for three dollars." Assistant Athletic Director Rob Robledo quickly explained that all Aggies and ex-Aggies can buy two game tickets for the price of one on "Aggie Night."

For Saturday's doubleheader, an entire family can get tickets for the price of one adult ticket. Sunday's single game will be "Kids Day" and all children wearing baseball caps can get in free.

Pan American officials are hoping to break the all-time attendance record during the series with the Aggies. The record for a game was 4,600 when the late baseball great Dizzy Dean appeared in 1973 to sing his famous version of "The Wabash Cannonball."

The series will feature doubleheaders Friday and Saturday nights and a single game at 1 p.m. Sunday.

The Broncs and Aggies have scheduled a series with another each season for the past five seasons only to have every game rained out.

Tony Back Fulltime

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tony Jacklin, a bright and breezy Briton who abandoned the U.S. pro golf tour two years ago, made his return to full-time American competition today in the first round of the $150,000 New Orleans Open.

"I'll be playing here the rest of my competitive life," said Jacklin, a 30-year-old former British and U.S. Open champion who encountered a variety of difficult, perplexing problems in his two seasons of competition in Britain and Europe.

Foremost among them—and the principal reason for his return to the United States—is the collapse of the British economy and the enormous taxes he encountered at home.

He was prompted to sell his castle in England and seek a tax shelter on the Isle of Jersey, where he is subject to only a 20 per cent tax on his income.

Allen Welcomed Back Astros Outslug Chicago, 11-7

By the Associated Press

Dick Allen finally learned Wednesday night why Philadelphia is called the City of Brotherly Love.

The good burghers of that Pennsylvania metropolis, who have been accused of boeing funerals, welcomed Allen back to baseball with three standing ovations. And the controversial slugger came through with a single his first time up as the Phillies blanked the Cincinnati Reds 4-0 behind Steve Carlton's seven-hit pitching.

"They showed me what kind of town this could be," said Allen, who spent the first six years of his career in Philadelphia and was one of the boobirds' favorite targets. "I'd like to see it stay that way, and I think it will as long as I produce."

Elsewhere in the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals downed the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-4, the Houston Astros outslugged the Chicago Cubs 11-7, the Pittsburgh Pirates nipped the San Diego Padres 5-4 in 11 innings, the New York Mets trimmed the San Francisco Giants 5-1 and the Montreal Expos edged the Atlanta Braves 5-4.

But baseball's eyes were on the 33-year-old Allen, who hadn't faced a major league pitcher in 248 days since his tearful "retirement" from the Chicago White Sox last September. After his first-inning single off rookie Pat Darcy, Allen flied out and grounded out before leaving in the seventh inning to rest a slightly sprained ankle. He handled seven chances cleanly at first base.

The 30,906 fans at Veterans Stadium roared every time Allen exhaled. They gave him a standing ovation when the lineup was announced. They gave him another when Houston's...

he made all three putouts in the top of the first inning. They roared as though he had just won the seventh game of the World Series when he singled in the bottom of the first.

Carlton handed the Reds their second consecutive shutout. Greg Luzinski singled home the only run he needed in the first inning. Larry Bowa delivered an RBI single in the sixth and the Phillies got their final two runs in the eighth on a double by Garry Maddox, singles by Luzinski and Tommy Hutton—Allen's replacement—and an infield hit by Carlton.

Astros 11, Cubs 7 Doug Rader slammed a two-run homer in the first inning and a three-run blast in the seventh. Tom Griffin won his first game in six decisions but was replaced in the sixth when the Cubs scored two runs, narrowing the margin to 6-5.

Cardinals 7, Dodgers 4 Ted Simmons' two-run double and Ken Reitz' two-run single highlighted a five-run rally in the third inning. Simmons' bases-loaded ground-rule smash that bounced over the left field wall brought the Cardinals from behind against Doug Rau. Reitz followed with a drive off the foot of relief pitcher Rick Rhoden, capping the uprising.

Pirates 5, Padres 4 Bill Robinson singled home the winning run with two out in the 11th inning off Bill Greif after Dave Parker drilled a one-out double. The Padres tied the game in the eighth on a run-scoring double by Dave Winfield and an RBI single by Willie McCovey, who also blasted his fourth homer in the fourth inning.

Expos 5, Braves 4 Pepe Mangual's run-scoring single capped a three-run seventh-inning rally that gave Montreal a 5-3 lead. Gary Carter doubled with one out and moved to third on Barry Foote's single. One out later, Carter scored the tying run on Jose Morales' double.

Scout Olympics Set For WAFB

About 125 Explorer Scouts from the West Texas area will be gathering at Webb AFB Friday and Saturday to compete in the annual Explorer Olympics.

Run in cooperation with the United States Olympics Committee and the President's Council on Physical Fitness, the meet will feature competition in nine different sports plus an individual general knowledge test.

Young men and women Explorers, 14-21 years of age, will begin competition in earnest Saturday in basketball, golf, table tennis, rifle marksmanship, track and field, volleyball, archery and a road-e-o.

All events, except track and field, will be held on various facilities around the base. The track and field events are slated for Saturday at Howard College. Track events include the 100-yard dash, 200-yard dash, 440, 880, mile, 440 relay, and the 120 low hurdles. The broad jump, shot putt and discus round out the field event.

The John H. Lees Recreation center will be the site of the singles ping-pong tournament while the Webb links hosts competition in nine holes of golf. Volleyball and basketball will be held at the Webb gym. Singles tennis, marksmanship and archery will take place at the Webb tennis courts, rifle range and archery range.

The road-e-o with dual competition in written and driving tests is on tap for the refueling ramp.

The general knowledge test has scouts matching wits in math, American history, government, biology, science and sports in a battery of tests Friday night from 7 to 10.

There are separate men and women's divisions for basketball, tennis, ping-pong, track and archery. The rest are open events. Scoring for all competition will be on a 5-3-1 point system for first, second and third place finishes.

An awards banquet is slated for Saturday at 6 p.m. in the NCO Open Mess. Medals will be presented to individual winners and plaques to the winning teams. In addition, the post garnering the most points in the Olympics will take home a trophy.

Teams from throughout the Buffalo Trail Council are expected to participate. They include scouts from Webb, Big Spring, Big Bend, Odessa, Midland, Sand Springs, Coahoma, Pecos and Andrews.

Maj. Myron J. Willet is the scout project officer for the event.

Ranger-Brewer Game Suspended After 14

By the Associated Press

Those unidentified flying objects coming from the pitcher's mound sure baffled Boog Powell.

"I couldn't tell what he was throwing...it was some kind of a trick pitch," the Cleveland slugger said after sighting the UFOs from the right arm of Minnesota's Jim Hughes.

Whatever Hughes had in his sleeve sailed right by the Cleveland hitters Wednesday night and ignited the Twins to a 3-0 American League victory.

Hughes is as smart a young pitcher as I've seen in quite a while," said Minnesota Manager Frank Quilici. "He has a good assortment of pitches and the ability to change speeds, which should make him effective."

including three straight victories. Before Wednesday night's shutout, his first in the majors, Hughes had a strong, complete-game performance against Baltimore.

"I like to work fast," said Hughes, partially explaining the key to his sudden success.

Yanks 4, Angels 3 Bobby Bonds' bases-loaded sacrifice fly in the 10th inning lifted Catfish Hunter and New York over California. The victory was Hunter's fourth in his last five starts and evened his record at 4-4.

Brewers 2, Rangers 2 The marathon game between Texas and Milwaukee was suspended under the American League rule that no inning can be started after 1 a.m. locally.

The start of the game was delayed about an hour and 13 minutes by rain and then it took more than 3 1/2 hours to play.

Milwaukee took a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning off Texas southpaw Clyde Wright on Derrell Porter's two-run single. The Rangers tied it in the sixth. Willie Davis looped a double to left and Jeff Burroughs crashed another double off the right field wall, scoring Davis.

Burroughs went to third on a groundout and scored on Ed Sprague's wild pitch.

CHAMPIONSHIP BOUND Warriors Tame Bulls

OAKLAND (AP) — The Golden State Warriors head into the National Basketball Association championship series the same way they opened the season, as decided underdogs.

"But if we play like this against Washington, we're going to give them a battle," said Rick Barry, whose 14 points in a fourth quarter drive Wednesday night led the Warriors to an 83-79 victory over the Chicago Bulls in the decisive seventh game of the Western Conference finals.

Washington's Bullets, who dethroned the defending NBA champion Boston Celtics to win the Eastern Conference title, will host the first game of the playoff finals Sunday in Landover, Md.

The Bulls were favored over Golden State, having beaten the Warriors in three of four regular season meetings, and the Bulls led the series 3-2 going into Game 6 last Sunday on their home court.

"We had our chance in Chicago and let it slip away," Bulls' Coach Dick Motta said. "We got a second chance here but just weren't up to it."

The Warriors, who won 86-72 with Barry scoring 36 points Sunday, trailed by as many as 14 points Wednesday night as Barry made just two of his first 15 shots. Their successful catch-up drive began late in the third period after Coach Al Attles had brought Barry to the bench for the third time in the game.

"I don't think I've ever seen a game more symbolic of team effort than this one.

We got great performances from people who hadn't been playing much," said Attles.

"Then Rick got off and running in the fourth quarter, and that was the ball game," Attles concluded.

"Keith Wilkes kept us in the game," said Barry, praising the rookie forward who scored 23 points, one more than Barry's total.

Wednesday night's comeback victory was the third of the series for the Warriors, who trailed by nine before winning in Chicago Sunday and battled from 19 points back to win Game 4 here.

Chet Walker was the top Chicago scorer, with 21 points, but had only seven after the first half. Bob Love tallied 17 points, six under his average for the playoffs.

To me, nothing tastes better than fine tobacco. But I don't smoke.

To millions of Americans, the good taste of tobacco doesn't always come from smoking. It also comes from tasting. From placing a pinch of tobacco between cheek and gum, and savoring it.

And yet, to millions of others, this age-old tobacco pleasure is still a mystery. Possibly because they've never tried it.

Or because, as is true, the use of "smokeless" tobacco is an art, and takes practice.

A pinch in a pouch So, to make it easier, we've made it different. We've made Good Luck. A whole new way to enjoy tobacco.

Good Luck is a pinch of choice "tasting" tobaccos, in a neat little pouch. And the pouch is what makes it different. You place Good Luck, pouch and all, between your cheek and gum. Then, as it rests there, the pouch works like a tea bag. To let tobacco flavor out, while the tobacco stays in.

takes a little getting used to. But with Good Luck, it's easier because the pouch holds the tobacco all in one place. It sits comfortably and no one knows it's there, but you.

Also, each pouch comes properly pre-measured, so you always get the right amount.

Sealed in foil. To keep the tobacco fresh and moist, each Good Luck pouch is sealed in foil. That also keeps it from spilling into your pocket.

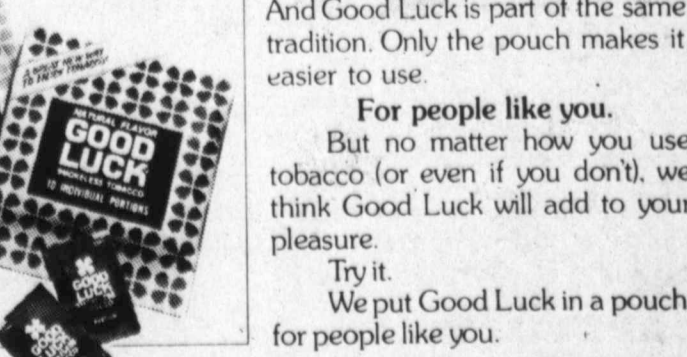

And because you don't smoke Good Luck, it's perfectly welcome in places where smoking isn't. Such as a courtroom, on a bus, or near inflammables.

And unlike a cigarette or a pipe, Good Luck won't tie up your hands. You enjoy its tobacco flavor no matter what you're doing.

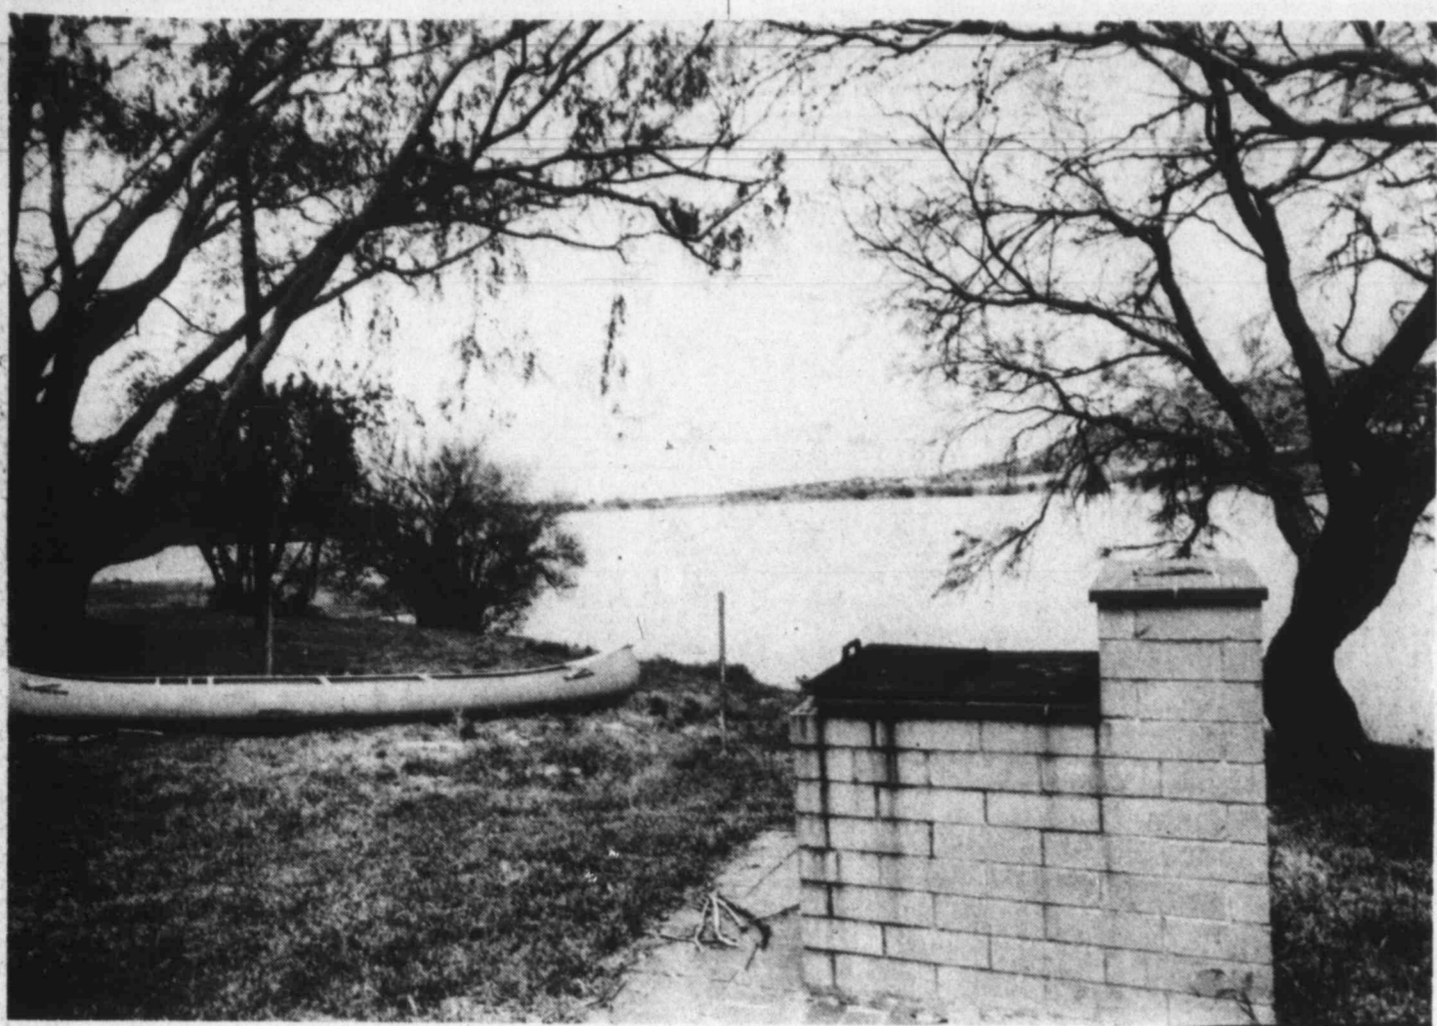

Rich tobacco tradition. Now you're acquainted with Good Luck's little pouch. But what about the tobacco that comes inside?

Well, it's made by United States Tobacco Company, whose other tobaccos, without a pouch, are now enjoyed by over 6 million Americans. And Good Luck is part of the same tradition. Only the pouch makes it easier to use.

For people like you. But no matter how you use tobacco (or even if you don't), we think Good Luck will add to your pleasure. Try it. We put Good Luck in a pouch, for people like you.

Try Good Luck, a whole new way to enjoy tobacco.

Black Legislators Fight Welfare Board Selection

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A small town mayor who swears that he led integration of his community must hurdle the near-unanimous opposition of black legislators to be confirmed to the State Welfare Board.

It appeared certain that Gov. Dolph Briscoe would be asked to recall Hillmar G. Moore's appointment or face the embarrassment of having the Senate reject the governor's nomination.

Briscoe's aide, George Lowrance, told the Senate Nominations Subcommittee on Wednesday that the governor selected Moore for the job even though no one had recommended him.

Lowrance said several Mexican-Americans and three blacks were on a list of possible nominees, and "I took the original folders (of the nominees' qualifications) to Briscoe."

The governor suggested Mr. Moore and that ended the search," said Lowrance. Moore, mayor of Richmond, was chosen to succeed Henry Andrews Jr. of Stamford for a term expiring in January 1981.

"When I knew you, you were an unreconstructed Southern reactionary," Sen. A. R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, told Moore.

Schwartz said he did not think Moore was qualified for the three-member board that administers hundreds of millions of dollars in state and federal funds to welfare recipients, including to many blacks.

Schwartz asked the subcommittee chairman, Sen. Mike McKinnon, D-Corpus Christi, to request Atty. Gen. John Hill to rule on Moore's qualifications and also whether there might be a conflict of interest in the mayor's job and the welfare post.

"Would you be willing to give up the mayor's job?" Schwartz asked Moore.

"I don't think so," he replied.

"You've got a few prejudices," Schwartz said. "That's your worry, sir," said Moore.

Each of the eight-member Legislative Black Caucus except Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Houston, signed a letter objecting to Moore's appointment, saying they did not think he was qualified.

Schwartz also said the Houston Metropolitan Ministries was circulating a petition against Moore and a Richmond "professional" person had complained of the nomination.

"I don't claim to be the most popular man," said Moore.

Moore insisted under oath, however, that he felt he had "led the integration of Fort Bend County, with no trouble."

He said he "led the movement" to integrate the restrooms at the courthouse and had gotten restaurant owners to open their doors to blacks.

"Obviously, I'm being accused of racism," Moore said. "But Fort Bend County has never had a demonstration."

He admitted under questioning, however, that he had voted in the Jaybird political primary in Richmond to select candidates to run for countywide offices in the Democratic Party primary the following month.

Schwartz said the Jaybird primary had been held for years, including long after Moore was elected mayor 28 years ago, to prevent blacks from having a strong voice in county politics.

Had he lived in Richmond in the 1880s, Moore acknowledged, "I'm sure I would have been a member of the Jaybird Party."

The U.S. Supreme Court outlawed the party in the 1950s, Moore said.

McKinnon noted that there were no blacks on the Richmond police force although the town of 7,000 population is one-third black and said, "Something is wrong in Richmond, so to speak."

"I believe if you will ask them they (blacks) will tell you I've been more than fair," said Moore.

Political Fund-Raiser Stans Is Fined $5,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maurice H. Stans, the most successful political fundraiser in history, was fined $5,000 Wednesday for five admitted campaign law violations that he said "were not intentional and not willful."

U.S. District Judge John Lewis Smith imposed no jail term or probation, saying "it is not alleged Mr. Stans personally profited, that money went into his pocket."

Stans, who was secretary of Commerce before becoming finance chairman of President Richard M. Nixon's 1972 reelection campaign, told newsmen later that the charges were of a technical nature.

"I want to especially point out that I have been fully exonerated of all improper actions in connection with the Watergate and its aftermath," he said.

Under his direction, the Finance Committee to Reelect the President raised more than $60 million.

Stans, 67, had pleaded guilty to three counts of failing to make required financial reports and two counts of receiving illegal corporate contributions.

Stans and the special Watergate prosecutor's office had agreed that his plea to the five counts would "dispose of any criminal liability of Mr. Stans for matters that have been or are presently being, investigated by the special prosecutor."

Stans was the third former member of the Nixon Cabinet to be sentenced. Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell is appealing a 30-month to 8-year sentence in the Watergate cover-up case. Former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst received a 30-day jail term and a $100 fine, both of which were suspended.

Church Bells Are Ringing Nuptial News

Nostalgia and sentiment are making a comeback. Mindful of this you can easily understand why old-fashioned weddings have returned with flowers, ruffles and other flourishes.

Bridal showers are joyous occasions and easy parties to give. Wave about two dollars worth of props over the dining room table and the mood will sweep you. As for the food, most of it can, and should be, prepared in advance.

Cheese and butter make the sandwich loaf firm and easy to slice if prepared beforehand. Molded salads, as always, require a day's or overnight's chilling so they'll stand at attention. Ham-Chicken Salad Supreme is not to be hurried since the first layer must be set before the chicken-sour cream mixture is placed on top of it.

Cakes and their frostings are like sandwich loaves in that they will slice clean instead of crumbling, if prepared a day ahead. Hearts 'N Flowers is an especially delightful cake with fresh butter and strawberries.

Bridal Punch offers a cool and colorful beverage for the party. Simply chill the juices well while the lime sherbet ring gets solid in the freezer. When you're ready, wed the two in your best punch bowl.

Ham-Chicken Salad Supreme

HAM LAYER:

- 8 slices (4 1/4-inch square) thin sliced boiled ham
- 1 can (1 lb. 4 oz.) pineapple chunks in natural juice
- 1/2 cup chicken stock or bouillon
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1 1/2 cups chicken stock or bouillon
- 2 tablespoons sherry or lemon juice

CHICKEN LAYER:

- 1 cup chicken stock or bouillon
- 1 package (3 oz.) lemon flavored gelatin
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 cups diced cooked chicken
- 1/4 cup chopped celery
- 1 jar (2 oz.) chopped pimiento, drained
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- Dash cayenne pepper
- 1 cup dairy sour cream

Chill and oil a 6-cup ring mold. To prepare Ham Layer: Cut ham slices in half. Cut pineapple chunks in half. Place 2 cut chunks on ham slice; roll jelly-roll fashion. Cover and set aside. In a 1-quart saucepan sprinkle gelatin over 1/2 cup stock. Heat over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin dissolves. Add 1 1/2 cups stock and sherry. Pour gelatin into mold until bottom is covered. Chill until partially set. Place ham rolls, folded side down, spoke fashion in mold. Pour over remaining cooled gelatin mixture. Chill until set. To prepare Chicken Layer: Heat stock until boiling temperature is reached. In a bowl pour stock over gelatin; stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice and salt. Chill until partially set. Combine chicken, celery, pimiento, green pepper, cayenne pepper and sour cream. Fold into gelatin. Turn into mold over ham layer. Chill until firm. 16 servings.

Bridge Bids Are Opened

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Preparations appeared ready Wednesday for construction of a new seven-lane International Bridge spanning the Rio Grande between here and Nuevo Laredo, Mexico.

Bids from more than a dozen American and Mexican contractors were opened Tuesday and work on the bridge is scheduled to begin June 4.

The contracts are to be formally awarded next week.

Watkins Construction Co. of Uvalde, Tex. was the apparent low American bidder with its estimate of $1,567,057 for building five of the 11 spans of the bridge.

The Marroquin Tova Co. of Mexico City was the apparent low Mexican bidder for construction of five spans on the Mexican side of the river.

Officials said Cumbre Co. of Mexico City was the apparent low bidder for construction of the main center span. Cumbre submitted a bid of $1,353,102 while Marroquin Tova entered a bid of $1,332,916 on the five Mexican bridge sections.

A Mexican public works ministry spokesman said the Mexican contractors will be penalized $160 a day for each day they go over the scheduled completion date in November next year.

The bridge will link Interstate 35 in this country with the Pan American Highway in Mexico.

IMPROVING THE BUILDING — The building at the swimming pool in Comanche Trail Park is undergoing paint and a lot of improvements. Jerry Foresythe, parks superintendent, said this is one of many improvements which will continue to be made in city parks.

Congressman's Brother Faces Assault Raps

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A brother of U.S. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez has been indicted by the Bexar County grand jury on two counts of deadly assault on a police officer.

Carlos C. Gonzalez, 65, has been under guard at Bexar County Hospital while recovering from injuries he received when he was arrested by officers following an April 26 shooting incident in which two patrolmen were wounded.

Gonzalez is accused of shooting Patrolman Roy T. Aguilar, 21, and Det. R. C. Smith, 52, after the officers were dispatched to his mother's home to return him to the San Antonio State Hospital from which he had escaped.

The grand jurors requested a $15,000 bond be set on each of the two charges.

The congressman's brother had been committed to the State Hospital for psychiatric care for about a week before he escaped.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Roman L. Hruska, a Nebraska Republican who has been a leading conservative voice in the Senate for the last 20 years, plans to retire when his current term expires in 1977, an aide says.

Hruska served in the House from 1952 until 1954 when he was first elected to the Senate to fill an unexpired term. He now is a senior member of two of the most powerful Senate committees: Judiciary and Appropriations.

ATTORNEY GENERAL SAYS: Teachers May Draw Unemployment Checks For Ranchers, Suit Claims

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas school teachers may draw unemployment checks during the months in between their school work, the attorney general says.

However, there may be complications to be ironed out before teachers can collect the checks, according to the Texas Employment Commission.

The request for an opinion came from Henry Rothell, administrator of the Texas Unemployment Commission, who said he understood 17 or 18 other states already had decided teachers are eligible for the special unemployment assistance program passed by Congress, provided they had no summer jobs.

Rothell pointed out that some school boards pay teachers in 10 monthly installments while others split up the salary payment into 12 installments although they only work 10 months.

"In our opinion, the payments some teachers receive during the summer months are made in recognition of prior services rendered and are not paid with respect to employment for the interim period," the attorney general said Tuesday. "Such teachers are therefore 'unemployed' under our state law. Those employees who receive no payments during this period are likewise 'unemployed'."

"Consequently, public school employees who are not performing services during the period between school years are eligible for benefits," the attorney general said.

Rothell said in a statement Tuesday that teachers still may not get the benefits because a bill pending in Congress would prevent those with annual contracts from getting the benefits.

He also pointed out that in order to receive the special unemployment payments an individual must be seeking employment and must be able and willing to work throughout each week for which they claim benefits.

Fort Worth Newsman Dies

FORT WORTH (AP) — Retired Fort Worth Star-Telegram editorial writer Alfred Evans died Wednesday in a Denton hospital. He was 69.

A native of Denton, Evans had been a newspaperman 47 years, working on papers at Denton, Abilene, Wichita Falls and Olney before settling in Fort Worth.

At the time of his death, he was serving on a parttime basis as editor of the Saturday church page for the Star-Telegram.

Survivors include his wife, Sibyl; his mother, Mrs. George M. Evans of Denton; a sister, Miss Kennedy Evans of Denton; two sons, Derro Evans of Dallas, and Dr. Alfred B. Evans Jr. of Fresno, Calif.; a daughter, Mrs. Keith Shelton Denton, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services, were held today in Cole Chapel of First United Methodist Church in Denton. Burial was in Roselawn Memorial Park in Denton.

Not 'Good' For Ranchers, Suit Claims

DALLAS (AP) — Seventeen meat packers who represent 80 per cent of the baby beef market say changes in the standards for meat graded "good" will drive up the cost of cattle and cause them to lose $3.8 million yearly.

The meat packers have filed suit in federal court here because they claim the new "good" grade would hurt ranchers and feed lot operators and would drive prices up because the cattle would have to be put on a longer feeding cycle.

The suit charges that under the proposed new meat regulations much of the packers' baby beef would be downgraded from "good" to "standard," making the meat unsealable to chain store buyers.

The new grades would lessen marbling requirements for "prime" and "choice" meats, but hike the standards for "good" meat, the suit alleges.

The suit, naming U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz and other USDA officials as defendants, seeks to enjoin the Agriculture Department from changing that portion of the proposed regulations which would increase marbling requirements of "good" grade meat.

U.S. District Court Judge William M. Taylor Jr. set a hearing for June 16 to decide whether to issue a temporary injunction.

Will Try Novel Approach To Overturn Texas' ERA

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A House subcommittee voted Wednesday to try a novel approach to overturn Texas' 1972 ratification of the federal Equal Rights Amendment.

By a 3-2 vote the panel approved a resolution asking federal authorities to return the Texas document that shows the legislature's approval of the ERA.

The original proposal by Rep. Bill Hilliard, D-Fort Worth, called for a resolution rescinding the state's ratification.

Wednesday's resolution says the 64th Legislature feels "that insufficient study was given to the proposed amendment by the 62nd Legislature and that the amendment should be more deliberately considered and voted upon."

The panel turned down, 3-2, an attempt by Reps. Chris Miller, D-Fort Worth, and Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, to kill Hilliard's resolution.

Rep. Ray Hutchison, R-Dallas, chairman of the parent Constitutional Revision Committee, has set no date for a full panel hearing on the recall resolution. The resolution would also face votes in the House and Senate.

Last week Speaker Bill Clayton indicated the ERA rescission resolution probably would not come up for a vote in the House.

The ERA received Texas' approval eight days after it passed Congress. To date, 34 states have ratified the amendment, but two, Nebraska and Tennessee, have voted to rescind their approvals.

The effect of a rescission vote has yet to be settled by the courts.

Thirty-eight states must ratify the ERA before 1979 for it to become part of the U.S. Constitution.

$15 Million Damage Suit

HOUSTON (AP) — A Conroe woman has filed a $15 million damage suit against a former Conroe policeman who was acquitted last July of a murder charge in the death of her son.

Bettye Jean Davis, mother of Gregory Allen Steele, 18, filed the suit in federal court Monday against Darwin Bryant, the former officer.

The suit alleges Steele, after being arrested on charges of disturbing the peace, was shot "maliciously and without cause" by Bryant in the processing room of the Conroe police department.

Mrs. Davis filed a similar suit last week against Bryant in state court at Conroe.

Young Marriages Bill 'Slipped' To Governor

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Quick-footed, vote-switching senators nearly defeated a controversial young marriage proposal Wednesday after they had approved it only moments before.

Almost the same thing, on the same proposal, happened earlier in the session.

The measure, by Sen. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, would permit persons as young as 14 to get married without a court order if they had their parents' consent. The age limit is now 16.

A few weeks ago, the Senate voted 24-6 to let Hance bring the bill up, then rejected it, 11-19.

Never, Hance noted Wednesday, had anyone lost so many votes so fast.

His colleagues agreed to consider the bill again Wednesday and approved it on voice vote.

As soon as it had been approved, however, senators rushed to the front of the chamber to be recorded as voting against the bill.

The journal clerk scribbled furiously—"Mauzy, Aikin, Sherman, Ogg, Braecklein, Snelson, Traeger, Williams, Moore, Kothmann, Longoria, Patman, Clower."

"Is there room for me?" asked Sen. Frank Lombardino, D-San Antonio, dashing to the clerk's desk.

There was. He was No. 14 registered against the bill, so it passed, 16-14.

Hance threw up his hands. "They started flaking again," he muttered.

The bill, by the narrowest of margins, goes to the governor to become law.

LS District Rated Low

At the Boy Scout Lone Star District Committee meeting Wednesday, District Executive Art Hyman revealed that the District is rated sixth of the six districts in collecting contributions for the $500,000 council-wide Scout Camp and Program Development Fund.

He said that a total of around $2,500 was collected, far below the Colorado City, Big Bend, Snyder, and other districts in the Buffalo Trails Council.

The fund will be used to upgrade and construct new Council camp facilities.

Hyman also unveiled a new blue and gold District flag.

The flag and stand were purchased through donations from individuals and from First Federal Savings and Loan in memory of Elmo Wasson. The flag includes gold lettering on a blue background.

He also announced the formation of a new Boy Scout Troop and a new Cub Scout Pack. The new troop is Troop 113, located in the Gail Route area and the new pack was organized by the First Baptist Church.

The also went over plans for the District Cub Scout Picnic, slated for June 14, the Cub Scout Swim Meet, slated for July 12 and the Clubmobile Derby, slated for Aug. 9.

Vet Benefits Are Detailed

How the Veterans Administration spent $13.4 billion during fiscal year 1974 to provide federal benefits for the nation's veterans and their families is told in detail in the agency's 222 page annual report to the President.

The report revealed that the 1974 expenditure for veterans, their dependents and survivors, and for active duty personnel, was eight per cent higher than the preceding year, but it has already been exceeded by the 1975 budget of $13.6 billion and the 1976 budget request of $16.1 billion.

Largest of the many VA programs, dollarwise, in 1974 was the compensation and pension expenditure of $6.7 billion.

The second largest expenditure was $3.3 billion on educational assistance for 2.5 million persons, an increase of nearly 22 per cent over the previous year.

The Department of Medicine and Surgery accounted for the third largest expenditure, $3 billion. This was an 11.2 per cent increase which included cost of treating a record 1.06 million veterans in VA and non-VA hospitals.

Bell Employees Involved In Illegal Wiretapping

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Houston Police Chief Carroll Lynn has told a Senate investigating committee that more than 200 Southwestern Bell Telephone employees helped his department in approximately 1,000 illegal wiretapping cases since 1968.

Lynn said nine of his officers are under federal indictment on narcotics charges but that none have yet been tried.

Lynn took over as police chief in January 1974 and launched an investigation of "a minor amount of corruption" in his narcotics division. "The wiretapping issue just kept getting in the way of my investigation ... I kept stumbling over them (Bell) as I investigated my own department," he said.

The cooperation between the police and Bell was smooth, he said. "They (officers) would simply call them and say who they wanted ... There was not twisting of arms," he told the Senate Subcommittee for Consumer Affairs.

But at another point, Lynn said information about where to place a wiretap was obtained under some coercion. "We would find someone (at Bell) who had committed a minor crime. We'd ask him for information. They did receive information from people in the security office of the phone company," he said.

The wiretapping began for a good purpose, he said, but it degenerated to the point where low ranking officers ordered wiretaps.

"I think it simply got out of hand," he said.

Because the police department is "a military type organization" in which orders are obeyed without question, he said, "It ruined the lives of some good officers." Some 50 officers were involved in wiretapping at various times, he said.

It began after a trip to Denver in 1968 by some members of the department to buy "a very sophisticated piece of equipment," he said. But his people looked at the equipment, a small transmitter, and decided they could reproduce it cheaper

To Unveil Audie Murphy Statue At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Audie Murphy, the late famed combat leader who emerged from World War II as America's most decorated hero, gets yet another honor Saturday at the hospital named in his honor here.

An eight-foot, bronze statue sculpted by Jimilu Mason of Alexandria, Va., will be unveiled at the Audie Murphy Veterans Hospital at the same time a memorial room near the hospital's lobby is dedicated.

Howard Callaway, Secretary of the Army, was to be principal speaker as Murphy's widow and two sons watched. Several congressmen said they would attend also.

Murphy collected the Congressional Medal of Honor, Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star, Purple Heart and more than a score of other American and foreign medals and decorations in his war career.

He returned from war to a movie career in the United States.

Miss Mason said she had followed his Hollywood career closely, seeing his most famous film, "To Hell and Back," several times.

She said she reviewed dozens of Murphy's own photographs and hundreds of combat photos depicting his leadership in battle before deciding on casting the Murphy statue as a combat infantryman.

Scheduled to be present at the unveiling also is Spec. 4 Audy Ray Snodgrass, representing the 3rd Infantry division in which Murphy served during World War II.

Emmies Never Have High Percentage Of No-Shows

By BOB THOMAS
 Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — That electronic lovely, Emmy, reaches her 27th year on Monday, and she'll have 10 other glamor ladies to help her celebrate.

The awards of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences may seem as interminable as ever — 63 Emmies to be handed out in two hours plus — but at least the proceedings will look prettier.

"Instead of having a male comedian do a monologue and then toss off a few jokes with every award," says the show's producer, Paul Keyes, "we'll have ten ladies handling the ceremonies.

"Each runs the show for ten minutes. Each has opening remarks, then goes right to the awards. Everything neat; none of that dialogue about 'they didn't turn the cards right.'

"I think it will be a treat for the audience — as well as the ladies. Jean Stapleton loves to dress up but she never gets a chance as Edith Bunker.

"Same with Beatrice Arthur and Maude. And you never see Mary Tyler Moore except in her working clothes. Viewers should enjoy seeing how the stars look when they dress and do their hair in normal life."

Among the other hostesses: Lucille Ball, Carol Burnett, Cher, Teresa Graves, Michael Learned, Susan Saint James, Karen Valentine.

Paul Keyes is a TV veteran who has written and produced for Jack Paar, Dean Martin and "Laugh In." He is a jolly, chunky fellow who is trying to lose some of his girth on a crash diet.

The reason: he may be on-camera himself to collect an Emmy for his production of the American Film Institute tribute to Orson Welles.

The Emmies have always been the most award-laden of the awards telecasts; the Oscars have exactly one-third the number of categories.

The TV Academy's efforts to speed up the ceremonies have repeatedly been thwarted by professional egos. Again this year the Directors and Writers Guilds threatened to boycott the awards if the Academy carried out its plan to eliminate acceptance speeches by directors and writers. Eventually the Academy backed down on the proposal.

"There will be no acceptance speeches for the craft awards (costumes, art direction, etc.)," Keyes explained. "And I have insisted that there will be no surrogate acceptances on the show. If the winner isn't present to accept the award, we'll go right on to the next one."

"But the Emmies never have a high percentage of no-shows. The reason is because we all live and work here. I would estimate that out of 250 nominees this year, between 95 and 96 per cent will be at the Palladium Monday night."

Ex-Dean Of OU Law School Dies

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Dr. John G. Hervey, 75, retired dean of the Oklahoma City University Law School and former dean of the University of Oklahoma Law School, died Sunday. He was also a former dean of the Temple University Law School in Philadelphia.

"Two other witnesses told the committee wiretapping away from the telephone to be tapped is impossible without knowing the 'cable and pairs numbers' that only the telephone company knows."

"The Texas Employment Commission, formerly president of the Communications Workers of America local in Houston, told the committee the Bell-police relationship worked both ways. Bell officials were allowed to look at police files, he said.

"They had the freedom to come and go, in my opinion," he said.

As union president, he said he discussed employee problems with Bell officials sometimes when "they'd be sitting here holding the police file."

Bell employees have told him of cooperating with police on wiretapping, he said.

While the committee hearing was going on, a Bell official in Houston, Ken Brassell, issued a statement saying, "At no time when Mr. Gunn was at Houston did our security department receive reports of illegal wiretapping by our employees."

Brassell said that even if Gunn is correct, "the record is not too bad, considering that we have 12,000 to 14,000 employees. With all these thousands, we don't know what they do in their spare time. If they are involved in wiretapping, we don't know about it."

Gunn said the company always has the right to monitor telephone conversations "for quality." This can be done in

Texas A&I University Chancellor Resigning

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Dr. James C. Jernigan, chancellor of the Texas A&I University system, says he has submitted his resignation effective either Aug. 31, 1975 or Aug. 31, 1976.

At a news conference here Tuesday, Jernigan said his letter to the A&I board contained a provision to make the resignation effective either date.

Jernigan referred to "news reports and rumors" that board members would request his resignation or retirement at the end of the current legislative session. But he said his plans for retirement in 1976 had been discussed with his family.

In his letter to the board, Jernigan said, "I think it is imperative that this matter be cleared up as rapidly as possible."

Jernigan, 60, has been chancellor since April 1972. He said he never has planned to hold the job until the mandatory retirement age of 65.

Smokey The Bear Likely Tired Of Public Role

By OMAR BURLESON, M.C.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Hopefully, it will be a little relief for the reader of these lines (and it is for the writer) to dwell for a moment on something other than all the problems which beset the Country and about which we constantly think.

This is about Smokey the Bear. For 25 years he has been a fixture at the National Zoo here in Washington. A few days ago, he turned in his hat and shovel to be taken over by Smokey, Jr. Smokey has done a great service for the Nation with his warnings about fire prevention and, of course, his advice comes from firsthand knowledge.

As everyone will remember, as a cub he was rescued from a devastating fire by a forest ranger in the mountains of Northern New Mexico. His feet were badly burned but his recovery was complete except for the scars. He is now heading back to New Mexico for retirement and was given a festival farewell on his departure.

By his fame and publicity, Smokey was a favorite attraction at the National Zoo. The Chinese pandas may be more popular at the time but Smokey still has a loyal following. Over the years he has received thousands of letters and all sorts of presents. He has accumulated sufficient wealth to comfortably support himself and his wife Goldie who doubles as his personal secretary.

If he could talk, and he almost can it seems, in a reminiscent mood he might be saying, "I am really looking forward to getting back to more peace and quiet. With four million two-legged gawkers tripping by my cage year after year, I get a little tired at times. I have to carry out my assignment and be pleasant to everyone. At least I can't growl and throw things back at visitors who sometimes toss me unusable objects."

"I know very well that I had an assignment and was being fed to do a job. I found that being famous was not always a bear's garden of roses."

"By now, at zoo closing time, I feel a little weary by giving the old 'up on the back feet' bit. When I was younger, I even enjoyed flash bulbs exploding in my eyes and those choruses of penetrating childish shrieks but now I am a little weary of it all. My arthritis and some backache have been making the days pretty long. I like to think of the fame and recognition which have come my way over the years but right now I am beginning to think that it is not worth one trout out of the mountain brook."

These might be the musings of Smokey the Bear who, if he really knew, and he may, realized a great satisfaction out of a career made famous by a one liner, "Only you can prevent forest fires."

In our Big Country, we don't have many places to accommodate what might be called forest fires, but we are susceptible to grass fires which, in dry weather, can cause real damage.

Only one man has both captained and played on a team that defeated the shift-Italians in a world championship. He is Julius Rosenberg of New Orleans, current president of the World Bridge Federation. In 1953, he headed the American team that defeated the trumps and ace of diamonds, Italians for the world championship, and he also participated in the match. Rosenberg's activities as president of the WBF now keep him too occupied to devote much time to playing bridge but at the recent Bermuda Regional tournament, he demonstrated that he is still a player of championship caliber.

North's bid of two spades going trick to declarer's over West's takeout doubling was not a free raise—it was a mildly preemptive action that promised very little in field.

System Lacks Something

From the start of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's vehicle defect identification program in 1966 through June of 1974, domestic and foreign automobile manufacturers issued 1,582 recalls involving nearly 46 million vehicles.

Yet according to a report by the General Accounting Office, millions of these vehicles have never been inspected for potential defects and remain on the highways. Among the reasons, says the GAO:

- Not all owners receive defect notifications.
- Some dealers apparently sell recalled vehicles without correcting the defects.
- Many owners simply do not return their vehicles for inspection, and even when they do, dealers are not always prepared to make the necessary corrections.

On the face of it, this sounds like an extremely serious situation. Fortunately, while a recall campaign may involve tens of thousands of a particular model, in most cases the loose or missing bolt or failure-prone part or whatever has been discovered on only a handful of vehicles.

Nevertheless, even one defective automobile or truck on the highway is too many.

Responding to the GAO study, safety administrator James Gregory suggested that the best way to attack the problem would be to verify defect correction through state registration or licensing mechanisms rather than by periodic inspections, which not all states require.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has discussed with several states the feasibility of setting up programs to deny licenses or registration to vehicles that have been recalled but not checked or repaired. Computer-stored Vehicle Identification Numbers provided by the manufacturers would be used to spot cars that have been recalled.

However, the implementation of such programs, even on a pilot basis, is still mostly in the talking-about-it stage.

Which means that until some such system is instituted nationwide, the responsibility for seeing that potential vehicle defects are corrected will remain largely up to individual owners.

A Big Enough Load

With the strain on Social Security now acknowledged even by the highest officials — the trust funds' trustees, and the agency's commissioner — at least Congress should delay enactment of any national health insurance program.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce has stated this position to the House Ways and Means Committee:

"The timetable for enactment of national health insurance has been set back by our severe and unresolved economic problems, including the recession and current unemployment levels, continuing inflation and the energy crisis."

The Chamber said that "heavy taxes and concern over future deficits in the Social Security system argue against proposals for national health insurance based on additional payroll taxes."

At the same time, United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock, as well as Cong. James C. Corman (D-Cal.), were expressing the same sentiments to a labor-organized health insurance rally.

A Hardy Breed

Around The Rim

Troy Bryant

DO CATS REALLY have nine lives? I don't know if they've ever been counted but the Guinness Book of World Records has some interesting cases where cats have survived in unusual circumstances.

FOR INSTANCE, a tomcat named "Fat Olive", owned by Mrs. Pat Lazaroff, Toronto, Canada, fell 160 feet from a high penthouse in 1972 and suffered only a couple of broken legs.

"Thumper", a 2½ year old tabby owned by Mrs. Reg Buckett, Westminster, England, survived after being trapped in an elevator shaft for 52 days without food or water in 1964.

A Texas cat, "Dusty", aged 17, from Bonham, gave birth to her 420th kitten in 1952.

A tabby named "Puss", owned by Mrs. T. Holway, Clayhidon, England, achieved the record age of 36 in 1939.

A one-year-old Siamese cat named "Boccaccio Blue Danielle" gave birth to a litter of 13 kittens in 1969 in South Australia. The usual litter size is between five and nine.

After surviving all these events, it's no wonder there are so many of the animals.

ANOTHER INTERESTING item I discovered in the volume is the entry about the loudest insect. The male cicada is the loudest, being detectable over a quarter of a mile in distance which is not surprising. What surprised me is that the U.S. Department of Agriculture officially describes the sound that it makes as "Tsh-ee-EEE-e-ou."

The world's smallest park is Mill Ends Park on a safety island on S.W. Front Avenue, Portland, Oregon. It measures 452.4 square inches and was designated in 1948 at the behest of the city journalist Dick Fagan for snail races and as a colony for leprechauns.

Another Texas record holder is PFC William A. Fuqua, Fort Worth. He holds the record for remaining motionless for 4½ hours. He is a male mannequin or "fashioneer" in civil life earning up to $1,300 per hour for his ability to freeze. The job is hazardous because he was stabbed in 1967 by a man trying to prove to his wife that Fuqua was only a dummy.

The most expensive rocket or missile project was the U.S. Space program up to and including the Apollo XVII. The project has cost $25,541 million.

THE MOST expensive substance on record was californium 252, produced by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. The Commission put the substance on sale for $100 per tenth of a microgram. A pound of the substance (if available) at this rate would be $530 billion.

The lowest limit of enumeration among primitive peoples is among the Yancos, an Amazon tribe who cannot count beyond "Poet-tarraroricoaroc", which is their word for "three". The Temiar people of West Malaysia also stop at three. Investigators have reported that the number "four" is expressed by a look of total stupefaction indistinguishable from that for any other number higher than three.

And finally, the largest permanent letters in the world are the 600 foot standards spelling "READYMIX" on the ground in Western Australia, constructed in December, 1971.

I guess, if the earth is ever visited by beings from another planet, they will think that the name of the earth is "Readymix."

Chastened Dollar

William F. Buckley, Jr.

The frightening stories you hear about prices in Europe are largely true. It will require a major change in the American mind to revise the fiction that Europe is where you go to have a cheap vacation. A generation's experience with a dollar swaggering down the European market place taking a little of this, a bunch of that, and filling up the basket to overflowing is now as remote as the Paris of Ernest Hemingway.

A few concrete examples. I and my six bags and briefcases needed, the other afternoon, to get from Geneva to Montreux, which is superhighway all the way, about 60 miles. Price? Three hundred francs. The easiest way to translate Swiss francs into what we used to call Real Money is to multiply by four. It comes to $120 — for an hour's car ride. (I write these words on the train).

TWO WEEKS ago I was one night at the Dolder Grand in Zurich, a lovely hotel I have known since childhood. I asked for the smallest suite. The bill was $160. A few months ago, driving by night to the mountains and having gaggled at the food proffered on the airplane by BEA, my wife and I looked for a country inn, found one, ordered two sandwiches each and a bottle of the local wine. Twenty dollars.

The Swiss will tell you, quite politely and quite cogently, that, really, it isn't their fault. Only two and a half years ago you could take a ten dollar bill to a bank and get 43 francs for it. At that rate the hotels, taxis, and ham sandwiches in Switzerland have risen only by that almost universal ten per cent per year that everybody seems to get used to. But when you add to that ten per cent two devaluations of the dollar, you get a polarization that makes travel in Switzerland — and France, and Germany — terribly expensive.

It is, I think, not an exaggeration to say that travel within America is substantially cheaper than in Europe. Our gasoline is half as expensive. Our typical motel rooms are half as high. Except for the fancy spots in the fancy cities, our cuisine is, I would guess, about three quarters as high. Inflation, as Lord Keynes reminded us, is a most evil disease not least because its consequences are so subtle, so pernicious, so difficult to track down. The United States has gravely mismanaged its economic affairs, but it is only lately that we begin to realize that all that scope we thought we had by virtue of our dizzying per capita wealth is very largely illusory.

Everyone knows, of course, that the richest per capita state is one of those places in the Persian Gulf, where there is an oil pool per goatherder. And this is true — specifically, of Kuwait, which has a per capita gross national product of $11,000. But surely we are next, and well ahead even of the Europeans?

NO. THE SECOND richest country (I use per capita income, of course) is Switzerland, at $7,270. After Switzerland comes Sweden, with $6,840. Then Denmark ($6,800); and only after that, the United States with $6,595. We are only a little way ahead of West Germany ($6,215) and France ($5,390). We are just a hair ahead of Canada, after which comes Norway, Australia, Belgium, the Netherlands, Libya, Austria and Japan.

The big dip comes at this point with Great Britain at $3,385. Recently Mr. Denis Healey, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, proudly announced that the government is spending $2,400 per year on every member of the working population. He doesn't have very far to go before he spends more on Englishmen than Englishmen earn.

But not to stray from the point: The United States is massively rich because it has a huge capital plant geared to produce for two hundred million people. That capital plant can accomplish marvels: it can land people on the moon, produce ten million automobiles, provide a huge percentage of the entire world foodstuffs.

But it is powerless to defend itself against the depredations of politicians who abuse it: by taxing it into premature senility; by improvident fiscal and monetary policies.

My Answer

Billy Graham

In our Sunday School class recently, we came upon the statement in Matthew 18 that says, a person, like a child, is the greatest in Christ's Kingdom. As a primary grade teacher, I know the possibilities of such a statement — both good and bad. What did the Lord mean?

Certainly the Lord never meant to commend the qualities of childishness, irascibility or impatience. He was praising humility, trust and teachability.

Christ points here to the children as the model for His Kingdom. In pagan antiquity, of course, such a standard would have been unknown. In fact, the opposite of child-like qualities would have been regarded as the acme of perfection.

I think it's an emphasis much needed today. We are tempted by contemporary advertising and by natural pride to extol personal achievement. There's the danger of equating material excellence with Kingdom privilege, and, of course, it's not true.

Christ always loved little children, and as He observed their unpretentious lives, He drew many lessons from them. The Christian on whom the Lord smiles today is the one who understands and practices unambitious simplicity.

Recession Is Over?

John Cunniff

By JOSH FITZHUGH (Substituting for John Cunniff)

Businessmen around the country are confident that the worst of the recession is over.

Many executives interviewed recently by The Associated Press say inventories are back in line, a key first step toward increased production and lower unemployment.

Still despite a general decline in price increases, and price cuts in some industries, the business leaders remain convinced that inflation is the nation's No. 1 economic problem.

"As a general statement I would say the economy has about hit bottom but hasn't started the upturn," says Jack Reed, a Mississippi retailer. He said he expected his inventories to be below last year's levels shortly.

"We believe the early stages of recovery are well under way in wood products industry," says an executive with Washington State's Weyerhaeuser Co. "It's no longer a question of when but how much."

Despite these sentiments, conditions are by no means uniform. Construction work remains depressed in some regions, recovery of auto-related companies is slow, and capital goods firms expect to lag behind the national recovery as usual.

"Our construction machine business has been down for about a year and as yet there are no signs of a turnaround," says Richard Seaman, vice president of Rexnord Inc. of Milwaukee. Still he expects 1975 to be a very good year.

Some companies report no effects from the recession. "In leisure activities, people seem to spend the money even though other parts of the economy seem to show that they are short," notes Ken Elling, treasurer of Hoigard's Inc., a retailer outside Minneapolis.

"They turn to skiing and camping instead of going to Europe or doing something else."

Cleveland's American Greetings Corp. and Kansas City's Hallmark Cards Inc., both of which make greeting cards, say work forces are up and business good.

In the Southeast, the hard-hit textile industry shows signs of an upturn as inventories dwindle. About 75,000 textile workers were laid off there last year.

The businessmen say the recession has had an impact on prices and quality. Nearly all report greater competition in the markets they buy from as well as those they sell in.

Athletics And The Heart

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told that the heart enlarges while playing sports, and that athletes live shorter lives because of this. I have an athletic 13-year-old boy who plays competitive sports.

While watching him play basketball one day I wondered if there really was harm in strenuous sports.

Mrs. E.T. Most of the experts say there is no harm, and I'm inclined to agree with them.

Although the human body certainly wasn't built for the purpose of running up and down a hardwood floor lickety-split as in basketball, there is no harm (present and future) of injury for a healthy young man — or woman either.

The phrase "athletic heart," to which you are probably referring, is meaningless. True, the heart will enlarge slightly when placed under great and continuing strain, but so will the lungs and the muscles of the arms and legs under similar exercise. There is no harm, except if the person is, for one reason or another, not equipped to handle it, and this usually becomes obvious early in an athletic career.

The danger in athletics beyond this, is that some athletes tend to eat hefty meals during their years of competition and continue on into the later, non-athletic years. The resultant flab can shorten their lives, or anyone's, for that matter.

No one has, to my knowledge, shown that athletics among healthy young men is a factor in premature death. Mile runners come to mind. They subject their hearts to tremendous strains, yet manage to enjoy normal life spans.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a very dry skin in the vagina, which I am told is part of the menopause process. It is extremely painful and has made normal life almost unbearable.

My physician gave me a prescription for vaginal suppositories, a type of hormone affair I think. But they were in a shape hard for me to use, and all in all were unsuccessful. I've been told you have mentioned a salve or cream that can be applied which would help in this situation. I am 65, and in good health otherwise.

Mrs. J.B. There are creams containing the female hormone (estrogen) which can be applied to the membranes. One of them might help you. Yours is not an unusual problem in menopause or post-menopause, since the health of the vaginal membrane is dependent upon estrogen production.

What Others Say

Iran is intent on becoming not only one of the world's richest of the rich, but a powerful nation with perhaps the third most powerful air force, the most modern army, and a wealth of other attributes of major nationhood. The Shah and his people are taking new pride in the 2,000-year history of their country, and many of the sons and daughters of Iran are now graduates of, or students in, the great universities of the Middle East, Europe, and America.

One result of all that new wealth is that Iran's money managers are expertly trained in such prestige centers as the London School of Economics, the Sorbonne (at Paris), Harvard Business School, and the Wharton School in Philadelphia.

They cannot be considered amateurs in money matters today.

It is therefore a shock to learn that they are shocked at a reminder that their oil-rich treasury still owes a $36 million debt to the United States Treasury, plus accrued interest over the past 25 years.

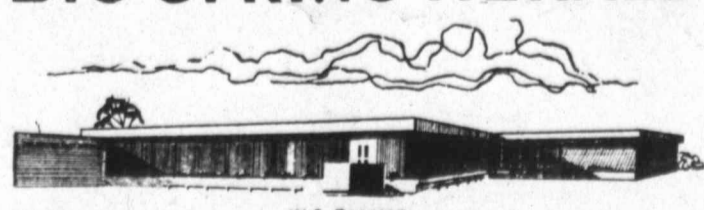

The debt traces to lend-lease arrangements and loans after World War II, when Iran was making a determined stand just to remain an independent nation. The 1946 Azerbaizhan crisis, in which Soviet troops made a pretense of withdrawing from the occupation zone in the northwest province of Iran, but only changed clothes, showed the nature of the threat to Iran's independence.

Grand Jury Investigating Chief's Fund

HOUSTON (AP) — A Harris County grand jury may be investigating a bank account used by Police Chief Carrol M. Lynn for an internal investigation of his department.
However, Dist. Atty. Carol Vance said Wednesday he did not know what the grand jury in State District Judge Andrew Jefferson's court presently is probing.
Much of the grand jury's proceedings have been proceeding without an assistant of Vance's present.
Detective R. C. Rich, president of the Houston Police Officers Association (HOPOA), and J. C. Bankston, a patrolman who is treasurer of the organization, have been subpoenaed.
Rich said he was told to bring records of the association from 1974 to the present time, including those pertaining to the Chief's Fund.
The Chief's Fund is a bank account of private donations to be used as the chief sees fit.

Food Stamps Should Not Be Issued Strikers?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bill Archer says food stamps should not be issued to strikers because "it amounts to a taxpayer-financed subsidy for voluntary work stoppages, creating an imbalance of negotiations between labor and management."
Archer has introduced legislation which is designed to curb abuses in the food stamp program and eliminate duplication in the administration of welfare programs.
His bill would also prevent non-needy college students from receiving food stamps.
Archer said his bill, which transfers the administration of the food stamp program from the Department of Agriculture to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, would "eliminate costly duplication in registration and record keeping that now exists between the two departments."

Odessa Is Sued Over Violation

ODESSA — The City of Odessa has been officially notified of a suit brought against the municipality by the Texas Water Quality Control Board for alleged violation of the Water Quality Act and the city's permit to operate its sewage treatment plant.
The petition was filed last week in 161st District Court in Odessa but Mayor Don Hemphill was out of town at the time and the official papers were not served until Tuesday.
The state claims in the suit that the city allowed discharge of unacceptable effluent into state waters into Monahans Draw. The city officials claim the problem stemmed from a deteriorated ditch and that the problem had been corrected.
The city has 20 days to file an answer to the charge.

The Association also reported Wednesday that average daily attendance in Harris County wide rose from 374,937 to 382,164.

Backs Appeal With $1,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jesse Helms says members of Congress should give their own money to help Vietnamese refugees and has backed his appeal with a personal check for $1,000.

The North Carolina Republican said private contributions should be used to resettle the refugees "instead of raiding the U.S. Treasury." Helms attached his check to a proposed amendment to the refugee aid bill requiring the resettlement program to be financed personally by congressmen and other voluntary contributors.

Application For Funds Is Now Up For HUD OK

By MARJ CARPENTER

Final approval of the application for $300,000 in housing and community development funds from HUD for the city of Big Spring was given by the Permian Basin board of directors when it met Wednesday at Terminal.

Application is for funds for sewer and water improvements and demolition of old houses in low income areas in Big Spring. It now goes directly to HUD.

The city manager of Fort Stockton flew to Dallas after the board meeting and took the approval notices of the applications for Big Spring, Fort Stockton and Grandfalls directly to the Dallas regional HUD office.

being "an excellent example, with visitors coming from all over Texas and New Mexico to study the successful facility in Big Spring."

Two projects at Big Spring State Hospital were extended for another year, including the use of a Chicano counselor and community follow-up as an aid to treatment of alcoholism, and the Behavior Modification with Chronic Patients project.

The state hospital was commended by Judge Marcus Crow of Gaines County, who presided at the board meeting. The board approved three projects for the regional MH-MR offices in Odessa, and Judge Crow stated, "We were told these were to be regional services but so far they have only served Ector and Midland Counties. Thank goodness the Big Spring State Hospital's outreach program is helping some of the rest of us. I would encourage this group to make every effort to becoming more regional-oriented."

HEAD START

Another funded project which was given favorable comment was the regional head start program at Texas Tech which serves the programs in the Big Spring school district, Midland's, Odessa's, Lamesa's and Saragosa's.

Other projects given favorable comment was a Midland ISD head start request, Odessa's head start request, Ector County school district's project for high level placement in institutionalized youth, Permian Basin Planned Parenthood, Permian Basin Rehab Center, funding of the regional office on alcoholism authority, office on aging, implementation of a regional drug abuse plan, implementation of a study of urban mass transportation in the Odessa-Midland area, and HUD planning funds for the City of Midland.

The board passed without comment a request from the Winkler County Council for Retarded Children. Winkler County is not a member of the PBRPG.

They also approved designation of the South Plains Dialysis Center in Lubbock and the Permian Basin Dialysis Center in Odessa as places where kidney patients could receive dialysis treatment by federal funding.

MEDICAL SYSTEMS

Harley Reeves, over the health program for the PBRPG, announced that Gov. Dolph Briscoe approved naming the 17-county area as a medical systems agency. It was one of 50 areas in the entire United States to be so designated. This means that the region can act in applications as a separate agency even though the total population is not 500,000 as required. Total last-census population for the 17 counties is 305,000.

County Judge Barbara Culver of Midland commended the planning council for "obtaining this designation. Whenever you break down a population figure or one of their federal regulations, you have really accomplished something," she added.

HUD RESOLUTION

City Councilman Willie Hammond of Odessa presented a resolution to be sent to HUD asking that they revise their regulations for Community Development funds which do not allow housing assistance in minority areas.

Hammond, who represents the south side of Odessa, pointed out "This is where the housing is needed. The original intent of the law was to help low income people. And I think they ought to be able to be helped without moving out of a minority area if they do not want to move," he added. The resolution was given unanimous approval.

Two Big Spring citizens, one from Lamesa and one from Stanton were among the new appointments to the Criminal Justice Advisory Committee. Vance Chisum of Big Spring was already a member and Lt. Jim McCain, juvenile division of the police and Guil Jones, local attorney, were also named.

Others included Judge Leslie Pratt, Lamesa; Mrs. Marilyn Newman, Stanton; Mike Atkins and Tryon Lewis, Odessa; Thomas White, Hugh McCullough and Dwayne Davis, Midland; and Gene Cummings, Fort Stockton.

Harold Hall, city councilman and secretary of the board, attended the meeting. Paul Feazelle represented the city in the discussion of the detox center. Judge Bill Tine attended a training session in the morning, but was unable to attend the board meeting.

Woman Suffers Broken Nose

A collision which occurred just outside Big Spring this morning involved several vehicles trying to get to school shortly before 8 a.m. A car driven by Mrs. Venus Cothrun stopped for a school bus and was hit from behind by a car driven by Mrs. Buena Neel of Forsan, who teaches at Park Hill Elementary school. State Trooper Bill Priest investigated the accident. Mrs. Neel received a broken nose in the accident and was taken by ambulance to a local hospital.

Beta Omicron Holds Installation Rite, Luau

Two programs highlighted installation of officers at a Thursday evening meeting of Beta Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, in the First Federal Community Room.

"The Printed Word and Your Life" climaxed with an impromptu production of a play, with "Little Nell," her aged parents, the villain and the hero conveying the dramatic elements of the play. Those in charge of the presentation were Ms. Cynthia Hanselman and Mrs. Stephanie Roll.

Ms. Virginia Rodriguez and Ms. Janie Hinojos presented "Love and Marriage," first offering a serious view of the subject and following with a mock "boxing match" of insults between husband and wife.

New officers installed were Ms. Ruth Penner, president; Ms. Jean Denton, vice president; Ms. Paula Howard, extension officer; Ms. Pam Holtorf, recording secretary; Ms. Salley Martinez, corresponding secretary; and Ms. Sharon Lindsey, treasurer. Numerous committee chairman also officially accepted new jobs for the coming year.

A farewell ritual was held for Ms. Joan Long, Ms. Sally Norsen, Ms. G. G. Vander Ven and Ms. Barbara Bowen who will be transferring out of town during the summer.

Saturday evening, the chapter held a luau, with dinner being served buffet-style. Carrying out the Hawaiian theme, dances were performed by Ms. Joan Long and her daughters, Kenna Long and Tammy Long. Husbands of chapter members were given S. A. M. awards in appreciation for their support during the past year.

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ira (Fay) Minchew was observed Sunday with a family dinner in the home of their son, Jimmy J. Minchew, and later, a reception in the couple's home, 407 W. 8th. They were married May 11, 1925 in the home of the Rev. W. D. Greene, Big Spring.

The couple have four children, Jimmy J. Minchew and Charlie Minchew, both of Big Spring; Mrs. Ruby E. King, Beeville; and Mrs. Delma F. Rea, Cocoa Fla. There are 13 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Minchew, who are members of First Baptist Church, resided in Coahoma for 20 years before moving to Big Spring.

Year-End Trips For Area Pupils

Sewing Club Welcomes Member

WESTBROOK (SC) — The senior class is due to return today from a trip to San Antonio, Houston, Galveston and Austin. The nine students, making the trip by school bus, were accompanied by the sponsors, Supt. and Mrs. L. M. Dawson and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ellis.

The sixth-graders traveled to Big Spring where they bowled, played miniature golf and had lunch in the park. On another day, they were joined by their parents and teachers for a buffet dinner at the school where tables were decorated in a "foreign" motif. The Bob Ratliffs showed films of their trip to Jamaica.

Second and third grade students, accompanied by parents and two teachers,

Mrs. Alton Raschke and Mrs. T. C. Moore, went to Sweetwater for a picnic at Newman Park. They toured the fire station and went skating.

Melanie Parsons, a Snyder High School senior and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Parsons, formerly of Westbrook, was presented in a piano recital recently. Attending from here were the A. G. Andersons who also visited Mrs. Kelley Blalock of Ennis Creek and Mrs. A. C. Moody, a resident of Claxton Lodge in Colorado City.

Mrs. Lillie Bishop of Clairemont has been a guest of her son, Forrest Whitesides, and family.

FORSAN (SC) — The Pioneer Sewing Club met at the C.V. Wash home recently where Mrs. Lois Smith, a member who has been away for some time, was welcomed back. Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be Monday in the home of Mrs. J.W. Snelling.

The J. W. Overtons were in Seagoville recently to visit their daughter and family, the Mac Robinsons. Mrs. J.H. Cardwell accompanied them to Fort Worth, where she was a guest of the H.M. Cardwells, and she visited in Dallas with the J.N. Edenses.

Mrs. Ted Henry is reported to be doing well following surgery for a

J. C. Clanton Has Birthday Party

Mrs. J. C. Clanton honored her husband on his 80th birthday Sunday with a dinner in their home on the Gail Road. Family members attending represented four generations.

Among those present were their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Clanton; their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Stall; their grandsons and their wives, Mrs. and Mrs. Ronnie Clanton and Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Clanton; and three great-grandchildren, Ron Clanton Jr., Kim Clanton and Paula Clanton, all of Big Spring.

Two daughters and a son were unable to attend. They are Mrs. Dorcas Bishop, Kerrville; Mrs. Pearl Mae Stringfellow, Lexington, Tenn.; and Bill Clanton, Midland.

Mr. Clanton was born May 10, 1895 in Arkansas, moving to Polar before coming here over 50 years ago. He farmed about 20 miles from Big Spring, on the Gail Route, but retired over 25 years ago. Mr. Clanton still enjoys gardening.

The couple has 24 grandchildren and 28 great-grandchildren.

After the dinner, a decorated cake was served, and gifts were presented to the honoree.

Oglesbys Have Houseguests

FORSAN (SC) — Houseguests over a weekend in the A.P. Oglesby home were their daughter, Mrs. Betty Adams, Big Spring, and Dr. Gwen Hall, Dallas, and her daughters, Kim and Kelley. On her way to Waco to visit a friend, Mrs. Patsy Wash, formerly of Big Spring, Mrs. McAdams took her parents to visit Mrs. Maggie Tolivar in Mullin and the R.C. Ingram family in Brownwood. They were accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Bertha Green of Ackerly.

Mother Buys Cop's Bullets

WINDERMERE, Fla. (AP) — Police reservist Pam Mullins has sent her mother to buy bullets for the .38 caliber revolver she carries on patrol.

"Federal law prohibits anyone under the age of 21 from buying ammunition for a revolver," Miss Mullins, 19, said Tuesday. "So I get my mother to go to the store for me."

Police officers in this small community some 12 miles west of Orlando have to provide their own guns and ammunition.

"We only have one gun," Police Chief Ralph Witte said. "That was left behind by a policeman who was here some years ago."

Miss Mullins said she borrowed a gun from a friend "but I've never had to use it. It is a very peaceful community and the only problems you have are with speeders."

She said her mother, Faye, was "a little alarmed when first asked to buy the bullets because she doesn't know anything about guns."

Miss Mullins took a 16-week police training course at Seminole Junior College and is now studying criminal justice. She also works as a dispatcher for the Orange County Sheriff's Department.

Miss Mullins is the only woman on the Windermere force which consists of the police chief, three patrolmen and four reservists.

Miss Mullins estimated that she fired 500 rounds of ammunition on the firing range while taking her Police Board of Standards training.

"I did well enough to qualify," she said. "I enjoy police work. I ride on patrol at night and if they have any women prisoners they'll call me out."

Witte said he can't remember when Windermere, population 983, last had a violent crime. He appointed Miss Mullins three weeks ago.

"She's been a real help to us," he said. "Everybody seems to like her, she's likeable and she's qualified."

For Cocktails

To make your own "cocktail" soybeans, soak the dry beans overnight, then drain and spread them on a cookie sheet; leave them at room temperature until their surface is dry. Fry in small batches, in hot oil (about 350 degrees) for 8 to 10 minutes. Drain on brown paper and while the beans are still warm, sprinkle with seasoned salt.

Dear Abby

Lead-Footed Ledbetter Was Constantly Late

DEAR ABBY: Thirty lashes with a nasty old chicken feather for saying that dogs will kill only when they are in pairs or packs. Where did you ever get that idea? It's not true. One dog alone will attack and kill chickens, other animals or even people.

I have owned two chicken-killing dogs at different times, and while the suggested cure of tying the dead chicken around the dog's neck and leaving it there until it rots is good, I have a more effective cure.

I catch the dog with the dead chicken in his mouth, and while holding the dog firmly, I take the chicken from his mouth and then proceed to beat the dog (expletives deleted) out of the dog with the dead chicken. This really works.

No, I am not cruel. I am just sick of losing chickens.

BILL IN WELLSVILLE, N.Y.

MY VIEW
DEAR VIEW: A couple should indeed have the kind of wedding they want. But if they chose to live together openly for two years despite their parents' protests, why should they expect their parents to foot the bill for a lavish, 300-guest extravaganza?

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20 cents) envelope.

Zippy Salad

For a "composed" salad, use fresh grapefruit sections, sliced cooked beets and salad greens with an oil-and-vinegar dressing. Tastes particularly good with broiled fish fillets or fish steaks.

Add Sausage

Crumbled cooked pork sausage meat is good added to cornbread. Use the drippings from the sausage in the cornbread batter instead of the butter, margarine, oil or shortening called for.

GIRLS' BLOUSE

The Girls' Blouse has six different looks. There are three different sleeves styles to mix with either a stand up collar or no collar at all.

Air Terminal Road Name In Error Work Near Finish

MIDLAND — The interchange construction project on the U.S. 80 entrance to Midland Air Terminal will be completed and opened to traffic Friday, almost three years to the day after the work contract was let.

The 2.9 mile project, constructed at more than $3 million, will be opened to traffic on main lanes.

"Our contract with South Texas Construction Co. made provisions for the project to be completed in 450 working days. Although we have experienced some delay due to the energy crisis, material shortages and inclement weather conditions we are, however, going to complete the project within the allotted period of time," Harral stated.

Formal dedication of the route will be June 4 during a ribbon-cutting ceremony, with members of the Texas Highway Commission, Texas Highway Department officials from Austin and local dignitaries expected to attend. Dedication ceremony activities will be sponsored by the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

Attorney General, Bell Headed For Another Clash

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill were headed for another clash today following Bell's announcement that it intended to put its new rates into effect at midnight Wednesday.

The company, which is seeking $45 million a year in additional revenues on intrastate calls from its Texas consumers, made the announcement hours after the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals ruled the courts have no power to stop the rate increase.

Hill, however, pledged after the court ruling to continue the battle to stop Bell from hiking its rates. He said he will appeal the court's decision and added that the original injunction against Bell to prevent it from raising its rates will be in force during the appeal.

Bell had announced the new rates would go into effect March 1, but the injunction stopped the move.

Charles Marshall, Bell vice president for Texas, said Wednesday the "invalid injunction" already had "cost us about $9 million in badly needed revenue."

The rates include a new oneminute initial period on customer-dialed calls instead of a three-minute minimum. Rate increases will be placed on all one-plus calls of more than two minutes and on operator-handled and person-to-person calls. Hill said the court's decision Wednesday left Texans in the "ludicrous position" of being unable to challenge rates that Bell can impose "without any basis, without anything but a desire to make money."

Texas is the only state in the union without a utilities-regulating commission.

The appeals court decided the case on one point raised by Bell: "The trial court had no jurisdiction to hear and determine the suit as it could not constitutionally fix and determine the rate of any public utility."

The court explained that "when the law provides no remedy, the judiciary cannot create one."

It added: "We are aware of the existing view that there is a compelling need in Texas for statewide regulation of utility rates, including intrastate telephone rates. . . . The final determination of what form of statewide utility rate regulation there will be, if any, is a matter necessarily within the legislative prerogative."
