

Texas Senators Recall School Funds Measure

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Senators jerked back a $634 million school finance bill from the House today in an effort to cushion the tax impact on local school districts.

Then, without debate, they approved 25-6, and sent to the governor a proposal allowing the issuance of an additional $400 million in water development bonds.

WATER MONEY

The proposed amendment puts a $35 million ceiling on any single project—unless the legislature votes to spend more—and it prohibits the use of bond money to import water from the Mississippi River, a cherished dream of some water planners in semi-arid regions of West Texas.

The proposal will be submitted to a statewide vote in November.

The vote to recall the school finance bill was 27-2, and Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, the sponsor, said, "We need to do some tinkering."

Mauzy said the Senate would work on the bill this afternoon.

The changes, legislative leaders hope, will be enough to win approval by the House and send it to Briscoe without the need for a joint conference committee to resolve differences.

Key features of the bill include a $1,400 pay raise for teachers, $50 million over the next two years in "equalization aid" for poor districts and reduced teacher-pupil ratios.

Final House action was expected today on several major Senate bills that were tentatively approved in a work session that ran past 2 a.m. today. These included measures providing $31 million in state mass transit funds, revising the penal code, establishing a new system of regulation for mobile homes and reducing fire escape requirements for buildings.

The House passed 123-9 and sent to the governor a major bill putting strip mining of coal, lignite and uranium under Texas Railroad Commission regulation.

Each surface mine would need a permit from the commission, and the operator would be required to restore the land to the same or a "substantially beneficial" condition. Mining companies would be responsible for seeing that vegetation is reestablished.

GUARANTEE

Mine operators would have to post bond to guarantee they will comply with the conditions of their permits.

Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad, failed in an effort to soften penalties (up to a year in prison and a $10,000 fine) for violations and to reduce reclamation requirements, which he said were too stiff for uranium operators in Karnes County — part of his district.

"There are 400 families in my district who very well might be without work if this amendment does not go on," Von Dohlen said.

Rep. Jim Mattox, D-Dallas, objected that "this is nothing but an industry amendment. If it goes on, the bill will have to go back to the Senate and might not pass."

The House dealt with another of the session's major problems by approving two Senate bills providing a stopgap solution to the medical malpractice insurance crisis.

Both measures return to the Senate for approval or rejection of amendments added during House debate.

One bill guarantees any doctor up to $300,000 in malpractice coverage. All companies selling any form of liability insurance would be required to share the risks. The bill also sets up a two-year committee to search for permanent solutions to the problem.

The other measure places malpractice coverage under State Insurance Board regulation and reduces the time allowed for filing malpractice suits to two years after an alleged medical mistake. Present law allows two years from the date a patient first felt the symptoms resulting from an allegedly negligent act.

STATE AID

Both bills would expire Dec. 31, 1977, unless extended by the next legislature.

Legislators sent the governor a bill establishing procedures for assessing agricultural land values for tax purposes, based on five-year average net income as determined by the state comptroller with the help of agricultural experts.

Also sent to the governor was a bill allowing the Texas Historical Commission to lengthen the present 60 days' notice requirement before a historic landmark building can be torn down to 90 days.

The mass transportation bill was changed against the sponsor's wishes to put the Texas Mass Transportation Commission in charge of a $15 million-a-year program of state aid to local transit systems.

Rep. Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, the sponsor, also is carrying the governor's bill to absorb the mass transit agency into the Texas Highway Department.

The fire escape bill was introduced after a Dallas fire resulted in a large court judgment against an apartment owner because it lacked fire escapes required by a 50-year-old, little-noticed state law.

The measure would excuse from the fire escape requirement buildings completed in accordance with a "nationally recognized model building code" — which might not require fire escapes.

Machine Gun Blasts In Downtown Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Machine gun fire erupted today in downtown Beirut, emptying the commercial center and ending a brief lull in the 11-day old street war between guerrillas and rightist militiamen.

Police said the battles broke out after a street gang gunned down a Palestinian youth at a roadblock.

National security forces poured into the area. News of the clash also brought out heavily armed commandos from leftist groups and new barriers were thrown up in some sections of the capital.

The firing came after a relatively quiet night during which police shot and killed a sniper in the first known case of active intervention by joint cease-fire patrols of Lebanese security men and Palestinian guerrillas trying to end the raging street fighting.

The battles among Palestinians, backed by Moslem leftists and Christian right-wing Phalangists have taken at least 130 lives.

A few bodies left over from the battles were found mutilated in various parts of

Economic Recovery Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration said today that unemployment and the recession will be worse this year than it estimated earlier, but should be followed by a stronger economic recovery next year.

In its mid-year budget and economic review, the administration predicted unemployment will average 8.7 per cent, or about 7.8 million workers, for the year. The administration predicted as recently as February that unemployment would average 8.1 per cent this year.

The forecast, if true, means that the jobless rate probably will rise above 9 per cent later this year. The April rate of unemployment was 8.9 per cent.

The report, which will be sent to Congress, also predicted that:

—The nation's economy will decline by 3.6 per cent this year, compared with the administration's original prediction of a 3.3 per cent decline.

—The economy will rebound with a strong 6.3 per cent growth next year, better than the 4.8 per cent growth forecast earlier.

The rate of inflation, as reflected by consumer prices, will increase 9.1 per cent this year over 1974, compared with a February projection for a 10.8 per cent increase.

The administration stuck by its projected fiscal year 1976 budget deficit of nearly $60 billion, which is below the $68 billion deficit target set by Congress. The deficit in fiscal 1975 will be $42.6 billion, the report said.

Although the over-all economic outlook was somewhat improved, there was little hope in the new forecast for an improved unemployment rate.

CRUISIN' HALTS BRUISIN' Flashy Sports Cars Help Cops Break Ice

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Patrolmen, cruising around town in flashy new sports cars, say they are bridging the gulf between mistrusting youngsters and the stereotyped image of a cop.

"It's the greatest thing that ever happened to our public relations," patrolman Bill Long says of the sleek, two-seat vehicles. "It breaks the ice. People say 'hi' now and talk to me."

The change from regular sedans began a few months ago when Malcolm Bricklin offered three of his $9,500 sports cars to the city for $1 a year. Bricklin's cars are mass-produced in Canada, but Scottsdale is his hometown.

The vehicles, with flip-top doors and a low profile, are painted the traditional blue and white colors of the 27 regular patrol vehicles. A large red light is perched atop each.

Police captain Dave Townsend said the vehicles are not intended to be used for the cops and robbers routine and for hauling criminals off to jail. Police wanted something to improve their image, and it apparently has worked.

"I drove to an elementary school in one of the cars and as we drove down the street the kids in the playground pushed up against the fence to watch us go by," Townsend said. "Then, when we pulled into the parking lot, the kids swarmed the car."

He said the car also was instrumental in breaking up a high school fight, which had attracted about 250 onlookers.

"The officer said he drew off about half the crowd to look at the car while the other officers broke up the fight," Townsend said.

The cars do create problems, though. Some of the larger officers can't put their helmets on in the car because of the low ceiling. And the gull-wing doors, which open hydraulically in eight seconds, make it difficult for officers to get out quickly.

Soviet Bloc Hikes Forces Beyond Defense Needs

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — President Ford and other leaders of the North Atlantic alliance warned today that the Soviet bloc was increasing its military forces beyond what it needs for defense.

The NATO leaders, in a communique at the close of their two-day summit meeting, said the Western allies were determined to maintain their solidarity, and where it has been weakened to restore it by removing the cause.

They said that maintaining their own defense effort had come up against difficulties resulting from the economic situation in the world. They also said they were determined to face these problems together and firmly.

Earlier, some European leaders praised Ford for reaffirming U.S. support to the NATO allies, but Turkey's premier attacked America's arms ban against his country as a "self-destructive act."

Gen. Vasco Goncalves, Portugal's leftist premier, was quoted as asking the allies for "more comprehension and less apprehension" and defending Portugal's approaches to the Soviet Union. He also promised that Portugal would remain a loyal ally, and said there had been too much talk in the West about its affairs.

The speeches were delivered behind closed doors and spokesmen furnished accounts of them to newsmen.

In his denouncement of the U.S. arms embargo against his nation, Turkish Premier Suleyman Demirel of Turkey did not mention the United States by name but included strong words against the embargo.

"If we admit that the threat we are facing continues, that the contribution of Turkey is as important as it was in the past, it is very difficult to find any justification capable of explaining this self-destructive act," he said.

His attitude has been endorsed by a number of other NATO members.

The Ford administration has been trying to get the embargo lifted.

The World At-A-Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA and the Justice Department withheld information about CIA involvement in attempts to assassinate Fidel Castro from members of the Warren Commission investigating President John F. Kennedy's death, according to knowledgeable sources. Two former officials of the Central Intelligence Agency who acknowledged that the Warren Commission never was told about a 1961 plot on the Cuban premier's life insisted that no conscious decision was made to withhold the information. Instead, they contend it never occurred to anyone at the CIA that the Kennedy assassination could have been ordered by Castro in retaliation for U.S.-sponsored attempts on his life.

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Leaders of the North Atlantic Alliance are getting reports from Moscow that suggest Leonid I. Brezhnev, the No. 1 man in the Soviet Union, will retire next year. That is believed to be the chief reason why the Soviet government is pushing so hard for a 34-nation summit conference on European security in September. It will officially recognize the Soviet sphere of influence in Eastern Europe, and Brezhnev wants it as the crowning achievement of his career.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Abraham D. Beame, with scathing denunciations of Republican lawmakers and Wall Street bankers, has announced an $11.89 billion "shock therapy" budget that he says will cut 51,000 employees from the city payroll by June 30. In addition to the 13,782 dismissals Beame already had ordered, the new 1975-76 "crisis-level" budget called for layoffs of another 37,315 city employees. One of every three policemen and sanitation workers and one of every five firemen will be fired. Workers in education, health, transportation, housing, parks and municipal government are also marked for dismissal.

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A federal judge has ruled that the U.S. Department of Agriculture cannot change the way it grades the nation's beef. U.S. District Court Judge Robert V. Denney, issuing a permanent injunction against the USDA Thursday, called the proposed regulations "arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion or otherwise not in accordance with law." He ruled the department failed to say adequately what economic impact the changes would have and improperly tied quality grading to yield grading, or the amount of usable meat a carcass will yield.

Phantom Lawmaker

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is moving to close the legal loophole that allowed defeated Rep. Frank M. Clark to mail a newsletter to his former Pennsylvania constituents at taxpayers' expense.

The law presently allows defeated congressmen to send "official" mail under the franking privilege — at government expense — for three months after expiration of their term.

Last March, Clark sent tens of thousands of newsletters into his Pittsburgh-area district. "Your Congressman Frank M. Clark Reports," it said. It contained several photographs of "Congressman Clark," and not a single hint that Republican steel-mill foreman Gary Myers had taken over Clark's House seat.

Clark had declared his intention to regain his old seat, and Myers was furious about the newsletter. He wrote letters to the Justice Department, the House Ethics Committee and the Postal Service, but all declined to act for various reasons. The Justice Department said Clark appeared to be within the law.

So Myers sponsored a bill to forbid such taxpayer-financed mass mailings by former members of Congress. It has attracted 88 co-sponsors and appears to have a good chance of passage.

House rules state that franked mailings by former congressmen "should be limited to matters relating to the closing of the congressional office." Myers' bill would put that language into law, and forbid former congressmen or senators from franking newsletters, questionnaires and similar mass-mailed items.

Urbanites Edge Farmers

By a vote of 245 to 182, or 40 votes short of the two-thirds majority required, the House last week sustained President Ford's veto of the farm price support bill. A steadily growing urban population is forcing its view.

The bill would have increased "target prices" and price supports for cotton, wheat, livestock feed grains, and price support loans for dairy products such as milk, butter and cheese. The target for wheat, for instance, would have been raised from $2.05 to $3.10 a bushel and price supports from $1.37 to $2.50 a bushel. Target prices are a trigger for subsidy payments, with the government paying the difference in direct payments between the target price and the lower market price. Price support loans enable farmers to borrow from the government, using their crops as security, while withholding their products from the market in expectation of rising prices.

The goal of the bill was to protect farmers against a sudden drop in prices. Farm state Democrats and Republicans supported the bill and voted to override the President's veto. Big city representatives voted against the bill and to sustain the President's veto on the grounds that it would lead to higher prices for consumers.

The nation needs a healthy agricultural economy. The question is, when farmers stand on their own two feet again, free of controls and regulation? (And what about a welter of other industries, too?) That time may not yet be here. But consumers are unable to understand the logic of supporting farmers with their taxes, only to pay more for farm products in the grocery store. There is, moreover, the possibility that farmers, unwilling to risk losses, may refuse to plant and cultivate as much as is needed. The consumer then may find prices far higher for much shorter or non-existent food products. Urban muscle has made itself felt in Congress — can it produce the same results on the farm?

Mexico And The OPEC

Mexico's President Luis Echeverria has announced that his country will join the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC). The decision apparently was made during the recent visit to Mexico of Iran's Shah Mohammed Rez Pahlavi.

Perhaps it was inevitable. There have been recent discoveries of potentially rich oil fields in the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. Today Mexico exports about 110,000 barrels of oil a day. But the new finds could boost exports substantially. Mexicans may be aware that membership in OPEC will not be without its difficult moments. Today Mexico has the best of two worlds. It uses OPEC guidelines in pricing crude oil, but it is not tied down to production cuts and other OPEC policies. The sole community of interest Mexico may find in OPEC is that it is an exporter of oil. It does have some community interests with Venezuela and Ecuador, but none at all with the Middle Eastern members.

Membership in OPEC may bring problems, but one thing seems assured: As long as OPEC interests and Mexico's interests coincide there will be no difficulties. But other members of OPEC should know that Mexican pride and independence will not permit Mexico to submit to OPEC dictation.

Better, But No Cinch

WASHINGTON — President Ford's Mayaguez harvest with the right wing of the Republican party came precisely when needed most, after a spectacularly unsuccessful ploy by Melvin R. Laird had accelerated steady erosion of conservative confidence in the President.

LAIRD'S ATTEMPT to draw conservative fire away from Mr. Ford by suggesting that Ronald Reagan challenge Nelson Rockefeller for the vice presidential nomination was one of the least successful ploys by that inveterate political gamesman. On the eve of the Mayaguez rescue, Laird succeeded in alienating both the Rockefeller and Reagan camps while giving conservatives the impression that Mr. Ford was dealing from weakness.

Laird's blunder was mitigated by the universal conservative approval of Mr. Ford's decisive use of force in rescuing the merchant ship. Nevertheless, the White House has been shocked to find many key conservatives not yet ready to endorse their incumbent President for 1976 — an extraordinary condition for Republicans. They are waiting to see whether the Mayaguez incident or the Laird ploy best reflects the presidency of Gerald R. Ford.

THE LESSON for the White House ought to be clear: the formula for loyalty from the party's dominant conservative wing is decisive action, preferably with a rightward slant, rather than backroom political horse-trading. Whether that lesson has in fact been absorbed is put in doubt, however, by confident statements from presidential aides that Mr. Ford nailed down the Republican nomination the night he called out the Marines.

On that night, Mr. Ford's stock in the Republican party had bottomed out, thanks partly to Laird, his usually astute adviser and longtime friend. But Reagan-vs-Rockefeller, if not fully orchestrated at the White House, was more than merely Mel Laird's fertile imagination at work.

FIVE DAYS BEFORE Laird unveiled his ploy to a breakfast of Washington correspondents, it was privately submitted via trans-continental telephone to a Reagan intimate in California by a Ford emissary in Washington. The emissary, a former Nixon aide now in Mr. Ford's political inner circle, suggested Reagan might best represent conservatism by challenging Rockefeller.

The Reagan insider immediately rejected the idea, presaging an angry reaction when Laird went public. "What kind of idiots does Mel think we are?" asked one adviser to Reagan. The Reagan camp correctly concluded that Laird was offering a dubious opportunity to challenge Rockefeller with no guarantee of success while risking Reagan's credibility among conservatives. The reaction in the Rockefeller camp, though obviously better shielded, was equally intense.

WORST OF ALL from the President's standpoint was the response from uncommitted conservatives. "The problem is Ford, not Rockefeller," one party leader bluntly told Dean Burch, former political operative for Barry Goldwater and Richard Nixon, now heading Mr. Ford's campaign planning group. In response, Burch virtually disavowed the Laird ploy.

That was the dismal situation when Mr. Ford called out the Marines. "That's what I've been wanting for nine months," one party fund-raiser telephoned presidential counselor Robert Hartmann. Human Events, the right-wing journal which has savaged Mr. Ford since he entered the White House, this week lavished praise on the President for his handling of the incident. But Mr. Ford's nomination is not yet an open and shut case.

My Answer

Billy Graham

Guy de Maupassant wrote a description of the character of God in his short story, "Useless Beauty." Do you agree with this writer? L.G.M.

I found what you refer to under the title, VAIN BEAUTY. It's an intriguing tale of a beautiful woman who deplores her wifely role as a mere machine for maternity.

I certainly don't agree with de Maupassant's description of God. For our readers, here's an example of what he says. God is "an enormous creative organ, unknown to us who scatters millions of worlds into space... just as one single fish would deposit its spawn in the sea. He creates, but He does not know what He is doing, and is stupidly prolific in His work." The Bible presents God rather as a purposeful Creator, interested even in the fall of a sparrow (Matthew 10:29). More importantly, He designed everything for man (Gen. 1; Mark 2:27). Then He arranged for fallen man's salvation through the loving gift of His Son. Jesus said that He came expressly in order that we might know the Father (John 14:9).

I surmise that Guy de Maupassant reflected in his writings the tragic circumstances of his life. He took stimulants and narcotics in excess. He was nurtured on pessimism and Victor Hugo's pantheism. Although a marvelous writer of short stories and novels, his view of God was sadly in error.

Brat With Barbed Stinger

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Four years after being conceived more in frustration than hope, the Public Equity Corp. is about to emerge into the world of business, a little corporate brat with a barbed stinger.

Public Equity hopes to make a living suing other corporations, especially through triple-damage antitrust suits. It plans to gather data on the system's malfunctions. It hopes to support consumer suits.

"It's overriding aim," say its initiators, "is to assist corporations, governmental agencies and institutions to become more open, rational and responsive to citizens' needs." Barring unforeseen delays, and there have been many, Public Equity hopes to receive clearance June 9 from the Securities and Exchange Commission to seek $2.4 million in public financing.

Thereafter it would be run like any other corporation. It will have officers and directors, a product — public service — and it will seek a profit. If it is successful it will, in effect, put the public interest law movement on a business basis. "In the past," says Thomas Mechling, the

Bonds Can Vary

Around The Rim

John Edwards

Freedom frequently has a price tag on it when you're charged with a criminal offense and waiting for trial.

When the suspect is accused of a capital murder offense, not all murders are punishable by death, bond may be denied.

THERE, HOWEVER, are several types of bonds through which defendants in most cases are allowed to effect release from jail. A cash sum for the amount of the bond could be deposited.

A defendant might be released on a personal recognizance bond, for which no surety is required but an amount specified to be forfeited if he does not appear for court.

A classic example of a personal recognizance bond is the signing of traffic tickets by Texas residents who do so to assure they will appear in court, County Attorney W. H. Bill Eysen Jr. said.

Usually, though the principal, or defendant, is freed from jail when a bond is signed by one or two sureties.

The "Justice Court Deskbook" states:

"In every case, one surety is sufficient if that surety is worth at least double the amount of the bond, excluding all debts or other encumbrances; the surety is a resident of Texas and has property in Texas liable to execution worth the amount for which he is bound by the bond."

Also, the guide book notes: "A person who owns only property that is exempt under the Constitution and laws from forced sale, that is, homestead property, is not sufficient surety because such property is not liable for the satisfaction of the bond."

THOSE, WITHOUT property or property-owning friends, must pay for freedom to make this third type of bond, or wait for justice in jail.

And the right to a speedy trial has been elusive here as it has elsewhere.

To hear the bars roll open, usually costs 10 per cent of the bond face amount, City Attorney Jim Gregg said.

Sometimes, 15 per cent of the bond value is charged when the defendant lives out of the county.

Lawyers may provide bond securities for defendants whom they are representing, Gregg said. One bond firm in Big Spring offers another route out of jail and charges 10 per cent.

How much the attorney or bond firm makes and risks is determined by the municipal judge, peace justice, district judge or officer setting the bond. In felony and county court misdemeanor cases, the risk is minimal here.

Asked if bond forfeitures weren't rare here, District Judge Ralph W. Caton said: "We've been lucky. We haven't had many defaults lately."

Eyssen, speaking of county court, said: "We really have very few skips." Usually, the bondsman can locate the defendant or arrangements are made for a later appearance in court.

ACCORDING TO the "Desk-book's" interpretation of state law, justices should consider several matters in setting the amount:

That is, it's large enough to insure the defendant will appear in court. The nature of the offense and circumstances.

And the ability of the defendant to make the bond.

The "Justice Court Deskbook" lists these, among others, amounts of bail which have been held to be reasonable in specific instances:

Aggravated robbery, $20,000, $75,000 and, with prior convictions, $45,000; burglary with prior convictions, $10,000; attempted murder, $2,500 and $10,000; attempted murder of a peace officer, $25,000; possession of heroin with no prior arrests, $5,000, with prior narcotics convictions, $25,000, and $90,000 for a large amount with prior drug convictions; and felony theft with prior convictions, $10,000.

These bond amounts were "presented merely for the purpose of illustration," the book explains.

ONCE THE defendant has made bond, he may be rearrested.

The surety, sureties, or either surety may relieve himself or themselves of his or her obligation at any time by surrendering the defendant into the custody of the sheriff of the county where the case is pending," the handbook of JPs notes.

If the bondsman does not return the defendant himself, the sureties are supposed to pay the cost of law enforcement officers arresting the defendant.

"I never heard of anybody going off a bond, just because he doesn't feel like it," the county attorney said.

A justifiable reason for "going off bond" would be the defendant being arrested for a second offense or not paying for the bond, Eyssen said.

But a bonding agent does not have to prove anything or give any valid reasons for having the defendant jailed again although the fee had been paid.

PARIS — The scene is familiar, Paris in the spring, the romantic dream of Americans across the years. But this is quite a different Paris, a different France, from either the heyday of the carefree American tourist with his full value dollars of the comfortable assurance after the Marshall Plan of a solid friend and ally.

IT IS HARDLY an exaggeration to say that nothing has been the same since Charles de Gaulle took France out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). That action meant the half billion dollars the United States had put into NATO bases went down the drain. More important, it brought a radical adjustment in the structure of the alliance.

President Valery Giscard d'Estaing gives no evidence of the chauvinist pursuit of "la gloire" that gave de Gaulle the stature of a hero in neo-Napoleonic France. Celebrating his first year in the presidency with a characteristic popular flourish evoking smiles because of the hair-breadth victory that put him in the Elysee Palace, Giscard is a sophisticated worldly politician.

HE FINDS HIMSELF, however, between the lagging hope of a united Europe that will be more than a union of trading partners and the de Gaulleism of the past. Suffering from the twin evils of inflation and recession, the European Common Market is fraying at the seams.

The vision of a politically federated Europe with a common currency — and other instrumentalities of union has grown dim as the old national rivalries take on new life.

The prophet of that vision has now passed from the scene. Jean Monnet's announcement of his retirement had a symbolic significance coming at this moment. He had worked tirelessly, passionately, selflessly for his dream of union.

Beginning with the planning commission he put together in 1945, he never, despite the reverses of the Gaullist years, gave up his faith in a Europe that would cast off the ancient jealousies and hatreds.

Walking Is Better

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would consume more calories, riding my bike for ten miles in one hour, or walking the distance in three hours? — J. S. A.

Walking gets the nod over biking because of the time-distance factor.

It is estimated that bicycling consumes approximately 175 calories an hour. Walking at the moderate rate you suggest would consume about 150 calories an hour. But since it takes longer (three hours to one) by walking, that would consume 450 total calories over the 10 miles. The one hour of biking would consume only the 175.

Swimming, a fine exercise, consumes about 500 calories an hour, about the same amount as running for an hour. Walking up stairs consumes about 1,000 calories an hour.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been having a dryness in my nose. Could this be rhinitis? I am not sure of the symptoms of this.

So much of the time I have mucus in my throat, and I'm wondering if this could be connected with the condition of my nose. Is it all right to use a menthol or petroleum jelly for the nose dryness? — Mrs. T. V. H.

Rhinitis is much too general a term to mean anything. It is an irritation of the nasal membrane, and can stem from a number of underlying problems, an acute cold, a dusty atmosphere, an allergy, excessive smoking, or low humidity in the home. Most irritations are accompanied by a runny nose, some by an excessively dry nose — atrophic rhinitis, for example. In this, the mucous-producing glands do not function properly.

Before using any self-prescribed ointments or sprays, have your nasal passages checked. Often a potentially serious, chronic condition can be detected and treated effectively before it deteriorates. Chronic use of the decongestants can produce a "rebound" effect, and you can end up with a condition worse than before.

You might try a plain steam inhaler or have a humidifier installed.

The mucus in your throat can be related to your nose problem, and very likely is. One of the functions of the nose is to drain away the secretion from nasal sinuses. If the passages there for this purpose become blocked, the mucus can drain the wrong way — into the throat.

Recently, I went for my annual physical and was told after a pelvic examination that I have a prolapse. I have a tipped uterus and a fallen bladder, neither of which gives me too much trouble. Just what is this, and can it be corrected if it gets worse? — C. G.

Prolapse is the sagging of a pelvic structure (as the uterus) into the vaginal vault. The cervix may actually appear at the vaginal opening itself. The cause of this is a weakening of the supporting tissue from either childbirth or old age. In some instances the bladder will sag into the vaginal canal, resulting in a puddling of urine in the bladder. This creates the potential for bladder infection (cystitis).

A prolapse may be corrected by use of a pessary, in the case of the uterus, to hold that in position. Plastic surgery is another possibility.

A Devotion For Today

"Love is very patient and kind, never jealous or envious, never boastful or proud, never haughty or selfish or rude. Love does not demand its own way. It is not irritable or touchy. It does not hold grudges and will hardly even notice when others do it wrong."

(1 Corinthians 13:4-5, LNT)

PRAYER: Father, thank You for loving us, and not merely forgiving us. Help us to love others so that we radiate Your love to them. In Jesus' name. Amen.

More Losers Than Winners

DENVER, Colo. — Rodeo Las Vegas style saw several hundred cowboys try for a piece of the $30,000 at stake in the Elks Hellsboro rodeo, and typically, there were more losers than winners in the Nevada gambling mecca.

Sell-out crowds packed into the domed convention center the last two days of the rodeo over the Memorial Day weekend, and saw the top cowboys take top money.

H.P. Everts, reigning world champion team roping from Hanford, Calif., left with the biggest single check, $1,465 for taking first in the event. He was paired with Jerold Camarillo, former team roping champ from Oakdale, Calif., who wound up winning $1,083.

Event leaders are:

MORMON MURDERS

Found Hair On Band Saw, State Witness Testifies

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The prosecution rested its case at 9:50 a.m. today in Robert Kleasen's Mormon missionary murder trial without calling Mike Hoffman, the federal lab technician, the federal lab technician prosecutors had previously said would testify on neutron activation analysis.

The state's final witness was Joseph Jachimczyk, chief medical examiner for Harris County.

Jachimczyk testified that material given to him from a taxidermist's bandsaw contained "portions of bone, of cartilage, muscle, hair follicles, sweat glands and fat tissue."

"It is my opinion that the individuals from whom this tissue came are dead," he said.

The defense tried to get Jachimczyk to admit brain tissue should also have been found, but Dist. Atty. Bob Smith objected, saying there are no fibers in the brain and that within three days no trace may remain.

Jachimczyk agreed with Smith, saying he once ran a test in which an entire brain left 10 days on a rooftop. "It was just mush," he said.

The state had been expected to call Hoffman but Assistant Dist. Atty. David Spencer said, "We didn't need him."

Spencer said the state felt it had solid testimony from other state witnesses positively identifying the remains of the two missionaries.

"I don't know why they didn't call him," said defense Atty. Pat Ganne. "We talked to Hoffman, and his testimony was solid (for the state)."

Kleasen, 42, is accused of killing Gary Darley, 20, of Simi Valley, Calif., and Mark Fischer, 19, of Milwaukee, Wis., on Oct. 28.

The seven-woman, five-man jury returned from lunch Thursday to find the ugly band saw standing in front of the judge's bench. Sawdust spilled from the housing covers as Smith took them off.

Billy Fishback Earns Degree

Billy Don Fishback, a 1971 graduate of Coahoma High School, received a bachelor of business administration degree from Texas Tech University at graduation ceremonies May 17. He graduated with a major in management and an overall grade-point average of 3.45.

He has accepted a position as accounts payable supervisor with the Dallas County Community College district in Dallas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fishback of Coahoma.

Moderator Dies

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Frederick Vaughan Poag, 61, the second moderator of the Synod of the Southeast of the Presbyterian Church, U.S., and retired minister of South Carolina's largest Presbyterian Church, died Wednesday. The Rev. Dr. Poag retired as minister of the First Presbyterian Church of Spartanburg in 1973.

The hair would have to be attached to something rather than just having a bunch of loose hair thrown into the saw blade.

Four tires and wheels that Smith said bore marks matching those on the hubs of the missionaries' car were stacked on a dolly in front of the bench. Attorneys had to crawl over them, and in one case stand on one of them, when they huddled for off-the-record conferences with the judge.

The tires allegedly were found in a shed next to Kleasen's trailer.

Smith also testified that a automobile jack found in Kleasen's car was exactly like the jacks that come with American Motors' Hornets such as the one the missionaries drove.

A white substance on the jack "had the appearance of the white substance found in the trunk of the Hornet," Smith said. This turned out to be a "a soap powder or detergent," he said.

Boltcutters taken from Kleasen's car "could have been the instrument" that cut the battery cables in the Hornet, he said.

The battery was not taken from the Hornet. It appears to be loose, Smith said, but when an attempt is made to move the battery, it becomes obvious that it is bolted to the car from the bottom.

MUSICAL INTERLUDE — Senior members of the Big Spring High School choir sang as a group probably for the last time during commencement exercises for the Class of '75 in Memorial Stadium Thursday evening. A total of 303 diplomas were awarded by school board members Jerry Jenkins and Jim Bill Little. Others who appeared on the program included Supt. of Schools Emmett McKenzie, High School Principal John Smith, counselor, Mrs. Janice Ross and students Kathy Perry, Kathy Meek, Karen Jenkins, Boyd Harrington, Greg Horton and Linda Little.

Man Dies In Wreck

One person died and three others were injured as the result of a two-vehicle collision on State Highway 350 at 7:20 p.m. Wednesday 4.7 miles southwest of Ira, in Scurry County.

Taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital for emergency treatment by Snyder ambulance and later transferred to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock were Roger Anthony Welch, 23, Midland; Linda R. Hightower, 25, Box 304, Clint; and her two children, Jody Hightower, 9, and Ace Hightower, 2, same address.

Welch died about 10:15 p.m. Wednesday night in Methodist hospital. According to highway patrolmen, he sustained multiple critical injuries in the mishap. The body was taken to Ellis Funeral Home in Midland.

Authorities at Cogdell Memorial Hospital said Mrs. Hightower sustained a fractured ankle, serious lacerations and abrasions and other undetermined injuries. Her son, Ace, sustained serious head injuries and fractures. He and his mother were in serious condition. The daughter, Jody, had cuts and bruises and a fractured wrist, but her condition was described as good.

Investigating Highway Patrolmen said it was almost a head-on collision with Welch driving a 1971 model Ford pickup. He was traveling towards Big Spring and the other driver, who was operating a 1969 Model Buick, was going towards Snyder at the time of the collision.

Both vehicles were demolished.

Welch's death was the first motor vehicle fatality in Scurry County this year.

President's Veto Of Jobs Bill To Be Overridden?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's veto of a $5.3-billion program designed to create 900,000 jobs will be overridden by Congress, House Speaker Carl Albert indicates.

"The Congress will not allow the President's negative action to scuttle this job-producing legislation," Albert said Thursday after the White House announced Ford's veto.

The anti-recession measure included authorizations for $1.6 billion for public service jobs, $485 million for summer youth jobs, $440 million for construction and repair of federal buildings around the country, $385 million for small business loans and $325 million for speed up of flood control, reclamation and rivers and harbors projects.

In a White House statement issued when Ford was in Europe, he said he vetoed the bill because "its chief impact would be felt long after our current unemployment problems are expected to subside."

Ford, who had requested a $2 billion authorization bill, also expressed concern that the vetoed bill would have increased the budget deficit, now set at $60 billion by the administration.

The House earlier this month passed the bill 293 to 109, more than the two-thirds required to override the veto. The Senate approved it by voice vote.

The program was a special project of Albert and the House Democratic leadership to provide jobs in a hurry in severely affected areas.

The latest national jobless rate stands at 8.9 per cent, but the Labor Department added 22 more cities Thursday to its list of areas with "substantial" unemployment, meaning a rate of more than 6 per cent. That brought to 127 the number of areas on the list of 150 areas surveyed by the department.

Ponce, Puerto Rico, is the unemployment leader with a rate of 20.1 in March compared with a national rate of 8.9 per cent. Ponce also has been on the list longer than any other city, having had substantial unemployment since May 1955.

The nation's second-highest unemployment listing in March was 18.7 per cent in Flint, Mich., followed by Detroit, Mich., at 16.6 per cent and Providence-Pawtucket, R.I., at 16.0 per cent.

The 23 areas which have not yet made the substantial unemployment list are:

Denver-Boulder, Colo.; Washington, D.C.; Savannah, Ga.; Davenport, Iowa; Rock Island-Moline, Ill. and Peoria, Ill.; Cedar Rapids and Des Moines, Iowa; Wichita, Kan.; Louisville, Ky.; Jackson, Miss.; Raleigh-Durham, N.C.; Steubenville, Ohio-Weirton, W. Va.; Oklahoma City and Tulsa, Okla.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston, Tex.; Newport News-Hampton, Norfolk-Virginia Beach-Portsmouth, Richmond and Roanoke, Va.

The additions to the substantial unemployment list Thursday brought the total to its highest level ever, a previous top having been 101 in April, 1961.

Second Man Is Nabbed

John Wesley Staggs, 20, was arrested Thursday night at 603B Douglas by City Patrolman John Burson, assisted by Mike Pearson and David Spillman.

Staggs is the second Big Spring youth charged with burglary of the Stanton Drug Store during the night Tuesday. His bond was set at $5,000 by Justice of the Peace George Ochotorena.

Patrolman Burson was instrumental in obtaining information that led to the arrest of both Staggs and the arrest of Lyndel Carson Fletcher, 20, on the previous day.

Both Fletcher and Staggs were turned over to Martin County law officials.

Two other youths, arrested at the same time as Fletcher were banded out at the local sheriff's office Thursday on drug related charges.

Davis Has Local Ties

Shawn Davis, pictured riding a bronc in connection with a Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion story in Thursday's edition of the Herald, is the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Roberts of 1600 Sunset St., Big Spring.

Shawn, a former world's champion in saddle-bronc riding, frequently visits here and regards Big Spring as his second home.

Originally out of Whitehall, Mont., Shawn now has some land leased near Lewisville, Tex., where he raises cattle.

Shawn is off the rodeo circuit temporarily because he broke his foot when a horse fell on him in the Houston Rodeo. He likely will compete in the June 18-21 show here, however.

Receiving the large silver award will be Jerry White and Cal Lowry of the Special Services Division on behalf of all base people who helped win it.

Owens was also to recognize all individuals who took part in winning the ATC trophy. The annual award goes to the base which collects the most points in ATC sports and recreational activities.

In the athletic category, Webb won the ATC flag football crown and finished second in the command golf tourney. Other points earned in command competition were in Chess, the Art and Talent contests, as well as in such sports as tennis, basketball, fast and slow-pitch softball, volleyball and bowling.

Wicked Weather Going Full Tilt

Tornado winds slashed into Dickinson near the Upper Texas Coast during the night and a southbound cold front helped keep the state's barrage of wicked weather going full tilt today.

Three to four inches of rain saturated already soggy areas as wild thunderstorms surged from West Texas into the north, south and east parts of the state.

A severe thunderstorm watch stayed in force until midmorning for a 41-county section of Central Texas 140 miles wide and centered on a line from 70 miles southeast of Del Rio to 45 miles northeast of Austin.

Funnel clouds writhed close by as the destructive winds broke windows in a junior high school gymnasium and dealt minor damage to a cafe in Dickinson, between Houston and Texas City. Heavy rain and hail "as big as hen eggs," as one resident described it, fell at the same time. There were no serious injuries.

A number of other funnel clouds menaced a broad area, among them several near Dallas and Fort Worth, before the threat of twisters gradually dissipated.

In West Texas hail as big as baseballs battered a rural neighborhood 11 miles south of Seymour.

As the new cold front spread over western sections, gusty winds raked the High Plains today. At the same time it was warm and humid near the Coastal Bend and Lower Texas Coast.

It was at least partly cloudy nearly everywhere in the state by early morning. Dense fog cloaked the San Antonio area for a time.

Temperatures near dawn stayed as high as 81 degrees at Corpus Christi and 80 at Brownsville on the coast while the reading was down to 46 at Dalhart, behind the frontal system in the Panhandle.

Forecasters called for thunderstorms to linger in part of Central and East Texas into tonight but milder weather was promised across the state by Saturday.

He was born June 27, 1893 in Bell County and moved to Big Spring with his parents in 1905. He has lived here since that time, and was a rancher for several years.

Survivors include two nephews, Kyle Miller Jr., Odessa, and Sam Miller, Midland; four nieces, Mrs. Jim Lemons, Big Spring, Mrs. Joan Fowler, Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. Margaret Havener, Odessa, and Mrs. Jennie Sonntag, Denton; and a brother-in-law, Dr. W. J. Lloyd, Plainview.

Sentences Handed 2

Restitution and 10-year probation sentences were ordered for two defendants in separate guilty pleas in 118th District Court Thursday.

Scott A. Fowler, 18, Coahoma, first appeared Wednesday afternoon but failed to answer questions as anticipated.

Thursday, he was returned to court and pleaded guilty to burglary of the Coahoma Pool Hall and theft of 140 cigarette packages on March 25.

Darrell Gene Wells, 18, west U. S. 80 box 27, pleaded guilty to theft of a new pickup from Pollard Chevrolet.

Down payment for the vehicle was made with a worthless check, and the security agreement had a forged co-signature. A deputy sheriff Wednesday took custody of Wells at Tucumcari, N.M.

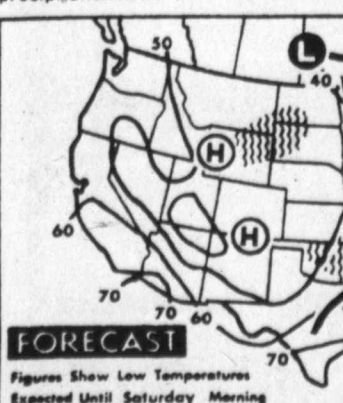

Both law enforcement officials in Tucumcari and in Colorado City, where Wells is charged with passing a worthless check, want to see the defendant before he is released.

Unemployment Payment Requests Could Gain

An extra man has been hired at the local unemployment office, apparently in anticipation of expected applications for unemployment during the summer months.

The majority of these could come from among the 344 local school teachers, whom a federal ruling has made eligible for unemployment assistance this summer as an anti-recession tactic.

Ellis Britton, manager of the local TEC, said "We will not begin to know until next week how many teachers here will apply, but many have already called and made inquiries."

Maximum unemployment benefits at this time are $63 per week. If as many as 300 applied in Big Spring, this could possibly be a federal cost in just this one school district of $226,800 during the summer months.

A recent computation by the school business office shows that classroom teachers in Big Spring have an average salary of $9,918 with special education teachers averaging $9,263, vocational teachers averaging $10,525, and librarians, $10,826.

There are 344 local teachers plus 23 more school nurses, counselors, visiting teachers and other categories. Average salary in this category is $12,252.

The move became necessary when the old 10,000 barrel tank collapsed with a roar recently. Debris was washed as far as one of the greens.

The tank was about two-thirds full when it collapsed. The structure may have been weakened when struck by lightning, though no one knows for sure. The collapse also ruined one of the two motors which was constantly pumping water into the tank.

Mild weather has helped officials avert disaster at the club but something must be done in a hurry. In extremely hot weather, the greens will ruin in two days if they are not irrigated every other day. Six inches of rain during May has helped, too.

Two foursomes which were playing near the tank escaped harm. Teddy Griffin, assistant pro at the course, said the noise associated with the collapse sounded like an airplane crashing.

Course workers are now making limited use of water pumped to the course by bypassing the tank but that will not provide a long-term solution, once the hot weather arrives.

Censorship Threatens Basic Rights Of All

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The president of Columbia Broadcasting System said today a new wave of official censorship threatens not only journalistic freedom but the basic rights of all individuals.

Judicial misuse of subpoena powers and increasing use of "gag orders," said Arthur R. Taylor, often blunt the free flow of information vital to a democracy.

"It is too often forgotten that freedom of the press is basic to the rights of all citizens," Taylor told the national assemblage of Associated Press Broadcasters (APB).

"...without the line of communication provided by the free press to the body politic," he told the news executives, "the other basic rights of individuals become lifeless extremities."

Taylor used the group's fifth annual meeting as a forum to announce "a major effort to arrest and hopefully reverse this erosion of First Amendment rights."

He said a two-year effort is being launched to raise $2 million to establish an endowment fund for the legal defense of journalists' First Amendment freedoms.

It will be available to all journalists, whether in broadcast news or the print media and will be administered by the Reporter's Committee for Freedom of the Press, a volunteer organization of working reporters founded in 1970.

Taylor said a broad base of support for the fund is being sought to emphasize that the struggle is not one of journalists alone but should involve such frequent press adversaries as lawyers, public officials and business leaders.

Quoting the scripture of former U.S. Sen. Sam Ervin, the North Carolina Democrat who led the Senate's Watergate investigation, Taylor declared:

"The First Amendment, including the guarantee of a free press, was designed to make Americans politically, intellectually, and spiritually free."

Cubs Win Pair

By the Associated Press

Tight pitching distinguished the Texas League twin bill swept by Midland against Arkansas and some heavy hitting marked the other three games Thursday night.

The Midland Cubs won 3-1 and 1-0 in the doubleheader at Little Rock. Jackson beat San Antonio 6-1 and then absorbed a 4-2 defeat in their pair of games and El Paso simply outslugged Lafayette 10-8. A Shreveport at Alexandria game was rained out.

Steady pitching by Steve Waterbury for the Arkansas Travelers was spoiled by three straight Midland hits in the second inning of their opener which accounted for all the Cubs' runs. The Cubs took the nightcap on a walk by Bill Droegge, a sacrifice and a single by Al Montvel which produced their only run in the eighth inning.

A two-run homer by Bob Sallinger and two run-scoring singles by Carlos Sagredo provided the winning margin for Jackson's Mets in the first game at San Antonio as their Tom Tyler tossed a three-hitter. Ron Salyer of the home-standing Brewers scattered eight hits to take the decision in the second game and Orlando Gonzalez socked a solo homer for San Antonio.

They're matched the same way again tonight with Midland at Arkansas, Jackson at Alexandria, Lafayette at El Paso and Shreveport at Alexandria.

The Sabres topped the Starfighters, 14-8, in International Little League play Thursday.

In National Little League go-round, Pollard Chevrolet Cardinals extended their winning streak to eight straight Tuesday by shutting out the Rebels, 19-0.

Anthony Tackett of the Sabres hit his first long blow of the season, a two-run homer. Tackett's teammate Mark Williams connected for his second round tripper of the year.

The Cards' Ben Watson and Scott Moore limited the Rebels to a pair of hits. Watson helped out his team by smacking a homer.

Three Share Lead In Atlanta Classic

ATLANTA (AP) — U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin and two of the game's top players, Jack Nicklaus and Johnny Miller, were in agreement after the opening round of the $225,000 Atlanta Golf Classic.

Each talked about extremely difficult pin placements for opening day competition on the hilly, 6,883-yard par 72 Atlanta Country Club course.

And, each said they liked it. But, despite the problems it presented, the strongest field in a tournament so far this year still riddled par in the cloudy conditions that produced a heavy half-hour shower at mid-afternoon.

Irwin birdied three of his last four holes to move into a three-way share of the lead with veteran Billy Casper and Joe Inman at six-under-par 66.

Two shots away loomed Nicklaus and Miller, along with Leonard Thompson and Jack Ewing, who had a record-tying 30 on the back nine, which he played first. "They were the worst pin placements for a Thursday round I've ever seen," said Miller, the outspoken blond who reeled off three early victories on this year's tour. "They're not unfair, just ridiculous."

"I would not categorize them ridiculous," said Irwin.

Rangers Drop Sixth In Row

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — New York's Elliott Maddox just circled the Yankees' dressing room for 10 minutes and grinned.

He had struck a mortal blow in his running feud with Texas Rangers Manager Billy Martin but refused to gloat.

Maddox slammed four hits, collected four RBIs and delivered a game-winning two-run double in the ninth inning Thursday night to give the Yankees a 7-5 victory over the Rangers, who gave up on him a year ago.

It was the only game played in the major leagues Thursday night.

Maddox was embroiled in a beanball controversy with Martin in spring training and it carried over into the regular season last week when Texas visited New York City. Maddox was knocked down and claimed that was done on Martin's orders.

Maddox was asked how it felt to gain a measure of revenge on Martin and the Rangers.

"It's always nice to come back and haunt a team that gave up on you," he said. "I think the bean ball thing is over... I hope so."

Old WFL Out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Creditors of the old World Football League have been offered a settlement on outstanding debts that will pay them 1 1/2 per cent of the new league's gross revenues for the next 12 years.

WFL President Chris Hemmeter, in a telephone interview from his New York office, said Thursday the offer was made to creditors even though the new league has no legal responsibility to pay off such outstanding debts.

However, the new league is on more firm financial ground than was the WFL of 1974, he said, and "our plan is to pay off the debts of the old league. The only reason we made this offer was to create an environment in which a new league can survive."

"We don't have any legal responsibility to those creditors," Hemmeter said. "We don't have to offer them anything but we feel that to develop this league in the future... we might have a credibility problem."

Hemmeter said the plan is based on financial projections that he termed "conservative but realistic." He said the league would have "a weighted average of 16 teams with a weighted average of $4 million per team over the next 12 years. That means there would be a total of $64 million in revenues and at 1 1/2 per cent per year, that is payment of $960,000 a year. Now, over 12 years, that is payment of nearly $12 million and that exceeds substantially the outstanding obligations to creditors. Payments would be terminated in 12 years."

Hemmeter explained that the old WFL no longer exists. "We simply bought the name from them. We knew there were some severe financial problems... but this league is technically called The New League, Inc., a Pennsylvania corporation."

He admitted that for the league to grow a national television contract is mandatory and "we're certainly spending a great deal of time on that and we hope to have a very good one this year." He said although the league should survive at least three years "we need the exposure of television if we are to grow. We need a showcase, where we can expose our product on a national basis."

Atlanta Or Denver Thompson In No Hurry To Sign Pro Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — David Thompson, with an opportunity to sign one of the most lucrative contracts in pro basketball history, says he plans to wait until next month's American Basketball Association draft before choosing between the ABA and the National Basketball Association.

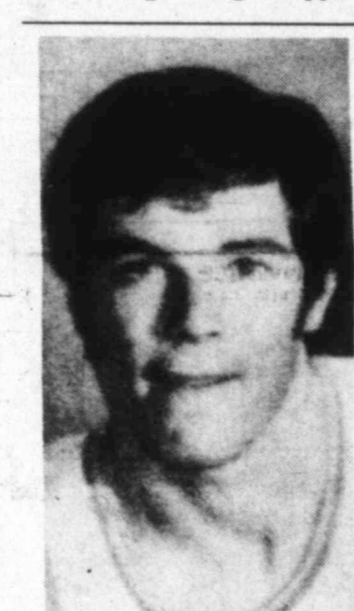

Until then, the Atlanta Hawks, who made the exhilarating Thompson the No. 1 pick in the NBA draft Thursday, probably will not decide how much to offer their two other outstanding selections, Marvin Webster and Bill Willoughby.

"It's a great thrill to be the first player picked, and as to where my future lies, I have to wait until the ABA and then weigh all matters as to what team or league I'll be playing in," Thompson said following his selection by the Hawks. "I'm happy that Atlanta drafted me, but I just enjoy basketball and will be happy playing anywhere."

The Hawks likely will be battling the ABA's Denver Nuggets for Thompson's services. The Nuggets have the ABA's No. 1 pick and they already have been openly courting the three-time All-American and two-time Player of the Year, apparently having made some tempting cash overtures.

The agile 6-foot-4 star from North Carolina State spent several days with the Nuggets late in the ABA season.

"David seemed to like our organization and I think he has reached a pretty good understanding," said Nuggets' forward Bobby Jones. "Of course, I don't want to say anything that would hamper the deal... I'd say Denver is fairly close, but strange things happen

DARRYL DAWKINS Likes Philadelphia Offer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Darryl "Dr. D." Dawkins says he received a number of illegal offers from college basketball coaches hoping to persuade him not to join the pros directly from high school.

"I was offered a car (a Cadillac)," Dawkins told the Orlando Sentinel Star Thursday. "I was offered money. Sixty dollars a week. Then $150 a week. One of them even offered me a new outfit (street clothes) every game."

It is illegal for colleges to offer players inducements beyond tuition, books and $15 monthly laundry money.

The 18-year-old, 6-foot-10 Evans High School star said he will sign a contract today with the Philadelphia 76ers. The team selected Dawkins in the first round of the National Basketball Association draft Thursday.

"Yeah, I thought for awhile it was great," Dawkins said, reflecting on the tempting college offers. "But then I realized that if I took it, it might mean probation for the team and for me."

Dawkins credited Evans basketball Coach Fred Pennington with helping him to view the college offers in the proper perspective.

"I told him the Cadillac was worth, what, ten thousand? Eleven thousand?" said Pennington.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Darryl "Dr. D." Dawkins says he received a number of illegal offers from college basketball coaches hoping to persuade him not to join the pros directly from high school.

sign Thompson, Webster and Willoughby. The problems, if any, could be solved by Wilcox selling the team to more financially stable owners, or as has been speculated, the Hawks trading Webster and Willoughby to the New York Knicks for forward Phil Jackson and $1 million.

The latter deal, of course, would provide the Hawks with sufficient money to afford Thompson.

At present, however, they have the luxury of all three players.

The 7-0 Webster, a two-time College Division All-America and twice winner of the College Division Player of the Year known as "The Human Eraser," was the Hawks' second pick on the first round and the third player selected over-all in the draft.

Willoughby, a 6-8 forward who averaged 35 points and 22 rebounds per game last season at Dwight Morrow High School in Englewood, N.J., was the first player chosen on the second round. Willoughby was the second high school player ever drafted by the NBA.

The first was 6-10 Darryl Dawkins from Maynard Evans High in Orlando, Fla. He was taken by the Philadelphia 76ers on the first round — the fifth player chosen over-all.

SHOWED EMPATHY FOR CHILDREN O'Bryan 'A Sweet Guy' According To Witness

HOUSTON (AP) — A man charged with poisoning his son to collect on life insurance was described Thursday as "very, very kind" to children and "a sweet guy." He may take the stand today in his own defense as lawyers fight for his life in a capital murder trial.

In the first day of defense testimony in the capital murder trial of Ronald C. O'Bryan, defense witnesses Thursday described the 30-year-old man as industrious, a loving and attentive father and as a man who showed special empathy for children.

Richard Harrison, O'Bryan's lawyer, said in an opening statement that his client would take the stand, probably today, in his own defense. The lawyer said O'Bryan's father may also testify.

O'Bryan, an optician who worked for Texas State Optical, is charged with capital murder in the Halloween night death of his son, Timothy, 8. The boy died after eating a cyanide-laced trick or treat candy. The state contends he killed the youngster to collect on more than $30,000 in insurance.

O'Bryan is also charged with four counts of attempted murder for allegedly distributing poisoned candy to four other children.

In testimony Thursday, a coworker said O'Bryan was "most solicitous at all times" of his own children and of other youngsters.

"He was a very concerned parent, very sensitive to their (his children's) needs," said Ronald E. Evans, an optician at a Texas State Optical office here where O'Bryan was employed.

When he had children customers, said Evans, O'Bryan would be "very, very kind and take more time with them."

"He always had a little treat for them," said Evans. "He would buy bubble gum or candy to give them. He was a very empathic individual as far as children were concerned."

Evans also said that O'Bryan enjoyed debates with fellow employees and often "went to extremes" to prove his point.

One such debate dealt with cyanide poison, said Evans, and lasted for more than a week during October, a period of time just before Timothy O'Bryan died of cyanide poisoning.

In such debates, he said, it was not unusual for O'Bryan to make telephone calls and talk to other people to get more information.

The defense offered this as an apparent explanation for several conversations on cyanide which were reported by witnesses for the state.

Kay Oliver, 17, the daughter of the co-owner of the TSO office where O'Bryan worked and who worked there herself last October, also said O'Bryan talked often about his children.

She also said that on Halloween day, about 5:30 p.m., O'Bryan dashed out into the rain and brought his car to a covered walkway to give her a dry ride to her car.

Asked why he went to the trouble, she said: "It was just being a nice guy. He was really a sweet guy."

Miss Oliver's testimony also conflicts with state testimony that O'Bryan left work about 4:30 p.m. Halloween day and, hence, would have had time to prepare some poisoned candy before taking his children on a trick or treat outing.

O'Bryan, the state contends, appeared with poisoned candy in his hands after going up to a door in the Bowling Green subdivision of Pasadena, Tex. during the Halloween outing. In a statement to police, O'Bryan contended he was given the candy by someone at the house. The defense presented 14 witnesses from the Bowling Green subdivision, many of whom testified of seeing O'Bryan escorting the children on the outing. Two told of seeing other children carrying Giant Pixy Stix, the powdered confection packaged in a plastic tube.

Timothy O'Bryan died after eating from a Giant Pixy Stix and the state has contended that this type of candy was not handed out in the Bowling Green area on Halloween night.

The defense also presented a series of witnesses in an apparent effort to discredit a key state witness, David C. Jackson, a chemical company salesman who identified O'Bryan as a man who tried to buy cyanide before Halloween.

Witnesses from the three principal Houston outlets for cyanide, including the firm which employs Jackson, testified that their firms do not sell the deadly poison to someone who "just walks in off the street."

John Pace, manager of the Curtin Matheson Scientific Co. office where Jackson works, also disputed Jackson's claim that the firm was very busy in its sales department.

He also said that according to computer inventories, the company did have on hand some one pound containers of cyanide during October.

Jackson contended that O'Bryan did not buy the cyanide because Curtin Matheson had only five-pound containers available.

Representatives from each of the chemical firms said that none of their files showed O'Bryan had purchased cyanide at any time.

None of the 39 witnesses presented by the state before it rested Thursday were able to actually place cyanide—the death weapon—on O'Bryan's hands, although several testified that he talked about the chemical.

Weapons Are Brandished In Melon Confrontation

HIDALGO, Tex. (AP) — United Farm Workers Union members and angry melon growers from this South Texas area faced each other, weapons in hand, at least four times Thursday in another tense day of demonstration.

Sparks of violence flew at different times, but the presence of deputy sheriffs cooled the situation. A high-powered rifle brandished by a union worker at one time was confiscated by authorities. More union activity was expected today as labor leaders continued their campaign to organize melon pickers and convince them to join the union, according to organizer Tony Orendain. A spokesman for the union said, however, the workers would not try to block the international bridge at Hidalgo.

On Thursday, there were four confrontations in which violence was a trigger pull away. No arrests were made in the incidents, but a high-powered rifle was confiscated from a militant Mexican-American Brown Beret member and a farm employe had a window shattered in his pickup truck.

Glenn Martin, an employe of Griffin and Brand Produce Co., McAllen, was driving past demonstrators on Farm Road 1016 northwest of here when an object shattered the rear window of his pickup truck just behind his head. Martin jumped from the truck with a shotgun in his hand, but climbed back inside when Hidalgo County deputy Elias Juarez shouted at him.

Later, an unidentified farmer waved an automatic shotgun at an estimated 500 demonstrators after the protestors lined a road outside a cantaloupe patch south of McAllen. The man put the weapon away after being admonished by Hidalgo county officers.

Just a few moments later, an automobile driven by McAllen produce firm executive Olhal Brand sped to the demonstration site, slightly striking a van being used by the union as a sound truck.

When demonstrators surrounded the vehicle and began pounding on it with their fists and picket signs, Brand jumped from the vehicle with a pistol in his hand.

Brand climbed back into the automobile and attempted to drive away.

Experiment

SCHAUMBURG, Ill. (AP) — When customers enter an experimental food store in this suburb northwest of Chicago they are handed a black grease pencil and told to write the price on their purchase.

Groceries are put out for sale in the cardboard cartons they arrive in, instead of being displayed on shelves. Each carton has a label telling the customer what price to mark on the item he takes from the carton.

Tom Cygan, coordinator of the Budget Food Store, opened by Jewel Food Stores as an experiment three weeks ago, estimated that a customer can save from 8 to 10 per cent over regular store prices. He said the store has 3,500 items, 2,200 of them in price-marked cartons. An average Jewel supermarket stocks 7,000 to 8,000 items.

Cygan said the idea is to do a volume business and save labor costs of marking items individually and putting them on shelves. Cygan said that even items which employ mark cost less than a regular Jewel store. For example a half-gallon of ice cream costs $1.29 at the budget store and $1.43 at the other supermarkets.

"The savings we realize in the self-mark items are passed on to the bulk of the other things in the store," Cygan said.

"So far the customers have been willing to mark the prices and bag their groceries," he said. "There have been some legitimate mistakes, but no one has deliberately tried to mark a lower price on their purchase. If they should be caught at the checkout line they would only have themselves to blame."

Checkout employees are instructed to memorize the prices of certain key items so they can spot mismarking. He said there is no mechanical check for cheating or mismarking.

Burglaries Increase 300 Per Cent, Group Is Told

Businessmen attending the Chamber of Commerce Crime Prevention meeting Thursday were urged to call the Big Spring Police Department and make an appointment to survey the businesses and make recommendations to make the business burglary resistant.

Ed Kissinger, who just finished attending a school concerning crime prevention, reported that inspections are part of the BSPD Crime Prevention Program.

He noted that burglaries have increased around 300 per cent for this year over last year.

Reports were also heard from a burglar alarm firm from Carrollton and a security guard firm from Midland and Odessa. They reported on their services and made them available to those who need them.

Chamber Manager Terry Hanson said that the individual businesses would take care of their own special security needs.

It was stressed, however, that salesmen who represent burglar alarm businesses and security guard businesses must have a license issued by the state. The businessmen were warned to beware of fraudulent salesmen.

South displayed exemplary technique in bringing home a three no trump contract after the opening lead had removed the entry to dummy's side suit.

Rather than leave himself with a potential rebid problem if he opened the bidding in either major suit, South elected to open with the convenient bid of one club, then rebid his lower-ranking major over his partner's one diamond response.

North's jump to three diamonds was a bit aggressive, but his hand was really too good for any alternative action, and South closed the proceedings by settling in the obvious contract.

West led his fourth-best spade. Declarer played low from dummy, East won the king and returned the suit, taking out declarer's only side entry to dummy's diamond suit. Declarer had only six quick tricks available, and the apparent source of the extra three tricks needed to bring home the game was in diamonds. However, he realized that a successful diamond finesse would not, in itself, be enough. Since he was missing both the jack and ten of diamonds, he would have to lose a trick in the suit, and if he gave up a trick on the third round of the suit, he would have no way of getting back to dummy to cash the long diamonds.

The solution was simple. At trick three, declarer led a low diamond from dummy, conceding immediately the trick he would have to lose in the suit. The defenders were powerless. East won the jack of diamonds and, in desperation, shifted to a heart (no return would have been any better), which was ducked by declarer. West won and returned the suit to the jack and ace.

When the finesse of the queen of diamonds held and East followed, declarer had the rest of the tricks. In all, he took five diamond tricks, three spades, and two aces.

By playing the hand as he did, South risked taking no diamond tricks if East held the king, but the extra undertrick was a small price to pay for the chance of making a vulnerable game.

Bounty

For centuries men have been using nets to reap the rich harvest of the sea. There is a classic rhythm to the saga of the sea and fishermen. It is a tale filled with danger and persistence—success and failure. Indeed, it is very much akin to life itself.

You may not have to wrest your living from the sea, but you can learn a lesson from those who do. Fishermen the world around are, for the most part, devout folk. They've learned the meaning of faith. They know God. Seldom will you see even the smallest harbor town without a church. There men—and the women who wait for them—go to pray.

Have you been to your church lately?

Grand Cross Earned By Rainbows

It was announced that members of the Order of Rainbow for Girls, Assembly 60 won the Grand Cross of Color during its regular meeting Tuesday. Receiving the award for distinguished service were Emily Boyd, Della Nobles, Jill Odom, and board members, Mrs. W. C. Fryar and Mrs. M. S. Knowles.

Jill Odom, presiding officer, conducted the initiation of Corinne Loftis and Eda Faye Sayers, following a salad supper. Mary Jane Wright, worthy associate advisor, announced that her installation will take place at 8 p.m., Saturday in the Masonic Temple.

Plans were made to attend Grand Assembly in Dallas June 15-18.

The next regular meeting will be June 10 in the Masonic Temple.

The Tuesday meeting of the National Secretaries Association was highlighted with the installation of new officers. Leaders for the new club year include Mrs. M. A. Long, president; Mrs. J. R. Bill Sneed and Johnny Johansen reported on the Southwest Region convention at Texas A&M University.

Youth gardening, a new facet, was discussed and suggestions made on how to develop interest in it locally.

Joe Johnson, 2205 Morrison, will host the next meeting.

FORSAN (SC) — Mrs. Ann Fairchild has returned home after a lengthy stay in Temple with her son and family, the Dan Fairchilds of Odessa.

Why Can't 'Marrieds' Stop Bugging Singles?

DEAR ABBY: Roger and I have been dating for three years. We are very happy just dating and not having to worry about money, children and all the problems most married couples have.

Here's the problem: A day doesn't go by without someone asking, "When are you and Roger going to get married?" Or, worse yet, "When are you going to get that guy to marry you?" I am only 21, so why do people act as though I'm an old maid? Abby, not every girl is dying to get married. I enjoy being single and not having the problems of a married woman. Besides, I've got plenty of time.

If you print this in your column, I'm going to cut it out, carry it with me and hand it to the next person who puts me on the spot with a dumb question about marriage.

SINGLE AND LIKES IT

Student Leaves For Germany

Greg Parnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Parnell, 3202 Cornell, left Tuesday for Kochele, West Germany, where he plans to attend school for eight weeks at Goethe Institute. He is participating with the Texas Association of German Students. Greg, a senior at Texas A&M University, was recently presented a book on Germany by the German Department at the university and the German consul to the United States.

Events Honor Sands Seniors

Graduation activities for Sands High School seniors were climaxed with parties given by local churches. Ackerly Methodist Church honored the senior class with a supper; the Baptist Church served chili burgers and ice cream at noon, Tuesday; and the Church of Christ gave an ice cream supper for the seniors and their parents following the baccalaureate service.

Nuptials Slated For June 15

Mr. and Mrs. William Gonzalez, 4114 Muir, announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Diana, to Richard L. Paus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Royal L. Paus, Conrad, Mont., and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Toutloff, Beloit, Wis. The couple will exchange nuptial vows June 15 in the Webb Air Force Base Chapel.

Class Member Has Birthday

Mrs. J. W. Brigance was honored with a birthday party at the recent meeting of the Friendship Class, Wesley United Methodist Church. Mrs. C. A. White, 607 Elgin, hosted the affair in her home. Mrs. White gave a devotional, on love, prior to the refreshments, gifts and games.

Local Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Pierson, formerly of Big Spring, visited friends here Tuesday before returning to San Diego, Calif.

DEAR ABBY: Danny and I have been married for five years. He had just been divorced, and I had never been married before. (I was 30, and Danny was 42 at the time.)

Abby, he still hasn't told his family that we are married. His ex-wife and sister are very close — like sisters — and his sister never gave up hope that Danny and his ex would get back together.

They know about me, but I guess they must think Danny and I are just living together. I never liked the idea of his keeping our marriage a secret from his family, but he has forbidden me to tell them and keeps saying that he will tell them at the "proper" time.

Abby, this really upsets me. What is he waiting for? When I bring it up, he says that I am being childish and that I should trust him.

This bothers me so much I think I am going to have a nervous breakdown. Can you figure him out? I can't.

FRAZZLED NERVES

DEAR FRAZZLED: I can't figure him out, either. But you can bet the rent that Danny is keeping something from you.

You have two choices: Make up your mind that you don't give a hoot whether or not Danny's family knows you are married, or tell him that if he doesn't announce your marriage by the fourth of July, there will be fireworks!

DEAR ABBY: We recently moved to another city where my husband was appointed to an executive position.

He told me that we should wait until the wives of executives invite us before we make any overtures to socialize with them.

Later I found out that every wife of a peanut clerk had invited top-management people to their homes, their invitations had been accepted and a good time was had by all.

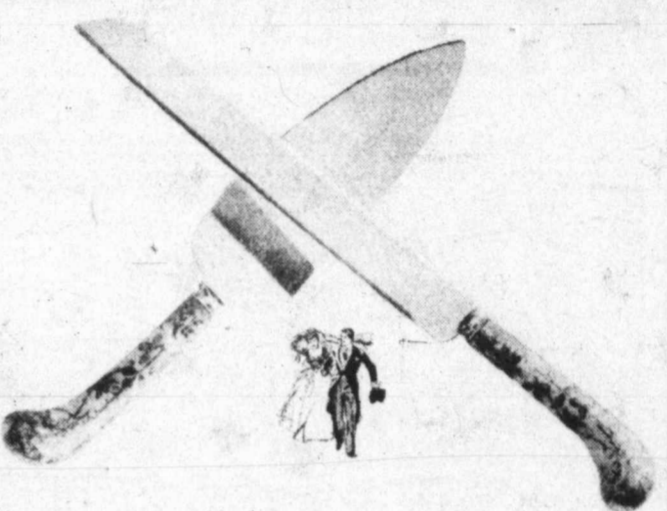

Knowing this, should we invite management who are above my husband in rank first? Or should we wait until they invite us?

WAITING

DEAR WAITING: Become better acquainted first, then invite those whose company you enjoy without concerning yourselves with the pecking order.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BIG TED IN MISSOULA, MONTANA: Yes, your hunting friend is correct. Jewish laws forbid hunting for sport. And eating the meat of an animal that has been killed for sport is also forbidden.

Three Big Spring Men Are Diocese Candidates

Before families and friends, thirty-four deacon candidates of the Catholic Diocese of San Angelo will be instituted as Lectors by Bishop Stephen A. Leven, at Sacred Heart Cathedral in San Angelo, Texas during ceremonies at 3 p.m. on Sunday, June 8.

David King, Peter Gregg, and Wayne Rock of Big Spring are three of the candidates. They are all members of Immaculate Heart of Mary. Entering training in October last year, official institution as lector (Reader) in the Catholic Church represents the first official step toward ordination as a permanent deacon. The men are expected to be instituted in the Ministry of Acolyte in the Fall of this year with ordination as deacons some months later.

Most of the men are married and come from all walks of life within this widespread, 42-thousand square mile area. After at least two years of training, the ordained ministers will fill varied ministries. Deacons in the Catholic Church have faculties to perform the duties of the priest except for presiding over the Mass, hearing confessions, and administering the Sacrament of the Sick.

Pope Paul VI, in restoring the permanent diaconate in 1967, listed the deacon as a minister of solemn baptism, an official at funerals and burial services, and, in the absence of a priest, he may be delegated to assist at and bless marriages in the name of the church. Over 800 men have been ordained as permanent deacons in the United States and more than 1,500 are in training.

In areas that are remote and short of priests, the deacon can be given the official responsibility of leading and guiding the local Christian community.

Locally, in addition to liturgical services, the men will also minister within parishes in such areas as religious instructions, administration, choir direction, social action coordinators, charitable institutions, hospital and prison ministries.

The men of San Angelo Diocese are undergoing an intensive training program consisting of one week-end training session each month with heavy additional home-study assignments. A week of special study is planned for July this year in San Antonio. Wives attend classes with their husbands whenever possible in order to have a complete un-

Presbyterians Slate School

Vacation Bible School begins at First Presbyterian Church Monday, June 2 from 9-11:30 a.m. It will continue through June 6.

An open house will be held on the final day with ice cream and cake to be served.

The church also honored their high school graduates last Sunday.

The list includes Carol Hart, Charles Kennedy, Linda Little, Gage Mims, Christine Soldan, Ronnie Wheeler and Ronnie Wheeler.

The youth fellowship recently took 26 young people and six counselors to Six Flags.

Missions Special Set On Tuesday Television

Rev. Paul Goodwin, representing World Literature Crusade, will host a five-hour World Missions Special, Tuesday, June 3, starting at 6:30 p.m. on KMID-TV, Channel 2.

The TV event is sponsored by area pastors and WLC, a 28-year old California-based interdenominational ministry, founded by Dr. Jack McAlister, its director. The missionary organization is working in 210 countries of the world, supplying gospel literature for free distribution through 415 missionary organizations and denominational societies, noted a local spokesman.

PAUL GOODWIN

The fullcolor telecast highlights include a blind girl in South East Asia and a "shoe ceremony" for gospel literature distributors who walked 4000 miles. It takes you to the grave of Robert Morrison - the first China Missionary, and also relates the story of present-day Christian martyrs. You'll see a converted witchdoctor. You will visit a condemned murderer in an Asian prison, plus see the unbelievable condition of "Sin City" Africa. Also dramatized is a remarkable conversion to Christ after an attempted suicide, the spokesman further revealed. Viewers will also be brought face to face via electronics with Dr. McAlister, national leaders on many continents, and by recording with Evangelist Billy Graham and Missionary-Statesman Dr. Oswald J. Smith.

Tedd Smith, pianist for the Billy Graham Evangelistic Team, furnishes the musical numbers for the screening.

Rev. Goodwin, Host for the local World Literature

Crusade Special airing at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 3 on Channel 2, will also interview several area leaders during the telecast which is designed for armchair viewing of this missionary ministry in action.

Workshop Set

PLAINVIEW— The eleventh annual Church Secretaries' Workshop will be held on the Wayland Baptist College campus June 19-21, according to workshop director, Joe Provence. Guest clinician will be Russel Noel, associate pastor of the First Baptist Church of Tulsa, Okla.

The workshop, designed to cover almost every area of church office responsibility from filing to church publication, is open to any church secretary. Cost is $27.50 which includes registration fees, housing in an air-conditioned dormitory and meals in the campus dining center.

Information may be had from Joe Provence, Wayland Baptist College, 1900 W. 7th, 79072, or call (806) 296-5521.

Baptist Association Schedules Youth Camp

The Baptist Associational Youth Camp will begin Monday, June 2 and continue through June 6 at the Permian Basin Baptist Encampment north of Stanton.

Youth of the junior high and high school age groups will attend from Odessa, Midland, Big Spring, Colorado City and other communities in the area.

The Rev. Jack Clinkscapes, pastor of Forsan Baptist Church will serve as morning speaker. The early morning Bible study will center around Christian Family Life.

The Rev. Eddie Thibodeaux, East Fourth Baptist in Big Spring will teach the session on Parents; the Rev. Rufus Wilson, Midway Baptist, will conduct the session husbands; the Rev. Freddie Martin, Berea Baptist, the session on wives and the Rev. Jim Wilkerson, Crestview Baptist, the session on children.

The night session will be highlighted by two groups from Crestview Baptist, the Complete Seven and Relative Four. This group now has their own recording. They will lead the preaching and singing.

Anyone interested in additional information, call the Rev. Wilkerson at Crestview Baptist.

Trinity Sets Bible School

Daily Vacation Bible School at Trinity Baptist will be held June 2-6 for all ages, Toddler through Teens.

Teachers and workers will work under the theme, "Let's Walk With Jesus." Their aim will be to show the students the reality of Jesus' walk on earth and how they, as believers, can walk with Him here now, according to Bible school leaders.

There will be an offering contest between the boys and girls, with the money going to mission work. Bibles will be given to a boy and girl in each department, bringing the most first time visitors.

The Rev. Claude Craven, will be speaking in the assembly and Bro. Homer Hess will lead the singing.

On Monday morning, the children will assemble out front of the auditorium at 8:30 a.m., march in for announcements and then to classes to register.

Tuesday through Friday, they will go directly to their departments from 9-11:30 a.m.

Refreshments will be served each day and buses will be running. Those needing the bus service may call 7-6344 or 7-2875.

Beaumont Mother Clubs Policemen Jailbreak With Her Lifeless Son

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Two prisoners grabbed a guard making his rounds, escorted him down to the first floor of the Jefferson County courthouse and literally crashed out today.

Jailer Robert Alderson, held at knifepoint, broke free as they were emerging from an elevator and was unhurt. The pair then bolted through a door into the street, smashing the plate glass as they fled.

Officers identified the escapees as Arnold R. Darby, 25, of Vidor, who was convicted last week of robbery by assault and being a habitual criminal, and Jimmy Ray Messer, 20, of Hull, who was held on an auto theft charge.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A young mother charged with murder was hospitalized Thursday after clubbing police officers with her 7-day-old son, police said.

Justice of the Peace W. W. Matthews accepted murder charges against Barbara P. Strickland, 21, in the death of her son, Roland Jr. Mrs. Strickland was confined to the psychiatric ward of Peter Smith Hospital.

it then ran into the bedroom. "God and the devil made me do it," he quoted Mrs. Strickland who he said then leaped onto the back of officer P.S. Olguin.

The woman threw the baby's body on the floor and she was taken into custody.

Police said witnesses told them the woman threw the baby through an apartment window three times then walked around outside with the child slung over her shoulder.

Neighbors said the woman hurled a Bible into the yard of a nearby resident and said "Come see my baby. They (God and the devil) made me do it."

Police said the woman pitched the child onto a car hood at one point during the rampage then took the body and beat it against several apartments.

The woman's husband, Air Force Sgt. Roland Strickland, was on duty at nearby Carswell AFB at the time but returned home where police said he became incoherent.

"She seemed like a very nice person," police quoted a neighbor.

Judge Matthews set bond for Mrs. Strickland at $10,000.

Prison Sentence

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Billy Jack Potts, 44, A Texas businessman, pleaded guilty Wednesday in Garland County Circuit Court to a charge of possessing heroin and was sentenced to five years in prison.

A jury trial for Potts was canceled when the state dropped a charge of possession with intent to sell after Potts agreed to plead guilty to the lesser charge.

At the time of Potts' arrest, police said the heroin seized from him was the largest such confiscation in Arkansas to date, with a street value of about $50,000.

Car Auction By Three Okies To Ensnare Loot

DALLAS (AP) — Millions of dollars in antique and classic automobiles from the collections of three Oklahoma men are to be auctioned here Sunday.

Potential buyers must purchase a catalog for $10, which admits two persons to view and bid on 70 vehicles, including a 1912 Reeves steam tractor, a 1949 London taxi, a 1919 Pierce Arrow dual valve roadster and a 1928 Rolls Royce Phantom I.

The vehicles are from the private collections of James C. Leake, of Muskogee, Okla., and W.E. Howell, of Breene M. Kerr, of Oklahoma City. Edward Landrigan of New York is the auctioneer.

Leake is chairman of Leake Industries, which owns Antiques, Inc., in Muskogee, which includes an automobile museum housing 45 antique, classic and special interest cars, five classic aircraft and 20 motorcycles. He is reportedly one of the few collectors to own six fully restored Rolls-Royce Silver Ghosts.

Howell, an Oklahoma oilman, joined with Kerr, director of Kerr-McGee Oil Corp., to form a group of automobile dealerships in the Southwest. In addition, the two men established Classic Motors, Inc., and Preservation Hall in Oklahoma City.

The group auctioned a large selection of antique and rare classic cars in Grand Prairie, Tex., last year.
