Two Major Problems Unsolved

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The 64th regular session of the Texas Legislature ends today with a usual last-minute rush to handle major controversies without causing a special session. Two prime issues remained to be settled in the final hours.

The Senate meets at 10 a.m. with its first order of business a $133 million appropriations resolution containing a batch of amendments that kept House members up until 3:30 a.m. Sunday.

The House set a 4 p.m. special session to consider the compromise $12 billion state spending bill for 1976-77.

A conference committee on public utilities regulation set a 9 a.m. session to vote on a compromise bill. The measure, if approved by the committee, then would go to the two houses for consideration.

A third major issue, public school financing, was settled Sunday afternoon when representatives accepted Senate amendments, sending the $653.5 million measure to the governor for signature.

Other major issues were handled earlier in the 140-day sessions, including a series of "emergency" appropriations bills that give the 64th a new speed record in doing away with a $1 billion surplus.

No. 1 achievement up to Sunday had been the approval of a proposed new state constitution that will be presented to voters Nov. 4. It won an okay back in April from the 181 senators and representatives, most of whom were delegates to the unsuccessful 1974 Constitutional Convention.

Then there has been legislative approval of a one-election presidential primary bill, sought by backers of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex.; a new voter registration bill with a purge of rolls every two years; an increase in water development bonds from $400 million to $800 million, limited control over strip mining in Texas; and just Saturday the approval of two malpractice insurance bills sought by protesting doctors.

A third malpractice bill was killed by the House.

One of the major defeats of the session has been the widespread efforts, including backing by the governor, of property tax reform, particularly a statewide method of property evaluation.

The property tax issue played a major part in debate on the public school finance bill because of the necessity of equalized school taxation in each district.

"This bill is a cop-out on the basic problems of ad valorem tax reform," said Rep. Neil Caldwell, D-Alvin. "We need to revamp the entire tax structure of this state."

Meanwhile, 20 anesthesiologists in El Paso voted unanimously Sunday to strike Thursday and Friday except for emergency surgery. Dr. Tom Dent, a spokesman for the El Paso doctors, said the high cost, and in some cases, the unavailability of malpractice insurance rates prompted the vote.

In some cases doctors are paying 10 per cent of their income toward insurance, Dent said.

Odessa anesthesiologists Dr. John F. Muxworthy and Dr. James McKinney said 80 per cent of the anesthesiologists in West Texas would follow them if they decide to join the work stoppage, for elective surgery. They said the group includes doctors in Odessa, Midland, McCombs, Fort Stockton, Andrews, Monahans and Kermit.

"If I had an adequate way of making a living outside of medicine I would quit right now," Muxworthy said.

Anesthesiologists in Beaumont said they will wait until Friday to decide.

Dallas anesthesiologists are to meet early this week to consider work stoppages. Several of them are waiting the outcome of a TMA meeting Tuesday.

Houston physicians do not have the problems of other doctors in the state because the Harris County Medical Society earlier this year worked out a group plan with an insurance company on an experimental basis.

Most spokesmen for the striking doctors said they hoped the protest would lead to a special legislative session in which malpractice rate reform would be considered.

The latest call for a strike came when the Texas Legislature failed to pass a bill pushed by the TMA.

The legislature did pass and send to Gov. Dolph Briscoe for signature two medical malpractice bills. One requires all insurance companies which write liability insurance to join in a pool to write malpractice coverage for doctors in high risk specialties.

THOUGH INCREASES LOOM

Grocery Shoppers Are Paying Less

By The Associated Press

The first five months of 1975 brought lower prices for supermarket shoppers, but a new round of increases may be just around the corner, an Associated Press market-basket survey shows.

Sugar and eggs continued to decline during May, following the pattern set in the early part of this year. But the savings for consumers were partially offset by increases in the price of beef and pork, and the Agriculture Department says egg prices will rise in coming months due to a decrease in the supply.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price on March 1, 1973, and has rechecked each succeeding month.

AVERAGE DECLINE

The latest check showed the bill in every city was lower than it was at the start of the year when prices were at or near record highs. On the average, the decline was 8.3 per cent.

During May, the market-basket total declined in 10 cities, down an average 1.9 per cent, and increased in three, up an average 2.7 per cent. In April, however, the market-basket total declined in every city, down an average 2.9 per cent.

Also on the gloomy side: prices at the end of May were 9.9 per cent higher than they were a year earlier, and there were fewer individual price declines during May than there were during April.

The increases had been expected and reflected generally higher prices paid at the wholesale level.

Cattlemen, discouraged by low prices for beef in the first part of 1975, have been keeping their animals in pastures, waiting for prices to go up again. A drop in supply means an increase in prices.

The price of a pound of chopped chuck increased during May in 18 of the cities checked, with increases ranging from 5 per cent in Albuquerque, N.M., where the price went from $1.18 to $1.24 a pound, to 62 per cent in Dallas, where the price went from 98 cents to $1.59 a pound.

Pork chops also went up in price in eight cities, and the Agriculture Department has said pork prices probably will continue to rise as supplies decrease and demand for something other than beef increases.

Prices of eggs — one substitute for meat as a source of protein — continued to drop, down in 11 cities during May. But the USDA has said, "Reduced egg supplies, combined with higher prices for most high-protein foods, are expected to boost egg prices well above a year earlier in coming months."

LOWEST LEVEL

Sugar prices also continued their decline and were at their lowest level since the middle of last summer. May decreases in the price of a five-pound sack of sugar ranged from 11 per cent in Albuquerque to 27 per cent in Boston. In several cities, sugar was selling for $1.39 for a five-pound sack and the highest price in the survey was $1.79 at the New York City check store.

Sugar prices at the stores checked in The AP survey had hit a high of $3.07 for five pounds, generally around last December. The low during the survey period was an average 73 cents for five pounds in the early part of 1973.

Predictions as to what will happen during the rest of 1975 vary, with most government and industry experts saying food prices depend on whether harvests are as large as expected. The Agriculture Department has said the rate of increase should decline and adds that if farmers get bumper crops, the 1975 food price boost should be about 6 or 8 per cent, compared to 14.5 per cent in each of the past two years.

The items on The AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar.

The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, Salt Lake City and Seattle.

AREA OF WITHDRAWAL — Located in area of pullback by Israel near Suez Canal. Premier Yitzhak Rabin announced Monday that Israel will withdraw half its tanks and all peace gesture to Egypt. Rabin said Israel was responding to Egypt's reopening of the canal, scheduled for Thursday.

Israel Reducing Force Near Suez

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel is reducing its tanks, firepower and troop strength along the Suez Canal as a gesture of peace toward Egypt for the reopening of the waterway, Premier Yitzhak Rabin announced today.

Rabin said half of Israel's tanks in the front line zone would be withdrawn to at least 18 miles from the canal, and all artillery pieces would be pulled back 19 miles from the shipping channel.

All missiles except anti-tank missiles will be moved behind a line 24 miles from the canal, Rabin said, and 3,500 men — half Israel's front line troops — will withdraw from the limited arms region east of the United Nations buffer zone.

Egypt is to open the canal Thursday and "the government of Israel is interested in the safety of international shipping and trusts that an atmosphere of tranquility will prevail in the area of the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Suez," Rabin said.

The Israeli pullback, announced as President Ford and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat were meeting in Salzburg, Austria, amounted to a strengthening of last year's disengagement pact worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Under the terms of the disengagement agreement worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Israel is permitted no more than 36 artillery pieces, 30 tanks and 7,000 men in a six-mile-wide strip east of a U.N. buffer zone in the Sinai Desert.

Egypt is limited to the same number of troops and equipment on the other side of the U.N. area.

The sources said the Israeli pullback would not affect the size of the Egyptian force.

Simon Suggests Paying More Interest On Bonds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon proposed today that Congress let the government pay more than 6 per cent interest on savings bonds and otherwise give the Treasury more elbow room in managing the mounting public debt.

Simon offered to accept Congress' estimate of what the limit on Treasury borrowing should be — $617.6 billion — but renewed the warnings sounded by President Ford and other administration spokesmen that the lawmakers should trim their projected spending to hold the deficit to $60 billion in the year beginning July 1. Congress has estimated a $68.8 billion deficit.

The national debt ceiling now is $331 billion, but will drop to $400 billion July 1, unless Congress acts. The debt is expected to be $333 billion June 30.

Ford underlined his insistence on lower spending by vetoing last week a $5.3 billion emergency employment bill strongly supported by the House Democratic leadership. The House is expected to vote Wednesday on overriding the veto.

Simon told the House Ways and Means Committee that the Treasury has conducted the borrowing needed to finance the continuing government deficits "in a responsible and constructive manner" but that it has been hampered by limitations on interest it may pay on long-term securities.

In general, the rate on these is restricted to 4 1/4 per cent, making them unsalable under the general borrowing conditions that have prevailed for several years. Congress enacted a $10 billion exception, but Simon said all but $1.5 billion has been used up.

Eisaku Sato Death Victim

TOKYO (AP) — Eisaku Sato, former prime minister of Japan and winner of the Nobel Peace Prize, died early Tuesday at a Tokyo hospital. He was 74.

Sato had been in a serious condition since he collapsed with a stroke and fell into a coma on May 19 at a Tokyo restaurant.

Mrs. Sato and the couple's two sons were at his bedside when he died.

Doctors' Slowdown Is Due To Be Felt

By The Associated Press

The full impact of a work stoppage by anesthesiologists in three Texas cities was expected to be felt today while doctors in other areas contemplated joining the protest against high malpractice insurance rates.

Some doctors in San Antonio, Austin and Fort Worth officially started a work slowdown at midnight Saturday but its effect not determined since the doctors promised to handle emergency and only emergency cases are handled on Sundays.

Those doctors taking part include anesthesiologists in San Antonio and Fort Worth, and about 100 Austin doctors, or one third of the city's physicians. Those involved in the Austin slowdown include general surgeons, neurosurgeons, orthopedic surgeons and anesthesiologists.

The president-elect of the Texas Medical Association (TMA), which previously has been noncommittal on the work stoppage, said the organization could meet this week to discuss a possible statewide strike.

Dr. L.S. Thompson Jr. of Dallas said that by any widespread work stoppage in Texas probably would go beyond a curtailment by anesthesiologists and include all doctors.

"If we are forced to curtail our work, we will be organized. We won't call a stoppage for two weeks and then go back to work. It will be a unanimous decision and we will mean it," he said.

DISCUSSION DUE

Meanwhile, 20 anesthesiologists in El Paso voted unanimously Sunday to strike Thursday and Friday except for emergency surgery. Dr. Tom Dent, a spokesman for the El Paso doctors, said the high cost, and in some cases, the unavailability of malpractice insurance rates prompted the vote.

In some cases doctors are paying 10 per cent of their income toward insurance, Dent said.

Odessa anesthesiologists Dr. John F. Muxworthy and Dr. James McKinney said 80 per cent of the anesthesiologists in West Texas would follow them if they decide to join the work stoppage, for elective surgery. They said the group includes doctors in Odessa, Midland, McCombs, Fort Stockton, Andrews, Monahans and Kermit.

"If I had an adequate way of making a living outside of medicine I would quit right now," Muxworthy said.

Anesthesiologists in Beaumont said they will wait until Friday to decide.

Country Doc Is Quitting

LYNCHBURG, Tenn. (AP) — Dr. F. Harlan Booher has hung a hand-lettered sign with the single word "retired" on the door of his office here.

"The malpractice thing was what broke the camel's back," he said. "They wanted to raise my insurance premium about 200 per cent, and I have never had a malpractice suit."

Like many other country doctors, Booher said increasing red tape and paperwork also were responsible for his decision to retire "early" at 70.

The decision leaves Lynchburg, where the biggest industry is Jack Daniels' bourbon distillery, without a doctor. And Booher says many of the town's 361 residents have "fallen out" with him because he won't go out and try to recruit another one.

"I wouldn't recommend a man to come here because he's just going to get the crumbs, and you can't live unless you get a little meat."

Booher, who came here with his wife in 1936, said that in the past he could handle almost any kind of ailment in his office and deliver most babies without taking the mother to a hospital.

"But now," he says, "all obstetrics cases, heart cases and fractures have to be taken to a hospital or you run the risk of being sued for malpractice." When a patient used to get hurt or there was an emergency, I'd get up and work several hours and my wife and I would lose a night's sleep.

"Now, when a patient gets hurt, they slap him in an ambulance and in 15 minutes he's in the hospital where he has four or five nurses and everything he needs — and no one loses a night's sleep."

He noted that improved transportation has made it possible for Lynchburg residents to get to hospitals in Fayetteville, Tullahoma and Winchester in 15 to 30 minutes. "I think people are better off now than ever before, but people in the country won't accept it."

Teen Watches Companion Die

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An injured teen-ager who watched his companion choke to death after they became trapped in a cave north of San Antonio remained hospitalized today.

Paul Haggerty, 16, of San Antonio was carried to safety Sunday by an emergency medical team that found the youths 24 hours earlier.

Haggerty's companion, David Brown, 16, of Fort Worth, died in the cave when a rope apparently tangled around his neck, investigators said.

Rescuers using flashlights administered treatment to Haggerty in the cave after receiving radioed instructions from a physician.

Haggerty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Haggerty, was taken to Bexar County Hospital and later transferred to Northeast Baptist Hospital.

A Bexar County Hospital spokesman said the youth had a broken jaw, fractured leg and arm and possible internal injuries.

The drama began about noon Saturday when the owner of the land where the cave is located noticed motorcycles, a radio, a camera and a radio near the cave entrance.

Owner H.W. Mayor said a steel plate that had covered the 24-inch opening had been pried away.

Mayor said he shouted into the cave but drew no answer. He notified authorities later in the day when he saw the motorcycles and other items were still on the surface.

A fire department rescue party inched down a narrow passageway that dropped 10 to 20 feet before resuming a horizontal path.

"There was hardly room for a 150-pound man to squeeze down," said rescuer Reyes Lopez.

The searchers said Haggerty was found with his head out of a pool of water where he had fallen after trying to help Brown.

Lopez said the boys had started out of the cave when Brown apparently slipped, entangling a rope around his arm. As he tried to unsnarl the rope, he slipped again and the rope wrapped around his neck.

REA Strike Is Called

NEW YORK (AP) — A wildcat strike by union employees of REA Express, a major surface and air delivery service, halted all pickups and deliveries in a number of cities across the country today.

A company spokesman said that thousands of workers, members of the Brotherhood of Railway, Airline and Steamship Clerks, did not report to work in New York City, Chicago, Detroit, Cincinnati and Atlanta.

The employees are protesting the company's announced plans to close 153 of its 340 terminals in the 50 states, Puerto Rico and Canada and fire about 400 employees.

(One of the offices closed was in Big Spring.)

The union, which has some 8,000 members in REA, lost a fight in federal bankruptcy court last week to have the company honor its work contract.

NO RAIN

No more rain today or Tuesday. High today and Tuesday in the 90s. Low tonight, mid 60s. Southeasterly wind 15-25 miles per hour this afternoon. Blowing 5-15 m.p.h. tonight.

Old Injury Is Blamed

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — White House aides blame a chronic "football knee" for the hard fall and other missteps that President Ford suffered in Salzburg on Sunday.

Lt. Col. Robert Blake, Ford's Air Force aide, disclosed that the 61-year-old President wears a knee supporter when he plays golf because of an injury when he played center for the University of Michigan during the 1930s.

Ford's fall, which appeared to have been caused by rain-slicked steps, occurred as he was coming down the ramp from his plane at the Salzburg airport. Still several steps from the bottom, he slipped and his right heel caught on the final step. He sprawled forward on his hands and one knee. The heel was torn off.

Shaken and chagrined, the President landed practically at the feet of Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky. Ford rose quickly to shake Kreisky's hand and to assure the chancellor he was uninjured.

"Sorry I tumbled in," he told the small crowd that turned out in the rain to greet him.

Taking a similar light tone, Mrs. Ford told newsmen: "It was a nonskid heel, it said on the bottom."

Registration Is Under Way

Registration was under way at Howard College and will continue to 8 p.m. today.

Classes start Tuesday, but later registrants have until Friday to register. Dr. Charles Hays, president, however, urged prompt sign up because classes missed in the summer session are more difficult to make up.

Registration is in the Anthony Hunt Library, but after today will be in the office of director of admissions.

OOPS A DAISY — Dr. Richard Kirkpatrick, one of three Mayo Clinic physicians who volunteered to ride wheelchairs for a day in Rochester, took a tumble while trying to negotiate a ramp. Cause of the mishap was attributed to making a high speed frontal assault on the curb wheelchair ramp instead of backing up the ramp carefully.

Raise Or Reduce Fares?

The Council on Wage and Price Stability has struck a blow for the consumer — in this case, the consumer of air travel. It has done so by urging that domestic air fares not be increased to make up for declining traffic, but cut to encourage more people to travel by air.

The Council's rationale is so cogent as to merit quotation: "We are concerned that the sharply declining traffic levels of recent months indicate that the fare increases, together with economic conditions generally, have virtually eliminated the discretionary traveler from the air transportation market. The solution, we believe, lies in a reduction in the cost of air travel so as to generate new business, not in further fare increases in an attempt to recoup from the remaining passengers the revenue lost as a result of traffic declines."

This plays a variation on the classic theme that a decline in demand should properly be met with price reduction. That is sound economic doctrine from which the air lines should not be exempt.

Two leading air lines have approached the matter from an entirely different direction: American Airlines seeks a 6 per cent increase. Trans World Airlines a 5 per cent boost. They say these increases are needed to maintain the 12 per cent profit level postulated as ideal by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

No doubt this is true, granted that there is no increase in air travel to augment income. It strikes us, however, that asking for a rate boost at a time when travel is on the decline puts the cart before the horse. We would like to see, instead, a creative effort to attract passengers — and not by promising them more hors d'oeuvres and jolly times in the bar but by reducing fares for basic transportation from one point to another.

The Voice Of Experience

In allegorical column recently, James Reston had various historical and contemporary American figures gathered for a bankrupt American symposium. Old Ben Franklin was one of the voices of experience. Some people seem to think he said, that the United States can do everything at once.

Whereupon various voices began to clamor for priority — more for arms, more for business, more for women, more for welfare, more for transportation, more for research, more for education, more for exploration, more for health, more for ecology, etc., ad infinitum.

Continuing, Reston's imaginary Franklin grabbed the microphone and asked: "Is there no unity, no common faith, no common body of knowledge or principle, no common moral and intellectual discipline?" There was a deep silence.

Reston adds: "Moral — If you're broke, never invite an old man to the celebration."

Diluted Strategy

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — President Ford's continuation of a Southern political strategy in a form too diluted to be recognized by its original architects, Richard M. Nixon and John Mitchell, is emerging from backstage efforts to satisfy Southern Republican complaints over voting rights legislation.

FOR WEEKS the Southerners have failed to persuade the Ford administration to propose, as Nixon did, that the 1965 Voting Rights Act — now limited to seven Southern states — be extended nationwide. Now, however, the administration is privately offering them a quarter-loaf: a future presidential statement of intent to apply the bill administratively to all 50 states.

That is most unsatisfying to the Southerners. "It's a chicken way to do it," a prominent Southern Republican told us. "Ford's trying to get off the hook." Indeed, the President's approach could make him vulnerable to a Ronald Reagan challenge for the nomination or to a George Wallace third-party candidacy.

THIS VIVIDLY contrasts the Nixon and Ford Southern strategies. Whereas Nixon and then Atty. Gen. Mitchell put highest priority on winning Southern voters at the risk of offending non-Southerners, Mr. Ford gambles in the opposite direction. Although the issue no longer excites Southern passion as did its passage in 1965 or its 1970 five-year renewal, Southern sensibilities still rankle at being singled out for federal enforcement of black voting rights. Consequently, from the moment he became President, Mr. Ford was imperturbed by Southern Republicans to follow Nixon's 1970 example for nationwide application of the law.

THE PRINCIPAL importuner was Clarke Reed, longtime Republican state chairman of Mississippi. For months, he buttonholed top administration figures — up to, but not including, Mr. Ford himself — with this message: even if you lose in Congress as Nixon did in 1970, you will win in the South by proposing a 50-state extension.

There was no favorable response. When Southern Republican state chairmen met secretly with top White House aides in Washington last month, Reed raised the voting rights question once again. Donald Rumsfeld, Mr. Ford's chief of staff, gave no encouragement.

AS CONGRESSMEN in 1965, both Mr. Ford and Rumsfeld opposed limiting the Voting Rights Act to the Deep South. They have not changed their minds, but want to avoid Nixon-Mitchell liberal-baiting. While Nixon declared no bill at all might be better than one limited to the South, the Ford White House opposes Reed's proposal because it might slow or jeopardize renewal of the Voting Rights Act.

But conservative Republican Dean Burch, heading Mr. Ford's campaign for the nomination, picked up disturbing Southern signals the last two weeks. When asked by Burch to sign up for Mr. Ford, some Southerners have refused, citing the Ford position on voting rights as a reason.

COINCIDENTALLY OR not, rethinking has begun in the administration, led by two officials regarded as "liberals" by the Southern conservatives: James Cannon, former aide to Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and now Domestic Council staff director, and J. Stanley Pottinger, Assistant Attorney General for civil rights.

The result is this compromise, not yet approved by Mr. Ford himself.

"Stand by, American motorists, for THE OIL ONE-TWO!"

Wariness Understandable

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're a barometer tapper you probably understand the wariness of Americans when they learn that the index of leading indicators is pointing its arrow toward better economic times.

Barometer readers usually see the needle rising strongly through fair weather, only to find themselves doused in local showers shortly thereafter. It's the same with the indicator index, which has taken a decided upward turn. In general, this means you can expect a broad upturn in economic activity over the next few months, and maybe longer.

Skilled readers know, however, that they are specific people living in specific areas doing specific jobs — and that, therefore, the generality might not apply to them. They fear those local showers.

Sure, they say, the needle is pointing upward, but is it pointing at me? They note that the President's own advisers now are looking for a jobless rate of about 7.9 per cent in 1976, which is more than double the rate of 1939. They note also that the administration fears that joblessness could remain as high as 7.2 per cent in 1977, and that it might not get down to 5 per cent until 1980.

The job situation remains therefore a major disappointment of modern economic life. Less than a decade ago we sought to limit unemployment to less than 4 per cent. We've given up the effort now.

The index has some "good" news about prices too, but it's as if it's been raining a torrent for days and your house is flooded, you'll consider it very good news if the weather improves to a drizzle.

The administration's forecasters expect prices this year will average 9.1 per cent over those of 1974, which is a decided improvement over the February estimate of more than 11 per cent. The Consumer Price Index in 1977 is expected to be rising at a 5 per cent rate, which is a rate we considered unacceptable just a decade ago. By the end of the decade it is projected at a 4 per cent rate.

Those figures suggest strongly that a lot of people are going to be caught in the residual showers. June graduates, for example.

The College Placement Council announced a few days ago that the employment outlook for this year's graduates is even worse than they had foreseen.

Hiring will be down by 18 per cent, the council estimates, the first decline in four years.

Any homemaker who has been living at the limit of his or her budget is also likely to get a drenching over the next few months, and perhaps even years. There is almost no prospect of appreciably lower food prices, for example.

In fact, as the administration's economists released their midyear estimates there was ominous news coming from the Agriculture Department: Farm prices are rising again.

There are other areas of bad news too, lingering consequences of the terrible storm that the nation's economy has been through. Each area of improvement is matched by a setback. Each advance seems to be followed by a retreat.

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

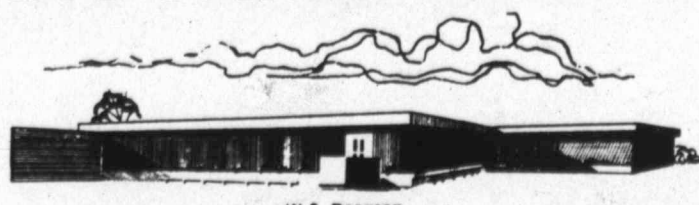

May-June, 1775:

The British position in the colonies deteriorates. On May 31 the royal governor of North Carolina, Josiah Martin, flees New Bern to Fort Johnston on Cape Fear; six weeks later he takes refuge aboard the British sloop HMS Cruzier in the Cape Fear River. On June 2 the Provincial Congress of South Carolina declares its citizens "ready to sacrifice their lives and fortunes" in the cause of liberty. On June 6 members of the Sons of Liberty, led by Lieutenant Colonel Marinus Willett, seize five wagon-loads of weapons in New York City. On June 8 Governor John Murray Dunmore of Virginia flees to the HMS Rhode at Yorktown. On June 12 the General Assembly of Rhode Island commissions two sloops — thus constituting the first navy to be established in the colonies.

Post Maternity Blues

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Doctor: I'm a 26-year-old mother, and I have a problem with depression which has lasted about a month since coming home from the hospital. My doctor is unable to explain why it happens, and says there is no cure for it. I understand that it may happen again. — Mrs. D. E.

It may be of some comfort for you to know that it is not uncommon for a new, young mother to experience this. It is unpredictable and it may appear immediately upon return home from the hospital or weeks afterward.

There are several perfectly understandable causes.

First of all, pregnancy and birth is a long and trying episode in a young woman's life. What you feel can be the result of simple fatigue, or subtle glandular imbalances which have not yet righted themselves.

Further, you have left the hospital, where your every need was provided for, and returned to a household where you are not only expected to resume a multitude of chores, but also to assume responsibility for your family's newest member — your baby. The baby may be a restless one who cries and worries you, perhaps irritates you.

You could be feeling a sense of guilt due possibly to a bit of resentment you may be harboring over this new responsibility. Your time is much less your own than before. Your husband may not be type who enjoys sharing any of the new duties and responsibilities with you, and this can further lower your spirits.

Although many women return and immediately take up their new life with genuine joy, others like yourself go through this usually transient "blues" period. Many fear that it is going to be a permanent condition, that they will never pull out of it, so to speak. This can worsen its effects.

Whether you will experience the same thing with your next baby cannot be predicted. Most women, when told that such depression is not uncommon, feel a sense of relief.

Legal Eagles

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

I think it's high time some of those justices in appeals courts walk away, turn and look back to consider the damage they've wrought. More than a few of the exalted are operating with hair-trigger judgment but precious little logic by resorting to obscure technicalities in reversing some of the decisions rendered in capital cases.

WERE SUCH persons elevated to their positions to render sophisticated interpretations of the law upon a society too immature to accept such rulings — or do they have as much at stake in the battle against jungle rule as the rest of us?

IN THE FIRST place, the judges are not there through divine right, no matter how remote they become. Chances are good they don their judicial frocks with the blessing of your oily local ward heeler or through the assistance of other legal beagles whose motives invariably can be questioned. The jurist, no matter how pompous he might appear to be, is a man who shaves like the rest of the male species, if he is a man.

He feeds at the public trough, no matter how he feels about his work.

MOST CITIZENS feel compelled to respect the law because we just for an orderly society for ourselves and our children. Because jurists are invariably at the top of the order, we often are prone to become too awed over the sapience of the people we elevate to judgeships.

I may be way off base, but I don't think the beleaguered taxpayers promoted someone to the bench for the sole purpose of rewriting Blackstone. The people who prime the pump to keep the institutions going would like to think that a man, if guilty, is adjudged that way because of the weight of evidence against him.

THE QUESTION before the house is: Do we live with and by a government operated solely for the benefit of the legal profession, or do we go right down the line for everyone?

Regrettably, the motives of too many people in the legal dodge are suspect and too many of those have the ear of the judges in high courts. And they charge what the traffic will bear.

TOO MANY lawyers are writing our laws, too many pass judgment on our laws and, for that reason, on all of us.

Many advocate that no more than 10 per cent of our law-making bodies should be made up of people in the legal profession. That has a fat chance of ever coming to pass, but it's something to think about.

'Jazz Adventures'

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Despite public TV's fine four-part "At the Top" series from station WXXI in Rochester, N.Y., jazz still is an infrequent, almost unnoticed visitor to national television.

But a 43-year-old jazz nut and promoter here is trying to give the art form a larger share of national TV time this year.

HE'S JACK Tafoya, whose half-hour "Jazz Adventures" series has appeared the past two seasons on New York's municipal public TV station, WNYC-TV.

On May 20, his series, expanded to an hour, kicks off with pianist Bill Evans' trio, followed by nine more weeks of shows with such jazz greats as Donald Byrd, Stan Getz and the Gil Evans orchestra.

The shows will appear only locally now. But Tafoya says he plans to approach both prospective underwriters and the Public Broadcasting Service about getting some or all the new programs aired nationally.

"One of the reasons jazz has never got its due is that it's never hit the mass medium, at least with artists like these," says Tafoya, a former bassist and singer who hosts all his shows.

"WHEN YOU see jazz on TV, it's always going to be Ella Fitzgerald or Benny Goodman. It's always these same people. And that's what all the kids think jazz is. They don't get to hear a Bill Evans.

He spoke before a screening of the Evans' show. The program's production was modest, but the camera work was good and the sound quality — often mediocre even in network shows — was magnificent.

Tafoya says he gets most of the money for his non-profit "Jazz Adventures," which also holds off-camera concerts locally, from the New York State Council on the Arts.

THE COUNCIL, a tax-supported body, says it gave JA an $11,000 grant for the 1973-74 season and doubled that this season.

Tafoya said he taped the current batch of "Jazz Adventures" TV shows at Brooklyn College before a student audience in January and February.

He says he hopes to enlist PBS' wealthiest station, WNET-TV here, in helping him find corporate underwriters who would pay for the series' national broadcast, when and if such ever occurs.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Now that the United States Supreme Court has affirmed the right of the press to publish facts from public court records, the press ought to affirm its responsibility to use this right with care.

It would be sad if the press, on the contrary, sought an excuse for exploiting personal tragedies in the court's overturning of a Georgia law against printing or broadcasting the name of a rape victim.

Certainly no governmental decree should interfere with what Justice Douglas's concurring opinion called "the rough-and-tumble discourse which the First Amendment so clearly protects." But the press and other news media owe to their audiences — and to their own sense of integrity — a continuing effort to keep the rough-and-tumble within some self-imposed equivalent of the Marquis of Queensbury rules for fair play.

"The function of the press serves to guarantee the fairness of trials and to bring to bear the beneficial effects of public scrutiny upon the administration of justice... The freedom of the press to publish that information appears to us to be of critical importance to our type of government in which the citizenry is the final judge of the proper conduct of public business." — Christian Science Monitor

My Answer

Billy Graham

My husband and I love helping people, especially young people. We're in our twenties. Over the past year, we've taken in my nephews on and off — boys who because of a divorced working mother have been very much alone. She's into various religious cults now, one of which tells her she won't go to heaven if she can't keep her family together. What's your evaluation of that teaching, and how can we help this poor woman?

C. B. I find many proofs of man's spirituality. One is that in every age and society, man has fabricated his own rules for getting to heaven. Just so ingrained is this recognition that we were created for fellowship with God. But this rule you mention about keeping the family together is an odd one. Los Angeles has been the locale, however, for many strange religious beliefs. Nonetheless, it's wrong! God never based His plan of salvation, or the entrance into heaven, on any human circumstance or achievement. It's by simple faith (Ephesians 2:8...).

The problem is, no matter how deplorable may be the home life of those boys, in the eyes of the law, they are their mother's responsibility. Unless there's great provocation, the court will not award their custody to another. Keep your contacts alive, phone the boys often and make their welfare a matter of daily prayer.

A Devotion For Today

"Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matthew 28:20)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, forgive us for wanting to cling to some earthly security rather than face with You the great adventure of life. Give us courage to launch out into the deep with Christ, trusting Him to bring us to sure landfall and safe harbor. Amen.

TO LIFT MARTIAL LAW — President Gen. Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua clasps his hands during interview at his New York hotel suite Saturday. Somoza said he would lift martial law in his Central American country and at the same time announce indictments against 25 to 30 persons involved in December's guerrilla raid on a private party. Somoza was in New York after attending the graduation of his daughter, Carolina, from Wellesley College.

Half Of Casualty Count Is Traced To Traffic

By The Associated Press
Traffic accidents were responsible for half the deaths by violent causes in Texas over the weekend. The Associated Press tabulated violent deaths from 6 p.m. Friday through midnight Sunday. The death count reached 16, including eight traffic fatalities, three drownings and three shooting deaths. Among the victims: Two men were shot Sunday night in a disturbance at a lounge in Universal City, a San Antonio suburb. A man was charged with murder in connection with the deaths of Vernon Haynes, 34, of Schertz and Joseph Neith, 27, of Universal City. Roy Wayne Kitchens, 16, of Fort Worth died Saturday of electrical shock and internal injuries received when he touched wires and fell 80 feet from a transmission tower. Steve Wayne Grable, 15, of Vidor drowned Sunday when the inner tube that he was riding behind a tow boat swung toward the bank of the Neches River and hit a tree. David Brown, 16, of Fort Worth was killed Saturday while exploring a cave near San Antonio. Investigators said Brown apparently choked to death when a rope tangled around his neck. Henry Elvin Norman, 17, of Point Blank drowned Saturday while swimming with companions in Lake Livingston in Southeast Texas. Two children were killed Friday night in a four-car collision on Texas 36 near Gatesville. They were identified as Karen Sue Pate, 12, and Lorie Roberts, 2. A disturbance involving several youths in Houston Friday night resulted in the shooting death of Robert Wayne Cherry, 16. John Sellers, 28, was killed early Saturday in a car-truck collision at Houston. Wheaton C. Clark was killed Friday night in a traffic accident in Houston. A collision between two pickup trucks Friday night resulted in the death of Richard Gray Foster, 38, of Happy. The trucks collided 14 miles east of Happy in Armstrong County. Richard Mason, 22, of Amarillo was killed early Saturday when his motorcycle was hit by a car about a mile north of Amarillo. Department of Public Safety officers said Mason's motorcycle was knocked about 30 feet by the impact. An Odessa youth, Ray Adams, 13, drowned Saturday in a stock tank at a relative's home in Weatherford. He and another youth were swimming in the tank when the drowning occurred. Geronimo Felix of El Paso stepped off a curb and into the path of an oncoming car, Saturday, police said. Felix, 47, was killed instantly and his body thrown 100 feet.

Dates Revealed For Jubilee

LAMESA — The Golden Tornado Jubilee, conducted every fifth year in Lamesa, will be held this year on July 4-6 at the Lamesa High School, with many individual classes planning special events. Richard Crawley and Bottles White are in charge of entertainment, including an "Extravaganza" on Saturday night.

Criminal Trial Week Is Under Way In CC

COLORADO CITY — Criminal trial week was scheduled to begin this morning in 32nd District Court with the first case on the docket expected to be that of the state vs. Anthony Tomas Baldi Jr., Bruce A. Mettler and Roy T. Boyd, charged with possession of marijuana with intent to sell. The three men were arrested following the seizure of an airplane and pickup truck with camper, both loaded with marijuana, at the city-county airport. Sheriff's Deputies L. M. Newby and Mike Stutts fired on the plane as it had unloaded and was trying to take off. Attorneys for the three men are Warren Burnett of Odessa and Charles Baldwin of Fort Worth. Other cases slated for trial include Manuel Del Real, charged with theft, Warren Burnett, attorney; retrial of case, first trial ending in hung jury; Floyd G. Frazier, DWI subsequent offense, Clifford W. Brown, Lubbock, attorney; John Edward Green, delivery of LSD. Others are Billy Jack Gaines, who pled guilty to DWI subsequent offense this week, sentenced to six months in jail, probated to two years and fined $500 and court costs, represented by Dan Barber. The list also includes Jimmy Don Ruth, charged with receiving and concealing stolen property; Roy Scott, charged with operating a gambling establishment, attorney, T. L. Rees; John Ridge, charged with operating a gambling establishment, attorney Rees and James Bender, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, represented by Dell Barber.

Boost Is Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb says President Ford's energy conservation program would push gasoline prices to near the 70-cents-a-gallon mark. The effort to raise prices is deliberate, Zarb said in response to a question Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers" interview program. "That's correct, but keep in mind that these conservation taxes which we have proposed would be returned to the economy and individuals, particularly those who could least afford to pay higher energy costs," he said. Zarb said that, while the administration plan would add 14 or 15 cents a gallon to the current price of gasoline, the legislation proposed by the House Ways and Means Committee would increase it three cents immediately and, in time, a total of 23 cents a gallon. The committee's bill was stalled by the House Democratic leadership last month before it was scheduled to reach the House floor. The imposition by President Ford so far of two $1-a-barrel extra import duties on crude oil has the effect of increasing prices on all the products drawn from the barrel, Zarb said. The House committee's bill focuses the brunt of its proposed tax hike on gasoline.

MAMMI ROCKS — Mammie Eisenhower was given the first Alumni Rocking Chair, during the fourth annual Commencement Ceremonies at Eisenhower College in Seneca Falls, N. Y., Saturday. An unidentified alumni member stands behind her.

'Franking' Privileges Are Being Challenged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both the Senate and House are fighting subpoenas seeking testimony and records about alleged abuses of free mailing privileges by their members.

The subpoenas were issued in connection with a lawsuit, filed by Common Cause, seeking to end taxpayer-financed mass mailings by members of Congress.

Among the items being withheld are records of complaints received by the Senate and House bodies that are supposed to deal with abuses of the free mail or "franking" privilege. Records of what happened to those complaints are likewise being kept in Congress' file cabinets.

Also being withheld are records that would show what materials were mailed at taxpayer expense by each member of the Senate and House.

The House has refused even to allow its employees to appear to give testimony in the lawsuit. The Senate has allowed some testimony, but won't disclose its records.

Testimony and documents already on file in the lawsuit show that much of the mail Congress sends at taxpayer expense is tied directly to the reelection campaigns of Senate and House members.

Among the disclosures so far:

—Two direct-mail experts, on the Senate payroll at $19,000-a-year and $25,000-a-year respectively, advised several incumbent Republicans on how to use "official" franked mail to get votes.

—A manual setting up a model campaign schedule for Senate Democrats refers to newsletters as a "free forum" and tells when they should be sent during the campaign.

—Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., in 1973 approved a tax-financed mail program intended to pay off for him on election day, according to testimony of a former aide. Javits was unavailable for comment, but another aide said the senator sends franked mail even when he isn't running, and that it "has nothing to do with voters per se."

—Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., mailed more than 800,000 letters to special interest groups during his 1973 re-election campaign. These letters sometimes paid off in campaign donations and volunteers. A Tower aide said the letters were within the law and were intended to inform Texans about Tower's activities.

None of this activity necessarily violates any law or regulation since Congress has wide discretion in use of tax-paid mail. Congress gave itself the right to send official mail at government expense at the founding of the Republic, and only Congress polices against abuses of the free mailings.

Common Cause contends that franked mass mailings give a political edge to incumbents over candidates trying to unseat them and that this violates the constitutional guarantee of due process.

Rolling Stones Do It Their Way In Dixie

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The Rolling Stones roared into a long-awaited concert tour with a longer-than-usual two-hour performance that made up for a late beginning, a crackling sound system and a mammoth traffic jam.

"It's good to get the first one out of you and release that tension," said Mick Jagger lead singer and spokesman for the British rock group, after the Sunday matinee that was the group's first time on stage in 18 months.

Jagger promised something extra for the crowd at the first of their two performances. "This is the first show of our tour, so we're trying to find out what we're failing to do. So we're going to do a lot more."

The Stones will play 58 concerts in America, Canada, Mexico and South America between now and September.

With them for the entire tour will be a new lead guitarist, Ron Wood, replacing Mick Taylor, who left the group late last year. The other Stones are guitarist Keith Richards, drummer Charlie Watts, and bassist Bill Wyman, along with Billy Preston, an American keyboard man who is touring with them.

The Stones played two shows at the 15,000-seat Louisiana State University Assembly Center. After the first show, fans staggered into a mammoth traffic jam made worse by early arrivals for the night show — just 90 minutes later.

Both performances started late. Patient fans bounced beachballs around as they waited more than an hour for stagehands to set up the huge lotuspetal stage. Then the house lights dimmed, the stage lit up, and the crowd came to its feet with a roar.

The ever-outrageous Jagger, dressed in a black leather jacket and pink-striped pants, was lying near the rear of the stage. As the drums rolled and the trumpets blew flourishes, he popped to his feet and pranced around the stage.

Somebody in the audience threw a Confederate flag at his feet. Jagger picked it up and draped it over the bass drum.

The show went on. Jagger and Preston bumped and ground their way through Preston's hit, "Outer Space." Jagger gradually disrobed and sang the last two numbers waving his shirt over his head.

Some Refugees Hesitate To Leave U.S. Camps

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — Many of the 1,200 Vietnamese refugees free to leave this Florida Panhandle camp are lingering behind simply because they are afraid of the outside world, officials say.

"There's a great fear of the unknown among the refugees," says Hugh McCloone, who runs the Catholic Relief Bureau here, "a great fear of how they'll be received, how they'll succeed when they get out the door."

Of the 5,629 refugees who had arrived at Eglin by the past weekend, 2,148 had sponsors and were free to leave. But only 961 had departed, leaving nearly 1,200 of the security-approved refugees still in camp.

In addition, three refugees who happily left the tent city, eager to begin new lives, have returned to the base, officials said.

One Vietnamese, who asked not to be identified, agreed that some of his countrymen were afraid to take the final step.

"We're afraid that something will go wrong. We don't really know our sponsors, and we don't know whether they will really be responsible for us, help us for months or even years if necessary," he said.

Les Gottlieb, deputy chief of the camp, said word spread quickly when one girl, who had left for a north-west Florida town with a sponsor, returned in tears.

"She showed up at the main gate in the dead of the night only a couple of days later," he said. "The guards didn't know what to do... and I had to telephone them to say it was all right for her to come back."

Officials said the combination of refugee uncertainty, slow security clearances, and a slackening in sponsorships will keep this camp open long past the July target-date for closing.

Troops Aid In Guard Exercise

Troop 401 sponsored by American Legion post 355, and Troop 1 sponsored by the Rotary Club, assisted the Texas State Guard in a simulated search and rescue exercise this weekend. The Scouts acted as a group of people lost and injured in a remote wilderness. The Texas State Guard mission was to find them and to administer the necessary aid.

Some of the Scouts represented such injuries as burns, cuts and abrasions, and unconsciousness and were carried out on litters to waiting emergency vehicles. Also, the local Sheriff's posse was there to observe.

Troop 401 spent the night at the Silver Hills Scout Campground. It will be going to summer June 15-21 and Scoutmaster Charles Burks urged each to be prepared for this year's camp. The Troop will be having its Court of Honor this Thursday at the Texas State Park on Scenic Mountain at 7:30 p.m. Also, visitors are invited to meet with Troop 401 behind Kentwood Center at 7:30 p.m. each Thursday night.

Tractor Pullers Slate 3 Dates

Three tractor pulls are scheduled in this area for the summer. The first comes up July 4 at Snyder, the second the following day at Lamesa. Then there will be a two-day (July 12-13) at San Angelo. A Colorado City date is pending.

The Texas Tractor Pullers Association, in its recent newsletter, said there will be an awards banquet at the end of the pull season with trophies going to all winners. The 1974 champs may enter without charge in the class in which they won, provide they give 30-day notice. Failure to appear after notice makes them liable for twice the entry fee.

A recent interpretation of the rules defines a stock tractor as any tractor that has no visible modifications, except where these would not affect the performance (such as chrome exhausts, dressed-up front ends).

Motion OKed

A motion has been granted by the Eleventh Supreme Judicial District Court in Eastland to appellees to supplement the transcript in the case of Marion P. Cogdell versus the Fort Worth National Bank, et al. The case has been in litigation from Scurry County for more than a year.

Congress Court Is Briefed On Tax Increase At Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is returning from a 10-day Memorial Day recess with an agenda that includes foreign policy, voting rights, a deadlocked appropriation bill and two presidential vetoes.

Liberals and conservatives were prepared to do battle in the Senate later today in what was billed as a "great debate" on foreign policy and defense posture in the post-Vietnam era.

The vehicle for this debate is a $30.3 billion authorization bill for military weapons procurement and research. The amount recommended by the Senate Armed Services Committee for the 15-months beginning July 1 is $5.4 billion less than Pentagon budget requests and $2.3 billion under the bill passed by the House on May 20.

Final Senate action is scheduled for Friday after votes beginning Wednesday on amendments to impose additional over-all cuts and to reduce or eliminate specific weapons programs.

The debate was arranged primarily by Sens. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., with the cooperation of Sens. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Harry F. Byrd, Ind.-Va.

In a prelude May 22, in which all senators were invited to express their views, Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Senate Armed Services Committee warned: "Let America beware of a military buildup immediately after all that has happened in South Vietnam."

On the liberal side, Cranston said Americans are "calling for new priorities."

Before convening in the commissioners courtroom, County Commissioners Court met with a representative of the oil and gas appraisal firm in the county judge's office this morning.

Jim Rapier of Pritchard and Abbott briefed the court about increasing oil property tax values. Commissioner Jack Buchanan said.

Also, Rapier spoke of increasing property taxes paid by Texas Electric Service Co. and Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in the informal meeting.

On June 9, commissioners court will sit as a board of equalization for oil, gas and mineral taxes, County Clerk Margaret Ray said.

Real estate taxes will be considered on June 25 and 26, Mrs. Ray said.

Waiting to meet with the court were a group of citizens concerned about drainage problems on a Sand Springs street.

Guy W. Kuykendall pressed for a date when the county would have improvements made. Commissioner Ikie Rupard said, "We've got this on the work schedule, as soon as we've got the hazards taken care of."

"I never dreamed about it (water) going over those (railroad) tracks," Rupard said.

That's a situation the railroad didn't anticipate any more than we did," County Engineer Neel Barnaby said.

Rains have damaged county roads all over Howard County, Barnaby said.

Mrs. Beth Kuykendall said she talked to Barnaby earlier about water flooding her house. Others present included Mrs. Albert Hill and C. Black.

Construction work was expected to start in two weeks ago, Barnaby said, so road crews could devote all their time to maintenance and repairs needed because of torrential rains.

Paving can not be started until the temperature rises and soil dries some, Barnaby said. He had planned to start paving today.

A sales representative had contacted him, Barnaby said about a road stabilization material which is less expensive than those offered by either of two firms bidding earlier.

The court approved renting the fair barns (or Robert Ayala's wedding dance on July 19.

Grand Jury Is In Session

The grand jury with Ralph McLaughlin as foreman reconvened today to consider 24 criminal cases.

Indictments are expected to be returned, and the grand jury adjourned either late this afternoon or Tuesday.

District Attorney Robert H. (Bob) Moore III is seeking to have a number of defendants indicted before the summer vacation period.

It is harder to get grand jurors and petit jurors during the summer.

Warrant Is Out For Man Here

Police held a warrant this morning for a local man in connection with three alleged assaults on the North Side Saturday night.

One woman claimed that the man pulled a gun on her and also struck her car with a board. Two youths, 16 and 18, filed complaints against the same man, stating that he and another man beat them with his fists and a board near the Bauer school.

VFW Conclave Is Scheduled

There will be a meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at the VFW Hall on Drive Road in the Silver Heels addition Tuesday 8 p.m. This is an important business meeting and all members and prospective members are urged by Granville Miller, commander, to be present. New membership forms now are on hand and applicants can be signed. New officers, headed by Bob Bowen, will take office after June 23.

Administration Staff Studying Finance Bill

The entire central office staff at the school administration building is holding a work session today trying to figure out just what the new school finance bill means to the Big Spring school district, according to Dr. Emmett McKenzie, local superintendent.

No estimates as to how much the overall teacher pay raise of $1,400 across the board will cost the local district is yet available.

A notice tells the local school district, that although the figures are not to be interpreted as final or exact, an estimate of funds they will receive show a local fund increase for 1975-76 as an additional $163,000 which brings the total to $798,000. The following year, this should be raised to $931,000.

The additional state aid to the Big Spring district will be $902,000 which will bring the total to $4,222,000. The notice tells them the following year, this will drop $60,000 to $4,162,000.

The equalization aid, which comes to the Big Spring district because they are less wealthy than other districts will be $214,000 each year, if the figures sent by the state prove to be final.

The new bill also requires that vocational students and special education students be subtracted from the average daily attendance.

It is very complicated to subtract these since some of them are in the particular category for only one or two periods a day. The staff was working on this problem this morning. They also have to break down the ADA into divisions of kindergarten through grade 3, grades 4-6, grades 7-9 and grades 10-12.

Dr. McKenzie said, "I certainly hope that by the next school board meeting, we will have all of these figures and costs worked out, but it is very complicated."

Cotton Woes Will Prove Damaging

DREW, Miss. (AP) — It won't be a sudden thing, this estimated $1.3 billion loss of business activity and earnings brought on by dwindling cotton acreages in the Mississippi Delta.

Instead, agricultural and economic watchdogs see a gradual chipping away at first one business, then another as the anticipated reduction in cash flow spreads.

Delta farmers are abandoning King Cotton because of unstable markets, wet weather and rising production costs.

And, in small agricultural communities such as Drew, officials say the farmers face another difficulty: their borrowing power has been drained by three years of cotton production problems.

Mayor W.O. Williford said poor weather and dropping markets hurt cotton farmers in his area last year.

"In some cases they did not even get to pick their cotton... they just plowed it under."

"I know of a few farmers who aren't planting this year," he said. "And there are those who have tried to borrow money to get in a crop but they just can't get the money."

Businesses are sharing the farmers' economic woes.

Prentiss Lewis, partner in a local farm supply store, said his firm had "definitely seen a drop in business this year. It costs a whole lot less to raise (soy)beans than cotton and we are going to sell less fertilizer, less insecticides and things like that."

"And we have several tons of cotton seed that we aren't going to sell," he said.

Maurice Edmonds said his tractor parts firm did suffer when rains kept farmers out of their fields, "but no matter whether you are going to plant rice, cotton or beans, you've got to use tractors and they are going to break..."

Two Drew grocery stores said they had noticed a decline in business and that farmer families were becoming more selective in their shopping.

Agricultural experts say soybeans and rice require less cash outlay to produce, but as a rule make the farmer less money than he would earn through cotton, creating a dilemma for farmers.

"You are talking about probably a difference of $125 an acre cash outlay," agricultural economist Bob Williams said. "This difference will affect the economy of these agricultural communities because farmers will be purchasing a lot less input supplies..."

However, he added, "profits from soybeans are generally much smaller than the profits from cotton. With the exception of situations like last year, when there was a low yield from cotton and a good price on soybeans, the net profit from cotton would be double the profit from soybeans."

"We've long been too dependent on cotton and now we are becoming more diversified. That is one reason I think in the end things will balance out," Williams said.

Russian Leader May Quit

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev has been absent from public view since May 9, and there are rumors that he is under medical treatment again.

Officials attending the North Atlantic Alliance meeting in Brussels last week said they had reports indicating the 68-year-old head of the Soviet Communist party intends to retire next year after the party's 25th congress.

The Kremlin, as usual, is saying nothing. But if Brezhnev doesn't reappear soon it will fuel speculation about both his physical and political health.

Brezhnev normally should give a "campaign" speech prior to the election June 15 of the Russian republic's parliament for which he is one of the unopposed candidates. The election is the usual prearranged Communist affair, but the party adheres to some of the trappings of democracy in an attempt to strengthen the myth that democracy is in operation.

Brezhnev's failure to make a campaign speech would be a major departure from tradition and evidence that something was seriously wrong.

Last year, when he was a candidate for the Supreme Soviet, the parliament of the Soviet Union, he made his speech on June 14, two days before the election.

In 1971, as a candidate for the Russian parliament, he gave a nationally televised campaign speech on June 11, again two days before election day.

Thus, June 13 is eagerly awaited by Brezhnev watchers.

Last month there were rumors that Brezhnev was undergoing medical treatment of an unspecified nature and would be out of sight for a period. But one well-placed Soviet source discounted these reports and said he was in good physical condition.

The party chief was last seen in public at a reception in the Kremlin on May 9. He appeared vigorous and conversed animatedly with foreign guests and members of the Politburo.

Brezhnev was reported to have had a severe bout of the flu last fall, dropped out of sight in late December, and did not reappear until Feb. 13, when British Prime Minister Harold Wilson visited Moscow.

Peregrine Falcons Get New Chance In East

EDGEWOOD, Md. (AP) — Edgewood Arsenal will be receiving four new residents this week as scientists from Cornell University attempt to restock the Upper Chesapeake Bay with peregrine falcons.

Four captive-bred month-old birds will be placed in a manmade nest 75 feet above the ground Tuesday where they will be fed and cared for by scientists until mid-summer when it is hoped the birds of prey will be hunting on their own.

The peregrine, which has been clocked in flight at more than 150 miles-an-hour, was once widely distributed throughout North America, but according to Thomas Cade, professor of ornithology at Cornell, encroachments by man in the last decade have caused their near extinction.

"Man's destruction of their natural habitat and pervasive use of the pesticide DDT, which causes eggshell thinning and lowered reproduction rates, have drastically reduced the number of peregrines," said Cade.

The area around Edgewood Arsenal and Aberdeen Proving Ground was selected as the site to release the birds, used in Europe to hunt, because it has low DDT residues, sufficient food supply and is protected from disturbances by man, according to Cade.

Cade and his assistants will be using a modification of an ancient falconry technique called "hacking" to adapt the birds to their new surroundings. The nestlings will be attended by Stanley Temple, a post-doctoral associate at Cornell and several Army staff members at Edgewood.

The birds will be carefully fed and watered each day at the nest site. "In this way, the young should become imprinted on the nesting site, and presumably, some would survive to return as adult breeders," said Cade.

Cade said the hardest part of the task this summer will be protecting the baby birds from predators such as the great horned owl.

Later this summer, the Cornell staff plans to release peregrine in upstate New York, Massachusetts and several sites in the Rocky Mountains.

In 1973, Cornell researchers were able to hatch 20 peregrines, and in 1974 five pairs of falcons laid 34 fertile eggs, of which 24 hatched and 23 birds survived.

According to Cade, this spring 12 breeding pairs of birds have already hatched a dozen young. Each pair of birds is capable of producing 30-40 offspring in a lifetime, and Cade hopes to have as many as 200 birds for restocking programs by 1977.

Scientists estimate that those 200 birds would more than double the current peregrin population east of the Mississippi river.

Last year several attempts to reintroduce the birds at selected sites across the country were marred by failure. Four birds died in transit to Colorado, while another pair was killed by someone in the Catskills.

"This year our cooperative project with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the U.S. Army Material Command will permit us to introduce falcons on protected lands under federal jurisdiction," said Cade.

"These areas, which are as free as possible from human molestation, will provide ideal sites for re-establishing peregrine falcons."

Loan To Help Meet Payment

COLORADO CITY — Colorado City councilmen attended a called meeting Friday and passed a resolution allowing the mayor to borrow $25,000 to pay for curb and gutter on a new street to be built in front of the new high school in the northeast edge of Colorado City.

City manager James Campbell said the money would be borrowed from City National Bank and would be repaid from revenue sharing funds when available.

The new street, not yet named, will run north-south in front of the almost completed high school and will be completed to boulevard specifications with the state paying for the paving.

Collins Freed

John Collins of Colorado was released from Howard County jail Saturday morning on a $3,000 fugitive bond.

Collins is to report in 30 days either to the Howard County sheriff's office or probation officials in Colorado.

Red Farm Output To Grow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said today that the Soviet Union is fully committed to putting more meat, poultry and milk on consumer tables and will have to keep importing livestock feed to do so.

"Soviet plans to expand livestock numbers and products appear to be an irreversible commitment that will be maintained at all costs," the department's Foreign Agricultural Service said.

The report, in a weekly issue of "Foreign Agriculture" published by the agency, said that despite important increases in Soviet feed grain production, the gains are still falling short of requirements.

"Consequently, the Soviet Union is expected to be an important buyer of grains — notably feed grains and soybeans — on world markets," the report said. It was written by A. Paul Danyluk, assistant U.S. agricultural attache in Moscow.

The Soviet Union "is expected to nearly maintain its self-sufficiency in wheat, with the exception of small quantities imported for blending" with its own bread grain, the report said.

A decision to stick with a plan to boost livestock production despite a severely reduced grain harvest in 1972 led to massive imports of wheat and feed grains three years ago. Much lower-quality wheat is used for animal feed by Soviet farmers.

Russia imported about $1 billion worth of U.S. commodities, mostly wheat and corn, in the 1972-73 fiscal year and another $590 million worth in 1973-74. Shipments have slipped to an estimated $400 million this fiscal year but are expected to increase to around $50 million in the 1975-76 year beginning July 1.

Much depends, however, on the outcome of the 1975 Soviet harvest, tentatively estimated two months ago by USDA experts at 210 million metric tons, second only to the huge 1973 crop of 222.5 million.

In his report, Danyluk said that to meet its five-year average goal, the Soviet Union would need to produce at least 208 million tons this year, a mark he said is "fairly realistic" at the present time.

Scouts Sought By Post 146

Explorer Post 146 is seeking new members of boys and girls between the ages of 14-20 for its organization.

Plans for the summer include a swim splash, camp-outs, car wash and bi-centennial activities.

The post now has 13 members. They placed third at the Explorer Olympics in volleyball and Karen Anderson placed first in the car road-e-o.

Anyone desiring more information about the post should call Joe Cody at Webb AFB gym or Karen Anderson at 3-0979.

Now, through manufacturers savings passed on to you . . . you can bring in your window measurements, select a fabric from our new collection . . . then we'll have your draperies custom-made to your measure and you can deduct 25 per cent from the regular price courtesy of Desley . . . So get your tape measure, read the instructions on how to measure (at left) and come on in . . . Time is limited.

Draperies, Second Level.

Hemphill-Wells

How to measure

For accurate results always use a metal tape to take measurements.

First, decide just where the rod is to be placed. Remember, you should extend the rod past the window frame for more light, best ventilation and a more pleasing appearance.

After you have decided on location of the rod, measure from one end of the rod across to the other. This is your bracket-to-bracket measurement. Now add 3 more inches for the right side return, another 3 inches for the left side return, and 6 inches more for the center overlap. This figure will be your finished measurement. Be sure your finished measurement includes all these measurements: the bracket-to-bracket measurement plus the two side returns and the center overlap.

Rods should be at least 4 inches above the window so that hooks and pleating can not be seen from the outside. A similar 4 inch allowance at the bottom will keep the bottom hem out of sight.

Apron length draperies: Measure from top of rod to desired length, add 1 inch for finished length.

Floor length draperies: Measure from top of rod to floor or carpet. This is finished length, no allowance necessary.

Ceiling to floor draperies: Measure from ceiling to floor and deduct 1 inch for finished length. Repeat measurements at two or three places across the span. Remember to measure from the ceiling and not from the rod.

WHIPPING UP a little baking magic in her kitchen, Mrs. Bridget Matzke puts the finishing touches on another batch of home baked breads. She has done all her own baking for three years.

Remember Aroma Of Home Baked Bread?

Remember what it was like to be raised from slumber on a Saturday morning by the mouth watering smell of Mom baking in the kitchen? Home baking has nearly faded from the American scene, but not in the Matzke home.

Bridget Matzke couldn't even tell you how much a loaf of bread costs in the store because the Air Force housewife has done all of her own baking for more than three years.

Why does Bridget insist on baking for her husband, Capt. Paul Matzke, 83rd Flying Training Squadron, and their two boys Christopher and Michael? "Eat one slice of home made bread," says Bridget, "and then ask that question." Bridget says there is absolutely no comparison in flavor and that purchased baked goods just don't have the nutrients of home baked.

"It only takes about 20 to 30 minutes per week to make all the bread you need," said Bridget. "And it costs less than what you pay for bread in most stores." Bridget noted that she bakes everything for her family from sweet rolls and pies to hot dog and hamburger buns.

Like all mothers, Bridget, who is expecting her third child any day, is mostly concerned with seeing that they have the best she can offer them. That's why she prefers to bake at home. After all, what has ever beaten some of mom's "good old apple pie."

Dear Abby

Dad And Sons Should Let Mom Stay Home

DEAR ABBY: Each year my husband and our teenage sons spend a week up north fishing. They love it. I hate it. I wish my husband and the boys would go without me, but when I mention it, my husband says, "No, we'll just skip it this year because Mom doesn't want to go." The boys are disappointed and Mom is the heavy.

Abby, before we had children, I went fishing with my husband so he would have companionship, and I plan to do it again when the children are gone. When the boys were small I went without complaint because I felt I was needed; small boys could at times be more problems than pleasure for a man on a week's fishing trip.

But the boys are not children now, and they couldn't care less whether I went along or not. The fishing week is the high spot of their year. And it's my absolute lowest.

Am I wrong to want to say home? It would be a great vacation for me not having to cook, wash or iron. Help me, Abby. They believe in you.

ALL FISHED OUT
DEAR FISHED: IM-PLORE Dad to let you off the hook this time. You've earned your stay-at-home vacation. (P.S. To the men in your house: "DON'T NAG—GO STAG!")

DEAR ABBY: I read a letter in your column from a woman who couldn't bring herself to spend the inheritance money her mother had left her. The reason: When she (the daughter) was struggling with a young family to make ends meet, her mother (who could have well afforded it) gave her no help at all.

Years later, when the daughter no longer needed anything, her mother died and left her a small fortune.

Her letter prompts mine: "It is better to give with warm hands." (Meaning: "while one is alive.") He practiced that philosophy all his life and loved to give.

Now that he is gone, I am giving to my children and grandchildren "with warm hands," which gives them much pleasure. But to be perfectly honest, I am selfish, because when I give to them, my pleasure is far greater than theirs.

SELFISH GRANDMA
DEAR GRANDMA: What this world needs is more of your brand of "selfishness." (P.S. Besides, it might be one way to reduce the inheritance tax.)

DEAR ABBY: I noticed a letter in your column from a minister who complained because after he had officiated at burial services for people who didn't even belong to his church, their families failed to pay him for his services.

I don't know how other folks handle it, but here in Tacoma, Wash., the funeral director just adds $25 to the cost of the funeral, and he pays the minister without bothering the family.

Not along ago, I received a letter from an elderly couple who was making funeral arrangements in advance. Enclosed was a check for $25 with the following note: "We want to be buried together. This should cover it."

Ms. Shirey Has Pupils In Concert

Ms. Julie Shirey presented her piano students in concert Friday evening at First United Methodist Church.

In addition to their recital selections, many of the students performed their own compositions. Some students were accompanied by their parents in duets.

Pupils performing were Kathy Birdwell, Melody Choate, Jimmy Combs, Terry Faulkner, Ladon Grantham, Lynn Hopper, Janet Hull, Robin Newsom, Bill Pollard, Julianne Raines, Robin Snodgrass and Sheri Snodgrass.

Mrs. Harold Raines also presented two of her students, Marci Eastman and Lisa Bumgarner.

Annette Couch Is HD Speaker

Miss Annette Couch, a student at West Texas State University, was guest speaker at the City HD Club breakfast Friday. Couch spoke on her ten years as a 4-H member in Howard County and her activities at WTSU in Canyon.

Mrs. W. N. Norred was nominated as delegate to the Texas Home Demonstration Association in Abilene, Sept. 23-25.

Mrs. Alton Underwood, 610 E. 16th, was hostess for the meeting, and Mrs. J. W. Elrod gave the invocation. An award was presented to Mrs. James Johnston for being the "special hostess."

The next meeting will be Sept. 12.

For Nutrition

Remember good nutrition every day, not just when a burst of enthusiasm strikes. A sandwich made from two slices of braunschweiger on two slices of whole wheat bread provides about one-sixth of the day's need for iron for women and teenage boys and girls according to the USDA.

Ex-Resident To Head Auxiliary

Mrs. Jack Wilson Jr., the former Jean Anne Black of Big Spring, has been installed as president of the El Paso Chapter, Certified Public Accountants Auxiliary. She has been a member for five years and served previously as vice president and president-elect.

The installation took place at the El Paso Country Club May 14. Those in attendance were the Certified Public Accountants of the West Texas Region, their wives, a former Sun Queen of El Paso and those aspiring to be elected Sun Queen for the coming year. Mrs. Wilson's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. John Black of Oklahoma, also attended.

The Wilsons are members of the Coronado Christian Church where he is a deacon, vice-chairman of the board and finance chairman. Mrs. Wilson is a deacon and serves on the board.

Area Families Are Traveling

Westbrook (SC)—The Ben Sells were in Rankin last week to attend graduation exercises for their grandson, Mark Self, Mark, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Self, Midkiff, was the recipient of the American Legion of Merit Award.

Fred Crawford, principal of Westbrook School, has moved with his family to Mansfield.

The George Sweatts were in Lubbock recently to visit his brother, Paul Sweatt, a patient in Methodist Hospital, and Mrs. Sweatt's uncle, C. A. Bearden, a patient in Highland Hospital. They were accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. David Hardin, and her son, Brandon, of Snyder. Guests recently in the George Sweatt home were Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Gressett, 1002 Baylor. The couple plans to be married Aug. 5 in the home of the bride's parents.

The Tommy Sloans, San Angelo, recently visited her parents, the W. A. Bells.

Mr. and Mrs. Gwan Strange visited their son and daughter-in-law, the Clay Stranges in Austin.

Recent guests in the Gerald Rollins' home included Mrs. Roy Johnson and the Rhea Nells, all of Sweetwater; and Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Rollins, Snyder. They attended graduation exercises for Gayle Rollins.

Guests of the J. K. Williams included Mrs. R. L. Patterson, Big Spring; Mrs. J. E. Terry and Mrs. James Cartwright, both of Elgin; and Mrs. V. Phillips, Rosenberg.

Mrs. Altis Clemmer attended graduation exercises of her niece, Pam Hendricks, in Roswell recently.

Julia Sweatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doc Sweatt, received the Homemaker Award at the annual school banquet.

During the Memorial Day weekend, the P. E. Clawsons were hosts for a family reunion including their children and grandchildren. Fifty people attended.

Professor Would Deal With Marxist Rebels

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — U.S. officials are reported hoping for quick approval of an American professor's plan to go into the jungles of eastern Zaire to negotiate with Marxist guerrillas holding two Stanford University students and a young Dutch woman.

Michigan economics professor, has volunteered to negotiate with the guerrillas on behalf of Stanford and the hostages' parents. The sources said Steiner hopes to enter Zaire from neighboring Burundi. They said the Burundi government has issued Steiner a re-entry visit necessary for him to use Burundi as a base of operations, but he still needs approval from President Mobutu Sese Seko of Zaire, the former Belgian Congo.

Mobutu has been reluctant to admit publicly the existence of the guerrillas of the Popular Revolutionary Party, who are reported to control sizable stretches of the jungle along the western shore of Lake Tanganyika.

The guerrillas are holding Carrie Jane Hunter, 21, of Atherton, Calif.; Kenneth Stephen Smith, 22, of Garden Grove, Calif.; and Emilie Van Zinnick Bergman, 25, of the Netherlands.

They were kidnaped along with Barbara Smuts, 24, of Ann Arbor, Mich., in a midnight raid on an animal research center on the Tanzanian side of the lake about 12 miles south of Burundi. Miss Smuts was released a week ago to convey the guerrillas' demand for $500,000 ransom, guns, ammunition and the release of guerrilla leaders detained in Tanzania.

The guerrillas said they would kill the trio if their demands were not met by mid-July.

Quarrel Is With Demo Congress, Says Reagan

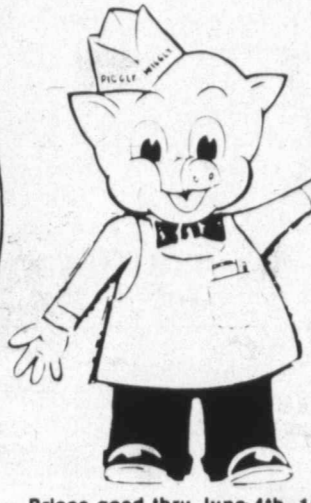

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former California Gov. Ronald Reagan says it's the Democratic-controlled Congress he's quarreling with, not President Ford. Former Texas Gov. John B. Connally says he doesn't mean to criticize Ford either. "I think he has done a good job" but, at the same time, "I don't think anyone ought to have a free ride to any nomination," Connally said. Both Reagan, a Democrat early in his political career, and Connally, a Democrat until he turned Republican two years ago as President Richard M. Nixon's Treasury secretary, said Sunday they are not trying to organize a separate conservative national party. Reagan was interviewed on CBS's "Face the Nation" and Connally appeared on NBC's "Meet the Press." Reagan repeatedly said he has not decided whether to challenge Ford for the 1976 GOP presidential nomination.

Connally, who was acquitted this spring of charges he accepted a $10,000 bribe from the Associated Milk Producers, said his own political plans are "open." Connally said that he, like Reagan, intends to speak around the country on public issues in the next year.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are considering changes in partners or other associations which is good, so study them from all angles and decide which you would like to be more closely allied with. Try to reconcile any differences of opinion you have with those who could in any way harm you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Understand better what is expected of you in dealings with others, or you could get into big trouble. Be happy with mate in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A little discussion with associates will show how you can work together more harmoniously. Take health treatments. Avoid debates.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make appointments that will help you improve personal relationships and be sure to keep them. Accept some social invitations.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Listen to suggestions of an influential person and improve your career considerably. Don't permit others to influence you about credit.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listen to new ideas and consider the best for future benefits. A new associate can show you how to accomplish more. Avoid a spendthrift.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use different tactics with the one you love for a happier relationship. Find a better system for handling your practical affairs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Talk over with whatever associates are available some new plan that will be best for all of you in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get work done promptly that will free you for more important activities soon. Listen to fellow workers' suggestions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan time for recreation and trying to please loved one. You are highly creative now and should bring this quality to the fore.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try to please kin as well as yourself. Don't wrangle over some debatable point. Invite friends in tonight and have fun.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are thinking on all cylinders now and can make your operations more productive. Reach accord with an important partner.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Ideal day to get monetary affairs well handled, since you are thinking cleverly, but be conscientious. Get any advice needed from experts.

Two Receive Their Degrees

Two students from Big Spring received bachelor of arts degrees during Austin College's 125th anniversary commencement exercises in Sherman.

They are Stephen Roberts Burnett, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jack H. Burnett Jr., Sterling City Route, and James Thomas Weaver, son of Mrs. Kent Morgan of Morgan Ranch.

Midland Couple Robbed By Trio

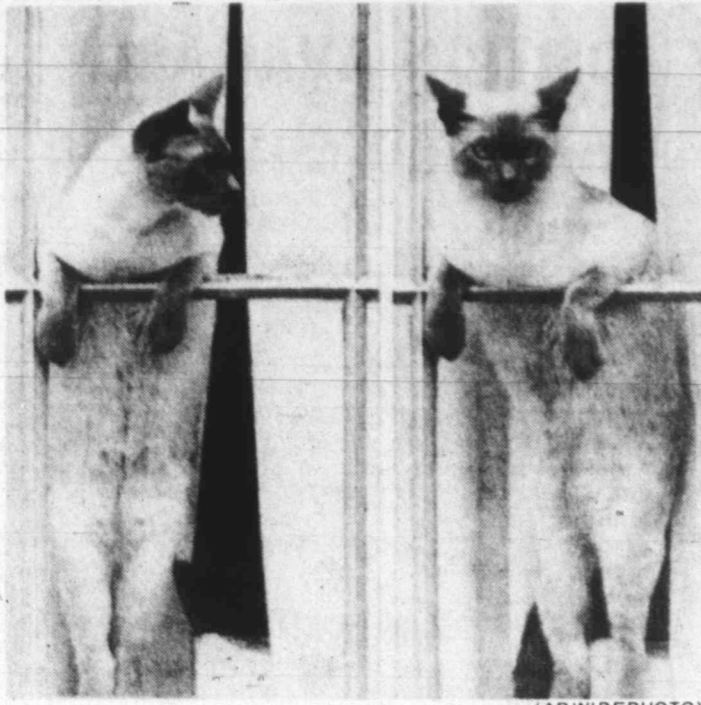

MIDLAND—Midland police continued the investigation today of an early Saturday morning armed robbery of a couple in their home in which more than $100,000 in jewelry and cash were taken.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Roden told officers they heard a noise at their patio door shortly before 4 a.m. Saturday. When Roden investigated, three armed men wearing ski masks forced their way in the home.

Police said the Rodens were bound to the bedposts in their bedroom with electrical tape. They were not injured.

Roden reported 12 items, valued at over $107,000, stolen including two diamond rings valued at nearly $90,000. The thieves took $2,000 in cash in the early-morning heist.

Roden said he and his wife, who managed to work themselves free after an hour, were planning to leave on a business trip Saturday and Mrs. Roden had removed her most valuable jewelry from the bank safety deposit box the day before.

PBS To Take Look At Our Origins

NEW YORK (AP) — The Public Broadcasting Service tonight is airing "In the Beginning," an hour look at the origins of civilization in Egypt some 5,000 years ago, give or take a day.

The show is written and narrated in a leisurely, professorial manner by British art historian Kenneth Clark.

First the good news: The program, which studies the dawn of civilization through the art, architecture and hieroglyphics of ancient Egypt, is superlative photography by Walter Lassally.

Now, the bad news: It'll prove bloody dull for anyone lacking detailed knowledge or even a slight curiosity about the history of ancient Egypt.

Clark is determinedly academic in approach and there is but one map displayed during the program to illustrate the location of various locales about which he comments so learnedly.

After establishing that "most people believe civilization first appeared about 5,000 years ago both in the Nile Valley and Mesopotamia," he asks how civilization happened.

The answer, he says, is found in the earliest examples of Egyptian art, vintage 2,800 B.C., which reveal "nearly all the qualities we value in civilization — a sense of beauty and the dignity of man, a well-organized government run by responsible men, a belief that man could be inspired by the gods."

We learn that a warlike king brought together the disparate communities along the Nile River to create the state of Egypt, a feat the natives still were commemorating 1,500 years later.

And then it's off to studies of the three phases of development of civilization in ancient Egypt, starting at a place called Sakkara, where a king named Zoser built what is believed to be the earliest pyramid.

On and on it goes, with Clark amiably discoursing on such things as papyrus, the history and meaning of the Great Pyramids and the doings of a pharaoh named Akhnaten until one is tempted to raise one's hand, sink out of class and seek salvation in a short beer.

This show is an admirable attempt to better the quality of television.

But I fear this effort will drive most viewers to the land of Nod, or worse, to another channel. Given the potential of Clark's subject, it shouldn't be that way.

The end of the Vietnam war, already studied in commercial TV specials, finally is being scrutinized by public TV Tuesday night in a 90-minute show called "The End of the Ho Chi Minh Trail."

Co-produced by the National Public Affairs Center for Television and the British Broadcasting Corp., it'll study the war from the viewpoints of three newsmen who respectively are French, British and American.

Don Bryant Is Prexy Of UW

LAMESA — Don Bryant was elected president of the Dawson County United Way during a meeting of the board of directors Thursday afternoon.

Ron Layton was named vice-president and Dale Newberry was re-elected treasurer.

The new president will name his own campaign chairman. Budget hearings will be held Wednesday, July 16. Each agency requesting funding should submit a written request and explanation by July 10.

Hospitalization Fund Enriched

A chili supper and bake sale sponsored by the IOOF Lodge 372 and the Rebekah Chapter 204, raised over $400 for Phillip Barber, who was injured in a stabbing incident in March. The money will help cover medical costs.

Around 300 people were present at the fund raising function Saturday night and entertainment was provided by bands from Midland and Odessa as well as the local Lodge Band.

Cakes and pies were auctioned and one cake brought $21 for the fund.

Lonnie Griffith expressed thanks on behalf of Odd-fellows and Rebekahs for the good response for the function.

Orientation Held Today

Around 42 teens from Big Spring, Forsan, Coahoma, Klondike and other area communities are taking part in the Youth Orientation at the Big Spring VA Hospital today prior to their participation in the Summer Youth Volunteer Program at the hospital.

The orientation will include a tour of the hospital and explanations about hospital procedures. The teens have signed up to volunteer at least four hours a week to help in the hospital.

They will assist nurses, help with paperwork, answer telephones, help with patient recreation, and write letters for patients, in addition to other duties.

Council Meets At 12 Tuesday

The Chamber of Commerce Organizational Affairs Council will hold its regular meeting at noon Tuesday.

The meeting will be held this month at the Big Spring Country Club.
