REPUBLICANS BOYCOTT HEARING BY HOUSE PANEL FOCUSING ON CIA

'Successful Assassination Plots'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans boycotted a hearing today by a new House intelligence subcommittee focusing on the Central Intelligence Agency's own secret probe of its misdeeds. The boycott forced cancellation of testimony by CIA Director William E. Colby.

Subcommittee chairman James V. Stanton, D-Ohio, said the refusal of Republican members to attend the open hearing was "apparently prompted" by the resignation of Rep. Lucian Nedzi, D-Mich., as chairman of the full committee.

SECRETS

Asked to turn over secret material in advance of another meeting of the subcommittee planned for next week, Colby declared: "I'll do it to the extent that I can and still protect the secrecy of the material."

Cancellation of Colby's testimony came shortly after Stanton declared that he knows of "successful assassination plots" but refused to identify any victims. A subcommittee member, Rep. Michael Harrington, D-Mass., said he believed Stanton's statement was based on "in-house gossip."

While acknowledging that Stanton might have gotten his information from a House staff member who had received it from someone who knew, Harrington said the intelligence committee has been given no information about assassinations.

Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn., said committee Democrats want Stanton to step up to become chairman of the full intelligence committee. "We want to get somebody that we can all support and just get this investigation started," Giaimo said.

SHAMEFUL

"It is shameful the way this has lagged."

House rules require that at least one member of the minority be present for hearings, Stanton said in announcing the cancellation to Colby, who already had taken his place in the witness chair before a packed hearing room.

Nedzi resigned after several days of Democratic infighting prompted by his acknowledgement that he had been given information more than a year ago that CIA officials considered carrying out "some sort of assassinations." Five Democrats on the committee accused him of doing nothing about the information.

MURDER

Stanton had asked for Nedzi's resignation as chairman last week because of questions about whether Nedzi knew of illegal activities by the CIA and did nothing about them. Nedzi acknowledged Sunday he had been given information that CIA officials considered carrying out "some sort of assassinations."

Colby declined to comment Wednesday — about the Rockefeller Commission report, other than to say he would not endorse the commission's recommendation that part of the CIA budget be made public.

"I wouldn't recommend it, but that is for Congress to decide," Colby said as he emerged from a closed session of the House defense appropriations subcommittee. The chairman of that subcommittee, Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., agreed with Colby's sentiments, saying such information would risk disclosing CIA secrets.

Church said he agrees with many of the commission's recommendations but added that the report should have proposed specific criminal penalties for future wrongdoing.

At the White House, Press Secretary Ron Nessen said President Ford was drafting letters to the Defense, State, Treasury and Justice departments as well as to the CIA, asking for comments and recommendations based on the commission report.

"After he receives these recommendations and suggestions, the President will decide what action to take administratively and what legislation might be required," Nessen said.

But he said that what he was told "was history at the time."

Subsequently, Stanton's subcommittee was formed, and the CIA investigation was turned over to it. The Macomb Daily said Nedzi declared that, while he had agreed with the compromise that resulted in the sub-

Congressional Chiefs, Ford Mull Energy Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford was quoted today as telling congressional leaders that it is his "firm determination that the nation must have a comprehensive energy program."

The 65-minute White House session followed Wednesday's overwhelming scuttling by the House of the 23-cent gasoline tax program of Democratic tax strategists.

There has been a five-month deadlock between the different energy programs put forth by Ford and the Democratic congressional leadership. There had been indications that peace feelers might be extended at today's Oval Office session.

After the meeting, House Speaker Carl Albert told reporters that no consensus was reached and various aspects of the energy problem was discussed.

House Majority Leader Thomas T. O'Neill, D-Mass., said: "It is going to be difficult to meet on any common ground with this Republican administration."

In a statement issued after the meeting, the White House said "the American people should realize this is a national issue of great urgency."

Ford was said to have stressed the need for "both meaningful energy conservation and increased domestic supplies" and said he was firmly determined that the nation must reach three goals:

1. Reducing foreign oil imports by two million barrels a day by the end of 1977.

2. Energy self-sufficiency by 1985.

3. Provide for fairness.

The statement did not indicate what Ford meant by fairness.

Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and Ford's top energy and economic advisers as well as Secretary of Commerce Rogers C. B. Morton and Energy Administrator Frank Zarb attended the session.

After watching his gasoline-tax plan suffer a crushing defeat Wednesday night, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, indicated that a new compromise might be attempted.

"The President is in trouble with his program.... We are in trouble with our program.... Maybe we can talk. This is too important for politics," Ullman declared.

He also said, "It is not a case of backing off and accepting the President's program. We both have a new position to start from."

The World At-A-Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — If he could have his way, Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi would examine the many sides of a problem, turn it inside out and sit for a time in quiet reflection upon its character. Then he would decide what to do about it. He seldom has had that luxury as he has dealt with problems of national importance from his first day in office four months ago. He may be rushed toward a decision again as he examines the Rockefeller Commission's public report of "plainly unlawful" domestic activities by the Central Intelligence Agency and the secret study of alleged CIA plots to assassinate foreign leaders.

NEW YORK (AP) — First-class postage rates will increase this year despite contrary recommendations from an administrative judge, says Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar.

A spokesman for Bailar in Washington said the cost of mailing a first-class letter would probably rise to 12 cents.

The Postal Rate Commission is currently considering a proposal by Judge Seymour Wenner to reduce first-class postage from 10 cents to 8.5 cents while sharply increasing the rates in other classes.

Bailar told the New York Postal Customers Council that the judge's plan is "no good for anyone." He said that even if the commission adopts it, the Postal Service will exercise its option to set new "temporary" rates after a 90-day waiting period.

Bailar was not specific in the speech Wednesday, but he indicated that the new rates would mean an over-all increase.

Wenner's proposal is aimed at making bulk mail self-supporting through large hikes in second, third and fourth classes. At the same time, first-class rates would be reduced to eliminate the profit now used to subsidize the other classes.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — To protect ex-Sen. Edward Gurney, chief aide James L. Groot lied to the FBI "intentionally, with all my heart and soul," Groot has testified at Gurney's bribery-conspiracy trial. Groot told the jury Wednesday that he "couldn't go on" living a lie, so he switched his plea to guilty in the slush fund conspiracy trial of Gurney and three others. Gurney, ex-aided Joseph Bastien, plus former federal housing officials K. Wayne Swiger and Ralph Koontz remain on trial, charged with conspiracy to create an illegal slush fund from builder payoffs by peddling Gurney's influence with the Federal Housing Administration.

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp.'s Imperial, the regal luxury car which is selling like a pauper, is being killed off a half-century after its 1926 debut, industry sources say. Chrysler is abandoning the U.S. luxury car market to General Motors' dominant Cadillac and Ford's revitalized Lincoln. Industry observers say the phasing out of the Imperial is an economy move forced by dwindling sales and a trend towards smaller cars.

Experts Cap Gas Pipeline

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP) — Experts today capped a natural gas pipeline that leaked deadly fumes for 20 hours, the Anderson County Sheriff's Office said.

Red Adair Jr. and a team of oil and gas well firefighters from Houston were on the scene since Wednesday afternoon. The line was capped about 9:30 a.m.

The pipe, which feeds a natural underground storage area, ruptured Wednesday afternoon in two places at a Christmas tree, an assortment of valves and gauges on a pipeline. The break was about 15 feet above ground.

The pipeline is in a forested area near the Bethel community, a farming area about 20 miles northwest of Palestine in East Texas.

Law enforcement agencies from Anderson and surrounding counties, along with the Department of Public Safety, quickly closed several rural roads in a half mile radius leading into the pipeline.

At least one residence was evacuated.

Although officials said the amount of escaping gas was small, spectators reported it made a noise "like a roaring tornado."

The storage facility is operated by Bi-Stone Fuel Co., part of Texas Utilities Fuel Co. It feeds natural gas to fire the generators of Texas Utilities subsidiaries, Texas Power & Light, Dallas Power & Light and Texas Electric Service Co.

Thomas Picks Up .85 Foot

Lake J.B. Thomas had gained 85 of a foot today from effects of rains Tuesday night and Wednesday morning in the Lamesa-Gail area.

The river was still running 6 1/2 feet deep at the upper end of the lake. Elevation stood at 2222.24. The gain may exceed a foot, but probably not much more than that.

Acri's Remarks Are Disclaimed

Mrs. Polly Mays, mayor pro-tem, issued a public statement today in answer to a taped interview on a local radio station by Councilman Eddie Acri.

Mrs. Mays said that the interview was in regard to a recent closed session of the city council involving the naming of the assistant city manager.

Mrs. Mays stated, "I regret that Mr. Acri found it necessary to make public mention of a discussion in a closed meeting. No vote was taken. I did express reservations concerning the ability of a professional man to administer. I highly respect Jim Gregg. He is our new assistant city manager and I will continue to support him."

MIDLAND MAYOR, SOLON Battle Lines Shape For GOP Contest

DALLAS (AP) — State Rep. Ray Hutchison of Dallas has formally announced he wants the chairmanship of the Texas Republican party, thus shaping battle lines for a fight with Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo.

Angelo is the only other announced candidate to replace Jack Warren, who resigned for business and personal reasons last week. Warren, a Tyler oilman and Austin newspaper publisher, served two years.

Angelo told the Dallas Morning News Wednesday he is committed to being in opposition of Nelson Rockefeller on the GOP ticket in 1976. He is expected to gather strong support in West Texas and among those conservatives who hope for a Ronald Reagan-John Connally presidential ticket.

Hutchison, also a conservative, said he is "taking no position at this point in the whole presidential question. It's much too premature."

The News said Hutchison is more agreeable to Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., titular head of the state GOP party, and Tower is committed to the nomination of President Ford.

A Tower spokesman said the senator is not going to take a "public position."

Angelo said the party needs new leadership from someone who is "independent."

Hutchison, a lawyer, is serving his second term in the legislature. He said he views the chairmanship as an opportunity to tell citizens about the condition of their government, and thereby increase chances for election of more Republican officeholders.

Airlines Asking 32,000 Workers To Take Pay Cuts

MIAMI (AP) — The new competitor of Eastern Airlines said that unless 32,000 employees agree to pay cuts of three to eight per cent, the financially ailing firm may be forced to sell some airplanes or be absorbed by another firm.

Former astronaut Frank Borman, elected president last month, told employees Wednesday that Eastern faces $30 million in losses this year and possible large losses in 1976 and 1977.

"If that happens," he wrote in letters to the workers, "we could be unable to meet our payroll (without selling needed equipment) or we will have been absorbed by some other airline, some other industry or the federal government."

The company proposed that pay cuts start July 1 and last for 18 months. But under the plan, employees would get their money back with interest if the company makes a profit or loses less than the pay cuts — estimated to be $13 million for the second half of 1975 alone.

The cuts would range from three per cent for workers making $10,000 a year or less to eight per cent for officers. Nonofficers making more than $30,000 are asked to give up six per cent.

The firm also said it was seeking a six per cent fare hike from the Civil Aeronautics Board. It cited a continued rise in the price of kerosene for its jets as the main reason.

Eastern reported a $10.4 million profit for 1974. But that was after $51 million losses in 1973, its worst year ever, forced the layoff of 4,000 employees.

The company also benefited last year from a lengthy strike against National Airlines, its main competitor on the profitable New York-Miami run, and from travelers who flew because they couldn't get gasoline for their cars during the Arab oil embargo.

The company's monthly

Circus Death

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A 26-year-old aerial performer plunged 70 feet to his death while working a balancing ladder act with his sister at the Shrine Circus.

Michael Fossett and his younger sister, Lucy, were performing Wednesday night on a 15-foot metal ladder balanced on a suspended bar when Lucy apparently started to lose her balance, witnesses said.

As the performers attempted to shift to maintain the balance, the ladder swung over, throwing Fossett to his death. His sister managed to hang on to one rung and was not injured.

The brother and sister, along with their parents, are known as "The Swaying Stars."

Fossett was from Sarasota, Fla.

reports this year have indicated small profit increases, but they were attributed to special credits on disputed fuel prices.

Borman said Eastern's costs, especially payroll, continue to exceed those of its competitors. Salary costs rose 9.8 per cent in the first quarter this year compared with the same quarter in 1974, he said.

Eastern has cited cost considerations in objecting to two promotional practices of other airlines — free drinks on certain flights and the recent "no frills" discount fares. But when National Airlines' bid for the no frills fares was approved, Eastern went one step farther by offering the special fares with fewer restrictions.

Like the minister who was told he had "quit preachin' and gone to meddlin'" when he sermonized about social problems, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has lined up a batch of new and vocal enemies with its regulations for equality of opportunity between the sexes in the area of collegiate sports.

What HEW has done is to say the 1972 education law, which bars discrimination on the basis of sex, must be enforced — and that sports cannot be excluded. The gnashing of teeth, however, won't be quieted; a football fan aroused and feeling threatened is a terrible thing to behold.

The HEW rules, which must be approved by Congress, say that if colleges offer scholarships to male athletes, they must offer the same percentage, based on number of participants, to women. Women must be allowed to compete for positions on teams in all but contact sports, unless separate teams for women are provided. And if separate teams are provided, the money spent on supplies, travel, per diem allowances and coaching staffs must be equal.

Naturally enough, most colleges see doom in all this. The idea of matching astronomical athletic budgets with equal funding for women's sports (although HEW denies its rules really would require this) is greeted with dread. No high-voltage college could afford it.

The result, if the rules are allowed to stand as written, is likely to be a retreat from "minor" sports by many colleges. Rather than provide two teams, some will provide none. But that won't solve the basketball question, nor make a several hundred thousand-dollar men's football budget equate easily with a tiny outlay for women's athletics. Something's got to give, and it's likely to be HEW Secretary Caspar

Weinberger says. HEW won't lay down hard and fast compliance requirements, he says; evidence of a "good faith" effort on the part of colleges will be enough. Politics being what it is, and the power of sports fans in the voting booth being what it is, it's unlikely either administration or Congress is going to tamper with big-time football or basketball. As for the "minor sports," the return of the student-athlete, Simon-pure and scholarshipless, is probably at hand. And we're not so sure but there is much virtue in this.

Chance To Break The Jam

Israel's Prime Minister Yitzaak Rabin is in Washington conferring with President Ford, and whatever they talk about, it is bound inexorably in the prospects for peace in the Middle East.

Before leaving for Washington, Rabin was bolstered by a stiff line toward any more concessions until Egypt first agreed to concessions. President Anwar Sadat of Egypt takes the position that Egypt cannot give up more until Israel pulls back from all pre-occupation territory. And that is not about to happen.

So this has all the ingredients of a first class impasse. Still, there is much to be hoped from the Ford-Rabin talks this week. Regardless of face-saving statements, there is still room for Israel to pull back in return for guarantees of security, for after all Israel is holding on to territory seized from Egypt. Sadat probably would agree to a protective arrangement in return for an Israel pull-back. This might help break the log jam.

My Answer

Billy Graham

When you were in Norfolk, Va., for the Crusade, you spoke on the subject, "Are Angels Real?" I have felt ever since I became a Christian that every believer has a guardian angel. What are your views? C.A.H.

Angels are supernatural beings whose business it is to act as God's messenger to men, and as agents to carry out His will in the Old Testament, their existence was everywhere assumed. And in the New Testament, Jesus Himself taught their reality. Their form, however, so often pictured as winged beings in Christian art, has no real support in the Bible.

Certainly the angels observe human affairs with great interest. Their visible activity has come to an end, because their special assignments in the beginning of the Christian era are done. God's Spirit now speaks directly to the spirit of man.

The role of the angels, according to Hebrews 1:14, is to "minister" to the saints. This involves encouragement and protection. The angels are instruments of good to the poor and forsaken. They carry away the spirits of the departed, and they will gather the saints at the final judgment. Whether you can conclude that each Christian has a personal guardian angel assigned is doubtful.

Perhaps it's a great "angelic pool" of supernatural help, and at the slightest evidence of our need, one or more are assigned to us. Anyway you look at it, it's a beautiful arrangement!

Iran's Boom

Marquis Childs

TEHRAN — The boom roaring through this capital is pulling into its maw money seekers from all over the globe. This is a gold rush, an oil rush, that puts the Klondikes of the past in the shade.

IN AN ENDLESS stream they keep coming seeking contracts, commissions, a piece of the action that is transforming this nation of 32 million. As many as 20,000 Americans, civilian and military, are already here. The number is expected to grow to 50,000 in the next few years as the big contracts such as those for nuclear power plants move from the negotiating stage to construction.

Germans, French, British, Japanese, they are all here. The school for the children of Japanese businessmen occupies a four-story building. Three schools for American children are overcrowded.

It has its wryly comic aspects. The few first-class hotels, such as the Hilton, are so jammed with reservations unavailable two months in advance that bank executives find themselves sleeping in the lobby or in the steam bath if they arrive after the date of their reservation.

STATISTICS THAT POUR out of government offices, as planning commissions and budget bureaus wrestle with the problems of Jack in the Bean Stalk, suggest the magnitude of the undertaking. Between 1973 and 1978 Iran will spend close to $70 billion on modernization and new construction. This does not include military purchases to make the Iranian air force, navy and army as well equipped as any in the world.

Teams of bidders from at least four nations have been here with plans for a new highway system through a country still largely in the dirt road stage. The plans call for the use of huge earth-moving machines that are the specialty of American road builders. Orders from Tehran have eased a bit of the pain in recession-plagued Detroit.

TWO THOUSAND WHITE trucks are on order. A Mack assembly plant is going up. Both Chrysler and Chevrolet have contracted to help assemble a small Iranian passenger car.

The optimists believe this is only the beginning. A joint U.S.-Iranian commission puts trade between the two nations at close to $15 billion over a five-year period and it is likely to be closer to $20 billion. This excludes oil which, at the current quadrupled price, would be much greater with the balance tipped heavily against the United States.

THE NUCLEAR POWER plants are the center piece. The French and the Germans have each signed letters of intent for two plants. The remaining six, completing the 10 projected for the national plan, will presumably go to American contractors. But negotiations are held up by U.S. requirements covering peaceful uses of atomic materials.

Early Retirement

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Corporations increasingly are encouraging the early retirement of high-salaried management men between the ages of 50 and 55 by offering them bonuses, generally in the form of higher pension benefits.

Eugene Jennings, management professor at Michigan State University and consultant to many blue-chip companies and their executives estimates that activity probably has tripled in the past four years.

"Most of the large corporations are doing it," said Jennings, although he concedes that precise statistics still are difficult to come by. Very few medium- and smaller-size companies are engaged in the practice.

Activity is especially strong, however, in the big automotive, computer, aerospace and chemical industries, and other industries that equally are under great pressure to accommodate themselves to changing conditions.

In the immediate future, says Jennings, one of every eight or nine men who have worked in a large company for 30 years and is reaching 55 will be vulnerable to early retirement.

But: "The more successful you are in a large corporation the greater the probability you'll have to work to the mandatory retirement age."

Most of the early retirements involve upper middle managers in the $30,000 to $60,000 salary category, "once very competent people who find themselves in nonvital areas of their companies."

Some are good men who withered in bad jobs. Some have marked themselves off. Some simply made the wrong turn, "opted for the wrong pocket, from vital activities to those less so."

Many of them, Jennings observes, have been killing themselves with frustration as they plod through nonessential, fringe jobs. Often they become poor examples for other employees.

Their reactions to early retirement vary. The workaholic is devastated, no matter how generous the buyout. He fails to see the new opportunities before him.

The workaholic, Jennings says, "usually is a person who as a child was told that work is the most crucial part of the life cycle. Such people sacrifice personal and private privileges to the job."

A second type accepts the change more calmly. He is the bored but still youthful type, "the man who hasn't let the system crank out of him the desire to be productive."

If he has an advanced degree, such as a master of business administration, he frequently moves into teaching.

A third type handles the transition most smoothly of all. This is the manager who all along has been preparing for a second career. In fact, his second career already had overlapped his primary occupation.

This person often becomes a tax consultant, real estate man, salesman, lawyer in private practice, or perhaps establishes a small management consulting firm.

Caution Is Important

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me if it is true that a man who has had a vasectomy can still make a woman pregnant? I have heard there is a 10 per cent chance he could. — T. Y.

A vasectomy involves the cutting of the vas deferens, a pair of ducts which transport sperm from the testes to the prostate. Some surgeons not only sever these ducts, but apply surgical clips onto the ends as an additional precaution. This is to prevent what is called "recanalization" of the ducts, as rare as that is. But don't stop reading here.

The greater danger is an unawareness by the man that there can be a period after the vasectomy in which viable sperm cells remain in the seminal vesicle, where they are stored. It is wise, therefore, to have two or three sperm checks after the operation, and to take normal post vasectomy precautions until the doctor has given a final clearance. It takes about 12 ejaculations to empty the vesicle of all sperm.

So, in answer to your question, I'd say that with the development of surgical techniques in this area over the years the chances of properly vasectomized man impregnating a woman are minuscule.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently, a member of my family nearly lost his life hemorrhaging because of a duodenal ulcer, which he didn't know he had. He had been going through a great deal of domestic turmoil and hadn't taken care of himself with regard to diet and rest for some time.

If he makes a good effort to calm himself, and eats properly, will he be able to heal the ulcer for good? What is the risk involved if he has to have an operation? — E.M.S.

Your relative was probably a small step away from the last stage of ulcer development — perforation.

An ulcer begins as an irritation of the lining. Untreated, it may bleed, or it can work its way gradually into the lining, and in time it may penetrate to the depth that results in perforation. Heavy bleeding can occur, depending on the size of the eroded blood vessel.

Yes, preventive measures are, of course, in order immediately, including a careful diet and attempts to quiet any emotional storms brewing in his life. My booklet on this subject, "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed," could be of help to him. For a copy, send 25 cents to me in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Yes, it may be necessary for him to have surgery to repair any damage at the ulcer site. If that is needed, he should not hesitate to have it done.

Soon Forgotten

Around The Rim

Marj Carpenter

The tin roof flapped and snapped as the West Texas winds blew across the prairie and every now and then a piece of the roofing on the two-story building would break loose and fly through the air.

THE WIND whistled through the broken windows and a small boy twanged the piano strings on an old-fashioned piano that had long since lost all its keys.

An elderly man tended a vegetable garden out front. The entrances had stone arches, from stones gathered from a nearby quarry over 75 years ago. The keystone in the arches had slipped a little, indicating that the whole thing may some day tumble to the ground.

Upstairs in the old courtroom, a large crack goes from ceiling to floor, showing the West Texas sky. That courtroom was later used for a dance hall, when the former courthouse being a courthouse, and became a community center — until there was no longer a community.

One day in 1918, a leading citizen shot the sheriff and then himself in the hallways of this old courthouse. Both men are buried in a cemetery a quarter mile away.

The scene I'm describing isn't out of far-away "Gunsmoke." It's at Stiles — about an hour's drive from Big Spring.

Another ghost town has carefully laid out streets quickly returning to weeds and brush. A filling station and one well-kept home remain.

And out in the middle of a vacant lot is a small cement jail, which is supposed to have held many a hungover drunk from the Roaring '20s.

And this particular ghost town is an area where the '20s were really roaring in West Texas. It was near the Santa Rita oilwell and it was a town without churches, but with three hotels that had bars and ballrooms.

A man named "Shortie" got angry there one night and placed four bullets in his pistol, naming whom they were for as he dropped in the lead. He killed two and two disappeared in the confusion as he stood in the only doorway for persons to leave the bar room.

ONE PERSON at that wild affair was reported to have tried to get behind the piano only to find there were 15 people there already. "Shortie" finally gave up the battle and shot himself.

The wind moans softly as it blows across the "boom town." The town is returning to the land.

The scene I'm describing is not out of "Bonanza." It's at Best — about an hour and a half from Big Spring.

Like the ghost towns in Howard County — Ross City, Chalk and Soash, the amazing thing as you stand and view the sites is the fact that they are so soon forgotten.

A town that started out bustling with activity, as a "boom town" or a "county seat" or a carefully-planned landscape, can so easily return to the land.

The grass and greasewood grow back. The scrub mesquite and cedar brush absorb the landscape as though the town had never been. Early foundations become covered with grass and the junk left behind is covered with sand.

I spent my Sunday afternoon looking at ghost towns. I stood and looked at the West Texas sky. And a tumbleweed blew by. The wind seemed to moan, "They're gone. They're all gone."

Time and the land remain when stores and hotels, bars and churches, schools and courthouses, and people are gone. The wind will tell you, "Gooone. Alllll gone."

Commission Report

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The Don Corleone Commission has just handed in its report on organized crime to the President.

DON CORLEONE, the Godfather of the report, told newspapermen, "We have done the most thorough and comprehensive job of any commission ever appointed by the President, and we have come to the unanimous conclusion that, while a few laws were broken by organized criminals, there were no massive violations."

"Organized crime in the United States may have done some things in contradiction to the statutes, but in comparison to the total Mafia effort they were minor."

DON CORLEONE was asked if his commission had investigated the close ties between the Mafia and the CIA.

"We have heard some witnesses who have testified that the Mafia and the CIA worked closely together on several projects. But it is our opinion that this was on a lower level and none of the Mafia chieftains had ever approved of any activity involving the CIA. We would never condone our soldiers trafficking with spies and the counterintelligence people."

A NEWSPAPERMAN wanted to know if the Mafia was aware of any assassination attempts involving CIA personnel.

"On occasion there was talk of assassinations, but the Mafia bosses rejected it out of hand when they found out it was illegal. There have been charges in the media that organized crime worked closely with the CIA. What the average person does not understand is that, in order to do its job and protect the country's interest, the Mafia has to work with many unsavory people."

"We work with politicians, the police, informers and, I'm sorry to say, even legal businessmen. But you will never have a strong organized crime force in this country unless you can use every weapon at your disposal."

THE NEXT QUESTION Don Corleone was asked by a reporter was, "Did the Mafia promise the CIA anything in exchange for its cooperation in the illegal acts that were discussed?"

"I can say unequivocally that where we enlisted the CIA in our activities nothing was promised in exchange. Our feeling has always been that the CIA offered its help out of patriotism for the country, and it would have been a mistake to reward them by letting them in on any of our rackets."

DON CORLEONE held up the report to the newspapermen and said, "I think you are going to be surprised and pleased by the comprehensive nature of the material that is in here. We left no stone unturned to find out if organized crime figures in this country went beyond their mandate. We called 51 witnesses including the bosses of every major city in this country and, while a few of them admitted to minor traffic violations, we could not find one bit of evidence implicating any of them in gambling, drugs or white slavery."

"WILL THE INFORMATION on the Mafia's connection with assassinations be made public?" the Godfather was asked.

"It would be a mistake to release this information as it is confidential and not in the country's interest unless the President declassifies it."

The final question asked was, "Don Corleone, do you think there is any conflict of interest in the fact that your commission was made up of people who have been involved with organized crime for years?"

"On the contrary, we're the only ones capable of understanding it. We leaned over backward to get at the truth. If the CIA contacts any of our people in the future, the Godfathers must be informed of it immediately."

Tactics Of Farm Worker Unionists, Cops Ripped

PHARR, Tex. (AP) — South Texas cantaloupes rolled on to market today after Hidalgo County Farm Bureau officials criticized the tactics of both the United Farm Workers Union and local law enforcement.

The cantaloupe harvest is winding down and farm union activity which began three weeks ago is slowing down, but the Hidalgo County Farm Bureau called a news conference to complain about the farm union and the Hidalgo County sheriff's office.

Hidalgo County Farm Bureau President Tommy Helle of Mission criticized the actions of Hidalgo County Sheriff Claudio

Castaneda, saying that growers had been forced to go to court to get injunctions "to get law enforcement to do their job."

Even before Helle made the comment, union organizer Benigno Pena had been arrested in a parking lot near the Hidalgo international bridge when he allegedly first tried to halt workers from entering a Griffin and Branc Co. bus and then tried to block the bus from leaving the parking lot. Pena was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Teresa Palacios at Pharr on a misdemeanor charge of obstructing traffic. He was ordered held at the Hidalgo County Jail in Edinburg in lieu of $500 bond.

Pena was the first union organizer or sympathizer arrested during farm labor union activity in this area although melons and stones have been hurled at workers and an international bridge across the Rio Grande was blocked with a human barricade for almost two hours.

In Criticizing Sheriff Castaneda's actions, Helle pointed out that on one occasion union demonstrators had some melon trucks and workers blocked inside a field near Hidalgo for almost two hours. Sheriff Castaneda negotiated with the demonstrators in an attempt to get them to allow the trucks and workers to leave. The sheriff explained that he had only four men with him and didn't want to confront 400 demonstrators with a force that small.

"Of the incident, Helle said, 'It was evident that he (Sheriff Castaneda) wasn't doing his job.'"

"Law enforcement left a great deal to be desired," he added.

Farmer Leonard Camarillo of Edinburg, a past president of the Farm Bureau, said he believes the union used the wrong tactics in their attempt to organize workers.

"I find UFW's tactics of violence against workers in the fields and intimidation of workers trying to cross the border and earn a living strange trappings for an organization that claims to be non-violent and democratic," Camarillo said.

Contractors Offering $1.65 Hour Pay Boost

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Four more construction unions may sign new contracts with the North Texas Contractors Association and return to work, an association spokesman says.

Harold Moore, general manager of the association, said today four of the original 27 unions involved in the six-week-old strike have already accepted the contractors' wage offer. He would not name the four which may sign.

The strike has idled some 1,200 projects in the North Texas area.

The contractors are offering a wage increase of $1.65 an hour spread over the next three years while the unions are seeking a two-year contract with a $1.15-an-hour increase each year. An employee could make $20,000 a year under the new pact at the end of the second year if he worked 2,000 hours a year, Moore said.

Among those going back to work are bricklayers, roofers and lathers. Moore said they have been able to put back to work about 1,500 persons.

But Dave Keeler, business manager of the Dallas Building Trades Council which has been representing the crafts, said he could not understand why those unions went back to work. He said there was no work available.

Moore said today they are meeting daily with the individual crafts and there should be a multicraft meeting sometime next week.

Moore said the strike already has cost the unions about $48 million in lost wages.

Among the projects idled by the strike is Dallas' new city hall.

DEATHS

LAMESA — Services for Virginia Earline Vinson, 48, were held at 10 a.m. today in Branon Funeral Home Chapel here. Officiating was the Rev. Glen Jackson, an associate pastor of the First Baptist Church in Lubbock.

Burial followed in Lamesa Memorial Park.

Mrs. Vinson, who lived in Lubbock, died Friday evening in her home. Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy ruled death due to a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

A resident of Lubbock for the past three years, Mrs. Vinson was a native of Dawson County. She was a bookkeeper.

Survivors include a daughter, Frances (Ginger) Vinson of Denver, Colo.; a son, Richard Vinson of the U.S. Air Force, stationed in Guam; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Barron of Lamesa; a sister, Mrs. Autry Burke of Amarillo; and three brothers, V. O. Barron, R. C. Barron and Rod Barron, all of Lamesa.

Legislators Study Move To Impeach Texas Judge

AUSTIN (AP) — Testimony in the hearing by a special House committee investigating District Judge O.P. Carrillo may be concluded today, according to Rep. DeWitt Hale, D-Corpus Christi, committee chairman.

The committee will determine if impeachment charges should be brought against Carrillo.

Wednesday, a carpenter testified that 88 sheets of rustic pecan paneling were used in the renovation of the Benavides City Hall, not on Carrillo's ranch.

Gabriel Gonzalez told the committee he put different kinds of paneling in a store built on the ranch in 1973 and in the renovation project in 1974.

In earlier testimony, Octavio Hinojosa, assistant Duval County auditor, was asked about payment of county funds for the rustic pecan paneling. To a statement that it appeared "someone was building a house," Hinojosa said, "Looks that way."

Consistently qualifies for the National Quality Award, the National Sales Achievement Award, and has been a member of the Texas Leaders Round Table, an honor organization affiliated with TALU, for 11 consecutive years. In 1971 he received the Chartered Life Underwriter (CLU) designation after four years of intensive life insurance studies.

In addition to association activities, he is a 32nd-degree Mason, a member of the Oak Cliff Presbyterian Church, and is serving as trustee for District 33 of the Texas Tech Dad's Association.

WARMING FORECAST Wicked Weather Growing Weaker

Texas' protracted siege of wicked weather finally relaxed its grip today.

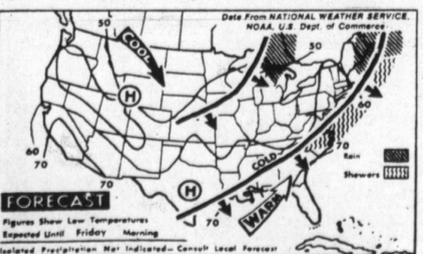

Flooding rains and damaging storms gave way to clear skies across most sections and the only moisture reported in the early morning consisted of a few showers around Cotulla in the south.

A weak frontal system lay at a standstill along a line from southeast of Lufkin to northwest of Houston and on west to around Cotulla. Clouds disappeared north and west of that line and it was at least partly cloudy farther south and east.

Temperatures near dawn ranged from 53 degrees at Dalhart in the Panhandle up to 79 in Brownsville at the mouth of the Rio Grande.

Official observers expected the stalled front to lose more strength and drift closer to the coast, finally moving into the Gulf of Mexico by late Friday. They predicted clear to partly cloudy skies for all sections and a few showers near the Middle and Lower Texas Coast.

A little warming was forecast in most areas.

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are forecast today along the Atlantic coast from the Carolinas to New England. Warm weather is expected for the Gulf and southern Atlantic coastal states and mild weather elsewhere except for the northern Plains.

Need For Coliseum Is Stressed By Speaker

Dr. Charles Hays, Howard College president, built the case of need for a college-community coliseum in an appearance before the Downtown Lions Wednesday noon at the Settles.

"I am convinced we need it," he declared, "but I also think more than the building is at stake. I think it can set a precedent for a really progressive spirit."

It will be, he said, part of the over-all college program as well as available to all the community for any legitimate purpose.

"We have a plant and property valued at $10 million and owe less than $500,000. Compare this with neighboring communities which owe $7 and $8 million on their facilities, with more to come," said Dr. Hays.

Dr. P. W. Malone, only charter member of the Howard College board still serving, emphasized that "this building is something that will be used five or six days a week by the college, plus all the times that it is needed for community events."

The original college gymnasium in 1952 had to be enlarged, but still is inadequate and unsatisfactory, he recalled. By making the coliseum-type plant a PE center, the college will maintain it as part of the regular operations, making suitable changes for outside events.

"This community has a gold mine in the college," Dr. Hays told the Lions. "It puts $4 into the local economy for every $1 it gathers in local taxes."

Two Promoted By Bank Here

Promotion of two staff members from the installment loan division to be assistant cashiers of the First National Bank was authorized Tuesday by the directors.

They are Terry McDaniel and Bill Sanders, both Big Spring natives.

McDaniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McDaniel Jr., was reared here and graduated from Big Spring High School. He was with Kasch Bros., building contractors, before joining the bank in December 1974. He and his wife, Kay, have two daughters.

Sanders, son of Mrs. Ned Sanders, is a BSHS graduate. He began his career with the bank part-time in January 1974, then came on full time in June 1974 when he completed his work at Howard College. His wife is the former Rebecca Sarratt, Odessa.

Census Data Is Collected

Letters appealing to 99,000 Texas farmers to return completed report forms 1974 Census of Agriculture are being mailed by the Bureau of the Census. In January, 323 thousand forms were mailed to Texas farmers and residents associated with agriculture, and so far 69 percent have been mailed back or otherwise accounted for.

Bureau officials say this is the last in the planned series of follow-up letters, as collection of census data is scheduled to close out June 30. In addition, telephone calls are being made to selected farmers who have not yet returned the forms in order to obtain information about their 1974 agricultural operations.

Everyone who received a form should return it, even those not actively engaged in farming, such as landlords, or those no longer farming. Response to the census is mandatory by law. By the same law, all information about individual farms is confidential and can be used only for statistical purposes.

Annexation Is Set At Odessa

ODESSA — The City of Odessa may shortly annex 81 acres at the request of developers Louis and Paul Rochester.

The area is known as the Scottsdale Addition and includes 144 residential lots and five apartment sites, as well as a junior high school site and possibly a church.

SAYS FORDE REPLY UNSATISFACTORY — Catherine Litchfield of Dedham, Mass., studied portrait of her son, Frank, and the citation he won in Vietnam. Mrs. Litchfield asked President Ford what lessons he had learned from Vietnam, but she says the answer she got Monday night wasn't satisfactory. Army Lt. Frank C. Litchfield died in Vietnam in 1969.

Anesthesiologists End San Antonio Slowdown

Anesthesiologists in San Antonio have ended their 11-day slowdown in protest of rising medical malpractice insurance rates.

A group representing the 50 anesthesiologists issued a statement Wednesday that said in part, "we are returning to work because we feel it is our obligation to the society we serve. Now it is the turn of the society to fulfill its obligations to our needs."

The group has called for additional legislation soon to help solve the insurance crisis.

In Dallas, the acting administrator for the Federal Insurance Administration said state governments, not the federal government, should seek the solution to the malpractice insurance problems.

Delay in reforming the insurance situation at the state level could invite creation of a "totally unnecessary federal insurance system," J. Robert Hupner Jr. told a group of college insurance professors.

Also in Dallas the heads of that city's lawyer and doctor organizations issued a joint statement saying the malpractice insurance controversy is a "serious public concern" partly because of recent "misunderstandings and intemperate statements."

The statement was made in an effort "to resolve the present dilemma" of malpractice insurance, they said.

Extradition Is Waived By Two

Lance Nathaniel Pless and Randal Keith Robbins waived extradition to New Mexico and will be transferred to Lea County where they will face charges on burglary of a Lovington bowling alley.

The two were in a trio that was arrested here in connection with the burglary of 3-Way Welding and the Radio Shack.

Floyd E. Earls Is Out On Bond

Floyd Edward Earls is out on a $3,000 bond set by Municipal Court Judge John R. Coffee. Earls was charged with burglary.

Mitchell Gross, involved in the same incident, is still in the county jail. His bond was also set at $3,000 on an attempted burglary charge.

None Negligent In Trial Here

A one-day trial was held in 118th District court on a civil case revolving around a car wreck in Big Spring last July 6. The jury decided that neither party was negligent and no damages were awarded.

The case was styled by Robert Rocha and Frank Rocha vs. Buddy Lamb and Janice Lamb.

Crops Are Hurt In Two Counties

LAMESA — Dawson County Agricultural Agent Lee R. Colgan said Wednesday more than 125,000 acres of cotton had been wiped out by hail in his county over a period of two days by bad weather.

"The damage runs to over $1 million," Colgan said. "In 27 years I've never seen anything like the hail we've had this week."

Some farmers in Dawson County have already planted their cotton crop four times, according to the agent. They'll go into the fields again next week to tackle the chore until rain stops them.

"The farmers are discouraged," Colgan said, "but they'll come right back and plant. At least, this year we're wet. Last year we nearly dried up."

Midland County's cotton crop was also heavily damaged by rain and hail. Agricultural agent Charlie Green said the damage there would run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Auto Damaged By Vandals

Glenda Peters of Sterling City Route, reported that a vehicle drove up into her yard and rammed her car.

Some person or persons then beat out the windows with a hammer. Damage was estimated at $700. This occurred Wednesday night.

Crowley Police Holding Joseph

Johathon Joseph of Big Spring was arrested in Crowley, La., on a charge of burglary late Wednesday.

Papers were being processed today by Det. Leroy Spires to send to Louisiana since Joseph is on a six-year probation sentence here for burglary of the Gartman residence.

No decision has yet been made as to whether Joseph will be extradited.

GRANNY SCOTT — Mrs. Hulda Scott is surrounded on her recent 93rd birthday by some of the T&P "rails" that have known her for many years. The group includes P.S. Linder, Big Spring brakeman; Solon Neal, El Paso; J. W. Parmley, J. I. Knox, engineer and G. D. Gagle, brakeman, all of Big Spring, N. R. Hollan, El Paso, D. W. Pierce, Big Spring, engineer, and Manuel Terin, Toyah.

'If I Stopped, I Might Not Start' — Granny Scott

Many a Big Spring railroader has known Mrs. Hulda Laura Scott, 93, of Toyah. She was born there March 2, 1882 and since 1951 she has been running the rustic Youngblood Hotel in Toyah and playing housekeeper and grandmother to the railroad men who head in that direction.

Toyah is the isolated breaking point for east and west bound trains between Big Spring and El Paso. Each night, 15 or more trainmen stay at the Youngblood waiting for a train going back home the next day.

Granny Scott rises around 4 a.m. and begins making her rounds. She changes linens, does the washing and cleaning and still finds time to make her own clothes.

She can't hear quite as good as she once could, but friends say she is "sharp as a tack."

She has lived in Toyah all of her life, except a brief period when she camped in the Davis Mountains and one year when she lived in Merkel. That was back in the 1880s, she went to Merkel on the train and came back by covered wagon.

"It took us a month to go from there to Toyah, and we arrived on Christmas Day, 1892," she recalled.

"When we moved back to Toyah, it was a booming prosperous town and Pecos hardly existed. We had three grocery stores, three doctors, a dentist, two drugstores, a newspaper, a picture show and a hotel."

Her parents were German immigrants, Joseph and Rose Preusser. Preusser Canyon in the Davis Mountains is named for him. He ran a butcher shop and sold meat to both the railroad and the townfolks.

She recalled that the hotel, where the railroaders ate, required a quarter of beef every day.

They were not then and are not now any water wells in Toyah. The railroad supplied everyone with water. Mrs. Scott recalled, "We used to roll a water barrel down to the roundhouse, fill it with water and roll it home."

She recalls when the Chinese working on the railroad celebrated one year with a Chinese New Year. She still has a tea set given to her by one of those workers.

Mrs. Scott's formula for longevity is to keep going. "I'm afraid if I ever stopped I might not get started again," she smiled.

TUNNEY 'PACKAGED POLITICIAN' Radicalism of '60s Now Common Sense?

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Tom Hayden, a radical student leader in the 1960s, has a new slogan: 1960s radicalism has become 1970s common sense.

Now 35 years old, Hayden says he will run against incumbent John Tunney in the 1976 Democratic primary race for the U.S. Senate.

In 1969, Hayden was a defendant in the Chicago Seven trial and was acquitted of conspiracy and contempt charges. Until the Vietnam war ended, Hayden fought continued U.S. war aid to Indochina.

In 1973, he married actress Jane Fonda, an antiwar activist.

They settled down in a rambling, two-story frame house near the beach at Santa Monica, and Hayden worked as a freelance writer when he wasn't doing antiwar work.

Now the war is over, and Hayden wants to be a member of the U.S. Senate.

"You know, it's not just because the war is over," Hayden joked at a cocktail party a few hours before his recent announcement that he would run against Tunney next June.

At the party, Hayden wore a jacket and tie. His bushy brown hair was collar-length. His wife sat near him, listening to him speak.

The cocktail party in a booklined Sacramento living room was a long way from the '60s when Hayden helped found the Students for a Democratic Society—SDS—at the University of Michigan.

Hayden explained his evolution the next day at a news conference.

"The radicalism of the '60s is fast becoming the common sense of the '70s," said Hayden.

Hayden says that it won't be easy to bring around some voters who look on him as a dangerous kook. But Hayden, son of a Detroit accountant for Chrysler, takes the long view.

"Walter Reuther, the late president of the United Auto Workers, got banged on the head and was considered a violent agitator in the '30s. Anybody trying to do something has a label, and if you don't have a label, it means you haven't done anything in the last 10 years," Hayden said.

He also knows people most readily associate him with the Chicago Seven trial and his wife.

"I don't regard that as a bad thing. The plus is there are an awful lot of people who supported the peace movement and who want a serious candidate and not some polite, well-scrubbed person who has never been in trouble."

Hayden criticizes Tunney, 41, as a "packaged politician, more image than substance" who is really an ally of big business.

Hayden's platform includes possible public ownership of some business plus strict public review, through Congress, of all big banks and corporations.

Bonds, Stocks Sold By TESCO

Texas Electric Service Co. sold a total of some $80 million in first mortgage bonds and preferred stocks Tuesday.

The sale included $50 million in first mortgage bonds at an interest rate of 8 1/2 per cent and 300,000 shares of preferred stock for about $30 million at an annual dividend of $9.36 per share.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to help pay for the company's construction program, according to President W. G. Marquardt.

TESCO has planned expenditures of some $155 million for its construction program this year, most of it for new lignite coal and nuclear generating facilities. This will reduce its dependence on natural gas and oil, both of which are becoming increasingly expensive and in short supply.

Dear Abby

Mourning Mother Is Hard On The Family

DEAR ABBY: You are the only person I can think of who might be able to help. It's about my mother, Abby. My father died four years ago (he was 71), and my mother is still carrying on like he died last week. She talks about him constantly. She visits his grave every single day, and if we don't go with her every Sunday, she thinks we're disrespectful. Every holiday is turned into a day of mourning because Mother insists on all of us going to the cemetery with her to cry over Papa's grave. We loved our father, too, but don't you think four years of mourning is long enough? Mother's doctor told her it's time she snapped out of it, but it hasn't helped her any. Isn't there something we can do?

man, and we fell in love. We plan a December wedding. I am 24. He's 29. One thing bothers me. Three years ago, I chose to have an abortion. No one knows about it, and I want to block it out of my mind forever. I know I did the right thing and have no guilt feelings about it, but here's the problem: Recently, my fiance said that he wanted me to know all about his past, so he confessed to a few past love affairs. I didn't consider any of them very serious. Then he said he had the feeling that something in my past was bothering me because it "shows." (He couldn't possibly know anything.) I wonder if I should tell him about the abortion. He seems to be very understanding. But what if he isn't? If I told him and he were to throw it up to me later, I couldn't stand that. Should I tell him?

MOTHER TROUBLE
DEAR TROUBLE: Yes. Tell your mother's doctor that simply telling a deeply troubled woman to "snap out of it" is not much help. She needs treatment to resolve her grief and resume a normal life. Her daily visits to the cemetery and constant talk of her deceased husband are symptoms of her illness. And if her doctor doesn't clearly see this, find one who does.

NEEDS ADVICE
DEAR NEEDS: Since you don't know how "understanding" he would be and you don't feel the need to "unburden" yourself—keep mum. I think your fiance is fishing. Don't bite.

Rainbows To State Meet

Members of the Order of Rainbow for Girls, Assembly 60, will leave here Sunday to attend the Grand Assembly of Texas in Dallas. HD Club Hears BSSH Speaker

Guest speakers highlighted a meeting of the Center Point HD Club Tuesday in the Kentwood Center. Brownies, Dads Going To Camp

Fifty-six Brownie Girl Scouts will give 56 dads — or friends — a unique Father's Day experience: a "Brownie Special Overnight." The Brownies will be hostesses as the men share their tents, games and songs at Camp Boothe Oaks, Sweetwater, Saturday and Sunday. All Brownies who sold 80 boxes of cookies during the 1975 Girl Scout Cookie Sale earned the right to attend the Brownie Special with their dad (or grandad, uncle, friend, etc.) for two days of fun and sun. Since Brownies might meet some puzzling new situations, their dads will be appreciated in great style. They will act as buddies or partners at mealtime, swimtime, campfire and game sessions. And while the Brownies are making each a "surprise" Father's Day card at the Craft House, the dads can canoe or hike or shoot it out on the archery range.

Girls from Big Spring who plan to make the trip are Josetta Mata, Missy Chandler, Jodi Thomas, Manuella Montez, Michele Martinez, Donna Markle, Armeda Joy Tate and Patricia Anderson. From Coahoma, they are Sue Leshner, Lisa McCoy and Kristi Wyrick and, from Lubbock, Amy Brown. The Lamesa area Brownies taking part in the event are Martha Davis, D'Laine Harris, Tammy Clark, Stacia Spraberry and Tonie Hanson.

Libel Suit Dismissed

A suit for libel filed against KWAB-TV and former Police Chief Jay Banks was dismissed in 118th District Court Tuesday.

Mary Thomas, who unsuccessfully sought election as a city commissioner, and her husband George Thomas, a local attorney, sued Banks, the television station and employees. They wanted $50,000 in actual damages and $50,000 in punitive damages.

They claimed she was libeled when KWAB broadcast a signed statement from Banks after the April 4, 1967, city election.

Mrs. Thomas had distributed circulars which accused Banks of being fired from the Texas Rangers for failing to make a gambling raid and which alleged improper use of city funds.

Banks issued a statement alleging he resigned from the Texas Rangers and was recommended for his position here by a Texas Department of Public Safety official. He denied the alleged misuse of city funds.

He called the circular a "smear" tactic.

Ed Kissinger, an announcer for the station, read Bank's statement on the air, according to the suit, and was named as a defendant. Also sued was Robert S. Galbraith Jr., general manager for the station owned by Grayson Enterprises.

KBST and KBYG, two local radio stations, also broadcast Banks' statement. But the suit claims the radio stations also aired Mrs. Thomas' response. The radio stations were not sued.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas asked for the dismissal.

Astronauts Deny Linkup Endangered By Mark

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — American experts say potential fire hazards and other problems have been met and, according to the three American astronauts, the planned linkup of Soviet and U.S. craft next month is as safe as any other space mission.

The astronauts said they disagreed with congressional critics who claim the mission is endangered by an accident-prone Soviet record.

Apollo, with three astronauts, and Soyuz, with two cosmonauts, will link up in space and the two crews will exchange visits for a few hours during the mission that begins July 15.

"It's no more dangerous than any other space mission," said Thomas P. Stafford, commander of the American crew. The astronauts said the Soviet Soyuz spacecraft was simpler than the U.S. Apollo but safe.

U.S. space officials say the most obvious problem that had to be overcome was the different atmospheres aboard the spaceships. Soyuz has a mixed oxygen and nitrogen atmosphere at 15 pounds of pressure. The Apollo operates on a pure oxygen atmosphere at 5 pounds.

Thus, the U.S. crew could not transfer from the Apollo to the Soyuz as planned without experiencing the "bends" — nitrogen poisoning caused by a change in pressure. Deep-sea divers who surface too quickly frequently get the bends.

The problem was overcome when the Soviets lowered the Soyuz atmosphere to 10 pounds.

For the Soviets, the pure oxygen of the Apollo atmosphere posed a fire hazard, as evidenced by the 1967 Apollo flash fire that killed three astronauts during a routine ground test.

To avoid this problem, the Soviets will use some American equipment, such as earphones and cameras which have been qualified for fire safety in pure oxygen atmosphere instead of bringing Russian hardware which has not. They will also wear special clothing.

U.S. engineers worried that a depressurization valve in the Soviet craft might endanger the Americans while they are aboard the Soyuz.

The only space deaths occurred when a similar valve failed aboard Soyuz 11 and three cosmonauts were plunged suddenly into a vacuum. These deaths along with a recent aborted Soyuz mission prompted congressional critics to express concern over safety.

"We asked that a manual override be placed on the valve so it couldn't be electronically triggered," said Lunney. The Russians complied with the request.

To help insure the docking mechanisms would mate properly, tests were performed here and in Russia, using actual flight hardware.

Some precautions deal with the men themselves.

The astronauts and the two Russian cosmonauts have spent hundreds of hours together practicing again and again the complex procedures that must go well for the mission to succeed.

Spacemen on both sides have studied the language of the other side to develop sufficient fluency for the mission.

Stafford and his crewmates, Donald K.

Slayton and Vance D. Brand, said they disagreed with the evaluation of Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who last week said, "I'm very concerned about the risks to our astronauts in space. The danger is significant."

M. E. Hogg Is Sent To Pen

Three men indicted for burglary of Three Way Welding & Construction on April 11 and the Radio Shack on April 23 have pleaded guilty in 118th District Court.

Michael Edward Hogg, 19, 609 Elgin St., was sentenced to two concurrent five-year prison terms.

Getting two 10-year probation sentences were Randall Keith Robbins, 17, and Lance Nathaniel Pless, 18, both also of 609 Elgin St.

Pless and Robbins were being held by the Howard County Sheriff's Office in Lovington, N.M. Authorities in New Mexico have issued warrants for arrest of the two for burglary.

Odessa Rape Evidence Nets 'Killer' Reversal

AUSTIN (AP) — Frankie L. Wilbourn's 90-year sentence in the Hutchison County (Borger) slaying of a woman was reversed today because the state introduced evidence of a rape allegedly committed by Wilbourn four days earlier in Odessa.

Wilbourn and William Harrison were tried separately in the stabbing death of Carol Ann Martin, whose partially clad body was found by workmen Sept. 15, 1971 just off a highway outside Borger. There was no evidence of sexual assault.

Harrison confessed, was convicted and his conviction was affirmed by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

The appeals court noted in its opinion in the Wilbourn case that much of the evidence in the Harrison case was not introduced in the Wilbourn case.

The court said what was introduced and should not have been testimony by a woman identified in the opinion only as P-L—that she was raped by both men outside Odessa from 1 a.m. to 6 a.m. on Sept. 11, 1971.

P-L said she was a waitress in an Odessa bar and accepted Wilbourn's invitation to dine and dance after she got off work. Instead, she said, he drove to a secluded spot and alternated with Harrison in sexually attacking her for five hours. She called police when they released her, she said.

The prosecution contended this testimony was admissible because, among other things, it explained why the two men left Odessa.

But the appeals court said the alleged rape was an extraneous offense unrelated to the slaying in Hutchison County. It was testimony prejudicial to the defendant, who is entitled to be tried solely on the murder charge, the court said.

The case was sent back for new trial.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas asked for the dismissal.

The Dallas Cowboys are considering using a spread formation, with quarterback Roger Staubach stationed five yards behind center, in obvious passing situations this season.

"How much we run it will depend on how much success we have with it in the pre-season," said Head Coach Tom Landry. In the formation, Staubach takes a direct snap from center and retreats about three yards into a normal passing pocket. From there he can pass or scramble, depending on what the defense does.

The Cowboys' recent free agent tryout camp at Texas Stadium attracted 271 players from 25 states. Contracts are being offered to several of the participants.

The Dallas coaching staff has finished preparations for training camp. Rookies report to the Thousand Oaks, Calif., (California Lutheran College) summer headquarters July 8, veteran centers and receivers July 17, and the rest of the veterans July 20.

Only a little more than a month before the Third Annual Basketball of Champs, sponsored by the Howard College athletic department, takes shape. Sessions are from July 21-25 and July 28-Aug. 1.

Harold Wilder, Hawk head coach and Leroy McClendon, assistant, are busy working out the final details.

The maximum number of 60 junior high and junior varsity boys are expected to convey their camp intentions long before the initial session.

Cost of the camp is $100 per week. A $20 deposit must accompany each application.

Ten Little Leaguers and Six Teen-Age youngsters reported for opening day camp of Larry Horton's week long baseball camp at Steer Park.

The Teen-Age group takes to the field at 10 a.m., followed by the Little Leaguers at 11 a.m. Each session lasts for one hour each day.

If interest warrants, the camp will be extended for a second week.

Mark Spitz, the winner of gold medals in the 1972 Olympics, signed a contract to be a television commentator for CBS.

WHAT'S IT WORTH DEPARTMENT — Sonny Barnes, Coahoma girls basketball coach, will be one of the staff members tutoring non-varsity girls at the Western Texas College camp, June 23-28.

Angels Cop Undisciplined 1st Game Of Doubleheader

By The Associated Press

Frank Tanana used to worship Willie Horton from afar. Up close, he's not so crazy about him.

Tanana got a good look at his boyhood hero Wednesday night and didn't like what he saw — or heard.

The tempestuous Detroit Tiger outfielder, enraged by a close pitch from the California Angels' pitcher, roared out to the mound in a homicidal frame of mind and triggered the wildest free-for-all of the 1975 baseball season.

By the time it was over, both teams stormed the field with their feet and fists flying. The untamed Horton did most of the damage, swinging at everyone and everything, and a lot of feelings were hurt, along with a couple of egos. Oh, yes, the Angels went on to win that undisciplined first game of a doubleheader 14-7. The second game was suspended because of the American League's 1 a.m. curfew law with Detroit winning 5-3 and will be completed tonight.

ROYALS 7, INDIANS 1
Cookie Rojas unloaded a three-run homer and rookie Dennis Leonard gave up six hits, leading Kansas City over Gaylord Perry and Cleveland. Rojas' homer, his first of the season, highlighted a four-run fourth inning.

YANKEES 5, TWINS 1
Rudy May scattered seven hits for his fifth consecutive triumph and Roy White of the American League's 1 a.m. curfew rule. The twin bill began at 6:05 p.m. Wednesday and was suspended at 1:10 a.m. — seven hours and five minutes worth of baseball, brawling and rain delays.

"I don't keep any hard feelings for anybody," Horton said afterwards, considerably calmer than when he charged out to the mound to get California pitcher Frank Tanana in the fourth inning of the opener.

Horton had to hit the dirt to avoid an inside pitch by Tanana in the first inning and when a Tanana offering came in tight in the fourth it was just too much.

TEEN-AGE Red Sox Shelled

Knight's Pharmacy Knights socked the Optimist Red Sox, 14-4 and Saunders Angels pounded the Rebels, 11-3, in Junior Teen-Age games played Wednesday.

Bobby Knight, Knight pitcher, scattered six hits in posting his second win against only one loss.

The game was stopped after 4½ innings because of the 10-run rule.

The Angels Javier Hernandez evened his pitching record to 1-1, as he tossed a three-hitter. Hernandez fanned 10 batters and helped out his own winning cause by hitting a double and scoring three runs.

Kyle Pfeiffer of the Angels was three for four at the plate, and was credited with a double and three RBIs.

drove in two runs as red-hot New York defeated the Minnesota Twins. The Yanks nicked ex-farmland Mike Pazik, 0-4, for two runs in the second inning and two more in the fifth en route to the 18th victory in their last 23 games.

A's 5, BREWERS 3
Reggie Jackson's 12th home run of the season, a two-run shot, triggered a four-run sixth inning and propelled Oakland over Milwaukee. A single by Joe Rudi and Jackson's homer erased a 2-1 Milwaukee lead.

BENCH CLEARED Willie Weary Of Biting Dust

DETROIT (AP) — Willie Horton just got tired of biting the dust.

But despite unleashing his anger Wednesday night against the California Angels, he and his fellow Detroit Tigers had to bite the bullet.

The Angels, who led just 2-1 when a fourth-inning brawl triggered by Horton broke out, destroyed the Tigers 14-7 in the opener of their wild doubleheader.

Detroit led 5-3 after eight innings of the second game but will have to wait until tonight to finish up because of the American League's 1 a.m. curfew rule. The twin bill began at 6:05 p.m. Wednesday and was suspended at 1:10 a.m. — seven hours and five minutes worth of baseball, brawling and rain delays.

"I don't keep any hard feelings for anybody," Horton said afterwards, considerably calmer than when he charged out to the mound to get California pitcher Frank Tanana in the fourth inning of the opener.

Orioles 9, Rangers 8
Ken Singleton's 10th-inning RBI double gave Baltimore its victory over Texas. Dave Duncan, who had hit a pair of two-run homers earlier in the game, started the 10th with a single off Stan Thomas. After Mark Belanger hit into a forceout, Singleton lined his game-winning hit to center field.

Housing Bill Veto Shapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is expected to veto a bill designed to help finance construction of 400,000 new homes and prevent mortgage foreclosures on families hurt by the recession.

The Senate sent the bill to the White House Wednesday by a vote of 72 to 24, with Democrats privately pessimistic about prospects of overriding a threatened veto. The House approved the bill 253 to 155, well short of the two-thirds needed to override.

Administration officials have said the bill's $1.2 billion price tag is too expensive and that the programs it creates would produce another and unnecessary layer of federal bureaucracy.

A choice of three new types of subsidies to encourage middle-income home buyers would be authorized by the bill.

OPEC Promises Higher Oil Prices On Oct. 1

YES, BUT HOW MUCH?

LIBREVILLE, Gabon (AP) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries says that it intends to raise the prices of crude oils on Oct. 1.

A communique issued Wednesday night at the end of the three-day OPEC ministerial meeting in Libreville said the 13-nation cartel would stand by its current price freeze scheduled to expire Sept. 30.

"However, in view of increasing inflation, the depreciation of the value of the dollar and the consequent erosion of the real value of the oil revenues of member countries, the conference decided to readjust crude oil prices as from Oct. 1, 1975," the communique declared.

Algeria and Iraq had pressed for immediate price increases to compensate for inflation losses which they estimated at almost 40 per cent. Mohamed Yaganeh, the governor of Iran's Central Bank, told reporters the October increase should be around 35 per cent, but it was thought likely the cartel would agree on a lower increase to avoid further disruption to the economies of the less affluent industrialized countries.

The conference also agreed to delay abandonment of the dollar as the basis for the computation of oil prices until the end of September. The delegates agreed Tuesday to compensate for the devaluation of the dollar by figuring prices in the International Monetary Fund's special drawing rights, or SDR's, a rate of exchange computed by averaging 16 national currencies.

The communique made no reference to the abortive attempt in Paris last April to arrange a dialogue between the oil-exporting countries and the industrialized countries that are their biggest customers. The preparatory talks broke down because the industrial nations wanted to talk exclusively about oil, while the OPEC members insisted on a general review of all raw materials exported by the underdeveloped countries.

Another OPEC conference is to open in Vienna Sept. 24 to discuss the price increases to go into effect Oct. 1.

Courthouse Is Being Upgraded

GARDEN CITY — Glasscock County is trying to preserve its heritage by cleaning up the courthouse, one of the few remaining old courthouses in this area.

A crew has sandblasted the outside to remove stains of the years and the columns are being brightened up as well as the seal on top of the building.

Scaffolds have been up all week as workers revamp the outside of the center of activity in Glasscock County.

Dyer Is Named Texan Of Month

LAMESA — Bill Dyer, son of J. D. Dyer of Lamesa, has been selected as Young Texas of the Month for June by the Lamesa Optimist Club.

Dyer, salutatorian of the Lamesa High School Class of 1975, has enrolled in the University of Texas where he placed high in advanced placement tests and is attending summer school.

Dyer was commended as a National Merit Scholarship finalist and graduated magna cum laude at LHS.

He is best known among Lamesans as emcee for the Bill Dyer Show on radio station KPET. He distinguished himself in music and writing throughout his high school career, played in the All-Region Band and worked on the high school yearbook.

STEP TO INTERGRATE Orders Computerized Pupil Assignments

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A computerized pupil assignment plan, designed by a private citizen, will be used to desegregate Corpus Christi schools, U.S. District Court Judge Owen Cox says.

The judge said Wednesday he will name a committee in a few days to work out the specifics of the plan, created by Dr. Joseph Rupp.

Cox said the plan, described by him as a break with traditional approaches to school desegregation, will apply initially to grades 1-6.

Rupp's central idea is to maximize racial integration at each elementary school but minimize the distance traveled by each pupil, Cox said.

School officials said virtually every elementary school child in the Corpus Christi Independent School District would be assigned to a new school next year under the computer plan.

"Two years ago we turned this plan down because it put too many people in motion," said School Board President W. Glen Hutson after the court hearing at which Cox made his announcement.

Rupp presented examples of four plans, using various distance limitations. He said any one of them "was head and shoulders above anything put forward before."

Cox said at the beginning of the hearing Wednesday that he found the school board's latest desegregation plan, which called for pairing 17 schools and busing 2,800 elementary school children, was not satisfactory.

Nothing Beats Beef For Dad's Big Day

It's summer and Dad's special day. Could there be better reason for an outdoor celebration! Whether you plan to cook indoors or out, set your table on porch or in back yard where summer and dinner can be enjoyed simultaneously.

Dad deserves the best, and beef makes a choice table tribute. Plan your menu around his favorite, be it rib roast or sirloin steak. Most popular items on restaurant menus, these are top at-home selections too.

Should Dad's taste run to elegant ribs of beef, put on your chef's bonnet with great flourish and be sure the roast is done just the way he likes it — tender, juicy and to the degree of doneness he desires. Flavorsome Sesame Potato Slices come to the table in the same convenient foil wrapping in which they were roasted along with the beef. Round out the main course with his favorite salad, rolls and relishes. Then think in terms of a spectacular dessert such as Strawberry Glacé Tarts. Although dinner sounds special, there's little last minute preparation.

Should Dad prefer a charcoal-broiled treat, be sure steak is on the menu for his special day and be prepared to "man" the grill. If you really want to appear a pro, line the grill with heavy duty Reynolds Wrap. The foil will hold the ashes and drippings, but almost as important, it will increase the efficiency of the fire itself. When lining the bottom of the grill, just be sure to cut out openings to conform to the vents if your grill has them. When the briquettes are covered with gray ash, you're ready to start cooking. For a tender juicy steak, avoid high temperatures.

Place a thick, succulent sirloin steak or two on the grill along with foil-wrapped corn. With planning both steak and corn will be done to perfection at just the right moment. For dessert bring on Heavenly Brownies.

Roast Ribs of Beef

3 to 4-rib beef standing rib roast*

Place roast, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so bulb is centered in the thickest part of roast. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in a slow oven (325°F.) to desired degree of doneness. The meat thermometer will register 140°F. for rare; 160°F. for medium; 170°F. for well done. For a 4- to 6-pound roast, allow 26 to 32 minutes per pound for rare, 34 to 38 minutes for medium and 40 to 42 minutes for well done. For a 6- to 8-pound roast, allow 23 to 25 minutes per pound for rare, 27 to 30 for medium and 32 to 35 for well done. For easier carving, allow roast to "stand" in a warm place 15 to 20 minutes after removal from oven. Since roasts usually continue to cook after removal from oven, it is best to remove them when thermometer registers about 5°F. below the temperature of doneness desired. Before carving roast, remove strings; with a sharp knife, remove backbone and feather bones from roast.

*To make carving easier, have retailer loosen back (chine) bone by sawing across ribs, and tie roast.

Foiled Sesame Potato Slices

6 medium-sized baking potatoes
1/2 cup butter, melted
3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
3 tablespoons snipped parsley
1 to 2 tablespoons toasted sesame seeds
1 teaspoon salt

Scrub and dry potatoes. Slice each potato, crosswise, into 1/4 to 1/2-inch slices and place each sliced potato on a piece of heavy duty Reynolds Wrap. Combine melted butter, onion, parsley, sesame seeds and salt. Dip slices of each potato, one at a time, in mixture to coat with all ingredients. After dipping each slice, replace it on foil slightly to right or left of original position so that slices of potato are staggered and portion of surface of each slice is exposed. Draw foil up over potato and fold several times to enclose potato slices. Place on baking pan. Bake in a slow oven (325°F.) for 30 minutes. Remove pan from oven and carefully unfold foil from over tops of potatoes to expose slices. Return to oven and continue baking for 1 hour or until potato slices are tender. 6 servings.

Heavenly Brownies

1-1/4 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup shortening
3 squares (3 ounces) chocolate
2 eggs, beaten
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1 9-inch round aluminum cake pan,
1-1/2 inches deep, greased
Chocolate Glaze*

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Melt shortening and chocolate. Gradually add sugar to eggs, beating to combine. Add shortening, chocolate mixture and vanilla; beat well. Stir in sifted dry ingredients and nuts and pour into greased pan. Bake in a slow oven (325°F.) for 25 to 30 minutes. While brownies are still hot, top with miniature marshmallows to partially melt. Pour hot Chocolate Glaze over marshmallows. Spread evenly to cover brownies. Yield: 3 dozen brownies.

*Chocolate Glaze

2 tablespoons butter
2 squares (2 ounces) chocolate
2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
3 tablespoons coffee
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/8 teaspoon salt

Melt butter and chocolate. Add sugar, coffee, vanilla and salt. Beat vigorously about 3 minutes or until glossiness disappears. Use immediately.

To broil sirloin steaks: select sirloin steaks 1 to 2 inches thick for grilling. Place steaks on grill over moderate heat. Steaks cut 1 inch thick should be placed 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Steaks cut 2 inches thick should be placed 3 to 5 inches from the heat. When one side is browned, turn steaks with salt and pepper and finish cooking on the second side. Season. Steaks cut 1 inch thick require approximately 15 to 20 minutes for rare and 20 to 25 minutes for medium. Steaks cut 2 inches thick require approximately 30 to 35 minutes for rare and 40 to 45 minutes for medium.

Foil-Roasted Confetti Corn

6 ears of corn
6 tbsps. butter, softened
1 tbsp. chopped pimiento
1 tbsp. snipped parsley
Salt
Pepper
Spread corn with softened butter and sprinkle with pimiento, parsley and seasoning. Wrap corn in heavy duty Reynolds Wrap, double-wrapping if fire is very hot. Roast on grill over moderate heat, turning two or three times, for 20 to 25 minutes or until tender. 6 servings.

MAY BE NECESSARY TO BAN USE

Gases Used In Aerosol Sprays Endanger Ozone

WASHINGTON (AP) — The gas that propels underarm deodorants as well as many other sprays may damage the world's upper atmosphere and increase the risk of skin cancer, a federal task force warned today.

If so, it may be necessary to ban fluorocarbon gas from those super-civilized cans of aerosol deodorant, antiperspirant and hair spray, the group said.

The cosmetics themselves could be used. But if no other gas propellant could be used in these products, the cosmetics would have to be applied with roll-on applicators, tubes, flasks or hand-squeezed atomizers.

There seems to be legitimate cause for serious concern, the panel concluded after a five-month review of warnings that first surfaced a year ago that fluorocarbon gas may damage the protective ozone layer in the upper atmosphere.

It recommended: — Immediate consideration of a requirement for labeling aerosol products using fluorocarbon gas.

— International cooperation on studies and perhaps control of fluorocarbons.

— Restriction of fluorocarbon uses especially in spray-cans if a more detailed study by the National Academy of Sciences confirms their suspected danger.

— And quick passage by Congress of a proposed Toxic Substances Control Act that would provide broad federal authority to regulate not only the fluorocarbons, but other possibly hazardous substances. In response to the task force report, a group representing the aerosol fluorocarbon industry said "recent and potential discoveries and measurements of chlorine compounds in the atmosphere may ultimately invalidate the theory that fluorocarbons may contribute to ozone depletion."

The Aerosol Education Bureau statement quoted a Dupont Corp. research scientist, Richard Ward, as saying the government report "essentially concurs with the industry's position that there is no appreciable danger in continued use of fluorocarbon compounds while studies are completed."

The task force, headed by the President's Council on Environmental Quality and the Federal Council for Science and Technology, said fluorocarbons present a classic example of society's ability to poison its environment on a global scale by some seemingly trivial activity.

The fluorocarbons — generally chemical compounds of carbon, hydrogen, chlorine and fluorine — are commonly known as "Freon," one of their trade names.

The task force reported that some 13.8 billion pounds of two fluorocarbons known as F-11 and F-12 have been produced so far worldwide, excluding the Soviet-Eastern Europe bloc.

About half of the total was produced and used by the United States.

One way or another just about all fluorocarbon eventually escapes into the atmosphere — sprayed, leaked or discarded.

The task force said there is no complete proof, but substantial reason to believe that once released the fluorocarbons work their way up to the stratosphere and break down there to release chlorine atoms.

The stratosphere is laced with ozone, a three-atom form of oxygen which is rare among the two-atom oxygen of the lower atmosphere.

The task force said chlorine liberated by fluorocarbons in the stratosphere may break down ozone. A reduction of ozone may let more ultraviolet radiation through and the increased radiation may increase skin cancers throughout the world.

The rodeo again this year will feature some of the top cowhands in America as they compete for prize money here.

After the first half of the year, Winston Rodeo Awards went to leaders at that time with the top ten men in six events splitting up $47,500.

Event leaders at the halfway mark were Suty Riddle, Weatherford, Tex. in barebacks; Monty Henson, Mesquite in saddle broncs; Don Gay, Mesquite, bull riding; Junior Garrison, Elgin, Okla., calf roping;

Doesn't Owe 17 Million Barrels Of Oil, He Says

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas oilman Nelson Bunker Hunt has filed suit in federal court here seeking an order stating he does not owe a British oil company 17 million barrels of oil.
Hunt filed the suit here trying to block a threatened suit in England by BP Exploration Co. (Libya) Ltd. against the Dallas businessman stemming from dealings by Hunt and the British firm involving Libyan oil fields.
Hunt claimed in his suit that the "unwarranted claim" by the BP Exploration Co. is hampering his business and financial status.
According to the suit, the exploration company signed an agreement with Hunt in 1960 giving it one-half interest in Libya's Sarir Field concession.
Hunt, reportedly, owned the other half and agreed to pay the British company three eighths of his half of the oil until it received 50 million barrels.

The British company's assets were expropriated by the Libyan government which paid $41 million in compensation. Hunt's oil assets were expropriated in 1973.
The British company is now claiming that Hunt still owes it 17 million barrels of oil. The company, a subsidiary of British Petroleum Corp., is threatening to file suit against Hunt in England, the Hunt suit said.
Hunt stated that his agreement with BP stated that he has no personal liability.
He added that he would show that the British claim has "created uncertainty as to plaintiff's potential liability, if any, and continuing obligations, if any, and have and do hamper plaintiff in his business and financial planning."
He filed suit in federal court here arguing that portions of the agreement were to be performed in Dallas.

Band Director Is Departing

LAMESA — Opening of sealed bids Monday placed in motion plans by the Lamesa Independent School District to renovate portions of the Lamesa Middle School.
Trustees will choose between proposals from Hensley, Inc. of Lubbock and D.L. Cowins, Inc., of Midland-Odessa.
Hensley bid a flat rate of $59,711. The board would have a right to exclude any area of repairs recommended by administrative officials and adjust the cost accordingly. Work would begin Aug. 20.
The Midland-Odessa firm bid cost minus 12 1/2 per cent. Construction time would be 110 to 120 days.
The board delayed until a later meeting the decision on which bid to accept.
In other action, trustees accepted the resignation of band director Bill Brown, who is moving to Brownfield to teach in another capacity.
Trustees heard a status report on the board of tax equalization. The board, consisting of Norris Barron, Jack Prather and Ray Brewer, will complete their work by July 1.

Rights Of Unwed Dads To Be Decided In Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court today granted a young prison inmate's request that it rule for the first time on the parental rights of unwed fathers.

Lower courts had blocked an attempt by Stephen Dale Atchley to establish his paternity to a baby girl, born in 1973 when Atchley was 17 and in jail on a shooting charge.

He now is serving a 20-year sentence on a conviction of assault with intent to murder in the shooting of a pupil at a high school in Corpus Christi.

The Nueces County domestic relations court terminated the mother's parent child relationship with the baby shortly after her birth, refused to recognize any rights or duties on Atchley's part and named the county child welfare unit as "managing conservator" for the child.

The Supreme Court accepted Atchley's case on two points raised in the brief filed on his behalf by a prison lawyer.

—The lower courts should have entered a decree establishing his paternity because he filed the necessary papers and there was no evidence denying that he fathered the child.

—There was no evidence of any conduct by Atchley under which the courts could terminate his parent-child relationship under the Texas Family Code.

It was even stipulated in the domestic relations court proceedings that Atchley was the father, the brief said.

—The fact of paternity is purely biological, and once it is shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the petitioner (Atchley) is the biological father of the child, the court cannot refuse to enter a decree establishing the petitioner's paternity of the child," it said.

Under the family code, the brief said, a court may terminate a parent-child relationship only for certain conduct spelled out in the law. And, it added, Atchley had not done any of those things.

The prison lawyer said that Atchley was seeking someone to care for the child and while in prison was "making every effort to improve himself" so he could properly raise the child.

Atchley's earliest parole eligibility will come in 1977.

The Corpus Christi Court of Civil Appeals said the legislature did not intend, through the family code, to give an unwed father an absolute right to establish a parent-child relationship.
