

Keeping Track Of Rail Strike Threat Tough

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration says "everything must be done" to prevent a nationwide railroad strike threatened to begin at midnight Sunday.

The administration called the prospect of a strike "a matter of deepest concern" after the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks announced Wednesday that contract talks were deadlocked and that strike preparations were under way. But beyond further efforts by federal officials to mediate the dispute, there is little the administration can do. All legal delays have been exhausted and only enactment of emergency legislation by Congress could block the threatened walkout.

Union President C.L. Dennis blamed the impasse on railroad management and said "nothing in the picture at this time suggests we will be able to avert a strike." He scheduled a news conference for today to discuss his union's position.

Dennis earlier had rejected an agreement signed by seven other railway unions providing for wage and benefit increases totaling 40.7 per cent over three years. A union spokesman said the agreement failed to deal with special problems and needs of the railway clerks.

A 60-day cooling-off period imposed by President Ford under the Railway Labor Act expires at 12:01 a.m. Monday, and the clerks will be legally free to strike then.

It is expected that picket lines manned by the 117,000 clerks would be honored by most of the nation's 300,000 other railroad employees. Sources indicated the union may exempt bankrupt lines from the shutdown, including the Penn Central and Rock Island.

With the nation just beginning to recover from its worst recession since World War II, a strike could have crippling effects, particularly industries such as steel and coal which are heavily dependent on the railroads, and farming areas.

"Everything must be done to prevent it, certainly at this particularly crucial period in our economy," declared W.J. Usery Jr., chief of the Federal Mediation Service and the President's top labor troubleshooter.

Usery was expected to step up efforts to resolve the dispute, keeping the talks going on an around-the-clock basis if necessary.

Gas Hike Expected

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston area gasoline dealers say further increases can be expected next month in gasoline prices at most area stations which have already hiked prices in June.

L. G. Dresti, president of the Lone Star Service Station Association, said Wednesday dealers expect another increase of one cent or more per gallon in July because of the second $1 a barrel increase in the tax on imported crude oil ordered by President Ford.

Exxon, Texaco, Conoco and Gulf have raised their prices two cents a gallon this month with Shell announcing a one cent hike.

Vote To Boost Debt Ceiling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted today to boost the federal debt ceiling by $46 billion to a record $577 billion through Nov. 15.

The vote was 22 to 12. Six Democrats and six Republicans dissented.

By a vote of 25 to 9, the committee instructed chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., to introduce legislation containing the new figures. If cleared by the Rules Committee, Ullman said, the legislation will be brought up for House action Monday or Tuesday.

The federal government needs a new debt limit before the end of this month. The present $531 billion top on Treasury borrowing expires then and the limit falls to $400 billion.

On June 30, actual debt subject to the limit is expected to stand at $533 billion.

WINDY

Windy again. Southerly to southwesterly winds 20-30 miles per hour and gusty this afternoon. Blowing 10-20 m.p.h. tonight. Thunderstorms a 20 per cent possibility through tonight. High today and Friday, low 90s. Low tonight, near 70.

Dr. Hays Is Encouraged By Turnout Of Voters

Dr. Charles Hays, president of Howard College, said this morning that he had been encouraged by the turnout of voters in the $1,500,000 bond election going on today in the college district.

Money from the bond would be used to construct an all-purpose coliseum on the college campus.

An estimated 300 voters had cast ballots in the college library by 11:30 a.m., and Dr. Hays looked on that as a good sign the issue is being supported.

Booths are also open at Forsan High School, Coahoma City Hall and Sand Springs Fire Station.

Polls will remain open until 7 o'clock today.

A site has already been picked out for the building, in event it is authorized by the voters. It would be built at the corner of Birdwell Lane and Kentucky Way on the northwest corner of the campus.

YOU WIN SOME, YOU LOSE SOME — It happens to the very best and Larry Mahan, world champion all-around cowboy on six different occasions, came off a determined bull at the opening performance of the Big Spring Rodeo here Wednesday night. The bull's number was 13 and there were 13 bull riders on opening night. Three more big shows kick off at 8:30 p.m. nightly.

Cowboy Movie Big Hit In Russia, Says Mahan

By MARJ CARPENTER
Larry Mahan, World Champion cowboy six times over, was squatted on the ground behind the Big Spring arena gate getting his gear ready for the saddle bronc riding.

"I'm sitting about third down this year in all-around standings," Larry said as he worked. "Don Gay's in the lead. I might catch up. I don't know. I have a few chipped bones in the wrist this season."

The cowboy who rocketed to fame in more than one field after he starred in "The American Cowboy," Mahan discussed work in movies.

"It's different. My next movie 'Six Pack Around'. It's kind of a slapstick thing. Then I'm going to be in a movie Roy Rogers is making."

He looked around at the other cowboys getting ready for the next event, and added, "Of course, rodeo—just plain rodeo is still my favorite thing. But you have to take opportunity when it arrives."

When asked if that included endorsing products on advertisements, Mahan grinned, "Oh yeah. A little bit of everything. Of course, I was the lucky one. I happened to be the lead cowboy at the time they decided to make a movie about rodeo."

And he added, "I just got back from Russia. We were showing the American Cowboy film to a bunch of Russian leaders. They really liked it. They thought it was the kind of movie that they could really enjoy. Of course, we were glad to brag on rodeo."

"I'm working four rodeos this week trying to catch up. I go to Idaho, then South Bend, and over to Grand Junction. I like to come to Big Spring. I've been here lots of times. Do you know if Gay is coming here this year?"

When assured that he was registered, Mahan said, "Well, he's currently in the lead."

When asked if he was completely recovered from serious injuries a few years back, he answered, "Oh yes. But I've got this chipped wrist worrying me now. A wrist is important in bronc and bull riding."

"If I had it to do again, I'd still go the rodeo route."

Thay Lewis Wins In Barrel Race

A world champion, a local girl, an Arkansas bronc rider and three Texas cowboys led the standing in the first night of rodeo, prior to slack events in the early morning hours here Wednesday night.

A topnotch performance before a turnout of around 5,500 persons kept the crowd sitting in the stands to the final event, in spite of 35 mile-per-hour winds and sand in the face.

Larry Mahan, World Champion cowboy six times over, competed in three events and led in the saddle broncs with a score of 75, closely followed by Shawn Davis of Lewisville with a 73. Davis has three times been world saddle bronc champion. Mahan failed to ride a bull and failed to score in the barebacks.

Thay Lewis of Big Spring, among the top 15 in the country this season, led the barrel race event with a time 18.12. She was closely followed by Sherry Altizer of Del Rio, Jim Bob Altizer's daughter, with an 18.15.

Jack Ward of Springdale, Arkansas, well known in the field of barebacking riding, scored a 78 in that event, one of the highest bareback scores ever tallied in the Big Spring arena. Right behind him was an Iowa Park college youth, Perry Lee, with 77.

Nickey Wheeler of Tyler, from the land of roses, came out smelling like a rose in the bull riding with a 75 score. Big Spring has a record number of bull riders this season and they are holding after-hour competition along with the ropers. Rodeo's been good to me. There's nothing else like it. "Listen, I gotta go. I've got a bronc in the chute and I still like to have lots of time."

TOP DOGGER

Rex Bland of McCauley, often near the top in the dogging event, won the steer wrestling with a 4.4 followed by Michael Phillips of Eufaula, Okla., with a five flat. Lynn Waldrop of San Angelo was top roper in the opening show with a 10.8.

The rodeo included something for everybody. Barbara Mandrell, singing star of the show, belted out a group of country western hits, accompanied by a band she brought from Nashville. She even picked up the banjo and saxophone during one number as she drew lots of applause on a windy night.

Miss Mandrell will appear again tonight, in the performance which begins at 8:30. Hank Thompson, big name in country westerns, will headline with the show Friday and Saturday.

Quail Dobbs, Tommy Sheffield and Bryant Smith entertained the crowd with their clown antics and bull fighting prowess. Brenda Smith put on a dog act that almost seemed impossible in the wind Wednesday night.

BOARD INTRODUCED
The grand entry opening night included the visiting posse and special introductions went to Charlie Creighton, E.P. Driver, and Toots Mansfield, three calf-roping champion as members of the board on horseback.

Other board members include Rich Anderson, (See Thay, Page 4A, Col. 2)

BROKEN MAIN FLOODS STREET — A water main which apparently broke this morning filled the gutters with water after gushing through cracks in the sidewalk in the 100 block of Main Street. J. W. Atkins, Big Spring Furniture, said that the water is now standing eight inches deep in the basement of that store at 110 Main St. "We sometimes have a little flooding in the basement from heavy rains, but never like this," he said. City workers soon went to work trying to mend the leak.

KNOCKED OUT EIGHT YEARS AGO

Gene 'Van Winkle' Comes Back To Seymour

SEYMOUR, Tex. (AP) — Gene Tipps woke up, yawning, looked around and discovered the hippie movement with its flower children was gone.

The Vietnam war was over. A 1967 Chevrolet was now an old car.

GIRLS WED
His old girlfriends had long since married and had a house filled with children.

The hard rock music had given way to a new subculture—progressive country music.

And Gene, feeling his face and peering into a mirror, discovered he was 28 years old. But that's funny. The last thing he remembered he was only 20.

"To tell the truth, I feel like Rip Van Winkle. Only difference is that I had 12 more years to sleep," he said.

Tipps was critically injured in a one-car accident May 21, 1967. Suffering from shock and acute swelling of the brain associated with trauma, doctors held little hope of recovery.

Gall bladder surgery somehow brought him out of it.

He had lapsed into a void where he was "unresponsive and uncooperative," said Dr. C. M. Randal of Seymour. "All he wanted to do was sleep."

"There's no medical explanation. I wish I had a reason for the change. It would certainly help other patients in the same circumstances, but we don't," said Randal who performed the surgery May 16.

His mother called it a miracle.

MIRACLE
"I can hardly believe Gene is back. I still can't find the words to express the way I feel about the change. It's a miracle," said Mrs. O. E. Tipps.

When Tipps awoke, his only thought was to notify Cisco Junior College of his whereabouts so he could graduate as he had planned in May 1967. Brushing away nurses' efforts to give him something for sleep, he broke his eight-year silence.

"Mother, I only want to talk," he said.

Tipps thought he had been asleep two weeks. He does not remember when he used to sit in a chair, staring, or his parents' efforts the past five years to exercise him twice daily on a rowing-bicycle machine to maintain muscle tone.

"I have already told mother it's for sale. I'm never going to ride it again," said Tipps, who learned to walk with a chiropractor's help after lying in bed two years.

Otherwise, Tipps did little during his ordeal, his mother said.

"Gene only wanted to lay and sleep. We would get him up and feed him and no matter what we did, he would go lay down and go to sleep. He had no desire to do anything," she said.

Now, Tipps wants to complete his business administration education at West Texas State University. He plans to enter this fall. The former dean's list student saw his graduation certificate from Cisco Junior College recently.

However, Tipps' education plans to own a farm with cows and a Cadillac and planned leisure drives with his parents through Seymour must wait a while. He has little muscular control of his left eye, which a Wichita Falls doctor will examine.

25-CENT GAS

There are other things to cope with. He was looking for flatfoot haircuts and 25-cent gas, but found changed lifestyles, cars and dance steps.

"Everyone who comes to see me is married and has two or three kids. Last thing I remember is that we were all kids and single. I know I'm 28, but to me, I'm still 20," he said.

"I want to go ahead with my education in business administration. I'm going to have to get a job. I think I'm ready to take on the responsibilities my parents have had these last eight years."

Dangerous Temporizing

The inability of Congress to reach agreement on an energy policy which will reduce this country's dependence on oil imports has been a frustrating experience. The contrast between President Ford's bold moves to limit imports by taxing them by up to $3 a barrel (presently $2 a barrel) is widely noted and Congress writhes under sharp criticism of "foot-dragging."

Yet the truth is that the President Ford, too, has failed to come up with a solution to the energy crisis. He hopes that the $3 barrel tax eventually levied on oil imports will result in a two-million-barrel-a-day reduction in imports by the end of the next year. Only an optimist would concede that such a reduction will be realized.

At the end of March the United States was consuming almost 17 million barrels of oil a day. This nearly a million barrels a day more than in March, 1974. In February, 1974, the U.S. imported only 8.6 per cent of its oil needs from the Middle East. In February, 1975, the U.S. was importing 25.5 per cent of its total imports from the Middle East.

The trend of oil consumption in the United States is up, not down. The percentage of oil imports needed to meet demand is going up, not down. Neither the reality of a $3 barrel import tax nor the probability of another increase in the world price of oil later this year are likely to halt the trend toward increasing dependence on foreign oil.

Much stronger medicine will be needed. Yet neither Congress nor the President have the heart to demand of the American people the drastic measures that will be required to stop the costly drain on our balance-of-payments position. Why are they unwilling to be decisive on this question? Because they know the American people are not persuaded that any drastic action is needed that's why.

If the temporizing continues, if the reluctance to act boldly and resolutely is maintained, we can expect more inflation, more unemployment and more misery in the months ahead. We should not delude ourselves. The American system cannot withstand indefinitely the economic buffeting it is currently experiencing. There will be a Caesar in our future if the drift continues.

Needs To Be Spelled Out

In the wake of the furore which has followed a federal court ruling which might make even farming operations subject to permits, the EPA and the Corps of Engineers has put in a disclaimer.

The regulations, which would lump practically any land from which there is runoff, "probably would not extend to most farm and ranch activities," said and EPA statement. "We don't imagine plowing fields will require a permit."

"Probably" and "we imagine" are not good enough. The limitations of the proposed regulations being drafted by the U.S. Corps of Engineers need to be spelled out and not left to bureaucratic whim or interpretation. Sen. John Tower of Texas and Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas have introduced a bill which will protect rights of individual property owners and this legislation should be passed expeditiously.

Visited By CIA

Around The Rim

Marj Carpenter

With all of the hullabaloo about the CIA, you can find very few people who ever knowingly met or saw a CIA agent. But I did.

I was in 1963 and I was sitting at the news desk in Pecos and a gentleman came up and stood there a minute and dropped a card on my desk.

I sat looking at it in silence, and I finally looked up and said, "Well I don't know what in the world you want but I think we can now put a sign on the door that says, 'We have been visited by every kind of investigator there is.'"

I went on and explained to him that following the Estes years, we had FBI, DPS, Texas Rangers, Internal Revenue, investigators for the Department of Agriculture, ASCS investigators, private detectives, special investigators for the U.S. Attorney General, the State Attorney General and the District Attorney. I can't even remember what else.

There were times that we answered so many questions that we were numb.

I added, "I hate to be rude, but what in the world could you possibly be wanting?"

I was casting around in my mind for whom he was probably going to ask about.

Then he took me completely by surprise and said, "Have you ever heard of an Oscar Bucholtz?"

"As a matter of fact, I have," I answered. "He's the son of a pioneer butcher who used to live here. He recently returned for the first time in many years and some of his old classmates held a party for him. I wrote it up last week for the society section."

"I heard that you had," the agent smiled. I remember thinking, "He already knows what I've been doing. Amazing!" "Could I see the article?" he asked politely.

I kept thinking, "I am just not believing that the CIA is interested in my account of a party for Oscar Bucholtz," but I went and got the article.

The agent stood there studying the article and said, "Now I would like for you to tell me all that you know about everybody at this party." I sat looking at him and finally answered, "Not unless I know why. If I don't know why, I don't know anything about any of them."

"THAT IS NOT very cooperative," he stated. "That's correct," I answered, "I take mean pills every morning and I am not always cooperative."

He sighed. "Well, you can't put this information in the paper." "I guess not," I answered, "I don't feel up to withstanding the wrath of the CIA."

The agent then sat down and said, "Bucholtz is a top army official who is one of the authorities on a particular vital weapon to the United States. He walked off a base in Washington, D.C. and disappeared. We first thought he had been kidnapped. We are also considering the possibilities that he might be trying to meet somebody and pass on valuable information. There is also the possibility that he has simply had a nervous collapse from mental strain and has returned to old associates."

I was impressed. I told him the little I knew about the people at the party and offered the theory that none of them were spies.

"We will check them out. We take no chances." I felt a cold chill down my spine. I thought, "They just went to an old classmate's party." I said nothing.

The agent thanked me, took the clipping and left. I never saw Oscar's name again. I never heard what happened. I've always wondered. But the CIA never came my way a second time.

My Answer

Billy Graham

I'm 17 and recently became a Christian. Now I'd like to join the church of the minister who led me to Christ. However, my dad says no. He wants to keep our whole family in one church — although I'm the only one going anywhere. What shall I do?

Most states have established the age of 18 as the limit for parental responsibility of children. At 17, that means you really must obey your parents until your next birthday.

Your dad may not be reasonable or fair in this decision, but he does have the right to have the final word.

Maybe it isn't as bad as you think. Apparently he lets you attend this church, but balks only at your joining the membership. If he permits attendance, keep going and remain active. The pastor will not pressure you, and as a matter of fact, you may be able to set up what used to be called a "Watch Care" membership. It's particularly designed for students, and grants most of the benefits of membership without disrupting the present tie to your parents' congregation.

The Bible makes no mistake in ordering the obedience of children to father and mother. When you are of age, make your own decisions. I know God will bless your effort to pursue an aggressive faith through a vital evangelical congregation.

It's All Explainable

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Many economists forecast an expansion of business activity during the late summer months, but few of them foresee a substantial, concurrent improvement in the jobless rate. Why?

Isn't it logical to expect that as economic activity quickens, as production improves, few people will be frustrated in finding jobs? And that the jobless rate will quickly decline from 9.2 per cent?

The answer: No. There's no conspiracy; it's all explainable.

First off, as the economy emerges from a recession there is a decided tendency on the part of business to seek productivity increases, to get more for the dollar. There is a great deal of hesitancy about hiring.

Businessmen decline to commit themselves to expansion until they have some certainty about the future.

They fear overexpansion. Instead of hiring, they might be more inclined to seek greater efficiency from the existing staff. Or, they might increase the number of hours worked by the staff until they are certain the recovery will continue.

Argus Research Corp., wholesaler of market and economic information to securities brokers and institutions, notes a second factor at work: Despite unemployment, it often is difficult to find workers with the proper skills.

"This may be the result of either the inability of the unemployed to relocate or differences in skill requirements," says Argus.

Demographics, or the population factor, accounts for a third explanation of why an improvement in the jobless rate usually lags behind economic recovery. The labor force is growing faster than the ability of the economy to absorb workers.

Eventually they will be absorbed, but many months will be lost in the process.

Another reason also is frequently cited: Many of the largest employers — automobile, housing, appliances and the like — are cyclical industries. Right now their cycles are down, although seemingly destined to rise, if only slowly.

Until these cyclical industries get moving again they will have a pronounced drag on the general employment rate.

There is, nevertheless, a considerable amount of bullish news for the employment situation. Among those cited by Argus:

—The rate of factory hirings and recalls has risen.

—Employment rose in 43 per cent of 172 key industries in April, up from only 17 per cent in February.

—The number of first time claimants for jobless insurance fell in May, leaving the number of claimants at half the February peak.

Rebuke To Solon

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Despite private advice from the parliamentarian's office that the House Ethics Committee lacks jurisdiction in a case looking toward a possible rebuke of Massachusetts Rep. Michael Harrington, a liberal Democrat who has led attacks on the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), the Ethics Committee is expected to meet next week to consider the case.

THE MOVE against Rep. Harrington, an outspoken CIA critic particularly in the Chile affair, has been hatching for almost a year, the result of smoldering resentment over what some Armed Services Committee members say privately was Harrington's violation of a signed secrecy pledge.

Harrington signed the pledge on June 4, 1974, as a condition for obtaining access to secret testimony given to the Armed Services CIA oversight subcommittee by CIA director William Colby on the agency's activities in domestic Chilean politics before and during the Allende regime.

THE SECRECY pledge signed by Rep. Harrington was as follows: "The contents of such classified information (Colby's testimony) will not be divulged to any unauthorized person in any way, form, shape or manner."

Angered over what he regarded as congressional apathy in the CIA-Chile affair, Rep. Harrington subsequently informed the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs Committees, as well as other Congressmen, members of his own staff and one highly reputable reporter, that Colby's testimony contained political dynamite. The general thrust of Colby's testimony was given by Rep. Harrington at least to the two committee chairmen, and possibly others.

HARRINGTON admitted as much to the Armed Services Committee last Sept. 12 after the CIA's activities in Chile were exposed by the New York Times. He was called on the carpet by then committee chairman, Rep. Edward Hebert of Louisiana, who suspected Rep. Harrington himself as the leak for the Times expose.

Denying he was the leak, Rep. Harrington was excused by the Armed Services Committee after his Sept. 12 interrogation and the matter appeared closed. But on May 25, Harrington read former CIA Latin America chief David A. Phillips' defense of the agency in a signed article in the New York Times. Phillips wrote that it was a "myth" that the CIA "encouraged the Chilean plotters who toppled President Salvador Allende Gossens and funded the strikes leading to the coup" against Marxist Allende.

ANGERED ONCE again, Rep. Harrington wrote a circular letter to House colleagues suggesting that they do what he did last June: obtain access to Colby's still-secret testimony to the Armed Services CIA oversight committee.

That letter triggered the disciplinary action by the committee. It voted unanimously on June 10 (with 13 of 40 members present) to deny Harrington access to any more classified material at least until the House Ethics Committee (officially the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct) examines the whole question of access to a committee's secret testimony by non-committee members — a direct rebuke to Rep. Harrington.

An 'Outfield Allergy' Nar

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My grandson has an allergy and has had it for quite some time. It starts in the summer when the trees bud and the grass starts to grow.

The thing is that he has joined a Little League team and has to play in the outfield. His eyes get bloodshot and itchy, and he gets an awful hacking cough. Is there anything that would help him?

Mrs. W.A. It may be late now to do anything about this season, but you might begin planning for the next.

Your grandson can be helped by desensitization to offending pollen. There are three major sources — from trees in early spring, grasses in summer and ragweed in the early fall. So for those who are afflicted by the fall pollen, now would not be too early to begin taking action.

Pollen extract can be injected, normally starting about six months before the season starts, which is why I say that it is a bit late to help your grandson this summer. The extract is injected in increasing dosages so that by the time the particular pollen problem occurs, the patient's system can cope with it.

Some immediate help is available, though. Small doses of steroid (cortisone-like) drugs are sometimes helpful. The boy's cough might be an allergic bronchitis, which might also be helped by appropriate desensitization.

An eye doctor could prescribe eye drops to help him over the worst of the present pollen season, which, unfortunately for him, appears to correspond to his baseball season.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Are angina Pectoris and coronary angina one and the same? Also, will you please send me your booklet, "How to Handle Angina Pectoris." I am sending 25 cents for it to you in care of this newspaper, and I'm enclosing the required long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Yes, they are the same, although there are other angina-like pains not related to the heart. Angina pectoris, the angina most commonly referred to, is caused by a deficiency of blood supply to the heart muscle with a resulting pain in the chest area or down the arm.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a gall bladder operation a year ago, and a keloid scar formed at the point of incision. Sometimes it itches and hurts at the end of the day. The doctor says it's okay, but it seems there should be something to do about it.

Also, I have bad breath. I had my teeth checked, and it is not coming from there. I also take laxatives to calm down my stomach.

A keloid is an overgrowth of scar tissue that often forms at the site of an incision. Anyone who has had one can attest to the discomfort they can cause.

One treatment is by X-ray, another by cryotherapy (freezing), and a third is by injection of a steroid preparation into the tissue. Cosmetic surgery for removal of keloids has not been too successful. A dermatologist would be able to advise you which procedure is best in your case.

A cold compress or a soothing lotion can give you temporary relief. The symptoms eventually disappear with time, but it can be a long process, often years.

As to your bad breath. This can be related to your gall bladder problem, but laxatives won't help. Check with your doctor.

"Bad Breath Can Be Corrected" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet explaining the causes and cure of bad breath. For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 3999, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

The Shah's Goal

Marquis Childs

TEHRAN — Achieving a system that combines the best of all other systems and yet cannot be tagged as capitalist, Communist, liberal or any ism is the goal of the shah of Iran.

IN THE VAST glittering audience chamber of the Niavaran Palace he voices the hope that within a decade Iran will have achieved standards in the human and social field as well as in industry and technology equal to those of Western Europe.

Presiding over the modernization of his country with an authority that few rulers in the world can claim, he speaks with the earnestness, the quiet intensity, that is his hallmark.

Slight, unassuming in appearance, his word carries weight to the farthest corners of this land that is increasingly an amalgam of East and West, ancient tribal custom and computerized industry.

"DEVISING A philosophy and a program invented by ourselves, a new world must emerge for ourselves," he says. "This is our aim. It is a movement up and up in the moral and social field as well as in technology. Major industries such as oil and steel must be state owned, but the balance must be private to provide incentive."

The workers presently get 20 per cent of profits, and a plan is being worked out under which 49 per cent of enterprises will be acquired by workers, farmers and others on easy terms helped by the government, with loans at low interest rates.

WHILE THE SHAH said that relations with the United States could not be better, following his recent state visit to Washington, he spoke feelingly of attacks in the press in America on Iran. An editorial in the Washington Post, saying that the assassination of two American Air Force colonels could be explained by the lack of any outlet for political protest, has drawn widespread criticism. The shah spoke with something like bitterness of this charge.

Is it democracy, he asked, is it an outlet for political protest, when President Kennedy, his brother Robert and Martin Luther King are assassinated? What of crime in the streets of your capital? Murderers who go unpunished?

HE MENTIONED, too, recent reports in Tehran newspapers of two masked men appearing on a New York television station claiming they had supported the terrorists who killed the Air Force colonels. The shah said he found such boasting impossible to understand. There are small bands of terrorists, perhaps 150 altogether. They are so-called intellectuals for the most part from middle class backgrounds. Some are Islamic-Marxists. A paradox? Yes, that is a paradox.

A NEW YORK Times story, apparently from a Pentagon leak, giving the details of an Iranian-U.S. contract with Rockwell International of Anaheim, Calif., calling for setting up an intelligence system throughout the Persian Gulf, also drew the shah's ire. This was a state secret that should have disclosed officially, is at all, he said.

The Soviets built the steel plant at Isfahan which they are now enlarging. This was paid for with Iranian natural gas. A big tripartite deal is being worked out with an exchange of gas between Iran, Russia and Germany that will total $4 billion.

BUT THE shah has strong feelings about the rights of the states that along with Iran front on the Persian Gulf. "The superpowers should keep out. We are telling the world we are capable of taking care of ourselves,"

Tight Limits Placed On House Spending

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — House members and committees will have to live within strict financial limits imposed on between sessions spending by the chamber's administration committee.

A $50,000 limit was set on each committee's spending between now and January 1977.

Exceptions are the rules, constitutional revision, calendars and appropriations committees, which can spend only $25,000.

Rep. Charles Evans, D-Fort Worth, said the limits would result in a saving of about $800,000 compared with amounts spent on interim studies after the 1973 session.

Rep. Roy Blake, D-Nacogdoches, said even the new limits are too high.

He said the 1973 legislature "was the liberal session. This is the conservative session. I thought we were going to cut all that."

Chairman Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, said the committees would be held strictly accountable through required monthly progress reports showing "where they went and what they did."

The House set up only four special interim study committees, compared with about 60-30 of them funded—last session. Other studies will be made by regular standing committees, which also are under orders to monitor spending by state agencies under their jurisdiction.

The committee also voted to limit members to four trips to Austin a month, with $30 per day for expenses up to eight days a month, on legislative business. All travel will come out of members' expense accounts or committee budgets. Previously, a member could charge one trip to Austin a month to the general House budget.

Rep. Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, was appointed as a subcommittee of one to review a request by Rep. Paul Ragsdale, D-Dallas, to collect pictures of all black representatives who served before 1900, frame them as a composite and display them in the House.

Laney said Massey would have to determine whether a House resolution was needed and "where we want to put it."

"Put it in Ragsdale's office," said Rep. Nub Donaldson, D-Gatesville.

The committee also was told that local telephone rate increases in Austin had boosted the monthly bill for non-toll service by $1,500, to about $12,800.

Checks Go Out Shortly

GI Bill Education checks due 219,279 veterans were being processed in Kansas City, Mo., within minutes after the President signed the $15 Billion second supplemental bill, according to Richard L. Roudebush, Administrator of Veterans Affairs.

The payment of GI Bill Education checks had been halted since June 1 when funds in the VA's Education and Training accounts were depleted. According to Roudebush, the VA had continued completing all of the paperwork processing for each of the delayed payment cycles just as though the checks were going to be paid on schedule. As a result, VA processing was already done when the president signed the bill into law and veterans were assured of no administrative delay in the VA.

The Treasury Department assured the VA that the checks would be paid as soon as possible, according to Roudebush.

A total of $62,839,000 is represented in the 219,279 checks now being processed in Kansas City. The sum includes $45.7 million due 158,686 veterans for delayed payments that normally would have gone to the treasury early in June. Another $17.1 million for another 60,593 veterans was included in the payments for the regular pay cycle due Jan. 13.

The vast majority of GI Bill checks due veteran-trainees were paid on schedule June 1 before VA ran out of money. These June 1 checks, totaling $222 million, went to more than 900,000 trainees.

Trial Of Suspended Judge Parr Transferred To Hebbronville

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex. (AP) — The ouster trial of Duval County Judge Archer Parr has been moved for the second time since proceedings began in March.

The new site will be Hebbronville, chosen Wednesday by District Court Judge O. F. Carrillo, and the new date is Friday.

Carrillo granted the change of venue sought by Dist. Atty. Arnulfo Guerra after lawyers spent almost half a day arguing over the legalities of depositions taken for the trial.

The trial was first moved here from Duval County.

Guerra filed the original charges against Parr seeking to remove him from office after Parr was convicted on federal felony charges at San Antonio. Guerra also claimed that testimony in a divorce case indicated that Parr had been involved in acts of official misconduct.

Parr, nephew of the late Duke of Duval, George B. Parr, was temporarily suspended from office by Judge Carrillo.

Since then, Guerra has filed additional allegations accusing Parr of other acts of official misconduct and possible conflict of interest.

Carrillo said jury selection will get under way at Hebbronville at 9 a.m. Friday.

Defense attorney Marvin Foster of San Diego has sought to have Carrillo disqualify himself on the grounds that he is a political foe of the Parr family.

One of the reasons for the change of venue was the question of depositions presented at the trial here. The depositions became necessary last month when most of the witnesses chose not to honor their subpoenas based on a Texas law that says a witness in a civil suit does not have to travel more than 100 miles from home to testify.

Rio Grande City was more than 100 miles away from the homes of most of the witnesses who live in Duval County.

Carrillo then authorized Guerra to take depositions, but defense attorneys said they were not present when the depositions were taken.

Frequent Escort Of Liz 'Wanted'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An arrest warrant has been issued for local used car salesman Henry Wynberg, frequent escort of actress Elizabeth Taylor.

Police said Wynberg failed for the second time to appear at a court hearing.

Los Angeles Superior Court Commissioner Herbert S. Ross issued the warrant Tuesday in a case in which Wynberg is accused of defaulting on payment of $17,702 still due on 27 cars ordered from the Genway Corp. of Chicago by Wynberg's California Auto Brokers.

KILLER OF FOUR? Defense Lawyers Denied $2,500

HOUSTON (AP) — A state judge has denied a request for $2,500 by attorneys for Gary Addison Taylor to investigate statements police say Taylor made concerning the deaths of four women.

Houston police claim Taylor, 39, charged with five sex offenses here, has made written and oral statements that he killed four women in three states.

Visiting State District Court Judge W. A. Hughes of Decatur, Tex. denied the request Wednesday which was made by lawyers Terry Gaiser and Stuart Kinard.

The judge ruled in favor of prosecutor Don Lambright who maintained the alleged statements dealt with no charges in the court's jurisdiction.

Houston homicide detectives claim Taylor, after his arrest here May 20, told of killing a Houston waitress, a Seattle, Wash. housewife and two Toledo, Ohio women whose bodies were found in Onsted, Mich.

The motion seeking the investigative funds alleged Taylor was "incarcerated and held incommunicado for several days", was ignored in his "repeated requests for appointed counsel", was ignored "in his assertion of his right to remain silent while peace officers subjected him to third degree interrogations" and was driven to a park in an unmarked police car 72 hours after his arrest where police "proceeded to physically abuse the defendant and threaten him at gunpoint" before the statement was signed.

Police have denied the allegations.

Taylor, a former mental patient, told Justice of the Peace Laurence Wayne in a May 27 appearance here that he was beaten in the park by police.

A motion seeking lie detector tests for Houston police who took the alleged statement was denied.

SCORES, HUNDREDS, THOUSANDS? — Spectators by the thousands gathered early for Wednesday's downtown rodeo parade. Some of those pictured here raced over to Scurry Street to wind the parade's end. Sheriff's

Mary Jo Estep Survived Massacre Of Indians

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — "It's all so unreal!" Mary Jo Estep said after learning she is one of the last known survivors of a massacre of Indians in the United States. The year was 1911 when her mother, her father, her grandfather and seven other members of a fleeing Shoshone Indian band were massacred by a posse of whites in desolate sagebrush country of northern Nevada. Now a retired school teacher, Miss Estep, 75, said she grew up with a white family and never asked about the massacre. Her place in Indian history was recently discovered by Dayton O. Hyde, an author who spent 15 years researching a novel, "The Last Free Man." This is his account of the massacre: Miss Estep's grandfather, Shoshone Mike, and a small Indian band that included her family lived in a canyon near Twin Falls, Idaho. In 1910, Mike was charged with horse stealing, so he and his band fled. Believing they were being pursued, the Indians made their way to California, then across the Sierra Nevada into Nevada. They holed up in a canyon and were soon confronted with the worst winter in Nevada history.

The Indians lived on butchered beef until they were discovered by ranchers. Fighting erupted and the ranchers were killed. The Indians fled, chased for more than 300 miles through Nevada Territory by a large posse. The end came near Winnemucca, Nev., when the posse attacked while Mike and his band were asleep. Only four children survived, Miss Estep, two sisters and a brother. The children were taken to the Carson, Nev., Indian School where they remained a short time. Evan Estep, superintendent of the Indian agency at Ft. Hall, Idaho, came to the school and took the children back to Ft. Hall. He adopted Mary Jo after the three older children died of tuberculosis.

and wrote Hyde that she had gone to school with a Mary Jo Estep, whose parents had died in an Indian massacre in Nevada. Hyde followed the trail to Yakima, where he found Miss Estep, who graduated with a degree in music from Washington Normal School in Ellensburg in 1934.

The story told over the years in bars and taverns in Northern Nevada was that the "posse braved the winter and killed the Indians." But they had the story wrong. One Indian survived. And now the townspeople of Winnemucca hope to erect a monument on the site where Shoshone Mike and most of his Indian band died.

Old Terminal Could Be Used By Schools

FORT WORTH — It has been proposed that the Texas & Pacific railway passenger terminal here be converted into a downtown educational building for the Fort Worth public school system. Sources said administrators see strong advantages to leasing the structure and using it for classes under the "magnet school" concept which school board members approved last Wednesday night.

Supt. Julius Truelson and Dr. Gerald Ward, who will succeed him this summer, were reported to favor use of the building because of its central location and parking facilities. Board members flashed the green light for administrators to put the "magnet school" concept into practice on a trial basis at the high school level during the 1975-76 year.

It calls for various schools to offer specialized courses in such fields as math, science, foreign languages, music, ballet and vocational subjects. Truelson said he believed a racial cross-section of students would volunteer to enroll in these subjects. He said they would spend part of each day in their "home" schools, then ride buses to schools offering the specialized subjects. Truelson suggested also that the board consider leasing one or more downtown buildings for use as schools offering these subjects. Fort Worth officials have also considered the Texas and Pacific terminal as a site for a central library or transportation center.

Capture Violator

DALLAS (AP) — Police in Salt Lake City have captured an Indiana parole violator sought since early in 1974 in the kidnaping of a 6-year-old Dallas girl, the Federal Bureau of Investigation said Wednesday. Gordon Shanklin, FBI agent in charge here, identified the prisoner as Earl Edward West and said he was picked up for a traffic violation. West was turned over to federal authorities on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for abducting Lisa Hernandez from her parents' car here Jan. 1, 1974.

Lisa was taken from a parked station wagon as she waited with four younger children while Mr. and Mrs. San Juan Hernandez were grocery shopping. She was released unharmed 12 hours later. The child told questioners she was held overnight in an apartment about eight blocks from her home. She said her captor turned her loose after she informed him that he had better let her go home.

Power Firm Rebuffed

TULSA (AP) — Public Service Co. has been initially rebuffed in its effort to increase wholesale electric rates for six communities and four rural electric cooperatives. It was learned Wednesday that J. S. Kaplan, administrative law judge for Federal Power Commission, has reduced the increase on grounds the Tulsa-based utility is entitled only to a 7.7 per cent rate of return instead of the 8.88 per cent upon which the company based the $505,000 annual rate increase.

The original increase averaged out at a 30 per cent boost in billings but the new rate apparently isn't known because of the probability of appeals in the case. Public Service filed the increase in May 1973 for 12 customers.

CHANNING, Tex. (AP) — Sheriff's officers said Bill Lewis of Channing, in the Texas Panhandle, killed himself after wounding three relatives in a flurry of gunfire Wednesday night at their home. His wife Patricia, 19, and her mother, Doris Jones, 38, were listed as in critical condition today at an Amarillo hospital. Mrs. Lewis' father, Bob Jones, was shot in the arm. Officers said Lewis apparently became despondent over family problems.

Molested Small Girl?

TULSA (AP) — Jimmy L. Staudie, 22, Tulsa, was to be arraigned today on charges he kidnaped and molested an 8-year-old girl in north Tulsa County on Wednesday.

The girl was walking towards Turley when she was forced into an automobile about 5:25 p.m., authorities said. The driver sped away but he was followed in another automobile by several witnesses. The pursued car failed to make a turn at an intersection and drove into a field about two miles from where the girl was taken.

The witnesses returned to where a Highway Patrol was working traffic about three miles from the site and directed him to the field where the suspect's car had come to rest. The trooper called in assistance from the sheriff's office and police department en route to the field. Officers from the three agencies took Staudie into custody 20 minutes after the abduction. He remained in Tulsa County jail overnight awaiting arraignment on kidnap and molestation charges plus a charge of reckless driving.

SANTA FE (AP) — State police today identified a body found in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains near Santa Fe as that of Thomas Andrew Stansell, 24, of Groves, Tex. Capt. T. J. Chavez said the body, which was found above the Santa Fe ski basin last Saturday, was identified through fingerprints. A tentative identification was made earlier by papers found on the body but the name was withheld until it was confirmed, officers said. Chavez said Stansell had been in Santa Fe briefly earlier this year. He said papers found on the body included a deposit slip from a Santa Fe bank and a U.S. Forest Service entry permit for the Pecos Wilderness, dated Feb. 14. The state medical examiner's report indicated death was caused by exposure.

Ford Lacks Legislation To Achieve Energy Aims

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A Texaco Inc. executive says President Ford's energy program lacks positive legislation to implement the program's objectives of conservation and self-sufficiency. R. Earle Wright, vice president of Texaco Inc., told the annual meeting of the Good Roads-Transportation Association here Wednesday that "most important among the President's proposals for achieving a reduction of imports is the elimination of domestic price controls."

Wright noted the elimination of controls is needed "so that economic forces may be permitted to work to provide the necessary incentive and capital to stimulate supply and to reduce unnecessary oil and natural gas consumption." He predicted that within the next ten years the petroleum industry would need nearly $2 billion for financing purposes. Profits, he said, have not been sufficient to meet the capital needs.

Wright said that in the past six years his company has plowed back into capital and exploration expenditures more than $8 billion while its earnings have netted a little more than $6 billion. "During 1974," he said, "at a time when our earnings were at an all-time high, our profit margin, excluding inventory profits, averaged less than two cents a gallon on all petroleum and products sold. For the first quarter of 1975, the comparable figure was about one cent a gallon." Wright said that the recent allowance for all but the smallest oil companies "will remove about $2 billion a year from the industry's capital funds that could have been used to help find new energy sources."

He added that this would result in less energy and, "in the long run, will mean higher prices for the consumer."

Another speaker at the session, Texas Highway Commission Chairman Reagan Houston said that if present highway funding arrangements continue there will be no state money for new roads in the foreseeable future. Houston said the commission had decided on a year-long reevaluation by Texas Highway Department personnel under the direction of a consulting firm. "The study will examine the department's role in changing economic and energy situation toward the widening gap between needed construction and available revenue."

He said the study also will examine higher costs caused by inflation "and the desire for higher levels of transportation service, as well as the need to demonstrate to the public the benefits of proposed projects."

Asian Allies Won't Play Second Fiddle To Europe

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says despite America's reverses in Indochina, Asia is not going to take a back seat to Europe in U.S. foreign policy.

"The United States will not turn away from Asia, or focus our attention on Europe to the detriment of Asia," Kissinger told the annual dinner of the Japan Society Wednesday night.

"Our fidelity to our commitments will be as strong in one part of the globe as in the other."

He said that while continuing to pursue detente with China and the Soviet Union, "the United States will continue to oppose the efforts of any country or group of countries to impose their will on Asia by a preponderance of power or blackmail."

Kissinger did not refer directly to the Middle East but he proposed that Japan join the United States in large-scale research into new forms of energy and expanded production of nuclear fuel. Japan is the industrial country most dependent on Middle Eastern oil.

The secretary opened the door to U.S. relations with the Communist governments in South Vietnam and Cambodia provided they moderate their policies.

"Our attitude toward them will be influenced by their conduct toward their neighbors and their attitude toward us," he told the audience of American and Japanese industrial and foreign trade executives.

Kissinger said the United States would honor its military commitments to Japan, South Korea and other Asian countries, and that "allies who seek our support will find us constant."

He added, however, that "if any partner seeks to modify these commitments, we will be prepared to accommodate that desire."

Noting that the United States is Japan's chief source of imported food, Kissinger said: "The United States ... pledges that in times of tight markets it will take account of the needs of our long-time customers, such as Japan."

"We will do our utmost to prevent a repetition of the unfortunate experience of 1973, when we were forced suddenly to restrict the export of soybeans to Japan and to other countries."

Center Has Top Float

A parade long enough that it wound around 19 blocks, kicked off the four-day rodeo here Wednesday afternoon.

The Westside Center had the winning float, with KBYG Radio second, and the high school student council, third.

The band sauntered down the street playing "San Antonio Rose" followed by the rodeo directors and Col. Robert Owens on horseback. County and city officials in cars were followed by parade-entertaining Shriners, posers from San Angelo, Lamesa, Scurry and Nolan Counties, a Disabled Veterans Float, Doc Yum Music Company Caboose, a First Federal Float, and lots of horseback riders.

Candy and balloons were on hand for the children who were among the large crowd that lined the parade route.

First place posse in the parade was San Angelo, with Scurry County getting second and Dawson County third. In the junior clubs, Scurry Junior Riders were first and the Sundowners second.

The host posse, Howard County Posse and the local Youth Horsemen participated, but did not compete. Charlie Creighton presented the winning trophies at the opening performance of the rodeo.

Plot To Catch Dealers In 'Flash Money' Flops

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Justice Department plot to catch dealers in stolen securities backfired two years ago when a key informer invested in California property using as collateral a phony $1.75 million bank certificate issued to him with department approval, department officials said Wednesday.

The development left department officials red-faced and set off a high-level review of the strategy used in the case, described as unusual but not unprecedented.

In an agreement with the department's Organized Crime Strike Force in Chicago, the Continental Illinois National Bank issued the bogus certificate of deposit to informer Charles E. Leggett in May 1973, said department spokesman Robert Feldkamp.

In August 1974, department officials learned that Leggett had used the certificate as collateral for mortgage on a $2 million house and land in California. His action came to light when the certificate was presented to Continental for payment.

"Continental advised us and was instructed not to make any payment," Feldkamp told reporters.

Feldkamp said Leggett claims that the California property deal was part of his effort to infiltrate a stolen securities racket.

Leggett was not immediately available for comment.

The Chicago Tribune said he is in Canada and that the Justice Department apparently knows his whereabouts but has not yet attempted to apprehend him.

A angle of lawsuits has resulted and department officials are considering whether to bring charges against Leggett, Feldkamp said.

received a fake certificate for more than $1.75 million and subsequently returned it to the bank without incident.

In the second deal, the certificate was issued in Leggett's name and bore all the markings of a true security, Feldkamp said, but there was no money backing it.

As part of the agreement, the strike force filed a letter with the bank stating that no money was ever to be paid on the certificate either by the bank or by the government.

"What Leggett apparently did was put it in trust in a title and trust company in California, then used it as second collateral to buy land and a house in La Jolla," Feldkamp said.

U.S. OPEN Jack Ready As Can Be

MEDINAH, Ill. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus threw down the gauntlet to his 149 rivals as he prepared to tee off today in the opening round of the 75th U.S. Open Golf Championship. "I am as ready as I can be," he said. A loose air of confidence, tightened with a steel thread of determination, was evident as the world's premier tournament pro faced the second and perhaps the most rugged test in his bid for an unprecedented Grand Slam. "I feel I am playing as well as I was playing in the Masters," Jack added, perhaps escalating the tension that has gripped old Medinah Country Club's No. 3 course because of recurring thunderstorms and tornado alerts. In winning the Masters, Nicklaus gained the first leg on the four major championships which include the U.S. and British opens and the America PGA. No golfer has ever won the quadrangle.

Young Named

STANTON — Coach Bill Young has been named to succeed Dennis Walling as Stanton Junior High School principal. The search for a coach to succeed Young began immediately. Young was hired as principal on the recommendation of Supt. of Schools Russell McMeans. Walling quit the Stanton school system to become principal of a school system in the Cloudercroft, N.M., area. Young has been head coach here the past five years. The Buffalo football team finished with a 7-3 record last fall and is regarded as a prime district contender this year. Young previously had coached at Clint and Van Horn. He was given a one-year contract by school trustees. McMeans said he had already interviewed one man about the coaching position and would talk with others in a few days. Two junior high coaches have been hired for the 1975-76 school year. They are Roddy McIver, a native of Wink, and Gary Krejci. McIver, who boasts three years coaching experience, will be the head junior high school coach. Krejci recently graduated from Angelo State University. They succeed Gary Scroggins and Greg Marshall, who submitted their resignations recently.

LL PLAY Rebels Downed

The Lions' Terry Spears and Clint Elliott combined their pitching talents in hurling a no-hitter against the National Little League Rebels. The American Major Little League Hawks outthawed Cabot, 13-3, and the International Talons halted the Comets, 7-6. All three games were played Wednesday. The Talons scored their winning run in the bottom of the sixth. The American Minor League Drillers stopped the Sports, 21-7 Tuesday, and drilled the Pals, 12-6, last Friday. The Drillers are now 11-2-0 for the season.

Bruins Hold 1-Point Edge

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — UCLA, its forces thinned after Wednesday's battles, remained a strong contender here today in the 91st National Collegiate Athletics Championships with its topseeded singles player and its two doubles teams still in competition. The Bruins held a one-point edge in the team standings over Trinity University of Texas which had 19 points. Stanford and Miami of Florida followed with 17 each.

Smalley's Grand Slam Homer Helps Rangers Dump Chicago

By The Associated Press
Fred Lynn had a 20-game hitting streak stopped Monday, so the Boston Red Sox rookie center fielder decided to do something about it. "I came to the ballpark early for extra batting practice," Lynn said after leading Boston to a 15-1 walloping of the Detroit Tigers Wednesday night. "I wasn't satisfied with the way I'd been swinging." He was satisfied after Wednesday's game. He smashed three home runs, a triple and a single, driving in 10 runs and missing the American League RBI record by one, a mark set by Tony Lazzeri of the New York Yankees in 1936. The major league record is 12, set by James Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals in 1924. Lynn's wasn't the only bat on target Wednesday in the American League. In other games, Baltimore clobbered Cleveland 13-6, Kansas City crushed California 13-0, Texas clubbed Chicago 10-3, Milwaukee edged New York 5-3 and Oakland nipped Minnesota 7-6. With his 5-for-6 effort, Lynn moved in the league lead in runs with 42 and RBIs with 50. He increased his home run total to 14, only one behind the leaders, is third in batting with a .352 average and tied for fifth in doubles with 13. Lynn began his carnage with a two-run homer in the first inning off starter Joe Coleman. He also tagged Coleman for a three-run blast in the second, slamming the ball off the right field roof at Tiger Stadium.

GRAND SLAM — Texas Ranger short stop Roy Smalley is congratulated by his team mates Lenny Randle, Leo Cardenas, and Mike Hargrove at the plate Wednesday night in Arlington Stadium after the rookie hit his first major league grand slam. The Rangers beat the Chicago White Sox 10-3.

In the third he slashed a two-run triple off Bob Reynolds, beat out an infield single in the eighth off Tom Walker, then concluded the evening with a three-run homer off Walker in the ninth. Orioles 13, Indians 6. Lee May, Tommy Davis and Paul Blair combined to bat in 10 runs as Baltimore pounded out 19 hits. May and Ken Singleton homered for the winners while Boog Powell and Buddy Bell had round-trippers for Cleveland. Royals 13, Angels 0. Cookie Rojas' double scored Tony Solaita with the fourth run in the first inning as Kansas City belted starter Nolan Ryan and three other California hurlers. Ryan, who pitched the fourth no-hitter of his career June 1, was forced from the game in the third inning with a groin injury. Rangers 10, White Sox 3. A grand slam homer by Roy Smalley in the eighth dumped the Chicago White Sox. Ferguson Jenkins gave up three home runs, all solo shots, as he increased his season record to 8-6. Brewers 5, Yankees 3. Bill Travers, staked to an early 4-0 lead, scattered six hits and had last-out relief help from Ed Rodriguez as Milwaukee stopped the New York Yankees.

Dodgers Mystify Astros On Hooton's Three-Hitter

By The Associated Press
Johnny Bench hit an umpire, but it was nothing personal. In the other National League games, the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Cincinnati Reds 9-7, the San Francisco Giants routed the San Diego Padres 8-1, the Pittsburgh Pirates walloped the St. Louis Cardinals 9-3; the Montreal Expos nipped the New York Mets 7-6 in 10 innings and the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the Houston Astros 4-0. Bench's latest binge gave him 19 RBIs in the last 14 games, propelling him to a wide lead over his National League challengers. Both would even out after a while, but it hasn't so far," says Bench. In the other National League games, the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Cincinnati Reds 9-7, the San Francisco Giants routed the San Diego Padres 8-1; the Pittsburgh Pirates walloped the St. Louis Cardinals 9-3; the Montreal Expos nipped the New York Mets 7-6 in 10 innings and the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the Houston Astros 4-0.

M-Cubs Making League Headway

By The Associated Press
Bats literally boomed Wednesday night in the Texas League. Seven home runs, including a grand slam, and a nine-run fourth inning figured in a Midland-

Shreveport contest that saw 13 batters go to the plate in that frame. Gene Del'yon's fifth inning grand slam paced East Division cellar dweller Alexandria to a startling 8-2 upset of Lafayette, which holds a four-game lead in that division. Jack Clark pounded a sixth inning solo homer, but it proved too little too late for the Drillers. Mike Allen, 3-5, notched the win for Alexandria.

Midland's fourth inning burst cinched a 9-3 triumph for the Cubs over Shreveport, leader in the TL West. Thirteen batters rapped seven hits for the Captains in that inning, including a two-run double by Bill Bright. Winner Dennis Moore, 6-4, allowed seven hits, including homers by Ron Mitchell and Mitchell Page.

Sweeping winds converted a high fly ball into a two-run homer for El Paso's Carlos Popez — his third this season. Lopez also socked a two-run double in the fifth and four RBIs to lead the Diablos in a 7-4 romp over San Antonio. Butch Alberts popped an eighth-inning solo homer and added triple to help the El Paso cause. Tom Whiteley, 2-6, took the victory and broke his six-game losing streak. Reliever Mike Overy tabbed his fifth save.

teammate Tony Perez and Greg Luzinski of Philadelphia are tied for second in the RBI race with 44. The Reds overcame steamy humidity and wore out Blue Moon Odom early for their 22nd victory in their last 29 games. Phillies 9, Cubs 7. Reserve infielder Tommy Hutton, a .171 hitter, slammed a two-run pinch home run in the ninth inning to carry Philadelphia over Chicago. Dick Allen, who had homered and doubled twice earlier, got his fourth hit of the day, a single, with one out in the top of the ninth. Then Hutton was inserted for Mike Anderson and responded with a blast of reliever and loser Bob Locker, 0-1.

Giants 8, Padres 1. Derre Thomas doubled and scored in a three-run first inning, belted a two-run single in the fourth and singled and scored in the sixth, leading San Francisco over San Diego. Dodgers 4, Astros 0. Ron Cey slammed a first-inning grand slam home run and Burt Hooton hurled a three-hitter to lead Los Angeles past Houston. Cey's homer was his 10th of the season and second in as many games. It was the first grand slam of his career.

LOOKING ELSEWHERE Barry Not Happy With Pro Salary

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rick Barry says he is not being paid "commensurate with my abilities," and so the star forward of the National Basketball Association champion Golden State Warriors is looking elsewhere — to television. "I would like to set myself up financially so I wouldn't have to worry about things five years down the line," the 31-year-old Barry said Wednesday. "I'm not the type of player who's making an astronomical amount of money that some other players are making, and what I'm looking for is security." Barry emphasized, "This isn't just a ploy to make the Warriors offer me more, but I'm sure that it does put the Warriors in a difficult position." He's got a summer contract with CBS and starts work this weekend, at the National AAU track championships in Eugene, Ore. "I'm not going to be a color man," he said, "so I won't have to know track like an expert. I'll do interviews and some of the races. Sometimes I think it's a detriment to have a sportscaster who can step on the toes of the expert."

Barry, a 1964 graduate of Miami where he took numerous courses in communications, worked as a sportscaster for WABC-TV in New York when he was a member of the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association, doing the nightly sports reports during the off-season.

Hearings On Corruption Among Grain Inspectors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under secretary of Agriculture J. Phil Campbell said today the grain export inspection system is plagued by many inherent problems, but that the Department of Agriculture has uncovered them and is moving to correct them.

Without mentioning specific allegations of corruption that have been made about the system used to inspect grain before it is shipped to foreign purchasers, Campbell said the problems must be "overcome to improve the integrity of our national grain inspection system."

Campbell testified before the Senate subcommittee on foreign agriculture policy, amid allegations that wheat and other commodities sold to foreign countries are being mixed with dirt and debris.

The subcommittee joins at least four other investigations looking into the foreign commodity trade, focusing on bribery among federally licensed inspectors whose approval is needed before the shipments can leave U.S. ports.

Campbell substituted for Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, who is in South America this week.

A spokesman for the subcommittee said the panel was primarily concerned with determining how extensive the problems are, although it would look into grading standards used to classify the grains and the manner in which the commodities are handled on the docks.

"Are there a few bad apples in the barrel or is the barrel so rotten that it contaminates all the apples that get in?" he asked.

The Departments of Justice and Agriculture, the Internal Revenue Service and one other Senate subcommittee are investigating the handling of grain as it moves from the farm belt to cargo ships.

The probe began in New Orleans, the nation's biggest grain shipping port. There have been 15 indictments in New Orleans and five in Houston as a result of various federal investigations.

Butz said in a recent interview that the Agriculture Department was looking into several options to improve inspections, including a federal takeover that could add 3,000 jobs to the federal payroll. Federal law now prohibits the federal inspection of grain but requires licensing by the department of the grain inspectors.

The inspectors are hired by private firms, boards of trade or state agencies to approve or disapprove the grain shipped from U.S. ports and to inspect the shipping facilities, including cargo holds.

A six-man delegation from the Federation of European Feed Compounders recently confirmed charges that broken corn, cheaper grains, dust, dirt and trash are added to export shipments.

A federation spokesman said that unless the quality of the grain and soybean meal is improved, European buyers may be forced to look elsewhere for the commodities.

However, Harlan Ryan, chief grain inspector at the port of New Orleans, denied that dirt is intentionally added. He said foreign buyers can purchase any grade of grain and specify its cleanliness. Most purchase lower grades because they're cheaper, he said.

ATTENDED ALL SESSIONS — The Chief Clerk of the Texas House of Representatives, Mrs. Dorothy Hallman, looks over the House Journal with four state representatives who earned perfect attendance records during the 64th session of the Legislature. Heading up the perfect attendance records is Rep. Fred Head of Athens (far right, above), who has never missed a single record vote during his five terms. That means Head has cast 7,790 record votes since he was first elected in 1966. Reps. Ben Grant of Marshall (second from right) and James Kaster of El Paso (second from left) tie for second place. Both having been elected in 1970, they have served two terms less than Rep. Head. Bob Close of Perryton (far left) is the only freshman member of the 64th session who earned a perfect attendance record.

Tobacco Spitters Set For Snyder Contest

SNYDER — A tobacco-spitting contest will be one of the feature events scheduled here July 4.

The Lorillard Company has selected Snyder as the site for its national finals of the Beech-Nut Tobacco Company's annual Spitting Contest.

The event is expected to make Snyder's 16th annual July 4th celebration one of the more unusual in the town's history.

Other events will be the Scurry County Art Show, the third annual Tractor Pull, a children's fishing rodeo, a bicycle parade, tennis tournament, crafts fair, carnival and old-fashioned concession booths.

One of the largest fireworks displays in West Texas is held annually at sunset in Towle Park.

But it is the tobacco spitting that has caught the town's imagination, according to Mickey Nunley, chamber of commerce manager.

For those who thought there was only one way to spit tobacco, Nunley says there are two men's divisions, one for distance and another for accuracy. Solid brass spittoons will go as prizes.

For women willing to discard their modesty and join in the chawing, the National Finals will sponsor a special women's division, Nunley said.

The chamber has invited area cities to send individuals to compete in the event, expected to gain national publicity. The West Texas area cities may compete for a special team trophy.

For a list of rules and regulations of the sanctioned contest, Nunley said area West Texans may write the Snyder chamber at drawer CC, Snyder, 79549.

White House Communications Chief Named

WASHINGTON (AP) — Margita White is the new director of the White House Office of Communications.

She was appointed on Wednesday and succeeds Gerald Warren who is leaving the post to become editor of the San Diego Union. Mrs. White, a native of Sweden, has been Warren's deputy.

She will have the title of assistant press secretary to the President, at a salary of $36,000 a year.

In announcing the appointment, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said, "The President and I feel she is extremely well qualified for the job."

Winds Gust Up To 80

By The Associated Press

Vicious thunderstorms pummeled parts of the Texas Panhandle and blinding rains soaked a sizeable area in far West Texas early today.

The storms were so severe that the northeast part of the Panhandle and neighboring sections of Oklahoma and New Mexico stayed under a tornado watch until 4 a.m.

Sheriff's officers reported winds gusting up to 80 miles per hour and hail the size of golf balls and larger pounded the countryside around Stratford, in Sherman County, at the height of the turbulence. There was no word of serious damage, however.

Rain pouring down at rates exceeding two inches per hour fell from around Del Rio and Langtry on the Mexican border northward past Sanderson and Sonora, and lighter rain fell in the vicinity of Big Bend National Park in far West Texas.

Calm weather prevailed in other sections of the state, although winds of 35 to 40 m.p.h. blew at many points for a second straight day.

Forecasts promised partly cloudy to cloudy and continued warm weather all over the state.

To Triple Size Of LBJ Park

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — An out-of-court settlement on condemnation of 133.9 acres has completed efforts by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to nearly triple the size of the Lyndon B. Johnson State Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lindig accepted $336,339, including court costs and two days' interest, for their property, which is across the Pedernales River from the LBJ Ranch near Stonevall west of Austin.

"We went up and they came down," said Lloyd Booth, head of the department's land acquisition office.

The condemnation proceedings have been going on since December 1972. Former President Lyndon Johnson had asked about their progress the day he died, Jan. 22, 1973.

The Lindig purchase brought the cost of enlarging the park from its original 269 acres to 717.8 acres to more than $1 million—double the $500,000 the agency wanted to spend.

Both said the money will come from the three cents per package tax on cigarettes that is dedicated to park land acquisition and development.

Earlier this year, out of court settlements were reached on the other two major tracts sought by the state:

- $330,000, including interest and court costs, to Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Hodges for 125.6 acres.
- $305,000, including interest and court costs, to Mr. and Mrs. Werner Schumann for 103.2 acres.

The Hodges and Lindig families protested the acquisition before the parks

Board To Get New Materials

New text materials for Texas public schools, including books keyed to the needs of young Spanish-speaking children, will be submitted to the State Board of Education for adoption next Nov. 8. They will be available at the local schools in October to be seen by the public.

The 1976 textbook proclamation, calling for $3.2 million in new contracts, was approved Saturday (June 14) by the State Board of Education.

The Board also approved a $500,000 allocation to service current contracts which include Braille and large type books, textbooks now under adoption, and other costs. School districts will also receive $1.25 million for purchase of kindergarten materials.

Elementary textbooks listed in the proclamation include social studies systems and textbooks in Spanish for bilingual instruction in grades one and two, and spelling and mathematics textbooks in grades one through six. No secondary textbooks will be selected this year.

Members of the new State Textbook Committee, appointed May 10 by the Board, will review all materials submitted by the publishers this summer, according to Dr. L. Harlan Ford, Texas Education Agency deputy commissioner for programs and personnel development.

Copter Caper Duo Captured

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (AP) — Authorities have captured the last two alleged accomplices in the short-lived helicopter escape of a convicted con man from Southern Michigan Prison.

The FBI said Michael Colosky, a 21-year-old carnival roller coaster operator, and Gertrude Woodbury, a 43-year-old mother of eight, were taken into custody Tuesday at the Garden City fairgrounds. Both are from Webberville, Mich.

Colosky is accused of sky-jacking a rented helicopter and forcing its pilot to participate in the June 6 flyout from the state prison at Jackson which netted Dale Otto Remling only 30 hours of freedom.

Mrs. Woodbury is believed to have been the go-between between Remling and those who helped him escape, the FBI said. She also is believed to have been in one of several decoy cars driven from the spot where the helicopter landed, about six miles from the prison, the FBI said. Agents said Mrs. Woodbury also was employed by the carnival operator, Midwest Shows, but they said they were not sure what type of work she did.

Colosky and Mrs. Woodbury were being held at the Finney County Jail in southwest Kansas pending arraignment before a U.S. magistrate on air piracy charges.

Remling, 46, was captured in Leslie, 13 miles from the prison, about 30 hours after the escape.

Ex-Sheriff Wins Round In Funds Fight

NOWATA, Okla. (AP) — Former Nowata County Sheriff William H. Sutton has won the first round in his dispute over back expenses and salary with county commissioners.

District Court Judge Arthur J. Boose ruled in Sutton's favor Wednesday by awarding him $1,530 plus court costs. Sutton had sued the county commissioners because they refused to pay mileage expenses and prisoner meals in May 1974 and his salary, mileage and meals for June 1974. He paid the expenses out of his pocket.

The commissioners based their refusal on grounds that Sutton had not only spent his original budget of nearly $25,000 but had exhausted supplemental appropriations totaling nearly $10,000.

But Judge Boose agreed with Sutton that the county commissioners had to pay because the legislature required the duties that Sutton had performed.

Hail Success Of Health Insurance For Migrants

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Texas health officials say a federally-backed experiment in prepaid health insurance for migrant workers' families may evolve into a national program.

"One thing that we have found out: the migrants are not abusing it (the prepaid health plan)," said Jose L. Gonzalez, the enthusiastic project director and administrator of the Laredo Health Department.

Each family is given a packet of instructions including a medical insurance card for each family head. Dependents are listed by age and sex on the card.

"It has taught them that they are just as good as any other citizen when going to seek service from a hospital or doctor. They just flash this card and they're just as good as anyone else," Gonzalez said.

The Laredo study plan, now in its third year, includes 700 families and more than 4,500 persons who follow the crops for their living.

During the research period, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) picked up all costs.

Gonzalez said HEW asked his office to take on the study "to find out costs of a comprehensive health service to migrants, to find out their utilization patterns, and so forth."

Laredo was picked because it has large numbers of migrants who live near the U.S.-Mexico border town and it has experience with such problems, Gonzalez said.

To qualify under HEW guidelines, workers must have been on the migrant circuit at least two years. Cost of the program has been set at about $9.36 per person.

"When we go for real, the migrant will pay for part of it and hopefully the federal government will pay for the other," Gonzalez said.

"It is a far cry from the old days when the services were not available for them, period," he added.

Gonzalez said the new approach to migrant health care was worked out with the help of a major United States health insurer and the University of Texas School of Public Health.

"We're the only health department in the nation ... that has a school of public health and an insurance company as partners in a major operation like this," Gonzalez said.

The Laredo plan was discussed in a recent news release from the Texas State Department of Health. It suggested that eventually all the migrants in the country could be covered by an insurance plan.

While on the road, the migrants pick their own doctor or hospital and present their card. "We haven't had a single case of the cards of migrant workers not being honored," Gonzalez said.

But in Laredo, migrants must be assigned by the Laredo Health Department to have 100 per cent of their bills paid. If they choose their own doctors, the migrants must pay 25 per cent of their bill.

"We have a clinic and very fine physicians working in our city for the migrants," Gonzalez explained.

So far, only one other state has copied the Laredo plan.

Florida. But it is expected to spread further.

"It's more successful than anybody would have thought, from Washington down," Gonzalez said. "This is one program where the taxpayers' dollars have really been spent wisely because we're getting answers."

Beating Deaths

CANTON, Tex. (AP) — John Paul Brown, 65, of Canton and Eunice Y. Hastings, 61, of Bagwell were found beaten to death Wednesday at Lake Canton.

Officers said the victims apparently were on an overnight fishing trip.

SETTLEMENT PRINCIPALS — Pamela Kelley, right, now 20, who was paralyzed from the chest down two years ago in an auto accident involving Joseph P. Kennedy III, left, now 22, eldest son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, has received nearly $1 million in insurance settlements, the Boston Globe said today. Miss Kelley was injured in August 1973 when an open vehicle driven by young Kennedy overturned on a back road on Nantucket Island.

Plasterers' Union Signs

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas plasterers' union has signed a three-year contract with the North Texas Contractors Association, but 21 other unions are still out on a strike which has shut down construction projects in the area for the past six weeks.

Included in the contract are rate hikes of 50 cents per hour immediately, a 55-cent hourly increase in May 1976 and a 60-cent hourly raise in May 1977.

Charles Campo, secretary of the Fort Worth Building Trades Council, said negotiations are currently recessed pending a call by federal mediator Gene Zimmerman.

About 26,000 workers have been participating in the strike. Eight locals have signed contracts and are eligible to return to work. They include the Dallas and Fort Worth bricklayers, the Dallas and Fort Worth roofers, the Dallas and Fort Worth lathers and the Dallas and Fort Worth plasterers.

WANTED TO END RULE OF ISLAM King Faisal's Assassin Confessed, Beheaded

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — King Faisal's assassin confessed before he was beheaded that he killed his uncle to put an end to the rule of Islam in Saudi Arabia, the government radio reported today.

Prince Faisal Ibn Musaed, the late king's 27-year-old nephew, was executed at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday in the central square of the Saudi capital. His head was displayed briefly on a pole, then head and body were carried away for burial in an unmarked grave, in accordance with the tenets of Islam.

The broadcast today said he told his captors he wanted to end the influence of the state religion because it "was standing in the way of development in the country." But the broadcast said the nation will glorify the dead king by implementing the teachings of Islam and his plans with greater vigor.

The government radio announced two hours before the execution that a religious court had found the young prince guilty of shooting King Faisal on March 25 as he was receiving a Kuwaiti delegation during the feast of the birthday of the Prophet Mohammed. Public beheading is the sentence prescribed by Islamic law for murder.

The prince was calm as security men led him from a jail behind the government palace to the block in the center of Dira Square. An official of the court read the sentence to the prince and invoked "Heaven's mercy" for him.

The young man's hands were tied behind his back, but he wore no blindfold. As he knelt, a security man prodded him in the side with a stick and his head jerked upward. The executioner, wearing a yellow robe, decapitated him with a single blow, and the crowd chanted "God is great" and "Justice is done."

The prince was the first member of the Saudi royal family ever executed in public. The only member of the family known to have witnessed the execution was Prince Salman, the governor of Riyadh and a brother of King Faisal.

The prince's father, Prince Musaed, was in Riyadh, but it was not known whether he was present. One of King Faisal's brothers, he has a history of alcoholism and mental illness. The young man's mother also had a history of mental instability.

In Los Angeles, 26-year-old Christine Surma, who claimed she lived with the prince for five years when he was studying in the United States, said he would eventually be honored as a liberator of the Saudi people.

Explanations that have circulated in Riyadh were that Prince Faisal was avenging the death of his brother, Prince Khaled, a religious zealot who was killed by the police nine years ago; that he was part of a power struggle within the royal family; and that he was angry because the king would not let him have a passport to travel abroad, because he had been arrested in the United States for selling LSD.

FORMER GIRL FRIEND — Christine Surma of Los Angeles talks to newsmen about her former boyfriend, Prince Faisal Ibn Musaed, who was beheaded Wednesday in Saudi Arabia for the slaying of his uncle, King Faisal. She said she lived with the prince when he was a college student in the U.S.

College Taxes Are Boosted

MIDLAND — Midland College trustees have boosted the school's property taxes by 50 per cent to overcome a $300,000 deficit in its $2,308,948 in its 1975-76 budget.

Taxation will jump from 10 to 21 cents per $100 valuation. The rate is based on 75 per cent of assessed value.

Reagan Legg, board president, said the tax hike is lower than anticipated.

IT'S AN OUTRAGE Welfare Divorces

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP) — Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Tex., says the government is breaking up marriages between old folks and he plans to do something about what he called this "outrage" and "insensitive interpretation" of law.

Wilson, in a telephone interview with the Lufkin News, said he has documented several cases whereby elderly couples in the Orange, Tex., area have divorced and continued living together solely in order that they may collect Social Security and other benefits.

A woman in her 60s divorced her husband in April to collect the federal assistance necessary to keep him in a nursing home, he said. Although the woman was working only part time at the minimum wage, her salary and her husband's Social Security benefits exempted them from the Supplemental Security Income program, Wilson said.

For them, divorce was the "final alternative," he said. There have been numerous other cases reported in the past where elderly couples sought divorce, and continued living together, simply to collect government benefits otherwise denied them as a married couple.

"It's an outrage and incredible that the government of either the United States or the state of Texas would be so cold blooded as to create a system which forces couples who are aged, in great need and by definition in poor health to get a divorce in the years in which they need each other for comfort and companionship above anything else," he said.

Wilson said his office would begin a more thorough examination Monday of the application of federal law in these cases.

"It may be that the bureaucracy is not even aware of what's happening. But if they are, we are going to find the person in the highest authority who has known about it and done nothing and we are going to try to do something about him," Wilson said.

Horton New Club Prexy

Joe Horton assumed the duties of the 49th president of the Downtown Lions Club at a ladies day affair Wednesday at the Settles. He succeeded Aubrey Bryans.

Others installed by Joe Pond, club's ranking past district governor, were Gary Bradbury, first vice president, M.A. Barber, second vice president; Morris Rhodes, third vice president; Ernie Boyd, secretary-treasurer; Vic Keyes, Liontamer; R.H. Snyder and George Archer, tailwisters; Verl Green and Dick Klein, one-year directors; Gilbert Gibbs and Dr. Dick Lane, two-year directors.

Horton presented Bryans with a past president's pin and a plaque citing him for "distinguished service." Other special citations went to Dick Klein, for outstanding programs; Hoe Horton, general service; Ernie Boyd, for exceptional service as secretary; also to Bert Andrews, Scouts; M.A. Barber, crippled children; Wesley Deats, state hospital party; Vern Green, light bulb sale; Harold Raines, Salvation Army project; John Bagnell, queen's contest; Tom Henry, eye glasses; Joe Pickle, public relations and Dan Conley, music.

Also recognized were Jim Lemons, member of the club who is completing his year as District 2A-1 governor; Cecil Bridges, Stanton; and Schley Riley, past district governors. Paige Little, club sweetheart, was presented with a gift.

Man Convicted Of Child Abuse

MIDLAND — Virgil Ray McNeese, 27, was sentenced in 142nd District Court here Tuesday to seven years in the penitentiary after he had admitted kicking his four-year-old stepson for opening a refrigerator door without his permission.

The victim of the kicking was Virgil McNeese, who witnesses said suffered a severe injury to one leg. The older McNeese was wearing boots when the incident occurred March 9.

Circuit System Set Up For Rodeo Performers

DENVER, Colo. — A new twist to pro rodeo has been introduced with the "circuit system" in effect throughout the country, the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association said.

Fourteen regional circuits covering the continental United States have been laid out in an effort to give cowboys greater recognition and benefits in their home states. Every rodeo still counts toward world championships for anyone winning at them, but cowboys who win in their home circuits will also be eligible for awards to be given at the end of the year.

Through last week, event leaders were:

All-around cowboy — Don Gay, Mesquite, Tex., $17,586; Leo Camarillo, Oakdale, Cal., $15,774; Larry Mahan, Dallas, Tex., $14,583; Jack Ward, Springdale, Ark., $14,538; Monty Henson, Mesquite, Tex., $14,434. Wilson said.

"It's an outrage and incredible that the government of either the United States or the state of Texas would be so cold blooded as to create a system which forces couples who are aged, in great need and by definition in poor health to get a divorce in the years in which they need each other for comfort and companionship above anything else," he said.

2 IRS Agents Sued By Man

MONAHANS — A Monahans retired businessman, Lyle Saunders, has entered suit for $1.4 million against two Internal Revenue agents he claims overstepped their jurisdiction as IRS agents in attempting to collect back excise taxes.

The agents are Guy McNeil and Charles Casey, both of Odessa. The IRS is contending Saunders owes the government $439,044 in back excise taxes.

The suit was filed in Midland federal district court.

Shortage Is Pointed Out

Borden County is one of five area counties recently designated as critical medical shortage areas by the National Health Services Corps.

Borden was one of two counties also designated as dental shortage areas by the organization.

South Plains Association of Governments SPAG health director Tom Beck said the designations qualify the West Texas counties.

July 1, 1976, is the earliest date of assignment, according to Beck.

Other counties here shortages of doctors exist are Crosby, Floyd, Garza and Motley.

Both Borden and Motley are also without dentists.

Dear Abby

Lady Showing Too Much 'Motherly' Love

DEAR ABBY: I must make a comment about the woman whose husband tickles her until she is hysterical, even though she begs him to stop.

I had a husband to stop. He used to shadowbox around me, occasionally landing a genuinely painful blow here and there. He would dance around, prizefighter-style, saying, "Let's mix it up a little." He would pretend it was all in fun, but I knew he was sadistic when I begged him to stop and he wouldn't.

I even told him that if he'd quit that little shadowboxing game for good, I would accept it as my Christmas present. Even that didn't work.

Then I casually asked a friend of mine in the presence of her husband and mine if her husband ever played such games. Of course he hadn't. And then a knowing look passed between the two of them.

He never played that game again.

A psychiatrist later told me that when I exposed his cruelty to our friends, he saw himself as others saw him, and he stopped voluntarily.

So maybe this poor "tickled" woman should try the same approach.

BEEN THERE
DEAR BEEN: It's worth a try. Isn't it a shame that some people are more concerned about how they appear to strangers than how their own families view them?

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a grown son and his mother who kiss each other on the mouth? My boyfriend is 27, and you should see the way he and his mother kiss! Every hello and goodbye is like a love scene in the movies.

The first time I noticed it was last New Year's Eve. They embraced like a pair of lovers, and they held a kiss for what seemed like five minutes without coming up for air. I was so angry I didn't feel like kissing him after that.

It looks like his mother loves him the way I do. Could I be mistaken? Or could I be overreacting because I love him?

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: It depends. You don't say whether your boyfriend is the KISSER or the KISSEE. If he's the kisser, he may have a problem.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69706, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20 cents) envelope.

Help Offered To Nervous People

Recovery, Inc., an organization for nervous people, and/or former mental patients, whose purpose is to prevent relapse in former patients and chronicity in the nervous person, started a group in Big Spring two and one-half years ago, and of its 18 members none have been admitted, nor re-admitted, to a mental hospital.

Recovery Inc. has been in existence since 1937 when it was founded by the Vienna-trained psychiatrist Dr. Abraham Low, who trained under Sigmund Freud. There are now some 15,000 groups in the U.S., Canada, Israel, Ireland and Puerto Rico.

The self-help Recovery method teaches its members to recognize and control nervous symptoms or illness of a nervous origin. Nervous symptoms may be headache, chest pain, vertigo, nausea, air hunger, etc. Doctors, lawyers, nurses, and lay persons benefit from its use.

There have been no meetings of the local group for the past few weeks due to vacations, but regular meetings will resume June 26, and every Thursday, hereafter, at 7 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, Seventh and Runnels. The meeting room is on the second floor and reached through the north entrance.

Recovery needs people who can qualify and be trained for leadership.

There is no cost unless membership is desired, which is $7.50 per year, and membership is not compulsory to attend. The textbook, "Mental Health Through Will Training", which contains the recovery method, was written by Dr. Low and is $7.20.

Operation Identification Makes It Tough On Thief

Burglary is as American as apple pie. And in this day and time the problem is one that only continues to grow. Approximately half of all crimes in the U.S. today are burglaries. Burglary prevention is one of the areas in which citizen participation and cooperation with the law enforcement agencies can help.

One method of slowing down the rising burglary rate is Operation Identification. The program is a nationwide effort toward citizen participation in marking valuables with a personalized "brand" to discourage theft.

Operation Identification entails marking valuables with a driver's license number and then displaying a sticker on the outside of your home, office or car that tells the burglar that anything he might steal will be hard or impossible to sell, and that getting caught with it in his possession would be asking for a jail sentence.

Marking enhances the owner's chances of retrieving stolen property because it provides a positive identification number to reclaim items once recovered.

When Operation Identification was conceived the initial question was to find a common marking method. The driver's license was chosen because of accessibility through interstate agencies and because the identity of the license and his current address is available to any law enforcement agency on an instant retrieval basis.

Manufacturers of such items as office machines, typewriters, guns, appliances, etc., have assisted by attaching a serial number to each unit produced. Law enforcement agencies, insurance companies and others have encouraged individuals to list these numbers and preserve them for ready reference in case of theft. This has been of assistance where the items stolen had a serial number, the individual did make such a list, and when, after the offense was reported, the authorities to whom the report was made were able to arrest the suspect while in possession of the stolen items.

Law enforcement agencies found that these events rarely coincided and that they had to find an easier method of identification for themselves and owners. This is the concept behind Operation Identification.

On numerous occasions suspects are stopped by law enforcement officers because of suspicious actions or items of value found in their possession. Often mere suspicion that the items are stolen is insufficient cause for arrest, and unless the suspect has committed some crime in the officer's presence, or admits that he has stolen the items, he generally must be released.

If the engraved identification number appears on the suspicious items, then the officer can check its ownership in a matter of minutes.

The Operation Identification mark clearly and readily identifies the owner of the valuables and helps in the apprehension of burglars.

The Big Spring Police department not only endorses citizen participation in Operation Identification, but promotes it. Individuals are encouraged to obtain an engraving pen free from Big Spring Police Dept., 400 E. 4th Street.

FTC Issues Guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission, issuing guidelines under the new warranty law that takes effect July 4, said a full warranty product be repaired or replaced within a "reasonable time."

Products manufactured after July 4 must meet the conditions of the warranty law although those made before that date do not, the FTC said.

In effect, the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act precludes manufacturers, retailers and importers of consumer goods from voiding warranties because of hidden or unwritten exceptions.

The law and the new guidelines cover personal property normally used for personal, family or household purposes such as boats, photographic film and chemicals, clothing, appliances, jewelry, furniture, typewriters, motor homes, autos, mobile homes, vehicle parts and accessories, stereos, carpeting, small aircraft, toys and food.

COMBO — A 5-year-old boy wearing cap and scarf with Communist symbols raises his clenched fist during big rally staged in Rome Tuesday evening by Italian Communist Party to celebrate its dramatic gains in Italy's nationwide regional elections. At right, a 3-year-old girl wearing cap with hammer and sickle does not appear very interested in what is going on and keeps sucking her pacifier.

HEW Order Puzzles Officials

AUSTIN (AP) — Austin school district officials said today they are trying to comply with a new Health Education and Welfare order if they can just find out how they have violated it.

Mauro Reyna, assistant superintendent for educational development, confirmed the district received notice from the Dallas HEW office late Monday that stated the district was not complying with its federal court order by maintaining some schools with more than 28 per cent minority (black and Mexican-American) teachers.

"We're still trying to determine what the Office of Civil Rights is telling us we are in noncompliance with," she said.

She said the federal office did not say which schools are in noncompliance. "I could pull out the Mexican-American teachers and scatter them throughout the district," she said, "but we would have to cease the bilingual program," which is mandated by federal and state school law. "It just so happens that the teachers who are bilingual are Mexican-American."

Paulina Jacobo, civil rights lawyer in Dallas, told the Austin American-Statesman Tuesday that the Austin district would have to correct the faculty distribution before it can request a waiver of the violation.

School officials said the federal warning said the district could lose about $1 million in federal funds if it fails to correct the violation.

Door Prizes Given Solons

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A committee chairman in the North Carolina Senate has found a way to get near-perfect attendance at his committee meetings. He awards door prizes.

Sen. Dallas Alford says attendance at his education committee meetings was so poor earlier this year that several sessions were cancelled for lack of a quorum.

So with his own funds, Alford started buying prizes such as clocks, dictionaries and pewter mugs.

At the beginning of each meeting, Alford draws the name of a committee member from a hat. If the member is present, he wins the prize. "We've had a good time at our committee meetings," he said.

NOSE WHERE TO GO — Joan Weber of Westlake, Ohio, a Cleveland suburb, gets cross-eyed watching the worm she found squirm his way across her freckles. Marijuana Mice Caper Is Solved

HOUSTON (AP) — Police say they have solved a marijuana-eating Mexican mice problem.

But they had to call in an exterminator—the mice couldn't be trapped with bait.

Police chemist R.H. Warkenton said Wednesday the problem started with massive seizures of marijuana. He said just about every big shipment seemed to have its quota of the little gray mice.

They came across the border in the burlap sacks of marijuana, fattened, multiplied and played in the sacks stored in the narcotics vaults at the police department.

There was no bait enticing enough to lure them into eating it, Warkenton said.

"We finally had to call in an exterminator and they seem to be all dead now," he said.

He said the crime lab had as much as two tons of marijuana locked up awaiting court cases at one time.

Ford Is Edging Closer To Formal Candidacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is edging closer to formal candidacy for a full presidential term by creating a 1976 campaign organization and naming a Georgia Republican to head it.

At the same time, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace said Wednesday that he intends "to be involved" in the 1976 election campaign and indicated he will announce his candidacy later this year.

Ford plans to file papers by Friday with the Federal Election Commission, formally creating the organization to raise funds and plan his campaign, the White House announced Wednesday.

The announcement by White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said that Secretary of the Army Howard H. (Bo) Callaway, a one-time Georgia congressman who headed Richard M. Nixon's 1968 campaign in the South, will become chairman of the committee within two or three weeks.

Ford's formal declaration of candidacy will come "sometime within the next few weeks," before television cameras, Nessen said.

Meanwhile, Wallace told cheering businessmen of his plans and said: "I believe that the great issue of the survival of the middle class is going to need someone to forcefully express that viewpoint to the point of getting these people into the political process so that we are going to see that these changes are brought about."

The Alabama governor said he reserved the right to change his mind but indicated he has every intention of making his fourth presidential bid in 1976.

championing the nation's lower and middle-income taxpayers and assailing "the elitist intelligentsia" and big government.

In an interview on NBC-TV's "Today Show," Wallace said today he was not hesitant to run, but added: "I've just been busy with state affairs. I think we would all be better off if all the potential candidates would spend their full time on the solutions to problems" the nation faces.

Would he bolt the Democratic party if he fails to win its nomination? If the Democrats nominate an "ultra liberal and a left winger," Wallace said, "I won't be involved with that group at all."

He added: "If I receive the nomination, I have a chance to be elected. It all depends on the economic situation."

Wallace, who never disbanded his campaign organization after a 1972 assassination attempt ended his last presidential bid, has collected more than $2 million already to finance a new presidential drive.

Ford, however, only began to focus on the presidential race last month after a group of long-time friends and supporters headed by former Republican National Chairman Dean Burch recommended that a formal campaign structure be created.

The Republican Committee, which picked up Ford's earlier political expenses such as public opinion polls for the White House, will only pay for activities undertaken by Ford as his party's titular leader. The campaign group will pay for his expenses when he travels as a candidate, Nessen said.

TO MANAGE FORD — Howard H. (Bo) Callaway, above, secretary of the Army, has been chosen by President Ford to manage his 1976 presidential campaign. Ford announced Wednesday in Washington. Callaway is a Georgia Republican.

Police Probe

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Police Officers Association (HPOA) has called for an end of investigations into the Houston Police Department.

Mayor Fred Hofheinz said Wednesday he agreed with the association's position.

A full-page advertisement in the form of an open letter to this effect has been sent to the Houston Post and the Houston Chronicle for publication Sunday.

HPOA President R.C. Rich said he could not divulge contents of the letter before Saturday but the lengthy statement apparently pleads that several probes of the department, which have been going on for almost three years, result in indictment or disband.

Hofheinz said he had seen a copy of the letter and had written Rich giving his "wholehearted endorsement" of the HPOA's position.

"It is of great concern to me, as I know it is to you, that the entire department appears to be under a cloud of suspicion while various grand juries and agencies conduct inquiries for what seems to be interminable length of time," Hofheinz told Rich in the letter.

PERSONAL INCOME UP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Personal income of Americans jumped in May by the biggest amount in eight months, the government reported today. The increase was attributed largely to a revitalized private sector of the economy.

The Commerce Department said the increase amounted to $9.3 billion — or seven-tenths of one per cent — to an annual rate of $1,211.9 billion after adjustment for seasonal variations.

The figures indicated that the private sector of the economy is gradually picking up strength. Although personal income has risen steadily during the recession despite a slight decline last November, most of the driving force behind those increases have come from higher government payrolls, unemployment benefits and other government payments to individuals.

FAMILY MEALS the More or Less Way

A realistic long-term approach to a little less of you is eating sensible servings of the same nutritious foods prepared for the whole family. So if you're a weight watcher with a family, these More or Less Meals For A Day make sense. The recipes, developed for an average couple with two pre-teen children, are prepared with wholesome, nutritious foods that make required daily calories add up to good health, not extra pounds.

The menus—including some optional selections for dieters—meet all daily nutritional requirements. And thanks to a combination of dairy products and meat the meals are higher in protein, lower in carbohydrate than usual. It's nice to know you can drink whole milk and use butter and other dairy foods in recipes for added flavor and nutrition and still stay trim.

Day's calorie count for Dad, 2074 with a 726 calorie safety margin for seconds or snacks. Mom is just at the suggested total of 2000 calories and the pre-teen children average 2281, giving a boy 219 free calories for a nutritious snack. Teenagers require 200 to 500 additional calories daily. All menus include plenty of the energy food milk, our major source of calcium, for only 160 calories per cup.

As you can see, More or Less Meals made with dairy products are the sensible way for the whole family to stay fit and trim.
