FLOODS IN . . . AGAIN — Ferry Street in downtown Trenton, N.J. is shown under more than five feet of water early Monday morning. This is the second time in less than a week that massive rains have cause flooding in this central part of the state.

Outlook Is Good Following Rains

The unusual spectacle of prolonged July showers today left most of this area soaked, a number of fields badly washed, roads closed temporarily, and spots badly damaged by hail. However, the general picture was one of excellent agricultural outlooks.

Hardest hit was the Tarzan community in central-west Martin County where falls of 6 and 7 inches were reported along with severe hail around the community.

Hail also inflicted varying damage immediately north of Big Spring and eastward toward Center Point.

The Big Spring-Andrews highway again was under water west of Tarzan, but traffic could move through slowly Monday morning.

U.S. 87 three miles north of Big Spring also was temporarily under water.

A stretch of SH 127 some nine miles south of Stanton was also reported under water for a time. There were numerous other points under water for a time. There were numerous other points where water covered roads temporarily Saturday night, and to a lesser extent late Sunday.

ABOVE NORMAL
The U.S. Experiment Farmer reported at total of 2.58 for the two days, but in Big Spring there were many reports of up to 4.0. Boyce

AND A GRAVE FOR SOME Atlantic Is Powerful Ocean, Father Says

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — "There are 100 ways a ship can sink — it's a powerful ocean," says the father of one of three young treasure hunters who drowned when their top-heavy tugboat capsized and sank.

Just last week, Mel Fisher had sent a case of champagne out to his son, Dirk, to celebrate discovery of five brass cannons that salvagers say are from a long-sought Spanish treasure ship.

Fisher, founder of Treasure Salvors, Inc., wiped away tears Sunday as a sister ship brought in the bodies of Dirk, 21, skipper of the tug Northwind; his wife Angela, 21, and Rick Gage, a diver from New York City. Nine others escaped when the 60-foot tug took on water before dawn as it lay at anchorage in calm seas in the lee of the Marquesas Keys, 36 miles from Key West.

One of the survivors, Donald Jonas, 19, blamed the sinking on a toilet pump that malfunctioned and sucked in salt water. At the same time, the boat's load of diesel fuel shifted to the same side, capsizing the vessel, he said.

Jonas said he and another crewman, Donald Kincaid, awoke as the boat began listing and attempted to switch fuel valves to pump out the water. But the boat Hale near the Garden City-87 intersection had .35, Ross Hill, below Elbow, had .40.

Lake J. B. Thomas had caught about a foot of water Monday and prospects were good for another two feet.

Although the Colorado River was running briskly below Colorado City, there were no immediate reports from Lake Spence.

A Saturday evening cloudburst, accompanied by hail, stripped cotton in the Big Spring and Fairview area of the county, capping two days of generally slow showers in the county.

Jeff Grant said that at 7 p.m. Saturday, 3.5 inches of rain and steady hail fell for about 30 or 40 minutes at his home place five miles from Big Spring on the Lamesa Highway, leaving just the stubs of cotton plants in his fields.

"Everything within about a mile is stripped, and there is moderate damage for another mile," Grant said. Grant's cotton, just like most of the cotton in the county, was well on its way to becoming one of the best crops in recent years.

HEAVY FALL
Grant reported a total rainfall of five inches for Saturday and Sunday.

Following the downpour, the Lamesa Highway was impassable due to high water. Cotton fields in the area also suffered washing sank in five to 10 minutes, he said. "It happened so fast," Jonas said. "Everyone else was sleeping. It just happened too fast to know. It was a helpless cause."

Jonas said his life was saved by an air pocket in the engine room. He escaped through a port door and swam to the surface. Kincaid, 29, said he yelled at everybody to get up. Kerry Curry, 12, had been asleep on the upper deck. "He literally floated up the side of the boat and we put a life jacket on him," Kincaid said.

Kincaid said he took a head count as people began to pop up and knew three were missing. "But we also knew it was impossible to get to them," he said. "It was complete blackness inside the ship."

The survivors floated on a raft until they could arouse the crew of the sister ship, the Virgalona. Divers recovered the bodies of the victims.

The tug had been working at what salvagers say is the wreck site of the Nuestra Senora de Atocha, a Spanish galleon that was laden with 47 tons of New World gold and silver when it was blown off a reef in a 1622 hurricane.

damage. Hail damage continued to some extent eastward toward the Center Point area where Leonard Hanson said cotton was ragged in varying degrees.

In other parts of the country, only minor crop damage was reported, mostly due to soil erosion. Houston Cowden measured 6.1 inches at his place six miles southwest of town Saturday and Sunday. "We almost washed away," he said. "The cotton is badly washed."

In Big Spring, unofficial rainfall totals ranged from 1.75 to four inches, with some flooding reported in low-lying areas.

OFFICIAL TALLY
Officially, 2.58 inches of rain was measured at the U.S. Experiment Station, bringing the total for the month to 4.62 and the total for the year to 16.87. Normal for this time of year is 9.80.

Other rainfall amounts included 4.2 inches at Fairview, 3.5 inches at Lomax, 1.27 inches at Forsan, 2.2 inches 10 miles out on the Snyder Highway, 1.1 at Coahoma to 1.0 to 1.6 inch.

The Ackerly area reported up to 5 inches.

Reports from the Colorado River Municipal Water District held out hopes of a 9,000 plus acre-foot increase for Lake J. B. Thomas. The lake was up one foot Monday morning, the river was running 14 1/2 feet deep at the west end of the lake at 9:30 a.m. and upstream in Dawson County, Tobacco Creek was still flowing about six feet deep. Rain averaged 4.3 inches between Gail and Lamesa. Bull Creek Channel was flowing two feet deep, and while hardly a major factor in gains, this was the first time the channel has flowed in many months.

THOMAS GAINING

At the Lake Thomas dam, rainfall in two days totaled 5.0 inches, at the Big Spring-Odessa Pump Station 3.1. The pump station north of Big Spring had 2.8 in two days, and the Colorado City detention dam 3.8. Another gauge south of Colorado City showed 4.9 inches and another immediately south 5.0 inches, but the fall diminished steadily until it was only .30 of an inch at Lake E. V. Spence. However, the diversion pumps were turned off at the Colorado

PROSPECTS ARE GOOD

Rain possibilities continue. Mostly cloudy skies bearing a 40 per cent chance this afternoon, 50 per cent tonight and 30 per cent Tuesday. High today, mid 80s. Low tonight, upper 60s. High Tuesday, low 90s. Southerly wind 5-15 miles per hour this afternoon.

City diversion works at 9 a.m. Sunday and the river channel appeared to be flowing briskly. Westbrook had 3.65 inches.

Texas Electric Service Company reported 1.27 at the Big Spring switching station northeast of the city, but its Morgan Creek plant at Lake Colorado City had 3.45. The lake was at elevation 2064.70, a gain of .35 of a foot with more flowing in. No reports were available from Champion Creek Lake, but a rise also was expected there.

PASTURES BLESSED

The Edwards Ranch in northern Glasscock county reported 4.0 of rain, but the fall fell off to 2.0 above Garden City and 1.50 in Garden City. The St. Lawrence community in southwest Glasscock County had about an inch, but crops were in excellent condition.

Cap Rock Electric said reports over its system were from 1.50 to more than five inches, and that in generally the crop prospect appeared great.

Ranchers were cheered by the soaking rains which caught grass at precisely the right moment. Wilkinson Ranch west of Big Spring had 3.5, most of it falling slowly to moderate in intensity. Several ranches had welcome runoff into stock tanks.

Postage Going Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new labor agreement for the nation's postal workers is expected to contribute to an increase in the cost of mailing a letter before the end of the year.

The new contract, tentatively agreed to early today, averted the possibility of a strike by the nation's 600,000 postal workers. Details of the settlement were not announced but the postal unions won one major victory, retention of a no-layoff clause.

"The wages which we pay postal workers is one element of our costs. They're going to go up," Bailar said at a news conference at which the settlement was announced. Labor-related costs are 85 per cent of the Postal Service's costs.

Bailar also said that the Postal Service expects to lose $800 million dollars in the fiscal year that began July 1. He said the Postal Service needs higher rates to start breaking even.

"I'm certain there will be (postal rate) increases before the end of the year," Bailar said. The largest possible increase would be to 13 cents per first-class letter. The Postal Service in 1973 asked the independent Postal Rate Commission to make present postal rates permanent.

Shah Says Big Price Hikes Out

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi said today that although the purchasing power of oil revenues had dropped 30 to 35 per cent, he will not insist on oil price hikes to compensate for the entire loss.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, which Iran belongs to, is scheduled to announce oil price increases in September.

In a joint news conference with visiting Mexican President Luis Echeverria, the shah said that international inflation has depreciated the dollar revenues of oil producing countries.

"Although it would be a rightful position to ask for a hike to meet this depreciation, Iran is not going to insist," the shah said.

"We will consider many factors before we decide on a new oil price, including consultation among all OPEC members."

The shah said that last year's quadrupling of oil prices only covered 2 per cent of European inflation and 0.5 per cent in the U.S. inflation rate. He maintained that any increase in oil prices in September will only have a small effect on the world economy.

Echeverria added that oil resources are "too important and valuable to be given away" and strongly rejected some Western press reports that Mexico was going to underseal OPEC countries.

Asked if Mexico is planning to join OPEC, Echeverria said his country does not produce enough oil compared to OPEC members, but "we will definitely cooperate with them."

Seek Youths In Robbery

An all points bulletin is out for two 17-year-old youths, who were visiting in Big Spring, charged with the armed robbery Saturday night at the Sands Motel.

John Thomas Kent and Michael Glenn Dixon are charged in connection with the robbery in warrants signed by Justice of the Peace Walter Grice.

The two left Big Spring driving a 1969 brown Plymouth with 1975 Texas license tags, reported to have been stolen in Waco.

One of the youths has short dark hair and one long blonde hair. When they made the robbery, the one youth wore a ski mask. Detective Leroy Spires is investigating officer.

Clothing worn in the armed robbery was found abandoned behind a building and has been identified by a local resident who knew the youths.

Booze Sale Is Halted

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — About 500 prospective buyers were disappointed today when a federal bankruptcy judge halted a public sale by state Comptroller Bob Bullock of some 15,000 cases of liquor, beer and wine.

Bullock's office seized the beverages in May to pay what he claimed were $405,000 in delinquent state sales taxes owed by Cut Rate Economy Discount Beverage and Liquor Corp. of San Antonio.

Minutes before today's sale in the ballroom of a San Antonio motel the liquor firm went through bankruptcy proceedings, and the federal judge issued an order banning the sale.

A lawyer for the comptroller's office said the state had spent over $20,000 in seizing and warehousing the booze and setting up the auction.

The state's claim will now have to be submitted to the federal bankruptcy court.

Meeting Set At 1:30 P.M.

The County Commissioners scheduled an emergency meeting for 1:15 p.m. today to meet with County Tax Assessor-Collector Mrs. Zarah Bednar. Commissioners are also expected to convene as a board of equalization.

NO REPLACEMENT IN SIGHT Prexy Of SOBs Has Had Enough

MCCLEARY, Wash. (AP) — Windsor Olson, private eye, has been kicked by Boy Scouts and attacked by loggers. That's why he is giving up.

"I have officially resigned," says the founder and former president of Save Our Bears — S.O.B. "And there is no one who is willing to replace me."

As stew pots loaded with bear meat simmered last weekend at the 17th annual Second Growth and Bear Festival in this small Grays Harbor County community, Olson seethed in stoic silence.

The private eye, who works out of a small office in Seattle, decided eight years ago that the good people of McCleary should be making their fabred annual stew out of protein other than bear.

"Their reactions were somewhat surprising," said Olson. "And not a little frightening. I was even kicked by the Boy Scouts. It is very discouraging to be kicked by a Boy Scout."

"I was attacked by a drunken logger. Fortunately I was quicker than he was, or he had had more beer than he should have, because I was able to avoid his haymakers."

How did a hard-boiled private detective become involved in a cause against soft-boiled bears?

"It all seemed so unnecessary," said Olson. "They really had a lovely civic festival going there. Why did they have to go out and shoot all those animals — some years as many as 20? They used to award trophies for who shot what."

"What was worse, they would drag the animals through the streets ... some old bear bleeding away. It was rather a sorry spectacle."

But the general chairman of the Bear Festival, Jerry Elofson, said dead bears are no longer paraded through the city's streets.

Elofson said the bears come from a variety of sources — some are killed by state game officers as animal control; others are shot by hunters hired by the timber companies — to prevent the bears from eating up tender young evergreens — and still others are shot by private citizens.

Elofson said the recipe for enough stew to feed the thousands of visitors includes 500 pounds of bear meat, 40 pounds of beef to moderate the flavor of the stew, 1,200 pounds of vegetables — carrots, potatoes and onions — and a 50-gallon spice pot.

He said that the reaction to the stew has always been enthusiastic ... but not from Windsor Olson, private eye.

"Over the years, we tried to get them to substitute beef, or, if they were so tough down there — and come to think of it, they are so tough down there — why didn't they fight the bears, man to bear, instead of shooting them?"

"We suggested that they dress up the toughest loggers in motorcycle leathers, a helmet and spiked track shoes and let them run through the woods trying to capture the bears without weapons."

"We even set up a fund to buy the necessary equipment — $400, which we sent to them. They sent it back."

Local Child In Critical Condition From Gunshot

Deliz Ortiz, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Ortiz of Big Spring, is in critical condition after being hit in the face by a stray bullet during a shooting spree at a dance hall in Snyder.

She was being transferred to Malone-Hogan Hospital here today from Cogdell Memorial Hospital. She had a tracheotomy and suction was necessary periodically, but her condition was described as critical, but stable.

Sgt. Bill Marvin of the Snyder police, said that the little girl was about 25 feet away from the men doing the shooting. She was shot in the left cheek and the bullet exited through her right ear. The Ortiz family had gone to the dance with some friends from Big Spring.

Police said the shooting apparently stemmed from a long family feud, but no suspects had been arrested. A Snyder man, 26-year-old Gomez Rios Tovar, was also hit by a stray bullet in the leg. He was treated and released.

Two other men were in critical condition Sunday evening in the intensive care unit at Lubbock's Highland Hospital. They were Raymond Medrano Jr., 27 and Rosalio Gutierrez, 29, both of Snyder.

The shooting occurred at a regular Saturday night dance at the Latin American Center with about 175 people present.

Police were called when two men pulled their guns and started firing. Apparently no words were exchanged. The guns used was .38 caliber pistols.

Ortiz, father of the injured girl, is custodian at the Big Spring Herald.

Gorilla's Ego Sadly Bruised

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Calabar was boss gorilla at the Yerkes Primate Research Center's field station at Lawrenceville for a while, but now he sits alone, nursing a bruised male ego.

Scientists introduced Calabar and two other males to four female gorillas two months ago and put them all in a 100-foot-square compound. The scientists hoped baby gorillas would result while they studied the gorilla family life.

Calabar, the biggest, immediately established his supremacy, scampering about the compound and roughing up the females. The females took it quietly.

However, a few weeks later, three females caught Calabar in a corner of the compound and gave him a good beating.

Researchers said Calabar was not injured seriously and was removed from the compound.

Dr. Ron Nadler, a Yerkes researcher, said the females apparently had an alliance to resist male dominance and Calabar was too inexperienced to prevent it.

Plane Crash Fatal To Four

MERIDIAN, Te. (AP) — Two brothers and their parents died Sunday as a private plane plunged into Lake Whitney near Lakeside Village in Bosque County.

Sheriff's officers identified the four as Ronald K. Carter, 31, the pilot, of Edmonds, Wash.; his brother, Robert T. Carter, 24, of Fort Worth, and their mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon K. Carter, also of Fort Worth.

Witnesses reported the elder brother, an Alaska Airlines pilot, made two low passes over a fishing boat occupied by friends before the rented airplane's engine stalled and it rammed nose down into 12 feet of water about 200 yards from shore.

Road Proposal To Be Talked

Local representatives will meet with the Texas Highway Department resident engineer in Abilene Tuesday and discuss a proposed larger bridge for the road to Moss Creek Lake.

When rains earlier this summer partially collapsed the existing bridge, the county road department made temporary repairs.

Howard County officials are seeking a 70 per cent federal grant for the county road construction job.

Joe Smoot, Highway Department resident engineer, said tentative plans call for building a 200-foot long bridge and straightening 0.6 of a mile of the road.

Smoot estimated the construction work might cost from $250,000 to $280,000.

The country's purchase of additional road right of way would be an additional cost. The meeting with Roger Welsh, district engineer, will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday, County Judge Bill Tune said.

Common Sense Warning

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has warned the non-aligned nations that they could force a showdown in the United Nations which would easily backfire on them.

Kissinger criticized those nations against using bloc voting for political purposes and said that their voting practices and arbitrary tactics would destroy cooperation between industrialized countries and the less-developed nations.

Over the past decade, the United Nations membership has reflected more of the political belligerence of the developing nations. Voting as a bloc, they have transformed the United Nations from a forum of accommodation to one of confrontation.

It is ironic that those who wield the voting power in the United Nations are not the ones who support it financially. It is the larger industrialized nations, particularly the United States, who foot most of the bill. Kissinger warns that if the main financial supporters "lose confidence in the organization because of the imposition of mechanical and increasingly arbitrary will "the United Nations could end up an empty shell. Without the financial support, smaller nations would lose more than the larger powers.

The secretary likely is right in his assessment of growing dissatisfaction over the disproportionate weight by emergent nations. His advice ought to be pondered soberly, not that it is a threat to pull out unless we get out way in all matters, but that it is commonsense that new-found and immature power can be quite as arbitrary and unpalatable as major power dogmatism. Patience has its limits.

Safer Work On The Farm

The week beginning July 25 has been set aside by Gov. Dolph Briscoe as Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Week. The emphasis, naturally is to highlight farm and ranch accident prevention.

There is urgent need of this. Last year 285 Texas farm and ranch residents died needlessly as fatal accidents increased over the previous years. Granted, the toll seems insignificant beside that on our highways, but we are talking about human lives and about the safety of people most regard as being in an unharmed field.

Truth is that farming and ranching are hazardous physically (as well as to the pocketbook), and in addition to the mechanical perils, modern agriculture is adding the new dimension of chemicals. Thus, anything which can direct attention to safer work practices and conditions in agriculture is truly worth while.

EDITORIALS / OPINIONS

What Others Say

The leaders of two major nations are undergoing simultaneous, grueling tests, and far more than individual careers are in the balance.

In both of the nations — Great Britain and Argentina — the overt symbol of the problem is inflation, and the immediate aspect of it is how to get labor to discipline its wage demands.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson is having more success — or less failure — than President Isabel Peron. British mine workers have voted to delay their demand for a 60-per cent increase, and the General Council of the Trades Union Congress voted in favor of limiting wage increases. The actions had a good impact on the sagging pound and British stock prices. Britain's inflation rate, at 25 per cent, is critical but not necessarily fatal if curbed soon.

Mrs. Peron managed to persuade Argentine labor leaders to call off their two-day general strike 10 hours before its scheduled expiration. But the cost was high. Her government all but pulverized its austerity program by caving in to demands for wage increases up to 100 per cent. The concession seems bound to give another upward spin to an inflation rate now running at 200 per cent a year.

Argentina's central bank reserves down to a bare $750 million (nickles and dimes in world trade terms) and worse times looming ahead.

Whether Wilson can finally persuade his people that their basic malady — a way of life costlier than they can afford — requires great self-discipline to cure, remains to be seen. His effort, along with Mrs. Peron's should be watched by Americans with deep care and concern, for the malady. — Chicago Daily Med.

Multi-national corporations based in the United States are coming under increased criticism for some of their financial contributions to foreign officials and political parties.

Exxon Corp. reported Wednesday that it gave $46 million to $51 million in secret contributions to Italian political parties for nine years ending in early 1972. Such activity would be illegal in the United States, but legal under Italian law.

The Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on multinational corporations has been investigating such actions of United States' firms and it appears that somewhat of a pattern has developed over the years. Investigations involving Gulf Oil and Northrop Corp. indicate that United States corporations have been playing the "payoff" game in order to get government contracts and perform the regular routine of business.

While such actions (like paying off a Saudi Arabian general to get an arms contract) may indeed be considered bribery in this nation, it is common procedure in many nations. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, says that this is a "cancer eating away at the vitality of Western society. That cancer is corruption."

It may be, but we are dealing with an issue of morality having different standards around the world. What Americans consider immoral business practices in this nation may be perfectly legitimate in Italy, France, the Arab nations or Africa.

Perhaps the U.S. government should restrict such procedures by corporations based in this nation. It may well mean, however, a loss of billions of dollars in foreign business and could eliminate thousands of American jobs. — San Angelo Standard

My Answer

Billy Graham

A divorcee came to our town and cried on the shoulder of one of my boys. Never having been married, and being quite successful, he had a home in the country that he let her use. He never stayed there nights, however, so later she moved to town — taking up residence with some other fellow. What do you think Christ would say of this modern way of living together not married?

W. C. Let me reverse the procedure here and ask you a question. If a person said that merely to look at a woman lustfully was to commit adultery, how would that person react to cohabiting without the benefit of marriage? The answer is obvious. He would condemn it. And that's what Christ did (Matt. 5). Don't forget, however, the good news that sins can be forgiven (John 8).

I think any observer of history would detect a progressive degeneration in moral standards. Malcolm Muggeridge described Western civilization as "in advanced stage of decomposition." That's why it's no surprise that more couples are electing to live together now without being married. It's no surprise, but it is regrettable, because it violates God's plan.

The trouble is there's no responsibility in such an

Most Signs Good

NEW YORK (AP) — A rationale for forecasting an upturn in the economy is contained in the soaring personal income and personal savings figures for June, although you'll still find many people with a "show me" attitude.

Spurred by lower income tax withholding and by tax rebates, both figures indicate that consumers now are in a position to go out and buy houses and cars and other big ticket items.

Others point out, however, that the figures also mean the consumer hasn't been buying, although he is in a position to do so. Houses, autos and many retail items remain unsold.

The truth is that nobody can say with certainty just what a high level of savings means. Only a study of consumer psychology, of the mental disposition of consumers, gives even a hint.

As the dean of consumer psychologists, George Katona, observes, a buying situation is created only when consumers have both the ability and the willingness to spend. It isn't enough to have money; you must have the mood too.

The mood of many Americans is one of insecurity, it seems safe to say. The jobless rate is extremely high. Inflation, while coming under better control, is still a menace in the minds of most people.

To some observers, therefore, the high rate of savings is a measure of insecurity rather than a simple mechanical indicator of ability to buy. People could be saving for a rainy day instead of a buying binge.

In the past, a low level of personal savings often meant that people were taking a chance on the future, that they were optimistic about raises, that they felt financially secure. They were willing to commit themselves.

The current, extraordinarily high rate for the United States bears close watching over the next month or two. If it remains high it could mean that a high level of insecurity has developed in the country.

And if this is so, those optimistic forecasts for rebounds in housing and autos, which most economists feel are necessary for the ascent out of recession, might be a long time in being fulfilled.

Has Granulated Eyelids

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will you please explain granulated eyelids and their cause? The eye doctor told me this is what I have. I was given eyedrops and I have not noticed any relief.

The doctor assured me this was not serious, but it is so irritating. Can you suggest anything? — Mrs. C.A.F.

Granulated eyelids are the result of an eye irritation, the granulation being tiny scars which have formed over lesions or particle formation from a discharge. The initial cause might have been a chronic infection of the lids, an allergy, or a physical irritation from things such as dust particles.

An allergy can cause excessive secretion. It can even result from an irritation from a cosmetic, eyelash darkener being a common offender. A skin disorder affecting the scalp (dandruff is an example) can also involve the eyelids and lead to eventual granulation. This would be a form of conjunctivitis.

A condition called trachoma is a more serious, chronic disease of the eyelids quite widespread in parts of the world where sanitation facilities are not as complete as they are in most western countries. It is thought to be virus-caused.

If untreated, granulated eyelids can progress and become serious problems.

Treatment of the cause of your condition can take some time before relief is noticed.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son has been bedwetting since he was out of diapers. He is now seven years old. We have tried getting him to the bathroom before we go to bed, but that doesn't help.

Recently we took him to a urologist, who suggested a cystoscopy and then a meatotomy. The doctor suggested the cystoscopy because my husband had a kidney removed. If my son had an internal disorder, wouldn't it show in a urine specimen or in a blood test? Can you tell me something about a meatotomy? Can it stop bedwetting? — Mrs. E. B.

A thorough investigation of the urinary tract is usually in order in cases of persistent enuresis (bedwetting). A cystoscopy is a bladder examination by means of a cystoscope, a hollow metal tube inserted via the urethra.

A meatomy (me-a-TOT-a-me) is a minor procedure to

Boston's Winning Streak Wiped Out

By The Associated Press
The moment Wilbur Wood let go of the ball, he figured he'd done something wrong. The moment Bill Stein hit the ball he figured he'd done something right.

Wood recorded his third straight complete-game victory Sunday in the Chicago White Sox' 9-2 rout of Milwaukee, the opening game of a doubleheader. He would have had his third straight shutout had it not been for a mistake that Gorman Thomas slammed down the left field line for a two-run homer.

In the second game, Stein jumped on a Pete Broberg mistake and sent it over the wall for the first grand slam of his career, the big shot in a 10-5 victory that gave the White Sox a sweep of the Brewers.

Billy Loses Job Then Regains It

DALLAS (AP) — Billy Martin lost and then regained his job as manager of the Texas Rangers while his American League club and the Boston Red Sox were splitting a doubleheader Sunday night, the Dallas Times Herald reports.

Quoting a source identified only as one close to the situation, the afternoon newspaper said today that at one point during the evening Rangers majority owner Brad Corbett — at the urging of several majority stockholders — decided to relieve the fiery Martin of his duties as field boss.

The Times Herald said, however, that Corbett apparently began hedging his position before the second game ended with Boston winning 3-2 after seeing Texas snap its 10-game winning streak with a 10-5 triumph in the opener.

There were reports that Martin flew into a rage and engaged in a turbulent session with Corbett after the game that night.

After a series of talks with some of the other owners, Corbett acknowledged to reporters that Martin's cloudy future with the club possibly could be determined "at a big board meeting" today. He confirmed there was opposition to the Texas manager in the organization.

There were reports that Martin flew into a rage and engaged in a turbulent session with Corbett after the game that night.

At another point the majority owner, who is expected to make the final decision, said, "We have not been winning the way we think we should, and we are going to do whatever it takes to try to remedy the situation."

One of the latest problems concerning Martin and the front office arose the other day when the Texas skipper sought to acquire catcher Tom Egan, who was released by the California Angels.

General Manager Dan O'Brien opposed the Egan move, and Corbett stepped in Saturday to decide the issue in O'Brien's favor.

The Cardinals had a twin bill lineup against the Odessa Stars here at Steer Park and the Tiger-Cubs were to have played a single contest at Abilene.

Friday the Cardinals are slated to compete in the Midland Tournament. Eight clubs are entered.

Roger Wins 2nd In Row

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — There was a little doubt just the shadow of suspicion — in Roger Maltbie's mind after he'd won a golf tournament last week.

1968 to win consecutive tournaments. He'd won the Quad Cities Open the week before and now joins the illustrious company of Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller, Hale Irwin and Tom Watson as the game's only multiple winners this season.

"When you win your first tournament," the square-jawed, 24-year-old rookie said, "you wonder if maybe it was an accident, if you'll ever win again."

That doubt has vanished. "When you win your second," Maltbie said after winning again Sunday, "you know it wasn't a fluke. You've proved something to yourself. You've proved that you can win again."

And the young man who suddenly finds himself in the role of a budding sensation on the pro golf tour paused and smiled.

"I don't want to sound cocky, but now that I've proved I can win again, I want to win as many more as I can. I want to win again, and again, and again, and again."

"It wouldn't surprise me if I won two more tournaments before the year is over. I'll probably shoot 88 in my next start, but if I win two more, I won't be surprised."

Maltbie, a stocky, well-spoken product of San Jose, Calif., said he wasn't surprised at his come-from-behind victory Sunday in the $200,000 Pleasant Valley Classic on the pro golf tour.

The Pirates came back in the eighth inning, two of them on Richie Zisk's home run. Ken Brett, 6-2, was the winning pitcher and contributed an RBI single.

House Expense Records Now Harder To Consult

AUSTIN (AP) — The days when a curious citizen or a reporter with a hot tip could see House expense account and payroll records at a moment's notice are gone.

Speaker Bill Clayton's policy governing access to those records provides an easy out to a legislator who wants to delay an investigation into how he spends the public's money in his office account.

It also has proven to be a stumbling block to the kind of journalistic "fishing expeditions" that turned up payroll padding and expense account abuses, even in the days before the 1973 Texas Open Records Act.

Anyone wishing to look at representatives' expense account and payroll records must obtain each member's permission to do so. If one seeks to view the consolidated House payroll or make a sweeping probe of how the entire House spends its expense account money, he needs to get approval from all 150 representatives.

REQUEST MADE

On June 25, The Associated Press had form letters placed in all House members' mailboxes requesting permission to see their records.

As of Saturday, almost a month later, 55 had not responded with written authorizations. Some replied only in the past few days, after a complaint from The AP put Clayton's staff to work making phone calls and writing letters.

Clayton has said that since legislators do not usually remain in Austin when there are no sessions to attend, each member should designate someone to handle requests for records in his absence.

"If a member is not available or has no designee, I'll provide the information myself," he told a news conference June 12 after the Fort Worth Star-Telegram had encountered problems in obtaining records of Tarrant County representatives.

Clayton chose, however, to jog individual legislators to respond to The AP request and did not order House employees to grant The AP access to the records.

But, "if you need them by 5 o'clock tomorrow, we can get them," said Clayton's executive assistant, Jack Gullahorn.

"It's not a question of whether you get it. You are entitled to it. This is the methodology we use," Gullahorn said.

Each House member received $4,000 per month during the legislative session and gets $3,000 monthly now to pay for such office expenses, as supplies, equipment rental, stationery, printing, pictures of himself, postage, telephone calls and publications.

Newspaper investigations in the past have uncovered wasteful spending and payroll padding. Representatives have been convicted of misusing state postage stamps. One House member is awaiting trial on charges that he put personal employees on the state payroll.

The AP protested against Clayton's rule early this year, but Atty. Gen. John Hill issued an opinion that it did not appear to violate the Open Records Act as a matter of law.

Hill did not express an opinion on whether the procedure was unreasonable or restricted the rights of the public to government information, saying these were fact questions on which he could not legally rule.

HILL UPSET

Hill recently said privately, however, that he was disturbed to learn of the delays imposed by Clayton's procedure.

Without permission from all members, the procedure keeps reporters and the public from viewing the consolidated, computerized payroll showing all House employees. The chief payroll clerk said individual cards would have to be pulled for each employee unless written permission could be shown from all representatives to view their payroll records.

Under Clayton's last two predecessors, Rayford Price and Price Daniel Jr., newsmen were routinely allowed to examine the total payroll and virtually all expense records without asking anybody's permission.

The same is true of the Senate now.

When a representative gives permission to look at his records, it is not always unconditional.

Rep. Joe Hanna, D-Breckenridge, gave The AP

a July 21 deadline to finish checking his records. Rep. Bill Clark, D-Tyler, said The AP would have to come back for a new authorization if it waited beyond July 31.

Hanna's records were examined last week and reflected no excessive spending or abuse of his expense account and payroll privileges.

Rep. John Bigham, D-Belton, responded with a letter that, in effect, requires The AP to return to him for specific authorization at the time it wants to examine his expenditures.

"I do not mind having my records made available to the press; however, I do not wish to have them subject to indiscriminate examination by persons who may or may not be reputable. Anytime you or anyone would like to examine them, I would be happy to give permission for you to do so," Bigham said.

Sugar Term

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't mother's milk, tiger's milk, or that fabled milk of human kindness. In the sugar industry, "mother liquor" is the syrup remaining after a quantity of sugar syrup has been processed and about one half of the sugar forms crystals. Then the whole amount is dropped and the "mother liquor" spun off in a centrifuge. This first result produces the whitest sugar.

Canning Prompts Safe Measures

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Millions of Americans planning vegetable gardens to save money are also preparing for home canning later in the year, prompting new concern about shortages of materials and safety of procedures.

The two major manufacturers of canning jars and lids, the Kerr Glass Co. of Los Angeles and the Ball Corp. of Muncie, Ind., are working on 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week schedules to try to avert a repeat of last year when tight supplies of tinplate and soda ash, combined with an increased demand, caused a severe shortage.

Supplies remain tight, but Virginia Knauer, presidential assistant on consumer affairs, said there will be enough jars and lids if people don't get greedy. "Don't hoard and don't panic," she warned. "Buy only what you need. Leave some for the next gardener."

Mrs. Knauer said an estimated 400 million new canning jars — with lids — will be produced this year. The main buyers of this equipment are first-time canners.

Seed and garden experts are predicting 6 million new home gardeners this year. Mrs. Knauer said a maximum of 3 million of them are expected to try their hand at canning. If each person put up 100 jars of produce, the 3 million first-time canners would use 300 million jars and lids, below the estimated production.

No one knows how many home canners already have jars or how many replacement caps and lids will be needed. Mrs. Knauer estimated 1.6 billion replacement caps and lids will be produced this year and said the demand could range from just under 1 billion to 2.85 billion.

Remember: Different weather conditions in different parts of the country mean vegetables will be ready for canning earlier in some areas than in others. Manufacturers are trying to make early shipments to these regions. Don't panic if your store is out of lids right now. Check the supply closer to canning time.

Successful canning depends on a variety of factors, including selecting the proper cooking temperature before packing. Some home canners complained last year that lids did not seal properly, causing food to spoil.

MARRIAGE PLANS — Mrs. John B. Hernandez, 303 N. Aylford, announces the engagement of her daughter, Elsa, to Frank Ornelas.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Brijido Ornelas, 506 NE 10th. The couple will be married Aug. 9 in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Johnston Shower

Miss Zina Johnston, bride-elect of David Wood, was honored with a kitchen shower recently in the home of Mrs. Don Williams, 2804 Parkway, with cohostesses Miss Cindy Alderton, Mrs. Kay Sauls and Mrs. Edith Fryer.

The couple will be married at 8 p.m. July 25 in the College Baptist Church.

Housewife Places Ad For 'Surrogate Mother'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Los Angeles area housewife says money apparently is the main thing on the minds of women responding to her ad for a surrogate mother. She's looking for a woman to carry the baby that would be artificially inseminated by the ad-placer's husband.

"We've gotten 10 or 12 letters but they all want a fat fee, and we don't have the kind of money the other couple was willing to pay," said the 28-year-old woman who says she cannot have children. She placed the ad in the San Francisco Chronicle early this month.

"Oh, we'd go as much as a thousand or two, plus the hospital bills, but that's all," she said.

She got the idea from a similar ad placed by a Sunday school teacher with an infertile wife who offered up to $10,000 for a woman to give birth to his child.

He reported getting more than 100 responses, including some from women who offered to carry his child free of charge. He said he would make his final choice in about a week.

But the Southern California housewife said, "They're not willing to do me any favors, I guess."

"I was content to adopt a child," she said. "But it now takes three to five years in California to adopt a healthy Caucasian infant. There's that much of a shortage."

"I'd be an old woman by then — even if we met all those strict adoption agency standards."

She said her husband, a 29-year-old graphic arts designer, agreed to put the ad in the newspaper after adoption attempts failed.

She said she didn't "see any reason to be jealous of any prospective mother of my husband's child. I love my husband and at least a test-tube child will be half his."

Husband Didn't Keep This Woman Prisoner For Life

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Trapped," the young woman whose husband beat her and kept her a prisoner in her home with no money of her own. You told her to go to a family service agency for help. How could she get there? She doesn't drive.

My husband also kept me a prisoner, and I didn't drive. He never allowed me to have any friends, never gave me a penny for anything and wouldn't even let me go to church. He'd hit me when I complained.

When I threatened divorce, he said nobody else would have me. I had two children and no training for a job, so I put up with it for six years.

I finally started to talk with a minister on the phone. He told me that God didn't intend for marriage to be a test of anybody's endurance. He advised me to give my husband a time limit to seek help, and if he refused, to leave him with no regrets.

I took the minister's advice. My husband laughed in my face, told me no other man would have me and slapped me and the children around. Finally, I left.

I stayed with my parents six months while I found a job and a place of my own. For two years I lived alone and found that I had an inner strength and a faith in God I didn't know was there.

I joined "Parents Without Partners" and dated when I could. I stayed with the church and sang in the choir. Then, one night at choir rehearsal a young man who had recently returned from the military service walked in. I soon found out he was single.

To make a long story short, we have been married three years and now have a child of our own. I couldn't be happier.

Please print this, Abby. It gives one woman the courage to gather up her self-respect and leave a situation that's as hopeless as mine was, it will be worth it.

India Parliament Due To OK Rule By Decree

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Indian parliament began a week-long session today that is expected to give overwhelming approval to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's emergency rule. One of the first items on the agenda was a resolution by Agriculture Minister Jagjivan Ram seeking parliament's approval of the emergency, which empowers Mrs. Gandhi to rule by decree, suspend civil liberties and impose censorship. The government, which has solid majorities in both houses, is also seeking approval of legislation limiting the powers of the judiciary. One of the bills proposed by the government would give parliamentary sanction to a new law taking away the right of all those arrested under the emergency to appeal to the courts to release them. United News of India said the cabinet also planned a constitutional amendment that would bar the courts from ruling on any aspect of the emergency proclamation itself. With its main opposition leaders in jail, the Lok Sabha — lower house — began the session in subdued manner in contrast to the frequent shouting matches across the floor that usually mark its proceedings. Opposition members demanded that the more than a dozen of their colleagues who were arrested and imprisoned since the state of emergency was imposed June 26 should be released or allowed to attend the session each day and then be returned to their jails. Speaker G.S. Dhillon ruled the request out of order, saying the session had been called only to consider government business. Except for the imprisoned parliamentarians, nearly all 523 members of the house attended the session. Mrs. Gandhi will be unable to vote in Parliament, a restriction imposed by the Supreme Court while she appeals a conviction of violating election laws in winning her parliamentary seat in 1971. On Sunday, her government ordered the expulsion of three foreign correspondents after they refused to sign pledges that they would abide by censorship imposed under the state of emergency. Those ordered out were Peter Hazelhurst of the London Sunday Times, Peter Gill of the London Daily Telegraph and Loren Jenkins of Newsweek.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran's rejection of a proposed $300 million loan to Pan American World Airways was mostly due to the financially ailing U.S. airline's internal affairs, says an official of Iran's national airline. The Iran Air official, who asked that he not be identified, said the decision was final. He said that another consideration was that "Iran has other priorities for its development projects." Pan Am officials in New York were not available for comment. The airline lost

$81.8 million last year and $59 million in the first quarter of 1975. Pan Am talks with Iran began last September. Budget Minister Abdulmajid Majidi said last month that due to drops in oil revenue from $20 billion to $16 billion over the last year, Iran was cutting its foreign aid to emphasize domestic development projects. Iran has said among other things it wants to upgrade Iran Air, which transported 1.4 million passengers last year, into a major international airline carrying 4 million by 1981. Although unconfirmed by Pan Am or Iranian officials, informed sources say proposals discussed to bolster Pan Am's credit base included: —$300 million in credits backed by Iranian financiers to replace Pan Am's $125 million in loans from U.S. banks that come due this fall. —Assignment to Iranian interests of mortgages on Pan Am aircraft offered as collateral to get the $125 million from U.S. banks. —Iranian purchase of 13-15 percent of Pan Am's stock. —Iran gaining a majority interest in Pan Am's Intercontinental Hotels, but Pan Am continuing to manage the chain.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The period in effect at the Full Moon can bring all sorts of problems out in the open and you would be wise to carefully observe what is happening. Be more diplomatic, tactful and kind.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Wait for a better time to make changes you have planned. Be patient in the face of conditions you can do nothing about.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Put those new ideas constructively across that will help you advance in your line of endeavor. Think constructively.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure you carry through with promises you have made. Not a good day for probing mate about a puzzling problem.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use a spirit of cooperation when dealing with an associate today. Concentrate before handling a public matter.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle those duties ahead of you quietly and efficiently and don't expect too much of a co-worker. Control your temper.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Although having fun is on your mind, it would be best for you to show more kindness to an ally who is in trouble now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Being more objective at home is wise. Try not to criticize anyone or there could be arguments. Show that you have wisdom.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to exercise much care in motion now when the Moon is Full. Be careful in handling a problem with an associate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try not to spend beyond your means for something you don't really need. Save your money for more important things.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't upset present security until you are sure that you can improve your position. Steer clear of any arguments.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Think of ways to improve your present position. Show others that you are a humanitarian. Sidestep a troublemaker.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Listen to what well-informed individuals have to suggest and be grateful for their advice. Strive for personal aims.

4-H Delegation Tours Station

A group of Knott 4-H club members interested in entomology was given a tour of the USDA Experiment Station Saturday.

Dr. Paul Koski led the club members inspected the sunflower crop, the insect trap, the weather gauge station and the facility's insect collection in the laboratory.

Dr. Koski said there are an estimated 250,000 acres of sunflowers contracted for sale at 15 cents per pound. Studies are going here on the head moth, the carrot beetle and the sunflower girdler, insects that effect the growth of sunflowers.

The 4-H delegation included two adult leaders and four members.

New Service In Offering

The Webb AFB Federal Credit Union is planning on being one of the pilot share-draft points through the Texas Credit Union League. This should be in effect by early fall.

What this amounts to, said Wade Choate, general manager, is that drafts drawn on savings shares are honored like regular checks. Besides having direct access to his hares, a member also will receive dividends on his balance at the end of each quarter, plus the insured advantages of the credit union account. Drafts will be payable through the First National Bank in Dallas through an arrangement by the league. Provision also is made for authorizing direct deposit of checks to accounts, said Choate.

VANDALISM

Windshield wipers were twisted, the gas cap taken and his car dented, Jay A. Macknair, 1511 Johnson St., told police early Saturday.

School Slated By Red Cross

The West Texas division of the American Red Cross has reminded all individuals that the annual Texas Aquatic and First Aid School will be held Aug. 10-20 at Baylor University in Waco. Students will participate in classes to learn skills to qualify them as Red Cross water safety instructors, first aid instructors, or small craft instructors in their home communities. The $110 enrollment fee includes room, meals, and supplies.

Further information or applications may be obtained by contacting any local Red Cross Chapter, or by writing the Safety Programs Department, West Texas Division, American Red Cross, Box 12406, Fort Worth, Texas 76116.

THEFTS

A billfold, check book, credit cards and $10-$15 in cash were stolen from her home at 1606 Kentucky Way, Lena S. Damer told police Friday afternoon.

A man filled his car with $120 worth of gasoline and drove away without paying at the Kenneth Dewees Exxon service station, 4806 west U.S. 80, Friday night.

A 10-speed boy's bicycle has been stolen, Larry Martin, 1319 Mulberry Ave., told police.

Reagan Gauging Depth Of Support

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Ronald Reagan says it will take more than cheering crowds with Reagan-for-President banners to make him run against President Ford next year.

The former California governor says he wants to know how much deep support there is for his potential candidacy out in the heartland of America.

And he admits that he is thinking seriously about challenging Ford in the Republican primaries in 1976.

But the 64-year-old former motion picture actor said in an interview Sunday, he won't make a final decision until later this year. Meanwhile he has a speaking schedule rivaling that of any declared candidate. This week he has appearances in six states.

"It's getting to the keep-you-awake-at-night stage," Reagan said when asked about his presidential ambitions.

He said, "I've neither opened nor closed the door."

"You have to feel there is a call to duty from a sufficient number of people."

"If my decision should be yes, then I have to go the primary route," Reagan said. "We're not challenging an elected president. He was appointed to that office."

The Los Angeles Times in its Sunday edition quoted Ford's 1976 campaign manager as ruling out any possibility of a deal with Reagan to keep him out of next year's Republican presidential primaries.

"We have made it clear this is going to be an open campaign, and you can't have deals in an open campaign," the Times quoted Howard H. "Bo" Callaway as saying.

Callaway said there was no chance of a meeting between Ford and Reagan to discuss Reagan's potential candidacy, the Times reported.

Callaway said he is "operating on the presumption" that Reagan will run, the newspaper said.

Reagan says he's not discouraging people who want him to run for President but isn't encouraging them, either. Instead, he's asking them to wait.

Reagan refuses to endorse Ford for election. He says a vigorous primary contest would be good for the GOP.

He has no formal campaign committee. But in June he gave the go-ahead to a "Citizens for Reagan Committee" which was announced last week under leadership of Nevada Sen. Paul Laxalt.

The Laxalt committee will gather information which will help him determine whether to run, Reagan said.

Reagan's speaking tours have the atmosphere of a presidential campaign. He looks and sounds like a campaigner. There are large crowds, many Reagan-for-President signs and banners, police escorts and supporters urging him to enter the campaign.

The voter preference polls say Reagan is the strongest potential GOP challenger to Ford but is slipping. Last spring he trailed the President by 12 points in the Gallup Poll and by seven points in the Harris Poll. This month Ford's margin over Reagan is 41 to 30 in the Gallup and 40 to 17 in the Harris Poll.

Many conservatives who are dissatisfied with Ford want Reagan to run. But some say they fear a repeat of 1968, when they say Reagan waited until too late to launch his campaign.

Kissinger's Garbage Yielded Many Things

LANTANA, Fla. (AP) — The household garbage of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger recently yielded a shopping list for three cases of whisky, a prescription envelope for a powerful tranquilizer, and hundreds of Secret Service documents, the National Enquirer says.

The trash was retrieved earlier this month by Jay Gourley, a reporter for the Enquirer, a weekly newspaper based in Lantana. Gourley sifted through five bags full of newspapers, old potatoes, empty jars, and other onerous items for information.

When the State Department learned of the trash-grabbing, it said the action "caused grave anguish to Mrs. Kissinger and the secretary is really revolted by what he considers a violation of the privacy of his house."

In a copy of its story released Sunday prior to publication in this week's edition, the newspaper said the discarded material "would be of vital interest to a potential assassin."

The Enquirer says documents retrieved by Gourley included:

- Work schedules which revealed the exact number of agents on duty at Kissinger's home and the names of most of the agents assigned to him.
- A document revealing that the Secret Service is testing a new code light signal system for all its limousines.
- A handwritten note on the back of an activity report which gave the number and type of arms and ammunition supply carried in each Secret Service limousine.
- A document presumably written by an agent indicating that a shotgun had been left behind during Kissinger's trip to the Virgin Islands last month.

The article, written by Gourley, said Kissinger's trash contained numerous handwritten and typed documents about the secretary's travel schedules.

REFITTED PADDLEWHEELER — The steamship "Algiers" rests comfortably among the trees on Banibel Island in Florida where it has stood for the past 15 years. The ship was never inhabited as the owner died before completion.

Problems Still Haunt Storm-Ravaged Area

BRANDENBURG, Ky. (AP) — This Ohio River town has been rebuilt since it was flattened by a tornado that killed 32 persons a little more than a year ago. But problems stemming from the storm continue to haunt the community, which city officials say now faces bankruptcy.

The next $25,000 payment on that is due in December, and Ross said he's not sure the city will be able to pay that bill.

He said the city has asked the government for a moratorium on the loan but that "it doesn't look like they're going to give us one as long as we have one penny in the kitty."

"It isn't the big things that's broken our back—it's the little bitty things," Ross said. "Thousands of them. They are showing up every day, related to the tornado."

The city's water supply is pumped from two wells, one of which has gone dry, Ross said.

"Right now the kitty is real low—about $25,000 is in there," he said. "That might pretty well pay for the new well we are drilling for now."

The new well will cost about $30,000.

Many bills left by the storm, for such things as wrecked automobiles, broken fire hydrants and rented vehicles for government workers, "weren't reimbursable," Ross said.

"We're trying to solve some of our problems ourselves," Rowe said.

The idea of getting the community involved in the festival and other fund-raising projects wasn't just to raise money, but that was the primary purpose, Rowe said.

"This served as a morale booster for the people," he explained. "When you have 32 people killed in a small town, it is obvious."

rebuild." But bulldozers clearing away rubble strained water pipes, and "leaks are popping up all over," the mayor said.

And at the heart of the problem is a $75,000 debt to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for the now-damaged water and sewage system.

Hepatitis Case Is Reported

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — A Yakima, Wash. man has become the first person known to have developed infectious hepatitis after drinking from the polluted water system at Crater Lake National Park in Oregon.

Leslie Smith, 46, is being treated for the highly communicable and potentially fatal liver ailment.

"We are unable to identify any other source for his condition other than Crater Lake," Dr. Robert G. Atwood, Yakima County health officer, said Friday.

Atwood said no other water consumed by Smith fits the guidelines for the incubation period for hepatitis—10 to 60 days.

Smith and his family visited Crater Lake June 29, staying overnight at the lodge. He, his wife and two children all drank water, coffee or cocoa at the lodge.

The park was shut down last week after it was discovered that a blocked sewage line had contaminated a stream that supplies drinking water for the park. The investigation by the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta came after hundreds of cases of stomach and intestinal disorders were reported among park visitors and employees.

Ernest J. Borgman, general supervisor for the National Park Service in the Klamath Falls, Ore. area, estimated 70,000 people visited the park in June and almost 30,000 in the first 10 days of July, the period during which the park was open and the sewer blocked.

Health officials already have given gamma globulin inoculations to prevent or reduce the effects of hepatitis to more than 9,000 persons who have visited the park or who work there.

Criminal Element Slow To Respond

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The criminal element hasn't made a concerted effort to take advantage of the depleted ranks of law enforcement in the state's largest metropolitan area, says a police official.

"As far as I know, there hasn't been a real push in that direction," Lt. Richard Hostetter said Sunday night. Hostetter, a spokesman for the office of chief Bob Stover, said the city of 300,000 was quiet this past weekend.

Deputy chief Don Thompson said there was no marked surge in criminal activity.

Thompson, who traded his desk for a prowler car when more than 300 city patrolmen walked off their jobs July 12 in a contract dispute, said the number of major crimes remained stable.

He said, however, that statistics are unavailable because the strike has created a clerical backlog.

A skeleton force of 150 police supervisors and a handful of sheriff's deputies remain on duty as negotiators attempt to resolve the 10-day-old dispute. The on-duty officers are answering only emergency calls.

More than half the deputies in Bernalillo County have been calling in sick in an apparent show of support for the striking city officers.

City and police representatives on a three-member fact-finding board met Saturday and Sunday in an effort to reach a solution. A federal mediator heads the board, which is allowed to make nonbinding recommendations.

No information on the sessions was released.

The officers are demanding a 12 per cent raise. The city has said eight per cent is its final offer.

While police say crime hasn't increased as a result of the strike, some of the city's residents say they want the officers back on the job.

Jim Taylor, a merchant in Albuquerque's historic Old

Town, said he was robbed recently and would feel better if the strike were over.

"People in my line of work get a little nervous when those cruisers don't go by on a regular basis," Taylor said.

Taylor, who said he now keeps a loaded gun in his business establishment, said he appreciates "knowing that police patrol the area on a regular basis."

Another city resident, Sal Torrez, said he drove around all day Saturday and didn't see a police car.

"I hate to leave the house alone at night," he said.

Joe Houston, a third resident, said he believes police deserve the 12 per cent pay hike they are demanding.

"I don't think I'd go out with a blue target on my back," he said.

The officers defied a court order to return to work for four days last week before they resigned. They have been ordered to do volunteer work for the time they missed or face jail.

Patty's Parent May Sue

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's mother says she will protect her kidnapped daughter from defamatory publicity, even if it means legal action against Miss Hearst's former fiancé, Steven Weed.

The 27-year-old Weed says he has completed two-thirds of a book about Miss Hearst, her kidnapping and the effort to get her back. He said he doesn't now have a publisher for the book, but hopes to finish it in time to resume his graduate studies in philosophy at the University of California in Berkeley.

"I hope there is nothing negative in the book," Catherine Hearst said in a weekend telephone interview. "I wouldn't imagine that there would be."

Asked if she would take action against Weed if she felt material in the book would be defamatory, Mrs. Hearst replied, "I'm considering defending Patty and if that involves legal action, we'll certainly do that."

But she said that she currently was not considering any action to block Weed's book.

"How could I? I don't even know what is in the book," she said.

The Chicago Tribune reported Sunday that Weed said he was on "good terms" with the Hearsts until a magazine article appeared, written by a former collaborator of his on the book.

The article detailed the couple's three-year-old love affair before Miss Hearst was kidnapped and told of the couple's use of drugs and other intimate details of their life together.

The newspaper said after a lengthy court battle, Weed has severed all connections with his collaborator.

Mrs. Hearst said she feared that any detrimental publicity about her 21-year-old fugitive daughter might hurt her defense in a future trial. After her kidnapping Feb. 4, 1974, Miss Hearst renounced her parents and reported that she had joined her captors, the Symbionese Liberation Army.

She later was accused of participating in a bank robbery and the FBI has been seeking her and two SLA companions, Emily and William Harris, since they eluded police after a shootout in Los Angeles in which six SLA members were slain.

"I know the Hearsts are not happy with me for writing a book but I find it hard to believe they would take any sort of legal action to stop publication of it," Weed said.

Mrs. Hearst said there was tension between the family and Weed over his planned book. "Naturally, there would be," she said. "I don't think he should make a financial advantage of Patty."

Spilled Oil Is Lapping At Keys In Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Thick, sticky oil is lapping at beaches in the Florida Keys. But the ship that dumped it probably will escape undetected, a Coast Guard environmental officer says.

"From past experience, I would say the chances are very small that we'll catch whoever did it," Lt. Cmdr. George Davis. "It's fair to say that whoever dumped it is halfway to Norfolk, Va., or the Panama Canal by now."

Crews stood by to shovel up the unrefined crude oil in case the isolated bubbles of oil already washed up increased on today's tides to a wave of oil, Davis said.

"There's no much chance of it hurting or killing anyone," he said. "Some of this stuff is so thick that birds could land on it."

There were no reports of boating mishaps or wildlife kills due to the slick.

"Mostly, this thing will just cause a lot of inconvenience," Davis said.
