WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) - Three law enforcement officers and a prisoner were wounded-two of them seriously—in a shootout inside the Wichita County Jail here Saturday officers reported that a

Texas highway patrolman, a county jailer and a sheriff's deputy were injured in the exchange of gunfire with the prisoner, Shelby Bias of South Bend, Tex.

Bias, an elderly farmer who was being detained for investigation of possible driving under the influence, was reported in serious condition at Wichita General Hospital. He was shot in the left side, officials said. Also in serious condition at the hospital, with a gunshot wound in the abdomen, was Deputy Sheriff Robert Nixon. State Trooper John Morris of Electra was reported in good condition after being wounded in the left cheek. Jailer Allan Nash was wounded in the wrist, apparently by a bullet which deflected from his badge. Authorities said Bias had been taken to the Wichita Falls Police Department for a breathalyzer test. Officers said two guns were found in his car.

Police said Bias was then transferred to the county jail and was being placed in a cell on the fifth floor of the county courthouse when he pulled a .25-caliber pistol and began firing at the officers.

Brooks said it took him around 15 manhours to complete the work.

Hundreds of West Texans are expected to flock to Webb AFB this afternoon for Bicentennial Open House ceremonies. The events will attract a U.S. Congressman as well as the famed Thunderbirds and Air Force pilots from all over the country, who bring with them the latest in sophisticated aircraft.

One of the dazzling planes is shown as it dipped in for a landing at Webb Saturday. It will be available for public inspection this afternoon.

Club benefitted to the extent of one inch of moisture and nowhere was it more welcome. The club had a water crisis earlier this summer when its big water reservoir burst.

If the showers are followed by more clear, hot weather, the moisture will have little effect other than increasing plant growth, said County Agent Bruce Griffith.

'The big problem now," he said, "is having fields dry enough that equipment can fight the weeds. This is particularly critical in the low places, and if it gets wet enough to keep equipment and preventing it making out, farmers may lose some vigorous growth.

acreage to the weeds." Hoe hands are either impossible to find, or come high ($2 an hour). The time for herbicides has passed, thus mechanical combat is the only practical means left to fight the weeds.

Griffith estimated 80,000 to 82,000 acres of cotton standing in Howard County. There is practically no grain sorghum — maybe a couple of thousand acres raised for personal livestock purposes. Several farmers have trial plots of sunflowers and a few others have blackeyed peas, mostly for cover purposes.

Most of the county's fallow cropland will be in good shape because it is the layout on the two-and-two cotton pattern (plant two rows, skip two rows) and thus is being kept clear of weeds.

Weeds also are presenting a problem with pastures, particularly broomweeds which are shading the grass

Unnecessary Duplication

Indications now are that Howard County will enter into a rental contract for a computer system rather than follow the previously announced course of utilizing the computer at Howard College for the time being. Presumably, the rental course would be a prelude to developing programs adapted from other agencies, and eventual purchase of a separate computer. A one-year lease-purchase contract seems suddenly to have blossomed into a five-year

This would leave the college, the county and city each with its computer system. This, also in our book, is an unnecessary duplication of expense and effort.

To be sure, a good case can be made for individual programs and for the desirability of having one's own computer within arm's reach. But the computer itself is only part of the picture, for a computer can be engineered to meet almost any load. The physical location is, and will increasingly be, of minor import, because there already are adapters by which information may be put into the computer or obtained from it by simple signals.

For instance, Webb AFB Federal Credit Union, obtain a computer that could and would do any and all Texas Electric Service Company and possibly others things cooperating agencies wanted. The critical here transmit information to central computers in factor would be to obtain a programmer or cities far removed from here and get back instantly on programmers expert enough to develop the proper a video terminal screen or on a print-out the data

Answer

I saw the question the other day about it being hard to believe in God, when only trouble is all around us. Well, that's my view. I just can't believe a living God could allow the disasters that fill every newscast. What possible explanation is there?

I think Job can help us at this point. Early in his book, he lamented that God would "laugh when calamity crushes the innocent" (9:23). In such an attitude, he reflects many of God's critics today.

But wait! Later in verse 3 or chapter 42, Job says, "I was talking about things I knew nothing about, and did not understand." You see, he came to understand that the ills of life were not attributable to God's neglect or disinterest — but to man's disobedience.

Certainly God could have created our earth to be the place of perfection and ease that robots would provide. But then, what value would loyalty have? If God had planned automatic obedience, or programmed our love, he would be simply a selfish despot, not a kind

The sharp pointed barbs were twisted around one of the strands about four to six inches apart and the two wire strands then twisted together. Posts were cut from small straight tree trunks about four inches in diameter. The common types of wood used in our area were mesquite and cedar. Trees suitable for posts were carefully trimmed and laid aside for use in the fence. A strand of wire was stretched from end to end of the new fence and used as a guide for placing the posts. The post holes were located by stepping off equal distances along the stretched wire. The holes were dug by hand with post hole diggers, one tool you would be lucky to never get involved with. When layers of rock were encountered, something that happened too often, a heavy iron bar was used to break them out. The posts were placed in the holes and held upright while dirt was tamped in around them. When all the posts were in place the wires were stretched, one at a time, the full length of the fence then attached to the posts with heavy steel staples. A notched stick was used as a guide for spacing the wires the same distance apart on

The doctor prescribed reserpine. How does is work?

The reserpine is the generic name for one of the 'rauwolfia' drugs.

Rauwolfia can be called one of the first tranquilizers in history, thought to have been in use in India as long ago as 1000 B.C. One of its first uses by the ancients is thought to have been for snake bites. As a matter of fact, another name for the roots from which the drug reserpine is extracted is 'snakeroot."

American chemists extracted reserpine from the rauwolfia root in the early marking breakthrough in the treat-to police. Booked on suspicion of armed robbery, burglary and pointing a weapon were Louis Leroy Elgin, 24, and Lonnie Dean Thompson, 25, both of Oklahoma City. A 16year-old boy, whose name was not disclosed because he is a juvenile, was held in a juvenile detention center.

Police said that the trio entered the building through a window that was broken in a burglary attempt six hours earlier. Officers arrested a young man and a juvenile inside the store.

The trio crawled through the broken window and lay in wait for employes to open the store, police said. A co-manager, John Eldredge, said the three workers who were captured waved him away as he started to enter, and he notified police. Officers surrounded the Police refused to let the gunmen leave the store with their hostages, as they had demanded. The gunmen asked for an auto and a fivehead start, promising to leave their pistols with the hostages when they freed the men.

The mother and brother of one of the gunmen were brought to the store, and the surrender came not long after they talked by telephone. In the meantime, one of the men tossed chewing tobacco to one officer, then rolled out a shopping cart of beer and soft drinks for the surrounding policemen.

Another gunman threw out a bagful of money, and an officer hustled to retrieve face meetings with the bills that blew out of it.

American women pay a little more for the operation than Japanese women do. Ten years ago it cost them about $60 while Japanese women paid $30 to $45. Now, an early stage abortion for Japanese woman costs about $170, although a women's liberation counseling group said one can be had for as little as $100. For the foreign patients it may run 20 per cent higher, because of the extra time and care extended them, a doctor said.

The few foreigners who come to Japan for abortions now are either in relatively late stages of pregnancy or are from the wealthy of foreign communities in Southeast Asian nations where abortion methods are not considered advanced.

While the number of Japanese women having abortions is going down as the use and knowledge of contraceptives spreads, an estimated one out of three married women under age 50 has had at least one abortion. This high proportion resulted in part from the low number of women previously practicing contraception. One newspaper survey said only 19.5 per cent of Japan's women used various contraceptive methods in 1950, with the percentage exceeding 60 for the first time

Arms Bill Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP) -Budget-conscious senators are claiming the first major victory for the new congressional budget control process after defeat of a $31.2 billion weapons authorization bill.

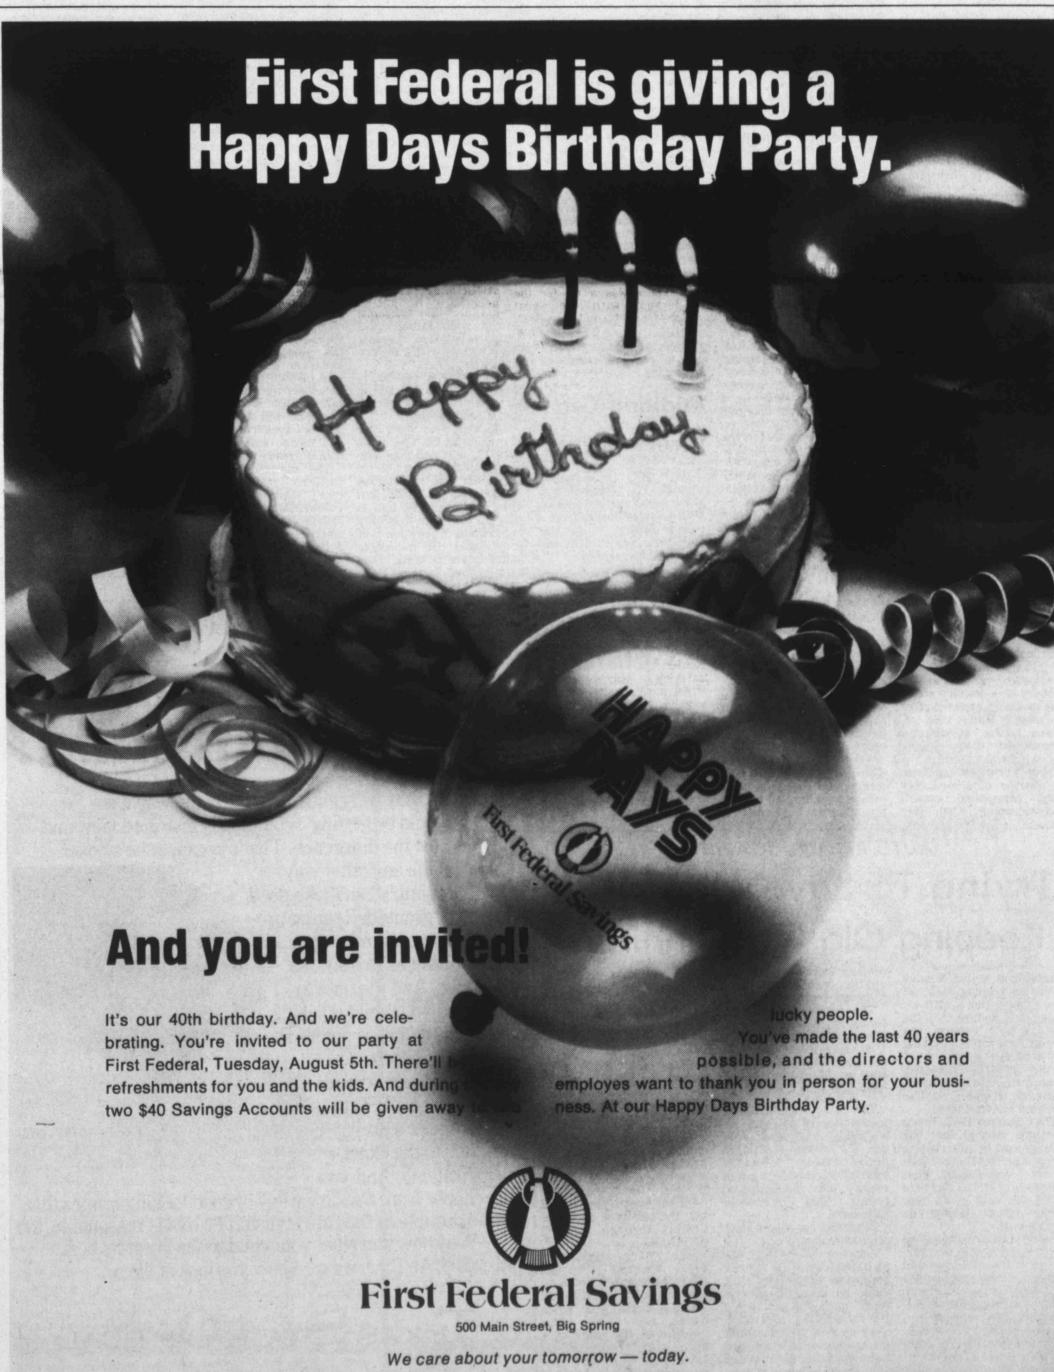

The compromise bill was rejected 48 to 42 Friday after members of the new Senate Budget Committee com-plained that it exceeded the budget guidelines adopted by Congress in May. Chairman Edmund S.

Muskie, D-Maine, and Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., ranking Republican on the budget committee, said they were not singling out defense, but said they would lead a similar fight against a pending school lunch bill that is $430 million in excess of the congressional budget

The 48-42 Senate vote had the effect of demanding a new Senate-House conference, with Senate conreductions. The House accepted the $31.2 billion bill Wednesday by a 348 to 60

Muskie said the Senate vote means "the Senate really wants the budget process to work and senators recognize that to make it work that each of us must consider the over-all (budget) as we consider support for particular programs."

AUTO REPAIRS SOARING Trying To Save Money By Keeping Old Car Running?

Americans trying to save money by keeping their old cars running just a little bit longer are finding that the cost of auto repairs has soared along with everything else in the past year.

Price increases generally range from 10 to 30 per cent, depending on where you live and what you want fixed.

The Consumer Price Index for June showed that the average cost of auto repairs was 14.2 per cent higher than it was a year earlier. That compared with an increase of 9.3 per cent in all con-sumer prices during the same period.

Automobile prices went up about 10 per cent at the start of the 1975 model year and are expected to rise another 4 to 6 per cent with the introduction of the 1976 cars. How does life look to your child?

Your child may be seeing life exactly the way it is. But she could be getting a completely distorted view and never know the difference. That's because she's never looked at life any other way.

You simply can't take good vision for granted. Regular professional eye examinations are as important as routine physicals. And the time to find out if your child is seeing life as she should is before she starts back to school.

If eyewear is needed, depend on TSO to fill the doctor's prescription to the exact specifications. And you can choose from a wide variety of good-looking frames that are as durable as they are stylish. The cost is reasonable, too.

We know you want your child to see life at its best. So do we. At TSO, we care how you look at life.

Most of the refugees have suffered personal losses during the past few months that may take many more months for them to completely recover. One local family had their small boy certified as an orphan so that they could be sure he would get to the U.S. safely.

They just missed the illfated orphan flight that crashed and got him on the next plane to the states. Shortly thereafter, they discovered that the whole family could be taken out so they packed up and left on another flight.

Price Index for June was of Mr. Currie in 1950. released in late July, most W. W. Inkman economists were predicting an inflation rate similar to the May increase of fourtenths of one per cent. Instead, consumer prices increased eight-tenths of one per cent, nearly back to the frightening annual doubledigit levels of 1974.

The missed predictions brought to mind the events of last year, when the new Ford Administration concluded after an economic summit conference that inflation was the nation's major economic enemy, and called for a special tax increase to cool

Almost immediately, the economy began sinking into the deepest recession since the depression of the 1930s, and the administration soon shifted gears from a tax increase to a tax decrease.

A third area where the economic forecasters have been wrong this year is in the nation's foreign trade. The Commerce Department on Friday said the nation now may have a surplus in its trade with other nations of between $4 billion and $6 billion, which contrasts with its prediction earlier in the year that the nation's trade might be in deficit by as much as $2 billion.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: One year ago, on Aug. 3, 1974, the longest prison siege in American history ended in gunfire and death. The siege, which a prison official called "11 days of pure terror", changed forever the lives of those involved. Here's a look at the events as they happened then and at the people as they are now.)

By PAUL RECER

Associated Press Writer HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) - Two men will walk down a dusty cemetery road Sunday to stand quietly for a few moments beside granite monuments marking oneyear-old grave sites.

The two monuments are like any of the others standing row upon row on that pleasant, tree-shaded hillside.

But to the two visitors the granite slabs are painful reminders of 11 days of desperation and terror, of tragedy and of triumph.

The gravestones bear a common final date-Aug. 3, 1974. On that day, the longest prison siege in American history ended with gunfire and bloody harvest of death.

July, 1974:

It all started with a bundle of rotting meat.

An inmate brought the spoiled meat from the home of a prison official where he worked as a houseboy.
Guards permitted him through the prison gates with his smelly burden and the man trudged inside the red brick walls.

Buried within the putrid hunks of meat were three three pistols that would soon catch the attention of the world.

"It never would have happened if all the officers had obeyed their instructions last year," says Hal Husbands, the warden of the Walls Unit of the Texas Prison System.

If that spoiled meat had been checked, the guns never would have been smuggled in, and without the guns there would have been no siege and shootout.

That loophole and others steep, twisting ramp. The we had lost them all,' have been closed in a windows of the old building recalls Husbands. massive tightening of had been bricked up. A security, says Husbands. Guards are more cautious. metal detection devices will be installed to check all incoming packages.

And there's another change. Women no longer are permitted inside the grim, red brick walls of the prison. Somehow, he says, that may have made a difference a year ago.

"We think it's better this way," he said.

Fred Gomez Carrasco. Rudolfo Dominguez and Ignacio Cuevas, all considered dangerous inmates, appear suddenly in the prison library with guns. The afternoon classes are in progress. There are 69 the persons library-teachers, librarians, guards and in-mates. Suddenly they are all hostages of three men with guns.

Seven of the hostages are women

Carrasco, the South Texas king of the illegal drug business, is attempting to live his dream of escaping or "going down in a blaze of glory." He quickly takes charge.

By telephone, Carrasco demands 15 pairs of hand-cuffs and a television set and releases of 48 inmates in exchange. Later, other inmate hostages are released.

Father Joseph O'Brien, a tough-minded Catholic priest, visits the library twice and doesn't return from the second visit.

"When we take the job, we know if we're taken hostage we're considered legally dead," says Father O'Brien "I knew that ... I thought I could be of some

He's a short, balding man with an Irish flush, a rapier wit and an awesome intellectual acceptance of the tough facts of life, and death.

Father O'Brien became a volunteer hostage and was wounded seriously in the inevitable shootout. But today he's back at the Walls, still doing the same job.

Did you think about quitting your work after the shootout? he was asked. "Not a bit," he answers quickly. The priest was wounded in the left arm and chest by gunfire

'My arm still bothers me a bit," he says now. "I still don't have full use of it. There's some numbness. I'm still in therapy and expect to get it all back."

Father O'Brien's routine duties include visiting the 22 men on death row at the Ellis Unit of the prison. And one of those is Ignacio Cuevas, the only surviging gunman from the siege, a man who was convicted and sentenced to with the help of testimony from Father ego, says Ann Fleming, a O'Brien.

"I saw him right before he hostages.

How to select the right nursing home.

We Americans are not just living longer, we're living more useful; productive lives. But an increasing number of the chronically ill, the old, the convalescent, need some place other than the hospital and their home where they can receive personal health care, round-the-clock attention and the opportunity to continue to live their lives with meaning.

As your community extended health care facility we want to help you make the right decision. Here are some guidelines: see your family physician to determine the kind of care needed; feel free to visit our facility; ask us for our costs in writing and financial advice about Medicaid; examine all of our facilities; check our food quality; verify our safety features; and finally, observe how our residents spend their time.

There's a lot more to selecting the right nursing home. We want to help. If you have any questions, please call or visit us.

The people who live here, in the belly of the river, call it hell.

Temperatures climb steadily to 125 degrees on summer afternoons, and the earth is as sun-scorched as the brown faces of the residents who inhabit a string of indistinguishable adobe huts that hug the river banks.

It is a barren land, where food must be coaxed by weary farmers from poor plots of dry, cracked ground; water, for the most part, is consumed without purification from the Rio Grande.

Most of the villages along the border seem to leap from pages of the past. They are couched in antiquity-no electric lights, telephones, the only running water that which is in the Life moves as slowly as the clip-clop of a burro's hooves on dusty, gravel-covered roads. And few people, young or old, ever leave. Malnutrition, tuberculosis diabetes widespread.

And there are few doctors premanently stationed here to combat the diseases. When medical care is available, it usually comes from mobile clinics.

Approximately 200 doctors from across the state periodically bring health care services to the Rio Grande, from El Paso to Brownsville, via the River Ministry program of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Dr. John S. Bagwell of Dallas serves as state coordinator for the program, which was started eight years ago to meet both the spiritual and physical needs of river residents.

Dr. Doyle Lansford, an Arlington family practicioner, did a tour of duty in June in Big Bend National Park, where the Texas-Mexico border is easily obliterated by the common bond of misery which grips both banks of the river. Patients flocked from both sides of the river to see Lansford, who manned a mobile health clinic for three

How did he achieve such a financial feat in his poor county?

"I am the county judge too," he smiles when asked that question.

But no amount of political power has solved the most critical problem still facing Starr County: the shortage of doctors. There are four physicians in the county-three full-time and one part-time.

Starr County, and 27 other Texas counties and portions of three others, have been dubbed "critical" in medical and dental manpower shortages by the National Health Service Corps of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. That means there is less than one doctor for every 4,000

Brucellosis Meet Due

Interested Texas cattle producers will have an opportunity to hear and discuss proposed changes in the state's brucellosis eradication program during a series of public meetings on the Texas High Plains in August.

Scheduled by the Texas
Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with the Texas Animal Health Commission, the meeting will be held in Big Spring (Aug. 8 TESCO Reddy Room 10 a.m.) Lubbock, Amarillo, Canadian, and Paducan.

Twenty-four Texas counties had qualified July 1 as bovine brucellosis-free areas and 23 other counties had no known infection, according to Dr. H. O. Sibley, TAHC executive director. Current regulations do not contain provisions for protection of these clean areas, Sibley emphasized.

Proposed changes include outlining manner in which cattle can move into and from certified areas; authorizing testing of cattle prior to trade; requiring "S" branding of exposed cattle enroute to slaughter or quarantined feedlot; supplementary tests; vaccination; moving of breeding stock; handling brucellosis negative cattle.

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) - The first ripple in the tranquility of the Houston Oilers training camp arrived Saturday in the form of Don "Jaws" Hardeman, the Oilers' braggodocian No. 1 draft choice from Texas

Oiler veterans, after reading of Hardeman's intentions to set the National Foorball League on its ear his rookie season, gave him the nickname in advance of his arrival here from Chicago where he played in the College All-Star game Friday night.

Linebacker Robert Brazile, Houston's other No. 1 draft choice for 1975, made a much bigger contribution to the All-Stars performance against the Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers, but it was Hardeman the veterans wanted

"If he can run as good as he can talk, we don't care how much he talks," veteran wide receiver Jerry LeVias

Hardeman, who figures he's a good choice for rookie of the year, was somewhat subdued when he arrived here since he played only one series in the All-Star game.

"There was nothing physically wrong with me,' said Hardeman. "(All-Star Coach John) McKay and I were just like two magnets with the same poles. We just never came together. He said about five words to me the whole time.

As for his new nickname, Hardeman said he didn't mind a bit. "I've been called a lot worse names than that," he said.

"I'm not saying I'm going to score everytime I get the ball but I don't think I'll have any trouble with pro ball," Hardeman said prior to Saturday's workout. "But I still intend to start this year and I think I can.'

Milwaukee Fizzles Out Weiskopf, a playoff winner over Jack Nicklaus last

BALTIMORE (AP) -Tommy Davis and Don Baylor drove in two runs apiece Saturday night to back Mike Torrez' five-hit pitching and lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-1 victory over the Milwaukee

Torrez, 13-6, allowed a single by George Scott in the fourth inning, Darrell Porter's 12th home run of the year in the sixth, and singles by Bill Sharp in the seventh, Scott in the eighth and Robin Yount in the ninth.

The Orioles got a first-inning run off Jim Colborn, 7-9, on Lee May's infield single and added two in the third in singles by Dave Duncan and Ken Singleton and Davis' double to left.

Doug DeCinces hit a solo homer, his third, in the fourth inning and Baylor followed Jim Northrup's double with his 16th homer in the sixth inning

Billy's Debut Successful

NEW YORK (AP) — Graig Nettles, Chris Chambliss and Sandy Alomar drilled runscoring singles in the eighth inning Saturday to lead New York to a 5-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians in Billy Martin's debut as manager of the Yankees.

Successive singles by Roy White, Thurman Munson and Nettles tied the score 3-3 and chased losing reliever Jim Bibby, 4-11.

Dave LaRoche replaced him and Chambliss greeted him with a tie-breaking single to center.

Alomar singled home Chambliss for the insurance

The Indians struck for all their runs in the top of the sixth when Rick Manning and George Hendrick singled and Boog Powell hit his 17th homer of the year. Sparky Lyle, 3-5, who replaced Pat Dobson in the sixth, got the victory.

Rozelle's Decision Reversed

NEW YORK (AP) -Attorneys for Los Angeles running back Cullen Bryant say that despite the National Football League's decision for a return to the status quo, the matter is not over yet.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, in an uncharacteristic turnabout, decided Friday to reverse a decision that would have sent Bryant from LA to the Detroit Lions for wide receiver Ron Jessie.

But Ed Masry, outspoken lawyer for Bryant and a recent vocal critic of the commissioner, said Bryant still would press for compensatory damages. Rozelle's reversal came a day after Bryant had won a preliminary injunction in Los Angeles against Rozelle's order. Bryant had been ordered by Rozelle to report to Detroit as compensation for Jessie, who had played out his option with the Lions and signed with the Rams.

"We're going to hold the Aug. 12 date unless they file something that knocks me out," said Masry. The date originally had been set as a hearing on the enjoiner.

"The actions of Mr. Rozelle and Mr. Ford confirm the inability of some of the leaders in professional football to properly delegate their awesome economic responsibility," Masry said.

Rozelle said the Lions instead would receive the Rams' first round draft choice, which has been the compensation set by Rozelle in all but one instance in which he has been forced to use the controversial Rozelle

The rule, a source of controversy among players and NFL executives and the point of contention of three law suits, gives Rozelle the right to set compensation for a club losing a free agent if compensation can not be determined by the clubs involved. Such was the case when Jessie played out his option with Detroit and signed earlier this year with the lost neld time.

Defective Preservers

AUSTIN - Defective personal flotation devices (PFDs) — commonly known as life preservers - are being offered for sale by some merchants as reconditioned U.S. Coast Guardapproved devices or "factory seconds."

Coast Guard officials have advised the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department that any item sold as "Coast Guard Approved" must be made of new materials and meet all applicable safety requirements.

If the item does not meet the rigid standards set by the Coast Guard it is slashed with a knife and discarded.

"Do not purchase any lifesaving device which is advertised as a reconditioned Coast Guard-approved device, or which appears damaged in any way," warn water safety officials of the Parks and Wildlife Depart-

Midland Tourney Deadline Friday Forty golfers, ranging in ability from a handicap of two to 100-plus duffers, already have registered for the third annual Midland Chamber of Commerce Golf Tournament, slated for Thursday, Aug. 14.

Deadline for entries is nament chairman Frank Chamber members and guests will be placed in foursomes consisting of one each, A, B, C and D player for the Florida Scramble

Friday, according to tour-format tourney Entry fee is $9 per person. This includes green fees, a barbecue buffet from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m., free beverages, plus a chance for special prizes and trophies for the first, second, third and last

"Under the Florida Scramble format, each player hits each shot from the best position," said Nall.
"This allows each player to participate to the maximum and even the poorer players can make contributions to casional good shots." The 1974 tourney included the team with their oc-

a field of 121 golfers, which marked it as the largest tournament of its type at the Hogan Park course. This year's event also will be played at Hogan Park.

Team members and starting times will be announced on Tuesday, Aug.

the stadium while the team's on the road, maybe some Tulsa Running Club won the third annual Weatherford marathon Saturday, finishing ahead of two Brownwood, Tex., club youngsters to successfully defend his title one last year.

Bearded Larry Aduddell,
30, finished at 2:45:34, besting Jim Heerwald, 22, of Fort Worth, who had 2:48:22 and Mark Hebron, 18, running with Heerwald for the Brownwood Track Club., and whose time was 2:59:34. Another Texan won his division title 40 years old and older-with a time of 3:06:28. He was 46-year-old Al Becken of San Antonio. Aduddell said the sport of marathon running is picking up in Oklahoma because "so many people have gotten into jogging to lose weight and for their general well being, and then these people start taking running seriously. "Marathon running is something you have to take seriously," he said. "A 26mile run is not just a mor-ning lark."

Malpractice Insurance Rates Set

disclosed that, acting on information Garrow had AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - For the first time in more than given them, they had located the bodies of two persons two decades, the State Insurance Board has set their client admitted slaying rates for medical in the summer of 1973, Miss malpractice insurance.

malpractice insurance, the legislature this year said they had to withhold the authorized the state board to regulate the rates. The legislature also established a Joint Underwriting Association to compel all casualty insurance companies in Texas to share the risk of covering doctors that cannot get insurance from one of the few firms now writing malpractice policies. The board Thursday approved the rates asked for 11 companies, but it denied the rate requested by Argonaut Insurance Co., and it also put a "hold" on the rate filing of Transportation Insurance Co. pending further review Two rate filings, by the Insurance Service Office and Chubb-Pacific Indemnity Group, were withdrawn after the board's June 23 hearing. Argonaut won a state district court challenge of the board's insistence on compliance with a 90-day notice to customers prior to increasing malpractice insurance rates. The state is appealing that decision.

'Doctors who have faced periodic large premium increases will now be assured that their rates are guaranteed by law for a oneyear period and that future increases must receive state approval," said Board Chairman Joe Christie. Christie said the board determined the rates also filed a complaint requested by the 11 firms were not excessive, but he noted that the board has had no experience in this field in the more than 20 years in which there has been no state regulation.

The basic annual rates approved by the board are for liability limits of $25,000 per occurrence, with a maximum of $75,000 in a single year. And board statisticians estimate that for limits of $100,000-$300,000 physicians can expect to pay 50 per cent more than the basic annual rate. For hospitals, it will be 40 per cent more for those upper

The basic rates range from $140 a year for a non-surgical physician in Travis County (a low rate area) to $1,032 a year for a non-surgical physician in Harris County (a high rate area). For an orthopedic surgeon in Travis County, the rate is $5,416 a year, while his Houston counterpart will pay $8,256.

Lockheed Payoffs Gave Impetus To Plane Sales

Lockheed Aircraft Corp. admits it funneled at least $22 million to foreign government officials and political groups since 1970 to sell its airplanes abroad.

The payments are under investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Senate subcommittee on multinational corporations.

Lockheed is refusing to disclose the names of those who took the payoffs, or to identify the several countries involved.

Lockheed said it believes the payoffs are in line with local business practices, and that disclosure could seriously injure Lockheed, possibly prompting recall of millions of dollars in advance payments put up by foreign customers.

The company said some of the payoffs were made from a secret, $750,000 slush fund which has now been discontinued. Leftover cash has been put into the company's bank account, it said.

routine report on quarterly earnings, released Friday in Washington and Burbank, Lockheed now has about $1.6 billion worth of orders in some 30 foreign nations for its airplanes, chiefly the L1011 TriStar jet passenger plane and the C130 cargo plane. About 12 per cent of all its sales are to foreign governments.

Earlier, Lockheed had repeatedly denied making any overseas payoffs after one of its competitors,
Northrop Corp., said its own

He said the subcommittee would consider sometime in September whether to force Lockheed to disclose further FINALS PLANS for this week's entertainment in Comanche Trail Park are perused by these members of the Starlight Specials Committee, Mrs. Dan Allen, Mrs. Jerry Grimes and Mrs. Larson Lloyd. The annual event has been held annually in the amphitheatre for several years, spotlighting local talent. Several organizations and numerous individuals assist with the arrangements.

POPULAR PERFORMERS during the Starlight Specials are the many talented "countrywestern" musicians who donate their time every year. Their type of tunes seems just right for a summer night in the park, so a large crowd is expected when they appear Aug. 7 for Western Night. Among the numerous performers will be, from left, Melody Dabney, Dr. J. Gale Kilgore, Howard Dodd, Joe Dunn, Bill Horton and Gene

Beginning Tonight -"Starlight Specials"

By JO BRIGHT

Soft summer nights seem made for music and, for several years, Big Spring's Chamber of Commerce has sponsored a popular entertainment event which has become known as the Starlight Specials.

This year, there will be three programs, beginning this evening with Gospel Night which is under the direction of Frank Wentz.

Opening the program will be a 10-minute patriotic prelude with Jerry Oliphant and Diane Oliphant of East Fourth Baptist Church as organist and pianist. Following the fanfare, "God of Our Fathers", by a trumpet trio from the Big Spring High School Band, Boy Scout Troop 1776 from St. Paul's Presbyterian Church will serve as color guard and lead the audience in the Pledge of Allegiance and the Star Spangled Banner. The troop leader is Austin Ferguson. The invocation will be by the Rev. William Fleming, pastor of First United Methodist Church.

The welcome will be extended by Mrs. Margaret Lloyd of the Starlight

Special Committee. Other members of the committee are Joe Dunn, chairman; Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, Mrs. Janelle Davis, Arnold Marshall, Mrs. Dan Allen, Mrs. Jerry Grimes, Ron Mercer, Mrs. Lydia

Listed as a special feature of the program is a Bicentennial composition written by Paul Warren and presented by the East Fourth Baptist Church Youth and Adult Choir directed by Jerry Newman. Warren will be honored with a Bicentennial Certificate for his contribution to the city's Bicentennial celebration. Climaxing tonight's program will be a mass choir singing "America the Beautiful" directed by Wentz and assisted by Suzanne Haney.

Participating church choirs will be from St. Paul's Presbyterian, Berea

Baptist, Church of the Nazarene, Crestview Baptist, College Baptist, First Assembly of God, Hillcrest Baptist, First Church of God, Trinity Baptist and St. Paul's Lutheran as well as the Couples Class Choir of First United Methodist Church. Directing or having solo parts are Barbara Dirks, Mrs. Helen Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Tadscott, David Scott, Shirley Ryals, Delbert Hutchins, Cliff Chapman and the Rev. Homer

Programs will begin at 8:30 p.m. all three nights.
The Tuesday evening Fietsa Night will be directed by Mrs. Molina, and Thursday's Western Night will be under the direction of Dunn. Participants in these programs will be announced prior to the event.

Money is not passed out on the streets, but it is passed out in the newspaper. This paper money is not negotiable for cash, yet can add up to discounts for the price-conscious con-

The key to this is price cutting coupons—a certain money saver available to all.

A scissor-wielding shopper can cut out coupons with savings from pennies to dollars at local grocery stores, restaurants, discount houses and national food and drug

During the month of July, a total of $66.74 worth of coupons was offered to the consumer by advertisers in the Herald. That is, if every coupon were clipped, the shopper would save

Coupons printed in the Herald are up 25 to 30 per cent over last year. "Put a coupon in the paper and the advertiser knows what is doing the job" commented Oliver Cofer, Herald advertising director. Cofer maintains that coupons serve as a volume sales check for the advertiser and stimulate stockage of the item in stores. The Pizza Inn reported having 1,522 coupons redeemed to them in the month of July. A maximum of redemption in one night, usually on the weekend, would be 100. "People are coupon crazy" said Waync Murphy, Pizza Inn manager. He feels that personal service and quality food with the coupon as an advertising medium is the winning combination. "A good manager will use advertising to his benefit."

National surveys conducted last year by the Super Market Institute found that three out of every five shoppers utilized coupons—an overall increase of 10 per cent over the previous year. The trend of the current year has been a 28 per cent increase of redemption over last year.

On the national and local level of advertising, more coupons and people cashing in on coupons has occurred. The current ecomonic situation has been blamed by store managers for shoppers using coupons at a greater rate and redeeming them as soon as hey are issued.

The most widely-redeemed coupons are coffee and soap products, according to an advertising director of a grocery store chain. Coupons redeemed at that chain however, were down from the previous year when coffee manufacturers published coupons in more than half of the papers during a 26-week survey. Coffee coupons have not appeared as frequently this year.

Depending on the products and the store, coupons are used to introduce new items to the consumer and stimulate business. Manufacturers feel that this is the only way to get people to switch products raking in discounts.

Some coupons traditionally bring people into stores. "They don't sit around with coupons like they used to," said a store manager. "Especially with the economy like it is, people always liked to get something for Apparently coupons as an advertising medium are here to stay. An average of $50 worth of coupons are turned into local discount and grocery stores each week. "We like for our customers to have coupons' remarked Gary Stolz, Foodway grocery store manager. He said he believed in anything that would save the customer money, the coupon increased the sales of product; in the store and the future for coupons looks bright.

Coupons within a store's ad generate large and immediate responses to the featured item and merchandise not advertised. Stores will not reveal specific results of their coupons ad campaign (giving other businesses a competitive edge), but one representative of a local 'five and dime' store disclosed that they collect more than 200 coupons daily on each designated item.

One restaurant owner has found after weeks of research that people continue to redeem coupons. He said that "Coupons are the name of the game in advertising. People will do anything for coupons.'

Parents Punish Children At Innocents' Expense

DEAR ABBY: A letter in your column dealing with how to punish children appropriately prompts this

When a child makes a commitment, he gives his word, and it's unfair of a parent to lay a punishment on the child that will necessitate his breaking his

For example: The night of the senior-class play, the father of one of the most important members of the cast phoned to say his son could not be in the play as a punishment for something he had done. A hasty (and unfortunate) substitution was made. Was this fair to the rest of the cast?

Another incident: Our school has an outstanding girls' softball team. They had won three consecutive games, but on the night of the fourth and most crucial game, the star player didn't show up. A frantic call was made to her home. Guess what? Her mother was punishing her by refusing to let her play in that game!

Abby, please tell parents that there are ways to punish children that will not involve others. Deny them telephone or TV privileges, take the car away from them, get more work out of them around the house. But for heaven's sake, don't force them to break a commitment that will punish the innocent. BALTIMORE MOM

DEAR MOM: Well said. Parents, are you listening? DEAR ABBY: Do you think it's possible for a divorced couple to resume a happy, close relationship without remarriage? This question has been haunting me for several months, but I hesitate to suggest it because I'm afraid that my con-servative ex-husband would react negatively.

My "ex" and I are fairly sophisticated people in our 60s. We were divorced two years ago after a five-year marriage that didn't work out. (The second time around for both of us). We went together for three years before we married and got along beautifully, but for some reason we couldn't live

I am still very much in love with him, and I think he's still in love with me. We both love to travel, and I cannot think of a better traveling companion than my "ex.

I want very much to resume our relationship but not as his wife. What are your views on the subject? NAMELESS

DEAR NAMELESS: There are built-in factors in second marriages for people of your ages that could cause considerable conflict. (Family ties on both sides, money matters, old friends, old habits, your children and his children, etc.).

It would be a simple matter to find out how he feels about a relationship sans marriage. Ask him. You have nothing to lose.

DEAR ABBY: husband and I bought a very expensive, king-sized bed. It squeaked, so we got rid of it and bought another one that was also expensive. After a while, this one squeaked, too. We can't afford to buy another one. Is there any way to put a stop to this? Please, no funny answers. MRS. L. B. T. MRS. T: "squeaking" bed is usually the result of the bed frame or headboard and not the mattress or box spring. A little oil in the bedframe castor sockets usually corrects this.

Mrs. Riley Falkner and Mrs. Richard Wright.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Harris, 1303 Dixie, and Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Thompson, 3700 Boulder Drive.

Carrying a Colonial-style bouquet of white carnations, pink roses and gypsophila, the bride wore a candlelight formal gown with antique lace overlaying the bodice and extending in panels down the front and back of the gown to the chapel-length train. Enhancing the gown was a stand-up antique lace collar and short lace sleeves, and the back waistline was marked with a satin bow and streamers. The bride's veil of illusion was elbow-length and was held by a lace cap adorned with seed pearls.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Robert F. Tilton of San Antonio, and Mrs. Richard Wright was bridesmatron. They were attired in identical floor-length, pink gowns; waistline circled with white lace. Completing their costumes were matching garden hats and white gloves, and each carried a nosegay of pink carnations and white mums.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Charles Voight, and the groomsman was Grady L. Harris, brother of the bride. The men also served as ushers.

The flower girls, Robbie Jo Dolan and Dana Kay Dolan, wore floor-length pink dresses accented with white

Prior to leaving on a wedding trip to the Dallas-Fort Worth area, the newlyweds were honored at a reception in the church activity building, with Mrs. Ron Cowart of Lubbock presiding at the guest register.

Refreshments were served by Miss Leah Harris, Mrs. Paul Biffle, Odessa; and Miss Katy Thompson, San Anselmo, Calif., sister of the bridegroom. The table, appointed with silver and crystal, was covered with a gathered lace cloth, and the centerpiece was a candelabrum holding pink candles and arranged with the nuptial bouquets.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, both of whom graduated from Big Spring High School, will reside in Lubbock. Mrs. Thompson graduated from Texas Tech University with a bachelor degree in social work and received a master's degree from Worden School of Social Work at Our Lady of the Lake College in San Antonio. Thompson will be a fourthyear student in the School of Architecture at TTU this

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding included Mrs. Pearl Thom-Woodstock, Ill., grandmother of the bridegroom; Mrs. Earnie Harris, grandmother of the bride, and Miss Ann Gray, both of Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. M. All that remains now is a period of grain filling and the harvesting operation, says Dr. James Supak, area agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. But farmers will have to be careful not to stop plant growth too quickly with harvest-aid chemicals because it could have a drastic effect on seed yields.

"These producers did an excellent — almost unbelievable — job of establishing and maintaining a crop that most had never even considered growing until about seven months ago," Supak says.
"Planting rates and plant

COLONEL ROBERT A. OWENS

Commander, Aides

Colonel Robert A. Owens is commander of the 78th Flying Training Wing at Webb Air Force Base. The mission of this Undergraduate Pilot Training Wing of the Air Training Command is twofold. One is to qualify officers to perform the duties and assume the responsibilities of Air Force pilots. The other is to qualify students from Allied Nations as rated pilots in jet aircraft under the Security Assistance Training

Colonel Owens was born in Washington, D. C., on December 27, 1929. Upon graduation from high school at Hobbs, New Mexico, he entered Texas A&M College. A year later he accepted an appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, and was graduated in June 1952, receiving his commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force.

He commenced pilot training at Bainbridge Air Base, Georgia, and earned his pilot wings at Bryan AFB, Texas, in August 1953. Colonel Owens was graduated from Advanced Fighter Interceptor School at Nellis AFB, Nevada, in November 1953 and was assigned to Kimpo, Korea, where he served as an F-86F pilot and flight commander with the 335th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, 4th Interceptor Wing.

In July 1968, he was assigned to Saigon, Republic of Vietnam, as Chief, Plans Branch, Fighter Division in the directorate of Combat Operations, Headquarters, Seventh Air Force.

Col. Owens is married to the former Carvel Breeding of Washington, D.C. They have five children; Drew, David, Betsy and twins Peter and Chris.

He was promoted to his present grade of colonel Feb. 1, 1972, with date of rank Sept. 28, 1971.

Open House Message From Col. Robert A. Owens

The members of the 78th Flying Training Wing cordially invite you and your family to visit Webb Air Force Base on Sunday, 3 August 1975, for our Bicentennial Open House.

One of the primary objectives of our Bicentennial Open House is to afford the personnel at Webb an opportunity to express our appreciation for the warm hospitality and friendly cooperation that the citizens of this area have extended to the Air Force, the Base,

We feel that we have an extremely interesting and informative day planned. The guest of honor for that day will be Representative Omar Burleson, who will dedicate Webb's new Airmen's Dining Hall. Prior to the dedication we hope that you will join us on the flight line for a tour of our static display area. On display will be some of the newest and most advanced aircraft in the U.S. military inventory. The highlight of the flight line activities will be an aerial demonstration by the USAF Thunderbirds.

Wing Executive Duties Shouldered By Tokar

Lt. Col. Donald E. Tokar, is wing executive officer at Headquarters at South Ruislip from 1971 to 1972.

Before coming to Webb last June, Col. Tokar was reconnaissance plans officer in the Operations Plans Division of the U.S. Air Force in Europe headquarters at Ramstein Air Base, Germany.

His overseas tours were continuous from 1968 when he was assigned to the 16th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron at Tan San Nhut Air Base, Vietnam. From there he went to England and was first with the 10th Tactical Reconnaissance at Alconbury from 1969 to 1971. Following that tour he was assigned to the Reconnaissance Operations Division of 3rd Air Force Lieutenant Colonel Tokar had other tours in Air Training Command. He was with the Office of Inspector General at the command headquarters from 1965 to 1968. At Laredo Air Force Base, Tex., from 1961 to 1965 he served as an instructor pilot, flight commander and on the wing staff.

The colonel and his wife, the former Mary Loesch of Minneapolis, reside on base. They have a daughter, Barbara, who is 19. Also from Minneapolos, Lieutenant Colonel Tokar received his bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Min-

Seven Different Aircraft Have Been Flown By Team

The famed United States Air Force flying troupe, the Thunderbirds, will highlight today's Bicentennial Open House program at Webb AFB when they execute their breath-taking aerial maneuvers at 3 p.m. under Big Spring skies.

The T-Birds will give a brief aerial display when they arrive at 11 a.m. The big show will get under way at 2:30 p.m., with a walk-by inspection by Twenty-three years ago the first air show of the United States Air Force Demonstration Squadron, the Thunderbirds, was flown at Luke Air Force Base, near Phoenix, Arizona. The Thunderbirds had been created to demonstrate to people in the United States and overseas the capabilities of the men and aircraft in the Air Force.

Needless to say, the 1953 Thunderbirds were representing a very different Air Force from today's. As a separate service, the Air Force was only six years old. The latest jet fighter in action was still not capable of breaking the sound barrier in level flight.

Since that time, the Thunderbirds have flown seven different aircraft. They began in the straight-wing, F-84G Thunderjet and in 1955 switched to the swept-wing F-84F Thunderstreak. Both aircraft were built by Republic Aviation Company. The F-84s, however, were subsonic planes, and it was not until 1956 that the Thunderbirds moved to a supersonic aircraft, the North American F-100C Super Sabre. The team retained the C-model F-100 until 1964 when they spent part of a season in the Republic F-105B Thunderchief. Returning to the F-100D later that year, the Thunderbirds flew Super Sabres until November 1968. In 1969, they transitioned to the McDonnell Douglas F-4E Phantom II.

This year, as in 1974, the Thunderbirds will fly the Northrop T-38 Talon, an aircraft that has been flown in the Air Force by more than 29,000 pilots. In recent years, the Thunderbirds have averaged more than 100 air shows per year, making them the world's busiest precision flying team.

To reach show sites located from coast-to-coast and overseas, the team has covered up to 100,000 air miles in 200 days of travel. To date, the Thunderbirds have appeared before 113,284,000 aviation enthusiasts in all of the 50 states and in 45 countries of the Free World.

The largest single Thunderbird audience gathered in Chicago, Illinois, when on July 5, 1959, two million people jammed the waterfront of Lake

In five deployments overseas, the Thunderbirds have demonstrated American friendship by meeting millions of people on a person-to-person basis. During a 1959 trip to the Far East, the team performed 27 air shows within one 30-day period. Returning to the United States, the Thunderbirds received the 1959 MacKay Trophy, an annual award given for the most meritorious flight of the year and highly prized in the aerospace

In 1973, the team toured Latin American performing 19 aerial demonstrations in 10 countries before more than six million spectators. That tour, combined with 78 performances in the United States, helped the Thunderbirds set a new yearly attendance record of over 12 million

In 1974, flying an abbreviated show schedule due to the T-38 transition and the energy crisis, the team still managed to draw 2,317,950 spec-

The most important part of the Thunderbirds is the people that make up the squadron. All are volunteers, chosen in competition with other specialists throughout the Air Force.

In 1953, there were four demonstration pilots, three other officers and 15 enlisted maintenance specialists. Today, there are some 75 Thunderbirds: seven pilots, three support officers and 65 noncommissioned officers. Together, they make up a team that is known world-wide as America's "Ambassadors in Blue."

1953 — The Thunderbirds became a reality at Luke AFB, Arizona; performing before almost two million people by the end of the first year.

1954 — The team leaped off on the first overseas goodwill deployment. Flying the Republic F-84G Thunderjet, the team visited 10 Latin American countries, where more than three million watched the Thunderbirds perform.

Visitors to Webb's open house today will get a glimpse into the past. Alongside the modern aircraft on display will be five antiques from World War II vintage.

The old timers are from Wilson C. "Connie" Edwards' collection. They are the Grumann TBM, the Lockheed P-38, the North American AT-6 and P-51 and the British Supermarine Spitfire.

A flying rancher from near Big Spring, Mr. Edwards has acquired many types of aircraft. His Spitfire is the only one in the United States flying. Three others are flying in Canada and England. This is the type aircraft credited for winning the Battle of Britain.

Carrying a 4,000 lb. wallop, the Grumann TBM Avenger is the type torpedo-bomber which sank the world's largest battleship, the Yamamoto.

The same Japanese name figured in the P-38 Lightning history. One of the most successful World War II fighters in the Pacific, it shot down Admiral Yamamoto at the height of that conflict. The P-38 owned by Edwards is one of two which were actually used as fighters that are still flying. Four others still in use were used on photographic missions.

Best all around fighter of all nations during WW II, the P-51 Mustang was the aircraft which proved the answer to U.S. daylight bombing by B-17s and 24s by escorting the bombers in their long-range raids. It was still on the firing line, newly designated the F-51, when the Korean War broke out in

Flown by more military pilots, worldwide, than any other aircraft, the AT-6 Texan was produced as an advanced trainer in 1938. It was used in Air Force pilot schools until September 1956, More than 10,000 of these planes were produced, and many are still in service with the air forces of other countries

Aircrews Bank On Weather Detachment

Detachment 16 at Webb AFB is an organization of the Air Weather Service, Military Airlift Command. Personnel provide weather support for the pilot training mission as well as for other support organizations.

Services include weather forecasting for Webb, briefing aircrews preparing for flight, in flight and telephone briefing for pilots clearing from airfields.

IN 1:30 P.M. CONCERT — The Air Force's "Band of the West," acclaimed throughout the southwestern United States for its musical showmanship, will offer a concert on the flight line at Webb AFB today, starting at 1:30 p.m. The 60 men and women members perform primarily as a large concert and marching band. The band's music ranges from concert-band music to lively marches, country and western and Now Rock Sound. The Band of the West has appeared before thousands at parades, outdoor concerts and on numerous television and radio shows. The unit is under the direction of Maj. Duane D. Hoff. The band travels over 20,000 miles a year performing before audiences throughout Texas.

Bicentennial Open House Schedule Of Events Today

11:00 a.m. — Thunderbirds arrive (brief arrival show, no narration).

Noon — Gates open to the public; several aircraft on display from latest in military to antiques; exhibits in Hangar T-1.

1:00 p.m. — Flight line activities begin; parasailing demonstration and other aviation-related events.

1:30 p.m. U.S. Air Force "Band of the West" from Lackland AFB Bicentennial concert.

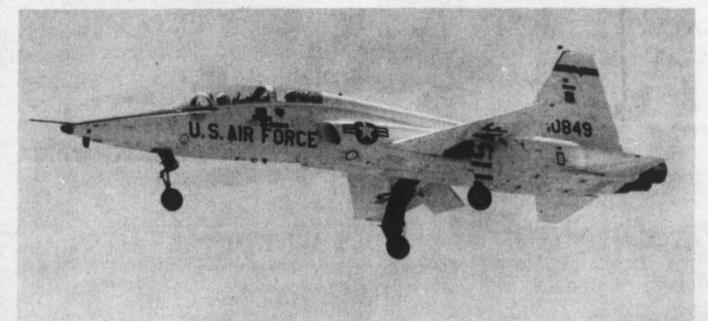

2:15 p.m. — Presentation of Howard County-Big Spring Bicentennial Commission certificate to wing (by Johnnie Lou Avery).

2:30 p.m. — Thunderbird pre-show begins. 3:00 p.m. — Thunderbird aerial demonstration. 3:40 p.m. — Thunderbird autograph session at planeside.

4:30 p.m. Dedication of Capt. Steven L. Bennett Dining Hall in honor of former Webb Student and Medal of Honor recipient; speaker is U.S. Rep. Omar Burleson, Texas' 17th District.

5:00 p.m. — Open house over; several visiting aircraft will begin to depart, and the public will get an opportunity to see some of the Nation's newest Defense aircraft perform. (Note, the following event is not a part of the open house)

8:00 p.m. — Air Force Association-Century Club of Big Spring Banquet at Webb AFB Officers' Open Mess; keynote speaker is Rep. Burleson; open to members of the two sponsoring organizations and other invited guests (tickets obtained in advance).

FAMILIAR TO BIG SPRING RESIDENTS — Pictured in flight is the speedy, efficient T-38 trainer used at Webb AFB, a plane that has become so familiar to Big Spring residents. Many an Air Force pilot has been trained in this aircraft.

Agencies Helpful

Webb's primary mission is to train the best pilots in the world. It takes dedicated people to accomplish the mission and it's no secret that the more contented on-and off-the-job an individual is, the better he or she can perform.

Webb can boast of more than 25 service agencies and lines of communication on base that are geared to solve problems or assist in solving them, and if need be, bring them to the attention of base authorities.

These communications lines and service agencies range from squadron advisory councils to the Wing level senior airman advisor, from the Human Relations Council formed to investigate complaints of discrimination to the Wing Commander.

A 24-hour a day CARE line receives and records telephone calls on a multitude of subjects. Many of these calls are published weekly in the daily newspaper. It is monitored by the Information Division and calls are brought to attention of the Wing Commander or his proper staff agency for action.

Staff Judge Advocate Is Busy

Primary responsibility of the Staff Judge Advocate is the administration of military justice and civil law systems at Webb AFB.

The office also conducts a legal assistance program for military personnel and their dependents including advice and assistance in the preparation of powers-of-attorney, wills and income tax returns.

Assistance is also provided for processing claims against a carrier, warehouseman or the government where damages result during shipment pursuant to military orders.

Legal office personnel cannot, however, represent clients in criminal or civil matters in civilian courts.

Shops Will Be Open Today

The propulsion branch and the jet engine shops at Webb AFB will be open for public inspection during today's Bicentennial Open House.

The Non-Destructive Inspection Lab, which teaches a scientific way to check fatigue on aircraft wings etc. is located there.

wings, etc., is located there.
The area is located between the public parking area and the viewing area and will be plainly marked.

Dyess Is Sending In Team

The list of activities continues to grow for Webb's Bicentennial Open House, scheduled today.

Late developments and additions to the noon festivities today include live hookups for the event by local stations; a parasailing demonstration; and the presentation of a scrapbook and mementos of Capt. Steven L. Bennett to the base by Mrs. Linda Bennett.

Also, the Odessa Bicentennial Commission will be represented in the activities and Captain Bennett's father, Elwin Bennett of Lafayette, La. plans to attend. Monday, the Thun-derbirds will make a visit to the Veterans' Hospital at 9

All three Big Spring radio stations, KHEM, KBYG and KBST, will be on hand for live broadcasts of the open house, including the narration of the Thunderbird performance and some voice transmissions between the Webb control tower and Thunderbirds T-38s.

A combat control team from Dyess AFB, Tex. will demonstrate their skills in parachuting, beginning at 1 p.m. Also, Webb aerospace physiology branch will give a parasailing display.

The Medal of Honor recipient will be honored in ceremonies dedicating the new airmen's dining hall.

RALPH BROOKS As AF Flier

Brooks Is AFA Prexy

Ralph Brooks, a jeweler here and current president of the local chapter of the Air Force Association, was a member of the famed Thunderbird flying group in the 1960s. He was a captain at the time, later was elevated to the rank of colonel.

The AFA chapter is cosponsor of a banquet in the Webb Officers Club this evening, along with the Century Club. Members of those clubs are eligible to attend, along with special guests.

T-38s ON THE LINE — Students in the 83rd Flying Training Squadron at Webb AFB are given 120 hours of training in the T-38s Talon aircraft, some of which are

Training Mission Was Started Here In 1942

Since its first activation as a bombardier school in 1942, the mission of the airfield here has been training. Opened early in World War II as the Big Spring Bombardier School, the school graduated its first class of 118 bombardiers one year and 10 days after the Japanese struck Pearl Harbor. That first class began its training Sept. 28, 1942. Such training and graduations continued until the end of the war, when the flying field was returned to the City of Big Spring as its municipal airport.

In 1951, with the activation of the 3560th Pilot Training Wing, the city again leased to the Air Force the land and facilities for the new base. On October 1, 1951, Big Spring Air Force Base was opened.

The first advanced pilot trainees, who were aviation cadets, arrived March 26, 1952. The first class - 52-D - graduated June 20, 1952.

Earlier that year it was decided to rename the base to memorialize 1st Lt. James L. Webb, a native of Big Spring. Lt. Webb, a pilot who had flown 49 combat missions in the European Theater of Operations in World War II, was killed in the crash of his P-51 off the coast of Japan on June 16, 1949. On May 18, 1952, Webb AFB was officially dedicated to

When Webb was first activated, student jet pilots flew in the prop-driven T-28 Trojan and the T-33 T-Bird jet. Early in 1956, propellor driven aircraft were phased out of the program, with all training being accomplished in the T-33. The base received its first contingent of Cessna T-37 trainers in the fall of 1960, and began training in the Northrop T-38 Talon in 1961. The last T-33 was phased out in January 1963.

A large tenant unit - part of the Air Defense Command - was an important part of the Webb scene for several years. The 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron moved into the west side of the base in August 1958. The squadron operated from the base until late in 1967, including a 1962 deployment to Florida during the Cuban crisis. 331st pilots flew F-86s, F-102s and F-104s during their nine year residence.

A detachment of the Rescue Squadron has also been prominent in Webb history as back-up to the flying training program. At first the squadron was equipped with H-21 helicopters, but graduated to the present HH-43B Huskie in February 1961.

Throughout its history as a pilot training base, Webb has graduated over 10,000 Air Force pilots.

Parachute Exhibition Is On Tap

Webb parachutists and members of the Combat Control team from Dyess AFB, will put on a parachute exhibition for Bicentennial Open House visitors Sunday, beginning at 1 p.m.

Starting off the show will be the static line team. Composed of 1st Lt. Robert Edmisten, M.Sgt. Harper Wagner, T.Sgt. James Klyce, S.Sgts. Joel Leavell and Kenneth Copland and A1C Gerard Miedreich, all from Dyess, the team will parachute onto a grass area in front of the spectators from about 1,500 feet.

Next, Maj. Larry G. Hodge and T.Sgt. Joe Schalk, from Webb's physiology branch, will entertain the crowd with demonstrations parasailing. They will perform after the static line team makes its jump and again after the free fall team jumps. Parasailing is a part of the undergraduate pilot training program curriculum at Webb, used in training students in aircraft ejection procedures.

The free fall team, which includes: M.Sgts. William Winters, Carl Choate, Raymond Carrol; T.Sgt. Alan Hooper. S.Sgts. Rick Cafee and James Parsons from Dyess, is also expected to feature 2nd Lt. James Christopher and T.Sgt. Kenneth D. Mathew as well as 2nd Lt. Miles A. Batt, a former Webb student now assigned to Holloman AFB, N.M.

The entire program will be headed by narrator and team leader, 1st Lt. Cecil Balcon. T.Sgts. Jerry Andrews and Henry Saunders are the drop zone operators.

Flying Aspects Are Covered

Student pilots at Webb receive 267 hours of classroom instruction designed to prepare them for their aviation careers.

This instruction is given by the Academic Section of the Student Squadron and is conducted in Withycombe

Jet Training Started Here

Following completion of the 16 hours required in T-41 training at Hondo Field, student pilots at Webb AFB enter jet training.

This portion of his flying schedule consists of 90 hours flying time in Primary (Phase II) given in the T-37. 3389th Flying Training Squadron is concerned primarily with training foreign students under the Security Assistance Program (SATP).

Webb Hospital Ranks With Top Facilities

Housed in a new, modern facility, the Webb AFB hospital provides direct aeromedical support and physiological training to the Wing flying mission. In addition, a multitude of other medical services are available. These include specialties in pediatrics, internal medicine and general surgery

These specialties are supported by an ultramodern laboratory, pharmacy, radiology and military public health sections. Closed circuit television monitoring of cardiac patients is one of the many features available.

A qualified team of dental officers provides a wide range of dental care for military personnel and emergency care and a preventive dentistry program for military personnel and their families. A veterinarian inspects all food and food handling on base and provides immunizations for small

All clinic visits are on an appointment basis. Bonafide emergencies are, of course, seen at any time. Both urgent and routine appointments may be obtained by calling the appointment desk.

Carpeted throughout, professionally decorated and with piped-in music the facility is staffed by approximately 180 medical personnel, some of whom are on duty at all hours.

DENTAL EXAMINATION — Young Glenn Watkins, getting his teeth examined here by S.Sgt. Nathan Dawson, Webb AFB dental technician, looks as though he'd be just as happy elsewhere. Dental assistant Mrs. Treva Fellows lends encouragement to the youth.

Does Shortage Really Exist?

By BOB REED To me, it didn't jive.

Since the discontinuance of the doctor draft in 1973, numerous articles and news items concerning the shortage of physicians in the armed forces have appeared. Most included grim predictions of continuing shortages.

The implication seemed crystal-clear; The quality of medical care for Air Force members, retirees and their families automatically deteriorate.

But, recently, while following through a different story assignment on Randolph AFB, Texas, I found that this apparently hadn't come to pass. So I decided to investigate. — find out just why the physician shortage vs. continued good medical care had been so successfully resolved. cessfully resolved.

I was particularly in-trigued with the almost 180degree variance of opinion that cropped up when talking about the physician shortage and what was going to happen in the future. There are two camps: Members of one take the dim view; the others all seem to be outfitted with rose-colored glasses — but that's getting ahead of the story.

One of the prime reasons given originally for the projected shortage of military physicians was eminently logical — the great disparity in what civilian practice, as opposed to the armed forces, could offer them. Any civilian doctor could make several times the income offered by the military. So it was tacitly accepted that most of the drafted young physicians would leave the service when they had discharged their obligations.

They did. Current estimates in the possession of Maj. Ray Inman, chief of the Staffing and Manpower Division of the ATC surgeon's office, project a shortage of slightly more than 10 per cent of the approximately 3,600 Air Force physicians authorized at the end of this fiscal year. That projected slightly by the end of the next fiscal year, they say, and to level off of about 10 per cent by the end of FY77.

"We're not quite up to the Air Force level in specialty staffing in ATC, but we're slightly better than average in the primary care areas, he said. "We expect that in the crucial primary care areas of Flight Medicine, Family Practice, and General Medicine, our manning will decrease in FY 76, but that our staffing the specialty areas will remain fairly stable."

I found out that, basically, good medical care had been maintained in the Air Force because hard-pressed doctors had shouldered heavy extra loads. Each of them (including specialists, who didn't always jump with joy at the chores), took his turn in emergency rooms, walk-in clinics and at sick calls, in addition to handling regular appointments.

But this brought up another question: Where did the physicians get enough actual time to do all of this

'doubling in brass?''
Investigation revealed one important reason: Nurses had been given added responsibilities, Physicians Assistants and specially trained Nurse Practitioners were able to "free up" a lot of time for him.

Current shortages of physicians cannot be disputed. It's when talk of what's going to happen from now on surfaces that the official estimaters and the recruiting folks part ways.

Lt. Col. T. H. Jenkins, one of those who supervises 23 special medical recruiting teams out in the field (there will be nine more by July 1), makes a strong case for the recruiters' side, and backs it up with numbers.

First, he points out that the disparity in income between civilian and military doctors has been narrowed considerably by the handsome yearly bonuses that can be offered to civilian doctors as an inducement to enter.

"It varies in different situations," he said, "but we can offer them up to $13,500 extra a year. That hikes the average income of an Air Force physician to more than $30,000 a year. And, he continued, "that doesn't include such things as housing and subsistence allowances, base exchange and commissary shopping privileges, retirement pensions and periodic pay increases and promotions.

"Furthermore," he said, "there are other cogent reasons why more and more doctors - I'll get out actual recruiting accessions in a minute - are showing an interest in an Air Force career. Some are intrigued with aerospace medicine; others like to travel. Some successful older ones who have been practicing successfully in the same community for years would like a change of pace - to start a new life, as it were.

Some are questioning whether it is worth shortening their lives by years just to earn 'x' more dollars is the 'quid' worth the 'quo,' in other words. They see it happening daily to established physicians working 16 to 18-hour days, seven-days-a-week.

MEDAL HONOR

Air Force Adopted Own Medal Of Honor In '65

The Medal of Honor awarded Captain Steven L. Bennett is the highest award for heroism in military action this Nation can bestow upon a member of the Armed Forces.

Captain Bennett will be memorialized at the Webb AFB Open House today when the new airmen's dining hall will be dedicated in his

The medal has taken a variety of forms in its 110year existence. The Army and Navy have always had distinctive awards and, for awhile, the Air Force was content with the Army design. But, in 1965 the Air Force adopted its own Medal of Honor.

The Air Force medal is a finished bronze, four-fifths surrounded by a wreath of laurel in green enamel. The star is suspended from a trophy consisting of a bar bearing the word "valor" above an adaption of thunderbolts from the Air Force Coat of Arms.

The 13 white stars on the ribbon clasp above the pendant represent the 13 original states of the Union. The center of the star bears the head of the Statue of Liberty, instead of the face of the Roman goddess Minerva, which appears on the Army medal.

The Air Force, then called Air Service, claimed its first Medals of Honor in 1918. Lieutenants Edward V. Rickenbacker and Frank Luke, World War I fighter pilots, received their medals for action in the skies of Europe. Lieutenant Luke died in combat and was posthumously awarded the medal. Lieutenant Richenbacker lived on to meet other challenges and was awarded the medal in

Since Wilber and Orville Wright first set man on the stairsteps to the heavens, more than 55 airmen have been presented the Medal of Honor. Burleson seldom misses a roll call vote. He is regarded as a progressive, conservative Democrat who is dedicated to serving the best interests of the nation, Texas and the 17th Congressional District.

Burleson grew up as a farm boy around Anson. He attended Hardin-Simmons University and played for the famed Cowboy band. He served as county attorney and county judge, then ran unsuccessfully for the State Senate before he finally made the big jump to Washington.

He survived five reelection campaigns, the first of which was the closest. That was in 1952, when he beat Jack Cox of Breckenridge by less than 700 votes. His parents were Joseph Marion and Betty Couch Burleson, who met in Comanche County, where both were born.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." (John 15:13)

Such a man was Capt. Stephen L. Bennett, a former Webb AFB student who was killed in action in Vietnam. Capt. Bennett will be memorialized here during Sunday's Open House at Webb, when the new airmen's dining hall will be dedicated in his name.

The dedication ceremony is slated to follow the world-renowned U.S. Air Force Demonstration Squadron Thunderbirds' aerial show. It will take place nearly one year after Capt. Bennett was posthumously awarded the Medal of Honor, by then-Vice President Gerald R. Ford, in the name of Congress.

Capt. Bennett's wife, Linda, and daughter, Angela, 5, plan to attend the Webb ceremony. Also, U.S. Representative Omar Burleson has indicated he will be on hand.

On June 29, 1972, Capt. Bennett and Capt. Mike Brown, U.S. Marine Corps; forward air controllers assigned to the 20th Tactical Air Support Squadron at Da Nang Air Base, Vietnam, had left together on a routine mission: One wouldn't

EMERGENCY CALL

Nearing the end of a day of spotting enemy positions for naval gunners, the OV-10 Bronco piloted by Capt. Bennett picked up an emergency call from a South Vietnamese platoon that was in danger of being overrun by several Vietnamese hundred North regulars. Although the aircraft carried only four small 7.62-mm machine guns and was nearly defenseless against enemy ground fire, with no other aircraft close enough to help, the captains joined

The friendlies were under seige along the surface to air missile (SAM) defended strip from Quang Tri to Hue. The feared strip was known to U.S. flyers as "SAM 7 Alley." Back at Da Nang, aircraft losses were plotted on a map. They clustered here. The Soviet-built SAMs, fired from the backs of ground troops, often made easy pickings of aircraft such as the OV-10, which carried no SAM detection gear.

Bennett began a series of power dives, scattering the enemy with machine gun fire. On the fifth pass, a SAM caught the OV-10 from the blind side and the fatal flight against time began.

Still more concerned with the safety of the South Vietnamese soldiers below than of themselves, the two flyers limped their aircraft towards the sea. There they could safely jettison the reserve fuel tanks and remaining smoke rockets. Capt.

Bennett knew full well what the odds were for his survival if he had to ditch the fragile OV-10 in the sea -

With the left engine out and the right straining to keep the crippled aircraft aloft, they reached the Gulf of Tonkin, passed the naval ships and dropped the reserve fuel and smoke rockets. Now they had to reach a landing strip before the flames reached the main fuel sup-

LUCK WAS FICKLE

For a moment it seemed as if luck was on their side. The fire went out, the plane was holding altitude and they had enough fuel left to reach Da Nang. But Lady Luck belongs to no one and as soon as she had appeared — she was gone! Flames again raged on the crippled wing and the pilot of the chase aircraft radioed Capt. Bennett that the ship was dangerously close to exploding.

The SAM hit had shredded Capt. Brown's parachute, making it impossible for him to eject. Although Capt. Bennett's chute remained intact, for him to eject would mean certain death for his comrade. Even if Capt. Brown could survive the crash, the rockets on the front-seater's ejection seat would have killed him. Capt. Bennett did the only thing he could do. Knowing no OV-10 pilot had survived ditching the aircraft at sea, he headed for the

"We dug in harder than hell," remembered Brown afterwards. The dangling landing gear snagged the water and the aircraft cartwheeled on its top.

In the rear cockpit, Brown was able to free himself and reach the surface for life-saving air. Unable to find Bennett, he tried to pull himself down the tail section to the cockpit but, the aircraft was sinking too fast. When he surfaced again the OV-10 had ended her death cries and the sea had claimed another victim.

Later a Navy rescue helicopter picked up Brown and recovered the aircraft and Bennett's body. The front of the aircraft had been smashed on impact with the water. There was no way for Bennett to have escaped.

A plaque, donated by the Big Spring Century Club, will be unveiled at the ceremony and artifacts concerning Bennett, such as citations for the Medal of Honor and Cheney Award along with other clippings, will be framed to hang inside the dining hall. Also an original painting by Washington, D.C. artist, Dick Nolan, which depicts an OV-10 about to go into the ocean with one engine on fire, will be donated by Airman magazine to hang there. A story about Captain Bennett appeared in the March 1975

The fire protection branch, which is certainly one the layman can understand, is headed by Fire Chief Bill Thomas. They have up-to-date fire fighting equipment, including some trucks that will race out onto the runway and spout thousands of gallons of water onto a fire immediately without the necessity of hooking up a fire hose. Their operations section includes two shifts of workers.

The branch provides fire protection and aircraft crash rescue services for all Webb orders into appropriate Air Force Base aircraft accomplishing training missions at the auxiliary

Baggett, Chumley And Hudson Have Important Functions

CHAPLAIN'S DUTIES — Lt. Col. Jimmie Baggett and Captain Donald Hudson have many duties at Webb Air Force Base, with planned services at the chapel and assistance wherever needed concerning the morale of the Air Force personnel.

Such things as the chaplain service, the services division and the personnel division all fall under the Air Base Group headed by Col. Robert F. Brodman at Webb. Lt. Col. Jimmie Baggett heads the chaplain division.

He is assisted by chaplains, including Capt. T. Chumley and Capt. D. Hudson as well as T.Sgt. R. Holcombe. The chapel at Webb holds regular services. Many weddings are also held in the chapel.

Their division includes the duties to advise commanders on matters pertaining to religion, morale, morals and related subjects. The chaplain division administers a program of worship, rites and religious education for military personnel and dependents assigned to the installation.

They also counsel military personnel and dependents. They conduct a visitation program to family quarters, hospital and work areas.

Major R. Moates heads the services division. This also includes one item that is often seen by those off the base, or at least is a familiar function. This is the commissary store, headed by F.

This includes a cashier's unit, which operates checkout counters, a grocery department unit, a meat department unit and a produce unit. The commissary may be used only by military and their families and includes items sold in grocery stores everywhere at lower prices.

Under the services division, S.Sgt. C. Godwin heads the NCOIC service. Major R. Moates handles mortuary affairs.

A linen exchange branch in the warehouse section is handled by Sgt. J. Blansett. C. Carlsson, civilian, heads clothing sales and S.Sgt. J. Perkins is over Housing Supply.

This functions as custodian of all quarters furniture, family and bachelor. They issue furniture to quarters occupants. They also maintain internal custody receipts and files of furniture. They provide supply with required data to support administrative change of records to obtain relief from a c c ountability and responsibility for items lost, damaged or destroyed.

The bachelor housing is headed by R. Sparks, civilian. He controls and assigns all bachelor living facilities, including BOQ.

VOQ, airmen dormitories, airmen transient quarters, guest houses and transient lodging quarters.

This division is also responsible for assuring maids and janitorial services are available as required.

T.Sgt. J. Davis heads the food service and S. Syed, civilian, is in charge of the base exchange. All of these fall under the services division.

Lt. Col. Robert Mathews is chief of the personnel division, also under Air Base Group.

Sergeant major is K. Kane, CMS and Warren Farrow is chief of civilian personnel. V. Perring, civilian, is over personnel management and W. Bryans, civilian, heads position management. J. Phillips is over NAF personnel management.

That's no longer true. Last December, Congress amended the Freedom of Information (FIO) Act of 1967, making it easier for U.S. citizens to obtain documents and other materials from the executive branch of Government, including the DOD and Air

Students At Webb In Four Squadrons

Col. Robert Meisenheimer, Deputy Commander of Operations, heads the portion of Webb Air Force Base charged with the training of pilots.

The students are assigned to four squadrons, the 78th Student Squadron, commanded by Lt. Col. J. Williams; the 82nd Flying Training Squadron, commanded by Lt. Col. A. Shumate; the 83rd Flying Training Squadron, commanded by Lt. Col. J. Grimes; and the 3389th Flying Training Squadron, commanded by Lt. Col. S. Hanson

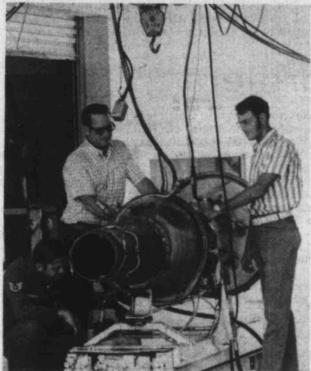

The 78th Student Squadron is undergoing academic training while the 82nd FTS is involved in training in the sub-sonic T-37 trainer. The 83rd FTS is involved in training in the super-sonic T-38 trainer and the 3389th FTS consists mostly of foreign students training in T-37s.

Operations is also involved in general military training and training in small arms and marksmanship.

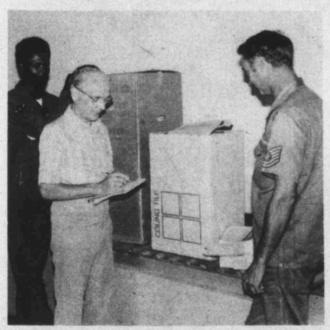

Disaster preparedness is another of the division of Operations. This division formulates plans and policies on measures to be taken to prevent or minimize casualties and damage resulting from natural disaster or from disasters resulting from peace-time accidents involving nuclear, chemical and biological weapons.

The Simulator Training Branch plans and schedules work assignments for instructor crews on the flight simulators.

Foreign pilots are trained under the Security Assistance Training Program, with Lt. Col. J. Wilson head of the SATP T-37 operations. In charge of foreign military affairs is 2nd Lt. V. Arnold.

First Class Had 118 Bombardiers

Since its first activation as a bombardier school in 1942, the mission of the airfield here has been training.

Opened early in World II
as the Big Spring Bombardier School, it graduated its first class of 118 bombardier School bardiers one year and 10 days after the Japanese struck Pearl Harbor. Such training continued until the end of the war, when the airstrip was returned to the City of Big Spring as its municipal airport.

Then, in 1951, with the activation of the 3560th Pilot Training Wing, the city again leased to the Air Force the land and facilities for the new base. On Oct. 1, 1951, Big Spring AFB was opened.

The first advanced pilot trainees, who were aviation cadets, arrived March 26, 1952. The first class — 52-D graduated June 20, 1952.

Earlier that year it was decided to rename the base to memoralize 1st Lt. James L. Webb, a native of Big Spring. Lieutenant Webb died when his P-51 Mustang crashed off the coast of Japan on June 16, 1949. The flier was a veteran pilot with more than 49 combat missions over Europe to his credit. The base was of-ficially dedicated to his name on May 18, 1952.

When Webb was first activated, student pilots flew the prop driven T-28 Trojan and the T-33 Shooting Star Squadron moved to the west jet. Early in 1956, propeller driven aircraft were phased out and all training was done in the T-33s In 1960 the first Cessna T-37s arrived. By 1961 the Northrop T-38 Talons were in operation here and the final T-33s flew side of the base in August of '58. The Squadron operated from Webb until late in 1967. In 1962 the unit deployed to Florida during the Cuban crisis. During the nine years the unit was at Webb, 331st pilots flew F-86s, F-102s and F-104s

A detachment of the Rescue Squadron has also been prominent in Webb several years. The 331st history. At first the unit was with helicopters, but graduated to HH-43B Huskies before leaving Webb.

The host unit, the 3560th

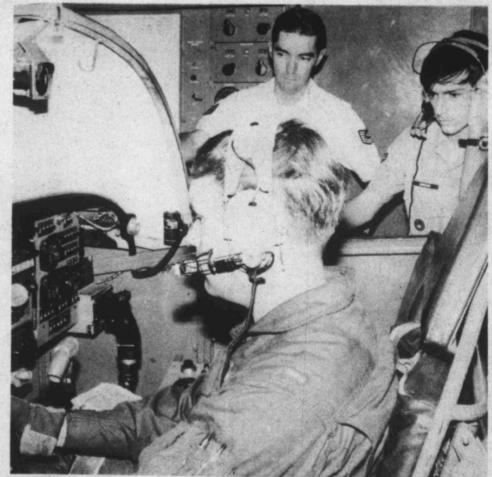

PTW was redesignated as the 78th Flying Training

Wing on Dec. 1, 1972.

Throughout its history as a pilot training base, Webb has graduated more than 10,000 Air Force pilots. In addition, hundreds of foreign students have trained here as part of the Security Assistance H-21 Training Program.

The BICENTENNIAL is NOW. 200 Years ago our colonial leaders were taking sides and debating far into the night the pros and cons of our troubled relationship to the mother country - England. The chief outrages imposed by the British: the Writs of Assistance (search warrants), the Stamp Act (ridiculous taxes), The Townsend Acts (import duties), the quartering of "redcoats" in Boston (nicknames "lobsterbacks") . . . all these and more outraged the colonies.

Out of it all came the Declaration of Independence, The Revolutionary War, Victory at Yorktown and in 1777 the Continental Congress resolved: "That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes – alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars – white in a blue field, representing a new

Elton John Hosts First Rock Awards

He comes on stage with his yes shaded behind one of dozens of pairs of exotic sunglasses. His mod, futuristic wardrobe of highheeled shoes and boots lifts him inches from the ground, and his suit could be either a flashy shade of pink or a warm chocolate brown. He sings his own compositions and does hand-stands and acrobatics from the keyboard. Elton Hercules John + the stage name for young English performer Reg Dwight — is a distinctive entertainer with a style of life and of music that defies imitation.

John serves as host for the 'First Annual Rock Music Awards," special honoring the best performing and creative contributions to the world of rock music, Saturday, Aug. 9, 9:00-10:30 p.m. on the CBS Television

The flamboyance of John's act is subdued by the seriousness of his trade of singer-composer and by the poetry of his music.

ELTON JOHN

John recalls his unspectacular childhood as a "tubby" unhappy child whose parents maintained a large collection of records. "It all started," he recalls, "when I became old enough to listen to records. The first ones I ever heard were Kay Starr, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Les Paul & Mary Ford, and Guy Mitchell. I began playing the piano when I was about four, and I was able to play by ear all the rock and roll songs that I

But it was the American rock sound of Little Richard and Jerry Lee Lewis that made the surest impact on

"They changed my life," he recalls, "I couldn't believe it. I heard them and that was it. I didn't even want to be anything else."

By age 14, John turned his attention to rock and roll and joined his first band. "We were always playing the wrong stuff," he says. "We were always too late or too

John tuned up his singing abilities by working as a backup vocalist for some of the major performers of the day: "I used to do the 'ohhhs' and 'ahhhs."

He also worked at composing. "I couldn't play any instruments, and I still can't, but I can hear melodies in my head when I write," he points out.

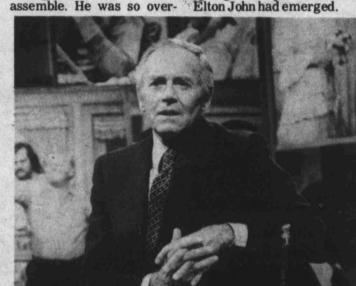

In answer to a newspaper ad came his composing partner, Bernie Taupin, who fits the word to John's melodies.

John sits at the piano and fiddles with chord com-binations until he has the song. He seldom spends more than 20 minutes refining a tune: "If I am half-an-hour on one, and it hasn't come by then, I move

The combination of Taupin and John and the method worked, and Elton John's career turned into its recent upswing. He then changed his image.

"I lost over 30 pounds in 10 days," he says. "I suddenly found I could get into all those fancy clothes.
