'LIKE A TAKE-OUT ORDER' 'Tokenistic Effort' Of Airlift Scorched

CHICAGO (AP) — The airlift of Vietnamese children to the United States for adoption was a little like calling the corner pizzeria for a take-out order, a child development expert said today.

of their homeland in the final days before Saigon fell, was "little more than a tokenistic effort," he told colleagues in a paper prepared for the annual meeting of the American Psychological Association.

"Operation Babylift," when considered in terms of the total needs of children in Vietnam, the 2,000 children brought to this country barely constitute the tip of the iceberg," said Edward Zigler, a psychologist from Yale University who has served as special consultant to the secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Zigler said in the paper that it is a myth the United States is a child-oriented society, in view of the country's "pretty poor record in helping needy children of any nationality, including our own."

Zigler noted there is evidence some children brought over in "Operation Babylift" were not orphans at all, but children of highly placed or wealthy South Vietnamese who used bribery to get their children to the United States.

Guilt over American involvement played a role in the outpouring of interest in adoption of Vietnamese children, he said, noting there was no such interest in saving the dying and starving children of Biafra and Nigeria during civil wars in those African countries.

Throughout "Operation Babylift," Zigler said, "Americans displayed a massive disrespect for the Vietnamese people (both South and North) and their culture."

The view was expounded that "being raised by Americans in the culture of America was superior to being raised by Vietnamese in Vietnam," he said, even though the Vietnamese have a culture that extends back 2,000 years.

There was some question during the airlift whether it was for the benefit of the Vietnamese children or to provide children for Americans wishing to adopt, he said.

"I made lots of enemies over that," she said. "But I have no intention of not being outspoken."

Gun Fire Injures Two Here

Clarence Padilla Yanez Jr., 29, is in Malone-Hogan Hospital in critical condition after being shot in the chest by an unknown assailant Sunday night.

Shot in the chest, the bullet went through the right lung and collapsed the lung, lodging in the right shoulder and breaking the right arm, according to Det. Leroy Spires, investigating officer.

Patrolman James Nettles, who went to the scene, said, "He was shot in the chest and I don't know what." Spires said the caliber of the gun had not been determined since the bullet shattered into the victims' shoulder but it was apparently bigger than a .22 and smaller than a .38.

Officers were called to the front yard of 1502 Bluebird where Yanez was lying in the yard, with his brother, Oscar Yanez, and Tommy Lee Mitchell holding his head. He was rushed by Alert Ambulance to the hospital.

The family had been having a party next door at 1500 Bluebird. A vehicle in the front yard had the hood up as if somebody had been working on the car.

Members of the family and other guests told officers they had no idea who fired the shot.

At 10:48 p.m. W. G. Nichols, Gomez Apartment 6, was shot in the lower back while standing at the intersection of NW 4th and Bell. He told officers he did not know who shot him. He was treated and released when it was determined the bullet went up the spine and exited.

Law officials did not think the shootings were related. At 11:40 p.m. word came from Webb Security police that shots were heard on Scenic Mountain. Fearful of a shoot-out, eight officers including city police, sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen were dispatched to the scene, but nobody was located on the mountain.

Frankness Cost Fem Trip To America Only

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading advocate of women's rights in the military says she was relieved of her WAC reserve command because of her outspokenness. But the colonel who fired her says she was "defiant and would not follow orders."

The Army has launched an investigation of the dismissal of Lt. Col. Grace King, removed Aug. 6 as commander of a women's Army reserve battalion based in Alexandria, Va., by her brigade commander, Col. William Rumsy.

Col. King, 50, said in a telephone interview from her Carlisle, Pa., home that her outspoken advocacy of women's rights helped lead to her dismissal.

"I made lots of enemies over that," she said. "But I have no intention of not being outspoken."

Floods, Tornadoes Send Many Fleeing

By the Associated Press

Storms over the Great Lakes forced the evacuation of hundreds of people in Ohio and Michigan while flooding and tornadoes in other states killed at least four persons.

Daniel Turner and his wife Shirley, both 32, of Blackstone, Va., reportedly drowned after floodwaters swept their car off a water-covered bridge on Virginia 621 in Prince Edward County Sunday night.

The Turner's four children apparently escaped through the car windows and grabbed tree limbs, then were pulled to safety by a state trooper and a county deputy.

In Minnesota, a tornado killed an elderly couple when it flung their car a quarter-mile through the air Sunday.

In Cleveland, a downpour accompanied by flooding plunged the city into a pool of debris and forced evacuation of homes for the second time in a week.

About 50 persons were evacuated from three apartment buildings and a motel when a swollen creek poured over its banks. Rescuers used boats and helicopters to pull people out of the waist-deep water in the half-mile-wide strip on Cleveland's east side.

Flooded east-side streets brought traffic to a standstill; electric power to 16,000 customers was interrupted during the day Sunday.

No one was hurt in the latest flood, in contrast to the previous Sunday's deluge which claimed four lives and caused an estimated $10 million damage.

The National Weather Service said a total of 1.68 inches of rain had fallen since midnight Saturday.

In Michigan, 276 persons were evacuated from the town of Hersey as rising waters threatened an upstream dam Sunday, but state police said early today the flood danger had passed.

The evacuees went to a motel in nearby Reed City and to the homes of relatives. Reports from Miller Dam, which feeds the Hersey River, said the threatening waters receded 6 inches after heavy rains stopped late Sunday.

In several other rain-soaked western Michigan towns, people were told to get ready to leave their homes on short notice if a flood threat worsened, but raging rivers crested before reaching danger points.

A National Weather Service official said more than six inches of rain fell in the 24-hour period ending Sunday afternoons around Hesperia, about 25 miles north of Muskegon, Mich.

In Minnesota, a farmer and his wife were killed Sunday when a tornado snatched up their car and hurled it several hundred feet.

JUST A HOUSEWIFE NOW Fans Remember Ex-Girl Friend Of Superman

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Look! It's a housewife. It's a former actress. It's Noel Neill, who played Lois Lane through most of television's Superman series.

"I'm really flattered that people still remember me after all this time," said Miss Neill as youngsters and adults crowded around her this weekend to get autographs at a science fiction convention. The convention's guest of honor said she began getting requests for appearances about two years ago.

"I read some place that the present tense makes the past perfect," and I guess that's as good an explanation as any for it," said Miss Neill, now middle-aged and without the pillbox hat or tailored tweed suit that were Lois Lane's trademarks.

Miss Neill, now "just a housewife" in Santa Monica, Calif., withstood the affections of Clark Kent, chased Superman through Metropolis and got in and out of numerous messes with cub reporter Jimmy Olson during 76 shows.

"I wasn't TV's first Lois Lane," she said. "Another actress had the part through the first 26 episodes. I'm told she made the part much tougher."

When the Superman series was filmed in the mid-1950s, no one imagined that 20 years later there would be any interest in the show, Miss Neill said.

"It was a low-budget production,"

EX-LOIS LANE She's Noel Neill

she said. "We shot two episodes a week... We didn't really rehearse. "Of course, so many of the plots were the same... Jack Larson (Jimmy Olson) and I used to joke with each other 'Wonder where we're going to get tied up this time.'"

She also explained why Superman appeared so towering on the screen. "George Reeves (whose death ended the series in 1957) was about 6-foot-1 and I'm a foot shorter," she said. "A lot of the other actors were short, too. They tried to hire short people to make George look taller."

Vandalism Is Costly

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Wildlife officials are trying to figure out who cut 11 floodgate shafts at the Lake Bistineau Dam causing at least $100,000 in damages.

The vandalism was discovered a short time after the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission announced Thursday that it was going to open the dam to lower the water level seven feet to kill off a heavy weed growth.

Commissioner Don Wille said yesterday that the announcement triggered angry telephone calls from commercial camp owners near the 17,200 acre lake which is midway between Shreveport and Monroe.

"I don't mean to imply that they are behind this," he said. "But regardless of who did it I can assure you it was some kind of conspiracy."

He said he thinks up to 20 persons may have banded together and hired someone expert with a blowtorch. He said the shafts were cut into neat, five foot sections.

The damage will not prevent the commission from raising the gates manually, Wille said. There's only one problem; once they're up they can't be lowered without the shafts.

Individuals Buying CBs

A recent investigation by city police detectives show that the majority of CB radios being stolen are not being sold to local fences, but to individual citizens at a going price of between $25 and $50.

It's hard to combat when supposedly "good honest citizens" are buying the stolen goods at these low prices. Anyone approached with a "cheap" CB radio is asked to call Capt. Jack Jones immediately.

Doomed Man Works Out All Plans For Funeral

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — Chuck McCracken has it worked out right down to the pallbearers who talk to him on a ham radio network. Now, he awaits the death doctors have said will come soon.

Blind, diabetic, paralyzed in the legs and suffering from uremic poisoning and a diseased thyroid, the 37-year-old McCracken has given up and set himself on a medical course that means certain death, although his body has yet to agree.

He opted in July to stop the dialysis machine treatments which strained the lethal wastes from his blood and, as he said, placed his life "in the hands of the Lord."

Doctors said he had only a 30 per cent chance of living out the year even if he had remained on machine. Some predicted he would be dead by now.

"Every day he has a big breakfast after getting up at 5:30 a.m.," said Jimmy Conley, a family friend.

Then McCracken gets on his ham radio rig and starts talking to friends who have followed his medical crisis via radio. McCracken has named his ham friends, whom he has never met, as pall bearers, Conley said.

Freshman Orientation Is Scheduled At 9:00

Preparations for the fall semester at Howard College will begin Tuesday morning at 9 a.m., when beginning full-time freshmen gather for freshmen orientation at the College Auditorium.

The orientation will include general instructions on registration and counseling for each student's particular course of study.

The activities will continue with sophomore registration beginning at 1 p.m. The sophomores will register in several groups, according to the last digits in their social security numbers.

The ACT residual tests for freshmen who have not already taken the test will be held also at 1 p.m.

Freshman registration will be held all day Wednesday, with the students registering in several groups according to their social security numbers.

Thursday at 8 a.m. will mark the first day of classes and Sept. 16 is the last day to drop or add courses and is also the last day for late registration.

Solon Works At Menial Labor, Gets New Insight

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — "The working people feel the system is unfair and unjust," said Democratic Rep. Ken Hechler as he wound up a month of menial labor during the Congressional recess.

Hechler, 61, got the views of working people in the district he has represented for 16 years as he tackled more than 20 different jobs, including garbage collector, hay baler and hospital orderly.

"You know, when we're sitting up there in Washington, many congressmen get an exaggerated sense of our own importance," Hechler said Sunday, displaying a trimmer waistline and a sore thumb suffered while serving corn in a meal-on-wheels program. "All the functionaries are trained to bow down and scrape, and after you've been there a while you begin to feel you're a cut above everybody else."

$3.5 Million Is Pledged First 6 Hours Of Show

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Entertainer Jerry Lewis and other movie and television stars have kicked off the 2 1/2-hour muscular dystrophy telethon in an effort to raise at least $16.1 million.

The telethon, carried over 195 stations across the country this year, began at 8 p.m. CDT Sunday and ends at 5:30 p.m. CDT on Labor Day. Proceeds go to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Lewis is hosting the marathon broadcast for the 10th year and has served as national chairman of the association's fund-raising efforts for the past quarter century.

Lewis' son, Ron, production coordinator for the telethon, said nearly $3.5 million had been pledged in the first six hours of the broadcast.

Road Stops Are Open

Jaycees manned a coffee stop over Labor Day weekend ten miles west of town in the roadside park and will continue to operate until midnight tonight.

Roy Burklow was chairman this year of the annual project where coffee, milk and doughnuts are served to travelers.

Jaycees reported travelers stopping from almost every state in the union during the three-day weekend.

Up through this morning, the West Texas region had only one fatality on the holiday weekend and it occurred in Midland.

The CB-5 Watter Club was sponsoring a rest stop across the highway for motorists headed east. J. D. Campbell served as chairman at this stop.

They had drivers from most states and two foreign countries stop at their facility and a big rush was expected today as motorists started home. They expressed appreciation to Southern Ice, Rainbo, and Mrs. Baird's Bread, Webb Credit Union, Nalley Pickle, the city of Big Spring and Cosden for assistance.

DONATIONS SLOWING

Donations dropped off to a trickle over the weekend for the Bible fund, for the Bible class taught at Big Spring High School.

The drive was officially due to end today, but donations will still be accepted, since the project is about $500 short of the $6,000 goal.

Trip To America Only Slows Youth's Death

SOUTH SHORE, S.D. (AP) — Stephen Geddis, a 10-year-old youngster from Northern Ireland who came to this tiny community in northeastern South Dakota to escape the violence for a summer, is dead — a victim of a skirmish between soldiers and demonstrators in Belfast.

He was one of 33 Northern Ireland youngsters who vacationed in the Upper Midwest as part of a program aimed at getting the children away from the daily violence in their homeland.

On Saturday, the Catholic boy became the latest victim of six years of violence between militant Roman Catholics and Protestants when he died in a Belfast hospital of injuries suffered Thursday in a skirmish between demonstrators and British troops in the Falls Road area of Belfast.

According to Sarah Hughes, the Belfast housewife who arranged the boy's visit, he was hit in the head by a rubber or plastic bullet fired by British soldiers trying to quell a disturbance near a Catholic housing project, where the boy lived.

Before returning to Belfast, Geddis learned to love the Manley Owens family and peanut butter and root beer.

"That little fellow melted the hearts of everyone who got to know him," said Manley Owens after being told of the boy's death. "He fit right in and became part of the family."

Geddis spent five weeks this summer with the Owens family under the two-year-old program. He returned to Belfast Aug. 5, less than a month before his death.

"We loved him as one of our own," said Owens, a cattle rancher with three married children in this community of 199 people located on Punished Woman Lake.

Owens recalled the boy's parting words as he boarded a train in Moorhead, Minn., Aug. 5 on the first leg of his homeward journey.

Stephen, wearing the cowboy boots that the Owens has given him, said, "I would like to return one day... and bring my family with me."

Owens said he was told of the boy's death Saturday by Mrs. Roy Lerud of Twin Valley, Minn. Mrs. Lerud said she learned of it from Mrs. Hughes.

A Bad Rap Undeserved

President Ford has had some mighty harsh things to say about the 94th Congress. In that he's not unlike other presidents before; Harry Truman and his campaign against the "do-nothing 80th Congress" inevitably come to mind.

But if Congress ever finds a voice to speak for it, the President's case will be awfully hard to sustain. Because the 94th Congress is actually one of the "doings" Congresses we've ever had (and President Ford the "undoings" President).

At the time it went into recess Aug. 1, the 94th Congress had put in more time on legislation in committee and on the floor than any predecessor in the past 25 years. And despite the President's penchant for the veto, all this labor wasn't lost. A surprising amount of major legislation already has been enacted into law during the first seven months of this Congress' existence.

Congress voted to reduce taxes, at a time when the administration was still talking tax increase. Congress passed a measure giving relief to home buyers to stimulate the housing industry, a jobs bill to put millions to work and help the economy, put a clamp on food stamp price increases, extended the voting rights act for another seven years and, over the President's veto, it enacted a badly needed health bill. In all, the 94th Congress has enacted into law or completed action on more than 75 measures.

But Congress has an age-old problem: How to get its message and its record across to the people. A president can command instant attention for anything he wants to say. Congress has no single spokesman of anything like equal weight; it has no single spokesman at all. So when it comes to drum-beating and horntooting, Congress can't even play in the same league as the White House.

Once President Ford is in a presidential campaign, though, it won't be nearly as easy to run against the 94th Congress. Then there will be a single spokesman on the other side, and most Democratic hopefuls will be glad to run on the record the Democratic Congress is establishing during this period of its travail.

Amendments On Mirrors

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has proposed a number of amendments to its regulations on rear-view mirrors for various vehicles. The administration wants to know what the public thinks about the amendments. They need to know by Sept. 26.

Under the proposed amendments, motorcycles would have to have either a mirror with a reflective surface of at least 12.5 square inches, or a convex mirror with no less than 10 square inches of reflective surface. Heavy duty trucks would have two outside mirrors no smaller than 75 square inches.

School buses would be equipped with outside rear-view mirrors (no less than 50 square inches of reflective surface) on both sides of the vehicle. Those school buses with conventional hoods would have a convex cross-view mirror so the drivers could see small children in front of the buses.

Comments should be addressed to: Docket Section, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, 400 Seventh St. SW, Washington, D.C., 20590.

The proposed amendments would be in effect six months after publication in the Federal Register.

'Complex' Marriage

WALLINGFORD, Conn. (AP) — There's a dark corner of Wallingford history that some townspeople don't like to talk about, much less celebrate in an official bicentennial musical comedy.

But it appears the show will go on, despite criticisms that a 19th Century free-love commune is not a fitting subject for a Bicentennial play.

"From what I've heard, it sounds kind of neat," said the Rev. Michael Jackson, associate pastor of the First Congregational Church, which 200 years ago excommunicated a respected member for embracing the commune.

The play, written by 19-year-old college student James Beloff of Meriden, portrays the church's opposition to the Wallingford Community, a branch of the Oneida, N.Y. commune. What so shocked the church and the town was the commune's rejection of the conventional husband-wife relationship. Instead, members were part of a "complex" marriage in which members could make love to others in the group. They also believed in breeding the "best" males with the "best" females. Sexual conduct of this sort is still light years ahead of Wallingford's population in 1975, but most residents appear ready at least to see a play that goes beyond George Washington and the Stars and Stripes. The play, "Two Sides of Heaven," will be presented Sept. 12-14.

At its peak, the commune had 80 members in 1876 and sustained itself through a printing business and light manufacturing. It was considered industrious but none-the-less heretical.

The commune died out in the 1880s, partly from economics and partly because of a malaria attack. Bicentennial Commission chairman Robert Billings, himself a Congregationalist, says the Oneidas deserve recognition as one of the few high points in Wallingford's past.

"To my mind, it was one of the few interesting things to ever happen in Wallingford. This is an ordinary town, let's face it," Billings said.

So far the majority of the commission supports the play, for which it paid Beloff $1,500 to produce.

The church's tie-in to the play has irked some citizens, who take exception to a congregation singing: "We've got a week's worth of sinners to wash out of the linen."

"Dis is y' captain speakin'... bring th' Ship of State about!"

My Answer

Billy Graham

Please explain a statement in the Bible book of James. It's the one saying that "whosoever will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God."

J.M.K. The reference is James 4:4. But before an explanation of that, let me go back to a statement of Christ in John 15:19. There Jesus said, "You are not of the world." He meant His followers had an identity and a loyalty that went beyond human associations.

Now then, the statement in James simply means that it's impossible to have the best of two-worlds — God's and the devil's. There can't be compromise in the principle of life's, basic loyalty. God's claims are absolute, and admit no rival.

Certainly, James is not putting down normal friendships or occupational and community involvements. We are to be "in" the world, but not "of" it in the desires of our heart. James is a very practical writer who sees the impossibility of gratifying worldly desires and still attempting to please God. To the extent worldly appetites remain unbridled, they are evidences of a separation from God.

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

Late Summer, 1775:

Named an aide-de-camp to General Washington on July 27, 19-year-old John Trumbull, the son of the Royal Governor of Connecticut, is transferred to New York; within a year he will resign his commission in a dispute with General Horatio Gates. But young Trumbull is destined for the heights. He returns to Boston where he studies art, and in 1780 departs for London to become a student of the renowned painter, Benjamin West. Almost immediately British authorities jail Trumbull on suspicion of treason. Later he resumes his apprenticeship under West, and by the late 1780s has established himself as the leading American painter of the Revolution. Among his most famous works are The Battle of Bunker Hill and The Death of Montgomery.

Record Loans Proposed

John Cunniff

By R. GREGORY NOKES (Substituting for John Cunniff)

WASHINGTON (AP) — The World Bank proposes to lend $7 billion to the world's poor and developing nations this year and $40 billion in five years, World Bank President Robert S. McNamara announced today.

Although it would be a record lending program for any agency for undeveloped countries, McNamara said it would not begin to meet the dire needs of the one billion people living in the poorest countries.

"Some 900 million of these individuals subsist on incomes of less than $75 a year in an environment of squalor, hunger and hopelessness," he said. "They are the absolute poor, living in situations so deprived as to be below any rational definition of human decency," he added.

McNamara also told the opening session of a week-long meeting of the 127-member International Monetary Fund and the World Bank that the bank plans a new aid program to help the world's poor cities.

"If cities do not begin deal more constructively with poverty, poverty may well begin to deal more destructively with cities," he said in his prepared remarks.

He added that "frustrations that fester among the urban poor are more readily exploited by political extremists."

He also said the stepped-up World Bank lending this year, which compares with 1974 loans totaling $4.5 billion, looks less significant when it is realized that it will require $2 in lending by 1980 to accomplish what $1 did in 1970.

World Bank loans are made to help countries with their internal development plans, with the interest rates pegged according to the state of the country's economy.

On Sunday, the United States and other industrialized countries agreed to give up some of their power in the IMF. However, the United States will retain 20 per cent of the total vote, more than enough to exercise veto power over important decisions.

Asthma—Two Varieties

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please comment on intrinsic asthma. I have had this disease for the past four years and it seems the doctors are baffled as to the cause of the attacks. I have been told the attacks are attributable to a type of infection, but the doctors are unable to put their fingers on just what it is.

I have had the sensitivity tests, and allergies are ruled out. I've been told that the emotions are not the cause, although I feel that they can play a part in setting off an attack. Everytime I have a severe attack it seems that my nose becomes very clogged, and I lose my sense of smell and taste. This occurs at least three weeks before a severe attack. — Mrs. J. A.

You have described a rather classic set of symptoms associated with this type of asthma. Asthma has been classified as extrinsic and intrinsic, depending on the cause, whether external or internal. In extrinsic asthma, the cause is an outside offender, an allergen such as pollen, dust, food or molds. Intrinsic asthma is the type for which no such cause can be identified. It is usually secondary to a chronic or recurrent infection of the bronchi, sinuses, the tonsils or adenoids.

Since an outside factor, such as an allergen, has been ruled out by your doctors, the diagnosis of intrinsic asthma is appropriate, especially since you report having severe infection symptoms (nose closing, etc.) weeks prior to your severe asthmatic attacks. Thus, it seems your asthmatic problem is secondary to that precursor infection. I trust you have had sputum cultures in order to try to identify the bacterial factor.

But the cause of intrinsic asthma is rather difficult to diagnose even, as in your case, in the presence of classic symptoms. There is always the possibility of your having both types coexisting. This can occur.

The steroid drugs you mention taking will help relieve the symptoms, but they will not get at the basic cause.

I should also mention that a mental state will exaggerate symptoms, and this factor cannot be overlooked. Otherwise drugs such as expectorants (to loosen phlegm in coughing) and bronchodilator drugs to facilitate breathing during attacks are helpful.

Better Served

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

I don't know but what society would be better served if all office holders — but most especially members of the Congress — were limited to two terms in office.

THE LONGER they become ensconced in office, the more they lose their grip on reality.

A few years ago, the United States Congress enacted legislation that barred any president from serving longer than two terms. None of their numbers, however, was about to suggest that the same rules apply to themselves. The titles passed upon some royalty in Europe are not as enduring as those adopted by some of the legislative peerage in Washington.

And for those who can con the electorate to voting them into office again and again, the emoluments are tremendous. They've been somewhat hesitant to vote themselves pay raises in recent years but the expense money and allied benefits they've approved guarantee them against ever applying for welfare, although the authority is there in event they ever need it.

They throw out a few crumbs for the constituents, like the recent tax rebate, and they condescend to come home and mingle with the great unwashed from time to time even then at the expense of the taxpayers) but generally their decisions favor the cartels and the special interests.

When they get ready to retire, very rarely do they ever return to their wards. They prefer their own kind and, for that reason, settle down to life in Washington or its environs. ABOUT THE ONLY thing at which they have succeeded is building the image and the importance of Big Brother, of pointing to the futurity of trying to co-exist without his help. There was a time when major decisions could be made on the local and state levels, but no more. It has reached the point now where one has to have a federal directive and a government okay to plant a row of onions.

They created a cumbersome, expensive agency like HEW and it becomes a political football to which a good share of the radicals of the world is attracted.

Our august government has botched the Postal system and negated the effectiveness of such programs as Social Security, Medicare, welfare and Planned Parenthood with senseless and costly legislation.

Long ago, the Congress opened the door to the treasury of the United States and threw the key away. The more outlandish and expensive some of the programs were, the more apt they were and are to support.

If they were limited to two terms in office, they might not be so prone to hasten our bankruptcy — realizing they, in time, would have to return to the world of sanity and scratch for a living.

Sometimes I think the only solution is to take a bulldozer and push the nests of government into the sea, then start over. It may be that in no other way can necessary changes come about.

Uncertain Future

Robert Novak

ANKARA — Two weeks ago, windows of an American bank in Istanbul were broken by students demonstrating against the congressional embargo on U.S. weapons, including spare parts, for Turkey.

At about the same time, an American flag was burned in front of an American embassy building.

LAST WEEK, when Ambassador William Butts Macomber made a three-day tour to buck up Americans stationed on now-inactive U.S. bases (flying only the Turkish flag today), the Turkish government doubled normal security. The reason: rising fear that anti-American sentiment aroused by the arms embargo (a result of Turkey's invasion of Cyprus) might endanger the ambassador's party. In fact, it did not.

Skeptics wonder whether all this is not simply Turkish mood music to dramatize the crisis in U.S. — Turkish relations and influence the embargo-repeal vote to be taken next month in Washington. But there is no evidence to support such Machiavellian suspicions.

To the contrary, the highest officials in the government, joined by responsible opposition leaders, seem unanimous in wanting to minimize the long-range impact of what Turkey regards as a humiliating and discriminating injury.

A symbol of this perceived injury was the highly-publicized trip of Democratic Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri to Athens last week. Eagleton, a minor hero in Greece as Senate leader of the pro-embargo forces, did not fit Ankara into his schedule. It was an omission that the Turks regard as typical of the rising, often contemptuous congressional power over U.S. foreign policy.

INDEED, THE shortest chat with Turkish leaders invariably and quickly turns to the growing ambivalence of American policy as seen here.

"If the Soviet-Union attacked us," an influential legislator who is one of this country's leading Europeans told us, "your President would order retaliation. But within 48 hours, your Congress would veto the President."

That crystallizes the American problem here: credibility of policy deriving from a government torn by assassination, political scandal and divided powers. Now capped by the stark conflict between the anti-embargo President and the pro-embargo Congress, this has left the Turks not only bewildered but actually willing to discuss a highly improbable new source of arms: the Soviet Union.

THE ISSUE of the moment is air power. With its NATO ally Greece, not the Soviet Union, its main adversary, the government worries that denial of spare parts could give Greece air-power equality within two months. Greece now has 39

F-4 Phantoms and has received the first three of some 60 attack bombers from the U.S. Turkey has 16 Phantoms, of which only six are operational — because of the lack of spare parts.

Overall, Turkey has more fighter aircraft than Greece, but according to informed officials here, the gap is fast closing. What worries Turkey is not that if Greece achieves air equality or superiority it will attack Turkey, but rather Turkey's responsibility to assure its safety at the level it sees fit. That cannot be fulfilled from the West today.

It is hard to take seriously the oblique references to Moscow by Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel and other top Turks — including the politically-powerful military. Turkey and Czarist-Communist Russia have warred a dozen times, breeding Slavico-Anatolian hatred centuries old.

Even with detente enshrined, with the North Atlantic Alliance eroded from Portugal to Greece and with repeated inconsistencies in U.S. policy, a Turkish turn to Moscow appears preposterous.

Yet, deputy prime minister Necmettin Erbakan, leader of the Moslem-Nationalist Salvation party, told us, "The world's major mistakes are mistakes in judgment. Your Congress thinks we are tied to the U.S. That is a judgment and it might be a grave mistake."

From Demirel on down, we heard no criticism of Moscow. Soviet restraint in steering clear of Turkey's problems with the U.S. was widely noted. So were new commercial agreements with Moscow, under which the Russians are helping to quadruple the size of the Soviet-built steel mill and triple an aluminum plant.

When we asked Demirel whether Turkey would consider buying weapons from Moscow, he said there may be "other places," but that in no case would Turkey allow the U.S. embargo to weaken its security.

Even an approach to such an unlikely step from one of America's most faithful allies would be momentous. That it is a veiled matter of discussion shows how deeply the arms embargo has shaken its leaders, and what a dangerous brew the U.S. Congress has cooked.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sirs: I like the book covers you make to cover our books with. The book covers are just great because it has those cartoon comics and well they are just great. I wish you a lot of luck on making more and more book covers and that you don't run out of business. Good luck. Thank you for the covers. Carlos Vega Rannels Junior High

Miss Neal Becomes Bride Of Jody Nix

Miss Zane Neal became the bride of Jody Hoyle Nix in a Sunday afternoon ceremony performed by Dr. R. Gage Lloyd in the ranch home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Neal Jr., Coahoma.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hoyle Nix, Big Spring, and Mrs. Lee Nix, also of Big Spring.

The nuptial setting was centered with a large brass candelabrum rising from a bank of greenery flanked by massive cones of turquoise carnations and white spider chrysanthemums. Music was by Hoyle Nix and his West Texas Cowboys with Ben Nix as vocalist, and the wedding march was performed by Dusty Stewart on the steel guitar.

The bride's gown was fashioned of chalk white peau de soie, English net and re-embroidered Alencon lace featuring an empire bodice overlaid with lace, high ring collar and long pointed sleeves. Lace scrolls enhanced the pyramid skirt, extending to the hem. Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a matching bow dotted with pearl clusters, and she carried a classic cascade of white rosebuds touched with magnolia leaves.

Miss Deane Mansfield, El Paso, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor and, another cousin, Mrs. Mary Ann Edwards, Ruidoso, N.M., was the matron of honor. Their long gowns of turquoise silk were fashioned in empire style and featured bodice and sleeves of embroidered lace. Each attendant carried a Colonial bouquet of turquoise carnations and gypsophila showered with picot streamers.

Mike Furgeson of Petersburg served as best man, and Wacey Cathey, Big Spring was groomsman. Miss Hoylene and Miss Robin Nix, sisters of the bridegroom, presided at the guest register during a reception which followed the ceremony.

Copper appointments were used on a refreshment table which was covered with a white sculptured cloth with full-length, fringed turquoise runner. The centerpiece was an arrangement of turquoise carnations and white spider chrysanthemums in a copper bowl.

Assisting with serving were Mrs. Toots Mansfield, Mrs. Tommy Gage, Mrs. Harry Middleton, Mrs. Ola Mae Williamson and Mrs. B. F. Walker.

After returning from a wedding trip to Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Nix will reside on the Gail Route, Big Spring. Nix, who graduated from Coahoma High School and Western Texas College, Snyder, is a professional country-western musician. Mrs. Nix graduated from Ruidoso High School and attended Howard College, Big Spring, and the University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

Among the wedding guests were out-of-town relatives including Mr. and Mrs. Bill Neal Sr., San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. Sunny Edwards, Miss Sarah Edwards and Rowan Edwards, all of Ruidoso; Mr. and Mrs. Jeri Maki and Mrs. Gerry Yates, all of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Lackey of Baird; Mrs. R. D. Moreton of Houston; and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Williamson of San Marcos.

News Briefs From Forsan

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Holguin and family have returned home after spending several days in various spots in California. They visited in San Jose with Mrs. Holguin's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Nevis Acosta. They also visited Marine World near San Jose, then traveled on to San Francisco on a sight-seeing tour. They later viewed Walt Disney World near Los Angeles. Upon returning to this area, they immediately left again to take their daughter Sylvia to Texas A & M where she entered for the fall term. She was the recipient of a scholarship from A&M, for attaining the highest average of her class for the last four years in Forsan High.

The Holguins visited in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Muri Bailey, former Forsan residents while in the A&M area, and Sylvia was to remain with the Baileys until her apartment was available.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Wash were in Lubbock recently on business. They then journeyed to Sweetwater to visit with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Arnold, and on to Decatur to see Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Smith, who were former residents of Forsan. They later went to see an aunt of Mr. Wash's, Mrs. J. E. Wright and family of Irving, then went on to Waco to visit with their son Danny Wash and family, and Mrs. Patsy Wash and girls.

Recent guest of Mrs. L. B. McElrath were her grandson, Buster White of Austin, Mrs. A. O. Ruffin of Colorado City, and Mrs. O. N. Green of Big Spring. They also visited the C. V. Wash's, Lois Smith, Mrs. H. H. Story and Mrs. Henry Park.

Sandwich Tips

Keep sandwiches moist after preparation. Cover with moistened paper towel, then plastic wrap, and refrigerate, if necessary, until ready to use.

If you're planning to save money by carrying your lunch, use only dried and fully cooked meats such as bologna, wieners, salami and dried beef. They keep and carry ver well. But be careful.

Up With Equal Rights! Give Groom A Shower

DEAR ABBY: This might sound crazy, but how come people don't give showers for men who are getting married? Brides get linen showers, kitchen showers, lingerie showers, and all kinds of showers. But grooms never get anything.

Women are now screaming for equal rights, so how about giving men equal rights? A man who's about to be married could use some new pajamas, shirts, underwear, and even spark plugs and fan belts.

Well, Abby, what do you say?

FOR EQUAL RIGHTS DEAR FOR: I'm all for it. But where have you been? Not long ago I published a letter from a man whose wife left him and took everything; so his pals at work gave him a shower to help set him up in housekeeping. Bravo!

DEAR ABBY: Do you think a grandmother has to baby sit with grandchildren who are disobedient and disrespectful?

I have two married sons who each have two little boys — all under 10. The sons of one family are a pleasure to be with. They are well-mannered and obedient, and I love sitting with them either at my home or at theirs.

The sons of the other family are just the opposite. The boys are mouthy, rude, and they actually abuse me. I don't even want them in my home because they are so wild and destructive.

I have flatly refused to baby-sit for the boys who give me a hard time, and now I am being criticized by the whole family.

Do you think I should treat ALL my grandchildren alike when they behave differently? And am I wrong to favor those who are manly and cooperative?

CRITICIZED DEAR CRITICIZED: Turn a deaf ear to the criticism. I'm with you.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20c) envelope.

Club Holds Meeting

The Friendship Sewing Club held its second August meeting at 2 p.m. Thursday this month. The club met in the home of Mrs. Maybelle Norrell.

The group dealt with various forms of handwork. Several members worked with needlepoint, and several crocheted slippers for evening wear. Another project was embroidered pillowcases.

The club, which meets the second and fourth Thursdays of each month, will meet Sept. 11 in the home of Mrs. Corma Stovall, Sterling City Route.

Mrs. Lillian Chambers serves as president of the club.

New York Times Writer Invited To Chilympiad

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — Backers of the Republic of Texas Chilympiad Sept. 18-21 have challenged New York Times food columnist Craig Claiborne to come to Texas and find out what a real bowl of chili tastes like.

Garland Warren, general chairman of the statewide chili cookoff in San Marcos, said preliminary arrangements have been made to match Claiborne against Ed "Chili Lee" Paetzel, Houston, 1974 state chili-cooking champion.

Warren and other financiers of the fiery, meat stew took issue with Claiborne in an article he wrote on chili for a national magazine. Claiborne said sour cream, limes and pinto beans were "optional" ingredients for a pot of chili.

"To put sour cream on Texas chili instead of baked potatoes—shame, shame, shame," Warren said. "To waste limes on Texas chili? What will you have with your tequila? ... venison, armadillo, jack rabbit and yes, even rattlesnake, but no, no, never sour cream, limes or pinto beans in real Texas chili."

Warren said the magazine said it would back Claiborne in the Chilympiad.

Lunch Safety

The safest place to keep your lunch is in the office refrigerator. If no refrigerator is available, pack a freezer gel container in with your lunch, as you would with a picnic. Avoid foods such as baked chicken, baked ham, roast beef, fish, potato salad, egg salad, Waldorf salad and all salad fillings made with mayonnaise, as well as mayonnaise itself.

Cubs Clinch West Crown

A string of two-run homers by Earle Chew, Bill Huisman and Jose Ortiz clinched the Texas League West Division title for Midland Sunday night, climaxing a two-month struggle to the top from 14½ games out.

The Cubs crushed El Paso 14-5, giving them their first division title with 2½ games over No. 2 Shreveport.

Lafayette's Julio Division and Silvano Quezada held Jackson to one hit and Rick D'Innocenzo hit four singles and a triple to give the Drillers a clean 5-0, 4-2, sweep of Jackson and a firm hold on the East Division title. The Drillers are a solid eight games ahead of Jackson.

Shreveport defeated San Antonio 3-1, and Alexandria dumped Arkansas 6-3.

Midland had two six-run innings, the seventh and the ninth, in their winning effort. Donnie Moore, now 14-8, was credited with the victory. When the Cubs finish league playoffs this week, Moore will go to the Chicago Cubs.

Division, 15-5, took credit for the first Lafayette victory over Jackson, after going five innings. The Drillers won on a four-run third inning. In the nightcap, Lafayette hitters outdid Jackson 9-3. The Drillers got all four runs in the first inning, including two driven in by D'Innocenzo.

Shreveport won the contest with San Antonio on two wild pitches, and on a single by Frank Grundler. Ray Price, now 4-1, was credited with the victory. San Antonio's only score came on a double by Steve Remetta.

Alexandria got 13 hits off Arkansas pitcher Angel Torres to win that game. The Aces' effort included doubles by Mike Champion and Gene Delyon and a solo home run by Lynn Hamilton. Winner Jay Franklin retired 17 straight Arkansas batters before he was relieved by Mike Dupree in the ninth.

The teams finish regular season play tonight with Midland again at El Paso.

RUIDOSO DOWNS

All-American Futurity Set

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (AP) — The fastest 2-year-old quarter horse in America were to dash 440 yards in pursuit of a top prize of $330,000.

The nine horses were expected to reach speeds of up to 45 miles per hour in the 17th running of the $1 million All American Futurity quarter horse race at Ruidoso Downs.

Generally, it takes between 21 and 22 seconds for the horses to scramble from the gate to the wire.

Nearly 15,000 persons were expected to attend the world's richest horse race, run at an altitude of 6,400 feet. The track, located in a one-time corn field, rests beneath the Sacramento Mountains in south central New Mexico.

The crowd was to be joined by an estimated coast-to-coast television audience of 30 million persons. The independent All American Network of Topeka, Kan., was to televise the race to 182 stations, one being KOSA, channel 7 at 5:45 p.m. CDT.

Five colts, three fillies and a gelding — survivors of qualifying time trials — sought quarter horse racing's most prestigious plum.

original field of 194 horses. Chick's Deck, was scratched Sunday. The colt, second best 2-year-old money winner this year, suffered a fractured knee in winning its trial heat. Track officials said it was the first time a horse has been scratched from the All American.

Bug's Alive in 75, top money winner with $182,106 in earnings, was the early morning line favorite at 5-2.

Rocket's Magic ran the fastest qualifying time in :21.81 seconds.

The track record for the 440-yard distance is :21.02. It was set by Truckle Feature on Aug. 26, 1973.

Except for the Aug. 22 trials, Rocket's Magic hadn't raced at Ruidoso Downs. The New Iberia, La., colt was unbeaten in five starts on Louisiana and Florida tracks.

Another unbeaten qualifier was He Flies, owned by three Ogden, Utah, men. It won its qualifying trial by 3¼ lengths in :22.20.

He Flies, a gelding, was trained for the All American by Walter Merrick of Sayre, Okla.

Merrick was the owner of Easy Date, which won last year's All American and Easy Jet, the 1969 winner. Easy Date has won more money ($813,605) than any other horse in the history of quarter horse racing. Easy Jet is the fifth biggest all time quarter horse earner.

Easy Date's rider, Don Knight, was to be aboard He Flies.

Randy Romero, 18, was to handle Rocket's Magic. He has been racing for 11 years.

Bugs Alive in 75 was to be ridden by jockey Jerry Burgess, a veteran of All American competition.

Two other hopefuls also entered the race with season winnings of more than $100,000. They are Chick Called Sue and Mr. Breakthru.

Others in the field were Go Fantacia, Billy Bayou, Bobby's Angel and Watch a Native.

Prize money, in addition to the $330,000 top prize, was to be divided according to finish with second place receiving $138,000; third, $64,000; fourth, $45,000; fifth, $36,000; sixth, $34,000; seventh, $32,000; eighth, $31,000; and ninth, $29,000.

Although Chick's Deck didn't run, it still received the 10th place purse of $27,000.

Brewers Drub Rangers, 4-1

Getting beaten by a Reggie Jackson home run is one thing. But a bases-loaded grounder that ricochets off first base for a double? Or one that dribbles through the middle for a two-run single? Those were Jackson's big blasts Sunday as he drove in five runs to lead the Oakland A's past the Boston Red Sox 8-6 in a battle of American League division leaders.

"I had a lucky day — what else can I say?" offered the A's slugger with a shrug.

"He's a heck of a hitter and he's going to hurt you sometimes," conceded Boston Manager Darrell Johnson. "But his double hit first base just as Carl Yastrzemski was going to field the ball, and his single needed eyes going through the middle."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Kansas City Royals blanked the New York Yankees 7-0 and the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Texas Rangers 4-1. Minnesota at Cleveland, California at Detroit and Chicago at Baltimore were all rained out.

The Oakland-Boston game lasted three hours, 49 minutes, the longest nine-inning game in the AL this season. The victory kept Oakland 7½ games ahead of Kansas City in the West Division, while Boston's lead over Baltimore in the East was sliced to six games.

In the difference was relief pitching: Oakland ace Rollie Fingers stopped the Red Sox, but A's reliever Diego Segui was unable to check the A's. With the score tied 6-6 in the ninth inning, Segui walked the bases loaded before Jackson came up with his game-winning single through the middle.

"We won today because of Fingers," said Jackson, who got his two-run double in the third inning and also had an RBI single in the fifth. "If we can keep it close, Rollie will win it."

Royals 7, Yanks 0

Paul Splittorff blanked New York on five hits and Hal McRae drove in three runs with a double and single for the Royals. McRae doubled home two runs in the third inning and singled home one in the fifth as Kansas City kept pace with Oakland.

Brewers 4, Rangers 1

Pete Broberg stopped

Texas on three hits and Robin Yount and Darrell Porter cracked two-run homers for the Brewers. Rookie Dave Moates had two of the Rangers' hits off Broberg, 11-13, who struck out three and walked six. Gaylor Perry tossed a four-hitter for Texas.

Sports In Brief

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Falcons' Coach Marion Campbell says Walker Manning or Chuck Ross may replace injured defensive end Claude Humphrey.

The National Football League team announced Sunday that the 6-foot-5 Humphrey will be out for the season following emergency surgery to repair a torn ligament in his left knee. He was injured in an exhibition game with the New York Jets Saturday night.

"His greatness will be missed," said Campbell.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The Iranian National Olympic Committee announced this country's bid today to stage the 23rd Olympic Games in Tehran in 1984.

Iran's candidature was submitted to Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, in letters from the Shah's brother, Prince Gholamreza.

Tovar Bound For Oakland

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Cesar Tovar, a 10-year major league veteran used mainly as a designated hitter this year by the Texas Rangers, has been traded to the Oakland Athletics.

The Rangers said Sunday that Oakland would give Texas a player to be named later.

Tovar, 35, played all outfield positions and every infield position but first base for the Rangers in 1974. This year, in his role as primarily a designated hitter, he was batting .258 with three homers and 28 RBIs.

Secret Success Found By Baird

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Butch Baird says he's found the secret to his success so far in the B.C. Open golf tournament, but "I'm not telling what it is."

Secret or not, Baird is the leader today as he was Saturday, playing the 6,815-yard En-Joe Golf Club course in an even-par-71 Sunday for a nine-under-par 204 for 54 holes.

He was two shots ahead of Don Iverson, who also carded a 71, and three in front of Jim Colbert, 69, David Graham, 71, and Mike McCullough, 72.

In all, 33 players in the field of 70 finished their third rounds under par while six were at par.

Baird, 39, a 16-year-old veteran, never had the early lead in a tournament until Saturday. He has won only one, the 1961 Waco Open, with a fourth-round charge.

He's in 108th place on this year's money-winning list with $14,134 and has his eyes on the top prize of $35,000 in the $175,000 event.

"There's a hole in my wallet if the check is there, but there's still 18 holes to play," he said.

Then, getting serious, Baird said "everything is falling into place. It's easy playing this way."

He missed only one green, the 435-yard, par-four 13th, which he bogeyed when his 12-foot putt wouldn't go in. He birdied the 565-yard, par-five fifth with a nine-foot putt.

The wind, the first in three days of play and stiff at times, gave many of the golfers trouble. Among them was defending champion Richie Karl, the host pro, who faltered to a 76 and 215 after rounds of 67 and 72.

Hubert Green, the 1973

WFL ROUNDUP

Reed Rambles For Vulcans

By the Associated Press.

Quarterback Matthew Reed, the big second-year pro from Grambling, appears to be all the Birmingham Vulcans needed to get back on the winning track.

Reed, out for two weeks with a hip pointer while the Vulcans were losing two straight, ran for one touchdown, set up another with a 28-yard pass and threw an action point in the Vulcans' 21-8 World Football League victory Saturday over the Shreveport Steamers, 23-7.

He completed 12 of 28 passes for 213 yards without an interception before an announced crowd of 18,700 at Birmingham.

"It was great to come back and win after losing two in a row," said Coach Marvin Bass of the Vulcans, 3-2, WFL champions last year as the Americans. "I think

Amateur Champion

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Fred Ridley, who has said repeatedly he doesn't want to play pro golf, didn't sound quite so adamant after winning the 75th United States Amateur title.

"No way," the 23-year-old Stetson University law student said Saturday when he was asked about becoming a pro. "I'm going to be a lawyer, and I think I can make more money practicing law."

Given a chance for rebuttal, after holding off a late rally from Keith Fergus to win the 36-hole finals of the Amateur's+.

Pressed further, the resident of Winter Haven, Fla., added: "I don't think you can make a rash statement after one tournament. I've pretty much made up my mind, but future events could change it."

In winning the U.S. title, a match play affair with 200 entries, Ridley included All-Americans Curtis Strange of Wake Forest and Andy Bean of Florida among his eight victims.

After sinking only four birdies in his first seven rounds, Ridley was rated the underdog against Fergus, the 21-year-old All-American from the University of Houston who had been the most consistent golfer all week.

But Ridley rolled in eight birdies on Sunday, six during his one-under-par 69 morning round on the testing Country Club of Virginia's James River Course. His three-under 32 on the back nine, best of the tourney, led to a five-up lead at intermission.

Leading 1-up, Ridley managed to wrap up the title with bogeys on the final two holes while Fergus finished bogeydouble bogey.

If Ridley doesn't turn pro, he'd be only the fourth champion since Jack Nicklaus, who won the first of his two titles in 1959, who didn't join the tour. The others were Bill Campbell, 1964, and Vinny Giles, 1972, both second-round losers this year, and Canadian Gary Cowan, who won in 1966 and 1971.

Astros Succumb To Pirates, 9-6

By the Associated Press.

Wouldn't it be ironic if Bill Virdon, wearing a Houston uniform, returned to knock the Pittsburgh Pirates out of a division title?

Virdon and the Astros tried their best over the weekend. They beat the Pirates Saturday and took a 3-0 lead in the first inning of Sunday's scheduled doubleheader.

opener before succumbing 9-6.

"We scored six runs and had 11 hits and that should be enough to win most games," said Virdon, who managed the hard-hitting Pirates in 1972 and most of 1973 and therefore wasn't surprised when they replied with nine runs and 14 hits, including a homer by Bob Robertson, a double and triple by Dave Parker and doubles by Richie Zisk, Manny Sanguillen and Al Oliver.

The nightcap was washed out in the third inning with Houston batting and the score tied 2-2. It will be made up following the end of the regular season only if it affect the National League's East Division race, which shows the Pirates four games ahead of both the Philadelphia Phillies and St. Louis Cardinals and five up on the New York Mets.

In other NL action, the San Francisco Giants edged the Phillies 5-4, the Cardinals beat the Cincinnati Reds 5-3, the Los Angeles Dodgers tripped the Mets 5-2, the Chicago Cubs nipped Atlanta 9-8 in 10 innings after the Braves took the opener 3-1 and the San Diego Padres blanked the Montreal Expos 6-0. After Houston jumped to a 3-0 lead, the Pirates retaliated with four in the bottom of the first, two on a single by Parker, who later drove in another run with his triple. Jose Cruz homered in the third and the Astros tied it 5-5 in the fourth, but Pittsburgh took the lead for good with a run in the bottom of the fourth on a single by Frank Taveras, a sacrifice infield out and Jose Sosa's wild pitch.

CFC Campaign Due To Begin Tuesday

The Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) kicks off six weeks of fund raising Tuesday with a goal of $34,500 for the local area.

The CFC here is an annual on-the-job fund raising drive whose donations go to support the United Way of Big Spring plus various National Health and International Service Agencies.

A majority, 71.7 per cent, of the money raised in this year's campaign will go to the United Way of Big Spring. National Health Agencies will receive 23.2 per cent while International Health Agencies will get 5.1 per cent. Individuals can designate the recipient of their individual donation.

Webb Air Force Base is expected to play a major role in the campaign since it employs 2,151 military and 694 Civil Service personnel.

Key men and team chiefs for the Webb drive met Thursday to finalize plans for contacting their fellow workers.

"We have always exceeded our goal here," says Major Don W. Box, this year's base project officer for the campaign. "And we want to maintain that record."

A Fair Share Giving Guide has been adopted by Federal Agency heads who urge all Federal employees to "do their utmost to attain 100 per cent participation at the Fair Share level." The giving guide is based on annual base pay and suggests what the fair share would be for those at various income levels. The decision to give and the amount is up to each individual.

Donations can be made in a direct payment or through payroll deductions. The deductions would begin on the first pay period in January 1976.

Col. Robert Owens, 78th Flying Training Wing Commander and Big Spring area CFC chairman encouraged base support by saying, "Rarely does a base enjoy the good fortune of having the outstanding relationship with its neighboring community that we have at Webb. In the past, the citizens of Big Spring have pitched in and supported every major project that Webb has produced. We owe them a debt of gratitude for that support. Now it is time to partially repay this debt through the Combined Federal Campaign.

Actors Miffed By Montanans

BUTTE, Mont. (AP)—Movie actor Cornel Wilde and entertainer Gary Crosby reportedly left in a huff Saturday from the Evil Knievel Labor Day Classic golf tournament.

The two were to have taken tennis star Bobby Riggs' place in Sunday's round while Riggs traveled to Great Falls for a match at the Jonathon Winters Wild West Celebrity Tennis Tournament, officials said.

Wilde and Crosby told an informant they were going back to Great Falls where they were appreciated. Cause of the huff was not revealed.

Oklahoma Plane Crash Is Fatal To Five Texans

DAVIS, Okla. (AP)—A single-engine airplane apparently lost power and crashed near this southern Oklahoma town Sunday night, killing five persons believed to be from Texas.

Authorities said a Richardson, Tex., man who was piloting the plane, a woman and three children were killed when the plane crashed on the Drake ranch west of here. One youngster survived and was transferred to an Oklahoma City hospital.

The names of the victims were withheld by authorities until their relatives were notified.

The Murray County sheriff's office sealed off the area for the night and investigators from the Federal Aviation Administration were expected here today.

Ardmore Municipal Airport reported to the Highway Patrol at 8:01 p.m. Sunday that the plane had radioed it was having a power failure north of the Arbuckle Mountains.

The patrol said the plane then lost contact with the tower.

No One Injured In Derailment

WEATHERFORD, Okla. (AP)—No one was injured Sunday when the caboose and three cars of a Rock Island Lines freight train derailed here, tearing up about five blocks of track, officials said.

A small leak developed in one of the cars which contained carbon black but it was plugged in a short time, officials said.

Railroad officials said other train traffic would bypass the derailment site.

Borger Youth Is Drowned

LOEDEY, Okla. (AP)—Larry Golden, 28, Borger, Tex., drowned Saturday while fishing in a pond here, authorities said.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol said Golden was fishing in a tube in about 12 feet of water when he suffered a seizure and fell out of the tube backwards into the water.

His father tried to rescue him but failed. The body was recovered.

Indian Museum Popular With Boys In Germany

RADEBEUL, East Germany (AP) — The little blond boy was asked why he liked American Indians so well. "They have feathers," he replied. "They are very brave," another boy said. "And they ride horses when they are on the war-path," added a third. The comments were made at the "Indian Museum" in this small town near Dresden where, since 1928, what is considered Europe's largest collection of North American Indian artifacts has been on display.

The exhibition is housed in a log cabin style building with an adjacent campsite called "bear fat." Since its founding, the museum has been dedicated to introducing its visitors to the lifestyle of the North American Indian tribes and has undergone a series of expansions.

Portraits of such chiefs as Tecumseh, Pontiac and Geronimo hang opposite a painting of the battle of the Little Big Horn where George Custer and his 7th U.S. Cavalry were wiped out in 1876 by Sitting Bull and his Sioux.

Germans traditionally have been pro-Indian and to this day little boys in both East and West Germany want to be Indians and not cowboys when they play "Wild West."

This is largely due to a prodigious story teller named Karl May who looked a lot like Mark Twain. The Indian museum is on May's old villa property where he wrote most of his 75 books, fully half of them concerned with adventures among the Indians of America.

May himself died in 1912. His wife Klara established the museum in his memory. She used primarily artifacts May brought back from trips to the United States and many more collected by a family friend, Patty Frank, who toured America for years as a circus artist. May had written most of his Indian books even before visiting the United States, using library research and his own imagination for his view of how things were out on the prairie, in the forests and mountains when the red man was at his prime.

May's Apache heroic chief, Winitou, and the character of "Old Shatterhand," a straight shooting, fair-minded white hunter, are still familiar to most generations of Germans today.

The Communist takeover of what became East Germany brought an ideological emphasis on white brutality against the Indians with May's books banned from sale because of alleged white chauvinism.

They are still traded privately, however, and in West Germany are sold in the hundreds of thousands.

IRS Refunds Unclaimed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service regional headquarters says approximately 10,300 South Texas taxpayers have refund or rebate checks—and in some cases both—waiting for them at the IRS office here.

The checks were returned or undelivered, most often because the taxpayer had moved and left no forwarding address, said Robert McKeever, district IRS director.

Refund checks for southern Texas taxpayers averaged $323 this year, he said, with rebates running about $123.

McKeever said anyone who thinks he is entitled to a refund or rebate check should contact the IRS before Oct. 1.

Efficient Use Needed Of Crop Fertilizers

KNOXVILLE — The increasing cost of nitrogen fertilizers and the decreasing availability and increasing cost of irrigation water necessitate the most efficient use of these resources with the intent of maximizing yields, Texas Tech University agronomist Dan R. Krieg said Friday.

He reported on research findings to some 3,000 crop scientists meeting here today. The soil scientists are members of the American Society of Agronomy, Crop Science Society of America and the Soil Science Society of America attending the 67th annual meeting on Agronomic Research for Food.

An experiment was conducted under the direction of the Texas Tech professor of agronomy to determine nitrogen and water use efficiency of several different sorghum types. "Four grain sorghum hybrids differing in seed color and endosperm texture were evaluated as to their response to nitrogen fertility and water stress. The nitrogen treatments included three rates applied twice in a factorial design," Krieg said. "Water stress was imposed during the late boot and bloom stages of development. Irrigation water was supplied based on daily leaf water potentials."

"Plant response was evaluated at six different stages of development. Yield responses were evaluated as a function of all yield components."

Generally, increasing rates of total nitrogen increased maximum leaf area expression and resulted in greater retention of leaves during the grain filling period, he said. Seed number increased in proportion to leaf area as a function of nitrogen treatment. Water stress resulted in reduced seed number primarily due to reduced head exertion.

The agronomist said, however, seed weight was inversely related to seed number.

Serving as officers will be Nancy Wood, president; Timmy Sharp, vice-president; Tami Shafer, secretary-treasurer; Karen Shirley, reporter; Kim Read and Debbie Fryrear, co-historians; and Trena Bayes, parliamentarian. Mrs. Marie Ethridge is the chapter advisor.

Dues have been set at $4 and should be given to Tami Shafer of Mrs. Ethridge on or before October 1.

The emblem of the chapter will have the official insignia of the OEA of Texas pin and the colors of the chapter will be green and gold. This chapter is an organization of senior vocational students enrolled in the Vocational Office Education program.

AFA Meeting Is Nearing

The Air Force Association's (AFA) twenty-ninth national convention will be held at the Sheraton-Park Hotel, Washington, D. C. Sept. 14-18.

Running concurrently with the convention, Sept. 16-18, will be the nation's largest and most comprehensive exhibit of aerospace technology. Senior military and government officials will get a look at the latest in aerospace technology, from avionics to advanced aircraft and satellite design. The association's aerospace development briefings and displays will feature more than fifty exhibits of the leading United States and foreign aerospace industries.

Convention activities will begin with the AFA opening and awards ceremonies Sept. 15. Other major events will include luncheons in honor of the Secretary of Chief of Staff of the Air Force, an annual anniversary reception in the exhibit hall, a reception and anniversary dinner-dance, and business meetings.

The dinner-dance program will highlight the American Revolution Bicentennial theme, with dancing to music by Steve Lesieur and the Air Force's "Airmen of Note" dance band. A portion of the program will be devoted to the presentation of the Air Force Association's highest recognition — the H. H. Arnold Award.

Some Of Laboring Class Striking On Labor Day

By the Associated Press
Labor Day 1975 began with a strike by the flight attendants of National Airlines as stewardesses of the "Fly Me" airline hoisted "Don't Fly Me" signs.

In the coalfields of Appalachia and the hills north of the Ohio River, some of the local leaders of the United Mine Workers tried to persuade their men to end a three-week-old wildcat strike which has idled two-thirds of the nation's 125,000 soft coal miners. There was some cautious optimism — but no solid indications — that the men might return to work Tuesday.

President Ford came in for harsh criticism from leaders of five major unions over the weekend, while the President's Labor Secretary defended the administration's economic policies.

Ford, at his Camp David retreat in Maryland's foggy Catoctin Mountains, praised the working man in his Labor Day message for the "willingness to sacrifice and eagerness to support responsible economic policies."

The National Airlines strike began at one minute after midnight; contract talks between the airline and the Association of Flight Attendants had broken down 2 hours earlier.

The nation's eighth-largest airline, which normally carries about 18,000 passengers a day, suspended all flights.

In a joint appearance Sunday on NBC "Meet the Press," union leaders attacked the Ford administration's economic policy.

United Auto Workers' chief Leonard Woodcock called it "Herbert Hoover revived."

L.W. Abel of the United Steel Workers said the administration's actions so far have added up to "absolutely zero."

Woodcock and Abel were joined in their criticism by Jerry Wurd of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Robert A. Georgine of the Building and Construction Trades Department, AFL-CIO, and John Ryor of the National Education Association.

Meanwhile, Labor Secretary John T. Dunlop predicted on ABC's "Issues and Answers" that the unemployment level will gradually decline for the rest of 1975 and into 1976. However, he said prices will continue to rise, although not as fast as they had been rising in recent months.

In Detroit, a citizens' group called for a Labor Day moratorium on crime.

Deploing the city's high crime rate, 200 persons marched down Woodward Avenue, Detroit's main thoroughfare, Sunday.

The TLC was created to investigate the functions and problems of various state agencies and offices, make studies for the legislative branch, and make recommendations to the Legislature.

Area Senators On Council

AUSTIN — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby has announced his appointments to the Legislative Budget Board and the Texas Legislative Council.

In addition, the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, Senator A. M. Aikin, Jr. of Paris, and the chairman of the Senate State Affairs Committee, William T. (Bill) Moore of Bryan, also serve on the LBB.

The Legislative Budget Board, of which Hobby is chairman, was created to study the state's financial needs prior to consideration by the Legislature each session.

Hobby appointed five senators to the Texas Legislative Council. They are: Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls; Kent Hance of Lubbock; Grant Jones of Abilene; Bill Meier of Euless; John Traeger of Sequin.

Rev. J. W. Farmer will officiate, assisted by Rev. Darrel Roberts. Burial will be in the Ackerly Cemetery, under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

He was born Aug. 29 and died at 10:40 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 31.

Survivors include his parents, one brother, Ricky Dean Webb, of the home; a sister, Sherry Janee Webb, of the home; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. John (Mary) Webb, Ackerly; and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Froman, Big Spring.

Retiree To Stay

S. Msgr. Joseph P. Shafer Jr., received the Meritorious Service Medal at his retirement ceremony last week in the Wing Headquarters Conference room at Webb AFB. Making the presentation was Col. Robert A. Owens, wing commander, who thanked him for his years of outstanding service to the Air Force.

Sgt. Shafer was the assistant chief of Central Base Administration. His additional duties included first sergeant, resource advisor and filling in for Senior Airman Advisor. His "knowledge of regulations, administrative practices and managerial ability allowed him to perform his primary job and additional duties in an outstanding manner," his citation read.

Hang Glider Crashes, Minnesota Man Dies

HENDERSONVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Frederick W. Tiemons III, 32, Burnsville, Minn., was killed Sunday when his airborne hang glider broke apart and crashed into Old Hickory Lake, police said.

Police Chief Walter G. Toon, who said he witnessed the accident, said, "He must have died instantly. The wind was dead at the time and he had been making a circle when suddenly the kite broke and the whole thing began to spin, like a plane, down into the water."

Tiemons was participating in the hang glider competition of the Kite Flying Nationals being held at the lake over the Labor Day weekend.

He was the second person to die while hang gliding at the lake during the past week. Lee Peck, 24, Nashville, was killed Monday when his glider harness apparently broke and the glider collapsed. Peck was not participating in the competition.

Ten finalists were selected Sunday for the final day of the Tow Kite Flying contest to held today.

A first prize of $2,000 was to be awarded the winner with another $2,000 distributed to the other nine finalists.

The event was sponsored by the local chamber of commerce.

Remarriage Out, Secretary Says

GSTAAD, Switzerland (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton are back in Switzerland from a trip together to Israel amid reports that they might remarry.

The Zurich newspaper Blick said Burton and Miss Taylor, who are enjoying a "permanent reconciliation" after 14 months of divorce, will wed again in nearby Saaren. Miss Taylor's secretary denied marriage was in the couple's plans.

Burton and Miss Taylor were in Israel looking at locations for Burton's next film. Miss Taylor, who converted to Judaism, said she hoped to return to Israel "many more times."

Twice Squeezed 'Lemon' Leaves

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Charles A. Lockwood said the leftist guerrillas who held him captive for 58 days two years ago told him "they never squeeze the same lemon twice."

"Argentina is my home, and I have no intention of leaving," said the British-born financier after a $2.5 million ransom secured his release then.

But leftist guerrillas kidnaped Lockwood again a month ago. And after the police killed four of his captors Sunday and rescued him, a servant at his home said he left the country with his wife and two daughters.

The family's destination was not disclosed, and it was not known if they would return.

Lockwood, 67, came to Argentina before World War II and made a fortune in financial deals. He is an executive of Financiara Roberts, one of the country's most prestigious financial institutions, and is on the board of directors of Fabrica Argentina de Alpargatas, a textile and shoe manufacturer.

About 40 armed men ambushed Lockwood on July 31 as he was being driven to his office with his two daughters and his two bodyguards. The kidnapers wounded the chauffeur and the bodyguards.

No ransom demand was ever made public, and there was no word whether any money was paid.

The police said they found Lockwood in a brick home in the suburban Pilar area near the Campo de Mayo army base. They did not say how they learned about the hideout, but they said there was a gunfight in which four guerrillas guarding Lockwood were killed and a
