

Ford Challenged Over $28 Billion Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief tax law architect in the House challenged President Ford today to say where he wants $28 billion cut from government spending in exchange for his proposed $28 billion tax cut, saying it is "preposterous" to expect Congress to act otherwise.

Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., of the Ways and Means Committee delivered the message to Treasury Secretary William E. Simon as Congress went to work on tax reduction legislation, including the $28 billion proposal which Ford called "the biggest single tax cut in our history."

However, Simon, in a quickly arranged appearance before the committee, insisted that Congress pledge itself to a $395 billion ceiling on spending, thus promising the spending cut, and leave details to be worked out in discussions with the administration.

The $28 billion total for 1976, which includes tax cuts totaling $22.9 billion already in effect, does not contain any provision for rebates. But individual taxpayers would get about $2.6 billion more in tax reductions in 1976 than in 1975.

Tables provided by the White House show that, if Ford's individual tax reductions are enacted, a family of four with income of $15,000 would be able to reduce its taxes by $287 more in 1976 than it can this year.

If the President's proposal is approved, the effect would show in tax withholding from paychecks beginning Jan. 1, 1976, and on tax returns due April 15, 1977.

As the House Ways and Means Committee took up various tax-cut proposals, there were some Democratic doubts that the legislative branch can meet Ford's request for a $28-billion reduction in government spending to match his proposed tax cut.

But the President told Republican congressional leaders at a White House meeting he will veto 100 bills if he has to to cut government spending in exchange for the tax cut.

The Republican leaders listed future anticipated increases in medicare, medicaid, food stamps and categorical grants in aid as possible areas for reduction in spending growth.

Ford used the word "fight" repeatedly and declared that he believes his tax cut-spending cut plan will succeed because the public wants a tax cut.

Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., told reporters after the White House meeting: "The President said if he has to veto 100 bills to hold down spending he'll do it."

"We obviously have a problem with a Democratic Congress," Michel added. "We have to do the best we can. With one-third plus one, we're making a point. Then let the people decide."

The "one-third plus one" refers to the number of votes Republicans must muster to sustain Ford's vetoes.

The Ways and Means Committee, where all tax legislation originates, also considered proposals for individual cuts in the $8 billion to $12 billion range for individuals, compared to the $20.7-billion Ford proposed in his nationally broadcast speech Monday night. Ford also proposed $7 billion in business tax reductions.

BANK SIEGE SUSPECT — In the grasp of an unidentified policeman at left, a man identified as Ray "Cat" Olson smiles before his booking at Manhattan's Fifth Precinct early today. He is being held in the takeover of a New York bank and the holding of hostages for some eight hours Monday.

Bank Siege Ends, Hearst 'Fan' Nabbed

NEW YORK (AP) — An eight-hour siege of a Greenwich Village bank ended with the safe release of 10 hostages and the capture of a belligerent, rambling young gunman who said he was "sympathetic" to the Symbionese Liberation Army and a "fan" of Patricia Hearst.

Ray "Cat" Olson of Merrick, N.Y., had fired one wild shot inside the bank where he held customers and employees hostage and alternately demanded $10 million in gold, a getaway airplane and the release of Miss Hearst and three radical companions from California prisons.

"Everyone's out, everyone's all right," Deputy Police Commissioner Frank McLoughlin said Monday night moments after Olson was distracted by a police negotiator and grabbed from the rear by other policemen who had sneaked into the bank.

The last three of the 10 hostages — six employees and four customers — were freed after Olson's capture. Others were released at intervals during the tense siege of the Bankers Trust Co. branch that had given lower Sixth Avenue the look of an armed camp.

Armed with a pistol and a shotgun, Olson at first claimed affiliation with the SLA, the small terrorist band which kidnaped and claimed to have converted Miss Hearst. Later, he said the idea just "popped in my head."

Police were summoned to the bank about 3 p.m. by a silent alarm or by a woman's report to a delicatessen employee next door that a robbery was underway. Their arrival cut off Olson's avenue of escape.

Three hostages who were released about 5 p.m. told police that Olson was alone. And as the minutes and hours dragged on, Lt. Frank Bolz, head of the negotiating team, coaxed and wore down Olson, who had kept his guns trained on the doorway of the bank.

After Bolz gave Olson some food and beer, some of the hostages were freed — and Olson began to get weary.

At one sleepy moment after drinking some of the beer, the guns slipped from Olson's hands. The remaining hostages then grabbed the weapons and police poised at a rear staircase seized Olson.

Other action included: Awarding the contract for two dump trucks to Bob Brock Ford, said to be the lowest bidder meeting specifications at a total of $27,237 without trade. Delivery is to be within 90 to 120 days. Buchanan argued that old dump beds could be utilized, and bids on new dump beds were tabled.

Also voting to purchase a vehicle for the sheriff's office from Bob Brock, Brock bid $4,662, but Jimmy Hopper Toyota offered a Matador for $4,477.

And deciding on purchase of three typewriters but postponing action on a fourth. The court chose two typewriters from Marlin's Business Machines for $509 and $497 with trades. And the court accepted IBM's bid of $638 without trade for typewriter which permits quick correction. IBM was the only firm which could meet this specification.

Commissioner William B. Crocker Jr. said he believed that had been the arrangement last spring, three weeks each for three precincts, for for Buchanan's.

Rupard argued that his precincts had more turn-offs than Buchanan's. Commissioners Simon (Cy) Terrazas and Buchanan had two maintainers each performing maintenance, Rupard said, while he and Crocker have only one each in their precincts.

Some counties have separate road departments for each commissioner's precinct. But Howard County operates one central road department coordinated by County Engineer Neel Barnaby.

In earlier discussions, County Judge Bill Tune told the court both a Federal Aviation Administration official and County Attorney W. H. (Bill) Eysen Jr. considered a written proposal from Trans Regional Airlines too brief.

Trans Regional submitted a two-page proposal seeking designation as the second fixed-base operator at Howard County Airport. Big Spring Aircraft Inc. already has a lease as one fixed-base operator.

Father Of Kidnaped Girl Hijacks Plane

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — A Filipino grieving over the kidnaping of his 4-year-old daughter hijacked a jetliner today and demanded to be flown to Libya, but gave up at Manila airport without firing a shot, authorities said.

All of the passengers and airline employees were reported safe after the nine-hour ordeal aboard the Philippines Airlines jet.

The man, identified as Camilo Morales, about 25, surrendered after the government "guaranteed to help the hijacker in solving his problem," according to the constabulary commander, Maj. Gen. Fidel V. Ramos.

Authorities said Morales' daughter was kidnaped a few days ago in Davao, the Philippines' second largest city, 600 miles south of Manila. Ramos said the abduction had made Morales "mentally unstable."

Police said the hijacker — armed with a .45-caliber pistol, a grenade and 160 rounds of ammunition — seized the British-built BAC-1-11 in the final minutes of a flight from Davao to Manila by claiming he had hidden a bomb aboard.

It was not immediately clear why Morales, a Christian, wanted to go to Libya, a Moslem country which has been accused by the Philippines of aiding Moslem rebels in the Mindanao region around Davao. Morales had also told authorities during the hijack that he was angry over the alleged arrest of a son, but there was no further explanation of that.

The plane carried 66 passengers and five crew members when it was hijacked, about five minutes before landing in Manila. During negotiations on the ground, 41 passengers were released in exchange for four airline employees who went aboard. They included Rafael Igoa, the executive vice president, and Capt. Cesar Alegarbo, the chief pilot, who prepared to fly to Libya.

Authorities refueled the plane and installed a special radio to make it conform to rules for overseas flight.

The plane then rolled out onto the runway as if ready to take off but returned to the tarmac. A Philippine Airlines official said the plane would not depart, and the hijacker was seized and whisked away in a police vehicle. All remaining passengers and airline employees aboard the plane were unharmed.

Two of those freed earlier were Charles and Ann Leland, a retired couple from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., who were vacationing in Davao. Mrs. Leland said the hijacker "kissed me goodbye on the forehead when we left the aircraft and said, 'have a nice time.'" She said the hijacker was "calm, good looking and courteous."

The hijacker told police over the plane's radio that his son had been arrested on unsubstantiated charges earlier this month and that his boy was innocent of any wrongdoing. He did not say how old his son was or give any other details.

In response to a plea from The Philippines police chief to release family groups, he said, "I shall determine who will be released. They all have one life just as I do. I shall be the one to choose who shall be freed and not you."

State Senate Closes Doors In Carrillo Impeachment

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Senate voted 15-13 to postpone the impeachment trial of District Court Judge O.P. Carrillo until Nov. 17 after completing testimony today.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Senate closed its doors in the impeachment trial of District Court Judge O.P. Carrillo late this morning on a motion by Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, who failed Monday to win a postponement of the trial.

"He may have the votes now," Sen. O.H. Harris, R-Dallas, told reporters. Schwartz' motion to push the trial back to Dec. 1 failed on a 12-14 vote Monday.

Benavides Cash Store testified earlier she knew Carrillo bought groceries with county funds "because he came by to pick them up."

Mrs. Lauro Yzaguirre testified that Carrillo's brother, Duval County Commissioner Ramiro Carrillo, told her the judge had a $300-a-month county welfare budget for groceries at the store.

"Whether it is a civil or criminal proceeding, a quasicivil or a quasicriminal proceeding, or sui generis (legalesse for unique), this man has a right to know what he is being charged with," Mitchell said.

For example, if the House accuses him of conspiracy, then Carrillo is entitled to be informed when the conspiracy allegedly was made and with whom, Mitchell said.

Doyle pleaded with the Senate to reject Mitchell's request for a "bill of particulars" spelling out the charges in greater detail. He and the House managers of the case lacked authority to change the charges, he said, and approving Mitchell's request would kill the trial.

"The sufficiency of it (any of the House's 10 charges) is as sufficient as you want it to be," Doyle said. "People can be impeached for whatever grounds the trying body deems is sufficient. . . You are the sole judge of what is impeachable conduct and what is not impeachable conduct."

DURING IMPEACHMENT TRIAL — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby presides, assisted by former Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, and listens to witness Mrs. Lauro Yzaguirre as the second day of proceedings in the impeachment trial of Dist. Judge O. P. Carrillo began in Austin today.

PROPOSED TAX CUT EFFECT — Chart shows how much a wage earner would save if the tax cuts proposed by President Ford Monday night are adopted by Congress. The cuts, amounting to $28 billion would be put into effect only if Congress agrees to cut federal spending an equal amount.

The World At-A-Glance

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Radical soldiers of a rebellious artillery unit rejected President Francisco de Costa Gomes' call for military discipline and declared they will use their guns to protect Portugal's "oppressed classes." Soldiers of the 1st Light Artillery Regiment (RALLIS), stationed on the outskirts of the capital, were cheered by a Communist-led crowd of several thousand when a soldier climbed on a guardhouse rooftop Monday and shouted: "We have voted to be always on the side of the people. We are ready to use our arms to protect the oppressed classes."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is flying to Knoxville, Tenn., today to meet with Appalachian governors and address a domestic policy conference.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, under pressure to act quickly on the question placing American monitors in the Sinai, may vote after hearing public testimony from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Kissinger's appearance before the committee today was to be followed by testimony from former Sen. J. William Fulbright, one-time chairman of the panel. The committee then may vote late today.

Howard, Martin Cotton Prospects Improving

A month can make a big difference in crop estimates. Adverse weather conditions in September reduced the Texas High Plains cotton estimate by 217,400 bales but the elements had the opposite effect on the outlook in Howard and Martin counties.

Whereas, Howard County farms were expected to produce 70,000 bales as late as Sept. 1, the county's estimate grew to 80,000 bales in 30 days. The crop is due to come from 84,000 acres.

Martin's prospects were enhanced, too. The outlook was up to 112,000 bales Oct. 1, or 12,000 more than farmers had dared hope for Sept. 1. Borden's prospects dimmed somewhat, from 20,000 to 18,000 bales. Dawson County 'lost' 30,000 bales during the 30-day period. The estimate there is down from 200,000 to 170,000 bales. Lubbock County's prospects diminished even more — from 225,000 to 180,000 bales. In the 25-county area, the crop estimate dropped from 1,950,000 bales to 1,712,000 bales. The estimates were made by the Lubbock Cotton Exchange and the Plains Cotton Growers Inc., (PCG).

Document Defended

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert of the Texas Supreme Court said today the case of an accused man in Houston illustrates the need for the judiciary article in the proposed new Texas Constitution.

Calvert said the man has yet to be tried on charges filed in 1969 and is accused of committing arson, forgery, burglary and theft while free on bond awaiting trial.

Calvert is chairman of Citizens for the Texas Constitution, a group working for passage of the new charter at the Nov. 4 election. He quoted an assistant district attorney as saying the man's case had not come to trial because of the backlog in district court cases.

"The new constitution, with its streamlined court structure and provisions for transferring cases to less crowded courts and temporarily assigning additional judges to backlogged courts, will start us on the road to fairer and swifter justice," Calvert said in a statement.

Car Caravan Taking Shape For Steers' Game Friday

Boosters of the Big Spring High School football team are being asked by leaders of the Quarterback Club to present a unified front Friday, when the Steers visit Midland to oppose Midland High.

A caravan will organize at the High School Gymnasium here at 6:15 p.m., under the auspices of the QBC and will have a police escort to the city limits. Buses making the trip will be included in the caravan. Quarterback Club officials are urging as many people as possible to make the trip and remind all who do go to wear colors symbolic of the school's Black and Gold.

"If you can't wear one color or the other, display them on your car," Julie Shirey, one of the Quarterback Club's co-captains, advises. "We want to identify with our boys on the field."

The QBC meets again tonight. Films of last week's Big Spring-Abilene game will be shown and a scouting report on Midland High will be given. The conclave starts at 7:30 p.m., in the High School Cafeteria.

Pledge Ignored By Regents

The hiring of Dr. Lorene Rogers as president of the University of Texas at Austin dovetails neatly with the firing last September of her predecessor. As Spurr was ousted in a swirl of controversy, so Dr. Rogers is being ushered into office amid a hail of brickbats.

The announcement of her selection for the presidency by the board of regents has apparently galvanized the campus like nothing since the close of the Vietnam war. The previously quiescent student body has come up with the euphoniously titled SHAFT — Students Helping Academic Freedom at Texas — and a faculty gathering has voted overwhelmingly to oppose the naming of Dr. Rogers.

At the heart of the controversy is the fact that the regents, in voting 5-3 for Dr. Rogers, disregarded completely the recommendation of a special 12-member student-faculty committee formed after Spurr's firing. That panel rejected her by a unanimous vote on four separate occasions, apparently finding her credentials as a biochemist and home economics authority unimpressive. Nor did it help that Dr. Rogers, who has been acting president since Spurr's removal, cut a number of merit pay raises to faculty members — some of whom had taken controversial stands on campus issues.

The proposition that university students and faculty should select university presidents is a highly dubious one — but that is not what is at issue here. Practically everyone concedes that it is the regents' prerogative to select a president. However, having given the impression that they would allow a measure of student faculty participation in the selection process, the regents calmly proceeded to ignore that commitment. The regents should not be expected to crumble each time a popular outcry against one of their actions goes up. However, having selected a president who has drawn heavy opposition from students and faculty, the regents should furnish an explanation of the reasoning behind their choice. All they have done thus far is demonstrate their genius for running roughshod over the sensibilities of the university community.

Can You Fight A Computer?

You might recall the story about the farmer who belted his recalcitrant mule in the head with a board, and when questioned about his cruelty said he was just trying to get its attention?

Well, State Comptroller Bob Bullock has gotten the attention of businesses in the state with his hoopla-surrounded sales tax raids. There has been a lot of show-biz to Bullock's Raids, with their dash-about tactics complete with full invited media coverage. It all has made Bullock better known than a state comptroller under normal circumstances might ever expect to be, and since Bullock is a man of ambition, that's not uncalculated, surely. But it has spotlighted the problem: Thousands of dollars of sales taxes collected from customers but not turned over to the state.

Now Bullock says his office will employ a computer to make things more efficient. The new system will spew out quarterly returns which are lower than they should be, and also call attention to those merchants who file no returns. Businesses thus tabbed can expect a "knock on the door within 15 days after the due date," the comptroller warns. He hopes this will eliminate long-standing delinquencies, which have been allowed to grow to 70,000 bad accounts totaling $60 million.

Over the long haul, such a procedure will mean more to the state than Bullock's well-publicized "raids". The raids have served their purpose; now it's time to shift to consistent and constant enforcement, as Bullock says he's doing.

Unusual Records

Around The Rim

Troy Bryant

THIS OFFICE is littered with mustaches. Not only do I have one, but John Edwards, new reporter James Werrell, Danny Valdes, and Dale Ferguson, Preston Patty and Frank Gonzales all have a crop of brush on the upper lip.

None of ours approaches the length of the world's longest mustache, however. According to the Guinness Book of World Records, a dude named Masuriya Din of India grew a mustache 102 inches long in 13 years from 1949 to 1962.

The book also adds that it costs him over $30 per year upkeep. I wonder how they came up with that figure.

He has liquid assets, all right. The book of world records also says that a Joe Thomas, Detroit, has a very rare blood antibody and that a U.S. biological firm paid him $1,500 per quart for his blood. That added up to a $12,000 per year income. The book added that the Internal Revenue Service regards this income as "a taxable liquid asset."

WHAT'S THE HURRY? According to the book of world records, the fastest amputation of a limb in the pre-anesthetic era was 33 seconds.

That feat was performed by Robert Liston (1794-1847) of Edinburgh, Scotland, who severed the leg of a patient at the thigh in 33 seconds. The book also reports that he also accidentally amputated three of his assistant's fingers in the process.

A man named Eustace Rushworth Burnett, born in 1880, of Hove, Leicestershire, England, claimed to have lost all desire to sleep in 1907, and that he never again went to bed. He died 58 years later at the age of 85, in January, 1965.

THE BOOK ALSO recognizes several eating records including a record of eating 225 live goldfish set by Roger Martinez, St. Mary's University, San Antonio. He completed the meal on Feb. 6, 1970.

The largest amount of cash ever found and returned was $240,000 in unmarked $10 and $20 bills found in a street in Los Angeles by Douglas William Johnston in March, 1961. He was unemployed at the time and got a lot of mail about returning the money. About 25 per cent of the letters suggested he was insane.

Meanwhile, the longest pension on record went to Miss Millicent Barclay, daughter of Col. William Barclay of Great Britain. She was born posthumously on July 10, 1872 and became eligible for the Madras Military Fund pension to continue until her marriage. She died unmarried on Oct. 26, 1969, having drawn the pension for every day of her life of 97 years and three months.

THE HIGHEST INCOME? The book says that Alphonse (Scarface) Al to you) Capone made $105,000,000 in a single year, 1927, from illegal liquor trading and alky-cookers, gambling establishments, dog tracks, dance halls, "protection" rackets and vice. His income was the highest gross income ever achieved in a single year, according to the book.

The book also said that Henry Ford at his peak only made $70,000,000 per year.

Free Country

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — I came home the other night from work, and I saw a man sitting on my stoop steaming open my mail.

"Hey, what the heck are you doing?" I demanded.

He took out his wallet and flashed a card. "I'm from the CIA. I'm just checking to see if you're getting any letters from the Iron Curtain countries."

"You're not supposed to open people's mail," I said. "That's illegal."

HE LOOKED at me and said, "Sometimes in this business you have to do illegal things to save a legal democratic form of government. We have to know who is planning to overthrow our institutions. We don't like it. But the other side is playing hardball."

"But what's that got to do with my mail? And why are you steaming open a letter from my mother-in-law?"

"How do we know it's from your mother-in-law?"

"It says so right on the envelope," I protested.

"Aha, you say it's from your mother-in-law, but we know the other side always corresponds with its agents through a mother-in-law." "But you're violating my constitutional rights," I protested.

"If it weren't for us and our vigilance you wouldn't have any constitutional rights. Just how long would this country's form of government last if we didn't violate the law in the name of national security?"

Just then a man walked up to the house carrying a ladder.

"Who the hell are you?" I said angrily.

HE TOOK out his wallet and showed it to me. "FBI," he said.

"What took you so long?" I asked him. "Listen, I want you to arrest this man for opening up my mail."

"I can't do that," he said, setting up his ladder so it would reach the second-story bedroom window.

"Why not?"

"I was sent here to break into your house and find out if you're trying to overthrow the government by force."

"Do you have a search warrant?" I asked.

"Nope, that's why I have to break into your house. Hand me that black bag with my burglar's tools in it, please."

"Who gave you the legal right to break into my house?"

"IT'S NOT exactly a legal right. You could call it a precedent. J. Edgar Hoover, may he rest in peace, decided the law was too soft on revolutionaries. So in order to preserve the justice system in this country, which the Commies and Fascists would take away from us, he authorized us to break into people's homes."

"But you're supposed to uphold the law, not break it."

He replied as he started to climb the ladder with his black bag. "We can never have law and order in this country if federal enforcement agencies have to obey all the laws. Now if you'll excuse me, I have work to do."

I turned to the CIA man who was steaming open my junk mail.

"That," I said, "I don't mind you doing."

At that moment a U. S. Army staff car drove up, and a colonel with the insignia of the medical corps got out. "Hi, there," he said, sticking out his hand. "We're conducting a little experiment in the neighborhood, and we were wondering if you would mind helping your country."

"What do you want me to do?" I asked.

"Just eat one of these sugar cubes."

"What's on it?" I asked suspiciously.

"Oh, we can't tell you that. It would ruin the experiment. But I assure you, the knowledge we gain from you eating this sugar cube will help us defend this great nation of ours from all enemies, domestic and foreign."

"If I eat your sugar cube, will you get the CIA to stop reading my mail and the FBI to stop breaking into my house?"

The colonel smiled. "Possibly, But then again after you eat the sugar cube, you might not really care."

"Trouble in some place called Armageddon? Well, we can't disturb the Secretary at this hour... write us a memo next week."

Erosion Of Confidence

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — While officials still talk about containing the impact of a New York City financial default, fears of such a collapse already have rippled through the tax-exempt bond markets.

Massachusetts, Connecticut, California and Oregon are among the states that have been forced to pay higher rates because of investor doubt and caution arising from New York City's plight.

More problems very likely lie ahead for the rest of this year and into 1975 because of the need of housing agencies in several states to refinance maturing debt. Some bondmen have doubts about the agencies' ability to do so.

The fact is that the so-called municipal bond market is in serious trouble, and the limited amount of financing it can accommodate probably will have to be done at record high costs.

In the past eight months the typical $1,000 state or city bond has declined in market value by nearly $185. That is, retail buyers of the bonds are willing to pay only $815 for paper with a face value of $1,000.

The effect of this is to raise the price that governments must pay for the money they borrow. As the price of a bond declines, the interest costs rise relatively.

Early this year the average price municipalities paid for their money was 6.32 per cent, based on the Dow Jones municipal bond yield index. Two weeks ago it had risen to 7.59 per cent.

At those rates, municipalities might find themselves building even bigger problems for the future, and so many of them are likely to be forced into postponing new projects.

That option, however, isn't open to those cities, states and agencies whose existing debt is coming due and needs to be refinanced. This is especially true of state housing agencies, which must refinance hundreds of millions of dollars within the next year.

Some market observers are inclined to say the fears are irrational. They note that some of the very high borrowing charges are being attached to offerings carrying top ratings by the rating services.

'Acidosis' Confusing Term

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: As a youngster in the third grade I was quite ill with acidosis, a condition I'm not familiar with. I now have a high acid system. I am 40 years old. Can you explain this? Also, what does "ketosis" mean? — Mrs. W. E.

I think you are confusing terms and perhaps conditions.

Let me try to explain. Acidosis and ketosis mean the same thing — that the blood and other body fluids are less alkaline (more acid) than they should be. We usually think of diabetes when we use the term "ketosis." This stems from an excess burning of fats in the body, and it occurs in the diabetic, either because of an infection or because of an insufficient amount of insulin. It is common in juvenile diabetes.

Does this mean you had diabetes when you were in the third grade? No. Temporary acidosis is common in childhood. It can accompany an infection in which there is fever and dehydration. But it is brought under control in such situations by feeding the child candy, sweetened fruit juices and ample water. Of course the infection must be treated simultaneously.

Your use of the term "acid system," which you say you now have, confuses me. You probably mean your stomach juices are more acid than they should be, resulting in digestive upset. This has nothing to do with the acidosis we have been talking about. Nor would it have anything to do with your acidosis as a youngster.

Acidosis (or ketosis, whichever phrase you like best) can be readily diagnosed by a dryness of the tongue and a fruity odor of the breath. To end your confusion, you probably should be tested for diabetes to settle the matter.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have had emphysema for quite a few years and am under a doctor's care for it. Of late, his medication does not seem to help me much. In your booklet on emphysema you write (in paragraph 3) about a drug to dilate the bronchial passage and make phlegm thinner.

Could you make the name of this drug available to me? I want to mention it to my doctor. What is it? I am 76. — E. R.

No need to give you the trade name (there are many) or even a generic name. The type of drug is called a bronchodilator. Your physician would be able to advise you on them. They must be used carefully, especially in those with history of heart troubles. Mention it to him the next time you go in. This will not be news to him, but he may want to consider using them to help you over rough periods if you describe your difficulties.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I am a twenty-four-year-old prisoner of the Southern Ohio Correctional Institution. The daily routine of the prison is nearly driving me insane. My problem is that since I have been in prison I lost all outside friends. I need someone to communicate with to ease the everyday tension and depression that creates frustration in this environment of prison life. Letters are necessary to help the prisoners get themselves psychologically together.

At the present I don't have anyone to write. So I would appreciate it if you would please print my article in your newspaper.

I'm a young, single, 6'2" tall, 185 pounds, prisoner of the Ohio Penal System, and have been for nearly six long, grim, and cold years. I haven't anyone to relate my troublesome state of existence to. So anyone who has a kind and benevolent heart for humanity... please write:

A Devotion For Today

"You will be witnesses for me."
(Acts 1:8, TEV)
PRAYER: Dear Lord, make us good witnesses for Thee, so that the world may know that Thou art the Christ, and in Thee alone can redemption be found through grace. In Thy name, we pray as Thou hast taught us, "Our Father who art in heaven..." Amen.

My Answer

Billy Graham

It's been a long time since I've attended church, and now I'm ashamed to go back. Can you help me?

A.Y. That's like saying, "I have been on a diet, and I'm ashamed to eat with my family again", or like saying, "I haven't paid the grocery bill for so long, I'm ashamed to pay what I owe."

Don't let pride or embarrassment keep you from doing the thing you need most. Your friends at church should welcome you with open arms. That is what is important about church. Other organizations chide members who are lax in their obligations and responsibilities. But since church is for people who make mistakes, we always find forgiveness and understanding.

When Peter denied Christ, Jesus didn't scold him. He merely asked: "Peter, lovest thou me?" Though he had forsaken Christ when He needed him most, our Lord was interested in only one thing: whether Peter loved Him or not.

Christ loves you, and he will forgive you for your unfaithfulness. Go back, as Peter did, and all He will want to know is: "Do you love Me?" And if we love Him we will serve Him, and obey His commands.

USED WOMEN AS SHIELDS IN PRISON ESCAPE ATTEMPT

Carrasco's Letters Reveal 'Macho Complex'

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Just days before he died covering behind women he used as shields in a daring prison escape attempt, South Texas drug kingpin Fred Carrasco wrote that from his infancy he was "taught to have respect for females."

At the time, Carrasco held 12 civilian hostages, including seven women, inside the "Walls" prison unit in Huntsville. Two of the women were killed in the shootout that ended the 11-day prison siege.

Throughout the ordeal in late July 1974, Carrasco, leader of the three inmate terrorists, boasted of his manliness and reverence for womanhood. Psychologists called his behavior a "macho complex."

An insight into Carrasco's mind is provided in letters published in "The Carrasco Tragedy," a new book written by Aline House. Mrs. House is director of library services in the Texas Department of Corrections and was one of those who happened to be in the prison library the day Carrasco, Rudolfo Dominguez and Ignacio Cuevas captured her and 11 other civilians in a bold but fatal effort to escape.

During the siege Carrasco wrote this message:

"From my infancy I was taught to have respect for females. But with all sincerity I assure you that if my family had perceived that I was to have the honor of knowing Mrs. Davis (a hostage) personally, they would not have been necessary because she has demonstrated to me the female that has conducted herself as a female. Well, then the male has to give the respect that is merited and she merits more respect than I as a human can give to her."

Flying Hours Up, Mishaps Dip

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP) — American pilots are flying longer and farther these days but with fewer accidents, reports Piper Aircraft Corp. here. While the number of hours flown by general aviation aircraft — all business and pleasure planes, not commercial airliners — has increased nearly 100 per cent in the last 10 years, the number of fatal accidents per 100,000 flight hours decreased by 16 per cent.

Airplane miles traveled were also up by 78 per cent, and fatal accidents per million miles down by 8 per cent.

In another letter, Carrasco wrote of Linda Woodman, another hostage held in the prison library.

"My heart at this moment in all sincerity is in pieces. For the simple reason that I have to see a woman like Mrs. Linda Woodman in the condition that unfortunately destiny includes her now. But by the word of a man, the Senora is worth her weight in gold. Because she has behaved herself like a woman worthy of homage. Lovingly, Federico Gomez Carrasco."

Carrasco died days later in a fusillade of bullets as he hid behind the hostages, using them as a shield to leave the prison walls.

Dominguez died with him. Hostages Julia Standley and Elizabeth Von Beseda also were slain.

Ironically, near the end, a woman may have been

Rocky To Delay Campaigning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller says he will not do any political campaigning until after next year's conventions.

Rockefeller said he expects President Ford to announce his choice for vice president after winning his own nomination, and for the convention to endorse Ford's selection.

The vice president was quoted in an interview in U. S. News & World Report released Sunday.

Carrasco's undoing as he waived in what proved to be his blundering plan to escape prison.

"Fred, you just can't afford to scrap your plan to go out in the shield," Mrs. Woodman reasoned with Carrasco.

"It's no good. It won't work," Carrasco is quoted as telling her.

"Yes, it will," she retorted. "Just think what it will be like. Look at it. It is a beautiful vehicle and it will go down in history as one of the most spectacular escapes in Texas—even the United States. You just can't afford to give it up."

Carrasco weakened. And carried out his plan. Even unto the final act in which he lay sprawled, toes up, in a widening pool of blood on the ramp leading out of the besieged library.

Nostalgia On Sale At Carlot

MILL VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — They used to sell new cars in the showroom now called Fantasy Junction. When the new cars didn't move as anticipated, Elmer Fliegaufer who also owns another dealership down the street decided to go in for selling slightly used nostalgia instead.

Now on his lot he has Cadillacs with swooping fins, a lowslung white T-Bird, a few vintage items like a 1948 Ford Woody and some bright colored sportscars. Most of the cars belong to individuals who bring them in to be sold on consignment.

In one area of the showroom are pinball machines kept in working order to entertain the teenagers.

Pot Smokers Add Weight, According To Army Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gaining weight may be the only significant effect of smoking marijuana occasionally, according to an Army study.

A report on the study, conducted from April to August of last year to determine if marijuana affected soldiers' performance, was made public today by the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws, which obtained it in a freedom of information suit.

"No evidence was obtained that marijuana produces any significant adverse effects on cognitive or neurological function," the report stated.

It was prepared by Dr. J. H. Mendelson of Harvard Medical School at McLean Hospital Research Center in Belmont, Mass., and cost $382,291.

The summary of the report which the Army released by NORML said both heavy and casual users were studied and "most subjects showed no impairment in motivation to work for money reinforcement when they smoked a large number of marijuana cigarettes."

The study said that following days of heavy marijuana usage there was some dose-related decline in performance, but commented that this was "probably not biologically significant."

"No significant changes were observed in a large series of physical and laboratory assessments following marijuana smoking," said the study.

The only significant changes noted by the study were weight gain and a decline in lung capacity, and the study said that the changes in lung function "may be more closely related to the process of smoking perse than to the actions of marijuana."

The study found no reduction of the male hormone testosterone following marijuana use. Such reduction had been reported in a separate study recently.

Hallowed Ground

NEW HARMONY, Ind. AP — Founded in the early 19th century by a religious group of separatists from the German Lutheran Church, this historic Southwestern Indiana town has a rich religious heritage, still evident today in its restorations and monuments.

Among many such sights, New Harmony is also the location of famous Indian burial mounds, of Dr. Paul Tillich Park where the eminent philosopher-theologist is interred and of Philip Johnson's award-winning "Roofless Church."

Salt Lake Has Saltier Spots

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Great Salt Lake is getting saltier in spots, less salty in others. Ever since an earthen railroad causeway was built across the northern part of the lake in 1959, the north end has been saltier and the south end fresher.

The National Geographic says construction of the railroad barrier restricts circulation of fresh-water inflow, diluting the salinity solution of the south side while the north side approaches saturation.

The lake's waters are still five times saltier than ocean brine and even non-swimmers can float on the surface with ease.

Though five companies extract a half million tons of table salt annually from the lake, recovery of minerals from the southern portion is becoming more difficult. Evaporation ponds along the north shore, however, yield rich harvests of potassium, sodium sulphate and magnesium chloride.

George Father Of Road Maps

NEW YORK AP — American road maps were a revolutionary idea — literally. According to the 1975 Rand McNally Road Atlas, George Washington informed the Continental Congress in 1774 that, "The want of accurate maps has been a great disadvantage." If a map-maker were appointed, he said, "... it would be of the Greatest Advantage."

After much deliberation, the Congress finally named an official Geographer. His maps did prove quite advantageous during the latter stages of the war. Using them, Gen. Washington made his way to Yorktown in 1781, where, on Oct. 19, Cornwallis surrendered the British Army to him.

CAUTION

Your savings may be costing you money.

Your savings are earning interest, right? But are they earning as much as they could be? If not, your savings are actually costing you money.

The truth of the matter is that many financial institutions, including banks and credit unions, are simply not structured to pay the highest interest rates. In fact, some can't even guarantee payment of the interest rates they quote.

And other kinds of investments have even higher degrees of risk. For example, mutual funds and other stock investments don't even guarantee return of the money you put in, much less earnings.

If you want to make the most of what you've got, and you want guaranteed interest rates, you've got to go to a savings specialist. Like First Federal Savings and Loan.

We call ourselves savings specialists because we can offer you higher guaranteed interest rates, more specialized savings-related services, and more ways to save than anyone in town.

And if none of our standard plans fit your particular needs, we'll custom tailor a savings plan specifically for you, whereby you can receive your interest checks any way you want. Monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually.

The following are just a few of the many special services and savings plans available to you from First Federal:

PASSBOOK SAVINGS Our Passbook Savings account is basically the same as a regular savings account offered by a bank — only our interest rates are higher. Passbook Savings earn a full 5 1/4% interest compounded daily, and paid daily. For example, if you make a deposit and withdraw it three days later, you'll be paid interest for the three days your money was on deposit.

Anyone can open a Passbook Savings account with only a $5.00 deposit. There are no term restrictions. You can make deposits and withdrawals whenever you want. And with our new convenient, easy-to-use Tele-Transfer service, you can transfer money from your Passbook account to your checking account with just a phone call.

CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT First Federal offers you four Certificate of Deposit savings plans to choose from.

- 4-year plan (min. $5,000) earns 7 1/2% interest
- 2 1/2-year plan (min. $1,000) earns 6 3/4% interest
- 1-year plan (min. $1,000) earns 6 1/2% interest
- 6 month plan (min. $1,000) earns 5 3/4% interest

Interest on all of our Certificate of Deposit savings plans is compounded daily and distributed quarterly.

SELF-EMPLOYED PENSION PLAN (KEOGH) This plan is designed for the individual who wants to establish a retirement plan for both himself and his employees. All contributions are TAX DEDUCTIBLE. You don't have to pay any income tax on either the contributions or interest until you begin drawing funds.

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT (IRA) This plan is designed for employed individuals, not currently participating in a retirement plan. Self-employed persons are eligible, but are not required to include employees in this plan.

All contributions are TAX DEDUCTIBLE. You don't have to pay any income tax on the money you contribute to the plan or the interest it earns until you start drawing funds.

AUTOMATIC DEPOSIT OF SOCIAL SECURITY PAYMENTS This service allows you to deposit your Social Security check in your savings account without lifting a finger. The check is sent directly from the U.S. Department of Treasury to First Federal.

And deposit is guaranteed. You never have to worry about losing it. What's more, our new Tele-Transfer allows you to transfer as much of it as you want to your checking account. All it takes is one phone call.

INTEREST COMPOUNDED DAILY Interest on all First Federal Savings Plans is compounded daily. That means that if you leave your Passbook savings on deposit a full year, or your Certificates of Deposit in until they mature, your money actually earns more interest than quoted as our standard rates.

Here's how it works. When you make a deposit, your money (principal) starts earning paid interest the first day. Then each day following, the interest on your principal is compounded along with the interest accumulated from the preceding day or days. So if you have a Passbook account which earns 5.25% daily, and you leave your principal on deposit for a full year, you have actually earned 5.39% interest at the end of the year.

The following chart shows how much interest (percentage-wise) your savings actually earns annually when the principal is left on deposit until maturity, and the interest is compounded daily.

STANDARD INTEREST RATE	TYPE OF SAVINGS PLAN	ACTUAL PERCENTAGE OF INTEREST PAID ANNUALLY
7.50%	4-year Certificate of Deposit	7.79%
6.75%	2 1/2-year Certificate of Deposit	6.98%
6.50%	1-year Certificate of Deposit	6.72%
5.75%	6-month Certificate of Deposit	5.92%
5.25%	Passbook account	5.39%

All things considered, it just makes better sense to save the First Federal way.

For more information about any of the services or savings plans outlined above, drop by First Federal today. Or call Mrs. Margie Hill or any of our other savings counselors at 267-8252.

Finds No Proof Of Other Gun

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A panel of experts assigned to examine ballistic evidence in the 1968 slaying of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has reported there is no proof that more than one gun was used in the assassination.

Sirhan's 22-caliber Iver Johnson revolver. All of the bullets were of the same general category and possibly came from the same gun, but only three were in good enough shape to be compared with test bullets fired last week from the Sirhan gun, the panel said in a report to Superior Court Judge Robert A. Wenke.

One of the experts, Alfred A. Biasotti, said examination of the three bullets "very strongly pointed" toward Sirhan's gun but "was just short of positive proof."

Thugs Attack, Rob Youths

Two youths attacked a few minutes apart at nearby locations, described the same car in reports made to the police Monday night.

Mike Hines, 428 Glenrose, reported that he was attacked by eight black males at 308 NW 8th and "struck on the head and kicked." This allegedly occurred at 12:40 a.m. Tuesday.

Robert Summers of 904 Bell, reported suspects robbed him of $340 at gunpoint at NW 8th and Gregg at 12:30 a.m.

Chained Teen Case Closed

No action is to be taken at this time in connection with the 19-year-old youth chained to a tree, according to Avery Falkner, investigating detective.

"The matter has been discussed with the family and medical care has been recommended for the youth," the detective said. The family said they were unable to control their son when he began to "break the house up."

Hanging Postponed After U.S. Appeal

NASSAU, Bahama (AP) — A Wisconsin man who was to have been hanged today for killing three fellow Americans here "had trouble understanding the news" and "just shrugged his shoulders" when he was told the execution had been postponed, a U.S. official said.

Bahamian minister of home affairs, after a law firm hired by U.S. officials applied for an appeal.

Stevenson said the application stated that important information had not been heard by the court which earlier ruled against a life sentence for Shobek, making the death penalty automatic.

Shobek's lawyer at the time of the hearing withdrew evidence of insanity when the court ruled it contained errors, the application said. And it said Shobek had sustained brain damage as the result of a viral infection he suffered as an infant.

The court that will hear the appeal is not scheduled to meet for 30 days, but Stevenson said it might convene sooner because "this is a temporary respite. In cases like this, they usually try to hurry it up."

Shobek, son of a Milwaukee school system charwoman, pleaded guilty to killing Irwin Borstein, a New York accountant whose body was found on a remote beach. He also admitted killing Paul Howell of Massillon, Ohio, and Katie Smith, 17, of Detroit.

At his trial, Shobek said he was ordered by "my father, God" to slay the three, whom he described as "angels of Lucifer."

Shobek's mother, Juanita Spencer, had asked officials in the United States to intervene in her son's behalf. After learning of the reprieve, she said from her home on Monday, "I thank God. I thank all the people who helped me. This gives me hope."

THREATENED PRESIDENT — James Speller (C) of East Orange, N. J., is shown in Newark Police Headquarters Monday with Newark detectives Charles Whitner (L) and Herbert Childs (R). Speller was arrested by the two detectives in the Robert Treat Hotel Saturday after threatening to kill President Ford, who had left the hotel a half hour earlier, police said. Detective Whitner is holding two steak knives found on Speller.

Supreme Court Declines Richardson School Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has declined to hear an appeal by the Richardson, Tex., school district that it is not responsible for the segregation of one of its elementary schools.

The school system's lawyer argued that "forced busing... is not working to achieve its legitimate end."

The high court let stand Monday a decision by the U.S. appeals court at New Orleans which reversed the finding of a U.S. district court in Texas.

In September 1970, the district court in Dallas issued a desegregation plan for the Richardson schools, a plan with which school lawyers said the schools complied.

But in May 1974, the federal government asked the district court to order further desegregation of the Hamilton Park Elementary School, which serves a predominantly black housing subdivision.

The Richardson Independent School District has 32,000 pupils, 3 per cent of whom are black. Hamilton Park Elementary School was designed only for blacks, when the district was racially segregated under Texas law. In the intervening 20 years, only blacks have attended the school.

When the Justice Department sought desegregation of Hamilton Park, the U.S. district court denied the request, deciding that the school district was not responsible for the entire population of the school being black.

However, the appellate court found that the school district had been responsible for discriminatory practices and for the segregation of the Hamilton Park Elementary School, reversing the finding of the lower court.

The school district's lawyer, Henry D. Akin of Dallas, argued that the appeals court was not allowed under federal court rules to reverse a lower court's findings of fact unless they are clearly erroneous.

U.S. Solicitor General Robert H. Bork argued that the school district did not prove that the all-black composition of Hamilton Park was not the result of discrimination by the district.

Akin also argued that busing should not be used to achieve a racial balance in the area schools.

"Forced busing is inherently repugnant...," he said. "It is not working to achieve its legitimate end; and it should now be deemed unconstitutional as a means to achieve a legitimate and constitutional end."

"Forced busing was conceived as a 'tool' to speed up the process of elimination of the unconstitutional practice of school segregation," he argued.

"This 'tool' will not do the job for which it was intended. Now the 'tool' should be eliminated."

"I would not have had access to probably half the books I used were it not for the Southwest Collection."

"The Southwest Collection has much more than I can possibly use. Additionally, I have discovered a number of pertinent items that I could not locate in published bibliographies. These came to hand by simply going down the shelves of the fiction section."

Schneider, who selected more than 100 novels for the project, pointed out that the Southwest Collection's special classification system and other aids were of significant help.

"I am amazed that the Southwest Collection has so much of the essential material in one place," he explained. "For anyone who is concerned in this part of the world as far as fiction is concerned, or whether one is interested in anthropology, myth, folklore, and related areas, I think it is all right here at Texas Tech," Schneider said.

Gene Tuckness, Lot 83, Chapparral Trailer Park reported break-in of trailer and theft of gallon jar of mixed coins, quart jar of pennies, coin collector books, old coins in silver and a calculator.

Mackie Vaughn, 601 Washington and Bryan Broughton, 1601 E. 16th, reported CB radios stolen from their vehicles while parked at Birdwell park Monday afternoon.

City Receives $80,877 Check

Big Spring's quarterly revenue sharing check arrived today, according to Thomas Ferguson, city finance director.

The check is for $80,877 which is about $4,000 less than the same period last year.

Cities who had not raised their city taxes had their revenue sharing checks lowered by the federal government at the beginning of 1975.

A large portion of revenue sharing funds in Big Spring are budgeted toward continued paving programs in the city.

Tools Missing

Derington Auto Parts and Machine Shop at 300 NE 2nd was broken into during the night Monday with over $150 worth of tools reported missing.

Missing were three socket sets and a tool box, according to an inventory this morning by James Van Ness, investigating patrolman.

Fireman's Strike Ends After 14 Days

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A four-day-old Kansas City fire fighters' strike ended today after the city promised to reinstate 59 men who were discharged for failing to return to work and the union agreed to cooperate in investigating cases of possible arson during the strike.

Mayor Charles B. Wheeler Jr. and other city officials had accused members of Local 42 of the International Association of Firefighters of deliberately setting some of the more than 200 blazes which erupted in the city during the strike.

Union spokesmen angrily denied the accusations. The city's 858 fire fighters began returning to duty this morning after Wheeler agreed to rehire the union members who were dismissed Sunday night and the union pledged full cooperation with law enforcement agencies in the suspected arson cases.

The fire fighters, who walked off Friday morning in a pay dispute, still have not achieved the demand they first issued in 1969 — fire fighters currently earn $10,200 to $12,996 annually, while police officers earned $9,432 to $15,305 a year. Talks between the city and the union with a federal mediator are scheduled to begin at 12 p.m. EDT today.

Union leaders and city officials announced an end to the walkout after the two groups met separately for about two hours early today. While discussions continued, nearly 800 National Guardsmen and hundreds of police officers and volunteers patrolled city streets and manned the 59 fire stations.

Fire fighters said Monday they were prepared to return to work, but they refused to do so until the 59 dismissed men were rehired.

Wheeler stood by his refusal to rehire the men until late Monday night, when he said City Manager Robert Kipp assured him that the move would be something the city "could live with" to get the men back to work.

The city has maintained the walkout was illegal because state law prohibits public employe strikes and because the city has a valid work agreement with fire fighters until May 1, 1976.

A Jackson County Circuit Court hearing on the city's request for an injunction against the strike is scheduled for Thursday, but union attorney Charles Shafer said today that the mayor agreed not to oppose a union motion to deny the injunction.

In an early morning news conference announcing the end of the walkout, Wheeler stopped short of saying a grand jury investigation of suspicious fires during the weekend would be dropped. But he said the grand jury would be working in a less volatile climate with fire fighters back on the job.

IS-27 Work Scheduled

LUBBOCK — Work begins later this month on a 7.1 mile segment of IS-27, first interstate highway construction project in the Lubbock district undertaken by the Texas State Highway Department.

The stretch of road, which begins at Loop 289 and proceeds north to 1 1/2 miles north of the Monroe Overpass near New Deal, will cost $11,558,126.01.

Traffic will be rerouted to frontage roads while construction is going on.

Contractor for the highway is Dahlstrom Corp., of the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

Prof Unraveling Complexity Of Southwestern Literature

LUBBOCK — Intensive investigation is unraveling for a Midland College professor the complexity of Southwestern literature.

Jack W. Schneider, chairman of the Department of English at Midland College and doctoral candidate at Texas Tech University, is using Tech's Southwest Collection, a manuscript repository and specialized library.

"I am tracing the pattern of the cultural conflict between Indians and whites as it is reflected in the Southwestern novel," Schneider explained. "After the close of the Indian wars in the late nineteenth century, the federal government moved away from a policy of extermination to one of acculturation, trying to bring the Indians into the mainstream of white society," he said.

The extensiveness of the Southwest Collection's holdings in literature has contributed greatly to this study of Indians and whites thrown together as whites, according to Prof. Schneider.

"The Southwest Collection has much more than I can possibly use. Additionally, I have discovered a number of pertinent items that I could not locate in published bibliographies. These came to hand by simply going down the shelves of the fiction section."

Schneider, who selected more than 100 novels for the project, pointed out that the Southwest Collection's special classification system and other aids were of significant help.

"I would not have had access to probably half the books I used were it not for the Southwest Collection."

A specialist in Southwestern literature, Schneider said that fiction has become the region's best writing. "For some reason fiction has been

'Vigilantes' Arrested In Houston Thefts

HOUSTON (AP) — Three men remained in Harris County jail today, charged with aggravated theft after a detective said he was beaten and his car stripped.

James Schattle said he and another plainclothes officer were working undercover on an alleged vigilante theft ring.

He said three men with shotguns approached the officers' car. He said he was hit with a flashlight by one man and another began dismantling a citizen's band radio in the car.

Schattle said three other officers staked out in the area watched the incident and arrested the three men. Schattle said authorities had received complaints of an alleged vigilante ring for two months.

The three arrested men told newsmen they began cruising at night after their neighborhood was plagued with thefts of cars from garages. They said the car containing Schattle and the other officer was cruising without lights and they tried to question the two men without success.

Detectives said Monday they are reviewing eight theft charges in the Channelview area. The eight persons were charged, detectives said, because an alleged vigilante group said they captured them while they were breaking into cars.

Harris Begins Texas Campaign

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris' presidential campaign organization for Texas has officially registered with the secretary of state.

"We urge Fred Harris to give Texans a choice, to come to Texas and run in the presidential primary," Bill McAfee of Austin, treasurer of the Fred Harris for President Texas Campaign Committee, said at a news conference Monday.

He said in answer to a question that, "we have every reason to believe he (Harris) will" enter next year's presidential primary.

His wife, Anne, said Harris' campaign should appeal to those who supported George McGovern and George Wallace in 1972. Many former Wallaceites, she said, are "upset by the fact that they pay a bigger share of taxes than they ought to and the corporations are getting by without paying their fair share."

Harris, she said, advocates enforcement of the anti-trust laws and the closing of tax loopholes.

The 1976 presidential primary law gives all of a senatorial district's delegates to the candidate whose slate gets a plurality of the votes, making it a "winner take all" situation. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., is an announced candidate for president, and the primary law was tailored to his specifications.

While Harris will appeal to some liberals, others urge the election of uncommitted delegates.

Roping, Barrel Races Are Set

The Pecos County Sheriff's Posse in Fort Stockton announces 10 roping and barrel races, with the first to be held Saturday, Oct. 12.

The event will include $26 for a two-go barrel race paying back 40 per cent in the go rounds for four places and 60 per cent in the average with six places.

Calf roping entry is $39 for three head. This will pay back 40 per cent in the first and second go rounds with four places. Six places will be awarded in the average with 60 per cent pay-off.

The third go in roping will be the top 10 ropers in the average.

Riders may register at 1 p.m. with the events to begin at 2 p.m. The races will be held Oct. 26, Nov. 9, Jan. 3, Feb. 1, Feb. 22, March 14, April 4, April 25 and May 9.

Detroit Boo Birds Vent Their Anger

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Pontiac Stadium's majestic air-inflated dome didn't spring any leaks, but the Detroit Lions' bubble was burst by Roger Staubach's shotgun offense and slingshot arm.

A near-capacity crowd of 79,784 gave the Dallas Cowboys resounding boos when they were introduced before Monday night's National Football League contest against Detroit.

But the boos that reverberated off the newly raised fiberglass roof of the plush $55.7 million stadium at the end of the nationally televised 36-10 Cowboy victory were for the Lions.

Detroit seemed helpless as Staubach turned a 10-9 third-period Lion advantage into a Cowboy runaway.

Meanwhile, his defensive mates, led by 250-pound tackle Jethro Pugh, sacked Lion quarterback Greg Landry so many times he almost got artificial grass stains on his Honolulu blue pants.

The youth-infused Cowboys ran their record to 3-0 and sit alone atop the Eastern Division of the National Conference.

Detroit, considered a cellar candidate in preseason by most critics, had beaten Green Bay and Atlanta but now is 2-1 and second in the Central Division behind unbeaten Minnesota.

Sunday the Lions host Chicago while the Cowboys will be at New York against the Giants.

"I was impressed with the Lions," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said, obviously trying to ease Detroit's pain. "They played us real close in the first half and, except for hitting a couple big plays, the game could have been much closer."

The "couple" big plays included: —A bad Detroit snap on punt formation that set up Dallas' go-ahead touchdown in the third quarter.

A 29-yard draw play by Charles Young of the Cowboys, followed by Young's circus catch for a 42-yard touchdown pass from Staubach on the first play of the fourth quarter.

—A 46-yard halfback pass from Robert Newhouse to Drew Pearson for another stunning Cowboy fourth-period TD.

—A 37-yard scoring aerial from Staubach to Pearson

ROUGH NIGHT — Detroit Lions' quarterback Greg Landry (11) gets up for another try during Monday night's game as Dallas Cowboys' Jethro Pugh (75) stands by after a play while referee holds ball. Landry was sacked 11 times for minus 84 yards as the Cowboys won 36-10.

after the Cowboys recovered a Landry fumble at the Lion 16 and lost 25 yards on penalties.

"That bad snap was the turning point as far as I'm concerned," Lions' Coach Rick Forzano insisted. "We had momentum up to that point. We had 'em. But that snap turned the whole thing around."

Al Dark Says He Must Go With Best Tonight

OAKLAND (AP) — For the Oakland A's, whose three-year championship reign could end tonight, it's time to gamble.

"I might be really sharp, or I might not be able to throw the ball 60 feet," admitted Ken Holtzman, the left-hander who lost the American League playoff opener in Boston and will be pitching against the Red Sox tonight with just two days rest.

WILL OPPOSE IN PLAYOFFS — Pittsburgh Pirates rookie pitcher John Candelaria, left, and Cincinnati Reds pitcher Gary Nolan, right, will be opposing pitchers in the third game of the National League championship series in Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh Wednesday night. Nolan will start in the Reds bid for a clincher third game.

Webster Out For Season

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Marvin Webster, the No. 1 draft pick of the American Basketball Association, will miss the 1975-76 season because of an apparent liver ailment and "may never play again," the Denver Nuggets announced.

Nuggets Coach Larry Brown said Webster, the 7-foot-1 center nicknamed "the Human Eraser," had been undergoing tests in a Denver hospital since Sept. 29. He was a two-time winner of the college division Player of the Year award while at Morgan State.

Brown said tests were continuing, but preliminary diagnoses pointed to a liver problem. Webster suffered from hepatitis during his junior year in college.

"It's a blow to the team to lose a 7-footer who you figured would be strong in the post position," said Brown, here for an exhibition game against Virginia. "But it's a terrible thing to happen to a young man."

The Nuggets had counted heavily on Webster and another top rookie, university division Player of the Year David Thompson of North Carolina State.

The signing of the two most highly sought-after college players from the 1975 crop was seen as evidence that the ABA was on solid ground and could compete for top talent with the older, rival National Basketball Association.

Funk Seeks Vengeance

The former National Wrestling Alliance champion, Dory Funk Jr., will enter the ring in the Municipal Auditorium this evening in a Texas Death match against villainous Killer Brooks.

Promoter Don Slaton, very pleased with the turnout for last week's show here, has arranged what he believes is one of his best cards for local fans.

There's no time limit for this type match, no disqualifications. Falls do not count. The only thing that matters is that one man is left standing at the end. Sometimes neither.

Sometimes a meet that challenge, in which case the match has to be declared a draw.

There's bad blood between Funk and Brooks. Dory Jr. was administered a severe beating by the snarling Brooks and some observers think Killer had help in the form of brass knuckles. A lot of the people at ringside screamed for a rematch and Slaton is accommodating them.

The semifinal pits ever-popular Ricky Romero against Don Fargo.

Scott Casey and Johnny Starr team up to oppose Lanny and Angelo Poffo in a tag match.

To whet the fans' appetite for the big matches to come, the opening dual sends Ray Candy, who stands 6-5 and weighs 295, out against the 6-5, 300-pound German, Frank Goodish.

Tickets for the banner card go on sale as early as 4 p.m., at the auditorium box office. Ringside locations sell for $3.50, general admission for $2.50. Children ages 3 to 11 will be admitted for 50 cents.

The show gets under way shortly after 8 p.m.

OU Now Second In Grid Poll

By The Associated Press Barry Switzer, coach of the defending national champions, says Oklahoma is "not the team we were in '74" and it showed today when the Sooners dropped from first place to second behind Ohio State in The Associated Press college football ratings.

The Buckeyes of Ohio State impressed the voters and a national television audience with a 41-20 rout of UCLA and received 47 first-place votes and 1,178 of a possible 1,240 points from a nationwide panel of 62 sports writers and broadcasters.

Meanwhile, Oklahoma, which was hard-pressed to beat winless Miami of Florida 20-17 a week ago, had an even closer battle with Colorado, winning 21-20 when the Buffs missed an extra-point kick with 1:23 to play. The Sooners received 14 first-place votes and 1,072 points.

Last week, Oklahoma received 30 first-place ballots in Ohio State's 26 and outpolled Woody Hayes' Buckeyes 1,086 points to 1,065. Ohio State was No. 1 a year ago until the closing weeks of the campaign when the Bucks bowed to Michigan State and surrendered the top spot to Oklahoma, which kept it the rest of the way.

"I'm not disappointed we're No. 2," Switzer said. "I'm disappointed with the way we played and the mistakes we made. If you go on Woody Hayes' point system, I guess they deserve to be No. 1. I read where he said they ought to be No. 1 because they scored more points than we did."

Southern California held onto third place by defeating Iowa 27-16. The Trojans received the other first-place vote and 975 points. Nebraska remained fourth with 858 points following a 31-16 triumph over Miami, Fla.

Texas moved up from seventh to fifth by routing Utah State 61-7. The Longhorns supplanted Missouri, which dropped from fifth to 12th in the wake of a 31-7 loss to Michigan. Texas A&M stayed in sixth place with a 10-0 blanking of Kansas State.

Alabama, continuing to work its way back toward the top, climbed from ninth to seventh following a 32-6 victory over Mississippi and Michigan's whipping of Missouri elevated the Wolverines from 12th to eighth replacing Notre Dame. The Irish skidded to 15th after losing to Michigan State 10-3.

Penn State rose from 10th to ninth with a 10-3 decision over Kentucky while West Virginia, which meets Penn State this weekend in an Eastern showdown, went from 11th to 10th by beating Southern Methodist 28-22.

The Second Ten consists of Arizona State, Missouri, Colorado, Oklahoma State, Michigan State and Notre Dame tied for 15th, followed by Arizona, Florida, Tennessee and Miami of Ohio.

Last week, it was West Virginia, Michigan, UCLA, Arizona State, Oklahoma State, Tennessee, Arizona, Baylor, Colorado and Florida.

The Top Twenty teams in The Associated Press college football poll, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points based on 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1.

HIS TROUBLES ARE ALL BEHIND HIM — Steve Scott of York University rugby team 'streaks' after the play during a recent game against Toronto Saracens. Scott's pants were ripped during the action, but he was able to grin and bare it until someone came to the rescue with a new pair of shorts.

Gary Nolan Tries To Nail It Down

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds can clinch their third National League title of this decade here tonight and take another step toward the World Series triumph that has eluded them for 35 years.

"World Series? I'll think about that if we get there," Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson said as he awaited the third and perhaps final game with Pittsburgh.

The Reds, who'll pitch Gary Nolan against Pirate rookie John Candelaria, dominated two games in Cincinnati, 8-3 and 6-1.

"They pounded the ball at a .348 clip, allowed just 13 Pirate hits, and stole 10 bases in 10 tries. Joe Morgan's four steals and the Reds' team total are already records for a league playoff.

The Pirates, league leaders in home runs, have yet to hit one in the playoffs. They're batting .203 as a team, and none of their pitchers has lasted more than four innings.

"We expect that to change here," Manager Danny Murtaugh said Monday from his rocking chair.

A reporter asked him what was so special about playing at home. Can Babushka Power make that much of a difference?

"I'm stretching that because we did horse manure out there," said Murtaugh.

Cincinnati won its last World Series in 1940. That was seven years before Reds' catcher Johnny Bench was born.

The series is the goal of every team, but there's no way we can look past the Pirates," said Bench, one of the few Reds without a hot bat. He has one hit so far in the playoffs.

The Reds lost to the Yankees in the 1961 World Series, and they were disappointed by Baltimore in 1970 and Oakland in 1972.

"We've never gone into the playoffs with a team as good as this one," said Pete Rose of the Reds.

"If we continue to play as well as we have, we'll be in pretty good shape," conceded Anderson.

Candelaria, the Pirates' 21-year-old starting pitcher, was 8-6 in the regular season and 1-1 against Cincinnati. "You're going to hear a lot about him," Murtaugh told reporters.

HC Girls Triumph

ODESSA — Howard College came from behind to topple Odessa College, 13-15, 15-10, in exhibition volleyball play here Monday evening.

Now boasting a 4-5 overall record, the Hawks return to play Thursday night in Abilene against Hardin-Simmons University.

The Hawks are marking time for the Zone tournament, which will be played in the McMurry College Gymnasium in Abilene Oct. 31-Nov. 1. Eight teams are entered in the tournament.

Only junior college clubs competing will be Howard College and Odessa College.

Ruth Knight and Helen Ray, two Big Spring products, led the scoring for Howard College in last night's opening contest, each with four points.

Regina Lewis, Snyder, paced the Hawk scoring in the second contest with seven points. In the deciding game of the set, Knight again led the way with nine points.

Medical Costs To Skyrocket

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Medical costs in Texas will continue to soar without a long-term legislative solution to skyrocketing medical malpractice insurance rates, the head of the Texas Medical Association says.

Dr. N. L. Barker of Paris, Tex., says the legislature will have to find a new remedy to climbing malpractice rates before its regular 1977 session.

"Neither doctors, nor insurance companies, nor lawyers, nor the State Board of Insurance, can solve the problems without the passage of legislation," he told a news conference here Monday.

Barker said malpractice insurance rates are continuing their upward climb despite two medical insurance bills passed during the last legislative session.

German Bites Nosey Fox

EHRA-LESSIEN, West Germany (AP) — When a fox trotted into Bernd Dauwitz's tent and stepped on his face, the West German army reservist sent it howling by biting a paw.

Pvt. Dauwitz was zipped into a sleeping bag after a day of training at the Ehra-Lessien maneuver area.

"Suddenly, I felt a paw on my face," he told newsmen. "It was a fox. I couldn't get my hands out of the sleeping bag quickly enough. So I just bit into the fox's paw. It bawled like a baby."

Although the fox did not bite back, Dauwitz was treated at a hospital for possible rabies infection.

Constitution Opponent Won't Debate Price Daniel

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Peyton McKnight, D-Tyler, says he won't debate former House Speaker Price Daniel Jr. about the proposed new Texas Constitution but has debated other advocates of the document.

"I don't care to revive young Price," said McKnight, who heads an organization fighting the new constitution and calling itself Citizens to Preserve the Texas Constitution.

Daniel challenged McKnight to debate him or other supporters of the constitution such as Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker Bill Clayton or Chief Justice Joe Greenhill.

McKnight said he had spoken against Hobby, Clayton and Greenhill, as well as against former Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert and Rep. Ronnie Earle of Austin, director of the campaign for the new constitution.

"I'm not afraid to take anyone on, but if Mr. Daniel wants to finance a televised debate then I'll try to find some flyweight to fight him," McKnight said.

Daniel was president of the 1974 constitutional convention that failed by three votes to submit a new charter. The 1975 legislature finally submitted the document to the voters in virtually the same form as the convention's final draft. Voters will make their decision Nov. 4.

Abortions Still Hard To Obtain

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite the Supreme Court decision overturning restrictive abortion laws, between 30 and 50 per cent of all women who sought an abortion last year were unable to obtain one, according to a nationwide study.

Prepared by the Alan Guttmacher Institute of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, the study estimated that this meant between 400,000 and 900,000 women who wanted the operation in 1974 were forced to go without. About half of them were poor or near poor.

In January 1973, the high court ruled unconstitutional laws that prohibited women from getting abortions during the first two-thirds of pregnancy.

However a year later, in the first quarter of 1974, only 15 per cent of public hospitals, which tra-

Escapee Reunited With His Family

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — His long struggle for freedom over, Arkansas prison escapee Alvin Tyger has been reunited with the wife and daughter he left behind almost 10 months ago.

Tyger, 26, returned to his home Monday to a tearful airport reunion, on parole to Arizona authorities.

It was from an Arkansas prison that Tyger escaped in 1968. After three years of hiding, he moved here under the assumed name Bobby O'Brien, married and established a new life.

His freedom ended last year when the FBI located him. He fought extradition demanded by Arkansas authorities, but returned there last December to seek clemency.

His plea was rejected, and he returned to Cummins State Prison Farm, from which he had fled six years earlier.

But more than a week ago, the Arkansas Board of Pardons and Paroles recommended clemency, and Gov. David Pryor signed the papers.

"This last week has been as long as 10 months," Tyger told reporters upon his arrival here.

His wife, Linda, worried that their 3-year-old daughter might not remember him.

But Kelli hadn't forgotten. She wrapped her arms around Tyger and refused to let go. "I don't believe it," Mrs. Tyger said.

"I don't have anything against Arkansas," Tyger said.

Asked if he had been mistreated in prison, he replied, "Not physically, but mentally.

"They run you on the fields and scream at you all the time," he said.

Tyger's first brush with the law came at age 18. The second eldest of six children, his parents divorced when he was about 7.

Murder Charge

SNYDER — A charge of murder was filed here Monday against James Sanders, 22, in connection with the death of his two-year-old stepson, Corey Dale Border.

The child was dead on arrival at a Snyder hospital at 4 p.m., Sunday.

Peace Justice Bobby Goodwin, who conducted the autopsy, ruled death was due to internal hemorrhaging. Sanders is being held in lieu of $30,000 bond.

Graveside rites for the child were held at 10 a.m., today in the Snyder Cemetery. He was born in Tom Green County.

Survivors include his mother, Becky Sanders; and two sisters, Dana Borders and Rozanne Sanders, all of the home; and his grandmother, Mrs. Deola Borders, San Angelo.

Prize Winners

Four lucky Big Springers picked up prizes at the new car showing at Bob Brock Ford, Saturday afternoon.

First place winner, Mrs. Luella Moore, received a deer rifle and second place winner, Jack Sparks, won a cutlery set. Don L. Stewart, in third place, won a barbecue set and Mrs. Gwen McNally received an ice cream freezer for fourth prize.

LEARNED IN SCHOOL

Thirteen Year Old Saves Father's Life

VENTNOR, N.J. (AP) — Thirteen-year-old Lyn Kraft learned in health class how to give "the kiss of life" to a plastic doll. That same night she used what she had learned to revive her 50-year-old father after he suffered a heart attack and stopped breathing.

Leonard Kraft is now recuperating in the Atlantic City Medical Center, and Lyn is the toast of her eighth grade class at Ventnor Middle School in this Atlantic shore community.

It was after midnight last Thursday when the 5-foot-7, 165-pound Kraft suffered the second heart attack of his life.

"He stopped breathing and turned a purple-gray color. I ran and called the ambulance and woke up my daughter," Lyn's mother, Sandy, said.

Lyn, a 5-foot, 89-pounder, said her mother was "very excited. "I said I knew what to do, and she said to do it. I didn't have any time to pause. I just did it right there. It was just a reaction." Lyn followed the method

Vie For Honor

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — To stimulate youth participation in next summer's world-wide gathering of Catholics here, the 41st International Eucharistic Congress is sponsoring a poster contest for students of all U.S. parochial schools.

Pupils in the fifth through 12th grades are asked to convey graphically one of the eight hungers embraced by the Congress' theme. These include mankind's physical and social hungers for bread, freedom and justice, truth, understanding and peace as well as the more basic hungers of the soul for God, the spirit and Jesus, the Bread of Life.

for cardiopulmonary respiration that school nurse Marie Paludi had been teaching in class for two weeks.

She gave four quick breaths into her father's mouth, holding his nose and leaning his head back to open the air passages. Then she gave 15 heart compressions, with palms down and fingertips up, in the middle of his chest, then two more deep breaths slowly, waiting for the chest to deflate.

"My sister, Cindy, helped me. She told me I was going too fast with the compressions," said Lyn, the youngest of four children.

Sindy, 17, and Mrs. Kraft were the only other family members at home.

Lyn continued the cycle of two breaths and 15 compressions for five minutes until an ambulance crew arrived and administered oxygen to her father, who was already breathing again.

BROOKFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Lord Sparks, the lusty lion, has become too amorous for the economic good of Chicago's Brookfield Zoo. That's why a vasectomy is in store for the potent sir wif 19.cus, a zoo spokesman said Monday.

"He will be able to do his thing but will be unable to fertilize," said Dr. Gilbert Boese.

"Doing this to Lord Sparks is an economic move as well as helping in a space problem at the zoo," Boese said.

Where's Boston?

Bicentennial

BOSTON AP — What is claimed to be the first official major Bicentennial exhibition to open in the United States is doing a landslide business at the box office.

The 300-seat, $1.2-million "World's Fair" type Bicentennial Pavilion at Prudential Center, a 16,000-square-foot structure of vinyl-coated fiber glass supported by air and structural steel, features "Where's Boston?"

It is a 45-minute, multi-image show that meshes eight screens, 40 computerized projectors, quadraphonic sound system and more than 3,000 views of modern Boston. The exhibit focuses on the 20th century and involves such diverse shots as the busing controversy, Julia Childs talking about Boston baked beans and the white and green tank-top shirt worn by former Celtics basketball star Bill Russell.
