Rockefeller Steps Aside As Ford's Running Mate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller declared today that he does not want to be President Ford's running mate in 1976, stepping aside in a surprise move that dramatically altered the Republican campaign outlook.

He did so without explanation, saying only that: "After much thought, I have decided... that I do not wish my name to enter into your consideration for the upcoming Republican vice presidential nominee."

The move opened a potential scramble for vice presidential selection next year. It could cut into the planned White House challenge of former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who has gained support from some conservatives inalterably opposed to Rockefeller. It left the vice president's own political plans a giant question mark. There was no hint of discord in Rockefeller's letter to the President.

Rockefeller, 67, had run for the presidency three times himself, before becoming Ford's vice president. His withdrawal from the Ford ticket led to immediate speculation that Rockefeller himself might once again go after the White House nomination.

A Rockefeller spokesman said he knew nothing of any such plan. A Rockefeller aide said the vice president had discussed his decision with Ford in advance. The aide said he doubted the letter made public today came as a surprise to the President.

Heavy Rains Fail To Boost Lakes

Widespread rains visited upon the area Saturday night and Sunday morning did little to improve the humor of the farmer.

The cotton growers are close to harvesting what could be a bumper crop and the moisture can only delay the harvest. The rains were over for the most part by mid-morning and sunshine returned, with it rising temperatures.

Area lakes benefitted surprisingly little by the downpours. Lake Spence near Robert Lee had gained only .56 of a foot by 8 a.m., today. That added about 3,500 acre-feet to the CR-MWD reservoir. Prospects were that the catch would total about 5,000 acre-feet before the runoff ceases.

Ford To Name George Bush, Ex-Midland Resident, CIA Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford told congressional leaders today he plans to name White House Chief of Staff Donald Rumsfeld as secretary of defense and George Bush, now U.S. representative in Peking and former Midland resident as head of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Word on those appointments came even before Ford formally announced the ouster of Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger and CIA Director William Colby.

Pentagon sources, reporting this shakeup in the top echelons of the administration, also said that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will relinquish his second job as chairman of the National Security Council.

A Republican source said Air Force Lt. Gen. Brent Snowcroft, Kissinger's deputy and protégé, will replace the secretary of state as NSC chairman.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Ford called him at mid-morning with word of the Bush and Rumsfeld appointments. He said the President denied that Kissinger, who has been at odds with Schlesinger, was behind the shakeup.

The World At-A-Glance

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the nation's largest cities elect mayors Tuesday, but political analysts hoping to find national trends may have to do some quick post-election improvising.

Rains were heavier in other parts of the city. The southwestern sector, for instance, gauged 1.8 inches. The fall near Howard College was about 1.4 inches.

Garden City reported a general rain of two inches and more. Elbow had 1.25 inches. On their way to Big Spring, the rain clouds dumped two inches on Ackerly.

Washington (AP) — The government officially announced today it will issue a new $2 bill on April 13, 1976. The date will be the birthday of Thomas Jefferson, whose portrait will be on the bill.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said he hopes Americans will make wide use of the new bill, since it is intended both to save the government $4 million a year in printing costs and also to reduce the volume of currency in circulation.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Another lull in Beirut's Christian-Muslim war set in today with only scattered shooting reported. Broadcasts and newspapers expressed hope that the 12th cease-fire negotiated by Premier Rashid Karami might be successful.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Morocco says it is going ahead with its march of 350,000 unarmed civilians into the disputed Spanish Sahara despite threats of war from Spain and Algeria and an appeal from the United Nations Security Council to call off the invasion.

Early temperatures at Marfa skidded as low as 27 degrees. It didn't get nearly that cold in this area. As much as 4.55 inches of moisture fell around Ozone and some areas in that part of the state received their first appreciable moisture in more than a month.

A Boom That Has Gone Bust

If they were Texans, they would be identified as "rednecks." If they had ties in the Midwest, they would be known as "hotheads." Because they profess sympathy for Puerto Rico, they are known by the somewhat benign name of "Nationalists."

What they're doing is striving for world-wide attention through violence. They claim credit for a dozen bombings which occurred recently in Washington, New York and Chicago. Similar bombings had been set off a year and a day before. Almost a quarter of a century ago, a group of Puerto Rican nationalists tried to kill the then-president of the United States, Harry S. Truman.

This may cause Americans to think about the status of Puerto Rico — but only may, because it's a subject most Americans ignore. We shouldn't — and not simply or even mainly because of this week's explosions.

The truth is the Puerto Rican question is becoming insistent, and the nationalists, represented by the terrorist bombers, are the minority in a three-cornered struggle over Puerto Rico's future.

Puerto Rico now has "Commonwealth" status — a sort of way station between independence and statehood. In a 1967 plebiscite, 99 per cent of Puerto Rico's electorate voted for either the Commonwealth or statehood. In 1972 elections for governor and legislature, the nationalist forces mustered only 4.5 per cent of the vote.

But that doesn't mean the Commonwealth enjoys the prospect of a long and happy future. Far from it; it is beginning to show signs of having outlived its time. Puerto Rico's economic boom has gone bust.

Unemployment is 19 per cent officially, but the true rate is believed to be 40 per cent, when those who've simply given up looking for a job are included. Since Puerto Rico must import fuel oil to generate electricity, electric bills have quintupled in less than two years. Puerto Rico must import food and other items from the United States; inflation here has pushed prices even higher there. Congressional orders to raise minimum wages in Puerto Rico have driven manufacturers from there to Haiti and the Dominican Republic.

Puerto Rico's economy, in short, is a shambles. Food stamps are distributed to 70 per cent of its people; economic growth of more than 10 per cent annually a few years ago reversed and declined by 2.4 per cent in fiscal 1974 and 3.5 per cent in 1975. All indicators continue to point downward.

Naturally enough, this has increased unrest on the island, and discontent with the present situation.

The Ad Hoc Advisory Group on Puerto Rico handed to President Ford this month its recommendations for the island's future, which amount to greater autonomy — a "permanent union" between the "Free Associated State of Puerto Rico" and this country, exempting Puerto Rico from U.S. environmental regulations and minimum wage standards and allowing it to limit immigration. Perhaps that might provide an answer, or at least the start toward one. But it seems clear that the present Commonwealth system has seen its day; delaying finding a cure for Puerto Rico's mounting ills can only encourage those nationalists who resort to terrorist tactics like those of Monday.

Decision With Some Weight

A landmark decision on airport noise damages was made a short time ago by a superior court judge in Los Angeles. Previously a group of families had been awarded a substantial sum for lowered property values resulting from the recurrent noise of Los Angeles International Airport takeoffs and landings. Now the judge has additionally made an award to 15 families for "emotional and mental stress" caused by the roar and whine of aircraft.

The ruling is of general interest because similar situations exist in the vicinity of many other airports.

Most of the complaints voiced in the California case were familiar: Loss of sleep, damage to hearing, inability to carry on normal phone conversations or hear radio or television programs, and so on. There was even complaint about "interference with the ability to engage in or to enjoy sexual relations."

This does not establish an overriding precedent, but it carries some weight. Authorities in communities throughout the nation are put on notice that unless airport noise is abated they can expect to be sued for damages not only to property values but also to the mind and spirit of those occupying the property.

Day Of Con Man

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

If this is an age when we're supposed to be living better and enjoying it more than any society in history, I don't think I want to be around 50 years from now. I don't know whether we can stand any more refinements.

PLAYING THE confidence game has become an accepted way of life. Bureaucrats accept money for work they do not do. Contractors build inferior buildings. It is preached that synthetic foods are far better in our diets than the real thing. We are asked to purchase expensive automobiles and leave them in the garage.

Turn out all lights and open all the windows in the house, we are told, so that we can save precious fuel — in order that Indianapolis can run a better 500-mile race and our space travelers can spend more time in the heavens spying on the Muscovites.

Printing more money may be a way to solve our problems, but I doubt it. Creating more jobs to run our federal, state and local agencies invariably makes it harder to get anything done.

Confidence men and women not only have been accepted into society but take on a certain prestige. They are glorified by the entertainment media. The poor suckers who nibbled at their bait are invariably pointed out as deserving of such treatments.

The frustrations one experiences are not alien to the people in well-structured careers, if that is any satisfaction. I saw not long ago where Rep. Carl Albert, the esteemed speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, was standing in the hallway of his apartment building, watching rainwater cascade through the roof and into eight plastic trash barrels in his quarters.

Understandably, Mr. Albert was groaning.

"What if I have a bunch of congressmen over?" Albert was asking. "This is a hell of a place for them to have to get through."

ALBERT AND his neighbors on the top floor of an eight-story apartment house had experienced identical frustrations over a period of a couple of months with each rainfall. Every 15 minutes during a heavy rain, the 55-gallon drums had to be emptied.

What were Mr. Albert and his neighbors doing about it? They were complaining, but apparently no one was listening. Albert said he personally had called the building's management countless times but never could get through to the owner. In fact, his landlord wouldn't even dignify the calls by acknowledging them.

Where was the owner of the apartment complex? The story didn't say, but he likely was attending some committee meeting in Washington on how to get along with ethnic neighbors or one that was studying the love-life of a grub worm.

We're not all looking for the easy buck, you say? Maybe not, but if you're not, you're being sadly outdistanced in this sprint for the tape.

Consider a recent collision between a city bus and a car which occurred in Chicago. The collision left 28 people complaining of injuries. Investigation proved that only five of that number had been involved in the accident. The rest had been in the neighborhood and had jumped on the bus and began feigning injuries.

You have to admit the courage of the police who investigated the incident and were bold enough to expose intrigue. The officers will be lucky if they don't wind up walking a midnight beat in some ghetto.

They offended the con man and that is a transgression that cannot be overlooked by some ambitious legal eagles.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

I am writing concerning an item on the front page of the Big Spring Herald on October 27, 1975, titled, "Cause Carried Much Too Far." I would like to know how the "reporter" and — or "official composer of headlines" arrived at the startling conclusion that, because a woman ran away from paying a cab fare, the "Women's Lib" movement was behind it. Had this never happened before the feminist movement began (whenever that was)? Did the woman, in outrunning the man, run with upraised clenched fist shouting "Women, arise," or "Down with men"? Did the Herald receive an anonymous letter from a member of the National Organization for Women claiming responsibility? Tell me, had the individual been black, would the headlines have screamed "Black Power Strikes Again"? Or, if the person were a Chicano, would they have read "La Raza Unida Is Alive and Working in West Texas"?

Accurate reporting of events concerning the feminist movement essential if women are to make any headway in the struggle for equality. If your reporters or headline writers want to editorialize, how about saving it for the editorial page and especially the "Rim" columns, where leaping to not-so-obvious conclusions is not uncommon.

Neal Barnaby (see same issue of Herald) must have some kindred spirits working on the Herald.

Note: (Barnaby is the County Road Engineer.)

Sincerely,
DONNIE E. COLLIER

Sir:

It comes as quite a disappointment to me to find that on the front page of the Herald someone should show their ignorance by blaming a serious matter such as Woman's Rights as the cause of the woman running from the taxi driver and not paying her fare.

It also makes me wonder who was the scapegoat for all those many years before women got fed up with being pushed down and out and decided not to put up with inequality any longer and began to assert themselves.

Oh, yes, everything was blamed on the Blacks, then the Chicanos and, at one time, even the Jews.

SUE DRAKE

(Ed. Note — Ms. Drake apparently was referring to a story which appeared in the Monday, Oct. 27, edition of the Herald, in which a cab driver complained he had been bilked of his fare by a passenger who fled the scene after a lighting from the cab. The article coincidentally was written by a woman reporter.)

Dear Sir:

The Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang would like to take this opportunity to thank you and your staff for a job well done on helping the Ice Capades be another great success.

Several years ago, the Gang took on this tremendous job of sponsoring this event. The Gang could not do such a task without your devotion. Thanks again for being there when we needed you.

Douglas Crisis

Rowland Evans

WASHINGTON — Secret hopes within the Supreme Court of avoiding any 5 to 4 decision on which ailing Justice William O. Douglas might cast the tiebreaking vote are conflicting with the necessity for a quick ruling on the federal election law.

ALTHOUGH NO SUBJECT is more taboo among Douglas' eight colleagues on the high court, it is known that the court's widely shared desire is to delay cases on which his vote might be decisive. Many close cases now before the court could simply be delayed, no matter what the inconvenience or unfairness to litigants.

But not so with the federal election law, revolutionizing the financing of American politics. The court is under a specific mandate from Congress to rule on its constitutionality with "the greatest possible expedition." Indeed, on Nov. 10, the court will hear arguments for a full day — the longest time allotted a single case in years.

That means no delays, even if Douglas' vote would decide one or more of the issues, each to be ruled on separately, raised by the new law.

When Douglas returned to the court's fall session Sept. 29 following intensive therapy for the stroke he suffered last New Year's Eve, prevailing sentiment was that he would test his abilities and, if he found them wanting, would quickly retire.

THAT IS NO longer the case, according to close students of the court. Today's prevailing sentiment is that Douglas has made up his mind to stay on the court even though most observers who have watched him closely have no idea whether his competence or physical capacity is sufficient to handle the rigorous responsibilities of his critically important office.

The harsh truth is that no member of the court — and no outsider — has any legal right to demand Douglas' medical reports. Careful thought has been given to a possible new law providing for expert medical examiners to rule annually on the physical and mental competence of all federal judges (who are appointed for life and can be removed only by impeachment and conviction).

But to include sitting judges under such a law would be a retroactive application. Thus, most legal scholars rule the proposal out as a way to test Douglas' competence.

That puts the court and the nation at the mercy of Bill Douglas' own whim.

WHEN ASKED RECENTLY whether he might retire, Douglas replied that "the thought has never crossed my mind." With 36 years on the high court (longer than any other Justice in history), many politicians think Douglas intends to stay there until after the 1976 election in hopes of a new Democratic President naming a liberal replacement. That would assure the closely-divided court from swinging strongly conservative.

So, say legal scholars close to the Supreme Court, only an act of God can prevent a Justice of doubtful competence from casting probable swing votes on the constitutionality of the election law, thereby shaping the American political process of the future.

RED INK REPUBLICANS
The Republican National Committee, once a rare model of fiscal responsibility in politics, is in danger of dipping so deeply into red ink that its 145 staffers may be given a Scrooge-like Christmas this year: a layoff that could last throughout December.

Strong Recovery?

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Can the sharp improvement in the Gross National Product during the third quarter be continued into this, the final three-month period of the year? If only it could be.

If it could be you would find Wall Street forgetting its worries, workers being added to payrolls at a near-record pace, profits soaring, and consumer buying getting caught up in the enthusiasm.

The third quarter is being viewed, however, as something unique. Seldom can two such powerful quarters follow each other, and business economists don't expect the fourth quarter to be an exception.

Estimates vary, as of course they always do where economists are involved, but the rate of improvement during the final three months of 1975 is expected to range down to zero by some forecasters.

In the third quarter the GNP soared at an annual rate of 11.2 per cent.

A surge of that intensity would appear to contain energy sufficient to keep it going, albeit at a slower pace, for several more months. An important ingredient, however, seems to have been missing.

Surveys show that throughout the advance of the third quarter millions of Americans were almost totally unaware of any improvement. If the surveys are to be believed, consumers remained cautious.

In fact, one survey by a very large commercial bank indicated that at the very time the economy was on its upsurge, most Americans were complaining that it was getting worse.

While consumer spending did rise, especially for automobiles, it was inconsistent. Some department stores continued to report unsatisfactory sales. A variety of durable goods retailers were less than satisfied.

Much of the increased production appears to have gone back into inventories rather than to the retail consumer. And some of the goods that did reach the consumer were snapped up in fear of higher prices later.

Funnel Chest Is Tendon Problem

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter is just 13 months old and has what her doctor calls a "funnel chest." He says it is not a very serious one at this point. We have discussed it and I have not been able to understand much about it.

I would like to know what causes it? Is there anything to do about it? Can it be cured or fixed now or in later years? — Mrs. G. C.

A funnel chest, called "pectus excavatum," is a depression of the breastbone (sternum), the vertical structure to which the ribs are attached. In funnel chest, the depression is at the lower portion of the rib cage and it causes the characteristic bowing in of the chest. Thus the name. Its cause is uncertain. One theory is that there is a maldevelopment of the front muscles of the diaphragm — a shortening of a central tendon attaching to the breastbone which exerts an abnormal inward pressure.

My consultant, Dr. J. H. Hertzler, a pediatric surgeon, tells me this is an unusual condition. He believes it is caused by parts of the fetus exerting abnormal pressures on the breastbone. Since it may be found in several members of the same family, hereditary factors are suggested.

This birth defect is serious only when the depression is severe enough to cause a "crowding" of organs that lie behind the area — the heart and lungs notably. Your physician apparently feels your daughter's case does not fit that category as yet, so it poses no immediate problem.

Later, if necessary, surgery can correct the depression. This is done after the fourth year, and is possible up until puberty. An X-ray of the chest from the front and the sides will provide continuing information regarding the progress of the condition.

The child should be watched for such symptoms as undue shortness of breath. When the child can cooperate, lung function tests will help keep you updated on progress. Heart function will also be monitored from time to time to detect any impairment.

Some surgeons are reluctant to suggest repair of the defect unless it can be demonstrated that the condition poses an actual threat to health.

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

November 3, 1775:

In July, New Hampshire's Royal Governor, John Wentworth, fled the colony. Today, Congress responds to the October 18 request of its New Hampshire delegates that the residents of that colony be authorized to create their own government. Congress responds affirmatively: "That it be recommended to the provincial convention of New Hampshire to call a full and free representation of the people, and that the representatives, if they think it necessary, establish such a form of government, as, in their judgment, will best produce the happiness of the people, and most effectually secure peace and good order in the province, during the continuance of the present dispute between Great Britain and the colonies." On November 4, Congress grants similar authority to South Carolina.

Gov. Edwards Is Re-Elected

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Gov. Edwin Edwards, as expected, was re-elected to a second term as Louisiana's chief executive Saturday with more than 60 per cent of the vote.

With polls consistently indicating he would poll between 60 and 65 per cent, Edwards had been confident from the outset, hardly campaigning until the final 10 days.

With 2,722 of the state's 2,727 precincts reported, Edwards had 744,009 votes, or just over 62 per cent.

State Sen. Bob Jones, son of a former governor, was second with 289,554 votes, or just over 24 per cent.

Veteran Secretary of State Wade O. Martin ran third with 145,571 votes, approximately 12 per cent.

Three other candidates — Ken Lewis, Cecilia Pizzo and Roswell Thompson — had less than one per cent each.

An even more overwhelming victory, however, was scored by Lt. Gv. James Fitzmorris who served notice he would try to use his strong showing to move up to the governor's chair in four years.

Fitzmorris is a former city councilman who narrowly missed being elected mayor of New Orleans shortly before winning his first term as lieutenant governor four years ago by drawing more votes than any other statewide candidate.

He did it again this year with 905,782 votes, or just under 82 per cent.

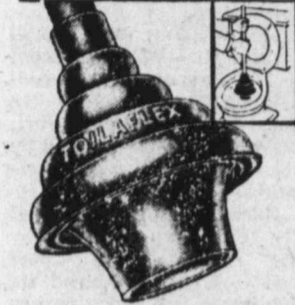

Three other candidates — Republican Lance Britton, William Bowen and Frederick Perkins — had roughly six per cent each.

More than 70 per cent of the state's 1.7 million voters turned out for the balloting, the first under Louisiana's new open election law which abolished party primaries.

Under the new system all candidates appear on the same ballot regardless of party affiliation. Those who get 50 per cent or more of the votes cast in the first election take office. The others meet in a runoff Dec. 13.

Edwards said his victory showed that "once again the people had spoken out that they are willing to look forward, that the old ways are behind us and that more and more the new ways unfold to provide us better opportunities."

Male Inmates Claim Sex Discrimination

HOUSTON (AP) — Seven inmates of the Ellis Unit of the Texas prison system have filed suit in federal court claiming their constitutional rights are violated because they must wear short hair.

The suit, filed against W. J. Estelle, director of the Texas Department of Corrections, charges women prisoners can choose the length, style and color of their hair but men are not allowed to wear beards or mustaches and can have only minimal sideburns.

"Men stripped of their usual appearance suffer personal defacement and deprivation of their sense of identity," the suit said.

The inmates also complained that women prisoners are allowed to make a phone call every 60 days and to decorate their cells but men have neither privilege.

Malone-Hogan Hospital Stages United Venture

When Malone-Hogan Hospital Inc. opened its doors to the public March 16 of this year, Big Spring citizens converged upon the hospital some 8,000 strong. Since that time, the hospital has enjoyed a steady growth in census; volunteers have given close to 2,000 hours to the patients; and the response from the community has been tremendous.

Last week, employees at MHH decided to give the United Way drive of Big Spring a hand by launching its own drive to encourage employees to give to the United Way. As an incentive toward the goal of 100 per cent participation, Administrator Norman Knox announced that the hospital would give a 19 inch black and white TV at a drawing to be held at the end of the drive; all employees giving a minimum of one hour's pay would be eligible to win.

To add to the fun of the United Way drive of Big Spring, two MHH volunteers, Mrs. Sam Watts and Mrs. Phil Irwin, designed and set up a unique display for the drive. A Percentage Tree, complete with black-birds representing each of the 15 departments, tallies up each day's giving and registers the percentage gained. A real "live" scarecrow, surrounded by all the field accompaniments natural to any self-respecting scarecrow, stands in the hospital lobby against a backdrop of rough hewn boards and old time barn tools. Fall foliage and dried arrangements add color to the display.

So far, eight of the departments are 100 per cent in participation: Fiscal service, Dietary, Maintenance, Central Supply, Anesthesia, Surgery, Physical Therapy and Pharmacy.

Hodes Jazz Four Well Received

The Art Hodes Jazz Four offered members of the Community Concert Association much more than a chance to come in out of the rain at the municipal auditorium here Saturday night.

Music for the ear that is offended easily by the raucous sound and music for the mind that remembers the dulcet approach of the 1930s came across the stage in the two-hour concert.

It was difficult to understand Hodes' patter, the acoustical problem being what it is in the auditorium, but it didn't matter. The crowd had come to hear the Jazz Four's repertoire and it got a generous helping.

This was the first of four Community Concert programs planned during the 1975-76 season. It will be hard for any act to follow it. The general consensus was — this group can come back any time it feels like it.

Jazz and jazz bands don't vie for attention the way they once did. Today's restless youth prefers the nervous energy emanating from hard rock, but some haunting sounds can come out of the sax, the clarinet, the stringed instrument, the drums and the disciplined piano and they all blend surprisingly well under Hodes.

The manner in which Franz Jackson coaxes the sweet sounds from his clarinets and his sax, one can almost see a mesmerized cobra emerging from a wicker basket.

Hillard Brown doesn't abuse the drums. They respond to his delicate touch.

Electric Chair In NY Used AC

WASHINGTON (AP) — With three weeks of intensive work in December 1985, George Westinghouse and his associates, working from a French model, developed a practical transformer for high-voltage alternating current. This meant that electricity could be transmitted long distances at high voltage and low cost and then stepped down to whatever voltage a customer required.

Much of the country's burgeoning new industry, however, was committed to direct current, which was not nearly as flexible as alternating. These big-business interests pronounced Westinghouse's high-voltage system a deadly danger. Cities and communities were persuaded to pass laws forbidding its transmittal through their streets. As a final coup de grace they thought, his enemies induced New York state to adopt the Westinghouse high-voltage system for use in executions.

However, within a few decades, 97 per cent of the electricity in the United States was generated by the alternating current that is almost universal today.

New Director Of ABC Orders Statewide Raids

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The new director of the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission (ABC) has ordered a series of statewide raids to vigorously police Texas bars which violate the state's liquor control laws.

"We're going to stay with it as long as we have to," says Luke Robinson, a Church of Christ deacon who took over the reins of the ABC on Oct. 1. "I'm not a prohibitionist, but I believe in enforcing the law the way it was written."

Since his crackdown began three weeks ago, Robinson's agents have arrested 294 drunks and slapped 71 bars with administrative citations. An Oct. 24 strike in Dallas resulted in 38 arrests and 26 cases against licensed liquor establishments.

"We were in Dallas last weekend, and we'll be back from time to time until I can get this mess straightened out," Robinson, a lawyer, told the Austin bureau of the Dallas Times Herald.

ABC legal advisers are currently studying the law to determine if topless go-go establishments and other "skin houses" that sell liquor are vulnerable to Robinson's raids.

"We're definitely going to look at establishments that permit exposure of an individual's person," Robinson said. "It's a violation of the Texas Liquor Control Act to permit any lewd, immoral conduct. It's going on in Texas, and I'm going to root it out."

The state Penal Code prohibits sexual intercourse, sexual contact and bestiality in a public place, but does not mention nude performances. The law which created the ABC authorizes it to cancel the liquor licenses of establishments that offend "the public sense of decency."

Robinson ordered the creation of a permanent strike force within his agency after initial raids Oct. 11 revealed "that we have quite a few intoxicated people in Texas."

In addition to corraling drunks, the strike force was ordered to strictly enforce "the entire spectrum of the law," including sale of liquor in "dry" areas, after hours and by unauthorized dealers—bootleggers.

The raids haven't been without incident. One ABC agent was bitten on the arm during a raid in Amarillo in the Panhandle, and another agent found his car tires slashed.

"I have no objection to people drinking," says Robinson, stressing that his agents are out only to arrest those who drink to excess. "We like to think we got those 294 (arrested drunks) before they got on our highways and killed someone. We're going to continue this crackdown."

Urged To Work For Orderly Desegregation

DALLAS (AP) — A social agency of the Baptist General Convention of Texas has urged the church's more than two million Texas members to work for orderly desegregation of housing and schools.

The report from the Texas Baptist Christian Life Commission also asks members not to abandon city neighborhoods "in a panic of white flight."

The recommendations came in the commission's annual report which was approved during the annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention of Texas in Dallas last week.

Dr. James Dunn, secretary of the commission, said the suggestions were made in an effort to maintain quality public school education in "this time of educational crisis."

The report also calls on Christians to avoid rallies expressing bigotry and hatred, to work to overcome racism no matter how subtle, to serve as volunteers in public schools and to work through the democratic system to implement change.

Dunn said the report also implies, though it does not state, that Texas Baptists should not move their children to parochial or private schools to avoid the problems of racial confrontation in public schools.

Despite Rain, Crowds Flock To St. Lawrence

By MARJ CARPENTER
Crowds poured onto the grounds at St. Lawrence Sunday in spite of two inches of rain and sloppy mud as far as the eye could see.

Parishioners eased the problem as much as possible by firming up a pathway from the community hall to the second building with sacks and by placing board walks to the area where sausage was sold.

The weather neither diminished the crowd nor its enthusiasm for the meal which is traditionally served at the St. Lawrence Festival the first Sunday in each November.

In fact, small children may have enjoyed the event a little bit more than usual as they ran through the mud splattering it in every direction.

People gathered in the grassy area by the church for the afternoon auction and poured into the community hall Saturday night for the annual dance.

Both the dinner and supper meals saw an overflow crowd fill the hall. The group kept the line moving fast as it served the traditional barbecue, homemade German sausage and all the trimmings.

Their selling point on the sausage is that after people taste it at the meal, a lot of them buy it by the pound to take home.

Other attractions were a homemade food booth and game booths along with a room filled with chairs for bingo.

The congregation greeted the day warily as the skies continued to pour forth moisture which had fallen all night. About mid-morning the sun came out and by the time the big auction was held, the sun was very much in evidence, shining brightly on a crowd which parked cars all over the parking lot and up and down the farm-to-market road for half a mile in either direction.

Spoken for the St. Lawrence Catholic Church, who have hosted the event for 26 years, expressed gratitude to the West Texans who attended.

Fact-Finding Mission Is Scheduled At BSSH

Two representatives of the U.S. Justice Department will conduct a fact-finding mission at Big Spring State Hospital, Nov. 6 and 7. The men will be ex-commissioners of Mental Health from other states, and probably psychiatrists, according to Dr. Wallace Hunter, superintendent of the Big Spring State Hospital.

The two officials will represent the Justice Department as amici Curiae, or "friends of the court," in connection with a class action suit filed in the U.S. District Court in Dallas against the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. The class action suit was originally filed against the Terrell State Hospital, April 30, 1974. When the district judge refused to interfere with operations of Terrell Hospital alone the suit was expanded to include all state hospitals, according to a confidential source close to the original complainants.

The Justice Department originally joined the investigation because of an expressed concern about the civil rights of patients. The department is now a neutral party in the suit but may choose to take sides if the evidencewarrants.

"The Big Spring Hospital is in pretty good shape for this fact-finding survey," said Dr. Hunter. "The hospital has had many recent improvements. The number of patients has been reduced from 600 to 500, which has decreased overcrowding. The doctor-patient ratio has been increased, and all units and most physical facilities have been upgraded," he added.

Justice Department participant observer groups will also visit several other Texas hospitals. On Thursday and Friday, observers will be at San Antonio State Hospital, and will tour hospitals at Wichita Falls and Rusk, Nov. 9 and 10.

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are forecast today for most of the East. Rain and showers are also forecast for the Northwest and western Plains. Mild weather is expected for most of the country but cooler air is expected for western New England.

Revenue-Sharing Funds Get Commission Backing

By JIM WERRELL

Howard County Commissioners unanimously approved a resolution asking that general revenue sharing be re-enacted by the first session of the 94th congress, at a meeting today, 9 a.m. Re-enactment would provide counties with advance dollar figures that could be used for more efficient planning of programs and budgets.

Howard County commissioners have joined with officials from counties across Texas and the entire nation in promoting the resolution. Hopes are that revenue sharing figures will be made available for the early part of the fiscal 1976 year in order that they may be incorporated in long term effective planning.

A meeting of the nation's county commissioners in Washington has been scheduled for Nov. 18. The Howard County Commissioners Court will give serious consideration to attending in full, or with as many members as possible.

The Texas delegation to the meeting is now scheduled to leave for Washington from Dallas, 10 a.m., Nov. 17. The delegation will leave Washington, 6 p.m., Nov. 18.

Commissioners also heard a report from Neel Barnaby, county engineer, regarding the land drainage project near Knott. "You are looking at a real disheartened engineer," Barnaby reported to the commissioners.

He said that work would continue today but the recent heavy rain has proved a real setback for the project. "In spite of a tremendous effort, we seem to get wiped out by the rain every week," he said.

Barnaby also reported that the three men reviewed by the commissioners' court last week had been hired. He submitted two more names of men he has interviewed for the court's appraisal.

In other business, commissioners heard a report from Jerry Mancil, private insurance agent, regarding an insurance renewal policy. The court expressed a desire to increase boiler insurance for the courthouse from a maximum coverage of $250,000 to $500,000. Mancil will study the proposal and bring his findings to a future meeting.

CATTLE QUARANTINE THREAT

Fight Brews With Texas Ranchers, Uncle Sam.

DALLAS (AP) — A conflict brewing between Texas cattlemen and the federal government threatens to bring a cattle quarantine which could cripple the already financially troubled industry in the state.

If the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) were to slap a quarantine on Texas' 17 million head of cattle, officials say the move could result in annual losses of more than $250 million and disrupt the teetering feedlot industry.

The problem is brucellosis, commonly called Bang's disease, a highly infectious bacterial disease that can spread like wildfire among cattle. In human beings, the disease is called undulant fever.

The two sides of the conflict: —The USDA charges that the state and the cattlemen are not doing enough even to control Bang's disease, much less eradicate it.

—Cattlemen claim the program already in force is costing them millions of dollars a year and is not doing the job because the so-called "experts" don't know enough about brucellosis.

Bexar (San Antonio) and El Paso counties each have reported four confirmed cases of undulant fever in 1975. Dallas and Tarrant (Fort Worth) counties each have counted one case of the communicable disease out of the statewide total of 23 cases, according to Dr. M. S. Dickerson, chief of the Bureau of Communicable Disease Services in the Texas Department of Health Resources.

Even if the USDA stops short of a technical quarantine, the cattle industry could be seriously crippled unless it comes up with a satisfactory program to combat Bang's disease, says Dr. Wilson Boaz, chief veterinarian for an 18-county area in North Central Texas.

Boaz says only 23 of Texas' 254 counties are totally free of the disease. The power to slap an embargo on Texas cattle already is on the books, says Boaz, who works both for the state and the federal governments.

But T. A. Cunningham of Goliad, president of the Independent Cattlemen's Association, says he is not frightened by the possibility of a quarantine.

Nine of the 13 cattle-producing states have a problem with brucellosis, which thrives in wet areas. "Less than 1 per cent of Texas cattle have brucellosis — no more than 50 years ago. We just have more cattle now," says Cunningham.

"What the federal and state governments need to do is go out and spend some money on research and leave us cattlemen alone in the meantime. We don't need tougher standards until we know what we are doing."

Cunningham maintains there is no menace to human beings at the current level of infection.

"Only 20 people in Texas have come down with undulant fever this year, and most of those are veterinarians and cattlemen," he said.

"Heck, look at the dairymen. They can continue to sell milk from a cow which has brucellosis."

A man identified as Benito Marquez was arrested early Saturday morning at 11th Place and Birdwell hiding behind a mailbox on Howard College property. Police said he was holding a gun.

Marquez was charged with carrying a prohibited weapon. The police had gone to the scene when they got a report of "several persons with guns."

Treat At Webb Includes Hook

An alleged incident of a fish hook inside a candy bar in the Webb Air Force Base housing area dampened the enthusiasm of trick or treaters there Friday night.

A father of a small boy reported that he found the fish hook while he was cutting up the candy bar for his son, whom he said had a dental problem.

The youth told Webb security officers that he did not know where he had gotten the candy, but that he had not been off of the base.

The Security Police made a public address announcement immediately in the entire area suggesting that all children check their candy. Base personnel had also been warned through the base newspaper, published that day, to check "trick or treat" items.

The incident is still under investigation by Webb security police, according to Capt. Dick Risk, Webb information officer.

Three Major Suits Will Influence MH-MR Suit

By JAMES WERRELL

In order to better understand the pending class action suit filed by Dallas Legal Services against the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, a history of some of the major cases regarding Mental Health treatment is helpful.

According to Dr. Wallace Hunter, superintendent of Big Spring State Hospital, there are three major cases to be considered.

The first case is that of Wyatt vs. Stickney, in the state of Alabama, 1971. Wyatt, a patient committed to state treatment, was represented in a case against Stickney, a state commissioner of mental health.

It was maintained in Wyatt's behalf that as a mental patient whose liberty had been deprived, he had the right to "adequate treatment." State courts then defined "adequate treatment" through a set of standards including a required ratio of 207.5 staff members for every 250 patients, as well as 120 other criteria. This set of standards became mandatory for every state hospital in Alabama.

"TOO RESTRICTIVE" — There is still much experimentation with ratios in different parts of the country. Although we are well over the Alabama requirements for patient-staff ratio here, we find many of the Alabama criteria too restrictive," said Dr. Hunter. "Staff requirements vary a great deal with the type of patient. California has gone so far as to try to determine by computer how much time it takes to care for various patients, down to the minute," he added.

The second major case is Donaldson vs. O'Connor, in the state of Florida, 1972. Donaldson, a patient for 14 years was represented in a case against O'Connor, superintendent of the hospital in which Donaldson was committed. It was maintained on Donaldson's behalf that he had the right to refuse medication or prison-like environment."

"This is what is known as

Electro-Charge-Therapy, on religious grounds. He was in a hospital, according to Dr. Hunter, that had one doctor for 800 patients. The case was eventually heard by the U.S. Supreme Court this year which determined in favor of Donaldson that a patient has the right to accept or refuse treatment.

The third case is the one now pending in the state of Texas, technically termed Jenkins vs. Cowley. This began as a class action suit filed by Dallas Legal Services in U.S. District Court in Dallas against Terrell State Hospital, April 30, 1974.

"RIGHTS DEPRIVED" — A person close to the original complainant in the case, who wished to remain unidentified, claimed in a telephone interview in February that the Terrell State Hospital kept some patients in isolation rooms, deprived them of their rights to send and receive mail and forced them to live in their own excrement without toilet facilities.

According to the same source, the judge in the case refused to interfere with the operations of Terrell Hospital alone. The suit was therefore expanded to include all Texas state hospitals.

"This could be the most important suit involving right to adequate treatment in the nation's history, which is why the Justice Department is in on it," said Dr. Hunter. "The guidelines set here will probably be followed by the other 49 states," he added.

Among the claims made in the suit is one that patients in many state hospitals are subject to "severely injurious, cruel and inhuman treatment." The claim further states that "many of the patients exhibit stigmatized and stereotyped behavior such as constant head bobbing, unusual body postures, etc., which is not the result of mental illness or retardation or physical disabilities, but instead is the result of prolonged deprivation in a barren, prison-like environment."

"This is what is known as the 'social breakdown syndrome,' described in the early '60s," said Dr. Hunter. "It is the result of institutionalization and a restrictive environment. There are no such patients here," (at Big Spring State Hospital) he added.

The Alabama criteria may become important to this case, according to Dr. Hunter. He claims that Dallas Legal Services will offer to settle with the state if the Alabama standards are adopted here.

He further states that this would be nearly impossible. "The state hospitals in Alabama haven't even been able to comply to those standards," he said. "Different patients require different intervention and rehabilitation. The chronic patient requires less care by physicians, nurses, and therapists than the acutely disturbed. In many cases the amount of care may depend on the age or size of a patient. This makes rigid criteria very difficult to follow," he added.

In an interview earlier this year, the late Dr. Preston Harrison, previous superintendent of Big Spring State Hospital, said, "We are not doing everything that should be done to protect the patient and provide him a better atmosphere, but we are doing everything we can with the money we have."

He also said that the local hospital is understaffed, and has always been understaffed, and that it takes a lot of people to keep the patients from abusing each other or themselves.

He said that patient abuse is not common, but in a ward of 60 patients with two attendants, some incidents may go undetected.

"TOUR UNDERTAKEN" — Soon after that interview, Dallas Legal Service attorneys, state Attorney General representatives, Federal Investigators and others conducted an evidence-gathering tour at the Big Spring State Hospital.

Mrs. Aglaia Mauzey, DLS attorney, offered her opinions about the hospital after the tour. She did not say everything was fine at the hospital, according to Dr. Harrison, but did say that the hospital is really doing more for patients than the group had expected. She also praised the Community House and the Work Village at the hospital for their "new concept" in treatment procedures.

Dr. Hunter says that there is nothing to hide at the hospital and that he will cooperate fully with investigators. "I think that the two men that are coming here will be surprised at the excellent quality of care and the general atmosphere at the hospital. I am sure that they will be more interested in the care by doctors and nurses than the physical aspects of the hospital," he said.

Gun Charge Is Lodged Here

A man identified as Benito Marquez was arrested early Saturday morning at 11th Place and Birdwell hiding behind a mailbox on Howard College property. Police said he was holding a gun.

Marquez was charged with carrying a prohibited weapon. The police had gone to the scene when they got a report of "several persons with guns."

Bodine of Weatherford; two sisters, Hulda Jacks and Allie Levins, both of Abilene; two brothers, Jim Bodine of Colorado City and Fred Bodine of Abilene; three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

CBs Are Still The Hot Items

Six Citizens Band radios and a doctor's bag were among items stolen from parked cars over the weekend in Big Spring.

Among the CB radios stolen over the weekend was one reported stolen Sunday night by Mrs. Russell, 3219 Cornell. Mary Janet Noyes had one pirated from her car Friday night while parked at Memorial Stadium parking lot.

John Currie had one taken from his vehicle parked at 903 Dallas. Leroy Spires had a CB stolen from his vehicle while parked at Universal Body Works.

Leroy Kirkpatrick, 2006 Scurry, reported a CB radio taken Saturday night. In another auto burglary, Dr. Clyde Thomas had a medical bag stolen from his car at 400 Washington.

Electric Chair Punishment Pitch

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Prosecutors planned to read a statement by Edward E. Corley to a jury here today in their efforts to send him to the electric chair for one of four East Texas slayings in which he is accused.

Attorneys spent last week selecting a 12-member jury to determine whether Corley is guilty of capital murder in the September 1974 shotgun slaying of Vicki Morris, 20, an organist who was kidnapped from a church near Tyler.

District Court Judge C. C. Anderson scheduled testimony to begin at 9 a.m. today.

Judge Anderson ruled previously that Corley's statement was given voluntarily to investigators in the case.

James Knowles, a court-appointed defense lawyer for Corley, contended that investigators resorted to "psychological trickery" to obtain the statement.

Although a Smith County jury ruled Corley was sane after his arrest last year, Knowles is expected to raise new questions about the mental condition of the 31-year-old construction worker defendant.

East Texas officers charged that Corley kidnapped Miss Morris from a rural church in September 1974 while she was practicing her music. Then, they allege, he killed her with a shotgun blast.

Corley also is accused of murdering Mrs. Jerry Wright and her 6-year-old son in a mobile home in the same area, and of killing Mrs. Louise (Dolly) Jonas near Lake Tyler with another shotgun blast.

The trial was moved from Tyler to Waco after efforts to find an unbiased jury proved unsuccessful.

Horton Denies Business Links With Billie Sol

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — Midland businessman banker Ray Horton says he has never had any financial dealings with convicted West Texas wheelerdealer Billie Sol Estes.

Horton was publicly linked with Estes several months ago when it was reported the Internal Revenue Service had undertaken a new probe of possible hidden funds belonging to Estes.

In an interview in its Sunday editions, the Midland Reporter-Telegram quoted Horton as saying, "Bill is a friend of mine and has been for years, and I have tried to be a friend to him and his family since he came out of prison.

"But never in his lifetime has Bill Estes loaned me any money or put any money into any venture I have ever undertaken," Horton said.

Estes, a West Texas promoter, was convicted in a multi-million dollar fertilizer swindle which crashed in 1962. He was released from prison in 1971 after serving six years of a 15-year sentence.

Horton told the Reporter-Telegram that the IRS intensified a probe of his own affairs after the publicity involving Estes and slapped tax liens of $127,255 on Horton's West Texas holdings.

Electrical Shock Kills Former Resident Of BS

ODESSA — A 22-year-old former Big Spring youth was dead on arrival at Medical Center Hospital Saturday night, and a 20-year-old companion was flown to Brooke Army Hospital after they were shocked when an antenna they were installing came in contact with an electric power line.

Killed was Lindy D. Love, who lived in Big Spring until he was 12.

His companion, Ricky Newton, was in guarded condition at the burn center in San Antonio.

The accident happened after dark during a heavy rain about 8 p.m. Saturday.

Justice of the Peace Manuel Valles pronounced Love dead at the hospital. Valles said the ruling will be accidental death by electrocution.

Love and Newton were in the process of moving into a mobile home in the Belle Mobile Home Trailer Park. They were trying to erect a 30-foot citizen band radio antenna which came in contact with the power line.

Patrolman Jack Hargis said Newton managed to make his way into the mobile home and was found in a back bedroom. Emergency medical technicians, James Brunson and Robert Gawlik were unable to revive Love when they transported him to the hospital.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Hubbard-Kelly Funeral Home with burial in Sunset Memorial Gardens with the Rev. M. P. Williams officiating.

The youth was born Sept. 27, 1953 in Big Spring. He was a graduate of Permian High School in 1972 and a member of the Assembly of God Church.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Love, Odessa; a brother, Danny Love, Odessa; and his grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Love of Lubbock and Mrs. Lottie Ray, Big Spring.

Papers Deny Price Fix

BALTIMORE (AP) — Spokesmen for the Baltimore Sun papers and the Baltimore News American have denied allegations that their papers participated in a price fixing scheme earlier this year.

Baltimore's three daily newspapers are being investigated by the Maryland attorney general's office for "conscious parallelism," a type of price fixing, the Washington Post quoted sources as saying.

The Post also said Sunday that it was the subject of a separate, unrelated investigation, launched by the state attorney general after the paper decided to revise its distribution procedures.

The Baltimore Sun and Evening Sun, both owned by the A.S. Abell Co., and the News American, a Hearst Corp. paper, raised their newsstand prices simultaneously last August from 10 cents to 15 cents.

Donald H. Patterson, general manager of the Sunpapers, denied the price fixing allegations and said the A.S. Abell Co. did not consult with the News American before raising its prices.

Mark F. Collins, publisher of the News American, agreed with Patterson's statement, and added he had received no official notice of such an investigation.

"Until I am served with such official notice, I think it best that I refrain from further comment," Collins said.

All three papers cited rising production costs when they announced the price increase in August.

Henry R. Lord, deputy attorney general, said the Post investigation was begun because "we received more than one complaint alleging that the Post was engaged in conduct which would tend to eliminate competition from the Washington Star."

Violent Deaths Dip

Life and limb proved vastly safer for Texans during the weekend than ordinarily is the case.

Aside from rainy weather to discourage highway travel across much of the state Sunday, there was no apparent reason for a sharp lowering of the usual death toll from violence.

The Associated Press handled reports of just three fatalities between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday, including two in traffic.

Authorities at Tulsa say a Grinnell, Kans., couple was killed Saturday in a car-truck collision five miles south of that Panhandle town. They were as Harvey Suter, 63, and Lois Michael Suter, 63.

Police were investigating the cause of death for Samuel Horn, 33, of Amarillo. His body was found Saturday in a hotel room on the city's west side.

Man Is Caught Inside Store

A man was caught inside McCrory's dime store at 200 Main at 5:08 p.m. Sunday. The northwest plate glass window had been broken.

Police stopped to investigate the incident and spotted the man. Charges were pending this morning.

FIRES

Gregg Street Cleaners, Monday morning, 9 a.m. Smoke but no fire damage. Out on arrival of trucks.

GALA ARTIST — Rheata Peeler White works on a pastoral scene that is familiar to most Southwesterners. She will be one of the artists present at the Gala Evening for the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

Rheata White Will Display Art At Gala

Rheata Peeler White loves her home in the Southwest, and is happiest when capturing its scenic beauty on canvas. In the fall of the year, when the prairie is colored in shades of brown and gold is when she "just has to get out her sketch pad and try to put it down the way she sees it".

Ms. White is just one of the many area artists who has agreed to bring her collection of canvases to the Gala Evening for the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center on Nov. 4 at the Big Spring Country Club. She will offer her work to guests and will donate 10 per cent of the sale price to the Rehabilitation Center.

She is well prepared for her avocation to artistic expression. She has studied Art Technique at Texas Technological College; has completed a course of study from the Minneapolis Art Institute; and has been tutored by Dr. Emilio Baballero, F.R.S.A., West Texas State University, Canyon.

Ms. White is also an accomplished artist in the field of commercial floral design, and this has been most beneficial in helping her to learn the basics of color coordination, as well as giving her an opportunity to experiment with composition and arrangement of shapes and forms. Many of her creations for the floral industry are mirrored in her paintings.

She works in all mediums but prefers acrylic, as she feels that this media lends itself well to her landscapes, miniatures of florals and still life. She works at home, and only when the mood strikes. She has never set a deadline or quota for herself, preferring to let her creativity set its own pace. She has been painting since 1963, and says that it is a most rewarding outlet for her expressive urges. Viewing a representative display of her work will certainly be a rewarding experience for anyone who appreciates fine art.

Hamby Is Speaker For B&PW Club

Ricky Hamby, a local attorney, spoke to the Business and Professional Women's Club at the Tuesday evening meeting of the club. The meeting was held at Cokers' Restaurant.

His subject concerned preoccupation with trivialities rather than with real problems and the need to get our priorities straight and re-arrange our thinking to get the real problems solved.

Hamby said that too much idleness, mental laziness and complacency are just some of the causes for this condition. He stated that we are inclined to ignore or shut out such problems as world hunger, increase in crime, declining morality and vanishing freedoms for the more pleasant things such as keeping up with our favorite sports and shows.

Hamby said that one possible cause for this preoccupation is our atomic, pushbutton world. We do not have to concentrate on where our food, clothing and shelter come from. The attitude of letting the government handle the problems is easy to fall back on.

During the business meeting Mrs. Garland Morrison presided. She announced that the next meeting would be at 7 p.m., Nov. 11 in the Pioneer Natural Gas Flame Room. Ms. Oneita Hardy, chairman of the public relations committee, in charge of the program.

Center Point HD Club Has Meeting

The Center Point Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday afternoon at Kentwood Center with Mrs. Bill Eggleston and Mrs. Florence Rhoten as hostesses.

Mrs. Aldan Fyan presided at the meeting. Mrs. John Couch was welcomed as a new member. Mrs. Rhoten read Phil. 4 for the devotional. Mrs. Eggleston led the prayer. Members answered roll call by quoting their favorite proverb.

Committee chairmen were selected at the meeting. They are Mrs. L. J. Davidson, yearbook; Mrs. Bob Wren, family life; Mrs. C. R. Orr, county fair exhibits; Mrs. John Couch, 4-H; Mrs. D. H. Griffith, cultural arts and recreation;

Sister Says She And Dog Speak The Same Language

DEAR ABBY: Do you believe that dogs can understand human language? My sister, Carol, insists that they can. At least she says her poodle can.

Carol went on a three-week vacation and left "Pisher" in a kennel. When she returned she said Pisher was furious with her that he wouldn't look her in the face for five days. Carol took the dog in her arms, and he turned his head away. Then she said, "If I promise never to put you in a kennel again, will you forgive me?"

She claims the poodle looked at her with love and understanding and actually nodded his head as if to say, "Yes, I forgive you." Then he nuzzled her and started to lick her hand to show his appreciation and affection.

Carol says she knows that Pisher understood every word she said, and she'll never put him in a kennel again because she promised she wouldn't.

Can you believe this? Or do

Mrs. Bill Eggleston, health; Mrs. H. L. Stamps, safety; and Mrs. Fannie Mae Eakers, citizenship.

Mrs. Griffith was chosen as personal chairman with Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Couch appointed as coworkers. They were asked to formulate rules and regulations for club assistance to the sick and bereaved members.

Mrs. Wren gave the HD Council report. She also reminded the members of the senior citizen's bazaar on Nov. 22 at Highland South mall.

She also announced that a seminar on cardiopulmonary resuscitation will be held at 7 p.m. Nov. 10 at Howard College. The public is invited.

The Center Point HD Club will be the host club for the HD Council meeting at 2 p.m. Monday in the County Extension Office. Mrs. N. E. Hollaway, director of District VI, will be the guest.

Mrs. Nannie Garrett will be the hostess for the next meeting at 2 p.m. Nov. 11 at Kentwood Center. The women are asked to bring something that they made, baked or grew to exchange with other members.

you think my sister is a nut? ESTHER IN HARTFORD
DEAR ESTHER: When it comes to dog lovers, I can believe anything.

Your HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to look into whatever plans of considerable magnitude face you. Think out ways that can be made to work to your advantage with the least amount of actual effort.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You understand better how to take care of responsibilities assumed. For increased happiness, do those things your mate will appreciate.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to please associates more and gain their cooperation and appreciation. Forget that disagreement with another and it blows over.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) With all that work facing you, don't go off on any silly tangents, but get it done and gain profits, acclaim. Get wardrobe in order.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take some time for recreation that will relieve tensions. Show more affection for mate and have more rapport. Take any limitations in stride.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use more thought at home for better results with family. You are interested in some new venture, but make sure you get all details.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) Do whatever will make regular activities more effective, productive of more profits, satisfaction. Confer with experts in your field.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are capable of handling money matters with more wisdom than for a long time, both in personal and business life. An expert can help.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Yesterday was frustrating, but you can now get ahead fast. Gain goodwill of friends at socials who can be most helpful now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You get a new idea by sitting in the privacy of your study and planning a better future. Study it before putting in operation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) That particular aim you have needs special attention if you are going to achieve it. Approach wise personal friends early for advice.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Some civic affair can be helpful to you, businesswise or personally. A partner can give you fine ideas if advice is joined.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Join some new group activity that can be most helpful in the future. Add to your circle of good friends. Make needed changes.

Midland Gem Show Shapes

MIDLAND — The Midland Gem & Mineral Society will hold its 13th annual show at the County Exhibits Building on East Highway 80 on Nov. 8-9.

One of the best known carving and intarsia artists in America, Mrs. Olive M. Colhour, will be in attendance. Mrs. Colhour, 76, was born in New Zealand. She undertook a tour of New Zealand and Australia about four months ago, visiting and showing her carvings and intarsia work there. Brisbane's First Lithiophilic Society named her "Ambassadress of the Mineral Kingdom." This will be the 13th annual Midland show and bids fair to be the best. In addition to numerous members, displays in cabochons, silversmithing, casting in gold and silver, faceting and specialized gem and rock items, the Fluorescent Show is considered most outstanding. Also, the club member working exhibits demonstrate processes used in making cabochons and faceted stones. Adult tickets will be $1 each while students six to 12 years of age pay 25 cents for admission.

Eleven dealers from eight different states will offer gem and mineral specimens, rough material and finished gift items from all parts of the U.S. and many foreign countries.

Recycling Beer Cans

The Pearl Beer Distributing Company has recycled more than 874,092 empty, all-aluminum beverage cans as part of the record high 100 million used cans collected so far this year through Pearl Brewing Company's statewide recycling network, according to Jerry Mitchell of the Pearl Beer distributorship here. The 100 million cans already exceed the 81.8 million cans collected in all of 1974. More than 208.4 million cans — or approximately one all-aluminum beverage can for every man, woman and child in the nation — have been collected from the Texas recycling network since Pearl's established in March, 1973.
