Rocky Wanted Out Of GOP Party Squabble

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller said today he stepped aside as a prospective 1976 running mate so that President Ford wouldn't be plagued by Republican party squabbles.

He said he believes Ford "will be nominated and he's my candidate" for the White House next year.

Rockefeller said he has had his differences with the President, as in his support of the New York City aid Ford opposes, but he said these "were not the basic elements" in his political decision.

"If I have basic differences, I speak out," he said.

Rockefeller was vague about his own political future.

He would not speculate about the possibility that he might, himself, wind up as a candidate in the 1976 presidential race.

He didn't rule it out, either. He avoided saying exactly what his role will be in next year's campaign, noting that the new federal election law limits him to a $1,000 personal contribution to Ford, and that the Republican party cannot finance a campaign for presidential nomination.

"I think that he will be nominated, and he's my candidate," Rockefeller said. He also said he does not think the President need worry about the conservative challenge of former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

As for himself, Rockefeller avoided any clear signal of future plans.

"I have no plans beyond this press conference," he said.

Rockefeller began the half-hour, nationally broadcast and televised news conference with a statement saying that party squabbling was the real reason for his decision to quit as a prospective Ford partner on the 1976 ticket.

He said the squabbling made things more difficult for the President when Ford needs to be able to give full attention to national problems.

"I came here to help him and not complicate his life," Rockefeller said.

Rockefeller said he instead found himself becoming the issue as his old conservative foes started assailing the

Marchers Enter Sahara

KILOMETER EIGHT, Inside Spanish Sahara (AP) — In scenes reminiscent of a biblical epic, tens of thousands of Moroccan volunteers walked 5½ miles through a blinding dust storm in searing desert heat today on their "March of Conquest" into the Spanish Sahara.

They walked for three hours to a point just four kilometers (2½ miles) away from the Spanish so-called "dissuasion line" of alleged minefields, barbed wire and heavy armored units. No incidents were reported.

A senior police officer controlling the march said, "We will stay here overnight and tomorrow morning, we will see."

The Moroccan government radio said the volunteers jubilantly hoisted the Moroccan flag over a Spanish fort as they began their march.

The Spanish cabinet met in Madrid to discuss the march into the disputed territory. A Spanish government official said the column was nearly a half mile wide and a little over a mile inside the border when the cabinet began meeting.

An eyewitness account of the march, broadcast by the Moroccan government radio, said four Spanish F5 jet fighters continuously overflew the marchers at very low altitude "but failed to intimidate them," and that two Spanish helicopters hovered nearby, observing the progress of the marchers.

"So I'm not going to kid you that I came down here with no thought of the presidency," Rockefeller said.

But he said he isn't running and added, chatting with reporters after the news conference, that he's delighted being vice president.

"I'm crazy about it, particularly now," he said. "You're all forgetting, I'm going to be here 14 months. There's nothing you can do about it."

Houston Crash Kills Two

HOUSTON (AP) — Two persons were killed today when a small airplane and a helicopter collided in flight, police said.

Debris from the airplane showered on a residential neighborhood but no injuries on the ground were reported.

Police said both of the victims were aboard the airplane. The helicopter was able to land safely with only slight injuries to its two occupants, officers said.

The dead were identified as Kenneth Mitchell Ray, 32, of Plano, and Paul W. Mahaffie, 32, of Oleta, Kan.

The FAA said the plane was registered to Wulfsburg Electric Inc. of Overland Park, Kan.

Occupants of the helicopter were identified as Jake Hart and W.F. Thorn, believed to be from Grand Prairie.

The red and white Cessna airplane crashed in the backyard of a residence and a wing fell on a house some distance away. Other debris fell in yards, on roofs and in a street.

"I looked out the window because I heard an explosion and I just saw pieces falling," said one resident who lives near the crash site.

"I heard a bam, bam, bam," said Jaynine Bosley, who lives across the street from the crash site. "I looked out and saw a helicopter going on."

The helicopter landed about eight blocks from the crash site. Police quoted the pilot as saying his rotor propeller and the airplane touched. Police said first aid was being administered at the helicopter.

A resident who lives near the crash site said she heard a "big bang right over my house" and looked out to see debris falling.

"The airplane was completely demolished," she said.

Mrs. Bosley said a woman was out in the front yard with two children when the collision occurred.

"When the pieces started falling on everyone's houses, she had to run for cover with the children," Mrs. Bosley said.

HUNT 'HOT' BUCK PASSER

Somebody with a fast buck apparently bought gas at Fas Gas at 1800 Gregg this week.

Attendants at the station turned a $20 bill believed to be counterfeit over to police detectives, who will in turn check it with U.S. Treasury Department agents.

70,000—Bale Harvest For Howard Forecast

Joint estimates released by the Lubbock Cotton Exchange and the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Wednesday, placed the expected cotton production in the 25-county area at 1,733,700 bales, up 21,000 bales from an estimate made in October.

Prospects were improved by good weather, industry spokesmen said.

The estimated output would make the 1975 crop the third largest for the 25-county area in a decade. Last year, only 1,193,100

RARE SIGHT IN WEST TEXAS — This Eclipse windmill, owned by Roscoe Hazelwood of Martin County, is an extremely rare sight in West Texas. There are only two other wooden types in working order in this area, one in Lubbock and the other in Canyon, Hazelwood, who now resides in Stanton, but who maintains a 335-acre farm 15 miles northwest of Stanton, says he once struck water at 60 feet. Now, he must drill 160 feet for it. The derrick on this windmill stands 30 feet. The sails extending from the shaft have a span of ten feet.

Wholesale Prices Jump In October

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices leaped 1.8 per cent in October, the biggest monthly rise in a year, the government reported today. The jump indicated that inflation remains a serious problem.

Price tags on new model cars, lumber and textile products were particularly significant in raising prices last month, but the increases were spread almost across the board, the Labor Department said. Farm prices also went up sharply but still about half the rise in September.

October's increase in the wholesale price index followed gains of six-tenths of a per cent in September and eight-tenths of a per cent in August and was the sharpest rise since October, 1974 when wholesale prices rose 2.9 per cent.

With a new spurt at the wholesale level, consumers can expect a substantial rise in the cost of living in the months ahead as changes in wholesale prices eventually show up in retail stores.

Over the last three months, wholesale prices rose at an annual rate of 13.5 per cent, up from a 6 per cent rate in the May-July quarter. However, the rate was still less than half the 29.6 per cent rate the three months ended last October before the recession slowed inflation.

Wholesale prices last month were 5.1 per cent higher than a year ago. The index moved up to 178.9, meaning it cost $178.9 in October to buy the same goods at wholesale which sold for $100 in the 1967 base period.

In a separate report, the Labor Department said quality changes for the 1976 model, American-made passenger cars included in the wholesale price index were valued at an average of $12 at manufacturers prices and about $15.60 at retail. The quality changes accounted for about 8 per cent of the average increase of $198 in manufacturers suggested retail prices.

Farm prices rose 2.2 per cent last month, a sharp rate but still significantly less than the 4.3 per cent increase in September. This put farm prices 5.2 per cent above a year ago.

The sharpest increases in agriculture were for live poultry, leaf tobacco and fluid milk. Prices for fresh and dried vegetables dropped in October, while livestock and plant and animal fibers rose much less than in the previous month.

SHERIFF FLATTERED County Jail One Of State's Best

By MARJ CARPENTER The Howard County jail has been scored as one of the six best Texas county jails by the State Health Department.

The local jail is one of six that have scored 100 on their state test every year since 1969 according to an announcement this week from Jimmie Dickens, the health department's chief sanitation officer.

The other five are from Childress County Gillespie (Fredricksburg); Lynn (Tahoka) Milam (Cameron and Oldham) (Vega).

Sheriff A. N. Standard said here today, "We are really flattered to be included on this list and I would commend the entire department for obtaining this designation. He especially commended M. D. and Bonnie Cross, who are in charge of the complex, as well as the deputies and other personnel who assist with security and transfers.

The 30 criteria which the state checks out each year includes security. Sheriff Standard has been in office since 1964 and there has never been a jail break during that time. They also are judged on the means of transferring prisoners.

Other things which the inspectors check include a sanitary food service, medical care, hospital care, diet, food supplies, the number and type of bunks and many other items.

The inspectors check the physical premises and often talk to prisoners when making their annual check of the jails.

Eight other county jails had only one violation out of the list of 30 criteria and ten county jails had only two. Texas has 254 counties.

The health department is turning over the job of jail inspection to a new Texas Commission on Jail Standards.

Unlike the health department, the commission does have enforcement power. It can shut down substandard jails and designate other detention facilities for prisoners in those jails.

Federal lawsuits are pending that attack jail conditions in several Texas jails.

VISIT ENDS — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Mrs. Sadat wave from the ramp of their plane at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., near Washington, Wednesday night as they prepare to leave the United States. Sadat addressed a joint session of Congress earlier in the day winding up a 10-day visit to the U.S.

THE HEARST PLAY IN NEW YORK — Players of the New York Theater Ensemble appear Wednesday night as the play "Tania" opened in New York. The play is titled after the name taken by Patricia Hearst after her professed allegiance to the Symbionese Liberation Army. Cynthia Haynes, in background, plays the part of Patty Hearst.

The World At-A-Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat ended his American visit with some solid accomplishments balanced against one serious public relations lapse and a failure to move Congress from a pro-Israel stance. As Sadat left Wednesday night, he could count among his blessings a virtual American promise to sell him two nuclear reactors. U.S. officials said his inability to loosen congressional support for Israel was expected. The public relations blunder — his statement that the Egyptian economy was so controlled by Jews 25 years ago that they prevented him from buying a radio in Cairo — left Sadat open to charges of blatant anti-Semitism and just plain silliness, one source said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Angered over comments by George Meany, the Teamsters union has canceled agreements with AFL-CIO unions to honor each other's strikes and jurisdictional lines, raising the possibility of inter-union battles. In a continuation of a lengthy, bitter dispute over representation of California farm workers, Meany, the AFL-CIO's president, denounced the Teamsters last month as unworthy of being called trade unionists. The Teamsters retaliated by revoking long-standing mutual aid and no-raiding agreements which it held with 22 AFL-CIO unions.

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President Ford's personnel shakeup continues to send ripples through the upper levels of his administration, the State Department's intelligence chief moves to the White House, and fired CIA Director William E. Colby remains in his job temporarily. Colby, dismissed by Ford on Sunday, agreed to remain at his CIA post until his successor, U.S. Ambassador to Peking, George Bush, is confirmed by the Senate. William G. Hyland, intelligence chief at State, was named deputy director of the National Security Council, the White House policy coordinating unit.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The chief justice of the supreme court became president of Bangladesh today, and it appeared that a power struggle in the poverty-stricken new nation was over. The official Bangladesh news agency reported that Abu Mohammed Syeem was sworn in after President Khondakar Mushtaque Ahmed resigned. The resignation followed the flight from the country of a group of junior army officers who killed President Mujibur Rahman last Aug. 15 and made Mushtaque Ahmed president.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Isabel Peron has defied her foes, declaring in a telecast from her hospital room, "I have not resigned and I do not intend to resign." Mrs. Peron's tone was firm but moderate Wednesday night as she said she had not asked for another leave of absence and did not plan one. The 44-year-old widow of Juan D. Peron went into a hospital early Monday, and the government said she had gall bladder trouble. Other sources said she was in a highly nervous condition because of the mounting demands for her resignation.

BELIZE CITY (AP) — The British-Guatemalan dispute over tiny Belize heated up today, with Britain rushing reinforcements to the Central American colony and Guatemala accusing the British of "intimidation." Sources in Belize said the British government had received reports that Guatemala had sent 10 armored troop carriers plus infantry and supplies to Polvorra, 15 miles from the Belize border. An undisclosed number of British infantrymen, jet fighters and vertical take-off aircraft were sent from London to reinforce the 650-man garrison in Belize, the British government said.

IF THEY HAD WINGS OF ANGELS... 'Heaven' Residents Walk East In Search Of Peace

A young man and woman dressed in floor-length once-white robes knelt on the floor of the check-out room of the city jail rolling up their bedrolls.

"I'm already clean, brother — clean inside," the young man with long dark hair answered the police officer who asked, "Are you sure you don't want a bath?"

The woman, who had short hair growing back from what had apparently once been a shaven head, put on a crude headress and slipped into a blanket with armholes, over her robe. The young man also wore a blanket over his robe. They were barefoot and, from the looks of their feet, had walked a long way.

Police had permitted them to sleep in the jail Wednesday night when they arrived about 10 p.m. and asked for a place to stay for the night.

They gave their names as Robert and Allison Christ and their address as Heaven. They gave their destination as "Peace on earth." They turned down jail food, saying, "We only eat fruits and things from the soil such as roots and twigs."

The jail chef was fresh out of roots and twigs. A woman police officer questioned the duo.

They attempted to convert her. "Sister, we don't believe in violence," they told the officer, and added, "We don't believe in sex."

The keeper of the jail booked them as sleepers and when they requested to leave early, turned them loose.

They headed east. "Peace, brother," he said quietly as he went out the door.

Plight Of U.S. Is Worse

The financial plight of New York City has been spotlighted for months now, but the federal government's deficit spending goes on and on.

Members of the Congress queue up behind President Ford, who says he will veto any plan to bail out G.O.P., then turn around and consistently approve moves to increase the nation's debt limit.

There's a move afoot now in Washington, a city which has been on the public dole so long it reasons the nation's workers owe it a decent living, to boost the national debt limit to $75 billion. Only through such legislation can the United States pay its own bills. The money, mainly because it is paper dollars which can't be backed up by anything of intrinsic value, will keep on flowing.

When the nation itself goes broke, who will throw the life jacket to Uncle Sam?

Most everyone in Washington, from President Ford on down, is asking New York City to "bite the bullet" and lean into the wind, but few in Washington believe what they preach. President Ford, in so many words, says he is willing to do what he can after New York City has gone down the drain, but if the crisis there serves no other purpose it might cause a national awakening to fiscal necessities. If that happens, then Father Knickerbocker could emerge as a hero of sorts — a tattered hero, true, but a hero. Because an election year is dead ahead, news of the nation's money problems will be soft-pedaled until such time that the winners can point the finger of blame at the ousted politicians and say, "They did it. They are to blame. . . and it may be too late for any of us to do anything about it."

Needs All Help It Can Get

The 1975 Howard County United Way campaign needs all the help it can get if it is to reach its objective of $131,975. Wouldn't it be nice to know that your gift would be the one that puts the drive 'over the top'?

The bookkeeping department of the UW reported recently that collections were right at 60 per cent. With November at hand, and things like Thanksgiving and Christmas to occupy the people's attention, it would be good to get the UW drive behind us.

Some communities are close to their goals. Others have already buttoned up their drives. The hardest part of the campaign may yet be ahead for us.

The 16 agencies which share the funds distributed by the UW committee petitioned for money totaling $197,240 this year. They were told they would have to settle for roughly one third less.

If the campaign falls short of its goal, the agencies have no recourse but to accept even less — since the funds will be prorated. Let us hope that doesn't happen. All the agencies are deserving.

My Answer

Billy Graham

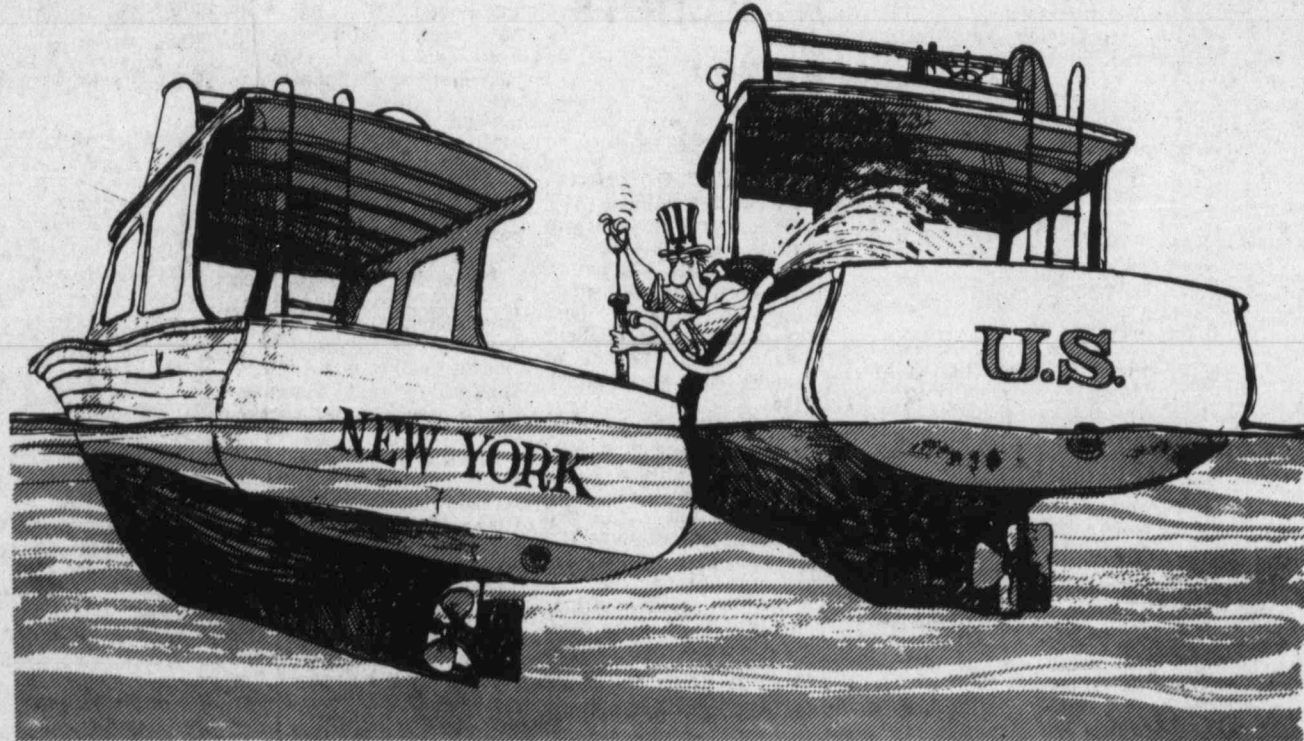

Why is it that I'm always expecting things to turn out bad — and they usually do? I've come to see, however, that the negative attitude is keeping me from enjoying life. Even when I pray, I say myself, what's the use of praying? God won't answer!

D.R. It was George Eliot who said that strength of the donkey mind lies in adopting a course inversely as the arguments urged. Somehow, you have decided that even when you get good vibrations, you're going to "invert" them into pessimism and fear. But since all that is an act of the will, it can be changed.

I have known many people who are inveterate optimists. They habitually look for the bright side, and find it. A good example Biblically of this is the contrast between Philip and Andrew in John 6. When the need for feeding the multitude arose, Philip showed up as a "statistical pessimist." That is, he inferred in verse 7 that there just wasn't money enough for this project. His brother Andrew, however, said to Christ: "There's a lad here with five loaves and two fishes." With that show of positive faith, he deserves the title of an "ingenious optimist."

All the world's progress is because of this Andrew type of thinking. When we don't have it, even our prayers get tinged with gloomy pessimism. Pray, and expect an answer. That's the promise of James 1:6 to the church.

Connally On NY

William F. Buckley, Jr.

John Connally, who is most probably off and running for the presidency, will nevertheless lose neither his time nor his listeners if, as is most likely, he fails to achieve his goal. Because he is saying most forcefully, before many audiences, things that very much need saying. And his style is a pleasure to hear: it is the style of the old self-confident America. You hear him talk for only two minutes about oil men and suddenly you wonder why it was, exactly, that oil men became the skid row aristocracy of congressional muckrakers.

BUT LISTEN to what John Connally proposes for New York City. First, he says — and at this point it is hard to find anyone to disagree with him — New York must be made to put its financial house in order. That means that expenses must be reduced to match revenues; and that elected officials of New York City will have to surrender the power to exceed their budget, said power vesting, now, in a politically-unreliable body designated with the responsibility to enforce a federal agreement with New York City.

This agreement having been effected, says Gov. Connally, there is a role now for the federal government. The government should "come on in with maybe five billion dollars or something" which sum should be doled out by a one-man "RFC-type" appointed by the president. The Jesse Jones in question would have the power, in the event New York defaulted on its obligation to a balanced budget, to stop payments immediately and call in past sums due. Conceivably the bail-out operation might last "twenty years or so."

Mr. Connally's point is that all that can reasonably be expected from

New York City is that it begin balancing its budget — not that it come up with the money to pay obligations as they fall due. It is, he says, properly the function of the federal government to defend New York as a last resort because New York is something of an international capital.

Asked whether this wouldn't establish a precedent, Mr. Connally gets a little vague. He agrees that around the country, the John Lind-says of this world would be tempted to spend their cities right to the eve of bankruptcy — going, then, to Washington, asking for similar treatment to that given to New York City. However, he says, there would also be a counter-temptation to moderation, because other city governments, viewing the humiliation of New York City, now something of a ward of Jesse Jones, would take care not to follow New York's wastrel course.

But there is a counter-argument of greater force, surely. The basic problem of the city is the intractable labor union. New York City's extravagances are, on close study, less in the matter of open-handedness with welfare, though there is vast waste there too, than an incapacity to arrive at sensible arrangements with the city's employees.

THE TEACHERS WHO strike periodically do so in violation of state and municipal laws, and after getting substantially what they want, return in time to catch their students up on all the lessons they missed about the lawlessness of the Nixon Administration. But nothing appears to work in restraining these great bureaucracies, so that in New York City you will find many sanitationmen retiring after 20 years' service with a pension that exceeds the base pay of a sanitationman.

'Basic Beliefs' Of IBM

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the "basic beliefs" of the International Business Machines Corp. is "respect for the dignity and the rights of each person in the organization."

Is this basic belief contradicted by doing business in South Africa, where an apartheid policy segregates blacks from whites and discriminates against them politically and economically?

Some critics, including church groups, tend to think it is. They contend that IBM should challenge South African government policy or withdraw from the country.

Frank T. Cary, IBM chairman, disagrees. "We're not political," he said in an interview. "We're politically neutral."

IBM has carefully defined its position on this and other challenges presented to multinational companies—challenges that often are made more complex by the belief of some that no task is too formidable for a powerful business to undertake.

A distinction must be made between the activities and responsibilities of a corporation and those of a government, said Cary. "We are a business organization. Our job is to make goods and services and be a good member of the community."

Certain critics, he said, "think we should try to change the political situation in South Africa, but I don't think business can or should take on that responsibility."

The South African condition, he repeats, is a political rather than a business ethics problem.

"The fact that I do business there doesn't mean

I approve of South Africa," he said, "or the Russian or Beirut or Irish or any other political situation. American firms do business in a country for nonpolitical reasons."

"I don't have to have political conditions of which I approve. On the other hand, if conditions exist that prevent individual dignity and responsibility and the pursuit of excellence and providing the best customer service or other things we firmly believe in, then I think that would be an ethical problem for the IBM company."

He continued: "I think you have to draw a line. I don't want to imply that IBM isn't capable of making its own ethical considerations. "We would not — I would not — operate in a society that forced us to practice racial inequality."

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Urine Splashing Common Problem

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, 9, has a problem of splashing urine. It occurs almost daily. The stream is straight at times, though. One doctor has commented on his rather small urethra. Another said surgery would be needed to enlarge the opening of the penis. A third said such surgery might or might not alleviate the problem.

I realize that doctors are individuals with different opinions, but I am quite confused. I do not believe in unnecessary surgery, no matter how minor. My younger son had his tonsils removed several years ago. Now, I've discovered that this type of surgery is no longer accepted by some of the medical profession.

Will you comment? — Mrs. S.M.B.

The splashing is not unusual in and of itself. Some irritation that produces mucus could cause the outlet to be stuck occasionally. Or there could be some minor defect at the opening. This can be corrected surgically. It is not clear from your letter whether you refer to the urethra proper being narrow, or merely to the external opening of it. Nor do you indicate what procedures were used to determine this.

If there were any discomfort associated with the splashing — burning, etc. — then the situation should be investigated promptly to determine if there is infection present.

Yes, doctors do have differing opinions, and those differences are often part of the process of arriving at the best possible diagnosis. After all, the human body is a bit more complex than is an automobile engine.

Which brings me to your comment about tonsilectomies. It is true that fewer tonsil operations are being performed today. But this does not mean that there are no indications for them in particular cases. Nasal obstruction, chronic cough and recurring infection are three that come to mind.

The urologic surgery suggested is minor and usually helpful when undertaken. Now it is up to you and your doctors to decide whether or not it is necessary in your son's case. At this distance I cannot help you in making such a decision.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been taking kelp-containing diet pills for a few days. I have discovered that kelp is a source of iodine. I have had goiter surgery and wondered if my thyroid could handle the iodine safely. My doctor does not have me on thyroid medication.

I had tests done and they showed I didn't need it. Should I continue taking the diet pills? — F.M.

Your system is apparently functioning satisfactorily with whatever thyroid tissue you have remaining since you're not taking the kelp long enough to experience any depressant effect. However, I don't think you need it, and I suggest you stop taking it, or at least consult your doctor about it.

Iodine, of course, is a major constituent of thyroxine, a hormone produced by the thyroid gland. One must always be careful about introducing such substances into the body without sufficient reason and supervision.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is water taken from a clean sulphur spring harmful or beneficial to drink? I drink it because I like it, and have been drinking it for about five years with no bad effects. — C.B.

You answered your own question. You use it without harm. It is harmless, but I know of no particular benefit from it. Some can't stand the taste.

You can lose weight if you really want to! Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to him in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 3999, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

To Keep From Crying

Around The Rim

Marj Carpenter

Ladies, I'm laughing to keep from crying over your women's lib movement. I think it's one of the saddest movements of our time. I noticed that we had a couple of letters from the very vocal women's libbers who were upset that we dared to joke about such a serious thing as the women's liberation movement.

One of those readers suggested we reserve our comments to the Rim so I will surely be glad to comment. As Bill Cosby says, "It's getting where I can't tell black jokes and I'm a Black."

WELL, BILL you have my sympathy because it's getting where you can't joke about women and I'm a woman. Really ladies, there are a lot of us that are thoroughly sick of your feminist movement.

We noticed that none of you stayed away from the job on the day so designated because "Your jobs were all too important." I'm thrilled to know you had sense enough to realize that, but it pointed out the fact that you usually only back your cause when you can take a slap at anybody who disagrees with you.

I had heard rumors that I was going to be awarded the "barefoot and pregnant" award for that taxi article and I was looking forward to receiving it. Because, ladies, if I am going to leave anything worthwhile to this world it is my three now-adult children of whom I am very proud. And I had to be pregnant to have them. And if I recall, I think I was barefoot every single time I got pregnant.

What is so disgraceful about being either barefoot or pregnant? Somebody was pregnant, even when the women's libbers were born. How about an organization for preservation of the dignity of pregnant women?

Who gave you the right to name your award "Barefoot and Pregnant"? Did any pregnant woman run through your meeting screaming, "Down with women's lib"?

You are so busy comparing yourselves to the Black Power and La Raza Unida movements. Why pick on those people? Have they done anything to any of you?

I was trying to write in an unbiased manner the recent story on the affects of Title IX to the local schools. And you women's libbers can be proud, because you helped bring about this law.

All I felt was sad. The next generation of little girls are not allowed to be first in line or first at anything else. They are not to be designated for such pleasant chores as watering pot plants while the boys carry books to the bookroom.

I BELIEVE in equal salaries for equal work for women and know that it is not always true. However, I don't think you can legislate attitude. It has to be earned.

I've written sports, murders, traffic accidents and many items that at one time were considered out of the realm of women reporters. I've worked long hours for any honors I have earned.

I'm probably as rough and tough as they come on lots of subjects. But I have a weak spot. I like men that step back and let you through doors first. I like men who open car doors, tip hats, and generally treat you with courtesy. In other words, I like good manners and enjoy being treated like a woman. I suppose the next generation of girls is not even going to know what this type of respect and recognition is all about. Thanks a bunch, women's libbers.

I'll continue to joke and laugh every chance I get. But it's really to keep from crying.

EDITORIALS / OPINIONS

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

Your lead editorial titled "Never Enough Good Teachers" in the Herald of Oct. 27 deserves some additional comments.

You say, "Taxpayers are beginning to suspect that the campaign for smaller classes is being pushed by teacher groups because it requires more teachers." It is much more likely that any "campaign" for smaller classes is being "pushed" by teachers in overcrowded classrooms. For that matter, non-teaching taxpayers should be pushing in that direction too. Both they and teachers have much more to gain than any teacher groups would.

You quote James Coleman in his famous report, "The pupil-teacher ratio in instruction, showed a consistent lack of relation to achievement among all groups under all conditions." Notice that that brief sentence does not condemn or belittle the desirability of small class size. It merely says that someone's study indicated that class size had no relation to achievement. I quote Henry Levin, of the Brookings Institution, who comments on the very same quote mentioned above, "The report's pupil-teacher ratio has been interpreted by . . . others as representing class size. Such an interpretation is in error, for the report obtained its pupil-teacher ratio by dividing the enrollment of the school by the number of teachers. Yet, schools with the same enrollment-teacher ratios may have significantly different class sizes."

Thus, despite its sweeping assertion, the report could not possibly answer the question of how class size affects learning . . . since class size was never used in the analysis." Remember, even if Coleman's statement is true, achievement isn't the only goal in our classrooms. Other goals may definitely be related to class size, such as the development of good study habits, the development of positive attitudes toward classmates and teachers, and the development of a student's feelings of personal involvement in, and responsibility for, what is happening in his classes.

Finally, you come to a sudden conclusion: "If smaller classes and more and more money are not the answers, what is? . . . Dedicated, highly motivated teachers."

Statements like this encourage the non-teaching taxpayer public to conclude that if they think things are not right with their schools, it must be because they do not have dedicated, highly motivated teachers. Certainly you should at least indicate the possibility that many groups familiar with U.S. education find that it will take far greater changes than filling our classrooms with dedicated, highly motivated teachers to solve or even ease the problems faced by our public schools. James Coleman might even agree. I quote James Coleman, "The report itself, which focused principally on inequalities experienced by Negroes and other racial and ethnic minorities, contained only research results, not policy recommendations. Indeed, if recommendations had been requested, they could hardly have been given — for the facts themselves point to no obvious solution . . ." And how is this for a simple solution? It was lifted out of the Coleman report too. "The factor that showed the clearest relation to a child's achievement was his home background — the educational and economic resources provided within his home."

Coleman's is only one of many reports in recent years. Perhaps you would do a real service to a public worried over the condition of its schools (and remember school people are in that public too) to review in a little more detail some of these reports. In addition to Coleman's report I refer you to the U.S. Office of Education National Panel on High Schools and Adolescent Education, the Kettering Commission's Report of the Panel on Youth of the President's Science Advisory Committee, and a report of the National Association of Secondary School Principals — American Youth in the Mid-Seventies. Perhaps you could devote a series of Sunday articles to such reviews. On the local level you might even consider consulting with those who have been in the thick of it for the longest time — teachers. Who knows? You may discover local resources you didn't even know you had for solving local problems.

BORDEN COUNTY ON 'FRONT LINES'

Coyotes, Ranchers In Multi-Million Dollar Battle

Editor's Note: "The Coyote has experienced a resurgence in recent years to the extent that it is a serious threat to the livestock and game industries...The competition between the sheep and goat and the coyote is so great that under current production conditions these industries cannot survive a substantial coyote presence." — A State Agency Report.

By MIKE COCHRAN
(AP Writer)

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Lean, leathery and surly, the rancher stared down into his whiskey glass, softened only slightly by branch water, and said darkly:

"They're killers. They're malicious damn killers. They don't kill just to eat. They like to fun it. They just kill for the fun of it."

"The environmentalists. They get all the publicity, and they say we're trying to wipe out the coyote. Eradicate a species. That's a laugh. All the hell we're trying to do is survive, and we're doing a damn lousy job of that because the government took away all our tools."

"How you gonna win a war without any weapons?" The visitor nodded, then asked the solution.

"I'm not sure there is one," the rancher replied.

So went one of several similar interviews with stockmen across the beautifully flawed section of Southwest Texas that serves as the heartbeat of the sheep and goat industry.

It is a region of flat, rocky, rugged plains sprinkled with jagged mountains and hardy ranchers.

Without sheep and goats and scattered patches of cattle, the land would be generally of little value except as a sprawling playground for an assortment of wildlife.

Today it is a battleground, and participants say the future of the Texas sheep and goat industry hinges on the outcome.

It is a multimillion dollar conflict, the sheep and goat raisers on one hand, the coyote on the other.

And the coyote may be winning.

"It's a classic case of the coyote being put on welfare," quipped Don King of Fort Worth, general manager of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, which is aligned with sheepmen in the fight.

By presidential decree, the government in 1972 stripped away the toxins and other devices with which ranchers once successfully controlled the coyote intrusion.

"When they took the poisons away, all we could use was traps," said Bill Sims of San Angelo, King's counterpart in the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association.

"Traps just can't get the job done in our area. It's that simple."

"You know, we can put a man on the moon but we can't kill a coyote. It's a helluva deal isn't it? And we aren't smart enough to catch him."

Ranchers, angry and frustrated, tell bizarre stories of the coyote, which they describe as lazy, cunning, opportunistic, nocturnal killers.

Frank Courtney, Hamilton County: "I had a neighbor who lost 30 lambs in one night. Their throats were cut. He told me he had a coyote. I told him he had a dog problem."

"He insisted it was a coyote. The next night he caught a coyote and the killing stopped."

Joe Dobson, Coleman County: "I didn't really know what a coyote was. One day I found a dead lamb, but I didn't know what killed it. I had 600 lambs in that pasture and I lost 135 of them before I caught that coyote."

Sid Harkins, Sanderson: "I live out there with 'em... I once had 220 lambs in a pasture. Then the coyotes came through. I suddenly had only 92. But, you know, I didn't see a coyote kill a single one of them. And this is a problem."

It is a problem because it is difficult for ranchers to provide evidence to convict the coyote in the minds of environmentalists, who contend ranchers exaggerate their predator losses.

Stockmen, they say, are too quick to blame and kill the coyote, and they argue also that poisons are inhumane and pose a threat to other wildlife.

"We went to Washington and tried to tell them what was happening but they didn't believe us," Harkins said. "But let me ask you this, why would ranchers spend all this time and money killing coyotes if they didn't bother him?"

"You talk to people in New York and Washington and they think all Texans have airplanes and hunt Eagles for sport."

Harkins, incidentally, is a rancher on the "outside," as opposed to the "inside."

The "outside" ranches are those fighting back the invasion of coyotes on the front line, while the "inside" ranches are relatively secure.

"But it's like a noose," said John Cargile of San Angelo, "and it's getting tighter."

As the outside ranchers surrender, the inside line of resistance becomes the outside.

As drawn by Sims, the line on a map would extend from Fort Stockton on the west, north through Borden and Taylor Counties, southeastward through Coleman, Brownwood and Lampasas, south to Uvalde and then eastward through Del Rio and Sanderson and back up to Fort Stockton.

"It's getting smaller and smaller," said Norm Rousselet of Sonora.

Few can discuss the situation with the expertise of John Cargile of San Angelo, a rancher, bank director, university regent and operator of the nation's largest sheep auction.

"Well," he said over the bark of an auctioneer in the background, "when they took away the toxins, the coyote population just steadily built up."

"It has put greater and greater pressure on the sheepmen on the outside, and they just can't stand that pressure economically. So they're dropping off."

"Consequently, the area of sheep concentration is getting smaller each year."

Cargile is on the inside, but

"I've got one operation where they're getting pretty close. If this continues, it's not going to be very long until I'm the next one on the list. Then they're going to start eating me up."

The solution? "If we're going to save the sheep industry in the United States, I'm convinced they're going to have to let the sheepmen have enough 1080 (a preferred poison) to reduce the coyote population to the point where we can control it."

Concerning the ban against use of 1080, Cargile said:

"The government is well intentioned but misinformed. Pressure groups, environmentalists and wildlife people just hammer hell out of 'em (the government) and this is a result of it."

With lamb crops declining each year, he said, it is only a matter of time before packer plants close, stores are denied a steady supply and "you no longer have a viable industry."

The Texas A&M University System and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station issued a report in 1974 that said in part:

"Estimated annual losses caused by the coyote to the sheep and goat industries are $1,834,617 and $427,000 respectively. In both instances, this direct loss through animals killed by coyotes is less than that associated with inability to run sheep and goats in areas to which they are particularly adapted...."

"The long term survival of the sheep and goat industries would appear to require the removal or exclusion of the coyote from important producing areas."

"Based on experience to date, this can be accomplished only by using all the tools or techniques available, and it requires the participation of all producers and agencies involved."

Although cattlemen once were somewhat aloof to the problem, King says now:

"Coyotes are getting to the point where they are working harder on baby calves, or any kind of cow or heifer than's down ... Naturally, anytime they run into a shortage of easy prey they'll turn to bigger targets ... I'm sure wildlife is suffering tremendously, the fawns and quail.

"I guess people might just have to decide if they want the coyote or if they want to eat. It's probably going to come to that."

It was the first anyone has ever examined the metallic structure of Liberty Bell, and it showed the famous crack is one of dozens of defects.
The crack — actually two cracks — occurred July 8, 1835, while the was tolling the death of Justice John Marshall.
Modes, who works Universal Technical Test Laboratory Inc., want see if the bell is too brittle to be carried from Independence Hall across the in late December to a display center.
"I would say it is brittle," Modes said.

MURDER SAID 'R...
WACO, Tex. (AP) Tyler psychologist testified for the defense in the capital murder case of Edward Eldon Corley, Tyler, saying that defendant is merretarded and has the tally of a nine-year old.
Corley is on trial for the kidnaping, Vicki Morris, 20, Chapel housewife who was killed Sept. 14, 1974, in an area off a dirt road near Hebron Baptist Church.
Dr. Grover Lough admitted under examination that the scores made by Corley during mental tests administered could have been affected by the fact Corley was under indictment on capital murder charge the time. He, however, he did not that the defendant "faking."
Earlier on Wednesday prosecution rested its after presenting two statements in which Corley admitted he killed Morris.
The statements were by Smith County District Court.
Testimony heard earlier the week showed that Morris was abducted Hebron Baptist Church the old Longview taken to a dirt road four miles away, raped then shot twice in the with a .410 shot gun.
Owen read the statement from Corley which the defendant saw Mrs. Morris a passed him on the v church. The statement he followed her and talked in church and forced her to go with his pickup truck.
The statement added took her to a dirt road then walked with her the pickup got stuck mud. It added that talked to Mrs. Morris about an hour and then a while I got the gun at her."
In the second statement Corley gave more details of the crime including forced Mrs. Morris

Straws In The Wind Now Drug Probe Come From New Direction

OMAR BURLESON, M.C.
17th District, Texas

Washington, D.C. — Wishful thinking seldom pays off but there are indications that political and economic conservatism is manifesting itself across the country to a greater degree than has been the case in recent years.

At the moment it is widening the breaches in both political parties. In the months ahead this division may become more evident and highly visible.

Nationally, most liberals continue to talk in favor of big government, bigger spending, with no turning back. But some liberal governors and mayors are seemingly beginning to respond to public sentiment against massive bureaucracy, uncontrolled deficit spending, and government intervention.

One example recently surfaced was a statement of the governor of Wisconsin, a liberal in an historically liberal area. He said: "We are beginning to recognize that there are limits to what government can and should do. The day is past when a Wisconsin governor can present a budget which is nothing more than a catalogue of goodies offering a little something for everybody."

The governors of California, New York and Massachusetts are saying things similar. The governor of Colorado has been quoted recently as seeing the U.S. heading for an "economic Dunkirk" if it doesn't return to economic prudence.

WILL IT SPREAD?

It will be interesting to see if and when this grass roots stirring takes hold in Washington. There is some discernment that the liberal element in the Congress may be showing a concern for the fiscal condition of the Government. A few days ago a U.S. Senator addressed the Liberal Party of New York. He is quoted as wanting to know from that group why liberals aren't doing something "about a government so big, so complex, so expensive and unresponsive that it is dragging down every good program we've worked for?" "Yet," Sen. Muskie who has pretty good liberal credentials, warned, "we stay away from that question like it was the plague — we know that government can do much to improve the lives of every American. But that conviction has also led us to become the defenders of government, no matter its mistakes."

A top advisor to both Senators Humphrey and McGovern gives this unorthodox liberal advice: "The first 1,000 days of a new democratic presidency — should include a ruthless reexamination of every federally funded administrative agency and program."

Straws in the wind? — yes — only that they are where they haven't been in a long time. There is plenty on the other side too. For instance Republican Senator McC. Mathias of Maryland said last week that he may become a Presidential Candidate to give liberals in the Party a choice they will not have otherwise.

CHALLENGE TO CONGRESS

As mentioned last week, the President has thrown out a challenge which this Congress cannot ignore. The procedures for reaching the goal of reducing taxes and cutting federal spending by an equal amount, are admittedly a problem, but a lot of people want it done. Maybe the Congress is getting the message. Reduction in expenditures should come first, and then a tax cut. But the point here is — have we reached the time when people are ready to choose between more government spending and high taxes or less spending and lower taxes? The issue might even be more dramatized by the question as to whether we want independence — freedom — the right to choose — or a paternalistic government heading to a socialistic system. This may well be a clear issue in the elections.

Drug Probe Causes Guard Dismissal

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)

— An investigation into drug traffic inside Bexar County Jail has brought on the firing of one guard and the two others are under close watch, officers say.

Jail Administrator Ray Olivari early Wednesday morning said he fired the guard last Friday after a search of the man's car.

Olivari said he first became aware about six months ago that there appeared to be some drug dealing going on inside the jail.

A check at the time, however, failed to reveal any such activity.

Last week, Olivari, said, city narcotics detectives told him they had information about jail drug trafficking.

At the same time, a guard told Olivari a prisoner had told him about drug trafficking in the jail and had not only given him names, but also methods of operation.

When the guard was asked if it was all right to search his car, Olivari said the guard was a bit uncooperative, but did consent. He was advised of his rights. On the floorboard of the car Olivari said there were five syringes and in the glove box there were several types of pills.

Because of the lack of evidence, at this time, Olivari said the case has not been given to the district attorney.

"As far as I am concerned, I'm going to clean my own house first," Olivari said in revealing that the investigation has not ended.

Panel Urges Increase In Space Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — a 25 per cent increase in federal funding for the U.S. space program was urged Wednesday by a House committee.

"Today the opportunities for space utilization and exploration far exceed our commitment," the report said.

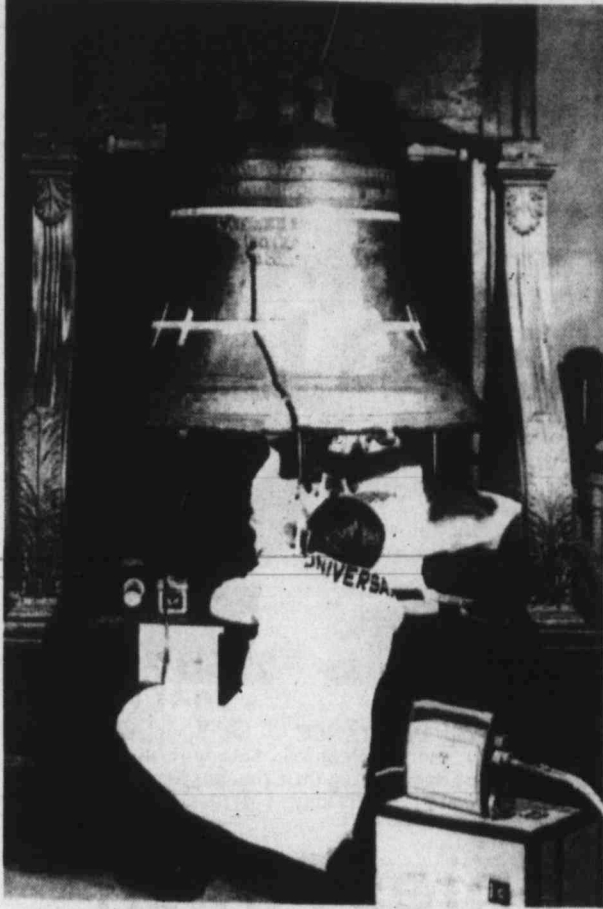

The space science subcommittee, in a report to Congress, said a speeded-up space program should "become an integral part of the overall national policy planning for the future needs of our country."

The report is based on two weeks of hearings last summer held by the subcommittee.

Committee Chairman Don Fuqua, D-Fla., said this envisions a budget increase for NASA "in the vicinity of $750 million."

He conceded that getting such an increase in spending — at a time when President Ford is proposing government-wide budget cuts — will be difficult.

But he said the benefits of an accelerated space program can be justified economically.

"FLAWED" LIBERTY BELL PHOTOGRAPHED WITH ATOMIC RAYS — Metallurgists working in recent night-long session use radioactive isotopes to make "radiograph" pictures of the dozens of defects besides the famous crack in the nation's symbol of freedom, the Liberty Bell. Job was done to learn if bell is too brittle to be carried to new display pavilion across the street from Independence Hall.

Radiographs Show Liberty Bell's Flaws

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Liberty Bell is not only cracked, but might be America's most flawed treasure.

"Scientifically speaking, it's a piece of junk," said metallurgist Mike Modes, who spent an entire night last week making "radiograph" pictures, similar to X rays, of the nation's symbol of freedom.

It was the first time anyone has ever examined the metallic structure of the Liberty Bell, and it showed that the famous crack is only one of dozens of defects.

The crack — actually it's two cracks — occurred on July 8, 1835, while the bell was tolling the death of Chief Justice John Marshall.

Modes, who works for Universal Technical Testing Laboratory Inc., wanted to see if the bell is too brittle to be carried from Independence Hall across the street in late December to a new display center.

"I would say it is safe to move," Modes said in an interview Wednesday. "But it's a mess."

"There is, of course, the large crack that everyone knows about. It is also full of things called 'shrinkage' and 'porosity.'"

These are soft spots created when the metal cooled after casting. They were common in metals of the 1750s. So the good citizens of Philadelphia were not "taken" when they paid $303 to London's Whitechapel Bell Foundry in 1752.

Last week, Modes hauled his equipment into darkened Independence Hall at 5 p.m., after the tourists were gone, and worked until nine the next morning.

"You can say I was honored to do this," he said.

"We have negatives for 95 per cent of the entire volume (metallic content)."

Modes says the Liberty Bell is in no danger of crumbling.

"It looks like what you'd find in very poor commercial casting done today," he said.

Murder Defendant Said 'Retarded'

WACO, Tex. (AP) — A Tyler psychologist has testified for the defense here in the capital murder case of Edward Eldon Corley, 30, of Tyler, saying that the defendant is mentally retarded and has the mentality of a nine-year old.

Corley is on trial here for the kidnaping, rape and murder of Mrs. Vicki Lynn Morris, 20, a Chapel Hill housewife who was killed on Sept. 14, 1974, in an isolated area off a dirt road near the Hebron Baptist Church in Tyler.

Dr. Grover Loughmiller admitted under cross-examination that the low scores made by Corley during mental tests he administered could have been affected by the fact that Corley was under indictment on capital murder charges at the time. He, added, however, he did not think that the defendant was "faking."

Earlier on Wednesday, the prosecution rested its case after presenting two signed statements in which Corley admitted he killed Mrs. Morris.

The statements were read by Smith County Dist. Atty. Curtis Owen.

Testimony heard earlier in the week showed that Mrs. Morris was abducted from Hebron Baptist Church on the old Longview Road, taken to a dirt road about four miles away, raped and then shot twice in the head with a 410 shotgun.

Owen read the first statement from Corley in which the defendant said he saw Mrs. Morris as she passed him on the way to church. The statement said he followed her and talked to her in church and then forced her to go with him in his pickup truck.

The statement added he took her to a dirt road and then walked with her after the pickup got stuck in the mud. It added that Corley talked to Mrs. Morris for about an hour and then "after a while I got the gun and shot her."

In the second statement Corley gave more details of the crime including how he forced Mrs. Morris to remove her clothes and how they engaged in sexual intercourse before he shot her.

Owen said the first statement was signed on Sept. 17, the day Morris was arrested, and the second on Nov. 1.

Owen said he advised Corley of all his constitutional rights and did not promise him anything in return.

ODESSA'S SHOTGUN DEADLY

Steers Put Finishing Touch To Home Stand

By CLARK LESHNER
Big Spring puts the finishing touch to its seasonal home stand here Friday night, starting at Odessa High's loaded shotgun formation.

Kickoff is 8 at Memorial Stadium. The Harris Poll, convinced only once to turn to Big Spring's side, rates the Bronchos a nine-point favorite.

Big Spring will be fighting to accomplish two missions. 1. Long-awaited 5-4 win. 2. Snap six game losing mark. The Steers currently stand 0-5 in the district and 2-6 overall.

Last Friday, Cooper tripped up Big Spring, 26-5 and Odessa was downed by Midland High, 28-8. The Bronchos, though, stand only one better in the 5-4A standings than the Steers.

Odessa's lone district win was a startling upset over pre-season favorite, San Angelo, 24-15. The Bobcats, out of the running for the title, are 2-3 in the district and 4-4 over-all, worst record in years.

Odessa's rise and fall is built around dandy Darrell Shepard, rated one of the premier 4A quarterbacks in the state. He handles a number of assignments, runs back punts, is on the kickoff team besides throwing the ball well and being a good runner.

Shepard was the lad that upset the Steer cart last year, spurring the Bronchos to a 17-14 victory in the fading minutes of fourth quarter play. Even with the loss to Midland High, Shepard's passing game, though, elevated him into the No. 2 passing slot, previously held by Big Spring's Mark Moore, who is now No. 3.

Shepard, who bears the credentials of breaking away for that long haul, owns the second longest scoring play in the 5-4A, returning 68 yards against Lee. He averages 3.9 yards per carry.

Besides Shepard, Odessa has speed to spare in the backfield in the likes of Jeff Holder and Johnny Burleson. Holder is Odessa's leading rusher, stepping off 5.1 yards per carry. The bulk of Odessa's district scoring is handled by Shepard and Holder, 26 and 20 points, respectively. Shepard is the seasonal individual scoring leader with 62 points.

Moore, unable to find the right pass key in recent games, could only connect for 12 yards to his favorite receiver, split-end Ken McMurtrey in the Cooper contest.

McMurtrey continues to be Big Spring's leading district scorer, 18, followed by Spears' 10. Over-all, McMurtrey has hit the scoreboard for a Steer best of 30.

The only points Big Spring could muster across against Cooper were a 27-yard field goal by Greg Spears, also a top receiver, in the first and a safety by Ed Pekowski in the fourth.

Moore, besides his slinging role, assumed the slow-moving Steer ground-pounding burden against Cooper due to the absence of the bull-dogging fullback Jesse Doss. Because of lingering ankle problems, Doss, Big Spring's leading rusher, was forced to the sidelines for the rest of the season.

Bob Burris, Steer head coach, noting that Odessa most certainly will put points on the scoreboard, feels it will take an all-out effort to win.

The return of linebacker Ricky Watkins to the starting lineup will be welcome in the Steer camp based on his leadership and ability.

He received the OK sign to return to active duty after being sidelined most of the season because of a knee operation. Tony Mann has fully recovered from a bruised knee sustained two weeks back. Burris has promoted Steve Hughes to a first-string halfback position with the other Steer assignments staying as they were previously.

NFL Rule Holds

A federal judge laid down the law but the National Football League owners still appear to be playing by Commissioner Pete Rozelle's rules, as the latest judicial decision struck a blow for freedom for the out-of-work players of the World Football League.

"Professional sports and the public are better served by open, unfettered competition," U.S. District Judge Edward J. Devitt said Wednesday in St. Paul, Minn., in issuing a temporary injunction paving the way for NFL players to sign with the NFL.

Rozelle had issued an edict forbidding players from the defunct league from signing with NFL teams for the remainder of the current season but Devitt said Rozelle's ban was a "conspiracy" or "concerted boycott" against the NFL players' "freedom of contract, adding that there was a 'substantial showing they will suffer irreparable harm' if they are not allowed to compete for jobs in the NFL this season.

However, Rozelle said NFL players signing in his league must prove they are free of previous contractual obligations, and it appears that the NFL owners are looking to the commissioner for guidance before they begin talking to NFL talent.

For example, a spokesman for the Philadelphia Eagles said he couldn't comment on what his club intended to do about the available NFL players because he hasn't received any instructions from the league office, adding that before Rozelle's moratorium the Eagles were interested in several players from the other league.

In Denver, a Broncos spokesman said his club was looking for "further definitive action" to see what the status of the NFL players is. The spokesman said the Broncos would be interested in talking to Steve Foley, the former Tulane quarterback who was playing his rookie year with Jacksonville before the NFL folded last month.

Then there is the case of Dave Roller, who signed a contract with the Green Bay Packers two hours before Rozelle barred NFL players from joining NFL teams.

The Packers said they also were waiting further word from the NFL offices on whether the court decision would permit them to add Roller to their roster.

Roller, contacted at his home in Anaheim, Calif., where he has been since Rozelle stripped him of his Packers uniform, said he was tired of having to wait for Rozelle's rules.

"I've been told to low key everything and I'm sick of it," said Roller, the only NFL player to sign a NFL contract between the period of the WFL's death and Rozelle's edict. "It's going to bother me the rest of my life."

Here a guy states arbitrarily that I can't work at my livelihood. It cost me three weeks of games and practices I could have proven myself. It seems un-American."

Gregory Selected

STANTON — Tommy Gregory has been named head basketball coach at Stanton High.

Gregory, assistant coach for the past five years, replaces Bill Sears, who resigned last week. Sears also relinquished his classroom teacher duties.

During his tenure at Stanton High, Gregory coached the girls basketball team, girls track team and JV boys basketball, and served as varsity football assistant.

MAD SCRAMBLE IN EASTERN Rams Maintain Western Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — With Halloween behind us and Thanksgiving rapidly approaching, can Christmas and the National Football League playoffs be far behind?

The NFL playoffs Dec. 27-28 will pit the six division champions and two runners-up against each other to battle for the conference championships and, ultimately, Super Bowl X.

Only one team — the Los Angeles Rams — appears to have a lock on a berth at the midway point in the season while two others — the Minnesota Vikings and Oakland Raiders — are almost assured of a post-season berth.

But in the Eastern Division races in both the National and American Conferences and in the American Central, things couldn't be tighter.

The Washington Redskins, Dallas Cowboys and St. Louis Cardinals are tied atop the National Conference East race with identical 5-2 records. Two of the three should qualify with one team winning the division crown and the other moving into the playoffs as a wild card selection.

In the American Central, it's even tougher. The Pittsburgh Steelers, Houston Oilers and Cincinnati Bengals are each 6-1. And only one — the champion — might be playing after Christmas.

That's because in the AFC East, the Miami Dolphins are 6-1 and the Buffalo Bills are 5-2. One will win the division crown and the other could draw the wild card.

Los Angeles is making a runaway of the NFC West. The Rams, 6-1, have a huge lead over San Francisco, Atlanta and New Orleans and, in the final seven

Ponies Finish Home Schedule

ACKERLY — Playing its final game of the season here at 8 p.m., Friday, Sands would like to give home fans something to talk about by robbing Roby of a win.

Roby, ranked third in the district standings, stopped Sterling, 13-0, last Friday. The same night, Sands bounced into the win column once again by slamming Loraine, 14-6.

Andy Anderson permitted Sands to take the lead over Loraine on a 70-yard run in the second quarter. Sands put the contest away in the third with Ronnie Kenemer running the ball over from the four. Kenemer's score was set up by an intercepted pass. Ralph Chavez was successful on both extra point tries.

Sands, 3-4-1, bettering last season's record of 2-8, stands 2-3 in 3-B. Roby, 3-2 in the district play, reflects an even 4-4 mark over-all. Sands ends the season at Sterling City, Nov. 14.

Stanton Seeks To Avoid 5-A Cellar Friday Night

STANTON — Buffaloes of Stanton will be trying to avoid the District 5-A cellar Friday night when they host the O'Donnell Eagles at 7:30 in Buffalo Stadium.

O'Donnell, winless until last Friday night when they edged Shallowater, will bring a 1-8 season mark into the game. Stanton lost to Plains last week, and will be trying to break a four-game losing streak which has dropped the locals to a 3-5 record.

Perhaps the biggest question mark for the game will be the team's mental attitude. Can the Buffaloes come off four back-to-back losses to play a good football game? It will take a top effort on the Buffs' part to whip the fired-up Eagles.

"Our scouts said that O'Donnell almost went wild last week when they won, so we're expecting them to come to town ready for us. Our workouts have been going fairly well this week, however, and I think our kids will come back," Richardson said.

The Buffaloes had been picked to battle Seagraves for loop honors this year, but have fallen apart in recent weeks. Last Friday night they did not play good football game, and lost convincingly. O'Donnell and Shallowater usually battle for fourth place in District 5-A, but this year Stanton will have to win both games to pull out third.

SCHOOLBOY POLL

Mojo Unable To Move Up

By The Associated Press
Odessa Permian and Plano continue playing leapfrog for positions in Class 4A of the Associated Press schoolboy football poll but No. 1 Bryan and the other kingspins—Cuero in 3A, Cameron in 2A, Seagraves in A and Big Sandy in B, are solid choices this week.

Permian moved ahead of Plano into the No. 4 position last week but when No. 3 Mesquite lost to Richardson Lake Highlands last week, No. 5 Plano jumped over Permian to take the No. 3 position.

Bryan, which got four touchdowns and 207 yards rushing from super running back Curtis Dickey, blasted Waco 50-21. The Cuero, Cameron and Big Sandy teams scored convincing shutout victories. Seagraves had an open date.

Lake Highlands, which bombed Mesquite 34-7, moved into the 4A list as the No. 10 team.

San Angelo Lake View, Navasota and Seminole, Nos. 7, 8 and 9 in 3A, were losers last week and Seminole dropped out of the top 10.

Lake View fell to ninth and Navasota to 10th this week and Fort Worth Boswell, 8-0, took the No. 8 spot.

Brookshire Royal, ranked eighth in Class A last week, fell to 10th this week after losing 7-6 to No. 5 Brazos Consolidated and No. 10 Knox City dropped from the list after its second loss.

Defending Class A state champion Grapeland, previously ranked No. 1 this year, returned to the top 10 as the No. 10 team. Chico fell from third to ninth after

Buffaloes Hope To Jar Jayton

FORSAN — Playing top-flight ball spirited by the return of starting quarterback Ralph Miranda two weeks back, the Forsan Buffaloes look to jar Jayton loose from its high perch atop 3-B here at 7:30 p.m., Friday.

This contest concludes Forsan's home season stand for the season. The Buffaloes end the year at Bronte, Nov. 14.

Jayton took over the district throne last Friday, knocking off defending champion and previously undefeated Bronte, 17-8.

Last Friday, Forsan after winning two games in a row, was forced to settle for a 14-14 tie with Hawley. The Buffaloes stand 2-2-1 in 3-B and 2-5-1 over-all and Jayton, 5-0 and 7-1.

Jayton's Mark Fincher, all-state running back last season, continues as the Class B scoring leader in West Texas. The senior has 121 points to his credit.

Gary Tidwell proved to be scoring punch for Forsan against Hawley, touching the end zone on runs of five and three yards, respectively, in the second and third periods. Ralph Miranda passed to Billy Osborne for two points in the third which proved to be the eventual tie.

The Buffaloes spotted an opportunity of breaking out

BRONTE — Sterling City, down to its next to last seasonal contest, stops by here at 7:30 p.m., Friday for a 3-B encounter with defending champion Bronte.

The Eagles were downed by Roby, 13-0, last Friday and Bronte was upset by Jayton, 17-8, Friday.

Jayton stands 3-5 over-all and 2-3 in 3B and Bronte, 7-1 and 4-1.

Coach Resigns At Holy Cross

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Ed Doherty, head football coach at Holy Cross, will leave for "personal and private reasons" after the current season.

School officials said a screening committee will be named to start considering applicants to replace Doherty, who has been coach of the Crusaders for five years.

Holy Cross, 1-6 meets undefeated Massachusetts at Amherst Saturday.

Fort Worth Press Folds

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Revived a dozen turbulent weeks ago, the Fort Worth Press published what it proclaimed was its final edition today.

A black banner headline stated simply: "30 FOR THE PRESS."

The story read in part: "And The Press became a people's newspaper and the people responded. Paid circulation grew rapidly. Response from readers grew rapidly. But the all-important person, the advertiser, did not respond to the call."

President-publisher Bill McAda had told reporters assembled at the newspaper's office Wednesday, "The Fort Worth Press is closed."

Subsequently, however, the man who launched the publication again last August — Dean Singleton — declared at his own news conference that McAda's statement was erroneous and the Press would put out today's edition.

Acknowledging that he no longer owned an interest in the newspaper, Singleton said at that time that its fate would be decided at a night meeting of directors.

McAda was editor of the revived Press before a shakeup last week, when it was reported that Singleton had been bought out. In announcing that a struggle to keep the newspaper going was at end, McAda said a final effort to obtain financial backing had failed.

"Until early this (Wednesday) morning," McAda said, "we had every intention to continue publishing. We had financial backers, acting in good faith, who agreed to purchase the paper under certain conditions agreed to by the owners."

The owners, including Singleton and George DeArmond of Denison, had agreed among other things to assume all liabilities payable before midnight Oct. 31, McAda said.

This 10-month total delivery figure for the district is 15,936,944,998, down 2,014,000,000 gallons or 11.22 per cent.

Oil companies and industrial users took 656,985,100 gallons in October, up 159,000,000 for the month, or 32.19 per cent more. For the first 10 months of the year, however, these users have taken 5,726,571,998 gallons, or 79,000,000 less than the same time in 1974. This is 4.65 per cent less.

CANDYMAKING - An Old Fashioned Craft Comes Back

Hard Candy Squares

2 cups sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup water
Food coloring
1 1/2 teaspoons essence of peppermint, anise oil, lemon or orange flavoring

Grease 8 x 8 x 2-inch pan. Stir together in heavy saucepan sugar, corn syrup and water. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Continue cooking, without stirring, until temperature reaches 300°F on candy thermometer or until small amount of mixture dropped into very cold water separates into threads which are hard and brittle. Cool slightly. Stir in coloring and flavoring. Pour into prepared pan. Cool a few minutes until a film forms on top. Using a sharp knife, mark surface in 3/4-inch squares. Begin marking candy from outside and work toward center. With a wide metal spatula, press along marked lines. Do not break through the film surface. If lines do not hold, cool candy a while longer, then continue to press along marked lines pressing the spatula deeper without breaking film. When spatula can be pressed to bottom of pan in all lines, candy is shaped. Cool, turn out of pan and break into squares. Makes about 1 1/4 pounds.

Peanut Brittle

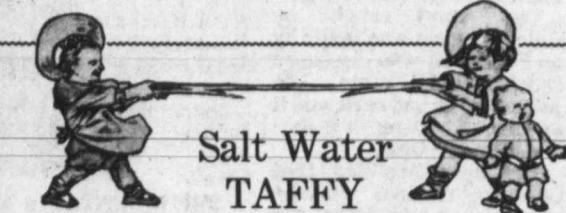

3/4 cup light or dark corn syrup
1/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons margarine
1 cup salted peanuts
1/8 teaspoon baking soda

Grease baking sheet. Stir together in heavy 2-quart saucepan corn syrup, sugar and margarine. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Continue cooking, without stirring, until temperature reaches 280°F on candy thermometer or until small amount of mixture dropped into very cold water separates into threads which are hard but not brittle. Gradually stir in peanuts. Continue cooking until temperature reaches 300°F or until small amount of mixture dropped into very cold water separates into threads which are hard and brittle. Remove from heat; stir in baking soda. Quickly pour onto sheet; cool. Break into pieces. Makes about 3/4 pound.

Sponge Candy

1 cup sugar
1 cup dark corn syrup
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
1 teaspoon baking soda

Grease 8 x 8 x 2-inch pan. Stir together in heavy 3-quart saucepan sugar, corn syrup and vinegar. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Continue cooking, without stirring, until temperature reaches 300°F on candy thermometer or until small amount of mixture dropped into very cold water separates into threads which are hard and brittle. Remove from heat, stir in baking soda. Cool, break into pieces. Makes 1 pound.

Salt Water Taffy

2 cups sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
3/4 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons margarine
Flavoring
Food coloring

Grease 9 x 9 x 2-inch pan. Stir together in heavy 3-quart saucepan sugar and corn syrup. Stir in corn syrup, water and salt. Add margarine. Cook over medium heat stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Continue cooking, without stirring, until temperature reaches 290°F on candy thermometer or until small amount of mixture dropped into very cold water forms a ball which is hard enough to hold its shape, yet plastic. Remove from heat. Stir in flavoring and few drops desired color. Pour into prepared pan. Let stand until cool enough to handle. Pull until taffy has a satin-like appearance and light color. Pull into strips, 1/2-inch wide. Cut with scissors into 1-inch pieces. Immediately wrap pieces individually in waxed paper. Makes about 1 pound.

Pulled Mints

1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
1/4 teaspoon peppermint extract
1 to 2 drops food coloring

Grease 8 x 8 x 2-inch pan. Stir together in heavy 2-quart saucepan sugar, water and corn syrup. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Continue cooking, without stirring, until temperature reaches 258°F on candy thermometer or until small amount of mixture dropped into very cold water forms a ball which is hard enough to hold its shape, yet plastic. Four into prepared pan. Let stand until cool enough to handle. Pour extract and coloring into center of candy, fold corners to center. Pull until candy has satin-like appearance and light color. Pull into strips 1/2-inch wide. Cut with scissors into 1/2-inch pieces. Layer pieces in container separating layers with waxed paper. Cover tightly. Store 4 days or until mints are creamy. Makes about 1/2 pound.

CALLING ALL HOMEMAKERS

Brought to you by Ted Hatfield
MONOCHROMATIC color schemes in home interiors are always in fashion and for very good reasons. What does the word mean in decor? Simply the use of various tints and shades of a single color, along with the neutrals. The neutrals, of course, are whites and beiges and some greys, used especially in background area, (including carpets), and for contrast in furnishings.

An effective monochromatic decorative scheme begins with carpet, because this is the largest area of "permanent" color. (Wall and ceiling paint or paper will change much more frequently than you'll buy new wall-to-wall carpeting.)

Thus if you start with a medium emerald green carpet, you may use light green walls, a white ceiling (it will reflect some of the green of the room), different shades of green furniture, draperies and accessories. You'll be surprised what color variety you can get with such a plan, and how effective neutral colors become.

One caution: be sure to begin with a color you really like, because you'll have to live with it. And be sure to visit our showrooms to find the quality carpet that will give you the right start, with just the right color. Carpeting is our business, at

A whole new generation of cooks are discovering the joys of making candy at home. Candy-making can be fun, creatively satisfying and is one of the least expensive ways to enjoy pure and fresh tasting top quality candies.

At any time of year, homemade candy makes a welcome gift. It can be a money maker, too, as anyone knows who has ever been involved with community fund raising. Good homemade candies bring big prices at church, school and club sales. Put them in jelly glasses, boxes, canisters and apothecary jars or pack them in plastic bags. It's the contents that count!

"Old-Fashioned Candy-making," a new book by veteran cookbook author June Roth (Henry Regnery Company, Chicago, $7.95) abounds in such delights as pralines, brittles, caramels, taffy, penuche, nougats, popcorn treats and almost every kind of fudge imaginable.

Nostalgia buffs will be intrigued with the treasury of antique labels, line drawings and photographs of candy ingredient manufacturers as well as original advertisements. Interesting background information on the origins and growth of basic candy-making ingredients gives insight into the development of this great American tradition.

You'll find that an old-fashioned evening at home — with candy-making starring as the main entertainment — will help you to rediscover the simple pleasures of the good old days.

Old-Fashioned Popcorn Balls

1 cup light or dark corn syrup
1 cup sugar
1/4 cup water
1 teaspoon white vinegar
2 tablespoons margarine
2 quarts unsalted popped corn

Stir together in heavy 2-quart saucepan corn syrup, sugar, water and vinegar. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Continue cooking, stirring occasionally, until temperature reaches 280°F on candy thermometer or until small amount of mixture dropped into very cold water forms a ball which is hard enough to hold its shape, yet plastic. Remove from heat, stir in margarine. Slowly pour over corn in large bowl, mixing well. When cool enough to handle, quickly shape into balls. Makes about 10 (3-inch) balls.

Quick Chocolate Fudge

1/4 cup margarine
3 ounces unsweetened chocolate
1 pound confectioners sugar
1/3 cup instant nonfat dry milk
1/2 cup light or dark corn syrup
1 tablespoon water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Grease 8 x 8 x 2-inch pan. Melt in 2-quart double boiler top over boiling water, margarine and chocolate. Sift together confectioners sugar and nonfat dry milk. Stir corn syrup, water and vanilla into chocolate mixture. Stir in dry ingredients in 2 additions, stirring until mixture is well blended and smooth. Remove from boiling water. Mix in nuts. Turn into prepared pan. Cool. Cut into squares. Makes 1-3/4 pounds.

Candy Apples

8 medium red apples
2 cups sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup red cinnamon candies

Grease baking sheet. Wash and dry apples; insert wooden skewers or craft sticks into stem ends. Stir together in heavy 2-quart saucepan sugar, corn syrup and water. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Continue cooking, without stirring, until temperature reaches 250°F on candy thermometer or until small amount of mixture dropped into very cold water forms a ball which is hard enough to hold its shape, yet plastic. Add cinnamon candies and continue cooking to 285°F or until small amount of mixture dropped into very cold water separates into threads which are hard but not brittle. Remove from heat. Hold each apple by its skewer and quickly twirl in syrup, tilting pan to cover apple with syrup. Remove apple from syrup; allow excess to drip off, then twirl to spread syrup smoothly over apple. Place on sheet to cool. (If candy mixture cools too quickly place pan over low heat.) Makes 8.

Accused Kidnapers Gets New Trial

AUSTIN (AP) — George Braddock Ogle II, convicted of the bungled kidnaping of a banker's son, won the right to a new trial today because a judge would not let his lawyers see FBI reports.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals said one such report "in a manner supported" Ogle's sole defense of insanity.

Ogle was sentenced to 50 years in prison for kidnaping Phillip Ross Terry, 12-year-old son of Kenneth Terry, president of First Bank & Trust of Richardson, a Dallas suburb.

The boy was released after Terry left $50,000 in a bag at a drop area designated by the kidnapers.

Ogle was arrested and the money recovered on the same day as the kidnaping.

Nine FBI agents made reports during the course of the investigation, and after each testified, Ogle's lawyer requested copies for the purpose of cross-examining the agents and attempting to discredit their testimony. The trial judge, however, denied each request.

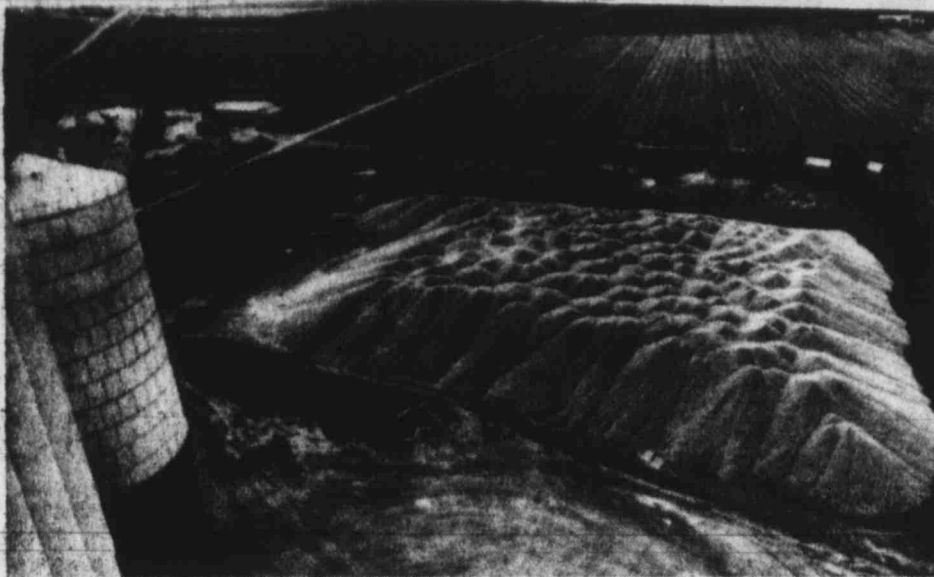

Ogle's sole defense, the court said, was that he was "suffering from chicken pox encephalitis which rendered him incapable of conforming his conduct to the requirements of what he knew was right and wrong."

One report sought by Ogle's lawyers was made by an FBI agent who discussed Ogle's mental state. The judge said he had reviewed it and found nothing in it that would benefit Ogle.

The agent testified that Ogle was "rational" when he saw him hours after the kidnaping.

But, the court said, the agent's report says: "Ogle's competency examinations indicate he was temporarily unable substantially to appreciate right from wrong at the time captioned crime (was) committed."

"The fact that the FBI report in a manner supported appellant's sole defense of insanity clearly demonstrates the harm which resulted from the trial court's refusal to allow such cross examination from the report," the court said.

THE MOUNTAINS ARE GROWING — Mountains of corn are piled on 2 1/2 acres of land near a grain elevator at Yuton, McClean County in central Illinois. The community, like others in the grain belt, is stuck with an oversupply of corn because of difficulty in getting enough rail cars to remove the giant harvest. State agriculture department estimates that 15 to 20 millions of bushels of corn are now on the ground for lack of storage space with 85 per cent of the Illinois record 1.2 billion bushels already harvested.

Error In Bill Jeopardizes 9,000 Army Civilian Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The jobs of about 9,000 Army employes at installations in 11 states are in jeopardy because of an inadvertent omission in a House-passed bill.

Some congressmen who voted for the bill are now lobbying in the Senate to get it changed to provide money for the jobs, several congressional sources said.

The accidental omission of $65 million for the jobs at Army equipment maintenance facilities came in the defense appropriations bill passed overwhelmingly by the House on Oct. 2.

The Army said the depots omitted and potential jobs lost include Corpus Christi, Tex., 1,200 jobs, and Texarkana, Tex.-Ark. 400 to 425 jobs.

The congressmen lobbying in the Senate represent districts affected by the accidental cuts, the sources said.

These congressmen are not speaking out publicly on the issue because they don't want their constituents to know they voted to eliminate jobs in their own districts, the sources said.

"The best solution would be for the Senate to quietly put the money back into the bill," one congressional aide said.

"Due to an error by the House committee, staff four lines were dropped on page 138 of the bill and no one noticed at the time. There was no intention to drop the money from the bill," another congressional aide said.

"It was a lengthy, tedious bill and somebody just made a mistake. Then the error just got by everybody and the bill breezed through the committee and breezed through the House."

Gulf Accused Of Hiding Stock Suit Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. was accused Tuesday of hiding a financial arrangement by which its former chief lobbyist allegedly used Gulf funds to repay the company in settlement of a stockholder suit last year.

The settlement with a dissident stockholder group, the Project on Corporate Responsibility, called for the lobbyist, Claude Wild Jr., to pay $25,000 to Gulf to reimburse the corporation for legal and other expenses it incurred because of Wild's illegal political donations.

The project said on Tuesday, however, that the money Wild used to repay Gulf in 1974 came not from his own pocket, but from Gulf itself.

The group filed court papers seeking to reopen the case to take testimony from Wild and Gulf officials.

Wild, who was Gulf's chief lobbyist in Washington before being fired, controlled a multimillion-dollar corporate shush fund. He and Gulf pleaded guilty in 1973 to making illegal donations to 1972 presidential campaigns, including $100,000 to Richard Nixon, $15,000 to Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., and $10,000 to Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash.

A spokesman at Gulf headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa., said "no corporate funds were used" by Wild to repay the company. But the spokesman added: "Only he could identify the source of the money he paid to Gulf."

CAUTION

Your savings may be costing you money.

Your savings are earning interest, right? But are they earning as much as they could be? If not, your savings are actually costing you money.

The truth of the matter is that many financial institutions, including banks and credit unions, are simply not structured to pay the highest interest rates. In fact, some can't even guarantee payment of the interest rates they quote.

And other kinds of investments have even higher degrees of risk. For example, mutual funds and other stock investments don't even guarantee return of the money you put in, much less earnings.

If you want to make the most of what you've got, and you want guaranteed interest rates, you've got to go to a savings specialist. Like First Federal Savings and Loan.

We call ourselves savings specialists because we can offer you higher guaranteed interest rates, more specialized savings-related services, and more ways to save than anyone in town.

And if none of our standard plans fit your particular needs, we'll custom tailor a savings plan specifically for you, whereby you can receive your interest checks any way you want. Monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually.

The following are just a few of the many special services and savings plans available to you from First Federal:

PASSBOOK SAVINGS Our Passbook Savings account is basically the same as a regular savings account offered by a bank — only our interest rates are higher. Passbook Savings earn a full 5 1/2% interest compounded daily, and paid daily. For example, if you make a deposit and withdraw it three days later, you'll be paid interest for the three days your money was on deposit.

Anyone can open a Passbook Savings account with only a $5.00 deposit. There are no term restrictions. You can make deposits and withdrawals whenever you want. And with our new convenient, easy-to-use Tele-Transfer service, you can transfer money from your Passbook account to your checking account with just a phone call.

CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT First Federal offers you four Certificate of Deposit savings plans to choose from.

- 4-year plan (min. $5,000) earns 7 1/2% interest
- 2 1/2-year plan (min. $1,000) earns 6 3/4% interest
- 1-year plan (min. $1,000) earns 6 1/2% interest
- 6 month plan (min. $1,000) earns 5 3/4% interest

Interest on all of our Certificate of Deposit savings plans is compounded daily and distributed quarterly.

SELF-EMPLOYED PENSION PLAN (KEOGH) This plan is designed for the individual who wants to establish a retirement plan for both himself and his employees. All contributions are TAX DEDUCTIBLE. You don't have to pay any income tax on either the contributions or interest until you begin drawing funds.

INDIVIDUAL RETIREMENT ACCOUNT (IRA) This plan is designed for employed individuals, not currently participating in a retirement plan. Self-employed persons are eligible, but are not required to include employees in this plan.

All contributions are TAX DEDUCTIBLE. You don't have to pay any income tax on the money you contribute to the plan or the interest it earns until you start drawing funds.

AUTOMATIC DEPOSIT OF SOCIAL SECURITY PAYMENTS This service allows you to deposit your Social Security check in your savings account without lifting a finger. The check is sent directly from the U.S. Department of Treasury to First Federal.

And deposit is guaranteed. You never have to worry about losing it. What's more, our new Tele-Transfer allows you to transfer as much of it as you want to your checking account. All it takes is one phone call.

INTEREST COMPOUNDED DAILY Interest on all First Federal Savings Plans is compounded daily. That means that if you leave your Passbook savings on deposit a full year, or your Certificates of Deposit in until they mature, your money actually earns more interest than quoted as our standard rates.

Here's how it works. When you make a deposit, your money (principal) starts earning paid interest the first day. Then each day following, the interest on your principal is compounded along with the interest accumulated from the preceding day or days. So if you have a Passbook account which earns 5.25% daily, and you leave your principal on deposit for a full year, you have actually earned 5.39% interest at the end of the year.

The following chart shows how much interest (percentage-wise) your savings actually earns annually when the principal is left on deposit until maturity, and the interest is compounded daily.

STANDARD INTEREST RATE	TYPE OF SAVINGS PLAN	ACTUAL PERCENTAGE OF INTEREST PAID ANNUALLY
7.50%	4-year Certificate of Deposit	7.79%
6.75%	2 1/2-year Certificate of Deposit	6.98%
6.50%	1-year Certificate of Deposit	6.72%
5.75%	6-month Certificate of Deposit	5.92%
5.25%	Passbook account	5.39%

All things considered, it just makes better sense to save the First Federal way.

For more information about any of the services or savings plans outlined above, drop by First Federal today. Or call Mrs. Margie Hill or any of our other savings counselors at 267-8252.

MOURNING THEIR DEAD — Two elephants linger over the body of a companion as a circus worker buries his head in his arms after an accident claimed the life of a circus elephant near here. The accident occurred when the driver of a Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros. circus van apparently fell asleep and the tractor-trailer slammed into a bridge, overturned and caught fire. One elephant died and some of the other five elephants trapped in the trailer were injured.

Industry Lauds RRC Strip Mining Rules

AUSTIN (AP) — Industry spokesmen complimented the Texas Railroad Commission Wednesday on proposed regulations for the strip mining of coal and lignite, although a Continental Oil lawyer said one proposal "gives us a major case of heartburn."

The proposed rule would allow the commission to call a hearing on its own to change a surface mining permit after a company already was operating under the permit.

"This hinders planning, this hinders budgeting — well, it makes it damn tough," said Houston lawyer David Cullen of Continental. "We question vehemently whether this reflects the intention of the legislature."

A Continental subsidiary is operating uranium mines near Karnes City with Pioneer Nuclear.

The 1975 legislature passed a law putting the commission in charge of regulating strip-or surface-face-mining of coal and uranium, and Wednesday's public hearing was the first of two to get reaction to the proposed regulations.

Hearing examiner Jerry Hill described the proposals as "not even a semi-permanent document." He said the record would remain open until Dec. 5 for suggestions, and another public hearing would be held in late January to review a second draft.

Hill said he expected the commission to adopt final regulations in late February.

Guy Nevill, a lawyer for Dow Chemical Co., said his company plans to convert "soon to the use of lignite (coal)" to fuel its plants along the Texas Gulf Coast.

The advent of coal mining "means jobs for many people and means industrial development will continue," Nevill said.

MEN IN SERVICE

BILOXI, Miss.—A Big Spring man has graduated with honors at Keesler AFB, Miss., from the technical training course for U.S. Air Force ground radio repairmen.

Airman First Class Curtis E. Bushnell Jr., son of retired Air Force Technical Sergeant and Mrs. C.W. Bushnell Jr., 601 E. 17th, Big Spring, now goes to Newport City, N.C., for duty with a unit of the Aerospace Defense Command.

A 1972 graduate of Big Spring High School, the airman has studied at Howard County College. His wife, Jennie, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Mewborn of R.R. 1, Seven Springs, N.C.

Marine Lance Corporal Cary D. May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Buck May of 1445 Walnut St., Colorado City, participated in "Deep Express," an annual NATO exercise in the Eastern Mediterranean Sea.

He is a member of the 32nd Marine amphibious unit, which took part in an amphibious assault of a simulated defended beach at Saros Bay, Turkey. After securing the beach, his unit conducted a series of tactical exercises and advanced more than 40 miles inland during a four-day period.

The maneuvers involved air, ground and seagoing units from Turkey, the United Kingdom, Italy and the United States. They were part of a series of NATO exercises being conducted this fall under the title "Autumn Forge 75."

A 1971 graduate of Colorado High School, he joined the Marine Corps in December 1973.

Ft. Hood-Army Specialist Five George L. Saldivar, 22, whose wife Olivia, lives at 1405 N. St., Lamesa, recently was assigned to the 1st Cavalry Division at Ft. Hood.

A finance clerk in the division's 15th Finance Company, Spec. Saldivar entered the Army in March 1973, completed basic training at Ft. Polk, La., and was last stationed in Germany.

The specialist is a 1971 graduate of Lamesa High School.

Need Care

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — There is a trick to safely removing the radiator cap from an overheated engine. After the engine has cooled off, protect your hands with rags, avert your face and turn the cap just until the steam escapes. When hissing stops, advise the National Automobile Club, you can remove the cap completely, start the engine and very slowly add water.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 2 ♦ Pass
2 NT Pass 3 NT Pass
Pass Pass
Opening lead: Three of ♠.

Here's a chance to test your play technique. Cover the East and West hands with your thumbs and see how you would fare at a contract of three no trump.

There is nothing remarkable about the bidding. After partner responds at the two-level, your rebid of two no trump shows a sound opening bid—about 15 points. Partner adds his 11 and, since his hand is also balanced, raises to the no trump game.

West leads the three of hearts and East plays the king. You can take a bow if you elected to let East hold the trick. Your aim is to try to exhaust East's hearts. East continues with the jack of hearts, and naturally you hold off the ace one more round. The defenders play a third round of hearts, and this time you are forced to win the ace. How do you continue?

You can count seven tricks in high cards—three spades, two diamonds and one club. Therefore, you need two more tricks for your contract, and these tricks can only be developed in the club suit. Since you have lost two tricks, you can afford to lose two more. Finally, West is the danger hand, for he holds the long hearts, so you must make every effort to keep him off lead while you develop the clubs.

If you worked this out, the winning play should now be obvious. You should lead the eight of clubs, intending to let it ride if West plays low. You do not mind if East wins this trick, for he cannot make a damaging return. Whatever suit he plays, you will win in your hand and take another club finesse, thus guaranteeing your contract. As the cards lie, you will make two overtricks. Notice that it would be a fatal mistake to finesse the queen of clubs on the first round. The deep finesse for the jack guards against this particular distribution.

What if the club finesse loses to East's jack and he still has a heart to return? In that case, you will still make the contract if the club honors are split and your next finesse in the suit is successful. And if East started with four hearts and both club honors, you have just cause to moan about the whimsical character of Dame Fortune.

Court Appeal Stays Gas Cut-Off At Crystal City

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (AP) — Officials of this South Texas city have taken their battle against LoVaca Gathering Co. to the appeals courts and thus gained a respite that will allow the city to continue to receive natural gas during the next three cold months.

Spokesmen for LoVaca Gathering Co. said Wednesday they will not cut off the gas supply to the city on Friday, as originally planned, because the city has taken the case to the Fourth Civil Courts of Appeals and a decision will take at least 90 days.

At the same time, company officials said they had submitted to city representatives a "financial settlement" proposal that would spread over almost two years payments of more than $202,000 claimed by the gas company.

But Crystal City Mayor Arturo Gonzalez said Wednesday night that the proposal, which reportedly called for immediate payment of $25,000 and installments over the next two years covering the rest of the amount, probably would be rejected by the city council.

"It is a proposal similar to one they presented to us last June," he said. "I personally feel that the city council will reject it when we present it next week."

Ray Perez, an attorney for the city, said: "We are not going to pay a cent if we can avoid it."

LoVaca sells natural gas to the city which in turn sells it to residents. The city has refused to pay the new rates established by LoVaca since last September 1973 with the approval of the Texas Railroad Commission, arguing that they more than tripled the old rates.

LoVaca argued it needed the higher rates to secure investments to search for new reserves.

Gonzalez said the city has continued to send checks to LoVaca based on the old monthly rates established in the contract signed in the late 1960s.

LoVaca went to District Court Jim Weatherby last month and secured an order that would allow it to cut the service to Crystal City on Nov. 7 unless the city paid the amount claimed by the gas company.

The city refused to pay and then took the case to the appeals court in San Antonio. Gonzalez said many of the residents of Crystal City cannot pay at the new rates established by LoVaca. He said the city has maintained the old rates in its service to city residents.

Man Stabbed In Right Hand

Charles T. Hale was taken to Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital with a stab wound in his right hand at 11:59 p.m. Wednesday.

He was taken from Melba's Lounge after police answered a call there and summoned an ambulance. Hale was recently hospitalized when he accidentally shot himself. Three men were arrested

Wednesday night at the scene and charged with public intoxication with the investigation continuing today.

Sugar Price Drop Affects Cane Harvest

SANTA ROSA, Tex. (AP) — A drop in the price of raw sugar is taking some of the sweetness out of this year's sugar cane harvest in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

The price being paid for sugar is now about 15 cents per pound, compared with about 35-40 cents per pound at this time last year, according to Archie Taylor, executive vice president of the Rio Grande Valley Sugar Growers, Inc.

The drop in price resulted from a drop in sugar consumption because of last year's prices and the availability of more sugar this year, Taylor said. He said the current price is allowing growers to just about break even with production costs.

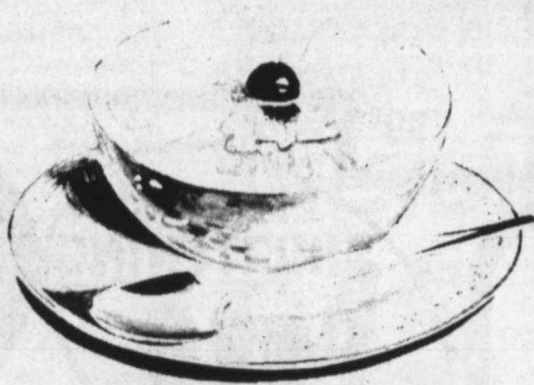

For their third season of sugar cane growing, Valley growers planted about 35,000 acres of cane, compared with only about 29,000 acres a year ago. Each acre of cane will produce about 6,600 pounds of sugar, Taylor said. The sugar cane harvest started in early October and will end sometime in April if the weather remains favorable, Taylor added.

Panel To Help Map Programs For Officers

More than a score of area law enforcement officers will be here 10 a.m., Nov. 14 to advise on law enforcement courses at Howard College.

John Massey, coordinator, said that more sheriffs, police chiefs, plus key supervisors, and some patrolmen will be on the advisory committee.

The panel will help prepare new basic programs for deputies and patrolmen and will also consider transitional activities for individuals in military service who may be considering a career in law enforcement.

Speaker for the occasion will be Walter Eubanks, Amarillo College law enforcement technology director, and a former assistant police chief in Big Spring.

Massey is expecting representatives from Sweetwater, Colorado City, Snyder, Lamesa, Sterling City, Stanton, San Angelo as well as Big Spring.

Students Save Bus Driver

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — When veteran school bus driver Jerry King passed out at the wheel, the 45 students on the bus saved their own lives and his.

The Boone High School teenagers went into action after the 61-year-old driver lapsed into an apparent diabetic coma while driving the students to school.

Faith Brant, a student passenger, jumped to the wheel and pulled the vehicle to the curb.

Meanwhile, using the bus radio, Danny Ortiz summoned an ambulance. Other students kept King warm and dabbed sugar on his tongue.

"He was pure white and freezing cold," said Mike Purdy.

"They told us if we hadn't gotten him to the hospital he would have died," added Ortiz.

King was treated for insulin shock and released.

His first words on coming to were, "Is everybody okay?"

Later, the students jumped to King's defense after learning he may lose his job because of Tuesday's near tragic incident.

"There'll never be another driver like Jerry," said Ortiz. "His insulin must have gone bad. He would have called a sub if he was sick. I know he would."

Manford Lunde, school transportation director, said King would have to be examined to determine whether he is physically fit to drive a school bus. But the driver's student friends say they want the school to guarantee him a job.

"In case he has to leave, maybe he could have a job in the dispatch office," suggested Chris Hottinger.

Court To Settle Struggle Between UT And Board

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas System and the College Coordinating Board. Technically, neither the system nor the board is a party to the suit the court heard arguments on Wednesday, but the battle between them precipitated the suit.

Under a 1975 law, the board must approve all college construction except where the legislature specifically authorizes it. Friends of the system got the exception put into the bill before they would agree not to oppose it.

Then the legislature authorized specific construction projects at several institutions by riders — additional language — attached to the appropriations bill.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe vetoed the riders.

Comptroller Bob Bullock refused to honor a $2,590 voucher from the university to pay an architect's fee on a law school project. That joined in court the fight between the giants that began with the board's creation in 1965. UT regents repeatedly have opposed board actions.

The architect sued Bullock, asking the Texas Supreme Court to order Bullock to pay the voucher.

Thomas Phillips, representing the architect's firm, Jessen Associates Inc. of Austin, told the high court a 1911 case involving an appropriation for the attorney general's office is an "unscalable parallel."

The governor in 1911 thought $83,000 excessive for the operation of the attorney general's office for two years, so he vetoed the $41,500 appropriation for one year and let the other $41,500 stand, intending that it should pay for both years.

A rider to that bill allowed the attorney general to make certain expenditures "as may be necessary."

The Texas Supreme Court ruled that rider was not an item of appropriation but was language on how the money should be used. Since the governor has the constitutional power to veto only items of appropriation, the court said he had exceeded his authority with that veto.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Cobert Heath, representing Bullock, said the 1911 rider contained restrictive, qualifying, limiting language — "not to exceed," "no more than" — and that the 1975 rider was affirmative language that constituted an appropriation that the governor could veto.

The 1975 rider, he said, contained the three elements that the court has held to constitute an appropriation: 1. Authorizing an expenditure, 2. From certain funds, 3. For a certain purpose.

Phillips responded that "government by rider" has been the "traditional and historical way by which the legislature has given its approval to new construction." If this is illegal, then billions of dollars have been spent without authorization for hospitals, dormitories and other buildings, he said.

The high court took the case under advisement.

MANY WOMEN WANT TO LIVE IT UP BEFORE SETTLING DOWN

Baby Boom Just Around Corner?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The children of the postwar baby boom are now in their childbearing years, but many women are postponing their own childbearing. They are not likely to have a population surge like the one they were born in.

But the possibility of a smaller and socially significant population increase is there. It all depends on how many children the women decide to have, something the experts say is difficult to predict.

Most of these women say they expect — and "expect" is a key word — to have two children. If they do, it would produce an increase in the fertility rate and large jump in population.

But population experts aren't convinced that the women will actually have two children. And even if they do, the experts say the population increase won't be as severe as the one that followed World War II. During that boom, women often chose to have three, four and five children.

A recent Census Bureau survey showed that most women say they expect two children. This has prompted some social scientists to argue that since there are a lot of women of childbearing age, they will produce a "boom," or rise in the fertility rate, if they have the children they say they expect.

Others insist that there probably will be no boom because the longer women postpone having children, the less likely they are to have them — or have the number they say they expect.

"Likely" — "If" — It's hard to get a demographer to use a sentence without these qualifiers because nobody really knows what combination of factors influence a woman to have children. Dr. Suzanne Keller, a sociology professor at Princeton University, put it this way: "Looking at the statistics, I think there could be a small boom. The image of many women is that they have to have at least one child to fulfill their fantasies, to prove their femininity. That a woman should remain childless forever is not a popular theory. Girls want everything — husbands, babies, glamorous jobs. What you see is a struggle."

TAKES TIME

"Change takes time. There aren't that many job opportunities for women. What do you do with love anyway? Most people try to pin it down — one way is to have a baby. It's a powerful motive. Life is everything in this culture."

Dr. Judith Blake, a demographer at the University of California at Berkeley, argues that many of these young women are going to settle into traditional roles after a period of experimenting with different lifestyles and careers.

"When people say everything has changed, I say no," Dr. Blake said. "I see a period of time when society allowed people to do crazy things, and we're now settling into a traditional life. I doubt you'll continue to get the same patterns of behavior that you've had in the last five to six years."

Not necessarily, said Dr. Sara Kiesler, a social psychologist in Washington. "Look at the rewards for not having children. Are women getting good jobs? Are they more free? Is there more tolerance for not having children? Yes. Women are being rewarded for not having children."

DIVORCE RISKS

Dr. Keisler, who has adopted two children, said that her findings from interviews with about 1,000 women in Kansas show that although women say they want two children, they aren't necessarily having them.

"They have positive attitudes about going back to school and having careers; they have the attitude that you shouldn't have children unless you want them; they have the attitude that the prevalence of divorce makes it risky to have children ... You still have the idea that it's good to have kids, but people who postpone having children for a number of years and find the rewards are great are less likely to have them."

Census Bureau demographers say there is no statistical evidence yet on a national level that a repeat of the post-World War II baby boom has started.

Census Bureau figures show: — During the first half of 1975, compared to the first half of 1974, the number of births rose by 1 1/2 per cent, which demographers say is an indication that the total fertility rate is remaining fairly constant.

— During the first half of 1975, there were 980,000 marriages, 4 per cent fewer than in the first half of 1974.

— In 1974, 40 per cent of the women 20 to 24 were single, compared to 28 per cent in 1970.

— In 1974, 40 per cent of women ages 20 to 24 were childless, compared to 24 per cent in 1970.

— In 1974, there were almost 4 million American women enrolled in college, more than three times the number in 1960. Between 1970 and 1974, college enrollment of women between the ages of 25 and 34 doubled.

LABOR FORCE

— In 1974, 43 per cent of married women were in the labor force, compared to 30.5 per cent in 1960.

"There is no sign of an increase in the rate of childbearing so far," said Campbell Gibson, a Census Bureau demographer. "The potential for a fairly sizable increase in the number of children born is there, but there is a limited amount of time in which these births can be made up.

"It's awfully hard to say how long that time is. If the economic conditions for having babies are bad, they might postpone having babies for another year or longer."

NO EVIDENCE

But any large increase in the number of children born would have major social and economic implications for the country. It would mean new schools, more teachers and increased pressure for child-oriented social services. In fact, there's little in American society that is not affected by a major shift in population growth.

The experts, while agreeing that the potential for a new American baby boom exists, say there's no evidence a boom has started yet.

Social scientists say that large numbers of women in their child-bearing years have been postponing their first child. Others are postponing their second. And some of these women, now in their early 30s, are running out of time.

Take Marcia Taubr, 30, of Springfield, Ill. She had her first child three months ago — seven years after she married.

And Vicki Burson, 29, of Fort Worth, Tex. She is expecting her second child — seven years after her first.

WHY WAIT

Or Arlene Sampson, 29, of New York City. Her first child was born four months ago — eight years after she married.

Why did they wait? Their reasons reflect the answers of women all across America: finances, careers, a skyrocketing divorce rate, modern contraceptive techniques, an increasing acceptance of non-traditional living arrangements — and a general feeling among a lot of women that they want to live it up before settling down.

Also, there has been what demographers call the "marriage squeeze." Since women traditionally marry men two or three years older than themselves, the women born during the baby boom years reached marriage age before the men born in the same years. The result was there was an excess of young women and not enough older men to go around.

Demographers are divided on the question of whether the country will see the total fertility rate rise from its present all-time low of 1.9 — which means that if 1,000 women went through their reproductive years and had children at the same rate as women did in 1974, their completed families would average 1.9. In baby boom year of 1957, the total fertility rate was 3.8 children per woman.

COMPLICATED

Examining population trends is complicated by the fact that a population can continue to grow in total numbers even though the fertility rate remains at a low level. Thus even if all of the women born during the postwar baby boom average 1.9 children throughout their childbearing years, they will still raise the total population of the country.

If the fertility rate remains at a constant 1.9 level, it eventually will produce a leveling off of population growth several generations from now. But the population bulge represented by the postwar baby boom will continue to increase the total number of Americans for many years to come.

If these women increase the rate at which they have children, the effect on total population will be larger. Instead of a steady number of children entering the social service pipeline each year, the number would start to increase. Depending on how big the rate increase was, it also could decrease chances that in the early part of the next century, American population will reach a stabilization point where the number of deaths and births are equal.

Gassy Water Suit To Be Re-Tried

AUSTIN (AP) — When gas poured from the water faucet in Mary Moody's kitchen and burst into flame from her lighted cigarette, the city of Galveston was to blame, the Texas Supreme Court ruled today.

The court, without writing its own opinion, upheld a decision of the Houston Court of Civil Appeals that sent the case back to Galveston for a new trial.

Mrs. Moody, a resident of Alta Loma, bought water from Galveston, which obtained it from nearby wells, two of which produced "a significant amount of gas," the court said.

A new line was put in, and Mrs. Moody and her husband were told that should end their gassy water problem.

But while Mrs. Moody was cleaning corn in the kitchen sink on June 3, 1973, the water stopped running. She said she assumed it was because of an air bubble and went to get a cigarette while it cleared. She returned to the sink with an ashtray containing the lighted cigarette. Gas pouring from the faucet burst into flame, and she was burned as she tried to turn off the faucet.

A jury ruled in favor of the city, but the appeals court said the judge made a mistake in not taking from the jury the issue of the city's liability for the water it sold.

Ex-Servicemen Get Bang Out Of Farmers' Class

DURANT, Okla. (AP) — In the brightly lit garage engines roar, hammers bang and welding torches hiss as the unusual class of students at Southeastern State University work in an unusual class.

It is a farm co-op program designed to serve persons in farming or agri-business ventures. The students are mostly former servicemen who now work in agriculture.

Six classes are in operation for the men who do not necessarily have to be students in the formal sense. They can receive college credits for the study although it is not a degree program.

"I've worked with every kind of vehicle that has an engine and four wheels," says Cleo Martin, a Southeastern graduate with 23 years experience as a mechanic maintenance employe at the Perrin Air Force Base which was at Sherman, Tex.

HIS FAVORITE
Martin, an instructor, has worked in special training programs for Southeastern since his graduation in 1953 and says this is his favorite.

"Every man in here is working to increase the basic knowledge he already has," he said. "Farming today just can't be done the way it was in the past and the smart farmer knows it."

Ronnie Hall, Phil Dunegan and Henry Jones are examples of the course as they work over a huge 4630-150 horsepower tractor they are tearing down.

All three grew up on farms and agree that they still don't know enough about basic modern farming operations.

They spend 10 hours a week in night classes attending courses in farm machinery maintenance, farm record keeping and veterinary medicine classes. Their time is divided between the classroom and field work with implement companies and local veterinarians.

BIG INVESTMENT
Hall, from Kenefic, Okla., farms 500 acres in Bryan and Atoka counties. "We raise peanuts, milo, wheat and other field crops and machinery upkeep is a big problem," he said. He has a large investment in farm machinery and says, "This is the first chance I've had to get back into school since I got out of military service, and there's plenty about keeping my equipment up that I don't know."

Dunegan is an employe of Williams Implement Co. in Durant. "I've learned a lot working for Williams, but I didn't realize how much I still didn't know about farm machinery," he said.

Dunegan farms 180 acres of hay, 75 acres of peanuts and 30 acres of corn at Wade, Okla., after work and on weekends.

Jones, who works with a propane company in Durant, lives southeast of Boswell in Choctaw County and owns 60 acres where he raises cows.

People in some form of agriculturally related business are enrolled in the courses from a six-county area around Durant.

By the time the program ends, the student will be able to diagnose mechanical problems and either do the repair work or work more closely with a professional mechanic.

Retirement Tips Offered

Many people are not aware of when they should file for social security benefits and what they should bring with them, according to Don Mynyard, Social Security branch manager in Big Spring.

Persons who wish to file for retirement benefits should file their claim three months before the month they want their first check to start. They should also bring with them the following things: 1) Their social security card, 2) a record of last year's earnings, and 3) a record of their age or date of birth. Some records to consider are the old family Bible, a census record, school records, voter's record, marriage record, or a child's birth certificate.

"A record of last year's earnings is needed in many cases due to the length of time it takes to get earnings credited to a person's (SS) record," said Mynyard. "A self-employed person should bring a copy of last year's tax return; a wage earner should bring in last year's W-2 form. In addition, if the person filing has any children under age 18, or between 18 and 22 attending school and unmarried, or disabled children, they should furnish the children's birth certificates and their wife's social security card."

Served Eels, Not Turkey

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Pilgrims served no turkey, cranberry sauce or pumpkin pie at the first Thanksgiving meal in Plymouth in 1621. These items were available at the time, according to Hallmark historian Sally Hopkins, but only became part of the Thanksgiving tradition in later years.

What was served at that first feast? Venison, duck, goose, seafood, eels, white and corn bread, leeks, watercress, wild plums, dried berries and wine.

Afraid Thieves Will Get Hurt

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Eddie Floyd, owner of a mobile homes company, is taking down his 100-foot flagpole because he has lost six giant flags to thieves.

The flags were 20 by 30 feet and cost $500 each, but Ford says he is taking down the pole because he is afraid a flag hit a nearby power line.

He said they had to take precautions when taking down the flag because of the proximity of a high-power tension line. Occasionally it was considered unsafe to lower them during windy periods and that's when they have been stolen.

THANKS, MISTER

OH, BOY--THEY'LL NEVER LET ME IN THE SCHOOL LOOKING LIKE THIS

BUZ, I THINK PROFESSOR FARR IS ON TO A GREAT DISCOVERY. ANY BIG OIL COMPANY SHOULD GRAB IT.

AS A CHEMICAL ENGINEER, I HAVE CONTACTS. LET ME DO SOME TELEPHONING.

NEVER MIND, BUT I CAN ASSURE YOU, PROFESSOR, SOME VERY IMPORTANT PEOPLE WILL CONTACT YOU SHORTLY.

TOPPIX

YOU'RE LUCKY THAT I FEED YOU...

IF YOU LIVED WITH THE COMOTES LIKE YOUR BROTHER SPIKE, YOU'D PROBABLY BE OUT CHASING MICE!

I ADMIT I'D HAVE A LITTLE TROUBLE PUNCHING OUT A MOUSE

HE DREW MY PORTRAIT.

I DON'T BELIEVE I'VE MET THIS GREAT ARTIST.

HAPPY TO MEET YOU, AMNESIA.

AND MY NAME IS -UH-- 'MY NAME IS -UH-IS -WHAT'S MY NAME?'

HOW CAN I DRAW?

THERE'S THE DOORBELL, HONEY! YOUR MOTHER IS UPSTAIRS AND WANETA IS BUSY IN THE KITCHEN! WILL YOU SEE WHO IT IS?

CERTAINLY, PAPA!

PETER!...WHAT... I CAME TO SEE YOUR FATHER ON BUSINESS, MAM!... BUT FIRST... UNLESS YOU SLAM THAT DOOR, YOU'RE GOING TO HEAR THE REST OF AN UNFINISHED APOLOGY!

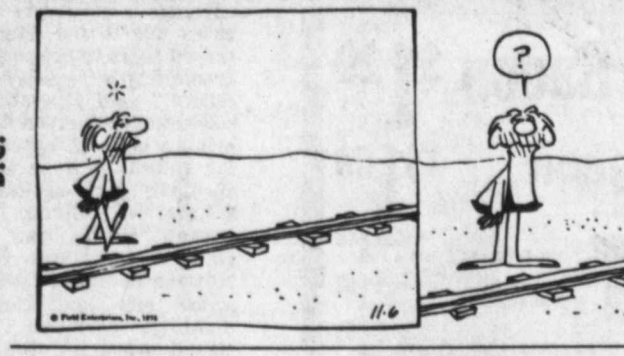

YES, KEITH IS WITH ME, JUNE!

ASK HIM WHERE I CAN REACH VALERIE!

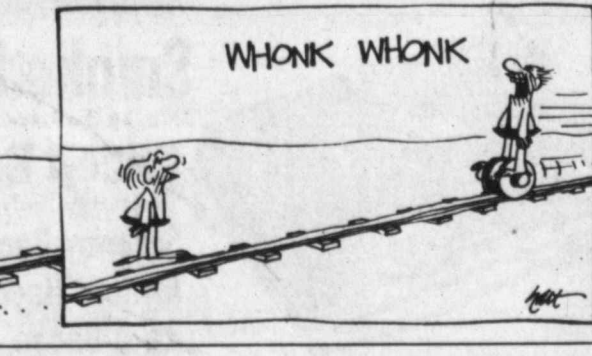

YOU'D BETTER TALK TO JUNE! MR. CONSTANTINE, VALERIE'S LAWYER, IS TRYING TO GET IN TOUCH WITH HER.

I PHONED MY APARTMENT, KEITH! THERE'S NO ANSWER!

PERHAPS SHE FELL ASLEEP! I'LL RUN OVER THERE--

PTA City Council Has Program On Title IX

The PTA City Council met Tuesday morning in the conference room of the Veterans Administration Hospital. Jim Holmes gave the devotional.

Harold Bentley, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of personnel, outlined the effects of Title IX on the school system as the program for the council.

A public relations committee was appointed at the meeting. Mrs. Darla Ferguson will head the committee.

Project committee members were also appointed. They are Mrs.

Pancake Dinner To Be Held

A Pancake Supper will be held Friday before the Big Spring Steers game against the Odessa High School Broncos. The Methodist Men will sponsor the supper from 5:30-7 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the Wesley United Methodist Church at 12th and Owens.

The fee for the pancakes, sausage, ham and drinks will be $1.50 per person.

OES Past Matrons Meet For Breakfast

The Past Matrons of the Coahoma Order of the Eastern Star Chapter 499 met Saturday morning for a breakfast at the First Methodist Church of Coahoma. Mrs. A. D. Martin presided at the meeting.

Hostess for the breakfast were Mrs. Fred Adams, Mrs. C. J. Engle and Mrs. D. S. Phillips.

Guests attending were Mrs. Tom Sullivan, Mrs. Jack Little, Mrs. J. L. Enloe, Mrs. Richard Sampson, Mrs. Emily Chapman, Mrs. Vera Gross and Mrs. Lowell Brown.

Dental Hygiene

Toothpicks, dental floss and other dental aids, if used improperly, can damage teeth and aggravate the problem of hypersensitivity, according to a report in the "New York Journal of Dentistry." Sensodyne toothpaste is reported to relieve pain for two out of three patients with tooth hypersensitivity.

Dear Abby
Widow Rekindles Romance After 50-Year Separation

DEAR ABBY: I want to get married again, but my family is against it.

You see, I met this man in 1914. We wanted to get married December of 1915, but our parents said we were too young. (I was 14 and Rudy was 18.)

World War I came along and Rudy joined the Navy. Meanwhile I married someone else and spent 54 unhappy years with him. He died three years ago and guess who suddenly came into my life again? Rudy! His wife of 51 years had died, and we discovered the old love was still there.

I am now 75, and my children don't want me to get married because they're afraid they'll lose my monthly checks. I'm sure Rudy and I can make it together. Please answer soon.

Gum Disease

Hope for immunization against periodontal gum diseases, the leading cause of tooth loss in adults, has been raised by a University of Buffalo professor, who found that specially treated bacterial secretions taken from diseased gums reduce the disease-producing bacteria for some patients.
