The Community Newspaper

By BOB ADAMS.
OF ALL the sheets from East to West the local paper is the best. Deep is our love and deep our debt to Record, Journal or Gazette. When first I landed on this ball, a bit of flesh wrapped 'round a squall, it welcomed me with joy and pride my life has never justified. It follows me my whole life through, with words all kind and mostly true; and even after I am bearded 'till my hair and hide my worst. When in Okkosh or Wickup I wander homesick as a pup, or in foreign lands I roam, it brings me pleasant news of home. Across the sands, across the sea, the old home paper comes to me. It is a friend both true and tried, and to it, honest and industrious, and would make good crops if given a chance. We are minded of one who came in one day recently and asked to see a late paper. He had the appearance of the typical east Texas renter and convinced one that he no more dreaded work than eating. We talked with him for some time over the situation, trying to console him, and after a bit this big middle fellow straightened up and said: "It makes no difference whether I find a farm here or not, I am not going to carry my family back to that old crab grass infested county of Cass, when I came from."

FOUND HOME PAPER IN HEART OF THE ROCKIES

And Through It Peddler Learned That Family He Had Known for Fifteen Years Were His Relatives.

"Publishing a country newspaper reminds me of tossing a pebble into the ocean. We never know how far the circles which it sets in motion will reach," said Williston Manley, publisher of The Plaindealer of Canton, N. Y., the other day, in speaking of "subscribe for Your Home Town Paper Week," which is to be observed in the country over the week of November 7-12. "I had a good reminder of this not long ago," he went on.

"One day there appeared in the Plaindealer office a short, stubby, rosy man of probably sixty. I knew the minute I saw him that he had come in from the big outdoors in some section. He told me that he had taken the paper for many years, probably forty, ever since he had left Canton, where he was born. He told me where I would find the paper going, and I found it. His post office was in a little town way out in the Rockies. He said he had come back to the old town to live. He paid what he owed and he was ready for good measure, and then he sat down and I knew something was coming.

"Forty Years in the Mountains." "Say," said he, "newspapers are great things. You can never tell what they are going to do for you. I have been a peddler out in the mountains for forty years, making my trips, me and the little burro, about once in six months. There were a lot of long jumps between houses. For fifteen years I had been going out of my trail, about five miles to one side, to sell to a family that had moved in. You get rather well acquainted with people if you see them once in six months for that long, so when I got there one afternoon and didn't find anyone home—just the door unlocked, as all doors were there—I went in and made myself comfortable, and when supper time came I didn't hesitate about hunting around for grub. And while I was doing it I found a copy of the Plaindealer on the kitchen shelf, and one or two more around the house—the Plaindealer, mind you, the paper I was taking right from the old home town! And I wondered who these fifteen-year-old friends of mine were. I suddenly realized we had never talked over our pedigrees any."

"When the family got home that evening I asked questions, and what do you think?—that wife was a sort of grandchild of mine. She hadn't heard of her old uncle off robbing around in the rocks of the Rockies, and I hadn't ever heard that anyone related to me had ever married and was out there living under another name. Your paper introduced us to each other. I just thought you might like to know about it."

Random Observations.
This isn't a country publisher talking, but the editor of a farm paper; The metropolitan daily will bring to one's doorstep the news of the world seen through the spectacles of the city editor, but it is the editor who lives in the heart of the community who is able to reflect the sentiment of the local group. He alone is the true interpreter of events as they affect the small town and the farming community that immediately surrounds the town.

KEEP YOUR MONEY AT HOME.
Don't forget that J. B. King will have a full line of nursery stock this fall. Lots of this stock will be grown here in Terry county. Don't risk ordering from an outside nursery when you can select from a full line of stock and get what you want. Prices right and trees guaranteed to be live and healthy.

W. C. Smith has resigned his position with the Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Co., and is now with the Texas Oil Co., and will appreciate your trade.

UP AGAINST THE REAL THING ON SOUTH PLAINS

Almost every day and sometimes twice daily a sad faced man from somewhere east of Fort Worth walks into the Herald office and asks to see a late copy with the hopes of finding a place to rent. But he gets no consolation. Many of the renters that are already here are up against the proposition of getting a place for the next year, for their landlords are intending to come here themselves.

We are sorry for these fellows and we wish it were possible to locate all of them on good old Terry county farm, where they could make an easy living, have good schools for their little fellows, and the best society on earth in which to associate. You can look at these men and tell they are honest and industrious, and would make good crops if given a chance.

We are minded of one who came in one day recently and asked to see a late paper. He had the appearance of the typical east Texas renter and convinced one that he no more dreaded work than eating. We talked with him for some time over the situation, trying to console him, and after a bit this big middle fellow straightened up and said: "It makes no difference whether I find a farm here or not, I am not going to carry my family back to that old crab grass infested county of Cass, when I came from."

Some one remarked recently that if an ad was inserted in the Dallas News that there would be 100 farm for rent here Dec 1st, the cars could not be parked on our square on that date, and we believe he is right.

Now there may be one small chance to put in more farms in Terry county for renting purposes, and that is to appeal to the patriotism of the non-resident land owners, and especially the several wealthy northern states. These gentlemen probably do not understand that they are being taxed more accordingly for unimproved land than they would be for improved land. Also, whereas they are only getting in the neighborhood of $100 for a section for grazing purposes, 30 acres in cotton rents at present prices would pay them $275, not to say anything about what four times that amount would pay them, and their taxes would be practically the same.

We believe the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce would take the matter of suitable buildings up with the non-resident without any cost of estimates, or without their having to incur the expense of a trip to Texas. And let it be remembered by these gentlemen that it does not take the costly houses in the South that it does in the North to keep the tenant and his family fronted, and that mere windbrakes is about all that live stock require.

If any of our Northern friends and readers are interested in a proposition like this, just address a letter of inquiry to the Herald, and we will send you an estimated cost of building free of charge, and the Chamber of Commerce will provide you a good renter. Help Terry grow, and at the same time help yourself and some poor but honest fellow that wants to get out of the hell-veiled infested regions of East Texas.

1922 AMERICAN LEGION CONVENTION TO NEW ORLEANS

The next meeting of the National Convention of the American Legion will go to New Orleans, according to the decision of the convention on the floor at Kansas City last Monday afternoon. San Francisco and New Orleans were the only applicants for the convention and after representation from the two cities had presented their claims, the vote was taken and resulted in 538 to 512, and on motion of the California delegation, the vote was made unanimous.

DOING IN THE DISTRICT COURT LAST WEEK

The Grand Jury returned eight bills of indictment, two each against the bootleggers and two each against the two boys accused of burglary and theft. Speaking of the bootleggers, we wish to relate a little incident in connection with their cases, between two prominent lawyers of the South Plains. Lawyer A was representing bootlegger No. 1, and lawyer B was defending bootlegger No. 2. As the story goes these two lawyers met on the street and lawyer A said: "I have the advantage of you, for the sucker I represent is sick and can't attend court." Lawyer B then said: "You ain't got a darn thing on me, for the scoundrel I represent is dead!"

The following cases were disposed of. Some were continued which we do not print:

State of Texas vs. J. A. Roberts, dismissed at motion of District Attorney.

A. M. Brownfield vs. W. D. Allen et al. Settled and dismissed.

First National Bank vs. C. K. Johnson. Settled and dismissed.

PORTER A. WHALEY SPOKE HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

The address of Porter A. Whaley,

General Manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, with headquarters at Stamford was well received and heartily cheered, but owing to the fact that there was only an hour or two notice the address was partly wasted. We wish every citizen of the town including the ladies could have heard that inspiring address, and the next time Mr. Whaley come to Brownfield, we want the ladies invited. They have just as much and generally more interest in the upbuilding of the town as the men.

The address was rather long, but was so intensely interesting that no one but the speaker thought about the time, as he remarked that he had made a rather long speech. Every idea that he advanced was plausible, and in keeping with a city the size of Brownfield, and he drove home his arguments with a logic that could not be refuted.

Mr. Whaley and local unit manager J. E. Shelton got out Saturday and added several new members to the organization, and it is understood that Mr. Whaley has a standing invitation to visit our little city any time he feels like it.

MID-WEEK BIBLE STUDY

Elder John T. Smith, minister of the Church of Christ at Lubbock, came down Wednesday afternoon of last week and started the Mid-Week Bible study of the ladies of the Church of Christ off with the G. Dallas Smith Bible Study Outlines. This was their first meeting, and was held at the home of Mrs. Stricklin, and sixteen ladies were present. They will meet with Mrs. W. G. Hardin this week. At night Bro. Smith delivered a soul inspiring sermon at the church, and he has a standing invitation to visit and encourage the Brownfield congregation occasionally.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH TO BEGIN BUILDING OPERATIONS

We stated in these columns some two weeks ago that the Christian congregation were gathering funds together for the erection of a building, and we understand that they now have on hand something like $1000 and have lots close in on Small St. and just across 8th street from the residence of Dr. Treadaway, upon which they propose to build a neat frame building with basement for Sunday School rooms.

Their regular preacher, Rev. Davis of Plainview preached for them last Sunday morning and night, which is probably to be the last time until they are located in their own building. The congregation has been using the District Court room since organization about eighteen months ago.

This will make five church buildings in the town of Brownfield.

BROTHERS & Brothers will pay the highest market price for your poultry, eggs and cream.

IDLE WIVES CLUB

Mrs. J. E. Shelton delightfully entertained the Idle Wives club last Friday afternoon. A pleasant half hour was spent in visiting after which three tables of forty-two were arranged and several very interesting games followed. The high score and consolation favors going to Mesdames Dallas and M. Smith, respectively. Mrs. Shelton had as special guests Mrs. Mumford Smith and Miss Webb and Mrs. Clarence Saunders of Quanah, Texas.

The hostess served delicious refreshments to the following members and guests: Mesdames Alexander, Brownfield, Dallas, King, May, McGowan, Pridcaux, Smith, Stokes, M. Smith, Saunders and Miss Webb.

The Club will meet with Mrs. King on Friday, Nov. 18th.

"The law—now don't go and fool yourself!" exclaimed Goff. "The state couldn't afford to keep a hundred men here, mouth in and mouth out, just to protect your little mine. My patience is about gone, Dale—for the last time what do you say?"

"I say that I'll beat you at any game you put up against me," very quietly. "Furthermore, I say that you are a coward and a scoundrel, and that you haven't got the guts in you to fight me a fair man's fight. If you'll only pocket that thing you got in your hand, I'll mow down half an acre of meadow bush with your body."

The other turned red, then white, then red again. Bill Dale's words had lashed him keenly. His eyes became like hard black beads, and he began to raise the wicked-looking pistol as though he meant to fire.

Then there was the sound of a breaking twig behind him, and a voice drawled out:

"Drap it, Mister—drap the funny little gun, or the middle of 'er neck is yore pot'ion right now!"

It was the moonshine, by Heck, and his rifle was leveled, he snatched the pistol. Heck grimaced and slowly, took up the weapon and the bullet cut a "scowling" into the air and tossed it into the river.

"Now git—cut the mine, and git afore I let Bill Dale loose on you!"

Goff went away rapidly, and "I wonder if you hear anything that would make you valuable as a witness," muttered Dale. "In the event we want to have you arrested?"

"I heard you tell him he was afraid to fight ye a fair man's fight, and 'at of he'd pocket that thing he held in his hand ye'd mow down twenty acres of meadow bush with his low-down body—that'd be valuable in cot'e wouldn't it?"

Dale smiled. Then he frowned.

(To Be Continued)

Mount McKinley, the crown mountain, is situated with the weight of ages. Within the last several years, when the peak shrugged its rocky shoulders in earthquakes, the loftiest mountain in North America has subsided at least 200 feet from its original altitude of 29,000 feet. Such was the assertion of Deschiel C. Parker, geologist and mining engineer, who first scaled Mount McKinley in 1912.

HIGH EXPLOSIVES

We borrowed this dope—Editor. There has been a great deal of agitation the past few years about a new motto for the coins of the realm. Personally we have a leaning toward "Abide with Me."

We cannot resist passing along this advertisement which appeared not long ago in a Chicago Newspaper:

"If Wilber Blank, who deserted his wife and babe 20 years ago will return, said babe will knock his blocks off."

There is a man who thinks he is just as hard boiled as an Easter egg, who is now infesting the United States Navy. He is an officer, and his duty gives him a good deal of authority over the poor job who have forsaken the straight and narrow path of the Navy regulations. He gets a bunch of culprits up before him and orates thus: "My name is Steele, I'm hard. There is only two hard guys in this navy and I'm one of them and I'm looking for the other one." Crude, but effective, will you say?

Grand Forks, N. D.—A body of an unidentified man was found here in a side-tracked bank car—Wonder where the poor fellow's other bodies were?

If you happen to see the advertisement which appeared recently headed, "Protect your lips from the sun," just put it down as a Miss-print.

There has been several new cures for rheumatism advertised nationally the past few months, but we believe there are a good many who still prefer their doctor prescribe the old one.

A gang of girl burglars has been unearthed in Des Moines. Maybe one of them from Iowa city had ought to substitute mice in place of bull.

A good deal of interest has been stirred over the question of whether it is going to place imethyl-ethyl-phenylmethane and tetramethyl-phenylmethane on the list of rat or not.

Humor on tombstones are rare, but here is an inscription found on one in a little Connecticut town.

Here lies the mother of children five. Of whom three are dead and two alive. The three that are dead preferring rather

To die with their mother than live with their father.

And more than that, a gravestone salesman friend of ours told us of an order he filled. The inscription ran like this:

It was the awful whooping cough. That took our little Willie off. Now he's gone, and gone to stay. Darn the whooping cough anyway.

A red headed boy applied for a job in a butcher shop recently, and was offered the job for $3 a week. The butcher asked, "Well, what can you do?" Can you dress a chicken?" The boy replied, "Not on $3 a week."

A true epitome, to our mind, is the man who is grateful for small things, and even admits to have a cold in the head is better than having nothing at all.

Mexico is taking up baseball, we hear. Umpires in that whimsical republic must be a nice dimmed and positive method of suicide.

Madame Curie, the famous discoverer of radium, says the world is becoming warmer. Paste this paragraph in your coal bin this winter.

Brides of the West—Center of Washington Society Interest—Headline in the New York Herald.

Among the burning questions this winter will be the price of coal.

In the Oakland (Cal.) Tribune the following boner was pulled: "Ch-lotte Forbes, who sang continuously for six years in London, is to play opposite Hobarth Bosworth in a next picture." Can it be that she is related to the man who sang "The Stars and Stripes Forever?"

MARRIED

By reason of the fact that the editor did not make a note of the marriage of Mr. Ohio Welch and Miss Gladys Flemming, when we learned of the wedding, it did not occur in these columns last week as it should have.

They were married last Wednesday week, Oct. 26th at the Methodist parsonage, Rev. Baughman officiating.

Miss Gladys is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Flemming, of near Gomez and had many friends throughout the county.

Ohio is the son of Mrs. J.W. Welch of this city, and is now one of the popular barbers of Big Springs. He was reared and educated in Brownfield and has a host of friends.

They will make their home in Big Springs.

Southern Baptists Wage Vigorous Warfare Against Tuberculosis In This Section

WOMAN'S INFIRMARY BAPTIST SANATORIUM

RECREATION PATIO BETWEEN MEN'S AND WOMAN'S BLDG.

ENTRANCE TO ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

INVITING CORNER OF MEN'S INFIRMARY

In one of the most extensive plans that has ever been made for any religious body in America for the eradication of disease, Southern Baptists, through their Home Mission Board, have undertaken the task of combating tuberculosis in the 18 states comprising the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention. The first step in this direction was the recent establishment on a tract of 143 acres at El Paso, Texas, of the Southern Baptist Sanatorium, where $500,000 from the 75 Million Campaign has been invested and where $200,000 more will be placed by the end of the Campaign period. The institution is located at an altitude of 4,500 feet on the side of Mt. Franklin and commands an excellent view of the mountains of New Mexico, Western Texas and Old Mexico, whose border is only six miles distant. Dr. H. F. Vermillion is superintendent.

Included in this plant at present are the administration building, the newly completed women's infirmary and men's infirmary, a heating and refrigerating plant and the superintendent's quarters. Provided for in the building plans for the future are a medical and educational building, nurses' home, children's building, dormitories for convalescent patients, an occupational and vocational therapy building, chapel, laundry and minor structures.

150 People Die Daily.

Indicating the need of additional effort looking to the elimination of tuberculosis in the South, reliable figures gathered by the public health agencies of the South and the Nation show that there are 150 deaths daily from tuberculosis in the 18 states comprising the territory of the Southern Baptist Convention, making the total death toll of the white plague this section of the country alone $7,782. The death rate from tuberculosis is 14.2% higher in the South than in the Nation as a whole. One reason for the exceedingly high death rate in the South is the great prevalence of the plague among the negroes who are especially susceptible to tuberculosis, the death rate among them being three and one-half times that among the whites. But inasmuch as the negroes will doubtless continue to be intimately associated with the whites in domestic and other work in the future, the whites will never be safe from infection until the negroes, as well as the whites, have been freed from the plague.

It has been estimated that the total economic loss from the ravages of tuberculosis in the South is $175,000,000 a year, and in projecting their warfare against the plague the Baptists hope to greatly reduce this loss, as well as to save the life and promote the health and general efficiency of the whole people.
