

WANTED---

Here's a want ad we saw in a paper the other day—
Wanted—to exchange a motor cycle for a cow—
 Wise Gink, this fellow, 'cause he knows blamed well the roads 'rou' here are getting pretty "rutty", then of course a motor cycle DON'T GIVE ANY MILK—
 Speaking of exchanging, we have got some mighty nice new spring suits we are willing to "exchange" for the "long green" or kind faced checks—
 The fabrics this spring are getting back to "normalcy"—you're going to be pleased with the nice all wool suits we are showing at $35.00, which is an easy $10. saving over what most retailers ask for such clothes, because we are giving VALUE in order to GET VOLUME for you know VOLUME of business is what talks these times.—

LEGION TO BEGIN ON HALL ABOUT APRIL 15.

We learned this week that the local American Legion boys are figuring on starting their hall near the tabernacle on or about the 15th of April, and will finish it as soon as possible.
 The hall is to be 40x60 feet but will not be finished on the inside at present. Besides a hall for the lodge part of the post, many things will be added for the entertainment and amusement of the veterans of the world war.
 Howard Post No. 269 is to be congratulated on this step forward, for there are many posts in the larger towns and cities with no home of their own. But a patriotic citizen of the town donated a lot and then the people subscribed liberally to a subscription list circulated for that purpose, and together with the efforts of the Legion with its Minstrel Shows the building is in sight.
 TWO SECOND HAND New Perfection Oil Stoves at a Bargain. See Collier Brothers, Furniture and Undertaking.

SHALL WE HAVE RADIO RECEIVING OUTFIT?

Brownfield now has the chance of getting a radio or wireless telephone receiving apparatus for a comparatively small sum of money, that we consider would be not only a great convenience and saving, but a real source of entertainment and pleasure to the town.
 Our cotton and corn buyers are expanding quite a neat sum yearly for market reports. This would all be saved with this radio outfit, and the daily market reports could be given not only to the buyer, but would become available for the seller as well. Not only this, but it would be possible with the $280 outfit to assemble in our school auditorium and hear sermons, concerts and lectures by the best talent in the land.
 Are you in on the outfit. Let's be progressive one time in our lives and be the first town on the Plains to install the outfit.
 WHEN YOU have hogs, don't sell them before seeing Bailey.

CHURCH NOTICE

The Christian church has arranged with evangelist F. W. Strong, of Brownfield, to hold a protracted meeting in Brownfield, beginning about July 10th, and continuing about three weeks.
 District Evangelist Jasper Bogus, of Dalhart, will begin a meeting at the Christian Church, Wednesday night, March 22nd, and will continue about two weeks. There will be preaching each night, and everybody is cordially invited to attend the services.
 The P. T. A. gave the people a real good play last Saturday night entitled "The Old New Hampshire Home." On account of sickness in the family the writer did not get to attend, but we have been assured by all who did—without a single exception—that we missed a real play.
 C. R. RAMBO will make you a loan on your farm or ranch property.
 Arthur May, of Lubbock, was here Monday visiting his brother, Tom, and sister, Mrs. W. B. Downing.

CALL SHOWS BANKS IN MUCH BETTER SHAPE.

Way down east where nothing is thought about but "niggers" and cotton, the average small town bank is at a much lower ebb than when the last call was made the latter part of December. Not so with the south Plains banks, they are most all in much better shape.
 When the harvesting of the cotton crop of more than 2000 bales was over here, the corn began to come in at a lively gate, and is still going good. Hundreds of thousands of bushels have been shipped and more yet, and instead of the usual beginning to borrow movement as in the east, the farmers are using their corn money.
 The loans of the two local banks are considerably lower than before, and the deposits greater by nearly $100,000.00. This call shows more than $376,000.00 on deposits at the two banks, and the re-discounts much lower. In fact, both banks are entirely clear of indebtedness at this writing and several thousand, perhaps more on deposit, or more than $400,000.00.
 Hist you head for Terry is still alright.
 Those leaving on visits will confer a favor on the Herald by so informing Mrs. H. T. Sefton, who will make a note of the fact and hand it to the Herald.

MAIDS AND MATRONS TO PUT ON ANNUAL CLEAN-UP

The Maids and Matrons Club will conduct their annual clean-up campaign the first week in April. A prize will be given for the cleanest premises and also prizes will be given for the four largest piles of trash. All trash must be gathered within the corporate limits. Prizes as follows:
 1st prize $4.00
 2nd prize 3.00
 3rd prize 2.00
 4th prize 1.00
 Now boys and girls, here is a good chance to earn some money and at the same time make the old town shine like new money. That ball or bat or mit, or if a girl, that doll or dress may be purchased this way.
 The Herald again wishes to compliment the Maids and Matrons for again taking the lead in making this a better and cleaner town in which to live and rear a family. You have not only for years taken the lead in this matter, but you have given to Brownfield a public library, something which few cities of less than 5,000 people can boast. The Maids & Matrons Club is a real asset to our town.
 Hemstitching & Picotting Attachment; fits any sewing machine; easily adjusted. Price $2.50 delivered. Gem Novelty Co., Box 1031, Corpus Christi, Texas.

THAT FORT WORTH AND PLAINS RAILROAD

As usual, Brownfield did not have a delegate at the railroad meeting on last Saturday at Fort Worth. There does not seem to be a sleeper bunch in the world, and we include ourselves, for we are a part and parcel of the whole mess. Nearly every town of any consequence on the south Plains as well as a wide scope between here and Fort Worth was well represented. This included Roswell and Livingston, N. M., Seminole, Lamesa, Shatt, Post, Lubbock, Lorenzo, Ralls, Crosbyton, Floydada, Lockney, Plainview and Littlefield.
 Maybe, however, when the time comes to present to the builders of the road the real advantages of the road through here, the air line route from Fort Worth to Roswell, our little burg will wake up long enough to present its claims. While the road may be several years in building, yet its construction is inevitable. When enough people get interested in a proposition to put it over, its always a go.
 We heard some one remark lately that any road west of here would ruin our trade territory. Well, just let a road go through the tier of counties either north or south of us and see what become of your trade territory. We must like the proverbial tub stand on our own bottom, for we shall have it to do sooner or later. Then should we begrudge and town or country railroad facilities. Just remember our own struggle before we get a road.
 Let the Plains develop.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

Now there are some people who still firmly believe that advertising don't pay—they are scattering how ever—and here is a demonstration that it does pay. Sunday before last was a prettier day than last Sunday, but with a little publicity the S. S. attendance in Brownfield was increased 34 and the collection was $2.36 better.
 Only one school of the Bible lost, that at the Church of Christ; being three less than the Sunday before, but it showed the biggest gain in collections. The Methodist still hold their big lead in attendance, with a gain of eight over the previous Sunday, while the Baptist showed real speed in attendance, being a gain of 25 over the previous Sunday. The Presbyterians gained 3 and the Christians 1 over the previous Sunday.

Church	No. Pres.	Col.
Methodist	110	4.78
Baptist	58	2.24
Church of Christ	49	4.42
Presbyterian	38	3.22
Christian	36	1.55
Total	321	16.21
Previous Sunday	287	13.85
Gain	34	2.36

A. E. GRAHAM FOR WEIGHER

We take pleasure in presenting the candidacy of E. A. Graham for the office of Public Weigher of Precinct Nos. 1 and 2, subject to the Democrat Primaries in July.
 E. A. (Aut) was appointed last year by the Commissioners' Court to fill out the term of J. A. Gamble, resigned and has proved a good weigher, pleasing both the producer of cotton and corn, as well as the buyer.
 Remember (Aut) when you go to make up your ballot.

ARRESTED FOR BOOTLEGGING

Herbert Witt, a farmer living about one and one-half miles southwest of Lorenzo, was arrested late last Saturday at Lubbock on a charge of bootlegging. Also, that night about midnight, Sheriff B. W. Mitchell and deputy Jno. A. Dillard of this city searched Witt's premises and found a ten gallon still, about two barrels of mash and two and one-half gallons of corn whiskey.
 Witt was lodged in the Lubbock county jail, but is now out on bond.—Lorenzo Enterprise.

OLD TIMERS RUSH THE TIERNAN HOME

The old timers party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Randal a few weeks ago was so fine that it was decided to pull off another, and this time, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Tiernan was rushed, and like the previous one, all restraint and formality was thrown to the winds, and the boys became just John and Bill to each other again, and the ladies were Mary and Jane to each other once more, until the joys and real friendship of other days swelled in the heart.
 Games of progressive 42 and "Muggin'" were the diversions, intermixed with the player piano, and several violin selections by Uncle Joe Hamilton. At a very late hour, refreshments of cake and punch were served the guests, and the departing guests were loud in praise of the way in which they were so delightfully entertained.
 Among the guests were Messrs. and Mesdames Graham, Ray Brownfield, Orrel Adams, Rev. and Mrs. Baughman, Sam Pycatt, J. N. Lewis, Stricklin, J. T. Hamilton, Bynum, Randal, Wood Johnson, and Mesdames Neill, Snodgrass, Thomas, Longbrake, Welch

THE FARMER NOW IS A BUSINESS MAN

G. W. Chism dropped in one day recently from the northside and informed us that he wanted space for awhile to sell white leghorn eggs. He remarked with a grin that he had got low enough to sell eggs, but in reality that just shows the business sense of a farmer, and buying display space in his home paper confirms his business ability.
 Twenty years ago when the Herald man arrived in north Texas from the old State of Tennessee, those old blackland farmers in Johnson, Dallas and Ellis counties thought it was a disgrace to sell anything like poultry and eggs off their farms, but now it is different even down there, and the old timers are either selling all the produce they can off the farm, or the more progressive man now owns the farm, and the former owner is now a renter somewhere.
 Business is business whether you are a banker or renter. The man that buys more from the store than he sells, is doomed sooner or later to a bankruptcy.

PROSPERITY

What will bring prosperity to Terry County and put the farmers on the top?
 Large bunch of chickens on the farm.
 Few good milk cows to sell cream from—
 Good work mares to raise good colts from—
 A fine garden and some good brood sows. Then some corn and cotton. This will put Terry County on TOP.

THE HIGH COST OF TAKING CHANCES

Real estate is the safest of all investments, provided there is no flaw or blemish in the title. Notwithstanding the small cost and ease with which Abstracts of Title may be secured and the investment thereby safeguarded, there are many instances where the savings of years have been utterly lost simply because the investor was willing to take chances and failed to have an Abstract made.
 We cite these facts merely to show how a little neglect may breed a great mischief.
 You can't afford to take chances. It costs too much.
 If you contemplate buying a piece of property don't fail to let us furnish an Abstract of Title from our records.

The Dallas Catholic Diocese has passed a reward of $2,500.00 for the apprehension of those who tarred and feathered priest Keller at Slaton recently. Now we imagine that any detective that goes to nosing into that matter over at Slaton will just about come out with a good coat himself and other gentle reminders to tend his own business. That $2,500 don't look good to us as hard as the fines are.

We have been informed from reliable sources that another man has disregarded the feelings of his neighbors in Terry county and has bro't a bunch of "coons" in, this time in the south part of the county, and maybe a lot of trouble of a serious nature may result. It is a pity that some white people are so constituted that they cannot live in an atmosphere void of the "nigger musk," and had rather have a few of these stinking things around him to gladden his heart and stimulate his meals than have the friendship of the biggest-hearted white people on earth. Yet it is so. We wish there was a line drawn around the caprock, fortified with a strong bunch of cowboys with plenty of artillery to tell all immigrants that the color line is right here, and to either go back east or dump the "niggers."

Do you know that where the laws of the land are being enforced, there you will find less talk of mobs and Ku Klux. This is the more reason why juries should do their duties.
Too many times the best men of the community are busy with affairs of their own, and let the lowest down class set on the juries for they always seem to be at leisure, and we thus have no convictions. One criminal will not convict another. In all the years of jurisprudence in Terry county, there has been but one single person sent to the pen, and he was almost a stranger, without friends or money. No matter what happens, either the suspended sentence is introduced or they are turned loose.
This may run on for years and nothing may happen, then again, we may be shocked some morning to wake up and find our city or county has been invaded by a hooded band and the criminally minded handled without gloves. Let the juries do their duty and this will be saved.

The fight is on—as Dr. Rankin used to say in Church & State, but this time it is not between the liquor forces and the "drys" but between Rev.
J. Frank Norris, of Fort Worth, and part of the Baylor University at Waco. The pastor of the First Baptist church at Fort Worth, which is said to be the biggest Baptist church in the universe, aided by the Searchlight, published by that church weekly, has had his ending. It went after the scalp of Dr. Dow, of Baylor, who was alleged to be teaching Darwinistic theories in that institution. But now the University crowd through course the Herald does not under-although getting both journals, and doesn't propose to stand as peace-but looks to us like Dr. Norris ought to let up on Baylor after Prof. Dow is now another angle to the matter.

Recently Baylor had a serious fire in the chapel and library, and Dr. Norris and his rich church of several urely sum of $10,000, says the Lariat.

SYNOPSIS.
CHAPTER I.—Occupying a dilapidated shanty in the Silent City, a squatter without name, lives with his father, small, portly, and an old woman, Granny Hope. On an adjacent farm, Oscar Bennett, prosperous farmer, is a neighbor. He is secretly married to Evelyn Robertson, supposedly wealthy girl of the neighborhood. Polly alone knows the secret. Marcus Mac-Kenzie, who owns the ground the squatters occupy, is their determined enemy.
Polly overhears a conversation between MacKenzie and a stranger, in which the former avows his intention of driving the squatters from the land. The stranger sympathizes with the squatters, and earns Polly's gratitude.

CHAPTER II.—Evelyn Robertson discovers from her mother that they are not rich, as she supposed, but practically living on the bounty of Robert Perival, Evelyn's cousin.

CHAPTER III.—Polly learns from Evelyn that the sympathetic stranger is Robert Perival. Evelyn charges the Polly with a message to Bennett, telling him she can give him no more money, and urging him to be patient. She already bitterly regrets her infatuation with and marriage to the ignorant farmer.

CHAPTER IV.—Polly conveys her message, and Oscar makes threats. He insists Evelyn meet him that night. Polly has her father and Larry Shoop, a squarter who has suffered from the enmity of MacKenzie, take an oath to do him no harm.

CHAPTER V.—Evelyn unsuccessfully tries to get money from her mother with which to buy off Bennett and induce him to leave the country, giving her her own money. She is really enamored of Marcus MacKenzie. At a certain moment that night Bennett threatens Evelyn with exposure unless she procures money for him.

CHAPTER VI.—Polly meets Robert Perival, and they are mutually attracted.
Polly's feeling being something like adoration.

CHAPTER VII.—Overhearing a conversation between Polly and Robert Perival, Bennett, really caring nothing for Evelyn and desiring to live with Polly, waylays the girl when she leaves Perival's house and threatens her.
Perival returns and thrashes the farmer, the asks Polly in what way she can help and she begs him to help the squar-ters. Perival is rich and influential, though lacking the power of MacKenzie, and agrees to do his best. MacKenzie visits the Hopkins place with an offer to the squatters, through Hopkins, to leave the vicinity, offering them a trifling sum of money. The offer is refused and MacKenzie threatens to burn their dilapidated dwellings and leave them homeless.

CHAPTER VIII.—Polly visits Perival in the Robertson home in an effort to salute his aid, and he is on the point of declaring his love for her, when the girl, in a panic, flees. MacKenzie asks Evelyn to be his wife. The girl agrees to marry him after he has bought the Bennett farm and got rid of the squatters. Robert fails in an effort to procure the aid of Mrs. Robertson and Evelyn in a plot to help the Silent City people.

CHAPTER IX.

In spite of the weight of apprehension that pressed upon the Silent City, Polly's soul insisted on singing with gladness. She found opportunity, even in the midst of her busy hours, to live over and over the adventures of that evening in the Robertson house. When she remembered how Robert had held her in his arms, her happiness made her almost faint.
She allowed Jerry's gleaming blouse to fall neglected in her lap, as in imagination she dwelt on every incident of her visit. She recalled the thrilling tenderness in Robert's words, and her face grew soft in delightful reverie.

A sound at the door brought her thoughts back and she glanced up startled. Unnoticed, the blouse dropped to the floor as Evelyn Robertson came in. Embarrassed and in silence, Pollytop arose and offered her a chair.

"You ain't feeling well, I bet," she burst out, wiping the dust from the repe strap of the rocker with her skirt.
"You look white like the moon does before a rain. Go on, an' sit down!"

Sinking back, Evelyn looked steadily at her. Then she caught at the hand resting on her shoulder.
"Polly, I've come to you because you're the only friend I have," she exclaimed, tears misting her eyes.
"I'm awful glad you come to me."
Polly breathed softly. "You want me to run to Oscar again? I can't stand the sight of that duffer, but I'll go just the same. Have you got a letter?"

Wiping her eyes, Evelyn shook her head.
"No, but Oscar wants to see you,"
she replied, she paused and studied the girl. "Polly," she continued,

"Then sit down, dear," entreated Evelyn, "and don't stare at me so."
"To have you see her like that, Pollytop could not drag her eyes away, but obediently she sat down on the floor. Evelyn hid under the searching, honest gaze.
"You know, Polly," she stammered,
"how it is between Mr. MacKenzie and me. I can make him do anything I say. Oh, if I were free from Oscar Bennett!"
"Then you could marry Old Mar-cuz?" Polly interposed with a bob of the chestnut curls, "an' boss him, I bet."
"Something like that, Polly," Evelyn admitted. "That's why I've come to
you. When I'm free, I can make Mr.
MacKenzie let up on your people."
Anxiously weighing every word, Polly's quick mind ran ahead.
"An' to do that," she threw in, "you got to get shut of Oscar? I don't blame you for wantin' to, but how he you goin' to work it, Miss Eve? I can't see no help for the squatters if your marrin' Old Marce's part of it."
"That's what I'm trying to tell you, Polly," was the quick retort, "but I want your promise. You help me, and I'll help you and your people. Oscar says he'll free me—if you'll marry
him."
"For an instant Polly's head whirled as if it had been suddenly struck and over her came a weight almost unbearable. Then slowly she shook her curly head.
"I couldn't do that, mam'm," she choked. "I just couldn't."
"But you said you would," retorted Evelyn sharply. "You must. I can save the squatters, and I will; but only on condition that you help me get rid of Oscar Bennett. Mr. MacKenzie is going to buy the Bennett farm, and—"
"An' Oscar'll be goin' away somewhere else?" put in Polly. "Is that it? He'd take me away from Daddy Hopkins an' from—"
She caught herself just in time. She had it on the tip of her tongue to add the name of Robert Perival, but of course she did not.
"I couldn't ever do that," she ended.
"Never, never."
The blue eyes looked into the brown eyes seriously.
"Oh, yes, you can," insisted Mrs.
Robertson. "Oscar's not the worst in the world, and he'll have a lot of money when he leaves Ithaca. He loves you, Pollytop, and he'd make life easy and pleasant for you."
A thoughtful moment or two passed, while Polly Hopkins gazed at her hands locked together in her lap.
"You can't tell me nothin' about Oscar," she remarked at length. "I know the man, an' I don't care if I don't nothin' good about him, you can let your boots on that." She paused while through the open doorway her eyes were fixed upon a fleecy cloud, high up in the deep blue sky. "That don't make no difference," she continued. "If I linked up with Oscar, would that pup, Old Marce, let the squatters stay in the Silent City?"
"Why, Polly, dear, of course he will!
I talked with Oscar last night, and I'll swear to Mr. MacKenzie just as soon as you promise to do what Oscar wants."
Again the smiling face of Robert Perival cut across Polly Hopkins' mental vision, and through the silence of the shanty she heard his voice—deep, low and like music. Then the evil face of Bennett wormed itself into her mind. Her lids drooped, and she shuddered.
"I couldn't do it, mam'm," she wailed. "I just couldn't do that!"
Evelyn arose and stood over her.
"You must, Polly," she asserted again. "Good heavens, it's the chance of your life! Of course you'll do it, Polly Hopkins. Take a little time to think it over. I'll bring Oscar to see you some day when Mr. MacKenzie and my cousin Robert are away."

"*M Awful Glad You Come to Me," Polly Breathed Softly.
"don't you want to do something for—
for your people? There's a way, Pollytop, that you can—"
Impulsively Polly could not wait.
"Do you mean help Daddy Hopkins an' the rest of 'em?" she interrupted.
Evelyn nodded.
"Yes, every one in the settlement."
A brilliant smile lit up Pollytop's countenance.
"I'd give inches out of my hide to do that," she declared. "Go on, an yap it to me."

ad friend.
"Don't you like it, little Pollytop?"
queried Robert, putting his fingers under her chin and raising her face to his.
"Yep," she whispered, blushing.
"Sure, sure I do. I love it."
"Then why don't you smile?" he demanded; and as she shyly complied with his request, he ran on: "I've talked with MacKenzie, and he's so set— Confound it! He makes me so mad I can scarcely listen to him. But,
Polly dear, I'll do everything I can.
I've got money and friends, as well as he has, and I'll use 'em too. Will you trust me, sweet?"
She bowed her head in grateful assent. How she thrilled at the touch of the warm, white hand!
"Look at me, dearie," he begged, and when she did flash him a rosy glance, he caught her to him. "I love you, little girl," he whispered.
"An' love's the greatest thing in Ithaca, ain't it?" she murmured in trembling confusion.
"Yes, yes," he breathed. "Little girl—oh, my littlest dear—"
His voice trailed away, and his pos-sionate kisses made Polly Hopkins forget everything but him. Primeval passion rose within her. She had found her man, and nothing should take him from her.
Then while Robert was telling her of his hopes and plans, regarding his love for her and his desire to help her read and study, they walked slowly back along the ragged rocks in the direction of the shanty.
They were almost at Polly's home before he left her. She watched him stride up the hill, and, after he had disappeared, she threw herself flat upon the earth; and mingled with the bird's song in the willow trees, and the rippling of the waves upon the shore, came her cry:
"Oh, dear, dear, I can't marry Oscar I can't! You'll have to help the squar-ters some other way, darlin'!"
The days that followed, bringing with the spring the very bowels of sunmer birds, seemed an eternity to Polly Hopkins. She went about her duties as one in a dream. In spite of Robert's efforts, several of the fishermen had been sent to the Ithaca Jail for petty crimes.
Two men had been trapped in the Bad Man's ravine and taken off to the Jail without so much as a farewell to their families. Polly had grieved with their women and wept over their happiness. She was quite sure Perival was doing everything anybody could do;
but sometimes the thought of Evelyn's demand intruded on her mind, and she wondered if she were doing right in refusing it.
One morning at daybreak Polly saw her father lift his gun from the wall and sit down to clean it. Now, why was he doing that, when he knew very well he could not use it? She was looking down upon him, her heart beating rapidly.
"You ain't goin' to hunt yet, honey," she protested, squatting down beside
him.
"Yep," returned Hopkins glancing up. "There ain't no one astr o' early, an' I'll bring back something, mebbe a woodchuck or a skunk. We ain't had enough to keep a mess of flies alive since Old Marce got back."
That was true! No one knew better than Pollytop how they had missed the little she had received from Bennett.
sick at heart, she snatched at his hand.
"We might best be without grub,
Daddy," she said passionately. "Aw!
Don't start rubbin' it up again! You'll get pinched, if you hunt out of season, an' natter what you shoot. For less than carryin' a gun, Old Marce got a bunch of our men. You shan't do it, Daddy. You shan't, I say!"

it only she could persuade him not to hunt until Robert had come to an understanding with MacKenzie. If he didn't succeed—then she knew another way.
"Mebbe in a little while you can snut all you like, Daddy," she ventured softly.
"What do you mean by that, brat?"
asked Jeremiah, centering his keen eyes upon her.
She leaned forward and slipped both arms about his big waist.
"I don't want you to go today, Daddy," she returned noncommittally.
"Why don't you just stay at home, an'
—"
"Nope, I'm goin'," interrupted Hopkins. "An' Jerry's a-goin' with me."

"Nope, I'm goin'," interrupted Hopkins.
"I'll be back before any of Old Marce's spies turn over for another nap." Polly knew her father well enough not to make another appeal. She crossed her arms and, troubled in spirit, watched him stride away in the keen morning air.
It had been decided among the squatter men that to keep the breath of life in their women and children they must hunt and fish, but that nothing should be caught that the law forbade. It was this thought that was rumbling through the squatter's mind as he crept up to see if a woodchuck and ventured out. One was sitting up, taking a survey of the neighborhood, when Hopkins lifted his gun; and with one sharp crack and a belch of smoke the furry fellow tumbled over.
The squatter strode forward and was in the act of picking it up when three men appeared as if they had sprung from the earth and with raised pistols closed in upon him.
Jeremiah's huge jaw dropped at the sight of them, and Wee Jerry's fingers caught tight hold of his shaggy hair.
"Drop that gun," cried one man, and the still smoking rifle fell to the earth.
It took but a moment to snup a pair of handcuffs about the dazed man's wrists. It was while Jeremiah's face was turned upward to quiet the screaming Jerry that one of the men quickly substituted a dead animal and another went away with the dead woodchuck. Then the third slipped a chain around one of Daddy's legs.

Storm Country Polly

By GRACE MILLER WHITE

Illustrated by R. H. Livingston and led him down the hill to the ragged rocks, the child still clinging to his neck.

Polly was standing under a willow tree as her eyes caught sight of Daddy Hopkins and Wee Jerry between two men. One of them strode along, a little dead body dangling from one hand, while held in the other hand was her father's gun. She ran toward them, giving spasmodic cries of dismay.

"Daddy!" she screamed. No answer came from the blinking squatter.

"We caught him with the goods on," one man sneered at her.

"But you're goin' to leave him with me," she shrieked, making her appeal to the man who stood close to Jeremiah. "Daddy'll promise not to hunt no more, won't you, honey? Oh, God! You said you wouldn't shoot nothin' the law said you couldn't."

"I didn't, brat," grunted Hopkins. Then his eye caught sight of the squirrel, and his jaw dropped. A hoarse groan fell from him.

"I didn't shoot no squirrel, Polly," he cried out to her. "I got that big chuck I were tellin' you about." Then, turning glaring, fury-filled eyes on the man who had sneered at the girl, he continued, "You planted that d—n litte critter on me, mister. I never shot him."

Polly's lids widened in terror. She lifted one hand and caught the child's shoulder.

"Jerry, baby," she cried madly, "you was there! Tell Polly what Daddy shot!"

"Sure I was there," he sobbed, drawing his sleeve across his face. "Twas a big woodchuck settin' up by his hole, an' my Daddy Hopkins—"

The officer who had the squirrel in his hand, put it into his pocket and seized the child by the arm and shook him.

"Here, kid," he shouted, "none of your lip. You've been set up to tell that lie."

The man's aspect was so threatening that Wee Jerry broke off his words and, grasping Daddy's busy hand tightly, smothered his sobs in his hair. Jeremiah Hopkins made a motion toward the speaker, but a sharp twist on the chain around his wrist checked him.

"You see, brat," he groaned, "they've framed me right."

Polly grasped the situation in an instant. She knew the planting system had been practiced on the squatters before. At last the law had her best beloved.

"Daddy never killed that squirrel," she raved. "He didn't; an' you d—n duffers know he didn't. You can't get by with nothin' like that. It's crooked! Here, you—you—you gimme my daddy!"

Like a wildcat unleashed upon them, Polly flew first at one, then at the other. She bit at them, tore at their clothes and kicked out with her strong bare feet; but it was like a small force attacking a mighty mountain. Strong hands pinioned her arms, and while she stood raging at them, she saw Wee Jerry snatched from his father's shoulders and set on the ground. Then they led Daddy Hopkins away. Dazed for a moment, Polly stood shaking her head to foot. Grasping Jerry by the hand, she ran swiftly after them, crying out in despair that Daddy must go home with her and the baby.

At the lane Hopkins turned and spoke to her.

"Brat," he choked, swallowing hard, "kiss your daddy, an' let me smack Wee Jerry too. Go on home. I'll be comin' back after a bit. Tell Larry they got me, an' that I said for him to look after you an' the kid!"

With her arms about his neck she gave the promise squatter women make their men when the majesty of the law steps into the Silent City.

"I'll keep the baby an' the shanty till you get back, Daddy darlin'," she sobbed. "Give your girl-brat an—here's Wee Jerry!"

Even the officer who had the squirrel in his hand turned his head as the girl clung to the big squatter.

Afraid to lead their prisoner through the Silent City, the deputies marched him up the lane toward the railroad tracks. As they turned into the boulevard, Hopkins looked back down the hill. Polly was still in the road, and Wee Jerry was in her arms, his face pressed against her neck.

BAPTISTS RAISE $30,000,000 CASH

ALL GENERAL WORK STRENGTHENED BY 75 MILLION CAMPAIGN, IT IS SHOWN.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

Suma That Have Been Appropriated To Various Objects Set Forth By Headquarters Office At Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. G. Hill, Baptist Representative in Europe.

From the beginning of the Baptist 75 Million Campaign to January, 1922, a total of $30,000,000 had been paid in to objects fostered by the Campaign. It is announced by the general headquarters office at Nashville, of this amount $28,799,971.15 came in through the payment of regular Campaign subscriptions and the remaining $1,200,028.25 in special contributions.

Regular receipts from the various states follow: Ala., $1,201,134.76; Ark., $714,683.09; D. C., $123,280.01; Fla., $469,753.53; Ga., $5,000,174.10; Ill., $298,576.13; Ky., $3,187,555.15; La., $307,901.12; Md., $392,317.45; Miss., $1,243,816.50; Mo., $1,190,754.70; N. C., $145,229.87; N. C., $2,211,741.50; Okla., $840,562.85; S. C., $2,523,840.53; Tenn., $1,797,483.10; Tex., $5,162,658.85; Va., $5,279,088. More than 250,000 baptisms were reported by Southern Baptist churches last year.

How Money Was Distributed Seven general objects of the denomination were embraced in the Campaign program, and from the regular Campaign contributions, the following have received the following amounts, according to a compilation by the headquarters office: Foreign missions, $5,134,612.53; home missions, $3,562,599.57; state missions in the seventeen states and local work in the District of Columbia, $4,954,812.26; Christian education, $7,192,442.70; Baptist hospitals, $2,004,999.16; orphanages, $2,103,787.33; and Relief and Annuity Board, which ministers to aged dependent ministers and their families, $799,126.99.

What Money Has Done These funds represent an advance, ranging from 200 to 300 per cent, in the contributions of Southern Baptists to the general missionary, educational and benevolent work, prior to the inauguration of the Campaign, and have enabled the boards and other agencies to greatly extend their services in all departments. In addition to sending out more than 180 new missionaries since the Campaign began, and providing many church buildings, mission residences, schools, theological seminaries, publishing houses, hospitals and the like on the other side, the Foreign Mission Board has been enabled to open work in the new fields of Spain, Jug-Slavia, Hungary, Roumania and Southern Russia in Europe, and Palestine, Syria and Siam in Asia, and Dr. Everett Gill, for many years a missionary in Italy, but more recently a pastor in Kansas City, was named special European representative to supervise the greatly expanded work on that continent. Dr. Hill is giving much of his time to distributing Baptist relief funds in Russia and otherwise looking after the interests of the denomination there.

Home Work Enlarged Among the outstanding accomplishments of the Home Mission Board are the adding of more than 1,000 churches, 150 loans and gifts for church buildings, completion of the big tuberculosis sanatorium at El Paso, enlargement of the work in Cuba and the Canal Zone, strengthening of the 37 mountain mission schools and the department of all eleven departments of the Board. In all sections of the Southern Baptist denomination the state mission work has been greatly extended, the number of Baptist hospitals in the South has been increased from eleven to twenty-three, all of the older eighteen Baptist orphanages have been aided in material ways and two new ones have been established, while the number of aged dependent ministers and their families has been doubled and the amount of aid given them increased 100 per cent.

While the collections so far represent a big gain over the contributions of Southern Baptists to their work before the Campaign, the sum collected is not all that is due and in all the South an effort is being made to collect as much more as possible by the loss of the Convention year, May 1, had none of the work may suffer.

THAT OLD "PAL" OF MINE

When I think of that old pal of mine, My eyes are filled with tears, And it breaks my heart with sorrow As she grows older in years. As you know—mother is my pal— Who grows more dear each day: And Oh! if I could only express in words, The things I'd like to say. You can never do too much for her. Whose suffering no mortal tongue Can tell, was caused perhaps By some careless thing you've done. Oh how I'll miss that pal of mine. When she is taken away from me: For we will meet again nevermore. Until we pass into eternity. Oh! I wish I was more worthy. To be owned by that dear mother divine: I hope I will meet her in heaven, And forever be with that old pal of mine.

A new lot of beds at Chapman's. Terry county and the South Plains is not the only sections of the State that are enjoying the pleasures of sandstorms this year. The editor had letters from two brothers last week, one in Fort Worth and the other in Johnson county, and both reported they had sandstorms on the 9th. We had a small snowstorm on that date and rather high winds, but nothing to compare with the Sunday before that date.

M. E. Dumas, of Plains, was over the later part of last week and informed us that he was in the race for County and District Clerk of old Yoakum, and ordered cards for his campaign. If Ed has the good fortune of nomination and election, we believe he will make a good official.

J. L. York, present Tax-Assessor of Yoakum county, was over last Saturday and left an order for 500 campaign cards with the Herald. We understand that Mr. York has made a very satisfactory official, and this being his first term, he is almost sure of the office.

Owing to the fact that we are running the Herald short handed these days we ask the business men to please anticipate their stationery requirements as far in advance as possible, so that we can have Friday and Saturdays of each week to devote to job work, and not have to rush so to handle the work. Of course if it is an unexpected job, we will try to do it promptly for you. But please do not wait until you are entirely out of stationery to order.

J. E. Parker was here from Post City on business, this week.

Watch the little folks speed home for Kellogg's Corn Flakes

It's great to see child-enthusiasm for Kellogg's; great to see every one in the family enjoy their crisp crunchiness and wonderful flavor! To sit down before a heaping bowlful of these cheery, oven-browned "sweet-hearts-of-the-corn" and some milk or cream—and fresh fruit, if it's handy—is just about the very last word in appetizing appeal! And, your good taste will prove that!

Kellogg's Corn Flakes ought to be superior—they are the original Corn Flakes! Kellogg's are never tough or leathery; never hard to eat; never a disappointment!

Be certain to get Kellogg's—the kind in the RED and GREEN package—because none are genuine without the signature of W. K. Kellogg, originator of Toasted Corn Flakes!

WHAT ABOUT THE TOWN TABERNACLE?

While the town tabernacle is not church, but community property, it seems to us that before our protracted meetings begin, the indebtedness against the property should be cleared up. The gentlemen who sold us the lots and the lumber company to whom we owe a balance of $81.30 have been very kind and lenient, all of which I am sure the community appreciates, but that is not paying for the property that has been and will be valuable to the town.

The crowded condition of the public school another year may send us to the tabernacle for our public meetings. This will necessitate further improvements on the property, and as a matter of fact, the people would be a little slow in making improvements with the present indebtedness on hand.

I am suggesting a method I believe will solve the problem. Let the pastors take up the matter with their respective churches; lay the question squarely before their congregations and get the money. The lots are yet to be paid for. Also the above mentioned account at the Cicero Smith Lumber Co. The funds have been handled at the State Bank, where a careful record has been kept of all the deposits. The amount of $1,187.79 has been collected and paid on the building.

Now suppose we take this matter up again; clear the indebtedness and hold our summer revivals under a building against which there is not a dollar's indebtedness. What do you say?

MEADOW BRIEFS

By Aesculapius

Saturday was a day of wind and sand, the worst the writer has seen since his stay on the Plains. It would compare favorably with those of Eastland and Comanche counties.

Mr. Nowell, of Brownfield has moved into the house just completed by Cooper and Lykes, in the northern part of town. We welcome them to our midst, and hope that others wishing to better their situation will come among us.

Monday morning at 6 and 6:30, respectively, two youngsters of the male persuasion put in appearance at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Mackey, and were warmly received by those present. They will continue to make their home there, at least for the present. This is the third time that his Majesty, the Cuckoo, has played this prank in this community this year. Who said this was not a good country. Come to Meadow.

Mrs. Junie Branch and Miss Irene Peeler have been on the sick list the past week. Miss Irene is still in bed.

Our merchants have all received notice to close their business establishments on Sunday's hereafter at 9 o'clock or suffer the consequences. This is as it should be, whether we go to Sunday School or church or not. We can get away from home and visit the neighbors, and get acquainted instead of the steady grind in the store every day, lest the other fellow gets an extra nickel that might have come our way. There was a dwelling burned in the Lakeview community last Saturday during the storm. We do not recall the name of the owner.

We shall all miss the articles of Mr. Winston that have appeared for some months past. All honor to the brave boys who answered the call to go to a distant land and battle for supposed freedom. While the benefits that are expected from this pouring of blood and treasure have not materialized, it is refreshing to know that the American Soldier and Sailor is as dependable today as in former wars, the equal of any on this planet.

REV. BALL AND FAMILY COMING THIS WEEK

Rev. Ball filled his pulpit at the Baptist church last Sunday and returned home Monday. He has accepted the call of the local church, and will move his family up this week, and thus add five scholastics to our school population, thus bringing it up to 455.

Rev. Ball let it be known that when he arrived in Brownfield, he would be a booster for this city, and that he believed that all knoekers ought to either shut up or leave the town.

The State of Texas,
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Terry County—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon John Fernow by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Terry County, Texas, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Brownfield on the 1st Monday in May, A. D. 1922, the same being the 1st day of May, A. D. 1922, then and there to answer petition filed in said Court on the 9th day of December, A. D. 1922, in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 693, wherein M. V. Brownfield is plaintiff and J. M. Key, D. B. Tingle, R. W. Haynie, trustees in Bankruptcy of D. B. Tingle, St. Louis Cattle Loan Company and Liberty Central Trust Company, are Defendants; the nature of plaintiff's demands being as follows:

For the principal, interest and attorney's fees due upon two (2) Vendor's Lien Notes for the sum of $620.00 each, dated January 1st, 1916, executed by J. M. Key, payable to M. V. Brownfield on or before January 1st 1918, and 1919, respectively, with 8 per cent per annum interest from date until paid, interest payable annually; and containing the usual provision for attorney's fees; and for foreclosure of plaintiff's vendor's lien on Section No. 336, Block "D", John H. Gibson, certificate No. 344, in Yoakum county, Texas; and that the claim of defendants, John Fernow, St. Louis Cattle Loan Company and Liberty Central Trust Company, be decreed subordinate to plaintiff's vendor's lien; and for such other and further relief, general and special, both at law and equity, to which plaintiff may be entitled.

Herein fail not, but have before said Court, on the first day of the next term thereof, this Writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.
