ANOTHER STORE BUILDING FOR BROWNFIELD

Dick Brownfield put a crew of workmen to digging the foundation to a 25X75 brick or concrete store building adjoining the first National Bank on the east, one day last week, which when completed will be occupied by a dry goods store, we understand.

Dick Brownfield has confidence in the future of our little city, and is building himself for the future. He does not believe that just because we have a strike on, and a small sized drought and the people want a few modern conveniences that the old town is plum blown up.

FARMERS INSTITUTE WILL NOT BE HELD THIS YEAR

Austin, July 24.—Commissioner of Agriculture, Geo. B. Terrell, will not call a meeting of the State Farmers' Institute this year, because of bad financial conditions of the farmers and his inability to secure free transportation or reduced rates for the meeting. His statement follows: "To Secretaries of Farmers' Institutes—This is to advise you that a delegated meeting of the State Farmers' Institute will not be held this summer, because of the impoverished financial condition of the farmers, rendering a great many of them unable to attend the meeting.

The State law permits the railroads to give free transportation for these meetings, and I have tried to secure such free transportation, but the railroads declined to grant the transportation in the following statement: "In view of the established rule to not issue any free transportation not authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission Act, it would not be consistent for us to make an exception in this case and issue the transportation requested."

"Since we cannot secure free transportation, and cannot get reduced rates, except on the certificate plan, which requires the purchase of a large number of tickets at full fare before the reduction is granted, on the return ticket, and knowing the attendance under such conditions would not be large enough to secure any reduction in rates, I have decided not to call the State Institute this year. I regret this very much, as the farmers ought to come together once a year and discuss plans for bettering their conditions. But the above conditions make it impossible to have the meeting this year.

Respectfully,
Geo. B. Terrell, Commissioner

OUTING PARTY

On last Tuesday evening another social outing was given in honor of the visiting girls, Mildred Burgess and Ena May. A large crowd of young folks gathered at the Methodist parsonage, and six car loads of boys and girls chartered by Mr. and Mrs. Tom May drove to the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Youree. The boys "caught half a tub of fish." Mr. Riley Spivey superintended the frying of same. At 8:30 a bounteous supper was spread, consisting of fried fish, light bread, pickles, ice cream and cake. Music on the Victrola and games helped to make the hours fly swiftly by, and at a late hour, the party drove home, voting Mr. and Mrs. Youree ideal host and hostess.

Sound and untroubled sleep is one of the greatest rejuvenators, and a clear conscience is conducive to such sleep.

BAPTIST REVIVAL

The revival meeting to be conducted under the auspices of the Baptist church will begin Sunday, Aug. 13th, and will continue till Aug. 27th. Pastors C. E. Ball will do the preaching.

We court the prayers and co-operation of every Christian in and around Brownfield to the end that the meeting shall be a success from the standpoint of reaching the lost in the community. Let everyone who loves lost souls seek to forget everything during the meeting except the one thing for which the meeting is staged, the winning of the lost.

MR. J. L. BLANKENSHIP

Music Director of Dallas, Texas, who will sing at the Baptist Revival, Brownfield, August 13 to 27th.

Mr. Blankenship began his music career as teacher of voice in Burleson College, Greenville, Texas. For the past twelve years he has been a member of the Evangelical Staff of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, during which time his work has taken him to practically every large city of the South. Mr. Blankenship is a past master in leading large chorals and congregational singing. He strongly believes that singing is an act of worship and is free from the vulgar, clap trap side show methods one sometimes sees a singer resort to in order to elicit the heartiest response from the congregation. A large supply of song books have already been ordered and every singer in Brownfield now has an invitation to join the big revival choir.

MRS. J. L. BLANKENSHIP

"The Lady with a Double Voice," Soloist and pianist, who will be at the Baptist Revival in Brownfield August 13th to 17th.

Mrs. Blankenship, who is familiarly known throughout the country as the "Lady with the double voice" does indeed possess two separate and distinct voices—mezzo-soprano and baritone. She has studied with some of America's foremost teachers, notably among whom was Dr. Fredrick W. Root of Chicago, with whom Mary Garden of Chicago Grand Opera fame also studied. Mrs. Blankenship has been offered fabulous sums of money to sing for the secular music world, but unlike Miss Garden, Mrs. Blankenship thought it was more important to sing to win people to Jesus Christ and a home in heaven than to sing for money or fame. She recognized early in life that her voice was a gift from God and she painstakingly and carefully trained it and kept it inviolate for the singing of the gospel.

MRS. DOWNING ENTERTAINS IN HONOR OF NIECES

Monday night July 24th, Mrs. W. B. Downing entertained nine girls with a slumber party at her home in honor of her nieces, Ena May, of Norman, Okla., and Mildred Burgess, of Lubbock.

The girls played forty-two until a late hour. Delicious fruit punch was served throughout the evening and between hands of forty-two to keep up the spirit. A car drive was taken in the wee hours of the morning at which time many ghosts and spooks were seen and such places were visited (perhaps). After being scared to death for an hour or two, we returned to our place of abode. At the "early" hour of three, the girls found their respective places to sleep by the names on the pillows. The names found were, Ena May, Mildred Burgess, Queenelle Speegle, Larue Sawyer, Fern Harris, Stella Treadaway and Tera Baughman.

A sure enough breakfast was served at eight o'clock, which consisted of breakfast food with bananas, hot biscuit, fried chicken, jelly and iced tea. After breakfast, some time was spent with readings, songs, piano and Victrola music and kodak making.

The guests departed assuring the hostess of a delightful time and saying, "Aint we got fun"

Misses Treadaway and Baughman brought in a large hamper, which was filled with silverware, aluminum, linens and a lot of things useful and dear to the heart of a bride. Tera then made a presentation speech, to which the bride responded in a few well chosen words.

A CLEAR TITLE ISN'T ANY TRIFLE

No, indeed! It's one of the most important things connected with the buying or exchanging of property. A clear title is the passport through the years; it's a clear mirror which reflects solace to you and those who come after you.

You will never be able to realize what you paid for a piece of property if the title isn't perfectly clear. You will never be free from the clutches of law unless your property claim is flawless.

What are you going to do? Not simply trust that the fates will be on your side, surely. Your better judgement will tell you to see the abstract specialists right away—before your property is taken right away from you.

We will consider it a pleasure to show you how completely ready we are to draw abstracts that go into the life of property thoroughly—a TRUE analysis of the property is the only abstract of title worth while—because.

An abstract that's true will work FOR YOU.

WAR'S HORRIBLE WASTE

Mr. R. C. Lellingswell was the assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of finances during the war. While he was in the treasury he became deeply impressed with the magnitude of government expenditures and the looseness, inefficiency and waste that are a part of government methods. All the secretaries of the treasury since the outbreak of the war have shared this feeling of apprehension and concern with Mr. Lellingswell. I quote here a recent utterance of his on war expenditures:

"Of the $4,000,000,000, exclusive of interest on the public debt, spent in the fiscal year 1921, $1,701,915,043.92 was spent by the War department, $250,737,825.58 by the Navy department, $800,000,000 on the railroads, $200,000,000 by the bureau of war risk insurance, and $337,544,807.01 by the Interior department, mostly, I take it, for Civil War and Spanish War pensions—a total of $3,080,000,000 under these heads.

"In the fiscal year 1920 the War department spent $1,610,000,000, and the Navy department $740,000,000, a total of $2,350,000,000. Secretary Mellon estimates that in the fiscal year 1921, the War department will spend $1,625,000,000 and the Navy department $700,000,000, a total of $1,325,000,000; and that in the fiscal year 1922, the War department will spend $1,670,000,000 and the Navy department $650,000,000, a total of $1,315,000,000. This makes a three-year's total of $5,100,000,000.

"Germany went to war to realize on her investment in time and armies. The luncheon of individual military service, expenditures on the army and navy, subsidies and doles, became intolerable. She thought she would repeat the exploit of 1870 and make war so profitable in territory and indemnities as to recoup herself for the outlay of 40 years' preparation. The splendid resistance of the Poles and the French and of the little British expeditionary force made the short war a long one. The untold material and human resources of the Western World, of the British empire overseas, and finally of America, determined the issue. Germany suffered economic collapse, though her armies, beaten but not routed, were still on enemy soil. So Germany's military preparedness was her cause of her defeat. In the issue, it was economic preparedness that mattered most.

"Today, men, women and little children are starving to death in Europe because of the war's horrible waste and because of the still more horrible waste of after the war. Two years and a half after armistice, nearly two years after peace was concluded between Germany and the allies, millions of men are under arms, eating and wearing the produce of the fields and of the labor of a civilian population which must bear the load of taxes and

MEADOW BRIEFS

By Asculapinas

The correspondent was out of pocket last week, and as a consequence this burg was not represented in the roll of precincts heard from.

The primary election has come and gone and left its mark in disappointed hopes, money squandered, time lost and a few jubilant candidates who squeezed in by the skin of their teeth. Fortunately there are a few renouffs. We are to have the same old make shift governor—thanks to regularity.

In the race for U.S. Senator, we have gotten rid of the "Old Man of Sea, Culberson; the also rans, Thomas, Henry, with good old tariff reviser, Ousley, and still we have left for the runoff, the Rail Roader, Ku Kluxer, Mayfield, whom no red blooded man ought to support. His one theme from now on will be prohibition, which every man with sense enough to find the way to the horse lot knows is absolutely settled. He had just as well discuss secession.

What about Ferguson? If he was guilty of everything of which he has been accused—which I do not believe—he is infinitely a better man for the people than Mayfield. He came back because he deserved the exoneration given by the people of Texas. He is the best friend the rural school has ever had. He didn't believe, nor does he think now that the University student should have one thousand dollars and the Hayseed kid three dollars and a half. He insists that the Federal Reserve System should be so reconstructed that they will never again be permitted to ruin the stockman and farmer of the country.

Messrs. G. W. Hammack and O. E. Lucas, of Goodlett, Texas, are with us this week, improving their places north of town preparatory to becoming full fledged citizens this winter. They still come to Meadow.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Miller of Ropes, a girl the 23rd inst.

Our friend, Dude Nettles and Miss Florence Carter, of Ropes, were married July 23. We congratulate the Dude and welcome him to the ranks of benedictines, with the caution that revolvers and rolling pins are in use among the fair ones—these days, and he should see to it that none are kept in stock. The boys assisted in the nuptials, it is said, by mounting Dude on a hot radiator and giving him a free ride across the country.

At present Dude is honey-moaning but we presume he soon will resume his place at the south side barber shop.

The Brooks brothers are building a residence on South Peeler street, and when completed will be the finest bachelor (?) quarters in the village.

The Methodist people are holding a protracted meeting at their church here. The Rev. Mr. Smith, of Tahoka is doing the preaching, assisted by the pastor, Rev. Oden.

Inflation necessary to maintain those armies in economic fitness. The peoples of continental Europe are staggering under the load of armaments, far too great before the war and intolerable now. Their rulers hold themselves in power by subsidies and doles, by playing upon their fears, and again on their envy, still again on nationalistic ambitions or ancient racial hatreds. The allies have undertaken to insure Germany's economic recovery by insisting upon her disarmament and the payment of reparations which means the development of a huge export balance; but for themselves they reserve the doubtful privilege of remaining armed to the teeth.

"We have demonstrated our military power. We have shown what may be done in a few short months to make an army and transport it to wage a foreign war. We have no need to be aggressors abroad, we are invulnerable at home. Let us accept the responsibilities of the position of leadership which is ours—show the world how to lead swords into plowshares, relieve the peoples of the world of apprehension and lead them back into the ways of peace and plenty. If we prepare for war we shall have it. If we lead the world in preparation for peace we may have that."

Steel Barrels.
If the statements of the makers are well founded, it is probable that steel barrels will eventually take the place of wooden ones. The steel barrel is composed of staves of that material locked together by an ingenious device; the bands and heads are also steel. It is claimed that the steel barrel is more durable and more compact than the wooden one. As it is said to be lighter and cheaper, it has already had favor in various quarters. About 200,000,000 barrels are needed annually in normal times, to supply the demand in the United States. Flour mills use about 90,000,000, and the sugar industry 40,000,000, and the cement industry 15,000,000.—Christian Science Monitor.

OF BEAD-TRIMMED CREPE

When you go in quest of a new blouse keep in mind two phrases—"crepe de chine" and "over the skirt." In all the displays you will find the blouse repeating them. There are many simple over-the-skirt styles similar to the pretty blouse shown here, and they invite the seamstress to try her hand at blouse making. This is made of a colored crepe, with white in the collar and cuffs, ornamented with stitching of silk floss and trimmed with beads.

FOR WEAR EVERYWHERE

This is a full length dress of smooth-faced wool, cutting is of the sort approved by fashion for wear everywhere that suits are worn. Its lines are graceful and simple, revealing the development of draped effects in skirts. It adopts the vogue of pleated sleeves, lined with silk in a contrasting color, and of handsome girdles of beads or metal.

ONE VERSION OF SPRING

Spring as interpreted in suits, finds charming expression in this beige-colored tulle-trimmed model, of utmost refinement. It has a plain, straight skirt with a narrow separate belt of the material. The short coat falls open down the front, having only one fastening place at the collar. There is a slit seam down the back and a novel decoration of silk embroidery in red color, which adds up exquisite example of the tailor's art.

DOMINANT STYLES

The tuxedo and the dress are the two dominating styles in women's wear, each of them made in many variations of color, weave and texture. A handsome tuxedo, trimmed with wool yarn, appears above in a style that reveals the effective use of fancy weaves in the body of the garment and the employment of contrasting color.

JOSH DRIVES TILL HE FINDS HER

Hello Josh, where are you going? I am hunting a Magnolia Filling station. What's the idea? Well, there is no idea except facts. I have got 24 miles to the gallon out of their gasoline for the past 500 miles, and God knows when I ever put in lube oil. You know I drained my crank case before I started and filled with Magnolia, the dependable lube, and she still stands full. I don't see why the Magnolia Petroleum Co. didn't tell me years ago that their lube would run twice as far as the ordinary lube. Here's a station Josh and I believe I'll get some too. You know a fellow never gets too old to learn. Phone No. 10. Magnolia quality with their oils and gasses and guarantee with ever, drop.
