WORLD WAR VETERAN DIED AT ALBUQUERQUE

On Monday, Dec. 4th, death claimed John Richard. He was in St. Joseph's Sanitarium at Albuquerque, N.M. where he was taken several weeks ago for treatment. His health failed in June and from that time, although everything that could be done, he declined constantly. He was 27 years of age. In 1915 he was married to Miss Etta Watkins, enlisted in the U. S. Army from Carrizosa, N.M., in 1918 and served eight months, four months of that time being on the battlefields of France. When he returned, he and his wife came to Meadow to make their home and have lived here since. He was converted and united with the Baptist church here two years ago, and lived a consistent christian life from that time.

The body was shipped here, arriving Tuesday afternoon. Funeral services were held by Rev. Burnett at the Baptist church, where his many friends came to pay their last respects to his body.

He is survived by his wife and one brother, Mac, of this place, a sister, Mrs. Dora Burr, of Colorado, Texas and father, John Richards, Sr., of Quanah, Texas. Besides these there are a host of other relatives and friends who mourn for him. We extend deepest sympathy to the bereaved ones in this hour of trial. May God bless and comfort you.—A friend

ODD FELLOWS STAGE BANQUET IN HALL

Despite the fact that a biting east wind whistled through their whiskers Tuesday night, some thirty of the boys that had fared worse on a journey from Jerusalem to Jerico met in the hall that night to celebrate the annual home coming event.

After the regular order of business was over, ham sandwiches and coffee also cake were brought in like they aimed to feed twice this amount, and the brotherhood did the feast full and telling justice.

The Brownfield String band was then asked to do their best and they did. In fact the crowd got to feeling so good after the fill of feed and the glorious music, that some of the old boys past the half century mark had to show 'em just how they could do the back-and-swing "yet" and that unsurpassed melody, Dixie brought the keen and piercing mixture of rebel and cowboy yells.

Yes, the crowd was highly satisfied then, but some of them, we understand, asked the wife where the sal-hapataca bottle was before day.

SMOOKER ENJOYED THURS. NIGHT AT LEGION HALL

Some fifty of the American Legion boys and a few invited friends met at the hall last Thursday night for the transaction of business sanctioned between much pleasure.

The business of the evening consisted in the nomination and election of officers for the ensuing year. The following were elected:

Hugh M. Pyeatt, Post Commander; Glen Akers, Vice Post Commander; Riley Spivey, Post Adjutant; Elmer C. Roberts, Post Treasurer; Earl Jones, Chaplain; Monroe Telford, Sergeant at Arms.

The installation of indoor sports was then discussed, and Manager Jones, of the movie department announced that he was lining up some mighty good shows.

This ended the business session and good Havanas were passed to the smoker—about all those present—and soon the room was a cloud of smoke. Two round bouts between five couples were staged and created no little amusement, but the most laughable thing of the evening was staged when four lucky returned lads were blindfolded, provided with a tin cup for the left hand and a six ounce boxing glove for the good right. They were then placed each man in a corner and about fifteen feet from each other, and given instruction. They must tap the floor with the tin cup to give the other fellow notice of his whereabouts. They must not hit each other with the cup. The fun then began.

Their capers were not unlike four big white faced bulls milling around each other looking for a chance to attack. They all grouped around in a stooping posture and the first thing one of them knew he was sent spinning to the floor right on his head.

The fellow that was thus trounced soon located the man that did it—he thought—and his good right worked like a trip hammer. Finally to end matters, he stepped back one step in order to deliver a haymaker. But the other fellow had ducked out of the way and the resistance of the air was not sufficient to keep him from hitting the floor broad-side from the force of his misdirected blow.

Sandwiches and coffee were then passed to the crowd, and when they were devoured, everyone was ready and wide awake for the Kangaroo Court in the Legion vs. Satch Green. A W O L on Thanksgiving day.

Mayor Joe J. McGowan acted as Judge-Advocate-General. Morgan L. Copeland prosecuted and Atty. O. W. Gillespie defended, and of all the trials ever staged in Brownfield, this one caught the gun. Of course the defendant got a suspended sentence but we guess the reader had already guessed that much.

Splendid and instructive addresses were delivered by Hon. O. W. Gillespie and Morgan L. Copeland.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Bible School at 10:00 A.M. Preaching and worship at 11:00 A.M., and singing and preaching at 7:00 P.M. Everybody invited and please be on time.

Some one is authority for this story: "When a tardy private secretary apologized for his delay by saying: 'My watch is out of order,' Washington then replied: 'You must get a new watch or I must get a new secretary.'"

That gives a good point: If there are some hindrance that keeps coming up, we had better get it out of the way. Such makes us lose the best of things.

Nelson once said: "I owe all my success in life to having always been a quarter of an hour before the time." It is better to be ready and waiting than to be late. The little extra time amounts to practically nothing in a comparison with the great losses of being too late. This principle of neglect will cause many to be lost. They want to go to heaven, but will fail to start in time.

When the end came to Paul, he said: "I am ready to be offered." The reason was, he had finished his course. That day will find many not even started in the course, and no time to get ready. The only way to be ready is to stay ready at the time. Read Matt. 25: 1-13. Come and worship with us Sunday.

HERE'S THE CURE FOR TITLES OBSCURE

Let ABSTRACT SPECIALISTS draw an abstract of your title—mark we say specialists—for only men who are experts and skilled in this work are competent to draw an abstract of your title that will prove worth while.

We've the "know-how" gained by long experience, plus accurate, systematized records, which enables us to get right to the bottom of any property's history. Records which are only possessed by specialists—acquired through years of research, and used only for customers.

Where to get the information about property is quite as important as knowing how to do the work. We are proficient in both respects, as those whom we have served will tell you.

See us now about drawing an abstract that's TRUE and let it work for you.

CORN - and - OATS

Should you be so unfortunate as to have to buy feed to make your 1923 crop, we are in position to book you for Jan. and February delivery. Only have a limited amount of corn and oats to offer, and think it a good buy. We are unable to tell what feed will be worth in the Spring, and should you have to buy any, we think it wise for you to figure out your requirements and let us protect you.

TEXACO

In the warm summer time when all nature is at her best, and the fruit trees are loaded with delicious fruit and the water melon is smiling on the vine.

When the song birds are full of song, and the preachers are full of preach, and your old Ford junes to that warm June gasoline.

It is not nearly so hard to live right as it is in the cold, bleak winter, when the cold north winds blow, and all nature is wrapped in its icy slumbers and your old Ford no longer junes to any old kind of gasoline.

There is enough troubles in life even when we shun all that we possibly can, so why not use your head and think and cut out all the unnecessary troubles that you can. Texaco Gasoline will eliminate one of your biggest troubles. It will make your old Ford June any old time and thereby make life more pleasant for you and your family. There is a difference in Gasoline. Try Texaco and be convinced.

Always stop and fill your car wherever you find the BIG RED STAR.

MAKES HIS RANCH PRO- POSITION EASIER

To make the purchase of his ranch lands easier, and to show the purchaser that he had confidence in the productibility of his lands, Mr. M. B. Sawyer who is cutting up his forty section ranch and selling it in 100 acre tracts to the homesteader, has added the following special offer to the conditions recently set forth in these columns:

"Since printing the circular on the reverse side, have decided to make the following terms:

"If the purchaser will break and plant by June 15, 1923, and cultivate in the customary manner, one-half the land he purchases, I agree to take the usual rent from this tract for the first year's interest.

"I insure water on any part of the tract, and reserve one-half the mineral rights.

This holds good for 1923 only.—M. B. Sawyer, Owner, Brownfield, Texas.

BIG DRY GOODS SALES STILL GOING ON HERE

All four of our dry goods firms now have sales going: Lewis Brothers & Co., Bird & Dean, Jones Dry Goods Co., and Cook & Son. These firms really have on sales; they are making real reductions on their merchandise, and the people are showing their appreciation by coming many miles to do their shopping.

Besides this, our places are filled to overflow with evidence of old Santa Claus; our grocerymen are doing all they can toward low cost of eats, and our three big lumber concerns are selling many building bills as well as supplying the trade territory in fuel despite strikes. Other lines of business, such as hardware, furniture, and other things too numerous to mention are doing their part.

Despite the fact that the wholesale price of dry goods on account of the tariff on wool and scarcity of cotton, are advancing each day, our merchants are putting on these sales of new and up-to-date dry goods.

A GÓMEZ PREACHER PATENTS INCUBATOR ALARM

Something of the Bible and a lot about theology and morals is not all that may concern the mind of a minister.

On Nov. 18th, this year, Rev. O. P. Morrison, preacher-farmer of the Gomez country, was granted a patent on an incubator alarm that really works, and may be worth untold millions to the poultry industry of the nation.

Again necessity became the mother of invention. Rev. Morrison like thousands of other poultry men had his nightly worries about the hatch. Startled from his night's rest at all hours with "I wonder of that lamp is working right; too hot or too cold?" He went to work, and as a consequence, with a small electrical device on the incubator that is instantly effected by heat or cold; with a wire running to his bed room and an alarm attached, he now enjoys his usual rest knowing that if the temperature of the eggs approach the danger point either way, he will be instantly awakened.

Rev. Morrison, accompanied by Mr. Heath of Plains, and a good supply of the 5000 descriptive circulars printed by the Herald, left for the Plainview Poultry Show, Tuesday and will likely sell a quality of the alarms up there.

AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. E. E. Robinson, the Presiding Elder, who takes the place of Rev. Geo. W. Shearer, on the Lubbock district will preach at the Methodist church Saturday night and Sunday at eleven o'clock. Rev. Robinson has the reputation of being a great preacher, and the membership is urged to be present at these services.

At the close of the Saturday night sermon, the first Quarterly Conference will be held.

Jack Stricklin of the Brownfield Herald is a very zealous follower of the political ideals of Thomas Jefferson, and he has a grievance. He says that one box in the good old county of Terry cast a solid Republican vote and as a result he challenges the right of the precinct to participate in the primary two years hence. There seriously is something wrong down in old Terry. Just how a bunch could slip over a deal like casting a solid Republican vote is worth referring to the questions and answers department of the Dallas News and Jack Stricklin of the Brownfield Herald, neighboring newspapers, peel each other unmercifully, and with many pencil pushers this stinging repartee might get serious. But not so with these lads. They are the best of friends, and enjoy the sport, and when they meet always call for two straws and drink Koke from the same glass. It is enjoyable to be humorous and know how to peel the other fellow without getting bimoted nasty or smart about it. a sad mistake; a huge political nightmare, as it were, for respondent saith, that the dear voters got "balled" on the issues involved, and unintentionally deserted the donkey crowd and in the wind up found themselves pulling the snout of the elephant thinking all the while that it was their faithful old "hard tail." Others, equally as positive in explaining the matter, say the boys were practicing voting left handed and got over in the wrong column. Anyway it was a small box and all the big boxes gave the usual smashing Democratic majorities, thank goodness.

A Slaton preacher once said that "no newspaperman who took the truth for his standard would make a pecuniary success." We might return the compliment by remarking that no minister who told the truth about his congregation, alive or dead, would occupy the pulpit longer than one Sunday afterward. The press and clergy go hand in hand with the whitewash brush producing rosy spectacles, magnifying little virtues and kindly throwing little deformities into oblivion. The press, the pulpit and our gravestones are partners in saint making.—Slaton Slatonite.

It is not hard to tell the truth thru the editorial or news columns. Not many members of the fourth estate are afraid of tongue lash or the real lash, from its irate constituency, but cutting out horrible details lots of times may be avoided, not to shield the criminal or vulgar, but to save tears and heartaches of the innocent who absorb the crime of their kin just as much as we do. "An old song truly says 'this world, a vale of tears' and if we, the press or the pulpit can dry the tears of the brokenhearted, it is a part of our Salarian duty. At the same time we may show by silent action that we abhor all matters of sin and general cussedness. The city daily may with impunity stain its pages each day with wailing crimes and give the facts in coldblooded detail for the principals in the crime may not be known to them personally, though they may live next door. Not so with the country weekly, for every family in the town and community is personally known to the editor, and it should be no more expected of the local press or preacher to air these family misfortunes than it would be for private citizens to do so to the family and personally air the opinions in the matter.

The Record has been watching for reports that Texas Rangers have been ordered into the South Plains section. Editors R. B. Haynes of the Tahoka News and Jack Stricklin of the Brownfield Herald, neighboring newspapers, peel each other unmercifully, and with many pencil pushers this stinging repartee might get serious. But not so with these lads. They are the best of friends, and enjoy the sport, and when they meet always call for two straws and drink Koke from the same glass. It is enjoyable to be humorous and know how to peel the other fellow without getting bimoted nasty or smart about it. It is as equal an art to take humor without becoming angry when the other fellow puts over a solar plexus—Canadian Record.

"They were so good to the child, and Beasley treated them with such consistent seriousness, that between the two of them I sometimes began to feel that there actually were such people and to have moments of half-surprise that I couldn't see them; particularly as each of the Hunchbros developed a character entirely his own to the last peculiarity, such as the aged Aunt Cooley Hunchbro's deafness, on which account Beasley never forgot to raise his voice when he addressed her. Indeed, the details of actuality in all this appeared to bring as great a delight to the man as to the child. Certainly he built them up with infinite care. On one occasion when Mr. Hunchbro and I happened to be calling, Hamilton remarked with surprise that Simplebro had come into the room without looking his hand as he usually did, and had crept under the table. Mr. Hunchbro volunteered the information (through Beasley) that upon his approach to the house he had seen Simplebro closing a cat. It was then debated whether chastisement was in order, but finally decided that Simplebro's scrupulous manner of entrance and his hiding under the table were sufficient indication that he well understood his business, and would never let it happen again. And so, Beasley having counseled him out from under the table, the offender "sat up" beamed, and was forgiven. I could almost feel the eyelids shake their head under my hand when, in turn, I parted Simplebro to show that the recommendation was unanimous.

Autumn tumbled the last leaves behind her flying leaves once one night; we woke to a flurry of snow next morning; and it was winter. Down town, along the sidewalks, the merchants set lines of poles, covered them with evergreen, and ran streamers of green overhead to encourage the frost shopping. Salvation Army song classes stamped their feet and sang bells on the corners, and pink-faced children fixed their noses immovably to display windows. For them, the season of seasons, the time of times, was at hand.

To a certain non-reporter on the Dispatch the stir and gaiety of the streets meant little more than that the days had come when it was night in the afternoon, and that he was given fewer political assignments. This was annoying because Beasley's candor for the government had given me a personal interest in the political situation. The nominating convention of his party would meet in the spring; the nomination was certain to carry the election also, and thus far Beasley should have started him out for some man in the field. "Things are looking his way," said Beasley. "He's always worked hard for the party; not on the stump, of course," he laughed; "but the boys understand there are more important things than speechmaking. His record in Congress gave him the confidence of everybody in the state, and besides that, people always trust a quiet man. I tell you if nothing happens he'll get it."

"I'm for Beasley," another politician explained, in an interview, "because he's Dave Beasley! Yes, sir, I'm for him. You know the boys say if a man is only for you, in this state, there isn't much in it and he may go back on it; but if he's for you, he means it. Well, I'm for Beasley."

The head and front (and backbone, too) of the opposition to Beasley was a close-set, hard-knuckled, rufous-haired sort of man, one named Simon Peck. He possessed no in-

COTTON SEED

For Planting

I have several hundred bushels of well bred, well matured cotton seed, staple of good length and strength, all grown by me in this county this year. Every bale of this cotton sold at a premium at Brownfield. Two well known, big boll varieties. It has taken about 1300 pounds to make 500 pounds of lint. These seeds will be handled by Holgate-Endersen Hardware Co., in Brownfield, for me, so leave your orders with them.

G. W. CHISHOLM

I recommend the seed advertised by G. W. Chisholm to be of good staple. I bought 40 bales of cotton grown by him and paid him a premium on staple for every bale.

"That's good. We'd most give you up. This here's Mr. Grist, and Mr. Henry P. Cullop, and Mr. Gus Schulmeyer—three men that feel the same way about Dave Beasley that I do. That other young fellow," he waved a mittened hand to the fourth man—"he's from the Journal. Likely you're acquainted."

The young man from the Journal was unknown to me; moreover, I was far from overjoyed at his presence in the group.

"I've got you newspaper men here," continued Mr. Peck, "because I'm goin' to show you some'n' about Dave Beasley that'll open a good many folk's eyes when it's in print."

"Well, what is it?" I asked, rather sharply.

"Just hold your horses a little bit," he returned. "Grist and me knows, and so do Mr. Cullop and Mr. Schulmeyer. And I'm goin' to take them and you two reporters to look at it. All ready? Then come on."

He threw open the door, stooped to the guest that took him by the throat, and led the way out into the storm.

"What is he up to?" I gasped to the Journal man as we followed in a straggling line.

"I don't know any more than you do," he returned. "He thinks he's got something that'll queer Beasley. Peck's an old fool, but it's just possible he's got hold of something. Nearly everybody has one thing, at least, that they don't want found out. It may be a good story. Lord, what a night!"

I pushed ahead to the leader's side. "See here, Mr. Peck—" I began, but he cut me off.

"You listen to me, young man! I'm givin' you some news for your paper, and I'm gittin' at it my own way, but I'll get at it, don't you worry! I'm goin' to let some folks around here know what kind of a feller Dave Beasley really is; yes, and I'm goin' to show George Dowden he can't laugh at me!"

"You're going to show Mr. Dowden?" I said. "You mean you're going to take him along with us on this expedition, too?"

"Take him!" Mr. Peck emitted an acrid bark of laughter. "I guess he's at Beasley's, all right."

"No, he isn't; he's at home—at Mrs. Apperthwaite's—playing cards."

"What?"

"I happen to know that he'll be there all evening."

Mr. Peck smote his palms together, and his colleague struggled forward.

"Listen to this: even Dowden ain't at Beasley's. Ain't the Lord workin' for us tonight?"

"Why don't you take Dowden with you," I urged, "if there's anything you want to show him?"

"By George, I will!" shouted Peck. "I've got him where the hair's short now!"

"That's right," said Grist.

"Gentlemen"—Peck turned to the others—"when we get to Mrs. Apperthwaite's, just stop outside along the fence a minute. I reckon we'll pick up a recruit."

Shivering, we took up our way again in single file, stumbling through drifts that had deepened incredibly within the hour. The wind was straight against us, and so stingingly sharp and so laden with the driving snow that when we reached Mrs. Apperthwaite's gate (which we approached from the north, not passing Beasley's) my eyes were so full of smarting tears I could see only blurred planes of light dancing vaguely in the darkness, instead of brightly lighted windows.

"Now," said Peck, panting and turning his back to the wind; "the rest of you gentlemen wait out here. You two newspaper men, you come with me."

He opened the gates and went in, the Journal reporter and I following—all three of us wiping our half-blinded eyes. When we reached the shelter of the front porch, I took the key from my pocket and opened the door.

"I live here," I explained to Mr. Peck.

"All right," he said. "Just step in and tell George Dowden that Slim Peck's out here and wants to see him at the door a minute. Be quick."

I went into the library, and there sat Dowden contemplatively playing bridge with two of the elderly ladies and Miss Apperthwaite. The last-mentioned person quite took my breath away.

The policy of the Jones Dry Good Co. Inc., forces us to reduce our Stock to a given amount by the first of the year. We don't have any old undesirable goods on hand that we are anxious to get rid of. On the other hand our stock is all new, coming this fall direct from the large Eastern Wholesalers.

We are now operating ten stores. We are carrying too much merchandise. We must sell the goods.

This is an unusual policy: "Cut Prices," "Slashing Profits" on a brand new Stock of High Grade Merchandise. Especially at this time when goods are soaring sky-ward.

OLD TIMERS REGULAR

"By-by G-gosh, Beckie, this is nearly like our family reunion," said Monroe, when the familiar faced, smiling, feel-at-home, usual big bunch of old-timers filled every room at the S. A. W. Home, Monday evening, Dec. 4th, in their time regulated 42-par-y, and promptly dismissed the memory of the past, and fear of the future, focused their thoughts on who held the "six-four" and what could be their "off," and thus the anxious rounds and hours passed sweetly by. It is amusing to see the ladies lose a game for the death of the only milk cow would not hurt them much worse. And while the reckless bidding of some men may show a "game-sport" disposition, it looks like folly in others.

In due course of the evening, the expected happened, and then some. They passed around a goodly fruit offering, and thinking this was IT, we partook unsparingly, and when we had gorged about all discretion would allow, here comes a course of irresistible punch and— We lost the list of the names of those present; it's the writer's own fault. Anyway, a large quorum was present, and no one regretted coming. The two little usherettes left at home did their part so attentively.

The nextun will be at the home of John and Jessie, whose surnames is Randal, Monday evening, Dec. 18th. Jessie already knows about it, and if you don't want to check that eternal smile, you come.—Wun-uv-em.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Little Queenelle Sawyer celebrated her fourth birthday, Saturday afternoon, December 9th.

A heavy little one came in answer to Queenelle's invitation and revealed in an afternoon of games. The tiny pink birthday cake with its four shining tapers was an important part of the feast, and offered much merriment for the children, as they extinguished the candle flames, wishing good wishes for the little honoree as they did so.

Many lovely gifts were received by the young celebrant from her companions. Delicious refreshments were served to about 25 little ones.

You can get the Fort Worth Record Daily and Sunday through the Herald for only $4.95. This is a good morning daily, and the Sunday edition always comes on Sunday afternoon. Let us have your order.

There is No "Water" in Santa Fe Stock

President Storey issues another Statement, of Interest to Santa Fe Patrons

The charge is still made that the railroads are asking returns on "watered stock."

Congress undertook to ascertain the facts through the Valuation Act, which was introduced by Senator LaFollette. The Interstate Commerce Commission has been conducting this valuation for nine years, and the following elements are considered: Cost of reproduction in the years 1913 to 1916, cost of reproduction less depreciation, original cost, other values and elements of value. Stocks and bonds or earning capacity have not been considered.

From all the data available the Interstate Commerce Commission has found—

Valuation of all the railroads in 1920. $18,900,000,000
Net capitalization of all the railroads
December 31, 1919. 16,939,515,522
Value above capitalization. $ 1,960,484,478

Otherwise stated, the value of the railroads is TWO BILLION DOLLARS in excess of the net face of all stocks and bonds. If present day unit prices had been used, the excess would be far greater.

This should dispose of the question of "watered stocks."

But recently reference has been made to the "valuation that the railroads have succeeded in putting over on the Interstate Commerce Commission." The valuation work on the Santa Fe is nearly completed and we know that we have not "put anything over" on the Interstate Commerce Commission. On the contrary, we believe that the Interstate Commerce Commission has been over-strict in its rules and methods of valuation, and that as a consequence it has greatly undervalued our railroad.

When the work is completed, no "water" will be found in Santa Fe stock.

W. B. STOREY, President.
The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway System.

CHRISTMAS SEALS VS. THE WHITE PLAGUE

Austin, Texas, Dec. 3—Every penny that is given in exchange for Christmas Seals in Texas will be put to work on a definite program for carrying on the program against the white plague and promoting good health," says a statement issued today by J. W. Butler, Secretary of the Board of Directors of the Texas Public Health Association, and former President of the Texas Bankers' Association.

Secretary Butler issued the following appeal to the public to support the seal sale which begins Thanksgiving day and lasts until Christmas: "The reappearance of the Christmas seals for the fifteenth season is a reminder of the wonderful progress which has been made in our state and in the nation in decreasing the ravages of tuberculosis and also of the problem which still confronts us. "It is estimated that if tuberculosis were eliminated as a cause of death, two and one-half years would be added to the life of each individual in the country. Capitalizing each individual life in a population of 100,000,000 at $100 per year, the net saving would be at least 2 billion dollars. The economic loss due to tuberculosis is one that should appeal to a business man.

"There is no work in which we are engaged so useful as that of protecting the health of our boys and girls. Funds raised through the annual sale of Christmas seals are being used for preventative work among children. It is a noble and a necessary measure of self protection in which everyone can have a part, and from which every individual derives a benefit."

BETTER CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED

Many people continue to come to the Lubbock country to look for homes. There will be many thousands of acres put in cultivation for the next year's crop and every town on the South Plains will be benefited by the increased rural population. There should be the very closest co-operation between the business firms of all the towns and the farmers. One cannot get along without the other and there is a mutual interest that is often overlooked in that it should be brought to the front in the development of the great South Plains. Let's get away from this idea that more or less exists that the town man has in for the farmers and vice versa. The development of the country around about is going to be to the interest of the town and when the town grows and new enterprises come, the farmer can get better accommodations and a wider range of service which means a better opportunity for him. All together for the development of the South Plains—Lubbock Avalanche.

QUALITY ALWAYS IN DEMAND

We congratulate and competitor who markets quality products in a legitimate way. The right kind of competition makes better business; shows they have high ideals. Quality oils have always been in demand and always will be. Cheap, cut-throat prices employed by some concern look good on the surface, but remember appearances don't always make Quality. Sometimes for a moment they are white and clean, then gone forever. The true quality is in the workmanship and material used. Quality always stands on its own feet; don't need support; walks alone and speaks for itself; hides behind nothing and the record speaks louder than volumes and does its own boasting by achievements. That is why we like to sell Magnolia Brand Oils.

Don't forget that imitation oils give imitation results. Ask the man with a wooden leg.
