SHALL THE RAILROADS CONSOLIDATE?

ARTICLE IV.

Editor's Note:—The following is the 4th of a series of articles by the Secretary of the Board of Railroad Commission on the proposed consolidation of the railroads throughout the United States:

Texas and Consolidation of Railways

The tentative plan which was put out by the Interstate Commerce Commission about two years ago in order to provoke criticism and to encourage the roads and the public to come before the Commission and give testimony, or as the lawyers would say, to make record, upon which the commission could base its findings, proposes that Texas be served by four systems the Santa Fe, the Southern Pacific-Rock Island, the Missouri Pacific, and the Frisco-Katy-Cotton Belt. The people of Texas, both favoring consolidation and those opposed, have objected to these proposed systems. It is felt that if the Rock Island be given to the Southern Pacific, that the Southern Pacific may lose interest in Texas ports upon the Atlantic seaboard and that we may not have in Texas water compelled rates as in the past. Communities like Port Arthur object to the proposed Missouri-Pacific combination because the Missouri Pacific is financially interested in New Orleans and since the Kansas City Southern is given in the tentative plan to the Missouri Pacific, Port Arthur fears that the Missouri Pacific would then route its tonnage to New Orleans and would not be interested in developing Texas ports. The tentative plan of consolidation proposes to give the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway to the Santa Fe. This is objectionable to the most of the people in Northwest Texas. Heretofore, as new counties and eras have been developed on the Plains in the Northwest part of the State, the Santa Fe and the Denver, each have constructed a feeder of short line to protect its interest in the territory. If the Denver should be given to the Santa Fe, there would no longer be any incentive to build these short lines for all of the freight whether it should go east or west by truck would have to go out, or be brought in on the Santa Fe, if the Santa Fe owned the Denver. The Denver is now owned by the Burlington interests, which also own a half interest in the Trinity & Brazos Valley. The Burlington interests want to come into and across Texas to the Gulf and they strenuously object to being deprived of the Denver and losing their outlet to the Gulf of Mexico. It would certainly be of advantage to Texas to have a strong system like the Burlington come into the State as a competitor to such properties as the Santa Fe.

The Frisco, the Katy and the Cotton Belt are parallel and competing lines out of Saint Louis and Kansas City to Texas points. The consolidation of these roads will eliminate competition that has long existed and will not constitute a strong enough to stand up by the side of the Union Pacific, the Burlington or the Southern Pacific or Santa Fe. This is to say such a system would merely perpetuate the problem of the weak road, for rates that would be sufficient to sustain the Frisco-Katy-Cotton Belt would bring undue prosperity to the strong systems of the West and rates that would bring a fair return to the strong systems would bankrupt the weaker Frisco-Katy-Cotton Belt system.

The people in the Southwest part of Texas are also strenuously opposed to the consolidation of the San Antonio & Aransas Pass with the Southern Pacific.

Since Congress has commanded the Interstate Commerce Commission to prepare plans for consolidation, and since there are powerful financial interests and political interests that are opposing any modification of the law, and since we do not know what the courts will finally hold with reference to its constitutionality, it is necessary that we in Texas play safe, that is, we must get from the Interstate Commerce Commission as favorable a plan as possible, for the plan put out by the Interstate Commerce Commission may possibly be sustained and under it the railroads may consolidate in spite of all that the opponents of consolidation may do. That being true, Texas is demanding of the Interstate Commerce Commission

GOVERNOR ENJOYS MELONS

ONE EXPRESSED TO AUSTIN. CHAIRMAN KLET IN A LETTER THANKS OUR CITIZENSHIP.

Lubbock, Aug. 30th, 1923. Chamber of Commerce, Brownfield, Texas.

Gentlemen:—As general chairman of all committees on the Tech Celebration held at Lubbock, August 28, I wish to take occasion to thank your organization and the entire citizenship of Terry county for the magnificent display and splendid co-operation manifested. I have heard many compliments on Terry county. The visiting officials were especially attracted by the excellent spirit of loyalty shown. I haven't the space to tell you all that I heard. It is not necessary for me to repeat the many expressions, because you were here and heard them too.

The big watermelon that was presented to the Governor was taken in charge later by the local Chamber of Commerce and expressed to the Governor at Austin. I also want to add that the Governor greatly enjoyed the watermelons that you sent up for the watermelon party. He did not have an opportunity to join the others when they ate, due to the fact that the Governor had so many pressing engagements during the day, but that night about 10 o'clock when the Governor began to get a little tired and hungry, his mind—and stomach demanded water melon, and he at once requested that I see what became of those delicious Terry county melons. After some telephoning, I learned that some of them were supposed to be in the new Avalanche building. At once we went to the above mentioned place and found 37 big melons left. They were ice cold. The Governor selected the largest one and cut it open. It was a dandy. He ate and ate until I was embarrassed in my wonderment that there seemed to be no limit to the Governor's capacity for consuming water melons. While the Governor ate, we told him stories about Terry County's productivity. As we left the watermelon party, the Governor said: I now feel like the fellow who kissed his girl the first time: "I ain't got nothin' again nobody in the world."

Lubbock is grateful to you for the great things you are doing and have done. Let us continue in that same fine spirit in developing the great South Plains.

Very truly yours,
E. L. Klet.

WEST TEXAS TO EXHIBIT AT KANSAS WHEAT SHOW

Wichita, Kansas, Aug. 31.—The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has been allotted space on the main aisle of the International Wheat and Farm Products Exposition to be held here September 24th to October 6th at the Forum it was announced today. According to Porter Whaley, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, a fine agricultural exhibit will be brought up from the Plains country which will attract attention of visitors and set forth opportunities for agriculture in West Texas.

Dr. O. H. Lloyd, of Vega, will be in charge.

The Wheat Show is the largest indoor show of its kind in the world. It will cover 264,000 feet of floor space.

AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday School promptly at 10:00 o'clock. Rev. Joe McGee will preach at the morning hour.

At 8:00 P. M., Dr. E. E. Robinson will preach and hold the Fourth Quarterly Conference. You are cordially invited.

Another eternal triangle consists in a homehead, a fast car, and an emergency ward.

Albert Curry and two sisters, of Tahoka, are attending the Baptist Association here this week.

Very radical changes in its tentative proposal. For example, it is asking that whatever great systems are created west of the Mississippi river that shall be brought into and across Texas; that the proposed Frisco-Katy-Cotton Belt consolidation shall be abandoned and that these properties be used to bring such roads as the Union Pacific and Burlington into Texas.

In that way existing competition would be preserved and the great systems would be interested in Texas and would seek to develop their Texas properties, and would encourage the agricultural, commercial and industrial development of the State.

That would be an infinitely better plan than the tentative one which would fix upon the Southwest two relatively weak systems that give no promise during this generation of being able to compete with the strong systems. In fact, we might have to look forward to bankruptcies, receiverships and unsatisfactory service attending the financial failure of railroad companies. Moreover, modifications such as requested in the plan would bring across Texas much heavier tonnage than would be possible under the tentative plan, and this would encourage the rapid improvement of road beds, of equipment and of service.—Walter Splawn.

MARTIN SISTERS PLAYING HERE THIS WEEK

Martin Sisters big tent opera company arrived here this week and opened for a week's engagement on Monday night to a fair crowd that braved threatening weather, which later turned into rain to see the first show, as the reputation of Martin Sisters had preceded them here.

The people however were not disappointed in "Six Cylinder Love" despite the fact that rain roared on the canvas, for the acting was so good that the story, in fashion, was interpreted as the play progressed.

Tuesday night's bill was even better if anything and those who did not get a hearty laugh at "The Wining of Majorie" were simply off—that's all. It was somewhat a scream from start to finish. And there was something for those who always have to give the tear ducts a little outing.

There is with the company a young man seemingly not over seventeen years of age that gives every promise of being one of the best comedians in America. Of course our experience and judgement of such artist is limited, we freely admit, but he is one of the best we have seen at his present age. In fact all are artist in their depiction of characters, but as we know none of their names, we cannot comment on each of them.

They have a good orchestra with them that renders good music before and as needed during the performance ranging from the latest jazz to the best classics.

This show will be here all week and will have a merchant's matinee Saturday afternoon. The Herald has a number of tickets to give those renewing for the paper, or new subs. The paper may be sent to relatives and count just the same.

DEATHS

Mr. Henry Griffin, aged 82 years, passed away at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. G. M. Horn of the Challis community, Sunday about noon and was laid to rest in the Brownfield cemetery Monday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock.

His pastor Rev. C. E. Ball, of the local Baptist church conducted the funeral services. Other children attending the funeral were a son, C. J. Griffin, of San Angelo, and Mrs. J. R. Turner, of Eastland.

Grandpa B. J. Lee, aged 66 died at the home of his son, Ben Lee August 30th of paralysis. The body was embalmed and shipped Monday to Clifton, Texas, the old home for burial.

Mr. Lee leaves a wife and son, Ben, and a step son and daughter at Clifton to mourn his demise.

LUBBOCK AVALANCHE SAYS TERRYITES HAVE 'PEP'

"Tis Terry's Tech Too." Not a bit of doubting that point, in fact no one wants to doubt it.

The Terry County delegation, composed of a host of men, women and children who feel a tinge of gladness in West Texas' victory in winning the Texas Tech College are the kind of people upon whom the officials of the college may depend for substantial support, for already they have proven themselves splendidly loyal to the institution.

Terry county people have more than great big hearts and willing hands with which to support the college—they have a proven agricultural county whose products are of such quality as to demand the best prices on any market in the country. Thousands upon top of thousands of acres having been placed in the highest state of cultivation to give forth an abundance of wealth for the support of West Texas institutions.

J. E. Shelton, secretary of the Terry County Chamber of Commerce, came into the Avalanche office late Tuesday to tell us how splendidly Lubbock had taken care of the big crowd, whereupon we explained to him that Terry county, and all of the counties and towns of West Texas had had as much to do with the success of the celebration as had Lubbock, and indeed Lubbock does not want all of the credit for the success of the Tuesday affair.

The Terry County band was to be heard throughout the day, and each member of that organization seemed to have made himself a committee of one to make it known that Terry county is with Lubbock in celebrating the location of the Tech. College. The band received many compliments from the people of Lubbock and others who heard them, and is one of which all Terry county and in fact West Texas might feel proud.

The Terry County Corn Crib was an integral part of the noontime program, ten thousand of the fine ears of corn, which had been cooked to perfection by steam, were consumed by the celebrators, and if there was anyone who failed to enjoy the flavor of this Terry county product, we failed to get acquainted with that person.

Terry county will be at the South Plains Fair in October and the Terry County Band will be with the other Terry County Boosters.

Yes, everybody admits "Tis Terry's Tech. Too."

McMURRY COLLEGE TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 19

Abilene, Aug. 6.—McMurry College will open its doors for the first time on September 19, 1923. A visit to the grounds discloses the fact that the magnificent administration building which has been under construction for more than twelve months, is as beautiful on the inside as it is on the outside. All the furniture and fixtures for the class rooms, offices, laboratories and fine arts departments are under contract to be installed before the opening of school and in plenty of time for the proper occupancy of the building.

Carrying out the architectural plan for the grounds, a second building, which will be used this year as a dormitory for young women, is now under construction and will be completed by the 1st of September. At a later time it is proposed, when the dormitories both for the boys and girls, as outlined in the original plan, are completed, to use the building as a cooperative home, but for the present it will constitute a commodious and handsome home for forty-four young women.

Buildings adjoining the grounds are nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy by the boys before opening date. A visitor to the grounds is impressed with the fact that the hill is literally alive and pulsating with the energy of the great church that is entering upon its divine mission for the Christian training of the youth that has come within the pales of its influence.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the good people of Brownfield and Challis communities for their help and words of comfort in the recent sickness and death of our father and grandfather, and especially the nice floral offering. May God bless each of you.

G. M. Horn and family.

School to Open Monday Morning

School Will Open Under Most Favorable Circumstances This Year. Plenty Funds to Run Nine Months. One of Best Corps of Teachers in West Texas.

The 1923-24 session of the Brownfield Public School will open at the High School Auditorium next Monday morning at 9 o'clock, where the opening exercises will be carried out.

The trustees have done their best assisted by the superintendent to secure the best corps of teachers to be found, and for a basis, retained the best of the old corps that could be re-employed and it is firmly believed that our school will move along nicely from the jump go this year.

Nearly $20,000.00 has been expended on building and equipment since the close of the last term, adding four more school room besides a laboratory and another work room, which may be used in the future for manual training, etc., not to say anything about new equipment. Thus the 1923 and 1924 term starts out under very favorable circumstances.

The district is just about as near clear of debt as is possible, and the patrons have seen fit to vote money sufficient to maintain the school as it has never been supported, showing their determination to see that their children and their neighbors' children have an equal chance with those of any city of town.

Twelve literary teachers have been employed, and in the same building one may take voice or instrumental music.

An attractive program is being arranged for Monday morning, and the teachers and trustees join in urging every patrons that can possibly do so to be on hand that day and make the 1923-24 opening the most conspicuous in our history. See that all the children are there the very first day and let them matriculate with and have the same chance as the rest. Come and inspect the new addition and equipment, and understand what YOUR school is doing.

A number of men and boys with rakes, hoes and grubbing hoes and axes will be needed to finish cleaning of the ground Saturday morning, for it is the desire of everyone to have the grounds in a spick and span condition and keep them that way.

Don't forget the opening Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

ANNOUNCEMENT STORY FORD MOTOR COMPANY

Detroit Mich., Aug. 31.—Introduction of a higher radiator, bringing new and improved body lines to all types of Ford Cars, is announced today by the Ford Motor Company.

The change has just gone into effect and the various types are now in production.

While the large radiator has been made standard on all types and while it has made possible other betterments in body design, there is no radical departure in construction, but rather a general improvement which has resulted from more graceful lines.

The new radiator sets an inch and a half higher than the former and has an apron at the bottom which joins a similar apron effect on the fender on either side, giving a highly finished appearance to the front of the car. The larger radiator also increases cooling efficiency.

Most conspicuous among the new types is the Ford Coupe which is of entirely new body design and construction, resulting in a more trim exterior appearance, more comfortable seating arrangement and a greater luggage carrying capacity.

From the dash there is a graceful sweep in the cowl to the radiator, bringing a pleasing effect to the front. The doors are wide and open forward making access and exit easy. They are heavily framed for rigidity and strength. The compartments at the rear have been enlarged to afford increased carrying capacity. The gasoline tank is under the seat, with divided cushions to afford easy filling of the tank, from the right side, making it unnecessary for the driver to leave his seat. Ventilator in the cowl and a visor over the windshield add much to the attractiveness of the car. A new rear fender of a more sturdy character also is a feature.

Interior fittings are of choice material and the arrangements of the deeply cushioned seat has been effected so much that at the rear there is a small recess shelf for carrying parcels. The rear vision window is much larger and oblong in shape. Door windows have been equipped with revolving type window regulators and door locks are provided. Side windows are equipped with the lever type window lifters.

Marked, too, is the improvement in the Four Door Sedan. Highly popular since its production a year ago, because of its low, graceful lines, the car now presents even much better lines and sturdier appearance. This has brought about the installation of an entirely new cowl with a graceful sweep from the dash blending into the larger hood and radiator. The change also affords an increase in leg room for occupants of the front seat.

In the open types, the Touring

FIRST BALE 1923 COTTON RECEIVED AUGUST 30TH

The first bale this year was just two days later than the first bale last year. This was not on account of the cotton be planted later this year, but rather the fact that the cotton this year received more moisture this year and therefore was later in opening.

W. B. Benton was the lucky man this year. He lives in the Union community. G. M. Horn, who received the premium last year was just a few hours behind Mr. Benton this year. Mr. Horn informed us that he did not expect the premium every year, but would see that the man that does get it hustles.

The West Texas Ginn Company ginned Mr. Benton's cotton free. Mr. T. I. Brown, local cotton buyer bought it for 26c per pound and the business men donated a premium of about $65.00. The bale weighted 405 pounds and Rambout, the cow has been enlarged and flows in a graceful curve to the higher hood.

The result brings a most pleasing effect to the exterior appearance of both types. The improvement in the Touring Car which came when the one inch top and slanting windshield were introduced, is greatly enhanced by the larger radiator, the car appearing lower and more attractive than ever. The effect on the Roadster is likewise most appealing, giving it a more rugged and sturdy appearance.

The new radiator is also extended to the Ford Truck Chassis, affording improved appearance and better cooling for delivery service.

These new Ford types and the generally recognized performance ability of the Ford under all motoring conditions, promise to bring a greater demand than ever before as the public becomes more fully acquainted with the higher standards and the greater values which have been incorporated. No changes are contemplated in prices.

TATUM TOPICS

From Lovington (N.M.) Leader.

Tatum was visited during the last week by a good general rain and everybody is happy once more. A great deal of cotton will be made after all, and plenty of feed to run the country.

Mr. Carrel of the Tatum gin is making preparations to take of the cotton crop in good style. He has his gin remodeled and equipped until it is the equal of any three stand gin anywhere and we feel sure it will give the farmers of this territory a service with which they will be well pleased.

Work on the big irrigation well is progressing fairly well. Their engine has given a great deal of trouble, so Mr. Groves decided to get a new one and has gone to Brownfield for it, and thinks he will have it running in full blast in a day or two. We are expecting great things of this well.

A great many of our farmers were in town Monday with cream. Our merchants are handling quite a lot of cream now, and with the good rains over the country the cream production will increase wonderfully.

Great preparations are being made for the opening of school here September 3rd, and several families have moved to Tatum for the term.

LAWN PARTY

Mesdames Welch and Carl Pearce entertained Friday evening with a lawn party in honor of Miss Mary Charles Legon, of Denton, who is a guest of Mrs. Carl Pearce.

The evening was enjoyed by sixty of Brownfield's young people, being entertained with music and readings. Some enjoyed playing 42, after which the guests were treated to a watermelon feast.

Governor Pat Neff in a letter to James E. Ferguson says he has never been a member of the Klan, has never been solicited to become a member, nor has he taken any oath connected in any manner with the Klan. This should be sufficient to stop all sorts of flings that have been made at Governor Neff in the past—Crosbyton Review.

Those merchants and business men that just must have engraved or lithographed letters would do well to consult the Herald. We represent one of the biggest lithographing companies in America. We might also save you a little money and at the same time keep a small percent of the money in Brownfield that you are now giving a strange traveling man who never expects to invest one cent here, nor trade a penny's worth with you or a mill of tax to the city, county or school.

One of the better-off farmers of Hale county says the secret of his owning his farm and its good improvements free of all debts and having a tidy bank account, is that "we always live at home. We never buy meat, lard, milk, butter, poultry, vegetables or feedstuff. We always make these little things pay for our clothing, sugar, coffee, farming tools and many other things. We rarely go to town without something to sell for cash, and as we have no indebtedness nor interest to pay, we put it in the bank or gilt-edge notes for the old age that is coming upon wife and myself. "If every farmer on the Plains pursued this plan this would be a section of happy and prosperous farmers. There are but few farmers but who could do like this man has done.—Plainview News.

In commenting on an article in the Herald recently concerning the visit of a prospective girl man to Brownfield, the Canadian Record says:

"That is why the cotton people are turning to the Panhandle country. The boll weevil has never had any luck up here. The boll weevil flourishes in the damp, cloudy, misty weather, and the dry weather and sunshine form his nemesis. The Panhandle is destined to be the cotton center of the south. Our farmers have never raised cotton and have to learn how. This year those who planted cotton for the first time planted it down in the bottom of the lister rows, and the heavy rains washed out the tender plants. One Hemphill county farmer first listed his land, then busted the lister rows, and then harrowed it. He now has 30 acres of cotton that will make one-half bale per acre. He is an experienced cotton farmer. What he can do others can do."

We notice that the Superintendent of Public Instruction for Lubbock county is sending out announcements for the teachers institute for the district and he is including in his district Dawson, Lynn Gaines and Terry counties. This has been given publicity by ignorance of some of the facts. The four counties named have been organized into a separate district and the time for the new district teachers' institute will be Dec. 17 to 21st. All teachers in the new district will take notice. Mr. Flanken of the Lamesa High school has been selected as the first Conductor. At Lamesa December 17 to 21.—Lamesa Reporter.

The above appeared under the caption of "An Error," but the article is partly an error itself for the reason that Terry County did not withdraw from the South Plains Institute and all the Terry county teachers are up at Lubbock this week taking in the Institute.

CHAPTER XVI

Jane's Story.

Her arm through Jane's, dragging her along, Tuppence reached the station. They arrived on the platform just as the train came to a standstill. Tuppence opened the door of an empty first-class compartment, and the two girls sank down breathless on the padded seats.

"If they once reached Sir James Peel Edgerton in safety, all would be well. But would they reach him? Would not the silent forces of Mr. Brown already be assembling against them? Tuppence mapped out her plan of campaign.

As the train at length drew slowly into Charing Cross, Jane Finn sat up with a start.

"Have we arrived? I never thought we should!"

"Oh, I thought we'd get to London all right. If there's going to be any fun, now is when it will begin. Quick, get out. We'll nip into a taxi."

In another minute they were stepping into a taxi.

"King's Cross," directed Tuppence. Then she gave a jump. A man looked in at the window, just as they started. She was almost certain it was the same man who had got into the carriage next to them. She had a horrible feeling of being slowly hemmed in on every side.

"You see," she explained to Jane, "if they think we're going to Sir James, this will put them off the scent. Now they'll imagine we're going to

In a Flash Tuppence Was Out on the Pavement.

Mr. Carter. His country place is north of London somewhere."

Crossing Holborn there was a block, and the taxi was held up. This was what Tuppence had been waiting for.

"Quick," she whispered. "Open the right-hand door!"

The two girls stepped out into the traffic. Two minutes later they were seated in another taxi and were retracing their steps, this time direct to Carlton House terrace.

"There," said Tuppence, with great satisfaction, "this ought to do them. I can't help thinking that I'm really rather clever! What's this thing swerving—oh!"

There was a grinding noise and a bump. Another taxi had collided with them.

In a flash Tuppence was out on the pavement. A policeman was approaching. Before he arrived Tuppence had handed the driver five shillings, and she and Jane had merged themselves in the crowd.

"It's only a step or two now," said

Tuppence breathlessly.

Hand-in-hand, the two girls hurried along.

"It may be my fancy," said Tuppence suddenly, "but I feel as though there was some one behind us."

Tuppence and Jane took to their heels. The house they sought was some way down. Footsteps echoed behind them. Their breath was coming in choking gasps as they reached Sir James' door. Tuppence seized the bell and Jane the knocker.

A man reached the foot of the steps. For a moment he hesitated, and as he did so the door opened. They fell into the hall together. Sir James came forward from the library door. "Hullo! What's this?"

He stepped forward, and put his arm round Jane as she swayed uncertainly. He half carried her into the library, and laid her on the leather couch. From a tantalus on the table he poured out a few drops of brandy, and forced her to drink them. With a sigh she sat up, her eyes still wild and frightened.

"It's all right. Don't be afraid, my child. You're quite safe."

Her breath came more normally, and the color was returning to her cheeks. Sir James looked at Tuppence quizzically.

"Am I right in thinking that the joint venture has ended in success, and that this"—he turned to the girl on the couch—"is Miss Jane Finn?"

Jane sat up.

"Yes," she said quietly. "I'm Jane Finn. I have a lot to tell you."

"When you are stronger—"

"No—now!" In a low voice Jane began her story.

"I came over on the Lusitania to take up a post in Paris. When the ship was torpedoed, a man came up to me. He asked me if I was a patriotic American, and told me he was carrying papers which were just life or death to the Allies. He asked me to take charge of them. I was to watch for an advertisement in the Times. If it didn't appear, I was to take them to the American ambassador.

"Most of what followed seems like a nightmare still. I see it in my dreams sometimes. . . . I'll hurry over that part. Mr. Danvers had told me to watch out. He might have been shadowed from New York, but he didn't think so. At first I had no suspicions, but on the boat to Holyhead I began to get uneasy. There was one woman who had been very keen to look after me, and chum up with me generally—a Mrs. Vandemeyer. I remembered that she'd been quite near me on the Lusitania when Mr. Danvers gave me the packet, and before that she'd tried to talk to him once or twice. I began to get scared, but I didn't quite see what to do.

"One thing I'd done already as a precaution—ripped open the oilskin packet and substituted blank paper, and then sewn it up again. So, if anyone did manage to rob me of it, it wouldn't matter.

"What to do with the real thing worried me no end. Finally I opened it out flat—there were only two sheets—and laid it between two of the advertisement pages of a magazine. I stuck the two pages together round the edge with some gum off an envelope. I carried the magazine carefully stuffed into the pocket of my sister.

"At Holyhead I found myself in a carriage with Mrs. Vandemeyer after all. I consoled myself with the thought that there were other people in the carriage—there was quite a nice-looking man and his wife sitting just opposite. So I felt almost happy about it until just outside London. I had leaned back and closed my eyes. I guess they thought I was asleep, but my eyes weren't quite shut, and suddenly I saw the nice-looking man get something out of his bag and hand it to Mrs. Vandemeyer, and as he did so he wished. . . .

"I can't tell you how that wink sort of froze me through and through. My only thought was to get out in the corridor as quick as ever I could. I got up, trying to look natural and easy. Perhaps they saw something—I don't know—but suddenly Mrs. Vandemeyer said 'Now,' and flung something over my nose and mouth as I tried to scream. At the same moment I felt a terrific blow on the back of my head. . . .

She shuddered. Sir James murmured something sympathetically. In a minute she resumed:

"I don't know how long it was before I came back to consciousness. I felt very ill and sick. I was lying on a dirty bed. There was a screen round it, but I could hear two people talking in the room. Mrs. Vandemeyer was one of them. I tried to listen, but at last I couldn't take much in. When I did begin to grasp what was going on—I was just terrified! I wonder I didn't scream right out there and then.

"They hadn't found the papers. They'd got the oilskin packet with the blanks, and they were just mad! They didn't know whether I'd changed the papers, or whether Danvers had been carrying a dummy message, while the real one was sent another way. They spoke of—she closed her eyes—'torturing me to find out!'

"I began thinking madly. What could I do? I knew I wouldn't be able to stand up against torture very long. Suddenly something put the thought of loss of memory into my head. The subject had always interested me, and I'd read an awful lot about it. I had the whole thing at my finger-tips. If only I could succeed in carrying the bluff through, it might save me. I said a prayer, and drew a long breath. Then I opened my eyes and started babbling in French!

"Mrs. Vandemeyer came round the screen at once. Her face was so wicked I nearly died, but I smiled up at her doubtfully, and asked her in French where I was.

"It puzzled her, I could see. She called the man she had been talking to. He stood by the screen with his face in shadow. He spoke to me in French. He asked me my name. I said I didn't know—that I couldn't remember anything at all.

"Suddenly he caught my wrist, and began twisting it. The pain was awful. I screamed. He went on. I screamed and screamed, but I managed to shriek out things in French. I don't know how long I could have gone on, but luckily I fainted. The last thing I heard was his voice saying: 'That's not bluff! Anyway, a kid of her age wouldn't know enough.'

"When I came to, Mrs. Vandemeyer was sweet as honey to me. She'd had her orders, I guess.

"By and by she went out of the room altogether. I was suspicious still, and lay quite quiet for some time. In the end, however, I got up and walked round the room, examining it. I thought that even if anyone was watching me from somewhere, it would seem natural enough under the circumstances. It was a squalid, dirty place. There were no windows, which seemed queer. I guessed the door would be locked, but I didn't try it. There were some battered old pictures on the walls, representing scenes from Faust."

Jane's two listeners gave a simultaneous "Ah!" The girl nodded.

"Yes—it was the place in Soho where Mr. Borsford was imprisoned. Of course, at the time I didn't even know if I was in London. One thing was worrying me dreadfully, but my heart gave a great throb of relief when I saw my ulster lying carelessly over the back of the chair. And the magazine was still rolled up in the pocket!

"I lay down on the bed again, and by and by Mrs. Vandemeyer brought me some supper.

"That was an awful night. I'd made my plan whilst I was waiting for her. The papers were safe so far, but I couldn't take the risk of leaving them there any longer. They might throw that magazine away any minute. I lay awake waiting until I judged it must be about two o'clock in the morning. Then I got up as softly as I could, and felt in the dark along the left-hand wall. Very gently, I unhooked one of the pictures from its nail—Marguerite with her casket of jewels. I crept over to my coat and took out the magazine, and an odd envelope or two that I had shoved in. Then I went to the washstand, and damped the brown paper at the back of the picture all round. Presently I was able to pull it away. I had already torn out the two stuck-together pages from the magazine, and now I slipped them with their precious inclosure between the picture and its brown paper backing. A little gum from the envelopes helped me to stick the latter up again. No one would dream the picture had ever been tampered with. I rehung it on the wall, put the magazine back in my coat pocket, and crept back to bed.

"They watched me constantly for weeks. Sometimes they'd ask me questions by the hour—I guess there was nothing they didn't know about the third degree—but somehow I managed to hold my own. The strain of it was awful, though. . . . I felt that the horrors in store for me would be too awful once they knew I'd been only shamming.

"It ended in my being sent to a sanatorium at Bournemouth. I couldn't make up my mind at first whether it was a sham affair or genuine. I think I almost hypnotized myself.

"One night I was whisked off to London at a moment's notice. They took me back to the house in Soho.

"They sent me in to wait on Mr. Borsford. (Of course I didn't know his name then.) I was suspicious—I thought it was another trap. But he looked so honest, I could hardly believe it. However, I was careful in all I said, for I knew we could be overheard. There's a small hole, high up in the wall.

"But on the Sunday afternoon a message was brought to the house. They were all very disturbed. Without their knowing, I listened. Word had come that he was to be killed. I needn't tell the next part, because you know it."

She paused.

"Then the papers," said Sir James slowly, "are still at the back of the picture in that room."

"Yes." The girl had sunk back on the sofa exhausted with the strain of the long story.

Sir James rose to his feet. He looked at his watch.

"Come," he said, "we must go at once. You have been followed here—

—not a doubt of it. When we leave the house we shall be followed again, but not molested, for it is Mr. Brown's plan that we are to lead him. But the Soho house is under police supervision night and day. There are several men watching it. When we enter that house, Mr. Brown will not draw back—he will risk all, on the chance of obtaining the spark to fire his mine. And he fancies the risk not great—he will enter in the guise of friend!"

Tuppence flushed, then opened her mouth impulsively. "You know who Mr. Brown is, don't you?"

"Then the Papers," said Sir James slowly, "are still at the back of the picture in that room."

"Yes," said Sir James gravely. "I have been morally certain of his identity for some time—ever since the night of Mrs. Vandemeyer's mysterious death."

"Ah!" breathed Tuppence. "For there we are up against the logic of facts. There are only two solutions. Either the chloral was administered by her own hand, which theory I reject utterly, or else—"

"Yes?"

POLICE AND KLANSMAN BATTLE IN NEW JERSEY

FIRE APPARATUS DRIVEN DIRECT ON ASSAILANTS TO DISPERSE GATHERING.

150 ARE STILL BESIEGED

That Number of Klansmen Still Surrounded as Thousands of Autos Pour Into City.

Perth Amboy, N. J.—One hundred and fifty members of the Ku Klux Klan are besieged in Odd Fellows' hall, surrounded by a crowd of more than 5,000 persons, who broke up a meeting of 500 klansmen, despite a desperate resistance by 75 patrolmen, 150 firemen and a large force of State troopers.

Although shots were fired by both sides, no one was reported killed. Two men, however, were believed to have been seriously injured. Both were klansmen. One, wearing a white robe, was beaten unconscious when he attempted to leave the hall. He was beaten with clubs and his attackers were about to throw him in a sewer manhole. A patrolman, however, pleaded with members of the mob and persuaded them to stop.

The other klansman was badly beaten when a mob overturned an automobile in which he was trying to escape. The full extent of their injuries are not known, and it was said many others may have been badly hurt.

Thousands of automobiles choked roads leading into Perth Amboy. Citizens from all parts of the State are arriving and police fear another outbreak as a result of a Klan threat that they would "return 10,000 strong."

Friday morning the mob about the hall was larger than when the battle started. A constant babble of voices was heard in the streets, and this occasionally burst into a roar when a klansman's head appeared at a door or window. The mob continued to throw sticks and stones.

Patrolmen fired shots into the air, threw gas bombs, and swung their night sticks while the firemen turned streams of water on the fighting throng to quell the attack.

Police Chief Tonneson then ordered his men to throw tear gas bombs and thirteen of these, the town's entire supply, were exploded. The crowd fell back, but advanced again, hurling more stones. It was then that a riot call was sounded and 150 firemen dashed to the scene.

After the firemen had run their apparatus directly at the surging mass of humanity and had failed to disperse the crowd, they attached hose lines to every available hydrant and drenched the rioters with several streams of water. Daunted for few seconds, the crowd fell back. Several of the more sturdy, however, braved the water and cut the hose lines with axes and knives while those in the crowd threw stones at the firemen.

Chief Tonneson, in the meantime, had ordered the klansmen to leave the building. Clambering out windows, down fire escapes and through every available exit, they were met by their assailants and many hand-to-hand fights ensued.

A patrolman sized him, shoved him into an automobile and hurried him to the police station. Other cars, loaded with men, followed, but the prisoner was rushed through the station and locked in a stable at the rear. After searching the station, those who had followed returned to the scene of the fight.

As some of the klansmen broke away from the fighting mass they shouted, "We're coming back—10,000 strong."

"All right," came the answer, "we'll be waiting for you—20,000 strong."

INDIRECT OPERATION OF FLEET PLANNED

Shipping Board to Form Number of Subsidiary Corporations.

Washington.—After a thorough discussion of the merchant marine question at a White House conference between President Coolidge and members of the shipping board, Chairman Farley announced that the board would move forward with its plan for indirect government operation of its fleet through a number of subsidiary corporations.

The President, it was indicated would put the plan up to Attorney General Daugherty for an opinion as to its legality, the point raised by the three minority board members. Whether he would ask for a formal ruling or merely discuss it with the Attorney General was not definitely communicated to the board members, all of whom were said to be convinced that the legal question should be determined promptly.

Shanghai.—One lone Chinese boy, dying from thirst and hunger aboard a life raft, has been picked up by the Hong Kong-Shanghai Coast steamer, Sinkiang and is believed to be the sole survivor of the British steamer Mylie which foundered in a typhoon recently en route from Chingwangtao to Shanghai with a cargo of coal. The mess boy, according to statements of the Sinkiang officers, survived for six days aboard the life raft and saw five of his companions perish.

GREECE BALKING AT ITALIAN DEMANDS

Athens Government Must Agree in 24 Hours to $6,000,000-Lire Indemnity and Conditions

Athens.—The Italian Government has demanded from Greece an answer within twenty-four hours to a note handed the Greek Government declaring that Greece shall pay an indemnity of 50,000,000 lire, salute the Italian fleet and punish the Greeks responsible for the killing of the five Italian members of the Greco-Albanian frontier delimitation mission.

Premier Gonatas told the newspaper men that while all the demands of the Italian Government were not acceptable, some of them would be agreed to, and that the Greek Government would ask modifications of the others. The Premier added that the Government would make reply to the Italians within the time limit set by them.

Premier Gonatas said that, according to reports received from the authorities at Epirus, he had concluded that the murderers were Albanians and not Greeks. The Premier expressed the conviction that the incident would not affect the good relations between Greece and Italy.

As an outcome of an exchange of visits between G. C. Montagna, the Italian Minister to Greece, and Foreign Minister Alexandris, the latter, after again expressing his Government's regret over the assassination of the five Italian members of the Greco-Albanian boundary delimitation mission, said that with a view to conducting an inquiry it had been decided to dispatch a warship to Santi Quaranta, one of the ports of Janina, Albania, near where the murders occurred.

The warship will take on board a commandant of police, two superior officers of the department of military police, and two police surgeons, who will aid in the investigation.

The secretary of the Italian legation, speaking in the name of Signor Montagna said the murder of the Italian mission was a political crime, due to Greek hatred of Italians, which hatred was the outgrowth of propaganda. The opinion that the murders had been committed by Albanians, therefore, was to be excluded.

Apart from the reparation which would be demanded, the secretary said the crime would have the gravest consequences for Greece.

CONCILIATION POINTS OFFERED BY PINCHOT

Submits Four to Anthracite Miners and Operators Now Deadlocked

Harrisburg, Pa.—Governor Pinchot has proposed to the deadlocked anthracite coal operators and miners that they settle their differences on four points of conciliation. These are:

1. Recognition of the eight-hour day for all employees.
2. A uniform increase in wages of 10 per cent to all employees.
3. Full recognition of the union by the operators with a semi-check-off, which would permit the union to collect its dues on pay day at the mines.
4. Complete recognition of the principle of collective bargaining.

Gov. Pinchot suggested that the miners and operators consider the proposal, and if they are unable to agree they shall select a man agreeable to both sides to attend and take part in the discussions.

This man would not have a vote and would be only an observer, not as an umpire or referee.

If the two sides were unable to reach an agreement in this manner Gov. Pinchot suggested that their differences be referred to the conciliation board, which, he said, would be provided with whatever equipment is necessary for rendering prompt decisions.

Portland, Ore.—The government would like to sell about 400 buffalo ranging on the bison range in Montana, near the old Flathead Indian reservation at Dixon, according to Smith Riley, head of the bird and animal reservation department of the United States. He reports that the buffalo are increasing so rapidly that the food capacity of the range has been reached.

Man Goes Into Raising of Bees.

PINCHOT SAYS STRIKE MUST BE AVERTED

With the Coal Strike Only Four Days Away He is Going to Meet Them Again.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Gov. Pinchot, the fighting progressive of Pennsylvania, served the anthracite operators and miners with his notice that the strike must be averted, conferred three hours with the union leaders and then retreated to the solitude of his executive mansion in complete and—to use his own expression—"golden" silence.

In a speech opening the joint meeting of the two parties he told them that the distribution of anthracite coal must be continued, that the public must be served and that the State of Pennsylvania was prepared to use all its power to see that no suffering occurred.

This situation of peril can and must be avoided, Pinchot said. With the coal strike only four days away he is going to meet both sides separately to see if peace developments can be carried forward.

While Pinchot's announcement that the miners are going to see him again was interpreted in some quarters as a hopeful sign, it was learned at the executive mansion that the Governor intends only to continue to "hear the case of the miners" at his next meeting with them.

The miners refused to comment on developments at the meeting, saying the Governor had requested that they be silent. The operators, who are to meet the executive did likewise.

A new phase of the situation developed when Bishop Hoban of the Catholic diocese of Scranton called upon Pinchot at the executive mansion. Bishop Hoban has a strong influence with the workers in the mines.

Simultaneously Father Curran, a Catholic priest who aided Roosevelt in the negotiations years ago, was understood to be on his way to Atlantic City to confer with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who lies ill there.

Both these clerics have been mentioned by Pinchot before and it is believed he may be seeking their aid in keeping the men in the pits.

The only announcement Pinchot would make after his three-hour conference with the miners, was:

"We have discussed the case of the miners this afternoon and we shall resume our discussions tomorrow."

NEFF SCORES LAXITY IN ENFORCING LAWS

"Collusion With Violators" is Condemned By Governor at Austin.

Austin, Texas.—Lawlessness said to reign in many sections of Texas is attributed by Gov. Neff to "laxity of duty by local authorities," the Governor charging that most of the lawlessness results from "collusion and conniving" by these officers with the lawless element, particularly the law breaker who manufacturers and sells liquor and the man who participates in mob work.

Views on the subject of lawlessness were given by the Governor just before he left Austin for Lubbock to attend the Texas Technological jubilee.

"It has become necessary, because of the secrecy with which local officers work with the lawless element for the State forces to first throw a 'smoke screen' around the county where lawlessness is to be investigated," said the Governor.

"With a law which would permit the yanking out of officers who enter into collusion with law breakers," the Governor said, "lawlessness would soon be driven out of Texas."

He had reference to the so-called quo warranto officers' removal bill, which has met defeat every time it has been introduced in the legislature.

Large Rattlesnake Killed.

Washington.—The following Texas acting postmasters have been appointed: Evans H. Angell, Longview; Henry C. Wilson, Marshall; and John H. Wilson, Quanah.

Farmers Turning to Timber.

Gilmer, Texas.—The short crop has caused many of the farmers to turn their attention to other sources of supplementing their short income, not the least of which is securing hardwood railroad ties. Thousands of these ties have been blocked out, hauled in trucks and shipped. Another source of revenue has been gum timber, cut in four-foot lengths and shipped to box and basket factories. It is selling at $17 per thousand and feet L. O. Gilmer.

Violations of the law prohibiting seining of fish are being received from many sections of the State, according to W. W. Boyd, Game, Fish and Oyster Commissioner. Commissioner Boyd said that the long drouth has caused many of the streams to quit running and the low stage affords splendid opportunity for seining. Considerable fish life is being destroyed.

The deficit in the general fund of Texas will not be as large on Sept. 1 as many times calculated by members of the Legislature and State officials, State Treasurer Terrell announced. All of the previous calculations had made it $4,000,000 or more, while Mr. Terrell produced figures to show that it will be only a little over $3,000,000.

H. C. Connally, secretary of the State Prison Commission, has been in Austin with C. J. Moore and John D. McCall, representatives of the Brown-Crummer Company, executing the bonds of extending the $145,000 of vendor's lien notes which the company took up for the commission to meet notes due on prison farm lands. The bonds bear 6 per cent and extend the time one year beyond the dates the notes were due.

The investigation into the killing of Otto Lange by masked men at his home near Somerville, Burleson County, July 2, has not been dropped, Gov. Neff said. He declared that as soon as Ranger Captain Frank Hamer is relieved from duty at San Antonio, where he is a witness in a number of gambling and bootlegging cases resulting from ranger raids, Mr. Hamer will go to Somerville to resume the Lange investigation.

Robert A. John of Houston, general attorney of the Texas Company, and former District Judge Charles A. Wilcox, an attorney of Austin, were long closeted with Attorney General Keeling, First Assistant Wall and Anti-Trust Assistant Kemp. All parties to the conference refused to indicate what had been discussed or what action, if any, is in contemplation by the Attorney General.

Before leaving for Lubbock State Superintendent of Public Instruction Marrs said: "There will be books in the public schools when they open next month and when I return I shall make announcement of my plan for the texts. There will be no book shortage in the schools as I now see it, and particularly there will be none if the local school authorities do their full duty, as I expect them to do," concluded Mr. Marrs.

The Railroad Commission issued notice of hearing for Tuesday, Sept. 11, to consider application of the traffic department of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce on behalf of the Texas Corrugated Box Company of Dallas for a readjustment of the rates on corrugated boxes, knocked down in bundles, car loads, between points in Texas with minimum of 36,000 pounds. It is proposed to establish a basis of 5c less than class D rates for the transportation of the boxes. This would effect a reduction under the present charges as well as equalize certain conditions.

Of the twenty-five counties which have sent tax rolls to the State Comptroller, only one is of the large class of counties, that of McLennan. The tax rolls of McLennan County, submitted by County Tax Assessor Frank M. Miller, shows a total of $66,746,340, which is $1,746,340 more than the estimate filed last month, and an increase of $2,355,635 over last year's total. The rolls from Bexar, Dallas, Tarrant and Harris, the four larger counties, have not yet been received.

Simplicity in Coat Styles; Fashions for the Juniors

THERE seems to be a disposition on the part of well dressed women to demand that the excellence of their fall coats be evident more in precise and beautiful tailoring than in elaborate trimming, and new models in garments of this variety attain a fine degree of that elegant simplicity which is always in good taste and, at the same time, almost universally becoming. The vogue of the straight lines, at least, may be used with good effect whether the wearer is slim or stout, short or tall. The element of individuality, always a desirable feature, is neither a little girl nor yet a young lady always presents some difficulty. There is no little tragedy for the young person herself in being forced to wear clothes that she feels she has outgrown and on the other hand it is certainly unwise to permit her to dress as a grownup. Consequently, the styles advanced for her special benefit are in the nature of a compromise and for the current season the compromise is a peculiarly happy one. This is true because "grows-up" ture, may be expressed in material, trimming and cut without any sacrifice of style.

CAMEL'S HAIR USED IN THIS DESIGN

Camel's hair, in a new pattern, is used for making the coat shown here. The long stripes of brown and tan make it an ideal pattern for short or stout women, since their effect is to lend height to the figure. The long kimono sleeve is set low at the shoulder and is made knuckle length. Brown fox exactly matching the dark stripe of the material is used for the collar.

Fur-fabric coats are promised in greater variety than ever before, as the season progresses, and that they will be even more popular than usual is a safe forecast in view of advancing prices for fur and fur trimmed coats.

SLIPOVER PATTERN IN CREPE DE CHINE

The beautiful new metal brocades and oriental patterns in silk weaves, that have appeared in the past few weeks, have been immediately used in designs for fur coats and they are so rich and luxurious that it is often difficult to say whether the coat or its lining is the more attractive.

The heavier twills, camel's hair and fine pile fabrics are leading favorites among coatings. They are usually lined with plain crepe de chine, and nothing could serve this purpose better.

We neglected to mention last week that M. D. Smith of Nashville, Ark., was visiting his son-in-law, P. W. Chesshir and family, of Meadow. They were in Brownfield one day while here accompanied and piloted by N. F. Emerson, and Mr. Smith subscribed for the Herald and talked like he might make old Terry his future home.

A. W. Hall, of Hobart, Okla., who has quite a lot of property here, is down this week looking after his interests. Mr. Hall says this will be about his last trip down here as he has about convinced his family that people can make a living in Terry, and he thinks they are now about ready to move.

C. L. Breckon, of Amarillo, was here this week and put in a new mouth piece on the linotype machine and put it in tip top shape otherwise. The Mergenthaler Linotype people are getting machine men just as near every machine they put out as possible, and you get good service, for these men are at your beck and call just as long as you have one of their machines in your shop. They are anxious for the machine to give go good service and these courteous men like Mr. Breckon sees to it that you get it with absolutely no charge except for new parts you may need, and that is seldom.

MEADOW BRIEFS

By Asclepias.

Editor's Note:—Fate seems to be against us getting a letter from our sister city, Meadow any sooner than we get our mail from Fort Worth or Dallas. Last week a late Thursday train brought it in after the type was set for the week, and the week before it came creeping in on Thursday after the paper was all printed. Yet last week's letter bore a Meadow post mark of the 28th.

(delayed)

By some dispensation of kind providence we are enabled to reach Brownfield in time for publication about twice a month. The balance of the time the articles lay in soak in the post offices or perhaps is put off at Challis?

The articles are never mailed here later than Tuesday morning in time for mail going south. Of course it could have been "censored" and allowed to run out of date, but I don't think so. There was nothing of a Nihilistic nature about them; no personal attacks on any one. In fact I tried to be just a good and loving as possible in dealing with everything.

Meadow needs a correspondent. She is growing fast; has the best citizenship in the country; is a very religious community; has three churches, and is rapidly getting on the map in every material way. Will some one who has found favor with the powers that be, undertake the task?

The Baptist brethren are still in the midst of a big revival. Preaching is good and the singing excellent, and Miss Lillian Encke an unrivaled pianist. The church is also crowded at the night services and many fail to get in who would like to take part in the service. Some of these days we will build a tabernacle to house the crowds that come to hear.

There has been ten accessions to the church by letter and nine candidate for baptism. I am informed that the meeting will continue thru the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Fortenberry were made very happy Sunday by the arrival of two little boys at their house. Weight seven and eight lbs. Who said Meadow wasn't growing?

J. D. Verner of Fort Worth and W. F. Verner of Ennis, Texas, sons of Mr. J. T. Verner are here visiting their parents and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Jones with their daughter Mrs. Zenobia, of Desdemonia, Texas, are visiting the families of Willis White and their son, E.H. Jones. Good people and we are glad to have them with us.

Loomis Moorhead and wife have returned after a two week's stay at Austin, with their brother, Edwin. They returned through Stephenville, and brought with them Mrs. Frank Stockton, mother of Mrs. Fortenberry and W. T. Stockton.

The father and mother of C. W. Avery, our enterprising merchant, have returned home after a short stay here.

Miss Lillian Encke of Roby, Texas, is visiting friends here and assisting in rendering music for the revival in progress at the Baptist church.

The rain Sunday night wet up some unslacked lime at the site of the new school building and set fire to the house in which it was stored, burning it down and perhaps destroying a car load of lime.

The most of our people will attend the Tech Celebration at Lubbock, Tuesday.

Uncle Ike Metcalf, Justice of Peace was aroused from his slumber Tuesday night about eleven o'clock by four young people from Ropesville, seeking an official to speak the words "unto death do we part." They were Mr. Roy Cate and Miss Alpha Mackey; Mr. S. K. Ardis and Miss Flora Copeland.—Tahoka News.

Elder Liff Sanders filled the pulpit at the Church of Christ Sunday to a nice audience, but services were rained out at night. He will be back on the fifth Sunday to run over until the first Sunday in October with night services only.

D. T. Canady, postal inspector was here several days last week, who inspected the office here and with acting postmaster Jim Miller went over the proposed rural route out of this place. Of course we cannot say how well Mr. Canady was pleased with this route as he has to report direct to the government, which already has quite a lot of data about it. We hope, however that the route is established.

The postoffice department is having NEW experience. It's getting along without WORK.

Flappers are able to endure cold, we suspect, because they are usually wrapped up in themselves.

GAS TO REPLACE COAL AS FUTURE FUEL

"No one has ever discovered anything in the world that will burn except gas," says Floyd W. Parsons, noted writer.

"We say that a piece of coal will burn. The fact is that the flames heat the lump to the ignition temperature and then burns the gas that the coal liberates.

"The next ten years will witness greater advances toward a day of fuel efficiency than have taken place during the century that has passed.

"Just as whole regions will be supplied with electricity for power purposes from one central point, so whole regions with an era as great as some of our smaller states will be supplied with gas for heating from enormous central plants.

"Great mains will carry gas hundreds of miles, just as oil is now carried through pipes half way across the American continent."

How Uncle Sam Spends Your Money in Conducting Your Business

WRITE TO THESE MEN.

The chief defects, or places where waste is apparent in the conduct of the business of the government, that I have pointed out in these articles, have been, first, the excessive proportion of the government income that went for military expenditures; second, the chaotic condition and lack of adequate supervision and control of expenditures, which have been in part remedied by the introduction of the budget system; and third, the haphazard organization of the government departments and the unorganized condition that prevailed in government employment.

The remedy for two of these conditions I have treated briefly in the two immediately preceding articles. I come now to the matter of reorganization of the departments and the reclassification of government employees. A beginning has been made on both of these matters.

A joint committee of the two houses of congress, with Walter F. Brown as chairman, is studying the whole question of organization of the government and the function of the various departments and bureaus and independent establishments. I cannot too strongly advise you to keep yourself in contact with the work that joint committee is doing.

I have given you the names of the members of the committee in another article but I will repeat them here. They are Senators Smoot of Utah, Wadsworth of New York and Harrison of Mississippi; Representatives Reavis of Nebraska, Temple of Pennsylvania and Moore of Virginia. Write to any of them or to Mr. Brown, the chairman of the committee, who represents the President, with headquarters in the house office building here at Washington.

This is the third or fourth attempt that has been made to effect a general reorganization of the conduct of the business of the executive departments. They have all failed through lack of interest. There was lack of public interest, and consequently lack of interest in congress.

This joint committee is at work now. It is collecting facts. It is finding out the actual condition. It is studying the departments. Presently it will make a report to congress. If you will show an active, insistent interest in the work that it is doing, congress will take action. If you do not show this interest, there is every chance in the world that no action will be taken, and that things will remain much as ever.

Hundreds of special interests are clamoring for the attention of congress. All of them are organized. Most of them keep representatives here at Washington. They present to individual members of congress in a hundred skillful, shrewd, subtle ways arguments to support the legislation they are seeking to advance. It would take two or three columns of this newspaper merely to print a list of the organizations and associations that are here to keep congress mindful of their interests.

In this great clamor the common public interest is likely to be submerged. In fact, too often it has been submerged. This matter of economies and reorganizing the business of the government and taking up the tedious details of administration is a dull business. It has been neglected and put off time after time because of a lack of public interest and driving force behind it.

If you will supply this driving force how and display a sustained interest, you can at least put the business of government of the United States on an efficient basis. Congress has been negligent because you have been negligent, but now at last the thing has run along so far that something must be done about it.

Used Insects to Fight Insects.

Control of destructive insects by the introduction of their natural enemies has become an important technique during the last generation, writes Paul Popenoe in Science. But if competent observers are to be trusted, the southern Arabs employed the same method more than 160 years ago in the culture of the date palm.

In his "Relation d'un Voyage dans l'Yemen," P. E. Botta says: "I was able to verify the singular fact previously observed by Forskal, that the date palm in Yemen are attacked by a species of ant which would cause them to perish if each year the growers did not bring from the mountains and fasten in the tops of the palms branches of a tree that I did not recognize, which contains the nests of another species of ant which destroys that of the date palm."
