MAKE YOUR POULTRY MORE PROFITABLE

Every person who keeps poultry naturally desires to make as much profit as possible. To do so it is important that every hen kept should be a good layer and that all cockrels except those for breeding purposes (as well as pullets that lack vigor and vitality) should either be eaten or canned for home use or sold as soon as they are large enough.

Selecting the hens that are poor layers from those that are good layers and picking out for market the cockrels of the flock that are the least likely to develop into good breeders is commonly spoken of as "culling." If you are to succeed and make money from your poultry it is necessary that you should learn to cull your flock separately so as to keep only such birds as will pay a profit on the feed they eat. Some hens lay from three to five times as many eggs as others. In every flock of hens, there are good layers and poor layers. Pure bred flocks have culls in them.

Cull all hens that are sick, weak, inactive, lacking in vigor, poor eaters, with shrunken, hard, dull or whitish combs; with thick, stiff pelvic bones that are close together; small spread or distance between rear end of keel and pelvic bones; full, firm or hard abdomen; and those that have molted or begun to molt in August or September. In breeds having yellow legs and skins, the discarded hens should show yellow or medium yellow legs and yellow vents and beaks.

Keep hens that are vigorous healthy, active, good eaters, with plump, bright-red combs; large moist vents; thin, pliable pelvic bones spread well apart; a wide spread between pelvic and rear-end of keel; large soft abdomen, and neither molted nor molting during August and September. In breeds with yellow legs the hens kept should also show pale or white legs and pale and white beaks and vents. Cull in August, September and October. It pays.—Anna Bower, Potter County Home Demonstration Agent in Southwest Plainsman.

"LITTLE" DR. LONGING FOR OLD TERRY

New York, Sept. 11, 1923.

Mr. A. J. Stricklin, Brownfield, Texas.

Dear Jack:—Just a line to let you know that I haven't forgotten old Terry. After being here for a month one appreciates friends in the West as never before.

However, I am getting a wonderful course in diagnosis and infant feeding and diseases of children. Have to work pretty hard but it is so interesting time passes quickly.

I was greatly pleased at Lubbock seeing the Tech. College; also getting the Herald.

New York is a great place and lots to see provided one has the cash. One large room here only costs $60. per month and everything else is sky high.

Will be back in Brownfield the 1st of February for sure and will be contented to stay there where everyone's 100 per cent American.

Very sincerely,
J. R. Lemmon

BIGGEST RAIN SINCE 1919 FELL HERE FRIDAY

Terry county has not had a better season since 1920 than at present and grass and fall gardens are growing as never before. However, the farmers have had all the rain they wish at present, and want sunshine for the next two or three months.

A shower amounting to 10-100 inch fell Thursday night. Rain began to fall Friday afternoon about 5:00 and continue until 2:00 a.m. Saturday, the government gauge here registering 3.65 inches, and with other showers brought the total rainfall last week to nearly four inches.

WOMAN'S DEPARTMENT AT SOUTH PLAINS FAIR

Have you seen the new building at the Fair grounds that is being built for the Woman's Department? It is by far the best building by far that has ever been built on the grounds. Entirely new, it is ceiled throughout, inside, has double windows all way around, twice as much light as any other building on the grounds, and is floored with honest to goodness flooring and has all the trimmings of a real exhibit hall.

It is more than double the size of the building that has heretofore been used to house the Woman's Department and if the ladies of the South Plains fill their new building they are going to have to get up and go some.

"When we asked for a building twice as large as the one we had last year we only expected to get one just about half again as large and here you have taken us at our word and have a building that covers half the fair grounds. How in the world are we going to get enough exhibit material in this building to make it look like it is half way filled," said Miss Marsh, the County Home Demonstration Agent when she was taken to the new building to order whatever built-in features she wanted for the various Woman's Departments.

"Say," said George Briggs, "If you don't want anything around this outfit you had better not ask for it—we are sure going to take care of the Woman's Department this year if everybody else has to stay out in the cold. Each year the officials of the Fair pick out one department and try to fix them up ship shape with buildings, etc., enough to last them three or four years. The first year we stressed the Machinery Building, giving them the best on the ground and combining Agricultural and Industrial Building—the first large building on the Fair Grounds. The next year we featured the Industrial Building, shifted the agricultural exhibits to the Machinery Building and put the machinery and poultry in tents. Last year we built a large Agricultural Building—large enough to last five years—we thought—but we are enlarging it again this year. And so it goes."

The General Plan This Year

The Industrial Building will remain as it was last year. The Agricultural Building is being enlarged 40X60 feet—giving us a building 60X140 feet—or ding near an acre and it is about full. The building used for a Woman's Building last year will be come the Poultry Building this year. Last year's Poultry Building "aint" this year. It blew away and the pieces were picked up, added to to the tune of about $1,000 and a real livestock pavilion has been built with a sawdust show ring, seats for 200 spectators, about 50 additional stalls and a wash rack. City water has been connected with the fair ground; this year and plenty of pressure is assured instead of waiting for the water to trickle through the twelve foot tank as before.

Then the new Woman's Building, that will also house the offices of the Fair and the Red Cross Emergency Hospital. A 70X110 canvas tent has been leased to house the Automobile Exhibits and another of the same size for the Machinery Exhibits. Next year—this is not a definite promise but a pretty certain possibility—a neat building will be ready for these two departments. A third large tent has been ordered for the Rest Tent and Community Programs. A huge band stand has been erected to care for the seven or eight bands that will be in the contest.

Entrance Space Has Been Doubled

In anticipation of the great crowds that are expected at the coming fair the entrance gates have been doubled and can now care for four streams of cars at a time—capable of handling 10,000 people in less than an hour. The Junior Chamber of Commerce will again handle the tickets at the gate—and the service of the 100 men necessary to handle this job will not cost the fair association one cent. Every man on the gate has bought a season ticket so when he calls for yours—fish up and don't argue for he is doing a hard job and paying for the privilege and is entitled to your co-operation.

A separate exit has been arranged, as last year and plenty of traffic cops mounted police and guides will be on the grounds and streets to handle the crowds.

ANOTHER RANCH GOING ON THE MARKET

We learned on good authority one day this week that the beautiful five section ranch of Noah Bell, of the Needmore community was going on the market at from $25 to $30 per acre, raw of course.

There is no prettier body of land in the United States than that belonging to Mr. Bell, and indeed he himself informed us that it looked so much alike that the buyers that had been on it could not hardly decide which quarter of the 20 they wanted.

Mr. Bell informed us in the summer that land was getting too valuable here for cotton farming to fool away one's time raising even registered white faced cattle on it. Mr. Bell is cotton farming himself on a large scale this year, and is making a success just like he made a success in the cattle business.

Mr. M. B. Sawyer, another one of our ranchmen who has his ranch on the market informed us this week that some over one-third of it was already gone, and people buying it every day most. Mr. Bell's land will be gone before Christmas, we predict. People coming here prospecting from East Texas, say our people are foolish to sell at the prices now being asked, but our people are wanting the county to settle, and are offering their land at prices that just a few crops will pay out.

BROWNFIELD WINS FIRST FOOTBALL GAME OF SEASON

The Wilson football team came over Tuesday and were defeated by the locals by a score of 21 to 0. Wilson handed our boys just about such a package last year.

The following concerning the game was handed us for publication, part of which don't sound very intelligent to us. It may be dog latin:

The first quarter was played tight. Brownfield received. Second quarter Brownfield safely made 2 points.

Third quarter Snow carried the ball across the line. Walker carried the ball for the added point. Swan carried the ball for two more touch downs in third and fourth quarters. The score ended 21 to 0 in favor of Brownfield.

The high school girls gave the local and visiting football men a marshmallow toast from 7:30 to 10:00. Everyone had a good time, and a friendly spirit existed between the players.

Wilson gave us an invitation for a return game, which will be played later.

Brownfield boys baffled beleaguering belligerents. Breaking bravely brought blissful boosting. Bleating belligerents blenching, bounced backward beyond beforehand bounded bourn. Brownfield boys believing belligerents beaten broke breaches, bringing brilliant blazonery. Belligerent boys becoming balked Brownfield boys beat. Belligerent boys being beaten badly backed backward bawling. Brownfield boys beat belligerent boys badly. Bravo, Brownfield boys, bravo!

Our boys came on the field. In that good old Brownfield line. And Wilson's fate was sealed. For our boys were feeling fine.

They hit that bunch with "pep." And broke their small line in two. And made old Wilson step. And made them feel awful blue.

Our boys were going right. They sure put up good play. And made poor Wilson fight. But Brownfield boys won the day.

HAPPY PATC HCLUB

The Happy Patch needle club after suspending thru the summer met on September 10th with Mrs. H. R. Winston, and quite a number enjoyed the afternoon.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Ellen Collier, Sept. 24. All members are requested to be present as the club will then elect new officers for the ensuing year. Those wishing to join are invited to attend.—Reporter.

OUR LINE OF GROCERIES

are absolutely fresh at all times, and are just what the trade demands.—Try the Enterprise Market and Grocery on your next order.

SOME OF OUR MANY NEEDS

MODERN HOTEL, NEW COURTHOUSE, BETTER DRAINAGE, MANY NEW RENT HOUSES.

There are a number of things that Brownfield and Terry county are in bad need of, some of them being absolute necessities, and other such as we must have if we keep pace with the growth of the rest of the county and the South Plains in general.

The most needed thing right now is a first class, fire proof hotel. It is true that we now have two hotels and each of them doing the best they can with their buildings, and we may even need them after a modern hotel is built, but even the proprietors of our hotels say we need a modern, up-to-date hotel. Any garage man in the town will tell you, and our merchants will bear them out that people leave here right at night for neighboring towns for hotel accommodations. This is good—for the neighboring towns. But we believe that a good hotel is in the immediate offing and will be built by local capital. If not, then the commercial body should get busy and try outside capital for the erection of a hotel.

We need a modern courthouse the very worst way. It is no little embarrassment to have a stranger from any county east of here—some of them with much less natural resources, ask you what that is "over there in that park." An intelligent fellow asked us not long ago if this was a county seat. Said he had not seen the courthouse. We did not point out to him. There is not a railroad town in the 72nd Judicial District but has a modern courthouse, and Seminole, which has no railroad connections just now, has a $100,000 courthouse. In our pioneer days when we had no railroad, and during and just after the war, we contended like the rest of the citizens that our courthouse was good enough, but we are frank to acknowledge that it is an eye-sore now. A good courthouse is a good investment from a preservation of records standpoint, if nothing else, and material is as cheap as it ever will be again. Ask any material man or contractor.

Thousands of more taxpayers will be here in the next few years to help us pay for it.

You can't make a nice town to save your life with a shack of a courthouse in the middle of the square. These new people are used to a nice county building, and are willing to help us build another.

Our streets are anything but what they ought to be. Water stands like a slough in Arkansas or some other place, and no town in the world lays better for drainage than Brownfield. What we need is an expert to show us how to drain them and then drain them despite what some fellow may think or object to.

We never can have good streets as long as some persons hinders the proper ditching and grading of the streets. There is no excuse whatever for water to stand on our streets an hour after a rain.

Rent houses are in demand here 365 days in the year. Did you ever see what might be termed a house, stand vacant for more than a few days at a time. There are some people so constituted that they do not want a home of their own, but pay rent gladly. Besides, you are at liberty to collect your rent in advance and promptly eject those who will or do not pay. An investment in four rent houses will keep an ordinary family up and some ahead. We know of some houses here in Brownfield that have paid for themselves several times in the past fourteen years.

Brownfield is greatly in need of a modern water system and fire fighting apparatus. The system we now have would do some good in case of fire if we only had some plugs and hose, but having neither, it is as useless as a crutch to a legless man. If the town ever does get on fire just right, all we can do is set—and Nero like—fiddle while it burns.

Along with our other needs we have some more sad news for the taxpayer. The school board was called to the school building Tuesday to view the crowded condition. It lacked only a few pupils of having 40 to the room. This coming year, after a six room addition this year. A fellow informed us recently, who had taken trouble to keep tabs that something like 65 new pupils will be added from what has already been sold of the Sawyer land to date, not to say a word about hundreds of others to locate on other lands that are going in cultivation next year early. Well, there is room for another addition on the other end of the building.

These are but few of our several needs, but these are sufficient to keep us busy until we have time to get to others pressing somewhat.

But let 'em crowd, for we have had lots of room for a long time.

EDUCATION

The following splendid article on education, and incidentally the public school teacher, was taken from the Weekly Baptist Bulletin, published by the First Baptist Church of Douglas, Arizona, and edited by the pastor, Rev. J. N. Campbell, son-in-law of Dr. and Mrs. W. N. Copeland, of this city:

"Everybody in Douglas believes in education. Our school board has elected 111 teachers to train our boys and girls. And we hereby pledge them our prayers. Theirs is a noble and altruistic service.

The chief qualification for teaching is not what the teacher may know, but rather what the teacher is. Character is the main thing. These teachers will teach 'themselves' to our boys and girls more than they teach the text books used. To the end that these 111 excellent teachers may become in character, even more fully than they are now, ideals that our children may safely follow; we would urge them all to be faithful in church attendance, and the First Baptist church will have a warm welcome to them at any time. Nothing short of the religion of Jesus Christ in the heart and lived in the life can guarantee the highest type of character.

Six hundred and fifty thousand other public school teachers throughout the United States, will in the next few days begin their arduous work for this session. 546,000 of these are girls and women. Next to the American mother the nation surely is indebted to these noble teachers for their service in moulding character and training for life's tasks the youth of the land. As a part payment of they ought to be. Water stands like a slough in Arkansas or some other place, and no town in the world lays better for drainage than Brownfield. What we need is an expert to show us how to drain them and then drain them despite what some fellow may think or object to.

this debt Uncle Sam annually puts up $760,000,000.

3,500 of the 22 million of boys and girls that start to school this fall will attend Douglas Public Schools. Truly America has a right to be proud of her system of public instruction, and no American town of her size can boast of better school buildings than Douglas.

Only let us beware the pitfalls that snared the wonderful civilization of Germany. Those in authority know only too well that what was put into the schools would come out in the nation. Following a false philosophy they led their empire upon the rocks at last, and threatened the welfare of the whole world besides.

The Bible and the principles laid down therein makes the only certain foundation for any nation with the sure hope that it may abide. Modern Germany put Nietzsche in the place of Jesus Christ, and displaced the Bible with rationalism. The result was that German Protestantism, which at one time led the world became subverted; German treaties were degraded to "mere scraps of paper"; 190 billion of dollars of treasure were squandered and 15,000,000 lives were lost.

"May God forbid that the seed of disaster and national ruin shall be sown in our public schools either in the form of a false philosophy or of false ideals and principles.

Of course our teachers are forbidden to teach religion in our public schools, and wisely so, by the first Amendment to the National Constitution, but they are required to teach morals: "The right of the State to punish crime carries with it the duty to teach morals."

LIGHTENING RODS ARE O.K.

The Underwriters' Laboratories, an organization established and maintained by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, is anxious that all farmers of the country thoroughly understand the lightning rod situation as it exists today. These laboratories have gone into the subject of lightning protection very thoroughly, and conclusively demonstrated that properly grounded conductors of proper weight and material will serve as a harmless path to the earth for a flash of lightning.

In order that the farmer may know when he is getting standard material installed in a standard manner, Underwriters' Laboratories has arranged to issue an etched aluminum master label for attachment to each building equipped with standard material and installed under their supervision. This is the final stamp of approval for the job, and will be issued to the farmer immediately after the installation report has been received and approved by the Laboratories.

DAZZLING AUTO LIGHTS

Driving into the dazzling light of an oncoming car is dangerous business—dangerous alike to the dazzler and the dazzled. And it is so unnecessary. To dim the lights of a car is so simple and easy a task, that it seems that the danger involved by not doing so would compel the motorist approaching in another car at night would take this simple precaution against the possibility of accident to his own car as well as the car of others. It should not take a law to bring about the dimming of headlights. Common decency demands that a motorist practice this simple rule of night driving etiquette, and good manners are just as essential on the road as in the home.

Under this plan it is a comparatively simple matter for the farm owner to specify that installation be a master label installation, and that he be guaranteed to receive a master label as evidence of compliance with standard practice by the manufacturer. Since the Underwriters' Laboratories is organized purely for service and not for profit the new arrangement will simply be additional lightning insurance for the farmer. It gives him a practical guarantee that he is getting his money's worth when he buys lightning rod equipment.

The main purpose of the Underwriters' Laboratories is to accomplish a reduction of the great annual fire losses in the country.

That which was planted the first of June was well filled with grown bolls that we believe will open, besides many forms, blooms and small bolls. The stalk from the last of June planting had some grown bolls, many squares and blooms, and it is believed that some of it will open and lots of it will make bolls. He was just experimenting with cotton to see just how late it would make here.

Insist On An Expert Opinion

There are plenty of folks that know something about titles. But the only opinion that is worth anything is the opinion of the man who knows EVERYTHING ABOUT land titles.

One flaw overlooked leaves the title just as hazy as before. In fact, an incomplete abstract, a shallow search, leaves things worse than before; for trusting the incorrect opinion has deceived one into a false sense of security.

This Company offers you the services and the verdict of an EXPERT. Our exhaustive records, our systematized methods, our complete knowledge of the subject, our THOROUGHNESS which lets no facts slip—these are your guarantees. When you have our opinion, you know there is no more to be said.

Before you buy, insist upon an Abstract of Title made by this Company. It will be your guarantee of future security in your property.

The Herald had a shower the past week, being thus honored by the Ralls Banner. We received the issues of August 10th, 24th and 30th on the same mail and all in separate wrappers. We appreciate showers mighty well, Bro. Morris, but would some rather have the Banner when it is fresher with the news. Come on now Morris and give us a fresh paper occasionally.

The news columns announce the formation of organizations anti this and anti that—opposing the work of other organizations with which they do not agree. Any organization can accomplish good by doing good, but nothing can be accomplished by spreading the gospel of hatred. No influences are doing more harm in this country than those who array one class against another and create hatred on account of conditions of society, race or creed.

It is to laugh at some of the advice handed out by the A. & M. College, especially as applies to all portions of Texas. They recently broad-casted advice through the press to farmers to destroy all cotton stalks by October 1st. What would happen to the cotton crop of the South Plains, for instance, if this injunction was literally obeyed? Our cotton is just now opening well. Yet some of the East "Texicans" will spurt tobacco juice forty feet and say we don't need an A. & M. out here. Our conditions and ideals are more in line with New Mexico, Colorado or Kansas than the Bryan region, yet they send out advice to the press intended for all sections of Texas. Great guns of misery!

Steinmetz, wizard of the General Electric Company says that the time is coming when we will have to work only four hours a day. This is good news and bad news. Indeed the time is coming when the necessities of life may be provided in four working hours a day, but the necessity of work will be just as great as ever. There will be plenty to do to occupy our time. It will be pleasant work, not drudgery. We will not be benefited, however, unless we learn to occupy the extra time that the world may be made better and wiser by our having lived.

In asking the American people to observe constitution week from Sept. 16 to 22nd, the American Bar Association is rendering a distinct service. There is too much irrelevant talk and thinking about our laws and our government. It would be far better to make a careful study of the fundamental law of this country and the Constitution of the United States. Sir William Blackstone said that a knowledge of the laws of England ought to be a part of the equipment of every English education. Under our form of government it is all the more important that every American citizen should know the American Constitution. A man may be a good citizen and have a very indefinite idea of his government, of his relation to it or its relation to him, but he would be a better citizen if he understood his own importance as a unit of responsibility, with a clear conception of the constitution under which he lives and by which his right as a citizen is protected.

CHAPTER XVIII

A Supper Party at the "Savoy."

The supper party given by Mr. Julius Hershelmer to a few friends on the evening of the 30th will long be remembered in catering circles. It took place in a private room, and Mr. Hershelmer's orders were brief and forcible. He gave carte blanche—and when a millionaire gives carte blanche he usually gets it!

The list of guests was small and select. The American ambassador, Mr. Carter, who had taken the liberty, he said, of bringing an old friend, Sir William Beresford, with him. Archdeacon Cowley, Dr. Hall, those two youthful adventurers, Miss Prudence Cowley and Mr. Thomas Beresford, and last, but not least, as guest of honor, Miss Jane Finn.

To most people the 29th, the much-heralded "Labor Day," had passed much as any other day. Speeches were made in the Park and Trafalgar square. Straggling processions, singing the "Red Flag," wandered through the streets in a more or less aimless manner. Newspapers which had hinted at a general strike, and the inauguration of a reign of terror, were forced to hide their diminished heads. The bolder and more astute among them sought to prove that peace had been effected by following their councils. In the Sunday papers a brief notice of the sudden death of Sir James Peel Edgerton, the famous K. C., had appeared. Monday's paper dealt appreciatively with the dead man's career. The exact manner of his sudden death was never made public.

Tommy had been right in his forecast of the situation. It had been a one-man show. Deprived of their chief, the organization fell to pieces. Kramenin had made a precipitate return to Russia, leaving England early on Sunday morning. The gang had fled from Astley Priors in a panic, leaving behind, in their haste, various damaging documents which compromised them hopelessly. With these proofs of conspiracy in their hands, aided further by a small brown diary taken from the pocket of the dead man which had contained a full and damning resume of the whole plot, the government had called an eleventh-hour conference. The labor leaders were forced to recognize that they had been used as a cat's-paw. Certain concessions were made by the government, and were eagerly accepted. It was to be Peace, not War!

But the cabinet knew by how narrow a margin they had escaped utter disaster. And burnt in on Mr. Carter's brain was the strange scene which had taken place in the house in Soho the night before.

He had entered the squalid room to find that great man, the friend of a lifetime, dead—betrayed out of his own mouth. From the dead man's pocket-book he had retrieved the ill-omened draft treaty, and then and there, in the presence of the other three, it had been reduced to ashes. England was saved!

And now, on the evening of the 30th, in a private room at the Savoy, Mr. Julius P. Hershelmer was receiving his guests.

Soon the supper party was in full swing, and with one accord Tommy was called upon for a full and complete explanation.

"Tommy's been the goods this trip! And, instead of sitting there as dumb as a fish, let him banish his blushes, and tell us all about it."

"Hear! hear!"

"There's nothing to tell," said Tommy, acutely uncomfortable. "I was an awful mug—right up to the time I found that photograph of Annette, and realized that she was Jane Finn. Then I remembered how persistently she had shouted out that word 'Marguerite'—and I thought of the pictures, and—well, that's that. Then of course I went over the whole thing to see where I'd made an ass of myself."

"Go on," said Mr. Carter, as Tommy showed signs of taking refuge in silence once more.

"That business about Mrs. Vandemeyer had worried me when Julius told me about it. On the face of it, it seemed that he or Sir James must have done the trick. But I didn't know which. Finding that photograph in the drawer, after that story of how it had been got from him by Inspector Brown, made me suspect Julius. Then I remembered that it was Sir James who had discovered the false Jane Finn. In the end, I couldn't make up my mind—and just decided to take no chances either way. I left a note for Julius, in case he was Mr. Brown, saying I was off to the Argentine, and I dropped Sir James' letter with the offer of the job by the desk so that he would see it was a genuine stunt. Then I wrote my letter to Mr. Carter and rang up Sir James. And then I got a bogus note from Tuppence—and I knew!"

"But how?"

"Tommy took the note in question from his pocket and passed it round the table."

"It's her handwriting all right, but I knew it wasn't from her because of the signature. She'd never spell her name 'Twopence,' but anyone who'd never seen it written might quite easily do so. Julius had seen it—he showed me a note of hers to him once—but Sir James hadn't! After that everything was plain sailing. I sent off Albert post-haste to Mr. Carter. I pretended to go away, but doubled back again. When Julius came bursting up in his car, I felt it wasn't part of Mr. Brown's plan—and that there would probably be trouble. Unless Sir James was actually caught in the act, so to speak, I knew Mr. Carter would never believe it a him on my unsupported word—"I didn't," interposed Mr. Carter, ruefully.

"That's why I sent the girls off to Sir James. I was sure they'd fetch up at the house in Soho sooner or later. I threatened Julius with the revolver, because I wanted Tuppence to repeat that to Sir James, so that he wouldn't worry about us. The moment the girls were out of sight I told Julius to drive like h—ll for London, and as we went along I told him the whole story. We got to the Soho house in plenty of time and met Mr. Carter outside. After arranging things with him we went in and hid behind the curtain in the recess. The policemen had orders to say, if they were asked, that no one had gone into the house. That's all."

And Tommy came to an abrupt halt. There was silence for a moment.

"By the way," said Julius suddenly, "you're all wrong about that photograph of Jane. It was taken from me, but I found it again."

"Where?" cried Tuppence.

"In that little safe on the wall in Mrs. Vandemeyer's bedroom."

"We all kept back something or other," said Tuppence, thoughtfully. "I suppose secret service work makes you like that!"

Mr. Carter rose to his feet.

"I will give you a toast. The Joint Venture which has so amply justified itself by success!"

It was drunk with acclamation.

"There's something more we want to hear," continued Mr. Carter. He looked at the American ambassador.

"I speak for you also, I know. We'll ask Miss Jane Finn to tell us the story that only Miss Tuppence has heard so far—but before we do so we'll drink her health. The health of one of the bravest of America's daughters, to whom is due the thanks and gratitude of two great countries!"

CHAPTER XIX

And After.

"That was a mighty good toast, Jane," said Mr. Hersheimer, as he and his cousin were being driven back in the Rolls-Royce to the Ritz.

"The one to the Joint Venture?"

"No—the one to you. There isn't another girl in the world who could have carried it through as you did. You were just wonderful!"

Jane shook her head.

"I don't feel wonderful. At heart I'm just tired and lonesome—and longing for my own country."

"That brings me to something I wanted to say. I heard the ambassador telling you his wife hoped you would come to them at the embassy right away. That's good enough, but I've got another plan. Jane—I want you to marry me! Don't get scared and say no at once. You can't love me right away, of course, that's impossible. But I've loved you from the very moment I set eyes on your photo—and now I've seen you I'm simply crazy about you! If you'll only marry me, I won't worry you any—you shall take your own time. Maybe you'll never come to love me, and if that's the case I'll manage to set you free. But I want the right to look after you and take care of you."

"Oh, Julius!"

"Well, I don't want to hustle you, Jane, but there's no sense in waiting about. Don't be scared—I shan't expect you to love me all at once."

But a small hand was slipped into his.

"I love you now, Julius," said Jane Finn. "I loved you the first moment in the car when the bullet grazed your cheek . . ."

In the meantime the Young Adventurers were sitting bolt upright, very stiff and ill at ease, in a taxi.

They sat very straight and forebore to look at each other.

At last Tuppence made a desperate effort.

"Rather fun, wasn't it?"

"Rather."

Another silence.

"I like Julius," essayed Tuppence, again.

Tommy was suddenly galvanized into life.

"It has been fun, hasn't it, Tommy? I do hope we shall have lots more adventures."

"You're insatiable, Tuppence. I've had quite enough adventures for the present."

"Well, shopping is almost as good," said Tuppence, dreamily. "Think of buying old furniture, and bright carpets, and futurist silk curtains, and a polished dining table, and a divan with lots of cushions—"

"Hold hard," said Tommy. "What's all this for?"

"Possibly a house—but I think a flat."

"Whose flat?"

"You think I mind saying it, but I don't in the least! Ours, so there!"

"You darling!" cried Tommy, his arms tightly round her. "I was determined to make you say it. I owe you something for the relentless way you've squashed me whenever I've tried to be sentimental."

Tuppence raised her face to his. The taxi proceeded on a course round the north side of Regent's park.

"You haven't really proposed now," pointed out Tuppence. "Not what our grandmothers would call a proposal. But after listening to a rotten one like Julius's, I'm inclined to let you off."

"You won't be able to get out of marrying me, so don't you think of it."

"What fun it will be," responded Tuppence. "Marriage is called all sorts of things, a haven, and a refuge, and a crowning glory, and a state of bondage, and lots more. But do you know what I think it is?"

"What?"

"A sport!"

"And a damned good sport, too," said Tommy.

There are two big facts which every father and mother ought to memorize. The first is: Every leaf, stalk, blade, limb or trunk, whether of tree, plant or grass, if we put it back into the soil the materials for making again the same general quantity of plant growth. The second fact is this: Whenever we burn up any dead vegetation, four fifths of its value, as well as four-fifths of its bulk and weight, goes up in smoke. The nitrogen goes up in the air and we buy high priced nitrogen in sacks to take the place of what we burned up.

OKLAHOMA GRAND JURY NOT TO MEET

DISTRICT JUDGE CLARK ANNOUNCES HE WILL NOT OPPOSE MILITARY.

FUNDS WILL BE VERY SHORT

Observers Say Governor Will Be Hampered by Lack of Money to Pay Military Forces.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—State-wide martial law took a definite form Saturday night when Oklahoma City, leading the way for the rest of the State, passed under the virtually complete control of the military.

General orders embodying the essential regulations under which the State capital will live during the suspension of civil authority were issued by Lieut. Col. W. S. Key, in command of local troops.

Along with general orders establishing regulations for the military control of Oklahoma City, an order was issued suspending the special grand jury in the District Court, which had been summoned to meet Monday to investigate alleged misuse of State funds by Governor Wilson.

When informed of the intention of the military to prevent the grand jury's meeting, District Judge George W. Clark asserted that the jury would be convened and that the military authorities could then order its adjournment.

"The grand jurors will meet," Judge Clark declared. "The Governor may deliver his order. Then I shall see what can be done about it."

Later it was definitely announced the grand jury would not meet. Judge Clark was handed orders from Colonel Key suspending the grand jury and the Judge announced he would not oppose the military ruling.

Across the street from the court house a machine gun, mounted on the roof of a restaurant, is trained on the windows of the grand jury room.

Other machine guns are mounted around the city hall and the police station.

Supervision of the Sheriff's office was assumed by the military, but Sheriff Tom Caylor was not removed. No other county office was taken over.

A report that the Ku Klux Klan had removed all files from its State headquarters here to a place outside the State was current, but the headquarters were deserted and the report could not be confirmed.

Crowds that braved a steady rain milled around the streets watching the few manifestations late in the day of the military occupation. They were not molested by the guards.

Observers Sunday night saw the possibility of serious financial difficulties in the way of the Governor's military program. The last Legislature appropriated $100,000 for the extraordinary protection fund of the State this year. It is known, however, that the Governor has established from this fund the secret service organization with which he investigated conditions in the State prior to the martial law move. It is believed that this organization, which is extensive, will make necessary the expenditure of virtually all of this amount.

The executive department was allowed $200,000 for a deficiency fund. Of this amount only $50,000 remains unexpended. A. S. J. Shaw, State Treasurer, has announced he will not approve deficiency warrants when the $200,000 limit is reached.

ROSWELL IS FLOODED AFTER CLOUDBURST

Boats by Score are Seen on Main Street of New Mexico Town.

Roswell, N. M.—The second near cloudburst in three days has hit Roswell and adjoining territory.

The rain was accompanied by considerable hail and early reports indicated that heavy damage had been done to fruit and cotton crops in some sections of the valley. Three inches of water fell in two hours, causing all the streets to be flooded. Water ran into a number of business houses.

Heavy rains to the west of Roswell caused the Hondo River to overflow and a large portion of this water passed through the city. Homes in the lower section of the city were flooded. Boats by the score were seen on Main street. Not since 1914 has there been so much water in Roswell as there was Sunday.

GERMANS DIFFERING ON RUHR POLICY

Germany's Economic Worries Are Complicated by Political Upheavals

Berlin.—Differences in the German Cabinet on the question of either surrendering passive resistance or merely limiting its scope have been revealed following Chancellor Stresemann's speech on reparations.

One wing favors the full maintenance of the policy while the other, led by Stresemann, holds that it is absolutely necessary to curtail the huge payments sent to the Ruhr to maintain resisting workers.

Economic, labor and some political circles have little hope that the Chancellor's speech will go far toward solving the problem. They see in it a definite willingness to dump passive resistance and agree that France maintain either a "visible" or "invisible" occupation, but it is pointed out that all of Germany does not stand behind this policy.

Germany's economic worries, which, in the coming winter assume a sinister aspect, are complicated by threatening political upheavals.

Gustav Stresemann, who inherited with the chancellorship virtually a heap of ruins, is the vortex of a political cyclone, the outcome whereof may easily be national chaos.

Hampered by the Communists on one side, threatened by the Pan-Germans on the other, and nagged and tormented by the Separatistic Bavarians, he is fighting against almost supernatural powers.

He believes that if he fails a dictatorship—either of the right or of the Reds—will come.

Stresemann started his regime with three main tasks, namely:

1. Satisfactory liquidation of the Ruhr action.
2. Stabilization of currency.
3. Proper provisioning of 60,000,000 folk with food and bank notes.

TEN YEAR-OLD GIRL IS BRUTALLY SLAIN

Body With Head Crushed is Found Near Comal County School

San Antonio, Texas.—Clarke Goffeld, 17, held in connection with the death of Irene Hitzfelder, 10, pretty little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hitzfelder, prominent residents of the Spring Branch community, Comal County, has been taken to San Antonio and lodged in the county jail.

Public opinion in the vicinity of Spring Branch was inflamed, following the finding of the body of the child in a clump of bushes near the road leading to the school she was on her way to attend. Sheriff Peter Nowotny of New Braunfels, who took the boy in custody, told newspaper men at New Braunfels.

The head of the child had been literally shattered by stones. Her features were said to be unrecognizable. The crime was committed about two miles from the Spring Branch schoolhouse, where the body was found in a thick clump of bushes. The body was not discovered until schoolmaster, alarmed at the continued nonappearance of the little girl, usually noted for her promptness in arriving, searched for her.

Two Win Reprieve. Austin, Texas.—Because the necessary room and appliances at the State penitentiary have not been provided and completed in order to comply with the law for execution of criminals by electrocution, Gov. Neff issued proclamations temporarily suspending death penalties assessed against two persons who had been condemned to the electric chair. The executions were reset for Friday, Nov. 9, and this action is construed to mean that the electric chair and other appliances for electrocution will have been completed at the State prison by that date.

Can Not Use Navy. Washington.—The navy can not legally be used in enforcing prohibition, Attorney General Daugherty ruled. In addition, he decided, there is no national emergency in the situation calling for the employment of warships to make the dry laws effective.

Man Kills Himself. Ballinger, Texas.—T. S. Honeycutt, 40 years old, shot himself through the head with a pistol at his home at Wingate, Runnels County. He is survived by his wife and two children.

Identify Body of Youth. Marshall, Texas.—The body of the young man who killed himself here and who was identified as the youth who robbed the Bank of Mooringsport, Mooringsport, La., was declared to be that of Frank Erwin. His parents live near Bonham and asked that the body be sent to their city. The money stolen from the Bank of Mooringsport, $4,158.79, was found south of Waskom, Harrison County, by two negroes in two post holes.

SURVIVORS TELL HORRORS OF JAPAN

Exhausted Police Desert City and Leave Victims at Mercy of Ruthless Plunderers

Shanghai.—The liner Empress of Australia, which remained in the zone of the Japanese disaster for nine days before she took 200 foreign refugees to Kobe, was part of a scene in Yokohama harbor that might have illustrated a canto from Dante's inferno.

Passengers arriving in Shanghai on the Empress of Canada are describing the plight of the other liner.

A few hours after the first great earthquake, the Yokohama water front was a huge torch. Flaming oil and burning sampans had made the harbor a Dantean Sea of fire. The steamship, hovering preciously close to the wharves, her officers ashore rescuing foreigners, was surrounded by a narrowing circle of fire. So fierce was the heat that it was almost impossible for anyone to stay on deck. The uninjured passengers joined as best they could in fighting off the flames.

A tow line from a tug to the Empress of Australia had been cut when the first shock dropped the bottom of the harbor several feet, and the liner drifted—a plaything of cosmic forces. But the demon fates that overwhelmed Yokohama were kind to her, and she was towed out of danger, to return to the region of ruin when the fires had burned themselves out.

LeRoy Petty, formerly manager of a Shanghai hotel, and S. F. Murphy, Jr., representative in the Orient for a San Francisco manufacturer of scientific instruments, detail a primitive drama that accompanied the cataclysm of the elements. They say the officers and crew of the Empress of Australia, armed with revolvers, shot several Japanese looters who were attacking defenseless foreigners. Weapons were taken to the foreigners left ashore, that they might protect themselves.

Petty and Murphy add to the statements already made that foreigners were subjected to cruelty. The Empress of Australia, they relate, was saved from fire only by the coolness of her officers and by the assistance of the steamer Steel Navigator and a Swedish ship, which towed her to safer anchorage near the remains of a breakwater.

The two survivors said the Yokohama police, on duty continuously without water or food, finally became discouraged and deserted the city, leaving it at the mercy of a ruthless mob of crazed plunderers. All the bodies of foreigners salvaged from the wreckage, recalled Petty and Murphy, had fingers hacked off and ears torn where ghouls had stolen jewelry. When the Japanese naval squadron arrived in this city of dead the dying and the homeless was in chaos.

"I saw one foreigner shot in the back by a Japanese policeman," said Petty, "when the foreigner stooped to pull a body from the ruins. There were numerous similar cases and some instances where whole parties of foreigners were fired upon."

Petty was standing on the principal dock at the time of the first shocks. He estimated that 350 Japanese and fifty foreigners perished when the center of the deck collapsed, burying a crowd. He happened to be on a small concrete section which escaped.

Protest against delay in requiring oil companies in Texas to submit information regarding fire losses in connection with his application for increase in fire insurance rates on oil property was voiced before the state fire commission Saturday by T. M. Scott of Austin. The commission has set for hearing in January Scott's application, which asks reduction of rates on country property. Scott claims the commission has made no request for information for oil companies on the application.

First delay in carrying out execution orders came Friday when Governor Neff granted a respite for two men sentenced to pay the death penalty this month. The respites resulted from delay in installing the electric chair at the state penitentiary, where all persons sentenced to death will be electrocuted. The governor ordered postponement from September 29 to November 9 of the execution of Melvin Johnson of Liberty county, and from September 29 to November 9 that of Mack Matthews. Crimes for which the men were convicted were not disclosed.

The state railroad commission Tuesday at Austin, Texas, took testimony in the proposed revision of regulations which permit stopping of cars for partial loading and unloading of vegetables, fruits and melons. No decision was announced. Application of roads to restrict car rates on logs and wooden blocks to cars of less than 45,000 pounds was withdrawn.

The Washington county health unit, after working for three months exclusively in the city of Brenham, is now devoting its entire time to work in the rural districts. Talks on sanitation have been given at various points and the farmers are showing much interest. Many of the progressive farmers are planning to make improvements in sanitary arrangements at their homes, and plans are especially being made for digging sanitary wells. Literature is being distributed and a vigorous campaign is being waged for improved sanitary conditions on the farms.

Unless there is a real emergency, not as yet apparent, there will be no other special session of the 38th Legislature either this year or next, it was stated by a member of the legislature Saturday, following a conference with Governor Neff. This member stated that he discussed the matter with the governor and the latter declared that he hoped that there would be no necessity to again recall the lawmakers. This is taken to indicate that the present financial situation of the state is not of sufficient moment to justify calling another session of the legislature.

Accessories Are Important; Hat and Scarf Sets Stay

STYLES in clothes may come and go, making transitions from one extreme to another, but accessories of dress—the fans, combs, earrings, and jewels that tone up dress for women, and harmonize it with different backgrounds, seem to be less susceptible to change than other things. Novelties that appear in accessories are added to the store of feminine knickknacks that every woman appears to gather about her and cherishes whether their money value is great or small.

shall be, but fine white crystal and good strands of pearls are worn with everything. A number of novelty fabrics more or less furry and cozy looking have been brought out this fall; to be used in making the popular hat-and-scarf sets that appear to have come to stay. The familiar angora, chinchilla and astrakhan cloths are supplemented by these new weaves and give opportunity for much greater diversity in these matched sets. It will widen their sales. Many old designs have reappeared in modern jewelry and the effect they give is quaint and charming. This is particularly true of the combination of diamonds with jet, in brooches, chains and earrings, which has reappeared in rhinestone and onyx.

In accessories for less formal wear there is a fad for "tinkle bracelets" of thin glass made in all sorts of brilliant colors. Several of these are worn on the wrist at the same time and the faint music of their clashing gives them their name. A brand new idea in swapper sticks has recently come out. These sticks are made of a composition resembling celluloid and come in all colors. Generally they have tips and heads of gold or silver, or they may be finished with the same substance in a different color.

Head necklaces are still the most popular item in costume jewelry and just now topaz-colored glass beads appear to be in every woman's mind as more to be desired than any other. These red-brown tones harmonize with all the colors most fashionable in dresses and suits, and lighter tints ranging into amber, share their popularity. The color of the costume dictates what that of the neck-

IF EDITORS TOLD THE TRUTH?

A short time ago an editor of a paper in Indiana grew tired of being called a liar and announced that he would tell the truth in the future, and the next issue of the paper contained the following items:

The Rev. Sty preached last Sunday night on "Charity." The sermon was very punk.

Dave Canky died at his home here Tuesday. The doctor gave it out as heart failure. Whiskey killed him.

Married: Miss Sylva Binn and Mr. Jim Doe, last Saturday night at the Baptist parsonage, by the Rev. Gordon. The bride is a very ordinary town girl who doesn't know any more about cooking than a jack rabbit and never helped her mother three days in her life. She is not a beauty by any means and has a gait like a duck. The groom is an up-to-date loafer. He has been living off the old folks at home all his life and is not worth shucks. It will be a hard life.

Died: Aged 56. The deceased was a mild mannered pirate with a mouthful of whiskey. He came here in the night with another man's wife and joined the church the first chance. He owes us several dollars for the paper. He died singing, "Jesus Paid it all," and we think he was right; he never paid anything himself. He was buried in an asbestos casket and his friends threw palm leaf fans into his grave, as he may need them."

Will Alf Bell, cashier of the First National Bank dropped in this week and informed us that he had been to Marshall and Fort Worth the past week. On being asked why cotton was going up so fast, he informed us that cotton was actually a scarce article; that the crop was already picked or ready to pick in east Texas, and had a bluish tinge to it. He reported that some of the buyers down there were coming to the Plains to buy up enough white cotton to sell their blue color cotton.

$44,000,000 CASH IS RAISED BY BAPTISTS

FUND MAKES POSSIBLE LARGE ADVANCE IN MISSIONS, EDUCATION AND BENEVOLENCES

IMPROVE CHURCH FINANCES

Dr. O. E. Bryan Will Direct South-wide Effort to Put All Local Churches on a Budget Basis

Up to May 1, 1933, the Baptist churches of the South had paid in cash the sum of $44,000,000.70 on the 75 Million Campaign, the five-year program for extending the general missionary, educational and benevolent work of the denomination. It is announced by the general headquarters of that movement.

This sum was contributed by the various states of the Southern Baptist Convention as follows: Alabama, $1,890,687.35; Arkansas, $1,331,899.66;

DR. O. E. BRYAN

Budget and Stewardship Director for Southern Baptists

District of Columbia, $202,583.15; Florida, $732,213.96; Georgia, $4,015,698.93; Illinois, $329,087.87; Kentucky, $4,937,279.93; Louisiana, $1,144,398.79; Maryland, $556,589.25; Mississippi, $2,329,298.67; Missouri, $1,822,353.66; New Mexico, $217,828.33; North Carolina, $3,610,998.83; Oklahoma, $1,113,781.19; South Carolina, $3,516,853.19; Tennessee, $2,953,050.09; Texas, $6,468,098.42; Virginia, $4,923,235.34. Specials: Louisiana, $110,035.19; New Mexico, $419,739.18; Oklahoma, $59,000.00; Illinois, $191,175.11; Home Board Specials, $15,240.00; Foreign Board Specials, $38,103.00; raised by local churches on foreign fields and expended by them there, $1,003,390.63.

Large Results Achieved

These larger resources have made possible large advances in every department of work fostered by Southern Baptists. Indicating the growth in the homeland during the campaign period, it is announced that there has been a gain of 57 district associations, 881 active ministers, 2,064 local churches, 3,287 Sunday schools with 459,223 pupils, 8,688 Baptist Young People's Unions with 213,917 members, and 7,094 Women's Missionary Union organizations. During this time there have been 781,880 persons baptized into the local Baptist churches, $45,405,118 has been invested in local church property, and the increase in offerings to missions and benevolences has been more than $28,000,000 over the corresponding period preceding the Campaign.

Among the many gains on foreign mission fields are included 34,344 baptisms, 136 churches, 1,809 mission stations, 39 houses of worship, 33,469 members, 687 Sunday schools with 81,892 pupils, the sending out of 275 new American missionaries, the appointment of 1,029 native workers, entry into six new foreign countries and the large equipment for all forms of work on sixteen fields.

Workers of the Home Mission Board have baptized 173,492 persons during the Campaign period, have received 277,988 persons into the membership of the churches, enlisted 11,772 young persons in definite forms of Christian service, built or improved 1,871 church houses, organized 913 churches and 2,898 Sunday schools.

Stabilize Church Finances

To reach the original goal it will be necessary for Southern Baptists to raise $31,000,000 additional for the Campaign program by the end of that movement in 1934. In the hope of bringing the churches of the denomination to a better system of finances and the church members to a fuller realization of their obligation to support religious work the Campaign Commission has employed Dr. O. E. Bryan of Atlanta, superintendent of evangelism and enlistment of the Home Mission Board, as stewardship and church budget director.

Dr. Bryan has assumed his new duties and working through the various state offices and the agencies of the district associations he is seeking to bring the Baptist churches of the South to the adoption of a yearly budget for both their local work and the general missionary and benevolent interests of the denomination, the aim being to enlist every member of every church in weekly and monthly contributions to religious causes.

The outlook for an average cotton crop has stimulated considerable activity in building and other improvements in the village and adjacent territory. A man from Happy has under construction a dry goods establishment which is very much needed and we wish him success.

We also have a new restaurant and hamburger stand just opened and apparently doing a good business.

There were several land transfers the past week. Mr. Ellington sold a Mr. Preston a quarter north of the town and Robert Saylor a half section to J. L. Jones of Desdemonia. There are some others but the matter is not entirely closed.

The school board sat Tuesday to equalize the valuations of the property assessed and hear complaints, of which there seemed to have been a plenty. Tax paying on an extensive scale will, in the future remind most of us that we have built a school house. The work is progressing slowly and it will be mid-winter before the school can possibly commence.

It has been announced by circulars that Rev. B. W. Dodson, of Slaton will discuss in a series of sermons at the Methodist church the doctrines of that church. He is an able speaker and amply able to take care of his subject. Those interested in such discussions should hear him.

The Brownfield B.Y.P.U. rendered a program at the Baptist church on Sunday night. Our people were delighted with their efforts and look forward to another visit with great anticipation.
