THE LEGISLATIVE HISTORY OF THE COMMISSION

The following is a series of articles on "The Growth of Hostility Toward Railroads in Texas, are written by Walter Splawn, Railroad Commissioner of Texas.—Editor.

Article XIV.

As early as 1876 Governor Coke recommended that the Legislature examine the Railroad Commission of Massachusetts and in his message he commented favorably upon the work of that Commission. In the spring of 1882, Governor Roberts called the Legislature into special session and submitted the matter of regulating railroad transportation. A bill passed the House proposing the Commission with rate making powers. Another bill passed the Senate but both died in conference. In the winter of 1882, Governor Roberts again called attention to the need of a railroad commission. He emphasized the inability of private individuals to obtain redress from their grievances against railroad companies. A few days after this message Governor Roberts retired, and Governor Ireland succeeded him. The newly installed governor endorsed the recommendation of his predecessor and called for the creation of a commission. By this time there was a strong sentiment in the state in favor of a commission. Many bills were introduced proposing as many varieties of railroad commission. Through the efforts of the speaker of the House, a bill providing for a strong commission was defeated and a substitute adopted which provided for a State Engineer who should investigate the physical condition of the railroads. This substitute passed both houses and became a law.

This experiment was not satisfactory. The State Engineer felt the law did not clothe him with any power and after eighteen months he recommended that his office be abolished.

In 1885 Governor Ireland did not renew his request for a railroad commission but in 1887 the fight was renewed. By this time the administration was hostile to the commission idea. Still, a number of bills were introduced proposing a railroad commission. When the 31st Legislature convened in 1889, the prospects for passing a law providing for a railroad commission was much brighter. A bill creating a commission of the mandatory type was introduced and debated in both the House and the Senate. These debates were devoted chiefly to the constitutionality of the proposed law. Though a bill passed the House, some of the best lawyers in the Senate thought it advisable first to remove all question of the Legislature's right under the constitution to empower a commission to make rates. The Senate put aside the House bill and both houses by the two-thirds majority voted to submit to the people an amendment to the constitution which would empower the legislature to establish a commission with authority to fix rates.

James S. Hogg in 1890 opened his campaign for Governor by championing the amendment to the constitution. He identified himself with the Amendment. Winning the nomination for Governor, he was able to commit his party and to write into its platform a plank which recommended the adoption of the amendment, and pledged the party to the enactment of a law creating a commission with full power to make rates.

A REPORT OF THE TRIP TO BROWNWOOD

The Brownfield delegation to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention at Brownwood, accompanied by the band, pulled out of town promptly at 7 o'clock, Monday morning, May 12th, with banner and badges flying. The drive was made via Tahoka and Post.

We arrived at Snyder just before noon where Jim Lewis and his bunch had proceeded us with the "chuck wagon," and there we partook of a dandy luncheon, after which we filled the cars with oil and gas and proceeded to Sweetwater. After a short stay in that city, we turned south to Ballinger via Winters. On this route we saw a lot of fine country and also a lot of the roughest country it has ever been the lot of the writer to travel over. Soon after arriving at or rather leaving Ballinger, a rain caught us, or maybe we caught the rain, which stayed with us until we arrived at Coleman at about 9 P. M. for the first contingent, and about 11 when the last car came in. We found Coleman crowded with delegations from all over the South Plains, but they were looking for us, and within a few minutes after our arrival, all of us had been placed with good beds.

Next morning we hooked up and started for Brownwood, most of the way being over a good gravelled road and arrived in the later city about noon. We arrived at our headquarters soon after this and sent the chuck wagon out to our camping ground, which was located at the hot wells about four miles from the main part of the city. After looking over this we decided it was entirely too far out, so arrangements were made to use our headquarters as a sleeping place, and our chuck wagon moved close in.

In the meantime the band had jazzed up a few rounds after which we arranged our beds and supper. The boys were then released for the night with instructions to get ready for the delegation parade next morning.

Promptly at eight o'clock Wednesday morning we lined up and marched down to our place in the parade line, and while waiting for other delegations, we pulled off our "Turkey in the Straw" and "Hail! Hail! the Gang's all Here," much to the edification of the bystanders. The parade was a long one, and said to have been more than one hour passing a given point. Of course everyone was tired after the long walk, but in the afternoon the band came out and rendered a short concert, after which we shaped our clowns up, got our delegates and stunt pullers rigged up and started out to storm the city and did it. Our stunt was great and attracted much attention and we had a regular jam when the band halted. In the meantime, the boys who were not tooting 'em up, were passing out the literature, and boy! believe me, we passed 'er out, and she wasn't thrown away. About ninety out of every hundred people have the South Plains on the brain and say they are coming out as soon as possible.

After playing at our headquarters Thursday morning, we loaded up and started on our return home, taking a different route and coming via of Maytown and Cross Plains. At the latter place we rendered a concert and had our dinner, after which we drove into Abilene and camped at the Tourist Camp about two miles this side for the night. Early the next morning we started on our last lap of the home run, coming by way of the Bankhead Highway to Big Spring and Lamesa home.

It is estimated that there were at least 25,000 visitors at the convention and a large number of them were farmers, who it seemed, had taken advantage of the gathering to find out about the South Plains. At any rate we distributed several thousand pieces of literature in Brownwood and at the farm houses and small towns on our return. With the exception of Terry county, the roads are very good, although the roads to our east line averaged up with the worst of some of them, but there were no roads encountered anywhere nearly as bad as the one from Lou to Brownfield.

The delegation was one of the most pleasant the writer has ever had the pleasure of being out with, and we believe that the publicity given to our section will result in much future good.—By J. E. Shelton, Secretary, Brownfield Chamber of Commerce.

MEETING STARTS SUNDAY AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

The members and friends of the Church of Christ are making preparation for one of the greatest if not the greatest meeting in the history of the church to begin next Sunday, May 25th, at the church building.

The elders met at the church Monday night to consider arrangements and better lighting arrangements for the meeting.

A letter was received from the Evangelist, Claud McClung, Monday, advising the church to advertise to the limit, and stated that he was doing his part by writing letters to all the neighboring town churches requesting their attendance.

The church has secured in Elder McClung and Singer Tillit S. Teddlie, two of the best workers and preachers in Texas for this work, therefore they are expecting great things, but are not relying altogether on the Evangelist and Singer, but on their own prayers and personal work as well.

Everybody in reach of Brownfield, regardless of whether you believe like these folks, or whether you believe in a supreme being or not, are cordially urged to attend these series of meetings. Obliging ushers will meet you at the door and find a seat for you. The singers of the community are also specially invited to come and lend their voices in praise of the Maker under the leadership of one of Texas' sweet singers and composers.

We expect you.—Committee.

CORNER STONE LAID OF NEW TAHOKA METHODIST CHURCH

With simple but appropriate ceremonies, the corner stone of the new Methodist church, now in course of construction, was laid Sunday afternoon in the presence of most of the members of the church and many others who are not members, who were glad to see the splendid new structure nearing completion.

After the singing of a hymn and prayer, the Rev. J. Howell, pastor, enumerated and exhibited the articles, one by one, which it had been determined to place within the stone, as he did so, Rev. R. A. Clements, who is superintending the construction of the building, placed them within the receptacle.

Dr. J. W. Hunt, of Abilene, President of McMurray College, made the address of the occasion.—Tahoka

TERRY COUNTY SHOWS BIGGEST POLL TAX INCREASE

The poll tax receipts issued for the South Plains counties this year indicate the growth that is under way in that section. From a total of 21,707 for 1923 to 26,769 for 1924—or an increase of more than 23 percent within the past twelve months.

For Lubbock county this increase was from 4,162 to 5,495—or more than 500 lead in total poll tax receipts issued in any other county on the Plains, including Potter county with their total of 4,923. Terry county leads in percentage of increase with 63 per cent to her credit. Lynn comes second with an increase of from 1,732 to 2,658 or better than a 50 per cent increase.

Preliminary surveys and investigations show that the area of cultivated lands in these counties is more than keeping pace with the growth as recorded in the poll tax receipts. At least a 50 per cent increase in total acreage under cultivation is estimated over that of last season when 150,000 bales of cotton were ginned on the plains. When it is remembered that 1923 was a severe year on the crops on the Plains, starting with a dry winter for the year before, it is freely predicted that the yield for 1924 will, with average conditions for the rest of the year, exceed 225,000 bales.

Crop conditions were never more ideal over the entire South Plains country. Following a rainfall of more than 26 inches for 1923—a large part of which was during the late fall and winter months, there is a good season all over the plains. The past ten days has been damp and cool following two weeks of fair, warm weather—which put the ground into planting condition and every available cotton planter on the plains is running over time getting seed in the soil.

Past records show that cotton is one of the most drought resisting crops on the Plains. Instance after instance is cited of good yields from cotton acreage by the side of feed acreage that failed to produce, and with only a few showers through July and August—which from an average of 27 years record, are wet months of the Plains crop year, record breaking cotton crops are assured.—Amarillo Daily News.

CHILD KILLED BY HAIL STONES NEAR SPUR

Clairmont, Texas, May 13.—Hailstones killed a child of Mr. and Mrs. Curley, Monday, while she was returning from school, and severely injured two other children of the same family, who are in a precarious condition in a hospital at Spur.

The path of the storm was forty miles in length, according to last reports, and 16 miles wide in places. Much damage was done by hail and wind.

COCHRAN NOW THE BABY COUNTY

Cochran county, the last unorganized county in Texas, was organized with a boom, Tuesday, April 6th.

Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the Civil Court of Appeals, at Amarillo, restrained the application for injunction against the election, and the decision was immediately telegraphed to Morton J. Smith, who immediately got busy.

The citizens of Cochran were notified by special runners, and Sheriff Stroud of Hockley county rushed the ballot boxes across the line, and when the sun arose next morning everything was ready for the big decision.

There were 101 votes cast, Morton winning the county seat over Ligon by a 4 to 1 vote. The first set of officers were elected as follows: L. J. Campbell, county judge; T. B. Penny, sheriff and tax-collector; Mrs. J. J. Jones, Treasurer; R. H. McCaslin, clerk; Lee Cooper, assessor; G. H. Mathews, D. P. Earnest, H. Boyd, and Lem Shipman commissioners of precincts numbers 1, 2, 3, and 4 respectively.

As soon as the election returns were all in, automobiles were in waiting, and the elected officers left about midnight for Levelland where they were duly sworn in by County Judge J. H. Doyle, and held their first meeting, plans being considered for a court house.—Hockley County News.

TWO FIERCE STORMS VISIT JAYTON VICINITY

About 4 o'clock Monday afternoon the worst hail, rain and wind storm this part of the country has experienced for many years, passed over this part of the country, the wind driven hail sweeping everything before it in the way of crops, gardens and fruit. The hail was so fiercely driven by the wind that the hailstones were almost like bullets, in many instances breaking window glass, regardless of screens. The wind was almost of cyclonic nature and so heavy was the rain and hail that it was almost as dark as night. The hail did great damage, and the wind blew a school house off the foundation and turned it half around near Jayton, as well as doing some damage in town. The hail drifted several feet deep in places.

On Tuesday evening about 7 o'clock another storm even more severe passed over the Jayton section, Hail as big as baseballs fell. Many houses will have to be re-roofed. No one that we heard of was caught in the storm.

As the storm passed away fire was discovered in the high school building. The alarm was given and about half the population turned out but it and the furniture was a total loss. It was thought it was set on fire by lightning.—Jayton News.

TWO MORE TERRY COUNTY BOYS TO GO TO CAMP

Fort Sam Houston, Texas.—The application of Will Collins Brown, Jr., of Brownfield, Texas, has been approved by the Commanding General, Eighth Army Area, for admittance to the Citizens' Military Training Camp to be held at Fort Sill, Okla., during the month of August.

All his expenses will be paid by the Government. Mn. Brown is a student of the Gomez high school.

The application of Cleburn Douglas Karr, of Gomez, has also been approved.

Over 800 application have already been approved for the Fort Sill camp and young men of Terry county desiring to apply should get in touch with Mr. Jim Miller, of Brownfield, County Chairman of the Military Training Camps Association of the United States, or write the C.M.T.C. Officer, Fort Sam Houston.

The Commanding General desires to give every young man a chance to attend, but as the number to be trained is limited and the enthusiasm is great, prompt action is necessary to insure a place being reserved.

SEVERE HAIL STORM VISITS MCCAULEY

A severe hail storm struck McCauley, on the east line of the county, Tuesday night and unroofed practically every house in town and the houses all along the path of the storm. It was reported that hailstones as large as a man's head fell, but this is taken as a slight exaggeration.

Wednesday morning McCauley sent out a call for carpenters to come and help repair the damage, and assistants from nearby towns responded promptly.—Rotan Advance.

Good Will

All business has a soul, as well as a body. The body is factory, store or bank, the machinery is goods or fixtures and organization therein. The Soul is the Stamp on the Public Mind.

When that Stamp is impressed by the desire to serve, by faith in the merit of the cause—by courteous, square dealing and a sincere, conscientious purpose to be helpful—the reaction is Good Will.

In the columns of our assets, we are pleased to count the Good Will of our patrons and friends among the most valuable. We cordially solicit and heartily appreciate your business.

TANNING HIDES

Extension Specialist in Sheep Husbandry, Extension Service A. & M. College of Texas.

The methods which are suggested in this article for tanning various kinds of hides can be very easily and successfully followed by anyone who has a few hides he wishes to tan himself. The writer has seen a great many hides tanned as outlined below and has tanned a few small hides personally, with good success.

Hides for robes and rugs of any kind—Salt the green hides heavily on the flesh side. Fold the flesh sides together and roll them. Leave hides for a week, then soak in water until soft. Clean and flesh. By "fleshing" is meant the process of removing all the flesh and inner membrane which adheres to the hide proper. This should be done by spreading the hide over a barrel or some similar device and scraping it with a dull knife or whatever tool is most convenient. In case of a sheep or a goat skin, the wool or mohair should be cleaned in a fairly solution of soap and sal-soda before the process is continued further. After cleaning and fleshing, the skin is tanned in the following solution: Take the liquor drawn from three pounds of scalded bran, add one gallon of soft water, one pound of alum, one-fourth pound of salt, three tablespoonsful of borax. Make in these proportions, sufficient solution to cover the hides. It is necessary to tan light hides about two weeks, and heavy hides about 4 weeks in this solution. It is advisable to work the hides more or less as they dry in order that the robe may be soft and pliable. In case the hide was not salted for a week as previously outlined, the salt added to the tanning solution should be doubled.

Hides for lace leather—Remove the hair as follows: Cover the hides with water, then add lime until the water feels slick to the fingers. Two days or about, soaking in this solution will loosen the hair sufficiently to scrape off. Scrape, clean and flesh both sides. Rinse in fresh water and soak for about two days, in one gallon of bran boiled and fermented with sufficient water added to cover the hide. Clean and rinse the hide and tan in same manner as outlined for robes and rugs. After the hide has been tanned, rinse and drain. While still damp, rub on all the Neat's foot oil the hide will take, work the skin as it dries, to shape and soften.

For heavy leather—Treat practically the same as for lace leather until tanned. After tanning put fish oil on the hair side of the skin, and half and half Neat's foot oil and tallow. Hang hide up straight for drying. In case leather gets too dry and stiff, redampen, roll tightly, packing in a box or barrel for a few days to season. It may be well to add more oil after dampening.

NO RELIGIOUS HATRED—BUT!

Mr. Arthur Brisbane in the Washington Herald of May 3rd, says that in New York there is no prejudice against Governor Al Smith because of his religion, and continues: "The return of Cardinal Hayes from Rome with his honors lately bestowed, was made the occasion of a striking demonstration as has been seen in New York City for years. Traffic was shut off from Fifth Avenue as the Cardinal proceeded to the cathedral, attired in his robes magnificent, wearing the red hat of his rank as a prince of the church. On his arrival, Governor Al Smith, chief official of New York State, greeted him, respectfully kissing the emerald ring worn upon his finger."

As Mr. Brisbane says, religious hatred or prejudice is hateful in a republic. There is very little such feeling in the United States. Leading Catholics, great men like Chief Justice White, have held office with the affectionate approval of their fellow citizens—but this country has mighty little use for foot lickers or hand kissers and particularly little use for them in public office. Presumably, if Governor Al Smith becomes president he will take his orders where he bends his knees.

Princes are welcome in the United States as visitors, but not as rulers, and men who kiss their hands will have a hard time convincing a majority of the United States that they are real Americans.—Ex.

HARRIS HAPPENINGS

By Sand Bar.

Friday evening and night E. H. Tandy and wife entertained a number of their friends and neighbors, young and old in honor of the birthday of their youngest daughter, Gorda, who attained the age of 8 years that day. The dinner table groaned under its weight of good things to eat, which disappeared at an amazing rate at certain fixed hours. The children made the welkin ring with laughter and song, after which the Harris String band entertained the company until a late hour. It is entertainments such as these that make children look back upon their childhood as the oasis in the desert of life, and parents who habitually deny their children such harmless pleasures are committing a grievous mistake which in after years they are going to regret, if they ever stop long enough to think about it. Charley Jones was a business visitor to Brownfield, this week. Friday night our school closed with a well chosen and rendered program. A stage was built in front of the school house, and while it was rather cool for the performers as well as for the audience, the program was enjoyed by all. The main feature was a dialogue entitled: "The Burglar," in which Vivian Clare as "Toby" a colored man, "took" the cake. Two prizes were given in spelling. The first one, a fountain pen, went to Eileen Ellington, who had the most perfect lessons throughout the year. The second, a dictionary, went to Freda Tandy. There were three prizes given in Bible questions. The first one went to Eileen Ellington; second to Winnie Clare and third to Coy Maroney. Eileen Ellington and Winnie Clare were the only ones in school who did not miss a day. We can safely say our school this year was a success in every way despite the fact that we were badly crowded. Our teacher, Miss Marie Taylor changed her name about a month before school closed, and we can say that if she guides her husband's footsteps along the matrimonial highway as well as she guided the footsteps of our children in the paths of knowledge, wisdom and fair play, he will be a fortunate man. Miss Nora Lee Tandy spent Tuesday night with Miss Jaunita Murphy. Mesdames Murphy and Ellington and children, visited Mrs. E. H. Tandy, Tuesday afternoon. S. T. Murphey and family visited his brother, Dewey and family, at Johnson, Sunday. M. W. Ellington, from Meadow, delivered a bunch of cattle to P. M. Williams, Monday. The matrimonial bee seems to be quite busy in the Liberty community. Sunday, E. H. Tandy and family visited little Miss Lucia Omega Fitzgerald, who came to make her home with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fitzgerald, on the 9th. Mr. Hargus and family of Brownfield, visited the Maroney family on last Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cheek entertained the String Band and its devotees Saturday evening in honor of Mr. Tandy and family who are leaving us soon for a trip to the Rio Grande valley, where they will spend the summer and possibly locate there. They will visit Mr. and Mrs. Christman and family, who lived here at one time. Mrs. M. Taylor and some of the children went to Lubbock, Wed. Miss Freda Tandy spent Tuesday night with Miss Eileen Ellington. Miss Vivian Maroney is on the sick list this week. Mr. Dee Elliott, of Ardmore, Okla., has opened a nice barber shop on the west side of the square in the Klan building, and is soliciting your work through the columns of the Herald. This makes four barber shops in the city but they are all seemingly busy. We call your attention to the ad of Ashworth & Knight in this issue of the Herald. They are progressive hardware and grocery men from the city of Breckenridge, and are located in the Barrier building. Go in and get acquainted with these splendid folks. Mr. Alfred Yancy and Miss Jessie Garrison, popular young people of this county, drove to the home of Elder A. L. Burnett, at Wellman, at 9 o'clock last Sunday morning and were immediately united in marriage witness by a few special friends. The happy young couple will make their home in Brownfield. J. A. Morton and daughter, Mrs. A. L. Chance, father and sister of R. W. Headstream, and Mrs. Otha Parker, sister of Mrs. Headstream, are here from Roby visiting Mr. and Mrs. Headstream. Houston Shepherd and family have moved from Plainview to Olton lately, and are now here on a visit, and informed us that they would soon return to Terry. Oldest Hospital Bellevue hospital in New York city is probably the oldest hospital in the United States. Many Kinds of Animals Swept Up From Streets

New York.—If all the things the sanitary bureau of the department of health gathered from the streets of New York city in 1922, according to belated reports for that year, were in good working order and assembled in one place there would be the nucleus for a good menagerie. The report shows that the bureau dragged up the bodies of one lion, one bear, one alligator, two camels, three elephants, one deer, 5,897 horses, 298 cattle, 16 ponies, 11 colts, 8 mules, 4 donkeys, 254,803 cats, 4,538 dogs, 741 calves, 375 sheep, 345 goats, 45 hogs and 3 seals. The report does not say where the seals, the alligator, the camels, the elephants, the lion and the bear came from. In fact the report has it that the bureau is as surprised as anybody.

Girl Dresses Doll in Lost Bonds Worth $40,000

Chicago.—Eileen Berry, eight years old, playing along the street near her home, discovered in the snow an envelope containing several papers with gold edges. "What have you there, Eileen?" asked her father, the next evening, as he noticed her marking out plans on the papers. "Just some pretty paper to make dresses for my dollies," she said as she held up one of the papers. Mr. Berry investigated and was struck speechless. The "pretty papers" were gold bonds, worth $40,000, all negotiable, with $900 interest coupons attached. Inquiry at the bank disclosed they had been lost by A. G. Becker, head of an investment company bearing his name, and he gave Eileen $100 wherewith to buy less expensive material for her doll dresses.

Dog Bites Cost $70,000

Jersey City, N. J.—It cost Hudson county $70,000 to treat 900 persons who were bitten by dogs there last year, according to statements by Dr. John Von Der Leith, a veterinary surgeon, before the annual convention of the Veterinary Medical Association of New Jersey in Jersey City recently. Each person bitten had to undergo the Pasteur treatment, which costs the county $75.

NITROGEN SUPPLY IS NOW ASSURED

Fostering of Infant Industry Necessary to Maintain Soil Fertility.

Washington.—Effective action of the federal government in five years has "brought America from ignorance to prominence in the nitrogen fixation industry." Dr. Harrison K. Howe, editor of the official journal of the American Chemical Society, declares in a plea for further development in the interest of the farmer and national preparedness. He asserts that the plan at Muscle Shoals is an entire success from the technical standpoint. The fixed nitrogen research laboratory at Washington has been a powerful stimulus to both large and small scale operations. It is imperative, he says, that government activity continue because Muscle Shoals constitutes only one part of the nitrogen problem. Few people recognize the far-sightedness of congress in assuring an adequate national supply of nitrogen, according to Doctor Howe, who adds: "Nitrogen is necessary to maintain the fertility of the soil. In many sections of the country crops are depleting the soil of its nitrogen, and this is not being replaced. In time of war nitrogen is an absolute necessity in the manufacture of explosives. There are three sources from which nitrogen is obtained—the natural deposits of nitrates in Chile, by-products of coke ovens, and the air. An Infant Industry. The industry which is based upon the recovery of nitrogen from the air is an infant industry in the United States. The domestic demand for nitrogen materials cannot be met by the by-product of our coke ovens. The supply from this source has remained almost constant over a period of years in spite of an increasing demand for nitrogen fertilizers. At the present time we are importing more than half the nitrogen we use from far-away Chile, and obtaining less than 2 per cent from the air which is immediately around us. "Due to the national importance of an adequate supply of nitrogen, the responsibility for fostering the infant air nitrogen industry has rested with the government. What has the government done toward meeting this responsibility?" "First, congress passed the National Defense act in 1916 authorizing the President to make such investigation as he deemed necessary to determine the best, cheapest and most available means of producing nitrates. On the basis of the information thus obtained the government built the nitrate plants at Muscle Shoals and Sheffield, Ala. The fixed nitrogen research laboratory now of the Department of Agriculture was established at Washington, D. C., to determine the possible peace-time utilization of the product from the Muscle Shoals plant in case it were operated; to supply such technical information as would assure a successful operation of the Sheffield plant, which information was not available at the time of its construction; to study new methods of nitrogen fixation with the aim of reducing the cost of nitrogen in fertilizers; to supply the newly developed nitrogen industry in the United States with the information which could be obtained only by intensive research and involving financial consideration beyond the scope of individual concerns.

Commission Appointed.

A commission was appointed through the Department of Commerce in 1923 to ascertain the present economic situation in the nitrogen industry. Congress is considering the peace-time utilization of the Muscle Shoals properties, as is evidenced by its recent debates and subsequent discussions. "The results of these activities of the government have been effective and far-reaching. In the brief time of five years America has emerged from a state of total ignorance of many of the more important features of the nitrogen fixation industry to a position of prominence among those nations which have been fostering the air nitrogen industry for a much longer period. While it is true that we have no large production at the present time, yet in case of emergency the country can now proceed with confidence to erect large plants which would have an enormous output. "The plant at Muscle Shoals proves to be an entire success from the technical standpoint. It has, during a six weeks' test, produced fixed nitrogen from the air in the amount for which it was designed and could resume equally satisfactory operations at any time. While it is true that the total capacity is 40,000 tons of nitrogen per year, this output is but a small fraction of the nitrogen consumed yearly in this country. "A further source of fixed nitrogen is in sight from the numerous smaller private plants which are being planned or are actually under construction. These enterprises are securing co-operation and valuable technical information and advice from the fixed nitrogen research laboratory, which is an important activity in the government's nitrogen program.

Consistent Work.

"The laboratory's staff of experts, which has been working consistently and with marked success for a period of four years, has placed America in the forefront in the matter of technical and practical knowledge concerning atmospheric nitrogen fixation. Not only have improvements on the common

NEW ANTISEPTIC TO PROTECT SURGEONS

Doctor Who Faced Death Has Remarkable Recovery.

Baltimore, Md.—Septic poisoning, long considered the most terrible personal enemy physicians encounter, is being successfully combated by a new antiseptic developed at Johns Hopkins hospital here. Although the experiments at the Brady Urological Institute have covered a period of five years and have been successful in many instances in the last year, the new treatment has become known to the public only through the remarkable recovery of Dr. Carl V. Vischer of Philadelphia. Dr. Vischer, a surgeon at the Hahnemann hospital, suffered a needle prick while performing an operation at the hospital last summer. He contracted septic poisoning, and though his most skilled associates undertook the treatment of his case, it was believed he had a very small chance of surviving. In the months that followed, he fought a steadily losing battle with death. The tip of the finger was sacrificed, but the deadly poison continued to creep through his veins, scarring his hand with deep marks. Doctors Still Experimenting. As a last resort his physicians, Dr. Edmund B. Piper and Dr. John Dean Elliott, used mercurochrome in a solution of sufficient strength to set on the staphylococcal germs which caused the infection. Now, entirely recovered, Dr. Vischer has returned to his home with only scars to show for his desperate fight against death.

"Hello, Sweetheart" Cost This Landlord $15,000

New York.—When Harris Beckman, her landlord, called "Hello, sweetheart!" to Mrs. Bertha Goodman, of 152 Boerum street, Brooklyn, Mrs. Goodman was so surprised, she alleged, that she tripped over a broken stair rod and fell down the stairs. Mrs. Goodman was in the hospital for six months. A sealed verdict returned by a Supreme court jury gave Mrs. Goodman $15,000 and her husband $1,000 damages against Beckman.

While the city might need a little money they would get out of them, on the other hand they carry away $100 to every one they leave, and make citizens, or many of them less able to pay their taxes. The Herald don't care what organization they come under auspices of, we believe the city will take care of that organization if it is worth of its citizen's care.

TORNADO SEASON NOW UPON US

MANAGER BAXTER OF RED CROSS
POINTS TO THE NEED FOR READINESS FOR ACTION.

Head of Southwestern Division Shows
How Active Organization Can Take Care of Emergency Needs.

Residents of the section embraced in the states of Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas have realized in the last few weeks that the great public welfare organization, the American Red Cross, has a very real reason for being in peace time. The realization has been brought to the public through the results of the tornadoes in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas of March 28th and 29th, when many lives were lost, many persons were injured, and great property damage occurred. As soon as the storm had spent some of its fury, members of Red Cross chapters in the devastated territory were at work organizing relief corps to assist the injured in obtaining the necessary medical attention and to provide shelter and food for those whom the storm had rendered temporarily homeless. The headquarters of the Southwestern Division, which embraces the states mentioned, at St. Louis, sent the assistant manager of the division to consult with the local Red Cross workers and assist in the relief work in every possible way, and the Red Cross national headquarters in Washington allotted funds and rushed money through to take care of the emergency needs.

The same thing happened at about the same time at Defiance, Ohio, following two cyclones; in McCracken County, Ky., and at Welch, W. Va., where a serious mine explosion occurred and many lives were lost. Along the flooded Potomac River, Red Cross chapters also took charge of relief work and rehabilitation, and wherever this storm was felt the Red Cross was on the ground within a very short time after the need for help arose.

Ready for Emergencies.

"This answers the question of the need for a Red Cross organization in peace time," declared Wm. M. Baxter, Jr., manager of the Southwestern Division, when asked how it was that the organization could function so quickly and efficiently in an unexpected need for its service at such widely separated points at the same time. "It is because the machinery is in active operation all the time and the trained personnel know what to do and how to do it, even when the call comes without warning. If an organization had to be built up each time an emergency arose, much time would be lost and the work would be inadequate and inefficient, at least at the start.

"While the Red Cross was primarily a war relief organization," said Baxter, "it has been found to be the most efficient public welfare agency ever organized in the United States.

"The people of the United States knew of the Red Cross during the Spanish-American War and promptly forgot it. Then came the world war, with its apparently overwhelming needs, and the Red Cross became a dominant factor for war relief and for civilian relief at home.

"Every American was a member of the Red Cross at that time. Everyone wanted to help the Red Cross. When the war ended there still was much to do in the way of rehabilitating the ex-service men and in helping in the hospitals where disabled soldiers were recovering or dying. That need still exists, but is becoming less pressing as time goes on, and the Red Cross once more is a peace-time organization in the service of those who suffer, whether from disaster, epidemic or other emergency, or because of every-day conditions surrounding them.

When Readiness Counts.

"It would have been found impossible to collect the $11,000,000 for the relief of the victims of the Japanese earthquake last fall if the Red Cross had not been an active, functioning organization. It would have been equally impossible to take care of the terrible conditions in property loss and the injury to life and limb resulting from the great tidal wave on the coast of Texas in 1919 and the floods in Colorado, the following year. Two years ago the Mississippi River and its tributaries were on a rampage and destroyed hundreds of thousands of acres of crops, rendering penniless, as well as homeless, millions of people. The entire Middle West was stricken by a great calamity.

"The Red Cross was on the job at once and its various chapters started work, sending food and clothing to the homeless, providing shelter where all had been destroyed, and establishing loan funds for replanting the destroyed crops and for setting up in business the merchants, and manufacturers whose entire property had been swept away by the flood.

"This again could not possibly have been done as well nor as quickly if the Red Cross had been a dormant organization with no active chapters to be ready to do, or to know how, and what to do, at the moment of need.

"The disaster question is only one of the many which the Red Cross has to solve.

"This organization endeavors at all times to live up to its international motto: 'I Serve.'

U. S. Mine Death Rate Triple That of Britain

Washington.—Coal miners are being killed three times as fast in the United States as in Great Britain. Royal S. Meeker, secretary of the Pennsylvania department of labor and industry, told the annual session of the American Association for Labor Legislation recently. Both the fatality and the general accident rate among Pennsylvania miners have increased in spite of safety measures, he said.

Van A. Rittner of the United Mine Workers of America suggested that conservation of the coal supply and of human life could be directed only through a federal Department of Mines. He also advocated a federal safety council, composed of miners, coal operators and government representatives, to compel the installation of safety devices in mines.

"Always a Good Show---Sometimes Great"

A wire has been received from Mf. Kennington of New Boston, stating that he will ship the gin machinery for the Loop gin on May 18th.—Seagraves Progress.

Curley Gamble and M. Y. Bennett made a business trip to Lubbock on Tuesday.

A. C. Whisenant and son, Kermit, are wrecking the old Herald building this week. A five room stucco will be constructed, using the material in it for the editor, just north of his residence to be used as a rent house. Misses Lera Welch and Nellie Flache are visiting friends in Tahoka this week.

Albert Curry and brother were in Brownfield last Sunday visiting their friends. They paid the editor a short call while over.

John B. King informed us recently that his father, J. B. would return from California some time this summer, or at the same time that John's wife returns, we suppose.

Cashier E. C. Roberts and wife, of Seagraves, were the guests of his aunt, Mrs. Stricklin, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Bob McKinley, of Coahoma, who have been visiting her brother, E. C. Roberts and wife at Seagraves for the past two weeks, left here Sunday for their home after a two day stay with Mrs. McKinley's aunt, Mrs. Stricklin.

Mr. J. L. Randal is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Percy Spencer, at Lubbock this week.

We understand that M. Y. Bennett has let the contract to Curley Gamble for a 28x40 stucco bungalow of the very latest pattern.

A LARGE CROWD SAW "MIGHTY LAK' A ROSE"

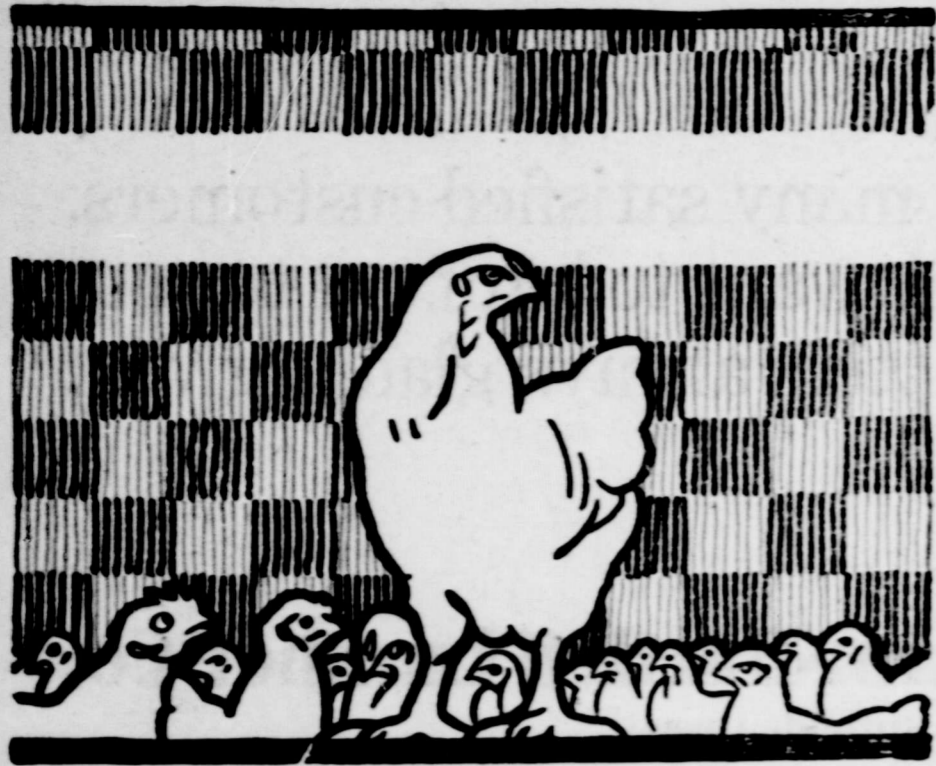

What we consider one of the best and most elevating pictures ever thrown on the screen in this city, was seen Tuesday and Wednesday nights of this week at the Pastime Theatre to good houses.

The writer does not believe that anyone could possibly be other than benefited by seeing this play. The heroine, a blind girl and an accomplished villainist, goes into the "murder alley" slums of New York, and, by, except by watching the pictures, they certainly did splendidly.

Joseph Bailey, employee of the Herald and his uncle, Walter, went to Slaton Wednesday to see his sister who stopped there for a day or two to visit relatives. His sister was a teacher this year in the Carlbad, New Mexico schools, and was on her way to her home in Brownwood.

Special music was furnished for the occasion by Misses Rainwater, violinist, and King, piano, and while these young ladies had no cue to go

Now is the time to care for the baby chicks, start them right by feeding them the proper feeds. We recommend STARTINA which is a buttermilk feed and should be fed six weeks with the Baby Chick Chow. CHILDREN ARE LEARNING WHAT THEY SHOULD EAT

CLASSES IN AMERICAN SCHOOLS AID IN IMPROVING JUVENILE HEALTH.

Red Cross Instructing Mothers and Teachers as Well as Pupils in Fight Against Malnutrition.

Actual tangible results in the way of improved health due to instruction in proper food and general health habits are being shown in two Red Cross Nutrition "Health Builders" classes in the St. Joseph, Mo., schools. These classes are composed of children not actually in the school, but who come to the school to get milk, and of others who are in the kindergarten. Practically every time the class meets new children join. One of the classes is composed of children six to eight years of age, the other of children eight to twelve years. Each "Health Builder" class lasts for an hour and is held once each week after school hours. The children are so interested in their work that they have to be almost driven home when the closing time comes.

The Red Cross nutrition work, which is part of the general health campaign being carried on by the American Red Cross in schools all over the United States, is planned as a special effort to correct the great percentage of malnutrition among American children. According to health experts and social workers, it has been found that one-third of the children of America are undernourished. This malnutrition comes as often from the wrong kind of food as from insufficient food, and, therefore, is as prevalent among children of the rich as among the children in the poorer classes. Nutrition classes, which are under the Red Cross supervision, teach the mothers of the children, as well as the children themselves, the nutrition value of certain articles of food and endeavor to induce the children to eat the right rather than the wrong kind of food.

A set of health rules, known as the "Health Creed," has been formulated and is in the way of a contest with charts and record cards which the children keep up and post each week on their schoolroom walls. This keeps them alive to the plan and has been very effective in reducing the percentage of malnutrition.

At each meeting of a nutrition class the children are weighed and a record is kept on the growth chart, so as to see how much each child has gained during the week. The child who makes the greatest gain during the week has a special star. Other stars also are given for other achievements. A gold star is won by drinking three glasses of milk every day. A blue star, by sleeping with the windows open every night. A silver star is the reward for not drinking tea or coffee, and a red star for brushing the teeth three times a day.

About 15 minutes of instruction regarding health and food precedes health games, songs and plays at every class session. The children are given lessons in health building in an indirect way, so that it actually becomes a game and, therefore, impresses itself more strongly on their imagination.

In the nutrition classes for mothers more advanced instruction in food values and general health is given, and the mothers are urged to study the question of proper foods for children of all ages. Mothers always seem greatly interested in these sessions and attend the classes regularly. This is especially true in cases where classes were conducted for farmers' wives and women in rural communities, all seeming to welcome the opportunity of learning the scientific side of the diet question.

The Red Cross maintains nutrition workers who go from chapter to chapter, establishing classes and following up certain lines of instruction which afterwards are carried forward by the teachers of the schools and the mothers of the children. At the end of a definite period—six months or a year—the nutrition workers return and check up on the results. In practically every case improvement in the health of the children, as well as in the general condition of the community health, is found.

Among the natives of South Africa there is a general belief in the split soul. One tribe believes in three souls—one in the head, another in the stomach and a third in the big toe.

DIED

Mrs. Mollie A. Lewis, 53, died at the family residence at 12:15 A.M. Wednesday, after a lingering illness of several weeks.

Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. P. Watson of the Methodist church Wednesday at 12 noon, and the body was carried to Tahoka where interment was had by the side of her husband, who preceded her to the great beyond two or three years ago.

Deceased was a good woman and neighborly, and her good influence will be missed by the community and town. She was survived by about 6 children, two of whom, Earnest and Tract live here.

LOYALTY IS MOST IMPORTANT WORD

Wins First Place in Lists of Six Supplied by Savants.

Princeton.—That "loyalty" is the most important word in the English language today is the consensus of a representative group of Princeton professors, a noted Egyptologist and the university proctor here. The question was raised in a discussion in a pre-ctorial meeting, and to settle the discussion Prof. Christian Gauss, director of public relations, recently made inquiry among eight professors, Proctor Bovie and Dr. David Paton, the Egyptologist.

President Hibben when asked for a list of six most important words in the language placed "loyalty" second only to "duty." Dean West of the Graduate college, foremost American educator, and Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, director of the department of physical education, both ranked "loyalty" first, an intellectual and a physical authority thus being at one in this choice. Three other men placed "loyalty" either first or second in their six word lists—Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth, professor of English literature and rowing coach; David Paton, Egyptologist, and Proctor Henry Bovie.

Courage Next to Loyalty.

"Courage" followed "loyalty" with four selections. Here again Dean West and Doctor Raycroft were at one in their choice. Prof. Duane Reed Stuart of the classics department also chose this word as did Dr. Stewart Paton, brother of the Egyptologist and noted neurobiologist. Doctor Paton created quite a stir recently when he predicted that intercollegiate football must some day be abolished because of its commercialism, but he attributed great virtue to the game as a means of attaining sportsmanship and courage.

Although his chief interest is in education, Dean West placed "knowledge" after "loyalty" and "magnanimity." Dr. Henry van Dyke, formerly professor of English literature at Princeton, chose common every day words such as "yes" and "no," "the" and "a." David Paton concluded his list with "a catholic sense of humor" without which he said any man is certain to take himself too seriously. The complete word lists chosen follow:

Complete Lists of Words.

President Hibben, duty, loyalty, honor, self-control, service, sacrifice.

Dean West, loyalty, magnanimity, knowledge, energy, courage, humor.

Dr. van Dyke, a, the, is, no, yes, do.

Prof. Edwin G. Conklin, head of the department of biology, sincerity, sanity, humanity, love, truth, beauty.

Doctor Raycroft, loyalty, courage, persistence, self-respect, sportsmanship, tolerance.

Professor Stuart, sensitiveness, restraint, sportsmanship, courage, self-knowledge, altruism.

Doctor Spaeth, liberty, loyalty, sympathy, justice, intelligence, character.

Dr. David Paton, loyalty (for friendship's sake), charity (for charity's sake), work (for work's sake), sport (for sport's sake), a catholic sense of humor.

Dr. Stewart Paton, truth, courage, perseverance, health, family, friends.

Proctor Bovie, religion, loyalty, honesty, fairness, work, recreation.

Lonesomeness

Lonesomeness is something every man feels at times, but it is like pulling teeth to get him to confess it.
