TEXAS EDITORS

The editors of Texas are coming on the College Campus this week. The Prairie wishes to add its word of welcome to the general greeting of the institution.

The Prairie is a weekly student newspaper—written and directed by students who are doing standard class work. It belongs to the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association and attempts to follow the principles of the journalistic profession to which most of its staff aspire.

Scores of professions and organizations are entertained on the College campus every year. T. P. A. now comes for its first time. The Prairie therefore takes a peculiar pleasure in welcoming the gentlemen of the press—men of its own profession.

No association could send to the Plains a body of bigger, more influential, or more truly progressive citizens. The two editors is almost without exception, an unselfish, hard-working booster for his community. He gives more and often receives less than any other man in town.

But he never grows about it. He is an optimist. He attracts people to his home town and tries to make them useful, contented citizens. He sits on the school board, the city commission and other non-salary jobs; gives free publicity to worthy organizations and urges public improvements.

Yes, the editors are turning over their plants to the devil and linotype men and are coming up on the prairie, the rugged canyons and the fields of ripening grain. They will be received by true western hospitality in "The Queen City of the Plains. After tramping over the scenery in the canyons, the delegates will come to Canyon, "The Educational Home of the Bushandle-Plains region." The Prairie trusts they will on Thursday afternoon make this institution "The Home of Texas Editors."—Canyon Journal Prairie.

OLD TIMERS PULL A DOUBLE HEADER

Even the old timers with all their supposed old foggyism, like to have a change in their entertainments. So one day last week an unusually large number drove out to Uncle Bill Howard's on the occasion of his 82 birthday, and showered him several hours with their babel like chatter, fun and games, and this old sport came back at 'em with an oversized tab full of country ham sandwiches, and grape juice, and to make the occasion real "old-timey" nature furnished us with a 35 minute 100 per cent sandstorm, followed by a cloud that gave the usual maximum thunder and minimum rain. Uncle Bill is one of the oldest settlers in the county; has been enterprising, and his services to the county was memorialized by a gift from the bunch of a beautiful large lamp. Every one esteems Uncle Bill most highly, and appreciate his ripe old age. There were present the Prices, Cardwells, Gracys, Tiernans, Nellis, Brakeys and a yard full of Howard, Lewis, McPhersons, Hamiltons, Bingham, Hymans, Welch and other friends and neighbors.

Last Monday night being the regular time, Cap and Vaide entertained at Vaide's home, where attended practically all the old guard, with the usual round of merry games, winding up with a candy studded cake and lemonade, a welcome desert on these hot nights. After which they entered into a semi-organization by electing Sallie R. president, and Vaide, Annie and Cap a committee to arrange and designate meeting places for the next six months; this to get a little better regularity. It is expected that we will pull some extra stunts this summer, interesting and enjoyable, and those desiring to get what's coming to them, will inquire of the above named officers.

PLAINS JOURNAL CHANGES HANDS JULY 1ST

Lubbock June 23.—Lindsay Nunn of Amarillo, and Houston Hart, of Abilene, spent Saturday in Lubbock, looking after business. They announced that they had contracted for the purchase of the Plains Journal, transfer to be made on July 1st.

Mr. Nunn stated Saturday that the paper would be continued as a weekly publication.

Dorance Roderick and Curtis A. Keen, the present owners of the Journal, have not yet made any announcements concerning their future plans.

EDITOR ENJOYS T. P. A. AT AMARILLO LAST WEEK

Joe Bailey, employee of the Herald, accompanied by Miss Pearl Carver—to keep off the "buggers"—drove the editor in his Overland to Lubbock last Tuesday afternoon, where he spent the night and caught the early morning train for Amarillo to attend his first session of the Texas Press Association. But this will not be the last one if we live and keep our usual good health.

To mix and mingle for three days with a group of men that are doing more for the country than any other single group of men, is to return to one's home more thoroughly endowed with the spirit of progress, and a determination to push his county and state more than ever. In fact, such a mingling, while erasing the imaginary county line by broadening one's visions, it makes, at the same time, one feel more enthusiastic for the home town and county.

The character of the men who attended the Amarillo convention proved almost unquestioned at both home and abroad. While the W. T. C. of C. was given much publicity as a drunken debauch, another tale can be written of the Amarillo affair. There was not even the smell of liquor about that bunch, and yet a better time, or more fun is rarely ever had.

There was delivered on that occasion oratory that would do justice to the United States Senate. Talks that were as full of meat as ever came from the unstructors of the best schools of journalism or advertising instructors in America.

As to the entertainment features, Amarillo certainly did itself proud, and as the saying goes, put the little pot in the big ones. You know that Amarillo is quite a convention city, and from this fact alone, some doubts were either felt or expressed about this feature of the entertainment, as it was felt that the Amarillo people being so used to conventions that they would make no special effort to entertain the editors. But they were quickly and pleasantly undeceived.

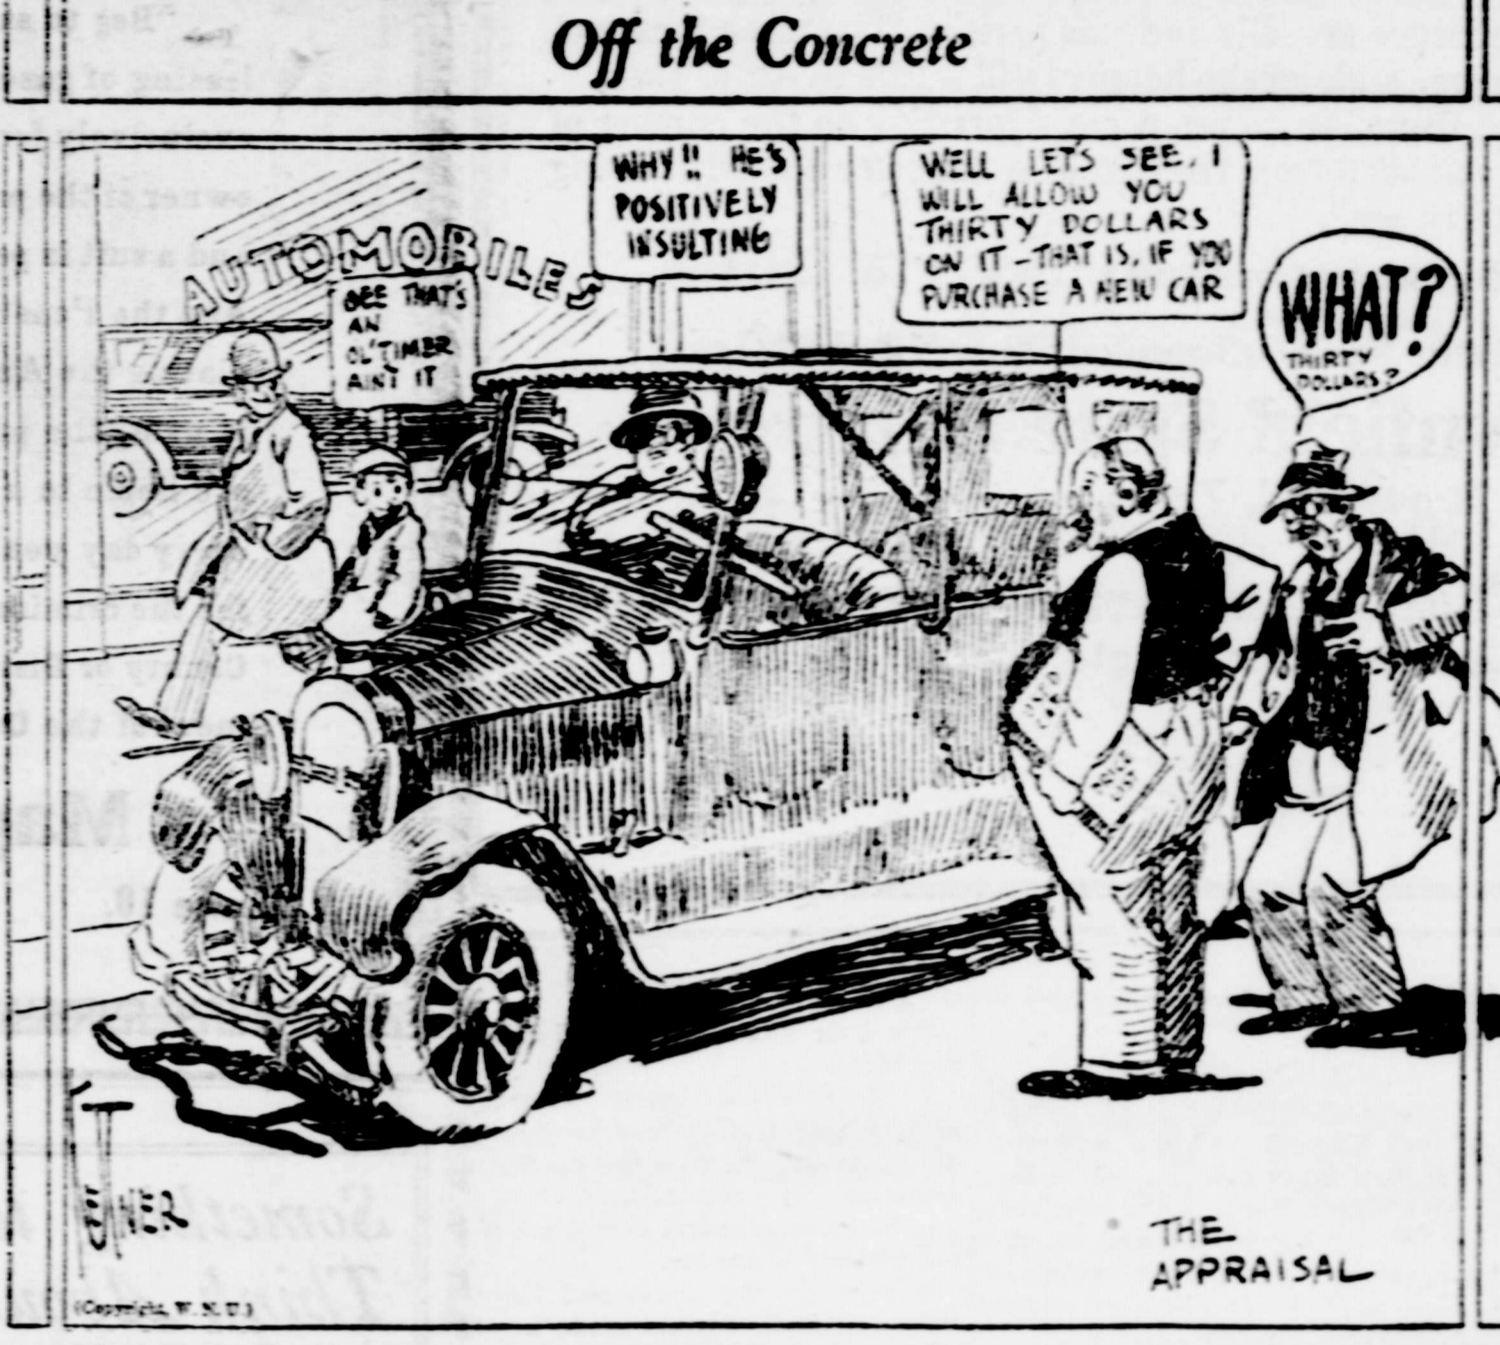

There seemed to be no end to the many and diverse ways to entertain the publishers when they were not in session, and besides the rides about the city, all places of amusement were open to the editors, their badges being their tickets, the same thing applying to the Natatoriums and Golf links if one cared for them. To the progressive newspaper boys of Amarillo, can be given much credit for this splendid time, but they were ably assisted by every good citizen of the city.

The two main banquets were supplied by the Southwestern Telephone Company and the Board of City Development, and nothing was spared to make them par excellent.

At 11 o'clock the second day the editors and families were taken for a joy ride some 12 miles to beautiful Palo Duro canyon, on Hardy Brothers ranch, where a barbecue of pure registered Hereford cattle was prepared by John Snider, one of the famous plains experts in this line. After all had had their fill, the crowd of probably 300 moved down the canyon about a mile to "Devil's Kitchen" which is in fact a cave under a huge rock just above water level, forming a sort of amphitheatre that easily held the crowd. A square shaped funnel goes up into the rock that makes one think of the hood over a large range, which gives the place its name. After a brief concert by the Press band—composed entirely of newspaper folks—some unfinished business carried over from the morning session was finished. The crowd was then entertained by many fine addresses and readings. One of the best addresses of the day was delivered by our own Phoebe K. Warner, of the little town of Claude, Texas. Cool water in abundance flowed into a spring close to the rear of the cave.

About five o'clock the bunch left for Canyon to be feasted and entertained by the West Texas Teachers' College. Arriving there, cool ice water was served to the perspiring editors, and students or faculty took us in tow for an inspection of the building, and he that thought this a small affair was at once undeceived. This is the best and most costly single educational building owned by the state of Texas. It is 316x160 feet, three stories and basement.

It was an impressive sight to see 1400 students and faculty go on parade, give their yells, and sing the College songs, and just before the sun sank beyond the rim of the caprock, with the band playing the Star-Spang

ANTI-KLAN SPEAKER HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

Major A. V. Dalrymple, prominent attorney of Fort Worth, and former Governor General of the Philippines, addressed a large crowd of citizens from the band stand on the courthouse lawn Tuesday night, his subject being Democracy and the Klan. Judge Geo. W. Neill, a local attorney introduced Mr. Campbell, of Lubbock, who in turn introduced the speaker of the evening.

The speaker was not only a good orator, but witty, and kept his hearers chuckling during most of the address. While the crowd was overwhelmingly with the speaker, there was nevertheless quite a sprinkling of Klansmen throughout the audience.

As stated before in these columns, the Herald is sorry that any issue had to come up to divide our usually well concerted people, but it is here nevertheless, and not only shows up in some people's business affairs on both sides, but has shown up in the school and churches and every little election so far this year and will be just as evidenced in the July primaries. In fact we understand the candidates for county offices are being asked point blank how they stand on this question.

It is a deplorable state of affairs when men cannot be different and not get along, but it seems they will not, especially over this question.

We can never make the supreme and concerted effort for new folks that we are going to be entitled to this fall and winter unless we lay down some of our foolishness and present a united front.

C. D. Moore and family go in from California this week where they have been residing for the past nine or ten months. Charley reports business dull there now.

Joe Whitley, prominent farmer of the Gomez country was in one day last week and had us send the Herald to his married daughter, Mrs. Rosa Lee Parnell, of Tebooka.

Mr. L. W. Hicks, of Fort Worth, is here the guest of his sister, Mrs. L. R. Pounds.

led Dinner—Old Glory was raised to the top of the flag staff to be saluted by the students, then lowered.

THE SIXTH GIN FOR BROWNFIELD STARTED

The foundation for the sixth gin for Brownfield was laid last week, and we understand will be rushed to completion as soon as the rest of the material is placed on the ground. We failed to learn the name of the new gin, but it is a stock company and will be managed by John Garity for several years past with the West Texas people.

This gin is to be a five stand 80-saw affair with all the latest bolting and clothing devices, and is located west of the railroad.

As stated above this makes the 6th gin plant for Brownfield, three of which are brand new, all being constructed this spring. Something near $75,000.00 has been spent for gins in Brownfield already this year.

The ginning capacity of the town is now ready to care for a crop of 15,000 to 18,000 bales of cotton.

PRESBYTERIAN REVIVAL IN FULL SWING NOW

Rev. W. K. Johnson, of Lubbock, pastor of the local Presbyterian congregation, started Sunday morning what promises to be an interesting and profitable meeting for that body. Two services are to be had daily at 10:30 o'clock in the morning and 8:15 evening.

While the preaching will be conducted by Rev. Johnson, the singing will be in charge of Rev. S. C. Guthrie, a recent graduate of Austin College, Sherman.

A good attendance and a fine song service is the desire of the church. Old time gospel preaching is being stressed.

BAPTIST CROP WORKING

We will meet next Tuesday, July 1, to work the Baptist church crop. Please bring teams and go-devils as these will be the implements used. We will also hoe the crop that day. We can use as many hoe-hands as can come. There ought to be enough people on the ground to both hoe and plow the crop.

There will be plenty of dinner and horse feed on the ground for every one. Do not forget the day, Tuesday, July 1st, come.

Jess Smith, Crop Mgr.

ARE YOU FOR BROWNFIELD? THEN MAKE THE TRADE TRIP

Tuesday morning, July 8th at 7:00 o'clock, is the day set aside by your Chamber of Commerce for making our annual trade trip to the points in Eastern New Mexico. Are you making your arrangements to go? This is trade territory that Brownfield calls her own. Is this going to remain a theory or are we going to make it a fact.

After more than one year's effort on the part of the Chamber of Commerce, we have succeeded in having the pink boll worm quarantine removed, and the cotton now raised in New Mexico can be marketed in Texas. Is Brownfield going to show these people that this is the place to sell it and also the place to purchase such supplies as may be needed for future consumption?

Other towns along or near the border are going to make an effort to secure this business and it is up to us to show that ours is the best market from every standpoint. To do this will require concerted effort on the part of our citizenship. This is not a matter to let GEORGE look after, but is YOUR business.

Now grease up old "Henry's" joints and pour the gas where it will do the most good; crank 'er up and be on the public square Tuesday morning, July 8th, at seven o'clock in the morning, ready to go. Tell some of the other boys that do not have a car that you have a seat for them, and help us see that the Band and the Home Brew Quartet have a seat reserved for them.

Have some advertising matter printed telling about our two days picnic, July 17-18th, and the splendid entertainment that has been provided for them, and about the quality of merchandise that you always have in stock for their inspection.

Don't forget to have your lunch prepared, and take your wife or your sweetheart with you.—Brownfield C. of C.

PRAYER MEETING EACH WEEK AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

A few faithful ones met last Wednesday night at the church of Christ that a prayer meeting might be outlined for the ensuing weeks. G. W. Chisholm was designated to outline the first study program for this week with the following results:

C. L. Wines to read and comment on the first chapter of Genesis.

Homer Winston to read and comment on 2nd chapter of Genesis.

Judge Gillespie to read and comment on 3rd chapter of Genesis.

After they are through the audience may ask them any questions about the chapter they may see fit to do. You will find a hearty welcome.

Elmore Carver left last week for the Plainview section to work in the wheat harvest.

A HALF INCH RAIN FELL HERE SUNDAY NIGHT

After ten days or two weeks of the hottest weather ever experienced on the Plains, a half inch rain fell here Saturday night and relieved the heat to a great extent, this week being more like the usual run of Plains weather.

Most of the county and adjoining counties, and Lea county New Mexico were visited by rain, and while some sections received little or less rain than the Brownfield section, all received some, and an inch rain was reported from some sections.

Local prognosticators are predicting more rain by the first of next week.

Clint Rambo, local abstract and insurance man has been all over the county practically, the last few days, and in the more than twenty years he has lived in Terry county, he reports he has never seen better crops here at the time of year or in better shape.

CEMETERY ASSOCIATION ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

The Brownfield Cemetery Association met last Tuesday the 17th and worked the cemetery again, getting the same in very nice shape, and efforts will be made to keep it that way in the future. We understand a man will be employed to finish the job and to keep it in good shape from now on. Additional grounds will be purchased later on and cut up into suitable plots for sale and this money will be used to keep the cemetery in good shape.

Geo. E. Tiernan was elected president and Mrs. Jessie Randal re-elected Secretary-Treasurer.

A committee of four ladies were also elected to solicit funds to keep the work going and to put down a well if possible.

This is a work that must be kept going.

LOVINGTON LOOKING FOR BROWNFIELD BOOSTERS

A letter from the Secretary of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce states that organization will visit Lovington on Tuesday, July 8th. They expect to reach here about one o'clock the latter states, which is presumed, to mean Texas time.

The object of the visit is to bring about a closer relationship between the two places and is made at this time to especially boost the two day picnic, July 17-18th.

They will bring with them the Brownfield Band and their Home Brew Quartet and probably some other attractions.

Lovington should begin to make preparations to give our neighbors from across the state line a hearty welcome.—Lovington Leader.

GRASSHOPPERS

--can be destroyed at a cost of 50 cents per acre, here is the formula:

Bran 25 pounds. Paris Green or white arsenic, 1 lb. Syrup of strong odor, 1-2 gallon. Oranges or Lemons chopped up, 1-2 dozen. Water 3 1-2 gallons.

Mix the dry bran and poison in a washtub or tight box. Mix the syrup, the finely chopped pulp and peelings of lemons and oranges in the water. The two should then be mixed together for immediate use. Stir the mixture with a spade or wooden paddle and dampen evenly.

Grasshoppers eat this mixture greedily and will perish. The mash must not be applied after it has become stale as the hoppers will refuse to eat it then. Twenty pounds will treat from five to ten acres, depending on the number of hoppers. The bait can be applied from the rear of a wagon or a slowly moving auto, or spread broadcast like seed.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

RESPONSIBILITY

WITHIN the breasts of ambitious youths of both sexes there is a yearning for the day when they shall be in a position to assume responsibility, buckle on their armor and march at the head of their own regiment.

As they look out upon the vista of years confronting them, they dream of the worlds they shall conquer, and the honor which shall be theirs when their hairs have caught some of the whiteness of snow.

It is good to peep into the future and venture a guess as to what it holds for brave hearts and willing hands.

Those who do this in honor to themselves and their employers have within them the essence of which noble manhood and womanhood are made. They are not ashamed to toil and soil their hands, for they know that manual labor brings to the faithful a quality of content that cannot be attained by any other means.

So they keep pressing toward the dream-city, eager for conquest and anxious to accept responsibility.

What these ardent youths are doing now is well done. Each day there is visible improvement in their work. They cut to the mark.

It matters not that their friends are few, so long as they are true. With such friends they are comfortable and happy. Neither they nor their associates spend their evening hours in idleness.

They read and think, discuss the leading questions of the day. In this manner they broaden their minds, sharpen their vision and strengthen their powers to reason.

They dwell in contentment with the noisy world all about them, obsessed with the one idea of some day bearing responsibility and helping others to higher altitudes.

The erring, thoughtless and pleasure-loving have no such ideals.

They have chosen their place among the slinkers and are already marked by Time for the scrap-heap.

And the conclusion of this is that only those who are willing to play the leading role in life, take the jars and jolts as they come, smile complacently on difficulties, are capable of going forth to conquer, being conquerors at this hour without suspecting it.

Cause of Itch.

Itch, or scabies, is caused by the pressure of larvae or mature specimens of Acarus scabei, the itch mite. Although the itch was known to the Greeks and Romans, the cause was probably not recognized before the Twelfth century. A case was reported in 1892 wherein the skin of the patient was estimated to contain 7,000,000 eggs and 2,000,000 mites. The disease causes 4.20 per cent of all skin diseases in the United States.

The Young Lady Across the Way

The young lady across the way says the man in charge of the filling station seems to be a very nice young fellow, and she feels sure every gallon of gasoline she gets when he is on duty contains the full two quarts.

Yes, Millie, the difference between the way in which a man tries to "persuade" you of something before marriage, and the way in which he will try to "convince" you of something after marriage, is as great as the difference between the way he talks to a toddler, and the way he talks to a balky flivver.

Every man fondly hopes to find a woman who will "understand" him and who, at the same time, knows nothing of the world and its wickedness.

A compliment from a husband would be as precious as pure radium if he didn't always hand it to you wrapped in the cotton-battling of "good advice."

The SANDMAN STORY

THREE WHITE KITTENS

MRS. TIGER PUSS looked fondly at her three kittens. "They are too pretty to go hunting in that dirty barn," she said. "I never saw whiter coats than theirs, though of course a nice tiger color like mine is better for everyday wear."

"No, my kittens shall not be brought up to work. They have plenty of milk and our mistress thinks they are the prettiest kittens she ever saw, so why should they soil their white fur going into a barn?"

"But— they learn to hunt while they are young," said Mrs. Black Puss, who was passing with her family. "You may be sorry some day, for no one wants a kitten that will not hunt for mice."

"We Want Our Saucer of Milk," Wailed the Kittens.

"Oh, that may be true of some kittens," answered Mrs. Tiger Puss with a frown, "but when they are as handsome as mine there will be no trouble in finding a good home for them. No, I shall not teach them to do a thing but wash their faces and keep their white coats smooth and clean."

So Mrs. Black Puss trotted off to the barn, followed by her family, and in a short time the little blackies were good mousers.

Mrs. Tiger did not mind catching mice for herself, but her kittens she kept spick and span and let them drink all the milk the mistress poured in the saucer every day.

But alas for Mrs. Tiger! One morning she came with her family to the door for her children's breakfast and the door was closed, and in spite of all the meowing she made and the three kittens as well, the door remained closed all day. The family had gone away for the summer and there was no talk to be had.

"Want my breakfast," wailed the three white kittens.

"You will have to catch mice," said Mrs. Tiger Puss sadly, but the three white kittens only wailed louder. "We want our saucer of milk."

"There are those three good-for-nothing kittens," said some one looking over the fence at the crying kittens. "They never catch a mouse, but just sit all day and wash their faces. Those black kittens were smart and they were all taken by the neighbors but nobody wanted the white ones though they are so handsome."

Poor Mrs. Tiger Puss meowed pitifully. She was afraid her children would starve, but they didn't, for when they were hungry enough to work they followed their mother to the barn and soon became good mousers, and when the family returned in the fall they were so grown up they did not know them.

"This has taught me a lesson," said Mrs. Tiger Puss. "The next family I have to bring up shall be taught to hunt as soon as they can run. Mrs. Black Puss was right. Beauty does not count for much unless the kittens are clever enough to get their own living, and nowadays a poor puss can never tell when she will be without a home, no matter how nice the family have been in the winter about feeding her."

MR. WRIGLEY'S COUNTRYMEN

(From London Opinion.)

"I believe I've got America. I hear a persistent chewing sound."

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Covention, of Oakland, Ark. are here the guests of his sister, Mrs. R. R. Lewis and family. A huge dinner was prepared at the home of Dalton Lewis last Sunday at which more than 60 relatives and friends of the Lewis family sat down, or rather stood, for the food was put on the table and each guest given a regular picnic plate which was filled with the many good things to eat. All report a splendid dinner and lots of fun. All the Lewis family was present except Mrs. Geo. Warren and family from Lorenzo.

There is always a lot of questionable propoganda put out right on the last few days of any election, and it nearly always proves to be false and put out to deceive people. But the trouble is most people or at least a lot of them will fall for it. Just stop and consider the fact that if there is anything bad about a man it will not be kept a profound secret until just a day or two before election time. Watch and guard against last minute campaign yarns as you would a rattlesnake.

On Tuesday July 8th, lets forget our petty differences if we have any; make believe we belong to the same lodge, same church, belong to the same political organization, and are going to vote for the same man or woman, and put over one of the peepiest trade trips ever undertaken, and make our neighbors to the west want to come to our picnic July 17-18, and then come here to trade thereafter. Then lets play we are still united in the preparation, and still the same way the day we entertain 'em, and perhaps by that time we will be united. If not, most of us are bull-headed enough to vote just as we please on July 26th, anyway.

You know there seems to always be room for some statistician among every group of men and the editors had one at Amarillo. He was telling of the modern editor's business sagacity, and incidentally mentioned the fact that he had gathered from federal statistics that there were fewer failures among editors than any other profession, including bankers. We took it all in and was—we admit—mighty well pleased with the compliment, but nevertheless we wondered if anybody every thought of the possibility that bankers go broke and either find it out themselves or from a bank inspector, while the editor is just as dead broke and don't know it.

We have with us this week, a goodly representation of the "best people on earth"—members of the Fourth Estate of Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma. We are so busy showing them the glories of the Plains and getting acquainted that we have neither time nor the inclination to write "heavies," wherefore we are going to give our readers a rest—possibly they shall appreciate it quite as much as we shall. We expect to be filled to overflowing with new ideas, inspirations and aspirations by the time the publishers take their departure and will get back on the job with renewed energy and enthusiasm, next week. In the meantime we are going to put in some good work for the Plains country in another way and do our level best to impress the visitors with the vast superiority of this region as a place of residence.—Amarillo South western Plainsman.

Through mothers God reveals His highest expression of creation. It has been said that the love of a mother is second only to the love of God. We should do all we can to lighten the burdens of life for our mothers, for we can never have but one mother. Some people say that there are plenty of stepmothers—they are as good and kind as your own mother. It makes no difference how good and kind a stepmother may be, there is a difference between the love of a stepmother and the love of our own mother. Your mother will not be with you always. Do not wait until she is taken from you to think of the many little kind acts you could have done to brighten life's journey for her. Let her know that you love her. Make a friend and confidant of your mother, for she is your dearest and best earthly friend. She has your welfare, both present and future treasured in her heart, and she is daily making sacrifices in order to make you happy.—Slaton Slatonite.

We found the editors about 8 to 1 in favor of Lynch Davidson for governor of Texas. In this much we agree with the majority of the bunch. The editors are getting tired of so much politics in government and want some business principles mixed with the affairs of state. No, we are not afraid to risk a man for our governor that has made a success in life. On the other hand, we are real anxious to try out a business man once more, and we believe Lynch Davidson will be in the run off and in it defeat his opponent, who will either be the other Davidson or Felix Robertson, of Dallas.

Red Tudor returned this week from Lubbock where he recently underwent an appendage operation. Red said he did not take anaesthetics and was inclined to think he got over the operation quicker by leaving it off. Of course they used local anaesthetics.

Has Anyone Laughed At You Because—

By ETHEL R. PEYSER
You are diplomatic? This stings! You are probably very polite and you hate to hurt peoples' feelings and for that reason you are called diplomatic, and people say "you know what side your bread is buttered on." It hurts you, because you are naturally well bred and well trained. It is better to be turned down for a thing you are not. You think you will try and be a bit brusque, but you cannot; it isn't your nature to be thoughtless. Diplomacy is a good trait when it is used as much for the comfort of others as for your own advancement. Rejoice in it, there is too little of it.

Plain Layer Cake.
Take one and one-quarter cupfuls of flour, one-half cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of butter creamed with one cupful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and the whites of three eggs folded in at the last. Bake in layers and put together with sweetened and flavored whipped cream. If the family is small, cut one layer in half and fill with the cream, reserving the other layer for a cooked filling, thus making two cakes.

WEST TEXAS C. OF C. AGAINST BOOSE PARTIES

Porter Whaley, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has sent the following notice to news papers, chamber of commerce secretaries, directors and officers:

"We desire to call your attention to the resolution passed by the Executive Board at Sweetwater in connection with the enforcement of the Prohibition Laws at the conventions of this and other organizations. The board went on record unanimously as favoring a strict enforcement of this law and requested very much that there were some few persons at the last Convention at Brownwood who took advantage of the Convention to load up on booze. Of course we realize that there are some persons who cannot be controlled, but it is the desire of the Executive Board that this law be enforced."

A few of the newspapers over the state have undertaken to place the blame on the managers of the Chamber of Commerce, but we cannot see any connection with them in this matter. It is purely a matter of local law enforcement, and if the officers of the town where the convention is held cannot cope with the situation, they should call on the United States Revenue officers to help them, and stop the practice of bringing an airplane load of the stuff and peddling it out among the visitors.

If this feature of the convention cannot be controlled, it will sound the death knell of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Conventions quicker than any other one thing. We have heard a number of people remark that they will never go to another meeting of that organization if that is the way it is going to turn out. They were thoroughly disgusted with that part of the Brownwood party. The prohibition laws must be enforced or the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will come to a disastrous end.—Lubbock Avalanche.

Don't forget the band concert next Sunday afternoon and from then on will be at 5 instead of 4 o'clock. This change is made on account of the days being longer, and hotter at 4 o'clock than at 5 o'clock.

BODY OF GREAT SERVICE ORGANIZATION.

Official Publication Names Incorporators of National Association Which is Chartered by Congress.

At headquarters of practically every chapter of the American Red Cross in the United States the question often is asked: "What is the American Red Cross now doing, and how is it managed?" The responsibility for the Red Cross program and its financing, as well as its policy, is stated in answer to these questions in the following article printed in "The Red Cross Courier," the official publication of the American Red Cross, in its issue of March 15.

"The Board of Incorporators of the American National Red Cross, as it is now constituted, are: Alvey A. Adee, assistant secretary of state, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Edwin A. "In Washington a beautiful building, National Red Cross headquarters, houses the various Red Cross departments. In this building there is an assembly hall where the National Red Cross conventions and other important gatherings are held. A new memorial tablet was placed in the Red Cross building May 18, 1923. It is significant that this tablet was placed under the stained glass window that was the joint gift of the Women's Relief Corps Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Besides the name of the donors and their presidents, the inscription is simple. There is the American National Red Cross with the emblem, and this one line: 'One in service for the common good.' This line indicates the character of service which the Red Cross has always rendered in the past, which it is now rendering, and which it will always be called upon to render—service for the common good."

In order to answer the question at the head of this article, the National Red Cross publishes an official organ called the "Red Cross Courier." It comes weekly and the subscription price is small. It gives news of Red Cross activities and responsibilities belonging to the Red Cross all over the world.

The Seventh Roll Call, which took place in November, 1923, marked the first increase in Red Cross membership since the close of the World War. Three million, four hundred and seventy-one thousand members were enrolled between Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day in the American Red Cross.

"The popular appeal of the Red Cross lies in the opportunity for service; a great variety of channels. The strength of the Red Cross lies in its large number of members, who are to be found in every county and small community of the land, as well as in the large cities."

Entire candor and honesty regarding ourselves instead of being the first in one of the best and highest attainments of a perfectly fashioned character. Long Chase Oddly Ended

A man who declined to give his name called police headquarters in Newark, N. J., and said John Steiner, wanted for murder, could be found on a certain trolley car. The search for Steiner had lasted for four years and had extended to the Pacific coast, so a dozen men were sent out in the patrol. They boarded the trolley car and found their man. Five detectives bound for headquarters for duty were riding in the same car with the man wanted for murder, but he was not recognized by any of them.

$54,000,000 CASH IS RAISED BY BAPTISTS

RETURNS ON 75 MILLION CAMPAIGN REPORTED TO CONVENTION—$21,000,000 MORE NEEDED.

NEW PROGRAM PROJECTED

Dr. C. E. Burts of South Carolina Named General Director—Dr. McDaniel Heads Convention.

Dr. GEORGE W. McDANIEL,
New President Southern Baptist Convention.

Up to May 1 Southern Baptists had contributed in cash on their 75 Million Campaign, the five-year program for the extension of their general missionary, educational and benevolent work, the sum of $52,832,852.79, leaving a total of $11,167,147.21 to be raised between now and the end of 1924 if the original goal of $75,000,000 is attained. It is announced by the general headquarters.

When the status of the Campaign was reported to the Southern Baptist Convention at its recent session in Atlanta, the Conservation Commission was instructed to lay plans to complete the raising of the $75,000,000 by the close of the present calendar year in order to clear the way for another forward program that will claim the support of the denomination during 1925.

Dr. L. R. Scarborough, general director of the Campaign, has been called back to Nashville to lead in the task of raising the $21,000,000 additional needed to complete the Campaign goal. He will undertake with the assistance of the various state and associational boards, to effect an organization that will enlist every Baptist church in the South, representing a combined membership of 3,500,000, in a definite share in the completion of this forward program.

Approximately 6,000 messengers from every state in the South attended the Atlanta session of the Convention and the entire body voted unanimously to get behind the effort to raise the full amount of money needed to complete the Campaign.

Where Money Came From
Here are the sources from which the $54,000,000 collected so far on the Campaign has come: Alabama $2,429,331.08; Arkansas $2,002,717.91; District of Columbia $35,257.91; Florida $583,408.99; Georgia $4,875,524.28; Illinois $629,758.03; Kentucky $6,036,800.32; Louisiana $1,461,985.81; Maryland $666,716.61; Mississippi $2,739,706.78; Missouri $2,249,746.14; New Mexico $448,816.26; North Carolina $4,511,014.81; Oklahoma $1,349,056.42; South Carolina $4,307,974.03; Tennessee $3,746,261.52; Texas $8,171,762.80; Virginia $5,733,141.38; Specials: Home Board $15,349.91; Foreign Board $58,103.00; raised by foreign churches and expended by them on work there $1,603,330.68.

Future Program Authorized
At the same time Southern Baptist forces will be completing their 75 Million Campaign they will be launching the next program to follow the Campaign. At a session in Nashville the Commission on the future program designated it as "The 1925 Program of Southern Baptists" and elected Dr. C. E. Burts of Columbia, S. C. as general director, and Frank E. Burkhalter, Nashville, publicity director. The canvass for subscriptions for the 1925 budget, which will be for at least $15,000,000, will be taken in the local Baptist churches the week beginning November 29.

Dr. George McDaniel of Richmond, Va., is the new president of the Southern Convention. Actions by that body include the taking over of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth, Texas, decision to defer for a year any action looking to a reorganization of the work of the general boards of the convention, instruction to the Education Board to continue negotiations looking to recovery to the Baptists of George Washington University at Washington, decision to give larger consideration at next year's session to the interests of the country churches, and the adoption of a vigorous protest, which will be forwarded to the president and secretary of state at Washington, against the persecution of Baptists in Russia and Rumania.

W. R. Caruth and family of Stephenville, are here visiting relatives and friends.

J. P. Evans and family spent Sunday in Brownfield. While there they attended the laying of the cornerstone of the M. E. church.

Miss Pearl Carver of Brownfield, was here Monday night and met with our school board in her effort of securing a position in our school for the coming term. We understand the board has secured her services for next school term.

Jay Barrett, present Commissioner of Precinct No. 1, of Terry county is here this week with the county road outfit, grading the road west from Meadow for a few miles. We wish to say that Mr. Barrett and his road crew are putting up some first class dirt roads, and as fast as time will permit, Mr. Barrett will have many roads of old Terry looking as good as the best dirt roads on the Plains.

Monday morning the humming of the saws and hammers were heard repeatedly at the Ford garage, and upon investigation we discovered that Mr. Mitchell and Trammell had several carpenters at work enlarging their garage building. They are adding some 20 feet or more on the rear and when completed will give them the much needed room which the growth of their business has compelled them to add.

SEACRAVES SAYINGS From the Progress.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sarten returned last Friday from Mayo Bros. Sanitarium, where Mr. Sarten has been for treatment. We are glad to report him as much improved.

Bryan Whitaker, wife and baby have been here a few weeks visiting Mr. Whitaker's sister, Mrs. Bruce Sides. They left a few days ago for their home in Young county to be gone a short time when they will return and probably spend the summer here.

We are sorry to report the death of the two year old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Davis of the Willow Wells community. We did not learn the cause but it was sick only a few days. It was laid to rest in the Seagraves cemetery Thursday afternoon. The bereaved ones have our sympathy.

Seagraves and Seminole in West Texas, are increasing somewhat in town population and rapidly in rural inhabitants. Cattle ranches are being cut up into farms. Where there were two farms last year there are ten today, and may be twenty tomorrow. Since the first of the year new arrivals have brought in more than a hundred car loads of farm equipment and household furnishings to one of these towns. Every day or two you have been reading in these columns of the development of some part of West Texas. There will be more of this. Soon the fact will be impressed indelibly in your mind that West Texas is being settled up rapidly with people who make the Plains produce cotton, corn, wheat, fruit and vegetables, who build homes and stores, churches and schools, and who will be worth your friendship.—El Paso Herald.

Jim Hatton, local druggist and prescription man at the Palace Drug Store, and family left Wednesday for Tulsa, Okla., where they will visit relatives.

SCHOOL DAYS

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

JOY

JOY is one of the "glad" names. It stands alone as an abstract virtue, popular in this Pollyanna-ish era. But it has an interesting etymological history as well. It comes from the Greek word "Iorai," of which the Latin equivalent is Jocus, the French Jole, and the English joy.

From Jocus came the Armorican prince, Jodocus, belonging to a family which migrated from Wales. He refused the sovereignty of Brittany and became a hermit in Pontieu, where he is now remembered as St. Josse. The feminine of his name, Jodoca, is still popular in Wales. England formed from it Jocosia, which straightaway became Joyce.

The latter form is much used in England today, as well as in this country, where its contraction is generally Joy, despite the fact that Joy has the right to separate existence. The French Jocelyn is a graceful and musical equivalent adopted by us, and in popular usage.

The turquoise is Joy's talismanic stone. It is the symbol of prosperity, though it is the simplest of stones, and has the power to protect its wearer in any venture, whether from disease or accident. Tuesday is her lucky day and 1 her lucky number.

Have You This Habit?

By Margaret Morison

DAISY MUDGE

MR. CABOTSON inspired awe among his subordinates in the big main office of the City Electric company, and Daisy Mudge trembled in her boots when she was assigned to act as Mr. Cabotson's special stenographer. He did not choose to see her for at least five minutes when she reported the first morning at his desk, and as the minutes increased she became more nervous. His letters finished, he suddenly asked her whether she used blue or black ink. Daisy, feeling at last on firm ground, replied that she had both kinds of ribbon. Whereupon Mr. Cabotson swung round with the information that he was sorry to hear that—he always insisted on black. Daisy had the confused feeling of having failed a test without quite knowing why, but she also began to see wherein lay Mr. Cabotson's power to intimidate.

When he passed through the rows of clerks in the morning, Daisy noticed that he would look at one or another so that a greeting was expected, and then, when the clerk had his face all ready to smile, pass by in stony silence. So he struck terror into timid hearts. Another Cabotson method was to pit one clerk against another, and so Daisy determined to try a little competition game on her own account. When another official's stenographer left one day, Daisy saw to it that her quickness in taking dictation should seem very desirable to him, and when she was asked to fill the vacant position, she enjoyed watching Mr. Cabotson scramble. On a certain morning she was late to her work, and following another Cabotson method of getting in first when a complaint was imminent, she quickly deprecated the worn-out condition of the typewriter she was using. She did not get a new machine, but nothing was said about her tardiness.

In short, the office began to see that "Cabotson was eating out of Daisy Mudge's hand." The spell was broken, and his prestige was on the wane. No one bothered when he scolded any more; the office ceased to look from the corners of its eyes when he came in the morning. Cabotson stock was going down, down, down.

The habit of depending on methods instead of dealing straightforwardly is a two-edged sword. Daisy Mudge had discovered the habit and turned it against Mr. Cabotson himself.

Mr. Voter—You're an undesirable citizen. You didn't vote the last election day.

Citizen—Yes, I did. In fact, I voted three times.

THE COTTON SURPLUS IS FAST DECREASING

The Progressive Farmer says: "In spite of the fact that the cotton market has been unsteady for several months, its position, so far as supply and demand is concerned, is strong. Mills in the Carolinas and New England are closing down or running on half time, but although this tendency to slacken up on production has been in evidence for some time, we are rapidly reaching the 'bottom of the bin' so far as the supply is concerned."

From August 1, to May 16, cotton exports amounted to 5,217,458 bales, while spinners in this country have taken 5,100,000 bales.

In other words, cotton to the amount of 117,458 bales have already been taken, and there yet remains the demand for two and a half months to satisfy. As the 1923 crop was only 10,250,000, the supply of cotton from now until the end of the year must come from the carry over, and unless the demand decreases very sharply, this rather small carry over is in a fair way of being wiped out entirely.

In nine months over 9,000,000 bales have been consumed. In other words we have consumed cotton at the rate of 1,000,000 bales a month. There remains a three-months' demand to be satisfied, which based on the rate of consumption in the past nine months, will call for 3,000,000 bales of cotton. But the indicated supply is only 2,980,000 bales. It appears that there will be no carry over at all on August 1, the end of the cotton year. A carry-over of two or three million bales is needed to supply the mills until the present crop begins to reach the market in quantities."

LITTLE WOOD MOUSE

LITTLE WOOD MOUSE was not considered a particularly wise creature, but one night he proved to those in the woods who heard what he said to Little Breeze that he was a very wise little mouse.

Little Wood Mouse was awakened from his nap by the sound of weeping close to his house, so he crept out cautiously and peered about. "It is Little Breeze," he said. "Now, what in the world can be the matter? If I could roam about as fearlessly as Little Breeze I am certain I should not weep."

Little Wood Mouse was thinking out loud, and Little Breeze heard him. "Oh, you think you would not weep if you were I," he said. "Well, I can tell you I am very unhappy."

"I can't make things move as fast as I want to. Nothing falls before my breath, as it does for my strong cousin, Big Wind."

"I Cannot Do the Things That Mr. Wood Rat Can Do."

"I cannot do the things that Mr. Wood Rat can do," said Little Wood Mouse, "but I do not weep over it."

"Oh, that is all very well for you, but it is different with me," sighed Little Breeze. "Big Wind howls and makes fun of me because I am so small and weak, and I am tired of it. I can't see why Mother Nature will not let me be a Big Wind instead of a soft, fluttering wind only strong enough to rustle the leaves."

"I think you are wronged to your family," said Little Wood Mouse. "I would choose to be Little Breeze."

Little Breeze stopped crying long enough to inquire, "Why?"

"Because," answered Little Wood Mouse, "everybody loves you. North Wind is too blustering and cold. It makes every one shiver and run away and hide."

"When South Wind comes along the weather is so warm that often everything is parched and dry."

"East Wind brings the rain, which is very nice, of course, and we could not get along without it, but still no one really loves to have the East Wind around."

"But West Wind is so refreshing that every one loves it, and its soft low voice is always welcome. The birds and flowers look for West Wind and all the wood animals are happy and run scampering through the woods, glad to be alive."

"Why, West Wind is my father," said Little Breeze, "but I have often wished I was the child of strong North Wind. If all you say is true I shall never cry again because I am not Big Wind."

"No, I wouldn't if I were you," said Little Wood Mouse. "It is better to be loved by everybody, even if you cannot attract attention, than to go through the world making so much noise you have to be noticed, though no one is glad to have you around."

"I never thought of it that way," murmured Little Breeze softly. "I guess I will not cry any more. I'll run along and whisper to the leaves and flowers that it is almost time for Mr. Sun to get up."

"Yes, do," said Little Wood Mouse. "The dew is on all the leaves and grass and you can send the sweet fragrance of early morning floating about with your gentle breath."

"I did not know I was of so much use in the world," replied Little Breeze.

"We often lose sight of the good things we might do," said Little Wood Mouse, "because we spend so much time wishing we held a different place in the Great World."

As Little Breeze ran through the woods the trees nodded to each other and whispered, "Why, what a wise creature Little Wood Mouse is, even though he is so tiny."

TINIEST BABY NOW CITY'S PRIDE

CHILD WEIGHS THIRTEEN TIMES MORE THAN IT DID AT BIRTH.

Scientific Measures of the American Red Cross Preserve Feeble Life Spark of Port Arthur, Tex., Boy.

The tiniest baby born in Port Arthur, Texas, now is the prize baby of the town. This tot has multiplied his weight by 13 in the ten months of his life. He weighed 16 ounces at birth. He now weighs 212 pounds and is such a popular young man that wherever he goes he is the center of attraction. At the time this little baby first came into the world he was so feeble and tiny that for the first few days he had to have artificial respiration in order to keep his microscopic spark of life flame. An improvised incubator made in a baby carriage and kept at a temperature of 100 degrees served as his bed for the first month. He was only 1 1/2 inches long and was fed with a medicine dropper until he was able to master a bottle. Then a tiny doll's nipple on an ounce-bottle was all that he could take into his wee mouth.

The baby has been continually under the care of Miss Martha Lawless, Red Cross Public Health Nurse, since his birth, and his parents now proudly acknowledge the fact that it was only through the efforts of Miss Lawless and the attending physician that the baby lived.

The mother has been bringing Baby Louis to the Red Cross clinic as often as the doctor tells her to bring him, and on each occasion his arrival almost suspends operations at the clinic. Eager are the other mothers to learn of his improvement.

"Louis' mental faculties are excellent," said Miss Lawless in commenting on the remarkable case. "He is as smart as he can be and understands as well as any child of ten months of age. He can sit up in a rocking chair and rock himself, a feat he often does to the amusement of the mothers and the children at the clinic."

"The average child triples his birth weight in one year, but Louis has tripled his in 10 months. The average boy of ten months, however, should weigh 19 pounds. He had influenza when he was six months old, but recovered and is now as healthy as a normal child. He eats spinach, oatmeal, carrots and meat broth and any other diet the doctor tells his mother to feed him."

"He is the most remarkable case we ever handled. We are very proud of our record, too, because of all the other babies who were born weighing slightly more than one pound, every one has died. Louis is the only child of one pound or under who has lived, according to press dispatches we have been seeing lately. The only other similar case nearly was in Houston last year when the twenty-four-ounce baby was born. It only lived a few days."

Miss Lawless is a Red Cross Public Health Nurse working under the supervision of the Port Arthur Chapter and her successful treatment of this baby is an example of the work which public health nurses of the American Red Cross throughout the United States are doing in their effort to improve the general health of the American public and to lower the infant death rate as well as the adult death rate from preventable causes.

Red Cross nurses attached to various chapters of that organization in all the states of the Union spend their days and sometimes their nights in serving the needs of the ill and infirm. They nurse the sick, give advice to persons who are caring for the sick, assist in obtaining medical attention for those who would not otherwise get it, and times without number assist in restoring individuals to health, as well as giving immediate attention in critical situations which sometimes mean the saving of a life.

The Public Health Nursing Service is one of the 12 lines through which the American Red Cross is endeavoring to be of practical service to the public.

Many of the chapters in the Southwestern Division of the Red Cross, which embraces the states of Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, employ Public Health Nurses. In some cases several chapters combine or co-operate with county health organizations in the employment of a nurse. The service of these women is free to all alike and goes to all who need it, whether rich or poor, and without regard to creed, color or social status.

The Why of Superstitions

By H. IRDING KING

SWEEPING

THAT it is bad luck to sweep the house after dark is a superstition very common in the South and is not unknown in the North. In some of the New England seaports sailors ashore do not like their friends to sweep after dark, saying that if they do their wages will be swept away by sickness or other misfortune.

This superstition is born of suggestion by association. In all well-regulated households the sweeping is not put off until the day has closed. It is only the pressure of too many urgent duties, or sheer laziness, which causes the housewife to wield her broom after sunset and either reason has for its corollary an unhappy and unfortunate household. Therefore, sweeping after dark became associated in the mind with unpleasantness, unhappiness, "bad luck," and the association developed into a superstition. And back of this is the fact that the broom in all ages has had a tinge of the occult attaching to it, originating from symbolism—as the broom sweeps away all before it so do the unseen powers.

ENOUGH

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THERE'S a fellow higher up, and a fellow lower down, Some have silver when they sup, There are others on the town, And somewhere in Between the two, Not up nor down, Are I and you.

There's a fellow who has more, There's a fellow who has less; Looking other people over We're just average, I guess, Not rich nor poor Is what I mean, But somewhere else Just in between.

There's a fellow with the gout, There's a fellow minus shoes, When I have to move about, Neither fortune I would choose, For you and I Are satisfied, Prepared to walk Or glad to ride.

There's a weary millionaire, There's a man without a cent, In between the two somewhere We are mighty content, We haven't such A lot of stuff, Yet, thank the Lord, We have enough.

MEADOW BRIEFS

By Aesculapius.

The closing exercises of the Meadow school were held Friday night, as previously announced. A large and appreciative audience of patrons and friends greeted the youngsters who were to receive their diplomas and bid an affectionate farewell to the Seventh Grade.

Mr. Wade Danich of the graduating class, delivered the valedictory. The subject was well chosen and nicely delivered. He was followed by Miss Fay Timmons, the first and only graduate of the High School. Her recitation, "The Golden West" was charmingly rendered and very appropriate. In accepting the Key of Knowledge, Master Fred Henson did honor to himself and impressed on the audience the importance of education and that "knowledge is power."

The Commencement address was delivered by Mr. Morgan Copeland, of Brownfield. It was a polished appeal to the students to fit themselves for life, not only by acquiring knowledge but by the addition of all those virtues that go to make up the full man and woman. He stressed the importance of character and drew a definite line between character and reputation. He emphasized the necessity for intellectual development as opposed to acquiring a large fortune—money doesn't always make the man. "A little learning is a dangerous thing. Drink deep or taste not the Blerian Spring." In closing he took occasion to compliment Prof. H. C. Zorn on his past work in other schools as well as our own, and commended the faculty for the work done here. It was a fitting tribute to a body of hard working teachers. To all which we say, Amen.

After a few remarks on the condition of our schools and the position of Texas on the list of states, Mr. Homer Winston delivered diplomas to the following boys and girls: Ern Watkins, Fannie May Cameron, Thelma Avery, Zepia Sell, Mary F. Timmons, Wade Danich, Thaddeus Moorhead, Rudolph Castleberry, Bert Banks, Mattie Ellen Sullivan and Fay Timmons.

Here's to you laddies and lassies, first fruits of the Meadow Independent school district. May the vision, high idealism, and industry urge you on until you reach the uppermost rung in the ladder of success.

The writer has just returned from a trip to Claude and Dalhart and find that end of the Plains in good condition. Wheat will make a very fair crop. Oats and barley were in good condition and cotton in most places was up and growing. I can't see that we have anything to feel bad about just yet.

We found Meadow still on the map and a new residence under construction, that of Mr. Hershell Brooks, who has recently joined the order of benedictines. The Masonic brethren are also preparing to build over a structure to be built by Dr. Moorhead. The work will commence at once.

Jack Stricklin dropped in on us a few evenings since on his way to meet the pencil pushers at Amarillo. Jack's appearance led us to believe that he had something to tell those fellows up there, and was also out for a good time. No, Mrs. S. was not with him.

W. C. Cook was on the sick list the past week, or was just laying up from the excessive heat. You can't always tell what's in a fellow's mind.

Commissioner Barrett has been with us the past several days gauding the old Brownfield Lubbock road. The work has been needed for a long time and those of us living on the road are very grateful for the service.

Postmaster Hickey is preparing to erect a new post office. The new structure is to be of sun-baked mud, usually designated Adobe. The brick or sections are being made and dried in the rear of the present post office. The millenium will be in full swing before he and his Mexican gets it completed at the present rate of brick making.

IDLE WIVES CLUB

Mrs. John B. King was hostess to the Idle Wives Club Tuesday afternoon, June 3rd. The home was made lovely with cut flowers.

Mrs. King served a lovely salad course to the regular club members and guests, which included Misses Morgan Copeland, Jack Stricklin, E. A. Graham, Griffin, A. Sawyer and Andersen.

Two beautiful hand painted plate were given as cut prizes, high going to Mrs. McGowan, and low to Mrs. Shelton.—Reporter.
