HERALD BREAKS IN ON N.Y. TIMES EDITORIAL PAGE

Advertising today is one of the greatest business commodities sold in America. We may not think at the time that our precepts reach beyond our own front yards, but just the same the other side of the world wants to know how Brownfield is getting over things. It may be necessary to qualify "gin" with the word cotton to keep New Yorkers from thinking we Terryites are concocting some new brand of home brew, but just the same we get results. We got the following clipping from the editorial page of a recent edition of the New York Times that explains what we are driving at. There is nothing in the clipping to indicate the date of the paper, but reading between the lines we infer that it all happened between this and the Democratic National Convention in that great city. It follows:

London to Houston

"The International Advertising Convention is to be held next year in Houston, Texas. From London to Houston will seem a long, long way to those who say good-bye to Piccadilly and Leicester Square as they set out for the Lone Star State, following Bishop Berkeley's star of empire. But if former Prime Minister Baldwin was right in saying advertising is needed between nations a trip from London to Houston would be in itself the best sort of international advertisement.

"That Texas herself is not slow in the art of advertising and does not propose to 'let George' meaning England, do it all may be inferred from the following item in the Terry County Herald, published in Brownfield, Texas, with the legend: 'Printed in Terry County, on the South Plains; the last stand of the cattleman and the future home of the most prosperous farmers in the United States.' It is entitled 'Local Gin Man Believes in Advertising, Too,' but prospective visitors would be wrong in thinking anything alcoholic was meant.

S. L. McDonald, proprietor of the Farmers' Gin, one of the three new gins being built this year, does not believe in letting "George" do all the advertising for him, but had 1000 circulars printed to carry with him on the Western trade trip Tuesday. The circulars read about as follows: "When in Brownfield inspect the Farmers' Gin, the big yellow gin just south of the depot. We have most modern machinery money can buy, ginning 100 bales per 24 hours.

"If you wish to camp you are more than welcome to come and use our buildings, which are 200 feet long and 24 feet wide, of which it is two stories with nice clean floors. We also have a camp house where you can cook—plenty of fire wood and water. Also free shower baths.

"Make our gin your home during the picnic."

In the same issue is a report of the annual trip to neighboring towns of twenty-six car loads of "Brownfield Boosters," men and women, accompanied by the "Turkey Trot Band" and the "Home Brew Boys' Quartet," who went out to put our town on the map, and "show 'em that Brownfield is in the market for their trade and good will." Incidentally a religious revival was in progress when the paper went to press, and news of the Democratic Convention had arrived in time to allow a stickful in reference to the result in the lower right hand corner of the first page below a letter in endorsement of Mr. Headstream for County Clerk.

To the word that John W. Davis had been nominated a line of editorial comment was as follows: "Well, we'll vote 'er straight again, boys." Word had, however, not as yet reached Brownfield that it was Texas that started the stampede for the former Ambassador to the Court of St. James by throwing her forty votes to "that great, outstanding, liberal Democrat, John W. Davis." London and Texas are not so far apart, after all, when one man can bring them together."

Miss Ona Maude Watson is here from Plainview visiting her former friend and playmate, Miss Fay Broughton. Miss Ona Maude made her home with the Broughtons for several years before her father married the second time.

Messrs. McGinty and Sheriff J. C. Keller, of Plains, were picnic visitors here last week.

Events in the Lives of Little Men

WINDOW FALLS AND KILLS LYNN-COUNTY BOY

Little Wayne Swan, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Swan, living a few miles east of town, met death on Wednesday afternoon of last week in a most peculiar manner. The mother and little children, including Wayne, who was only three years of age, were calling at the residence of a neighbor. When they were preparing to go home, Wayne ran in to get something to eat. The mother then decided to remain at the neighbor's sometime longer, not dreaming that any harm would befall the little fellow. She heard him scream at one time but thought nothing of it. Not hearing anything more from him, she went on home after a time somewhat solicitous about, and upon arriving at the house found the window had fallen upon and killed him. After getting something to eat, the little fellow had evidently undertaken to crawl out of the house through the window and had knocked the stick from under it, and had fallen upon and across his back in such a manner as to crush his life out.

The remains of the little fellow were buried in the Tahoka cemetery Friday afternoon, Elder Chas. Watkins, who is conducting meeting here for the Church of Christ, officiating at the funeral.—Tahoka News.

PARKE N. DALTON ENDORSED BY OFFICIALS OF HOME CO.

To the voters of the 72nd Judicial District:

We, the undersigned, being all the County Officials of Crosby County, Texas, do hereby heartily endorse the candidacy of Parke N. Dalton, of Crosby County, for District Attorney of this District.

We are intimately acquainted with his record, both as a man and as a lawyer.

He is a clean, honorable, and high-minded gentleman, and in every respect worthy of your trust and confidence.

As a lawyer he is unusually capable and the equal of any in this district.

He is young, active, energetic, alert, vigorous, and absolutely fearless in the performance of his duties.

We commend him to the people of this District who believe in the majesty and enforcement of the law as the type of man we need to fill this important office.

Jake M. Mabie, Co. Judge & Supt. Green Harrison, County Attorney J. D. McDermott, Sheriff & Tax C. Edgar Allen, County & Dis. Clerk R. E. Smith, Tax Assessor. Mrs. Zada Jones, County Treas. W. T. Dunn, County Surveyor. (Political Advertisement)

Mrs. Lois Daniel from Seminole is here the guest of her many friends and school mates. The Daniels now live at Seminole.

STORM AT O'DONNELL KILLS GEO. W. BREWER

A wind of terrific force swooped down on the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Brewer, about nine miles east of O'Donnell, Wednesday evening at about 7:30, totally destroying the residence and so badly injuring Mr. Brewer that he died at 9:15. Mrs. Brewer suffered some bruises and a sprained ankle. Their little son, G. H., seven years old, was badly bruised about the shoulders and had his back wrenched. Jewel, the five year old daughter was blown through a wire corral and suffered small bruises. When the storm struck the residence Mr. Brewer was holding the three year old girl in his arms, and with his body so shielded the child that it was not injured. Mr. Brewer was pinned beneath the wreckage, and immediately after the wind ceased, Mrs. Brewer went for help at a neighbors house. Mr. Brewer was released and carried to the neighbors home, losing consciousness just before arriving there.

Realizing that he was going to die, he asked to be taken to his father's home, but as that was a great distance, he was carried to the home of Mr. R. I. Kains. A physician was summoned, but death resulted before his arrival.

The path of the storm was narrow, and it was traveling in a northeasterly direction. A wagon on one side of the house and a small house on the other was not damaged. Considerable rain followed the path of the storm.—O'Donnell Index.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH STARTS REVIVAL MONDAY

The Christian church formerly began their summer revival Monday night at the Tabernacle. A sizable Monday night crowd was on hand, many of whom stayed for the political speaking.

Rev. W. H. Marler, of Floydada is doing the preaching, and the audience found him to be a fluent speaker, presenting his subject in a clear, concise way. He invited the audience to bring their note books and take down his quotations and compare them with the Bible at home.

He also has a good song leader and this denomination is expecting an excellent revival.

FEWER WASHER WOMEN SINCE PROHIBITION

The decreasing number of washer women was attributed to prohibition here by A. W. Cummings, president of the National Laundry Association, speaking before the Laundry Owners Association at its opening session of its annual convention.

"Husbands of women who formerly took in washing for financial support can now support their families, and their wives have 'retired' from the laundry business, Mr. Cummings said.—Omaha World-Herald.

GREAT CROWDS ATTEND LAST SERVICE OF REVIVAL

One of the largest crowds that ever attended a revival service at Brownfield was on hand last Sunday night at the last service, and heard what many thought to be the masterpiece of the entire series of sermons. Judge Morris had all lights turned out, and an electric cross was put up near the altar, and his sermon dealt with the Cross of Christ upon which all nations, kindreds, creeds and colors can unite upon. Those who believed he was trying to preach a klu klux sermon because he used a cross we believe were deceived, as other lodges we know of, and churches for that matter use the cross in some of their ceremonies.

We have been informed that there were scores of conversions and many additions to the Methodist church and other denominations of the city. Many people from neighboring towns and communities visited the revival while it was in progress, some coming as far as 80 miles to attend the revival. He left Monday morning for his home in Greenville, well pleased with the revival here despite the interruptions of a picnic and the heat of a political contest.

Mr. Cunningham, the singer had to leave Sunday for his next engagement and the singer for the Christian church revival which formerly started Monday night, finished Mr. Cunningham's engagement here.

VOLSTEAD ACT HELPS PAY ITS WAY

Washington.—Since prohibition became a law, approximately $19,500,000 in fines have been imposed in federal courts for its violation, prohibition headquarters announced today in a recapitulation of its work. In addition nearly 6500 years in jail sentences have been levied in 150,000 cases. Since July 1922, when the conspiracy section of the criminal code was evoked in enforcement, nearly a million dollars in fines and 450 years in sentences have been imposed in federal courts in a thousand cases.

Offers in compromise aggregating approximately $3,500,000 have been accepted in adjustment of the civil liability of breweries which have violated the law.

Editor White of the Meadow Messenger, was in our city Thursday and while enjoying the whole program devoted more attention to his hobby—baseball. Come again, White, we

Mrs. Champion and daughter, Mrs. Roberts and baby, left Wednesday for Brownwood were Mrs. Champion will visit her daughter and mother for about a month. Mrs. Roberts has been visiting her mother here for the past two months.

M. V. BROWNFIELD BUILDING MODERN ICE PLANT

Work was formerly started Monday morning on one of the most needed industries that we can think of that Brownfield has been wanting for years—an ice plant—and it will be the most modern of cold water systems.

M. V. Brownfield, local capitalist, is having it built, and B. J. Johnson is the contractor.

In view of the fact that the city is putting in a modern system of water-works this year, and the fact that Mr. Brownfield has a large concrete water reservoir some 50 feet high from which he has been furnishing the town its water, made Mr. Brownfield think of utilizing his reservoir for ice making. As a consequence, he is having his reservoir cleaned out and replastered from top to bottom this week to eliminate all leaks.

The ice plant building will be of stucco and 25X80 feet and large sufficient for a 20 ton plant. However, he will start the plant with a 5-ton daily capacity unit, and increase the units as the business justifies.

Mr. Brownfield has had the water analyzed and it was found that it would make splendid ice without any treatment whatever, and he will go to Dallas in a few days to purchase the necessary machinery.

The plant will be situated near Mr. Brownfield's water reservoir.

Ice isn't a luxury, but a necessity. It preserves food that otherwise is a waste. It has been found valuable in treatment of fever and other diseases. The Herald congratulates Mr. Brownfield on providing this much needed comfort handy and at reasonable prices for his townsmen.

OLD FRIENDS SURPRISE DR. AND MRS. MADDUX

Dr. C. S. Maddux, 92 years of age, and his old side partner for more than half a century were given quite a surprise Wednesday of this week by some of their old Gomez friends.

The idea of several old couple going to see this venerable old couple and carrying their dinners seemed to have originated with Uncle Horace Adams of this city. A fine spread was had at the noon hour, and each reported that the spirit of this old couple who can no longer get around to picnics and entertainments, were raised many degrees, and the doctor got into his reminiscence mode and told of many glorious happenings of the sixties and earlier. They were the recipients of some nice fruits.

These gatherings could be carried out more often with the old of Terry county to good advantage. "Flowers for the living."

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Simms, Uncle Tom and Aunt Lou DeShazo, Uncle Horace and Aunt Mollie Adams, Messdames Lester, McPherson and Roy Hull.

DALLAS NEWS OFFICER ENDORSES HEADSTREAM

Dallas, Texas, April 1, 1924 The Terry County Herald, Brownfield, Texas,

Gentlemen:—The News staff joins me in wishing Mr. Rex Headstream a success in this coming campaign.

Mr. Headstream won a hearty friendship from some of the most influential people in the Southwest, while he was in Dallas. He was a complete success at his work here and Dallas hated to give him up, and I personally congratulate the City of Brownfield for having such a splendid man as Mr. Headstream join your midst.

May your business and city grow in Prosperity and business this year and forever. I am

Very truly yours,

Pres. and Gen. Mgr., Dallas News (Political Advertisement)

In the circulars issued by the Harrison & McSpaden Gin last week in which the new Bur Machine was said to raise the grade of cotton from 100 to 200 percent, it was meant to say from "100 to 200 points." We are glad to make this correction for them.

Mr. J. L. Caldwell, from Loop, was in to see us a few days ago. He reports the crops in good condition at Loop.—Seagraves Progress.

A GOOD ONE FOLKS— THAT TWO DAY PICNIC

The two day picnic here under the auspices of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce proved a complete success. From the opening band number on the program until the closing number of the concert on the second night, everything seemed to move in unison.

According to the plates issued in the two days, something near 9,000 people were fed.

The programs were well arranged and enjoyed. The athletic races on the first morning were humorous and interesting. The political speaking was well received. But far the most enjoyable event was the manner in which the American Legion boys of Brownfield handled the crowd at the dinner hours. They were completely organized and fed the crowd in military style, the people being propelled through plant lanes to the various articles on the menu and a service man was in charge of each article and saw that the same was placed on the plate of the sojourner. To make a long story short, practically 4,000 plates, paste board ones, were used at the first day dinner, and this number of people were fed in 21 minutes; some system.

The rodeo programs were under the management of Messrs. Geo. E. Tiernan, A. R. Brownfield and Ros Rentro. They proved themselves thoroughly equal to the occasion and staged one of the best rodeos ever seen in this part of the state. Buffalo Bill's or the 101 Wild West outfit never handled their programs with more promptness and dispatch than did these local men. Some fast time was made in all contests as well as some excellent riding.

The ball games in the afternoon were enjoyable affairs, especially on the second day when the Brownfield boys "poured it on" Wilson in an unmerciful manner, 16 to 1, we think. While of course the first day's game was 7 to 5 in favor of Wilson, did not taste quite so good.

The night band concerts were very timely and appreciated very much by the people. Many compliments were heard on the Brownfield Band and its splendid progress, and worthy mention was given to Jno. S. Powell, the director for his faithful and efficient services in this connection.

There seemed to be no end to the entertainment provided for those who remained for the night sessions, as there were two public dance platforms in operation within the city limits, a band concert on the courthouse lawn; a good show at the Pastime Theatre, a big revival in progress at the tabernacle, while the swimming pool was only two blocks away. So we are rather under the impression that everyone found some diversion.

The business men of Brownfield are to be congratulated upon their efforts to stage such an entertainment. Also the various committees who worked for the success of the same, were faithful and their work was well done. The Chamber of Commerce officials seemed to have known how to put the right man in the right place for everything was well arranged and well cared for.

BUCKEY EDITORS MISSES A COPY OF THE HERALD

A communication from Editor O. P. Gaymno, of Canal Winchester, O., who owns a couple of good sections of land in old Terry reads about as follows:

"Jack:—We missed the Herald of July 3. All our reading matter for that week was tasteless because we missed the seasoning and the spice. Also about the time Lubbock 'gopped' the Tech, you published an article on the sun rise and sun set, and about the same time published and article representing 'Terry County, the heart of the Plains.' Would be glad to get a copy of each of those three papers."

Prof. Johnson moved his family over from Lamesa last week and are now occupying the teacherage. Mr. Johnson has been employed as principal of the public school here this coming term, and we gladly give them a cordial welcome to our city.—Seagraves Progress.

Mrs. B. Smith and daughter, from Arcadia, Fla., are here visiting her mother, Mrs. S. H. Key, of Gomez. Also, Mrs. Key's son, L. B. Minor, has been visiting her from the north Plains.

TOM MIX TELLS DESERT STORY OF INTEREST

Returning to the William Fox West Coast Studios, Hollywood, from a sojourn in the desert near Victorville, California, where he had been making scenes for his latest picture, "Mile-A-Minute Romeo" under the direction of Lambert Hillyer, Tom Mix told this one:

"There was a fella' in the desert who rigged up a home-made still. He made enough hard likker for his own use and offered none for sale. After a few weeks his room was visited every night by a strange animal.

"In turn he saw elephants, giraffes, lions, tigers, rhinoceroses, ostriches, gnu, yaks. He drove each in turn into the barn and locked it up. Night by night the menagerie grew.

"The young man finally decided that these animals might be turned into account. Accordingly he advertised a big animal circus at the local fair grounds. A big crowd came and the young distiller introduced his beasts. Apparently he could see them, but the audience couldn't and it demanded its money back. The young man refused. A dozen outraged citizens sought the sheriff. The sheriff called at the young man's home. Before taking the peace officer to see the collection the young man offered him a drink. The sheriff thought it good and the pair absorbed a goodly quantity before starting to the barn.

"When the corral was reached, the young man pointed inside. 'There they are,' he exclaimed, 'look 'em over.'

The sheriff gazed long and earnestly. "You are right," he said. "They are there."

Ben Lee dropped in recently and had the Herald extended to his old friend, Ollie Hsing for another year. Ben is one of our old sandbys.

Munchausen a Real Person.

Few that have read the extravagant tales of Munchausen, "the lying baron," know that the original narrator of these classical phantasies was a real person, and that Munchausen was his true name. The term "a Munchausen" has become part of our vocabulary. We use it to describe one who makes up unbelievable accounts of fictitious happenings--one who has an ingenious and too versatile imagination. Story tellers of this sort scarcely expect to be taken seriously, and Karl Friedrich Hieronymus Freiherr (Baron) von Munchausen did not, when he related astounding episodes for the amusement of guests on his estate at Bodenwerder, Hanover, a century and more ago. From "The Most Famous Liar in Literary History," by Clement King in the Mentor.

Fooling the Doctor.

According to Hygeia, simulation of diseases is founded on many primitive motives: love, hate, desire for sympathy, or the wish to evade an unpleasant situation. The physician is sometimes deceived but can often discover the truth by the exercise of careful observation and sometimes by special tests. Medical training is directed toward skepticism rather than credulity and the physician is sometimes charged with overcaution. A famous physician wrote, "The more gross the fraud the more shily will it go down." Folly will always find faith wherever impostors will find impudence." But it is worth realizing that the fact of malingering means the probable existence of mental disturbance for which the malingering need-treatment.

Rabbits Ruin Trees

Reports reaching Juneau, Alaska, from the interior tell of the serious damage done to young forest trees by hordes of snowshoe rabbits infesting the Northland this winter. In the absence of grass and herbs for food the rabbits are gnawing the bark of birch, larch, cottonwood, cedar, hemlock and fir. These trees, completely girdled by the rodents' teeth, are sure to die in the spring.

ECZEMA!

Below is a copy of a letter written by the Attorney General of Texas in regard to oil pumps that have been put out by some of the Oil Companies.

"Beg to say that this department has heretofore held that the leasing of gasoline pumps coupled with a contract to use the same exclusively for the handling and selling gasoline produced by the owner of the pump, is a violation of the Anti-Trust Law of Texas, and a suit is pending to test this law in the state of Texas now. And the Penalties provided by the law of Texas against those violating the Anti-Trust law apply to all parties, both the man who is using the pumps and the parties who furnished them and both are liable to a penalty of from $50.00 to $1500.00 for each and every day you use same or that the contract is in force, and as for the criminal offence the Attorney General refers you to your County or District Attorney as he has jurisdiction in the enforcement of the Criminal Law.

THE BRICK GARAGE

HARRIS BROTHERS Brownfield, Texas

Gladstone and Faraday.
 Once Mr. Gladstone dropped in on Michael Faraday. Faraday was a blacksmith's son who became a great scientific investigator. Gladstone found him investigating a pen or thing he had discovered. He had before him a wire bent into the form of a circle, and in that there was a disk which was suspended by a silk thread. The disk revolved inside the wire. When he turned on a current of electricity through the wire the disk seemed to move as if it were moving in a thick liquid; there was no reason why, as far as was known. "What is the good of that?" asked Mr. Gladstone. "Well," said Faraday, "perhaps in a few years you will be able to tax it." Faraday was right. Out of that experiment has grown the electric motor.

Lydia Thrived in Early Days.
 Lydia thrived most from 710 B. C. to 546 B. C. (when Croesus was overthrown by Cyrus, the Persian.) The Lydians were the most advanced of all peoples in those days, as they were also the richest. While they were effeminate, they were also the most cultured of luxury-loving traders. The Lydians loved the good things of life, exquisite garments, beautiful pens, costly carpets and rugs, scented oils and music. It is recorded, They discovered the art of dyeing wool, of coining money and were the first to use gold, which they procured in comparative abundance from the Sarabai and Pactolus rivers and the rubes, as a medium of exchange.

Phosphorescent Diamonds.
 Gustav LeBon, an authority in such matters, has found a striking difference of the phosphorescence of Brazilian diamonds and those from the Cape. The former, which are noted for the liveliness of their light, and which have become quite rare of late years, exhibit a brilliant phosphorescence after being exposed to the radiation of a magnesium ribbon, while Cape diamonds show very little or no phosphorescence. This is thought to be a new means of detecting diamonds falsely offered as Brazilian gems.

Saved Lambing Loss
 Almost every imaginable business depends in some way on the weather. A sheep raiser was ready to send a flock of rams to the range lands, but having previously suffered losses at lambing time, inquired of the local weather bureau at a station of the United States Department of Agriculture for weather conditions on his range 144 days from the date of the arrival of the rams. The weather could not be predicted that far in advance; but curves showing mean daily minimum temperatures and latest spring killing frosts, indicated a period of relative safety beginning shortly after May 20. His previous losses had occurred when the lambs were dated prior to May 27, as had been warranted on another range. Since that injury, two successful seasons have followed in those herds, the lambs being brought in late May or early June, as suggested by the weather records.

A Glass Mountain
 In the Yellowstone National park there is a remarkable mountain, a tall mass of rock which is known as the Glass Mountain. Its color is black or dark or gray. The face of the cliff does not shine like glass, but through the points and projecting corners of the mountain shines, making a beautiful effect. If you hold a piece up to the light the light shines through it. This rock is called "handed obsidian." It is a sort of cousin of the rock of which the Indians used to chip their hatchets.

Hon. J. M. Marshall, of Lubbock has withdrawn from the race as District Attorney of this district, leaving Parke N. Dalton, of Crosby county, and John L. Ratliff, of Lubbock in the race.

Our gin men are becoming real-advertisers and tell us it pays. They report that a number of people inspected their plants and machinery during the picnic. One of them said he wanted a regular space in the Herald when the ginning season formerly opened.

Editor Luke Roberts of the Lovington, N. M. Leader, was over last Thursday and Friday taking in the picnic. Editor Roberts, while a good booster for Eastern New Mexico, also lets his boosting cover the entire south Plains section.

The editor had notice last week through the daily press that the President of the Texas Press Association had honored us with appointment as a delegate to the National Editorial Association at its next session. Now if some friend will please tell us where that great body of American editors meet next time, and another friend will then confide the date of same, and then some of our capitalistic friends will lend us the price of the journey and fillings going, there, and coming, we may be interested enough to make further inquiries about the matter. Anyway, we sincerely thank President Luker for the honor.

The Herald man got hold of a paper a few days ago printed in South Texas, that was the most radical we have perused in some time, and it belonged to a man right here in town that passes as a level headed man and square in his dealings with his fellow man. But this paper we refer to was fairly lapping over with venom, hate and dissection. It is our candid opinion that a few years constant reading of a paper of this character would cause a man to hate his family. Why do good men waste their time reading such trash when there is so much elevating literature on the market that tends to make us love our fellow beings? Why not consign such inflaming literature to the flames and devote more of our precious time here on earth to that old Book that teaches us to "love those who persecute us; love our neighbor as ourselves."

When a ticklish situation arises in a town it is quite the fashion to remark that the newspaper ought to say something sharp about that. The average citizen feels quite certain that he could run a newspaper better than the editor, and if he was publishing that sheet, he'd show 'em how, you bet. As a matter of fact, if he had horse sense, he would do just as the editor does—put the soft pedal on family rows, church squabbles, and matters of minor consequence which will adjust themselves as time goes on. Don't expect the long-suffering small town newspaper newspaper man to advocate or attack any proposition which you yourself lack the courage to attack or support over your signature. The local paper is willing to push any project in the public interest, but it is not willing to pull chestnuts out of the fire for individuals or minorities.—The Groom Booster.

There is no greater responsibility than that resting upon the editor of a newspaper. The late Doctor Talmadge said: "The newspaper is the greatest educator of the nineteenth century. There is no force compared with it. It is a book, pulpit, platform, forum, all in one. And there is not an interest—religious, literary, commercial, scientific, agricultural or mechanical that is not within its grasp. All our churches and schools and our colleges and asylums and art galleries, feel the quaking of the printing press." Any man who has anything to do with making a newspaper should take pride in giving it a character for truth and wisdom. "I saw it in the newspaper" ought to be sufficient evidence of the truth of the assertion. But newspapers are human institutions, and are good or bad, in precise proportion to the character of their makers. Some are avicious and look at all questions thru the business office. Some are timid and foolish. To put them all in a class would be as unjust as to put all men in the same class. The world would be a stupid place to live in if it were not for the newspapers, and it would also be much more cruel and tyrannical. Besides being a terror to evil doers, the newspaper inspires heroism, patriotism, philanthropy, and integrity. When the newspaper becomes a traitor to its trust, and the people lose faith in its sincerity, God help the republic!—McClure (Pl.) Plain Dealer.

Do you know for certain that the Title is clear on the property you are planning to leave your wife or children for their support if you should be taken away?
Many a time clouds on the title to a piece of property do not appear until the widow or the orphan tries to turn it into money. Then even if the property is finally sold, a big chunk comes off the price to offset the cloud. You know that—it is as sure as taxes. If you have never had an abstract of title made on your property by specialists, it will be worth the price in PEACE OF MIND to you to know that your loved ones will surely inherit a clear title to the property you intend them to have.
We do not do abstracting "on the side" as one small feature of a miscellaneous business. We specialize. Your abstract, if made here, will be made by experts, working with complete, accurate, systematized records.
We will explain in detail if you will call.

THE "HE" GOSSIP
The dirtiest, most despicable character known to mankind is the "he" gossip. The female of the species has the better excuse for gossiping than has the male, and the former's excuse is a very poor one. The lowest level in the entire scale is reached by the small town he gossip, who has no business at all or at least not enough to keep his mind occupied. "An idle brain is the devil's workshop." "They tell me." "What is this I hear about so and so," are the favorite beginnings of the lines these dirty whelps peddle. They are a nuisance, an aggravation and a detriment. Too cowardly to face both parties whom they involve in their dastardly slime; cunning enough to keep away in the dark. A bootlegger or horse thief is a gentleman and a prince compared to the he gossip, who finds pleasure in misconstruing everything he hears, and who has nothing to do but sit around and hear everything that is said. A good sized healthy club or a sawed off shotgun is about the only remedy for the he gossip.—Spearman Reporter.

EXILES FIND PEACE IN CANADIAN CITY

Russian Aristocrats Forget Sorrows in Their Labors.

Employed chiefly as sales girls or as common laborers, a colony in Toronto of Russian aristocrats, exiled from their own country, already includes 30 or 40 members, says the Boston Transcript.

The story of Baroness Lozina Lozinsky, daughter of Russia's last minister of justice, now a sales girl in Toronto, is typical.

Here is another sales girl in a local gift shop, Mme. Zola Stasenska, slender, blonde, with the carriage of the salon, and the hands and features of an artist. But those slender hands now handling delicate bric-a-brac have gripped the handles of a Vickers machine gun. Those gentle eyes have squinted the sights of a mitrailleuse.

For Madame Stasenska is one of the few survivors of the famous Korniloff regiment, was decorated for bravery on the field of battle, and served as a machine gunner in Baron Wrangel's ill-fated campaign against the Bolshevik forces. She began her military service as a field nurse. Later she was one of a horde of 10,000 herded in Constantinople barracks where typhus took a toll of 5,000.

Another sales girl is Mme. Valentina Gloushkova, a dark Circassian. For two and a half years she served as a nurse attached to the brigade to which her husband's regiment was attached, seeing much fighting in the Crimea and around Odessa. When disaster and disorganization overtook the Russian forces, this fine horsewoman found her place, not in the hospital tents, but helping with the carrying forward of ammunition and the evacuation of the wounded from the forward area.

When final desolation fell she found her way to Constantinople, where she shared with Madame Stasenska the horrors of the typhus barracks. Neither have heard of their husbands, who were Russian officers, since the debacle.

In a large local factory is a laborer, who is Baron Nicolai Ropp, once an officer of the Imperial guard, and the only surviving member of one of the oldest families in Russia. Watch him at work piling wood on flat cars, and try to imagine him as he once was, an exquisite of St. Petersburg, a dandy at the court of the last czar.

Walk into the Royal Ontario museum and watch a middle-aged man at work dusting cases. Then try to picture him in uniform and gold lace on the bridge of a battleship answering the salutes of officers as they spring to attention at his approach. An admiral of the Russian fleet, Guidenoff, who, like Nelson, lost an eye in the service of his country, turned museum cleaner, his arms now a mop and a duster.

Here is a factory where dolls are made, kewpie dolls, the beautiful blue-eyed babies of the summer speller. Two men bend over with brushes at a bench industriously painting ruby lips and rose-leaf blushes on waxen faces. One of these men who thus turns out prizes for the boardwalk flappers is Capt. Paul Dancheik, formerly of the Russian navy; the other, Capt. Victor Gromouff of the guards.

Then again, in a factory which makes washing machines, a mechanic works, Capt. Vladimir Markoff, holder of the St. George's cross, the Russian V. C. He is almost a cripple from wounds, but his spirit still soars high.

Tall Woman Handicapped

It is the tiny women who have inspired all the sweet pet names of love. Duckie. My little cabbage. Snookie-snookums. Honey. Dumpling. Baby. Kiddie. Dear little thing.

No woman of stock size ever inspired anything more important than darling, angel, or dearest.

And there is something about holding up your cheek for a kiss which your tall woman, who must graciously incline her head to receive, never realizes or relishes.

And there is something still more about being folded tenderly to a masculine bosom, there to rest like a sweet tired bird, which no perfect six-footer can ever know.—From "Glad-Eye Views," by Jane Doe.

"Dinner Pail" Gone

The noon whistle sounded and work on the foundation of an apartment ceased, while the diggers sought their unches and prepared to eat. It was then that the amateur observer noticed that not only was the old dinner pail conspicuous by its absence, but that other niceties in regard to the noon meal have been inaugurated.

Instead of sitting down in the lee of some walk to munch sandwiches, one of the men produced a packing case, spread a newspaper over it as a cloth and the workers, seating themselves around it, proceeded to eat their unches off paper plates.—New York Sun and Globe.

Great Idea

Charles Doering, chief clerk in the street and bridge department, discovered in a magazine the other day that a form of rubber paving is being tried out in London. A friend of Mr. Doering's immediately urged him to run for street and bridge commissioner of Houston on the rubber paving ticket.

"Why, think of the saving that could be made," argued the friend. "You could lay a block of rubber pavement, and then hook a tractor to it and stretch it out for three or four blocks."—Houston Post.

OLD WESTERN TRAIL IS SCENIC HIGHWAY

Stretches From Salt Lake City to Alden Gulch.

One of the attractive northwestern routes which is being improved for the increasing summer travel to the Yellowstone and Glacier National parks traverses the old stage route of pioneer days known as the Corinne trail leading from Salt Lake City to Alden gulch, near Dillon, Mont. The road from Salt Lake City, starting from the Brigham Young monument, has been paved with concrete from that point through Ogden, the second largest city of Utah, and continuing 22 miles further to Brigham. A few miles beyond there is another concrete surface through Logan to Smithfield.

Crossing into Idaho, the country becomes rolling and is chiefly adapted to dry farming and stock raising. Beyond Pocatello, the great Fort Hill Indian reservation is reached, where the ruins of the first settlement in Idaho may yet be seen, the site being an old Hudson's Bay trading post. At Idaho Falls, in the Snake River valley, the road leads toward Yellowstone park by way of Rexburg. This is the region which was explored by Lewis and Clark in 1805, and is the original home of the Blackfoot tribe of Shoshone Indians.

The road then enters the mountains according to a description in the Concrete Highway Magazine, winding through the Targhee National forest and excellent trout streams to West Yellowstone. Toward the west is a magnificent wilderness where the headwaters of the Missouri river have their origin. Following the Centennial valley to Monida and Dillon, the town of Armistead is passed, where there is a fine memorial erected by the women of Montana in memory of the squaw Sacajewea, who piloted Lewis and Clark through the territory.

Just beyond Dillon, the site of the State Normal college, is Banamack, the first capital of Montana. At this spot gold was discovered and at Hangman's gulch the Vigilants rid the state of bandits.

Through the Big Hole valley, then across the Continental divide into the beautiful Bitter Root valley, the highway continues to Missoula, the center of western Montana and the home of the state university. Northward, the road crosses the Flathead Indian reserve, where buffalo still range, and penetrates the land of the Selish, peace-loving Indians who still live in native picturesqueness. A splendid road follows the western shore of Flathead lake, the largest body of fresh water in the United States, excepting the Great Lakes. Beyond the lake are the stupendous, snow-capped peaks of the Linguleim and then Kalspell is reached, the gateway to the Glacier National park.

A few miles beyond the boundary line is crossed in Canada and the road continues north along the recently completed Banff-Windermere road through virgin mountain and forest country to Lake Louise and Banff, the Switzerland of America.

Rhythm of Rejection.

There is an eastern legend of a prince who went in quest of a wonderful stone whose possessor would become endowed with wealth and wisdom. In some way the prince came to know that the stone lay somewhere upon one bank of a certain river, and great as was the task, he set out resolved to examine patiently every stone upon that bank of the river. Through weary weeks he never faltered. He was not distressed because the search was slow and painful, and he never missed a stone. After a little he grew able to examine and discard them more and more rapidly, but gradually this constant motion of throwing things away formed a habit in his arm which was almost automatic. At last one day when he was in full swing the wonderful stone itself was actually in his hand, but the motion of casting away had become so inveterate that with a hurried glance his arm fell into its old easy rhythm of rejection and the stone was lost forever.

American Cities' Debts Grow Billion a Year

New York.—The bonded indebtedness of municipalities of the United States continues to increase, and new securities are being issued at the rate of about a billion dollars annually, according to a commentary upon the debt of more than two hundred cities by C. E. Righter, chief accountant, Detroit bureau of government research. A tabulation gives the classified debt of the various cities, the net bonded debt and the per capita debt on January 1, 1924.

The average per capita debt of all cities of 2,500 or more is $70.80, but the per capita debt ranges from $258.62 for Norfolk to $10.96 for Quincy, Ill., omitting Washington, D. C., which has only a few old bond issues outstanding. The per capita indebtedness in general is below that of thirteen principal Canadian cities, in which it ranges from $363.05 in Edmonton, Alberta, to $112.02 in Hamilton, Ontario.

Efficiency in Use of Fuel Shows Increase

Washington.—Efficiency in use of fuel by public utility power plants has increased 33 1-3 per cent in the last four years, according to a statement issued by the Department of Interior, which shows that a ton of coal in 1919 produced 625 kilowatt hours of electricity, compared with 835 hours in 1923. The total amount of electricity generated in this period from 30,000,000,000 kilowatt hours to 55.7 billion kilowatt hours.

Signs of Rain.

The barometer is lowest during the thaw after a long spell of frost or after a southwest wind, both of which fill the atmosphere with moisture. It is highest during a long frost or a continuous northeast wind, which are very dry. If the barometer is low during fine weather, clouds are likely to gather and the sky will be overcast. On the other hand, when the glass is high and there are clouds overhead, it is unlikely to be wet, though should the glass be low while these conditions prevail, rain is expected.

DO WE APPRECIATE OUR MANY BLESSINGS?

A native of Kentucky moved from that state to California. Although he had lived within ten miles of the famous Mammoth Cave for more than forty years, he had never seen it. Recently he made a special trip all the way from California to his old home for the sole purpose of viewing this natural wonder. While living almost at its entrance it had no attraction for him, but moving far away he heard so much of its grandeur that he became sufficiently interested to journey across the continent to see it.

It is probably true that people of other states are much more familiar with the Carlsbad Cavern than are the people of New Mexico themselves. The Brownfield visitors who were here this week were completely captivated with the delicious strawberries served them for their dessert. They found it difficult to realize that a country so near them could produce the berries in such lavish profusion. They left enthusiastic boosters for the country that could so furnish them. They will always of Lovington as the land of strawberries. Many of our own people will never give them more than a passing thought, not realizing their value—Lovington Leader.

SHOULD WE TIE THE HANDS OF OUR DELEGATES?

The following editorial from the Lynn County News is rather ancient, but the subject matter is still good to contemplate and think about:

"As this is written no nomination has yet been made at the Democratic National Convention. What will be the outcome, nobody knows. But whatever the outcome, we think the Democrats of America should have learned a few lessons. They should have learned in the first place that trumped-up, mechanical demonstrations in favor of candidates, extended over long periods of time, amount to nothing. To a fellow way down here in Texas, that demonstration of more than an hour in favor of McAdoo, and the demonstration of an hour and a half in favor of Smith were silly. Repeated demonstrations thereafter as this candidate or that candidate won a vote or two were likewise silly. Delegates in a Democratic National Convention even ought to use common sense, and they ought to know that sensible men can not be "stampeded" to a candidate by tactics like that. Another lesson that at least the National Committee should have learned is the folly and injustice of holding the national convention in the home city of one of the leading candidates. This convention was held in the home city of Governor Smith, and the "hoodlums" of New York seemed to think that the "ward politics" methods of that city would avail in the National Convention. Consequently they packed the convention floor and galleries with Smith henchmen, who attempted to hawl down everybody who was not for Smith and to win the nomination for Smith by bowdlerizing tactics of this kind should result in the condemnation of the entire country and it should be spoken with such manner as to deter the citizens of any other convention city hereafter from attempting such a thing. Whatever the result of this convention, New York has disgraced itself in the eyes of all decent people."

Another thing the Herald hopes the country has learned, and that is not to tie its delegates hard and fast to any one man as long as we have as much presidential timber as we now have. If we can't trust our delegates to do the right thing, let's do away with our conventions and put out our nominee by party primaries the same as we do other officials.

COST OF LIGHT SO LOW THAT NIGHT NEED NOT BE DARK

The cost of electric light today is less than five per cent of what it cost in 1880 when the incandescent electric lamp was first placed on the market. This is due to three items in the cost of lights. The rate for electric current is lower. The lights are of nine times the efficiency. The price of lamps are much lower.

Compared with the cost in 1914, electric lights are just a trifle more than one-half as much, the average cost of living, however, is fifty per cent higher.

The carbon lamp, that was alone in the field of electric lighting until 1908. Larger lamp manufacturers maintained research and development laboratories where search is made for new methods and materials which will result in improved quality.

Present prices for the best lamps are now below the level that prevailed before the war. However, the cost of renewals in lamps is a small item as it is less than ten per cent of the total cost of light.

The cost of electricity in March, 1924 as taken from the last quarterly report of the Bureau of Labor Statistics is shown to be 86 per cent less than in December, 1913. The general cost of living for the same date is 70.4 per cent higher than in March 1924. Twenty-one times as much light can now be obtained from a 40 watt lamp as was obtained with the original 16 candle power carbon lamp.

For Amateur Carpenters.

Amateur carpenters usually experience some difficulty in sharpening their tools. A real boon to these is a recently invented plane and chisel holder for use in setting edge tools on the oil stone. The body consists of a casting having at the forward end a gripping device capable of firmly holding any chisel or plane blade at approximately the correct angle for sharpening. At the other end of the body is an adjustable support running on a wooden roller. The tool having been clamped in place, and the back support adjusted, all that is necessary is to run the tool backwards and forwards on the oil stone to insure that it is properly sharpened. By the use of this tool it should be impossible either to rub off the keen edge as soon as it is formed, or to produce a "fat" rounded edge which does not cut.

How The Santa Fe dollar was spent in 1923

Taxes more than dividends. Rate reductions more than taxes

The measure of success in railroad business is the relation of costs to returns. If the dollar earned does not cover the cost of earning it, the business fails. If it covers the cost with a margin over, the business succeeds.

THE SANTA FE DOLLAR IN 1923 WENT AS FOLLOWS:

Maintenance of track, buildings, etc.	13.37	cents
Maintenance of locomotives, freight and passenger cars	19.35	"
Train, station and switching, and other transportation	19.68	"
Traffic agencies	1.89	"
Fuel	8.49	"
Salaries and expenses of clerks and other general office employees	86	"
Legal, valuation, general officers, pensions and death benefits and miscellaneous	1.06	"
Depreciation and retirements, equipment and ice plants	3.89	"
Loss, damage and casualties	1.07	"
Rent of equipment, joint facilities, etc.	1.04	"
Interest on bonds and other interest charges	4.60	"
Dividends on capital stock	8.06	"
Taxes	8.14	"
Balance available for expanding facilities	8.79	"

Of the last item 3.02 cents came from sources other than rates so that a reduction of less than 6% in rates would have wiped out the entire margin of safety from earnings through rates.

Even a decline in gross business such as has occurred this year inevitably reduces this balance of 8.79 cents, because not many of the cost items can be cut down in proportion.

The adjustment between success and failure is a delicate one in the transportation industry. For the welfare of the country, it should not be lightly tampered with, either by laws or by the various commissions that control the main elements of railroad earnings and costs.

It is particularly notable in the above statement that taxes were more than dividends and only a little less than all the fuel used for the System. Taxes were $20,316,491.

Good service requires ample money for operation and maintenance. Even a rather substantial reduction in rates would benefit individuals so slightly as hardly to be known, while it might readily (because of poor service) cause them tremendous loss which would be quickly and keenly felt.

A railroad gets money from its rates and has no other large source of supply, even though attempts seem to be made to have the public believe otherwise. Since 1921 freight rates have been almost continuously in process of reduction. Santa Fe freight earnings were decreased $14,500,000 in 1922 and $23,945,000 in 1923 from what they would have been with 1921 rates.

The Santa Fe already has reduced freight rates many millions. But adequate service is vital for shippers. It can be furnished only when fair rates provide the money needed.

on the 26th day of June, A. D. 1924 in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 764, wherein C. C. Rose is Plaintiff and Emma Rose is Defendant, and said petition alleging that plaintiff is and has been for a period of more than 12 months prior to the filing of this petition an actual bona fide resident of the State of Texas, and has resided in the county aforesaid for at least six months preceding the filing of this cause; that on or about the 14th day of February 1912, plaintiff and defendant were lawfully married, and lived together as man and wife until on or about the 8th day of June, 1924, when without any just cause defendant abandoned plaintiff and since said time has secreted and kept hidden from plaintiff and her present whereabouts at this time is unknown. And Plaintiff alleges that during the time he and the defendant lived together as man and wife, he was kind and affectionate to her and always provided for her support and maintenance, but defendant unmindful of the duties and obligations of her marital vows, for a long period of time prior to said abandonment, began a course of unkind, harsh, cruel and tyrannical treatment toward plaintiff, which continued until defendant, without just cause, on above said date abandoned plaintiff; plaintiff alleges that defendant's actions and conduct toward him generally are of such a nature as to render their further living together as husband and wife insupportable; that during the marriage of defendant and plaintiff they have had born to them one child, as the issue of said marriage, a boy aged 10 year, named Juo Bailey, which is still living; that defendant is unable on account of her other children to properly care for and educate said child; and is an unfit person to have his care, custody and control; that plaintiff is a farmer living within a short distance of a good school, has a comfortable home and is a proper and fit person to rear and educate said boy, and that under the circumstances it would be right and proper to award the custody of said minor to plaintiff. Wherefore plaintiff prays that defendant be cited to appear and answer this petition, and that upon final hearing hereof plaintiff have judgement dissolving said marriage relations; for the custody of said minor child; and for such other and further relief, both general and special, in law and in equity to which he may be entitled to receive.

Finds Looking Irksome

A man from Lynn, Mass., has presented a somewhat unusual request in the matter of employment to the Portland (Me.) Chamber of Commerce, says the Boston Globe. He seeks employment for which he can take as payment only board and room. He has a certain fixed income, which is given him solely on condition that he does not take employment for wages. Lack of work has become irksome, hence his unique request.

To Fit the Price

A Topeka physician prescribed orthoform for a patient. This is a powerful medicine in powdered form for use in serious throat infections. The physician didn't say how much to get or intimate what the cost might be. The man of the house walked into a drug store.
"Want some orthoform," he said.
"All right, how much of it?" asked the druggist.
"What does it cost?"
"Sixty-four dollars a pound."
"Gimme two drams."—Kansas City Star.

Scientific Photos

From a seat suspended 50 feet above the ground, an osteologist of the American Museum of Natural History recently took photographs of a trotting horse speeding below. In this way he obtained accurate records of the motion of the spine and muscles in action. These records are being used in mounting the bones of Lee Axworthy, the champion trotting stallion of the world, so as to show him in the gait with which he made his record of 1:58 1/2. Trotting was bred in the bones of Lee Axworthy down on a Kentucky stock farm, and now his bones will add to his fame by completing the most scientific exhibit of horses' bones ever mounted.

MEADOW BRIEFS

By Aesculapias

The Meadow Commercial Club held a meeting last Monday night at the school auditorium. It was a special session and the members and their families were there. Several out of town guests were also present. Talks were made by A. B. Davis, of the Lubbock C. of C., B. Sharrod, Neill Douglas of the Avalanche. After the talks ice cream was served to all present. The occasion was a pleasant one and all seemed to enjoy it.

Mr. Berry, one of our progressive merchants, has his dwelling sufficiently completed to bring his family to Meadow, and they now occupy the new home.

Mrs. Bobby Terry, of Stephenville, who has been in our midst for the past week, returned home Thursday.

Mrs. J. D. Harris was called to Huckabee, Erath county, on the sudden death of her mother, Mrs. Copeland. The community sympathizes with her in this sad bereavement.

Our community was saddened on Sunday morning by the death of Mr. D. W. Smith. He had gone with his son D. B. over into New Mexico in the hope of benefiting the health of his son, who had been ill for the past year. Mr. Smith was not well when he left home and summoned a physician when they reached Plains, but getting better, he refused to return to his home, though urged to do so, and continued his journey to Lincoln, where he left his son, and began the return journey. He was ill enough, however, to call a physician at that place. He continued to grow worse and on reaching Cap Rock, his daughter, Corda, and niece, Beatrice Watkins, who were with him, thought it best to stop and call a physician. He soon lapsed into unconsciousness and the family at Meadow were notified. His wife and four daughters, with his youngest son reached him late Saturday evening, but found him to be too near death's door to recognize them, and he passed quietly away about 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The generous heart of our old friend had ceased to beat, and the "mysterious veil that hangs where sight and blindness is the same—the veil that revelation has not drawn aside—that science cannot lift, has fallen once again between the living and the dead * * *. Life is a narrow vale between the cold and barren peaks of two eternities."

Is there beyond the silent night
An endless day?

Is death a door that leads to light?
Yes, beyond the stars that glint at night,
or mayhap here when time shall be no more,
Faith, Hope, twin prophets of Eternal Light, tells us we shall meet again,
and with the Sinless One,
spend an eternity of joy.

Surrounded by family and friends and Brethren of the Mystic Tie,
he was laid to rest in the Meadow cemetery, and we doubt not that in the Morning of the Resurrection of the dead, we shall give him the glad hand and be a reunited band of family, friends and brothers.

IS THE NEWSPAPER A LIAR? ASKS AN EXCHANGE.

If the average newspaper man is a liar he usually lies to protect his community. If a boy goes out into the world and gets into trouble the home newspaper says he was a good boy until he got away into bad company. If the town's tightwad who hugged his pennies to his bosom in life dies, the newspaper man throws a mantle of charity over him and says he hated wastefulness and his hate for useless spending made him overcareful of his investments and his charities. If the town gossip dies, he carefully avoids referring to her outstanding weakness, and tells how she visited the sick and afflicted and winds up by saying she was a good neighbor. If the home team goes away from home and gets the day light whipped out of them, the home editor tells the unsuspecting world that the team was made up of second string players. The editor isn't a liar from choice. The truth struggles in his manly brest the same as it does in the village preacher, but the pride of his community and the fear of the irate subscriber makes him a trembling rabbit—and he lies to save the local pride of the town. Still—it's a great life if you don't weaken.—Ex.

The editor was glad to have Ira Bacon, representing the Mergenthaler Linotype company with headquarters at El Paso, pay us a professional call this week; also as a luncheon guest. The Mergenthaler people render a real service to their customers.

TOKIO TALKINGS

By Reporter

Tokio had two small showers of rain last week, but not enough to do the crops any good. But they are not suffering for rain yet.

Rev. Hames filled his regular appointment Sunday and Sunday night. Most of the Tokio people spent Thursday and Friday in Brownfield taking in the picnic.

Rev. Holland, who has been visiting his daughter, Mrs. Johnson, has returned to his home in south Texas. Mrs. W. E. Pippin and children of Vernon, Texas, are, are visiting J. T. Pippin and family.

Quite a crowd of the Tokio people attended the Singing Convention at Comez, Sunday, and we heard some good singing.

A. V. Taylor and wife, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Weaver Lovelace, left last week to be present at the family reunion.

Mrs. Couch and children came in last Tuesday from an extended visit with her parents.

HARRIS HAPPENINGS

By Sand Bur

Little Miss Elsie Lucile Clare arrived at the Clare residence via the stork express Monday morning, July 14th. The little lady weighed 8½ lbs., had dark hair, and is what we would term a pretty baby. We hope she'll grow up a bright and accomplished young lady and be a ray of sunshine wherever she goes.

Mrs. S. T. Murphey's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence from Floyd county, also her brother, Mike, from the same place, are visiting her this week.

Charley Jones' two cousins from Idalou, visited him Saturday night and Sunday. From the sound of things as we passed the house, we gathered that they are musically inclined as well as Charley.

Philosophers as well as poets have recognized the value of music in the home. About 550 B.C., Pythagoras founded a brotherhood in which he put into practice his doctrine that music is the great means of education in life and the guide to all moral virtue.

Brit Clare wears the smile that won't rub off, and is contemplating the purchase of another section of land.

Mr. Murphey from Munday is visiting his sons, Sam and Dewey, and their families. He also took in the picnic at Brownfield where he met several old time friends.

Mrs. M. E. Ellington, Preston and Frances spent Friday and Saturday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Harris, at Brownfield.

Education begins at the parents' knees, and every word spoken within the hearing of little children tends toward the formation of their character.

Mrs. Dumas from Brownfield, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. B. Clare and family, this week.

CHALLIS BUDGET

By Cotton Planter.

The rain Friday night was fine and dandy over here. Farmers are all smiles over the prospects of a crop of both feed and cotton.

Vergie Pric has returned home from Girard where she has been visiting some weeks.

Mrs. Bowers who has been in the hospital at Lubbock, has returned home, and we are glad to say she is much better.

Most of the Challisites took in the picnic at Brownfield. All report a nice time.

A birthday was given Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan in honor of Mr. Duncan and their baby girl, Virginia Lee. The dinner consisted of fried chicken, lemonade and everything good to eat. Ice cream was served in the afternoon.

There were two special cakes, one with 33 candles, the other with one real pretty candle. Forty-three people made up the crowd, and both the honorees received some real nice presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Krueger, from Bosque county, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Duncan, and while visiting are also having some improvements put on their place as they expect to move here next fall.

We are very glad to welcome them to Terry county.

Mr. Luther French and his father and mother from Lou, visited Bob Webber and family, Sunday.

Mr. T. Houze was seen driving around on the Challis highway in a bran new car, the last few days.

Most everybody over here who do not feel able to take a trip are expecting company from other states right away.

Dr. and Mrs. Sharp, from Louisiana, are here visiting their cousin, Will Alf Bell and family.

Will Earnest and family, of Plains, took in the picnic last week.

Quite a lot of absentee votes have been cast the past two weeks.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION

Relating to Granting of Confederate Pension

Senate Joint Resolution No. 10.

Proposing an amendment to Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas to provide that the Legislature may grant pensions to the Confederate soldiers, sailors and their widows, who have been citizens of Texas prior to January 1, 1910, providing that all soldiers, sailors and their widows eligible under the provisions hereof shall be entitled to be placed upon the rolls and participate in the pension fund created thereunder; levying a tax of seven (007) cents on the one hundred ($100.00) dollars valuation of property in this State for the payment of such pension, providing that the Legislature may reduce the rate of pensions for such purposes, fixing a time for the election to be held on such amendment and making an appropriation to pay the expenses thereof.

Be it Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas shall be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 51. The Legislature shall have no power to make any grant of public money to any individual, association of individuals, municipal or other corporations, whatsoever, provided, however, the Legislature may grant aid to indigent or disabled Confederate soldiers and sailors, who came to Texas prior to January 1, 1910, and to their widows, in indigent circumstances and who have been bona fide residents of this State since January 1, 1910, and who were married to such soldiers and sailors prior to January 1, 1910, and to indigent and disabled soldiers who under the special laws of the State of Texas during the war between the States served in organizations for the protection of the frontier against Indian raiders or Mexican marauders and to indigent and disabled soldiers of the militia of the State of Texas who were in active service during the war between the States and to the widows of such soldiers who are in indigent circumstances and who were married to such soldiers prior to January 1, 1910, provided that the word "widow" in the preceding lines of this section shall not apply to women born since 1861, and all soldiers and sailors and widows of soldiers and sailors eligible under the above conditions shall be entitled to be placed upon the pension roll and participate in the distribution of the pension fund of this State under any existing law or laws hereafter passed by the Legislature, and also to grant aid to the establishment and maintenance of a home for said soldiers and sailors, their wives and widows and women who aided in the Confederacy under such regulations and limitations as may be provided by law, provided the Legislature may provide for such husband and wife to remain together in the home. There is hereby levied in addition to all other taxes heretofore permitted by the Constitution of Texas a State ad valorem tax on the property of seven (007) cents on the one hundred ($100.00) dollars valuation for the purpose of creating a special fund for the payment of pension for services in the Confederate army and navy, frontier organizations and the militia of the State of Texas, and for the widows of such soldiers serving in said armies, navies, organizations or militia; provided that the Legislature may reduce the tax rate hereinafter levied, and provided further that the provisions of this Section shall not be construed so as to prevent the grant of aid in cases of public calamity.

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified voters of the State of Texas at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1924, at which all voters shall have printed or written on their ballots: "For amendment to 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution authorizing the Legislature to grant aid to Confederate soldiers, sailors and their widows who have been a resident of this State since January 1, 1910," and Against amendment to Section 51 of Article 3, of the Constitution authorizing the Legislature to grant aid to Confederate soldiers and their widows."

Sec. 3. The Governor is hereby directed to issue the proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State, and the sum of five thousand ($5,000.00) dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated out of the general funds of this State not otherwise appropriated for expenses of publications and elections thereunder.

Approved, March 20, 1923.

S. L. STAPLES,
Secretary of State
