ST. LOUIS TIMES SEES GREAT FUTURE FOR PLAINS SECTION

The story of West Texas is one of steady, stable prosperity and delightful living conditions. Any county in the Plains country is a good county to visit, to live in or invest in. Each is possessed of remarkable natural resources, each is blessed with splendidly fertile soil.

Millions upon millions of acres stretch around, needing only human intelligence and interest to make in what they should be, not mere producers of wealth beyond the seams of avarice, but far more important, to make them the dwelling place of hundreds of millions of happy, intelligent human beings.

There is also an abundance of valuable minerals in this magnificent empire, waiting for the power of thought to develop and pour these riches into the world.

West Texas is the place to go if you want to live in a great big country where opportunities abound, and where a man is valued for just what he is among other red-blooded men who have transformed the great plains from an isolated, practically uninhabited section into a treasure chest that is now producing meat animals, cotton, grain and petroleum to the annual value of over $400,000,000.

Texas comprises 265,896 square miles of land and water which would enable this state, under intense cultivation to easily feed the population of the world.

Most West Texans were born in less favored lands. They did not believe what the heard about the possibilities of this section until they saw the development taking place, then they remained.

West Texas has learned to think, talk and act as a unit. It is unity of the citizens that makes the "West Texas Spirit," and these empire builders have determined that this spirit shall live forever. This section truly is in an era of development, unmarred by pullback and pessimists.

The chief charm of this section is its society. Here is the proud boast of a leader of social diversions: "No amount of money can buy a man's social footing in West Texas." This is not a mere boast—it is the plain truth. To anyone who has suffered from the domination of money in the social affairs of other sections, West Texas would naturally be one of the most charming spots in the United States.

It must not be inferred from this that West Texas society is democratic, for it is not. On the contrary it is as thoroughly aristocratic as any in the country. It is not an aristocracy of clothes or money or forefathers, but of brains and merit and social qualities. If the aspirant for social attention passes the test of social fitness, there are no questions asked about means or genealogy.

West Texas has a church going rather than a pleasure seeking tendency. The religious influence is an unusually strong one, as it naturally would be when one considers the foundation of early piety that it rests upon. Churches are numerous and well supported.

It is not the purpose of this article to describe in detail the West Texas country's agricultural and industrial prosperity, its place in the vanguard of business enterprise, the indomitable courage of its pioneer citizens, nor to compare its achievements along commercial lines with that of other sections. To glean a momentary glimpse of West Texas as a great cultural center, to search behind the scenes of every day turmoil and business, to discover a section where the goddess of learning, Pallas Athena has altered erected and forever smoking to her adoration is the main objective.

The greatest asset our country has today is the youth of the land. They are the professional men, the leaders in finance and commerce, the statesmen of the future. On their education and training depends the welfare of our nation. Some are born leaders, but they must have training and guidance to fit them for positions of responsibility.

For it is in the colleges, in the institutions of learning, that men and women are equipped with weapons that will make them valiant warriors in the struggle of life. It is in the stillness and quiet of the classroom, away from the hurried turmoil of metropolitan life, that the foundations are laid for future leadership.

We are apt to overlook the value of these treasure houses of learning and science. We are prone to look upon our schools, colleges and universities as mere institutions where youth is kept out of harm's way.

Our industrial progress is dependent upon the discoveries of science and the application of these discoveries to industry. In fact, the industry of agriculture, of manufacture, and even of merchandising owe their high standards of efficiency to scientific discoveries and research of the laboratory.

The chemistry of rubber, the research in metallurgy, the new applications of electricity are factors as vital in the automobile industry as is the motor itself. Man has conquered the air. Yet in so doing he has been aided by many branches of science. Chemistry, metallurgy and mathematics are tools with which the civil and mechanical engineers function.

We are living in a great industrial age when quality production is required. In order to accomplish this, man power and even genius must be trained for the necessary specialization.

Our schools, colleges and universities hold forth the one practical means of preparing men for specialized work demanded by industry, yet it would be false theory to depreciate the self made man, for he has been among the builders of the nation.

It is an unquestioned fact that industry is dependent for its man power, genius and executive personell upon the young men now in universities acquiring specialized knowledge and training. That educational institutions have been the most potent factors in the production and great increase of wealth is best evidenced by the fact that more wealth has been produced in the past 74 years than during the history of the entire world prior to 1850.

Above and beyond all else, each of the West Texas counties prides itself on its boys and girls and on its schools. In the early days $2,000,000 acres of land were set aside for public education. Climatic conditions permit outdoor play every day. West Texans believe that of all the money that men spend, that spent on education is the most wisely spent.

With characteristic American efficiency West Texas has not confined itself to one or two subjects. Its appeal to youth is universal. No phase of higher learning is overlooked in West Texas. Does a young man's inclination run toward mechanical structure, has he a vision of building roads and bridges, erecting steel towers, digging canals, work on the baffling problems of tunneling sands, or scientific agriculture, he may gratify his ambition at the $2,500,000 Texas Technological College at Lubbock.

Does he feel more disposed toward the liberal arts, would he accompany Socrates through the ancient streets of Athens, or hear Cicero before the senate, would he listen to the Maudslows, the Ariens, the Athenasians, the early church fathers hold forth

MR. WINNINGHAM OF MEADOW MAKES FINE CROP

M. H. Winningham, prominent planter of the Meadow country was down one day last week and informed us that he had made a good crop of cotton as well as plenty of feed to run the place next year. Mr. Winningham lives 2 1/2 miles northwest of Meadow and has a fine place. Mr. Winningham believes the Meadow section to be among the best if not the best all round country in the universe.

Mr. Winningham has just finished picking 70 bales of cotton on 185 acres, which is an average of much better than a third of a bale, and he informed us that some of his cotton did better than a half bale per acre.

Mr. Winningham is specializing in high grade cotton, and if you are interested, you will find his ad in the want ad section.

The silent partner usually has the last word.

on subtle questions of dogma, he will find true guidance on his way in the educational institutions of this section. Modern school houses have been built in every district. The high schools are affiliated with the Texas University. Teachers are selected from the best instructors. The State Normal school at Canyon represents an investment of more than $1,000,000. Wayland College, a splendid sectarian institution is located in the city of Plainview.

Pioneers must be men of rare vision and courage, and this was none the less true of those who first caught the vision of educational advantages for women equal to those enjoyed by men. Superstition, ignorance and bigotry assailed them from every side. Few were the voices that spoke encouragement. Fewer still were the hands lifted to help. Legion were those who jeered and disbelieved. But those days have long since passed. Though it is a popular contention that young ladies' colleges have produced women who consider themselves superior to their sisters, there is no snobbishness at educational institutions in West Texas.

Institutions of learning in West Texas are practically all in their infancy when we compare their age with that of the schools of Europe and Asia. But they grow up with the country and reports of educators and educational associations show that West Texas has attained distinction for the excellence of its educational system.

While West Texas has every reason to be proud of its productive power, its citizens realize that it is not always material greatness, worldly gain of prosperity which stands as the supreme goal of mankind. They believe it to be their patriotic duty to develop educational institutions that can make men and women and send them into the world.—St. Louis Times, Dec. 15, 1924.

C. SEARS GOT 47 BALE OUT—HAS BOUGHT A PLACE

That tall, hungry looking farmer, living about two or three miles north west of Brownfield that his neighbors "guy" so much about selling some kind of a salve, was in one of those raw days trying to keep warm on the sunny side of a building, and the Herald man knowing that Sears always harvested a crop if any other farmer got one, approached him for a few figures. C. Sears is never adverse to a "little" questioning, and he gave us about the following information:

We have harvested 46 bales of cotton and am sure we will get another. We made about 20 tons of good maize, about 150 bushels of corn and an abundance of bundle stuff. Mr. Sears had 140 acres in cotton.

He was prouder of the fact that he had just closed a deal for the south half of the R. E. Thomas section southwest of town a few miles, and will move on it as soon as he can build a home on it. The consideration was $9,000.00 cash.

SANTA CLAUS LETTERS

We have below a few belated Santa Claus letters that we are running anyway, and feel sure that we will be able to get them to old Santa in time for our little friends who wrote them to make connection with what they want, and we are rushing the Herald to publication this week for that very reason:

Dear Santa Claus—
Will you please bring me a little barn-yard, two horses and a tri-cycl and a stocking full of play pretties in it. With lots of love,
Bert Jr. Shepherd.

Dear Santa Claus—
Will you please bring me a rocking chair, doll, ball, gun and story book, nuts, candy apples, oranges and fire crackers.
Aubrey Wayne

Dear Santa Claus—
Will you bring me a foot ball, gun, tinker toys, story book about Little Red Riding Hood, cowboy suit, nuts, candy and fire works.

IDLE WIEVS CLUB

Mrs. Tom May was hostess to the Idle Wives Club Tuesday, Dec. 12th. A very delightful afternoon was spent playing 42. At the close of the afternoon, Mrs. May gave two very beautiful cut prizes to Mrs. Ray Brownfield, for low, and Mrs. J. R. Lemmon for high. Lovely refreshments were served to the following guests:

Mesdames King, McGowan, Dallas, Bell, Graham, Lemmon, A. M. and A. R. Brownfield, Downing, A. Sawyer Shelton, and G. W. Radford, of Quanah, Texas.—Reporter.

HOLIDAY GREETINGS TO THE HERALD READERS

That delightful season of the year is at hand when all mankind, living in any county that believes in the tenets of the Christian religion, become of one mind and one heart. It is that time when either gifts or at least good wishes abound, and it is also the time when we may express our thanks for the last time during the present year for the manifold favors and good will of our friends and our customers.

Prosperity has abounded in Terry county and its trade territory during the good year 1924 for which we can all rejoice together. The health of the community as a whole has been good. The loss through death of our friends or loved ones has been less according to population. The crop, despite a prolonged drought and a rainfall of one-third our regular annual precipitation, and not a few insect depredations, including grasshoppers and cotton lice has not been bad, and the price received for some is almost within keeping of the price of products we have to buy. The feed crop, while not abundance seems to be sufficient to run the county, if economy is used, and most of our farmers will pull almost out of debt and not a few will have sufficient funds to tide over another year without the necessity of borrowing, or applying to merchants for credit.

We hear no grumbling among the business men of the town, and they express themselves as wishing that 1925 will equal 1924. They say that some lines of business have been a little overdone this year, but with the influx of new people from now on for the next few months, they expect this phase of business to take care of itself next year.

The Herald, along with its friends and co-workers for the upbuilding of the town and county, has shared to some extent in this prosperity. We have some very staunch customers in our little city, many of whom we never have to take up valuable time in trying to convince them that advertising pays. They already believe in it as strong as we do, and make liberal use of our advertising columns. These same men have also kept the job presses going at a reasonable lively clip this year, and as a consequence, the wolf, we feel, will be kept at a safe distance for some time at least from the Herald household. The readers and advertisers are both responsible for this condition, and we heartily thank each of you from the bottom of our heart, and wish you and yours a very, very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

There will be no issue of the Herald on January 2nd. It has been the custom of the Herald for the past 15 years to take a week off during the holidays to clean up some and rest, and give the printers a few days vacation, in order that we may make a full run during the new year. On January 9th we will visit you again.

MANY BEAUTIFUL HOLLIDAY WINDOWS IN BROWNFIELD

No citizen can go down the streets of Brownfield without feeling a just pride in the town and its many progressive merchants, for a mere glance at the show windows shows that the merchants have purchased good holiday stock, and they want them to look well. And it gives one a feeling that there is a friendly rivalry between them, each trying exceed the other, and the whole gives the town a real holiday appearance.

We dare say that few town many times the size of Brownfield have lovelier holiday show windows.

While passing around the business section recently, we wondered to ourself that if we were forced to pick the prettiest if we would ever be able to do so.

NOTICE OF LOVING THANKS

For the kind and loving service and untiring loyalty of our friends and neighbors during the sickness of our beloved husband and father. We offer our frail but heartfelt love and gratitude, and may the God of Heaven remember each one of you as you so lovingly remembered us in this trying hour. With love,
Mrs. J. D. Youree and children

Mrs. Joe J. McGowan's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Radford, of Quanah, are here visiting their daughter and family.

R. BARRIER TO ERECT TWO-STORY BUILDING HERE

Mr. Raymond Barrier, prominent dry goods merchant and capitalist, of Lubbock, has entered contract with the local Odd Fellow Lodge to erect a handsome two story building on their lot on the north side of the square and adjoining the 2-story building to E. G. Alexander now under construction. Mr. Barrier informed the Herald man that it would be the prettiest two story in town when completed. Mr. Barrier formerly lived here, conducting a dry goods and grocery business, and has always believed in the future of this city. He has another handsome brick structure on the west side of the square here, as well as much of our good farming lands.

The new building is to occupy 25X 100 feet of the lot, and we understand that the contract gives Mr. Barrier the first story, and he puts in foundation sufficient to carry any reasonable number of stores the Odd Fellows might wish to erect in the future. The lodge is to have full possession of the second story of the present building when complete.

In this connection we might also state that Mr. Barrier has land within a short distance of the oil well in Yoakum county, and has had geologists to make test, which have been favorable, and Mr. Barrier is now interesting other financiers of Lubbock in putting down a test well.

TEXAS UTILITIES HEAD HERE LAST WEEK

H. Wurdock, of St. Louis, General Manager of the Texas Utilities Co., was a visitor in our city one day last week and paid the Herald a short call. The Herald is always glad to have men of Mr. Wurdock's calibre call, for they invariably leave a goodly amount of optimism behind. Mr. Wurdock always seems to be of good cheer, and wants the other man to feel the same way.

Mr. Wurdock stated that he had brought their engineer along to plan their ice plant here, and that the Utilities Company expected to build an ice plant here, but would like to ask the people here to lay off of all adventures and pikers until they find time to do something. He said it was their intention to build a real plant here that would be at least five years in advance of any profits, but that it takes time to do things they way they should be done.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS CLOSED FRIDAY FOR HOLLIDAYS

The average school kid in Brownfield is now up in the air, for two reasons—Santa is at hand, and school has been dismissed for two whole weeks—its almost too much of a good thing for them at one time.

We have had an excellent school this year up to present, despite the fact that it has been crowded.

The question now before the patrons is, what are we going to do with the hosts of pupils after the holidays?

Of course there is talk of voting bonds some time early in the year for the purpose of erecting a high school building, which no one doubts will carry, but it could not possibly be completed for this term.

TERRY TO HAVE A NEW COURT HOUSE

We understand the Commissioners Court of Terry county will give the people a chance some time in the near future to say whether or not they want a real courthouse, and the Herald is of the opinion that they will say it loud enough to be heard all over Texas, for no one questions the fact that we need a new courthouse.

In fact, as we have before stated in these columns, no one ever points out our old shack over there in the middle of the square as our courthouse to even the children, much less to strangers, and half the people in the county under twelve don't know we even have one, we venture to say.

The time is now ripe, with the arrival of lots of new folks to put up one we will all be proud of and it will cost none of us very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Brazil, and baby, from Grady N. M. are here to spend the holidays with Mrs. Brazil's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Carver. They were also accompanied by Mrs. Brazil's sister, Miss Jewell Carver, who has been spending the fall with them.

The Trails End For The Old Year

Christmas is the time for reciprocation of kindly sentiment. We therefore pause amidst the busy hours of our communities' commercial and industrial progress to express our most hearty wish to you and yours, not as patrons alone, but as our friends—A Happy Christmas.

Just as the ties of friendship are strengthened at this Holiday Season so may our business associations grow in mutual accord and confidence. May we serve you more and more.

Little Known About Saint

Very little is known regarding Saint Bartholomew, one of the disciples of Christ. He is supposed to be also the Nathaniel mentioned in the first chapter in the gospel of St. John. He is believed to have traveled on a mission into Armenia, and to have there suffered martyrdom by being flayed alive. Himself one of the gentlest of men, he was destined by the irony of fate to give his name to one of the most frightful massacres recorded in history, and to the London Saturnalia known as St. Bartholomew's fair. This famous festival was celebrated annually in Smithfield, where many Huguenot refugees located, on August 24, for over 750 years, and was finally abolished in 1835, by which time it had degenerated into an orgy of drunkenness and debauchery.

Mythical Snake Stories

There is a snake of the South Atlantic states, foolishly feared by the negroes, who say it will put its tail in its mouth, stiffen its body and roll along like a hoop, aiming to let go of its sting-tipped tail and dart it into the first person it meets. Similar stories are told of a closely related species, the wanpam snake, common in swampy ground in the South, and both are called horn snakes. In fact, both species are perfectly harmless and spend most of their time beneath the ground, burrowing deeply into the soil. The former is blue black above, marked with three red lines, and flesh-colored below, with black spots; while the latter is uniform bluish-black above and banded with red on the abdomen.

Simultaneous Ideas

Darwin originated the natural selection theory of evolution, so far as he himself was concerned, but it is a curious fact that by an extraordinary coincidence Alfred Russel Wallace formulated the same theory at the very same time of its utterance by Darwin. Both men published articles presenting this theory in the same number of the Journal of the Linnean Society in 1858.

A factory machine is attached to a solid floor, which nearly prevents vibration. Yet it is constantly being adjusted and lubricated. Hence it wears for many years.

An automobile is constantly bumped over rough roads. Yet in spite of this terrible strain, the average car gets much less attention than the factory machine. Hence it depreciates much faster.

"Tonkey," doorman at the Palace theater, is perfectly normal on some subjects—a majority, in fact—but he has a perfect obsession on the question of Mike Genora's famous corned-beef-and-cabbage. Genora, burned out in the Capitol hotel fire, is reopening soon in the old Carl Ries store—as soon as redecoration is completed.

Saturday "Tonkey" met "Mike" on the street. "Lissen, y' old buzzard," murmured Tonkey in sweetest tones. "If you don't get your dang old chow dump opened up soon, and cook some corned beef and cabbage, my lovely disposition is gonna be ruined. C. ### Javanese Clever

The Javanese natives have a great love for music. Some of their musical instruments are very ingenious in appearance and pleasant to listen to. One of them, which is called a gamelan, is a sort of native orchestra, composed chiefly of gongs sounded in various cadences so as to produce a very sweet melody, with an accompaniment of wind and string instruments. A bamboo instrument called the anklung is also very popular. This is shaken by hand and gives forth a sprightly rhythm of which the natives are very fond. The music is played in the open air and is frequently the accompaniment to entertainments at which the age-old stories of the island are told. The Javanese also excel in work in copper and gold, although, having none of their own, they have to import their raw materials.

Also a Counter Irritant

A feminine newspaper writer says no two people can live together in matrimony without friction and without getting on each other's nerves. But people must marry, and some of them must live together, friction or no friction, nerves or no nerves. It seems to us that under such circumstances children are not only a great help, but necessary.—Houston Post-Dispatch.

Growth of Post Office

Benjamin Franklin was the first head of the postal system of the United States. When he took over the affairs of his office, there were 25 post offices, with an aggregate postal revenue of $30,000 a year. Today we have more than 63,000 post offices and about 300,000 employees. The aggregate revenue collected and expended amounts to about $800,000,000 annually.

Easy to Begin
-Hard to Stop

It is an easy matter to start an Account at this bank. One dollar enrolls you in the Legion of Savers. It is a much more difficult task to stop saving after you have formed the habit. The money you save is never missed. You learn to get along without it, and have the added satisfaction of knowing that you are traveling the road to success. You'll never know how easy it is to save a certain definite amount until the happy day when your pass book shows that you have gained your goal. Then you're amazed at the rapidity with which small amounts have grown into bigger ones.

A Christmas Greeting
By W. E. GILROY
In The Congressionalist

There's not a memory of home, or friend,
Be they so far remote, however lowly,
No place where new affections richly blend
That does not grow more beautiful, more holy.
At Christmas.

There is no laughter of a little child,
No fiery passion of Youth's rosy morning,
No treasure-house of Age, benign and mild,
That is not sweeter for the Christ's adorning.
At Christmas.

There is no depth of love, no pang of sorrow,
No mighty moving in the human heart,
No comfort for today, hope for tomorrow,
In which the Christ has not a larger part.
At Christmas.

So, as we send our greeting of affection,
We share the memory of Him who came,
In fellowship, in happy recollection,
Each fervent wish is hallowed in His name.
At Christmas.

"Tragedy" and "Comedy"
At first tragedies were brought on the stage as means of reminding men of the things which happen to them, and that it is according to nature for things to happen so, and that, if thou art delighted with what is shown on the stage, thou shouldst not be troubled with that which takes place on the larger stage. After tragedy, the old comedy was introduced which had a magisterial freedom of speech, and by its very plainness of speaking was useful in reminding men to beware of insolence.—Marcus Aurelius.

The Greater Deed
He who sows the ground with care and diligence acquires a greater store of religious merit than he could gain by the repetition of ten thousand prayers.—Zoroaster.

Qualities That Live
The best portion of a good man's life—his little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and love.—Wordsworth.

Bees Work Selves to Death
Honeybees turn on the heat in their apartment houses at 57 degrees Fahrenheit, says the Journal of Pharmacy. When it gets that cold, they form a compact spherical cluster.

On the inside of the ball become active and walk, wiggle and heat their wings to generate heat. The outer shell of the cluster is made up of bees that cuddle close and stay still. They furnish the insulation which prevents the escape of heat so effectively that there may be 75 degrees difference between the inside and the outside only four and one-half inches away.

Thousands of dollars are lost to American beekeepers every year, however, by bees working themselves to death in keeping warm this way.

The Herald will greet you again on January 9th, 1925. It hopes the Christmas and New Year will be all you expect, and that prosperity and happiness abound with you during the year 1925.

Editor E. L. Hill, of the Tahoka News had a good editorial on writing the word Christmas "Xmas," explaining that the word was derived from Christ and mass, the latter used by some churches as a part of their service, and that X means nothing. The Herald never writes the word that way, and prints it the correct way even when so used by others. Many of the Santa Claus letters were so written, even in homes of culture and refinement—but the abbreviated spelling is passing in a rapid way.

Texas Republicans are the luckiest set of folks in the world, providing they are prominent enough to be placed on a ticket some time or another. Of course they are hopelessly backed by the Democratic candidates, but that is just where their luck will be exercised. Texas is a big rich old state and just crum full of fat federal jobs, and of course the administration at Washington looks in sympathy on its fallen standard bearers, and no matter if there are tens of thousands of better qualified men of Democratic persuasion, the Republican gets the job, even if he couldn't be elected constable of his precinct.

A deal was closed recently whereby the Seagraves Signal changes hands again. This time R. B. Haynes sells to Messrs. Albert Curry, president manager, and O. V. Davis, a young banker, of Tahoka. They will take charge next week. Mr. Haynes is at present undecided what he will do, but is moving to Lubbock. While we are not acquainted with Mr. Davis, who we understand will be a silent partner, we are well acquainted with Mr. Curry, having the honor of being the man who learned him his cases and how to do job work. We also know the quality of the boy—know that he is everything he appears, and will not only make Seagraves a good and faithful newspaper man, but a splendid citizen as well.

No room in the inn for the Savior of man. This has been oft repeated in verse and song. Some one has said that no one now cares where the inn stood that refused shelter to the holy family, nor who the proprietor was, but the world seeks out the humble location of stable that did the best they could for Joseph and Mary and expected child. It is now hollowed ground and a large church stands over the supposed location of the manger. We have another passage in the Bible that warns us that we might be entertaining angels, so before turning the cold shoulder on anyone, we should be sure of our position. Let happiness and friendship prevail this glorious Christmas, and let the citizens and churches see that no little fellow in our reach goes without a visit from old Santa.

The news of O'Donnell's prosperity has spread to all parts of the country, or at least one would judge so by watching the bunch of beggars, peddlers and grafters that have been plying their trades among the people of late. To get all the money they can and give nothing in return seems to be their one ambition. These fellows care nothing for the town or its future—they get the money and are gone. This is not fair to the home merchants who are paying out their hard earned cash to support the city government, the schools and churches.—O'Donnell Index.

They are over here too, Kellis, and it is our opinion that the too last named should be taxed so high by the city government that they would "get for home, Bruno," and the beggars should be sent to a committee appointed for the purpose to see that they were worthy, and if so give them what they need, otherwise put them in the same class with the peddlers and grafters. However, we do not consider local farmers who are selling their own products, and pay their taxes, as peddlers.

INVENT SUCCESSFUL COTTON "BOLLIE" PULLER

Four Plainview citizens have invented a farm machine which bids fair to revolutionize cotton growing on the Plains and in other sections where there are "bollies."

One man and a team of two horses can gather from three to five bales of cotton a day.

The "bollie" puller invented by Messrs. W. E. and Ed Boyd, J. T. McGee and Virgil Rodgers, and a patent will be secured. It has been thoroughly tested in cotton fields around Plainview, and is proving a success. It costs only about $25 to build the machine, so we are told, for it is very simple.

This mechanical "nigger" as it has been jokingly named, is built on runners with stake body, and curved steel fingers to strip stalks of all bollies as the horses pull the machine along the rows, the bollies being pushed back into the wagon body, which, when filled, is dumped and taken to the gin in another wagon or truck.

Here on the Plains the cotton opens and is picked for several weeks, then comes frost and kills the leaves, causing them to drop off, leaving the stalk with partly opened "bollies," which are pulled or snapped by the pickers, who charge about $1.00 or hundred pounds, and make from $6 to $8 per day for their work. One man and team and this machine can gather from six to ten thousand pounds in a day, which shows the tremendous saving it means to the cotton growers.—Plainview News.

Ancient Candlestick

Unique in appearance is an iron candlestick owned by a Los Angeles girl. This was given her ancestors by Henri II of France. It was used in the doughty monarch's hunting lodge, and is made of sturdy iron spirals set upon a round base on three bent legs. The candle fits down in the spiral, and there is an ingenious iron knob or handle which, when twisted, raises the diminishing candle a spiral at a time, so that the light may be kept even as the wax melts down.

The officers of election hereby appointed by the Commissioner's Court to hold General Election are hereby re-appointed, and ordered to hold said election in accordance with general election laws.

No person shall vote at said election, unless he is a free holder in said county, and a qualified voter under the constitution and laws of the state.

The voting shall be by ballot, and those desiring to prevent such stock from running at large, shall have printed or written on their ballots the words, "For the Stock Law," and those favoring permitting such animals to run at large, shall have written or printed on their ballots the words, "Against the Stock Law."

The following letter from Mr. Wilbur F. Fauley, one of the editors of the New York Times is self explanatory:

New York, Dec. 13, 1924
Mr. A. J. Stricklin,
Brownfield, Texas.

Dear Sir:—

I enclose money order for $1.50 for renewal of my year's subscription to the Terry County Herald.

In one of your recent issues, among the Santa Claus letters, was one from Ola Belle Brown, who wrote that she was a little girl eleven years old and going blind. I am sending Ola Belle a package by parcel post, in our care, with the compliments of Santa Claus, who, although he has many thousands of children to look after in New York, would never forget the little girls and boys of Terry county, and certainly never a dear little girl like Ola Belle Brown.

Yours very truly,
Wilbur F. Fauley.

The announcement of Dr. J. R. Lemmon that he is quitting Brownfield to go to Lubbock will come as a regrettable surprise to his many friends and customers here. The Dr. came to Brownfield several years ago as a young physician, during which time he has built up a large and constantly growing practice, and at the same times has attended many lectures and special courses. He always has seemed to have a knack as baby doctor, and has specialized in that line to a degree where he is now locating in a larger city with hospitals and devote his practice to this one line.

J. F. Dickerson and brother, of Grand Saline, have each purchased 1/4 section of land here, one from John Burnett, and the other from Homer Hall, east of town, and went home to begin loading their cars for this point. Welcome to Terry.

George Kitchen, one of our blacksmiths, came in recently and got on our mailing list.

G. A. F. Jones, of Marlow, Okla., brother of Mrs. Dr. Copeland, came in one day last week to pay a short visit to the Copeland family as he was in this part of the country prospecting.

THE Christmas Reprimand
By Eleanor E. King

IF SO many years had not already swept over his head—sorrow, great whiteness of hair—one would have declared him too good to live. His kindly deeds had made his kindly face. His every act, thought or deed, was for someone else. Yet, "this man of God" sat with his head on his hand, deep in thought. In these last few moments he had lived over ten years or more; had seen twelve little girls grow to womanhood.

Mr. Baxter had taken a class from the beginners' department. Every Sunday these twelve little girls had been a delight as they sat listening with eager, attentive faces to the wonderfully interesting things they were told. All too soon came graduation from grammar school. The lessons had to go a little deeper for the high school students. The teacher was fully equal to the task. Finally college took its toll, until only three of his flock remained, and those few left in the fall to start their college career.

Mrs. Baxter came in, interrupting his reverie. "Ellen," he began, "I often think I had such joy in teaching those girls; I wonder if I did right in keeping them under one teacher so long. I suggested that I turn them over to some woman to teach; I thought she might understand their needs better but somehow I couldn't get up much enthusiasm about it."

"Why, B. B.," protested his wife, "this is no time to worry about that. I feel rather responsible for the girls, and the attitude they may take. I hope they haven't been influenced too strongly by me."

"B. B.," you are in a bad frame of mind tonight," interposed Mrs. Baxter, sitting down on the arm of his chair, patting his head. "Don't you know that most people are too busy tonight getting ready for the Christmas festivities to be mooning over past history? You know we have to get the box ready—"

"Oh, yes," broke in "B. B." "That two pounds of pecans I promised to take down the street, Ellen; I will go right away."

The doorbell rang vigorously, three times. "B. B." hastened to the door. "If it isn't my first lieutenant—a pet name he had for a member of his class. "Won't you come up."

"No, thank you, Mr. Baxter, I can't right now. The girls are planning a class reunion while they are home for the Christmas holidays. They want to know if they can't count on their teacher for one of those huddling lessons—like they used to have before we were scattered to the four winds."

"B. B." surprised, dazed and happy all in the same breath, just chuckled the way he always did when something pleased him unusually. "You surely can count on me," was all he could say.

"Here is something to sneak upstairs with you."

His "first lieutenant" came closer, pretending to whisper, "Now, don't let your wife know about this," and she slipped a box into his hand—"here is something to sneak upstairs with you, Merry Christmas!"

"B. B." stood dumfounded, alternately shaking, turning, rattling, smelling and fondling the box; he took it upstairs. He dropped into a chair. This was the first time any of his girls had remembered him on Christmas, beyond a card, through all these years. He had always made it a point to tend to all graduations and Christmases. The girls had appreciated it. This was the first time, but he hastened to tell himself, it was quite all right—he had never expected it to be otherwise.

Unwrapping the tissue paper, the box disclosed a leather bill-fold with a hand-tooled design. "Ellen," he shouted in his happiness, "See what my 'first lieutenant' made with her own hands for me. The card on it says:

"Just an attempt to show a wee part of my great appreciation for the wonderful work you have done in teaching our class.

Patching Concrete

When repairing damaged or cracked concrete work, keep the place to be patched thoroughly wet for several hours before working on it, and roughen it with a hammer or chisel if it is smooth. Also be sure that you use the same proportions of sand, gravel and cement as in the original mixture, so that the new work will expand and contract the same as the old concrete. Otherwise the patch will crack.—Popular Science Monthly.

BEEN HAVING REAL CHRISTMAS WEATHER IN TERRY

A northeast wind with real teeth hit this part of the country last Thurs. afternoon like a ton of brick and begin working on the thermometer with two pile drivers, and as a consequence, mercury had settled in the bottom with the other dregs by Friday morning, around the zero mark, and has not had much encouragement to reappear yet, though Tuesday afternoon was some better. No reports of range cattle deaths have reached this office, however, as first reported in Dallas and Fort Worth, as the blizzard was unaccompanied with sleet or snow, and a bright sun was in evidence most of the time during the worst of it. The worst trouble we learned was the bursting of water pipes and such like, that always annoys people and cause them to lose the heat of tempers. There is another one blowing this (Tuesday) morning, but we hope it weakens before night. We like winter, but we know when we have enough at one time.

Postmaster J. C. Bohannon was in one day this week to have some job work printed, and renewed his Herald for another year. A postmaster could read other peoples' paper and get by with it, but we are glad the postmaster of Brownfield is not built of that material.

Giving a woman driver plenty of roadway is both polite and prudent.

Mr. H. P. French's brother, who is visiting him, and who has been very sick is able to be up again.

Miss Blanch Cammons, Reuben Sharp, Idamae Sharp, James Massengill, were callers at Mr. P. M. Williams last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. J. A. Taylor is very busily engaged in adding two rooms to the rent house of Mr. J. M. McMillan, where Mrs. K. Sharp resides.

The people in Yoakum county in the Liberty community are getting the most of their cotton out.

Mrs. Lizzie Sharp called at her daughter's, Mrs. Clara Huskey's Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McMillan took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Taylor Sunday, and reported a good time.

Marvin and Charley Taylor started to Brownfield, Tuesday, with corn and maize.

W. B. Cotton was out in the Liberty community looking for cottonseed.

Little Miss Marill Sharp took a trip down to her sister's, Mrs. Gertrude Taylor's Monday morning, as her brother, Ruben had business in that section.

Mr. P. M. Williams called on uncle Babe Taylor last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. French took a trip to New Mexico last Sunday.

We had a nice snow and a small shower of rain last week.

Miss Blanche Cammon, our school teacher, at Liberty school house will

Dime Novels Brought Him Fame and Fortune

Erastus F. Beadle, the originator of the dime novel, which type of publication occupies a chapter in Edmund Lester Pearson's "Books in Black or Red," published the first dime novel, according to Mr. Pearson, in 1860. It was a small pamphlet with orange pink covers. The firm of Beadle & Adams continued their business until 1897.

Beadle, a descendant of American pioneers and soldiers, was born in Otsego county, New York, in 1821, says the Detroit News. Working as a boy for a miller, he found a need one day for letters of some sort to label the bags of grain. He cut the letters from blocks of hardwood, as Gutenberg's predecessors had done. This experience interested him in printing; he learned the art, and by 1852 had a printing shop of his own. In 1858 he moved to New York to test an idea which had come to him; the publication of books to be sold at 10 cents--song books, joke books and finally novels. The first of these books were mainly historical novels of the American Revolution, or early pioneer life. About nine-tenths of the settlers, then and later, were American.

Home of Half-Million Gulls

Ravenglass, on the coast of Cumberland, England, is one of the greatest haunts of seagulls (commonly called gulleries) on the British coast. Their breeding season ended with the last days of June. These beautiful birds are of the black-headed variety, and the chief game warden estimates that there are over 500,000 birds, which is regarded as a most conservative estimate. The gallery is situated on the Muncaster Castle estate.

Usefulness in the Business

The president of a bank in Chicago was telling some friends at his club of a red-headed office boy he had lately taken into his employ.

"He came to me," said the banker, "with recommendations from his father, who was a schoolmate of mine. After I read the note from the father, I told the boy to take off his hat, sit down in a chair and tell me why he wanted to be a banker. His answer was:

"Because I am good at multiplying."

"Well," I said, "can't you subtract and divide, too?"

"Oh, yes," he said, "but because a banker wants to make all he can, I thought you wanted a boy who could multiply."--Philadelphia Ledger.
