DO YOU ???

Boost your city, boost your friend;
Boost your Church that you attend.
Boost the street on which you're dwelling;
Boost the goods that you are selling.

Boost the people 'round about you—
They could get along without you
But success will quicker find them
If they know that you're behind them.

Boost for every forward movement;
Boost for every new improvement;
Boost the man for whom you labor;
Boost the stranger and the neighbor.

Cease to be a chronic knocker;
Cease to be a progress blocker;
If you'd make our city better,
Boost it to the final letter.

Our neighboring city, Tahoka, is striving earnestly to organize a band, they feel very keenly the need of its services in all of their civic and public relationship. They realize how very fortunate Brownfield is to have a home director and home talent that is so well developed, yet it seems sometimes that we at home do not appreciate this fact so much.

Our band and director deserve our commendation and appreciation yet they deserve and need a little financial assistance far more. It would seem that there should be a number more of us that would be willing to back the band with even a small sum of monthly for their support and operation.

How encouraging it would be if a number of our citizens would only get on the roll for even 50 cents per month, how small but how important for the organization's work.

Some of us go through life on the cafeteria plan; serving ourselves only, first, last and all the time.

This is City Wide Clean-up Week, have we all done our part?

Men are valuable just in proportion as they are able and willing to work in harmony with other men. That makes teamwork, which results in success.

We do not need a real job for every man so much as we need a real man for every job.

AVALANCHE WILL BE DELIVERED AT BROWNFIELD

Circulation Manager, G. R. Scott, and Arthur Reams of the Avalanche, spent Monday in Brownfield where the list of Avalanche readers was greatly enlarged.

Mr. Scott stated that arrangements have been made to have the Avalanche delivered to the homes of morning, and that as soon as possible arrangements will be made to have the paper delivered into their homes at an earlier hour. He was pleased with the favorable expressions heard from readers of the Avalanche there, many of whom depend solely on this paper for their state news and are also pleased with the special South Plains news contained in its columns.

Mr. Scott stated that Brownfield is in the midst of a building boom several business buildings and a number of residences being under construction there at this time.

A protracted meeting is in progress at the Church of Christ there and is attended by large congregations.

Reports emanating from unreliable sources that the community in that section was ruined by the recent heavy winds were contradicted by a group of Brownfield bankers and business men who have just completed a survey of the entire county and learned that the damage will not include ten percent of the total acreage in the county—Lubbock Avalanche.

To the above will say that the Avalanche is being handled here by the Palace Drug Store, who are distributing a large number to the business houses and residences, and who will be glad to take your order.

The Morning Avalanche is the first daily paper to reach Brownfield by about eight hours.

Earnest Goeth, representing the Dallas house of the E. C. Palmer Paper Co., was a pleasant business visitor at the Herald office last Friday morning.

W. B. TUDOR LETS CONTRACT FOR NEW BRICK BUILDING

W. B. (Red) Tudor, proprietor of the Tudor Sales & Service, dispenser of Fords, Fordsons, Lincolns, and repairs, let the contract recently to B. J. Johnson for a 50x100 brick on West Hardin street, and adjoining his present building on the west, completing that space on to the corner. This will give Mr. Tudor a garage, storage and display rooms 100x100.

The front and side, Mr. Tudor informed us, would be faced brick of beautiful pattern, and it would contain 72 feet of plate glass, making it one of the most showy buildings in the city.

From the very day Mr. Tudor arrived in Brownfield some seven or eight years ago and started in a modest way in a shack of a garage on his present location, he has been a consistent and permanent booster for the town and county, standing ever ready with cash or his time to put over anything for the good of the community.

BIG UNION REVIVAL TO START SUNDAY

A union revival under the auspices of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Christian churches start at the city tabernacle Sunday morning in which they invite the entire town to take part. The preaching will be done by Rev. R. B. Freeman, of Abilene, who we understand devotes his entire time to religious revivals, and comes to this city well recommended as both a splendid revivalist and gentleman.

He will be accompanied by James E. Campbell, of Kokomo, Ind., who is said not only to be a good choir director, but a fine soloist and young people's leader.

Two pianos will be used, Mrs. Freeman, wife of the evangelist to have charge of the lead piano.

This religious campaign will last until July 5th, we understand.

PRESBYTERIAN CHILDREN HAVE GOOD PROGRAM

The children of the Presbyterian church gave a very interesting program of songs, recitations and different exercises at the church last Sunday morning. A good collection was given by them in pennies.

A children's choir has been organized with Mrs. John King and Miss Mary Shelton as directors. Anyone wishing their children to take part in children's christian singing may see either of the directors.

Mr. Eaton, of Amarillo, representing the Wichita, Kans. house of the W. N. U., was a pleasant caller at the Herald office last Friday afternoon.

W. H. Parker, representing the Olmstead Paper Co., of Dallas, and H. C. Parker, representing the Dallas branch of the Miller Saw Trimmer Co., paid the Herald a short call on Monday of this week.

YOAKUM COUNTY TAX-ASSESSOR DEAD

The city of Brownfield and Terry county were shocked last Saturday late when it was learned that Press McGinty, popular young tax-assessor of Yoakum county had fell dead of heart failure about five o'clock that afternoon in a drug-store at Plains.

Mr. McGinty was about 24 years of age and serving his first term in the office of county tax-assessor of that county, and was not only well liked personally but was an efficient official as well.

The body was laid to rest in the Plains cemetery Sunday afternoon, and we have been informed that the largest funeral procession ever seen in Plains followed his remains to the cemetery. Mr. McGinty had been ill for some time with heart enlargement and while his death was expected, it came sooner than expected.

We understand that his father, Mr. Marion McGinty was appointed by the Yoakum County Commissioners Monday to fill out his unexpired term as assessor.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR LUBBOCK'S NEW HOTEL

The Lubbock Hotel Company Saturday awarded a contract for the erection of a six story hotel for Lubbock, the contract to become effective July 1, subject to financial arrangements that are to be made by the hotel company.

Bids on the job were opened here June 1, but owing to the fact that some details had to be worked out in connection with two low bids that were offered, the contracts were not let until Saturday when the board completed work with the contractors.

The building will be completed, including plumbing, electric wiring, and the installation of an elevator, at a total cost of $326,716.

SANTA FE STARTS LAYING TRACK ON NEW ROAD

Lubbock, June 6.—Work of laying track on the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe branch line from Lubbock through Hockley and Cochran counties to Bledsoe on the Texas-New Mexico boundary line will begin Monday, it was announced today by the construction company in charge of the work.

One third of the right-of-way has been completed and work on the grade is in progress 40 miles away from Lubbock.

Four new towns are being surveyed by the Santa Fe and their development begun as a result of the extension. They are Smyer, 15 miles west of Lubbock, Whiteface in Hockley county, and Lehman in the heart of Cochran county.

E. H. Jones, prominent Meadow merchant, recently handed us the renewal price of the Herald.

NEW COURTHOUSE CONTRACT NOT LET MONDAY

When the Commissioners' Court of Terry county met Monday, they found that some 21 firms, including one of our home firms had bid on the courthouse, but soon found that all bids ran well above the amount of money the Court had to spend. By mid-afternoon most of the bidders had been eliminated, and it lay between two big contracting concerns, and an effort made to make a satisfactory deal but owing to the fact that the money for the bonds are not yet available, no deal was consummated.

However, the material was selected, the brick being a light cream color, with small black dots, which will make a most handsome building.

As soon as a satisfactory deal has been made, the Herald will tell its readers about it.

GOOD INTEREST MANIFESTED IN REVIVAL AT C. OF CHRIST

Evangelist Claude McClung is giving some mighty fine lessons at the Church of Christ in the revival now being conducted there. A few had to be turned away Sunday night and the Monday night there was a comfortable crowd, but the attendance was off some Tuesday night on account of unfavorable weather conditions. Favorable comment on the line of his preaching has been heard on every side by all beliefs and no beliefs.

Churches in neighboring towns were well represented Sunday night, there being many from Gomez, Meadow and a few from Levelland. Slaton sent a large delegation, as McClung will be with that church early in August and many of them wanted to hear him.

Singer Teddie is in good shape and is leading the congregation in those good old revival hymns of our fathers and mothers in good shape.

There had been seven baptisms up to Tuesday night, and the meeting just getting under good headway. It is expected that many more will be saved or restored before the meeting closes on Sunday night.

If you have not heard McClung, you are urged to do so before this meeting passes into history.

GOOD COUNTRY PAPER

One of the best and greatest country weeklies that comes to our exchange table is the Terry County Herald. It is a loyal and faithful and convincing exponent of the country surrounding Brownfield and of that rapidly growing young city on the South Plains! The editorials are original, sane and thoughtful and breathe a spirit of sincerity, morality high ideals, patriotism and progress. We know of no institution in Brownfield which is worth more to the town than the Herald and it seems to be appreciated by the business interests of the town as it carries a good line of business each week.—The Jayton Chronicle.

"FLAP GOES THE FLAPPER" A REAL SUCCESS

One of the most successful home talent plays ever staged in Brownfield was that of "Flap Goes the Flapper" put on by Miss Elizabeth Howell, of Greenville, Texas, under the auspices of the Maids and Matrons Club at the Rialto Theatre last Thursday night.

We said home talent, and it was for while Miss Howell was director, the entire personnel of the play was supplied by the grown-up and child of this city. The cast in the play that lasted for one hour and 45 minutes was composed of Miss Mary Shelton Mrs. Roy Wingerd, Geo. W. Neill, V. A. Bynum, Morgan Copeland and Mrs. Morgan Copeland and Miss Guenelle Speagle. The choruses were made up of some of the best looking maidens and children of the city, and despite the fact that only about three or four days were consumed in the preparation of the play, it was hardly conceivable how such a play could have been produced. The play was the talk of the city for days after its production, and so pleased were the local Maids and Matrons Club with the results they have asked Miss Howell to return later for another of her plays. We heard many say that it beat any lyeum or chauntauqua that has ever been put on here.

The costumes for the production were all furnished by Miss Howell, and it is said that some of our young ladies rigged as they were in these stage stags, outshone many of the so-called stage beauties, for Brownfield has the world skinned in the beauty of its female population and the handsomeness of its males.

The Maids and Matrons are not only the oldest club in the city, but also the most useful one. It being a study club, it has been instrumental in helping to dispense valuable knowledge to many ladies and girls of the town who failed to get a college education. Besides this, most of their funds are used to maintain a public library in our city at cost of maintenance, thus giving our people good reading matter in the reach of the poorest. They have always been instrumental in our city of helping in any way possible toward making the city more sanitary and attractive. Also, they are great home lovers, and believe in trying to get what they want or need at home.

May the M. & M. live long to dispense knowledge, pleasure and civic attractiveness in our little city.

DISTRICT COURT CONVENED MONDAY AT PLAINS

District Judge Clark M. Mullican, District Attorney Walter C. Witcher, Court reporter Smith and several local lawyers including Homer L. Pharr and others will leave Monday for Plains, where they will preside over and attend the Yoakum County District Court, which convenes Monday.

Only a few cases are on the docket and the trial of civil cases will occupy most of the term, however, District Attorney Witcher will be busy with the grand jury, which will go into session early this week—Lubbock Avalanche.

MRS. C. L. GREEN ENTERS TAINS MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Baptist Women's Missionary Society met with Mrs. C. L. Green on June 4, in a social meeting.

There were eighteen ladies present, each lady was requested to bring a tea towel to hem for our church kitchen. After a half hour spent in hemming the towels a number of games were played that proved both interesting and instructive and furnished merriment to those present. A delicious salad course was served for refreshments. Each lady came away feeling that Mrs. Green was indeed a charming hostess.

SEAGRAVES PREPARES TO INCORPORATE

Judge Rodgers of Lamesa met with the Chamber of Commerce last Thursday night and lectured on the benefits of incorporating a town. All points for incorporating were discussed. A vote was taken at the close of the meeting which showed that the Chamber of Commerce was unanimous in favor of incorporating. A committee was appointed to look after the surveying and setting the boundary line and an election will be called in the near future for incorporating Seagraves.—Signal

MORE AND BETTER WEATHER THE PAST WEEK

The above headlines may be a little off, as most of the weather last week was anything else but better weather, as a sand storm blew for five whole days and nights from the southeast without a let up, establishing a record for endurance beyond the memory of our oldest pioneers. M. V. Brownfield remarked that he had been here 25 years, but he had never seen it go over three days and nights before.

Everyone expected the entire crop of the county to be wiped out, but a careful estimate placed the damage at between 10 and 15 per cent. Seemingly those who had worked their lands down flat, or had not turned up any clay in the sandier fields suffered most.

A little better than a half inch rain over sections of the east side of the county came Tuesday night, which not only cooled the atmosphere to a great extent, but will permit farmers in these sections to replant blowout fields in either cotton or feed. Conditions are favorable for more rain in the next few days at which time it is hoped that portions of the county not visited by rain Tuesday night will be covered.

The government gauge in Brownfield registered 59-100 inch Tuesday night.

NEW SOUTH PLAINS LAW FIRM FORMED

Tahoka, June 6.—Judge G. E. Lockhart of Tahoka and Tom Garrard of Austin have formed a partnership in the practice of law. They will establish a law office in Lubbock at an early date.

Mr. Garrard for the past two years has been assistant attorney general, his work being to represent the state before the Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin in Criminal cases appealed from the various district courts of the state.

Prior to accepting this position he was a successful practitioner at Pecos and Midland.

Judge Lockhart is well known throughout West Texas as one of the most successful lawyers in this part of the state. Judge Lockhart will remain in Tahoka for the present, however, it is his intention to remove to Lubbock possibly next fall.

LOCATE J. FRANK CARL AT BARSTOW

Barstow, Texas, June 5.—J. Frank Carl, a prominent lawyer of San Antonio, was located here last Tuesday night after being missing from home since September, last year. Many efforts made to locate his whereabouts previously have been unsuccessful.

He came here and told to Sheriff Wade where he lived and Mr. Wade questioned him as to his home and former business, and found from the story he gave that once he had been a District Attorney for eight years, had been on the Court of Civil Appeals and was a former partner of Judge Swearingen.

Mr. Wade got in communication with the Judge who notified two brothers of Judge Carl, who came here at once.

They identified the man as being the missing lawyer and their brother. Arrangements are being made by the brothers to take him to a sanitarium for treatment.

LUBBOCK CALLS BOND ELECTION FOR $250,000

Lubbock, June 6th.—A special election for the voting on the issuance of bonds in the sum of $250,000.00 will be held here July 2nd, members of the city commission announce yesterday. Included in the total is $150,000 for additional paving.

At the same time citizens will be called upon to vote on the proposition of changing the city's charter to permit the Chamber of Commerce to be run as a Board of City Development, supported by taxpayers instead of by donation as is the present plan. A third part of the election calls for the changing of the charter to permit the employing of an all-time Mayor, to be elected by the people and receive a set salary large enough to live on.

Mrs. Emma Galt accompanied by her son and daughter, Robert and Misses Annie and Clara, are here this week from Canyon, Texas, visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Krueger. They are on their way to Plainview, Garza and other west Texas points.

ADVERTISING COMMITTEE

U. D. Sawyer and family were here from Cross Roads, N. M. last week visiting their relatives. Ulysses reports dry weather still prevailing and that he had lost some cattle.

R. O. Martin, representing the C. A. Brayant Co., of Dallas, was the successful bidder for the desks and furniture for the new high school building.

In conversation Saturday with I. A. Lowe, prominent southside farmer, he informed us that he had just returned from Grandbury, Texas, where he attended the funeral of his sister, Mrs. M. F. Jones, who was buried on Wed 3rd at Grandbury. Mr. Lowe informed us that his sister was bitten on the lip by a small spider, which was the cause of her death. He reported meeting lots of relatives, some of whom he had never met before.

Mrs. May Moore, of Dallas, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Garner, of Hillsboro, were the guests of their sister, Mrs. W. S. Weatherley and family the first of the week.

Little Helen Ruth Raymer underwent a minor operation at the Lubbock Sanitarium the past week.

Couldn't Be Shocked

Jimmie Wilkinson, editor-in-chief of F. O. B. pictures, outside of business hours is a wireless fiend. When it comes to radios he knows all there is to know, which explains how, when one of those rare occurrences, a thunder storm, threatened Hollywood, he went out and lowered his aerial and buried one end in the ground. "But my heavens!" exclaimed Ted Cheeseman next day, "weren't you afraid the lightning would strike you while you were doing all that?" "Of course not," retorted Jimmie. "Knowing that silk is a wonderful non-conductor I did all the work wearing my silk pajamas and socks. An outfit like that may be shocking under certain circumstances but not while fixing a radio."—Los Angeles Times.

Tenants Removed House

Mrs. Ida Ragsdale of Memphis, Tenn., recently ousted some tenants from property she owned because they failed to pay rent, and was astonished when she went to look over the property afterward to find the tenants in moving had lifted the house bodily and placed it on an adjoining piece of land. The ouster proceedings were instituted, Mrs. Ragsdale says, after the tenants had failed to pay their rent over a considerable time.

Maggie and the Will

By VERA M. JONES

MAGGIE FLANNERY'S anxious gaze was turned on the little man in gray kneeling before the book-case. "I can assure you, my good woman," he was saying, "that our firm, as administrators, will see that justice is done you, whether your late mistress' will is found or not. You can file claim for unpaid wages, you know." "If she can prove she has not already drawn them," Peter Hines broke in from the desk over which he was bending.

"Or that Sarah Baldwin didn't think she had done enough in giving Maggie a home in exchange for her services," Sophie, his wife, supplemented. "Sarah was not fond of spending, you know! Why—the way she treated Peter—her only relative—never a penny!" Maggie Flannery sank back in her chair, the lassitude of her hopelessness marking every line of her worn face and frail body.

The search continued in silence. The room, a bedchamber, was in a state of upheaval; drawers thrown open and contents jumbled; books from the case piled on the floor; the wardrobe stripped, the garments heaped on the old four-poster.

Then, as Sophie pushed the last of the dresser drawers she had been examining, she drew close to her husband, whispering: "Cheer up, Peter! Suppose a will does turn up! It may only give Maggie her wages, after all, and make her heir!"

Peter gave her a warning nudge. "Not a chance," he breathed. "You know the old skunk! He always warned me Maggie was to be her sole beneficiary at death. My one hope is—since the document wasn't filed—that I get my hands on it first. I won't rest until I do."

But finally Peter did, shaking down on the bed and lighting a cigarette. Accidentally the flaming match fell on the garments beside him. In snuffing it out he suddenly laughed.

"Sarah not fond of spending!" he quoted his wife. "Well, if this is a sample of my aunt's wardrobe, I think we must agree she wasn't!"

At the sneering tone the old woman roused herself: "Miss Sarah liked her old things best. She always said: 'Old clothes, like old friends—'"

"Maggie!" broke in Sophie, "don't be impertinent."

"Let her be, Sophie. It's edifying to hear these reminiscences! This now—and Peter mockingly picked up an old dressing gown—this, Maggie, judging from its ancient appearance, was treasured as a life-long friend, eh?"

Just then the little man in gray turned from replacing the last book in the case; and just as suddenly Peter jumped to his feet.

"But let's end it! What say you, Mr. Dowling? I think you're convinced we've searched thoroughly."

"There's certainly no evidence of a document," Mr. Dowling admitted. He gazed at Maggie Flannery.

Peter Hines turned to the lawyer: "I'll tell you, Mr. Dowling, what I think the explanation is: My aunt intended for me to come into the money this way! You see—during her lifetime she—well, she acted anything but like a wealthy woman should toward her only relative. Remorse for that, no doubt, when death drew near, filled her with a desire to make amends. But she was a proud woman; wouldn't want me to know. So—by dying intestate—you see—restitution, without humbling her pride—"

Then a sudden thought came to Sophie. Quickly she grabbed up the old dressing gown, after a swift glance convinced her it was the most dilapidated of the garments. "Here, Maggie, is that robe of Miss Sarah's; that ought to make a grand keepsake—since you loved her so well! Take it and go. And don't come back here again, or I'll have you arrested for false pretenses—claiming wages we don't owe you! Go now!" Without further ado Sophie took hold of the dazed old woman and thrust her down the back stairway.

Shortly after Peter returned. His manner gave portent of mystery. "You get rid of her?"

Sophie smiled. "Yes; and I gave her that old dressing gown."

Peter started, then staggered toward a chair. "My God!" he gasped. "Then you gave her the will—"

"Peter!" chided Sophie, wild-eyed. "You're crazy!"

Her husband wagged a tortured hand. "You did, I tell you! When I picked up that old gown on the bed I suddenly noticed a paper sticking out of the pocket. On it was plainly written: 'Last will and testament of Sarah Baldwin.' I was just going to grab it and thrust it in my pocket when Dowling happened to look up and start toward me. So the only thing I could do was push it back in its place until I got rid of him and Maggie. I knew that if they saw it the jig was up! He'd claim a big fee for finding it—and she'd claim everything legally— And good God, that's what she'll do, now that she has the will—"

Identification

"Is Mrs. Rise at home?" inquired Mrs. Chatters, standing in the shadow of the doorway.

"I don't know, ma'am," the new maid replied. "I can't tell till I get a better look at you. If you've got a wart on the side of your nose, she's out."

Weeping Stove Pipes

Weeping stove pipes, from the joints of which a tarlike liquid leaks out, is often a difficult trouble to remedy. It is due to insufficient draft. The smoke, moving slowly through the pipes, condenses and the liquid so formed oozes out at the joints of the pipes. Sometimes having the pipes on an incline, upward to the chimney, will cause the smoke to pass along more quickly. Sometimes raising the chimney will increase the draft. Some find that a little opening in the pipe next the chimney, with a sliding cover, increases the draft up the chimney, when open, and so causes the smoke to pass out quickly. It all comes to this—increase the draft and the heat of the pipes and so cause the smoke to pass out so quickly that it cannot cool and condense in the pipes.—Family Herald.

Historic Mecca Temple

The Kaaba is the temple of Mecca, said to occupy the exact spot of the tabernacle that was let down from heaven at the prayer of repentant Adam, after his wanderings of 200 years. According to tradition, it was built by Ishmael, assisted by his father, Abraham, and contains the famous "Black Stone of Mecca." The temple has been twice rebuilt within historical times, but still retains its original shape. It is in the form of a cube, 50x30 feet, and about forty feet in height. It is richly decorated, and used to be annually recovered with handsome brocade hangings presented by the sultan of Turkey. The interior is finished in marble and silver-gilt plating, and contains beautiful silk hangings, but is devoid of objects of genuine interest.—Kansas City Star.

Cleansing Uses for Corks

Old corks can be used in many valuable ways. Spots and blemishes on windows will nearly always disappear if rubbed with a dry cork. Moistened with turpentine, it will remove marks from white glaze bricks, and rust spots on metal give way to cork dipped in paraffin; spots on linoleum by cork dipped in gasoline. Burnt marks on pie dishes and plates will vanish if treated with a cork dipped in wet salt.

An effective foot warmer for cold winter nights may be made by cutting corks into small bits, filling a flannel bag with them, and heating for ten or fifteen minutes.—Southern Pharmaceutical Journal.

Toll of London Fogs

According to one authority, says Popular Mechanics, a single London fog may cost more lives than a pitched battle. The period of the greatest prevalence of the dense mists is in December, with the other winter months not far behind. At this season of the year the death rate from lung diseases reaches its height. The heavy, moisture-laden air aggravates such maladies, the lack of sunlight reduces physical resistance and illness frequently results from chills caused by the dampness. Mental depression is considered another harmful effect.

Horse Protected Baby

Mrs. Alice Hackett of Portland, Maine, tells of a horse protecting a baby against disaster. A baby had been allowed to play on the lawn where the family mare Buttercup was grazing and when the mother stepped into the house for a second, the mare straddled the baby and protected it against a runaway which careened into the yard.

Copper Long Mined

Native copper was known and mined in the Lake Superior region by a primitive people hundreds of years ago. It is first mentioned in a book by Legardes published in 1836. Its commercial development was begun in 1842.

1. You shall sell your farm produce for cash, where you can, for we buy nothing from you.
2. You shall believe in us, and best because we do not know you personally.
3. You shall send your money to us in advance, so we can buy the goods from the factory with your money; you may have to wait a few weeks but that is our factory method.
4. You shall get help from your nearest city or village to build good roads, so you may easily haul our goods from the depot, but do not ask help from us because we do not help to build good roads.
5. You may order Church Bells and Altar Utensils from us and send the money in advance—that's our rule.
6. You shall get all the help you can from the business in your neighborhood; although we may have profit from you than they have, it is against our rules to give to your churches.
7. You shall convert your neighbors also to your faith in us, for we have room for more money.
8. You shall look at the pretty pictures in our catalog as often as you can, so as to strengthen your desire for things you do not need, but which you may order with other good to save freight. 10. You shall call on the business men of your own vicinity for help and credit if you meet with hard luck or sickness. It's your money we want; we don't know you unless your orders are accompanied by cash.

VALUE OF AMERICAN LEGION ENDOWMENT

Fate played a queer trick on Frank D. French, of Houston, Texas. Waiting until he had reached the age when most men expect to be arriving in their life's work, it sent along a World War which disabled him and ended his career as a civil engineer.

In the mid-forties, French went back to school and started all over. Through help of the United States Veterans Bureau he was able to become a Marine engineer and now, at the age of 48, he is launched on a successful career in the new field. Without the help that came to him from the government, French would have faced a trying situation. Thousands of disabled veterans have been unable to prove their rights to government aid and thousands of others are outside the scope of government relief work. To give these men help which will enable them to win an independent and useful place in life is one of the big purposes of the $5,000,000.00 endowment fund for disabled veterans and war rphans being established by the American Legion.

Although past the age at which he could have been expected to volunteer, French entered the service when his country went to war. He became a Major in the Quartermasters Corps, motor transport division. While engaged in the work of keeping the supplies for the fighting forces going forward, he was so disabled he was unable to return to civic engineering.

After his discharge French was placed in training to become a mechanical superintendent and estimator, specializing in marine engineering from a correspondence school.

Completing his training he was employed by the Baytown Towing Co. a large Gulf coast towing and light-erage concern. He has charge of the Houston office at a substantial salary.

W. H. Dallas, president of the Brownfield State Bank, accompanied by his family, are taking their vacation in the mountains of New Mexico.

Virgil Head has returned from the John Tarleton College, at Stephenville, Texas, where he attended school the past term.

Douglas Carver has returned from Abilene this week, where he has been attending Simmons College, preparing for the ministry.

Mr. A. C. McDaniel, who is on the Jack Bryan ranch, was up Tuesday and reported the winds damaged him some last week.

The editor drove out quite a way Sunday afternoon, and while he found much cotton and feed blown out, the percentage was small compared to that left standing, some of which looked as if he had not been hurt.

District Judge Clark M. Mullican, accompanied by District Attorney W. C. Wicher and the court reporter, re-passed back through Brownfield late Monday afternoon, having finished in one day the business of the court in that county.

Editor Albert Curry, of Seagraves, was a business visitor from Seagraves Tuesday.

Messrs. E. C. Roberts and H. M. Heath, accompanied by their wives, were up Sunday night helping the Seagraves Senior BYOPU to put on their program at the Baptist church at this place. They came via Plains where they attended the funeral of Press McGinty.

Any Joe J. Swan, mayor of this city, attended District Court at Plains, Tuesday.

There is nothing whatever in the new auctioning and peddling law to prohibit the legitimate farmer from selling anything he produces on the streets of Brownfield. It is only aimed at those who pay no taxes here, but slip in and sell what our merchants should sell.

With a first class sewer system, it will be a much easier matter to make and keep the town, and especially the business section clean. Let's not forget to vote the sewer bonds. Health comes before anything else in this old world, and Brownfield has reached that stage of growth when it is almost impossible to keep it clean without a sewerage system.

The Legislature released Galveston County from payment of state taxes soon after the flood of 1900; now sixteen counties in Texas pay no more into the State Treasury as ad valorem taxes; they have been given this exemption for periods varying from ten to twenty-five years; each session of the Legislature receives petitions from counties asking for such exemption. Where is the stopping point?—Everybody's Business.

The first bale of 1925 cotton for Texas was marketed some two weeks ago. It takes old Texas almost the entire year to make and harvest its enormous cotton crop. People were still picking the 1924 crop just two or three months ago in the Panhandle. The new crop was maturing in South Texas. No wonder that it is not only a million dollar crop state, but the biggest export state in the union. Come to Texas, and especially to Terry.

The Clean-up Campaign is now on in full force in Brownfield, and many are availing themselves of the opportunity to do their bit to make our little city a more attractive place to live. Some have neglected the matter to date, but maybe have planned to get busy later in the week. There are perhaps a negligible few who are not going to clean up until the city health authorities make them. Let's all join in making Brownfield just as clean and attractive as possible.

The city of Brownfield and the street peddler auctioning his cheap john wares have come to the parting of the ways. No longer can these drifting birds who pay no taxes—the human commercial drones—flit with our unsuspecting with their junk that is so cheap and shoddy that local business men would be ashamed to palm off on their customers at any price. The city council has done a good work and should be commended by the citizenship, and the next move should be to stop all promiscuous soliciting of funds without a permit. Let's cut out the grafters?

Much has been said recently about the character and reputation of the new district attorney. Will say that the editor has been knowing Mr. W. C. Wicher ever since we arrived in Texas some 25 years ago when both he and we were "overlaid" farm boys in Johnson county, and down there where he was raised and where his people still reside, we never heard a disparaging remark about any of them, but they are held in high esteem by all who know them. You may disagree with Mr. Wicher on many things, but you will always find him fair and square and ready to do the right thing always.

Homer Steen, editor of the Floyd County Hesperian, has let a contract for a brick building 25 x 100 on South Main street, to be occupied by the Hesperian Publishing Company. Upon completion of the building numerous improvements will be made in the equipment to make it one of the best plants in this part of the state. The Hesperian Publishing Company was incorporated in 1912, under the management of Mr. Steen, who is well and favorably known among newspaper circles in the Panhandle and Plains Section, and who in addition to publishing one of the best weekly papers in the state, is an important factor in the development of his town and county. Mr. Steen is president of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce and is an officer in the Panhandle Press association.

A neatly dressed and prosperous appearing person called at the Herald office recently to discuss with us, as he explained, something of vital importance with the editor, concerning our glorious West Texas. We expected to hear that some bolsheviks was putting a bomb under us or that we were on the verge of being invaded by Mexico, but no such thing. After a twenty minutes spell in which the poor fellow almost sweat blood backed up by many recommendations and closely typewritten pages, we found that "athletics (boys with more muscles than brain) would be debarred from taking part in schools if they moved to new school or town for the period of one year. Too bad! But when we found that it was no worse than this, we got another peaceful and natural breath, and it seemed to worry our visitor because we refused to become excited. School athletics are good, in their place. We believe each town should have a good ball team well supported. That each school should have their basketball and baseball teams. We say teams, for if it is good for Alex it is good for Don too, and not make Dan sit back and his muscles grow flabby while Alex gets to be a brute in power. But is that the way they do? We could never see the good in football unless we want to develop a race of cripples or riot leaders. Of course we may be an old "foggy" but we are entitled to our opinion too, and our opinion is that a lot of people are going absolutely crazy about our school and college athletics. What we need is more well trained statesmen, more well trained business men, a better class of home builders, and fewer brute strength rough necks.

MIGHTY WHOLESOME DOCTRINE

Evangelist Crimm is preaching some mighty wholesome doctrine at San Angelo. He stated in a sermon the other day that a man once ask him what he would do, if a fellow should wilfully insult him. The evangelist replied: "I'd knock hell out of him." "But, said the little sissy brother, don't you think you should endure it for Christ's sake?" Said the evangelist: "I'd knock hell out of him for Christ's sake—what's the difference?" No just law could require of a man that he be eternally imposed upon by an unscrupulous cur who would lie to save himself and hurt another—even a preacher has some rights. Indeed a preacher as to responsibility and amenability for his conduct is different to no other man. Even the Bible makes no difference, though occasionally there will be an ignorant preacher who will claim that God will allow other men to do things and not hold them accountable, yet for the preacher to do such things means his damnation. Such teaching is pure rot of the rottenest kind, and such a preacher has no more sense than a road lizard.—Bronte Enterprise.

UNIVERSITY TO HAVE GOOD SUMMER SCHOOL

Austin, Texas, May 9.—From ten to fifteen per cent increase in the enrollment for the 1925 summer session at the University of Texas is expected by Registrar E. J. Mathews, judging by increase in the number of inquiries regarding the summer term being received at his office. Last year the registration was 3100. Indications now are that the enrollment this year will be 3500 or more.

"When the announcement was made that the governor had vetoed the summer school funds for the next two years," said Mr. Mathews, "many people were under the impression that there would be no summer session this year. Letters and newspaper articles have cleared up this point, however, and it now seems that the University will have the best summer session in its history this year. We are endeavoring to make the summer school meet the demands of all those who come here for training."

Mr. Estlack, who conducts a job printing establishment at Clarendon, was here this week the guest of his brother, J. S. Estlack.

BAPTISTS DENOUNCE EVOLUTION; REPORT PROGRESS IN THEIR WORK

Southern Convention at Memphis Adopts Statement of Baptist Faith and Message for Information of World—Co-operative Program for Support of Enterprises Endorsed.

Many large achievements were reported to the Southern Baptist Convention at its recent session at Memphis by its various missionary, educational and benevolent enterprises, although none of them had at its command during the past year as large funds as were needed.

The Hospital Commission reported 24 Baptist hospitals in operation in the South, with three others under construction. These institutions treated over 100,000 patients during the year and did over $1,000,000 in charity work for deserving poor.

More than 1,000 aged preachers and their dependent ones were aided by the Relief and Annuity Board.

MANY BAPTISMS REPORTED

The Sunday School Board reported a gain of 909 Sunday Schools for the year, with 155,236 new pupils, bringing the present number of Southern Baptist Sunday schools to 21,579, with an enrollment of 2,527,953. Other items in the board's statistical report show that there are now 27,517 Baptist churches affiliated with the Convention which last year reported 209,676 baptisms and which now have 2,703,562 members.

During the past 10 years Southern Baptists have increased the number of their schools, colleges and theological seminaries from 65 to 117 and the the supreme standard by which all human conduct, creeds and religious opinions should be tried.

THE FALL OF MAN

"Man was created by the special act of God as recorded in Genesis. 'So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them.' (Gen. 1:27). And the Lord God formed man out of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul.' (Gen. 2:7). He was created in a state of holiness under the law of his maker but through the temptation of Satan he transgressed the command of God and fell from his original holiness and righteousness; whereby his posterity inherit a nature corrupt and in bondage to sin, are under condemnation; and as soon as they are capable of moral action, become actual transgressors."

THE WAY OF SALVATION

"Salvation of sinners is wholly of grace, through the mediatorial office of the Son of God who by the Holy Spirit was born of the Virgin Mary and took upon him our nature, yet without sin; honored the divine law by his personal obedience, and made atonement for our sins; by his death being risen from the dead he is now enthroned in heaven and uniting in his person the tenderest sympathies with divine perfection, he is in every way qualified to be a compassionate and all-sufficient Savior."

CO-OPERATION

"Christ's plan should, as occasion requires, organize such associations and conventions as may best secure co-operation for the great objects of the Kingdom of God. Such organizations have no authority over each other or over the churches. They are voluntary and advisory bodies designed to elicit, combine and direct the energies of our people in the most effective manner. Individual members of New Testament churches should co-operate with each other, and the churches themselves, should co-operate with each other in carrying forward the missionary, educational and benevolent program for the extension of Christ's Kingdom. Christian unity in the New Testament sense is spiritual harmony and voluntary co-operation for common ends by various groups of Christ's people. It is permissible and desirable as between the various Christian denominations, when the end to be attained is itself justified, and when such co-operation involves no violation of conscience or compromise of loyalty to Christ and His Word as revealed in the New Testament."

STEWARDSHIP

"God is the source of all blessings, temporal and spiritual; all that we have and are we owe to Him. We have a spiritual stewardship to the whole world, a holy trusteeship in the Gospel, and a binding stewardship in our possessions. We are therefore under obligation to serve Him with our time, talents and material possessions; and should recognize all these as preaching the Gospel of Christ, and of God and helping others. Christians should cheerfully, regularly, systematically, proportionately and liberally contribute of their means to advancing the Redeemer's cause on earth."

EVOLUTION IS DENOUNCED

To the statement of faith proper the Convention added a declaration upon the relation of science and religion in which the theory of evolution was denounced. Referring to evolution the statement says: "Its best exponents admit that the cause of the origin of species have not been traced, nor has any proof been forthcoming that man is not the direct creation of God as recorded in Genesis. We protest against imposition of this theory of evolution upon the minds of our children in denominational or public schools as if it were a definite and established truth of science. We insist that this and all other theories be dealt with in a truly scientific way, that is, in careful conformity to established facts."

"We record again our unwavering adherence to the supernatural elements in the Christian religion. The Bible is God's revelation of himself through men moved by the Holy Spirit, and is our sufficient, certain and authoritative guide in religion. Jesus Christ was born of the Virgin Mary, through the power of the Holy Spirit. He was the divine and eternal Son of God. He wrought miracles, healing the sick, casting out demons, raising the dead. He died as the vicarious, atoning Savior of the world and was buried. He arose again from the dead. The tomb was emptied of its contents. In his risen body he appeared many times to his disciples. He ascended to the right hand of the Father. He will come again in person, the same Jesus who ascended from the Mount of Olives. "We believe that adherence to the above truths and facts is a necessary condition of service for teachers in our Baptist schools."

DR. J. E. DILLARD

Chairman Program Commission of Southern Baptists

total assets of these schools from $7,500,000 to $48,000,000. It was reported by the Education Board. In these institutions there are 35,000 Baptist students.

The Home Mission Board employed 1,977 workers during the year who reported 30,927 baptisms and 50,354 additions to the churches, the erection or repair of 355 church houses and the organization of 608 Sunday Schools.

On 17 foreign fields the Foreign Mission Board has employed 615 American missionaries and 2,448 native workers. A total of 12,134 baptisms were reported by these workers for the year, bringing the present membership of the foreign churches to 117,961.

ENDORSES CO-OPERATIVE PROGRAM

The Convention heartily endorsed the co-operative plan for the support of all its missionary, educational and benevolent work and named a Commission on the Co-operative Program which will seek to enlist all the Baptist churches of the South in the regular, systematic support of home, state and foreign missions, ministerial relief and Baptist schools, hospitals and orphanages. Churches not already supporting all these enterprises through weekly contributions are invited to assume such support at once. The Convention endorsed the plan of the Commission discouraging independent appeals to churches and individuals on the part of special denominational interests, urging all of them to look to the Co-operative Program for their support and asking all the churches to support the Program.

STAND BY THE OLD BIBLE

That the world may know where Southern Baptists stand upon the great fundamental Christian doctrines, many of which are being assailed today, the convention adopted a statement of the Baptist faith and message, in which attacks upon the inspiration and authority of the Bible and the divinity of Christ were vigorously refuted.

Here are some of the leading declarations in the statement as it was adopted:

THE SCRIPTURES

"We believe that the Holy Bible was written by men divinely inspired and is a perfect treasure of heavenly instruction; that it has God for its author, salvation for its end, and truth, without any mixture of error, for its matter; that it reveals the principles by which God will judge us, and therefore is, and will remain to the end of the world, the true center of Christian union, and

WHAT RESULTS FROM SPARRING THE ROD AT HOME

A 13-year-old boy was flogged by his teacher at a school in a nearby county recently. The boy's three grown-up brothers went to the school the next day and took the teacher to the cloak room and beat him so that he was almost extinct when the assailants allowed others to give first aid to their victim. His skull was broken in three places, and he was unconscious and unable to tell what happened to him. As a result, the three brothers were arrested and put in jail on a charge of assault with intent to murder; and if their victim dies, they will have to face a charge of murder.

Here is a concrete example of where parents failed to bring up their children to submit to those in authority. They sent this 13-year-old boy to school in the hope that he would learn to be somebody in the world. No doubt they expected the teacher to control him without corporeal punishment, and that if it came to a point where this could not be done without teacher to let him run things to suit himself. The result was: the boy acted so that the rod had to be used on him; and as a consequence, they have three other boys looking thru the bars—with a fine chance of being compelled to ask the governor for a pardon, or spend their remaining years in the penitentiary.—Ex.

FIRST GIRL OPERATOR ON TELEPHONE

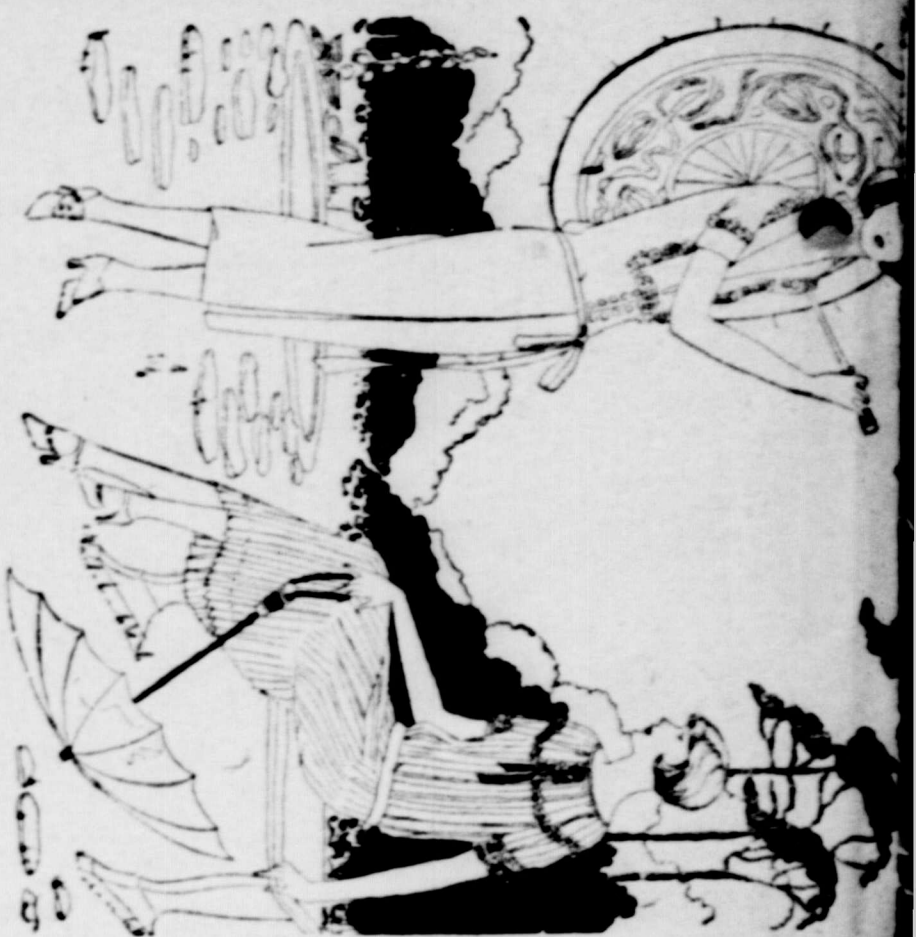

The honor of being the first girl telephone operator probably belongs to Emma M. Nutt, who, on September 1, 1878, became an operator in the Boston exchange, says the Texas Public Service Information Bureau. She remained in the service for nearly forty years. New York's first public exchange girl telephone operator was Miss Mary Beatrice Kennedy, who entered the service on September 21, 1878. She took the place of a boy who had been discharged for swearing at a subscriber.

Another pioneer among telephone operators was Mrs. Marjorie M. Gray, widow of Augustus Gray, who died last year at her home in Torrington, Conn. She began service as a noperator in Bridgeport in March, 1879, and is said to have been the first telephone operator in the state of Connecticut. Also in March 1879, Mrs. Beauregard Morrison commenced her duties as an operator at Little Rock, Ark., while in October of the same year Miss Mary Mallary became an operator at Muskegon, Mich., the first girl operator in the state it is claimed.

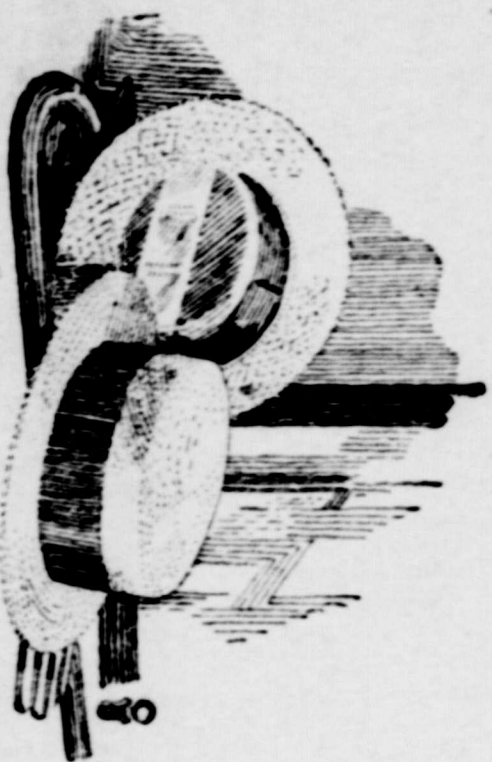

Misses Maryne Weatherly and Ruth Welch, accompanied by Mr. Sam Hearrell, visited friends in Lubbock, Sunday.

Santa Fe agent R. D. Dodd and family will leave in about ten days or as soon as allowed, for their summer vacation, which they will spend visiting relatives and friends in old Arkansas.

Arthur Sawyer and little daughter, Queenelle, underwent minor operations at the Lubbock Sanitarium the past week.

Calls a Long Way

By MARTIN M. CHESTER

"YOU nuthin' little like! Thought you were smart, didn't you? Dad told you to come when I called. Take that hat and coat. Next time I call, you come. Understand? Promise?"

Jim Carter stopped pummeling, but still held his younger brother John to the ground by a knee and one strong hand. John glared up furiously as he struggled for freedom, but without words.

"Look here," Jim continued. "Dad told you to mind me while he was gone. And he told me to look out you didn't do some fool trick and get hurt or killed. So if I call you, you drop what you're doing and come. Get that? Promise?"

This was after supper and the boys did not meet again that night. Next morning John did not answer the breakfast bell. His father was summoned, and the police set to work—all to no end. The only word or trace of John was the servant he had left in his room: "I told Jim he'd have to call a long way if he wanted me to come, and I don't know as I'll come then."

And even when, as Judge James Carter, Jim had become famous as the "children's judge," he was still searching for John.

Then one day a friend in New York telegraphed that a man about John's age had been picked up unconscious after a street accident—too injured about the face for recognition, but bearing papers that seemed to identify him as John H. Carter.

Jim was immensely stirred. Again and again vines had led him to some John Carter—always to the wrong one. But "H." he said to himself. "John H. Carter." And he swiftly put his desk in order that he might start at once for New York.

"A woman to see you, Judge," said his confidential clerk. "It's about that boy, Pete Blinney."

Jim looked at his watch. "I have ten minutes—no more."

The woman's story was a familiar one, but hard for Jim to hear just at that moment. Her boy Pete and his older brother Jerry couldn't get along. Jerry meant well, but was rough and bossy—thought he had to take his father's place. And Pete had grown impatient—even at the office where he worked—and yesterday the boss had given him the sack. Now things at home were worse than ever. Wouldn't the Judge help?

Jim explained that he was just starting for New York but would take the matter up at once on his return.

The woman burst into tears. "You'll be too late! Pete's fixin' to run off. I come on a bunch of his clothes tied up. It'll be tonight, and I'm afraid he'll steal money to go with."

"But—" Jim began. "But I told you—"

Jim's head bent to his hands upon the desk. "I'm calling from far, John," he cried in his mind. "Come back—don't go off again, John. I want another chance." His head lifted and he smiled at the woman: "I'll do what I can," he said aloud.

Twenty minutes later he sat in the office of the mining expert who had discharged Pete Blinney. The desk telephone rang sharply, interrupting his plan for Pete's reinstatement. "That," said the expert, excusing himself, "is long distance from Tucson, Ariz. By the way, it's from a man of your name."

The habit of following up every club had become second nature to Jim. Of course John was lying in New York—perhaps at the point of death—and yet—"What's this particular Carter's given name?" he asked rather wearily. But the mining expert was already talking: "Hello?" he asked. "John H. Carter."

"What?" exclaimed Jim. "Who? Let me—Give me that—" He rushed toward the desk.

"Judge Carter speaking, long distance," introduced the expert as he gave up the telephone.

"Hello! John H. Carter?" Jim was asking in his turn.

"Yes," came long distance in a man's weather-roughened tones. "John H. Carter, born in Illinois."

"Yes," came the answer. "Did you have a dominating, overbearing, self-righteous fool of an older brother?" Jim's voice was growing unsteady.

"You bet I did!" Long distance spoke rapidly. "Are you Jim?"

"Yes, John, this is Jim."

"See—caught me at last!" "Say, you aren't Judge James Carter, are you? The Judge that gets next to the kids?"

"If I'm worthy to be called 'the children's judge'—if I do anything for them—it's because I've been thinking of you, John, ever since you left."

For an instant long distance kept silence. Then—"Say, Jim, you're a long way off now—You know what I sold?"

"What you sold?" repeated Jim, puzzled. Then he gave a great shout over long distance: "John Carter, you come here!"

WHY NEWSPAPER WORKERS LIKE THE NIGHT STRETCHES

Do more things happen at night than in daytime?

Many night workers think so. The newspaper folks, for instance, whose job is to get out a morning newspaper, and the telephone operators who work at night when the long lines are busy.

Whether or not there are more fires, floods, and big disasters at night there is more thrill and romance and human interest in the happenings at night than in those of daylight hours, says the Texas Public Service Information Bureau.

The night editor and the night telephone operator know that for constant mystery the long lines during the night have no rival in fact or fiction.

For instance, tragedy has ever selected night as its favored time. Great disasters creep upon the world while the people sleep. World-compelling messages from men in the center of world activities usually come at night after the quiet hours have afforded time for careful review.

At it is over the long lines at night that the private conversations across the continent between lovers and kindred and those whose communications must be clandestine fill in the hours. The rates are lower, the lines are not so busy and interruptions of those talking are less likely.

The witchery and mystery of night that was felt before communication extended farther than the unaided voice could carry have come on with the modern methods.

Night is the time for adventure.

COLD CHECK LAW NOW ON STATUTE LEDGERS

The new "Bogus Check Law" which was passed in the last meeting of the Texas Legislature, is now in effect and makes the writers of cold checks subject to charges of swindling, officials of the Retail Merchants association stated today.

Copies of the law have been received here and it is the belief of business men and attorneys that it will halt materially the activities of the chronic cold checker all over the state. Cold checking once a popular sport in Lubbock, has been halted considerably, due to the efforts of County Attorney Owen W. McWhorter, who has waged bitter warfare against its practitioners.—Plains Journal.

ASHMORE ITEMS (Gaines County)

Crops are very good and all the farmers are quite busy in this section now, some planting and others knifing the weeds. A light rain would help to bring up cotton.

Mr. Preston King, who underwent a very severe operation recently, is regaining his health as fast as can be expected.

School closed here on May 27, after a successful term. May 29, some of the pupils, assisted by the young people of the neighborhood, directed by Prof. V. V. Alexander, rendered a play entitled "Ruth of the Desert."

Considering that the play was unusual difficult and played under great disadvantages, it, we believe, was a great success and think all who took part deserve great credit. We have witnessed a number of plays but never have we heard one where the enunciation was so good, every word being distinctly heard at the back of the house. All parts were carried out naturally and with perfect ease. Delightful music made by stringed instruments entertained the people between acts.

The Sunday school here is doing nicely as is the singing class.

Quite a number of our young people gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. King last Sunday night for a farewell party in honor of professor V. V. Alexander. Refreshments of cake and cream were served. The entertainment was varied consisting of song, games and conversation. It was a very delightful affair.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Moody from Union, Terry County, were guests of Joe Penny and family recently.

Dr. Copeland and J. W. Ball of Brownfield were transacting business here one day last week.
