WELLMAN SECTION DID FINE THIS PAST YEAR

Down Wellman way there are few pessimists. The people have been too busily engaged in harvesting a good crop to think much about hard times. In fact they don't even recognize such an animal. The truth of the matter is that there is a big bunch of hard working American farmers in that section, and instead of sitting around on the streets sipping ambers, they are tickling the fertile soil, and it in turn is responding with abundance. True, they were blessed with more rain the past year than some other sections, but rain or shine they are on the job with something to sell.

To start the ball rolling early they started the Mellon Grower's Association down there, and shipped several cars of good old Terry county mellons to the eastern markets. They did not get a handsome price, but they got enough to pay them much more than if they had just been playing mumblepeg or cussing the country.

They got together and also got in touch with the proper parties, and as a consequence Messrs. Harrison & McSpadden built them a good gin down there and the very first year they rolled in more than 1100 bales of cotton which is considered a very good seasons run under favorable conditions in the east.

They are hitting the market now with their corn and feed products such as kaffir, maize, feterita and sorghum. Of these feeds they had last week, according to figures given us by H. W. McSpadden, shipped 44 cars, and had shipped 38 car loads of corn.

Wellman is a new town, 12 miles southwest of Brownfield on the Santa Fe, and has a postoffice, store, filling station, gin and a splendid public school, which is an independent school district.

WELL DRESSED WOMAN WEARS TWO GARMENTS

New York, Feb. 10—The well dressed woman of 1926 will wear less clothes, it was announced Wednesday.

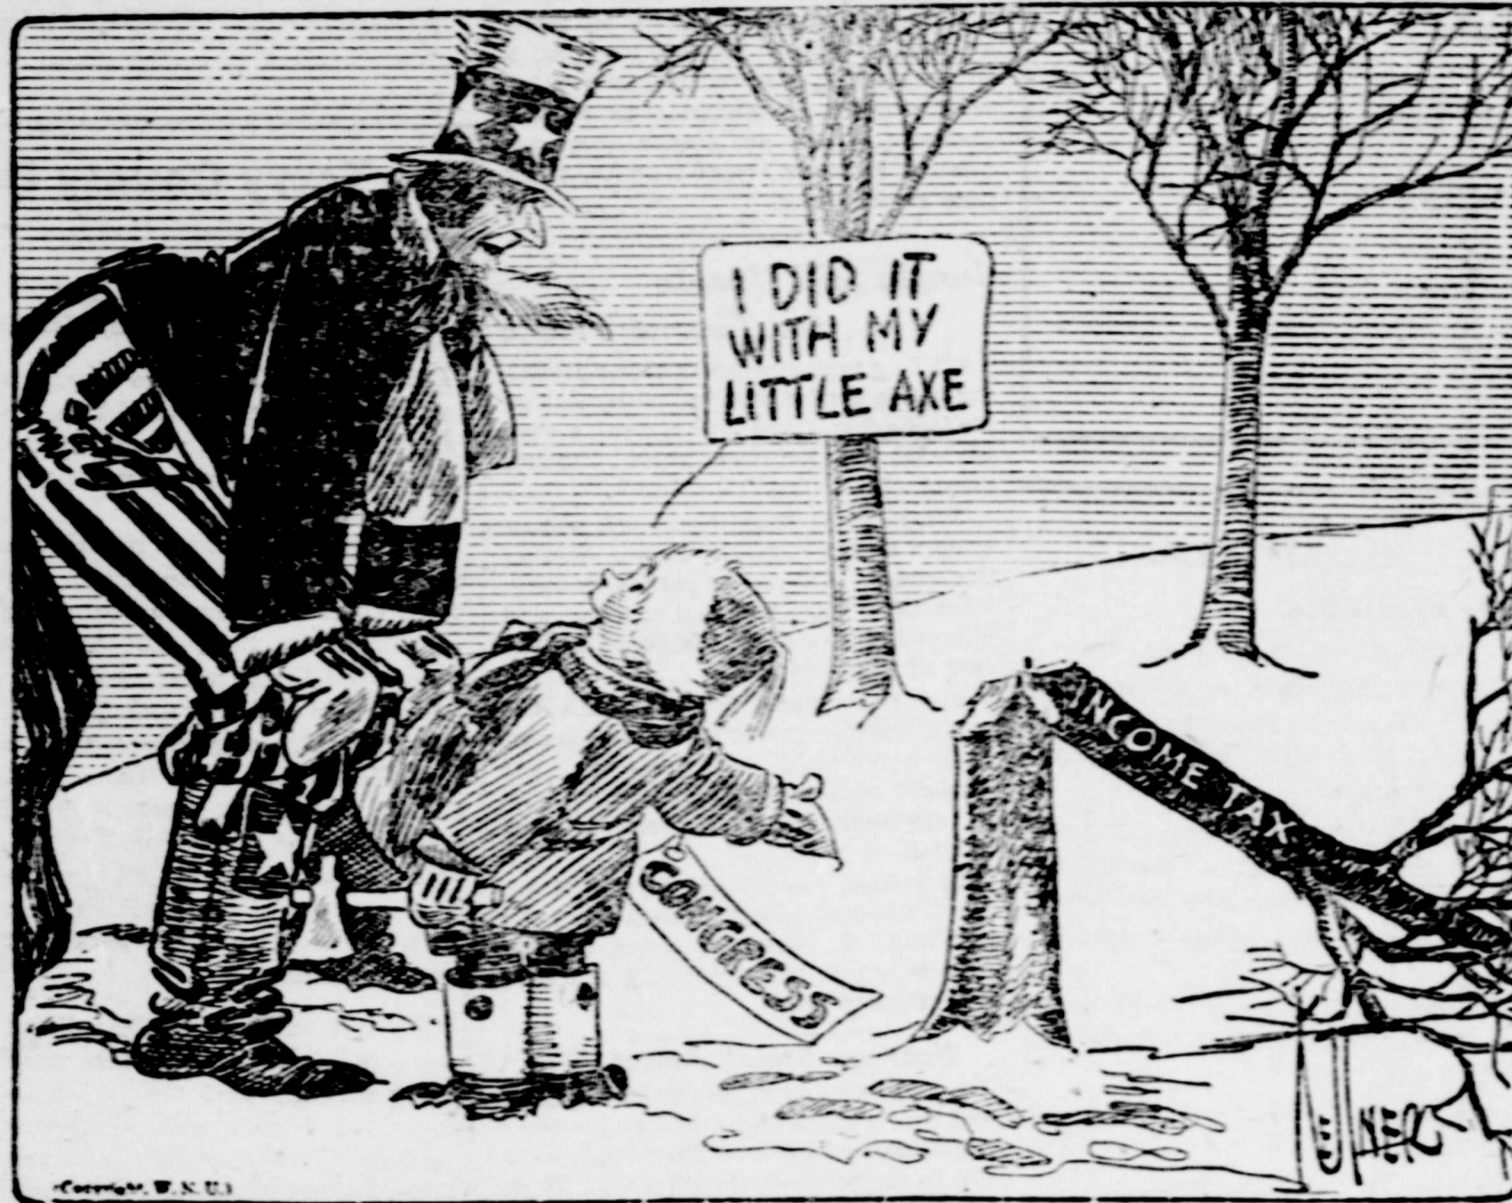

Two garments are plenty, Katherine Cunningham, Chicago designer, told the 21st annual Convention of Corsetiers.

One garment, she said, would be a combination which serves the purpose of brassiere, corset and 'undie.'

Garment No. 2 is the outer dress—there is no more.

"The corset as we knew it 20 years ago, has disappeared never to return," said Mrs. Cunningham.

WORK ON COURTHOUSE MOVING ALONG NICELY

With another 30 or 40 days of pretty weather, the new Terry county courthouse brick work will be finished, and the workmen will then be put on the inside to hasten the work of finishing the interior. It now looks as if the job will be ready to turn over to the county on contract time, if nothing unforeseen happens to delay the work in the way of getting material, strikes or extremely bad weather.

Citizens are beginning to see what a beautiful structure they are going to have, too, as its graceful outlines are beginning to show fast as the finishing brick and stone trimmings and columns go into place, and on every side we hear remarks about what a pretty building we are going to have among both citizen and stranger. Not only that but they more often than don't, also add that it is going to be a real building, well constructed from basement to roof.

The Morgan Contracting concern, architects and workmen all seem to be working in perfect harmony with the Commissioners Court to give the people of Terry county every value possible for their money expended.

ROAD BOND ELECTION CALLED IN YOAKUM COUNTY

Attorney P. G. Stanford, of Plains, was in our city one day last week and informed us that at the regular meeting of the Yoakum County Commissioners Court, Monday, the 8th, an election was ordered throughout the county to see whether or not the people of Yoakum county wished to bond themselves in the sum of $100,000 for the building of first class roads in that county.

This is indeed a real progressive step for a county without a mile of railway, and shows the spirit of those behind the movement. The friends of the measure believe the issue will carry by a safe two-thirds majority.

Mr. Stewart, a progressive citizen of the Tokio community in Yoakum county was appointed by the court to fill out the unexpired term of Mr. Pat McHugh, who recently died, as Commissioner of Precinct No. 1.

H. W. WRYE TO FILL PULPIT AT HOME SUNDAY

A telegram was received from Elder H. W. Wrye Wednesday stating he was on his way home from Tennessee and would fill his pulpit here Sunday morning and night. The wire came from Longview, Texas.

He has been engaged in a protracted meeting at Clarksville, Tennessee for the past week or ten days.

HIGH SCHOOL DEPARTMENTS HAD EXHIBIT FEBRUARY 12TH

The Domestic Science department with Miss Espie Castleberry in charge, and Supt. O. W. Fagala head of the Manual training department of Brownfield High school, invited parents and interested citizens to visit their respective rooms on Friday afternoon, Feb. 12th, for the purpose of observing the work of these special departments. Many responded to the invitation and were greatly pleased with the completed articles and many other projects under construction.

Indeed, many expressed surprise at the amount of work done; and advancement in so short a period.

Too much cannot be said of this venture of manual training in our schools. The instructor is a happy combination being both a friend and teacher, his results are quite perceptible. The boys have had only a few months of actual work and have a number of pieces to their credit which had been delivered and therefore could not be on exhibition. They have worked over old desks, remodeled furniture as well as making the large tables in the work room. These tables and their construction can only be appreciated when seen and examined.

The class has to their credit, book cases, desks, shelves book racks, tables and various other pieces already completed.

Doubtless some of the students of mechanical drawing will some day be well known architects.

In the domestic science room the guests were delightfully entertained by Miss Castleberry and her class. Almost one hundred garments were displayed; neatly done, various materials being worked up into beautiful dresses, aprons and undergarments. These garments were seen in new spring fabrics, hand embroidered and made in the prevailing fashion. The walls of this room presented almost the appearance of a flower garden, for the garments almost covered the walls; hues of pink and lavender prevailed.

Miss Castleberry and class served the visitors with a plate of wafers, tea and candy. The entire enjoyment of the afternoon was provided by the Domestic Science and Manual Training departments. All guests were more than pleased with the work done.—A Guest.

DIED

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Kropp passed away Sunday at residence of the parents of Mrs. Kropp, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Pruitt, and was buried Monday afternoon in the Brownfield cemetery. A. J. Burnett conducted the funeral services at the grave.

RETAIL MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION WELL UNDER WAY

A representative from almost every place of business in Brownfield was on hand Monday night at which time Mr. Fred Kemp, state organizer of the association was on hand and gave his services and experience in getting the association started off here.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce consisting of the following men have been greatly instrumental in the successful launching of the first retail merchants association here: H. R. Winston, W. H. Collins, J. L. Cruce, E. G. Alexander, Glenn Harris, W. B. Tudor, A. W. Andersen, Tom May, R. E. Bowers, Ben Hurst, W. A. Bell and J. E. Michie.

H. R. Winston was elected by the directors to serve as president of the Chamber of Commerce for the ensuing year, and Mr. J. E. Shelton was elected joint secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchants Association with a salary that was satisfactory both to himself and the directors.

A committee consisting of W. A. Bell, J. L. Cruce, Ben Hurst, and A. W. Andersen was appointed Monday night to go out among the business men of the town and solicit membership in the organization. They made a clean sweep of every place where the proprietors or managers were in, and it is believed they will all join when they are seen, making 100 per cent membership in Brownfield which alone speaks volumes for the harmony of the town. We also understand that Mr. A. P. Moore of Gomer, and J. C. Casey of Tokio, are taking membership in the association.

PLACED DAUGHTER IN STATE BLIND INSTITUTE

Mrs. E. Brown returned Saturday from Austin, where she has been the past ten days placing her daughter, Ola Belle in the State Institution for Blind in that city. Mrs. Brown was carried away with the institution, and although it was very hard to part from Ola Belle, she seems to be reconciled to let her remain in the institution in order to prepare herself for the battles of life.

Mrs. Brown said the institution was a lovely place, and spotlessly clean, and the children are contented and happy. Mrs. Casey, one of our public school teachers also has a sister there, who is getting along fine, whom Mrs. Brown met several times while down there.

BOILER AT HIGH SCHOOL BLEW OUT TUESDAY

The steam boiler at the school building blew out a flue early Tuesday morning, but no damage was done otherwise to it or the building.

School was dismissed in this department the rest of the day while plumbers made repairs.

LEICION BOYS MAKE DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

The local American Legion boys have set their goal at 100 members in order to hit the State Convention, which meets at Amarillo this year, with more than 100 per cent increase. It is said the local post has surprised both state and national headquarters with their accomplishments already, and the boys are expecting to surprise them with the unexpected again. The heretofore unbelievable has been the fact that they had such a big paid up membership and a hall of their own paid for and well equipped in such a small town.

The boys report 16 new members already before the drive is hardly under way and they are initiating new members at almost every meeting, and when the drive is really put forward, they may have to have called meetings to attend to this part of the work. The Herald is putting out cards and other advertising matter for them to go to ex-service men, and they expect, in the near future, to have a regular press agent who will have regular weekly reports of the drive and other interesting matter concerning what the post is doing.

Their biggest undertaking for the year is putting out trees around the school grounds, and they should be encouraged in every way by the citizenship in this undertaking to beautify our school grounds. We also expect this work to grow, and at last with their help and encouragement to see every school ground in Terry county, where water is provided adorned with a beautiful grove of trees to break the monotony of the treeless plains.

Many of the local boys are also planning to join the American Legion pilgrimage to France in 1927, which is the 10th year since American troops joined the allied armies to put down Kaiserism. It is said the fare will only be about $30 for the Legion or members of the auxiliary. Some 20 have signified their intention to go from here already. We understand the National Convention will meet in Paris that year.

AMERICAN CAFE CHANGED HANDS MONDAY

Mr. Gibson Oldom sold the fixtures and business of the American Cafe to Miss Myrl Brown of this city Monday, and she immediately took charge of it, and has a good crew working Miss Myrl is a young lady of good business ability, makes friends and holds them, and we are sure will soon build up an excellent cafe business, and keep the reputation of the American Cafe on a high plane.

We failed to learn the intentions of Mr. Oldom for the future, but rather suspect he is going to Midland to conduct the cafe in the Llano Hotel. Mr. Oldom is a good cafe man and if it is his intention to leave Brownfield, we wish he and good wife success.

BATHING BEAUTIES PLAY POLO IN MOVIES

Polo has always been strictly a man's game until Producer George Fitzmaurice saw its possibilities for movie novelties. Then he selected a team of four beautiful blonds and another of four beautiful brunettes. Instead of the conventional riding togs, they wore bathing suits and, astride fleet and capering polo ponies, battled each other over the field. Meantime Fitzmaurice's cameras ground on the amazing scene. It affords one of the many novelties in the new Goldwin-Fitzmaurice picture, "A Thief in Paradise," which will be at the Rialto theatre next Monday and Tuesday, February 22nd and 23rd.

MARRIED

Mr. Roland Brown of O'Donnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Brown of this city, and Miss Lolo Landers, of Fortales, were married last Tuesday, and are now visiting in this city with their parents. Mrs. Brown, we understand, formerly lived in O'Donnell. We did not learn just where they will make their home, but will likely be O'Donnell, as Roland is interested in a cafe there.

COUNTY HEALTH NURSE ARRIVED MONDAY

Miss Anna Lois Easley of Dublin, Texas, whose salary is to be jointly paid by Terry county and the State, arrived here Monday afternoon to take up her work. She was accompanied by Miss Kathryn Hagquist, State Advisory Nurse, of Austin, who will remain here a week or ten days to get Miss Easley lined up with the work. Miss Easley is a graduate nurse of the Southwestern School of Nursing at Fort Worth, and has spent some time at Austin with the State Health Department preparing herself for special county work to which she has been called, and the Herald wishes to congratulate the Commissioners Court of Terry county, City Health officer Dr. C. M. Bell, the civic clubs of our city and others who have been in any way instrumental in this progressive step forward.

A county public health committee will be appointed by the Commissioners Court and provide representatives of each school district in the county, who with a central committee from Brownfield, will assist the nurse with suggestions and actual help in carrying out the crusade throughout the county.

Her program provides for inspection of the schools of the county, the organization of junior health clubs among the girls of the high school age, who will be instructed in home nursing and personal hygiene. Similar clubs will be organized among adult women, and courses will be given in the care of the baby and pre-natal care of the mother. She will also organize baby clinics, and the public school children will be examined at regular intervals.

In case of illness in the home, the family physician or the family may notify the nurse, and she will visit the home and give some member of the family demonstrations and instructions in the proper nursing of the sick.

The Herald is glad to say that every physician and dentist in the city have pledged hearty cooperation with Miss Easley. In fact she informed the Herald that everyone almost that she had met had given her unstinted encouragement and welcome, and she feels that she is among friends and people who will help her to make a huge success of this great health job she has undertaken. The County Health Committee will meet in a few days, at which time it is hoped that representatives from every school district in the county may be appointed and in attendance, at which time a program of the work will be mapped out.

The Herald hopes to be able to give all this with each school district represented next week. We wish also to state that the Herald is backing this movement to the limit, and its space is at the disposal of either the nurse or any of the officials of the work in the county.

THE PASSING OF COMMIS-SIONER PAT McHUGH

The entire citizenship of Yoakum county, not to mention numerous old friends in Terry county, are grieving over the passing of Pat McHugh, of the Sligo community in Yoakum county, which occurred Sunday, the 7th inst. about 6:30 p. m. as the sun was setting in the west.

Mr. McHugh had been one of the Commissioners of Yoakum county since its organization, and took a great hand in the advancement of every measure that was for the advancement of his county. He stood fore-square on every measure, and there never was any question about where to place him. He was born in Sligo, Ireland some seventy years ago, but came to America at an early age, and has lived in Yoakum county about 20 years, where he owned a splendid little ranch, and named the postoffice established in the community for his home town in Ireland.

Funeral services were held Monday morning by a Catholic priest from Stanton, Texas, and the body was carried to Stanton, Texas, where burial was had.

We understand that most of his property was left to a niece who has kept house for him for the past 20 years, and helped him look after the ranch. Mr. Dickson was appointed administrator.

HERE'S A RECORD

There is a remarkable firm of general merchants in the little town of Clear Lake, S. D., which probably hold the world's record for consistent and adequate advertising in a community of that size.

English & Towers have carried a full page advertisement in the Clear Lake Courier every week, without a miss, for twenty years. They have contracted for a similar space for each week of 1926.

Yet Clear Lake is a town of only 835 population, in a county with but 8,758 people, with two newspapers. The extent of the firm's advertising with the other newspaper was not stated in the source of our information, but it is reasonable to suppose that it was considerable.

From their extensive and persistent advertising, English & Towers appear to be pretty thoroughly sold on the proposition. As the Courier says: "They have proven to their satisfaction that large space in the newspaper regularly brings correspondingly big results."—Lubbock Avalanche.

Lubbock, Feb. 16.—J. B. Green, 74 years of age, fell dead at the home of his daughter, Mrs. P. T. West, at 1931 Avenue I, yesterday afternoon at 2:40 o'clock.

Heart failure was the cause of his death, physicians said.

LIBERTY NEWS

By Bumble Bee.

Back again after so long.

Well, everybody is winding up their bole pulling and corn gathering. James Massengill finished pulling hells Monday.

J. A. Taylor finished gathering corn last Saturday and A. L. Husky will finish gathering corn in a few days.

H. P. French has finished gathering corn and feed.

While, P. M. Williams is still among his white faced cattle most of his time I suppose.

Our school is doing just fine, I suppose as we again have Miss Nina Dunn for a teacher.

One of the Turner school teachers Miss Johny Smith, is going on crutches caused by a horse she was riding falling backwards with her and bruising some of her limbs.

Mr. Babe Taylor has been on the sick list again although reported better at this writing.

We have been having some flu with us out here as well as a little snow.

Tons of Sunflowers

Produced in Canada

The Canadian sunflower crop has grown to enormous proportions, the plant having been found to form excellent silage. Sunflower yields from twenty to twenty-five tons per acre, a great deal more than the average corn crop, and the extent to which it has been cultivated in Canada shows how this plant, until a few years ago despised as a worthless weed, has become a crop of great economic value.

The importance of the sunflower was first urged by Dominion government agricultural experts, who stressed its value for silage purposes. Farmers began to plant small fields, and found the experiment profitable.

Expansion has lately been so rapid that last year Alberta alone produced a crop of nearly 200,000 tons, at a cost which, in view of the food value of the plant, is declared to be the cheapest silage or fodder crop yet raised. Farmers report that live stock take readily to it.

Jungle Still Unsafe

for Tourist Traffic

While a motor omnibus was proceeding along a road through a dense jungle in Ceylon, the driver noticed a herd of wild elephants a short distance ahead.

Thinking to scare them off, a passenger in the omnibus took a shot at the leader. The bullet grazed its back, whereupon it bellowed loudly and charged the omnibus, followed by the rest of the herd.

The passengers dived beneath the seats, but the driver stuck to his post and accelerated steering the car straight at the leading elephant. As he approached, he swerved past the animal.

In a flash the animal stretched out his trunk and tore the hood from the omnibus. A chase of more than a mile followed, but eventually the herd was thrown off.

Nothing Small About Him

Sir Ernest Cassel, the financier, came to London when still a boy and entered the banking house of Bischoffsheim & Co. in an insignificant capacity. There he soon gave evidence of extraordinary ability and he advanced rapidly. One day the house was confronted with a difficult situation, the handling of which presented seemingly insuperable obstacles to all. Young Cassel suggested a solution which appeared to be feasible and was entrusted with the task. Having accomplished it successfully, to the complete satisfaction of his superiors, he was called into the office and informed: "We are entirely satisfied with the manner in which you have discharged this undertaking, and, as an indication of our appreciation, we have decided to raise your salary to five hundred pounds." Young Cassel calmly replied, "I suppose you mean five thousand pounds." Whereupon everyone looked with astonishment at everyone else, but Mr. Bischoffsheim retorted just as calmly and promptly, "Yes, sir."—London Answers.

Had Their Nerve

A well-known lecturer was promised $20 if he would give a talk at a charity affair in a small town. He consented, and drove in a motor car for twelve miles through a heavy rain-storm to keep his engagement. Though he had come prepared to speak for only half an hour he found upon his arrival that he was expected to occupy the platform for an hour, which he did. The hall in which the affair was held was poorly lighted and drafty and the lecturer was thankful when he was finally able to leave the platform. An envelope was handed him, and in it he found a $20 bill, together with a note reading: "If you will give us your fee God will aid you in your efforts."

Strictly Neutral

A junior football match was in progress and great excitement was aroused. One of the backs tackled the opposing center forward, and after much wild kicking both fell.

"Foul," said the referee, blowing his whistle.

"Who for?" asked the home captain.

"Us," came the reply from the highly excited official.—Vancouver Province.

Restoring Books

Books that have lain long in a damp place and acquired a musty smell should be thoroughly aired and exposed to the sunlight for several days. This should arrest the odor. Mildew may be checked by brushing over the books with spirits of wine or a few drops of essential oil, such as oil of cloves, applied with a soft cloth. The books should be dusted frequently.

Innocence

Just before the polo match one of the players was talking to a lady friend who sat in the enclosure.

"Have you ever seen a polo match before?" he inquired.

"No, never," she replied, "but I'm sure I shall enjoy it, and I wish you'd hurry up and begin, for I'm just dying to see those beautiful ponies kick the ball about."

NOT POLITICS BUT JUSTICE SAYS MOODY

Dallas, Feb. 12.—Politics apparently is not on Attorney General Dan Moody's mind for he did not go near the democratic state's right meetings in session here Friday.

Arriving early Friday morning the Attorney General even chose a different hotel from the one customarily patronized so that, obviously, he could avoid the party caucus.

Advised of the discrepancy between the retail price of gasoline in Dallas, Fort Worth and other Texas cities, Moody remarked, "that looks like there might be something wrong."

He denied, however, he was here for the purpose of investigating of gasoline but said he might look to the situation later.

"I'm not talking politics; I'm too busy trying to collect the peoples money illegally paid out on highway contracts," Moody said when asked about his gubernatorial aspirations. "I'm going to collect it, too."

The question of invasion of state's rights by the Federal Government was discussed at the democratic meeting by Jno. Davis, senator and chairman, who opened the caucus.

The Fergusons were represented by Author Eidson, state democratic chairman of the executive committee.

MAKING AN ISSUE WHERE NONE EXISTS

This looks like the year when the Ku Klux Klan will not have a lookin on the gubernatorial race. Every one yet in prospect is an avowed enemy of the Klan. Just why Moody had to declare he was not a Ku Klux because there was a Ku Klux on the platform at Houston we can't understand. There was a negro on the platform and he did not have to declare he was not a negro. It occurs to us he was a little anxious about the matter.
 Nobody had raised the question. You can't blame Jim for howling Ku Klux, because that is his only hope of getting into office. Dan Moody, while an avowed anti is a man of merit and we have to see him make enemies when there is no real cause for it.
 We would not mind seeing him Governor but he can be without dragging the issue that should be dead into his campaign. Texas has heard enough of this matter. Neither the Jews, Catholics or any other foreeigners make a fuss over this question, it remains for Americans only to raise the question and fall out with their friends and neighbors over it.

Some of the best friends we have in the world are strong anti but it has never made any difference between us. We would not let a matter like that come between us and our friends. We think too much of their friendship. There isn't any sense in people falling out over such questions. At least the Ku Klux is nothing more than any other lodge but some anti know more about it than the members themselves and they know it is a bad thing, just any way and they won't have it any other way so there you are. We are sorry Dan Moody raised that question and we hope it will not be dragged into politics. Let's be sensible over these things and allow every man the right to his own lodge and his own religion.

 marked that by had a good place, and the family was well satisfied with it.

Ancient Industry Is That of Bread Baking

Baking is probably the very oldest industry man engaged in. Wheat and barley, the oldest cereals known to have been found, together with the plowshare fashioned of wood and the stone hand mill consisting of a bottomed stone and a stone bowl-shaped crusher, among the remains left by prehistoric man. The oldest bread was made in the form of cakes or loaves simply prepared by mixing wheat or barley to a batter with water and milk and baking these batter cakes of varying size and form of our present-day griddle cakes on hot stones or over red-hot coals, or a hot stone, which represented the first bread pan and oven combined. Salt was probably the only other ingredient used besides the milk and water, as there was no baking powder and yeast was not used until brewing beer from fermented barley had become known. The Egyptians had perfected both baking and brewing 1,500 years before the beginning of the Christian era.

Robbing It In

A well-known actress was appearing in a play with a certain actor who was noted for his femininity. He complained that the woman continually laughed at him during one of his most important scenes.

At last he wrote her a letter, in which he said: "I am extremely sorry to tell you that it is impossible for me to make any effect in my scene if you persist in laughing at me on the stage.
 May I ask you to change your manner, as the scene is a most trying one?"

To this the actress replied: "You are quite mistaken. I never laugh at you on the stage. I walk till I get home!"

Grand Canyon Marvel of Peace and Beauty

We did not expect to have the magnificence of the Grand Canyon of Arizona. Friends had persuaded a deep, awe-inspiring round of earth's side.
 Colored pinnacles and rounded buttes had prepared us for empty lined benches on the precipitous walls. We expected heat, arid stripes of coral-lion, white and white.

Instead we looked into the beautiful soft glow of the canyon and our hearts were won. The only Arizona morning was cupped there when we first beheld it—on the deep, stony plateau with its dotted trees, on the pale pinnacles of the irregular walls.
 Truncated peaks were crowns of millions of years light and lower walls of faded purple. The immense gorge of the great jagged bowl played sometimes an unbroken, unobscurable mirror of serenity.

We saw colors change, the pink glow of the soft bands of nature took up, and when in the full noon, then broad together as the lights lengthened, and set in order stripes of purple blue. On the stark side of the steep walls we saw the sweetest points of light and the gift with dusky blue, and it lost them in the high, clear wind we walked that invisible canyon, saw the stars, large, tinged and low, and knew that this was a familiar place where we could be a pioneer.—Christian Science Monitor.

New One

Here is a news item that someone in Los Angeles can probably get away with—once.

It was to blow out a match that John Hetherford speeded his automobile through North Broadway, Yonkers, at 35 miles an hour.

"I had three girls in my car and one of them tried to light a cigarette," he explained to the judge, adding: "I guess I'm a bit old-fashioned. I don't want my girl to smoke, so I stopped on the gas. The boys blow out every match she tried to light."

And the judge smilingly said that that was a new one and suspended sentence.

Fox Changes Color

The blue fox is a color phase of the Arctic, or white fox, which is characteristic in range, being found particularly along the southeast of Arctic and subarctic regions. Its normal winter coat is white, while the summer pelage is brown and tawny. The blue fox is dark bluish in winter and tends toward brownish in summer. There are intermediate in which the coat may be speckled blue and white, or the blue and white may be blended, producing a dingy or smoky white appearance.

Leading Languages

French is possibly the simplest language to learn. The German grammar is extremely complicated and English pronunciation is difficult for certain foreigners. The English language also contains a great number of colloquialisms used in everyday speech, which takes some time to acquire. All languages do not contain the same number of words. The English language contains approximately 700,000 words.
 German dictionaries contain about 500,000 words; French, 250,000 words.

FOUR LAMESA STORES BROKEN INTO SATURDAY NIGHT

Four business houses of Lamesa were broken into on Saturday night of last week and small raids made by prowlers. The four places receiving the visits were: Butler Drug Co.,
 City Grocery and Market, Cornelius Grocery and Market and the G. R.
 Lawrence Grocery Co. From the nature of the places visited it is surmised that the folks making the calls must have been hungry and in need of medicine.

None of the victims report any great losses. In one or two places small sums of money was taken from the cash drawers and the rest of the loot consisted of small amounts of merchandise.

Local officers report that they are working on a number of clues in connection with these cases.—Lamesa

MR. AND MRS. HERBERT NEILL HONORED

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Neill were given a surprise shower at the J. L.
 Randall home last Friday evening which was a real surprise.

The couple were spending the night with the Randalls and before they had finished dinner a merry crowd of youngsters and older ones led by Mrs.
 Walter Gracy came in and completedly loaded the dining table with the choicest gifts, ranging from Silver, Cat Glass, China and linen to the provincial rolling pin.

Mrs. Neill thanked the donors in well chosen words, but Herbert was too full for utterance.

Mrs. Gracy and Mrs. Randall served cake and punch during the evening. Miss Voncile Hologate read in her charming manner.

Mrs. Randall favored the guests with an accordion solo which caused much merriment. Forty-two and bounce were enjoyed until a late hour.

H. L. Lee returned this week from Knox City, where he was called on account of the serious illness of his son-in-law, who was much improved when Mr. Lee left there. He also visited other children who live at Lamesa while away. While waiting in town to get out to the farm, he called and perused the Herald he missed while away, and included the "classified" section in which he found something he wanted. Don't ever get it into your noodle the Herald isn't read by the farmers.

The new 5 tube radio set which the

 the middle of March, was tried out at the Brick garage Monday night of this week. A number of "listeners" had stayed until after the show for the test and the reception of many programs broadcasted from distant stations without the annoyance of static and other common atmospheric disturbances, proved so interesting that the party continued far into the morning.

Texas is to observe an Industrial Week some time in March according to information received here. Few, perhaps, of our citizens realize that manufacturing in Texas is now a close runner-up of agriculture, both standing well over $1,000,000,000 annually. But there are already too many "weeks" and "days," and few, comparatively, will celebrate.

That long drawn out anthracite coal strike seems to be settled at last after months of idleness in which the miners were nearing starvation and their families were being fed in soup kitchens. Not only they, but millions of other families in no way to blame for the strike were made to suffer and shiver in the cold, and neither side has received any advantages from the strike that we can figure. There ought to be some way to make the operators and miners settle their differences without stopping production.

The United States Senate has slashed $456,000,000 from the tax bill and the people back home are hoping and praying that the lower house will concur and that Coolidge will O. K. it. Taxation—National, State, county and city are becoming more burdensome all the time, and the seat of our government is the place to begin lowering them. A thousand and one useless commissions throughout the country should also be eliminated.

After all the discussions are over; after all the organizations have given their remedies; after all the conventions have resolved one way then another, the fact still remains that as long as the boys from the forks of the creek keep coming to town to get their corn and hay; their meat, lard and flour; their eggs and butter—just that long we can boast of being the best mortgaged counties in the world. When the farmer lives at home we shall all prosper.

Most towns and cities that are adopting the city manager form of government are well pleased with the results, and we can see no reason why it would not be good for Brownfield. No one has the time to leave their own business attend to itself as best it can, and voluntarily give his time to his city gratis, and it is expecting too much to ask anyone to do this not that they are incapable, nor that they are inefficient. But Brownfield now has considerable money invested in public utilities, and they need a real good manager on a good salary to take charge and devote his time to them.

The College of Industrial Arts is the latest of our State institutions to have to mire through the spoils of politics, and as usual will come out the worse for the experience. Of course the experience will not ruin nor seriously cripple the institution; it is too great for that but it would be better for it and the citizenship of the State if the recent political battle within its regency had never occurred. If some statesman ever arises who can pull our state institutions of all kinds, out of politics, he will deserve and will have a monument erected to his memory.

TELEPHONE SERVICE LIMITED IN EUROPE

So accustomed are the people of the United States to continuous telephone service, night or day, week-day, Sunday or holiday, that it is difficult for Americans to appreciate that this condition is not typical of telephone service throughout the world, says the Texas Commerce on Public Utility Information.

In Germany and Belgium less than 5 per cent of the telephone exchanges give uninterrupted service. In France the proportion of central offices in continuous operation is less than one per cent. The hours of service in practically all the exchanges in Italy, Norway, Sweden and other continental countries are similarly restricted.

About the only exceptions to this rule are Canada and Great Britain. About 85 percent of the British telephone exchanges are open all night. On Sundays and holidays telephone service is shut down at the less important central offices except for a couple of hours. In France 95 per cent of the exchanges are closed on Sundays. Limited service is given in Great Britain on Sundays and holidays. Another feature of the continental telephone service is the lunch-hour interval of two hours between 12 and 2 p. m., when many of the exchanges are closed.

"A LITTLE KNOWLEDGE IS DANGEROUS THING"

To know "just a little" or "almost everything" about the title to a piece of property is just as safe as knowing nothing at all—and no safer.

Be certain you have complete, detailed, accurate and absolute knowledge that your title is valid before you pay away your money.

Possible you may be able to get such knowledge from people who abstract title "on the side."

But surely you are most likely to get it from specialists, who devote their entire time, energies, and brain power to making abstracts that are absolutely error-proof.

Early Home of Washington

Hayfield plantation near Alexandria, Va., the home of George Washington before the Revolution, lost its old English boxwood garden which was laid out by George Washington. Miss Evelyn Smith of New York city has reproduced the garden at Amawalk, Westchester county, N. Y., as a memorial to her father, Maj. Orlando Jay Smith. Photograph shows the old place in ruins, the old boxwood hedge being removed.

Washington and Old St. Paul's Chapel

Colonial atmosphere has been scarce in lower Broadway for many years but St. Paul's chapel, the oldest existing church edifice in the island, has brought back some of the grace and simplicity of the days of the Revolution. The famous place of worship has been redecorated and renovated to conform with the fashions prevailing in 1764-6, when St. Paul's was built by McBean.

When the British evacuated the city after the surrender at Yorktown nearly all of the decorations that indicated an English affiliation were torn out of the chapel.

Every royal emblem, every reminder of the connection with Great Britain was removed with the exception of the three-feathered badge of the heir apparent of the English throne surmounting the pulpit. The heir apparent then became George IV in 1811. Through some neglect his emblem was left in its original place and for years it was the subject of curious questions. This heraldic badge of the prince of Wales survived many periods of decoration when other ancient embellishments were removed.

Now many of these decorations have been returned to their former positions. But the British "atmosphere" has not been brought back. Only the Colonial fixtures used when George Washington was President of the United States have kept their places in the old church. It was there that he worshipped for many years. His four-sided pew, always interesting to patriotic pilgrims, is on the Vesey street aisle. It is marked by a large-sized painting of the shield of the United States of America. Opposite, on the Fulton street aisle, a similar pew, used by De Witt Clinton when he was governor of New York, is identified with a painting of the New York shield.

It was in St. Paul's that George Washington received holy communion after his inauguration in 1789 as first President of the United States. The old organ which played on that occasion was sold to Marblehead, Mass.

St. Paul's Chapel, Broadway, Fulton and Vesey Streets, the Oldest Church Structure in Manhattan.

While President Washington was living in New York he made a practice of riding his horse every Sunday morning to St. Paul's, which was not then in the bustling city. In those times Wall street was the extreme end of the business section of the town and Fulton street was out in the country.

During the years while New York has been steadily, rapidly moving up-town, St. Paul's has stood as a foothold of comparative antiquity. Bulldozers have shot into the sky, frowning down on the little church, until today it nestles in a teeming canyon at the feet of man's towers of stone and steel.

Old St. Paul's has been involved in much of New York's history. It was not the first church in Manhattan; the Dutch church of St. Nicholas in the fort at the Battery preceded it by 120 years. There was also a French church. But St. Paul's knew the Tory-Patriot struggles preceding and during the Revolution. At its back, in what became Chatham street and then Park row, had been the jail, the bride-well, the gallows, covered with a Chinese kiosk; the pillory, stocks and, in a little group of trees, the whipping post (according to Martha J. Lamb).

The war drums have sounded many times since the cornerstone was laid in 1764. Troops have marched past to battle with a song on their lips.

The entire interior has been renovated. In the process some ancient relics came to light. One was a massive chandelier that formerly hung in the middle of the church. This chandelier, found in sections in the attic over the organ loft, was fitted with modern improvements and replaced to its former position. Ecclesiastical vessels, documents and small furniture were unearthed from the litter of more than a century.

In its simple dress of former years St. Paul's, the only remaining church edifice in Manhattan with a history begun before the American revolution, is expected to reawaken in lower Broadway Colonial associations preserved chiefly by Bowling green, Fraunces tavern, the last home of President Monroe, and the architecture of City hall.

Started Washington on Pathway to Fame

In the English colonies in America the presence of the French west of the Alleghenies was considered a trespass of one nation upon another's land, says the Detroit News. The notion was that the French, having slipped into what did not belong to them, ought to be turned out. So some influential Virginians, two of them brothers of George Washington, secured a grant of 500,000 acres of land on the Ohio river, with the purpose of selling it. These associates called themselves the Ohio company. Before taking any decisive steps it was thought best to go through the empty form of warning off the intruders. This would make a national question of it. A summons to depart was therefore drawn up and George Washington, a young Virginia planter, wholly unknown to fame—Thackeray calls him "a road surveyor at a guinea a day"—was chosen by Governor Dinwiddie as messenger. The young soldier promptly accepted the trust, and on October 30, 1753, he set out from Williamsburg for the far frontier and undying fame.

Marshall, in his "Life of Washington," says it was the Ohio company that brought on the war known as the French and Indian war, in which the Indians were allies of the French.

Discouraged Liquor

In "George Washington, Country Gentleman," is the following statement: "Some of the contracts (entered into with hired employees) contain peculiar stipulations. That with a certain overseer provided:—'And whereas there are a number of whisky stills very contiguous to these said plantations, and many idle drunkers and dissolute people continually resorting to some priding themselves in debauching sober and well-inclined persons the said Edd Violett doth promise as well for his own sake as his employees to avoid them as he ought.'"

Washington's Maxims

Be not apt to relate news if you know not the truth thereof. Think before you speak. When a man does all he can, though it succeeds not well, blame not him that did it. Let your conversation be without malice or envy. Let your recreation be manful, not sinful. Speak no evil of the absent, for it is unjust. Show yourself not glad at the misfortune of another though he were your enemy.

COWBOYS RAN FIRST GIN IN CROSBY COUNTY

Crosbyton, Jan. 30.—In 1905, where Crosbyton now stands, the C. B. Livestock Company built the first gin in Crosby County. It was a two stand gin. John D. McDermott, sheriff of Crosby County and cowboy at that time, was the ginner. This was the first gin that McDermott ever saw, and he, with the other cowboys, helped build and operate it. J. Frank Smith, now owner and proprietor of the Smith House, was cook on the ranch and did the firing.

McDermott and Smith, with other cowboys, wearing their boots and spurs, would run the gin on Friday and Saturday of each week. In taking care of the "big runs" amounting to eight or ten bales, it was some times necessary to borrow a part of Sunday to finish the job.

It was 10 miles to the nearest farm at that time and cotton was brought from parts of Dickens and Lubbock counties. A cowboy camp was near enough to the gin that those who boarded, free of charge until his turn came at the gin. The cotton was generally bought in the seed and when ginned hauled to Canyon or Crosby for shipment.

When the cotton was ginned and marketed it would bring about 15 cents per pound, and the seed about 15 cents per bushel. The seed was used by ranchmen. According to and behold on the snowy night of Jan. 30th, old bossy gave birth to twin calves, and now it takes most of the 15 cents to keep the twins going. One was a male and the other kind.

HARRIS IN ACTIVE CHARGE SANTA FE SURVEYING CREW

Lubbock, Feb. 15.—G. W. Harris, assistant chief engineer of the Santa Fe system, with headquarters in the Chicago offices, has taken active charge of the work of the survey out of Crosbyton toward Fort Worth, according to information received here yesterday from Crosbyton.

The fact that Mr. Harris, who supervised the construction of the main line of the Santa Fe through this section, has taken active charge of the survey out of Crosbyton, caused those close in touch with the situation to take more than usual interest in developments, and they attach special significance to this move.

Dr. Cates was up from Wellman Saturday and reported that he had a nice little jersey and was rejoicing that he was soon to have all the milk and butter he could consume, but lo! and behold on the snowy night of Jan. 30th, old bossy gave birth to twin calves, and now it takes most of the 15 cents to keep the twins going. One was a male and the other kind.

TRANSCRIBER ADDED TO BLIND INSTITUTE

The first Red Cross chapter in Texas to definitely include Braille in its program as an organized chapter activity is the Dallas County Chapter at Dallas, Texas. This Chapter has employed Miss Zollic B. Walker, from the staff of the Institute for the Blind at Austin, as an instructor in Braille transcribing. Monday, afternoon and night classes are held in Dallas at Chapter headquarters.

The Red Cross has long been in Braille transcribing, first through individual chapter activity, and in 1921 the National organization assumed responsibility appointing a Director of Braille who works in cooperation with and through the Library of Congress at Washington.

Many Chapters throughout the United States carry on this work as a volunteer activity. Big hearted women give many hours of their time each week in an effort to bring cheer into the lives of individuals for whom the light has failed.

Under the fostering care of the Red Cross, Braille transcribing has steadily grown until there are certified workers from Maine to California and from Florida to Washington. More than 2,000 volumes have so far been transcribed by Red Cross workers. The subjects include fiction by the best modern authors, biography, history, travel, essays, drama, et cetera. This work has been of inestimable value to ex-service men who became blinded as a result of the World War. It stimulates the soldier's interest in reading once more for himself in many cases proves to be the help that put him again on the road to normal living.

One lieutenant expresses his appreciation as follows: "The work was well-nigh perfect. My thanks go to the transcriber the Red Cross and all who are working to make this splendid a living force. My hope is that some day I may be able to repay the kindness by bringing the same service to another one situated as I was when the only avenue of help open was that of Braille transcribing."

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS TESTING CONCRETE

Austin, Texas, Feb. 15.—For the Olmos dam, under construction near San Antonio, specimens of the concrete being used are being tested at regular intervals by the engineering experiment station of the University of Texas, according to Dr. F. E. Giesecke, director, of the station. Preliminary tests were made to ascertain the best concrete mixture from the materials available. Further tests will be continued to see that the desired strength is actually obtained and that the materials are holding up as they should.

Since the work was undertaken in September, 125 specimens of concrete have been tested. S. S. Crececius, R. Thaxton and J. R. Ledbetter are the engineers for the dam who are having the tests made.

The University of Texas renders this service without charge to engineers and architects in order to aid in the general improvement of concrete construction in the state. As an illustration of the effect of the cooperation of the engineering experiment station laboratory with engineers in charge of field work, Dr. Giesecke stated that sixteen concrete cylinders, recently received from J. B. Neighbors, County engineer of Wilbarger county, had an average strength of 6,490 pounds per square inch, or more than twice as much as is required by the State Highway Commission specifications.

LOW AUTOMOBILE PRICES

The automobile industry is offering unprecedented values it is declared by R. H. Grant, vice-president of Chevrolet Motor Company, who bases his opinion upon the exhibits which he has inspected at the New York, Detroit, and Chicago shows.

"A large majority of automobile buyers will receive during 1926 an even greater value for their money than they did in 1925," Mr. Grant asserts.

"The values represented by present-day automobiles are emphasized by the fact that despite all improvements made during the last decade, the ratio of present and pre-war automobile prices is 65 cents per dollar, a reduction of 35 per cent.

The average cost of all commodities is 67 per cent higher than in 1913.

"The garage in which you shelter your '65-cent' automobile now costs $1.96 for each dollar it would have cost in 1913. While the quality of automobiles improved and their prices decreased, the cost of living was raised to $1.67 per pre-war dollar, the cost of clothing to $1.74, the cost of shoes to $1.65 and the cost of household furnishings to $2.16.

"Most of the cars shown at the recent exhibits are better cars than those shown last year. The industry is not resting on its honors. It continues to progress. In some cases prices have been reduced even in the face of important mechanical improvements and attractive body refinements. The reason, of course, is that the cost per unit drops as the volume of manufacturing increases."

The State school inspector will be here Monday and Tuesday of next week. Judge Winston informed us that he was going to try to get $2,700 aid for the seven rural schools applying for State Aid.

COUNTRY CHILDREN NEED A NINE MONTHS TERM

As straws show how the winds blow, so inquiries from country people coming into the Board of Education Department of the Interior, show the trend of their thoughts on matters concerned with the education of their children. During the past two weeks there has been an unusual number of inquiries concerned with the minimum and average length of school terms in the different states. The inquirers are seeking arguments to present to patrons or school officers in the hope of securing longer school terms in their State or District. Fortunately, more and more States are setting up, through state laws, a standard minimum term of eight or nine months. There are, however, still some states in which there is no such law and in which there are many poor, isolated districts which maintain school 6 or 7 months only. Indeed, reports from a few States show some districts in which schools are open even fewer than 6 months in the year. In considering this matter of the length of school term it is important to remember that the ordinary school organization and expectancy of school achievement is planned with the idea that a standard school term is nine months in length. Children cannot accomplish in 6, 7, or 8 months the full amount of work planned for nine. At the end of the seventh or eighth year of school or at the age of 12 or 13 years when they should be entering high-school they become discouraged and drop out of school altogether. Good teachers, good buildings and good schools are important factors in education but they cannot fully compensate for precious opportunities lost through short terms.

Census Not Popular Among Many Peoples

Superstition among natives in the Kenya colony, in Africa, has caused census takers no end of trouble. The natives believe it is unlucky to count themselves or their wives when the official enumeration is taken. In other countries census taking has sometimes presented similar difficulties, says TR-Bigs. The first Chinese census showed a total population of 28,000,000. It was taken to serve as a basis for the imposition of a poll tax. Several years later another census was taken to organize relief during a famine. The population had grown to 105,000,000.

Infinite trouble is taken in the preparation of the Indian census, but one story told by a British administrator shows there also the way of the census taker is difficult. On one occasion he had to point out to a native enumerator some discrepancy in his figures. "But surely," protested the enumerator, "your honor can supply naughts at discretion?"

Historic London Church

The Church of St. Michael, one of Wren's churches, which has just been reopened after extensive renovations, is one of the most historic churches in London. It is built on the site of that erected by Dick Whittington, and in which he was buried, but the original was so entirely wiped out in the great fire that no trace of Sir Richard Whittington's grave now remains. The renovation scheme included the painting of the walls and ceiling, and the moving of the heavy altar railing forward to form a choir screen. The representations of Moses and Aaron found in all Wren's churches are in this case exquisite statues which formerly stood on pedestals beside the altar. They have now been accommodated in niches in the walls some few feet above their original location.

THE SERVICE OF THE FOURTH ESTATE

To the fact that the newspapers of this country now are cordially enlisted in the war on fire waste, there is abundant testimony of the directest kind. Yet indirect proof of a changed attitude also is not wanting. This can be found, for instance, in the growing frequency with which the great metropolitan journals, in reporting an outbreak, have been at pains to nose out the cause. Over the past five years, especially, this tendency to discover and make known in every case the origin of the flames, has been apparent to those who are engaged in opening up the road to fire safety. It has become a helpful beam of light thrown upon a way illuminated by far too few rays of hope. Repeated revelation of cause and effect cannot fail in time to stamp upon the public mind the truth, that every blaze has its source, that this source is usually found avoidable, and that fire is a stroke of unlucky fate, mysterious and inescapable, almost never.

Henry Alexander is this week adding a new cleaning plant which will enable him to clean, dry, and turn out an odorless job in less than three hours. Henry is spending several hundred dollars for this machinery and building a fire-proof room of tile and concrete to house it, and says that there will not be a better equipped cleaning and drying plant in West Texas than this one.

FROM SWADDLING CLOTHES TO TROUSERS

Outside the realm of fancy there is nothing in modern science so amazing as the rapid development of radio. It has jumped over night from swaddling clothes into trousers and in four years has passed through the field of adventure to a public utility of importance, and a social force that permeates every part of our daily life.

Largely employed as a medium of entertainment in the beginning, it is now being used by the schools to educate, by the police in apprehension of criminals, for speedy location of missing people, weather reports, guidance of ships, etc.

It has enabled the President of the United States to address approximately all the people at one time. International relations have been brought closer, and at home it has done much to create a sense of national solidarity, even in the most remote settlements.

MAKING A JOKE OF THE LAW

"Die og the gallows? That's a laugh. A good alibi, a clever lawyer—shucks, it's a cinch."

Thus did Martin Durkin, desperado and Nationally-known had man—the man who shoots his way out of tight places—laugh at the law when recently placed under arrest in St. Louis. Durkin, more bold, perhaps, than others, is not the only criminal who breaks the law at will and laughs in the face of the officers. The law is a joke, and law enforcement is not to be feared. The killer, the hijacker, the swindler—criminals of all kinds—the citizen who hides behind the cloak of respectability and robs his neighbor in crooked business deals, has less to fear from the law than the law-abiding, tax-paying citizen who inadvertently parks his car in the wrong place.

About all the criminal needs is a clever lawyer and the money with which to pay him. If he is short of funds, bond is procured and he is given his freedom long enough to go out and knock a mob or two or hold up a few citizens and rob them. What an indictment of the legal profession. What an indictment of the Government—of the people themselves who permit it. The criminal is given every measure of protection. The people have none. We build courthouses, furnish them and pay for officers and attendants. We provide schools for the express purpose of educating lawyers, and what for? Oftentimes it proves to be for the purpose of defeating the ends of the law and strangling justice. The clever lawyer is not always a criminal lawyer, although we hear more of him, but those on the inside report that some of the trickiest work is done behind closed doors in which plans are perfected for defeating justice in our civil courts, or other schemes concocted to steer men and corporations to the edge of the law without falling off.

Law is an ancient and honorable profession, but under the modern methods of practice in this country, Blackstone, if he could return to earth would occupy no higher position than that of library clerk. The chief aim of many members of the profession is not law enforcement; the chief objective is not justice but to win the case. There are well established members of the profession who seek to bring about settlements of differences outside of the court room and advise their clients with fairness and with the single purpose of seeing that justice is done. All honor to them. May their numbers increase.

The average courthouse, to the law-abiding citizen, is a place to be avoided. Although it is public property and supported by the people, and should be a place where citizens can transact business without inconvenience and at a minimum of expense, the opposite is true. A visit to the courthouse generally means expense. The fee system is an outrage on honesty and decency and should not be tolerated. The opportunity for collecting fees illegally is ever present and present everywhere. If one has business at the courthouse he must first supply himself with plenty of money. Every law and every practice governing courthouse business is designed to take money away from the people who support the institution and the Government. Fees upon fees, multiplied over and over, and for what? Not service, but to provide more jobs and to make jobs more remunerative. The same system run through the courts and the entire system of Government business. Courts of appeal require briefs, some of them 500 pages in bulk, and these briefs are seldom read. Why require them? To give more jobs and to cost the citizens more money. Isn't it time, Mr. Citizen, to clean house, starting with the courthouse? Let us pay salaries and insist on honest and efficient service. Let us demand reform in courtroom practices. Let us make our courthouses stand out as temples of justice. Let us enforce the law.—Farm and Ranch.

Residents of English Town "Cultivate" Cats

The old nursery rhyme about the cats of St. Ives is based on a solid foundation, for St. Ives, England, is the cat kingdom, as is evident to any visitor. Cats are encouraged to the limit. By an old resident it is thus explained:

"This is a very old town—500 years some of the houses, leastways their cellars, and parts of the foundation are. Now, we keep our fishing gear in the cellars, and there is a terrible lot of rats and mice about in an old place like this. Well, the rats, and the mice, too, would eat the nets; they'd eat us out of house and home if it were not for the cats."

"A characteristic of the cats of St. Ives is that they do a little fishing for themselves. These sleek, well-fed and exceptionally friendly animals delight in a romp over the sand and in dodging the waves. Afterward they will watch for hours by some shallow pool for some unsuspecting fish or small crab which ventures from its retreat from a bunch of seaweed or a rock."—Chicago Journal.

Common Word "Fiasco" Borrowed From Italy

The word "fiasco" has become current coin in English speech, though it is doubtful if many who use it know that it is an Italian word meaning bottle. Several accounts have been given of why an immediate failure is called a bottle. A correspondent of "Notes and Queries" wrote in 1863: "Some years since, Signor V. Pistrucci, professor of Italian at King's college, gave me the following derivation. A gentleman visiting an Italian glass manufactory was struck with the apparent simplicity of the work, so he asked permission to try his hand at glass-blowing, but found the operation more difficult than it looked and the only thing he was able to produce was the common flask (fiasco). The amused workmen crowded around him, and greeted each successive failure with laughter and the cry of 'Altro fiasco! altro fiasco!' (Another fiasco.)—Exchange.

"According to Hoyle"

The expression "according to Hoyle" refers to Edmund Hoyle, a writer on games, who was born in England in 1672. Little is known about Hoyle's life. Tradition says he was educated for the bar. At any rate, he went to London, where he spent much of his time writing on games and giving lessons in card playing, especially whist. He published a book in which he systematized the laws and rules of whist, a game on which he was considered an authority. His name became proverbial as an authority on games.

Playing a game "according to Hoyle" came to mean playing it fair and according to the recognized rules. Hoyle died in London in 1769.—Kansas City Star.

It Makes a Difference

Your success in life depends on your motive. There is an old fable about a dog that boasted of his ability as a runner. One day he gave chase to a rabbit but failed to catch it. The other dogs ridiculed him on account of his previous boasting. His reply was, "You must remember that the rabbit was running for his life, while I was only running for my dinner."

The incentive is all-important. If you are in the race merely for your dinner you will not put the same vim and energy into your running as you will if your ambition is deeper and more serious. Get the right motive and your chance of success will be much greater.—Boston Transcript.

Care of Umbrellas

A shabby umbrella will spoil an otherwise perfect outfit. A much-used umbrella soon shows signs of wear. When this happens, it is a good idea to open the umbrella and sponge it with strong sweetened tea. The tea freshens the color and the sugar imparts a slight stiffening to the fabric. An umbrella that has been dropped in the mud and cannot be cleaned by ordinary brushing is best treated in the following way: After greasing the inside wires to prevent them rusting, the cover of the umbrella should be scrubbed with warm, soapy water. It should be rinsed in clear, cold water and hung, still open, in the sun to dry.

The Warning One

On the plains of the West thousands of cattle may be seen grazing as one. They move slowly, feeding as they go, their heads pointing in the same direction. Occasionally among the hundreds there will be one individual that ignores the custom of the others and feeds where it will. The cattlemen have learned through experience to look to such an animal for the salvation of the rest in times of emergency. When wild creatures attack or sudden storms break, the solitary feeder is one to give warning or lead the herd to safety.—Cornelia James Cannon in the Atlantic Monthly.

Begging the Question

Begging the question is assuming a proposition which, in reality, involves the conclusion. Thus, to say that parallel lines will never meet because they are parallel, is simply to assume as a fact the very thing that you profess to prove. A "circle" in logic is a vicious form of argument in which the conclusion is assumed to prove the premise, and then the premise to prove the conclusion.

The cold drink emporiums are doing a rushing business these days for Judge R. L. Graves is treating right and left, and if one takes the trouble to follow him up, he may repeat on the Judge a dozen times a day and no questions asked. You may ask what has come over him? Why, Robt. L. Jr. 12 pounds without sex appeared and took up board at their home Monday.

Dr. G. S. Webber has traded in his "airdom" Ford on a new Chevrolet Coupe, and one can hardly ever catch him at his place of business these days.

REALITY DEALER IN HOSPITAL AT CLOVIS MAY DIE

Muleshoe, Feb. 10.—One man is dead, another is probably fatally wounded, and a third at liberty under bond, following a shooting affray at the Santa Fe station here this morning.

The tragedy is said to have arisen over a business transaction. The dead man is a Mr. Thacker whose initials could not be learned last night. He came here from Oklahoma yesterday and is said to have been on a trade with R. L. Faulkner and E. J. Vance, real estate dealers. He was shot four times, dying almost instantly.

Faulkner was wounded twice thru the lungs with bullets from a .38 caliber pistol. He was taken to the Baptist hospital in Clovis where slight hope is held for his recovery. Vance has been released under bond.

Little is known of Thacker, however, officers say he lived here once. He went from Muleshoe to Kentucky and has recently moved to Oklahoma. Both Faulkner and Vance are prominent business men. Sheriff H. A. Douglas was unable to shed any light on the affair, declaring he had no idea what caused the shooting.

Mrs. C. F. Rickles called on the Herald Tuesday to get on the right side of our subscription ledger, saying she could not afford to miss a copy of the Herald. She was accompanied by Mrs. I. A. Lowe and little daughter.

The foundation was laid this week for the addition to the postoffice and the building will be rushed to completion. Wingred and Thompson are the contractors.

COTTON ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED AT MEADOW

W. S. Self, field worker for Terry County, and several others met at the school auditorium Thursday night for the purpose of organizing a local association.

W. C. Cook was chosen Chairman and T. C. Maloch Secretary.

The chair appointed a committee of three, composed of J. C. McAteer, James Trumble and B. F. Findley to select another committee of five for the purpose of passing on the papers of any member who may chance to wish a loan through the finance committee of the State Association.

We are trying to arrange so that we can get a loan through that association if we need it.

All members are invited to be present at the next meeting which is to be held next Thursday night Feb. 18th. Every farmer is invited to be present and hand in your membership to Mr. W. S. Self, our county field worker.—Meadow Review.

FERGUSON TO AID UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS

Austin, Feb. 10.—In a conference today between the governor and several representatives of the university of Texas it was decided that an appropriation to maintain the university summer school would be made.

Governor Ferguson had previously vetoed the appropriation of $200,000. Precise plans for the continuance of the summer school will be made shortly by the governor.

ANTHRACITE COAL STRIKE SETTLED

Philadelphia, Feb. 12.—Settlement of the anthracite strike has been effected.

Ratification of the action taken today, which ends one of the greatest industrial struggles in the world's history of labor, will come through a convention of miners the middle of next week and the following day will see the precious black diamonds rolling to market.

Two million in the anthracite fields and nearby territory, including the 158,000 mine workers who stood solidly behind their leaders to win the strike, celebrated tonight the ending of the suspension which had paralyzed business and brought bankruptcy and want to many people.

A five-year contract was agreed upon, the longest term ever negotiated in the hard coal industry.

The old wage scale, which expired last August, was reported, but after Jan. 1, 1927, either miners or operators will have the right at least once a year to propose wage changes.

Arbitration, the principle which three times wrecked the negotiations, is provided for in the agreement if a dispute arises over wage adjustments, but it is only optional and is claimed by the union leaders to be a great victory for them. The word 'shall' that has appeared in all the peace plans heretofore submitted by the operators in their arbitration offers today was changed to 'may.'

The miners also claim a victory on the checkoff demand, for which they have been fighting for twenty-five years, first under the leadership of John Mitchell and then under successive presidents of the United Mine Workers.

The word 'checkoff' does not appear in the agreement, but it is covered in the agreement in the phrase "shall work out a reciprocal program of cooperation and efficiency."

THOMAS JEFFERSON, VIRGINIA

A red-haired, healthy looking youth, with hazel-gray eyes, prominent cheek bones, and a heavy chin, was known as "inquisitive" Thomas Jefferson, because of his delight in asking questions and persisting until they were answered.

It was the same tendency of purpose and love of controversy that characterized him as a child that aided the thirty-two-year-old Jefferson in writing the Declaration of Independence, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the signing of which will be commemorated by the Sesqui-centennial International Exposition, opening in Philadelphia on June 1st.

He was born in Virginia on April 13, 1743, the third child of the family. When he came of age in 1764, he was the wealthiest, one of the best educated, and certainly the most conspicuous young man in Albemarle County.

He recognized and assumed the responsibilities of his position and within a few months was elected to two of his father's offices—justice of the peace and vestryman of the parish. He writes of himself that the passions of his soul were music, mathematics and architecture.

Jefferson was proficient in natural sciences and was versed in anatomy, civil engineering, physics, mechanics, meteorology, astronomy, architecture, and botany. Such was his knowledge of various subjects, that he was considered a monument of learning.

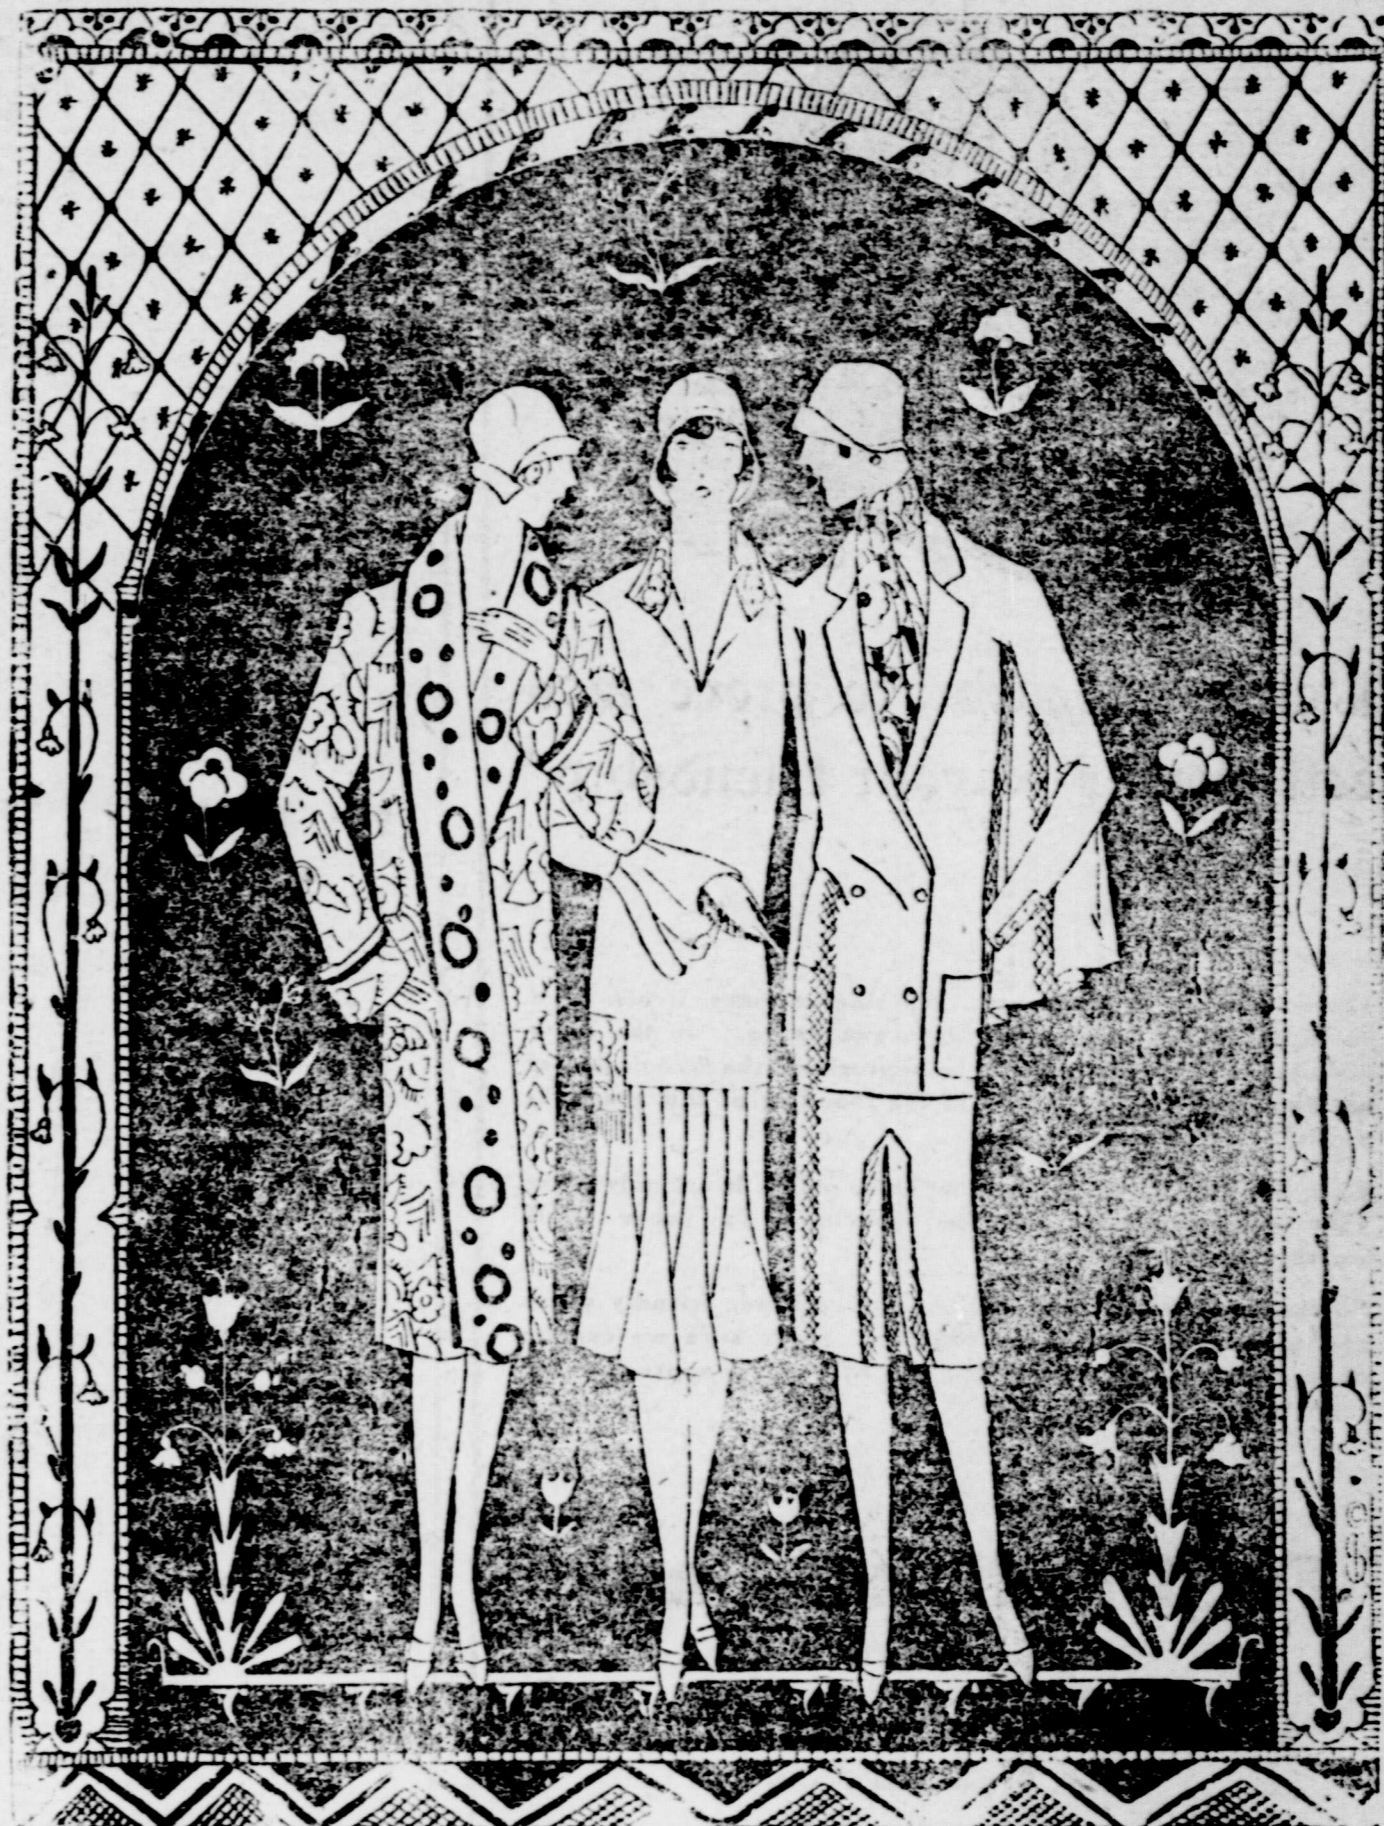

According to biographer, William Eleroy Curtiss in "The True Thomas Jefferson," the author of the Declaration of Independence was the father of fast mails, having arranged while Secretary of State to have mails transported at the rate of one hundred miles a day, then considered an extremely rapid pace; author of the coinage system, the Mint in Philadelphia having been established at his recommendation; and the ablest politician that this country had produced.

His public life covered a period of sixty-one years. Among other offices which he held, he was elected to Congress in 1781 and again in 1783. In 1784 he was sent as minister to France. He was inaugurated Vice-President in 1796, and was elected President in 1800 and served until March 4th, 1809.

SLANDERS OF CONGRESS

The Manufacturer's Record recently took cognizance of the repeated statements that business leaders of America who favor prohibition themselves drink. The Record queried these men and published their emphatic statements that they observe the prohibition law.

Some notice should be taken of the constant assertions that the Congressmen who enacted the prohibition law violate it. We even heard one wet leader in Congress say he had never known a wet who did drink or a dry who didn't! Slander under the cover of anonymity is deserving of the strongest condemnation. If the wets want to charge some Congressmen who voted dry with violation of the prohibition law, let them call his name.—Exchange.

WOE OVERTAKES PAPER BORROWER

Once upon a time a nickel nurse sent his kid to borrow his neighbor's newspaper, and the kid upset a hive of bees and was covered with lumps. His father ran to help him and caught his chin on a clothes line and fell and sprained his back and broke a $25.00 watch. The clothes line fell over the car and smashed the windshield, and mother, rushing out to see what had occasioned all the excitement upset a five gallon churn of cream into a basket of clothes. An electric iron burned through the ironing board while she was out of the kitchen, setting fire to the house, and the firemen broke all the windows and chopped a hole in the roof putting out the fire. The baby ate a jar of pickles and got cholera morbus, and the doctor's bill was $15. The daughter ran away with the hired man during the excitement, the dog bit a neighbor's kid and the calves ate the tails of 4 nightshirts on the clothesline. Moral: Subscribe to your home paper—don't borrow it.—Ex.
