FINE RAINS VISIT SOUTH PLAINS SECTION

One of the most welcome visitors in several months was a half-inch rain that fell here Saturday night, beginning awhile before sunset and continuing until nearly nine o'clock. This will not only put season sufficient in the ground for the farmers to finish breaking, but will assure good range grass in the next few weeks.

The rain was accompanied by a severe electrical storm considering the time of year, and many families had fuses blown out, and had to gather up the old oil lamp for the rest of the night. One lady, Mrs. Black of the west side of town was quite badly burned and shocked from a bolt of lightning. She was sitting under an electric light bulb reading when struck. A physician was called and at last report she was resting as well as could be expected.

Most of the county received more rain than the Brownfield section, Meadow reporting an inch. All the county, however, received as much as Brownfield and vicinity. Uncle Jack Blankenship, of Yoakum county, reports full two inches. He said the draw running through his place ran a few hours after the rain, which it rarely does.

The rain has certainly put a different face on the people of this section, and business men have been given a boost.

Judge W. P. Leslie, of Colorado, is one of the most efficient district judges in Texas. He tries cases during the week and teaches a Sunday school class at the Methodist church on Sunday. Recently while talking to this class according to press reports he took occasion to "pour it on" the "respectable" citizen who violates the law. "I have more respect for the ordinary bootlegger than I have for these white-collar gentlemen that sneak around and violate the law in the dark," he is reported to have said or words to that effect.—Tahoka News.

Mrs. D. E. Lloyd left this week for a visit with her parents in Oklahoma.

CANDIDATE HITS PROXY BY JIM FERGUSON

Austin, March 6th.—On a platform of "honesty and economy," Attorney General Dan Moody, the youngest Attorney General Texas ever had, today formally announced his candidacy for governor.

In his announcement Moody denounced Miriam A. Ferguson, Texas' first woman governor and her husband, former governor James E. Ferguson, whom he declared "exercised official authority by proxy." Moody declared that if the present administration is re-elected "the shameful condition and reckless waste of public funds will continue."

Moody's platform as stated in his announcement contains 12 planks in which he declared he would expose those responsible for letting unconscionable contracts, recognize the principle of honesty, appoint honest public officials, give the people dollar for dollar, enforce law, curb wholesale pardoning, maintain public roads, build roads to the farmer's door, maintain free public schools, support higher learning institutions, oust corrupt political machinery, reform election laws and support judicial reform.

"An unparalleled political situation confronts the people of Texas," Moody declared.

Referring to Mrs. Ferguson's announcement for re-election in which she asserted she wished to vindicate the Ferguson name, Moody said "it is time to forget individuals and look to the interests of Texas, her good name and the welfare of her people."

"The facts showing wanton misuse of the public's money and abuse of public confidence are familiar to the people of Texas," he asserted. No other candidate has offered for governor who seems to realize the gravity of the situation now confronting the people of Texas.

Moody declared Ferguson had occupied for more than a year, a position of more power and influence than other public officials and that he has been free from the restraints and responsibilities which the law places on public officials."

DEATH OF N. O. LITTLE

On the evening of March 17th, on his farm 9 miles west of Brownfield, the death angel called from this earth N. O. Little. Heart failure was the cause of his death. His health failed him some four months ago, but had in time gained strength, and at noon on that day ate hearty and had expressed himself as feeling good. At one o'clock Mr. Little took his four horse team and went to the field to list land. Mrs. Little left home about 3:00 to visit her sick daughter who lives near Tokio, and at 5:00 o'clock the hired boy, Frank Grimes, of Brownfield noticed his team standing and suspecting something wrong, hurried to his assistance and found him dead. We are quite sure he was conscious as he had stired out between the rows, removed his false teeth and pulled his hat down tight. He had expressed himself as never wanting to die with false teeth in his mouth as they seemed to bother him.

He was born near Petersburg, Tenn. Oct. 9, 1857, and remembered so distinctly of the cannons roar and guns fire in the awful battle of Murphysboro at the age of seven years. At the age of 20 he professed faith in Christ and joined the Cumberland Presbyterian Church at the age of 28. On Dec. 17, 1884 he was united in marriage to Miss Eliza Francis Benson of Flintville, Tenn.

In Nov. 1895 they came to Texas, settling on a farm near Alvarado, Texas where he was quite a successful farmer and an active member and Elder in the Presbyterian church. In 1908 he moved to Knox county, Texas, and there united with the M. E. Church South, of which he was a member at the time of his death. He moved to the Gomez vicinity a year ago and improved a nice little place on which he died.

Mr. Little's death came at the age of 69 years, 5 months and 8 days. He expressed himself many times as not fearing death. His body was laid to rest in the Brownfield cemetery after the funeral service which was conducted by Rev. Thomas.

Mr. Little was the father of seven children, two dying in infancy, five living, and a wife who mourn his death. Namely:

D. E. Little, Fort Worth; A. O. Little, Fort Worth; Mrs. E. A. Westbrook, Gomez; Mrs. R. O. Benson and Mrs. B. F. Lowrey of Tokio, all of whom were present at the funeral.—Contributed.

J. L. Mann received a message from his wife Monday from Pecos, Texas, where she had been the past ten days attending the bedside of her father Dr. J. A. Leeman, who has been dangerously ill, that he had passed away Sunday morning 21st.

AMERICA MUST IMPROVE ITS PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Fort Worth, Texas, March 15.—The public schools of America are under obligation to improve the existing social organization and machinery. The curriculum must be effective in the development of that type of citizenship proposed as the American ideal. It must secure that public education needed to guarantee the Union, justice, domestic tranquility, the common defense, general welfare, and the preservation of the blessings of liberty.

These facts are developed in a survey of recent studies on the public school curriculum as reported by the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association. Nine Texas men contributed to the survey. They are Supt. E. E. Oberholzer, of Houston; M. E. Moore, Beaumont; Bonner Fritzell, Palestine; Lee Clark, Gainsville; J. C. Pyle, Sherman; Maddison Hall, Bryan; J. E. Langwith, Terrell; J. H. Newton, Cooper and J. O. Webb of Harrisburg.

The founders of the Republic held the conviction that the American type of government should be made secure through public education. The public schools, then, must carry out that series of studies and exercises which will preserve those things peculiar to the American nation. Keeping in mind the ideals of the founders, the public school curriculum must keep step with advancing civilization and train a citizenship that preserve the American theory of government.

It is not enough to sharpen the wits of public children by the subjects and exercises adapted to that purpose, the schools must definitely train for citizenship. Every superintendent must secure a course of study best fitted to people of his community in the training of the individuals to that point of greatest usefulness to the commonwealth.

Keeping in mind the American ideal and the advanced requirements of civilization, the superintendent must not lose sight of the individual. The course of study must not only provide that minimum which the least efficient members of the group can assimilate, not only the essentials for the average mind, but it must also provide supplementary training for the more efficient.

CURB FIRE CARELESSNESS IN THE UNITED STATES

Last year the per capita fire loss in our country was about $5, while England's per capita fire loss was only about 95 cents, and those of France, Belgium and other foreign countries were even lower.

W. E. Mallajeu, general manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, attributes much of this difference to Europe's custom of holding a person responsible for fires which he causes, plus more stable construction and the custom of enclosing stairways and other vertical openings.

He says: "Why our losses, which include thousands of fatalities, are so out of proportion with those of other nations, is easily solved by anyone who has investigated the matter. In the first place the inhabitants of the old country are more careful in handling fire hazards of all kinds because of the different temperament of these people."

"In the United States stairways are seldom shielded by doors and partitions, so that when a blaze occurs it is able to spread rapidly through an entire structure. This factor has been the cause of much loss of life in both dwelling and factory buildings."

"Perhaps, in order to reduce losses on this continent to a less reprehensible figure, it may become necessary to supplement the extensive fire prevention work of the fire insurance companies, cooperating with many civic bodies, by the wide spread enactment and enforcement of personal liability acts, such as already exist in some of our cities. If the man who causes fire by his carelessness or negligence, was looked upon, not as an unfortunate, but as one guilty of a misdemeanor and subjected to a fine, as he is under the Napoleonic laws, doubtless we would all be more heedful."

"The idea that a good God would send people to a burning hell is utterly damnable to me."—Luther Burbank: in a broadcast speech in the First Congregational Church in San Francisco Sunday night, Jan. 31st, 1926. "Not in twenty five years in the ministry in San Francisco have I witnessed a welcome so hearty and spontaneous. It was the logical result of a sympathy for the man and his beliefs. After listening intently to the beliefs of Luther Burbank, I take pleasure in welcoming him into our church."—Dr. Gordon. Make your own comments and see if you can find where God sends people to hell."—Lubbock Avalanche.

All right, well make ours. God never sent anyone to a burning or any other kind of hell at any time, there is absolutely no record that he ever will. Hell was provided for the devil and his angels and never for man whom God so loved that he sent his only begotten son for his redemption, and if man rejects God, he sends himself to hell, and to blame God for that is to both lie and act the hypocrit. We cannot serve two masters; yet we must both choose and serve, and our choice in the matter—man being a free moral agent—determines the place where we shall spend eternity. Luther may be a great plantologist, but he is a punk Bible student.

ROBERT MORRIS, FINANCIER

Not 'burning for independence,' like Samuel Adams, but a man of soberer judgement, cooler reason and equal love of freedom from tyranny, Robert Morris, "Financier of the Revolution," absented himself from his seat in Congress on July 4, 1776, when the Declaration of Independence was submitted for approval.

Bob Morris (as he often signed himself) was a signer of the famous document, the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of which will be celebrated by the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia this year, but he did not affix his name until August 2, when the engrossed declaration was laid on the table to be signed.

For a long time he believed that the Colonies were not yet ready for independence, but his final signature was not inconsistent with his former hesitation, for much had happened in the brief months between the two dates. Such a signature as his leaves little doubt as to his sincerity—large, clear, steady and devoid of entangling flourish in its forthright march across the page.

Again and again did Robert Morris, with the gifts of a "natural-born financier, come to the rescue of his country when money was the prime requisite of the movement. On his personal credit he borrowed a sufficient sum to enable Washington to finish his victory over the Hessians at Trenton, to be followed by his success at Princeton.

As a statesman he discharged his duties in a distinguished manner: 3 times a member of Congress; leader of the Pennsylvania delegation which signed the Articles of Confederation and Perpetual Union between the States.; Superintendent of Finance; delegate to the Constitutional Convention, the first Senator from Pennsylvania to the first Congress of the United States under the Constitution.

A statue has been recently placed on the steps of the Custom House in Pennsylvania. A tall figure bears in his hand a manuscript which represents the subscription list of Colonial business men who provided Washington's army with sufficient funds to gain the victory at Yorktown. The statue is as yet unveiled, but it bears the inscription: "Robert Morris, Patriot, Statesman, Financier."

GRANITE SAW IN OPERATION

The large granite saw at the Texas Pink Granite company has been recently installed and is now in operation. The cost of this machinery is approximately $30,000 and is composed of two giant circular saws, with extra long teeth and one-half inch in thickness. A stream of water and case hardened steel pour in automatically into the groove where the saw is cutting its way through the hard stone. This Company will furnish granite for the million and a half dollar Roosevelt Memorial in New York City. A number of Llano people were present to witness the first operation of the saw.

Getting the bill enacted into law is another matter entirely.

A place of honor is given on the editor's exchange table each week, to the country weekly newspapers that come to the office of Texas Highway Bulletin. These publications are welcome messengers from the communities they represent. The home town newspaper offers the intimate insight into community life, its happiness and prosperity, that no other medium can do. The home town paper chronicles with pleasure the joys, the happiness and prosperity of the community, relates with sorrow and bereavements, the sorrow and heartaches, misfortunes of the people. The welfare of the community is the editor's interest—progress and prosperity are the two great subjects with which he finds pleasure in dealing. So it is this spirit of construction, this spirit of community pride, and love of home affairs that makes the country weekly a wonderful source of inspiration to editor of Texas Highway Bulletin.—Highway Bulletin.

FROM OFFICE BOY TO PRESIDENT OF DALLAS NEWS

From office boy to president briefly described the career of George B. Dealey with the News. The record covers nearly two years more than half a century.

He began in the first named capacity with the Galveston News on Oct. 12, 1874. Next he served as foreman of the mailing department of that newspaper. In 1883 he was special traveling agent. Next he was correspondent of the Galveston News at Dallas and then manager of the Waco and Houston branch offices.

In the summer of 1885 he was sent to Dallas to assist in the establishment of the Dallas News, and became its first business manager on October 1st, 1885. This was followed in time by his appointment as manager of the paper.

It was in 1904 that Mr. Dealey was elected vice-president. Thirteen years later, or in 1917, he was made president, he has held the office also of general manager which he has long held.

Mr. Dealey was born in Manchester, England, in September 1859. His father's family moved to Galveston in September, 1870.

In 1884 he was married to Miss Olive Allen of Lexington, Mo., herself a member of a family long engaged in newspaper work. Her father, Ethan Allen, her grandfather Anson H. Allen, of Keesville, N. Y., and her great-grandfather, Ebenezer W. Allen of Middlebury, Vt., were all newspaper men. Ebenezer W. Allen was a cousin of Ethan Allen of Ticonderoga. On her mother's side, Mrs. Dealey's grandfather was William Musgrove, who was born in Virginia and later lived in Kentucky and Missouri. Both he and his son Win. G. Musgrove, were newspaper men.

Mr. Dealey has two sons connected with the management of the News. One, Walter A., is assistant general manager. The other, Edward M., is Sunday editor. They are the fifth generation of the family to devote themselves to newspaper work.

For many years Mr. Dealey has been keenly interested in civic and philanthropic affairs. He initiated the city plan movement in Texas, and it was through his influence and persistence that Geo. E. Kessler was employed by the city of Dallas in 1910. He is a thirty-third degree (honorary) Scottish Rite Freemason, a Knight Templar, a Shriner and chairman of the board of trustees of the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Dallas. He is also a director of the Presbyterian Medical Clinic for Children.

Since 1908 he has been president of the United Charities of Dallas. He has occupied the position of vice-president of the National Housing Association, on the board of governors of the City Planning Institution, vice-president of the American Civic Association, first vice-president of the Southwestern Political and Social Science Association. In 1923-24 he was second vice-president of the Associated Press. He is a life member of the Texas Historical Society, member of the American Political and Social Science Association, of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association and of the Texas Press Association. He is a member of the National Press Club of Washington, D. C.; of the Winslow Park Club of Arkansas and, in Dallas, he is the oldest member of the Critic Club and recently was elected as an honorary member of the University Club. In addition, he holds membership in the City Athletic and Country Clubs of Dallas, and is an honorary member of Post 156, Veterans of Foreign wars of the United States (citation for exceptional war activity).

In November of 1925, he was chosen to deliver, in behalf of the journalists of America, a speech accepting a Stone from St. Paul's Cathedral, which was a gift from the British Empire Press Union to the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri. He received the Degree of L. L. D. by the Southern Methodist University, Dallas, in 1921; by Austin College, Sherman, Texas, on its Seventy-fifth Jubilee Anniversary, in 1924, and in 1925 was given the same degree by the University of Missouri.

JOHNSON SCHOOL NOTES

Last Friday afternoon Gomez boys and girls' ball team surprised the Johnson boys and girls by coming over and demanding a game. Johnson was, for a few minutes, very much excited. The girls had to go and get their suits on while the boys were playing their game. When the game was finished the Johnson boys had won 26 to 12, they were very happy. The girls played another interesting game, the game ended 19 to 11, Johnson upholding another victory.

Several of Johnson's students are going to enter the interscholastic League. We are hoping and intending to do our best to win all we undertake.

Mrs. O. K. Tongate was in Tuesday from the farm near Challis and reported her husband on the mend after a slight attack of bronchial pneumonia, which his physician checked before it got a good hold on him.

MEADOW BRIEFS (By Aesculapias)

The gentle patter of rain Saturday night was more delightful than the creations of Beethoven or Wagner. It certainly touched the spot and sent a thrill through every citizen of the Plains. Meadow received an inch, but what a promise and a prophecy for the coming year.

Our community was stirred somewhat at the death of Mr. Frank Howard. Twice within the past eighteen months the knife has done its deadly work. Two men in the prime of life have been sent to an untimely grave. It doesn't matter that the acts may be legally justifiable. They could have been avoided. In both instances the deadly weapon was ready and used with deadly effect against men who were found without weapons after the affray. In the last instance a widow and children are deprived of a father and his slayer a refugee from justice, and another family deprived of its support.

Murder throughout the country is rampant; apparently contagious. As citizens we give the matter but a passing thought, unless it be in our immediate vicinity, even then if the culprit should be convicted, we are ready to ask that he be relieved of any odium that attaches to his offense. We don't carry concealed weapons for fun nor for defense. It is the result of a mistaken and depraved notion of being ready if someone does not act just as we would like. If he is not ready to bear any abuse that we care to heap on him, we are instantly ready to do him to death.

"The man or woman that carries upon his or her person concealed weapons carries within their hearts the concealed thoughts of murder," and with them the burden of proof should be theirs, of innocent intention.

How long, oh Lord, will this carnival of crime continue? When and where will the slaughter of defenseless men—those who try to obey the law—cease? Not until the halter or the hideous electric chair is meted out without let or hindrance to every one who wantonly takes human life.

"Whosoever sheddeth mans blood by man shall his blood be shed," is the fiat of Jehovah, and it should be meted out to every assassin. Away with the mockish sentiment that "I don't believe in capital punishment," I don't believe a man harboring such sentiments would enforce any law for any offense, and I am acquainted with a few of them.

I have gotten my fill also of tender hearted governors. In my opinion they are near accomplices in the offense.

Buford Reed who has been working for the Cicero Smith Lumber Co. the past month at Idalou, has been sent by the same company to Wellington, Texas, and given a position as assistant manager and bookkeeper. Buford is a fine fellow and deserves the promotion that has come his way.

It is to be hoped that our people will observe at least a part of the program outlined by the State board of Health as Clean-up Week in Texas. If there are any more unsightly towns in this broad state, I don't care to see them. Our streets and allies and back yards are reeking with filth of infinite variety. Lets get rid of it before the hot season with its flies and multiplied stinks commence. My own domicile needs it as bad as others, possibly worse. I pledge my support in every way to the undertaking. Lets go to work on the 30th with the balance of the state clean out, clean up, and keep clean.

Notices have been posted of a new city election on April 6th. We presume the recently elected officers will again stand for election.

Marion McGinty, popular tax-assessor of Yoakum county, was here Saturday, after supplies. Mr. McGinty informed us that he would be a candidate to succeed himself. By the way Mr. McGinty can talk very interestingly about the Arizona copper mines during the war days where he spent several months taking the then precious ore from the earth.

REPRESENTATIVE CHEVRO- LET AD AGENCY HERE

F. F. Weissinger, of Detroit, Mich., traveling representative of Campbell-Ewald co., of that city, who handles all the Chevrolet advertising in the United States, was a pleasant caller at the Herald office Tuesday morning, after a visit with Mr. Carter, the Chevrolet dealer here. The advertising of this big automobile company is becoming so great even with country weeklies, that it was deemed necessary by their advertising agency to send a representative among them that their cooperation might be better, and better results obtained from the millions of dollars being spent by this company alone for advertising.

Mr. Weissinger informed the Herald that $500 was apportioned from every car sold in Brownfield for advertising purposes, and that every dollar of it would be spent locally, most of it for newspaper space. They have run on an average of a page with the Herald for the past several months, and the company is pleased with the results they are obtaining in Brownfield.

VALUE OF HIGHWAYS

Some idea of the value of a highway to the farmer as a time saver and a profit maker comes to me in the experience of a farmer living three miles east of Greenwood. When he came to Pike county to farm it took him seven days to get a load of his corn to market. Going to town entailed the lengthy and painful process each time of preparation and goodby's all around and a weeks hard trip to an uncertain market. Now, with highway facilities he can get seven loads of products a day to market and know what price he is to receive before he starts with a load. Naturally his land that before was worth $10 per acre is cheaper at $50 per acre! Will bring $50 quicker now than $10 before.—Greenwood "Houn" Dog.

PINK BOLLWORM QUARANTINE REVISIONS

To meet the existing situation with respect to the distribution of the pink bollworm, the United States Department of Agriculture has revised the rules and regulations supplemental to the notice of Quarantine No. 52, effective March 1.

Owing to the apparent eradication of the pink bollworm in Louisiana and in regulated areas in central and eastern Texas, these areas have been released from restriction, contingent upon the continued freedom of these areas from the pest.

In as much as no infestation has never been found in the counties of Curry, Roosevelt, Lee, Quay and Union, New Mexico, these counties also are released from restriction under the same conditions.

Provision is made for the vacuum fumigation of all forms of cotton lint, inters, and cotton samples from an infested area as a condition of interstate movement. Provision is also made for the interstate movement, for disinfection, of baled cotton lint, including samples, under permit, from one regulated area to another regulated area, under such safe guards as shall be required by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Several changes are made in Regulation 6, governing the control of interstate movement of regulated articles.

In order to conform to State regulations, a new paragraph has been added to Appendix B, providing for the cleaning of infested fields, including the destruction of all bolls, squares and seed cotton remaining, promptly after the harvesting of the crop or the cleaning in such other manner as shall be acceptable to the Federal Horticultural Board or to State authorities.
