BROWNFIELD BOYS DRUB AMHERST PLAYERS 7 TO 0

On account of the roads and inclement weather, the Amherst squad was unable to reach here before late Friday night, hence the game was not called until 10:30 Saturday A. M.

The local boys were rather slow about mobilizing, so when the game started they were somewhat off and the visitors showed a ferocious fight, but the Cubs soon strengthened and held Amherst to four downs on the line. This was the first time the visitors really endangered our goal line.

When the second half started the Cubs went in with the determination to win or put all they had into it. With this spirit prevailing the locals were able to score the counter, after Tannery at half made some brilliant gains at end runs and line plunges. Dallas scored the touchdown and Tannery added the extra point by driving the pigskin directly between the upright posts.

The stars for the visitors were the center and quarterback, while Tannery was the outstanding star for the local boys. Following closely were Italian, Ballard, Lewis, and that fighting spirit that drives the team on, Clovis Kendrick.

Next Friday at three, the boys will meet O'Donnell stars. We wish to continue the score and prevent our goal line from being invaded. So we solicit your support.—Reporter.

The Melancholy Days Have Come

A FOOT OF RAIN HERE WITHIN TWENTY DAYS

So far as we know all records for fall rains in Terry county have been broken this year, for we were informed recently by John B. King, who keeps the local rain gauge for the government that a half inch over a foot of rain has fallen in Brownfield in the past twenty days.

The ground is not only wet, but soggy, almost rotten seemingly, and we can easily go until planting time without further rainfall. Indeed, we believe the farmers will have no occasion to want more rain until that time and their lands can all be easily broken in the spring on the present season. The only thing that could change that condition would be an unusual lot of winter winds and sunshine, with no cloudy weather or snows.

Some of the old timers are, however, predicting a dry year for 1927, being afraid of a year with a seven in it from past experiences. They point to the dry years of 1887, 1897, 1907, and the extremely dry year of 1917. With the well known history of these years all staring them in the face, one can easily see why the old West Texans are dreading next year.

Therefore to fortify against any such occasion, our farmers should break their lands just as soon as possible after the present crop comes off, carefully borrowing and pulverizing the soil in order to maintain every ounce of stored up moisture, together with any sheets or snows that may fall this winter, and then if we get some showers next year, the Terry county sand land farmers will garner as much as they will any where else in this section.

But let us hope that we will experience nothing like the sevens of 1887 and 1917 at least.

OLD TERRY TAKES PRIZES AT THE DALLAS FAIR

Old Terry was away down the line at the Dallas Fair, yet she came thru with more points than some of the counties with county agents, and we think this speaks well for Secretary Shelton, who went down there almost single handed as well as gather up the exhibits with the help of A. L. Burnett.

At this time we have not learned just what we did in the individual line but judging by past experiences, we will let them know we are there in that line, for old Terry may not have the varieties of some in small grain and alfalfa lines, yet the quality of what she exhibits can scarcely be excelled by the best of them.

But to say the least it is a hard proposition for any county without an agent to go up against those who have, not that no one else knows anything about gathering, preparing and exhibiting products, but these county agents are ninety-nine out of one products of the A. & M. College, and as officials, instructors and ex-students of this splendid college are the judges, is there any wonder why they favor their old students.

Personally, the Herald is not against point system in judging, but it firmly believes that a system can be worked out where quality as well as quantity counts. The fair is a great blessing to mankind in that it pits the skill of one producer against another, one community and one county against the other, yet even one section of the state against the other, in which each tries to excel the other, but no harm could come if a radical revision were made in the methods of judging or displaying with more substitutes for counties that are not growing small grain. We might also add that the judges ought to be selected if possible with no prejudices for or against any county not supporting an agent.

BUILDINGS COMPLETED AND NEARING COMPLETION

The Haskins building just east of the Rialto Theatre, has been completed and is now ready for the tenant, but so far we have failed to learn just who or what nature of business will go in the building. But whoever or whatever goes in it will have one of the prettiest and best buildings in the city, and the tenant will likewise have a good location for many lines of business, especially a confectionery.

The building 50X100 feet between the Brick Garage and Brothers & Brothers Store, is also nearing completion. This building is to be occupied by the Carter Chevrolet Co. just as soon as completed, in which they will have large storage capacity and a drive-in station. This will be one of the best arranged and most convenient auto sales buildings when complete in the city.

The 50X100 building on east Hardin near the Baptist church, and belonging to Mr. L. H. Plain, is now well under way, and had it not been for so much bad weather, the brick and tile work would have been nearly finished. But they are moving on nicely this week with few hindrances. This is going to be another very handsome and conveniently arranged garages and drive-ins, and we understand that Mr. Plain will handle one of the popular models of cars as the main line of business as well as a service and repair station.

Material is also on the ground for the erection of the Chisholm building mentioned in these columns last issue, and it is the intention of the contractor to lay the foundation this week, and the brick work on it will probably be well under way this time next week. This building is on the southeast corner of the square, will be 50X100 and contain two stores.

In driving around Sunday afternoon we noticed several residences still under construction or that had just been completed. Brownfield is always growing but never booms.

HERALD ONLY INTERESTED IN GROWTH OF OUR CITY

Some one, who failed to disclose their identity, clipped the half page ad from the Herald last week and after a pretense at answering the arguments therein in favor of the paving bond election, mailed them to the Herald, still avoiding any indication, except hand-write as to whom we are indebted for the communication. The Herald has never denied anyone the right to express their convictions in these columns whether they agreed with us or not, and if this unknown party had just taken the pains to ask us, he could have gotten all the space he wanted for his side of the argument.

In the first place, the ad was written or dictated by another person, and paid for by them, yet personally the editors endorsed every word of it, but really "unknown" was hounding the wrong here.

In the first place, we do not care who is opposed to the issue, and the fact that they are opposed to it does not make one iota of difference to us, and we can be just as friendly with them as we can those for the bond issue. Opponents can be the best of friends if they will. And no matter how the election may go, the Herald absolutely will have no hard feelings toward anyone for that reason, but will always be found fighting for what it considers the best interests of our little city.

Therefore, granting each and all the sacred rights of true American citizenship, we repeat that we are all the time for what we believe will be the best for our town and community, whether that be for the material moral or religious tone, and we can see no good reason why it would not be a great step forward to pave the business section of our city where traffic is heaviest, and we know our farmer friends who do their trading here will appreciate better streets. Just ask one of them if you don't believe it.

Of course we have sense enough to know that conditions are not just what they were when the bond election was ordered, but in view of the fact that we do not expect the present conditions to always remain, so that we will be obliged to pay all we owe on them this year or next we are willing to go our share in providing some work for the people who are here and must stay here.

Also, should oil be struck here this winter, or a great potash plant put under construction in the next year or two our streets would be like those at Ranger, Texas, in their early day of oil boom, when people had to put two-bits to be ferried across the streets. Brownfield doesn't want to be caught in such condition as that. Yet no matter which way the tide of fortune goes next Tuesday, we are not going to be mad or insulted at anyone, and we are going to just stand on and boost as usual. We may occasionally get down with our heads under us, but when we do scramble up we are going to look for a silver lining and not a cyclone.

GAY COLEEN MOORE BARS MUSIC WHILE ACTING

That Coleen Moore, vivacious little star, doesn't like to act to music is the latest note to come out from Hollywood. When she is acting before the movie camera she insists that the set be as quiet as possible.

In film circles this is considered something as a radical departure, as the vast majority of famous screen the playing of a studio orchestra as they are acting.

Miss Moore, however, has not dispensed entirely with her orchestra. During lulls in the screening of "Irene," her latest picture, recently, the musicians played as usual. Only when director Alfred E. Green gave the signal for filming of the next sequence the musicians abruptly bro't their performance to a close.

According to Miss Moore, she finds working before the camera easier when the set is perfectly quiet despite the soothing effect of music.

"Irene" is the star's picturization of the musical comedy triumph. She is supported by a large fashion chorus.

FAMOUS HOME RUNNER GETS CHEVROLET COUPE

Babe Ruth not only won everlasting ball renown with his trio of home run swats in the fourth game of the world series played in St. Louis, but he also won a Chevrolet.

One of the circuit clouds crashed through the plate glass window of an automobile salesroom near the Cardinal park and bounded off the side of a Chevrolet coupe on display inside. In acknowledgement of this feat the Bimmino was presented with the coupe.

"Times have changed," said Ruth with a broad grin. Some years ago it would have been a serious offense for any of us to break a window with a baseball. Now it brings a new automobile."

TOKIO FARMER SHOWS SOME REAL APPLES

J. A. Rushing, one of the oldest settlers of the Tokio community in this county, brought in a few samples of his apples last Saturday and after permitting the real estate men, merchants and bankers and some of the rest of the common herd to see, feel and smell them, he brought 'em on down to the Herald office to be further investigated and really tasted. They just suited us in every way. They looked good, they felt fine, they smelled fragrant and they tasted delicious. In fact one of them was a "delicious" apple. Most of them were red, or at least bluish, but two of them were mellow yellow apples of very fine flavor. Our local nurseryman Jno. B. King, was able to name the whole layout, but Mr. Rushing could not remember so as to tell us. Mr. Rushing informed us that his orchard had been out twelve years, and had never had a drop of water on them except what had fallen naturally, save a bare bucket he had put on them when the trees were set out. He purchased the stock through Mr. King, we presume before he started the nursery here, and has been getting lots of fruit most years for the past eight or ten years, and his orchard still looks hale and healthy.

Mr. Rushing also had a sample of an October peach that was large, well formed, firm, and would make up into sweet pickles to suit the taste of a king. The apples were also well formed and large, with hardly a blemish about them. While we did not measure them, the larger appeared to be some nine inches in circumference. As to the eating qualities the entire Herald force will stand as witnesses that none are better.

Levelled.—A new unit, consisting of an engine and dynamo, will be installed here immediately by the Texas Utilities Company, doubling the capacity of the local power plant

MORE FUN THAN "CHARLEY'S AUNT."

The Rialto Theatre will feature a Warner Bros. Classic of the Screen when "The Man on the Box," starring Syd Chaplin is shown Mon. and Tuesday, Oct. 25-26, with one of the most remarkable casts of the season.

The picture is said to be even funnier than "Charley's Aunt," Syd's last production and one of the biggest box-office bets ever screened. In one sequence Syd impersonates a flirtations maid, and with his handsome features disguised with wig and make up, was quite an attractive figure on the Warner lot during the making of the picture.

SYD CHAPLIN in "THE MAN ON THE BOX" A Warner Picture

It is said that Bull Montana, seeing the young lady from the distance, asked for an introduction to Syd Chaplin. At any rate, the photoplay is claimed by reviewers in other cities

ESTIMATES OF COST OF PAVING STREETS

Inquiries are being made of the estimated cost of paving, and the engineers have submitted the following: The cost will be $10.66 per front foot on main business streets, 68 feet wide, which is $266.50 per 25 foot lot. Property owners can pay the $266.50 in cash or in five yearly installments of $53.30, plus interest.

On the secondary streets 40 feet wide, the cost will be only $6.69 per front foot, or $167.25 for a 25 foot lot, which can be paid in cash or divided in five yearly payments as per above, plus interest, except the payments will only be $33.45 per annum.

The bonds for the city's part of the paving will run 40 years.

to be a complete "smackout." "The Man on the Box," is an adaptation of the celebrated novel and play from the pen of Harold MacGrath. On the stage, Chaplin's role was played by Henry E. Dixey. The story concerns the romantically amusing adventures of Bob Warburton, young, wealthy and charming, who hires out as a coachman.

Charles "Charley" Reiner not only directed the production but appears in the supporting cast that includes David Bagin, Alice and Kathleen Calhoun, Marjorie Lorch, Helene Costello, E. J. Hatcliffe, Charles F. Reiner, Charles Gorrard and Henry Barrows.

CROWD ENJOYED THE VAUDEVILLE MONDAY NIGHT

A large crowd of show fans were on hand at the Rialto Theatre Monday night to see the movie and the vaudeville billed for that night.

While we believe that most all were pleased with the vaudeville, we know they were more than pleased with Johnnie Hines in "The Brown Derby," for it kept the audience in suspense as well as laughter every moment of the entire play. Johnnie is a general favorite on the screen in Brownfield anyway, and he seemed to be extra well at home in this play.

As to the vaudeville, it was perhaps much above those that generally do towns the size of Brownfield, and as far as the music and singing part of it was concerned, it ought to have pleased the most exacting, for it was fine from beginning to end. But as for the dancing, so far as the writer is concerned, it was not much. In fact we know kids six and seven that can lay it over the lady who did the Charleston, and with a little practice they could at least equal here at the hula hula or whatever they call that Hawaiian dance. And we have some big girls that could wallup her badly at the Charleston.

BETTER ROAD BUILDING METHODS

In any part of the United States—not many years ago—a road was anything which was passable with horses and a wheeled vehicle—stones, ruts, dust and mud were the rule.

Farmers were permitted to "work out" their road taxes.

Then came the automobile, and the demand for surfaced roads. Tractors took the place of horses; ingenious machinery was developed for use with tractors, enabling one or two men to do work formerly requiring a large crew of laborers. The amazing transformation that has taken place in American road building practice is summarized by H. F. Fairbans, Highway Engineer of United States Bureau of Public Roads, Washington, D. C., who says:

"The development of road building from a rule of thumb practice into a scientific art, has made it practically impossible to permit continuance of this old custom (permitting farmers to work out taxes), and the improved economic condition of the rural population is such that there is no longer a public demand for its continuance."

As pointed out by W. F. Mixon, Secretary of the California Highway Commission: "Road building is a highly specialized profession, and to be successfully carried on must be in charge of trained experts."

It has been said that in the United States, when public demand arises the means of gratifying this demand are made available more quickly than in any other country of the world. Surely the development of modern tractors and road machinery in which this country has taken so conspicuous a lead, is a striking sample of American initiative and enterprise. None of us would return to the old methods—and the best part of it is, none of us will have to.

Illustrating the "better road building" practices now in vogue, an astonishing low cost of maintenance for paved streets is reported from Portland, Oregon, where for the past three and one-half years, the city according to the annual report of the Board of Public Works, has had under maintenance 6,780,933 square yards of asphaltic concrete base and surface pavement, for which the cost of maintenance for the three and one-half year period was only $558. Some of the streets were paved as far back as 1911.

Naturally, only a durable pavement, laid and maintained with efficient equipment, could give such service. But it is this class of good pavement, coupled with modern machinery, that is making a "paved America" possible.

In 1926 Texas stood fourth among the states in the percentage of increase in income tax payments compared with 1925. Texas paid almost forty-three million dollars in Federal taxes in 1926.

J. J. Whitely was in milling around with the big crowd Saturday it being too wet to pick cotton. Joe informed us that they were trying to harvest most of the crop themselves.

We glean from the Hockley county Herald that the commissioners of that county have contracted with a demonstration agent who will take his office about the first part of the new year. This is another instance where one of the newer counties have put it over the older ones. This county should have a demonstrator by all means.

The Herald editor had a letter the past week from his oldest brother, who is a farmer in West Tennessee, stating that the cotton crop will not amount to more than half of the last year yield in his section, and that old corn is no good, but young corn does very well. This is about the size of reports we have heard from every cotton section except south Texas, which leads us to wonder where our Uncle Sam's reporters are finding so much cotton.

Don't waste the cotton you have worked hard to produce this year. If you have more than you need, pick out the white cotton only and store away in a dry place, and cut your acreage half in two next year.

Brownfield appears to have a real football team that has not been defeated or even scored on this season. This in spite of poor support from anyone except the school children and faculty. Seems like this is a poor way to reward a real asset.

There seems to be no hue and cry being raised for cotton pickers just now, for the farmers are settling down to the conclusion that they must gather their own crops if they are to get anything out of it.

From what we can gather from news dispatches, some of our district judges are instructing the grand juries to pay no mind to liquor violation, as they cost two much for the state to handle them, naming a price from $200 to $300, whereas the federal courts can handle them much cheaper, where they are recommended to be tried. Why can't the state courts handle them as cheaply as the federal courts?

About the most interesting and real helpful and worthwhile special editions that has reached us lately was the Canyon News' 32 page development edition of recent date. Warwick certainly knows how to put out one whose worthiness is measured by some other rule except the dollar in it. Let us have more real worthwhile editions.

There is no use in us standing on the street corners cussing old Wall street for low cotton. We are to blame only for overproduction, and the street is only taking advantage of our own gap we left down. They are just like any other hogs, they go in at all open gaps. We should close that gap with a 26,000,000 acre cotton crop next year all over the Southland, which would mean about a ten or twelve million bal crop.

State Press of the Dallas News is a great writer, and probably has more constant readers than any other feature editorial writer in the State, but sometimes even he flies the track and gets out of the bounds of reason. Most of his stuff is wholesome, optimistic and interesting not to say instructive, but he certainly lost a whole gob of popularity with Plains readers when in one of his great economic editorials he advised them to quit buying so much coal and go to the "cricks" after their own fire-wood. This would be the same thing as carrying coal to Newcastle in this section, for many of us would have to travel one hundred miles or more to find a creek with any wood about it, then get run out by the landlord if he caught us perloining his scrubby mesquite. Really State Press should have advised the boys from the "forks of the creek" to burn creek wood and drink branch water, and the boys of the South Plains to drink windmill water and burn "cow chips."

This is preeminently a great agricultural country and every effort should be made to hasten its development. Owing to the abundance and ease with which feed crops can be grown it is bound to be a stock feeder section in time. Cotton can be grown more cheaply here than any other section of the United States (Proven by Federal statistics.) We have no "sun-burned" Summer season and vegetables, melons and other products of the field and garden can be shipped until frost, at a season when they are gone elsewhere. We need a County Demonstration Agent, but perhaps we are too new and undeveloped to stand the expense. Let's call on the State agricultural department and the A. & M. College to do what they can for us. They want to see every farmer in this section prosperous, and will go out of their way to assist. The Farm and Ranch is another agency that has a number of experts travelling to and fro over the Southwest. It will help us solve our problems. Sudan News.

WILSON LUTHERAN CHURCH DEDICATED

The Wilson Lutheran church was dedicated Sunday. Two special services were held in both of which the Rev. Mr. J. H. C. Sieck, of Canyon, Texas, delivered the sermons.

At eleven o'clock in the morning the entire congregation gathered in front of the church for a short introductory service. After the singing of two stanzas of an appropriate hymn, Mr. Chas. Simank spoke a few fitting words in behalf of the building committee, and concluded by delivering the key to the church into the hand of the local pastor, C. E. Ahlbrand. He then opened the building with due ceremony to the Triune God. The two pastors led the way into the new church, followed by the church vestry and the building committee. The members of the congregation and friends then followed to the rhythm of a stirring organ prelude rendered by Mr. John Hahn. The solemn dedicatory service proper was then begun, both pastors officiating at the altar.

In the German language morning sermon pastor Sieck spoke on the words, Luke 19, 9, 10: "This day is salvation come to this house; for the Son of Man is come to seek and to bad spells relieved

"NOTHING can take the place of Thedford's Black-Draught with us because we have never found anything at once so mild and so effective," says Mrs. Hugh Nichols, R. F. D. 4, Princeton, Ky.

"When the children have spells of indigestion and upset stomachs, I always straighten them out with a dose or two of Black-Draught."

"Several times I have suffered with bad spells of indigestion myself and found I would soon get relief if I took a course of Black-Draught. I was troubled with a bad accumulation of gas and severe pains across my stomach and lower bowels. Now when I feel a spell of this kind coming on, I head it off by taking Black-Draught—a dose every night for a few nights will prevent the trouble and save me much pain and suffering."

"My whole family uses Black-Draught for biliousness and constipation."

"It is a splendid medicine." Sold everywhere. 25 cents.

LEE SMITH

We are pleased to report the arrival of a new sheriff at the home of Sheriff and Mrs. F. M. Ellington on Saturday night last. It was noticed that "Frosty" seemed to be very nervous Sunday afternoon on the streets and upon inquiry for the cause, he remarked that he had to go back to the house and nurse his boy.

Generally recognized as one of our very best weather forecasters, predicts we will be bothered with much rainfall until about Christmas. Of course his offering is everything else but optimistic, and while he has generally hit the nail on the head, we hope he is far from right this time.

Improved highways in Texas measure about twenty thousand miles.

NEGRO BRUTALLY KILLED; 3 CONFESS

The citizenship of this city was shocked and excited on last Sunday by a report that came to their ears from the Province farm some seven miles southwest of the city that the body of a man had been found staked to the bottom of a tank on the above mentioned farm.

The discovery of the victim's body, afterwards positively identified as that of Robert Lamar, negro, was made by a number of boys of the community who had gone to the tank for a swim. They immediately spread the news, which came to Deputy Sheriff W. H. Laney, who, with Justice of the Peace W. W. Wheeler, immediately went to the scene.

The body of the murdered negro was brought to town by the Barrow Furniture Company, undertakers, and after investigation and examination identified it as that of Robert Lamar, negro, who had been missing since September 18th.

Immediately local officers, the Sheriff and District Attorney went to work on the case and by Monday had arrested and secured confessions from Neal Gipson and Walter Beecher, negroes, as having taken part in the crime, which it was stated, was committed by them and one "Curly" Melton and other negroes. Melton was arrested in Fort Worth Wednesday, and after going through a grilling examination by District Attorney Muburn S. Long, confessed to having taken part in the murder. He was brought to Abilene and placed in jail by Sheriff H. T. O'Bar.—Mer- kel Mail.

NEW PICTURE SHOW OPENS AT MEADOW

Meadow's new picture show opened up Wednesday night with a splendid bill, Mary Pickford in "Little Annie Rooney," a ten reel comedy-drama, full of fun and pathos. Notwithstanding the weather conditions were not at all favorable the house was packed, every available seat being taken. They have a seating capacity of about 300.

Messrs. Gafford and Herrington have spared no expense in fitting the house up with the best. An inclined floor was put down, opera chairs placed, the best screen that could be gotten, and first class machines to operate the films. No town on the South Plains has a more cozy theatre. They may be larger but not more comfortable and convenient. The management says none but the best pictures will be shown. A fine player piano is added to amuse the people during the performance with the latest and most attractive and enjoyable music.

The large crowds that have been attending despite the unfavorable weather shows that the people appreciate the efforts put forth by the managers to give Meadow the best in the show line, and we feel sure those in charge feel gratified over the success so far obtained.—Meadow Review.

DON'T CARE FOR THE LOCAL NEWSPAPER

There are doubtless others, but the News man has met only one citizen since coming to Sudan who had the gall or nerve to say, "I don't care anything about the local paper; the daily is all I want." Here is what he said, in effect: I am not interested in what my neighbors and friends are doing; I don't care to read about the local school and churches; I don't want to know who is sick or who has married; if the death angel visits my home I don't expect the local paper to report the sad event and offer words of sympathy and condolence; what do I care about who is building a new home in town or country; nor does it interest me one whit to read about crop conditions and prospects, and a hundred and one things that are found in the local paper from week to week.

Why should I pay a dollar and a half a year for the local paper, when I can get a big daily for $9? It has so much more reading than the local paper—true, but when did you ever read anything in the big daily about your town and country or the things mentioned above? Does it ever make complimentary mention of yourself, your neighbor or friend? Say, old man what do you care for, anyway? With no interest in local affairs and happenings, you are dead weight to improvement and progress and the local paper pities you and others of a like tribe.—Sudan News.

LUBBOCK TO STOP HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT

After three or four years of what has been termed very profitable experience with a Home Demonstration Agent in Lubbock county, the county soon will be without this department as a result of action of the Commissioners Court here Tuesday in voting to not renew the contract that the county holds with the Agent.

Such a step was taken, it was explained following the session, not from the fact that leadership in this department has been unsatisfactory, but that the Court feels that new administration that comes in January should have the final decision in the matter. The contract with Miss Hazel Hammer, who came here several months ago to relieve Miss Lela DuBose expires in November, and unless further action is taken, the office will be abolished, at least temporarily.

The County Farm Agent, however, will be continued, it was agreed, at least until the new Court convenes, when a final decision will be made.—Lubbock Avalanche.

HEALTH COMMITTEE MEETS NEXT WEDNESDAY

Miss Easley, County Health Nurse, informed us this week that the County Health Committee will meet next Wednesday, Oct. 27, at 2:30 P. M. Each member of the committee is urged to be present.

Several have asked when she will begin inspection of school children. She informed us that inspections will not start until after the cotton season is over in order that all children may be in school for inspection.

According to the latest census the average Texas family contained 4.6 persons compared with 4.3 for the whole country.

Huge Mosquito-Bite Bill

In your household budget, along with the items of grocery and butcher bills, have you figured on the summer expense of mosquito bites? Statisticians who have been following the trail of the buzzing pests, says Popular Science Monthly, tell us now that every man, woman and child of us paid, on the average, the sum of 91 cents last year just for the privilege of being bitten. The national mosquito-bite bill was $100,000,000! This sum represents the damage done by malaria mosquitoes in bringing on some 3,000,000 cases of chills and fever.

Gives 100-Course Dinner

Guests of General and Mrs. Crozier were treated at Peking to a 100-course Chinese dinner prepared under the direction of the former chef of the imperial household, says an exchange. Fancy dishes were prepared from birds' nests, sharks' fins, fish sounds and lips, bone marrow, ducks' tongues and livers, chickens' windpipes, bamboo shoots, seaweed and sixty-year-old rice. Hot light wine was served in tiny jade cups. The dinner lasted three hours.

Fined for Skinning Frogs

Frogs, some alive and kicking, others skinned to death, were produced in evidence at the Mixed court at Shanghai, China, when a Chinese hawkler was charged with "killing frogs by skinning them alive contrary to a proclamation issued in the twelfth and thirteenth years of the republic of China." The city prosecutor pointed out that the proclamation prohibiting anyone from killing or catching frogs had been issued because they were good for the farmers. The accused admitted that he had skinned the frogs, but when dead, and said that they were considered quite a delicacy among both the Chinese and foreigners. He was fined, the dead frogs were sent to the city hospital for food, and the live frogs were released. During season frogs are frequently served at hotels and clubs, including the American club.

TRACE INDIAN TRIBE TO WELSH EXPLORER

Mandans Believed Descendants of Madoc.

On the banks of the Missouri river, near the Canadian border of what is now North Dakota, there lived three-quarters of a century ago a rapidly dying tribe of blond Indians. Now, 75 years later, the Mandan tribe, which at one time caused bitter controversy among historians as to the discovery of America, is almost extinct. A few scattered remnants are left, says Arch W. Jarrell in the Wichita Beacon.

When the Mandans were found, with undeniable marks of white blood in their veins, the old tradition of Madoc, the Welshman of the Twelfth century, was revived. And historians clashed as they examined old documents in an effort to settle, once and for all, whether the story of Madoc had any basis of foundation.

Madoc, or Madoq, was said by Welsh tradition to have made two mysterious sea voyages in the latter part of the Twelfth century, 800 years before Columbus in the Santa Maria sailed from Huelva. He returned from the first voyage, leaving most of his crew in a land which he described as far to the westward. He sailed again and was never heard from. The poet Southey seized upon the story of Madoc for one of his most famous poems.

An interesting old book found on a seldom-used shelf at the city library, "Kansas and Nebraska," by Edward Everett Hale, I found a graphic description of this tribe of blond Indians, the Mandans, "Kansas and Nebraska," a history of the two territories, written in 1854 before there was a single white inhabitant other than soldiers, missionaries and traders, goes thoroughly into all the Indian tribes of the territories and devotes several pages to the Mandans.

The Mandans wasted away before the onslaughts of more savage Indians, and gradually were forced north until in 1805 Lewis and Clark found them in two villages near a point called Fort Mandan, only a short distance south of the Canadian border. Their population then was only 1,000. It decreased steadily to the point of disappearance.

The Mandans never buried their dead, but placed the bodies on scaffolds, out of the reach of human hands, wolves and dogs. They were then left to decay. When the scaffold decayed and fell to the ground, the relatives of the deceased buried all of the skeleton except the skull, which was bleached and parried and then placed with a circle of other skulls, all of them religiously protected and preserved as objects of veneration.

The Mandans had a theory of the food which was surprising, considering their aloofness from civilization. Each year they celebrated with a ceremony when the willow was in full leaf, for their tradition was that "the twig which the bird brought home was a willow bough, and had full-grown leaves on it." The bird which was sent out from the "big canoe" was a turtle dove. How this Mosaic account of the Flood penetrated a race of Indians to such an extent that it was tradition with them, and had been apparently for centuries, is a mystery which may never be solved.

Lower Animals Indicted

The appearance of two bears in the police court at Berne, Switzerland, recently, brought by their keeper to prove that they were harmless, in a case involving an attack on two boys, recalls the days when animals were summoned to the court not merely as witnesses but as plaintiffs, or, much more frequently, as defendants. In Europe the trial of animals—always allowed legal defenders—seems to have ended in 1740, when a cow was tried and executed for some offense in France, but America can supply an example of much more recent date, says the Manchester (Eng.) Guardian. Only a few years ago, in Indiana, a performing chimpanzee was served with a summons for breaking the anti-cigarette law of the state by smoking during his stage performances. The animal had to appear, was found guilty and fined $5. Payment was made by the keeper.

HIGGINBOTHAM--BARTLETT COMPANY

PHILADELPHIA FAIRS FIFTY YEARS APART

At the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia in 1876, one of the most interesting and undoubtedly the most valuable exhibit was the newly invented telephone which was being displayed to the public for the first time by Alexander Graham Bell. At the Centennial, however, the telephone was only an exhibit—nothing more.

At the Sesqui-Centennial now in progress in Philadelphia, the telephone is really the nerve center of the exposition. Every building is making use of its service. The giant stadium, with a seating capacity of 100,000 people, is splendidly equipped with a loud speaker system. Public telephones are to be found everywhere and the thousands of people attending the exposition accept the telephone service as a matter of course, as a part of the general scheme of things. Just as if it had always existed.

What a contrast with conditions fifty years ago, when there were but two telephones in the entire exposition and they were exhibits which attracted attention because of their novelty and called forth many queries and remarks as to the genuineness of the invention.

DILLARD'S HOTEL FLOODED WHEN 8 BOARDERS GOT SORE

Eight men who were confined in the county all decided to outlaw Wednesday morning. They proceeded to stop up the overflow pipes in a sink located in the jail and then turned on the water and let it run.

The first intimation of anything being wrong in the jail was given when the water began to percolate through the ceiling in the rooms located under the jail on the second and first floors of the court house.

Officers made a trip to the jail and found water running over the floor three or four inches deep. The prisoners were up on their bunks and seemed to be enjoying the occasion.

The men who took part in the festivities were placed in cells so they could have no access to the flooding machinery. Very little damage was done to the jail or other parts of the court house by the water.

One man who was in the jail refused to have any part in the washing out of the court house, officers say.—Lamesa Journal.

ASSESSOR J. C. GREEN FINISHES COUNTY ROLLS

We were over at the courthouse the first part of the week, and upon learning that Assessor J. C. Green, had finished his rolls for 1926, we went in to get the final figures and found that the total assessments of Terry county fell slightly under last year.

The total valuations for 1926 are $5,167,228, compared to $5,167,251 in 1925, or a sum of only $23 difference in favor of 1925. We found that Mr. Green had his rolls up in good shape and in neat condition.

The Commissioners Court are also to be commended for keeping the assessments down despite a growing county with growing needs, and the constant improvements being made. The county rate will remain the same as last year with a 5c reduction per hundred dollar valuation in the state rate, we understand.

"You know a P. D. Q. Sale might stand for anything. There are many things occurred to us that it might mean. Take for instance, we might say we mean, Purchasing Done Quickly. Your buying is done quickly and easily at one of our Sales, but that does not express it all, for we have put PRICES DOWN QUADRUPLE until there was a positive Downward Quack.

There is a Priceless Deciding Quality in our goods and every bit of our stock has been put in this Prices Denied Quarter Sale. Of course we might go on to tell you that Pennies Don't Quarrel and that the People's Deals Quality always at Prices Delighting Queens. But some might tell us to Please Don't Quiddle while telling of our P. D. Q. Sale where Persons Delve Quietly, Purchasing Daily Quota in a Pleasant Quiet Quest.

The fact is we always have a Fall Sale and the months slipped up on us so quietly that it was nearly time to get this copy for Advertising and mark down prices and there was so little time left that we had to do it Pretty Durn Quick and not even take time to look at the cost marks. In fact one might say that Pyrotechnics Demonstrates Quickness and as we gave each department a positive Definite Quota, they concluded that Pristency Digs Quality and knocked the bottom outa prices. Look them over, come in and look at the quality of the goods and learn that Prices Dominate Question in this P. D. Q. Sale!

SHERIFF MAKES ARRESTS IN LAMB COUNTY

Sheriff Len Irvin last Saturday placed J. M. Simmons, of Spring Lake, under arrest. It was alleged that he had been making threats with a gun, according to Irvin, and thought to be insane. He was released on trial Monday by a jury.
Monday Irvin arrested Jack Harkley, in Littlefield, on advice from the sheriff at Frederick, Okla.

DOZEN PLACES PADLOCKED AT BOGER, TEX.

Boger, Sept. 15.—Armed with riot guns and search warrants ten deputy United States Marshalls and Federal prohibition agents lead by United States Marshall, Sam Gross, swooped down on the unsuspecting bootleggers of the famous Panhandle oil this afternoon, arresting more than a score of persons, destroying 300 gallons of liquor and 500 bottles of beer, and nailed and padlocked, accompanied by federal injunctions to more than a dozen rooming houses, domino halls, confectionaries and soft drink stands.
Of the score or more arrested all were released except ten men and three women. Only those were held upon whom the government had uncontroversial evidence of the sale of liquor. The remainder, however, were warned to leave the town.
The raid was the first of a series planned by federal officials, whose aid had been sought by a citizens committee of Boger to rid the oil town of alleged lawlessness and vice.
S. H. Winn, Jr. moved his family to Brownfield this week to make that place their future home, Mr. Winn having regular work at Brownfield. The Review with many friends regret to lose this good family, but trusts that they may find the move a profitable one.—Meadow Review.

J. FRANK NORFLEET THE MAN HUNTER LECTURES HERE

Mr. Frank Norfleet, of Hale Center, lectured here Tuesday night under the auspices of the Parent Teacher Association, and as he could not finish in one night, lectured under the auspices of the Woodman Circle Wednesday night.

If you expect to see a man in Mr. Norfleet of great stature and the mug of a great fighting man, you are to be disappointed, for he is rather below the average sized man in height if not weight, and he has a very friendly face. In fact he has the usual face of the typical, whole-souled cowman.

In telling how he chased the band of confidence men back and forth across the continent and sometimes even in foreign lands, he does so in a conversational way as if he were merely talking to one person, except in a somewhat louder tone, but his style of telling the incidents are very interesting, sometimes real laughable and at other times sad and serious. He frequently stopped to impress the audience with some great moral truth in connection with the capture and conviction of these criminals. One he comes so interested in them that they frequently feel as if some one is just reading some great book of fiction, instead of telling a real experience.

WHAT'S HAPPENING IN WEST TEXAS

By West Texas C. of C.

Post.—Garza county carried away first honors for West Texas and the South Plains this week in having its agricultural exhibit judged the finest of all state entries at the Dallas Fair. The display was arranged by George (Scotty) Samson, the Garza county agricultural agent, and featured small grains and grain sorghum. Garza's grain sorghums scored 193 points out of a possible 200, forage feed 47 out of 50, and alfalfa 72 out of 75 points. The same exhibit took first honors at Lubbock and Abilene. Randall and Hartley counties drew second and third honors to Garza. The biggest demonstration in the history of Post was given on the return of George Samson from Dallas, over 1200 people with the band meeting him upon his arrival.

Quanah.—An impediment to the progress of Quanah in the opinion of its citizens has been removed with the opening of the Pease river bridge as a free bridge. No more tolls will be collected for passing over it.

Amarillo.—Amarillo and Wichita Falls are running neck and neck in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce membership contest drive, with Wichita Falls leading slightly. Both have around 500 memberships but Amarillo expects to forge ahead as all her pledges are taken up.

Stamford.—Despite the continued rains in this section, the community fair which opened here Thursday is drawing a good crowd. A concert by the Stamford Firemen's Band, official band of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, started the festivities in the municipal auditorium where the exhibits were located. Some 25 merchants, manufacturers, and communities had displays here.

Amarillo.—Contract has been let by the Texas Gas Company for the construction of its lines from the Panhandle gas fields to the South Plains. Cities already under franchise are Lubbock, Slaton, Plainview, Floydada, Lockney and Tulia. Distributing systems are to be located at Canyon, Abernathy, Happy, Kress, Hale Center, and others.

Stamford.—West Texas, advertised as the "Land of Opportunity," has recently gotten publicity over ten states of the union. The medium through which this section of the state was brought to the minds of New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas, and all parts of Texas was the Wortham Shows. The Wortham Shows which are the largest carnival attraction organizations in the states, hold large memberships with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and as a means of expressing their loyalty to that great regional organization, and to further the interests of their native state and favored section, they carry over their office wagon large signs telling the world about West Texas. The Wortham Shows are having a two weeks run in Stamford now in connection with the first annual Community Fair held here, having come direct from Wichita Falls where they had an engagement in connection with the Texas-Oklahoma Fair.

Uncle Ike Metcalfe, the marrying J. P., of Tahoka, has recently celebrated his own 50th wedding anniversary.

Rev. W. F. Markham, wife and daughter, Miss Audie, returned Wednesday from a few days visit to Dallas.

NECRO KILLED ON DAWSON COUNTY FARM

On Sunday night a negro came in from the Merrick farm and gave himself up to the officers with the request that they go out and get what was left of the negro he had lately had an engagement with.

It seems that the dead negro had taken the live negro's wife and then had made threats and the negro now in jail charged with the killing his wife's abductor got a shot gun and not knowing just where to shoot this tormentor to get his brains, he shot him in the foot, in the leg and in the head and last accounts the negro was still very dead.

This the third negro killed in this county by some other negro and two have been tried and acquitted.

We understand the negro in jail for the killing was a preacher.—Lamesa Reporter.

TECH TALKS

By a Student.

Monday, Oct. 11, a special convocation was called by President Horn. Members of the State Board of Control of the College were present. Dr. Harrington, President of the State Board of Control, and formerly the president of the Texas A. & M. College, addressed the student body.

Tech is seeking more appropriations by the Legislature to continue the building program planned. It has grown beyond all expectations of its founders in its second year, and is having great difficulty in taking care of students in over crowded class sections. Every available place has been turned into class rooms, going to the expense of utilizing some offices, the college cafeteria and the stock judging pavilion.

Regardless of the fact that three first string men of the Matador eleven, as a result of the St. Edward game, were not able to participate in the game with Simmons, the Matadors held the Cowboys to a scoreless tie on the later's home field Friday.

The number enrolled in the college at present is 1360 students, of which 831 are Freshmen. The campus is indeed overrun by the later named knowledge seekers, the number of which Tech is proud to boast.

RESCUES BIDDY

The person who shoots a chicken hawk feels pride at having removed a nuisance, but Mrs. S. B. Boone is doubly proud. She removed the nuisance and also saved the expense of gun shells. Last Monday she was attracted to her chicken yard by a great disturbance and on reaching there she found one of the hens in a fight with a hawk. The bird was so occupied with its combat that it was unmindful of the approach of Mrs. Boone who grabbed the rapacious pest and wrung its neck.—Portales Herald.

The value of school buildings in Texas is in excess of ninety million dollars.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIAL ENJOYED

The Presbyterian Christian Endeavor, of Brownfield, was delightfully entertained by one of its members, James H. Dallas, at his home on Friday night, Oct. 15th.

GIN IS DESTROYED NEAR SLATON

Slaton, Oct. 17.—Called out for the first time in two months, the Slaton fire department, early today made an eight mile run to the Posy gin, northwest of here. Although the gin was completely destroyed, the firm arrived in time to save the large cotton house adjoining and a large quantity of cottonseed.

RECEIVED 904 LAMBS MONDAY

Messrs. Bounds and Crosby, 10 miles southwest of town, were here Monday to receive a shipment of 904 lambs that they will winter on their farms. Both these gentlemen have a large acreage of feed and are using this method in disposing of it. The lambs weighed 60 pounds, average and were of high grade stock.—Sudan News.

STAMFORD.—West Texas and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce which serves the empire region have been honored by the Southern Steamship company who have named their newest steamer the "S. S. West Texas." It is the expressed desire of the company's officials that the craft be a floating monument to the world's greatest regional chamber, and the territory in whose interest it works.

That good fruit can be grown in Terry county has been demonstrated year after year, with the proper care of the trees. And the family with an abundance of fruits canned and preserved is partly fortified against low priced cotton.

CANNON BALL BAKER BREAKS THREE RECORDS

Slashing a generous slice off three coveted transcontinental motor records in one swooping drive, "Cannon Ball Baker of Indianapolis has arrived in Los Angeles, driving his own Ford roadster, sealed in high gear just five days, two hours and 13 minutes after leaving New York City. He was officially timed at start and finish by Western Union officials.

This time cuts 11 days and 5 3-4 hours off the old high-gear transcontinental record, made by a six-cylinder car selling for three times as much as the Ford. It is also two days and 13 3-4 hours faster than the fastest time ever made before by any kind of a car with one man driving from coast to coast without relay of drivers. The previous one-man speed record over this course was made by Baker in 1920, driving a $2000.00 car. Baker's new record is also 16 hours faster than the best time ever made across the continent on a motorcycle.

The car used was a standard type Ford Roadster that was not equipped with overhead valves nor special cams nor counterbalanced crank shaft. It was Baker's 74th trip across the American continent.

A CHANCE FOR EVERY BODY TO HELP

The fire losses of the United States and Canada are increasing at an alarming rate. There is abundant evidence, however, to support the statement that organized effort along fire prevention line pays real dividends.

Fresno, California, had one of the worst fire loss records in America. The local agents took hold of the situation, the fire department was reorganized, public sentiment aroused and in 18 months the losses were reduced from $30.00 to $1.70 per capita. Seattle, Washington, had similar experience; and public support of the Berkeley, California, fire department has resulted in the reduction of the per capita loss in that city to 57 cents. As the result of fire prevention campaign in Indianapolis, the per capita fire loss was reduced from $14.37 in 1923 to $3.38 in 1924, and held at $3.47 in 1925; in Battle Creek, Michigan from $5.39 to 91 cents. In Johnstown, Pennsylvania, the average weekly loss in 1924 was $2,685. During Fire Prevention Week last year it was held down to $50.00. Duluth, Minnesota; Cedar Rapids, Iowa; and other cities report similar results.

The statistics prove that all classes and groups of people are guilty of carelessness, and, therefore, all must share in the responsibility for the destruction of over $500,000,000 worth of property and the loss of 15,000 lives per year. The National Board of Fire Underwriters has pointed out, however, that the annual loss under the head of matches smoking alone, is $30,000,000 per year, and that if it were possible to eliminate the careless industrial worker, this loss would be cut in half.

A garage employee dropped a cigar butt in oil waste and destroyed the building and a score of automobiles. A night watchman in a public garage in Massachusetts left a burning cigarette in a stock room destroying the building and $12,000 worth of cars. Industrial employee are no more careless than other groups, but the nature of their employment is such that carelessness is more likely to cause disaster.

J. H. Findley, a civil service man of Alvord, Texas, was here last week looking over the situation with the expectation of trying for the proposed new route to be established out of Brownfield. If he is successful he expects to move his family here and make this his permanent home.

Mr. Elderidge, engineer at the Farmers Gin, has rented a house of A. J. Stricklin, and will move his family here from Howe, Texas, this week. Mr. Elderidge informed us that almost every letter he got from his family they reported several families leaving there for West Texas. Their good law, who is a barber, is also moving here with them.

We are just closing our third year in Brownfield and to say that we are satisfied with our business does not express the way we feel. Collins Dry Goods Company have great faith in Brownfield; faith in her future—the stability and progressiveness of her citizenship has been clearly proven on several occasions. Probably no other part of Texas has battled so strenuously with adversity as the South Plains. To say that we have faith in Brownfield is mild—we are carried away with the possibilities of the present and the future.

With the return of sunlight to brighten the landscape and give hope that the farmer can go ahead gathering his crop, we can see smiles taking the place of smiles. Renewed activity, since all know that the future must be faced, whatever may be the outcome.

The wonderful financial help that was forth coming from the bankers will of course go glimmering along with the clouds and mud of a few days ago, and the crop marketed as in the past at a great loss to the farmer. He guessed wrong and will take the consequences.

Our great financial institution, the Federal Reserve Bank, at Dallas tells us that, "We see nothing in the present situation to warrant any fears as to the ability of the Southwest to take care of itself," and further asserts, "up to the present, (15th) it has but one application from member banks for assistance along these lines."

Very few disasters prove as serious as we anticipate, and the present depression will not be an exception to the rule.

I wish all who have signified their intention of leaving the farm and going to the cities and towns the coming year would read the editorial in the Lubbock Avalanche of Saturday the 16th, under the title, "The City's Glitter." It's gospel truth and should be heeded.

Our old friend, Earnest Mitchell, who left several months ago to join the army, has returned to Mamma and the fireside comforts of home. He doubtless regulated the military affairs for Uncle Sam before returning. The cotton patch while not so picturesque is the best place for most boys in times of peace. Earnest will not do it any more.

Some would be burglar attempted to enter the drug store Saturday night. He cut the sash nearly into, broke his knife blade and gave up the job.

The new theatre has been playing to a full house since it opened Wednesday night. There is apparently a few nickels and dimes left among the people yet.

State Health Officer, Dr. Sappington has issued a warning of a possible flu epidemic, giving symptoms of the disease. "Avoid crowded, overheated rooms as germs thrive best in such atmosphere," says the doctor.

I have noticed such statements from other places by health officers. Unless the disease is really present in some one or the other localities mentioned, I am at a loss for the reasons of such warnings. The avoidance of overheated or other crowded rooms is good advice at all times. If the flu is here, why it's here; if it isn't, the warning is unnecessary.

Our town is going to the dogs, or else the canines are collecting here. The southern part is badly over-run with them, and the past half dozen nights has been made hideous with their barking and fighting. Some one or more broke in on their carnival last night and one of the marauders were left on the field. Let the slaughter continue until we have gotten rid of the surplus of worthless curs.

Our school is closing an hour earlier each evening allowing the children a longer time to return home and pick cotton.

BORGER TO HAVE

A DAILY SOON

Borger is to have a daily paper within the next week or ten days.

The paper will be published by Dr. J. E. Nunn, Lindsey Nunn and Dave Warren, who are now publishing a weekly in Borger in connection with their papers in Pampa and Panhandle.

"Our press, linotype machines and other equipment have been purchased and will be installed immediately," said Lindsey Nunn last night.

The paper will have full leased wire Associated Press in addition to NEA Service, Mr. Nunn said.—Ex.

Ben Broughton one of the old timers of the Gomez community was in one day last week and informed us that he was getting his cane together, preparatory to making some homemade sorghum, and promised the Herald family a bucket of this delicious syrup when he gets it made up.

WEST TEXAS WINS AGAIN

There is no longer that element of the surprising which characterizes news in the annual report of the victory of West Texas in the county agricultural exhibits at the State Fair. About the only question that remains to be decided each year is which of the West Texas Counties will take first place. This year the blue ribbon of the highest award fell to Garza County, which thus shares with several of her sister counties the honor which for several years has been conceded to be the exclusive property of West Texas. In this year's judging, Randall and Hartly Counties placed second and third, respectively, thereby completing the sweep of awards by West Texas.

West Texas' repeated triumphs in the State Fair agricultural exhibits awards carry a significance other than a notification to the rest of the world that West Texas raises better crops in greater variety. There is a lesson to West Texas itself in the success of West Texas agricultural exhibits in competition with those of other parts of the State. For variety of products is one of the principal scoring points in the judging of the exhibits. The West Texas victory therefore confirms the verdict that everything can be grown well in West Texas.

This ought to be an argument for variety, that is, diversification. In the present emergency produced by the debacle in the cotton market,

West Texas can turn that amazing ability to "raise anything" to good advantage.—Star Telegram.

PLAINS SECTION

CAPTURE MANY PRIZES

West Texas carried away the big portion of the prizes at the State Fair at Dallas, according to a report received last night from Garnet L. Reeves, who is in charge of the Lubbock county exhibit at the fair. Geo. Samson of Post, Garza county, carried away first honors for West Texas and the South Plains. His exhibit took first honors at Abilene and Lubbock earlier this year, and he is recognized as one of the best exhibitors in the state. Joe Jennings, of Canyon, took second place with his Randall county exhibit.

Hartley, Harrison, Dallam, Hemphill, Eastland, Hale, Henderson, Smith, Lubbock, Lamar, Howard, Collins, Marion, Haskell, Briscoe, Dawson, Brown Hill, Anderson, Gregg, Wheeler, Rusk, Cass, Ellis, Angelina, Wood Hunt, Kaufman, Floyd, Franklin, Terry, Palmer, Van Zandt, Shelby, Polk, Midland, Atascosa, Lamb and Colorado followed in order.

Texas stand 35th among the states in density of population with 17.8 people to the square mile.

If Texas was as densely populated as Rhode Island there would be more than one hundred and fifty million people living in Texas.

LUBBOCK TO BURN GAS BY CHRISTMAS

Advices from Amarillo to The Avalanche last night were that the Panhandle Construction Co., and J. W. Moore, both of Lubbock, and Roy Irick, of Plainview, were each awarded contracts for laying 42 miles of the pipe from Amarillo to Slaton for the Texas Gas Co., and that Conner & Son of Kansas City, were given the other four of the seven sections of the pipe line contract.

Williams Bros. of Tulsa, Okla., were awarded contract of piping the various towns to be served.

Work will start at once, all of the contractors declared, and must be completed by January 1. R. A. Tipton of the gas company said in Lubbock, Monday, however, that he expected gas to be burning in the homes of Lubbock by the middle of December.

Material for the pipe lines will be shipped Saturday from Pittsburgh, but ditching will begin now.

Walter L. Benham had charge of the awarding of the contracts.—Lubbock Avalanche.

Lester French of the Lou country was in Saturday and upon being asked if he was holding his cotton, he replied, "yes, holding most of it in the field."

The Herald now has the minutes of the last session of the Brownfield Association in press.
