By the Secretary

Last week mention was made that an infertile egg would bring more money on the market than the common run stock, and in support of this statement, Mr. Jones, manager of the Brownfield Produce Co. came to the office for the purpose of advising that his company was prepared to pay several cents more per dozen for eggs that were stamped and guaranteed as infertile, than they were paying for present offerings. This office is very sure that the other produce dealers are prepared to offer advance prices.

The following paragraph taken from a letter that was recently received from a manufacturer of poultry feeds, which is published for what it is worth.

"In California the shippers pack their eggs according to color, according to size, and according to feeding methods employed. In Texas we ship every kind of egg in one crate and expect to establish a real market for ourselves. Not until we follow the footsteps of California, we can not expect to compete with them in the market.

A new highway connecting the Panhandle fields with the Winkler oil fields is being worked out and has the approval of the highway department, but cannot receive designation until an eighty foot right-of-way has been established and the road graded in good condition. This route will be extensively advertised as soon as it is graded even if designation has not been granted.

The highway department is sending two complete grading outfits into the county, and will be placed on the roads west as far as Gomez and after this stretch is completed, will be placed on the division east of town. The road between Brownfield and Lubbock will also receive additional work, but it is not expected that any heavy grading will be done until after August.

Didn't Appreciate Having His Life Spared

Amarillo, Texas,
June 6, 1927.

Mr. F. J. MacKie,
Superintendent,
Amarillo, Texas.

Dear Sir:
The Santa Fe is at present conducting a railroad crossing safety first campaign, and I wish to call your attention to the lack of cooperation the public gives the railroads in safety-first movements.

June 6th at 5:54 P. M. on Extra 1167 West at first road crossing west of Folsom, I had whistled for crossing and was making speed of about 30 miles per hour with 33 cars of oil when that appeared to be a Dodge truck drove on crossing and driver killed his engine. I saw a man and woman catch up two little children and jump out of the truck. I placed brakes in emergency and stopped about a hundred feet from truck. When the man saw I was going to get stopped, he cranked his car, loaded his family in and drove off, not even coming near the engine to offer a word of thanks. The railroads are spending thousands of dollars to educate their employes on the safety-first movement, but it seems to me the press is doing very little to educate the public. If some method could be brought about where all the Sunday papers could inform the public the distance it takes to stop a passenger or freight train and explain to them the chances they are taking in attempting to beat the train to the crossing, I believe we could decrease our crossing accidents fifty per cent. Far better to lose two minutes waiting in safety until the train goes by than to be rushed to the hospital in a high powered ambulance and crippled for life.

Yours truly,
(Signed) S. T. Harmon.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

Doctor—My dear young lady, you are drinking unfiltered water, which swarms with animal organisms. You should have it boiled; that will kill them.

Patient—Good gracious, doctor, I think I'd sooner be an aquarium than a cemetery!

Drilling Resumed On The Kingsland Well

The rotary rig for the Kingsland well 12 miles east of Brownfield was completed last week, and the machinery started Tuesday we understand, and some 280 feet drilled the first day through the hard clay formation, about 80 feet of this was supposed to be cavings since drilling with the standard rig was discontinued about a month ago, but it is believed that at least 200 feet was new depth, and most people are confident that rapid progress will be made from now on until sand is struck again, when the standard rig will again be brought into play.

We have heard some recently express the opinion lately that these people, the Kingsland Oil and Potash Co., are not trying to do anything, and don't aim to bring in any well. Granting that this is true, these people do not owe the Herald a penny, and have not asked us for a donation, nor any of our advice, and if they want to drill ten years out there and spend $20,000 a year at it, much of which comes to Brownfield, we shall raise no objections. The lease of these people expired last week and they paid it again without a question, we understand, and did not call on the Herald to help them any, and as long as they pay their bills and act like other good citizens, we are not going to knock them any. They do not give us any news for publication, but that, too, we consider is their business, and we are raising no objections to that.

There are some mighty good reliable people around here that have followed oil well drilling for many years, who have utmost confidence that oil or gas in paying quantities will be found, and we certainly hope them the best of luck. To say the least these people have had all kinds of hard luck, and the wonder is that they are as deep as they are. We have heard of wells that were in drilling two or three years, but were finally brought in as good wells.

New Rules of the Fire Department

The city of Brownfield has repainted and numbered its fire plugs, which not only helps their appearance, but their distinctive color makes them more easily seen.

The volunteer fire force is spending much time in practice and has already succeeded in lowering the fire insurance rate $5.10 per thousand dollars in the past two years. But the people can help lower this rate still more by reporting their fires correctly and coherently, not only giving the name of the building on fire, but it is very important that that number of the fire plug nearest it be given also. Then the fire truck can be driven directly to the plug and the hose attached before the fire has gained headway.

These few minutes saved may mean the avoidance of losing several years work, not to mention the risk of a fatality.

So learn your fire plug number; the next fire may be yours.

SECRETARY JARDINE INVITES TEXAS BUSINESS MEN

Secretary Jardine has invited a group of about 150 leading Texas business men to visit the Department of Agriculture at Washington, July 1, during their tour of northern and eastern States. The delegation will be shown the various activities of the department, especially with regard to cotton production and marketing.

An exhibit of the work of the cotton division in the Bureau of Agricultural Economics is being prepared to demonstrate the universal cotton standards, various types of cotton bagging and bale patches, cotton spinning investigations, crop estimating, the progress of harvesting methods in western Oklahoma and Texas, and clothing and household uses of cotton exhibited by the Bureau of Home Economics.

Hatcher Explains New Depository Law

The following explanation of, and comment upon, Senate Bill 118, introduced by Sen. T. J. Holbrook at the request of State Treasurer, W. Gregory Hatcher, and passed at the first called session of the 40th Legislature, which has been signed by the Governor and goes into effect 30 days after adjournment of the Legislature, is made by Mr. Hatcher:

"Art. 2538, Revised Civil Statutes of 1925, which authorized the State Treasurer, with the approval of the Depository Board, to invest surplus funds in United States Government bonds, was repealed. The State Treasurer explained that under this law, to meet the demands upon the treasury he would be required to sell any bonds purchased by him without respect to whether the bond market was up or down and that it was purely a gamble for the State through the treasurer to buy and sell bonds that might result in a great loss to the State. He also explained that funds which could be temporarily invested in Government bonds, after paying the brokerage, would only earn 3% interest and that the tax monies would be sent to the bondholders in Boston and New York instead of being deposited in Texas banks for the purpose of assisting in financing Texas enterprises.

Articles 2540, 2541, 2542, and 2543, Revised Civil Statutes of 1925, which created and provided for the operation of what was known as the Rate Making Board, to fix the rate of interest to be paid by banks upon State funds, were all repealed, and this board abolished, and the rate of interest for both "State depository" banks and reserve depository banks was fixed by amendments made to other statutes.

Art. 2526, Revised Civil Statutes of 1925, which provided for the making of applications by banks to become depositories for two years' time was changed to fix the term for which a bank depository made application to become a depository to one year's time and providing that deposits made with the depository bank shall be for that length of time. It was explained that the change was made because of the fact that country banks making application for State funds could not foresee crop conditions and other emergencies as far as two years ahead, and should, and should not be bound by any contract to take funds for two years if conditions arose whereby such funds would not be needed by the bank. It also afforded the treasurer an opportunity to shift these funds from banks where they were not needed to banks in other sections of the State that were in need of funds.

Art. 2523, Revised Civil Statutes of 1925, was amended to provide that State Depositories pay interest to the State at the rate of 4% per annum. Under the old law the rate making board fixed the interest to be paid by State Depositories. It was explained that monies deposited in State Depositories (which are the smaller banks scattered throughout the State) were deposited to assist farming, and were not subject to demand, but were deposited on what amount to a time deposit contract, and that the banks were justified in paying a higher rate of interest than that paid by banks having deposits subject to demand.

Art. 2529, Revised Civil Statutes of 1925, provided that vendor's lien notes might be pledged with the State Treasurer by banks for securing of State funds. This class of security is prohibited under the new law.

Art. 2532, Revised Civil Statutes of 1925, was amended by adding the following: The term current demand herein used, shall be construed to mean funds which may be withdrawn in payment of the State's obligations at any time. It is not the purpose of the law to require the Treasurer to deposit funds in a State Depository which in his judgement would have to be withdrawn before October 1st, next following the deposit. Hatcher said that this addition was made to the statute to authorize the policy, which he had always pursued of not withdrawing funds deposited in the country banks until the farmers had been given sufficient time to market their crops and repay loans made to them by the banks.

Art. 2533, Revised Civil Statutes of 1925, which provided that Reserve

Collins D. G. Has On Big Clearance Sale

Many things have happened recently to cause the Collins Dry Goods, of this city to put on one of the biggest sales ever undertaken in this city, one perhaps being the continued dry weather that kept the people from planting and making their crops late. Under these conditions, while the big store has enjoyed a good trade, the people have not done a normal business with them as they would under more favorable circumstances.

A big stock of seasonal merchandise was purchased earlier in the season when it looked as if everything would be more favorable, and while it may just so happen that we will yet make a good crop of everything, including cotton, Mr. Collins has decided to share with the people and in this sale has forgotten profits and is passing this feast of wholesale bargains on to the people.

A large force of salespeople have been secured to help wait on you, and friends and customers from all over the trade territory are invited here, beginning Saturday to share in these big dry goods bargains.

When Mr. Collins puts on a sale, it is sure enough a sale. And he also practices what he preaches as he gives his printing to the home people, and hires home people to help out in the sale. In other words, he believes in patronizing home industries to the limit of all the word means, not just when it favors him. He will try to reach everybody; those who do not read the Herald with large colored posters.

MORE LIGHT—LESS CRIME

When Chicago householders asked Morgan A. Collins, superintendent of police what they could do toward checking the crime epidemic now affecting that city, he replied:

"Burglars rarely enter a home where there is a light burning. Leaving your home in total darkness is an invitation to the sneak thief."

Such protection, it is estimated, would cost the average home less than a dollar a year.

Depository banks pay interest to the State the same that they pay to their correspondent banks was changed, and the rate of interest fixed at 2 1/2 percent. It was explained that this change was made for the reason that the State Treasurer was collecting three different rates of interest from as many banks in a single city where there was no clearing house agreement because each bank paid to its correspondents a different rate of interest. Also that the cities that had clearing house agreements differed from each other in the rate paid and, therefore, the treasurer was collecting interest at the rate of 2, 2 1/2 and 2 3/4 percent without any reason for doing so except the law itself, which in this respect was considered unfair and unreasonable. It was explained that the 2 1/2 percent rate for demand deposits was the one in force by the clearing houses in some of the larger cities and that this rate of interest was just and that the State by fixing this rate for all banks at 2 1/2 percent would receive more interest than under the old statute. He also explained that provision had been made whereby banks which had State funds deposited with them and were holding general revenue warrants at the request of the Treasurer for the purpose of keeping the State off deficiency, would not be required to pay interest on funds so deposited in like amount and for a like period of time which they held such warrants. Hatcher explained that from November 1925 to January 1, 1926, at a time when the State was actually on deficiency, he had borrowed the sum of $2,600,000.00 from Reserve Depository banks in the cities of Dallas, Austin, Fort Worth and San Antonio and prevented a technical deficiency and that under the law he could not pay the interest on this money, nor could he waive the collection of interest on deposits that he had with these banks at that time. He said he felt that if an emergency arose, and the banks extended a similar accommodation to the State, that they should, at least be allowed to offset deposits against loans made, and for this reason he had requested the change in the statute. Numerous other provisions in the Depository law have not been repealed or amended the Treasurer explained, all of which are still in force.

Planting Operations Moving Along Nicely

The Weatherman flirted with us quite awhile, and gave us all the nasty stuff in his shop, until the weakest kneed of us had a daddum good notion of giving away what we had and pulling for the tall cane breaks of Louisiana and live like people.

First, we had an unusually lot of sandstorms, many of them real rained-out tooters, but almost every day the sand would move enough to cause the merchants to have to sweep, dust and clean everything in and about their stores. This alone was probably enough to give any but the most sublime optimist a good case of the grouchies. Then when the regular time for rain arrived, and no rain, we became almost desperate. When a good looking cloud appeared on the horizon, one of our staple and fancy candies would tear in after it like a bull dog after a cat, and send it scurrying toward the gulf at a very undignified pace for a cloud to take, and that in turn would cause storms and cyclones down east.

But when it got ready to rain, it rained just as easily as it used to rain, and the surprise of all was that all three of the recent rains and showers have come up without more than a breath of wind and turned loose the precious drops upon the parched earth.

Some of us believe in special providence more than others. Some contend that the Lord of Heaven sends blessings in the guise of showers on the children of men when he wills, and withholds same at his will. Others maintain that if you live in the Mississippi Valley, you can expect an average of 70 inches of rainfall per year, with occasional floods, but if upon the caprock, about 20 inches average, with an occasional blasting drought. But all of us believe that such blessings are either directly or indirectly providential, and all of us do or should be willing to thank the Giver thereof.

And, while we are about it, we might mention the fact that since the one and one-half inch rain of last week, it has been variously reported about here that local barbers have considerably reduced their shaves, owing to the fact that faces have shortened some 50 percent since that time but so far they have been plugging us for the same old price, and we know ours has "swunked" as much as the average anyway. If we find this to be true, we are going to hire a lawyer and enter suit for discrimination.

To make a long story short, the same mud we were cutting around the holidays and till well up into January looked as good as pie, Alex, to us last week. But the town has been fearfully lonesome since the rain.

Local Masons Bury Old Timer at Tatum

A number of local Masons were called to Tatum, N. M., last Friday to say their last rites, and put away the body of G. N. Foreman, one of the old settlers of Terry county, but who for the past twenty years has been a citizen of eastern New Mexico, who died Thursday at his home in the Jenkins community, that state.

While a citizen of Terry county, in the early days, a Masonic lodge was organized here, and Mr. Foreman became its first Master, and he had announced on many occasions that he wanted the Brownfield lodge to bury him when he passed away.

For this reason, this lodge went some eighty miles to comply with the wish of a dead brother. The body was laid to rest in the Tatum cemetery. He is the father of Gus Foreman whom many of the old timers know well.

HERE'S ONE FOR YOU MATHEMATICIANS

Here is another one in high mathematics. They say figures don't lie, but don't they? A man wanted a ticket to a place in west Texas and had only a $2 bill. It required $3 to get the ticket. He took the $2 bill to a pawn shop and pawned it for $1.50. On his way back to the depot he met a friend and sold him the pawn ticket for $1.50. This gave him $3.00 for his ticket. Now who is out the dollar?

The Herald, $1.00 per year.

Slim Crowd Saturday But Trade Was Good

If statistics were available (as Dallas News Snap Shots would say) in all probability it would be found that there were less people on the streets of Brownfield last Saturday than any Saturday during the past two years. In fact, it was hardly a decent Monday crowd for the duration of the recent dry weather, for then they had no where where else to go. Just the same, most of the merchants we have talked with say that they had as good and some report even better business than they had the previous Saturday with probably 75 percent more people in town.

This is accounted for by the fact that the mothers, daughters and the children came to town in the jitney while the men and larger boys ran the planters for all they could get out of them, and as rain had fallen and given he people every opportunity to produce something, they naturally loosened up some and bought a few more beans, flour, sugar and bacon than usual. In other words the small crowd was a buying crowd, but hundreds in the crowd Saturday before meant absolutely nothing so far as trade was concerned.

Well, who blames them? Who is it to blame them for running the planters Sunday, even, which we understand many did? Every day now that planting is delayed means a great deal in the final harvest, and therefore the "steer is in the ditch" we think if he ever was. If a railroad has a big washout or wreck, all hands are called out if it happens to be Sunday or any other day, and no one thinks anything about the matter, but let a farmer work on Sunday and some of us think the whole shebang is headed for hell. Farmers as a class are not supposed to work on Sunday when there is any other way out of the matter.

While we all like to see the faces of our now smiling farmer friends on the streets, we can endure a separation for a season until this crop is planted. The wives and children of the farm families can come to town after the supplies and blacksmithing.

W. E. Stone Brings In Real Egg Curiosity

While the Biddies of Terry county have spread themselves this year to help maintain the family larder, she has nevertheless diversified her occupation once in a while with a monstrosity in the form of an egg just for variety sake, many of which have been mentioned these columns. In some cases, Biddy has tried her hand at writing; put 'em out with a complete little egg, shell and all, inside a huge one, etc., but it remained for a Plymouth Rock hen belonging to W. E. Stone to put out the ugliest.

It was about as long as a large man forefinger, if the finger had been about half crooked, and was not only misshapen, but rough and ugly, and if all eggs looked like it, we would beg to be excused. In fact we think Mrs. Biddy was so ashamed of that product that she did not dare cackle out her advertisement of the fact to the world.

The egg had accidentally been dropped and broken, and only the shell was exhibited. Some said it looked like a huge grub worm, other described it as a pretzel, while Mr. M. V. Brownfield said it reminded him of a human's appendix except for color. Bring on your curiosities.

CHEVROLET PRODUCTION MAP PASS MILLION MARK

Detroit, June 20.—Indications that Chevrolet production will reach, if not pass, the million mark this year were seen here today, following the announcement by the Chevrolet Motor Company that production for the first five months totalled 494,953 units. This is a 60 per cent increase over the corresponding period last year and testifies to the phenomenal demand that has kept Chevrolet factories constantly at capacity, since early in the year.

Since January Chevrolet has bowled over production records each month, reaching a new all-time monthly mark in May with an output of 115,623 units as compared with the record 7,617 units set in May of last year.

In an effort to keep pace with the demand Chevrolet factories are now averaging more than 5,000 units a day, working on the heaviest schedule ever undertaken by a manufacturer of gear-shift cars.

Chevrolet's production achievements so far this year make certain that a new mark for the production of gear-shift cars will be set for this year. The present record new held by Chevrolet, stands at 728,697 units. This was established in 1926 and was a forty per cent increase over the previous high mark, also set by Chevrolets.

Production of one million Chevrolets this year would shatter the present record again by 40 per cent. The June schedule calls for the building of 112,965 units, which should bring the total for the first six months to 607,918.

Evidence of the remarkable gains made by Chevrolet since the introduction of the "most beautiful Chevrolet" in January is seen in monthly production figures for the year so far, as follows: January 73,676; February 85,817; March 107,900; April 111,937 and May 115,623.

ELECTRIC POWER FOR HOME USE

"The application of electrical power to home use has received enormous expansion said Secretary Herbert Hoover in the annual report of the Department of Commerce made recently. The number of homes served has increased in six years from 3,700,000 to 15,000,000. The number of farms served is expanding rapidly, and in some states, such as California, farm electrification far exceeds that of any other locality in the world.

This transformation, it may be said at once, has increased the productivity of our workmen beyond all those of any other country; it contributes to our maintenance of high real wages and to the reduction of human sweat; it relieves the home maker of many irksome tasks and immeasurably to home comforts."

Official paper of Terry County.

We wish we could spare our own Frank Norfleet long enough to send him up to Oklahoma to clean out a lot of their highwaymen and bank robbers. But our own criminals might get too rambunctious during his absence.

The Snyder Signal made the claim in a recent issue that Snyder had the cheapest water rate in West Texas, and gave their rate as $2.50 for 8,000 gallons. Brownfield gets the same amount for $2.25. Keep the record straight.

After spending more than two million dollars of bond money in order to get cheap water, Amarillo folks have been told that the rate will be 50c for 1,000 gallons. Yes, they are rather sore over the matter it seems. Brownfield gets 6,000 gallons for $1.50, and the rate is gradually reduced after that amount is used.

Yes, the rain was a very welcome visitor here. The east had their Lindburgh to welcome, but the South Plains celebrated the arrival of Mr. J. Pluvius. While we did not scatter confetti and hang out flags, we felt like celebrating. Now, we are hitching up our belts and galuses another notch, turning up our old hats fore and aft, and are prepared to sail in for all its worth.

Now that the summer is coming along we can be thankful that there will be fewer of the sort of folks who find pleasure in rocking the boat. Most of those who drag shotguns thru the fence behind them during the past winter, and those who tried to race with the engine for the crossing have gone to their reward. Such folks are naturally boat rockers.—Sudan News.

An optimist is a man who can stand in the face of a parching west wind, with not a cloud in the heavens, and predict rain. Some call that kind of a man either a fool or a newcomer, but we call him a public benefactor. He can drive away more blues in an hour than a sandstorm can pile up in a day. We love the fellow who can see the bright side of things.—Tahoka News.

The blues and grays, the blacks and tans, the whites and reds, the fats and the leans, the northerners and the southerners, the down-easters and the out-westers, the hill-billies and the sand duffers, the conservatives and the radicals, the stand-patters and the go-getters—all seem to be rapidly sinking into oblivion to rise again next year as the Wets and the Drys.—Wilson Pointer.

An article is now going the rounds about a Missouri editor who has received three notices to stop a certain man's paper that already owed him six dollars, and the very next Sunday that editor attended church and heard his delinquent subscriber sing "Jesus Paid It All." Well, any editor with that little business judgment should sing the Swan song himself and get out of business before he is forced to do so. Once is enough notice to stop a paper if he cares anything, or has any pride in his profession.

If a man operates a business for no other reason than to make money, he is not fit to be in business; if a man belongs to an organization for no other reason than that he may derive benefits therefrom, he is not fit to belong to that organization; if a man belongs to a church only to save his own soul, that man is not fit to be a member of that church; if a man does not do as much for his town as the town does for him, he is not fit to be a citizen of that town. Man cannot live to himself and be a success; selfishness does not pay.—Groom News.

FIRE COSTS AMERICA ENOUGH TO PAY WAR DEBT

The fact that the property fire loss is rapidly mounting is made doubly alarming by the steadily increasing per capita loss. This table will give some idea of the cost of fire to each individual in America.

Total Loss	Per Capita	Year
1921	$495,406,012	$4.59
1922	506,541,001	4.63
1923	535,372,782	4.84
1924	549,062,124	4.90
1925	570,255,921	4.94

While the 1926 figures will not be available until sometime about the middle of 1927, enough information is available to indicate that 1926 was no exception to the rule of steadily increasing per capita losses.

This means an annual fire loss for each family in America of approximately $25. To this added another $25 per year for cost of maintaining fire departments, watchmen, etc., making a total cost for each family of at least $50. There are over 20,000,000 families in the United States, so that fire costs America more than $1,000,000,000 per year.

The government is retiring its war bonds at the rate of $1,000,000,000 per year. Fire costs America enough to pay her war debt.

Diagnosis of these conditions is what is causing public spirited men and civic organizations throughout all of America to increased activity in the great war on fire.—Selected.

Vanishing Heath Hen Was Farmer's Friend

The New England heath hen is now in the last stages of extinction, the Louisville Courier-Journal reports. The farmer has found that he not only has lost a source of food for his table, but a protector of his crops.

Like the western prairie chicken, to which it is closely allied, and the "Bob White" of the Central West, the heath hen is a great enemy of insect pests. But of the thousands that once inhabited field and woods patch, less than 100 are alive today, and these are found only on the island of Martha's Vineyard.

The Middle West lost a prolific food supply when the passenger pigeons died off. But the wild pigeon was otherwise of little economic value. It was largely a grain eater, though beech mast and weed seeds also formed its food.

The heath hen, however, is as valuable as the quail to farmers. Ornithologists and conservationists have pointed this out. Hence efforts are being made to save the bird from extinction and, if possible to bring it back to its former numbers.

Party-Line Incident

"Whenever my sister called up my mother, as she did every morning at a certain hour, the people downstairs listened in. That led to installing a private line," writes M. G. "A short time afterward a member of the family met one of the eavesdroppers. She said, 'You're not on our party line any more, are you?' The answer was, 'No.' 'I'm sorry,' said the eavesdropper, 'because we don't get the latest news any more.' That sort of eavesdropping is—Copper's Weekly

Spot Made Famous by Genius of Alexander

The site of the most brilliant coup of Alexander the Great's campaign in India has been located by the eminent archeologist, Sir Aurel Stein, according to dispatches received in this country.

In a section of the hills of Upper Swat known as Torwal, near the northern frontier, Sir Aurel believes that he has identified the site of the fortress of Aornos, captured from the warlike hill tribes by Alexander in 327 B. C. According to the classical historians the stronghold was perched on a rock over the river Indus and had even resisted the attacks of the legendary Hercules.

The particular features of the rough and rocky region which suggested this site are said to agree more closely with the account of the Greek historian Arrian than a previous tentative location at Mahaban. The strategic value of this hill country has been appreciated and utilized by petty chieftains down to the present day, and it is only recently that conditions have been sufficiently settled to allow archeological exploration.

Well-Meant, but Ill-Timed

A physician had been called in to treat the spoiled child of a certain family. After his departure the mother returned to the room and told the youngster that the doctor had complained that the child had been very rude to him. "Why, mother," replied the kiddie, "he's just an old fog, that's all! He got mad because I put my tongue out before he told me."

Introducing

The cab drew up in front of the imposing marble mansion, and he jauntily alighted. Upon his swarthy bronzed countenance there glowed the sparkle of health, and there was the vigor of youth in his stride. Leisurely climbing the steps, he rang the bell. The door swung open a few seconds later. "Taxi for Blotzmeister," he said.

A BIBLE RIDDLE

By the Lahey Correspondent
God made Adam out of dust,
Yet thought it best to make me first;
So I was made before the man,

To answer His most holy plan.
My body He did make complete,
Yet without either hands or feet;
My ways and actions did control,
Ye I was made without a soul.

A living being I became,
And Adam first gave a name,
Then from his presence I withdrew,
And more of Adam never knew.

I did my Maker's law obey,
From them I never went astray;
Thousands of miles I run in fear,
And seldom on the earth appear.

Yet God in me some power did see,
And put a living soul in me;
A soul from me my God did claim,
And took from me that soul again.

And when from me that soul had fled,

I was the same as when first made,
And without hand or feet or soul,
I travel now from pole to pole.

The holy scriptures you believe,
But true or false I can't conceive,
Altho my name is in them found,
It is to me an empty sound.

We call your attention to Brownfield Produce Company's ad in this issue. Mr. Farmer, they are offering you a premium of 2c per dozen on infertile eggs under conditions they will be glad to explain to you if you will call at their place one block north of the State Bank.

TEXAS HAS THE LARGEST CAPITOL IN UNITED STATES

It is in keeping with the eternal fitness of things that Texas, the largest State in the Union, should have the largest capitol building. The magnificent pile of granite near the banks of the Colorado, in the "City of the Violet Crown," is larger than serves any other State in the Union as its capitol. Furthermore, it is the seventh largest building in the world. The national capitol building, at Washington, which the Texas building resembles very much, is larger, but, counting the statue on its top, the Texas building is seven feet higher than the great structure which serves our nation as its capitol.

To get an idea of the magnitude of our Texas capitol, you must walk around it, pass through its great halls and go from basement to summit. The great structure is a ninth of a mile across the long way and 289 feet across the narrow way. From the grade line to the top of the dome is 317 feet. In the great building is 258 rooms, 900 windows and 500 doors.

The Texas capitol is one of the fine buildings of the nation and Texans are justly proud of it.—Home Color Print Co., Dallas.

A cheap tube can cost you 10 times its price

THIRTY-NINE YEARS of tube-building experience has proved to Dunlop that "cheap tubes" do not pay.

That is why Dunlop tubes are made casing shaped. It costs a little more than to build them on a straight pole, as cheap tubes are built.

But a casing-shaped Dunlop tube is strong everywhere. The outside edge is not weakened by excess stretch. The side next to the rim has no wrinkles to crack with age and blow out. A Dunlop tube protects your casing, because it fits. And your casing is worth ten times the cost of the tube.

We strongly recommend a Dunlop tube for every casing

FLAPPERS WILL CONTINUE TO FLAP AS OF OLD

Girls will be girls—and nature will be nature.

Grandmother flirted; mother did her spooning; daughter pets—but all got kissed sooner or later. Grandmother rubbed red-calico on her cheeks; mother "tinted" her's with red tissue paper dipped in cologne, daughter colors her's with scented rouge—but they all got painted, if with a different brush.

Grandmother laced; mother padded, daughter bants—but they all did it in order to charm the masculine eye. Grandmother wore a hoop skirt; mother wore a bustle; daughter carries a lip stick—but they were all equally deceitful.

Grandmother cajoled her husband; mother endures her's; daughter divorced her's—but all got tired now and then. Grandmother used a broom, mother used a carpet sweeper; daughter uses a vacuum cleaner—but cleaning day is the same old joy and the same old horror today, yesterday and forever.

Grandmother drove the grey mare; mother drove the dog-cart; daughter drives the flivver—but they all are "going somewhere" and nobody can stop them. Grandmother was proposed to on a moonlight buggy ride; mother was courted on a "bicycle built for two," daughter in a taxicab—but they all got the same thrill, and had the same beautiful dreams.

Grandma blushed; mother flushed; daughter "laughs it off"—but they all stay and listen when a man starts talking sentimental nonsense. Our grandmothers only loved one man; mother one at a time; daughter one after another—but they all got the same old applesauce, the same surprise, the same disappointments and the same heart pangs.

Grandmother knew how to make a pie; mother knows how to make a dollar go a long way; daughter knows how to make a living—but it all amounts to the same thing when it comes to making a good helpmate. Grandmother dropped her eyes and clung to his coat lapel; mother hung onto his arm and trembled; daughter grapples him around the neck—but they all did their best to keep him from getting away.

Grandmother coddled him; mother bossed him; daughter joches him—but they all knew that a man had to be managed, babied and mothered. Grandmother called him her "suitor"; mother called him my "fiance," but daughter calls him "my boy friend"—but they all managed to lead him to the altar in the end.

Other times, other manners—but all roads lead to matrimony when a woman drives.—Selected.

THE RELAPSE

Look, Tom, there goes Mr. Johnson. He has been Dr. Himelfepher's patient for ten years on account of a nervous breakdown.

Ten years! And the doctor has not cured him yet? Oh, yes, he has been cured several times.

A SNEAKING PRIDE

"You were going 40 miles an hour," said the policeman reproachfully.

"I'm no deliberate law-breaker," said Mr. Chuggins. "I'm ashamed of myself, but I'm kind of proud of the old fliv."

In West Texas are found Pacific coast pine trees and in East Texas are found pine that grow only in the South.

Shipments of turkeys out of Texas in 1926 amounted to about 900 car loads.

Turkeys produced in Texas in 1926 are estimated to have had a value of ten million dollars.

About two million miles of wire is now used by the telephone companies of Texas.

The largest single holding of land in Texas is in Brewster county, and amounts to 387,606 acres.

Hundreds of big Texas ranches have been broken up into farms in recent years, but Texas still has many ranches of more than 100,000 acres.

Texas has the largest state capitol building in the United States and the land that was traded to the contractors for the building is now of value enough to build several such structures.

Reasons for Failure

The "small" man remains small by reason of his own shortcomings, not because of the persecution of others. We too frequently go far afield to learn the reason for our failure, when all we have to do is to look around a bit at home.—Grit.

Pay Your Debts

Always pay; for, first or last, you must pay your entire debt. Persons and events may stand for a time between you and justice, but it is only a postponement. You must pay at last your own debt. He is great who confers the most benefits. He is base—and that is the one base thing in the universe—to receive favors and render none. In the order of nature we cannot render benefits to those from whom we receive them, or only seldom. But the benefit we receive must be rendered again, line for line, deed for deed, cent for cent, to somebody. Beware of too much good staying in your hand. Pay it away quickly in some sort.—Emerson.

Slip Into It

She sank on the settee in her room with a sigh of intense weariness. "I'm very tired," she said to her new maid. "Bring me something I can slip into."

"Oh will that, ma'am," said the colleen from Connemara.

After a rather long interval the maid returned bearing a tray on which was a thick steak, some fried onions and a bottle of stout.

"Now just be after slipping into that, ma'am; it'll do ye good," she said.—London Tit-Bits.

VIBRATION!

Vibration shakes the battery to pieces. The plates are made of lead and lead peroxide in such form as to be more fragile than plain sheet lead. The incessant shaking of the battery while the car is being driven has the effect of not only wearing away the delicate parts but loosening of the active materials from the grid structure of the plates and making them fall to the bottom of the container. Excessive wear and tear results from unnecessary shaking and bumping when the battery is allowed to remain loose in the battery carrier.

MEADOW BRIEFS

Detour. An ominous word used along highways to inform you that you can leave the paved or surfaced road you have been traveling and split the mud and sand in another direction, often ten or twenty miles, much to your undoing.

For the past seven years I have made the trip eastward through Abilene once or thrice a year, and have always been forced to Detour somewhere between Clyde and Cisco. There is a good highway—all weather—from Baird to Desdemonia; the other highways are just muddy roads in the event that rain falls.

We crossed the country on our return from Abilene to Wichita Falls, via Anson, Stamford, Haskell, Throckmorton and Seymour. The roads were terrible. They call them highways, but a better name would be by-ways. The rainfall through this territory had been excessive, and the fields had been flooded, especially through Haskell. Crops generally looked well but cotton was small and in many places planting was still in progress.

The best crops seen were in Wilbarger and Foard counties. The country south of Vernon is a region of fine farms of cotton, in many places knee high, while corn and other crops were much further advanced than any except Erath county.

The plains from Floydada to Lubbock looked rather bare. Just an occasional green spot. This shows however, that if the people had planted corn and other stuff early—say March and April, there would have been a large acreage of feed crops under way, and even the matter of cotton, much of it would have been up and growing. This is not criticism but looking backward.

The farmers around Meadow are very busy and Sunday many planters were at work. Anent this we have heard some adverse criticism. For myself I can see no harm in doing on Sunday some absolutely necessary work that could not be done previously. There is nothing in the dire prediction that punishment will be meted out to those who desecrate the day.

The wheels of industry, railroads, factories and transportation lines run and prosper; why not the poor devil of a farmer use the day to make ends meet. If one should keep it, then why should not all be forced to observe it?

The Editor of the Meadow Review left yesterday for Rochester, Texas, and will be away, it is said, until the first of July. It is my information that he intends starting a paper in a town in Upton county. What the future of the Review will be is guess work.

The Methodist brethren have been holding a meeting here the past week. It closed Sunday night without any additions to the church. Undoubtedly much good was done as good religious services leave our people better. Rev. W. B. Hicks, of O'Donnell did the preaching and apparently an earnest able man.

The Toy Cyclone that visited these parts last Sunday afternoon stimulated cellar building in our berg. Now dirt is in evidence in some places. Even our brave bank cashier, Earl Cadenhead, is now concreting one dug by his wife a year ago, and if no cyclones show up, his wife will have some place to hide Earl out. We need one, but I dislike to take a sudden scare.

J. R. Moorhead, living south of town had the misfortune to lose his barn and some of his feed, harness and hogs. Loss about $1,500.00. Pretty severe blow these hard times.

U. S. POLICY TOWARDS

LATIN-AMERICA CRITICIZED

Lack of sympathy with peoples struggling for political and religious liberty and a failure to understand the Latin-American mind have caused the American government to make such serious mistakes in Mexico and Nicaragua that Uncle Sam has lost the confidence of all countries south of the United States, was the opinion voiced by Rev. Charles S. Detweiler of New York, superintendent of Latin-American work for the American Baptist Home Mission Society before the Northern Baptist Convention held in Chicago.

Dr. Detweiler, who has just returned from Mexico, Central and South America, stated, in regard to the U. S. Government in its dealings with Mexico and Nicaragua:

"I lament its apparent lack of sympathy with the social program of Mexico, and its readiness to charge her with promoting bolshevism. Our government, in threatening to lift the embargo on arms and thus make possible the overthrow of Calles, has been like Saul, willing to sacrifice his idealistic son, Jonathan, to his abstract and legalistic ideas of righteousness."

"The Mexican government's difficulties lie in trying to give the backward peon economic and religious freedom. Secondly, trouble for Calles and his group comes from the fact that foreign investments control the economic life of the people; thirdly, from an unsympathetic State Department at Washington and finally from a medieval church opposed to social change."

"Unfortunately for Nicaragua its political history became entangled with Mexico's. While relations between the United States and Mexico were yet strained and strong notes were passing between the two, a revolution broke out in Nicaragua whose object was to unseat a usurping president whom the United States had formerly refused to recognize, and to put back into power the vice-president who had been driven out of the country."

"All Latin-America has been inflamed by our attempt to force upon Nicaragua a president who was no the choice of any considerable part of the people, and whose party came into power through a coup d'etat. The protesting and revolting Liberals are sustained by the moral sentiment of Latin-America."

THE OLDEST FIRE

What is believed to be the oldest fire in the world, excepting volcanoes, is in a coal mine at Summit Hill, Penn. The fire has been burning since before the Civil War. It was started through the careless handling of live embers in 1859. From these embers the fire spread to the timbers and then into the coal deposits, where it since has been smoldering. It has destroyed 14,000,000 tons of coal and $3,000,000 has been wasted in futile efforts to extinguish it.

It is one of the most striking examples in existence of the dire results that often come from carelessness in little things.—Thrift Magazine.

W. H. Howard, of Ropes, was a business visitor here Wednesday.

Dr. J. D. Moorhead of Meadow was down Tuesday having an aching tooth extracted, and paid the Herold a short call.

Albert Curry, employee of the O'Donnell Index, was in our city Tuesday and paid the Herold a pleasant call. He informed us that he would likely move to either Haskell or Chillicothe in the near future where the Roberts Bros. have other papers, to work.

Rev. C. E. Ball, former pastor of the local Baptist church, accompanied by the wife and two youngest children, are here this week shaking hands with old friends.

Rep. Emmett Whitaker, accompanied by his wife and friend, Miss Opal Heath, of Seminole, were here Monday for a few hours, and paid the Herold a short call, during which time he spun the old Merg. around for awhile.

CHURCHES ARE NOT VERY WELL LIGHTED

American churches as a general rule are badly lighted, J. L. Stair, lighting specialist of Chicago told the members of the Illuminating Engineering Society.

Light sources which send annoying beams of light in the eyes of the worshippers, and fixtures out of harmony with the architecture of the church were pointed out by Mr. Stair as the two principal faults with many church lighting systems.

In lighting churches, he said, we must cooperate with the architect, probably to a greater extent than for any other type of public building. The ideal condition is architectural perfection revealed by an appropriate lighting effect.

Illuminating equipment for a church should be chosen with consideration for symbolic features of the particular creed, according to Mr. Stair, and brightness of light units normally coming in or near the line of vision should be reduced to a minimum.

EVERY Sled and Two-Row Listed Corn Cultivators

Give a good crop a good start

When your listed corn is young, is the time to lay a foundation for profitable growth. Careful cultivation at this time brings a generous reward.

Listed corn farmers who work their corn through the early stages with Avery Sled and Two-Row Cultivators, bring down to the young crop exactly the required amount of finely pulverized soil and give their crop the best possible start. They do the most for the crop, in the easiest and best way, when good care is most needed.

In designing the Avery Sled Cultivator, which runs in the furrow astride the row, every essential has been provided for doing the work easily and accurately. The Avery Two-Row

Listed Corn Cultivator offers a broader development of the same principles, but due to the exclusive Avery equalizers and other features, it cultivates two rows with the same ease and accuracy as does the single-row machine.

Avery Sled and Two-Row Cultivators bear the unmistakable quality characteristics of all Avery tools. Because they do better work and last longer, they are the most economical in the end to buy. They are built in America's finest implement factory—to meet a need that springs direct from the soil—by men inspired by 100 years of implement-building leadership.

Ask us for the details. We will gladly give you all the facts upon request.

There is a full line of famous Avery walking, riding and tractor plows, tillage implements, and Champion harvesting and haying machines.
