By the Secretary

Our citizens are becoming more interested in the county fair and in conversation with several of them this week, opinions were expressed that it would be possible to stage the affair during the last week of September. This would be much better as it will enable us to select the choice exhibits for our county showing at other fairs.

On the 15th of this month a meeting of the new highway association that is promoting a route from the Panhandle oil fields to Odessa and Midland, will be held at Seminole for the purpose of taking steps to get the route in such condition that it will be accepted by the highway commission and receive designation.

It is reported that the Kingsland Oil test is drilling with a standard rig but that they are encountering the sticky clay that hampered their operations prior to the use of the rotary and it is expected that if they do not pass this formation within the next few days that it will be necessary to re-install the rotary rig.

The clean-up campaign has closed and the town presents a very much more attractive appearance and those affected with hay fever have been very much benefited. The idea of cleaning up was a good one but should have been looked after several months ago and this will no doubt be done during the coming year. Much remains to be done in the way of weed cutting and those that have been cut should be kept down and a minimum of effort on the part of each property owner will make this possible.

Two members of the highway commission and the chief engineer are in this section of the State and it is expected that they will visit and inspect our designations prior to their next meeting at Austin.

Several citizens are becoming interested in a movement to plant several thousand acres in wheat this fall and it is desired that each community plant as much as 2,000 acres. It is noticed that the counties that sow wheat as well as grow cotton, corn and other feed stuff are in a more prosperous condition than those who follow the one crop idea too closely. Wheat brings money at a time of the year when most needed. Let's try it.

Farmers Enjoy Concert Saturday Night

You don't know Terry county farmers and their families if you believe that they do not appreciate good music, and that they do not respond to an invitation to hear it, especially when the program is given in their honor, for the north and the east side of the square and a portion of the west as well as the south side of the square were lined with cars Saturday night to hear the fine concert given them by Director John Powell and his boys. Most of them were farmers, too, for we took the trouble to see.

Of course there were lots of town people among them, but the big majority of them were farmers and their families, and after each number, the noise of honking cars and the clap of hands fully indicated how it was appreciated by them.

The music ranged from some that bordered on the jazz to the classical, and to our notion some of the prettiest heard was some waltzes, for the waltz is our favorite music. There seems to be more harmony and real music in waltzes than any other class of music, and it put the mind in a fine frame of retrospection.

They gave us some selection that we had never heard before, and they, as well as the older ones, were handled with skill and technique, showing the extreme care the instructor has given the boys. One of the numbers, a special Indian piece, drew down an extra amount of applause and honking, as Director Powell put on his Indian regalia and did the war dance, accompanied by war whoops over the band stand during a portion of the selection. All the youngsters and the dogs ran forward to see just what was taking place.

After the concert, the farmers all cranked their lizzies and struck out for home, showing that they had no other occasion for coming to town.

Young Farmer Brings in Good Roasting Ears

So far as we can figure out, Grady Patton, living on the Johnny Johnson farm in the Johnson community was the first person to bring in roasting ears to amount to anything this year. Last week he brought in 50 dozen off the farm, which were in prime condition, and which he readily sold out here for 25c per dozen, or 15c for a half dozen.

This corn was planted early when most farmers were waiting for it to rain. Not so with Grady. He believed that he had enough moisture in his field to bring up the corn from the good winter season, and it did, and as a consequence, he is now putting something on the market to bring in good returns. The old saying that the early bird catches the worm still holds good, believes Grady, and he proved it to his satisfaction. By the time that most of the corn comes in there will at least be no local demand.

It does not pay usually to sit still and wait for providence. Sometimes kind providence expects one to help out as far as they can. God does nothing for anyone that they can do themselves. God steps in when humanity reaches the end of their own resources.

Interdenominational Revival Under Way

Fresh from well-attended and successful revival campaigns in California, Mack Wyatt and Phillip S. Kerr, evangelists, have pitched their big brown tent in Brownfield and opened a revival here at 8 P. M. Thursday night, August 4. The large new tent is located across the street from the Herald office, just south of the Courthouse. The evangelists are operating on an inter-denominational line, and invite everyone to attend and cooperate. Evangelist Wyatt preaches an old-fashioned salvation, such as our parents and grandparents believed in.

Evangelist Wyatt

Special music is a feature of this campaign, and several special numbers will be given at every service. Duets that will thrill you, numbers on the Musical Saw that will entertain you, stirring song services that will lift your soul heavenward, instrumental numbers that you will really enjoy, and sermons that are really inspired and helpful, will be features at every service.

Services will be held every evening at 8 P. M., and two services will be held on Sundays. The Sunday afternoon services at 3 P. M. are always of special interest in the Wyatt and Kerr campaigns, and will interest both the old and young.

The campaign will last for ten days or two weeks or longer as the interest may increase. Everyone invited to come and make this the outstanding revival of the past till now.

Seats free. Welcome.
Mack Wyatt.

SEAGRAVES GIN DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the Allen gin in the south part of town, last night about 12:00 o'clock. We haven't learned, but we think the loss was covered by insurance.—Seagraves Signal.

Jack Bryan was in Wednesday afternoon after supplies.

Tandy Didn't Wait For It to Rain, Either

Driving out one afternoon about two weeks ago on the Lamesa road, and not more than a mile from town, we came upon a nice green field of corn and maize that might have been the envy of a Mississippi valley corn farmer. The ground was as clean as the proverbial hound's tooth, and the corn was in roasting ears, and the maize almost fully matured, and gave the appearance that the yield would be heavy.

Now Mr. Tandy could have come to town and make himself as comfortable as any of the rest of us on some good seat. He could have pulled out his plug of Brown Mule and spit a Tom cats eye out. He could have crossed his legs and cursed the government and high taxes. But he figured that he had brought a family of humanity into existence and he lived the Biblical injunction that he was responsible for their care and comfort.

As a consequence he has a corn and feed crop ready made, and his cotton is doing nicely. Like Grady Patton, he felt that there was sufficient winter season to bring up his truck, and was willing to risk some labor and seed to test it out. Now his stuff came up, and the tap roots had reached down into the earth and found plenty of moisture, and with the showers that came along, have resulted in a fine reward for his labor.

When Terry county gets a lot more farmers such as these, there will not be heard any cries of poverty.

We might also mention the fact that cotton out that way is also getting a move on, and it may wind up in the fall that we have made all the cotton that the county can gather without importing help.

Clean-up Campaign Closed Monday

The Rotary Club Clean-Up Campaign closed Monday with splendid results in evidence all over the city. The judging and awarding of prizes was finished early Tuesday morning as follows:

For clean premises:
First prize Mrs. J. W. Head; Second, Mrs. Jack Holt; Third, Mrs. W. B. Lee; Fourth, Mrs. Eunice Jones. For largest pile of trash and cans:
First prize, J. T. Faucett; Second, Mrs. John (Raymer) Haley.

Others honorably mentioned for their co-operation in the campaign by making special efforts in cleaning their premises were: Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. J. E. Michie, Mrs. A. M. McBurnett, Mrs. E. A. Graham, Mrs. J. O. Brown, Mrs. W. C. Smith, Mrs. Tom Glover, Mrs. Brit Claire and many others.

The City Officials are to be commended upon the care that is being given the city park but it appearance would be very much improved if the pile of stone was removed from the southeast corner and weeds out of the bar pit.

In behalf of the Rotary Club, we wish to compliment the entire citizenship of Brownfield for the interest manifested in trying to make our city clean and attractive.

An expression of thanks of the club also go to Mrs. Albert Endersen, Mrs. E. V. May and Mrs. Harry Longbrake for their fairness and faithfulness as judges of the campaign.

500 PRIMITIVE BAPTISTS TO MEET IN TAHOKA

The members of the Primitive Baptist church here are making preparations for a great meeting here when the West Texas Primitive Baptist Association will meet Thursday night before the fourth Sunday in August, and closing on the later date.

Members of the denomination will be here from all parts of West Texas and some from even more distant points. Five or six hundred visitors are expected, most of whom will come prepared to camp. About 15 or 20 preachers will be here and among the best in the denomination, according to J. S. Wells.

The services will be held in the City Tabernacle and members of other denominations are invited to attend all services.—Tahoka News.

MEADOW BRIEFS

By Aesculapias.

On our return from New Mexico, we turned north at Deming for Albuquerque. The road led along the Santa Fe for many miles, and was on the Mesa until we reached Lake Valley on the top of a mountain where there isn't any lake, nor never was since the mighty upheavals that planted the mountains over this region.

There was a silver mine here, so we were told, and the outside indicated that some kind of mining activities were in progress. We had previously been at the site of several copper mines around Lordsburg and generally found a greaser who could only say "Me no sabe English." Most of these so-called mines were tumble-down affairs, a few galvanized iron houses that looked very ancient and uninviting. All of them so repulsive that you did not care to investigate them further.

A branch of the Santa Fe runs to these mines, the other or main line turns east at almost a right angle to Nutt and crosses the Rio Grande. The traveler or tourist however, goes into the mountains and hills, and they are just about as thickly sown in this region as it is possible. An occasional house stuck in some lonely canyon or narrow valley, is all that breaks the monotony of dreary hills and deep ravines.

The road is fairly good, but when it comes to curves and "Fade Aways" Christy Mathewson's exploits are not in it. After some thirty miles of up and down driving you suddenly descend a canyon and discover Hillsboro, in one of those deep excavations of mother earth doubtless made when the gods were angry.

The transition from bare and rugged hills to this lovely spot of shade and water is rather startling. There was nothing visible from the highway to have you even suspicion that a town or residence was near you. This place bears no resemblance to its name sake in Texas, don't know which of the places is the oldest, but this is certainly a burro among the hills.

This place is the county seat of Sierra County, it doesn't look to be over a couple of hundred feet wide and is scattered along the canyon for a short distance. However it is some climb out from this place and at its top we had a puncture and were forced to change tires. It was thundering and rain was falling slowly. In front of us the mountains fell away and deep canyons and gullies were ready to receive us and my heart went pit-a-pat as I made the change. The cars that passed us here offered assistance for the only time during the trip. These fellows certainly took in the situation and correctly surmised that I was "skered."

The decent was quite steep and crooked as the ascent, and the thought certainly recurs, what if the brakes should fail to hold, or meet a car and have to take the outside—which I did many times, but always with some misgivings. One time a lady covered up her face as I took the outside, and it wasn't very reassuring.

I finally reached the mesa or middle ground between the mountains, and when not on top you are usually somewhere between. Did you ever pursue a mountain? They are the most elusive game to be found in New Mexico. In fact there are more mountains than any other wild animal. I saw one lone coyote during the ten days travel, and there were mountains galore.

When you are traveling toward or in pursuit of a mountain, you are absolutely sure that it is just over the ridge, for you can see the road end just ahead, but when you reach the spot there is a gentle decline and the road lengthens some what but you can see the end just ahead. This recurring disappointment finally ends by suddenly coming on a deep canyon and you are shunted to the right or left, and you don't get to the mountain at all.

The road builders in New Mexico never allow you to cross a mountain if it can possibly be avoided. They are a cold blooded lot. If a mountain must be negotiated, they carry you by all the canyons in the vicinity, cut a roadway along the most precipitous cliffs, hang the road over a stream if there be any, have you to curve in and out until you don't know whether you are comin' or goin', and when you reach the next gasoline station, and they have a salaried gentleman there to tell you that it is worse ahead.

SHERIFFS FORCE GET STILL IN SOUTH PART OF COUNTY

Sheriff Ellington and deputy spent some time the latter part of last week in the Pride and Lou settlement trying to locate a distillery that had been operating for some time, of which he had been tipped off to.

After considerable maneuvering, he found the still in a small dugout, but the mash was up in the field.

The bird however had decided to take his vacation, and was nowhere to be seen, but some mash was destroyed and the still, a small copper affair was brought to town. The manufacturer had evidently taken all he had made up with him wherever he went, as some mash was all that could be found.

man there to tell you that it is worse ahead.

After leaving Hillsboro and its miserable mountains and roads, we hastened on to Hot Springs, which is a suburb of the Elephant Butte Dam. The town occupies the middle of the valley as you ascend the hill from the road of the Rio Grande, which at this point is just wide enough to pass another car. You can obtain the kind of information you wish and pay 30c per gallon for you gas and other things in proportion.

We stopped just long enough to get directions and hastened on to the Dam-n. So much has been said about it that we were wild to encounter it—and we did. It is eight miles above the town of Hot Springs, and a short distance from the highway to Albuquerque. There are two approaches to the Dam, one on the east and one on the west, and one might make it on foot along the river. No matter which one of the mountain paths you take, you'll be inclined to go back the other.

On reaching what you imagine is the dam—west side—a large sign tells you that some miles further on is the dam. That this hundred or so bit of cement isn't the dam.

We had come thus far to see the dam and so we followed the road around the point of the mountain. It got narrower and narrower until our car covered the highway. It was in addition a very poor road. At points where you were compelled to curve around some projection, the road was some wider, and you could squeeze by another car. However, you couldn't turn back until you have crossed the dam. Otherwise myself with many others would never have seen the dam. It has only one commendable feature; the women in the back seat don't offer any suggestions except "go slow!"

I may go there again some day, but they will have to build a wide roadway and guard it on the air-side with a strong fence. The dam has been adequately and minutely described by those who built it. If further information is desired, better consult the Interior Dept., Washington.

A half mile east of the dam, and over the same kind of a road a number of houses have been built for those who wish to tarry for boat rides and fishing. It will doubtless some day be a great resort. The benefits to be derived from the impounded waters are yet to be realized.

We returned to Hot Springs and spent the night, and listened to local men extol the virtues of the hot water. There are a great many visitors there now, just how many for their health, I can't say. With proper advertising it can be made a great health resort.

The remainder of our journey to Albuquerque was along the course of the Rio Grande, sometimes along the valley and at other times among the hills. Along the valley from San Marcial to Albuquerque, it is almost a continuous village with now and then a small town. San Antonio, Socorro and Belen being the largest.

Albuquerque is a fine city, located in a broad valley of the river and extending eastward toward the mountains. It seems to me the most desirable place to live or to spend a few months in the mountains and National Forest near by, than any other locality visited.

I returned however wedded to the Plains, here is to be found more of the essentials for farming, stock raising or any other industry in which one should care to engage, unless it be mining, mountain climbing, or just looking to see if you can see.

In closing I wish to express my sincere thanks to the common people for defeating all four of the damnable Amendments just voted on.

Texas Newspaperman Goes to Washington

Will C. Edwards, of Denton, editor of the Denton Record-Chronicle and widely known in Texas newspaper circles, left for Washington, D. C., last week to become publisher on Aug. 1 of the Washington Herald, a morning and Sunday newspaper. He started with the Denton paper 22 years ago and has built up from a weekly to one of the best small dailies in Texas. He also has been intimately connected with the upbuilding of the newspaper profession in the State, having served as president of the Texas Press Association, and was one of the founders of the Texas Daily Press League.

Will C. Edwards

In addition to this newspaper work, Mr. Edwards has taken an active interest in Rotary Club work, and only recently ended a term as Rotary Governor of the West Texas district. He attended the International Convention of Rotary at Ostend, Belgium, in June and had charge of the publicity of the convention for North America.

Mr. Edwards served in the Thirty-eighth Legislature from Denton Co., and was in the run-off for Lieutenant Governor three years ago.

Baptist to Start Their Meeting August 14th

On Sunday morning, August 14th, the local Baptist congregation will begin their annual summer revival at the City Tabernacle, and they are expecting a great meeting.

As Rev. V. E. May has only been here a short while, few other than the Baptist congregation have had many opportunities of hearing him, as they have preaching at their own church, and as he will do his own preaching at this revival, this will give the town and community a fine opportunity of hearing him on a series of sermons usually termed revival sermons, and they should not miss the opportunity, but attend all they can.

Rev. May no doubt will preach some doctrinal sermons, most preachers do that really have a faith of their own, but will no doubt present them in such a way as not to offend. Personally the Herald believes a man has as much right to take a firm stand religiously as politically, and we do not think he has to insult anybody else at that. We have very little patience with anything that covers everything and touches nothing. We like to hear the other man's viewpoint. You always get some good out of it, and may even have more respect for his point of view.

We also understand that the singing and music will be in charge of local people. In fact the Baptist are going to patronize home industries or rater people, for one time. And why not.

REV. CARVER IS IMPROVING NICELY SINCE OPERATION

Rev. Douglas Carver is in a local Sanitarium where he has had an operation and is doing fine and will soon be out again to the delight of his congregation at White Deer and his many friends here. Rev. Carver is pastor of the Baptist church at White Deer, Texas.—Lamesa Reporter.

T. K. Rea, of Pottsville, was up this and last week looking after his farm property here, and brought a supply of his home raised honey.

THE TEXAS GOOD-WILL TRIP TO THE NORTH AND EAST

In brief form, perhaps the Cleveland (Ohio) News gives the best insight into what our Texans did and how they behaved on the trip.

Cleveland business men who went to the Chamber of Commerce Friday noon in the expectation of meeting a delegation of Texas Rangers, with six-shooters adorning their hips, and wearing boots and spurs and ten-gallon sombreros and kerchiefs for collars and ties, were beautifully debunked. Indeed the debunking was as thorough as the earlier debunking of Washington's cherry tree story, and other myths of public school histories, and quite as astonishing.

For the delegation of Texans met by the Clevelanders proved to be a mild-mannered group, with neatly tailored clothes, spats, canes and other accoutrements usually associated with the Parisian boulevard "dandy." Moreover, they came here prepared to forever debunk the northerner's opinion of the Texas man.

That was evident when Dan Moody leader of the delegation, in his opening remarks, declared that "you men have a wrong idea of what the Texan is like and we're here to set you right." The youthful red-headed governor didn't have to say that. His neat gray suit, carefully correct tie and shoes, and gentle manners spoke for themselves. But he went on to tell the glories of the new Texas. "A Texas that is as different from the old Texas, with its more than usual shooting affrays as your Euclid Ave. is from the same cattle path of 125 years ago.

You can travel over the length of the state today without finding any of the relics of the wild pioneering area except in the library and private collections of some of the souvenir collectors," said the governor.

"Broncos, too, are almost as scarce as hen's teeth, and the boys who used to ride them into town now shake up the dust with a high-powered motor car. Of course I hate to disillusion you, but it must be done if you are to get a correct idea of what the real Texas is like."

Moody then went on to recite some of the glories of the state, its rich agricultural districts, its grape fruit and fig areas, its petroleum fields and 20,000 miles of paved roads.

"I thought I was going to get away from Texas altogether when I came up this far north," he continued with a broad smile of pardonable pride, "but I didn't. Why the grape fruit and cereal I had for breakfast this morning was shipped from the southern part of Texas, and the tomatoes on my dinner table were also shipped from there.

"You are dependent on our products as we are dependent on yours, and I am hoping that the result of our visit will be brought closer together along lines of our mutual interests."

GAME LAW VIOLATORS OFTIMES DISPLAY TEMPER

By J. G. Burr, Division of Research Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, Austin, Texas.

"I came out for a little recreation and rest from business and I don't want to be bothered by a game warden," was the reaction of a vacationist when told that he had undersized fish. He made the further gratuitous remark that he was a friend of the fish and game commissioner and would have the warden fired for disturbing the few days he had claimed from all worries. But he paid the fine and the warden is still on the job and in good standing.

There have been 181 persons fined for having undersized fish since September 1, nearly all bass, crappie and perch from fresh waters. The law regulating the length of salt water fish was amended in 1925, making it apply to all persons whether they have fish in their possession for sale or for home use. A recent visit to the coast disclosed that many are still operating under the old law, taking home fish under the limit as it now reads. Instructions have been given to coast wardens to enforce the law alike to all whether short fish is found in a market or anywhere else.

All records were broken in administering the fishing laws during April, May and June, the fines collected being $2,707.10 as compared to $580 for the same months of 1926. The total amount collected for fish fines since last September is $4,318.90, or nearly double the amount collected for the preceding fiscal year, while the three months record is over five times as great as the corresponding months of the year before. Will J. Tucker was appointed commissioner by Governor Moody in March of this year.

Laguna Madre which extends from near Corpus Christi to point Isabel, a distance of 90 miles, with outlets to the Gulf only at the north and south ends, is three times as salty as the average bays, according to analysis of samples taken on July 9. gulf, causing fish to go blind and die. Even with recent rains to freshen it, a small per cent of fish seized near Baffins Bay and also in the upper end were blind. There is a strong demand that a channel be cut through Padre Island to admit the fresher gulf water. Nearly half of the fish caught in Texas bays came from Laguna Madre, and that such a channel would be of immense value is generally admitted. The legislature has passed a resolution recommending that such a pass be cut, but engineers contend that it would soon become choked with drifting sand. Commissioner Tucker will visit the laguna and make a study of conditions at the earliest opportunity.

Official paper of Terry County.

A reader at Waco wrote us recently that he was glad each week to get the Herald with its clean news. He said there was a mighty contrast between it and the two dailies he received that were so full of slime that they were fit for no one to read but the folks that printed the rotten stuff about. This is a terrible indictment against the daily paper of Texas.

Gov. Dan Moody has had mighty good luck leading public sentiment in Texas until he tried to put the four constitutional amendments over, but he certainly struck a snag. Whether the campaign for these amendments will injure him any politically, remains to be seen, but we rather think most people will forget how he stood on them, considering his sterling qualities in other matters. Most Texas folks even grant their governor the privilege of voting as he pleases.

And now comes one Jim Ferguson claiming that it was his Forum that put the salt in the creek for the four amendments voted on Monday. Now when it is considered that a very infinitesimal portion of the people of Texas ever see his journal, we think Jim is greatly exaggerating. But the people of Texas read, alright, but generally form their own conclusions without the aid of anyone. But Jim always did take a great deal of honor to himself.

A Kansas farmer took the ties sent him by the "blind salesman", put in the same number of old ties and remailed them, remarking, "The blind cuss won't know any difference." Several newspapers put the "blind salesman" on their lists and sent statements, which brought forth protests, but he was told that they did not order his ties either. The firm is now out of business.—McLean News.

The delinquent taxes for the City of Jayton have not been collected since the city was incorporated, and there are many dollars due the city. If these taxes are not collected the water bonds and interest cannot be paid. If these obligations are not met, it follows that the holders of the bonds will soon or late come in and collect them by court procedure. Which means all the property within the city limits will go under judgement, and will be sold to pay these bonded obligations. When this happens the fact that you have paid your taxes won't help you. Your property will go the same as the property of the fellow who has not paid his taxes. This being the case it is to your interest to see that all taxes are collected and that these bond obligations are met, if your property be saved to you. Insist that the City Fathers collect these taxes.—Jayton Chronicle.

The same thing can be applied to any incorporated city carrying any bonded indebtedness.

Terry County People Swat Amendments

While less than 500 was cast in the amendment election here Monday, showing little interest, still that was considerably more votes than had ever been cast in an exclusive amendment election here before, and showed that at least most people did not aim to let anything like these amendments to pass them. It seems that they were hit so hard all over the state that they will hardly be resurrected in the future.

There were at least four boxes in the county that voted solidly against them, one of these being the northwest Brownfield box. The following is the total county vote:

1st or Judiciary Amendment:
For	38
Against	416
2nd or Taxation Amendment:
For	21
Against	431
3rd or Abolition of Fees Amend.
For	30
Against	425
4th or Salary Amendment.
For	24
Against	426
So that's that.

FRIENDS ENJOY DINNER WITH MR. AND MRS. BRIDGE; TOKIO

Mr. and Mrs. Bridge, of Tokio, entertained a number of neighbors and friends Sunday with a bountiful spread of chicken, peas, beans, corn, pie, cake, ice cream and other things that go to make a good dinner.

And we want you to know about the fine crops these good people have. Cotton almost laps in the middle and well loaded fine corn and feed as you can find on the Plains. We did not hear hard times, we ate all we wanted, and we had such a nice time and enjoyed the good things to eat more than we can express. We are sincerely thankful for this deserving family.

Those present were, B. L. Thompson and E. R. Woodriddle and families of Brownfield; Mr. Pickett and family of Happy community; Dies Proctor and Vernon Bridge and wife of Tokio.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Rush, of Lubbock, were here Sunday visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. S. Powell.

J. J. Johnson, of route one pleased the Herald with renewal recently.

T. F. Strother, of Sweetwater, will begin a meeting for the church of Christ at the Pride school house, beginning the 12th and going over two Sundays.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Jones, of Hot Springs, N. M., are here visiting their daughter, Mrs. Jack Head and family.

John Howard and family, of Haskell, are here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Howard of the Needmore community.

A Santa Fe watch inspector was here last week and placed two $60.00 watches here with local employees. These watches will pass the most rigid inspection, it is said.

Walter Gainer, of Tatum, was over Tuesday laying in supplies and having a good time meeting old friends.

J. H. McKinney and son, James, were down from Lubbock, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. O'Connor left this week for California where they will spend the winter with their sons. Their many friends here will miss them greatly, but they still have a home here and announced that they were burning no bridges.

W. H. Hight responded with another dollar on subscription last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Hamilton and family, of Plainview, were visiting here Sunday in their new Essex Sedan.

J. E. Bryson and R. C. Cox, of the Tokio country were in Saturday. R. C. says he has about 140 acres of good corn now all the way from knee high to silking and tassel, and that most of his neighbors have more acreage than he. He says we are going to have more corn for market this year than last if nothing happens.

N. W. Jones pleased the Herald with a renewal last week.

Mrs. Parker, the postmistress of Plains, had business here Monday.

CASE OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS IN LAMESA

On Monday the little eleven year old daughter of Mr. M. E. Smart, of the First National Bank was taken with what was pronounced as Infantile paralysis, and at this time is doing nicely.

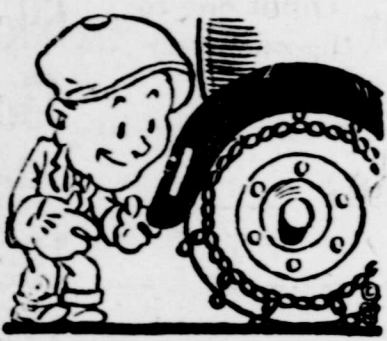

Doctors differ greatly in regard to this disease. Some say that it is contagious, while others deny it. We do not know who is right, but we have our opinion of one thing, we believe if proper care is given to the general health it will do much toward avoiding it. However, we are not a doctor nor the son of one, and we know little of medicine.

This is the only case thus diagnosed and at last report the case was doing nicely and expected to be out in a short while.—Lamesa Reporter.

Rode Over Hockley County 45 Years Ago

James Caudle, a pioneer on the Plains, having moved to Lubbock County in 1881, was here Saturday to visit his daughter, Mrs. W. P. Russell.

Mr. Caudle was first in Hockley County in 1882, or forty-five years ago. At that time this was a large expanse of open prairie, no fencing or roads except the McKensie trail, which ran between Twin Lakes in Lynn county and Portales Springs via the Yellow House Canyon. On this trip he became lost in the territory southwest of where Leveland now stands and after wandering around for several hours met a Mexican who took him to the Yellow House headquarters.

On a subsequent trip into this country he found the skeletons of two men, which by the remnants of clothing found he supposed them to be white men. It was later decided that they were soldiers under command of Colonel McKenzie and had lost their lives in the running fight with Indians which terminated near the Yellow House Canyon and which was known as the Yellow House fight.

Hockley County was the best grass county in West Texas in those days, said Mr. Caudle. There was no organized Counties on this part of the Plains and little government. There were a few cowboys and they were typical Western characters who fought with their six-shooters. He stated that there were many men killed in this section in the feuds between the various camps, but no arrests were made and no attempts made to bring the guilty to justice.

Mr. Caudle, after watching the South Plains become a farming country, is confident that Hockley County will become a great agricultural district.—Leveland Herald.

KEPT HIS RELIGION

It was at a revival meeting. An old darky rose to his feet: "Brudders and sisters," said he earnestly, "You knows an' I knows dat I aint been what I oughta been. Ise robbed hen roosts an' stole hogs an' tel' lies an' got drunk an' slashed folks wi' ma razor, an' shot craps an' cussed an' swore, but I thank the Lord there iz one thing I aint never done—I aint nebber lost my religion."

A. W. Alexander, of Bomarton, Texas, came up this week and traded for a fine farm northwest of town, and announced that he would move up here about January 1st.

Local Firm Putting on Big Mid-Summer Sale

A sales promoter representing the Brooker-King Sales Co., of Oklahoma is here this week helping the Copeland Dry Goods Co., put on a huge sale and community contest, which no doubt will prove one of the most popular sales ever staged here. Besides the many and attractive bargains of reasonable goods being offered at away down prices, the contest for some valuable prizes will in itself attract people from far and near.

We call your attention to the big double spread ad in this issue of the Herald, which has been augmented by thousands of circulars from the ad and we want you to read it closely and respond in great numbers to this chance of your life time.

W. H. Key was in Saturday after supplies and milling around with the big crowd.

LAMESA SHERIFF TAKES FOUR YOUTHS ON THEFT CHARGE

Four youths were apprehended Sunday by the sheriff's department and lodged in the county jail with charges of theft of poultry lodged against them. Three of them live in Lamesa and the fourth is said to live in Wichita Falls.

The youthful offenders were taken in the act of looting a poultry house near town. Theft of poultry is a felony and they will be held for the next session of the grand jury.

The sheriff's department also apprehended a married man and a married woman near the west edge of town a few nights ago and upon a plea were assessed fines for vagrancy. The woman was alleged to have been obstreperously intoxicated.—Lamesa Journal

We wonder if the above kind of drunk is what is known as just comfortably drunk, or the more intense souse, generally defined as "gloriously" drunk?

U. OF T. GRADUATE NOW ITS PRESIDENT

AUSTIN, Texas, July 25.—With the election of Dean H. Y. Benedict of the College of Arts and Sciences of the University of Texas by the Board of Regents to succeed President W. M. W. Splawn, the University has for the first time in its history one of its own graduates for its president.

Dr. Splawn, whose resignation as president takes effect in September, will do research work in the sociological sciences this next session under provisions of the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Memorial Foundation, which includes provisions for employing a teaching substitute, thus relieving Dr. Splawn of much of his class work.

Dr. Benedict, who is 58 years old, graduated from the University of Texas in 1892, nine years after the formal opening of the institution in the present Main building. In 1893, Dr. Benedict received his master's degree from the University of Texas. Then he attended the University of Virginia and Harvard University, receiving his Ph. D. from the latter. He was awarded a Doctor of Laws degree from Baylor in 1920.

Dr. Benedict has held many positions in the University of which he is the new president. He began his faculty work as a tutor in pure and applied mathematics in 1891-92 and has advanced to professor and then dean of the College of Arts and Sciences in 1911. He was for a time director of the department of extension of the University, and is at the present time in charge of arrangements for the building of an astronomical observatory provided for in the bequest of $1,250,000 by the late W. J. McDonald of Paris.

Physician: "I must insist on this, that you quit smoking, drinking, billiard playing and staying out late." Patient: "I see—my wife has consulted you already."
