County Agents Column

By K. B. Davis, Agent

Four new members were added to the pig club this week. Claude Rickard and P. J. Nettles of Meadow and Val Garner and William Pollock of the Union community all received registered Poland China pigs. A few more boys have not yet found pigs but they say they are going to get one and get in the race.

Some have already been feeding their pig a month and in weighing at the end of thirty days one member of the Gomez club found that his pig gained 52lbs. for the first month. This gain was satisfactory but in figuring his cost per pound gain he found that it was too high. He decided that he was going to have to feed less boughten feed and more milk, corn, and pasture. These record books will teach what can be fed profitably.

The practice work in judging is progressing nicely with 12 boys and one girl meeting with the county agent in Meadow on Friday afternoon and twenty-five coming out for the team in Brownfield on Saturday. These boys are working hard for a place on this team and the competition is close. This weeks work will determine who will get to make the trip to the training school at Lubbock next Wednesday and Thursday.

Wilton E. Williams, club leader, is working day and night with the club boys and girls in Terry county. He spends the day visiting the members in their homes and looks over their project and record book then has a club meeting at night. He reports a perfect attendance at Challis Monday night. The attendance at all meetings have been unusually good and the spirit and enthusiasm of the Terry county clubs can not be surpassed. If you want to enjoy an hour and forget your troubles come to the club meeting and listen to the songs, yells and talks. Mr. Williams with all his energy and pep can not find time to visit every boy and girl personally every time that he is in the community. So if he misses you it was because he did not have time and he will come to see you the next time that he is in your community.

Further Information on Cleanup Campaign

The committee on the clean-up campaign reported what had been done by them at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club last Friday, and the whole program was approved without a dissenting vote, so that the campaign will go along as outlined last week. In the meantime, in driving around the city we note that many have already started to cutting weeds, while others have plowed up their premises, leveled the grounds and are preparing to make them very beautiful.

Will say that Earl Anthony will look after the cleaning of the business section; W. A. Bynum will look after the west end of the residence section; J. E. Shelton the north side and H. W. McSpadden the south side. For information in your section, see the above gentleman who corresponds to your section of the city.

There are sections of the city where there are a lot of old junk cars and other machinery that will never be made to look like anything as long as this junk is allowed to remain. We hope however, that people who own the grounds can see their way clear to remove such stuff as it is very unsightly. We doubt however that there is any law to make them do so, so we are relying on their patriotism and civic pride to remove this stuff without mention of law, for they are good citizens as a rule but probably do not realize how unsightly their junk looks to the average citizen.

TOKIO TROPHY TAKERS CLUB

The TTT met Monday evening June 11th with 15 members present. Our club leader, Mr. Williams gave us a very interesting talk on farm insurance. We are all now converted to the garden; cow, sow and the hen slogan.

Our next meeting will be Monday evening June 25th. Let all members be present. We also hope to have both Mr. Davis and Mr. Williams with us in the evening.—Reporter.

Rialto Theatre Has Small Fire Saturday

An hour or two after the Saturday matinee started at the Rialto Theatre Saturday afternoon, an alarm of fire was turned in from the Rialto Theatre, but the management had men stationed at the front to keep the firemen from turning on the hose when the truck arrived unless it became necessary. The firemen layed their hose and got ready, but it never was necessary to turn on the water.

Arnet Bynum was in the projection room at the time the fire broke out. As soon as he discovered it could not be put out, he closed the steel door to the room, got out among the crowd in the balcony, and began to talk to them, and everyone went down stairs as nice as you please. Those on the main floor were also gotten out without the least resemblance of a riot or rush. Real little folks were among them, and alone too. But children who have been used to fire drills at schools are less liable to start a rush than grown ups.

Some one may take the notion that fires in the projection room are dangerous. All fires are dangerous when beyond control, but there is little likelihood of one getting beyond control in their projection room. In the first place the room has a concrete floor, and there is a fire proof sheeting nailed to the studding, on that is two thick coats of asbestos, and the asbestos in turn is covered with corrugated iron. There is an 18 inch vent or flue in the top that goes above the roof, making it almost an oven. A considerable fire could rage in there for some time without damage to the rest of the building. A late fire inspector examined it some time ago and told the management that he would not be afraid to be down in the theatre while a whole program of films were burning in the projection room if he were not afraid some fellow would hallow fire, and some guy would run over him.

It was also reported that the films exploded. This was also a mistake. The noise heard was an electric bulb in the projection room. They invariably explode when exposed to heat. Mr. Bynum had just patched the film and started up again, when it lung and took fire. He snatched both ends out, but a piece hung in the machinery and let the fire get to the film magazine.

All films that were not in the film cabinet, which is fire proof, were destroyed. They lost some 5,000 feet, with a loss to the theatre of some three hundred dollars as films cannot be insured. They wired immediately to Dallas for a new head for the damaged machine which they will use while the other is sent in for repairs. The show opened as usual for Monday night with a complete program.

Christian Meeting Now Well Under Way

The crowds seem to be increasing at every service at the revival now being conducted by Rev. John L. Rice at the Christian church, and those attending are finding that the minister has some good lessons for those who are attending. Good singing and good attention have their part in making the meetings interesting.

We understand that the congregation will move to the big city tabernacle some time this week where it will be not only cooler, but where bigger crowds can be accommodated. No announcement has at this time been made when the meeting will close.

UNION BEAT 'EM ALL

Mr. Williams our assistant county agent visited our club Tuesday June the fifth. All those that were interested in milk testing remained up in our laboratory, and watched Mr. Williams and Mr. Moore test milk.

The Avirett's herd average test was 4.6%; the Hartman herds was 3.5%; the Bass herds test was 5.2%.

Mr. Davis our county agent visited us today, June 13th. He told the boys about judging teams. He also told us something about keeping records on our work.

Our assistant county agent surely is a big help in our club work.—Reporter.

Bill Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Collins had his tonsils removed at the Lubbock Sanitarium, Tuesday. He is doing nicely at this writing.

Swat the Roosters And Save the Eggs

The farmer has no more use for a rooster in the farm yard from now on till spring than Gene Tunney has for a crutch, and you know about how much he needs a crutch. In fact, farmers and poultrymen who have tried it both ways say hens lay better through the summer if there is no rooster on the hill, and you know and we know and everybody knows and understands the difference his crowing majesty's absence makes in the quality of the eggs produced.

The local produce houses have a reasonably good market for the roosters, much more, we think, than they are worth for eating purposes, for personally we had as soon eat a jack rabbit. But there are lots of poor people in the larger cities who are glad to purchase them at the attractive prices they are offered for in the cities, compared with other poultry. The time is coming and is not far distant when the farmer will absolutely be unable to sell a fertile egg during hot weather, for the produce men nor the retailer will not want to handle them, for they have to make too many replacements. There are several farmers over this county at present who are selling their eggs as infertile to the local merchants, and they are getting a nice advance in price, and local consumers, as soon as they learn that infertile eggs are to be had at a certain store, purchase their eggs at that place.

A farmer who lives a few miles west of Brownfield informed us a few days ago that they were now selling infertile eggs to a local merchant at an advance in price, and that he never expected to produce and sell fertile eggs any more during the summer months. He remarked that they found a nest of eggs right out in the sun recently, some of which had been there probably more than two weeks. Upon breaking them, not a bad egg was found in the bunch. If they had been fertile eggs, the whole business would either have been rotten or with half developed chicks in them.

After breaking a few punk eggs, the housewife is inclined to get out to one side and gag awhile, and does not feel like preparing this fine food for consumption for several days at least, and the eggs producer is losing money from non-consumption, but if all eggs were good, people would eat them at this time of year when the price is reasonable at almost every meal. The reason that Texas eggs are quoted several cents under California and other coast eggs is because Texas farmers insist on selling fertile eggs, and never clean and sort them according to color and size.

But speaking of roosters, they should be changed each year anyway, bringing new blood into the flock, and they can be obtained from breeders of high grade poultry at prices in reason, when one takes into consideration the importance of making an annual change in inducing new blood into one's flock.

Swat the roosters and save the eggs.

Wholesale Oil Company Building Plant Here

The fifth wholesale oil and gas company are erecting a warehouse and tank racks on the railroad just south of the main crossing near the depot. Foundation was laid for the warehouse and tank racks early this week, and work on the structure will be rushed to completion.

They have their tanks for gas and kerosene already on the tracks, which will be unloaded and put in position when the racks are ready. The new company is known as the Phillips Petroleum Co., and while new in this section, are well and favorably known to the consuming public for their splendid products further east.

The older companies in Brownfield are the Magnolia, Continental, Gulf Refining, and Texas Co. All are doing a good business here, and the Herald joins the other business interests of the city in welcoming the new member to our business fraternity.

Miss Lela Duke is back on the job at the State Bank after her summer vacation.

Coleman—The city of Coleman has employed a supervisor of public utilities.

Another Destructive Hail Visits Terry Co.

A cloud formed in the north last Friday evening shortly before Sundown, and beginning near Challis, started south and tore up crops and roofs of houses to a considerable extent as far south as the Dawson county line, widening its area as it went. Proceeding the hail and heavy rain, a hard wind, probably reaching 50 miles an hour did probably more damage to sandy land crops than the hail.

Ben Hurst and the writer drove out in the Pleasant Valley settlement early Saturday, and began to find signs of hail about a mile east of the city, although it scarcely sprinkled in town. The first damaged roof we noticed was the old Young place about a mile and a half east of the city on the Tahoka road. The shingle roof of the house was damaged badly, necessitating a new roof, and even the corrugated roof of the barn was punctured in places. People out there described the hail to be as large as one's fist. About two miles further on, we swung north through the Burnett community and found that some of them had been badly beat up and had lost many chickens, a hog or two, and Mr. Hicks had a mule badly addled. He also got hit in the forehead, and is carrying a great knot to show for it. Turning west we found signs of much hail and lots of rain, but the worst torn up roof belonged to Sam Pycatt, our county assessor, known as the old Wirtz place, about two miles northeast of Brownfield. There absolutely wasn't a whole shingle on the east side of the roof, and the west side wasn't much better.

In conversation with Mrs. Pycatt, we inquired if she was frightened. "No, we just opened the door, as there was little wind at that time, and just stood in the door and watched it hail. Those big old hail stones would hit something solid and burst and fly around like bomb shells, and the air was simply full of hail, slungles, branches off the trees, some as large as your thumb, and other flying debris. Our trouble was keeping out of streams of water let in through the torn up roof." Others in the strip said that the hail preceded the rain and stones as big as ones fist would hit the dry plowed earth and dirt would fly into the air like moving picture scenes of bombs exploding during the war. At the Bynum residence a half mile west of the Pycatt place, we found the roof beyond repair, but was not torn up as bad due to the fact that the house set different. We went up into the attic and examined the roof and where the large hail stones had burst through the roof had made big indentures in the rafters where they struck.

The cloud went south for awhile then seemed to turn west again, and that was when we got a small sprinkle in town. It hailed both while going south and after turning west, according to those in the strip. The strip widened as it went south, and wiped out some crops as far south as the Herring place. Mr. Herring however, only lost the crop on the home place. His cattle in the pasture were also badly beaten up, and many in the community will have to re-roof their houses and replant at least part of their crops. It seems that narrow strips, say from one or two hundred yards to a half mile in the area would be more badly damaged than crops in the next few hundred yards.

Beginning Friday, and continuing through the early part of this week hot winds blew hard from the southwest that put a crimp in growing crops despite a good moisture in the ground. But all are in hopes that in a few days these winds will stop, as we usually have a few days of them around the summer solstice. One good thing about the matter, there is plenty of season for replanting, and judging by last year a good cotton crop can be made here planted in June.

Noting the number of wagons carrying out shingles last Saturday would give one an idea of the number who either had to patch or put on a new roof.

WHY THE EDITOR LAUGHED

The Editor is helping himself to a big laugh. He has a letter from a home merchant urging that he roast folks who trade out of town. What's funny about that? It's written on a letterhead printed out of town.—Sandsky (O.) Tribune.

Farmers Say As Well Laugh as to Cuss

After going out Saturday morning and viewing the destruction of hail and wind to crops and roofs, we expected to encounter some of the sickest and grumest farmers in the world Saturday afternoon, but we had not consulted our host in the matter. By two o'clock in the afternoon the farmers were here thick, and joining a crowd of them near the State Bank, we found them laughing over something or other and found on investigation that they were trying to outdo each other in telling what happened at their places.

Some told some amusing incidents about how they dodged big ones, but Arch Fowler got the gun, we think. The top of his shoe had been cut away, and he informed them that it was a big hail stone that did it—but that he moved his foot so quick it did not hurt his foot. Most of us however, thought Arch just had a 'coray' foot and had cut the leather away to give said corn more room to grow.

One new comer had just finished replanting when the big hail and rain leveled up things for him again. He was looking for all the beargrass and catclaws to be shaved off even with the ground by Sunday night all over the county. Virgil Kinard said he already sat upon his old planter so much this spring that he was as flat as a board. Com. Stewart remarked that while he had only been here 12 years he has positive he had planted at least 50 crops. A. C. Green remarked that planting over was nothing unusual with him. When he first came here he said that every time we had a wind that blew out stuff the old timers would say, "Well I'll declare, I never saw it do this way before this late in the year," but it has done it every year I've been here almost. I guess by the time I've been here as long as some of the old timers I'll be lying about the matter too.

Well, no use crying over spilled milk, and like the lesson of the little boy whose block house was knocked down by the house cat in McGuffey's old reader, we'll just have to build again.

Rotary Club to Be Entertained by Scouts

The Rotary Club met last Friday with W. A. Bell acting president as both the president and vice-president were out of town. Several visitors were on hand which were duly introduced and given a hand.

R. L. Portwood of Dallas, representing the Salvation Army was on hand and after a talk in which he explained the workings of the Army and what they were trying to do to help the world. He also explained why they had discarded their meetings and collection methods on the street corners for the reason that too many persons posing as the Salvation Army were now using this method to collect money, when as a matter of fact they had no connection whatever with the Army. After his short talk he did a few sleight of hand tricks that were both interesting and amusing.

R. B. Davis, our county agent was then introduced, and made a fine talk on his line of work, and gave us more information concerning the experiment of deep plowing with a tractor on 2 farms in Gaines county. Mr. Davis' talk was well received and appreciated.

The club will meet Thursday of this week with their Buddies of the Boy Scouts, the place to be designated when everything is in readiness to start.

Chamber of Commerce Booklets in Press

The Herald begin this week the printing of some 3000 booklets for the Chamber of Commerce, which will be ready for delivery within the next ten days or two weeks. These booklets are well printed on a good grade of book paper, are well bound and splendidly illustrated with a number of good farm and town scenes in Terry county.

When finished they will be turned over to the secretary of the chamber of commerce, and those who know of anyone directly interested in this section will be welcome to call in and get as many as they think they can use to advantage to send relatives in the east or north.

Let's all work hard to fill these great open spaces of ours with good farmers who are deserving of a better farming section and better living conditions than where they now reside. We can plant over two or three times here and then make more stuff than two families can harvest.

See secretary Shelton about these booklets. They will probably be ready by the first of July, and that will be about the time your old friend can spare the time to make a trip of investigation after receiving the booklet.

Terry and Gaines Boys To Judge Livestock

Terry and Gaines county representatives to the Annual Club Encampment and Training School to be held at Lubbock next Wednesday and Thursday will be selected from among the boys who are going out for judging. Final elimination for this trip will be made Saturday. No boy will be taken who does not show that he is willing to work and that he wants to learn.

This is a traing school in livestock, poultry and grain judging that is held each year at the Tech College. Dean Leidich and Prof. W. L. Stangel of the Tech College and D. L. Jones, Supt. of the Exp. Station will act as instructors. This will be a worthwhile trip to any boy who is interested in agriculture.

Transportation will be provided at a cost of $1.00 per boy. All meals will be free. Each boy will need to carry two quilts, tin cup and plate, spoon and a bathing suit. The delegation will go in a body with the Gaines county boys leaving at Loop 9:00 A. M. Wednesday joining the Terry county group at Brownfield, from which place they will leave at 10:00 and from Meadow at 11:00. All boys making the trip must conform to the rules of the encampment and be on hand at all times. No games or swimming will be indulged in that is dangerous. The encampment will be held at the Fair grounds with the judging at the College. There will be around three hundred boys present from seven counties. The boys who get to go will be fortunate and it will be well worth the effort and the small exense that will be required.

The workout at Loop Wednesday; Brownfield, Saturday evening; and in Meadow Friday evening will determine largely who gets to make the trip.

R. B. Davis, County Agent.

Boudry Given of Wellman Weigher's Pre.

For some time there has been a misunderstanding of just who does or does not vote in the Wellman Weighers precinct, so this week Mr. H. W. McSpadden had Jay Barret to map the precinct, and brought it to the Herald for publication, which we give as follows:

West half of the Forrester voting precinct, or a line drawn on the east side of sections 147 and 148, block 4X; and on the east side of sections 25, 20 and 14 Block C36. All of the Hunter Precinct; all of the Sawyer Precinct; all of the Willow Wells precinct, and all the Wellman precinct. Now if you were in doubt, this ought to straighten you out.

The Church at Ubetcha

By AD SCHUSTER

YEARS ago Ubetcha—a roaring town. Counting those who inhabited the gulches thereabouts there were more than ten thousand miners and others in the place, plenty of revelry and song, and only a few women. There are stories of buckets full of nuggets, or more than sixty million dollars' worth of gold weighed over the agate-bearing scales in the Wells Fargo office, of swift work and the cleanup. And now Ubetcha is a ghost city, as picturesque and eerie a place as may be found.

Drop down the slope to the stream some moonlight night and pause on the bridge to look at the all but deserted village. The iron doors are closed on most of the buildings and some of the roofs have fallen in, but here the desolation is no different than that of a number of the old camps in that Mother Lode which started Bret Hart chondeling and Mark Twain to swapping yarns. It is the great field of white rocks standing like headstones that gives the place its ghostly appearance. And there on the hillside, on a foundation twenty feet above the surrounding level is the old church.

It may be said for those in the old Ubetcha that they established the church along with the post office and stores. Then some one found that there was gold on the flat, gold caught in the hollow of rock, wedged in the crevasses, and to be had for the finding. The water was turned in and the dirt was sent away in the flumes. What were outcroppings of buried rock appeared now as grotesque statues, washed clean and glaring white. Thousands piled into the town and all through the fifties, sixties, and seventies they worked. When they were through the rocks stood, a path-ton crowd surrounding the dying city. The dirt and the gold were gone and Ubetcha was left, the home of a few old men who did not wish to leave.

Con Tomlin, Louie Brown, and Len Hughes were trustees of the church in the old days when the miners packed it to the doors. All around the building the miners worked until the little structure and its yard stood high above the rest. No one thought of digging under the church and every one knew that gold was there. So it stands today weather-beaten and dreary but upon a foundation of native wealth.

There came a time when the three old men were all that were left of the original trustees and it was then that Louie Brown made his proposal.

"There's no minister to come to talk to us," he spoke with hesitation, almost afraid of his own words, "and besides we can put in heavy beams and replace the dirt."

Tomlin and Hughes went on smoking, giving no sign of their thoughts.

"It isn't," the other continued, "that I want the money so much, but just think of the fun of getting it out. Just as we did way back then! And it's ours, you know—all in our names."

"Put it as a motion," said Con Tomlin and, when Louie did, there were two firm votes in the negative.

On Sundays the three old men held services, taking turns at delivering the sermons which often wandered from theology into reminiscence but, nevertheless, seemed to supply for them something that was needed and important. When Tomlin died he was buried from the church and Len Hughes spoke the last words.

"I put the motion again," said Louie Brown, after a month or two had passed.

"And I vote 'no,'" said Len.

"You are a confounded old idiot," was Louie's rejoinder and he stamped out in a rage that could not be stillied.

Thereafter when Len delivered his sermon it was an empty church for Louie would not attend. When it was the other's turn to speak, however, Len sat in a back seat and listened respectfully until the close when he arose hastily and departed. And this went on for more than a year.

Len was the next to go and a minister from the county seat conducted the funeral with Louie standing near the door.

Now the church belonged to Louie Brown. That is what he thought when he went there alone on trustees' night. He looked out of the window on the thousands of white rocks and each stood in his mind for one of the miners who had gone before. The church belonged to them, those old timers who had made the town. It belonged to Con Tomlin and Len Hughes.

"I make a motion," and Louie Brown's voice echoed in the empty building, "that nobody disturbs this holy church. 'Do I hear any objections?'"

Again he looked out of the window and the rocks which crowded around. "It is so ordered," said Louie Brown, and he stamped out and down the hill into the dead town of Ubetcha.

SMITH GIVEN LIFE IMPRISONMENT SENTENCE

Baird.—Lee Smith, charged with murder in connection with the slaying of two Mexicans at Stanton Dec. 23, was found guilty by a jury in District Court here Wednesday morning and his punishment fixed at life imprisonment. A previous trial resulted in a hung jury.

The State claimed that the killing of the two Mexicans and the wounding of a third, Victor Ramos, was the result of a plot to collect a $5,000 reward offered by the State Bankers Association for dead bank bandits.

Defense attorneys immediately announced notice of appeal.

PLEASANT VALLEY BOOSTERS CLUB REPORT

Say, what's happened to you folks? Some one else must be too busy to write. Come on club folks we can never make old Terry great at this rate. Let us know what you are doing, that is, if you are doing anything.

We had a wonderful meeting last Friday. An all day affair. In the morning Mr. Williams talked to us about judging and culling poultry. He told us how to remedy the many diseases that attack the baby chicks at an early age.

Lunch was served soon after the talk, and was eaten with much relish.

In the afternoon we discussed canning. He told us many things about it that will surely be a help to us during the canning season.

We got our club songs and yells and have been practicing every since.

We have surely been working this week end, and we have something to show for it. We have the promise of six boys who will join the pig club our next meeting.

Our gardens and cros were spared from the recent hail and rain and we are ready to take advantage of the situation. Come on. —Reporter.

A TEMPEST IN A TEAPOT

There are so many matters of real constructive interest to the people of the Southwest that there should be no occasion for politicians and publicity seekers to confine their efforts to the subject of prohibition or the Eighteenth Amendment. If these politicians were so gifted with the intuitive sense to the degree that they think they are, they would know that the rank and file of the people are becoming utterly weary of all this harangue and hair-splitting on that subject. The majority of people are undoubtedly satisfied with the 18th Amendment and the Volstead Act which supports it, and all this hurrah about the matter is to them just as much evidence that our would-be leaders and alleged statesmen are equipped with single-tracked minds and have a mighty narrow conception of constructive legislation.

If one reads the papers he cannot help but note that there is only about a half dozen fellows who are making all the fuss. They have created a smoke screen which hides from view more important matters of interest to the people. We have had the spectacle of a group of alleged dyes seeking to discover a difference of degree of dryness in another group with just as pronounced views. Here in Texas the State apparently has been rent in twain, politically speaking, over who should have the first opportunity to take a crack at a straw man. From the noise these politicians have been making one would think that the entire citizenship was divided into opposing factions and were springing at each other's throats, all over the question of prohibition. Prohibition and the 18th Amendment are injected into everything. They are made to assume an importance exceeding that of any other subject before the people. Some of our pulpits, we are sorry to say, give it precedence over the religion of Jesus Christ. Politicians are obsessed with the idea that it is a good vehicle on which to ride into office, and others who are making a bid for publicity apparently know no other way except the ballyhoo method of securing it.

Texas was rapidly becoming a dry State before the 18th Amendment was written, and no doubt Texas would remain dry if that Amendment were taken out of the Constitution. That being the case, why not let the matter rest and get busy with other important matters concerning the people? We have a road system to build and the taxing system should be revised; our schools should be developed and many other things attended to, all of which have to do with promoting peace and prosperity. Prohibition would become an accepted fact if agitators would let it alone.—Farm and Ranch.

Miss Dollie Miller, of Tahoka, spent the week end with Mrs. Stricklin of this city.

Eternally Broke
The most common habit we have which makes for distress is the habit of living beyond our means—not only of monetary income but of vital and emotional energy. As a consequence we drag our feet through life, figuratively and literally speaking.

Such men and women have no time or energy to live because they exhaust both time and energy in keeping alive. They go through life eternally broke. They can't get more out of life because they don't put more into it. They can't be happy because they are crowded, pushed, pulled, swamped by countless impulses which have no biologic value, satisfy no social needs, and contribute nothing to individual life, health or happiness.—George A. Dorsey, in Cosmopolitan.

Peculiar "Insult"
A Hungarian fruit dealer having a very large melon on his hands decided to use it for advertising purposes and accordingly he had the Hungarian coat of arms carved upon it with some minor variations and thus he put it on show in his window. The town officials were thrown into a panic by its presence and saw an insult to the Hungarian nation. They arrested the poor fruit dealer and took him into court, where he was promptly found guilty and sentenced to a fine or imprisonment. He appealed his case and the second court reduced his imprisonment to six months instead of a year, but gave him no alternative of a fine. His offense in each case was insult to the Hungarian nation.

Hawk Farmer's Friend
Biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture points out that some hawks are highly beneficial to the farmer, preying almost entirely upon small mammals, such as mice, ground squirrels and rabbits. Food of other hawks consists chiefly of birds. The bird eaters should be killed at every opportunity, but it is equally important that the others be spared, for they destroy many small animal pests of the farmer. The bird-eating hawks include the Cooper hawk, and the sharp-shinned hawk.

Joshua Bingham's Neighbor

By CLARICE GRAY

MR. JOSHUA BINGHAM walked around his small domain, regarding the neatly kept walks. It would have been an impudent grasshopper that dared disport himself among the Bingham grasses—and as for hop toads! The sight of one almost drove Mr. Bingham frantic.

Yet he did not look like that kind of man. He was a quiet, peaceable banker, a bachelor who belonged to several clubs, a great reader, and he lived alone with his housekeeper, Mrs. Henrietta Flood.

After Mr. Bingham had regarded his own premises he went to the southern fence and looked over the white palings—he retired in confusion blushing all over his rather nice face. "Henrietta," he said to Mrs. Flood, "did you know that the cottage next door had been rented?" "Said, rather," said Mrs. Flood handing him a cupful of tea. "Have you seen the woman with bobbed hair and knickers on?"

"I believe I did catch a glimpse of somebody," he said hastily, and after that Mrs. Flood went out into the kitchen and he was left to worry about the new neighbor. "Now, I wonder what kind of a woman is living next door," he thought disconsolately. "I caught a glimpse of her and Henrietta confirms it—a bobbed-haired, middle-aged woman! The terrible chicken houses—the rank grass—the gone-to-seed garden—the unpainted house—I was crazy not to buy the place myself, fix it all up and rent it to somebody I knew!"

The next morning Mr. Bingham stepped slowly down the street toward the bank. He had to pass his new neighbor. She was out in the front yard now, fresh and pretty looking in a pink frock, directing Mr. Bingham's special helper, Benjamin Brown. Benjamin was tearing down the vines that grew away to the roof of the little house. Also the honeysuckles that covered the front veranda were on the ground.

Mr. Bingham lifted his hat in a stately fashion and the woman said "Good morning," in a pleasant cultivated voice. At the bank he called the cashier, "Mr. Morse," he said gravely, "who is the woman who has bought the cottage next door to me?" "Why, that is Miss Lucy Sweet—she writes stories for girls. The minister and his wife used to know her in Amityville—they say she is a splendid woman."

It rather spoiled Mr. Bingham's luncheon to go home and witness Miss Lucy Sweet, dressed in khaki overalls, standing on a scaffold painting the front of her little house, but a woman of her age and profession to be painting a house was too much to be borne.

Within two days the little house was finished and the vines retrained to the trellis. Then Miss Lucy Sweet and Benjamin began to clear up the place, and at last the whole place was clean and sweet inside and out, with chickens, white leghorns, just like Mr. Bingham's, in the neat white pens. Then flowers sprang up as if by magic, until all the hardy shrubs were blooming and the seeds were pushing sturdy shoots through the rich soil. About this time Henrietta had established a back-fence acquaintance with Miss Sweet.

Mr. Bingham approved of the little white house, which made a very drowsy neighbor to his own small home, but still he could not reconcile himself to Miss Lucy Sweet's working clothes.

Because it was his duty as a neighbor and gentleman, Mr. Bingham came home from the bank one day at three o'clock, put on his best clothes, took his walking-stick and went to call upon Miss Sweet. Her little maid came to the door.

"Yes, sir, Miss Sweet is sitting in the front room," said the maid, and she opened the door, and sure enough there sat Miss Lucy Sweet, reading proof sheets and busy with a pencil. Her pale pink silky lap was filled with six small kittens whose mother blinked in a basket nearby.

"Do forgive me for not getting up," she said to the man who appeared to be so much older, and they shook hands warmly, and fell to talking about the kittens, and then about flowers, and about the two houses and about books. The maid brought tea and fresh cookies, and Joshua Bingham went home thinking that in spite of her short, softly-curling white hair, Lucy Sweet was a charming little woman.

He could never have told you how the weeks flew by as the days passed and there came to be scarcely a day that he failed to stop at Miss Lucy's for a cupful of tea and the latest news about what she was writing about.

Mrs. Henrietta Flood secretly looked for a new job. "My eyes don't deceive me," she averred to her friends, and gossip was rife long before Mr. Bingham awakened to the fact that he was, for the first time in his life, deeply in love. Then, one November day, in her small room he told her how it was with him, and pretty Miss Lucy shed very bright tears and allowed him to kiss her cheek.

"And so," said Mr. Bingham happily, "we will have our two cottages joined together and made one, just as we shall be, eh Lucy?"

"Of course, Joshua," she said.

French Houses Pretty but Not Comfortable

Have you ever—but of course you have—raced down in a too swift train from Cherbourg to Paris, through the French countryside on a spring afternoon when all the apple trees in Normandy are in full bloom? And through the trees you catch a glimpse of little old farmhouses that have stood there in the midst of their flowering orchards for centuries? Enchanting, these little houses; but according to modern standards hardly comfortable, says Arts and Decorations. Once inside, we should find the rooms too small and crowded; the windows too small to admit of proper ventilation; the kitchen antiquated, and the work done there made doubly difficult because of lack of equipment. No, these little houses are lovely to look at; on a walking trip, if night came on too quickly, one might enjoy staying overnight, perhaps, sharing a French supper with the farmer's household, en famille, gathered about the kitchen table; sleeping in one of the little rooms under the thatched roof, listening to the sleepy chirp of birds in the long soft twilight. But to live in one of these houses—impossible. It remains for our own young country to combine much of the charm of these old Normandy farmhouses with Twentieth century comfort.

Device Said to Be Superior to X-Ray

Dr. Andre Tours, a Frenchman, has discovered a means of making the human body transparent, so that all the organs will be seen working as in a mirror. The doctor has refused all financial assistance, and also an offer to go to the United States. He is determined that the first data shall be given to medical men of France.

If flesh can be made transparent so that the bones can be seen clearly by surgeons and osteopaths, X-rays will be dispensed with in locating internal troubles. The doctor in future will be able to see the trouble at once without diagnosing blindly. In cases of consumption and cancer the transparency of flesh will be an enormous boon to medical men.

Doctor Tours claims that his discovery will assist experts in tracing the cause of death where murder is suspected. The presence of poison will be easily detected, and in the case of shooting the exact course of a bullet will be traced.

Explained
The newly appointed pastor of a negro church faced a packed audience when he arose to deliver a sermon on the burning question: "Is There a Hell?"

"Bredren," he said, "de Lord made de world round like a ball."

"Amen!" agreed the congregation. "And de Lord made two axles for de world to go round on, one axle at de North pole and one axle at de Souf pole."

"And de Lord put a lot of oil and grease in de center of de world so as to keep de axles well greased and oiled."

"Amen!" said the congregation. "And then a lot of sinners dug wells in Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas and Mexico and Russia, and steal de Lord's oil and grease."

"And some day dey will have all of de Lord's oil and grease, and dem axles is gonna git hot. And den, dat will be hell, bredren, dat will be hell." —Prairie Farmer.

A Fish Story That is a Story

The salesman halted his Ford coupe at a point where a freckle-faced boy was busily engaged in fishing in the little Miami River.

"What kind of bait are you using?" "Terbacker," replied the boy. "How can you catch fish with tobacco?" "Ut's easy!" said the lad. "Fish eat the terbacker off the hook and when they come up to the surface to spit I hit 'em over the head with the poll. Next?"

10,000 EXPECTED AT ROTARY CONVENTION

Minneapolis, June 18.—In between the political oratory of the two national conventions which meet this month to choose presidential candidates, ten thousand business and professional men of 44 countries are gathering at Minneapolis to send forth some messages of world-wide friendship and community service, in the Rotary International convention opening here Monday.

The greetings of noted visitors from overseas, and of many well known Americans who have accepted invitations to the list of speakers will reach not only the thousands in the Minneapolis auditorium but the millions of radio listeners over the country through the broadcast of the convention proceedings.

Nearly all the 44 countries in which the 2,900 Rotary clubs are scattered will be represented by a speaker on the convention program, and in addition to the goodwill messages from abroad there will be talks by prominent Americans on aims and ideas familiar to the citizens of this country.

Most of the thousands of visitors will have arrived by Monday evening, when the formal opening of the convention takes place. Streets, hotels, business houses and homes have been elaborately decorated with flowers, reviving a custom which flourished here years ago and then lapsed, until the completion of a new $3,000,000 auditorium restored Minneapolis to the front rank of American convention cities. The Rotarian gathering is the greatest in size the city has ever welcomed, and strenuous preparations have been under way for a year to welcome the 10,000 or more guests.

Two score special trains have been bringing the Rotarians to this city for two days while automobiles by the thousands have added to the throngs. The far-famed attractions of the state as a summer paradise have added to the thrill of the annual reunion of Rotarians in producing a record-breaking gathering.

As usual, the Australian Rotary clubs, consistent winners in recent years of the attendance trophy for the greatest mileage of individual del-

Theodore Christianson of Minnesota and Mayor George E. Leach of Minneapolis, will give the visitors a formal welcome in the auditorium Monday night, with a magnificent pageant to follow, expressing the Rotary message of service in the setting of a floral masterpiece designed as a general scene on the stage.

Station KSTP, with a wave length of 220 meters, 1,360 kilocycles, will broadcast the entire convention proceedings, permitting the Rotarians back home to enjoy the speeches, music, community singing and other activities of the convention over the air. Evening sessions will start at 8:30 central time, and morning sessions at 9 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hudgens and children, and Mrs. Hudgens' brother, Mr. Stewart of Stephenville, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Craze and son, left Wednesday for north Llano river, where they will try their luck at baiting the hook.

H. W. McSpadden has engaged W. B. English, an experienced miller to oversee and run his new grist mill.

CHRISTIAN MEETING TO CLOSE SUNDAY NIGHT

The revival at the First Christian Church will be brought to a close with the Sunday evening service. The two choirs have been giving splendid music. The Junior choir is something to talk about and well worth hearing. Much is being said about our youth going to the bad in our day but when we witness the good work of the young people we are caused to believe that the trouble is with the adult side and the blame must be laid upon their shoulders.

Are you counted among the great number who have been missing these gospel messages that would help you and do your soul good? Try to attend the few remaining services.

Friday evening subject, "The Great Salvation;" Saturday evening "Where Art Thou?" Sunday morning, "The Whole Family in Heaven." Sunday evening, "What Think Ye of Christ?"

We have found the Brownfield religious enthusiasm at a mighty low and dangerous state and believe that this is the effect of the many false teachers who have come this way discouraging the soul of the people with their evil doctrines. But God is still on His throne and men should, "seek Him while he may be found, and call upon Him while He is near."—Jas. C. Rice, Evangelist.

Miss Bernice Lane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sig Lane, has returned home from Sul Ross College at Alpine, where she has attended school the past term, to spend vacation.

Billie Blackstock, the 14 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Blackstock of the Gomez community succeeded in putting his rope over a coyote one day recently, according to his father, and drug the chicken eater up to the house where he finished dispatching said wolf. This was the first coyote Billie ever succeeded in roping, but he has a brother who has roped several.

Brownfield — Texas

Most of the cities and towns in West Texas have princesses at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention at Fort Worth this week. But Brownfield has never got in the habit of selecting princesses from among its daughters, or even staging beauty contests. All our women and girls are queens and princesses, and the mere man who tried promoting one of them over the other would have a great accounting to reckon with in the wind up. Come to Terry.

We are not exactly a yellow dog Democrat, but we will never quit the old party to vote for a guy that made the Southern people eat corn pone three times a day during the world war, while our Northern friends were eating wheat or rye bread. Hoover did it. Ask anybody who visited in the north during the war, and they'll tell you they saw no corn bread while up there—and they raise corn in the north, old scout. We like our corn bread occasionally, but we do not like discrimination.

Now comes a mechanical crank who claims he has patented a cotton chopper that will save the time and expense of 10 or 12 men per day. But we've simply got to see the critter before we'll believe all we've heard about 'er. The writer has chopped cotton enough to know that it is a great art to be able to snub a bunch of grass over behind a weakly cotton stalk with a back-handed lick without knocking the stalk down. Then too, you have to be on to giving the hoe a side-swipe lick to get a weed just in front of a stalk without cutting down the cotton at the same lick. No it won't work we betcha.

According to a statement in the press this week, Hon. Rev. J. Frank Norris is not only going to vote for Hoover himself, which is a God given privilege, but is going to vote his entire church for him. Looking at the matter from this distance, it seems that J. Frank has as much or more grip on his people than the Pope is reputed to have on his. We, however, have found the Texas people as a general thing pretty doggone stubborn about their privileges of voting, and most of the time they can't even be made to take a pledge they don't like, much less vote like the other fellow wants them to vote. And we imagine Norris is going to find the people of his church all over the state have a mind of their own when it comes to exercising their own purchased and paid for poll tax receipt.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON BUILDING AN INCOME

As Aunt Emmy came out of the savings bank she met young George Oliver.

"Well, well," he said, "it's funny to see you coming out of a savings bank, Aunt Emmy. I thought only poor folks like me had money in savings banks—people like you just clip coupons!"

"Have you a savings bank account?" countered Aunt Emmy.

"Well, er—I suppose I haven't," he admitted. "You see, it's hard to save money when you're first married. Somehow there never seems to be enough money to go 'round—let alone to put in a savings bank."

"You never will have if you don't get started," interrupted Aunt Emmy. "You should make your weekly savings deposit, no matter how small, the first claim on your salary after paying your bills. I make my weekly deposit in this bank faithfully—I put away a certain sum regularly."

"You can!" Nat commented.

"It is more a habit than you would suppose," Aunt Emmy continued.

"Any one can do it who is willing to let other things wait. I began putting a little money in a savings bank years ago when it was no joke to save a few pennies. I remember what a wonderful thrill I got the first time I saw my interest entered in my bank book. There was money that my money had earned all by itself. After that it was a sort of game with me to put a certain sum in the bank, even if I had to do without things I would have enjoyed having. Now I realize what it means to keep your money busy earning all the time so I continue to put a little in the savings bank regularly and, after it accumulates, I draw some out and invest in safe securities that pay a higher rate of interest than savings. All the time, you see, the money is working for me.

"Of course, when the sum is small, it earns little, but if you start young, as you and Molly are, it is almost like magic the way it mounts up after a few years—then when your savings get grown up into a real investment they earn a real income."

"I never thought of it in that light," said George.

"Try it—and see for yourself how it works," urged Aunt Emmy. "Have you ever thought how nice it would be to have a few dollars ready for use in case of an emergency? Accidents and illnesses do happen. Or suppose you had an opportunity to buy something you knew you could sell at a profit and you had to let the opportunity slip for the lack of a few hundred dollars. You and Molly would never miss five dollars a week—and if you keep at it, it will work wonders!"

"You're right, it would!" exclaimed George. "I'll talk to Molly tonight, Aunt Emmy, and see if we can't revise our expenditures."

"There would be a whole lot less family trouble and worry over money matters if every young couple did the

PRINCIPLES OF OPERATION

We believe that a bank should not only be a depository of funds, but indeed a haven where the rich and poor alike can confide their financial troubles, fears and doubts into the attentive ear of their mutual friend and counsellor the BANKER. The bank, the foundation of all saving, should be solid like the granite, standing the acid test of time, pursuing a conservative but friendly course.

This bank like the great Oak from a little acorn, of persistent effort and sound business principles has grown. It stands today like the Oak, it many services and ample resources like the limbs, cast their shadow of protection over those whoseek its shelter, a mecca which invites the confidence and patronage of the public

Editorial

If you are going to celebrate FATHERS DAY we would suggest, that you begin by letting the old boy sleep late. Then he is sure to wake up with a grouch. There will be no hot water for his shave and the Sunday paper which you have let the kids have to keep them quiet will be in a mess. Give him cold fried eggs for breakfast and the day will be utterly ruined.

Wild flowers will have to be wilder than they are now to escape destruction by tourists.

If you think of Brownfield as a high priced town, just remember folks in Seagraves are telling each other how high prices are there and how low they are here. It's human nature.

Public Service Wins Medal For Telephone Manager

William Foster Owens, manager of the Rock Springs Telephone Company, Rock Springs, Texas, has been awarded a Theodore N. Vail silver medal for the part he played in summoning aid to Rock Springs, after a tornado had struck the town and destroyed all means of communication with the outside world.

Owens will receive a cash award of $250 in addition to the silver medal. Vail medals are awarded each year by the Bell System, to employees for noteworthy public service.

Rock Springs is a community of some 1,200 people, in southern Texas. It has neither railroad nor telegraph connections, the telephone being its only means of communication. The nearest towns are sixty or more miles distant. All communication with the outside world was destroyed when a tornado struck the little town on the evening of April 12, 1927. Re-establishment of telephone service, the only means by which news of the disaster and calls for help could be sent out, was due to the prompt and resourceful action of Manager Owens.

He had returned home from work about half an hour before the tornado struck. Realizing the imminence of the storm, Owens ordered his wife and two small children and his sister and her two small children to go into the house and seek protection by lying under the dining room table.

Closing the door with great difficulty, due to the wind pressure, Owens himself crawled beneath the table just as the tornado struck, swiftly and with tremendous force.

When it had passed, the house had entirely disappeared and the floor and table with its huddled group of refugees, had been carried fifty feet. Owens' sister received a severe blow on the head and was unconscious. Owens' first thought was to get his family to safety, but he discovered neighbors who were caught in the wreckage and assisted them first. Other men arrived shortly and Owens turned his family over to them and at once set about restoring telephone service so that aid could be summoned.

Owens drove to his brother's home, about a mile out of town. Here he found the wires of the toll line still attached to the poles. Removing the telephone from his brother's house he climbed a pole and connected the instrument to the toll line leading to Kerrville, sixty miles away. He reported the situation to the telephone manager at Kerrville, who in turn arranged to send help.

Later Owens returned to town to look after his family. He then learned that his wife had also received a serious cut on the head, and was temporarily blinded.

Sixty-five Rock Springs people were killed by the tornado, and 155 injured. The small, isolated community was unprepared to deal with so large a casualty list and the prompt summoning of assistance was of vital importance. Owens' resourcefulness in re-establishing communication with other towns was a direct factor in bringing doctors and nurses to the scene of the disaster.

In the early morning hours three airplanes arrived from San Antonio, one of which returned to that city carrying a badly injured boy.

By disregarding his natural inclination to remain with his family, in order that he might perform a public service, Owens made it possible to relieve much suffering, and probably to save lives that would have been lost had assistance been rendered less promptly.

W. C. McMILLAN TO HEAD THE SCOUT ENCAMPMENT

R. J. Murray, president of the South Plains area council, Boy Scouts of America, announces the selection of W. C. McMillan of Lubbock, to head the camping committee of the Boy Scouts of the South Plains.

"The camping program is the most important part of the boy scout work," says Mr. Murray. "It is in the great outdoors that the boy comes in contact with nature and learns those great principles of life which are so essential to a happy nation. It is in the out-of-doors that the boy builds himself, physically, mentally, and morally. Because of the importance of this part of our program the Executive Committee has given considerable thought to the selection of a man to head the camping program. In Mr. McMillan we feel that we have secured the right man. Mr. McMillan is an outdoor man, having had a great deal of experience in camping, hunting and fishing. He took a very active part in the recent District Scout Leaders Training School at Lubbock. The outdoor session of that training course was held on the Boy Scout camp at Post. Here Mr. McMillan became interested in the possibilities for development of this camp. Mr. McMillan is a graduate of A. & M. College and is in the contracting business. His knowledge of construction work and camping should help us to develop a real scout camp for the South Plains. Mr. McMillan is now working on the development of plans for the Summer Training Camp for the Scouts of the South Plains. He has announced the dates of July 30th to August 8th, as those for the holding of the Summer Camp. It is expected that there will be such a large enrollment that an additional ten day period will be held following the first camp. Mr. McMillan plans to spend a couple of days at the Post Camp in the near future looking over the equipment and completing plans for the summer camp.

Elder Liff Sanders was called to Lubbock Sunday to preach the funeral of Grandma Bracken, an aged lady who has known the Sanders' for a number of years. Grandma Bracken and husband once lived here.

MEADOW BRIEFS

By Aesculapias.

The last two weeks have given us just weather. It has alternated with wind and sand, some rain, and ice in great slugs over a considerable area. The last spell almost demolished some dwellings and killed stock, while this beautiful Sunday afternoon it has completely leveled up the cotton rows and with it most of the crop that had been replanted, some of it three times.

It is a serious problem to many farmers as there is very little seed to be had at any price or anywhere. We are inclined to feel very badly over these losses but we read of various calamities elsewhere of tornadoes and overflows and I feel that matters could be worse.

On the writers farm the hail beat the stuffing out of the wheat, which gave promise of a very fair crop, and then the wind and sand finished up the balance. So we find ourselves a little worse off than at the beginning of the season. Spite of all this the country as a whole has some good crops and the other will be replanted in some kind of crop and we may find ourselves much better off than now looks probable. It has happened in the past why not again.

The Republicans have nominated a foreigner for president, one who knows about as little practically of the needs of the farmer as it is possible to imagine and cares a darned sight less. He doesn't regard a Southern white man as any better socially or otherwise than the most ignorant negro and has since he was appointed Secretary of Commerce, done all in his power to remove every semblance of restrictions between the blacks and whites in his office. No one knows whether he is wet or dry, Catholic or Protestant. That he is an able man, and will perhaps fill the place better than Harding or Coolidge is probable. But why prefer him to Smith, Reed or Richie? Either of them are his equal intellectually, morally or otherwise and in addition are seasoned statesmen.

The Democrats will meet in a few days and the papers state that a petition is to be presented to the convention signed by a million men and women in protest against Smith, Reed and Richie. Well, who the devil cares if they do. It is largely disgruntled preachers—only a few sure enough ones—and political has been with a large number of women who wish to emphasize the fact that they can vote. Many, very many of them play bridge for money and drink whiskey. Wet or dry, we have only to hark back a few years to Ramsey and Colquit, Tom Ball and Jim Ferguson, Morris and Ferguson, while Ma cleaned up on Butte with most of this same Holier than thou crowd that are shouting that they will bolt the ticket. Well, just let them bolt and I pray our Heavenly Father that they will stay bolted and come out as shorts, middings or bran.

The time hasn't come yet that the pulpit, be it protestant or catholic can control the vote of this nation, even with the Ku Klux thrown in for good measure. Personally I haven't heard any but K. K.s assert that they intended to bolt if a wet or catholic was nominated. Well let them lick Hoover's boots while one of his kinky haired maidens holds his hat. Selah.

There was a meeting of farmers and business men at the Auditorium Saturday night to discuss the question of the Bureau Gin at Meadow.

A telegram to E. H. Jones this morning announces that the matter was definitely settled that the gin would be built. I congratulate the farmers on this favorable termination to their efforts to establish the plant here.

We have two good gins here and two excellent gin men to run them and many think that the field was sufficiently covered, but if the farmers think it to their interest to own and operate their own gin why it is up to them to make the decision.

There is some pretty severe sickness in the community.

PROGRESS IN THE THREE F'S CLUB

We have made much progress in our club work. Nearly all the members have accomplished a great deal of their work. Some of the boy's crops have been blown out, but I think they have them planted again. Our poultry club members are doing fine with their work. We have five new members of which we are very proud. They are Wilton Thomason, William Mayfield, Clarence Lusk, Cleve Chambers and Ollie Warren. This increases our number of club members to twenty. We all intend to work very hard and try to get to go to the A. & M. College. We are very proud of our president because he takes so much interest in our work.

Mr. Williams came down last Wednesday the 6th. He made a good talk, which we all enjoyed.

Matter of Invention

Subject to Dispute

Among all the inventors of whom popular history tells, only three, Archimedes, Ericsson and Edison, have been credited with more than one important invention. Others may have equaled them in genius, but not in luck. So, leaving aside these three "great inventors," let us take up the "inventors" who did everything else, and later the question of who were really great inventors.

Who invented the telegraph? Any American who has been through the eighth grade knows that it was Morse and Vail, in 1844. But there was an English commercial line seven years earlier, and the German credit telegraph to Sommering, of Munich, in 1809, and in Switzerland there was an electric telegraph in 1774, and one was proposed in Scotland in 1753.

The matter becomes rather confusing for the eighth grade. Who invented the friction match? There are so many claimants that we don't know who invented it.

Who devised the aneroid barometer? In Paris in 1818 two men, Vidi and Bourdon, each claimed it, with apparent sincerity, and different courts decided for each of them. But 152 years earlier the philosopher, Leibniz, had suggested such a barometer, describing it exactly.—Scientific Monthly.

Only Five National Holidays in America

Although individual states observe many holidays every year there are only five days a year which are celebrated everywhere in the United States and its possessions, explains Grace Robinson, in an article in Liberty.

"These holidays are New Year's day, Washington's birthday, Independence day, Thanksgiving, and Christmas," Miss Robinson points out.

Some of the more important holidays which are not celebrated by all the states, the writer explains, are: Labor day which is kept by 46 states; Election day, by 43; Memorial day, by 38; Columbus day, by 35; Lincoln's birthday, by 26; and Armistice day, by 23. In the South the birthdays of Jefferson Davis and Robert E. Lee are still observed by ten and nine states, respectively, and four states celebrate April 26 as Confederate Memorial day.

Timber Loss by Insects

The standing timber of the country suffers a serious loss by reason of the operations of various insects which either destroy the wood or damage it to such an extent that it must be placed in a lower grade by the dealer. The government agents have recently given this matter some investigation and an elaborate report has been prepared advising growers and handlers how to cut down this loss. The principal damage comes under two types of defects, designated as wormholes with no living worms or decay, and powder post. Powder post occurs only in the seasoned or partially seasoned sapwood or heartwood. This type of injury is dangerous, since the grubs continue their destructive work in the wood and also infect other timber near by.

False Alarm

Mr. Linkins, the junior member of the firm, had a peculiarly irritating sneeze. It began with an elaborate and terrifying series of facial convulsions, and ended with a most lame and impotent parody of a sneeze.

"Your sneeze," volunteered Mr. Linkins, senior partner, after watching him through one of his performances "is a regular circus."

"A circus?" questioned Mr. Linkins. "Yes," was the rejoinder. "The performance never comes up to the advance notices."

Symbol of Good and Evil

Bats are found in all parts of the world, and as might be expected from their powers of flight, inhabit many remote islands such as Bermuda and New Zealand. They are absent, however, from the coldest parts of the world and are most numerous in eastern tropics. In Chinese art the bat signifies happiness; as the Chinese character Fu meaning but, is identical in sound with the character Fu, meaning blessing. Among Greeks and other Malays the bat is the messenger of Aswang "God of Evil."

Famous as Botanists

Among the ancients Aristotle, the Greek philosopher; Theophrastus, the Roman naturalist; Pliney the elder, and the Greek physician, Dioscorides, left botanical records of historical interest, but botany as a modern science has developed in the last four centuries, dating from the Reformation. In 1583 Cesalpino, an Italian physician, published the first formal and comprehensive classification of plants.

COMMITTEES SHAPING UP FOR 4TH CELEBRATION

Everything is now taking definite shape of one of the biggest and best barbecue celebrations ever pulled off in this city. The several committees have been selected and they are men who will waste no time to carry out their art in making it a great affair.

Only about two weeks remain to carry into effect the task set before the city to entertain thousands of visitors on that day, but every moment possible will be put in looking to that end, so that when our great National Birthday arrives, Brownfield and its people will be ready for it with colors flying.

Look over the following committees and see if you don't agree that somebody knew what they were doing when they were selected:

Beef Committee—Earl Jones and Geo. E. Tiernan.

Public Speaking—Morgan Copeland and Ben Hurst.

Water Committee—Simon Holgate and Hiza Longbrake.

Rodeo Committee—Geo. Tiernan. Baseball Committee—Oscar Jones and Dalt Lewis.

O'DONNELL MAN SAYS FROG CANNOT LIVE WITHOUT AIR

E. M. Hebison, local contractor has his own idea regarding the horned frog. After reading the story about the Eastland county frog which was supposed to have been embedded in concrete for 30 years and when taken out was apparently very much alive, and many other stories from various sections of the United States equally as doubtful, Mr. Hebison decided to make an experiment and at the same time prove that the frog cannot live without air and water.

Some 30 days ago with some witnesses he sealed a frog in a pickle jar and buried him beneath the sod, leaving him there until Thursday morning when in the presence of Clyde Farley and others, the frog was taken up (Mr. Hebison called it Resurrection) and was found to be very dead according to witnesses. In fact so dead that the body was decomposed. So goes the story of another horned frog.—O'Donnell Index

PREPAREDNESS WOULD PREVENT MOST FARM FIRES

Farm fires which every year destroy buildings, crops and livestock in every rural community can often be controlled by properly arranged farm water systems, according to the research department of the National Association of Farm Implement Manufacturers. Hydrants placed at strategic points around the farmstead make a supply of water available in case of emergency and often prevent the spread and growth of a smoldering flame to a raging blaze.

Oftentimes a garden hose attached to a hydrant fed by the farm water system makes control of a roof fire on the house or barn possible before help comes. One or two hydrants in every building offer emergency fire protection and at the same time furnish a handy supply of water for stock.

LYNN COUNTY SHERIFF RECOVERS HIS CAR

Sheriff J. W. Simpson has recovered his Chevrolet coach, which was stolen from his premises Sunday night June 3. It was captured by officers at Borger last Friday. Mr. Simpson went up Sunday and returned Tuesday with the car.

The Borger officers told Mr. Simpson that "Whitey" Walker was the man they found with the car. They succeeded in capturing the car but failed to get the man. They chased him about five miles when he abandoned the car and got away. Walker is reputed to be one of the Matthew Kimes gang. He is supposed to be one of the three men who robbed a Pampa bank about a year ago and killed a Borger officer who was out searching for him.—Tahoka News.

Ed Smith of Snyder, was up this week on business, and while here took occasion to visit his old friend, E. Brown and family.

ROSWELL, SNYDER & GULF ROUTE GETS BONUSES

Snyder, Texas, June 12.—Already more than $1,500,000 has been subscribed for financing the proposed new railroad from Roswell, N. M., through Brownfield to Snyder and on to the Gulf, according to Capt. Ed Kennedy.

A meeting of those interested will be held at Corpus Christi Thursday to consider a location for the Gulf Terminal. Proposals will be considered from Corpus Christi, Rockport and Palacios. The bonuses and donations so far raised by Capt. Kennedy came from Roswell, Caprock, Tatum, Bronco, Plains, Brownfield, Fluvanna, O'Donnell and Snyder. The contract for 170 miles of grading will be let June 20, and the promoter, Mr. Kennedy, is turning over to the railroad 25 miles of right-of-way graded several years ago in Chavis county, New Mexico.

The road will be known as the Roswell, Snyder and Gulf, was designed to serve a rapidly growing agricultural region in the northwest part of Texas and eastern New Mexico, giving it direct connection with a Gulf port. Townsite companies are on the ground with land values increasing rapidly. With commencement of construction, hundreds of thousands of acres of land will be available for cultivation that have never been touched by a plow. Land that could have been bought a few weeks ago for $10 to $15 per acre is now held at $25 and up, and city lots that heretofore were not worth the back taxes are rapidly being sought and sold as titles are completed.

Dr. T. L. Treadaway and wife, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Arnett Bynum and children, left Sunday for San Antonio, where they will visit their son and brother, Dr. Lester Treadaway.

Jack Stricklin Jr., returned this week after a three weeks visit with relatives at Coahoma.

BANKERS PROVIDE STUDENT LOANS

American Bankers Association
Completes Plan to Award 167
College Economic Scholarships Throughout Nation.

AWARDS TO START THIS FALL

Students in Agricultural Economics to Be Helped in Farm States—
Will Also Facilitate Entry Into Business Life.

One hundred and sixty-seven college loan scholarships will be provided by the American Bankers Association, 98 of which are now being proffered to 71 selected colleges and universities in 34 states. It has been announced by John H. Puellicher, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Association's Foundation for Education in Economics. The foundation fund of $500,000 was started in 1925 to commemorate the Association's fiftieth anniversary and its aim is to stimulate and aid worthy men or women students to pursue courses in banking and economics in collegiate institutions throughout the country.

The scholarship awards will be available for the scholastic year beginning this fall and will provide recipients with unit loans of $250, to be repaid on easy terms following their entry into earning business life. In several farm states, it is provided, scholarships shall be specifically awarded in agricultural economics.

A special feature of the plan in addition to its educational advantages is that scholars, upon discharge of all their financial obligations connected with their loans, will be given certificates of honorary membership in the foundation signed by the members of the board of trustees, which will be available as evidence of financial reliability for their use in starting their business careers.

Colleges Awarded Scholarships
Proffers of one or more scholarships have been made to the following institutions:

Plan of Operation

The general plan allots scholarships to higher institutions of learning in states where the banks have completed the subscription quotas assigned them in the foundation fund.

Institutions are selected on the basis of type of school, educational standards, geographical distribution and desire to co-operate in the plan. A scholarship committee is to be created in each selected institution, to consist of members of the faculty and a prominent banker. All scholarship applications must be made formally through the college committees and not direct to the foundation. Three home-town references are required of each applicant, at least one of whom must be a banker. Only students of junior or higher grade in banking and economic courses are eligible and those who have also attended American Institute of Banking courses will be given preference.

Easy Terms

Scholarship payments will be given only to those whose means of education are dependent in whole or part upon their own efforts and will continue only during satisfactory scholastic standing or conduct. The loans are at five per cent beginning the first day of the second January after the date the scholar leaves school, with no interest on repayment made prior to that time. Loans may be paid off in monthly installments of $10 or more. After three installments have been promptly met payments may be placed on a quarterly basis until the loan is wiped out which must occur within three years. In cases of delinquencies, consideration will be given to special circumstances, such as ill health or unavoidable unemployment.

OLD SHOES USED FOR MORE THAN ONE THING

Old shoes can be used for an inside kick as well as outside. Down in Louisiana a few days ago a prohibition agent drug out a pair of boxing gloves and an old shoe from out of a vat of mash that he seized during a raid. It seems that, at least, should give a wallop to the product. The government chemist of that state reports that old boots, harness and other leather articles were being used these days by moonshiners to impart the flavor of fine old whisky to their liquors.
