DON'T FORGET THE R. U. WISE CARNIVAL EAST SIDE OF THE SQUARE TO-NIGHT

Chamber of Commerce

By the Secretary

Sometimes I can talk about a crowd and at other times not, and down at the club rally at the tabernacle last Friday was one of the times "not" R. B. Davis, called upon me soon after I got under the shed and there was a lot that I wanted to say to those boys and girls as I am very proud of them and the record that they are making but the words just would not come. So I wonder if our citizens know that we have the largest Pig Club in Texas and that we are arranging to send the largest delegation to the Short Course at College Station of any town or city in West Texas. Davis and Williams have secured the confidence and co-operation of these club members and the children are showing that they appreciate the interest that is being taken in their work and you can look for some records to be broken during the year and at the Short Course. Mr. J. D. Tinsley, General Agricultural Agent of the Santa Fe Railway, told the writer that the County Rally, was one of the best that he had had the pleasure of attending in several years. The two banks at Brownfield and the one at Meadow, are largely responsible for the fact that we are able to say that we have the largest Pig Club in Texas, as they "kicked" in willingly with the cash that was required to pay for the pigs of members who could not have financed them otherwise. Not all the banks of Texas are progressive as our own home institutions.

Our prospects for a railroad are looking much brighter and you will find complete information concerning present status in another portion of the Herald.

The Hobbs oil field is still holding the center of the stage and the Brownfield-Seagraves section of the highway in that direction is coming in for a lot of hard knocks not only from our own people but those of other sections, even the County Judge of Gaines county has a few remarks to make upon it, but I am told that the highway west of Seminole is not anything to brag about, but as it is a state highway, it will no doubt be placed in good condition when they have time to put machinery upon it. Our Brownfield-Seagraves section has a kind of tentative designation and is awaiting the inspection of the State engineer, who is expected to appear at most any time, but our own commissioners have decided that the section will have to be worked on and as soon as they have completed their work as an equalization board, which is expected to be this week, they will place the machinery and grade the route in good shape and to where it will stand the oil field traffic that we are expecting it to take care of. The Hobbs well, however, is still an unknown quantity, some saying that it is good for 5,000 barrels and others 50 and if the latter, it will soon lose its attraction for the oil fraternity. The Fort Worth-Roswell-Grand Canyon Highway Association will hold a meeting at Rotan on July 25th and it is expected that an advertising committee will be appointed and wide advertising of the route will be given within the next few weeks. All citizens, in directing tourists east from Brownfield, should send them by way of Clairmont, Rotan, Hamlin, Stamford and Albany. Keep our route before them and they will direct the tourists coming from the other direction.

Fire Alarm Turned In Tuesday at Noon

A fire alarm was turned in Tuesday about noon, and the fire truck made a quick run on east Hardin and north one block to the residence of William Webb, from whence the alarm was turned in.

However the fire, which was an oil stove, had been put out by some men who happened to be nearby when the stove took fire, and while the boys laid their hose, they did not have to turn on the water. No damage to amount to anything was reported.

W. A. Lee pleased the Herald with a renewal recently.

4-H Club Boys and Girls Have Great Day

Friday was the banner day for the boys and girls of Terry county when they assembled in Brownfield for a get-together rally, and to find just who among them would go to the A. & M. College in the big judging contest. By nine o'clock the cars and trucks loaded with them began to arrive, and from then on throughout the day the youngsters had a great time among themselves with friendly banter as to who had the best club, and to see who could have the best, time and try to make every citizen in Brownfield proud to have them here on that day.

The parade formed at the Baptist church about 10:30 and marched through the streets, each club carrying a banner denoting the community to which he belonged. There were fourteen of these clubs, and most of them were well represented. The citizens who could witness this parade of splendid young men and women, who probably will make our leading farmers and wives of the next few years without a real thrill of pride, would have to be unpatriotic, unprincipled and unappreciative. One might look over the entire nation and not find a cleaner, healthier or happier bunch of boys and girls, and they carried a broad smile and a word of greeting right along with them for the town people who lined the sidewalks to witness the parade.

At the tabernacle, after singing "America" and one of the club songs, invocation by Rev. E. V. May, Mayor Joe J. McGowan made a short but real welcoming address, in which he informed them that the town was theirs for the day, and just wanted them to loosen up and have a real good time. If at the close of the day, they found they had not had a good time, to report the matter to him and he would remove the cause. Joe Young, of Tokio, responded heartily to the Mayor's address, and neither Tokio nor the rest of the clubs could have had any objection to Joe as an orator. He said they were glad they came to Brownfield, were proud of the royal welcome accorded them, and especially proud of the efforts and cooperation shown by Brownfield in helping to send them to the Short Course at College Station. But, said he, we need the town and the town needs the agricultural interests, so our needs are mutual. Mr. J. D. Tinsley, agricultural agent of the Santa Fe then delivered a splendid address.

The youngsters were then dismissed until one o'clock, and repaired to the court house square and had their lunches under the trees. At one o'clock, the crowd reassembled at the tabernacle, when addresses were delivered by Lon Ransome, of Dawson county and I. J. Thornton of Lubbock county, 4H boys who have made good in judging contests, and each related their experience and trips to Washington and other interesting things connected with their club work. Each advised our boys and girls to never get discouraged or give up. D. F. Eaton and S. E. Denman, county agents of Lubbock and Hockley counties, respectively, gave addresses. County Agent R. B. Davis and his assistant, Mr. Williams, had charge of the program, and we are mighty proud of the way they carried out the program of the day. After the speaking was over some hog calling contests were staged, but we failed to get the name of the winner, but he was a good one.

At this time it was announced that the Rialto Theatre would give the crowd of 158 club members a pass to a good show for one thin dime, and you can just bet they went to it in a hurry. At the conclusion of the show the winners in the judging to go to A. & M. were announced as follows:

Dairy and Livestock

Tells Advantages of Farmers Short Course

The nineteenth Annual Farmers Short Course will be held at A. & M. College beginning Monday, July 30 and lasting through August 3rd. This is by far the largest gathering of farmers, farm women, club boys and girls that is held in the State. Experts in agriculture from all over the U. S. will be present and will give lectures and demonstrations in different phases of agriculture that touch upon every part of farming and household work.

There is hardly a better way to spend a week than attending this training course for it is so divided that a person can get a little or a great deal of instruction upon any subject that he might be interested in.

The course is open to every person and no matter what you are doing or what your age is there is something that you would be interested in and something that you would benefit you.

The expenses are cut to a minimum amount. The railroad fare is reduced to two-thirds of a one-way fare, and totals about $12.50. Room registration and board while at College is $1.50 per day.

Due to the fact that it is almost 600 miles to College Station and that the railway fare is so reasonable the Terry and Gaines County delegation of club boys and girls will go by rail instead of auto. It has been decided after talking the matter over with officials of the Santa Fe that it will be better to catch the train out of Post City, thereby missing the long lay-over in Lubbock and making better connection on the return trip.

The Terry and Gaines delegations will leave Brownfield by truck not later than Saturday evening, July 28th, and will catch the 10:40 train at Post. The railway fare from Post will be $10.40. The truck fare to Post will be reasonable. The board and room at College will total $6.50. From this you can get an idea as to the necessary expenses. Every person should carry enough lunch for one supper, breakfast and dinner. Plenty of towels and clean clothing, overalls and colored shirts will be in style. Miss Halsey, Home Agent of Lynn county, will chaperone women and girls after they get to College. The County Agent and Club Leader will be with and watch over the boys from the time they leave until they return. All visitors will be quartered in the dormitories of the College and beds and bedding will be furnished.

This course is open to any man or woman, boy or girl and offers a rare opportunity to those interested in farming. If you are interested in going with the bunch see Mr. Davis or Williams at once.

NOTICE!

Republican precinct convention of Terry county will be held at the court house in Brownfield, Texas on July 28th 1928, at 4:00 o'clock P.M.

All Republican voters are urged to be present, and other legal voters that are interested are welcome.

Signed: W. G. COOK,

County Chairman Pro. Tem.

Raymond Speegle and wife of Hamlin, accompanied by the assistant superintendent of the big plaster plant at that place, are here this week visiting Raymond's sisters, Mrs. Arthur Sawyer and family and Miss Queclette Speegle. Raymond is superintendent of these mills.

Brownfield, City; Wilson Thomason, Forrester; Edward Walker, Gomez; Harlan Howell and Grady Goodpasture, City.

Johnson and Challis both had 100 per cent attendance at the rally but as Johnson had the largest membership, they were allowed a delegate at large to the A. & M. Short Course.

It was a great day for the farm boys and girls of Terry county and the Herald hopes they enjoyed the day with us as much as we did, and we believe they did.

Two Good Farmers Talk Deep Plowing

Two of the best farmers in the county called at the Herald office Saturday, and naturally the conversation drifted to farming and how to farm. Both men are leading farmers of their respective communities, and have each made a success farming both here and where they came from, thus making their words worth something, and their advice of real value to other farmers. We found that both were thoroughly sold on the idea of deep plowing, and both are watching with much interest the deep plowing experiment being conducted by the County Agent in Gaines county. However, both men have been practicing deep plowing and flat breaking for some years, but they want the experience of others.

One of these men was W. G. Carter of route one, this city, and the other was Tom Verner of Meadow. The former informed us that he had for the past three years practiced deep flat breaking in his fields with the minimum of blowing land, although part of his field was rather sandy. He further said that his neighbors told him when he began to flat break that all his land would soon blow away, and that he informed them that he wished that about half of the loose sand on top would blow away and that he would then have a better farm. His contention in a measure has proven true. Anywhere in the field where he has been able to turn up clay and let the loose sand sift down through the openings, he has a good stand of crops which are doing well.

Mr. Carter is selling about $4.00 worth of cream a week, and is not feeding his cows, but they are running on a good sudan pasture. All the dry feed they get was shucks, he said.

Mr. Verner has moved from the farm west of Meadow, which he sold last fall, to a farm a mile or so north-east of Meadow. Mr. Verner said he sold about $10 worth of cream a month, or plenty to pay all the running expenses of the farm. His new farm has one very sandy spot that blew out this year, but he aims to try and turn up some clay there next spring if he can go below the sand, and stop it from blowing.

Both men maintain that Terry county will be better off when they let a lot of the sand drift away from the farms, and get more of the deep red soil, which most of us call clay, on top. Experiments have proven that this, too, s soil, and will when cultivated make good crops and will not blow. One can no more control the blowing sand than they can a herd of stampeded cattle, but with a mixture of sand and clay it becomes an easy job.

We talked with another farmer Tuesday of near Gomez, Mr. A. C. Holcombe, who was fixing to plant some hygeria. He said that hygeria planted the first of August last year made a good crop. But say he, "I am of the opinion that I am doing the wrong thing. I think I ought to let it lay out this year, harrowing it about every two or three weeks this winter and next spring and let about two-thirds of the sand blow off, and then break it deep and I will have a good farm out of the strip of deep sand."

ELLIS COUNTY PEOPLE VISIT RELATIVES HERE

Martin Davis and wife of Waxahachie, are here accompanied by Mr. McDuffie's uncle, J. G. Pryor of Ennis, and also Mrs. M. Sweetman, of Ennis. Mr. Davis is an employee of the Waxahachie Daily Light, and Mr. Pryor is employed in the general offices of the Southern Pacific at Ennis.

The above visitors in company with Mr. and Mrs. McDuffie and baby left this week for the Carlsbad Caverns and other resorts of New Mexico, to spend vacation.

Lum Whisenant was over recently from Tatum, N. M., to visit the home folks and informed us that he was building a nice home for a prominent rancher of that section in Tatum.

County Agent's Column

R. B. Davis, County Agent

Terry County's first annual Club Rally was a success throughout. The boys and girls were happy just as Mayor McGowan wished them to be and the club spirit that was shown was wonderful. I do not think that a one of the two hundred club members that attended was sorry that they came. Every visitor was surprised with the large number of club boys and girls and they were very favorably impressed with the enthusiasm and spirit that was so prevalent. Such occasions take the boys and girls from the fields and homes where they are needed, but it shows that there is something in farm life other than hard work and it gives them an inspiration to stay on the farm and do better work.

We wish to thank those who so kindly gave us the use of the tabernacle at an early hour and to all those who helped with the program; it is through this cooperation that has made it possible for Terry county to have a large enrollment of the best club boys and girls in all Texas.

The thirteen boys and one girl who will represent Terry county in the judging contests at the short course at A. & M. College will have been chosen and their names appear in another column of this paper. These boys and girls were chosen solely on their judging ability that has been shown in the practice workouts that have been held during the past two months. To the boys who did not make the teams, we deeply appreciate your interest and the work that you have done and trust that you have gained some information that will be valuable to you and hope that you will be a contender for the team another year. To the boys and girls who were successful in making Terry county's first teams, we congratulate you and in the same sentence we ask that you recognize the responsibility as well as the honor that is yours. This responsibility is increased by the efforts that are being made by the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce and your club mates to raise the money to defray your expenses of transportation to the short course. This does not mean that you must win but it does mean that you cannot afford to betray your trust by not working and putting your very best into the contests.

Reports on the gains made by pigs are coming in daily. They are mighty good which shows that some one is working every day. Remember it takes a stayer to win a big prize. Don't get discouraged if your pig did not make as good gains as some other club pig. You still have plenty of time, besides the scales will not decide the winner during the fair. Good growth brought about by plenty of feed and exercise will produce a pig that will catch the judges eye. The pig that gets the blue ribbon will be owned by a boy who wants to win most and cares for that pig every day.

Have you started paying for your pig? The boys who borrowed the money to buy their pigs should be working and paying for that pig now and not wait until the note is due.

A group of Gaines county farmers were so enthused after visiting the deep plow test plot at Seminole Saturday that they wanted to form an association and buy a plow to break a portion of their land each year. This is still just an experiment that will take time to prove that deep plowing will solve the blowing problem, then can it be done cheap enough to pay?

HAREM AT A BARGAIN

He—I'm going to buy myself a harem.

It—What do you mean? You cannot buy a harem, can you?

He—Sure, I saw a sign at a gas station that said "Eight Gals for a Dollar."

We are glad to see Bob Bowers on the streets after quite a spell of sickness.

Disbanding of Band Hits the Town Badly

The passing of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce Band, for the present at least, was a hard lick to the town, and we have heard many expressions of regret at its passing from several of the business men of late. It is just another case of not missing the water until the well runs dry.

Still, one cannot expect just a few of the citizens, the band director and the boys to do all the patriotic, while the other fellow who pays nothing does just as much enjoying and listening, without putting down a penny. Really, the business men who staid with the band until the last day, were putting out an insignificant part as compared with the energy, time and money the director and the boys themselves were putting into the organization, yet there were men of means here who seemed to appreciate the band but put in nothing toward its support.

While we regret very much the necessity of having to suspend the band, we believe it the only course that could have been taken under the circumstances, for after awhile, when we get real hungry for another band, we believe it will be resurrected under real business lines and that will be a tax supported band. The old way just a few have to do all the paying, while all share in the pleasures, but under the tax system it costs none very much, yet all help to pay and the band can depend fully on the source of its income.

The Herald certainly appreciates the sacrifices the director Jno. S. Powell and the boys have made for the past year or two of both time and money to keep the band intact despite adverse circumstances.

Wainwright Meeting Closed Monday Nite

The J. E. Wainwright meeting at the City Tabernacle under the auspices of the church of Christ came to a close Monday night after running about 11 days, with several additions and the church revived and determined to do better work than ever before.

Owing to the slight illness of the minister's eldest daughter he and family did not leave here until later in the week for their future home in El Paso. They will stop over in their old home at Carlsbad for a revival meeting. The entire family made many friends while here. We hope to see more of them in the future.

The next meeting at the tabernacle will be under the auspices of the First Baptist church of this city. The preaching will be done by Rev. C. E. Lancaster, pastor of the Coleman, Texas, Baptist church. The singing will be directed by Mr. Ewell Bone, of Abilene. We will give further particulars of this meeting next week, as the revival does not start until Sunday, July 29th.

UNLAWFUL TO SCRATCH PLEDGE ON BALLOT

There seems to be an idea among some prospective voters in the coming Democratic Primary that the pledge at the top of the ballot can be scratched at the will of the voter.

The Revised Civil Statutes of Texas in Article 3110, which governs the pledge in primary elections, says that the pledge is legal, and also that any ballot on which said pledge does not appear will not be counted and is void.

We have been requested to give notice of this law, and we will state that all judges in the coming primaries will be instructed to guard against this possible act on the part of all voters in said primaries. Your entire ballot will be thrown out if the pledge on any ballot is mutilated or scratched.

Boone Hunter, County Chm., Dem. Ex. Com.

Quite a number of people from Meadow, Gomez, Wellman and Tokio, were here Sunday attending the Wainwright revival.

The rain man missed a mighty good chance to make Terry county people smile this week, when he only gave a light shower to most of the county. However some sections got enough to plant patches that had previously blown out. We are still living in hope and our hopes are nearly always realized in good old Terry. With fully last years acreage or more, and the crop in general further advanced, we should make a better crop, and we are almost sure to realize a better price than last year.

The nearer the day approaches for the election the more nervous the candidates become, some will almost jump out of their skins at the sound of the broken twig. One of the candidates informed us this week that at first he hardly thought of passing time, then he began to count in months, then in weeks, and now he counts the days, and he acknowledged that he was actually getting more fit. We are sorry for the old candidates, but we can't quite reach them.

The news that Bill Smith had been granted a reprieve was received with frowns by Fisher county citizens. It is taken as an indication that Bill Smith will escape paying a just penalty for a dastardly crime. Many strong Moody supporters criticize the governor severely for his leniency in this case. Perhaps anyone else would have taken the same action. Mr. Moody did, in the same circumstances, and the criticism may be unfair to him. At any rate this case is just one more of the thousands of perverted justice that have been and will be continued under our technically-bound law operation and court procedure.—Rotan Advance.

The chain idea as applied to newspapers seems to be growing and should be of benefit in towns where the local editor is unable to make a living and supply the equipment needed for a modern newspaper. Time was when every faction in town wanted a newspaper of its own, and it is true today when the smaller towns try to support two papers, they are advertising to the world that they have two factions. Factions have never built towns; in fact, many towns owe their lack of growth to warring factions. One good newspaper is a credit to any town, but two poor ones only give it a black eye. The local newspaper must prosper if the town is to reap the benefit from having a modern newspaper. Co-operation is the keynote of community growth today, and should be encouraged by every right thinking person.—McLean News.

It is the opinion of many who have studied the question that a large bond issue of some $250,000,000 or more will likely be given to the voters of the State in the next year or two in the shape of a constitutional amendment, with the chances of carrying almost certain in the form it will be offered. It is thought that it will be so drawn that counties that have already built paved roads will be reimbursed from the sale of the first $35,000,000 sold, and this will be repeated from year to year. But, what will become of the counties that have no bond issues like Terry and a lot of other counties? They will just have to pay their part of the extra taxes and grin and endure until all the big counties are paid off, then they may get a little pie ten or twelve years hence. Can we help ourselves? This is not very likely, for the big counties will turn out and vote to a man in order to get from under, and will know the rest of us under. We have not been for any bond issue by the state, but if the next legislature authorizes such an amendment, we are for getting in debt for road bonds as soon as possible.

Last Sunday people who attended Sunday School studied the greatest trial recorded on the pages of history. A man was tried and condemned to death on the cross, but today multiplied millions bow in lavish homage before the name of the One who was tried and condemned. But what of the judge? We are convinced that Pontius Pilate was a fairly good man or wanted to be. He wanted to see Jesus Christ free and then sought a way to set Him free after sentence was passed. But Pilate was weak, just as most of us are weak. He was afraid of public opinion and rather than meet the jeers of the mob, he permitted One whom he knew to be innocent to be put to death. Say what you please, it is no easy thing to stand against public opinion. How many of us are silent when we know a wrong is being perpetrated that ought to be resisted—how many stand back when a righteous cause lacks assistance, through fear of public opinion? In the last analysis public opinion rules the country. It rules courts, ecclesiastical bodies, law-making bodies and elections. Public opinion is a great force for good, if public opinion is right, but a mighty force for harm if it is wrong. Seeing and knowing this, what a great responsibility is laid upon those who have the ear of the public to see that public opinion is properly moulded.—Jim Lowry, in Honey Grove Signal.

THE DIFFERENCE

The difference between a pile of lumber on a vacant lot and a finished house, is simply organization. The material is the same in both cases. In one case, it is organized; in the other it is not.

The difference between a successful business—corporation or individual—and one that is not, is that the successful one has his affairs well assimilated and does business with a good banking organization and therefore has the advantage of their systematic methods and cooperation; while the unsuccessful one is like the loose pile of lumber, unorganized. This is a systematic and well-organized bank which solicits your account.

CROP ROTATION SUCCESS OF ONE MASTER FARMER

In a requested letter to "Rural Community Progress," R. B. Gary, Floydada, master farmer of Texas in 1927, tells "how it is done."

"Winning out as a master farmer of Texas in 1927 made that a great year for me. I am proud of my good neighbors, merchants and good friends who helped me go over the top and also proud of my county (Floyd) which offered me 11 years ago a chance to settle down and make a home now known as Lakeside Farm. I have 320 acres of land of which 200 acres is in cultivation, the other in pasture, the fields in 100-acre separate fields. I farm one field in row crop and diversify and rotate in farming. I plant maize, kaffir, red top cane, higer, corn, peas, millet, cotton, beans. I plant wheat in this other 100-acre field and every two years change these fields.

"I raise young mules for market. Also hogs, chickens and dairy products. I believe in keeping the very best of stuff, pure bred if possible. I have just purchased a registered Jersey bull and the community has cooperated with em and I am serving them.

"The time has come when the farmers must in every way possible live at home. Sell cream, eggs, chickens, hogs, seeds, vegetables and raise corn and go to mill. Instead of having a pay day once a year have it every week. This not only helps you, but it makes times better and helps everybody.

"I am very interested in orchards. I have a nice size one and have had plenty of fruit every year to run us and some to sell until last year when it was short on account of a late freeze.

"My vineyard pays extremely well. If the orchard never bore it is well worth its room and time for the looks it gives a farm with about six varieties.

"We have shrubs, shade trees and lots of flowers, which help to beautify the farm.

"Let's all quit knocking on the farmer and educate ourselves on the farmer and the coming generation to be better farmers. Farming is just what you make it. I am proud that I am a farmer. Why shouldn't I be when I have a gold medal that I was awarded last January."

Illustrating Mr. Gary's words, "I'm proud that I'm a Master Farmer," was a cartoon of a beaming-faced gentleman displaying a large gold medal. Another pleased-looking man, stuffing bills into an umbrella, illustrated the remark that "with pay day once a week one could save for a rainy day."

Native Texan Heads W. O. W. Hospital

Dr. Charles J. Koerth, assistant physician of the two million dollar Woodmen of the World War Memorial hospital at San Antonio, has been appointed medical director of the hospital, succeeding the late Dr. H. Phil Hall.

Announcement was made of Dr. Koerth's appointment by Sovereign Commander W. A. Fraser.

The War Memorial hospital is one of the finest medical institutions of its kind in the country, specializing in the treatment of tuberculosis. It is owned and operated by the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance association. It was built in memory of the thousands of members of W. O. W. who served during the World War.

At this modern hospital, located on an excellent and beautiful site in San Antonio, afflicted members of the Woodmen of the World are given free treatment for tuberculosis and other diseases. Since May, 1923, when the hospital was opened, over 3,500 patients have been treated and hundreds have been restored to health and usefulness.

Dr. Koerth, who is a native Texan, is 32 years of age. He is a graduate of the Jefferson medical college of Philadelphia and received his bachelor of science degree from Texas A. & M. He is active in the medical field and is a member of various medical associations, including the American Medical association. His papers, written on the treatment of various stages of tuberculosis and other pulmonary diseases, have had a wide circulation.

RID THE SOUTHWEST OF POISONOUS SNAKES

The Federal Government is spending thousands of dollars in a war upon predatory animals. Many counties pay attractive bounties and in some sections ranchmen will leave their work and chase a single wolf or coyote for days in order to protect their herds and flocks. Yet, here in the Southwest, there is constant menace from deadly snakes, and no organized effort is made to lessen their number. True, one kills a snake at every opportunity, but none of us make that opportunity, and no county or State Government encourages a persistent war upon them.

Organized effort, backed by a reasonable bounty, would end the lives of thousands of poisonous snakes even this summer and fall. In the winter time when rattlesnakes assemble to hibernate in caves and under rocks, many thousands could be exterminated with little trouble, and the number of snakes would be greatly reduced the following spring and summer. Snake hunts backed by a reasonable bounty should be organized in every county in the Southwest where poison snakes abound—Farm and Ranch.

WANTS TO BE TEXAS LEGION COMMANDER

Brownfield Herald,
Brownfield, Texas.
Gentlemen:

I am a candidate for a state office that does not pay a ten cent piece and still it is an office I would be proud of.

I am a candidate for State Commander of the American Legion and I am willing to devote my time and money to hold this office for one year.

If your paper will help me in this race, I will pay your post and city a personal visit in my airplane some time during the year of 1929.

Everyone knows what the American Legion stands for and it will help any community, town, city or state and will make our state a better place in which to live.

If you will be kind enough to publish this letter, I assure you that it certainly will be appreciated by the writer.

With best wishes, I am
Sincerely yours,
Col. W. E. (Bill) Easterwood, Jr.

BARRY MILLER

The following appeared in Mefo's column in the Houston Press for July 9, 1928:

One Thomas B. Love of Dallas, who has bolted the Democratic party, is asking the Democrats of Texas to make him lieutenant-governor. He is devoting the greatest part of his campaign to abuse of Barry Miller, who has served us so well for the past four years and who is a candidate for re-election.

We can imagine some who hate, and others who do not think, falling for Tom Love, but the average man and woman will scorn his plea. They will recall that Barry Miller came to the front when the lives and liberty of the people were at stake.

Tom Love helped not in that fight, but counseled and worked with those who tried to enthrone hate and religious prejudice and whose conduct disgraced all Texas for four years.

A vote for Barry Miller will be the recognition of duty well done, of faithfulness to party and the proper approval of an honest, courageous official.

A ballot cast for Tom Love will be the approval of unfaithfulness to the party nominees and the recognition of mediocrity coupled with prejudice.—Contributed.

UNION BEAT 'EM ALL

Our club met Tuesday night, May 10th.

We had good lights for our first meeting at night.

The chairman called us to order, then we sang several songs out of our club song book. Mr. Williams called on some of the boys to tell us about their trip to Lubbock. Mr. Williams gave us an outline of what we were to do Friday the 13th. We tried to plan how we could raise money to send delegates to the A. and M. short course. Mr. Williams also told us something we would do at the short course.

We had several visitors, (old people) who seemed like they enjoyed our meeting.

We yelled and went home happy at the success of our meeting.

FUNERAL OF ROY SCUDDAY

A large number of friends attended the funeral services for Roy Scudday at the First Methodist church yesterday evening, where the Rev. O. P. Clark, pastor, in his funeral sermon, paid tribute to the outstanding life Mr. Scudday had led, even during the years when he was too ill to engage in business.

"Roy Scudday's life," he said, "is a challenge to all men of Sweetwater whose seats in church are vacant on Sunday. He was faithful to his church and community and a power for good, and never did I see him during his illness when he was not cheerful. At one time as he lay in a hospital without hope of life, according to the doctors, he insisted in his belief in the power of prayer and that his time to go had not come. He not only recovered, but his actions at the time, his example, brought about the conversion of his nurses."

The services were simple, in accordance with the expressed wishes of Mr. Scudday, the only departure from the church services being the draping of the casket with the flag and the presence of a guard of honorary pall bearers composed of former service men, fellow members of the American Legion. A profusion of flowers testified to the wide friendship he had, and many persons went to the cemetery where the body was interred with brief ceremonies.—Sweetwater Reporter.

F. M. Cornbise, of the Tatum route was milling around with the big crowd Saturday.

W. T. Tremble, one of the good stock farmers of old Yoakum, was a pleasant caller at the Herald office recently.

BE SURE OF THE TIRES YOU BUY

SOME car owners fondly believe that by looking at a tire they can tell how it will stand up.

PAVED STREETS SAVE MONEY

Highland, Illinois, a city of three thousand population, this spring embarked on a program to pave 13 or 14 miles of its streets. According to the mayor this will actually save the municipality money, because of the tremendous upkeep cost of dirt roads. In the last 11 years their maintenance has cost $160,000.

It has been the repeated experience of cities and towns of all sizes that money spent for hardsurfacing dirt streets, or salvaging worn-out paved ones is not an expense. On the contrary it is an economy and a dividend paying investment. In our modern life good roads and streets are as necessary as telephones and electricity.

A LOVE STORY

Love in the December of life is just as beautiful as it is in May. A white-haired old man and a sweet little old lady used to meet in the park every day and sit together all afternoon. This friendship gradually developed into a deeper affection, as friendships are wont to do, for love is no respecter of persons or of age.

One summer day the old man took the little lady by the hand. "May I tell you the old, old story?" he asked his voice trembling.

She blushed, as only old-fashioned people can, and nodded assent.

So he told her for the twenty-eighth time how he won the Battle of Gettysburg.—Life.

THE MOON AND CROPS

There's one thing we've heard a lot of argument about, yet one thing no one has been able to explain to our satisfaction, and that is what effect, if any, the moon really has on farm crops and garden vegetables. A lot of successful gardeners would no more plant cucumbers or peas when the "signs" are wrong than they'd chase a polecat in their Sunday suit. Yet agricultural college experts argue it is all bunk or superstition. They say the moon doesn't affect plant life.

Yet there are a lot of people around Littlefield who are not willing to agree that these scientific gentlemen are right. They say that if the moon can jerk the ocean around and cause tides to ebb and flow, it can cut some figures in vegetable growth. They've seen cucumbers run to vine and potatoes refuse to sprout or to bear decent sized potatoes if they did sprout because they were not planted according to the signs provided by the moon.

It is an old question, but it has never been explained. Science and the farmer work fairly well together in a lot of things, but when it comes to this thing of the moon figuring in plant life, they simply can't agree. That is why it is still, as it has always been, an interesting subject and one you can stir up an argument with as easily as you can by talking politics. Try it on the next fellow you meet and see for yourself.—Lamb County Leader.

MANIFESTLY IMPOSSIBLE

"I knew an artist once who painted a cobweb on the ceiling so realistically that the maid spent hours trying to get it down."
"Sorry dear, but I don't believe it."
"Why not? Artists have been known to do such things."
"Yes, but not maids."—London Opinion.

MAKING A FARCE OF CRIME SUPPRESSION

Alarmists have attempted to delude the public into believing that crime and small firearms go together. Nothing could be further from the truth.

This does not mean that revolvers and pistols are not used to commit crimes. They fall into the same category as automobiles, razors, the mails, knives, etc.—all perfectly innocent articles that can be used for improper ends. To attempt to classify commodities or services as agents of wrongdoing, and prohibit their use, is absurd.

Distinguished lawyers and jurists and various patriotic organizations with first-hand knowledge of the situation, have shown us what is wrong with our efforts to suppress crime:

We fail to catch criminals, we fail to punish them when they are caught, and our laws and legal procedure offer a maze of legal technicalities that allow the most obviously guilty criminal to escape prison for long periods, and to often go entirely free. More rigorous apprehension, prosecution and punishment of the criminal would be worth a thousand speeches advocating suppression of small arms and law-abiding citizens.

NEITHER

Capt. A. B. Randall of the renovated "Republic" told a story the other day:

"A steward," he said, "stood at the gangway of a ship of mine, and as he stood there he kept shouting for the benefit of the arriving passengers:

"First-class to the right! Second class to the left!"

"A young woman stepped daintily abroad with a baby in her arms. As she hesitated before the steward, he bent over her and said in his chivalrous way:

"First or second?"

"Oh!" said the girl, her face as red as a rose, 'Oh, dear, it's—it's not mine'."—Pittsburgh Sun.

COURT HOUSE ELECTION CONTEST SUIT APPEALED

The court house election contest has been appealed to the Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals, where it will be ruled upon some time next fall.

Both sides will probably ask an immediate hearing when the court convenes in October.—McLean News.

MORE TYPHOID IN COUNTRY THAN CITIES

Typhoid fever is twice as prevalent in rural sections of the United States as in cities, statistics show, says the research department of the National Association of Farm Equipment manufacturers. In addition, the number of people per thousand suffering from tuberculosis has been smaller in the cities than in the country during the past five years.

Sanitation, which Dr. L. L. Lumsden of the U. S. Public Health Service defines as "The common sense application of the principles of cleanliness," breaks the lines of transference of disease germs from one person to another. A great many diseases of which typhoid fever is a notable example, are transmitted from one person to another by means of human waste. Purification of the water supply and proper sewage disposal are two important factors in preventing this transference, in the opinion of Dr. Lumsden.

"There is no better investment for the rural home than a sanitary water supply and sewage disposal system," says Dr. Lumsden. "Wells should be equipped with tight platforms and curbs which will prevent contamination from the top, as that is the place from which most of the contamination enters the water supply. Sewage should be disposed of by a septic tank or some similar means in such a manner that it cannot enter the water supply or be transferred by flies."

WHALER TO TELL SCOUTS OF HIS EXPERIENCES

The Boy Scouts of the South Plains are in for a real treat at Summer Camp this year. H. H. Johns will be on hand to tell the Scouts of some of his wonderful experiences on the sea. Mr. Johns went to sea at the age of 17. He has made a complete circuit of the world. He can tell interesting experiences from his travels in Japan, England, South Africa, India or China. One of his most interesting experiences was the eight months he spent on a whaling vessel on the Arctic. Life on a whaling vessel was very exciting and dangerous. Mr. Johns will show the boys how the whales are hunted, the type of harpoons used, the bomb-guns, and the way the whales are cut up and utilized. Mr. Johns talks are very fascinating and exciting, men and boys will sit by the hour to hear him tell of his experiences.

Mr. Johns experiences are only a small part of the big summer program for the Boy Scouts of the South Plains. The summer program begins July 30th with the opening of the Boy Scout camp at Post.

NEW ENGINEERING BUILDING NEARLY COMPLETED

Lubbock, Texas, July 18.—Workmen are putting the finishing touches on the new engineering building of Texas Technological College which will cost with equipment, approximately $300,000. The new structure will accommodate laboratory and class room instruction in architectural, civil, electrical, and mechanical engineering, and engineering drawing. The textile building which has been housing all the engineering school will now be devoted exclusively to the textile department.

The new building will be used beginning with the opening of the fall term September 24, making it possible for the engineering school of Texas Technological College to offer courses of instruction in its various departments in as satisfactory a manner as may be done by any other institution in the country.

CLIMATE REGULATOR

A customer stepped into a Los Angeles hardware store.

"I want to get one of those thermometers like the Chamber of Commerce uses," he said.

"And what kind is that?"

"It's one that won't go above 80 in the summer and below 50 in the winter."

E. G. Alexander and family returned this week from their vacation at Colorado Springs. Their vacation was cut rather short on account of the slight illness of two of the children.

Edgar Self, of the Collins Dry Goods Co., and family, are away on vacation.

Miss Christoval Sawyer called in recently to renew for the family paper.

Ches. Gore fumbled around in his pockets and dug up a bat "skin" for his Herald another year.

Sheriff Ellington pleased us recently with a renewal for his mother-in-law's paper which goes to Grove City, Pa. It isn't often that you find a fellow so interested in his mother-in-law.

Our good friend Brit Claire handed us a dollar on the streets one day recently for renewal, and then mailed us another dollar. Brit wants to make sure about his paper.

W. D. Linville was a business visitor to Lubbock, Monday, where he went to look for a blacksmith while his foot is healing, which was badly hurt recently.

One of the local bankers recently nabbed our printer and carried her away, account of which appears in the society columns, but we were very lucky to get another old employee of the Herald, Joe Bailey, of Lubbock, for a few weeks until we can land another printer. This time we are going to get a man if we can, and if we catch any of the young ladies of the town around trying to steal him off, we are going to try to cripple them.

Mr. M. V. Brownfield recently called us out to his car to give us a "dry" check for his paper another year.

R. L. (Bob) Adams has recently been heard from, as he wanted the Herald so he could hear from the old home town. Bob has a good posish with a big lumber firm at San Antonio, figuring bills for them. A. E. Westbrook of route one is a new reader of the Herald.

BOWERS VS. MELLON:

We wonder if Claude Bowers has read the treasury report of the man he so pitilessly excoriated in sounding the blistering Democratic key-note at Houston. If he has, we can't keep from wondering what kind of thoughts he is thinking. No doubt Mr. Bowers is slightly chagrined now that Andrew Mellon, whom he accused of being the biggest advocate of Republican "mythical" prosperity, has issued the carefully calculated statement officially showing to the public that the national debt has been reduced $1,000,000,000 in the last twelve months, taxes have been cut $220,000,000.00 and the treasury surplus now stands at $298,000,000. It is a fact that some Republicans are pretty shady characters, but not every man who carries the name of G. O. P. is a corrupt, slime-covered, black horse cavalry-man as Mr. Bowers would like to think.

TRAGEDY:

Every since the advent of aviation the history of the great science has been besmirked with the bloody boots of tragedy. Now comes a toll of life that surpasses them all and shocks the entire world. Twenty-six men are either dead or perishing miserably on the barren ice-floes of the Arctic ocean as a result of an attempt to rediscover the North Pole by way of the air. Some people persist bitterly ridiculing the ambitious Umberto Nobile, commander of the wrecked dirigible, while on the other hand, if he had been successful in his attempt he would have become an international idol. It is inhuman to press the facts of the catastrophe upon the distressed Nobile. He has done everything humanly possible to release the men he loves as brothers from snowy wastes of the polar region, since he himself was rescued from the floe some weeks ago. If his comrades perish, Nobile will lead a life of torture; therefore no criticism of ours will be needed to add pain to his conscience.

COOPERATION

There is something tragically beautiful in the way the world has combined efforts to bring back to civilization the stranded aviators. Six nations are working hand in hand as never they did before, and four have made sacrifices to the noble cause; including Roald Amundsen, the greatest of all Arctic explorers. The great losses have no effect on the progress of the rescue work, for the countries involved are going to continue their efforts until all possible hope has been left far behind. It may take something tragic or terrible, but the old world can show sometimes that it has a big ear and that all the children can pull on the same rope at the same time.

EFFICIENCY

The American people have long been famous for their efficiency in getting things done, but now we scratch our heads and wonder if we haven't been fooling the world. Of all the presidential campaigns in history, the one this year will probably be carried on with more tensely and will decide more in the long run than any other since 1860. And of all the campaigns in history this is the hardest one to get under way. Whether Mr. Hoover and Mr. Smith are inefficient, just afraid to get started, or are faced with a really herculean task that takes long preparation, remains to be seen.

SOUTH PLAINS FAIR TO GO SIX DAYS

Lubbock, Texas, July 19—Officials of the Panhandle South Plains Fair are busy getting ready for the annual exposition which will be held in Lubbock, October 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6.

The exposition which has become known as the "Show Window of the Plains" will be the biggest this year of any exposition ever held on the Plains.

The Fair was increased to a five-day exposition last year and this year has been let out to a six-day show.

Agricultural and live stock exhibits last year rivaled the best regional fairs in the Southwest and assurance has been given that practically all the exhibitors will be back this fall with many others.

Fire works, free attractions, and other entertaining features will compare with the best offered by a Texas fair.

The association is making improvements that will benefit the annual exposition. Additions to the attractions and increase in exhibits will draw a better crowd. Last years' attendance ran over 100,000 and this year with an extra day and better features, the crowds are expected to be substantially increased.

"HOOVER THE SILENT"

Herbert Hoover is the champion straddler of the age. He has straddled the prohibition question so successfully that no one knows exactly what he does think of it and is lauded by both wets and dries; he is standing with one foot on the farm relief desired by the farmers and the other on the determination of Calvin Coolidge that we have "millions for the corporations but not one cent for the farmers," and what his belief or intentions is in the matter no one can say; he successfully straddled the Mississippi river during the floods, and from his seat in his airplane, sent his heartfelt sympathies to the flood stricken people, yet he has failed to lighten the burden or advance any plan of flood control, although he is touted as the "world's greatest engineering genius."

Hoover puts the Egyptian sphinx to shame by his silence on the matter of corruption in public office and elections.

Where is Hoover? Why is Hoover? What is Hoover?

WORK BEGINS ON NEW HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

Mr. Maxey, of Lubbock, successful bidder on the new Lorenzo high school building, began work on this building Thursday morning. Material is being placed on the ground and work will be rushed just as fast as possible, and if at all possible will be completed in time for the opening of school in September. Contract for the plumbing and heating will be let tonight (Thursday).

At last Lorenzo is to have a new school building, a building that has been needed for the past two years.—Lorenzo Tribune.

WELLMAN WILLING WORKERS

The Wellman Willing Workers Club is coming on fine. The boys report quite an increase in weight in their pigs. Elmer Davis reports an increase of about 65 lbs. The girls are not doing as well with their chicks, but wait until canning time, and then they will show their true colors and far exceed the boys in this contest. With Mr. Davis' boosting talks and encouragement to each member, we should learn more and enjoy the work better.—Reporter.

THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

HOUSTON, Texas, June 28.—Alfred E. Smith, Governor of the State of New York, is the nominee of the Democratic national convention, as was forecast for weeks before that body gathered in Sam Houston Hall. His nomination by the Democratic national convention at Houston was made.

From the start of the convention, it was a certainty that no one but Smith could get the nomination. Five others, however, stayed in the lists till the last—favorite sons of their States. When the nomination was given Smith the delegates and spectators staged a demonstration that showed that the huge majority at least were for the Governor as President.

A newsboy on the sidewalks of New York, Alfred E. Smith rose to become Governor of the Empire State for four terms, a presidential aspirant and idol of millions in the metropolis.

He has a personality that appeals to the masses. Probably no man in public life since the heyday of Theodore Roosevelt has had such a hold on the Nation's largest city. He has a human touch that seems to make the man on the street feel he is "one of the people." Countless thousands know him as just plain "AL."

He has devoted the best years of his life as legislator, speaker of the Assembly and Governor, to studying the government of his State. He is credited with having more intimate knowledge of its affairs than any other person.

In the field of national politics, in which he was a novice, he encountered strong opposition in his own party, the Democratic, largely because of his frank stand against prohibition and his Tammany relations. This developed openly in the memorable deadlock convention in Madison Square Garden, New York, when he was defeated for the presidential nomination. He fought William Jennings Bryan and the latter replied in kind.

Born On East Side

Smith was born in the shadow of old Brooklyn Bridge on the teeming East Side of New York Dec. 30, 1873. His father, who was in the trucking business, died when he was 13 years old and he had to leave school. Park Row heard his cries of "Wuxtry!" for a time and then he clerked in a fish market. Years afterward, when a not well informed person asked him what his college degree was he replied, "F. F. M.—Fulton Fish Market!"

Popular in his polyglot neighborhood, Smith attracted attention in amateur theatricals. Soon he came under the eye of Tom Foley, an old-time Tammany leader, who started him at the bottom rung of the political ladder as a clerk in the offices of the Commissioner of Jurors.

He took to politics like a duck takes to water in 1903 was selected to the State Assembly. He took his job seriously and stayed up nights mastering the details of every bill introduced. He was re-elected again and again, becoming floor leader and later speaker of the House. In 1915 he was one of the leading spirits in a famous constitutional convention presided over by Elihu Root.

Then came an interval when he left legislative halls to be elected Sheriff of New York and later President of the Board of Aldermen of his home city. Smith's record pluralities attracted attention and he began to be mentioned as a gubernatorial candidate. In 1918 he won the nomination and defeated Gov. Charles S. Whitman (Republican) by 12,000 votes. This was an outstanding achievement in a Republican State. It also was the fifteenth time he had run for public office without being defeated.

Two years later, however, he met his first defeat, Nathan L. Miller winning the election for Governor in the Harding presidential landslide. But Smith ran 1,000,000 votes ahead of his ticket.

Governor Miller named Smith as a member of the newly created Port of New York Authority, of which he was the outstanding figure. Meantime he accepted the presidency of a large trucking corporation.

Came a day when William Randolph Hearst began to exert a powerful influence over the State Democracy and became a candidate for Governor. Against his wishes Smith was drafted to do battle. In a sensational convention at Syracuse, he not only pushed the publisher into the discard, but himself was nominated. He defeated Governor Miller by 385,000 votes, then a record-breaking plurality.

In 1924 he was again re-elected, defeating Theodore Roosevelt Junior and in 1926 he defeated Ogden L. Mills, thus becoming the first man in the history of the State to be elected to the Governor's chair four times.

Smith's victories were remarkable personal tributes, for in most cases the rest of the ticket was Republican. The Governor sponsored numerous welfare measures, such as widow's pensions and child labor laws. He also championed legislation favorable to organized labor. His intimate knowledge of the State caused him to fight successfully for a reorganization of the State Government, by which many commissions were abolished or consolidated. By many this was regarded as his outstanding achievement.

The Governor consistently opposed prohibition. He favored light wines and beer but was opposed to a return of the saloon. When he signed the Mullen-Gage act, doing away with the State enforcement of the Volstead act, he was strongly criticized in many sections of the country. Many newspapers declared that by this act New York State had voted itself out of the Union.

Personally the Governor is a man of charm and is always surrounded by admirers. Newspaper men like to "cover" him. He is always good "news" and he has the habit of coining epigrams that catch popular fancy. Although burdened with responsibilities, he has never ceased being a boy. He delights to go to the circus with neighborhood children and eat peanuts with them. Once a year he eats chicken with the city's newsmen. He established a zoo at the executive mansion in Albany and takes pleasure in watching the antics of monkeys, bears, tigers and other animals that are presented to him.

In his spare moments he likes to play golf. He describes himself as a "Civil War player"—out in 61 and back in 65. He reads the Bible and State documents and not much else. He often tells with great glee of a woman who asked him the name of his favorite book and reply: "The Life and Works of John L. Sullivan." But as a matter of fact he has never witnessed a prize fight.

Columbia University gave him the degree of Doctor of Laws and President Nicholas M. Butler, in conferring it, described him as "a trained in the hard school of the many-sided and cosmopolitan life; alert, public spirited, courageous and constantly speaking the true voice of the people."

He married Catherine A. Dunn, a neighbor of the East Side, and has five children. Until his home was torn down he lived many years in Oliver street, in the heart of the East Side, surrounded by thousands of neighbors of foreign birth, who called him "AL."

CORN VS. COTTON

By Cow puncher from Llano Estacado, Plains, Texas, July 14th, 1928.

Dear Herald: Having been here nigh on to 20 years and observed all kinds of agricultural developments that have been put on during that time, I have arrived at the conclusion that corn is the safest and by far the best bet for the farmer, one year with another.

Of course cotton is a money crop and always demands some kind of price. But there are so many chances against the growing of a cotton crop here, and by far too many chances against a stable price there for in the markets.

We have sand storms, snow storms, hail storms, leaf-worm storms, boll-worm storms, and threatened with pink boll-worm storms, and then cotton can only be sold and cannot be consumed at home.

While corn can be cultivated and harvested both processes during a total of two months for preparation and cultivating, and only one month for harvesting the crop and you cultivate and harvest from 200 to 300 acres of corn to 100 acres of cotton, then when you get the corn made you eat it, sell it, feed it to hogs, poultry, cattle, sheep or fatten young mules and work stock on it, thereby making at least six to eight different routes to the market for your corn where there is only one for your cotton.

Lets hear from some of the rest of your farmers on this very practical subject. Of course either cotton or corn must be properly selected as to seed, quality, finish, etc., for any profitable market.

By all parties selecting the right kind and quality of corn and then send the right man out to the consuming localities we can surely always get a market for our corn as well as for the fleecy staple.

Yours for better methods for our people.

Cowpuncher from Llano Estacado.

AUTO AND AIRPLANE WILL NOT COMPETE

Detroit, Mich., July 21.—What effect airplane development will have on the automobile has frequently been discussed by those close to both industries as well as laymen interested in the transportation methods the future may evolve.

Is an era of keen competition ahead? Will the airplane relegate the automobile to a place beside the horse and buggy?

Decidedly no, in the opinion of H. J. Klingler, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company. The two industries will rather follow parallel lines of development, with each aiding the other, the Chevrolet sales leader declared in an interview here today.

"There will be no more competition between the airplane and the automobile than there is between the newspaper and the radio," declared Mr. Klingler. "When the radio first began broadcasting news dispatches, there was talk of it supplanting the newspaper. Today the newspaper prints radio news, and the news items broadcast by the radio rather whet the appetites of newspaper readers. Each one serves the other.

"I believe the airplane and automobile will follow similar lines of development. "I believe that for every airplane that goes in the air at least two automobiles will go on the ground.

"The owner of an airplane will need an automobile to take him from his home to the airport. He will need another car to take him from the landing field down-town to his destination. Meanwhile his wife and family will need a car at home while his is parked at the airport awaiting his return. Every flight will call into use at least two or three cars.

W. F. Triplett was carried to Lubbock Sunday in the Brownfield Hardware ambulance, where he will be given treatment in order to try to save his limb, which was recently broken when a car accidentally ran over him.

L. L. Blackstock, one of our good farmers, dropped in recently to renew for another year.

T. W. Hague and two friends from Ralls, passed through this week on their way home from Plains.

Mrs. Bettie Criswell, of Plains, County Treasurer of Yoakum county, passed through Tuesday on her way to Lubbock.

Uncle Jack Blankenship, of Plains, was over this week after supplies.

DEFEATED CANDIDATES SPEECH

When the future doesn't have a rosy tint and things seem so badly out of joint that we are nearing the slough of despond, we usually try to think of the speech of an old fellow who was defeated for office in Tennessee many years ago, said he:

"Fellow Citizens: On the money question I am in favor of gold and silver and green backs, and national bank notes, and nickel and copper, and if necessary, a leadle more counterfeits."

The old fellow covered too much territory in his money platform, and he was defeated. Feeling that the country would go to the dogs and that he was ruined world without end, the old fellow determined to commit suicide. He went to the store and bought a rope, a can of coal oil, a box of matches, a dose of arsenic and a revolver. He went to the river, pushed his boat from the shore and waded down to where a limb hung over. Then he got up in the bow of the boat and tied one end of the rope around the limb and the other around his neck. He saturated his clothing with the coal oil, lighted a match and set his clothing afire, took the dose of arsenic, put the muzzle of the revolver to his temple, pushed the boat from under him and pulled the trigger, but the bullet glanced out and cut the rope above him, and he fell kerwallup into the river. The water put out the fire; the old fellow got strangled and coughed up the arsenic, then he arose and waded out. Safe again, he declared himself a candidate for the legislature on the reform ticket and was elected.

The moral of this is easy to find. There are ways out of the worst muddles, and all the ways for killing or ruining a fellow sometimes fail. — Honey Grove Signal.

STATE TAKES OVER HIGHWAY NO. 83

After many hard trips to Austin and other meetings on highway matters over different parts of the State the Commissioners and County Judge of Gaines County, feel that it was not all in vain, for now the State has charge of 54 miles of highway running east and west across Gaines county, and it is actually at work on the Hobbs end of the road where traffic is very heavy at this time going to the new oil field at Hobbs, N. M. and to the wonderful Carlsbad Caverns and mountain scenery in Mexico.

Highway 53 from Seagraves and Brownfield is pouring tourists thru Seminole now both south and west, this is another very important highway that Gaines county needs and will put in a strong pull for in the near future.

The Commissioners Court of Gaines county is to be congratulated on their faithful and untiring efforts to obtain the just and needed recognition from the State Highway Department, and with the State maintaining two highways across the county will enable the county to build many lateral roads that are badly needed in many parts of the county.

Mr. La Fou of Lamesa, will have charge of the Gaines county road crew at present, and will work Gaines County roads.—Seminole Sentinel.

That on Feb. 23rd, 1924, defendant R. C. W. O. W. Has Great Faith In Future of Texas

Here are $80,000,000 in bonds being handled by employees of the Woodmen of the World. W. A. Fraser, Sovereign Commander, is standing with sheaf of bonds in his hands. $24,342,192.26 of these bonds represent Texas investments. The employees are clipping the semi-annual dividend coupons.

WHAT the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Association has faith in Terry County is evidenced by the fact that W. O. W. has $53,000.00 invested in municipal bonds of this county, according to a statement today by W. A. Fraser, Sovereign Commander of the Woodmen of the World and President of the Globe Life Insurance Company.

"The Woodmen of the World has great faith in the future of this state," said Mr. Fraser.

Sovereign Commander Fraser also announced that the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Association now has $24,342,192.26 invested in municipal bonds in the state of Texas.

"Our funds are used to help the development of the various parts of the United States where Woodmen of the World members are located," said Mr. Fraser. We are glad in having the opportunity to aid the various counties and states in building roads, school houses, court houses, street improvements and other municipal enterprises."

"Not enough people in America realize the importance of modern and up-to-date school houses and modern methods of education. Sanitary and modern school houses tend toward making both teachers and school pupils more contented and, therefore, more efficient. Good school houses with their sanitary conveniences, proper lighting and ventilation enable school teachers to do better work, and nothing is more important than education of our children—the future citizens of tomorrow."

Mr. Fraser said the factors entering into security of their investments are based foremost on the community's financial responsibility, both present and potential. But in addition, however, he said the Investment Committee was also guided by good faith and confidence in the municipality issuing such bonds.

"Great assurance of good faith is given to the Committee in the simple statement that American Municipalities of any importance do not default in the principal or interest of any of their obligations," said Mr. Fraser.

During the twenty-seven years existence of W. O. W., the association has been very careful in the disposition of its funds for investments. The company now has $88,000,000 invested in municipal bonds. During its twenty-seven years, W. O. W. has handled more than $120,000,000 of investments without losing a cent of principal or interest.

Meadow Briefs

By Aesculapian

Last night, Saturday, we had a shower that kinder laid the dust and made us hopeful that in a few days the heavens would open and the precious liquid would be more abundant.

Feed crops are needing rain badly, in fact I have never seen as much burned feed since I have lived in the plains. Cotton except in a few localities is not suffering badly.

Sunday: Meadow has been host to the Singing Convention and the usual hungry crowd that afflict such occasions were on hand, bringing the family with their insatiable appetites along too.

There was abundance for all even with the usual carrying away from the table of food by the panful. Perhaps it is wrong to criticize such people, for at their homes they perhaps have little to eat out of the ordinary. However, it isn't probable that Meadow will consent to feed such a crowd in the near future. The bunch was orderly and but for the removal of food from the tables, beyond the necessities of the individual, there was nothing to mar the pleasure of the occasion.

There was an unusual amount of fast driving along the street and highway with continual blowing of horns or be it remembered that the modern girl and boy wish to be noticed. We also noticed that the laps of a number of young men were being utilized by young ladies, of course because of crowded conditions of cars. They may have been wives of those young men for all I know but if such intimate relations displayed in public is certainly not in good taste. It not wives then I feel sorry for the young girl that so far forgets the proprieties as to indulge in such spooning in public. In many large cities spooning is forbidden in public parks and other public places and all such conduct should receive the condemnation of clean minded people everywhere. We are pretty well acquainted with the male of the species and he is apt to take many liberties with the young girl as she will allow and while he is plenty able perhaps to take care of her self she undoubtedly cheapens her sex and her self by public displays.

On Friday, July 13, I crossed the Sixty Ninth Meridian on the journey West. Many say that looking backward time seems short but when I can scan the past it seems a long way back to me. When I look about me and try to compare the present with the past it appears even more remote. What changes have been made in our country and in the world! Born under the administration of James Buchanan the fifteenth president of the United States, I have seen fifteen others occupy the chair: Sam Houston was governor of the State at the time. The county in which I was born had only been organized a few years and was visited almost every light moon by Comanche Indians who murdered all who were unfortunate enough to fall in their hands and drove away livestock making the life of the settler a very grave problem. Transportation was principally by oxen and other animals as there were at this time very few miles of railway in the State. The Houston, Texas Central, I believe, had reached Navisota at the beginning of the Civil War and was extended to Denison in the early seventies. During these years the Wild West was at its woolliest. Many of the names of border characters were household words, such as Carson, Buffalo Bill, Wild Bill, Billy the Kid and in Texas, killers like Longly, Lawles and Fisher with a host of lesser lights of horse and cattle thieves. Vigilant committees were common throughout the country. I can yet point out a few trees, if not recently destroyed, that were once adorned with the bodies of these gentry suspended from a limb.

All that portion of the United States west of a line drawn from the eastern border of Oklahoma to the eastern border of North Dakota except California and Oregon were territories. Most of it unorganized and practically unpopulated and to reach the Pacific coast one must traverse this unknown waste overland or by vessels from New Orleans across the Isthmus and then by vessels to ports on the California coast. I can recall many who made the trip both ways and many others who were never heard of afterwards. The nation has fought three wars during that period not counting the Indian campaigns ending practically with the massacre of General Custer and his forces in 1876 by a large body of Sioux and other tribes. Since those days the nation has been criss crossed with lines of railway. The telegraph in its infancy then connects the entire globe and telephones and wireless along with radio has made our own and other nations a family so far as communication and easy access can consummate such results.

It would take too much space and time to enumerate the vast changes and progress made in one short life time but hardly a tick of the clock in the onward march of the race.

Schools and newspapers were few and far between and of books in the home there were less. The library of my childhood consisted of the Bible, Weems' Life of Benjamin Franklin and Dr. D. Jaynes Almanac. For newspapers I remember The Christian Advocate and later the Galveston News. With all these drawbacks the old days were great. I should not hesitate to live them over if it was possible. However the friends of my younger days have all crossed the Divide and I find myself a little out of tune with the present.

Such in brief are a few of the things I have witnessed and been a part, in a small way, in the passing years.

There is much talk and writing as to whether a candidate for office who has signified his intention of bolting the national ticket should be allowed to put his name on the primary ticket. Well, if it was not my intention to stay with the party I most assuredly would not run on the ticket, but as most of us know who the bolters are it will not be necessary to exclude them. It isn't any worse for the man seeking the office than in those who expect to vote in the primary for State and county officers and at the election vote the republican national ticket. In either case it is purely one of keeping ones pledged word. This has never bothered a large body of men in Texas elections. I once assessed a lawyer and when the oath was administered, he remarked that it was his tax oath. Most of these bolters belong to some order, church, or take their cue from the Anti-Saloon League, who do their thinking. Some of these orders have put the Catholic, the Jews and the negro under ban but they have been told that Sambo and the descendants of Abraham are the proper thing, so they are ready to embrace Hoover and his black brothers and sisters to down the Catholics. If the Democratic candidate was immoral, had been guilty of grave crimes, or had shown a disposition to be ruled politically by his church the case would be different. Twenty three years of public service should have shown the cloven feet, but it hasn't. Whatever satisfies the majority of this nation I will try my very best to accept.

T.T.T. CLUB NOTES

Mr. Williams talk was on sails, Mr. Madison talked on the carnival. All the club members that were in town Friday reported a nice time and good lunch.

The pie supper at Tokio brought $21.50 but we raised enough money to send two delegates.

The Tokio Club wants to thank Mr. Stricklin for the work he has done for us.—Reporter.

FARM LEADERS ARE SUPPORTING SMITH

Chicago. — The agricultural plank in the Democratic national platform has proved so satisfactory to George N. Peek, chairman of the executive committee representing the corn belt conference, that in a statement issued here he has urged Republican farmers to vote the Democratic ticket in November.

Peek, himself a Republican, said the Republican party "turned its back" on the farmers at Kansas City and then "added insult to injury" by nominating for president "the arch enemy of a square deal for American agriculture."

In Houston, on the other hand, the Peek statement said, "the farmers were given the greatest consideration in every way. Their reception was most cordial, their views on a platform were solicited, and a real plank was adopted which is the most favorable for agriculture ever written in the platform of any political party in our history."

TERRY COUNTY

This county has now been organized in accordance with the new Vital Statistics Law, by the appointment of one registrar, it being advisable to combine all of the precincts into one district.

Every birth is required by law to be reported to the local registrar of the district in which it occurs, by the attending physician or mid-wife, or if there was neither, then by the father or mother, within five days after the birth.

The law prohibits the burial or removal of a dead body before a death certificate properly and completely filled out, has been filed with the local registrar, and a burial or removal permit has been secured.

The immense legal value of these records makes it important that the citizens of Texas be given this protection by having a complete, legal record properly filed in accordance with this law.

In the first three months of 1928 there were reported from Terry county, 59 births and no deaths. This indicates a fair percentage of birth registration. Let's go 100 per cent from now on.

Below is the name of your local registrar, and it is urged that you make every effort to comply with the law, and to aid in securing complete registration in your county. For further information, address State Department of Health, Bureau of Vital Statistics, Austin, Texas.

Mrs. Viola Mae Barrett, Brownfield, entire county.
