CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Why didn't we have an exhibit at the South Plains Fair? That question has been asked of me a few hundred times since our county fair closed and I have tried to explain and finally decided that the best way to get it over to the most people is through the Herald. The first reason was that we could not secure a full score card. The second was that our stuff was not cured and would have mildewed after being packed in boxes for shipment to Lubbock and before it could have reached there.

The stuff shown was good for a county fair, but when you exhibit at regional and state fairs, a different procedure has to be followed and the stuff must be prepared in what might be termed a scientific manner.

Our county fair was a dandy and every one was well pleased, but had we placed an exhibit at Lubbock and taken a lower place than ever, which my experience as an exhibitor leads me to believe that we would have done, then that would have been something else again and have taken a whole lot more of explaining. Last but not least, we had no money with which to pay the expense of placing an exhibit at either Lubbock or Dallas and would have had to win a pretty good premium at each place in order to have paid the expense and the condition of our stuff was such that we could not have made the grade.

Our county fair should be made a permanent institution. It is too large to be held at the tabernacle. The compress shed may not be available next year and no other place is known that would contain it. A fair association should be organized and make the certificates of small denomination in order that everyone could purchase and advertise and get lots of valuable publicity out of it. The South Plains Fair has been the cause of more development in Lubbock county than any one activity and we could develop an exposition almost equal to it with the territory that we have available.

Think about it, it is very possible that an effort will be made to organize an association within the next few months.

We could say more but the editor is a better writer and will leave it to him.

Ray Howell Players Here All This Week

The first tent theatre to make Brownfield in the past year or two came in and erected large water-proof tents on the east side of the square and have been playing to good houses all the week up to this writing. So far the writer has not been able to attend any of the plays, but others report good up-to-date plays and fine acting.

This company is said to belong partly to that famous West Texas comedian, Harley Sadler, who is playing at Lamesa this week, and anything that Sadler has anything to do with gives satisfaction or your money back. They report a fine program for the entire week.

The Powell Chickens Carry Off Ribbons

Pappy John Powell, erstwhile bandmaster here, local taxidermist, general repair man on everything from fish hooks to fiddles, and one of our most enthusiastic chicken fanciers, carried away a long string of winnings at the Terry county fair on his Rhode Island reds. We were through his poultry yards recently—he being also present at the time—and we could not see what would keep him from carrying off a lot of winnings.

Among the ribbons he got were: 1st on old pen; 1st on old cock; 1st on old hen and second on old hen; 1st on young pen; 1st on young cock; 1st on young pullet. As usual Pappy John will have setting eggs for market at the proper time.

Merchants Have Lovely Displays at Fair

Some thought that it could not be put over, and a few did not aim to avail themselves of the space purchased to do any advertising, thinking a patriotic duty ended when they put up the dough for their booth space, to help pay expenses of the fair. Indeed a few of us were in no particular hurry to get on the grounds and waited until Friday morning to start, and then just aimed to put a few things down there to advertise themselves the best they could.

But when he got on the grounds Friday morning and saw the showing that our more progressive neighbors were making, we quickly changed our minds, hurried back to town for decoration material and soon had our booths looking good. Next year this will not have to be done, for all now realize the value of these booths as an advertising proposition, aside from the fact that we are helping the fair.

There were some extremely lovely booths on the grounds representing many different businesses. Some had wondered how on earth they could get any display of their products—such as abstractors, for instance—but they did, and these booths, together with the community and individual exhibits of agricultural products, livestock and poultry put over the fair in fine shape.

Rotary Entertains Distinguished Visitors

The local Rotary club had for their guests last Friday at the noon hour luncheon some very prominent guests who were here to judge several divisions of exhibits at the fair. Among them were, Mr. Tinsley, agricultural agent of the Santa Fe; D. F. Eaton, county agent of Lubbock county; Miss Edith Murray, district demonstration agent of A. and M. College; Prof. Mowery of the dairy husbandry department of the Tech college, and Mr. Monroe Jones, of Gaines county, who judged the poultry section.

The program was in charge of Roy Davis, our county agent, who introduced the visitors, all of whom responded much to the edification of those assembled around the board. After the program, the gentlemen who are obtaining movie scenes in and around Brownfield, had the bunch come out in front, and the whole club broke into the movies, including two preachers.

SPECIAL SERVICES ARE ANNOUNCED BY MAY

What should be a Christian's attitude toward his government?

Pastor May, of the Baptist church, will answer these and kindred questions on Sunday at 11 a. m. in the discussion of the subject, "God or Government?"

At the evening service the subject, "A Wedding Feast, and You Are Invited," will be discussed.

You are cordially invited to attend these services.

NOTICE!

The Workers' Conference of The Brownfield Baptist Association will meet with the Meadow Baptist church, Tuesday, October 9th.

Jake Johnson and family of Idaleu were visitors here during the fair, and shaking hands with old friends as they were former residents of Brownfield. They visited Mrs. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Duke, while here.

Texas ranks first among the states in number of ice manufacturing plants and number of persons engaged in the industry. The annual production of ice is valued at $25,000,000.

The ratio of increase in electrical production in Texas is greater than the average for the United States. Inter-connection has made electricity available to hundreds of towns which otherwise would not have had this convenience.

The Livestock Exhibits At the County Fair

No one department of the county fair was more complete in every detail than the livestock department, except you might say it was top heavy in the hog section and extremely light in the horse and mule departments. There was a bunch of dairy stuff that would do credit to many so-called regional fairs, and it contained stock whose ancestors in many instances were imported. In fact, there were off-springs of sires whose cost went as high as $25,000.00.

There were hogs here of all sizes and almost all breeds except Berkshire and they don't seem to be very popular in this section. We can remember in Tennessee when the Berkshire and their heavy boned cousins, the Poland Chinas, mixed was considered the best ideal hog, but cross breeding is about all mill these days.

The writer was especially pleased with the club boys section for in it was represented four favorite breeds, the Poland China, the Reds, the white girted hog—name slipped us—and the O. I. Co., only one of the last name. That all of the boys had been on the job early and late was well proven by the comparatively nearness of the weight of each, the variation probably running less than 20 pounds. We have it unofficially that the first prize winner had one of the least pigs of the shipment and it looked so runty that he cried about the pig when he drew it. We understand it weighed around thirty pounds then, five months ago, and now around 210. Representing a cost of 50c per pound, you can count the gain yourself.

But just think what an exhibit we can pull off next year in the hog and dairy section when we begin to get off-springs from these pigs and begin to enter the ton litter contests. There were some hogs at the fair that weighed more than a fourth ton this year, and ran on down to wee piglets.

Pioneer Cattleman to Spend Winter at Alpine

John C. Scudday informed us this past week that he was making preparations to spend the winter at Alpine, Texas, as he felt that both he and his wife would fare better in the milder climate. In view of that fact he had us send the Herald to his son-in-law, Matt Smith, who has a ranch in that section.

Mr. Scudday informed us that he had closed a deal for his ranch on the stock farms near Tokio to look after that and his son, Arthur, would look after his general interest here. Mr. Scudday said that he believed that he would be better satisfied if kindly following the old trade of buying and selling cattle, and probably would follow that through the winter months. He indicated that he would return in the Spring.

MAGNETIC DECLINATION IN TEXAS IN 1927

The Coast and Geodetic Survey, Department of Commerce, has just made available a new publication of particular value to surveyors of this state who are required to use magnetic methods in recovering the lines of old surveys. The publication also contains the information necessary for testing compasses at the magnetic stations established by the Coast and Geodetic survey, descriptions of which stations are given in full in the publication, it is possible to find changes in the magnetic bearings at different localities in the State as time has elapsed. The use of this information for every degree of longitude and latitude makes it easy to find the correct values for any given place.

A copy of this publication may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. by remitting fifteen cents and requesting a copy of Coast and Geodetic Survey Serial No. 417, "Magnetic Declination of Texas in 1927."

It is estimated that 5,000,000 persons outside of Texas are engaged in industries directly dependent on or connected with Texas cotton.

Sheet Not Up to Our Standard—Moving Day

If you consider this sheet kindly shy of usual news value this week, have mercy on a poor tired editor—and we know you will if you have ever had to move. For that was what we had to do the first of the week, when the editorial family got into their new home on East Broadway. Of course we are proud of the new home, and will carry a picture of it before long—maybe—but we have been dreading moving a long long time.

We have only moved two or three times since we married and began keeping house, but the way we feel about the matter right now, that was three times as many, because when a guy makes a misstep and knocks a little tinsey bit of varnish off a piece of furniture, it's too blasted bad. And you needn't try to hide it either for your "fighting" mate will find it sooner or later. Most of the time, though that can easily be laid to the charge of the drayman, for by that time he is gone, and what he don't hear won't hurt him—he gets his at home the same as the rest of us.

It is seldom we make any apologies for a short paper, but we offer the excuse of moving as the best ever. Put we are hoping that we'll never have to offer this excuse again in our lives. We sometimes wonder what leisure people who had rather rent than own their own homes get out of moving, but we guess some of them get a great kick out of it from the amount of moving that they do. From boyhood we have often heard the expression that three moves equal a fire, and blamed if we don't believe that old saying. Yet there are a few of them that have much patience with—old sayings is what we are still talking about.

Well, we managed to kill considerable time with this harangue, didn't we?

IN FOURTH SESSION TECH ENROLLS 1600 STUDENTS

Lubbock.—With a total of 1625 who have completed enrollment at Texas Technological College for the opening of the fourth annual session all former records have been shattered. This represents more than a thirty per cent increase over the enrollment for the same period a year ago, and if percentages are maintained will mean that more than 2500 students will enter the doors of the institution during the fourth year.

Housing facilities so far have been entirely adequate due to the great building activity in Lubbock. Even with the new engineering building completed the college is taxed to its capacity to take care of all classes. The completion of the new chemistry building by January first will provide much more room.

Five members of the Texas legislature were present at the first convocation and marveled at the progress made by Texas Technological college, and promised to do all in their power to secure funds for the erection of additional buildings necessary to accommodate the growing student body.

Flem McSpadden and family went to Big Spring Sunday to visit a sick relative of Mrs. McSpadden.

It took us a long time, but we finally got Dock Powell on our regular list of readers.

W. E. Henson, local gin man presented the Herald and others with a beautiful calendar the past week.

John Thomas, with the Axtel people at Lubbock, wholesalers of windmills and pumping engines, was here during the fair to put up and display their products for Cicero Smith, their local representative. Mr. Thomas made the home of his uncle, A. J. Stricklin, headquarters while here.

Mr. Abbott, one of the owners of South Plains Coaches, of Lubbock, was a visitor here during the fair.

The Jones Dry Goods Company have on a big sale this week, and report a good business.

Willie Winn was over from Gomez one day recently and had us send the Herald to her friend, Frank D. Smith of Bakersfield, California.

The Greatest Fair in the County's History

Read the above headline, and you have almost the identical expression of every citizen, man, woman or child we talked with during the county fair of last Friday and Saturday. If there was a desenting voice, we failed to hear it, and we did our best to keep our ears open for expressions of approval or criticisms, the former because we like to be pleased, and the latter that we might take just and honest criticism in order to amend any defects of the future.

But as stated above, the critic did not show up, for every expression was in its favor. It reminded one of the little boy who showed his indulgent father his school work in which he had made A-plus, and the father's comment was that the work was very good whereupon the off-spring said: "Very good, B—L, it's perfect." It did one good to see the old timers as well as the newcomers with their thumbs under their vests or under their galluses, with a kind of outward pooh of the midsection say: "Boy, it's all right, ain't it?" Gosh, I didn't think we could put over one like this." They were right, too, for everyone in the county probably were agreeably surprised at the exhibits.

This always brought on the discussion of the value of a county agent to a county, together with clubs and club leaders, and all we talked with expressed the opinion that the county agent and club leaders were perhaps ninety per cent responsible for the good showing we made. Farmers we talked with almost to a man admitted that in reality the county agent costs the county not one penny, but is making money for the people every day in learning the people better farming methods, thus increasing their buying power, which in turn increases the desire of the people for better stock, better homes, better schools and communities in general, all of which in turn augurs for better citizenship in general. Some of these admittedly opposed to a county agent before we got one are now boosters for a county agent, and the county dads would hear from them if they tried to fire our agent. But we have a real live wire agent, and that is something else besides.

No less than a dozen people expressed themselves that the agricultural exhibits were superior to those shown at Lubbock for the first two or three years that the South Plains fair existed as a regional institution, and as far as it goes as good as that institution is today, with the exception of midway attractions which we did not have. But a county fair is supposed to be mainly educational, and being so, our fair had nothing to detract even the young people from their purpose, although effort was made to get a merry-go-round and ferris wheel for the pleasure of the children and young folks.

The first fireworks display ever seen in Brownfield was put on under the auspices of the fair, and in charge of Arnett Bynum and some selected helpers. The display was put on at the fair grounds, and witnessed by perhaps 3,000 people on Friday night. The display was not only beautiful but thrilling, and only one mishap occurred to mar the entertainment. A rocket back-fired and set off a case of bombs, but only those in charge of the display were in danger as the crowd was well back. All the boys were former soldiers and ducked into old roads which they used for makeshift trenches or shell holes.

The large sheds under which the fair was held were ideal for the fair, but next year may see an earlier cotton crop and it will then be impossible to hold forth under these sheds. Some of our leading citizens are advocating the erection of similar sheds to be used for our county fair each year, and something built on this order may develop between now and the fair next year. Something built on this order and further away from peoples' premises will be fitting for our fairs, but it is a pity to have to stick a lot of cow and hog pens, not to mention open toilets used by thousands right in decent people's front yards. If sheds are built, we should move them out away from the resident section.

We will not be able to give any of the results of the fair this week except that Tokio won first on communi-

Wellman Striving For A Station Agent

Four business men of Wellman, J. F. Singleton, Wade Headstream, L. Durett, and P. R. Cates, admittedly the Chamber of Commerce of that city, called at the Herald office Monday to give information of their progress in Wellman's fight to obtain a designation and an agent for the city.

The gentlemen had returned from a second trip to Slaton to interview Mr. Barton, superintendent for this division of the Santa Fe railroad. Mr. Barton was out of the office at the time but according to Mr. Cates, the chief clerk stated that the matter was before Mr. Barton in a favorable light. The chief clerk tentatively assured Mr. Cates and the other gentlemen from Wellman that their wishes were to reach fulfillment within a reasonable length of time.

Upon the request of the office at Slaton the people of Wellman will begin at once on a petition to the Santa Fe for the station setting forth the need of a resident agent to take care of the local tonnage. This petition carrying a complete survey of industrial activity and amount of incoming freight will be prepared and forwarded at once.

Twelve months or more will be required before a permanent station can be secured but upon presentation of the aforementioned petition the Santa Fe is expected to place a railway car on the siding to be used for temporary quarters until the necessary negotiation and red tape before the Railroad Commission can be effected in an ultimate permit for the erection of a depot and offices.

All four gentlemen were very optimistic over the outlook for their home town. They related with pride the ginning of the first bale of cotton for the season last Saturday.

Prominent Farmer Temporarily Demented

Mr. H. L. Lee, of the Johnson community, was brought in Tuesday of this week and placed in jail for safe keeping as it was feared he might injure some of the family or neighbors, as his usual composure and good nature took flight recently when he returned home after a trip to east Texas Oklahoma and Arkansas.

It is reported that Mr. Lee lost his mind once before after becoming over heat, and that on this trip he was caught in some extremely hot weather with a recurrence of the old trouble. We hope he may soon regain his usual health.

Mrs. Dunn, the president earnestly desires the attendance of every parent and teacher interested in child welfare.

Mr. Monroe Jones of Gaines county one of the best known poultry men of this section took in the fair. He was the judge of the poultry department and gave good satisfaction. Many of the exhibitors in this department as well as others took advantage of the occasion to get good advice from him while here.

ty exhibits with Challis a close second and the others not far behind for the reason that our county agent is judging the dairy section at the South Plains fair this week, and as he has all the records, and no one else wanted to be responsible, we'll have to wait the agent's return and publish results next week.

STATE GROWTH SHOWN BY UTILITIES ACTIVITY

Growth of Texas is indicated by utility company extensions and improvements reported from many parts of the state. The following items are culled from the press:

One of the largest and most up-to-date automatic telephone exchanges installed by any independent telephone company in the United States has been opened at San Angelo.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone company has installed the automatic system at Abilene.

The West Texas Utilities Company is building high lines to the Pecos and Cook oil fields.

The Consolidated Gas Utilities Company has started work on a 165 mile gas line from Wheeler, Texas to Enid, Oklahoma.

The Central Power and Light Company is building a $40,000 sub-station west of Mission.

Electrification of the New Consolidated oil pool in Wilbarger county is well under way.

The Northern Texas Traction Company is repairing its roadbed through Arlington.

Raymondville's telephone system has been partly rebuilt.

The Texas Electric Company, operating Waco's street car system, is laying new rails.

The Southwestern Gas and Electric Company, headquarters at Texarkana, has purchased electric properties of the Southwest Power Company serving twenty seven communities.

A high line has been completed from Dickens to Spur.

The Rio Grande Telephone Company is erecting a new exchange at Elsa.

The Central Power and Light Company is to erect a large hydro-electric plant as a result of an agreement with Water Improvement District No. 1 near Eagle Pass, Texas.

Among the visitors to the fair was Mrs. Rosa Hobson, of Dallas, a former resident of Brownfield, at which time, she will be remembered as Mrs. Rosa Wirtz, who lived here some six or seven years ago. She informed us that she had come all the way from Dallas just to see our fair, and quoting her, she said: "I have never seen a county or a fair grow as much as Terry county and its fair has grown, and no one could be better tickled than I about it." She is visiting relatives here.

W. F. Young and T. C. Hogue have purchased a fourteen months old bull from S. W. White of Meadow, which was on exhibit at the fair. The boys refused to state the exact figure they paid for the bull, but we are satisfied that it took several bales of cotton at the present price to cover the deal.

Mr. Sjogreen of Plainview, prominent farmer and banker of that city, was here during the fair demonstrating the Hammer feed crusher for the Holgate Endersen Company. Mr. Sjogreen was carried away with our fair and pronounced it superior to the Hale county fair.

Well, didn't we put over a swell fair, and we were all so busy talking about how good it was that we even forgot politics for the time being at least.

It was remarked several times that more hogs were on display at the fair than there was in the county two years ago, and it would not miss the truth much.

And another thing, if the writer or even nine tenths of the older farmers were sent to purchase blooded stock wouldn't it be an easy matter for some breeder who wanted to sell us hogs or other livestock with weak points, although they looked good to us? Sure. But do you suppose they will be able to do our farm boys that way after they have another year or two on stock judging? Nope.

Next week is National Fire Prevention Week, and it will not be a bad idea to give that old flag the once over to see if it will be safe through the winter, and if in doubt, take it out and replace it with new stuff and save money. Fires are costly and dangerous to human life. Don't risk the lives of loved ones for a few measly dollars. Also, see that all rubbish and weeds around the place that are liable to take fire while you are away from home are removed and destroyed. Let's make the town safe and at the same time sanitary.

The Anti-Smith Democrats are strenuously denying the fact they are circulating the supposed Knights of Columbus oath. That now ancient and much discussed document is generally admitted to be a fake by all reasonable people other than Catholics. The only reason that some people still seem to think it true is that some wind jammer in Congress had it made of record in Congressional Record some twenty years ago, and some folks are simple enough to think all they see in that periodical is the truth. People who circulate it now are aiding the cause they wish to injure, and the leaders know it, is the reason they are denying its circulation as a body.

YALE PRESIDENT TO ADDRESS GAS MEN'S NATIONAL MEET

President James Rowland Angell of Yale University will address the tenth annual convention of the American Gas Association to be held at Atlantic City, October 8-12, according to the association's announcement. President Angell will have for the subject of his address, "Education and Industry." Among the other prominent men to address the convention will be Silas H. Strawn, president of the American Bar Association, and Walter M. Harrison, president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

The convention will be attended by prominent leaders in the gas industry and utility industry in general from all parts of the country, and will be the largest meeting the association has ever held. The convention is held annually for the purpose of bringing together leaders of the gas industry for an exchange of ideas upon means of improvement in gas service. Every phase of the gas industry will be thoroughly discussed and every new development of the past year brought forth for the general good of the members of the association. Reports of committees which were appointed the previous year for research purposes are heard and new committees retired.

Among the major developments in the gas industry which have resulted from these annual meetings of the association, was the founding of the American Gas Association laboratory which has been the means of developing high standards in the manufacture of gas appliances. Another important result was the establishment of a large fund for investigation and research into the uses of gas for heating purposes in industry.

MILLION CHEVROLETS HIT ROAD SINCE FIRST OF YEAR

Detroit.—Keeping pace with the most insistent demand in its history, the Chevrolet Motor Company has delivered more than one million cars into the hands of owners since the introduction of the popular "Bigger and Better" model last January first, it was announced at the company's offices here early in the week.

This sensational achievement of delivering one million cars in nine months is without parallel in the history of the manufacture of gear-shift cars; and is seen as a tribute to the manufacturing ability and far-sightedness of the company. It is regarded here as a further indication of Chevrolet's leadership as the world's largest automobile producer.

How Chevrolet marched to this height of popular acclaim may be noted in the fact that within ninety days after the introduction of the new car more than a quarter million new Chevrolets were on the highways in the service of their owners. Two months later, or on June first, a half million were in use from Maine to California. Another two months saw 750,000 Chevrolets providing dependable transportation in every city, town and hamlet in the Union. And then came October when the full million mark was achieved.

In order to accommodate the demand, new plants and additions to present ones were made necessary in the many cities across the country where Chevrolet now maintains manufacturing or assembly operations. Foremost among these was the opening in the Spring of a mammoth assembly plant in Atlanta, now the largest automobile establishment in the South.

Despite new plants and factory additions, Chevrolet has been working on a night and day basis since the first of the year in an effort to keep pace with orders. More than 40,000 men, the greatest number ever on the Chevrolet payroll, were employed to assist in the production of the million "Bigger and Better" models now on the road.

A clipping from the Madalena, N. M. paper states that Olen Cardwell, formerly of this place, but now engineer at one of the mines there recently got into close quarters when he crawled into a close place thinking he heard steam escaping, and finally found a big rattle snake in about six inches of his head. But the snake was hung as well as Olen, only worse—for Olen got out quickly. We never thought an old time Terry county cowboy would ever mistake the hiss of a rattler.

CONQUISITORS DE GOMEZ

The fair, the fair, have you ever seen one better? We think everyone that took a peep at what old Terry produced received a real treat not soon to be forgotten.

The Conquistors did not receive the blue ribbons on their booth—a goal we worked hard to reach, but we won our part of the blue ribbons on our club projects. Tommie Key won second prize on her club pig. Vivian McLeroy won first prize on her club Rhode Island reds and second on her reds over all other reds shown. Dollie McLeroy won first prize on her club turkeys.

The Conquistors wish to extend our congratulations to all of the club members that won over us, for we know they worked very hard and faithful to win their respective places at the fair.

Watch out for us at the next fair even though it does seem that we are counting chickens before the eggs hatch. "If at first you don't succeed try, try again"—that is our slogan.

At present we are yelling, "On to Lubbock," so come on club boys and girls and lets be on our way to see the great fair.—Reporter.

WHO GETS IT?

Getting around to coal-burning weather again Littlefield citizens will do well to think a little before placing the blame for prices that are higher than they consider just. Last week a miner's strike was settled, and in Illinois mines, when the men returned to work, it was at a scale that nets them 91c a ton for the coal they dig. Pause and think what a price spread there is between the 91c the miner gets and the price you pay for it in your cellar. But don't blame the local dealer—for if he is making a profit of a dollar a ton he is doing well, and having a hard time keeping his head above the water at that.

Mine operators and transportation lines must then be reaping the harvest. There are several dollars between the amount the miner gets for a ton of coal and what your dealer and you have to pay for it. Since your dealer will tell you what coal costs him it ought to be easy for you to learn just what that wide spread amounts to, and just as easy to figure out where the difference goes.

We'll have to grin and bear it. But there is one thing apparent in this country just now, and that should be investigated at once. Either coal mine operators and the railroads are getting too much or the miners are getting too little—The Lamb County Leader.

ELECTRIC RAILWAY EXHIBIT TO SHOW MANY BUSES

For the third consecutive year the American Electric Railway Association Convention will convene in Cleveland on Saturday, September 22.

This group represents practically all the local transportation industry in the United States which is engaged in furnishing rides by both electric rail cars and buses. The membership is operating about 75,000 electric cars and 10,000 buses. The total numbers of miles of service rendered is approximately 60,000, divided three-fourths rail and one-fourth bus. The combined services carry approximately 16,000,000 persons annually. The total investment in the industry is more than $6,000,000,000.

More than 100,000 square feet of exhibit space is required to accommodate the manufacturers' display. About one-third of the space is given over to bus exhibits and the remainder to cars and accessories. Several new features in the way of cars are being displayed. There is still some question in the minds of executives as to just what type of car finally will prevail. The car manufacturers seem to be copying bus lines and the bus makers seem to be tending toward car types.

THE BATTLE OF THE PRESIDENCY

(By Aesculapias)

Our quadrennial battle over the presidency is now getting under way, and the armies of combatants are marshalling for the fray.

The contest is unique, in that the two candidates of the major parties for the presidency are of religious faiths not hitherto represented by any former president. So far as I know there has never been a Quaker for any very important office before.

As the campaign is being fought on the religious issue, especially in the case of Al Smith, it would certainly not be sacrilegious to briefly review the religious affiliation of his opponent, Herbert Hoover, who is perhaps a most excellent man as we are inclined to estimate men.

The Quakers, or Society of Friends, came into being about the year 1647 and was fathered by one George Fox. Its most notable advocate in America was William Penn, who founded the colony of Pennsylvania. The sect was badly persecuted both in England and at a later date in America. By other protestants. The Maryland Catholics offered them shelter.

Like all Christian sects they have split into several bodies, on some one or another pretext. So, in 1827 one Elias Hicks started a schism in the state of New York, by denying the miraculous conception, divinity and atonement of Christ, and also the divine authority of the scriptures.

They oppose wars from any cause or reason and refuse to fight for any reason whatsoever.

It is to the Hicks-ite Friends that candidate Hoover belongs. So if he believes anything of the essential, preached by most modern sects it is that Christ was a pretty good fellow and reading the scriptures is a pleasant pastime.

During the World War they refused to go to France as soldiers and were excused. My boy and your boy went or were forced to go to the slaughter pens of France and Belgium. If they refused to go they were chased and slaughtered or confined in prisons in various parts of this country. Some few Quakers like Hoover accepted administrative jobs secure from even stray bullets, protected in person and property, with plenty of biscuits to eat while you and me tussled along borrowed money to buy bonds and a corn bread and sow belly when we were fortunate enough to get it.

Did the Catholics whine and try to stay out? Did the Pope issue any Bull to keep them out? No, no, every one responded to the call of duty. The Catholic Knights of Columbus came forward to a man and pledged their fortunes and their man power to the Republic. Further, they organized for duty to the sick and wounded and spent millions for relief to the soldiers and no questions asked. Your boy and my boy received their kindly ministrations in their darkest hours. This work continued in one way or another until long after the Armistice was signed. Did they fight? Ask the Dough Boy who was with them in France. On every field in the war zone they stood shoulder with their protestant comrades and died by the thousands for what they conceived was right.

There is much noise by a few Klux preachers and a rotten lot of obsolete politicians — old blisters, who want office and money. They have failed to get the office and they are now hanging around Republican headquarters asking for a hand out that they may come home and complete the treason began in the Primaries. God help such consciences.

The man that can stand and fight by my side and die if need be, is a good enough man for me to vote for be his religion what it may or no religion if it suits him.

Scratch any of the numerous preachers who are leading this crusade against Al Smith and you will find that the vast majority of them either belonged to the order of the "Sheet and Hood" or were the recipients of hand outs during the reign of terror enacted a few years ago. On bended knees most of this bunch out in some pasture or forest swore to vote against Catholics for office.

The man against whom this crusade is directed has time and again been proven by friend and foe alike the equal of any statesman of the country. Clean in his private and family life. Courageous and loyal to his country. A friend to the poor, an upholder of labour in whatsoever field it may be. An advocate of the free school as the corner stone of American Liberty. Freedom to worship as conscience may dictate, non interference in the affairs of other nations and America for Americans.

But, he is a Catholic. I had rather be a dog and bay the moon than to raise such howl. Yes, and he is a wet also. Go off and soak your head in the home brew and boot-leg most of you are drinking.

"Go send round the wine and leave points of belief To simpleton sages and reasoning fools..

"Shall I ask the brave soldier who Fights by my side

In the cause of mankind if our creeds agree,

Shall I give up the friend I have trusted and tried

Because he kneels not at the same altar with me,

From the heretic girl of my soul should I fly

To seek some where else a more orthodox kiss?

No, perish the law or the creeds that would try

Truth, Valour or love by a standard like this."

A few days ago there traveled across our border one of those freaks and as he is forked we will let him pass as a man. He tries to palm himself off as a preacher; a follower of that more than man who nearly twenty centuries ago climbed the barren hills of Judea alone and strolled along the shores of the Sea of Galilee with simple fishermen as his chosen companions. To these He discoursed of love, truth and the many virtues that go to make up the ideal man. He taught that we should even love our enemies and those who spitefully use us. By nature convivial, he attended feasts and contributed his part to the things necessary for the enjoyment of his friends. All creeds looked like to Him for he was interested in cultivating all that was best in those about Him. This preacher was not a that type.

Back in the days of the early prophets there was another preacher and when a helpless man was brought before him who differed with him in nationality and religion; this preacher seized a sword and in spite of his entreaties for mercy and to be spared his life, with curses on his lips, this preacher hewed the helpless victim to pieces. 1 Sam. 15.

This was the type that crossed our borders. Falsehood and invective are his stock in trade. Rancor and hate of his daily bread. Notoriety his god and hades and oblivion is his goal.

In the great state of Ohio there assembled recently a large body of religious men and women supposedly to talk and make plans for the furtherance of Christ's Kingdom in this world. There appeared before them, whether by invitation I know not, a grass widow, who occupies the position of assistant attorney general of the United States. She did not however go there to enlist the sympathy and assistance of this religious body but to vent her spleen on the Catholic church by attacking Al Smith.

She disclaimed any intention of injecting the religious issue into the campaign but throughout her wordy address there is hardly a paragraph that she doesn't mention it. The entire address was a tissue of falsehood in so far as it related to Al Smith. She asserted that enforcement had not broken down and that with Hoover in the presidency it would be cleaned up. The boot leggers and distillers would all quit and go to playing golf and croquet. She didn't mention Tea Pot dome, Fall, Daugherty, Doheny, or Sinclair. Nor did she mention the millions of dollars in oil stolen from the government under Harding and Coolidge's administrations. She didn't tell nor does Norris that Hoover was the boon companion of those charged with these thefts.

HOME DAIRY COW WINS FIRST AT COUNTY FAIR

For the first time in history, the Tipton Orphans Home exhibited at the County Fair held at Frederick, August 28, 29, 30, and 31. Two Jerseys, one male and one female were entered to compete for the awards, and both were in the winning class.

The registered Jersey cow took first prize and grand champion over all in the 3-year and over class, and second prize was awarded to the Jersey bull.

Cash premiums on the two entries netted the home $21.00.

The Home was successful both at the Tipton fair and at the county fair, in bringing home the blue ribbons and cash awards.

The new dairy herd is proving a very profitable investment.—Tipton Orphans Home, Oklahoma.

"SOUTHERN HEDGING"

The White Southern Democratic Club of Tarrant County, Texas

Every news item about the cotton gambling market carries with it the stock phrase, "The market sold off due to Southern hedging!"

"Southern hedges!" are sales by the hundred bale buyer in a country town on the future market to protect his few points profit during the several days needed, by mail and wire, to approve the grade and transfer title to the Million Bale Purchasers—the friends of the Republican Department of Agriculture—who are buying, not selling, during September, October and November!

"Southern hedging"! A bale of cotton family's tears with every bale of their foreclosed cotton at starvation prices!

"Southern hedging!" A sneering jibe at those who believe that Southern farmers sell cotton gambling futures to be sure that he gets less than his cost for the cotton opening in the fields!

"Southern hedges!" Count them up and you know the number of cotton bales foreclosed on in the South that day in cotton picking time!

"Southern hedging!" A lie to indicate Southern fear of a still lower price—instead of the misery of seeing his hope of prosperity taken from him by foreclosure when all he hopes for is to be permitted to hold instead of being forced to sell!

"Southern hedging!" The product of a years labor in the arms of poverty at the price of another year of poverty!

That is Southern hedging! The product of a Republican Department of Agriculture!

MEADOW BRIEFS

(By Aesculapias)

Three weeks have passed since I visited the pages of the Herald. A few have asked if I have quit or just what has come over me. Nothing out of the ordinary has happened; just giving the readers a needed rest before getting into the campaign, which appears to be getting warmed up just a little.

Just at present the farmers have not gotten over the jolt given them by the Farm Bureau, which to say the least was a hard blow to many, and will doubtless lose many farmers from the ranks of this marketing device. I know nothing of the causes underlying the seeming fault of this concern, but imagine it was possible. The immense forces opposed to cooperation of farmers in marketing their products, especially cotton and wheat, are able to give serious trouble to the Bureau or any other association, which stands between exchanges and the farmers of cotton and wheat. It has really been longer materializing than I imagined it would be. If I belonged to the concern I would stand with it until I was sure that it had purposely robbed me. This I do not believe.

There has been six bales ginned and pickers can be seen in many of the fields. If the weather had continued clear there would be much more picking under way. The outlook is for a poor crop of cotton. But the price is advancing as the crop appears short.

I visited the Terry County Fair and must say that it was the best in all ways of any county exhibit that I ever visited. The hog exhibit would do credit to any fair anywhere. In fact there were more hogs exhibited than there were in the entire county two years ago. There were also some good milk stock. The stock shown by our fellow townsman, S. W. White would be noticeable anywhere.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Nettles have a new boy at their house. That they are very proud of him goes without saying. Perhaps his wife will now quit calling him Jiggs.

Commissioner Stewart is grading the roads in this district, thus putting them in shape for the fall travel to market.

The Bureau gin is nearing completion, and it is certainly a daisy. It will be ready by the time picking gets well under way, and will from appearance give a good account of itself.

Send the Herald to your folks.

INTER-CONNECTED ELECTRIC SYSTEMS BOON TO VILLAGES

Scores of cities and towns in Texas have received the benefits of the full 24-hour electrical service in the last few years through the inter-connected systems which have spread over the state.

Lines of various companies are linked in such a manner that they can exchange current in an emergency. This inter-connection forms one of the largest systems in the country from standpoint of area covered, extending from Goliad and Mission on the south to Quanah on the north, and from Texarkana at the northeast corner to Wink and Crockett in the west.

A similar development is taking place throughout the country according to information received by the Texas Public Service Information Bureau from the National Electric Light Association.

The national association knows that more than 4,000 towns and villages in the United States have been reached for the first time with electricity since 1923, an increase of 26 per cent. What is more interesting is the fact that they are receiving the same high quality 24 hour service formerly enjoyed by only the large cities. Electric service is rapidly becoming universal. Every city and town in the United States with a population of 5,000 or more, 97 per cent of communities with populations of from 1,00 to 5,000 over 50 per cent of communities with between 250 and 1,000 population, and 25 per cent of all hamlets with less than 250 population are now reached by the copper wires of light and power companies.

Without inter-connection literally thousands of these communities would either be without any service whatsoever or would have it for only a few hours at best.

The transmission lines of an inter-connected system form a net work covering a considerable amount of territory. The result is that the same service that is being received by the larger cities in the territory, is available to small villages and hamlets. Many of these small communities could not possibly support a local plant.

Inter-connection, bringing with it the electrification of practically every town of 1,00 population or more also makes possible the decentralization of industry. From a power standpoint the small town has equal opportunity with the large city. Decentralization of industry benefits the farmer by creating close-by markets for many of his products. The rapid industrial development of the south during the past few years and the general improvement in the condition of the farmer and the small town has been due in a large measure to the increase of inter-connection and electrical development.

Again, inter-connection gives the small community fuller protection against interruption of service. When the small isolated power plant shuts down because of storms, water shortage, failure of transportation or failure of equipment all electric service ceases. There are no reserves to call upon. Power supplied over inter-connected lines is rigorously safeguarded; plants and transmissions of the whole system co-operate in maintaining continuity of service.

J. T. Wheatley of Haskell was here from Haskell the past week visiting his son, J. O., and family of the Johnson community. Mr. Wheatley was accompanied by Mr. J. A. Naples, also of Haskell. They took in the fair while here and were loud in their praise of Terry county products. For eight years Texas has been the leading state in total value of crops produced. It is estimated that the production could be more than doubled by increased land in cultivation.
