

ARE YOU GOING TO STAY —OR JUST CLEANING UP?

New Comers Who Really Intend to Make This Their Home Are Welcome as the Flowers of May. But Those Who Are Just Cleaning Up Are Not Wanted.

The Herald is of the opinion that you are, Mr. Newcomer, going to be asked some very pertinent questions when you open up a stock of goods here this fall, whether it be dry goods, groceries, drugs, autos, hardware, or anything else. One of these questions will be: "Have you come to our county and city to grow up with us, to be with us in our advancement, a part of our civic clubs, a tax payer to help keep our schools going, and our city and county governments going? To take what we take and be one of us during the lean as well as the good years?"

If you answer yes, good and well. The people are for you. They welcome you with open arms and wish you success in your undertaking. Indeed, they will give you a portion of their trade, because Terry county people are going to stay with those who are for Terry county, first, last and all the time. But, on the other hand—

If you have come here because this is a green spot of the few green spots in West Texas to reap where you have not sown. To get all the dollars you possibly can through the fall and beat it out of the town and county just before the first day of January in order to beat your taxes next year, you will not be welcome by any means. If you have an old run down stock you are bringing from the dry belt to unload on prosperous Terry county people, we are afraid you will be barking up the wrong tree, for the Herald has already heard it buzzing around that the people are going to question all new comers just about as above, for we have had these THREE MONTHS merchants here for several years, and they are going to be pretty sure you are a fixture, or that it is your honest intention to be a fixture, or they will pass up your place and stay with the men whom they know are fixtures here.

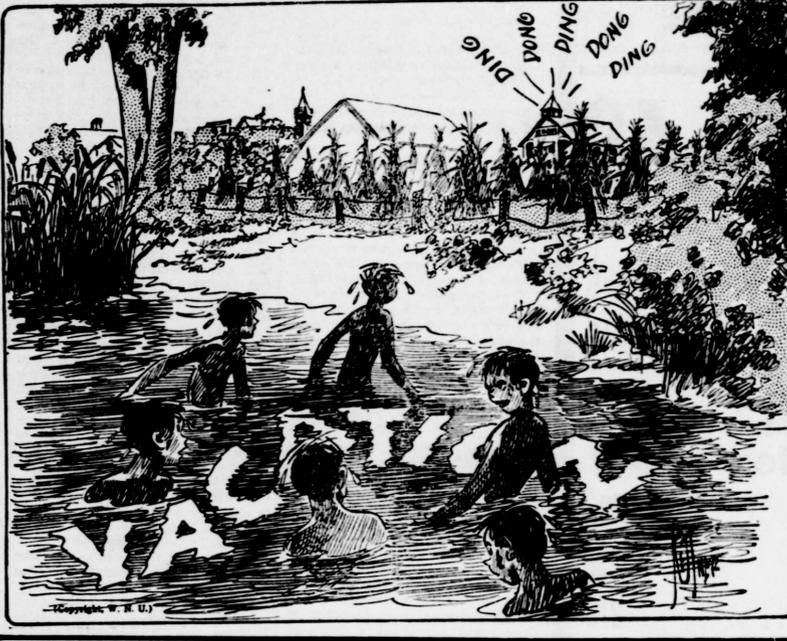

The Herald believes that many of the new comers honestly intend to make Brownfield their future homes. They say it so plainly that they leave no doubts in the minds of anyone but what it is their honest aim. Perhaps there will be some, as past years, who will be broke when they come here, but aim to stay if they make the grade, but fail. We have nothing but sympathy for such firms. On the other hand, we have had many firms to come here through the fall season with old shop worn, run down stocks, taken from stocks in the larger cities to our east, to palm off on our people, and perhaps the goods were moth eaten when brought here. Then just before the tax assessor gets around, they load out the left over during the night and away they go. But our officers have been very diligent for the past two years and have caught many such birds on the fly. This will make it rather hard, perhaps, on new firms that actually aim to stay, but the people will find you out if you are on the square and stay with you in the long run. But if you are a transient, you are up against it brother, for we have heard numerous farmers say they aim to stay with those who have stayed with them, or that aim to come here permanently and help build up the county.

There are perhaps two reasons for the big influx of new firms that actually aim to stay here and become real citizens. The first is that they have seen the county tried out for the past two years when there was a failure east of here in the harder natured lands, and the sandy soils that some have sneered at in Gaines, Terry, Yoakum and Hockley counties have made fair to good crops. This has awakened a confidence in the permanent stability of the county that makes the prospector want to cast his lot here. Another thing is the great prospect of a trunk line railway through this city and section that assures it future for ease of transportation to seaboard and larger inland centers. They also realize that the millions of dollars in construction by the new railway in the next two years will spell prosperity to this section while this "repression" as Andy calls it is on. However, in the next two years, perhaps much sooner, we'll very likely almost forget there was a depression in 1930, for we believe the top of the hill has been reached, and the sunrise of prosperity is now casting its first rays over the nation. Our belief is based upon the prediction of some of the best financial minds of the nation.

Again let us say that if you are migrating to Brownfield and Terry county to cast your lots with the finest people in all the world, as well as upon an incomparable soil, you are more than welcome. We are glad to have you. Our palm is extended to grasp yours in a welcoming shake. Our welcome is written in the azure elements, the cool zephyrs that lull you to sleep at night, in the whistle of the bird that roam green fields of waving grain. In other words, brother, have off your hat and make yourself at home.

MAY HAVE DIRECT OUTLET TO GULF WITHIN 5 YEARS

The Southern Terminal of the T-P at Big Spring Most Likely Will Be Connected With a Missouri Pacific Line From Corpus Christi, San Antonio and San Angelo.

This paper dropped a gentle hint last week that the southern terminal of the Texas Pacific Northern might not remain a fixture at Big Spring for any length of time, and we base this belief on many things we have seen and heard for the past few months, as well as some things we have read between the lines in railroad news appearing in the dailies. There is a rule which is used by detectives which they term deduction, and in doing so, they place crimes upon parties sometimes where actual evidence is very scarce. Using this same means, we figure that it will not be five years until we have a direct line of railway from here to the gulf via Big Spring, San Angelo, San Antonio to Corpus Christi.

In the first place during our trip in June to the later city, the Texas Press Special left the Katy tracks at San Antonio, and used the Missouri Pacific to Corpus, and also the side trip to the Rio Grande Valley. During the run from Corpus to McAllen, the writer had the privilege of a two hour talk with a high official of that road, and during the talk, we mentioned to him that such a road as outlined above would be a great road for some enterprising company that should feel justified in building it now with probable running expenses, and later on pay dividends as the tonnage increased as the country settled. "Well, brother," says this official, "you are not going to have to wait many years for it. Seeing that he was interested, we begin, like any loyal west Texan to tell him of our country, its possibilities etc., but he suddenly interrupted us with, "Oh! I knew all about your county. All over it last summer.

Great and fast growing section indeed." We said no more after finding he had already spied out the land.

In the second place, just a few days after the T. & P. made application for the right to build into this section, an application was filed, according to the daily papers, with the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant a stay of 90 days to the Gulf, Texas & Western, which has been granted to build from San Antonio to Big Spring. Whether this stay has been granted or not, we do not know, but reading between the lines we know that this would throw forward their time to commence construction until after the hearing of the T. & P. proposal to build into this section. It is also well known that the Missouri Pacific, the Southern Pacific and Texas & Pacific are sister lines; if not, they are close cousins to say the least, and a joint trackage between the two could be arranged from Vega to Corpus Christi, very easily.

In the third place, a high official of the Missouri Pacific was in our city two weeks ago getting data on our production, tonnage etc., that also proves the fact that this road is a contender to help in the development of this section.

Taking everything in consideration, we can readily see that several roads are interested, among which is the Missouri Pacific. Also, let us add that the Missouri, Kansas & Texas have long had their eyes on the South Plains, and on to Roswell, and we should not wonder if that road does not move out from Rotan in the next few years.

Popular Novel Becomes Great Film Thriller

Claudette Colbert, Federic March Head Stellar Cast in Movie Hit, "Manslaughter"

Since its first appearance in 1922, Alice Duer Miller's best-seller novel, "Manslaughter," has become an American classic. Now it has been made into a thrilling, all-talking melodrama, with Claudette Colbert and Federic March in the leading roles. "Manslaughter" will feature the Riothe theatre program Sunday, Monday and Tuesday next week. Modern, up-to-date, "Manslaughter" is an introduction to the carefree, carefree life of the wealthy; their gay parties, their nerve-tangling sports, their light, laughing love affairs. But it is also a grim melodrama that shows how a beautiful daughter of wealth becomes a conscious woman by means of a great tragedy and a powerful love. Claudette Colbert, who has established herself as a moving picture favorite in three previous successes, "The Lady Lies," "The Big Pond" and "Young Man of Manhattan," here has a role that calls for all her youth and beauty and great acting talent. "Manslaughter" is considered to be one of Paramount's outstanding pictures of the season.

Santa Fe Official Visits Our City Tuesday

Mr. E. Kancher, of Lubbock, was a pleasant visitor in our city Tuesday of this week, and while here called upon the Herald. Mr. Kancher did not state his business here, which no doubt was in his official capacity, but he seemed to be interested in our well developments in this section and possibly more so in the vicinity of Tatum and Bronco, Texas, on the line of this state and New Mexico. He is the division freight and passenger agent of the Panhandle & Santa Fe, and like most railroad officials are somewhat flinchy of interviews until they are ready to be interviewed. But after revealing what he did to the Herald and the questions he asked, it would possibly lead a more optimistic fellow than this city and writer think that perhaps the Santa Fe contemplated a line west into that section from Brownfield. But, go eleven innings. But one got his Mr. Kancher may have just wanted this information for himself and not his road.

He seemed to be somewhat interested in the proposed T. & P. road through this section, also, asking if we believed the road would be built. When told that we believed it would, he wished to know what officials of the T. & P. had been here lately, and what their proposition was, and how much right of way they wanted, and in what section of the city they would pass through. He also wanted to know if we did not think that towns would be built between Lamesa and Brownfield and Brownfield and Levelland. We assured him that we believed that small town would be built at both places, but we could not see wherein they would hurt more than or as much as the line through here would help. We showed him the dispatch in the Star Telegram wherein President Herbert Hoover urging the I. C. C. to hasten as much as possible the date when it would be decided whether or not the road would be built. Mr. Kancher remarked that he had not seen the dispatch before, but made no comment.

The Herald as well as the rest of the people of Brownfield and Terry county are proud of our branch line of the Santa Fe. It was the pioneer road in here, but in saying this, does not in the least indicate that we are not very favorable to the incoming main line of the Texas Pacific Northern, which we have reason to believe will most certainly be built. With the state government of Texas behind the move, and now apparently the president of the United States urging early action of the I. C. C., for the reason perhaps that he believes $13,000,000 turned loose for labor and material at this time will help unemployment, the Herald is unable to see any force of circumstance able to hold it up. Indeed, we now look for a hearing early in October instead of November, and the T. & P. officials declare they will start construction within 60 days after the right is granted them to build.

A number of delegates from here attended the highway meeting at Carlsbad, N. M. Tuesday. They left here about 3:00 A. M., before the roosters even began to crow. Will they have a short report of it when the boys return home.

Good and Indifferent Ball Games Lately

The people of Brownfield have been regaled with several ball games of late, some of them good, some indifferent. The later goes for the Rotary-Lions game last Friday afternoon, but in saying this we really expect both clubs to get our neck. This game was pulled last Friday afternoon as stated above, and we stayed five full innings of it, which consumed most of the afternoon, and we presume that it ran on to dark. At first it was funny to see the boys tumble around in the dirt, let balls pass through their hands and bump into their fat stomachs, but even this will get old like pie fights in the movies. Some fellow at one of the banks is still trying to total the scores we understand, and at last count the Lions were a few hundred ahead. Good idea it didn't that section from Brownfield. But, go eleven innings. But one got his Mr. Kancher may have just wanted this information for himself and not his road.

The regular Brownfield team won the last five games it played in the League circuit, but was protested out of two of them. The Southland team seemed to be the chief instigator of this, and inasmuch as a small wholesaler of Slaton, who sells quite a bit of stuff at Southland was the president, it was made to stand up and Brownfield has practically been out of the running for the past ten days. A meeting was held at Slaton last Friday night and all the other teams agreed to give Brownfield the contested games, but Southland held out against them, and the president too, of course. Darn poor sport, we call it. We hope Tohoka wipes up with them in the play off. They say Brownfield has some ineligible players, which has not been listed, but so had all the other teams. We think Southland was afraid it would be beat and played baby.

Boys, there was a fine game here Sunday between the Lubbock and Brownfield teams. Each had warned the other that they would bar no player, and each team was loaded with some real ball players some of which were leaguers, and many others from some of the best teams in central and east Texas where the season had already been closed. It looked for awhile that the Hubbers had the game and gone with it, but about the fifth inning the Brownies came from behind on some errors and a few well placed hits ended the game in the first round of the ninth with a score of 6 to 5 in our favor. Several hundred saw the game, but there was never much enthusiasm shown.

An post season game was called here Tuesday with Levelland in order to give some of the boys here who have been in the team as substitutes, but have drawn little in pay, a little purse to close the season with, but inasmuch as one of the players had a death in his family, the game was postponed until Wednesday. We will append the results on this write-up if we don't forget.

Meadow School Had Auspicious Opening

The Meadow public school had the most auspicious opening in its history on last Thursday, September 4. In connection with the regular exercises for school opening a very impressive service dedicating the new high school building was held, during which service Dr. P. W. Horn of Texas Technological College presided.

At least two hundred and fifty enthusiastic patrons were present for the service, and predictions are that with the splendid new high school building to relieve the crowded conditions of the past, and the efficient corps of teachers that have been employed, Meadow community bids fair to enjoy the most wonderful school year that has yet been experienced.

The enrollment for the year up to the present is 311 boys and girls. Two new courses have been added to the curriculum; physical education and commercial geography. Meadow school already has 15 1-2 units of affiliation, and this year the high school teachers hope to increase that number to 17. The high school faculty consists of L. L. Martin, Supt., Norman Mallichek, Principal; Mrs. L. L. Martin English; and Miss Ann Hammond, History.

Hoover to Speed Action On T-P Northern Line

Marshall, Sept. 8.—President Herbert Hoover will take up with the Interstate Commerce Commission the matter of speeding up action on the Texas & Pacific railroad's application to build a 333-mile extension in West Texas according to a letter received from the chief executive by the Marshall chamber of commerce today.

The idea of consummating preliminary details as speedily as possible was originated by Homer M. Price, editor of the Marshall Morning News. His plan was to have Texas senators go to Washington in the interest of the project, which had been approved by the Marshall and a number of other chambers of commerce.

Abilene Presbytry to Meet Here Next Week

Abilene Presbytery meets in Brownfield, 16-17 September, in its regular Autumn Meeting. A few items of interest might be noted. The regular sessions begin Tuesday night at eight o'clock with a devotional service; special music, furnished by the Brownfield Choral Club; and a sermon by the retiring Moderator, Rev. G. L. Robison, of Lubbock. Before this service, to which all are welcome, the ladies of the church will serve a picnic supper at the church for the delegates.

Wednesday's sessions begin at eight-thirty with a devotional service. The morning is filled with reports of the various activities of the Presbytery. (It might be added that Abilene Presbytery includes territory from the New Mexico line on the west to Strawn, and from the north boundary of Terry County to the south boundary of Martin County.) At eleven o'clock on Wednesday, a worship service will be held, led by Rev. Herbert G. Markley, the pastor-elect of Breckenridge. As a closing high-point to this service, Holy Communion will be held, with Rev. E. B. Surface of Abilene. Plains administering the Wine. Dinner will be served in the church.

The afternoon's sessions are filled with reports of various committees and activities. The body will adjourn for supper, at which is to be held in the church, at six-thirty. At eight o'clock, the last session of the meeting is to be held. The first part of the service will be in the form of a Model Young People's Service presented by young people directed by Miss Mary Perkins.

The Presbytery sessions, all of them, are open to any and all who care to attend. Much interest is being shown in the gathering by local folk.

The Nazarene People Having Good Revival

Nazarene revival going on at city tabernacle, having real good preaching and singing. Interest and crowds increasing.

Cavern Highway to Remain as Logged

In conversation with the Brownfield delegates who returned from Carlsbad, we learn that the Federally designated route through here is to remain the same. The towns on the route through this section were there in great squads. In fact, we learn that a few days ago it was learned that there would be no contest of the route, but the delegations thought best to go on and show the commissions of Texas and Mexico, as well as the Federal commission that the towns along the route were standing solid for the originally designated route. We understand that a loop was granted over near the line of Texas-Oklahoma, one through Vernon and other through Quannah, perhaps, if we understood right, but that was the only change made, and this was made with the consent of all parties and was satisfactory to everybody.

We have had quite a lot of trouble over this route first and last, as there were so many proposed routes. Another stubborn obstacle for a while was the New Mexico commission, which insisted that it come into their state via Clovis and Amarillo, but the State Commission of Texas and the Federal Commission pointedly informed them that it would not be considered that way, as this route was so much shorter. After the Santa Fe bunch saw that there was nothing else to do, they fell in, and we hope that route will stay put now.

Vick Herring of the Scuday community, was in this week with the first load of 1930 maize we have seen. He was offered $13.00 per ton for it, but may have gotten the price raised.

Brownfield Electric Current Rate Reduced

It is now said that Brownfield has the cheapest electric current rate of any small city in West Texas. At a recent meeting of the city council, they decided to cut all power rates to conform with those at Lubbock, and the heating and refrigeration rates were out one cent under those of Lubbock. They have a 4c rate and Brownfield gets this at 3c. The following is the new rate on power, the lighting rate remaining the same:

First 50 KWH	7c
Next 25 KWH	6c
Next 25 KWH	5c
Any additional	3c

The Brownfield plant is municipally owned, and aside from the first bond issue to start it, it has continually paid its way under all circumstances. Indeed, we understand that the plant is now paying off all bond issues as well as to care for increasing business and replacements, and in a few years, if still properly managed, will be out of debt and making money for the town and its people.

Many offers or purchase have been made, but the proposal has never been presented to the people, as public sentiment was too great against even a submission, it appears. We understand that the physical plant is now valued at approximately $200,000 with only an original $18,000 bond issue to start it, and a lot of that has been paid.

Chester Osgood, of Long Beach, California, was through here this week on his way to Amarillo, to carry his father to that city. He was also accompanied by his brothers. Mr. Osgood has a fine section of land in the Union community he wished to see while here.

The Two First Bales Brought in Last Fri.

Two first bales were brought in last Friday, the first to be ginned and on the streets belonged to Dolph Goodpasture, but as it failed to weigh the required amount of 450 pounds, it failed to qualify for the premium bale. However, it was ginned free by the West Texas Gin Co., and Chisholm Bros. paid him 20c per pound for it.

The other bale was brought in by O. F. Krueger, was ginned by the Farmers Gin, and the Carter Chevrolet Co., pair him 12 1-2 cents per pound for it. A premium of $65 was given Mr. Krueger.

Miss Mozelle Treadaway returned this week from Los Angeles and San Diego, Calif., where she has been vacating this summer.

by ARTHUR BRISBANE
Leisure and Money
Some Gangster, Napoleon
Welcome to Brazil
Worrying Small Fish

Mr. Nelson Rockefeller, grandson of John D. Rockefeller, writes on "The Use of Leisure," in the Dartmouth alumni magazine. The article is well written, serious.

In time the young man's problem will be "the use of money." His father and grandfather do not live extravagantly. They give away a great deal, but compound interest is more powerful than their giving. With any sort of management the third generation of Rockefellers should have at least five billions of dollars. A large sum to use satisfactorily.

Napoleon said his government could not last if he allowed liberty to the press.

Chicago gangsters seem to have heard about that. A gangster bullet in the back of the head killed Alfred Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter.

Lingle, it seems, knew more about gang criminals than a reporter ought to know, according to gang standards.

Chicago takes seriously this latest killing. But conviction is improbable.

The killer, probably, was some youth in his teens, fortified with cocaine. Paid for the job, he did not know the name of the man he killed, perhaps doesn't know it yet.

It is hard for detectives to work in the absence of any motive.

President-Elect Julio Prestes de Albuquerque of Brazil, coming to visit us, will be welcome everywhere. As head of Brazil's government, he represents a gigantic empire, magnificently typical of wealth and greatness in America.

Larger than the United States, with one water power much more powerful than Niagara, a soil of fertility indescribable, diamond mines whose blue-white products surpass all others, and, most important, an intelligent, patriotic, hard-working people, our guest from Brazil speaks for a nation of whose friendship this country may be proud.

Wall Street continues to worry small fish, and reflect the actions of bigger men.

Little ones worry, and sell. Bigger ones, that have been turning out stocks, tens of millions of shares at a time, do not want any "violence," so they let the market slide down hill a little while, then steady it.

Thus you may see a tender father gently catch his little child as it jumps from a height.

But one of these days the child may be seriously bumped.

A young American twin, Jenny of the Dolly sisters, sat up all night in a gambling house at Le Touquet, France, playing baccarat.

And as the sun rose she went to bed with 2,000,000 francs winnings, about $800,000.

As the young lady retired to her virgin slumber the gambling house owners called her blessed.

For their 2,000,000 francs, if really won, they will get 500,000,000 francs' worth of free advertising. Fools will crowd their tables and later Miss Dolly will return the $800,000 with interest.

Chicago is proud and says, "I not only will, but I did." Chicago's population in the new census is 3,373,573, an increase of 672,048 in ten years.

Second among the cities of the nation, Chicago starts on its fourth million. Everybody in Chicago, north, south, west or out on the lake, is sure that New York will be passed and forgotten before long.

To prove it, ticker tape and confetti in showers came from windows all over downtown Chicago Thursday.

When King Carol came back, abandoning the joys of travel, and offered to make up with his neglected wife, the Rumanians, according to press dispatches, delighted, danced in the streets.

All that is their business. Theirs to choose a king, if they choose, and the kind of a king that they want.

Experiments at Colgate university prove that eating sugar relieves fatigue that follows loss of sleep. Doctor Laird's scientific tests prove "it is possible to stay awake longer, with far less harmful after effects, when highly concentrated energy foods, such as cakes, candy or sweetened drinks, are consumed at intervals during the night."

New York city clinics announce "free plastic surgery." If you don't like your face the city will change it for you if you have a good reason.

No beauty parlor business will be done, no face lifting to hide wrinkles.

The idea is to improve faces that interfere with securing employment. Deformed noses, "cauliflower" ears, torn lips, caved-in cheek bones that make faces repulsive, will be attended to.

Grover Alexander, famous baseball pitcher, is "unconditionally released" by the Philadelphia National League club. It means that his day is done.

Such is fame, when you acquire it with arms, legs, physical strength.

You are old and passed by after nineteen years of work.

SEES HEAVY CLAIMS ON FUTURE BANKERS

American Bankers Association Official Declares That Banking Changes Creating Large Bank Systems Will Call for Broader Social Viewpoints.

Larger scale group or branch banking will inevitably bring a new era of banking organization and operations to the United States and bankers will have to develop "new conceptions, new administrative methods and new economic views," Rudolf S. Hecht, Chairman of the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association, recently told the members of the American Institute of Banking.

The institute is the educational section of the association and he emphasized the point that the new era in banking demanded "that we must step up our education so that banking shall be fortified for new responsibilities."

What the future calls for

"We must broaden our social conception of banking," Mr. Hecht said. "Not only for the technical operations of the new banking must we fit ourselves, but both as individuals and an organized profession we must charge ourselves with serious consideration of the social problems that are involved. Already we hear murmurings and fears and doubts as to whether the changes that are coming about in banking in the extension of group and branch systems do not constitute the looming of a new financial menace, a monopolistic threat not only to the individual unit banker, but to the financial liberty of society in general. I am stating these things merely as facts that must be taken into consideration in our studies."

"Public opinion cannot be ignored by any business, least of all by banking, which is admittedly semi-public in character and is, therefore, subject to special supervision by the constituted authorities. If banking develops tendencies that give rise to public fears, we must so conduct ourselves as to reassure all doubts."

"For this is true,—that business succeeds only by serving society—that no business can permanently prosper which does not both render service to the public and at the same time convince the public that it is rendering that service. Banking, therefore, must take cognizance of what the public is saying of this new era in its development."

"It must be part of the technique of modern banking administration, whatever form our enlarged institutions take, to avoid the creation of monopolies, or even the appearance of such a centralization of financial power as to be able to exercise an undue influence over public or private finance or other lines of business. The public's right to the safeguards of fair competition must be observed."

Must Preserve Individual Initiative

"It must also be an item of management that individual initiative and opportunity shall be maintained. If America has outstripped other nations in the distribution of the benefits of its progress, it is due to the fact that there are no barriers of social caste or business tradition against advancement for character, ability, and initiative. American business has learned that it serves itself best by encouraging by every practical means individual ambition and initiative, and hurts itself most by repressing or neglecting them. Competition for efficiency, both within an organization and between organizations, will prevent any institution from long enduring in which maintenance of opportunity and recognition of initiative are not controlling principles of management. As heads of the greatest of our financial and industrial institutions stand men who started from the humblest of beginnings. Through all the grades of executive authority and reward stand men in positions in keeping, generally speaking, with their individual merits. I, personally, see no reason for fearing that the enlarged banking organizations which the future may hold would necessarily supply future bank employees with any less opportunity for achievement than unit banking."

"Again, a major consideration of administration in any multiple form of banking organization must be its public relations in every community it touches. Its foremost consideration must be actually and visibly to serve the economic upbuilding of that community. No system will be long tolerated whose local members work, or are suspected as working, to draw economic strength from one place to enlarge the financial power of another. The local unit bank has always been part and parcel of the communities where it lives—and no system can last which does not make it a major principle of operating technique to serve, and not exploit, the communities into whose business lives it enters."

Growth of Banking Education

DENVER, Colo.—At the American Institute of Banking convention held here last month the growth in the effort among bank employees to provide themselves with banking education was shown by the fact, as reported by one speaker, that 12 years ago the institute had 59 study chapters, today 298, and that its enrollment in the study courses had grown from 11,000 to 45,000, or an increase of over 300 per cent. The graduates number nearly 14,000. The institute is the educational section of the American Bankers' Association through which bank workers are given instruction in theoretical and practical subjects relating to their business.

The Herald bunch paid the L. L. Brock melon and roasting ear patch a visit Tuesday afternoon, and found that family visiting his brother way out in New Mexico. We helped ourselves. Mr. Brock certainly has a well kept farm home and farm.

Elder H. G. Richards will preach for the primitive Baptist at the Christian church Sunday at 11:00 o'clock A. M. You are cordially invited.

Mr. Zack Smith, of Bonham, was out the past week looking after his fine farm in the Johnson community, which we understand has a nice crop on it. Mr. Smith seems to be well pleased with his land in old Terry. He reports fine crops in the Bonham section.

her collar bone. It seemed that her shoulder was paining her a lot when she left Mr. Weldons Thursday evening. We sure hope her trip home did not cause her a lot of pain. We can have an idea that accidents like that are not at all pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith were out to Sunday School. We were proud to have them back. There was quite a nice crowd out to Sunday school we send a hearty invitation to all who will come and take part in our Sunday school. We'd be so proud to see a big crowd out every Sunday morning.

LOCAL POST OFFICE TRAPS FUGITIVE FOR DEPT. OF JUSTICE

The local postoffice was instrumental in apprehending a fugitive from justice Tuesday when they lured, through the medium of a faked registered letter, the man wanted by the authorities into the postoffice long enough for Sheriff Cain to make his arrest.

Tuesday Sheriff Cain received a wire saying that Ed Shackelford who has been living here the past three months, was wanted by the U. S. Department of justice on a federal charge involving a national bank in Oklahoma.

A registered letter was prepared and when Shackelford called for his mail the postoffice clerks notified Sheriff Cain, while the postmistress proceeded to take as much time as possible in delivering the letter. Although Cain arrived just a minute too late, one of the clerks recognized the car that he drove off in and they followed, arresting Shackelford in front of the Proctor Hotel.—Lovington, (N. M.) Tribune.

Mr. W. H. Harris, owner of the Brownfield swimming pool, announces that he will close the pool for the season next Monday the 15th. In the meantime, two swimmers, when they come together, can get both swims at the price of one. By the way, Mr. Harris gave the Herald family a rare treat of a gallon of okra he has raised under irrigation.

The County Fair is only a few weeks off now and indications are that a lot of people from other sections will be here to inspect the exhibits and we don't want to fall down on any portion of the affair. Terry County Agent, Roy Davis is not with us any more and of course cannot assist in the advance arrangements. He will be here during the exhibition however and we want to show him a good one when he comes.

Farmers, 4-H Clubs and merchants are urged to prepare their exhibits and have them in place on time. The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the Fair and will be much disappointed unless it is equal to any that we have heretofore staged and they hope that it will exceed all others. Remember that Terry County has the best crops in Texas this year and we want to be prepared to show them. Let every person in the county act as a committee of one and let us see what we can do with it.

The General Manager is not going to be able to visit any section of the county as all advance arrangements are in his hands and he will be very busy between this time and September 26, which is the opening day of the exhibition. Plenty of entertainment is going to be furnished this year. In fact more than last, and we think that we will have a much better Carnival Company. Roy Moreman, is going to stage races of various kinds and persons interested in entering any class would do well to see him at the Commerce Hotel. The catalogs will be mailed out within the next few days.

STATE TELEPHONE CO. MAKES IMPROVEMENTS

The State Telephone Company has just installed a new electric switch board of more than double the capacity of the former unit. The business had grown to such an extent that it became necessary to use two operators and the number of phones in the local exchange were too many for the old equipment.

The plant room has also been overhauled to take care of the greater traffic over 100 percent over of last year.

A line has also just been constructed to Robert's Switch, the village which has sprung up within the last few months eight miles west of town on the Santa Fe.—Levelland Herald.

Well we have been having some nice showers of rain this last week which were quite refreshing after such hot days. Most every one will be busy at work for several days now as the maize is getting ready to gather and the cotton is opening real fast. Several of the farmers have begun to pick cotton this week others are busy heading maize, some are picking beans and peas preparing for "old man winter."

We hear quite a great deal about folks canning too. These things they are putting in these cans will sure taste this winter we feel quite sure.

Mrs. Donaghe spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Cobb. Mr. Cobb has been gone to Grandview, Texas also Dallas. He reported crops pretty short. He said that he saw some pretty good crops around Venus about all we hear is short crops and dry weather and hard times.

I feel sure Terry and Yoakum counties have a lot to be thankful for. It seems crops are better here than any place we have heard from recently.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c to Alexander Drug Co. day at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.

PTA to Hold First Meet Next Thursday

We are requested to announce that the first meeting of the Brownfield Parent-Teacher Association will be held next Thursday afternoon, Sept. 18th, at 3:45 in the grade school auditorium.

You are cordially invited to come and help get this important auxiliary of our public schools under way for the best term of school in our history. Come.

We have informed the past week that Miss Irene Dobbs had become the bride of Mr. Ted Kinney, a driller in the Hobbs oil fields some two weeks ago. The wedding took place at Lovington. Miss Irene is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Dobbs of the Challis community, and is at present head nurse in a sanitarium at Hobbs.

WTC to File Damage Suit Vs. Geographers

Stamford, Sept.—Publishers of geographies used in the public schools of Texas and several other states will shortly be made joint defendants in a million dollar damage suit, if a majority of the directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce endorse a recommendation of the organization's Publicity Committee.

At a recent meeting of the committee, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was asked to institute suit for "at least $1,000,000," against certain publishers, for "scandalously and damagingly untrue descriptions of West Texas territory." Facts to back up the request were set out in a 3,800 word brief which contained excerpts from public school textbooks, some published as late as 1929, in which West Texas is described as a semiarid region, unfit for agriculture; swept by piercing winds and subjected to severe snowstorms and sudden and marked temperature changes and having no production of cotton, wheat, oil or other minerals.

All directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce have been supplied, during the past week with a referendum ballot on the suit, and if a majority of them favor the action, immediate steps will be taken to start legal machinery in operation to get the litigation underway, officials of the Regional Body say.

"We have just and sufficient grounds for the suit," says Max Bentley of Abilene Chairman of the Publicity Committee, and we have been advised by competent attorneys, that we have an excellent chance to get judgement if we prove our contentions in court, and we are prepared to do so.

"In addition, we will be able to bring about corrections of these untrue and misleading statements regarding West Texas in the next editions of the geographies and the newspaper stories that will be carried all over the United States in connection with the suit will serve to enlighten people of the true conditions in this area."

Some of the misstatements in geographies being used in the public schools, to which the committee object are:

"In Western Oklahoma and Texas, the rainfall is so slight in the great plains area that vegetation is scanty."

"The Rio Grande is the fourth in length of the rivers of North America. The whole course of the stream lies through arid country."

"The winters of the west and northwest (speaking of Texas) are often long and severe. Icy winds from the frozen north sweeps over this section and the ground is covered with snow for several weeks."

"Agriculture (in Texas) is chiefly carried on east of the 100 meridian." This meridian passes through Abilene and Ballinger.

"The eastern part of the state (Texas) with heavy rainfall has thick forest and swamps. The western part has few streams, thorn cactus plants, scattered bunches of grass and low bushes. One side of the state has so much rain it is in the cotton belt. The other so little rain it has large ranches, with few farms and few people."

"Another of the valuable rock products of the South is the petroleum of crude oil found especially in the coastal section of Texas and Louisiana and in Oklahoma."

A child studying books in which the above quotations and countless others as untrue appear, would never realize that in 1929 West Texas produced partially 40 percent of the cotton crop of Texas; nor would it have any reason to know that west Texas produces one-seventh of the petroleum or crude oil of the United States, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Publicity Committee contends.

In addition to sponsoring the effort to effect corrections in public school textbooks any misleading statements concerning West Texas in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Publicity Committee has undertaken several other projects of importance including the distribution of several hundred thousand lithographed stamps advertising the attractive features of West Texas; publication by all towns in the West Texas territory of interest compelling literature and also lending assistance to a campaign to popularize Texas made goods and increase their consumption in the State.

Harvest Home Festival Great Scottish Event

The annual "Kirm" or Harvest Home, is a settled institution on Scottish farms. These events are usually held in the granary of the farm, which is suitably decked for the occasion. The floor is none too smooth; but the tackety boots of the dancers are quite able to contend with it. The band consists of a fiddle and melodeon, and the dances bear such weird titles as "Petronella," "Rifeman" and "Drops of Brandy." The most amusing part of the proceedings comes when the steward returns thanks to the farmer for giving the "kirm." It is the one speech he makes in the year, so it is a great event for him. He usually begins in high-down English, to the admiration of the company, but invariably fails to keep it up, and ends in braud Scots.

Hint for the Home

Women may lead in literature, divorce, glass blowing, fat girls, etc., but there is still one province where man reigns supreme.

When I got home last night Mrs. B was listing about 30 degrees to the starboard and complaining of severe pains in her left side.

After much coaxing I got her to tell me what the trouble was. She said she had carried in a bucket of coal. I lit into her good. I was furious. I told her never to let me hear of her carrying in another single bucket of coal as long as she lived.

Her lips quivered and I thought that perhaps I had gone too far.

Then I told her that if she wanted to carry in the coal it was all right with me, but I wanted her to carry two buckets at a time in the future. I don't want no lopsided wife.—Spokane Spokesman Review.

Force in Expression

The expression, "An unlicked cub," is a strong, homely reference to a person who is crude, unpolished and undeveloped, who must literally be licked into shape by the attrition of life's experiences.

The metaphor is one we have borrowed from the world of zoology. It is an allusion to the practice of the mother bear, who actually seems to be constantly licking her cubs.

While, of course, the cub is not in reality licked into shape, still, an unlicked cub is such a bedraggled looking spectacle as compared with one who is, that the unlicked cub has come to take on the significance it has today, of something unfinished and uncouth.—Kansas City Star.

One's "Birthday"

The word birthday designates primarily the day of one's birth. Colloquially, the term is used to designate subsequent anniversaries of that day. Dictionaries emphasize this use, defining the day as, "the day of one's birth or anniversary." An anniversary is defined as, "a commemorative observance or celebration of an event separated by one year, or by an exact number of years from some past event." On one's first anniversary, one is one year old but celebrates what is colloquially accepted as one's second birthday, but one's first birthday anniversary.—Literary Digest.

Caesar's Profound Rebuke

The following quotation is from "Plutarch's Lives": "Caesar once, seeing some wealthy strangers at Rome carrying up and down with them in their arms and bosoms young puppy dogs and monkeys, embracing and making much of them, took occasion, not unaturally, to ask whether the women in their country were not used to bear children; by that prince-like reprimand gravely reflecting upon persons who spend and lavish upon brute beasts that affection and kindness which nature has implanted in us to be bestowed on those of our own kind."

Early Arctic Voyages

The Arctic regions were explored as early as 1588 by John Davis, who in that year reached latitude 72 degrees 12 minutes north. He was followed by William Barents in 1598, Henry Hudson in 1607 and William Baffin in 1616. The North pole was reached by Peary on April 6, 1909. The south polar regions were explored by Capt. James Cook in 1774. The South pole was discovered by Roald Amundson on December 14, 1911.

Spur, Texas, opened their first paved street with a big celebration one night last week, included in which was an old fiddler contest, a square dance, Virginia reel and community singing. They forgot the drouth for a time and had a good time.

Radio and carrier pigeons have been used in connection with airplane map making in Alaska.

Official paper of Terry County.

How come the Santa Fe to be named John? We have heard this expression a great deal of late, but each guy lets it go at that. We doubt if they know.

The South Plains fair management promises one of the best if not the very best regional fairs this year they have ever put on, and they have had some good ones. Territes should all try to attend this year. The educational features will be great and the amusement inspiring.

Building material is cheaper right now than it has been for several years. Likewise, labor is cheap and easy to get. What a combination to the man who is contemplating the erection of a home or a business building. Do it now and put some poor fellows to work and circulate a few dollars in the community.

Well, the Herald was aiming to get on the Waco News editor's neck for bemoaning West Texas, but after Amon Carter of the Star-Telegram and the Abilene News got through with him, the Herald felt sorry for the bird and decided to pass him up. But this don't mean that we ceased to wonder what the thunder was the trouble with that guy that morning.

Uncle Pete Polynox of the Texas Weekly wants to know what disposition will be made of the big bond issue by the state democratic convention. That issue was settled by about 78 percent of the voters in July Uncle Pete, and Ross Sterling dropped it like a hot rock in the second primary in order to get that extra 88,000 votes. Its dead, uncle Pete.

If we believe the cartoonist, all kids hate to see school start, and at least half of them pray for the school house to burn down. This would make them guilty of arson in spirit at least. But the Herald believes the cartoonists are deceived about the matter. They probably lay flat of their bellies when young and drew pictures in the dirt instead of going to school, and that is what makes them what they are and what they believe about the poor kids.

Just what we think of the buy a bale movement is expressed better than we can in another article reproduced this week. It would probably help some if you bought and stored or burned the cotton before it is ever ginned, but when it goes through the gin it is commercialized and the whole world knows that cotton to be in existence. Farmers were pled with and begged to reduce the acreage in the spring and did not do it unless it was some here who had cotton blown out. If every body buys a bale to hold now and it did boost the price later on, they would plant the whole creation next year and hurt the fellows who were helping them now.

Oh, it isn't the money you're making, it isn't the clothes you wear. And it isn't the skill of your good right hand Which makes folks really care— It's the smile on your face, And the light in your eye, And the burdens that you bear. —Sunshine Magazine.

West Texas Finds Its Friends Says Editorial

In the adjoining column on this page appear excerpts from an editorial diatribe against West Texas which was published in the Waco Times-Herald. If the paper were published at some remote point from West Texas where no community of interest could exist, it might be dismissed as the ebullition of an alien tongue; but when it is borne in mind that West Texas has often protested its friendship and solicitude for West Texas, and has gone so far as to include itself as one of the West Texas cities, particularly where commercial interests were involved; and when the editor assumes to speak for "Texas as a whole," then indeed the attack becomes noticeable—just as if De-Priest of Chicago should assume to speak for Caucasian civilization.

If West Texas has called for help in the drouth situation, that call has not been directed toward Waco and Central, although West Texas would not for a moment think that the churlish attitude of the Times-Herald is representative of either of Waco or Central Texas. When the Waco man hops in the air about the West Texas drouth situation, he conveniently forgets the fact that Central Texas is "crying for help" as much as West Texas is, and is going about from doorstep to doorstep not only in Texas but all over the country begging people to "buy a bale." As a matter of fact, the cry for help from West Texas is directed entirely toward Washington, where the Government has announced a program of relief for drouth-stricken regions throughout the country. West Texas has a number of counties hard hit by the dry weather, being made up mostly of those which struck a similar dry stretch last year. On this account West Texas has moved for consideration by the Federal Government on an equal basis with that of other drouth regions.

It is conceivable that the editor of the Waco paper was not so much intent on mocking West Texas and jeering at its achievements as in glorifying Governor Moody, who hails from Williamson County, as the leader of the movement for relief to West Texas. Nominally, the Governor of the State must be connected with an application to the Federal Government for aid to the drouth sufferers; but in doing this it was not necessary or expedient to strike a theatrical attitude and approach the matter with a beating of tom-toms and a rattling of metallic hardware. It was the idea of West Texans to call a conference of bankers and other representatives of commercial interests to sit about the council table to determine what should be done through co-operating action to restore agriculture in the several afflicted counties. The Governor enters in tinsel and gold braid, accompanied by a loud fanfare of trumpets and gives to the world a picture of an entire State prostrate and bankrupt and reduce to the necessity of begging alms from the Federal Treasury. West Texas wanted action—not melodrama.

The writer of the Waco editorial, for lack of other opportunity for display of satire, assails the Texas Technological College at Lubbock. The growth of that institution has been phenomenal. Its record for development in so short a period of time quite eclipses that of any other institution of the kind in Texas or in the South. The tremendous increase annually in its enrollment, since it was established, affords evidence enough of the wisdom of its founders. Just one factor has held it back from full fruition and that is the parsimony of the State Government, particularly during the period of the Moody administration. If its facilities had been expanded to correspond with its needs, the record would indeed have been miraculous. If the writer of the Waco editorial were as replete with information on the subject as he is with the consciousness of being the successor to masters of satire, classic and modern, he would know that the Texas Tech has been established but five years, consequently but two full-course classes could be graduated from the institution. It is to be suspected that the instances where a graduate of any educational institution has become, within a year of leaving school, an "outstanding world expert" in any subject are at least limited in number.

The transparent ignorance of the Waco writer is further shown in his reference to the pink boll worm quarantine in a few Southwest Texas counties. This was not a disaster of nature visited upon West Texas, but the product of defense measures on behalf of other cotton growing regions and particularly of the Central Texas region around Waco, of which the Times-Herald writer pretends to think so highly. The cotton farmers in these West Texas counties could have gone on well enough, raising their cotton in spite of the pink boll worm, because it was thoroughly established by the experience of farmers as well as by the researches of the scientists sent by the Government, that the region afforded such excellent controls of the pest that, while it might exist and be transmitted to other regions, it did not materially lessen the production in that particular region. In short, the boll worm quarantine was clamped down on these West Texas counties for the sole purpose of protecting the counties farther east from the pest.

There was no destruction of crops in the West Texas counties. On the contrary, the farmers of this region were required by the State to sacrifice a great deal in quarantine costs for the benefit of Central, South and East Texas, and cotton States east of Texas. The "rest of the State" did not "pay West Texas" in this instance. It merely repaid to West Texas a part—and a part only of the cost of protecting the rest of the State against the boll worm invasion.

The secret of the Waco paper's animus comes out in the paragraph referring to the validation of West Texas land titles, through the Small "river-bed" bill. The fact that these lands had become valuable through the discovery of petroleum on some of them explains why there should be some who desired the State to break its contracts. Certain gentlemen having access to the Land Office records had discovered a technical flaw in the titles to these lands, and immediately filed claims for these lands on their own behalf, thereby forcing the State to file suit against the land owners to whom it itself had sold the land. The Small validating bill was the answer of outraged public sentiment. It is our information that the editor of the Waco paper, whose name is Frank Baldwin, as a member of the Legislature, sought to prevent passage of the Small bill, and when Mr. Moody vetoed the bill Mr. Baldwin was one of the few who stood against the movement which overturned the veto by an overwhelming vote.

The proprietorship or dominant interest that operates the Waco paper also conducts or is interested in newspapers in West Texas, at Wichita Falls, Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, Breckenridge and Mineral Wells. For this reason, apart from all other considerations of property, we should think that a sense of proportion would induce the ownership of the Waco paper to disavow an editorial assault upon a section of the State which has done nothing to provoke it. If we should be mistaken in this viewpoint, then indeed the area in which all these papers function affords a wide theater for the display of journalistic gymnastics.

Or it is a case where each paper has a policy for Texas distinct from the other? It would remind us of the hero in the novel who rushed out of the house, mounted 12 different horses and rode off in opposite directions.

May we not conclude with the paraphrase that men may come and men may go, but West Texas will go on forever?—Star-Telegram.

"IT IS AN ILL WIND—"

The drouth, as severe as it has been, not only in some sections of the Southwest, but throughout the agriculture areas of the entire country, will not be without its compensating features. It has put a check on much of the high living in the cities and has taught the farming population to waste less and save more. Reports editors in the field check with reports from county and home demonstration agents to the effect that many farm families have a greater supply of food products on hand than ever before; that more farm families are supplied with poultry flocks, dairy cows and other means of providing a living at home than at any time in the past ten years; and that farmers, as a whole, owe the banks less money than they did last year.

Reports of this kind are encouraging inasmuch as the lessons we are learning this year, if not forgotten, will serve us in more prosperous times. Every farm should be made to produce most of the vegetables, fruits, dairy and poultry products, lard, pork and other meats consumed by the family operating the place. This should be true in the case of renters as well as when the owners lives on the farm. When this is done the cotton crop, whatever it amounts to, belongs to the man who produces it, or, in case of a tenant, his legal share of it. The same is true of other crops and livestock produced for the market.

Landlord who neglect to provide a way for their renters to have a garden and who object to renters having chickens, a cow or two and a brood sow for their own exclusive benefit are making a mistake. Contented renters are always more profitable than the dissatisfied ones. The farm, first of all, should provide food for the family that operates it.—Farm and Ranch.

THE CHRONIC LIVE WIRE. Civic pride and a conscientious performance of community duties characterize the best business men and citizens everywhere. But anything, no matter how commendable on general principles, may be run into the ground. We have in mind what we have termed the "chronic live wire." He is always a "good fellow," always a booster, always full of "pep" and enthusiasm and always with a grand scheme that won't work. He gladly plays the part of community goat, because he is willing to neglect his own business, if he has any, in order to serve on innumerable commissions boards and committees supposed to be for the promotion of mass prosperity and uplift.

Nearly every town has such a character. He means well and is fairly useful to everybody and everything, excepting himself and his own family. He is a living example of local patriotism run to seed. Unfortunately, he becomes so thoroughly wrapped up in optimism that he loses his sense of proportion and often ends in personal bankruptcy, through his ambition to be a public benefactor.

Many of us have passed through that stage and some have survived, but hundreds have ruined themselves through trying to carry the entire community burden. Boost, but don't "bust" yourself doing it.—Wellington Leader.

THE Aermotor Co. is now making a self-oiling windmill 20 feet in diameter. If you have a well 1000 feet deep, or if you want to raise a large quantity of water from a shallower well, this is the windmill you need. This new Auto-Oiled Aermotor weighs nearly 2 1/2 tons without the tower. It is a giant for power.

Whatever your water requirements may be there is an Auto-Oiled Aermotor of the right size for the work. They are made from 6 feet to 20 feet in diameter. Use the smaller sizes for the shallow wells and the larger ones for the deep wells or large quantities of water. Our tables, sent upon request, tell you just what each size will do.

The Improved Auto-Oiled Aermotor, the genuine self-oiling windmill, is the most economical and the most reliable device for pumping water. It works every day and will last a lifetime.

Every size of Auto-Oiled Aermotor has double gears running in oil. All moving parts are fully and constantly oiled. One oiling a year is all that is required.

The Auto-Oiled Aermotor is made by the company which originated the steel windmill business. For full information write AERMOTOR CO. 2500 Roosevelt Bld. CHICAGO

East Texas Also Favor Texas Pacific Road

In Tuesday's Star-Telegram is the following from one of the well known editors of East Texas:

"Marshall, Sept 3.—Homer M. Price, editor of the Marshall Morning News, Wednesday appealed to the Texas and Pacific Railway to begin immediate construction of its extension line into West Texas as a means of relieving the unemployment situation.

"Price urged Governor Moody Ross S. Sterling, Democratic nominee for Governor, and United States Senators Tom Connally and Morris Sheppard to go to Washington and urge the Interstate Commerce Commission to give its immediate approval to the project.

Mr. Mitchell, chief engineer of the Texas & Pacific Railway was in Levelland Monday afternoon conferring with Chamber of Commerce officials and others on the best available route through this section. He stated that he would do everything possible in the location of the line to accommodate the citizenship of the country through which it passed. He is making reconnaissance upon which a final survey of the line will be made. Mr. Mitchell is a widely traveled man and has a vast fund of information as well as a reminiscence of interesting experiences at his finger tips.—Levelland Herald.

THE T. & P. APPLICATION

Now that the Texas & Pacific has made application for a new railroad up through the Texas Panhandle, the relation of this new move to the possibilities of extending the Texas & New Mexico branch is being discussed.

Roswell believes that if the permit is granted it will mean that the T. & P. will not extend its New Mexico branch straight north, but will extend it northwest from Lovington to Roswell.

Tatum, on the other hand, whose future depends to no small extent on the railroad pushing directly north, hopes that the application for the South Plains line was made with the belief that if it were denied it would make it easier for the T. & P. to get a permit to extend the present New Mexico branch. The Santa Fe, the T. & P. competition in both Texas and New Mexico, will oppose the entrance of the Texas road on the grounds that the Santa Fe extends further into the northern Panhandle area and that to it belongs the right to develop rail facilities in that section. Should the Santa Fe win on these grounds, the T. & P. can turn around and say the same thing about the northern Lea County territory. The Texas & Pacific extends further into Lea County, and to it, the T. & P. may claim, belongs the right to develop rail facilities in this section.

Another possibility is, that if the T. & P. gains its line in the Panhandle and then cuts across from Lovington to Roswell, the Santa Fe will come into Lea County from the north or east.

In any event the roads are recognizing the splendid prospects that this territory offers and their efforts to tap this section is a healthy sign.—Lovington, (N. M.) Tribune.

What Some Think of Buy-a-Bale Movement

In regard to the buy a bale movement as suggested by Governor Dan Moody we can see no reason why the people of the south should encourage the farmers to produce two acres of cotton next year where they have but one this year. It is not good logic to believe that the farmers seeing that the masses expect to bear their burden that they should expect them to continue? In place of a buy-a-bale we would suggest a move to sign the people of the south to an agreement to support a "raise-a-bale-less" movement. If they are successful in that attempt, to continue it until each cotton farmer of the south is raising only about one-fifth of the amount that will be harvested this year. Then the cotton situation and the "Help the Farmer" idea will be getting somewhere.

Following is an editorial taken from the Dallas Morning News of August 29 that sums up the "Buy-a-Bale" movement showing where the thing would lead us, says the O'Donnell Index.

"The 'buy-a-bale' movement launched by Governor Moody, in which he has asked Southern Governors to join him, doubtless is actuated by the highest motives as a plan to relieve the distress of cotton growers suffering from a price of 10c a pound, or in some sections even lower. A similar campaign in 1914 resulted in practical failure at a time when the Nation was more prosperous than at present. The North and East then were busy supplying the warring Nations of Europe with manufactured goods at rising prices. Subsequently the whole country was benefited by sending its surplus feed and food aboard. Money was plentiful and people spent it freely.

"Conditions in 1930 are vastly different from 1914 throughout the United States, and the best-intentioned persons may not be financially able to buy a bale, though they might be prompted to do so. Besides, an appeal to America to 'buy a bale' somehow suggests that the South is nearly 'broke.' Such a confession may hurt business generally. It gave the South a black mark in 1914. Neither Texas nor the South is in such distress as to take such a risk. The year is not nearly over, and when fall rains revive pastures and add to late feed crops and gardens, nature will come to the rescue wherever man gives her a chance.

"Cotton prices now are a bargain, and, once the spinners make up their minds that the time has come to stock up, prices will rise, although no such phenomenal advance can be looked for as took place in the spring of 1927 when European Nations bought American cotton in record quantities.

"It is a hard lesson, but the farmer must learn not to over produce cotton. He had plenty of warning early this season from the Federal Farm Board, and the net result was a reduction in acreage of less than 3 per cent. There is no substitute for efficient crop production, raising more per acre on a reduced acreage thus lowering the cost of raising the crop. It is also time to learn that the farm must first of all provide a living for those engaged in farming."

3 Fort Worth Bodies Back T. & P. Line

Indorsement has been given and full support pledged by three Fort Worth organizations to the application of the Texas and Pacific Northern Railway Company, subsidiary of the Texas and Pacific Railway Company, filed recently with the Interstate Commerce Commission for the construction of a new line from Big Spring to Vega and two branch lines. Directors of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution indorsing the project and pledging support of it at their semi-monthly meeting Thursday morning. The same resolution was adopted earlier in the week at a meeting of the Fort Worth Freight Bureau after it had been presented by members of the Chamber of Commerce traffic committee.

E. B. Wooten, secretary of the Fort Worth Grain and Cotton Exchange, announced Thursday that the exchange adopted the resolution at a meeting Saturday.

The resolution follows: "Whereas the Texas and Pacific Northern Railway Company, a subsidiary of the Texas and Pacific Railway Company, has filed application with the Interstate Commerce Commission for a certificate of convenience and necessity to construct a new line of railroad from Big Spring to Vega, with two branch lines, one from Dimmitt to Amarillo, and one from a point south of Brownfield to Lubbock, and, "Whereas, the construction of such new lines of railroad is necessary and essential to the adequate and immediate development of a vast territory in West Texas, and would materially extend Fort Worth's trade territory, and is, therefore, necessary to Fort Worth's advancement commercially, now therefore be it.

"Resolved, that we most heartily indorse this proposed new railroad construction and pledge ourselves to file intervening petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission and take an active part in the proceeding in support of the application and to render the project every support at our command."

CHEAP MAGAZINES INSULTING AMERICAN WOMEN

A five-cent magazine with a very large circulation has recently published several articles creating the general impression that American young women "no longer identify virtue with chastity." We are told that prostitution has largely vanished from our streets because the business of the prostitute has been taken over by "nice" girls who serve without pay. It seems, according to these articles, that very few American women now come to the altar chaste, that few American girls are insulted by an immoral proposition, that American men no longer expect or demand "purity" on the part of the young women they wish to marry.

That there is increasing laxity among young women the world over is a matter of common knowledge. In some counties it may be due in part to the changed economic status of women; in other countries it may be due to the demoralizing influence of war. But the statement that the majority of American young women are immoral is untrue, and the time was when such wholesale slander of American womanhood would have been unsafe. Perhaps a decline in American manhood is indicated by the present immunity of those making statements which constitute the grossest possible offense to American women.

A correspondent of the magazine in question suggests that one of these writers is simply indicating his own female companions. Perhaps this is true, but the practical side cannot be overlooked. It is possible that there are a thousand girls today who have done themselves almost irreparable psychological and moral damage because of the suggestion of these articles. Being informed that "nice" girls are now without morals, that conduct formerly typical of prostitutes is now necessary for social advancement, that there are no longer moral or physical inhibitions against such behaviour.

That may perhaps have concluded that their social difficulties, whatever they may be, are due to their adherence to outworn standards of conduct. Who knows how many illegitimate children may owe lives of sorrow to such subversive writings? Who knows how many panic-stricken young women may visit disreputable physicians because of such teachings? Who knows how much disease may be directly due to this suggestion?

The writers and publishers of such filthy, slanderous, and subversive articles might certainly be brought under some restraint without any encroachment upon the freedom of the press.—M. E. Board Temperance Clip Sheet.

C. of Christ Pleased With New Minister

Elder Robert Drennon and family came in last week from Roaring Spring, and are now occupying the parsonage of the Church of Christ at the invitation of the elders here to work with the church here for the upbuilding of the Kingdom. The Herald not only believes that Elder Drennon will be the man for that place, but a citizen of which the town and county will be proud. The fact that he has been with two churches for the past ten years speaks volumes.

The whole congregation seemed to be more than pleased with his sermons Sunday and a man with the display of energy he possesses is bound to be valuable to both the church and the community in general. You are invited to hear him.

Subject for Sunday night: "Does it make any difference what a man believes?"

Monarch's Neat Rebuke to Overzealous Priest

King Leopold of Belgium—merry old soul—had a caustic wit. On one occasion when he was at his chalet at Ostend, the parish priest approached him and asked for a private word with him. When the two were alone, the priest began to read Leopold a long sermon:

"Sire, I am profoundly grieved," he said. "There is a rumor, I am sorry to say, that your majesty's private life is not marked by the austerity suited to the lofty and difficult task which God has laid upon the monarchs of this earth. Remember, sire, that it behooves kings to set an example to their subjects."

For 20 minutes the king listened patiently to the utterances of the good man, until the priest desisted from want of breath, relates Evelyn Graham (in his authorized biography of King Albert, nephew of Leopold).

"What a funny thing, Monsieur le Cure," said the king, fixing him with a cold look and smiling slightly. "Do you know, people have told me exactly the same thing about you! . . . only I refused to believe it."—Kansas City Times.

Little Profit Found in Search for Sensation

A time comes to most of us when life means just a little more than playing around. We must not think for a second that there should be no play. That would be unwise. But what is foolish is the attitude that brings us to the belief that, to gain happiness—for that is, after all, what we are trying to get—we must indulge in all sorts and all kinds of fun and frolic.

Sometimes it extends beyond that; we seek every kind of sensation we possibly can in our pursuit of gaiety. Whenever a new idea is mooted we go after it with renewed vigor, in the hope that the boredom of life—as some limited minds regard it—will be changed to a really good time.

We only manage to secure the maximum of contentment by accepting the debits and credits—taking the former at their real valuations, and making the utmost of the credits.—Exchange.

Chateau of Knowledge

The speculative mind of man is like a colossal chateau set on a hill. It is surrounded by perpetual darkness. The chateau has countless windows facing in all directions. There is, at first, but one light, a flickering glimmer, in one small window level with the ground.

Ases pass, another window slowly lights up. Gradually, as time flows away, a thousand windows in the chateau flame with light. Tower windows begin to glimmer. Finally, the whole chateau is a blaze of light. For behind each window a mind labors in a small dark room shaped like a human skull to create a light of its own. From the tower windows the lights gash the dark for a great way. But the most powerful light from the largest window is merely an inch trying to eat the infinite.—The Thinker.

First Uses for Sideboard

The dining room sideboard once served a different purpose from that of holding the family silver or glass. The sideboard, known first as a credence table, held all the dishes that were to be served at a dinner. An underling of the house then, in the presence of the guests, tasted each dish of food on the credence table to make sure there was no poison that might be fatal to the guests. But gradually, as people became less vicious and the desire to poison one's enemy, or friend, became less customary, the credence was utilized for the display of silver and table service.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Causes of "Blood Rain"

There are many cases of so-called miraculous showers in which the substances found on the ground did not actually fall from aloft. Thus some alleged rains of blood are due to the deposit of red fluid ejected by certain species of lepidoptera emerging simultaneously in large numbers from their cocoons, and others to the rapid multiplications in rain pools of algae and rotifers containing red coloring matter. The well-known red snow of polar regions results from the presence of similar organisms.

"Dragon's Blood" in the Arts

The "Dragon's Blood" of commerce is a red gum made from the ripe fruit of palm trees growing in Siam and the Dutch East Indies. It is used in the pharmacy and finds its way into the arts as a means of coloring varnish and also for use in photo-etching. It is secured from the nut by a process of steaming and crushing. The product is sent to Penang and Singapore and thence it is shipped half way around the world to points in Europe and America.

Road Builders of the Past

Nobody knows who built the first road but remains have been found of a highway laid out by theophs, builder of the great pyramid in Egypt, says the National Geographic Magazine. Babylon had three great highways, and the first laying of tolls in the history of highways took place on one of these Babylonian routes. The Carthaginians were the most scientific roadbuilders of ancient times, but the details of their construction have been lost.

Drouth of 1930 Most Serious in History

By Caleb Johnson
The Great Drouth of 1930 will go down in history as one of the most serious calamities which ever befell the United States.

As this is written, there has been no rainfall, or none of consequence, in an area which covers nearly one-third of the United States, for weeks. There was less than half the normal rainfall for months before that. Last winter was a dry one. Indeed, since December the greater part of the United States has received less than half of its normal quota of rain.

It makes little difference in some important regions whether rain comes now or not. The damage has been done.

Dr. Marvin, chief of the U. S. Weather Bureau, says:

"This is unquestionably the worst drouth in the history of the Weather Bureau, and the bureau is sixty years old."

Never before has a drouth assumed such serious proportions as to stir the whole nation to relief efforts.

In regions where pastures have been burned up water sources have gone dry and crops have failed utterly, the Red Cross is beginning active relief work, President Hoover and the Farm Board have authorized the extension of government credit to farmers in the stricken regions on the most liberal terms. The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized reduced freight rates on livestock and cattle feed. The president has appointed a relief commission which will do what can humanly be done to alleviate distress, for in some parts of the Mississippi Valley farmer people are actually on the verge of starvation because of the loss of all their crops and their livestock because of the dry weather.

The year 1930 will be known as one Washington correspondent put it, as "the year when the Kentucky Blue Grass turned white."

Nobody is able yet to estimate the total loss to agriculture in dollars, but it will run into the hundreds of millions. The corn crop is so seriously damaged that in that one commodity alone the loss may run to a half a billion.

Nobody knows precisely what caused the drouth. It is due, of course, to lack of rainfall, but why didn't the rain fall normally in the stricken sections, not only this summer but last winter and spring? The Weather Bureau sharps can't answer that question. They can only point to the record of what happened.

Added to the lack of rain, or because of it extremely high temperatures have been experienced all summer in the country east of the Rocky Mountains.

Daytime temperatures especially were exceedingly high, with 100 degrees or higher reported from sections east of the Rocky Mountains on every day of the month from the 4th to its close. The daily maximum averaged from 94 to 98 degrees in the central and northern portions of Alabama and Mississippi, Northern Louisiana, Western Tennessee, the lower Ohio Valley, Arkansas and the greater portions of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. The highest temperatures occurred the last few days of the month, when a number of stations from Arkansas northward reported 106 to 108 degrees.

Everywhere rivers, creeks and brooks are dried up to runing extremely low. There is a scarcity of water for live stock and domestic uses. In the worst affected zones cattle are dying for lack of water and pasturage. In others the stockmen, anticipating what may be ahead, are selling their herds at sacrifices. In large sectors of the Eastern orchard belts, the fruit is burned to a crisp and useless for any purpose. Hay and other pasturage crops are affected, and corn has suffered marked deterioration. The damage involves every state in which the raising of grain is a principal industry.

The part of the country hit hardest is the Mississippi Valley. This area comprises Western West Virginia, Southern Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, Eastern Missouri and Arkansas, Western Tennessee and Mississippi and Eastern Louisiana. The area is increasing and a situation almost as serious as now exists in Oklahoma, Eastern Texas, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska and the remaining states in which the drouth first assumed grave proportions. Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, North Carolina and Alabama face a serious situation, as do the states on the eastern slopes of the Rockies. Minnesota, Wisconsin, New England, New York and the Pacific Coast States are the only sections in which conditions describes as seminormal still exist. A phenomenon in the case of Florida and Georgia. Neither has been seriously affected.

The grain crops, with the exception of corn, have escaped the heat. Those crops were ready for the harvest before the drouth became serious. The major damage affects corn, cotton, fruits, hay and live stock. That ruin is facing vast numbers of farmers is certain.

One source of worry arises from the fact of burnt-up pastures. Many ranchmen are said already to be feeding the hay usually reserved for winter feed. While the early forage crops were abundant they can only go so far toward supplementing the lack of pasturage.

With packers' storage plants said to be glutted with beef, and cattle prices lower than they have been for some years, the market is in no condition to stand heavy runs—shipped because of the inability to feed them in the farm or ranch.

With swine it is different. Pigs mature quickly and the feeder can adjust his crop to his feed supply.

Advancing prices will bring some compensation for the losses caused by nature, but the experience of the belt has been that no rise in price can quite compensate for the loss of a crop.

District Court to Go On Another Week Yet

District Attorney T. L. Price informed us this week that out of nine criminal cases tried here this term of District Court, he has had convictions in eight of them. He reports that Terry county juries have not been long in reaching a verdict. These were mostly liquor and chicken theft cases.

The grand jury was called back in session Wednesday of this week for further investigation. Also Judge Gordon B. McGuire has ordered the sheriff to get a petit jury for the fourth term of court next week, so there will probably be plenty doing all next week.

Boosters Trips To Cover South Plains

Booster trips designed to cover the entire section of the South Plains will be made within the next three weeks for the purpose of contracting South Plains citizens and advertising the seventeenth annual South Plains fair, to be held here September 29 to October 4, inclusive. B. C. Dickinson, president of the fair, announced today.

Committees are soon to be appointed to handle the trips and the citizenship of Lubbock will be called upon to respond again to make the tour to personally tell people of the South Plains what Lubbock is offering this year.

Four trips have been made annually in previous years and probably the same routes will be outlined this year.

Last year the first trip included stops at Smyer, Levelland, Whiteface, Morton, Elida, N. M., Portales, Muleshoe, Sudan, Amherst, Littlefield, Anton and Shallowater.

The second motorcade included Wolfarth, Ropesville, Meadow, Brownfield, Seagraves, Seminole, Hobbs, N. M., Lovington, Tatum and Plains.

Another included stops at Monroe, Abernathy, Hale Center, Plainview, Olton, Lockney, Floydada, PETERSBURG, Crosbyton, Ralls, Lorenzo and Idalou.

The fourth booster tour was made to Slaton, Southland, Post, Tahoka, son.

Associational Baptist Young Peoples Revival

Will meet at City Tabernacle—Sunday, 2:30 P. M.

Churches of Brownfield Baptist Association will be represented in large numbers in a great B. Y. P. U. meeting at the City Tabernacle next Sunday, 2:30 P. M.

Mr. T. C. Gardner, State B. Y. P. U. Director and his assistant, Miss Grace Conn of Dallas, will preside.

Mr. Gardner is known throughout the south as an efficient leader in the development and culture of young people. He will make a great inspirational address.

Several pastors and general workers from other sections of the State will be present. Special music will be another interesting feature of the program.

This will be the closing service of the Simultaneous B. Y. P. U. Revival that has been in progress throughout the Association during the past week. In this meeting awards will be given to all who made passing grades in B. Y. P. U. Study courses. A banner will be awarded to the church making the best record. You are invited to attend this meeting.

O'Donnell, Lamesa and Wilson.

The Lubbock high school Westerner band, a prime favorite on other occasions, probably will be one of the outstanding features again this year, according to Mr. Dickinson.

Beware!

When You Buy Outside Second Hand Cars.

In all probability this immediate section will be flooded with used cars from other territories this fall.

In justice to the car buying public we want to call your attention to a few fundamental facts:

1. USED CARS IMPORTED HERE FOR SALE ARE AN UNKNOWN QUALITY. YOU DO NOT KNOW WHAT CONDITION THEY ARE IN OR WHO HAS USED THEM.
2. When you buy used cars from your local dealers you are assured of their conditions, you have your local dealer here available to service the same at all times and he is interested with you to the extent that he wants it to stand up.
3. WHEN YOU BUY USED CARS AT HOME YOU ARE ASSURED OF ITS TITLE, THAT THERE ARE NO LIENS AGAINST SAME AND THAT IT IS YOURS ON THE CONDITION OF ITS PURCHASE.
4. The recommendation of your local dealer of years standing is your best assurance of a good second hand buy—when you buy from a transient dealer it is a purchase in the dark—THINK IT OVER BEFORE YOU BUY
