

OUR YOUNG MEN TAKING THEIR PLACES IN BUSINESS

Few if Any of Our Young Business Men Inclined to Be Smart Almsy. Have Acquired the Courtesy of Their Parents in the Home. The Town Proud of Them.

It does the writer good to see our young men gradually taking their places in the various business institutions here as they graduate from high school or college. We older men who have been before the mast for years are gradually aging and some of these days we must retire and give over our places to the young and more supple. But before we pass from the picture, it is well that we give what knowledge and experience we have gained in a life time to those who must follow and carry on the work, that if possible we might make it easier for them. Not that they will not have many things come up that will stump them as we have been stumped, for they will have their troubles. New things will arise in the business world that we are not acquainted with. But our aim is to help them over places we have been, showing them the easier way, if there is any easier way.

We note that James Harley Dallas has taken his place in the Brownfield State Bank to learn banking under his father, who is the president, and also other officers and employees of the bank who have had experience. James Harley is a good student and will soon pick up the business. Heretofore, before he graduated from high school, or after he entered Tech college, he would always return home in the summer and get a job of some sort, mostly with the ice company. He always made a good hand and one that stayed on the job. He now has his sheepskin from Tech College, having obtained the A. B. degree and is ready to follow the profession of his father. We expect much from James Harley in the future.

This condition is none the less in vogue over at the First National Bank. Two of R. M. Kendrick's boys, Clovis and Spencer are now following in the footsteps of their dad, and are learning the intricacies of the banking profession. Clovis went in when he graduated some two or three years ago, and Spencer has been on the job now for a year. Both these young men are quite efficient in the bookkeeping department, can handle the machines like experts, and Clovis has become quite efficient at the cashier's window waiting on customers. Both young men are courteous to customers and accommodating and willing help them in any way possible.

Go where you will over the city, and you will find young men whom just a few years ago you noticed riding tricycle or rolling hoops or old tires over the town now behind the counters, making themselves felt in the business world. Out on the farms you will find some of the young men making better farmers than father, or equally as good, as they are adopting themselves to more up-to-date methods, but it would be next to impossible to call all their names, as they are legion. We need this young blood in the business world.

And, by the way, this entry into the business world is not confined to the lads, but you will find the lassies of a just a few years behind the counters, in the shops, at the typewriter ready to serve customers of the several firms with a big smile on their faces. Three cheers for the boys and girls of Brownfield and Terry county who are to take our places in the business world some of these days.

Firemen Report Great Time at Convention

The Brownfield firemen, eight of them, attended the State Firemen's Convention at Bryan this year, and each of them came away praising the A. & M. city for the nice way the more than 1000 boys were handled. Asked if it was hot down there, they replied that it did not seem as hot as here, as it had been raining, and City Marshall Brown, who was one of those who attended from here said that there was so many shade trees there that the sun had little chance to warm the ground. The nights were cool, they said.

The convention next year will go to Austin, which is more centrally located than is Bryan. Those attended from here were Fire Chief, Eunice Jones; Fire Marshall, E. Brown; Walter Gracey, Frank Ballard, L. E. McClab, Howard Swan, Cecil Smith, and Chester Gore. These boys asked us to tell the people of Brownfield that they appreciated beyond words their help in raising money to send all these men to Bryan, and that they got lots of information not only in the school of instruction, but also on the convention floor.

Collins Dry Goods Co. Has On Great Sale

In conversation with Edgar Self, head clerk and advertising man of the Collins Dry Goods Co., this city, he informed us that it was usually their policy to put on a sale at reduced prices late in the summer, just before time to go to market, but owing to present conditions and the limited buying power of the people, they had decided to throw profits to the winds and give the people some prices near the wholesale cost of these splendid new goods right in the heart of the season.

Thousands of red tags were purchased by the Collins people from the Herald and all of these will be used to mark the new prices on the goods, and you will find they have some real special bargains. Many extra clerks will be employed to help wait on their customers. We hope you attend the sale before these goods are picked over. Dry goods are now near the bottom, and you need not wait longer to buy thinking they are going much lower. They conform very well now with other things.

MATTER OF DECISION

Madge—Jack's proposal was so sudden it made me jump.
Marie—at it, of course.—Boston Transcript.

Pecans Will Certainly Do Well in Nursery

Pecan growing on the Plains is still in its infancy. No one seems to know just what the outcome of the attempt to grow nuts on the Plains will amount to in the future. Experts are divided over the proposition. We understand that a Tech professor says it is too high and dry here, that the pollen in the blooms will so dry out that they will become infertile of dry years, and we can never have pecans here. Others who have grown pecans elsewhere and have lived on the Plains much longer than the Tech man says they will grow here. We can remember when the same thing was said about cotton production here. Two high, cold and seasons too short for cotton.

But they found a quick maturing cotton that did well here, and now the South Plains produces more cotton on average to the acre than any other section of Texas not irrigated. Some pecan growers say a pecan suited to this section will be propagated that will answer every purpose, and at least pay home owners to plant enough of them for home use if not for commercial purposes. And even if one never gets a nut from his trees here, the shade will be worth the effort, if placed near the house, windmill or tank, no tree makes a prettier shade. True it is a slow growth but they are long lived trees. We do not remember ever seeing one that was dead or even gave the appearance of decay. There are plenty of them in Central Texas—a foot to three feet in diameter that are still hale and hearty, and are being top worked with budded varieties, or as we sometimes say, "fine haired" varieties.

We know that they will grow rapidly in the nursery beds. That has been demonstrated to our entire satisfaction at the home of Dr. H. H. Hughes in this city. He has a place perhaps 25x50 feet in the southeast corner of his yard that is really a jungle now, and have only been out about five years. Some of them are 15 feet high, and they are so thick in the rows, and the rows are so close together that one can see only a few feet in them. We understand they are a good grade of seedling pecan, and we imagine that some of them could be bought and placed on the farms of Terry county. Coming fresh from a home nursery before the roots had time to wither, we are sure they would live and grow right off.

The Herald thanks Mrs. W. W. Ditto for her renewal this week. This make some 15 renewals for this family.

Home or Barn Burns —Has No Insurance

Almost daily when we read our papers, we find that some one has had their home burned, and the article is finished up with this announcement: "No insurance was carried," or "very little insurance was carried on the property." Then, at the end of the week, when we get our weekly exchanges, the matter is repeated over and over again, but rarely does one of the articles end like it should, that "the property was fully covered by insurance." This is not only an injustice to the home owner and his family, but an injustice to the entire community. This is what usually happens:

Brother Smith having lost his barn and feed finds that he has no money left to buy either feed or to build a new barn. Neighbors of course feel sorry for him and start out with a petition, which reads, "we undersigned give the amount set opposite your names to help him buy feed and build another barn." It can be a house as well as a barn. In the first place, while Smith will get lots of help and in the spirit of true neighborliness but will not receive anything like what his property was worth, and has still sustained a heavy loss. In the next place, you take money and feed from Jones, Brown and Thompson, all of whom probably have their barns and houses fully insured to reimburse Smith for his carelessness and indifference.

No neighbor is under any obligation to do for another what he should have done for himself. The Herald fully believes that in case of sickness, it is nothing but our duty to help out in the crop of the sick neighbor or any other way possible, but in the case of insurance, we do not believe in robbing Peter to pay Paul. To reward the carelessness and indifference of Smith by taking the substance that Jones, Brown and Thompson have accumulated through hard work, is encouraging the laziness and triflingness of Smith. Maybe, these three neighbors were working and watching corners to pay their own insurance premiums when Smith was off fishing or visiting when he ought to have been at work.

The best and safest plan is for each to carry their own insurance. We know that it comes a little high. We know that premiums come due with surprising regularity, but all real business men, rural or urban have to meet them. We believe that if people would discontinue passing the list for just a few years, it would learn each to care for his own property. We realize that policy holders have to pay for each fire anywhere in the United States, but the loss of a barn in any community in Terry county is shared by people all over the United States, possible with only a small fraction of one cent for each fire, and therefore, we do not miss the money so badly, and it all does not have to come out of one community.

No, this is no ad for our good advertising insurance firm of C. R. Rambo, successors, but if it does them any good they are welcome to it. But we advise all to carry their own burden and get what their property is worth, or nearly so in case of fire.

We Are Sending Out Notices this Week

We are sending out several hundred subscription notices to readers whose paper have already expired or will expire between this time and July 1. We will ask all who receive them to come and pay up for another year, or at least make a payment. Any payment will help and will be highly appreciated by the publishers.

Herald to Be $2.00 In Yoakum County

On and after the first day of July, the Herald will be $2.00 per year in Yoakum county, the same as in other counties outside of Terry. We are making this extension of time in order that they may renew at the old rate if they wish. This does not apply to people who live in Yoakum county and get their mail in Terry county, or to people who live in Terry county and get their mail in some other county.

We are making this raise for two reasons. One is, that there is no postage on papers which circulate in Terry county, postage beginning at county line. The other is that Yoakum county now has its own publication which of course gives the people more home news than the Herald ever can, and it of course gets all the legal notices for that county.

Hill May Stock Up While Cows Cheap

In conversation with J. R. Hill last Friday, he informed us that he was making a supreme effort to get a pardon and not have to go back to the pen. If he can make the rifle, and get a pardon, he aims to stock cattle while they are cheap. In fact, he says he believe they are at or near the bottom in price. But it would be foolhardy, says he to try anything until I know what I am going to have to do.

The Amoma Sunday School class had a meeting Saturday at the home of Mrs. Savage. The sweet pea was chosen the class flower, lavender and pink our colors. "Smiles" our song. Those present were Ira Belle Chambliss, Josie Gibson, Helen Leach, Nova Lee and Freda Tandy, and hostess, Mrs. Savage.

We May Get Cheaper Gas Rates This Fall

A voluntary revision of present gas rate schedules for customers in the city of Lubbock is to be made by the West Texas Gas company sometime during the summer months, according to R. F. Hinchey, vice-president of the company, who announced Friday that a study of the schedules was being made with a reduction of rates in view. Announcement of the revised schedules will be made after a survey of the company's business in Lubbock and other cities served by the company, Mr. Hinchey said.

Apply in Fall

The new schedules will likely go into effect sometime in the fall and will be applicable upon winter bills, Mr. Hinchey said. Revision of the rates will effect the schedules in each of the 42 towns served by the company. Work on the survey of the company's business has been started and will require most of the summer for completion, it was said.—Lubbock Avalanche.

Terryites Invited to Plainview July 4th

Plainview, June.—An invitation is extended by Glenn A. Smith, president of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture, to all citizens of this section to attend the big Fourth of July celebration that is being planned in Plainview. Ten tons of meat have been purchased for the huge barbecue which will be served free to the visitors, and something will be doing every minute of the day until late at night. In the morning an interesting parade, which will be approximately one-half mile long, will depict the progress made in this section during the last 40 years. W. J. Klinger is general chairman of the celebration.

Other events planned include a number of athletic stunts, fiddlers contest, wrestling match, fire works display, baseball game, band concerts, and dance. Ten thousand people are expected for the celebration.

HAILSTORM RIPS ITS WAY ACROSS TERRY CO.

Most Destructive Storm to Hit the County in Many Years. The Swath Ranged From 1 to 3 Miles Wide and 25 Miles In Length. Farmers Replanting Area.

A hail storm pretty severe in its nature, began in the Pleasant Valley community, 8 miles northeast of the city Monday afternoon, and cut a swath from one to three miles wide diagonally across the county from northeast to southwest, playing out in the Hunter community some ten miles southwest of this city. In this area, there is hardly a stalk of anything left, according to those who have been out in the strip. However, the hail was not large enough to seriously damage any roofs that we heard of. The streak barely missed the city. Indeed, it hailed quite sharply in the city, but did not damage greatly.

We understand that where it started out in the Pleasant Valley neighborhood that they think there will be stand enough left to keep from replanting, but most of the others will have to replant, and are in today (Tuesday morning) after cotton seed and other seeds. The K. W. Howell farms just east of the city was wiped out and the west end of the Green farm, but we have been informed that there is no sign of hail where the Lamesa road turns south out at the Brownfield ranch. So the strip that is wiped out could not be much more than a mile in width just east of the city.

Lee Thompson informed us that he came in home from down toward Lamesa between sundown and dark. Rain began falling on them about Lou, which is just over in Dawson county, and raining on them all the way in. He could not tell how much it rained behind them as they came this way, but by the time he reached the Union community he said the bar pits were full and running over. Some reported as much as a four inch rain in that section of the county.

Good rains seem to have covered the south and most of the east side of the county. Good shower fell about five miles north. No rain west or northwest to amount to anything. In fact, it was just a light shower a mile west of the city. Southwest, we understand that Lahey, Wellman and possibly Seagraves sections got good rains. The Union, Scudday, Forrester and Hunter sections got good rains, but the later two got lots of hail with it.

John Chisholm Feeds Herald Fine Chickens

Well, John Chisholm delivered the goods last Saturday afternoon. He promised us way back early that when he had some good fryers he wanted to give us a Rhode Island red and a white leghorn the same age. He maintained that Leghorn would be the best. We held out for the Red, or any large breed of chicken. He said that the Leghorn for the first two months would be a heavier bird than the Red. Yes, but—we come back—the Leghorn is tougher and has more gristles.

That is where you like many people are off. If the chicken is allowed to run at large and do the best he can for living by chasing bugs and scratching into every nasty thing he can find, he will be stringy. But I want you to eat some real chickens raised on mash and fed according to A. & M. College prescriptions, and that has not been allowed to run wild and scratch into every dunghill. We made as stout an argument as possible as we really wanted to make an impression that would get the free chickens.

Saturday afternoon he announced that he was ready for us and took us out to his place in the east end of the city where he has some 1500 incubator chickens ranging in age from two or three weeks up to two months in age. Instead of two, he gave us two reds and four leghorns. Not worth much anyway, says he, so take enough to do you some good.

Well, when we are defeated we are always ready to shell down. He has a large breed of Leghorns which probably make some difference. Anyway, John Chisholm's Leghorns are not a bit stringy—not even the thighs. They cook as tender as you please. Now here is a little ad for John. If you want some real fat juicy chickens that have never eaten anything except clean mash and drink fresh water, go out to his place after them. They are really better than any Reds we ever ate, and this includes the ones he gave us.

Tahoka Woman Makes Bail in Killing Case

Tahoka, June.—Waiving examining trial, Mrs. Ola Redman, charged with killing Fred Chase, late Friday made bond of $2,500 and was released from jail where she had been held since late Tuesday. Chase's body was found in an automobile near his father's house in the Gordon community.

Will Get a Hearing On T. P. N.

Ton Upon Ton of Ice On the Sims Place

J. L. Sims of the Lon community, had 500 acres of crop destroyed in the hail and wind storm Monday afternoon. He said that the rain and hail fell in about an hour, and he was sure that at least five inches fell in that time. Some, he said believed as much as ten inches fell. Anyway, says J. L., I'll bet most anything that I can load five of the biggest trucks in Brownfield with ice any time this afternoon (Tuesday). After the rain and hail was over, he said the lake near his house was waist deep in ice. He estimated that the hail strip was three miles across in his section, which is 18 miles southwest of town.

He brought in a stalk of corn that was near waist high that he been beaten to a stub six inches high. What made the hail so bad was probably caused from high winds, the strongest Mr. Sims has ever seen on the Plains. He knows of three dwellings that were rolled over and torn up. One on the Dick Brownfield place, one on the Hill place, and one belonging to a widow near Mr. Sims place. It was a straight wind, however.

Mr. Sims said that he and a young man from East Texas who is working for him were at the barn milking when the storm struck and was unable to go to the house until the storm was over. He said that was the worst scared young fellow he ever saw, as he came from a storm county. No, I was not badly scared said Mr. Sims, as I had never seen a storm on the Plains before.

As soon as he could he went to the assistance of the people whose house was destroyed. One old grandmother was scared so badly she could not talk. It seems that it took half the house, leaving them in the other end. I had to wade water a foot deep to get anywhere after the rain was over. He has a bully season to start another crop on.

Rialto to Show Two Programs a Week

Beginning next week, the Rialto Theatre will have no shows on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday for the rest of the summer, unless business gets better. They consider that this will be better and less expensive for both the management as well as theatre goers. Two programs will be given a week as follows:

The same program will be shown on Thursday and Friday nights, and the same one will be shown Saturday afternoon and night and Sunday matinee. Good shows as usual, and they hope this arrangement will meet with the hearty approval of their many friends.

Editors Pick Mineral Well For Next Meet

San Angelo, June.—Mineral Wells was selected as the 1932 convention city and R. L. Scott of De Leon was elevated to the presidency this morning in the closing session of the three-day convention here of the Texas Press Association.

Lowry Martin of Corsicana was named to the vice presidency vacated by Scott to accept the chief executive's post.

Sam P. Harben of Richardson was renamed secretary for this twenty-fourth year and B. F. Harigel of LaGrange was reappointed treasurer.

The executive committee, composed of three representatives of the weekly press, two of the daily, and one of Texas periodicals, includes Harry Hornsby of Uvalde, M. B. Smith of Farmersville, and R. H. Jackson of Coleman in the weekly division; M. B. Hanks of Abilene and J. Lee Greer of Denison in the daily, and Joe Kempton of the periodicals.

The new appointment of the executive committee among the publications group was approved in a constitutional amendment voted today. An increase in dues also was provided.

Port Arthur, Mineral Wells and College Station competed for the next convention. Cleburne, which had been in the race, withdrew in favor of Mineral Wells and served notice of another request for the 1933 convention.

Resolutions passed today included the indorsement for the Texas centennial project which would be staged in 1936 if a constitutional amendment is passed; indorsement of the five-year program of Progressive Texans, Inc., sponsored by the three regional chambers of commerce, and declared the editors in favor of a revision in highway financing plans to secure a connected system of paved highways throughout the State.

Dee Elliott and family were visitors in the Jno. A. King home at Lubbock, Sunday. Dee reports a good feed.

RED CROSS AID IN FLOOD AREA NEAR TURKEY

Memphis, June.—The regional office of the Red Cross in St. Louis has contributed $2,500 for the relief of flood sufferers in Hall and Briscoe counties, in the vicinity of Turkey and Quitaque, where a cloudburst washed crops away last Monday night.

Two thousand dollars will be sent to Briscoe county and $500 to Hall county according to J. Claude Wells, chairman of the Hall county chapter who made application for relief.

Aid from the regional office followed a survey conducted by Henry M. Baker of Oklahoma.

Seed Is Needed

The amount donated by the Red Cross will go to families who have not already received seed loans from the governments, Wells said. The other farmers, who are in the majority, must be cared for from a fund raised by voluntary donations, he said. It was estimated that $12,000 worth of cotton and grain sorghum seed would be needed to replant the 66,000 acres devastated by the rain, which averaged from 6 to 10 inches.

TORNADOES

No matter how improbable it sounds, any story you hear about a tornado may be true. The power of a column of air revolving at a speed of 500 to 1,000 miles an hour is incalculable. It may strip the feathers from a chicken, uproot a giant tree, leave a baby unscratched, do almost anything.

Recently a North Dakota tornado snatched the crack Great Northern Empire Builder from the tracks while the train was speeding along the fifty-mile-an-hour clip and piled up the cars like so many toys. Only one person was killed and one fatally hurt. Steel construction of the cars prevented greater loss of life. If the cars had been of wood, every passenger might have been killed.

Brownfield Marine Gets Diploma, Letter

By combining his military duties with a special course of study, Alfred LeRoy Stone, a U. S. Marine or Brownfield, Texas was awarded a diploma in the Accountancy taught by the Marine Corps Institute at Washington, D. C. He also received a letter from Major General Fuller, commandant of the Marine Corps, praising Stone's work as a student.

Stone, who is now stationed at the Marine Barracks, Annapolis, Md., formerly made his home with his mother, Mrs. Emma Stone, Star Route, Brownfield. He joined the Marine Corps at Oklahoma City in June, 1927 and received his training at Parris Island, S. C.

The institute gives free instruction to Marines, preparing its students for civilian occupations. In his letter to the Brownfield Marine, General Fuller wrote in part: "I congratulate you upon your excellent work in completing this course. A copy of this letter has been placed upon your record at Headquarters, U. S. Marine Corps, and your commanding officer has been instructed to make an appropriate entry in your service record."

GRANDMA TO DRIVE CHEVROLET 2800 MILES

Grandma Stewart, who recently celebrated her 73rd birthday, is piloting her new Chevrolet coach on the long road between Detroit and San Pedro, California. She left the Motor City a few days ago and expects to cover the 2,800 mile journey in about thirteen days.

And Mrs. Stewart—although she speaks of herself, and is known to a host of friends and relatives as Grandma Stewart—will drive every foot of the way. She has made the trip five times, usually alone, and although she has two friends with her on this journey neither of them can drive.

Another "Believe It Or Not" For Ripley

Most county and city bonds run the full time allotted them. The exception is the rule. But here seems to be a case for Ripley. Here's the evidence to the contrary, nevertheless:

Farwell, June.—The last of Parmer county's courthouse bonds has been paid, 22 years before it was due.

Bonds to this amount of $50,000 were issued April 13, 1913, one bond to be paid each year for 40 years. By paying the bonds in 18 years, County Treasurer Walter Lander said the county had saved $6,600 in interest. He said that 10 cents of the county tax had been going into the sinking fund, and that a reduction in county taxes should result from the payment of the bonds.

DUTCH BIBLE FOR WHICH ROOSEVELT OFFERED $1,000

C. L. Valentine, who resides west of town, has in his possession an old Bible, printed in 1714, and brought to the colonies more than 150 years ago by the Dendorff family. For its age the book is well preserved, being printed on a good quality of hand-made vellum, is over six inches thick and is bound in leather, with brass corners, and at one time a lock. The other dimensions are twelve by eighteen inches.

The Bible was printed in Amsterdam and in the language of the Hollanders of that period, and Mr. Valentine states he has never found any one who could read it. Mr. Valentine's first wife was a descendant of the Dendorff family and the Bible has been a heirloom for generations, being owned by nine families prior to it being bequeathed to her.

Theodore Roosevelt, while president of the United States, heard of the existence of this Bible and wrote Mrs. Valentine that if she would send the book to him he would pay her $1,000 for it. Mrs. Valentine prepared it for shipment, but gave away to emotions on account of it being the property of her mother and others in the family for such a long time decline to sell it. Roosevelt also belonged to a prominent Dutch family and it is said he could have read its contents.

On the first page of this work is a certificate of the government giving authority to this publishing house to print Bibles of authorized translation dated as September 6, 1688. There is no doubt that this Bible should now be in the museum or library of one of the leading universities. On each page is many notes and explanations which no doubt throw much light on the life and religious feelings of that time. The maps and illustrations are also unique and would be valuable to the students of history.

This Bible will be on display at the Herald office Saturday afternoon, and all who are interested may call and see it.—Hockley County Herald.

TOMORROW?

Yesterday with prosperity on every side, one was so rushed with acquiring wealth and spending it, so certain of the future, so busy becoming radio-conscious, automobile-conscious, airplane-conscious, and being made aware of the many luxuries that were the products of the era that no time was left for becoming "self-conscious." Little thought was given to the forming of character or one's ultimate destination. Introspection became an almost forgotten term as the spiritual was submerged in the material, and wealth's illusory promises made all else seem valueless.

Today, the setting has been changed. Gold, luxury and self-complacency have given away to bread lines, unemployment and poverty. One is made acutely aware of the ephemeral qualities of that which yesterday seemed permanent. Social unrest and political upheavals appear the order of the day.

Realizing that prosperity is at the best but transitory; that happiness is not necessarily an incident of material gain, is not now the time for introspection? Would it not be well for each individual in his own sphere to sort the real from the unreal—to change his course from the pursuit of illusions and start in search of truths?

Tomorrow, whether or not the trend of the human race will be toward a higher plane, with its resulting benefits to each individual, will depend upon the collective result of the many individual self-examinations and determinations. Upon each person this responsibility rests. What type of government best fits the needs of human society? What form of education best trains the youth to take part? What will be the status of affairs tomorrow? The decision lies in part with you.—Exchange.

FRIGATE CONSTITUTION TO TAKE JULY CRUISE

Washington, D. C.—Persons who contributed to the work of restoration of the Constitution, famous as Old Ironsides, are invited to inspect the vessel on its cruise along the eastern coast from Portsmouth, N. H., to Yorktown, Va., beginning July 3, the Secretary of the Navy, Charles Francis Adams, announced recently. The Department's announcement reads:

The U. S. S. Constitution—Old Ironsides—will commence her post restoration cruise July 3, 1931. This historic frigate, now nearing the completion of her reconditioning at Boston navy yard, will be commissioned July 1 and will start her voyage from Boston two days later in tow of the Grebe.

"We hope," Secretary Adams stated, "that the children and patriotic citizens whose contributions made possible, to a large degree, the restoration of the famous old ship, will accept this invitation to board her. Old Ironsides is more than an inspiration—she is an American tradition. The successful accomplishment of her mission at sea when she was commanded so ably by Hull, Bainbridge, Stewart, meant more to our young nation than the victories credited to her in the pages of history."

The restoration of the ship has been carried out in such a manner as to bring the Constitution to the same condition in all details as at the same condition in all details as at the time of her greatest victories from 1812 to 1814. Credit for this task belongs to Lient. John A. Lord, naval constructor, and a native of Bath, Me. Mementos of the ship's earlier days have been graciously delivered by descendants of the men who cruised on the ship to the committee in charge of the Constitution's restoration and these have been supplemented in recent weeks through the efforts of Comdr. Louis J. Gulliver, U. S. N., who has been detailed to command the ship on her cruise.

The announced itinerary includes ports along the New England Coast, where the ship was built and manned and was fought so well, and Atlantic Coast ports as far south as Chesapeake Bay. The present itinerary carries Old Ironsides as far as Yorktown, Va., where she will be present at the Sesqui-centennial Celebration Oct. 16 to Oct. 23, 1931.

"TWISTING"

The public is being warned that in certain parts of the country persons purporting to be "life insurance experts" are indulging in a systematic campaign of "twisting." In other words, such a person will approach a life insurance policyholder with a proposition that he drop a present policy and take in its place another form of contract in some other company, presumably for the sake of saving saving money.

Don't be misled by such alluring tales. No policy holder in any established legal reserve life insurance company can drop or exchange an existing legal reserve policy without loss to him. The person who recommends such a change is doing it solely for personal profit.

If you are approached by such a twister, you will be protecting yourself by communicating immediately with your company or with the insurance commissioner of your state. "Twisting" is prohibited by law in many states because it is harmful to the interest of the policyholder.

CARROLL RENDERS AID IN ODD ACCIDENT
Bob Carroll's efficiency as a smith has been one of the maximums of this territory for a number of years, but he entered an altogether new department of the field last Friday evening when he removed a steel band from the head of an enterprising two year old.

The child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Heard, had been playing with an iron hub-band, and in some manner succeeded in getting his hand through it. Repeated efforts on the part of members of the family to remove it were unsuccessful, so the father brought him in for the job. Mr. Carroll first attempted to saw the band, but soon saw that a method would be entirely too long drawn out. Accordingly, he placed the child's neck, encircled by the band, in a vise, and bent the band oblong, so that it lifted off when you don't know what to do. Then Bob Carroll. He's had some experience with his own hands. O'Donnel

A SLOGAN FOR PROGRESS
The Missouri Pacific railroad has distributed a poster among its employees. It requires no enlargement; it speaks for itself.
"Let's get enough business today to put another man back to work."
The letters of the poster are big; the spirit behind is bigger still. After all, the cure for depression is neither legislation nor oratory. Nothing will decrease unemployment except more business. If the M. P. gets the business it can add new crews. If other sales, it can put more men to work.
The nation has been told that it lacks leadership. Perhaps the lack is at the other end. It needs earnest shoulders behind the wheel of effort—workers who can produce more business to pay the wages of more workers. The Missouri Pacific has the idea. It is to be hoped that it is contagious.—The Dallas News.

Ft. Worthian May Head Lions International

Delegates from 244 Texas Lions Clubs will attend the Lions International Convention in Toronto, Canada, July 14-17 in support of Julien C. Hyer of Fort Worth for International President of the Association. Mr. Hyer has served the International Association as First Vice President during the past year.

Texas Lions have completed arrangements for a special train to take them to the International Convention in Toronto. The train, according to present arrangements, will be made up at Dallas at 6:30 P. M. July 11. Unit cars will be spotted throughout Texas. Included with the special train for Toronto will be a car of Texas products and produce for distribution on the opening night of the Convention. The opening night of the Convention has been set aside by the International Convention Committee as "Texas Night." Elaborate preparations have been made for "Texas Night" including the appearance of internationally known entertainers such as Vomanelli's orchestra. The election of officers of the Association will be held on the last day of the Convention. Julien Hyer by his outstanding record of service to the organization, to his own club, his District and State, and by order of succession in the international offices, is the logical successor to Earle W. Hodges of New York City for the office of President.

Texas claims to be the state of birth of Lionism since the first Lions Club ever organized was the Lions Club of San Antonio. Dallas entertained the first International Convention of Lions Clubs and also gave the young Association one of its first International Presidents, Mr. L. H. Lewis, now of San Antonio.

It was sixteen years ago, two years before the founding of the International Association of Lions Clubs that the first Lions club at San Antonio came into existence. In the succeeding two years other Lions Clubs were formed, and after formal organization of the association in June 1917, the first Convention of Lions International was held at Dallas in the same year. Lionism not only found its birth in Texas, but has shown a consistent growth—until at the present time there are 244 clubs in the state—more than twice the number of clubs of the other service organizations combined. There are now approximately 2500 Lions Clubs in the United States and Canada with a membership only slightly less than 100,000.

Sec. Shelton Gives Out Interesting News Items

A good deal has been written and said about the low prices that were received for farm products and predictions are being made that both cotton and corn will sell for less than it did last year.

Which reminds the writer of an article that appeared in one of the papers a few days ago, which after commenting upon the agricultural outlook, ended with the sentence, "that some crop to sell even at a low price was better than no crop to sell at any price." And that is pretty good logic, as our condition is very much better than any county that was in the drought stricken area which had no crop to sell.

According to opinions of some of the leading business men of the Nation, cotton may sell at a higher price than it did last year. It is claimed that sales of cotton goods are on the upgrade and that this may continue through the season, while on the other hand, raw material on hand at the mills is smaller than it has been in any years since 1914. Of course we have a large surplus and cannot expect the high prices of a few years ago, but it might be a decent one after all.

Arrangements are being made for the circulation of petitions over the county calling for the employment of a county agricultural agent. It is hoped that the requisite number of names can be procured in time to present to the commissioners at the August term. Many farmers and business men are interested and hope that this can be put over.

Your local chamber of commerce does not undertake to suggest to our farmers as to what they shall plant, how they shall plant it or how it shall be cultivated. Neither do we make any recommendations as to variety or seed to be used. Our farmers take the position that the farmers read as many newspapers as any of us and are as competent to manage their own affairs as any other business man, but we are eager and willing to assist in anything that would be for the further development of this section and for better living conditions for its inhabitants.

The chamber of commerce has an advertising committee, whose identity is known only to the President and Secretary. It is the duty and desire of this committee to pass upon all special advertising proposals and petitions and to either issue or refuse a letter of approval. This committee has been functioning for over a year and its decisions have resulted in savings of thousands of dollars, in that it prevented the carrying out of several schemes that promised much and would have provided little in the way of actual benefit.

Highway 84, running East and West across the county, which we have been trying so hard to have designated as a Federal highway, was placed on the Federal System last week. The county now has two Federal designations. One running from Metcalfe Gap to Socorro, New Mexico, connecting at each end with other Federal highways and other from Toronto, Canada to El Paso, under Federal No. 62. Federal highways are not easy to secure and are very valuable, more so than the average citizen realizes. We have reason to congratulate ourselves, as it has taken some keen work with the scales balanced between ourselves and other highways.

Flowers to the Living; Roy Collier is a new member of the chamber of commerce and a voluntary one at that and he and Abe Lincoln, who is also a new member and a voluntary one, stand out by themselves as they are the only ones received so far this year. We have a number of people who should become members of the chamber of commerce and feel sure that they are only waiting to be asked and the secretary is going to surprise them some of these days by dropping around and getting them on the rolls. We are prevented from sponsoring several projects upon account of limited funds but at the same time believe that the organization is filling a real need and is worth its cost with some to spare. You are urged to call upon the organization for information or service there is many ways in which we can be of service to you.

Highway Association No. 137, held its meeting here today with delegations from as far South as Andrews, but very few local people were in attendance and this was to be expected as they were more interested in estimating the damage done by sandstorms and hail than they would be about highway development. Several people made talks and the opinion of local people seemed to be that Terry county would not undertake to vote any bond issue at this time. The chamber of commerce, as an organization, has voted against sponsoring any road bond issue and if one is advocated, it will have to be done through an organization created for the purpose, which does not seem to be in immediate prospect. The next meeting of the highway Association will be held at Seagraves, at the call of the President.

THE SPIRIT OF INTOLERANCE

Among the other lines of bunk, we Americans like to indulge in is an exaltation of the motives of the Pilgrim fathers. We like to say that they came to this country from exalted motives, searching for a place where they might worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience, presumably allowing others to do the same. Which is all right except as to the presumption.

As a matter of fact the Pilgrim Fathers were a densely ignorant and deeply intolerant bunch. Comparatively few of them could do more than laboriously read the gospels, practically all other literature being forbidden, and to scrawl their own name. They had their own ironbound concepts, based on the fact that they drew from the glorious story of Jesus and the Bible, only the hard-balled, and the sinister, and the gloomy. If anybody in the colony dared to differ in this respect, the only thing that could save their lives was to take to the brush the moment their "heresy" was announced to the selectmen. Even such great thinkers as Robert Williams had to go while the going was good, and he was only one of many who felt the mailed hand of the colonial religion.

All sorts of superstition was prevalent, including a belief in witchcraft, which every once in a while resulted in the burning of some poor old soul, accused of dark magic, at the stake. Tomorrow, the 10th day of June is the anniversary of the death of Bridget, at Salem, in 1692, in this horribly cruel and inhuman way.

She was convicted on the testimony of some terrified children whose dread of home punishment was so great that they would invent any story in order to escape it. In reality she was a harmless old crone, who was made unfit by a life of bitter toil and privation, and who did not even understand clearly the charges that were brought against her. Accordingly she was bound at the stake and died "that God-fearing folk might be safe from her evil ministrations." The horrors of the inquisition had nothing upon that fiendish process, and it was all in the name of one whose life was a lesson for all time in love, gentleness and compassion.

At a meeting of the school board Monday night, they received the resignation of H. R. Winston, and elected Clyde Lewis to fill his place. It seems that Homer being district clerk and the board having some cases coming up in his court disqualified him from holding the office. It was nice of Clyde to take the office, as he has served several years and is well qualified to fill the place.

Levelland Man Over Poisoning Experience

Lester Hasher, 23-year-old mail carrier of Levelland, who drank a small quantity of carbolic acid June 3, was dismissed from the Lubbock sanitarium yesterday. Hasher's condition was considered extremely grave when he was brought to Lubbock from Levelland a few hours after he took the poison. At that time little hope was held for his recovery.—Lubbock Avalanche.

REAL FOOD FOR REAL MEN

Major General Marlin Craig is probably doing more to revise the dairy industry than all the political cure-all ever proposed. In making an inspection of a Vancouver, Washington, barracks company kitchen, the second question he asked was, "Do you serve milk as a regular ration?" When told, "No, sir," he replied, "That's too bad. You should do it for it's wonderful food and the men like it."

In the next company kitchen, after the preliminary questions, he said, "Do you serve milk for meals?" "Yes, sir, for breakfast, sir." "Enough so each man can have a glassful?" "Yes, sir, a second if he wants it, sir." "Say, that is fine. Milk is the best food soldiers can have. Any kicking on the meals, Sergeant?" "Yes, sir, a little bit, but it doesn't amount to much, sir."

"That's fine. If there isn't any kicking, look out because there will be something seriously wrong with the men." General Craig is a real old-time fighting cavalryman and instead of merely advocating milk for babies and sick people, he is insisting upon it being served daily to the men in his department of the regular army.

Tokio Talks

Well, how do you all like these rains. We sure have had some good rains of sand. Sure need a rain of water, don't we?

Mr. and Mrs. B. Smith, Mrs. D. D. Smith, and Miss Thelma Jenkins left Sunday morning for Portales, N. M. They will return Thursday. They were intending to attend a Camp meeting or convention.

Miss Wilma Holland of Forrester came home with Pansy Romans Saturday. She will visit among her many friends for sometimes.

Mrs. Alberding returned home with her children. Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Alberding, who have been visiting in Wichita Falls. She will return to her home in Kansas some time this week. Mrs. H. N. Johnson is better at this writing. She has been some worse.

There was a few from Tokio who attended the closing school program at Turner Friday night.

ARE YOU A LAW-BREAKER?

No great country has so many laws as the United States. No other great country has so much law breaking, it is said. This is not, of course, a coincidence. It is gradually being realized that too many laws are as detrimental as too few laws.

Law-breaking has become in a way a national sport—concurrent in by persons in all walks of life. And still our elected officials continue to grind out more and more laws to add to the already sagging statute books.

There is no point in chiding the public for countenancing lawlessness. The blame must go largely to those who have aided and abetted the mania for passing "more restrictive laws."

If all the antiquated traffic laws, 10-15-20 and 30 miles an hour speed limits, prohibition laws, anti-gun laws, "spitting" ordinances, anti-smoking ordinances, etc., were enforced, probably 25 per cent of all citizens would be subject to fine or imprisonment everyday. We pass so many laws that it is impossible to enforce them because we couldn't provide enough courts and jails to handle the minor cases.

BROKEN PROMISES

When Ross Sterling was a candidate for governor he assured citizens of Howard, Dawson, Martin and other counties in West Texas he favored reimbursement of losses to farmers brought about by the pink bollworm quarantine.

When he had an opportunity to make good his promise he saw an opportunity to side step and did so by vetoing the measure just as Little Dan had done.—Big Spring News.

Mercury Soars to Set New Record Saturday

Summer continued its hold upon the South Plains yesterday, sending the mercury at the experiment farm near Lubbock soaring to 105 degrees the highest temperature of the year.

The previous high of the year was 102 degrees, which was recorded Friday afternoon.

Yesterday's minimum temperature was 66 degrees.—Lubbock Avalanche.

THE VATICAN STATE

The Pope, as a temporal sovereign over a petty State, is in a quite different situation from that occupied by the "pioneer of the Vatican." There is a concordat or treaty between the Vatican and Italy, which gives the Church a favored position; but Mussolini, holding to his theory of State supremacy, does not admit that the Church has the right to control Italian education, nor a "foreign power," the Vatican, to influence politics through the organization known as Catholic Action. Hence he insists that all Catholic organizations in Italy should recognize that they must conform to the law of the State.

The crux of the whole matter, of course, is the Government's determination to control the education of the youth, so as to train them into adherence to fascist principles. The Pope, as a foreign sovereign, should therefore, in Mussolini's opinion, respect Italy's policy and harmonize its religious teachings with fascism.

It is not unlike an attempt to mix oil and water. A peace may be temporarily patched up, but there is a real issue, hard to settle. The Pope desires to be considered as the head of the Church in Italy, having equal or superior rights in matters of morals or religion. Mussolini considers him as a foreign potentate who interferes with the State's functions by propaganda of a political nature.

The Vatican has a worse complication with Spain, and has developed another with Lithuania, which has just sent off the papal nuncio. The reason for this action is similar to that advanced by Italy. The Government charges the clergy with propaganda favorable to Poland and denounces them as trouble makers against the nationalist aspirations of the Nation. The population of Lithuania is Catholic, but is also strongly patriotic. Evidently the Government considers that it can rely on popular support in bringing to an issue its struggle against an unsympathetic ecclesiastical organization.—Dallas News.

TEST OF CIVILIZATION AT GOVERNOR MURRAY'S DOOR

It is fortunate that Oklahoma has a man of the honest, rugged and determined type of Wm. H. Murray as governor at this time, when a tragedy such as recently occurred in Ardmore has the possibilities of bringing about international complications of a diplomatic nature, disturbing to the amicable relations of the peoples of Mexico and the United States.

From newspaper reports the Signal regards the matter as a criminal act, notwithstanding it was done by officers of the law, and deserving of the severest prosecution provided by the Oklahoma statutes. In plain language, it was essentially murder and those guilty of the crime ought to be punished for it, as any ordinary murderer would be punished.

The people of Oklahoma, of Texas and of the United States, who know "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, are placing their faith in him to uphold the laws of this country and the principles of liberty and civilization, by demanding a vigorous and unbiased investigation of the circumstances of the killing of two young Mexican gentlemen enroute to their homes from attending an American college, and by his directing the immediate prosecution of those responsible for the unwarranted taking of human life by officers who, it seems, had neither sufficient grounds for suspicion nor a warrant for the arrest of the young men, and without a warrant an officer shooting at a fleeing man no matter under what circumstances is guilty of murder.

Bill, "the eyes of Texas are on you," as well as the eyes of your home people and all the civilized people of the United States and Mexico. Pass this test successfully, according to the code of American honor, and the people of the United States will concede that the man and the hour have arrived.—Pyote Signal.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jones of Levelland and daughter, Miss Laura, who is chief telephone operator here, have just returned from their vacation, which Miss Jones describes as being great. They left here going to California via Roswell, Phoenix and other cities to San Diego, thence to Hollywood and Los Angeles. Going up the coast they took in Sacramento and other cities of middle California, thence east to Salt Lake and home via Denver. Miss Jones liked Arizona and California, but didn't like Nevada and Utah very well, and Colorado only medium.

E. N. Evans, of Tatum, N. M., was a visitor here Saturday.

BELIEVES NEGROES MET FOUL PLAY

Henry Bivins, Drew Farmer alias Drew Hill, and Charles Etta Cade, all colored residents of Tahoka, who were drowned in the Guadalupe River near New Braunfels a few weeks ago, are now believed to have been victims of foul play, according to local negroes.

The only member of the party who escaped was Steve Brown of San Marcos, who recently committed suicide by poison. He had been accused of having robbed the other occupants of the car, taking quite a sum of money from Drew Farmer, and then deliberately running the car into the swollen river, leaping from the car before it entered the water. When officers began an investigation he committed suicide, local negroes say.—Tahoka News.

SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST

During the past few years several thousand printing plants and newspapers have passed from the scene of action leaving behind a trail of unpaid bills and old plants for sale. In addition there has been a large number of consolidations. These exceed the new plants that have sprung up, and the result is a smaller number of printing and publishing concerns than five or six years ago. The exact number is not actually known, but it is probably over a thousand in the United States and Canada alone. Many causes have been given, but there is one cause the most outstanding and that is—lack of profits.—Free Press.

Ton for ton . . . mile for mile Chevrolet six-cylinder trucks cost less to operate

It is a matter of record, among more and more large fleet operators, that Chevrolet six-cylinder trucks give a lower transportation cost than any other truck of equal capacity in the market. These firms are finding, through experience, that Chevrolet trucks deliver as capable of 20 miles or better, to the gallon of gasoline; that Chevrolet 1 1/2-ton trucks are making fuel records which are relatively just as high. That it costs very little to keep Chevrolet trucks in first-class condition. That Chevrolet trucks charge on both parts and labor are exceptionally low. That the active life of Chevrolet trucks extends well past the 50,000 mileage mark.

To place your hauling on a minimum-cost basis—and keep it there—put Chevrolet six-cylinder trucks to work. A wide variety of Chevrolet-built bodies is now available. And delivered prices of Chevrolet trucks, complete and ready for work, are based on low chassis-cost and low body-cost, plus only reasonable charges for handling and financing.

Chevrolet 1 1/2-ton chassis with 131" wheelbase (dual wheels optional, $25 extra) $520. 3 1/2-ton chassis with 157" wheelbase, $690. (Dual wheels standard). All truck chassis prices f.o.b. CHURCH OF CHRIST

We were very gratified with the interest and attendance last Lord's day. Especially with the young people and their work. They had one of the most interesting meetings and rendered the best program of any thus far. We hope to be busy most of this summer in meetings in the county. Our first meeting will begin at Lahay school house, next Sunday night, at 8:30 to continue a week or ten days. We would appreciate the co-operation of the people of that community.

Our second meeting will begin at Johnson school house Friday night before the 1st Sunday in July. We feel, "that we must work while it is day for night will soon come when we cannot work." Also that the field is white unto harvest and the laborers are few. We are hoping our people shall catch a vision of the lost world and have a passion for souls and help in every way to win some to

MARRIED

Well, we got the dope on the Weldon Howell wedding this week but found that it was Weldon instead of Harlan, as we had it last week. Harlan indicates that he is still enjoying single bliss. Mrs. K. W. Howell, mother of Weldon, gave us the story straight this week, as K. W. couldn't seem to remember much about it when approached on the street.

The young lady who is now Mrs. Weldon Howell, was Miss Edith Foster, of Goodlet, Texas. These young people met and their romance started while each were attending the Northwest Teachers College at Canyon. They were married at Slaton, Texas, Saturday, May 30th, the ceremony being performed by the Methodist minister in that city.

They will make their home in Canyon where the groom holds a good position as bookkeeper in the administration department of the Teachers College.

METHODIST CHURCH

After two Sundays absence I was glad to be back in the pulpit Sunday and to meet so many of the members at church. Yet I could not help but notice that as weeds had grown on the lawn some had let the weeds of indifference and neglect of public worship grow also. The world and the enemy of our souls have not been asleep and we cannot afford to grow indifferent without serious loss. Now that school is out and we are kept indoors by cold winds we should have the most successful time of church work. Let the Lord guide you for the task and by prayer and faith let us attempt great things for God. That which promises the most faithful avenue of service at present is the Daily Vacation Bible School, which is to begin Monday. May we see your child there at nine o'clock Monday. I wish to thank the officials and members of the church for the opportunity afforded me and my family for physical and mental recuperation and prayer of gratitude ascends from our hearts for the Providence of God that kept us from accident and harm and brought us safely home. Geo. E. Turrentine.

TO WORK IN TOM GREEN COUNTY

Mrs. Claude Cotten, teacher at the Ray school for more than five years, Wednesday afternoon was named supervisor of Tom Green County schools at a called meeting of the county board of education.

The position was provided in a bill passed by the last Legislature which stated the supervisor might be employed with funds which ordinarily are used for a teachers' institute.

Mrs. Cotten will assume the duties of the new office September 1. The appointment was made Wednesday so that the supervisor might attend a special course in the work at A. & M. College. The course starts June 8 and lasts six weeks. The new supervisor attended schools in Brownwood and the Canyon State Teachers College. She holds a permanent teachers' certificate. Her duties will be to work with the rural school teachers of the county. The salary is $1,500 a year or $500 less than the law allowed.—Miles Messenger.

Mrs. Cotten will be remembered by many people here as Miss Flora Gaston, who taught school here when Mr. L. G. Farrar was superintendent.

Eli Perkins, accompanied by Jack Stricklin, Jr., were Amherst visitors over the week end. The Perkins' came home sporting a new Chevrolet coach, which he purchased from his brother-in-law, who is Chivvy agent at Amherst.

Store Building Wall Crushes Roof of Home

E. P. Griffin and family barely escaped with their lives Monday night, 10 o'clock when owing to the terrific wind, the east wall of the building which is being erected by W. E. Jeffries, crushed into the roof of their home next door, completely wrecking the house, which is owned by Mid Seal.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffin and seven children were in bed at the time of the accident, and escaped from the debris in their night clothes. Mr. and Mrs. Jeffries, who live close by, went to their assistant as soon as it happened, and did everything possible to make the family comfortable.

The house is reported to have been covered with insurance, as also was the building under construction.

Mr. Griffin has been in charge of the erection of the Jeffries building, which was started last fall, but construction discontinued until resumed recently. The structure which is of concrete, will house the Jeffries Mercantile business when completed. —Littlefield Leader.

Farmers coming in Tuesday from the Lahey section reported considerable damage from wind as well as hail. Many lost windmills, and out-houses overturned.

I. M. Smith was in Tuesday from the farm and reported neither rain nor hail. He still has some good cottonseed he will sell to hail sufferers at less than he has advertised them.

MAKING GARDENS PRODUCE IN SUMMER

College Station—"It's not too dry to prolong the life of your garden into the hot summer, even in drouthy areas, if you have a spring, windmill or surface tank handy," says J. F. Rosborough, horticulturist in the Extension Service, Texas A. and M. College and United States Department of Agriculture. "With an available water supply it's not a matter of money but of a little extra labor to divert surplus water into the garden lot, and that it pays is given ample testimony by home demonstration garden demonstrator," he states.

Mr. Rosborough cites the garden of Mrs. Herbert Bossey of Ward Community in Haskell county as a demonstration of the fact that West Texas was not too dry for gardens last year. She produced more than 4000 pounds of high quality vegetables worth $243.83 from one-sixth of an acre by irrigating from a small tank. "Irrigation is not needed everywhere," he says, "but women in all parts of Texas are demonstrating that the nearer year 'round the garden is, higher its value."

Sub-irrigation systems, especially those using lathe tiles, are coming into increased use in gardens in many sections of the State, and Mr. Rosborough recommends the installation of these systems at the end of the spring garden season in preparation for the planting of early fall gardens in August. The cost of a lathe tile system should be about $7 for an average garden, he estimates, and cites Extension Service circular No. 2274 for complete plans.

"There are instances of sub-irrigation systems in South and East Texas but it is in West Texas that home demonstration agents have developed their greatest use," points out Mr. Rosborough. "Carson county home demonstration club women have recently 16 of them using lathe, scrap lumber, clay tiles, or old iron pipes from near-by oil fields.

FINDS PULLETS BEAT OLD HENS

Navasota.—A direct comparison of the laying of pullets and old hens in the flock of Mrs. William Lange in Grimes county has shown her that the pullets outlaid the hens more than two to one during the first three months of the year according to W. I. Ross, county agent. She put 217 April pullets in a new laying house last fall and noted their production and that of 225 hens kept in a separate house.

In January the pullets laid 7 1-2 eggs to 1 1/2 for the older hens; in February the flocks were not separated, the pullets laid nearly 24 eggs each to about 10 eggs for each of the hens. The latter were from one to three years old, had been twice yearly, and had the same ration, including milk, that the pullets received. The hens never were kept in the old house, but the green feed from an adjacent pasture while the pullets had the advantage and a fresh range. Mrs. Lange has culled out and sold 180 of the hens and is going in for more pullets.

Legion Men to Lubbock Over Week End

Lubbock, June.—From a thousand to 1,500 Legionnaires are expected in Lubbock June 20 and 21 for the annual convention of the Fifth Division of the Texas Branch of the American Legion.

The fifth division includes three congressional districts; the 16th, 17th and 18th composing practically all of Northwest Texas.

Registration booths at the American Legion Home, the Up Town Dance Palace, and the Lubbock and Hilton hotels will be open from 10 to 2 o'clock Saturday, June 20. The first session will be held Saturday afternoon at the Up Town Dance Palace.

The Ladies Auxiliary will meet in the American Legion Home.

Following the afternoon session, both the legionnaires and members of the auxiliary will be complimented with a brief auto tour and a picnic supper in the Lubbock County Park.

A dance is scheduled for Saturday evening.

Sunday morning a joint religious service will be held to be followed by a lunch at the Legion Home, followed by a farewell session of the legionnaires Sunday afternoon.

The local entertainment committee has worked out a bunch of fun that will be mixed in with the meeting.

LEAST ILLITERACY AMONG 33 STATES IS IN IOWA

Washington, D. C.—Iowa, with an illiterate population of only 0.8 per cent has the least illiteracy among the 33 states for which 1930 census figures are now available, the National Advisory Committee on Illiteracy announced recently. In actual numbers, there were only 15,879 illiterates in the state in 1930, the committee said.

When Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur created the National Advisory Committee on Illiteracy, with the approval of President Hoover, in the fall of 1929, Iowa joined 42 other states and the District of Columbia to assist in a national movement which has as its primary object the reduction of illiteracy throughout the United States to a negligible minimum.

THE LITTLE FELLOW LOSES

The small country printer is the principal sufferer from government sale of stamped, return-addressed envelopes.

Government envelopes with return addresses printed on them, are sold at the same unit price whether the purchaser takes five hundred or a million. The loss sustained by the government on small orders is made up by the high profits on quantity orders. As a result, private envelope manufacturing concerns can furnish the large consumer printed envelopes at less than the government's figures.

But the small printer is powerless. He would be the natural recipient of the five hundred or one thousand lot orders that large manufacturers would not bother with. It is this kind of business that government competition takes away from him. The government is using all the advantages of its credit and purchasing power, conferred on it by the people, and encroaching on the livelihood of some of its citizens.

Those politicians who are now busy telling us how to bring back prosperity might take time to reflect that one way to bring prosperity to the country printer would be to give him a chance to pursue his business without government competition.

'JAKE' PARALYSIS VICTIMS ARE ORGANIZING

Oklahoma City, June.—More than 150 victims of a paralytic malady gathered here today to organize a national protest against sale of sub-standard Jamaica ginger.

Thousands of persons were crippled in the wave of paralysis over the south and southwest more than a year ago.

M. H. Partridge, at whose home the meeting was held, said more than 30,000 persons are suffering from the disease and charged federal officials have failed in their effort to prosecute those responsible for manufacture of the ginger. Through a private investigation, he said, "I have established where the source of adulterated ginger is."

ELASTIC CONSCIENCES

It has been many years since Texas got "all het up" on the subject of railroad passes, and the Legislature gave us an anti-pass law with teeth in it. But some officials are still allowed to use passes on common carriers, and some of those so privileged appear to have regarded the passes as a private perquisite rather than an aid appurtenant to the discharge of official duties. We are led to this suspicion by the fact that the Legislature has just passed a law prohibiting such persons from charging travel fares in their expense accounts. Of course this was done, in the good old days when every county commissioner, justice of the peace and constable carried an annual pass on the railroad in his ballwick; the pass was frankly recognized for what it was—a cheap bid for favor; and he was a poor businessman who, on official business, did not charge all the law allowed, including travel fare which he had not paid.

We were under the impression, however, that when passes were restricted to certain officials in the district of their duties, that none of them would violate the confidence of their constituents by using the pass for private profit. Alas, for human chedulity!

Elastic consciences appear to be entirely too common in officialdom. Is it true that "As are the people, so will be their Government?" Do we tolerate official venality because we feel that we would do the same thing under the same circumstances? Or are we merely incompetent to select men honorable enough not to take double pay for the job? Or is there a subtle venom in public office that tempts good men to questionable practices? Pick your own answer.

Disclosures made by the State auditor have been appalling, and some of them tragic in their consequences. It has been a common practice for some officials to trade appointments and thus evade the anti-nepotism law. Men traveling in State-owned cars on State expense canvass for candidates. It is not difficult to find "official" duty for a State employee most anywhere he or his chief may desire to go, on personal business or even pleasure. And the mileage runs up. And the people foot the bill. And a certain type of man solves his conscience—if any—by the sophistry that his election is patent to any personal advantage he can wrangle out of the job.

When one State official announced that no expensive Christmas presents would be expected from his staff, some others who had been receiving such presents hastily got into print to the same effect. What a travesty on "Democracy," the fetish that rolls so glibly on the tongue of those who parade themselves as "servants of the people."

The great majority of our public officials certainly are honest, else Government would have long ago broken down. For the protection of the honorable, as well as for the benefit of the public, questionable practices must be searched out and eliminated wherever found, and wherever it may effect.—Farm and Ranch.

WHY TIMES ARE HARD

If you have wondered why merchants, manufacturers and shippers have been having such a hard time during the last 12 months or so, you might be enlightened by figures recently made public by the American Federation of Labor, through its president, William Green.

President Green announces that wage cuts, part-time employment and unemployment, all combined, have lopped more than $2,500,000,000 from the income of American wage earners during the present year. Granting that this gentleman should know what he is talking about, and that last year's record was probably about as bad, the failure of business to revive quickly is quite understandable.

Knock two and one-half billions from the purchasing power of the nation in less than half a year and you have about all the explanation you need for "hard times."—Abilene News.

GIN BONDS STILL REQUIRED BY LAW

Austin, Texas, June.—To correct an apparent misunderstanding among ginners over the state, R. H. Fincher, gin chief in the department of agriculture, stated today the old state law requiring ginners to make bond was still in force and effect.

Fincher said the misunderstanding apparently arose when the governor vetoed the bill passed by the 42nd legislature which would have relieved ginners of the necessity of making bonds.

"Due to this veto," Fincher said, "we are still operating under the old law as possible."

Mr. L. F. Hudsons presented our statement last week that he and wife were on vacation. Said times were too hard for vacations. They were visiting kin folks.

EDITORIALS

Editorials used to be considered unnecessary in a small paper. In any but the larger dailies they formerly were more tolerated than enjoyed.

But a change has come about in editorial writing. The editorial today aims at shaking up rather than making up folks' minds. It is not necessary to make up a man's mind for him. If given the facts he should be able to do that himself. If not he should have his head examined.

Editorials point the way to progress, how to make a better city, state and country. They should emphasize ideas by which our city can be developed.

They should shake us out of the routine of letting the old city roll along and get to work for its development into the city it ought to be. An editorial should explain trends and the meaning of news. It should interpret development in the city.

In short an editorial should be an inspiration and not a mould.—Dahart Texan.

LUBBOCK BOYS PLEAD GUILTY AT TAHOKA

Seven pleas of guilty were entered in the county court Monday morning. Two Lubbock boys pleaded guilty to three cases against each. They were charged with drunkenness, disturbance of the peace, and exposure of the person; the offenses having been committed a short time ago in an O'Donnell drug store.

In another case arising here, the defendant pleaded guilty to fraudulently giving a bad check.—Tahoka News.

The burning of the Ropes Drug Store early one morning last week is believed to have been the work of burglars, as it was found that many stores on the same side of the street had been entered and good stolen. The object was to burn that whole side and hide theft evidence. Officers are making an investigation, but no arrests has been made late last week.

We had a note this week from Dr. M. C. Bell, who has reached Magdalena. He says all the folks like now, but he doesn't know how long to expect this condition with a woman. He has met Jay McPhaul, who makes inquiries about this country and especially the people here.

We are sorry to report that Mr. M. B. Sawyer is not making as rapid recovery from mumps as he should. However, he is able to be about this week.

R. E. Hamilton and family, barber, who have been in California for the past two years, returned last week. We don't know whether he is back to stay, or just a visit.

Mr. Littleton—"What's the idea? These shirts are three sizes too big for me. You know my size."

Mrs. Littleton—"Well, the big sizes don't cost any more than the little ones, and I'm not going to have any store clerk know what a shrimp I'm married too."—Pathfinder.

Carlyle once said that people could only be taken in by quacks when they had a certain element of quackery in their own souls.

Some people can be any size they want to live within their income.

Wants Herald to Stop Sunday Ball Games

A good friend of the Herald from the south part of the county stopped us last Saturday on the streets and informed us that he wanted the Herald and the preachers to tackle the job of Sunday ball games. We do not know what the preachers think about the matter, but the Herald knows this is a whale of a job. If there is no law against the matter, then there is absolutely no way to stop it except by creating a public sentiment so strong against Sunday ball games, that people will not attend. And with the sentiment of stop it except by creating a public schools, we are sure that it would be well nigh impossible to stop them.

In the first place, we are not so sure that there is really any harm in them if carried on just for the sport and exercise there is in them, provided they are played Sunday afternoons at which time there are no church services. We cannot see what else people might be doing at that time unless they were laying round the house in the way, sleeping, or out at the barn with some other man telling dirty yarns. If they are doing the latter, it would be better ten times that they were either playing in a ball game or witnessing one. Very few people in this section gamble on any kind of games. The risk is too great, and they are inclined to be sports rather than chance takers.

We are also about the same way about theatres running on Sunday afternoons. In this section particularly, there is no places of amusement; no scenery, parks or other places of amusement for people to see. Then what are people to do? Sit around the house and talk about their neighbors? The preachers can't expect them to stay in the church house all day. They just won't do it. You do well to get most of them there one hour Sunday morning. Most folks are busy all week trying to make both ends meet. They have much less time for amusement and recreation than preachers and other professional men. There is no law to make them stay indoors or to keep them from going places as long as gas is sold. If we are to make the city and county real blue lets close everything, filling stations, trains, daily papers, drug stores, hotel, close our windows, draw the blinds and make things real blue. If shows are immoral Sundays, they are immoral week days.

No, we do not wish to be drawn into a revolution of this kind. We never have been much of a crusader anyway. Some say there are no fixed principles, but they do seem to stay fixed for cycles of years anyway in spite of all reformers, all crusaders and all revolutionists can do. So the Herald is going to play hands off in this game. We have an idea that the people will do just about as they please anyway in spite of anything we may do or say, and that they will come just as near being right as the Herald.

Anyway, come to Terry. We had a letter this week from A. P. Bowman who has moved to Lubbock to attend Tech. He says change my Herald quick as I will need all the strength I can get.

Jim Graves and Jack Stricklin, Jr., left the city for a short vacation and were back in the city of Santa Fe, which is said to be near the oldest city in the United States, and built by Span-
