

THE BROWNFIELD SCHOOLS ARE OFF TO AN EXCELLENT START

Chamber of Commerce

By the Secretary

That First Bale Again.

Last week, we gave information concerning the first bale of cotton and our statement read that it must be ginned by one of the Brownfield Gins. We desire to correct this and say that the bale may be ginned by any gin in either Terry or Yoakum county. The idea that we wanted to get over last week, was that the bale must weigh as much as 500 pounds. And limiting the cotton to be handled by one of the local gins, was just one of those errors that will creep in. Mr. Leo Allen, of the Tokio gin called the matter to our attention and we hope that our explanation is satisfactory.

Poultry Short Course.

We have arranged for a One Day Poultry Short Course, to be held on Tuesday, October 8th and have secured the services of Mr. H. B. Lansden, Poultry Specialist for the occasion. Mr. Lansden, is one of the Judges of the American Poultry Association and has had several years experience in poultry work both in Florida and Arkansas, and is competent in every way to advise on poultry problems. He will lecture on feeding problems and will give demonstrations on caponizing, culling and in the event that people have diseased birds, they may bring them in for examination diagnosis and methods of treatment to be followed. He will also advise poultry raisers as to the reason for eggs advancing in price in other egg producing districts and remaining at a low price in the south Plains section. The Short Course, will be free and every one who has poultry or is interested in poultry raising is urged to be present. Place of holding the affair has not been arranged for but as soon as it is decided upon, notice will be given in this column.

No Exhibit Response

Last week we requested interested persons to notify us if they had any stuff that could be had for exhibition purposes at the South Plains Fair, but up to this date we have not heard from anyone and this is to give due notice that the writer is liable to show up in most any community within the next few days, begging for stuff to place in our county booth and in view of the fact that we have grown a big lot of mighty fine stuff, no not anticipate any difficulty in securing a good exhibit without drawing too much on any one man.

Just More Laws.

Well the Legislature is now in session for the purpose of passing a law, restricting the planning of cotton and I will bet a dollar to a ginger cake they stay there for the full thirty days in order to draw $300.00 each and that the law wont be passed until the last day of the season. This prediction is based upon past performance and wont be far wrong. And by the way the writer is one of the "Dampfools" that voted for a raise in pay for them and now wishes he hadn't.

No Railroad News.

It has now been more than a year since we were informed that we were in line for another railroad and almost a year since the writer began assembling information for use in connection with the hearing before the Examiner, which was held last December, but we are still in the air as to just what the Interstate Commerce Commission is going to do about it. The latest information is, that exceptions to the recommendation of the examiner will be taken up to September 22, and that "oral" arguments will be heard by the entire commission sometime in October. So under present indications, we should know definitely just what to expect by January 1st, that is, unless someone has to take a "vacation." Well every cloud has a silver lining "so they say" and if a permit is allowed, it will come about the time that we get our crops out of the way and our people may get to do some work and sell some feed to the contractors before the next planting time.

That Voice Contest.

Next Monday night, September 14th, a contest sponsored by the

TERRY COUNTY BOUND TO BE PROSPEROUS

T. I. Brown and The Herald Has it All Figured Out to a Gnat's Bristle. Cotton Crop to Start Prosperity Well on the Road. Corn and Feed Crop For Reserve.

T. I. Brown, cotton buyers and the Herald has it all worked out that Terry county is going to be prosperous anyway, no matter whether the legislature helps any or not. And none of you birds that sit around the streets and try to discourage everything need come to us trying to make us treat for quoting T. I. for "we're nota gona doit," as Amos says. Besides, who of you have ever come near guessing the Terry county cotton crop as T. I. and John Gathring? Well, we got our heads together last Friday, and we are going to give you a few figures, and figures don't lie. However, we are going to allow one-fourth off T. I.'s estimate for good measure.

T. I. says Terry will make 40,000 bales of cotton this year and he is willing to risk a little on it if you happen to have more or less sporting blood in your veins, and at $30 per bale, this will run to $1,200,000 for the cotton. But we have lumped off 10,000 bales and will just say to be entirely safe that Terry county will make 30,000 bales. At $30 per bale, that will be $900,000. The seed will pay for the ginning we understand, and we'll count $300,000 off for the picking. We can be safe in saying that at least $200,000 of this will be spent right here where the picking is done. This will leave in the neighborhood of $600,000 to the farmers, or around $400 per farm. Most of the farmers have made no new debts this year, and owe nothing to the Federal government for borrowed money. Perhaps less than $150,000 has been borrowed from local banks by Terry county farmers. Of course there are some farmers who owe old debts that hurt.

Well, this is not all. Most people estimate that the county will gather a million bushels of corn, not to mention thousands of tons of maize and hegar. This will be worth something later on, the corn probably worth a quarter million dollars at least, and more than that if fed into the hides of cattle and hogs. Most of the corn and maize can be sold or fed, as it won't take a third of it to run the farms. Well, then, how are you going to keep prosperity away? Answer us that?

Now, let us whisper some more news to you. You are going to get your groceries some 40 percent less than last year. Shoes will be about the same, but dry goods are off 50 percent from what they were last year. Lumber and cement is off 40 percent. Implements are about like they were—entirely too high, and we imagine for the next few years that many of the old implements will be rebuilt and put in use with some repairs until the implement manufacturer learns that the war and high prices are over. The local dealers are not to blame.

There has probably been too much agitation and calling of meetings of late. We realize conditions are far from normal, but we can't see that agitation is going to help matters much. When we all get to work this fall, possibly we will stop talking so much and find that we are not in such a mellofahess after all.

Moves Grocery Store To New Location

Mrs. Eldora White moved her grocery and market this week to a new location on west Main street, sharing half of a 25 foot building with the Busy Bee Cafe. The writer called at her place this week and found that the little store was well stocked and looked neat and clean, and went into this smaller space looking much better than we expected. In fact, we did not think she could get the stock in that space. Much repairing and painting is putting the building in prime order, and in a few days, she will have one of the nicest groceries in the city. She will save considerable rent in the new location, and will have the only market in that section of the city.

Read the Ads in the Herald.

Atwater Kent Foundation, will be held at the Rialto Theatre under the direction of Mrs. W. H. Dallas. The purpose of the affair, is to select two people, one young man and girl, who are to be sent to a state meeting to appear in competition against other towns and the final winners are to be given positions as Radio Artists. A number of our younger set have entered the contest and according to information, will be able to give a good account of themselves and it is hoped that they will be greeted by a large audience on occasion of their appearance here. A charge of 10 and 20 cents will be made, which is to be used in paying the expenses of the two winners who will represent us at the state meeting. Messrs. Jones and Bynum of the Rialto Theatre, have donated the use of the building for the affair and it would seem that other citizens could afford to pay the entrance charge, especially as it means no profit to any one connected with it. Now right at this point I do not think that it would be out of place to say, that Arnet and Earl, can always be depended upon to do their part in any activity that is intended for the development or advertisement if this town and county, they have been called upon many times in the past and have never failed to come right up to the front line on everything that has been requested of them. Now don't forget the date of the contest, Monday night September 14th. Your time and money will both be well spent.

Deputy Game Wardens Nab Bad Sportsmen

Two very alert deputy game wardens were on duty here throughout the chicken season, and believe it or not, very few if any violations of the game law got by them. The morning of the opening day as well as the afternoon before, when those from other sections of the state or other states begin to arrive with guns and a dog, they were asked for their license, and made to get them if they were not only supplied. From the first afternoon on, when hunters came back to town, their cars were thoroughly searched for game, and if they had more than the bag limit, or the wrong birds, it was just too bad.

We understand that one gamester had one too many chicken, and paid a heavy fine. We understand that one or two dead chickens were found along the highway where they were discarded after finding that they had too many. The heaviest fine we heard of was a man who had filled his thermos jug with dressed quail. When they got through with him, his pocket book was lowered by something like $100.

Most of the hunters from all sections, however were true sportsmen, and when they reached their bag limit, they quit hunting immediately.

Colored Foot Doctor Coming Back Soon

J. H. Hamilton, colored foot doctor, was here over the past week-end. He did not do much work while here, but did quite a bit of advertising, and says he will return here in two weeks at which time he will make Brownfield headquarters for about a month. He claims to cure corns, bunions, callouses, and ingrowing nails, and is able to take that tired feeling out of the feet. He does not practice upon anyone except white people.

Hamilton claims to be 81 years of age, but does not look it. He was born in slavery, and says his old Mistress is still living at the age of 92 in Columbus, Mississippi. Hamilton's home is in Barstow, Okla. He is also a Baptist preacher, and will likely preach for the colored Baptist church here when he returns.

Brownfield Now Has A Real Orchestra

We have heard many compliments passed lately upon the Brownfield Orchestra, better known here under the name of Moonlight Savers. The writer has had several occasions lately, also to hear them, and is bound to admit that you have to tune in on some of the best in the larger cities to get better music than is produced right here by home boys. They can handle most any kind of music put up to them including the dreamy waltz, the moaning blues, the rousing jazz, the patriotic or classic. We might also mention the fact that they have some good voices in the aggregation.

We have said little about them, although we believe they were making some very fine music for the reason that we thought perhaps that they were not so good as we believed, and had been awaiting the verdict of people who know music. Being a little inquisitive, we soon found that home people were in complete agreement with us, and last Friday at the Rotary luncheon, we had the candid opinion of a visitor. This visitor was none other than Bernard Thompson, who happened to be our lunch guest. He is one of the instructors in Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., which is not only one of the great educational centers of the south, if not the greatest, and no less can be said about this old southern city as a musical center. Being connected with a great university, his opinion of music should be good.

It has been several years since Bernard made his home in this city, and he has no personal acquaintance with lads that came on later than his youthful days, and he failed at the time to recognize any of the members of the orchestra until we pointed out sons of old timers among them. He therefore asked us where we got the "splendid orchestra" thinking they had come in for some musical engagement. Imagine his surprise when informed that they were all Brownfield boys. He paid the boys many compliments on their mastery of music.

The following compose the personnel of the orchestra, together with their instruments: Lee Tankersley, piano; Thomas Perkins, violin, banjo and voice; Pee Wee Archer; Saxophone; Jack Bodim, sax and clarinet; Joe Shelton, whispering trombone; Sylvan Tankersley, drums. We suggest that when you want music for any occasion that you call in these boys and pay them for their services.

Scouts Will Meet at Hall Friday Night

All scouts, their parents, and the troop committeemen are requested to be present for the re-organization and election of scout Masters and assistants. The boys of troops 19 and 45 will meet at 7:30. Those interested in the Scout movement are asked to meet at 8:30 at the Scout Hall. Geo. E. Turrentine.

MANY ATTENDING TRIAL—COURT ROOM CROWDED

Most Sensational Trial in County's History Proving Interesting To Many Who Never Heard One. Ladies Carry Dinner Prepared to Stay All Day. May Finish Today.

With the regular jury of 36 men summoned for this week, augmented by 72 special veniremen and hosts of witnesses and visitors, the old town gave off a fair or Saturday appearance beginning Monday morning and on until we go to press, as one of the most sensational trials in the history of the county is now on the docket, and attracting much attention. At ten Monday morning the court room and corridors were crowded with veniremen, witnesses and spectators, among the later being a large sprinkling of ladies.

Monday afternoon was spent in examining witnesses to see whether or not the trial of J. A. Bond, alleged slayer of J. C. White would be moved or tried here. A score of witnesses were examined for the state as well as the defense. After all witnesses were heard, Judge Gordon B. McGuire ruled that the defendant would get a fair trial here, or that

An Armadillo Found Here By Local Negro

Some ten years ago a porcupine was found two miles northeast of the city on the J. S. Corning farm. He was making an attack on the Corning poultry one night, and was killed with a shotgun. A year or two later some one found an armadillo, but at this time we cannot think who it was. However both were mounted by our local taxidermist, and can be seen at the Shamburger lumber yard.

Will Phillips, colored, who lives in the building just south of the printing office dropped in Saturday and asked us if armadillos were in this county to any great extent, and if we had killed the one at the back of his lots. Upon being told that we knew nothing of the animal, he informed us that he found one out there, and we went to investigate with him. He informed us that he was out there that morning and found a bloody grass sack, and emptied it to find the animal in it. It seemed to be a full grown animal, and seemed to have been hit with an ax, as its armour was crushed in the back.

It is rather rare to find either armadillos or porcupines in this section, as they are known to habitate much further south in Texas than this section, but once in awhile one strays off up here. Of course the badger is a native of this section, as he is heavily covered with furr and can stand the winter better than the less fortunate armadillo or porcupine. The later animals like the badger, are good diggers, and can bury themselves in the ground in a very few minutes.

It is said that the armadillo digs into graves in south Texas and lives principally on corpse, but we are rather inclined to think it mostly myth, and that the little animal lives more on bugs, ants and field mice.

Don't Forget the Round Up Next Fri.-Sat.

Don't forget you are expected here for the Old Timers Round-up next Friday and Saturday, at which all the old settlers and old Cowboys of Terry county are expected to get together to talk over old times. And don't forget much amusement is planned for you.

Mr. Holly informed us this week that he had everything just about ready, but was having a little trouble in getting yearlings for the roping contest. He hoped however to have all these ready by the time the stunts are to be pulled.

Chris Quante Attends Meeting of Dealers

Chris Quante, local Conoco dealer went to Lubbock this week where he attended a meeting of the wholesale and retail dealers of the Company in this section, and reports that they had a very enthusiastic meeting. As they have many wholesale and retail stations in this district, there were many in attendance. They held their meeting at the Hilton Hotel.

Mr. Quante informed us that while other big oil companies had cut their advertising schedule down, and some had even cut their advertising out entirely, the Continental at at recent meeting had appropriated $250,000 more than their schedule was last year to be used in advertising, the most of which will be spent with newspapers, and they have not neglected the small newspapers like the Herald in their schedules. Indeed, we have just received a very nice schedule from them, and Mr. Quante says it will be increased as the new appropriation is applied.

Mrs. S. C. Talley was in last Saturday and informed us that she had been very busy canning vegetables, and would a little later can up a fat yearling or two.

HUGE CROWD ATTENDS SCHOOL OPENING HERE

Auditorium, Balconies and Corridors Crowded Last Thursday. A Good Program Rendered and a Good School Spirit Manifest. Get Acquainted With the Teachers.

By far the largest crowd that ever attended the opening of public school here was on hand last Thursday. In fact the big auditorium and balconies that seat 750 people were soon filled, and the aisles and corridors were then filled with a packed mass of humanity. This alone shows the school spirit manifest in Brownfield, and we are sure we are in for one of the best if not the best school terms in the history of the school. We not only have the school spirit, but a good faculty, good school buildings, and the outlook was never brighter.

Our school has been doing excellent work for the past several years despite the fact that part of the time at least we have been badly crowded for room. We had the best term of school last year we have ever had here, but the quality of the work was very noticeably apparent the moment the new building was completed, and our school had plenty room and better equipment. For this reason, we had this very large crowd at the opening. For several years past no one could get in the grade school auditorium if they happened to be a bit late for the opening, and the people almost quit thinking of the opening, but now most of them are assured that they will be able to gain admittance.

The evolution of the Brownfield school reads like fiction, but is even more interesting. Along about 1918, after we had received out railroad, it was found that we were very much crowded for room in the old six room wooden building across on the west side of the track, and the question of voting bonds for a new brick building came up. We believe $25,000 was voted at that time, but some wished to cut it to $15,000 saying that would suffice for years. Others held out for the larger amount saying we should build several years ahead of needs. But by about 1920, an addition of several rooms had to be built on the original building. By 1924 we were crowded again, although we had cut our district down by giving to other newly organized districts until the Brownfield Independent District is now a small compact district of about 50 sections, which will probably never have to put on expensive trucks. As a consequence, we have one of the most economically conducted schools of the first class on the Plains.

So we built a high school which is now known as the junior high school building.

By 1929 we became crowded again, and bonds were voted for our beautiful new $75,000 school building, and a good gym was constructed on the school grounds. Thus, in thirteen years time, the little building that was thought large enough to last ten years had to be enlarged four times, and the school is still growing by leaps and bounds. At the present time we have 21½ credits, and it is expected that we will get two or three more this year, as the commercial and other departments will have completed two years.

The school was opened Thursday morning by the singing of America, followed by invocation by Rev. Geo. E. Turrentine.

A splendid address was delivered by H. R. Winston on the school spirit. Miss Rasco gave a piano solo, which was well received.

Judge W. W. Price delivered a fine address with a central theme of "carrying on." This was followed by an appreciated reading by Mrs. Penn.

Elder Robt. Drennon delivered a stirring address on Parent-Teacher work. Their first meeting of the season will be held on Tuesday 15th.

Mr. A. B. Sanders then introduced the new teachers who had joined the faculty this year, and the audience royally welcomed them, as well as those who returned for another term.

Fred Smith, president of the school board made an address in regards to the new rules and regulations, in which he explained that while they may seem rather rigid, they would at all times be seasoned with reason and justice.

Supt. Sanders then announced the organization for the new year, and asked that the people get acquainted with the teachers as soon as possible and to visit the school as often as possible, for in so doing you will better understand the teachers and what they are trying to do for your child. The teachers will also understand you and your child better, and better harmony will prevail.

Benediction was offered by Rev. J. M. Hale.

Football Season Opens With Seminole Today

Coach Marlin Hayhurst announces that the first game of the season will open with a game with Seminole at Seminole today. Next Friday the 18th, his Cubs tangle with Littlefield for the season's first official game. On the 25th, the Cubs take on the Big Spring team in that city for a practice game. Fans are expected to line up and give the Cubs a hearty support as they did last year.

Mr. Hayhurst, who is heartily supported by Mr. Ledbetter, new faculty member, are working late with the Cubs as they have considerable new material to whip into shape. Not much is given out, but it is believed that the Cubs will take the field with a good strong fighting team, as even the new material has a fine spirit, and are good, heavy, fast boys.

J. S. McCann, who lives with his son in the Tokio section, was a caller at the Herald office last week. He formerly lived at Aspermont, Texas.

Ulyess Sawyer and family, of Caprock, N. M., are here this week visiting relatives and attending the Bonds trial.

Meeting Called to Hear Cotton Rates.

As we go to Press H. M. Kendrick informs us that a meeting of the Farmers and Business men of this section is to be held Monday the 10th at one of the hotels at Lubbock on the cotton rates. Mr. Terrell of the State Railroad Commission will be there to preside at the hearing. They want just as many farmers and merchants from Terry county as possible. 10 A. M. MONDAY—THIS MEETING IS IMPORTANT

BARTER BETWEEN GOVERNMENTS

Close on the heels of the announcement of the "barter plan" of Donley County farmers of their produce for Plain wheat, comes the announcement of the federal farm board bartering twenty-five million bushels of wheat for one million and fifty thousand bags of Brazilian coffee.

Seems to us the government agency is smart in making such a barter, in spite of those curious people who declaim against the government having entered the wheat and cotton markets for the benefit of the producer, and then cry aloud to High Heaven, if the self same agency makes any move to go out of business by a sale or trade.

If barter among individuals, in Monday.

times of financial stress, is practical and sound; then why not barter between governments.

We believe it is a sound policy, and we hope to see more of it in the weeks to come. Stagnation is the worst enemy of business in America today.—Clarendon News.

Two gentlemen, a Jew and a Scotchman, were having a friendly game of golf. The game proceeded. They were off the 17th hole and up 100 strokes apiece.

And the Scotchman made him count it.—The Inner Circle.

Clyde C. Coleman Says Advertising Pays

Along early in the spring, Clyde C. Coleman lost an emblematical watch charm which belonged in his Masonic work. To start with it was a rather costly charm, but he valued what it meant to him more than the intrinsic value. In fact, it almost made Clyde sick when he found he had lost it. He came to the Herald office, wrote out a description and had it run several weeks, and when that time was up he had it run some more. He spent several dollars in advertising for it, as he believed he lost it in or near the Rialto Theatre. As the month goes, months passed and no charm appeared, but Clyde says he always had a hunch that he would get the charm some time or another. Last Friday a youth walked into the Herald office and asked us where to find Clyde C. Coleman as he had his watch charm. It seems that the youth or his family did not take the Herald at that time, but lately got hold of an old Herald printed back in the spring and found the ad. Anyway, he could not have used the charm, and is now a dollar better off. Clyde has the charm and is the happiest man in Brownfield, and made a trip all the way to the Herald office to tell us that—

ADVERTISING PAYS.

FIT SUBJECTS FOR RESEARCH

A Worth While Editorial Selected by the National Editorial Association.

On a recent day, newspapers published an announcement by a council of learned societies of research grants to fifty scholars—an allotment of $60,000 for the study of humanities. The majority of the researches are to be made abroad and they include the following:—

A study of the pavements of Roman buildings in the second century A. D. in Italy.

An edition of the Latin riddles of the Anglo-Saxons.

An investigation of the social economy of the medieval Rhenish cities.

An investigation of the sites of ancient Greek theatres.

A study in England, France and Italy of manuscripts of medieval epithalamia.

We will waive any discussion as to the value of all this, and grant its proper place in a plan of higher education, but the thought will not down that there are many conditions here in the United States to which scientific research might be given with the chance of greater and more immediate benefit to humanity.

The pavements of American streets with their daily tragedies might be a profitable study from any one of many angles.

There are better riddles in American life than the Latin riddles of the Anglo-Saxons—and he who will contribute toward their solution deserves to be rated as a servant of mankind.

More useful than an investigation of the dead sites of ancient Greek theatres would be an investigation of the live audiences of our own theatres, and what effect the average things that they see and hear are having upon the individual and upon the future of our civilization.

More important, too, than a study of medieval epithalamia would be some research as to the why of the bob-haired bandits.

Our own world is in a state of flux, a new character is appearing in America. Destructive forces are at work on our civilization.

To these forces and their sources, the best brains of the nation might well be directed now, letting the dead past sleep undisturbed.—James E. Clark, in American Bankers Association Journal.

Two New Gin Managers

Harrison and McSpadden have their gins both here and at Wellman in first class condition to take care of the big crop. I have secured Jess Smith as manager of the Brownfield gin. Jess needs no introduction to the people of Terry county. He was formerly public weigher here and has had considerably cotton experience.

I have employed Dewey Sullivan as manager of the Wellman gin, while Dewey is not so well known, he is formerly of Ralls, where he was employed as gin manager for six years. I recommend him to the farmers of the Wellman community.

I have secured these two valuable men in order to give more of my time and attention to the buying and selling of cotton for both of the gins. However, I will always be on the job to see that everyone gets a fair and square deal.

H. W. McSpadden.

Leo Allen says he has his gin out at Tokio rearing to go. He hoped on the Herald because the first bale had to be ginned here to get a premium, when we had nothing to do with the matter. Well, there's nothing to hinder Tokio from getting up a premium for their own first bale. Pass the list out there Leo. Bet you'll be surprised at the amount you raise?

SANTA FE REPORTS ON TEXAS CROPS

Temperatures during August were ideal for the growth of cotton, and prospects on the South Plains are the best since 1926. Elsewhere, however, there are various shades of trouble. Hot winds, drought and insect damage have caused heavy shedding and premature opening of bolls, except in South Texas, where rain and weevils have cut the crop very short. Picking is well advanced in South Texas and becoming general in central sections. Weevil and boll worm damage is heavy in the lower two-thirds of the state, and increasing after recent showers. Root rot is doing considerable damage in Central Texas. Notwithstanding the unfavorable conditions described, production is expected to be above that of last year, the estimate being 5,018,000 bales. Many conservative authorities, however, do not expect the yield to go so high on account of the several kinds of damage described.

Rice production will show a slight increase over last year. Harvesting is under way, and quality is high. Corn planted late has shown much improvement and production will increase twenty per cent over last season. With increased acreage, together with higher unit yields, sweetpotato production is expected to show an approximate forty per cent increase over last year. Harvesting has just started and will reach peak movement by late September.

Pecans are in excellent condition, and production will be about double that of last year, or only slightly below the record yield.

Excepting in a few dry areas in West Texas, ranges are in excellent condition and show an improvement during the last month. Cattle have held up well, and little shrinkage has been reported. In the south half of the state, cattle are in extremely good condition.

Farmers in the Northwest are plowing for wheat. There is much debate as to whether the acreage will be reduced or left about what it was in 1930.

CENSUS REPORTS FARM ACREAGE AND VALUES IN TEXAS

According to a bulletin recently issued by the Bureau of the Census, there are 495,489 farms in the State of Texas having a total acreage of 124,707,130, and a total value, including land, buildings, and implements and machinery, of $3,779,533,795. These figures are given in detail for each county and minor civil division within the State. This is the first Federal census report to show these figures by minor civil divisions.

Of the total farm acreage 24.6 per cent, or 30,634,370 acres, was crop land on which crops were harvested in 1929; 1.9 per cent, or 2,328,222 acres was crop land which lay idle or fallow; and 1.4 per cent, or 1,803,574 acres, was land on which the crops failed to mature or were not harvested for any cause. Pasture land with a total of 86,942,437 acres, representing 69.7 percent of the total farm acreage of the State, included 11,355 acres of plowable land, 14,449,011 acres of woodland, and 61,337,071 acres of other land. In addition to the land cropped and pastured, the total land in farms included 1,240,472 acres of woodland not used for pasture, and 1,758,055 acres not in forest, pasture, or crops, including the land occupied by house yards, barnyards, feed lots, lanes, roads, etc.

The total value of farm land and building was $3,597,406,986, of which $534,537,451 represented the value of all farm buildings, including the farmers' dwellings, which were valued at $351,008,434. The value of farm implements and machinery, including farmers' automobiles, was $182,186,809.

Copies of this bulletin may be obtained by writing to the Bureau of the Census, Washington, D. C.

UNCLE SAM USES JUTE TWINE

United States Senator Tom Connally has taken note of the fact that the Postoffice Department uses jute twine instead of cotton. Believing that the Government which is spending thousands of dollars annually in trying to discover new uses for cotton, should follow its own preaching, Senator Connally has written to the department suggesting the use of cotton twine. As a basis for his suggestion the Senator calls attention to the fact that cotton is a product of our own country and that a large surplus exists. He also reminds the department that cotton twine is easier to handle and is stronger and more durable than jute.

We do not know how many bales of cotton the Government would take off the market if it substituted cotton for jute in the Postoffice Department. Whatever the amount, it would help, for there are others who would follow the example. Many millions of pounds of jute are consumed in the United States in the making of twine and bags. These millions of pounds should be left in India and cotton used instead. We hope the department will give the Senator's suggestion careful consideration.—Farm and Ranch.

The Union Gin Ready For the Season Run

Mr. S. P. Bass, new manager of the Union Gin, was up this week and dropped in for a chat with the Herald. He informed us that the gin was now ready for the season run. New machinery has been installed throughout the plant, and he has as good a plant as anyone to make the season with, and one that will be of great benefit to the community it is to serve.

Mr. Bass informed us that they would have the same prices and the same accommodation out there to be found here in town, and that it would be his constant endeavor to please his customers and give them the best turn out possible. Mr. Bass is an experienced ginner, and we are sure he will do a good business. He will have considerable job work along for the Herald, he informed us.

BORAH BELIEVES WORLD WILL HALT FRENCH POLICY

Senator William E. Borah declared in an address today that the French demand for security, if carried beyond the security the nation already has through treaties on military power, "can mean nothing less than the destruction of Germany, Austria and Hungary," and that, he added, "the world not consent to see brought about."

The Senator spoke before an assemblage of Boise Service Clubs.

"Tested by every practicable rule," he said, "France is in a position of greater security today than any nation has enjoyed in Europe in the last 200 years."

"Her ancient enemy, Germany, is disarmed and dismembered. Austria is disarmed and sheared down to pitiable impotency. Hungary is disarmed and divided into five parts."

"France has an Army of 560,000 men, Germany has about 95,000, Austria and Hungary are practically without any military power. France is economically strong and powerful; Germany and Austria and Hungary are prostrate. In addition to this, France has what practically amounts to a military alliance with Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Poland, Rumania and Belgium."

"In addition to this, France is protected by every conceivable form of guarantee. She is a member of the League of Nations. So is Germany."

"The idea of security carried beyond these limits can mean nothing less than the destruction of Germany, Austria and Hungary, and that the world will not consent to see brought about."

"France is a great nation and a wonderful people, but we have reached the point where human suffering and a menace of worldwide breakdown call for policies of tolerance, of justice and reason. The World War ought to have an end some time or other."

A PSALM OF COTTON

Cotton thou art my shepherd, I am in want; thou hast caused me to feed on dry pastures, thou hast destroyed my credit, thou hast led me into paths of poverty, liens, lawsuits and near nakedness;

Thou hast destroyed my soul and my happiness. Thou has caused me to go to a banker with my hat under my arm and mortgage the muscle and produce of my farm; Thou has caused me to live in a rented house in full view of the moon, while stars come twinkling thru the cracks;

Thou preparest a naked back and an empty stomach for me in the presence of my friends; thou anointest my head with ignorance, superstition, poverty and grey hair, how can I trust thee?

Thou hast kept my children out of school, church and society, thereby robbing them of what is good, noble and elevating; Thou hast caused me to go to the barn and bring out the old fertilizer sacks and ask my wife to make me a shirt.

And behold as I stand in the midst of my friends with my new shirt, there are these inscriptions in full view: "18 per cent phosphate" on the front, and "12-4-4" on the tail.

TO RECALL 50,000 MEN IN SEPTEMBER

Detroit, Sept. 3.—The Ford Motor company, which on Aug 1 sharply curtailed its manufacturing force, Saturday announced that between 15,000 and 25,000 men had been ordered to return starting Sept. 8.

Officials of the company said they expected 50,000 men to be recalled by the middle of September. They said only former employees had been asked to return.

IT OFTEN HAPPENS

It's the newspaper's business to chronicle and in many cases interpret the news of the community. It is not its business to print the scandal of the town.

Like some people, many papers break the rules of the game. They make no attempt to verify or correct idle and harmful gossip, but instead pass it on without confirmation or regard for the individual.

Other editors, the majority, guard against this practice. They assist and protect the citizens in this regard. They draw a line, to the best of their ability, between news and gossip, good news and distasteful news, degrading and uplifting news.

Scandal-minded residents accuse the editor of suppressing the news. As long as they want to know, and believe all others should know the worst.

Why should the newspaper, being a public servant, be an agent for telling the public the scandal about residents any more than public officers, ministers, school officials and others in public light, because of their position, hear those things that do not become knowledge or topics of conversation?

Private affairs are one thing. When those affairs get into the courts or are of a public interest—that's another thing. The former usually does not get into the papers. The latter is news and is usually printed.

The editor is willing and glad to leave out articles of private affairs. He frowns upon the request to leave out news. Still, it often happens that this request is made, the greatest insistence being made by those who are only too glad to see printed articles about the other fellow.—Beaumont (Calif.) Gazette.

COUNTY INSTITUTE DATES HAVE NOT BEEN DECIDED UPON

The Gaines county institute will be held at Seminole sometime in October. The date will be fixed later. Due to the fact that some of the schools in the county will not begin until later in the fall it was deemed to be the best interest of the schools to have the institute at a later date than has been the case heretofore.—Seagraves Signal.

The Twelve Men Who Are Trying Bonds

As stated elsewhere in this paper, district court begin the selection of a jury Tuesday afternoon, in whose hands will be the fate of J. A. Bands, alleged slayer of J. C. White here on Easter morning, April 6th this year. By holding a night session, the full quota of 12 men were selected before the special venire was exhausted. The following is the names, occupations and communities in which the 12 men live:

W. M. Coor, farmer, Midway; C. W. Avery, merchant, Meadow; S. T. Miller, farmer, Challis; Alton Webb, farmer city; Pearce Warren, farmer, Meadow, J. E. Harred, farmer, Union; W. F. Christy, farmer, Union; W. L. Bandy, produce dealer, city; W. A. Ferris, farmer, Tokio; C. R. Hubby, stockman, farmer, Willow Wells; T. C. Garner, farmer, Union; N. F. Heffner, farmer, Wellman.

LET THE BUYER BEWARE!

Happy is the man who has a keen sense of values when he makes a purchase. The bluff countryman was on a shopping expedition. Passing a hatter's window reminded him that his own headgear was rather shabby, so he entered the shop and asked the price of a grey valour that took his fancy. "Twelve dollars, sir," said the assistant.

"But where are the holes?" the countryman asked.

The assistant appeared bewildered for a moment, but managed to ask: "What holes?"

"Why, the holes for the ears of the ass that would pay twelve dollars for a hat like that," replied the other, as he made for the door.

THROW AWAY THE SHUCK MATTRESSES

Commissioner J. E. McDonald, Texas Department of Agriculture, has received a suggestion from an Oklahoma farm wife who he thinks should be adopted in Texas and every other cotton producing State. Mrs. Inez Leggett, of Cheyenne, Oklahoma, suggests that every farmer dispose of his old shuck mattresses and his old cotton mattresses, and make some new ones out of this year's cotton crop. She says: "The dairy farmer who eats oleo, has nothing on the cotton farmer who sleep on mattresses made of excelsior." She adds: "I am going to burn my two linter mattresses. My conscience hurts every time I look at them."

It is said that there are two million cotton farmers. Two good cotton mattresses made out of this year's crop for each cotton farmer would consume 200,000 bales of cotton. Besides consuming a large amount of the surplus, the farmer and the members of his family would enjoy comfortable beds and fewer would wake up in the morning with that old "tired feeling."

This estimate of consumption is based on a supposition that every cotton farmer could use at least two more cotton mattresses. Presumably many of them have cotton mattresses and plenty of them, but as a matter of speculation, we wonder how much cotton would be consumed if every family in the United States needing new mattresses would provide themselves with one or more this year.—Farm and Ranch.

A FELONY TO GIVE AWAY A CIGARETTE

Hand it to Uncle Sam to look after the billionaire corporations. You can't even give things away in competition with them. A U. S. revenue collector points out that it is a felony punishable by a fine of from $100 to $5,000 and three months to three years in jail to give to a friend a cigarette you have made with your own tobacco and cigarette paper. It's just unreasonable, unfair and idiotic laws that cause us to lose respect for all law.—Big Spring News.

The Reporter is reliably informed that the proposed oil well to be drilled on the Johnny Robinson farm, northwest of Lamesa will be drilled through to completion at a very early date. We are glad to see this well drilled as we are sure it will be a thorough test.—Lamesa Reporter.

FAIR BOOSTERS TO BE HERE SEPTEMBER 18TH

Lubbock, Texas, September 11.—Brownfield will be visited by one of the four good will automobile caravans that are to be sent out in the next two weeks from Lubbock advertising the Panhandle South Plains Fair.

The trip here will be on Friday, September 18th and the party is scheduled to arrive at 5 P. M. o'clock. The Lubbock High School Band will accompany the good will caravan and the fair boosters will have the usual supply of whistles, advertising matter and other novelties will be distributed to the school students and kiddies.

Some special "stunts" will be "pulled" by the visitors. Schools in most of the towns of the South Plains will turn out for the Lubbock fair visitors as has been the custom from year to year, as a number of prominent speakers are to address crowds at every stop. Among these speakers who will make one or more of the trips are the following: Dr. Paul W. Horn, president, Texas Technological College; Mayor J. J. Clements; Senator Pink L. Parrish; Representative G. E. Lockhart; County Judge E. L. Pitts; City Attorney E. L. Klett; J. H. Hankins, Dean J. M. Gordon, Dean A. H. Leidigh, Dean Wm. J. Miller, and others.

Leaders for the four trips include: Fire Chief W. E. Twitty, Chief of Police John Lemond, Sheriff Wade Hardy and Mayor Jerry J. Clements. Homer D. Grant, president of the fair is planning to accompany the good will caravans on some of the trips.

M. L. CATHY SUFFERS PARALYTIC STROKE

M. L. Cathy, better known to people of this territory as Uncle Mat, suffered a paralytic stroke Tuesday morning, and has so far not regained the use of his right side.

The stroke first made its appearance at breakfast time, when he suddenly lost the use of his right arm. Feeling no other effects, Mr. Cathy strolled up to a neighbor's house, and almost failed to reach home. A local physician was summoned, and by the time he reached the sick man, the entire right side was numb, totally paralyzed. The physician was of the opinion that he had suffered a slight hemorrhage of the brain, but could not give an opinion as to the duration of the time he might be confined to his bed, or just how serious the attack might be.

The many friends of the family deeply regret to hear of his illness, and are hopeful that he may soon recover.—O'Donnell Index.

PEDDLERS JUBILEE AT LUBBOCK SATURDAY

Lubbock, Texas, Sept. 11.—Several hundred traveling salesmen of the Southwest will be Lubbock's guests Saturday, September 19th at the ninth annual Peddlers' Jubilee, sponsored by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

The annual Peddlers' parade, a big free feed for the "knight of the grip," to be followed by the annual R. O. R. E. traveling men's fraternity initiation and a sport night program are on the docket for the jubilee.

THE MUZZLED PRESS

Each of us has some certain word or words that we love best to hate most. Should we list our lexical dislikes the task would prove one thing—that particular words create an adverse reaction because of their association with something distasteful, feared or abhorrent. Such a suggestion lifts its ugly head when we Americans hear the word "censorship." It is especially repellent to the 4,727,988 boys who participated in the World War. They had reason to know. Though attempted in the United States, censorship has not "clicked." It was wished upon the movies—and bad pictures made worse; foisted upon the legitimate, and the poor distraught managers couldn't sell ticket—fast enough. They tried it on our girls' bathing scanties—and now one can scarcely see what they're wearing. But the most hateful, most to be feared form of censorship, is that of the press. No American will stand for that and not even a "bluenose" dare mention it—much; nor has it dared to show its poison fangs throughout the 227 years we have printed newspapers. And yet it is tolerated by Spain, China, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Poland, Turkey, Albania, Rumania, Lithuania, French Syria, Russia (of course) and at its worst, under Mussolini, in Italy. Periodically it is enforced in South American countries during revolutions, but is as often ricocheted on the next turn. In all, according to a Geneva correspondent, there are in the universe 700,000,000 people living under censorship of the press. The next time you buy a newspaper, thank God that you live in the good old U. S. A.—The Pathfinder.

W.T.C.C. to Work For Tax Reduction

Stamford.—Each of the one hundred and one cities affiliated with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has been asked by its president, Houston Harte, to set up local public expenditure and tax committees to work in connection with the program of the regional organization's committee, headed by C. N. Bassett of El Paso, which has for its reduction of expenditures in county, state and federal governments with a view to lowering taxes.

An intensive study of governmental expenditures will be made by the Bassett committee. Manager D. A. Bandon of the West Texas Chamber, experienced in tax problems, will work with the group. President Harte is calling on the local directors of the organization to have their local chambers of commerce, or luncheon clubs, select committees to study the tax question with regard to local government and at the same time work with the central committee on the general program.

Harte points out in his initial communication to the directors about the plans and program of the West Texas Chamber's public expenditure and tax committee that public expenditures have increased during recent years, and that many people have come to the belief that healthy business conditions will not prevail again until the expenditures are reduced. The blame for the situation, he asserts, is not so much a blame on the public officials as it is on the lethargy of the citizenry. "It is true,"

Floydada, Sept. 5.—Jim Hickerson, 20, who lives 12 miles southwest of Floydada, was killed instantly, and Elsie Ryals, 15, of Floydada was probably fatally injured tonight when two automobiles tangled west of here. The girl has two broken legs and internal injuries and is believed dying at a hospital here.

COMES TO GRIEF AT A SHERIFF'S PICNIC

Mundelein, Ill., Sept. 3.—Thomas Chissman, a young man from Chicago, went to a picnic Sunday but he didn't have one.

It was the sheriff's annual picnic, sponsored by Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county. Present were numerous deputy sheriffs, bailiffs, policemen and constables, including Constable John Knox.

Knox said he felt a tug at his rear pocket. Turning he seized Chissman and recovered a wallet containing $200 and marched his prisoner to a platform, where Tiffany was presiding.

"The idea!" said the sheriff, "picking on a constable at a sheriff's picnic."

Then they took Chissman to jail.

Howard Payne Woman Jailed For Shortage

Brownwood, Sept. 5.—Miss Jewel Casey, who served as bursar at Howard Payne college for ten years, has been charged with embezzling funds belonging to the college.

She was arrested at Lubbock on two counts yesterday and returned to Brownwood jail. Today she posted bonds totalling $5,000 and was released.

$36,000 Shortage

Complaints against Miss Casey specifically charged embezzlement of more than $100 on each count. She was arrested after an exhaustive examination of records which showed shortage approximately $36,000. The money was alleged to have disappeared in the past five years. As bursar for the college, Miss Casey handled all incoming money, made all bank deposits and served as book-keeper.

Miss Casey made a statement concerning the shortage.

From 30 acres of volunteer garlic H. A. Finch, Jr., of McKinney has gathered 95,000 pounds of garlic which will be sold to northern buyers and meat packing plants all over the country. Prices in former years have been about four cents per pound, but the harvesting, storing, grading and curing expenses are high, he says.

Lamesa and O'Donnell report the receipt of their first bales of cotton last week. Terry county cotton has been too green to open fast, but it is cracking open nicely now.

Floydada Crash Fatal to Youth

Floydada, Sept. 5.—Jim Hickerson, 20, who lives 12 miles southwest of Floydada, was killed instantly, and Elsie Ryals, 15, of Floydada was probably fatally injured tonight when two automobiles tangled west of here. The girl has two broken legs and internal injuries and is believed dying at a hospital here.

Hickerson and Miss Ryals were on the running board of a sedan driven by Vernon Robinson of Floydada when it collided with a car driven by Willie Richie, 24, who lives five miles west of Floydada.

The drivers evidently were blinded by lights and the left wheels of their cars locked on a narrow culvert.

This silo is 11 feet wide, 6 to 7 feet deep, and 45 feet long and is already half full with 25 tons of corn ensilage. It will be finished out with bagard.

Mr. Avrett of north Terry brought in the first bales of cotton Wednesday the 9th. More particulars next week.

The September cotton estimate was more than 100,000 bales higher than the August estimate.

The Cudahy packing interests propose to invest one-tenth of their sales in the south during the next three months toward the purchase of cotton.

Some of our farmer friends have been coming in of late to get copies of 'the Herald' to send friends back east where they came from.

Most of us are always ready to ply some questions whether they concern us or not, and what we aim to ask is perhaps none of our business.

A friend told us of a man this week that went to south or east Texas last winter and stood in the soup line all winter and came back bragging on how cheaply he made his trip.

Huge crowds thronged the district court room this week to hear a murder trial. The court room was hot and stuffy most of the time.

went hours before court was called. This is just another matter the writer can't grasp.

Most any of us can ask a question on the spur of the moment that will puzzle our friends.

The Herald hopes that some way can be found by the several legislatures of the southern states to relieve the distressed conditions by legislation.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, the present cotton situation necessitates farmers working together in the closest harmony.

Whereas, through years of experience, it has been demonstrated that financial assistance from the government is necessary in order that cooperative organizations organized without capital may compete on a fair basis with private cotton concerns.

Whereas, during the last session of Congress, the Agricultural Marketing Act was passed to obtain financial cooperation and assistance from the government in the strengthening of the cooperatives to the end that great progress has been made in setting up farmer-owned and controlled marketing associations.

Whereas, the cotton, grain and produce trades are endeavoring, through the distribution of misinformation and through confusion of mind of the public.

Be it resolved at this meeting of farmers and business men assembled in Brownfield, in Terry County, with 350 farmers present.

Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to each Act and the farmer cooperative.

When a showing of hands revealed that only five out of the 350 farmers present owned their homes outright.

Outstanding examples of achievements of cooperative marketing were cited by Payne in telling of accomplishments of the Danish people.

"All this has been brought about through cooperatives. And, today the average net income per farm in Denmark is $1,000 a year.

Mr. Davis explained the details of handling members' cotton by the Texas association, explaining the various pools and the classing service offered at points throughout the state within easy reach of cotton farmers.

PRESIDENT HOOVER LEAST SUCCESSFUL GUESSER

Herbert Hoover will go down in history as the most colossal failure in history when it comes to forecasting conditions in this country. When business men throughout the country began to become alarmed over financial conditions previous to the panic, the president and Secretary Mellon came forth with the statement that there was no possible cause for uneasiness. They informed the public with the utmost confidence that "republican prosperity" was here to stay and that no other conditions were possible for months and possibly years to come. For several months this prediction of continued prosperity was repeated every time there was any indication of uneasiness on the part of the investing public. When the crash finally did come these same prophets told us that it was only temporary and not worthy of consideration, and periodically ever since that time they have been giving out the information that the end was in sight.

And now with an air of confidence that would be ridiculous were the matter not so serious, this great prophet tells the people that already the depression has passed and that times are already better.

Regardless of what his standing as a president may be, Mr. Hoover will go down in history as a greater failure as a prophet than as a president.—Lovington (N. M.) Leader.

THE TRAMP PRINTER

As He Was Depicted 50 Years Ago.

Once upon a dreary winter
Came a worn and weary printer
With a bundle on a splinter
O'er his back.
Travel-strained he was and needy
And his appetite was greedy
For a snack.

For the printing office steering
Till within the door appearing
There he stood like one revering.
As he spoke.

Saying in a voice as solemn
As a gratis buchu column
"I am broke."

In your city I'm a stranger,
Dusty, seedy as a granger,
For I slumbered in the manger
Of a barn.

Now I need a small donation
And some easy transportation
For my corn.

Boat? I tried to work my passage
Moving freight and rough expressage
Living on bologna sausage
Dry and poor.

But they found I was a printer
And they hustled me instanter
To the shore.

Then I sadly recollected
Days when printers were respected
For their skill.

But now I am rejected
Fore and aft.

Just because some have by drinking
Set the steamboat men to sinking
All the craft.

Thus do sober workmen suffer
By the vices of the loafer
And, indeed, when'er I go for work
I shrink.

Lest another's imposition
Throws on me a vile suspicion
That I drink.

Deeply does it pain and grieve me
When a man will not believe me—
But, kind sir, if you will give me
Fifty cents.

I will by its judicious using
Show you I'm above abusing Confidence.

By his doleful conversation
He aroused our commiseration,
And we made the small donation
Which he sunk;

For while going to our dinner,
We observed that hardened sinner
Beastly drunk.

Thus do sober workmen suffer
By the vices of the loafer,
Basest coin doth often go for
Purest stamp.

Kindest ones who mas have trusted
Are most thoroughly disgusted
With the tramp.

ONLY ONE WHO OWNED UP

A burglar entering the home of a Riverside heiress, upon surprising her, remarked: "I don't want your life, but your money, lady."

"Oh, go away," she replied petulantly. "you're just like the rest of them."

TIPSY TIPS

Lots of stocks, it develops, are junk,
And the dope of the experts was bunk.

The biggest tip-givers
Are now riding in flivvers—
It's a sight how the swags have swunk. —Pathfinder.

JUST IMAGINE IT!

A distinguished golfer urges his fellow tee-hounds to refrain from profanity on account of the effect on the caddies. But imagine the effect on a caddy of a golfer saying: "Oh fudge" after missing a six inch putt.

THE TURNING TIDE

The public is beginning to buy again. Money is coming back into circulation more freely than for a year and more past. The textile mills are coming back toward normal production. The leather industry is showing a decided improvement. Sales of electric and gas refrigerators are increasing in almost every part of the country. Many of the smaller industrial plants are now running on full time and the larger industries, or many of them, are putting on more help. The steel industry and building construction are still at low ebb and the railroads are not carrying their normal volume of freight and passengers, but those are conditions which a general revival in other lines will remedy.

The country is still suffering from over-production of wheat, cotton and oil, among other things. It seems to us wrong and wasteful, however, to destroy what has already been produced as is being advocated in some quarters.

It also seems to us unnecessary to resort to anything like the "dole" system. Nobody in the United States has approached starvation in this crisis except in the regions where the drought of 1930 was at its worst and in one or two "sore spots" in the bituminous coal districts. There may be more who will need help the coming winter because their reserves are exhausted, but there will be more people in a position to give help, we believe. And there will be more and more jobs for those who really want to work.

How fast the tide of good times will come in, nobody can predict. The country has been suffering almost as much from over-prediction as from over-production, and we are not gifted with the power of prophecy. But we have history to back our belief that the United States of America will come out of this depression, as it has come out of every preceding depression, stronger and more prosperous than ever.—State Line Tribune.

THE MOST NECESSARY THING

Two old maids were discussing husbands.

"Which would you desire most in your husband: brains, wealth or appearance?" one asked.

"Appearance," said the other, "and the sooner the better."

Plumber—(over phone) "But, my lady, what seems to be the matter?"
Mrs. Newlywed—"Oh, come quickly! The thingumbob has come loose from the thingamajig, so the little doohickey won't work and the bathroom is flooded."

Graham—Sinclair Filling Station opened on corner of Oak and Second streets.

THE GOVERNMENT AS DICTATOR

"The growing contempt for law is attributable in large measure to a mistaken zeal for more and ever more law," said Governor Ritchie of Maryland, a short time ago. "The government is no longer the creature and protector of our individual rights, but is rapidly becoming the dictator of them."

Few who are familiar with the course of legislation of the last quarter-century, will deny this. Governments, both state and federal, have shown a steadily increasing disposition to regulate by law the acts of their citizens. Reform movements, based on misunderstanding of human problems, have swept all before them, and the principal results is that the United States is now the most lawless of the great nations.

One wonders when we will again realize that progress comes from the individual, not from the state; that regulation of human conduct can only be successful when it is voluntary, rather than statutory.

DEATH'S PARADE

It is not possible for the human mind to comprehend the significance of ten million men and boys killed in the war. All of us have stood in line for hours as we watched some huge procession. No one of us, however, has ever seen a procession of a million men. A parade of ten million soldiers, marching from daylight to dark, ten abreast, with each line only two seconds behind another, would require 46 days to pass a given point.

As ghastly as these figures appear, they do not tell the whole story. Of the 5,983,600 men listed as "prisoners or missing," a considerable percentage were undoubtedly killed in action. It was officially estimated in England that 60 per cent of the missing were probably dead. The estimate in Canada was 56 per cent and in France 40 per cent. If, therefore, half those listed as "prisoners or missing" be presumed to be dead the total death toll is increased 12,991,800.

—Kirby Page, in War, Its Causes, Consequences and Cure.

TRUE

"Bet you don't know the difference between Noah's Ark and Joan of Arc," one youngster challenged.

"I do too," his pal said, "they were made of different material."

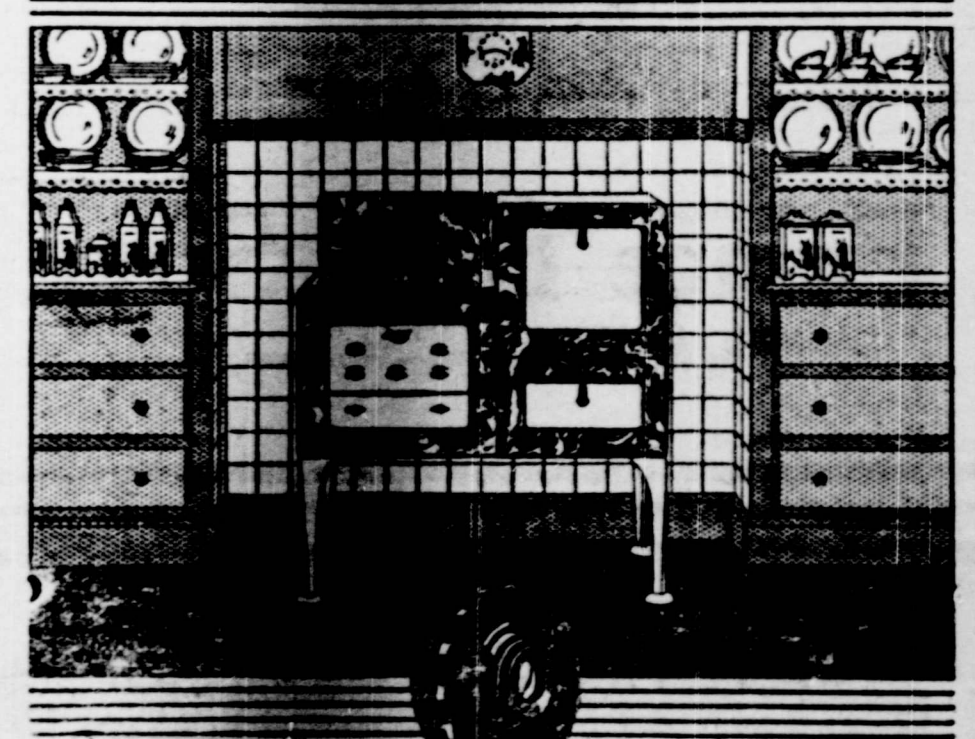

"What yer mean?"
"One was made of wood and the other was Maid of Orleans."

Indian Rubber Man—"How did that hula dancer's husband become so cross-eyed?"

Living Skeleton—"He tried to see and watch every move she made."

METHODIST CHURCH

Communion and Baptism service in the morning. Evening services will begin promptly at eight o'clock hereafter. Now that vacations are over we should be more regular in attendance upon all the services.

Geo. E. Turrentine.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

We began our second year work last Sunday with brighter prospects, stronger faith and greater determination to make this a bigger and better year than last. We started off with many new faces in our audience. Our fourth mission meeting is progressing nicely. One baptism and two returned to their first love.

The three rooms at Harmony school were filled to overflowing last Sunday night. The meeting will continue most of this week and probably over next Lord's day. Our Young People's work has made great strides and shows much improvement.

We were delighted beyond measure when about 40 of our young people met at the parsonage some few nights since and presented us with a set of silver teaspoons and tablespoons.

All enjoyed the evening very much. Games were played and watermelon served. We are certainly proud of our young people and the work they are doing.

Our young people of today are the citizens of tomorrow and much depends upon their Christian training, service, and influence. Every member is urged to be present Sunday morning to hear a sermon on "Doing Greater things for God."

R. P. Drennon.

Challis Chats

We are very sorry we made a mistake last week when we mentioned the death of Mrs. M. B. Kinard, niece, when it should have been her grand-daughter, Miss Wilora Allen. Some of the old timers will remember her mother who was before her marriage, Miss Pearl Kinard. Mrs. Kinard is still with her daughter at Plainview.

Mrs. Bryants daughter, who has been visiting he from Cleburne, returned home last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes, from Chicago, have returned home after visiting his mother, Mrs. O. K. Tongate.

Mr. W. H. Rollow of Ada, Okla., who has several nice farms around Challis was here the latter part of last week.

Mrs. Burson of Brownfield spent the week-end with her daughter, Mrs. Money Price and family.

Mrs. Jesse Smith was hostess to the quilting club Friday. There were two quilts quilted. Delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. H. H. Butler will preach his first sermon here Sunday. We are rather proud of Bro. Butler and we feel that he will make a fine preacher. We urge you to be present Sunday. He wants and will appreciate all your help in his great undertaking to serve the Lord.

LOCO WEED FOUND TO BE VERY VALUABLE

The police authorities of Philadelphia are very much interested over a recent finding in that city. They discovered a ten acre field of loco weed growing there.

Now many hundreds of acres of loco weed can be found growing all over the western country and nothing is thought of the matter. But it seems that the effete easterners have learned the value of loco. They make a dope of it called muhuana, which is used something like opium. This particular ten acre field of loco is said to be capable of producing not less than $125,000 worth of dope.

The police have ordered the loco destroyed.

Here is a lucrative field for some of our competition ridden New Mexico bootleggers. Let them being growing loco. Most of them are looted anyway. Then if the officers decide to destroy all the loco they will be doing good work for the stockmen of the state. By all means, let us have more loco growers and less bootleggers.—Lovington (N. M.) Leader.

Free Movie Shows The Ford Auto Plant

Sound Motion Picture Feature Of Exhibit Arranged By Local Dealer

A sound motion picture graphically portrayed the story of the Ford Motor Company and its widespread activities will be exhibited free of charge in a special Ford exhibit to be held at Tudor Sals Co., show rooms beginning September 28, and continuing through September 29th. The show will be open to the public from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M.

The picture, entitled "A Tour Through the Ford factory" will show the gathering of raw materials, their arrival at the Rouge Plant in Dearborn, Mich., and the numerous interesting stages through which they pass in the process of making Ford cars and trucks. It is, in short, an education in the extent and meaning of modern volume production.

While an unseen voice explains each scene, the audience is taken on a tour of the plant, through the great blast furnace building where ore is converted into iron; into the open hearth building where the iron becomes steel and is poured, a white hot liquid, into moulds; into the blooming mill where the steel ingots are made into bars; and into the rolling mill in which the long bars of white hot steel are reduced to definite sizes. Forty kinds of steel, each of a composition to serve a definite purpose, are used in the Ford car and truck.

The picture shows also the manufacture of glass in an endless unbroken strip, a process developed by Ford engineers; the machine shops in which parts for the car are manufactured; the pressed steel building with its gigantic presses; and the coke ovens and other units in which by-products are recovered to the extent of millions of dollars annually.

Throughout the picture one sees literally miles and miles of conveyors which take much of the manual labor off the backs of men. There are conveyors carrying newly arrived materials into the plant, others taking parts from one building to another, and, of course, the final assembly line, that famous conveyor on which the parts are put together to form the completed car.

In addition to the picture, there will be a representative line of Ford cars and trucks and display boards containing car and truck parts.

The cars alone are well worth a visit for they include body types to suit any taste and to meet any occasion. Particularly attractive are the de luxe cars in which upholstery appointments are of a kind and quality usually found only in more expensive automobiles.

All the body types are featured by the Ford's new beauty of line and color. The deep radiator, the wide generous fenders, and the graceful sweeping lines of the bodies contribute to a pleasing whole. The cars may be obtained in a variety of color combinations.

Among the new readers of recent date are: H. M. Brock, Loraine; J. D. McDonald and J. Q. Warnick, both of this city.

Mrs. C. A. Quiet returned home with her brother, Jim Miller and family from Sweetwater, after the burial of her husband, for a visit.

Bill Smith (colored) is holding a revival at Idalou.

TAHOKA DEFEATS BROWNFIELD IN SUNDAY SCHOOL CONTEST; 582 PRESENT

The three months attendance contest between the Tahoka and Brownfield Baptist Sunday schools came to a close last Sunday, Tahoka winning by a margin of 203. The attendance last Sunday was; Tahoka 582, Brownfield 425. Tahoka's lead up to last Sunday was only 46. Workers were very busy last week, especially on Saturday, inviting folks to be present Sunday and the results were most gratifying to them. There were 128 in the men's class at the English Theatre.

The Tahoka Sunday school will be guests of the Brownfield school at a watermelon feast to be given by the losers at Brownfield next Tuesday. The Tahoka contestants say that Brownfield put up a square, hard fight that kept Tahoka scared all the way through.—Tahoka News.

DEER DESTROYING FARMERS CROPS

It's a little unusual to see two, or even one, new sets of deer horns, but Polly came in with a couple that he secured at Matador the latter part of last week.

The people down at Matador were getting eaten out of house and home so to speak by a couple of buck deer. They shooed them out of their gardens, they set the house cat on them, they put up scare crows and set up nights with nigger shooters cocked, waiting for them but all in vain.

As a last resort they notified Polly O'Neil game warden for this district, that they just had to have some relief. Polly went down and looked the situation over and tried to talk these folks into trapping the deer and keeping them for a zoo, sending them away to a deer country—anything but killing them. They couldn't see it that way so as a game warden, all he could do was go gunning. He did and the result was fatal to the deer. The heads are on display at City Meat Market.—Wellington Standard.

I. P. Walden of Abilene, came in this week and will reorganize and instruct the local band. He believes a good band can be put over here in Brownfield.

FORGETFUL HUMAN BEINGS

In the last eight months 125,000 guests of the Hotel New Yorker in New York City have had their clothes cleaned and pressed at the hotel's valet shop. And in that time $20,000 in cash has been found in their pockets and returned to them.—Capper's Weekly.

Ralph Bynum, who has been spending the last three months in Colorado, returned home this week.

LEFT-OVER MEAT BOON TO THE COOK

There is no pantry, let us hope, without its left-overs which may be used to such good advantage. Perhaps no other food serves us in better stead than meat when it comes to the question of left-overs. A bit of yesterday's roast is a real boon to the housewife. There is no better soup stock in the world than that made from a steak bone.

The National Live Stock and Meat Board suggests the following recipe as an excellent way to use left-over beef.

Rechauffe of Roast Beef
Cook together one can tomatoes, one chopped onion, three green peppers, seeded and cut into rings, and one tablespoon butter. Simmer for one hour. In this sauce reheat thin slices of rare roast beef. When the meat is heated through remove to a hot platter, add a beaten egg to the sauce and pour over the meat. Do not let the sauce boil after the egg has been added.

COUNTY APPORTIONMENT IS $1.18 PER SCHOLASTIC

The County School Board apportioned the county school fund at the meeting August 29. The apportionment for the current year is $1.18 per scholastic. This compares unfavorably with the apportionment for last year, which was $4.35 per scholastic. This condition was brought about largely through the bank failure at Seminole. Much of the available school fund was in the bank at that time.

From all indications at the present time, little if any, of the money involved in the bank failure will ever be recovered.—Seagraves Signal.

Roy Moreman, of Plains, was a visitor here Tuesday.

THE TRADEMARK IS YOUR PROTECTION

One of the bad results of the business depression is seen in the flood of shoddy and inferior merchandise offered the public by many of the merchants. It is apparent that they are trying to meet the demand for lower prices and at the same time maintain or improve their old dividend records by palming off unbranded goods on their customers. Not that every article with a private brand does not meet the requirements, but that much merchandise of that character is not standard. This fact should be sufficient to cause purchasers to stick to trademarked, advertised goods with reputations to sustain.

It is not economy to purchase unknown merchandise at anytime when goods of proved merit can be obtained even at a slightly higher price. In these times when most persons are counting their pennies, it pays to purchase nothing but quality merchandise. The only way to know that you are receiving the full value of your money is to confine your purchases to trademarked and branded goods that have found favor with users because of the quality put into them. Experimenting should be postponed until times are better and we are more prosperous.

Merchants are neither promoting confidence in themselves nor contributing to the revival of business by taking advantage of customers who are trying to economize by selling cheap goods even at cheap prices.—Farm and Ranch.

Lester McPherson and family have moved back to Brownfield from San Angelo where he has held a position in constructing paved roads there for the past two years. Lester says he will be closer to paving here right now than there, as both Lubbock and Gaines counties are paving. Welcome back home.

L. A. Jett, of Bunnell, Fla., is now domiciled in the local post office, having traded positions with Claude Jones several weeks ago, and we find Mr. Jett just as polite and accommodating as his predecessor. He made home more homely at once by subscribing for his home town paper.

Dick Brownfield Becoming Expert Pilot

Dick Brownfield went to Kansas City a month or so ago where he made purchase of a new plane. It was brought on in the care of a licensed pilot, who stayed several days here with Dick to learn him to handle the plane. However, Mr. Brownfield had many lessons here. Laimes, and is now quite adept at the art of guiding those gawky looking things through the upper ether. Most of his flying is done during the late hours of the afternoon, when you can see Dick and his nice red machine up in the air. He has become quite expert on turning and gliding, but so far as we know has never undertaken any stunts, and we have a notion Dick has too much sense to ever try them. If he ever gets hurt or killed, it will be on account of the fact that his plane has gone wrong while he is up in the air, and not trying to cut any fool capers.

NO LONGER A JOKE, BUT LIBEL

About thirty years ago the press of the country was publishing an alleged joke on Texas in which it was related that the Texan got up in the morning at the alarm of a Connecticut clock, put on Chicago pants held up by Ohio suspenders, etc., the story winding up with the statement that the only thing the man had that originated in Texas was a yellow dog.

The editor of Farm and Ranch was a youngster working on a Wisconsin newspaper. This Texas story looked like a good joke, so it was clipped and pasted up as a filler. The senior editor, however, saw it, and said: "Young man, that joke was used in this paper fifteen years ago, and has been repeated off and on ever since."

To our surprise we find this old moth-eaten, bewhiskered piece of libel going the rounds of the Texas press. It has even appeared in an educational journal published for educated people who ought to know something of the industrial development of their own State.

Of the things listed that this Texan used which came from other States we note that many are now produced within our own borders. We may be getting our alarm clocks from Connecticut as of yore, but we are making numerous other articles, some of which are probably used by the New England yankees. Even our mortgages are home produced, for Texas is able to finance its own undertakings without appealing to New England. We do not use Oklahoma gasoline, nor is it necessary to buy spices put up in New Jersey, syrup made in Vermont or sugar from Philadelphia.

If Texas people would patronize home industry they would not only find that the most of their needs could be supplied by their own factories, by industry would be encouraged to expand and new resources would be developed.

Farm and Ranch is surprised that the sense of humor has become so distorted in the State that produced Texas Siftings.—Farm and Ranch.

RESTFUL SAN DISTURBED BY EARTHQUAKE

The earthquake that visited over Texas last month was an early morning guest at the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium. The tremor was felt here about 5:45 a. m., and lasted several seconds. Patients in various wards were awakened by the windows rattling, doors knocking and beds moving. One patient was aroused from her restless slumber and before she realized what was actually happening she thought she was having a re-acton from a sedative taken the evening before. Several pictures on the wall at the administration building fell during the shock, but no serious damages were reported.

Wayne Rutherford, of Crosbyton has leased the Conoco station at the juncture of the Lubbock and Tahoka highways from Chris Quante, and will take charge at once. Mr. Rutherford formerly lived here and he and family will be welcomed back in our midst.

Sheriff Walter Moreman of Plains, was among those here Monday attending court.

Will Black of the Gomez section was over Monday courting.

FARMERS CAN BE COUNTED TO SUPPORT DISARMAMENT

The farmers of the United States can be counted upon to support all movements for disarmament. Never have farmers promoted a war. They are lovers of the homestead and the family circle, and all their tendencies are in the direction of peace and quietness. The farmer is no adventurer bent on plunder nor any conquerer bent on fame.

Furthermore, the typical farmer is a sober, honest man. He is left cold by the specious glamor of war, and in his heart he abhors the lying and chicanery which are necessarily characteristic of every war. Frugal, he hates the waste of war and preparation for war.

More and more, too, the farmer is coming to realize that war is contrary to his best economic interests. There are industries which profit through war and which find it advantageous to promote huge armaments and vast military and naval expenditures. This is not true of agriculture. For agriculture needs most of all economic stabilization, ironing out of the peaks of inflation and the valleys of depression. War is an enemy to any such process. Temporary profits may come to agriculture in wartime, but any benefits derived from them are sure to be more than wiped out by the losses that will inevitably follow. The situation in which agriculture finds itself today is traceable ultimately to a war that ended nearly thirteen years ago.

I have no doubt that the farmers of every other country hold substantially the same views on the subject. If the interests and the convictions of the farmers of the world were considered, there could never be a war. The farmers see no reason why the nations should not disarm, and disarm rapidly.—Arthur Capper.

MURRAY'S BOOM

Governor Murray's presidential boom is getting under way. Several Murray for President clubs have been formed in Texas, quite a number in Oklahoma, a few in Kansas. The politicians haven't taken any notice of it yet, but that doesn't mean anything, one way or the other, at this stage of the game. And if the more thoughtful folk regard it with amusement, that does not necessarily mean anything, either.

Can it be taken seriously? To answer that question, one must consider what the state of mind of the people will be next spring. When presidential booms must meet the test of conventions and primaries. If large numbers of folks have gone jobless during the winter, if prices of farm products are still unreasonably low, it may be found that the stage has been set for just a man as Oklahoma's governor.

Disregarding the question of ability, or even of sincerity, disregarding the legality, or the lack of it, in the more spectacular things he has done, we may find the Murray candidacy more formidable than now appears possible. He is a man who acts, who is ready to try to lead; at a time when the county is suffering from official inaction and from lack of leadership, the candidacy of such a man may have a wide appeal. He is a man who knows how to align himself on the popular side, who is quick to adopt the role of people's champion. He knew the public wanted the free bridges opened and he set about in a spectacular manner to have them opened. Call it grandstand if you want to. Cavil about disrespect for federal courts if you want to. The fact remains that the bridges are now open. Nor can Murray's achievements in his fight for lower utility rates be disregarded; that sort of thing hits pretty close to home, with the average man.

It may be admitted that such a candidacy has its ridiculous aspects. But there may be a situation in this country next year that causes folks to overlook the absurdity of it. We may discover that a man who acts, a man who fights and a man who takes the people's side is one to be reckoned with. The next year may be a year when ordinary rules in politics don't hold good.—Wichita Falls Times.

TAKING A HINT

A newly-married couple had just left their parents and had gone into a home of their own. A few weeks afterward the husband lost a button off his shirt front and asked his wife to sew it on.

Later, he found that she had neglected to sew on the button, so he decided he would gently remind her. He took the lid off a box of shoe polish, bored two holes in it, and then sewed it on the shirt.

When he came to put on the shirt again, he found to his amazement that his wife had made a button-hole big enough to fit the lid.

NEW YORK BANKERS GO TO THE RELIEF OF BRITAIN

The big news of the week is the information that a bunch of New York bankers have made a loan to Great Britain for the stupendous sum of $400,000,000. It required only a very few days to complete the transaction after the call for the loan was made.

It is generally recognized that $400,000,000 turned into the channels of trade and industry in this country would relieve the depression and would bring prosperity again to this country. But these bloated multimillionaires who have never done a single day's constructive work in their lives and who have grown rich from the resources of this country and the labors of its people, take their ill-gotten gains out of the country which produced it and which stand now in such sore need of it and loan it to a foreign country.

During war times we have what in known as public enemies. But in times of peace we also have public enemies, and the names of these New York Bankers should be placed at the head of the list.—Lovington (N. M.) Leader.

BRINGING UP CHILDREN

Bringing up children "by the book" isn't always a pronounced success.

A nursemaid rushed into the presence of her mistress and shrieked: "Oh, my goodness, ma'am, the twins have fallen into the well. What shall we do?"

The mother lit a cigaret and calmly replied: "Go to the library and bring me the last number of 'Modern Motherhood.' There's an article in it on 'How to Bring up Children.'"

LET'S SNAP OUT OF IT

True the outlook for business this year is not as bright as in times past but when the merchants sit in front of their stores and talk hard times to their customers, they are cutting their own throats.

Many a sale is lost because the merchant himself discourages the customer from buying. Business should not and cannot be allowed to stagnate. There is not a commodity that the merchant has that could not be used by someone to an advantage. If both parties profit by a trade then all business is benefited. Idle money and idle invoices are doing as much to hurt the condition of the country as any other one thing. When the merchant quits trying and makes only a half hearted effort to run his business, he is getting himself in a position to have his business sold on the block or in the court of bankruptcy. It is not to the interest of the merchant alone to keep the trade moving. It affects all society. In fairness to ourselves and everyone directly or indirectly connected to us, let's make every effort to snap out of it and instead of talking hard times, spend our energies in doing something constructive for our businesses and the country as a whole.—Benjamin Post.

Most modern education is based upon the theory that everyone is or should be right-handed. Writing are devised only for the right handed, and educational institutions, even those ranked as progressive schools, often perpetrate a right-hand hardship, upon normally left-handed children by demanding their conformity to the right-handed world.

All children do not have the same resistance to the efforts of society to make them conform to the rules and usage of the majority. When frequently parents and teachers attempt to convert sinistrals to right-handedness they disturb the child's physiologic harmony.

Such A Child An Exception

The child who is born left-handed is an exception and his actual physical state reserves much of life for him. His left side is superior. His left hand possesses strength, readiness and skill, and is more under control than is his right hand for operations requiring delicate manipulation.

The left-handed child, however, has its difficulties in a right-handed world. To deviate from the great throng presents many problems. To be dependent upon the left hand in a world that is directed, organized and controlled by right-handed people involves many problems and adjustments. Rules of the road, tools, and instruments are established upon the basis of the universality of right-handedness. No wonder the left-handed child is often consider awkward.

Not An Abnormality

It is desirable for parents to understand that left-handedness is not an abnormality, any more than are blue eyes in a family of brown-eyed parents; and that there are many unhappy consequences resulting from converting a left-handed child into a right-handed one. Difficulty in speech and stammering may develop. Experience indicates that the proportion of speech defects is far higher among children who were originally left-handed and converted to right-handedness.

If disturbances of speech, writing and thinking are resultant, it is only intelligent to believe that there can be interferences with the child's nervous system. Many children have been known to lie, steal or fight, and this conduct was not due to having been born left-handed, but rather as the result of a thoughtless social pressure that lessened their sense of efficiency, accomplishment, comfort and satisfaction.

Youth Dies in Lubbock After Truck Mishap

Melva Milam, 22, of Portales, N. M., who was injured between 6 and 7 a. m., yesterday on highway No. 7 a half mile east of Lubbock when he was crushed underneath a truck after he had failed to gain a hold on the machine when he attempted to leap on its running board, died at 4 p. m., at a local sanitarium.

He suffered, fractures of the leg above the knee, of the knee cap, severe cuts and lacerations, attending physicians said. Heavy loss of blood, combined with the crushed condition of his body, was the cause of his death, doctor said.—Lubbock-Avalanche.

AN APPEAL TO SPORTSMEN

(Fort Worth Star-Telegram) President Hoover, himself a sportsman of renown, makes an appeal to the sportsmanship of the American duck hunter. The second year of extreme drouth in the far North breeding grounds of the migratory game fowl finds the numbers of adult birds greatly decreased. Fears are held that hunters' guns may, if unrestrained, add such further decimation that the extinction of the birds will be threatened. By proclamation the President has reduced to one month the open season allowed by the federal law for hunting ducks and geese. The President appeals to hunters to observe this restriction as well as the daily bag limits.

Texas lies across one of the two great routes of migration of ducks and geese. The President's appeal should fall on sympathetic ears in this State, where a cherished sport depends upon the continuation of these annual migrations. The law is there with its penalties to punish violators of the terms of the law and the President's proclamation, but Mr. Hoover makes a personal appeal to the hunters.

IT CAN' BE DONE

There is one born every minute! This time a young man in New Jersey decided to try the old theory that a lighted match would be extinguished if quickly plunged into gasoline. Results! He is now in the hospital in a critical condition, his body badly burned.

Theoretically a lighted match could be extinguished by gasoline if it could be quickly plunged through pure air into the liquid. Unfortunately, it is impossible to fulfill these requirements, as wherever there is gasoline there is also gasoline vapor immediately above it. This vapor mixed with air forms a powerful explosive, the same as that which propels motor cars. In the foregoing experiment the lighted match had to pass through a layer of vapor mixed with air which immediately exploded and covered the victim with flaming gasoline.

As an interesting sidelight of this experiment, The National Board of Fire Underwriters reported a 1929 fire loss of $15,500,000 caused by petroleum and its products and listed under the heading "Strictly Preventable." It also points out that people who attempt to do dry cleaning in their homes with gasoline are courting disaster.

Whenever anyone feels inclined to take liberties with gasoline he should remember that potentially it is nothing less than a death-dealing explosive. The vapor from one gallon of gasoline mixed in proper proportions with air, has explosive possibilities equal to 83 pounds of dynamite.

WHERE COOPERATION WILL PAY

Declining foreign trade is one of the factors most responsible for prolonging the business depression—exactly as it was a factor in bringing it on.

Few of us sufficiently understand how vital international commerce is to domestic prosperity. A decrease of a "mere" five or six cent in employment and purchasing power means all the difference between good times and bad. And a decline of ten or fifteen per cent might mean the difference between stability and chaos.

The doctrine of economic and social isolation may have been workable in 1831—but it is suicidal in 1931. No nation can, figuratively, remove itself to a high peak and look down on the rest of the world, depending on itself alone for sustenance. Cooperation between businesses and individuals has solved many of the industrial problems of the age—and cooperation between nations, both in commerce and in diplomacy, must solve those of an international character.

The reason for the decline in foreign trade, divorced of argument and confusing details, is simple enough—foreign nations cannot buy from us unless we buy from them. We must look beyond state and national boundaries toward the world horizon, in the knowledge that foreign trade is one of the keys to domestic prosperity and industrial stimulation.
