

LOCAL SCHOOLS GREATLY LAUDED BY SCHOOL INSPECTOR

Chamber of Commerce
By the Secretary
Corrects The Editor

The writer has read with much interest the article on highways by the Editor of the Herald and its conclusions are right in line with those that we have been trying to get before the public at several different periods during the current year. However as our efforts to arouse interest did not seem to meet with success, we decided that the space devoted to articles on good roads could be better used for something else and for the past several issues of the paper no mention has been made concerning highway improvements. And this will continue to be our policy unless there is a radical change in the viewpoint of several of our prominent citizens who are constant users of our highways but who say that they prefer to dirt roads to paved ones.

Our only idea in this article, is to undertake to correct the figures of the Editor as to the amount of the issue that would be needed to be voted.

The following is a cost estimate that was prepared by the highway department and covers all of our state highways and the Seagraves county road which has a tentative designation.

Highway 137. Hockley county line to Brownfield.	$ 95,000.00
Right of way and engineering.	$ 22,500.00
Highway 84. East and West, Lynn to Yoakum line.	$112,500.00
Right of way and engineering, included in No. 137.
Brownfield to Seagraves	$128,000.00
Right of Way and engineering.	$ 13,300.00
Total to be voted by the county.	$371,300.00

The total estimated cost of the two state and one county highway, including amount to be furnished by the highway department is $818,890.00. The department paying 2 for 1 on highway 84 and 1 for 1 on highway 137 and the Seagraves road, but no part of the right of way and engineering cost. It might be well to state however, that the district engineer is of the opinion that the bids of contractors will probably run about 30 percent under state engineers figures as they have been and still are, fighting pretty hard for business, but bonds need not be sold unless they are needed, and we might get by with an issue of $350,000.00.

The Herald Editor, also makes mention of the Seagraves Loop road. And from all accounts it is very well built and giving satisfaction and will probably hold up under its travel, but its construction is not such as would be needed to hold up such traffic as we have on 137 and as we hope to have on 84, within the next year or two.

Poultry Show At Slaton

The Panhandle-Plains Poultry Show, will be held at Slaton on December 8, 9, and 10th, and all poultry raisers of this county are urged to attend and to have an exhibit if possible. The admission is free, but exhibitors will be expected to pay a small fee as is the case with all similar shows. It had been decided that the affair would not be held this year and many exhibitors from this county made other arrangements, but from information coming to us, the exhibits this year will almost equal if not exceed those of 1930, when nearly 900 fowls were shown. The territory of the association covers nearly 60 counties and is one of the largest in Texas.

MRS LAWLIS PASSES AWAY

The news of the death of Mrs. P. F. Lawlis, wife of the principal of our high schools was received Wednesday morning with an extreme degree of sadness. She had been sick at Mineral Wells for some time, under treatment of specialists. He was called back to her bedside Monday night, and she lived only a few hours after he reached her bedside, having passed away at ten o'clock Tuesday night.

The body was laid to rest in the Snyder cemetery Thursday afternoon, where her father-in-law, a Methodist minister was buried a few years ago. Mrs. Lawlis has a host of friends in Brownfield to mourn her passing. She always took a leading part in church, school and social work when her health permitted.

SHOP WINDOWS ASSUME HOLIDAY APPEARANCE

A Stroll Down the Streets of Brownfield Gives Idea that Old Santa is Not Far Away—Terry and Yoakum County Children Prove that the Herald is Read.

In walking up and down the sidewalks of Brownfield, one cannot but catch a bit of the holiday spirit, as the many windows gradually assume the Christmas colors, like Prosperity, is just around the corner, with Christmas perhaps closer. Inside some of the stores, long tables are being decorated, and dolls and toys and whatnot will take their places on them in a day or two, perhaps before this paper reaches you.

And the kids, God bless them, are ready to go. In fact, they are already off to a flying start. Just look what a big show they are making this week—and then some people say the paper is not read. What liars some people are. Why even the tiny tots read last week that it was time to address that letter to old Santa and here they are this week, from Plains to Meadow, and from Needmore to Lou. And this will not be a circumstance of what will be in these columns next week, and every blessed one of these kids are going to have Santa leave their things at Brownfield Stores. Well, Mr. Merchant, we expect you to help out for the next two weeks and tell the kids what you have at your Santa Claus Headquarters.

And who wants to disappoint these little fellows? Haven't they been fine boys and girls all the year. God has blessed the county with good crops. The people are well fed and have plenty to wear. The kids are expecting old Santa Claus to visit them this year, and he will. Of course there are a few kiddies that will have to have some help, but they will get it. The Lions, the Rotarians, the Legion and Auxiliary and the churches are going to see to that. If these organizations know it in time, there will not be a child in the town or county that will not be looked after, and in which old Santa will fail to come.

So kiddies be on your good behavior. Help mother with the dishes. Help dad with the chores. Keep teacher just right by having good lessons and a good report card. These little things are what counts. Be good and old Santa WILL NOT MISS YOU.

Holt and Graves Lash New Heights in 'Derg'

"Dirigible" which will be on the screen of the Rialto Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, and Jack Holt, Ralph Graves and Frank Capra—the trio responsible for Columbia's two previous smashing hits—"Submarine" and "Flight"—scored once again.

The present offering supplies a series of thrills that are fairly electrifying. Strictly modern in theme and treatment, it gives the most realistic depiction of life in one of the modern Navy dirigibles that anything outside of actual experience could convey. It's a big picture done in a big way. Columbia can well afford to be proud of it.

The story—which serves as an excellent basis upon which to build the spectacular features, concerns "Frisky" Pierce—ace Navy aviator—and Jack Bradon—commander of a United States Dirigible.

Acting honors fall about evenly between Jack Holt and Ralph Graves. These two splendid players—who have appeared as "buddies" in other Columbia productions, portray two totally different types of men—and each have the faculty of bringing their big dramatic scenes up to a high point of intensity. Fay Wray makes Helen a thoroughly delightful heroine.

Roy Collier left here Saturday night and breasted bad weather all the way to Montague, Texas, in order to be at the family reunion there Sunday. Roy says it sure was worth the effort though, as he got to see all the family, and that the table at the old home was simply laden Sunday at noon, among other things being a baked possum in 'taters.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Burson and baby spent the week end in town the guest of their mother, Mrs. Lou Burson.

Body of U. S. Sailor Received Last Wed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Harris of the Tokio community were saddened Friday, November 20, when they received word that their son, who has been a sailor in the United States Navy for the past 16 years had died in the Naval Hospital at Brooklyn. Mr. Harris ordered the body sent home, and it arrived on the noon train last Wednesday, November 25. The flag in the court park was set at half mast in his honor. The body was accompanied home by Leedy Dunn, of Dallas.

Sailor Dunn did not seem to know what had happened to Calvin, as Dunn does not sail on the same ship as did Calvin, which is the Louisville. Death was caused however, by brain concussion, and Dunn believes that in a few weeks Mr. Harris will receive a report from the Naval Department giving details.

Calvin Lee Harris was 32 years of age, having been in the navy just half his life. Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist church by Rev. J. M. Hale Wednesday afternoon, and the body immediately laid to rest in the Brownfield cemetery. Mr. Harris stated to the Herald that at one time his boy was a member of the church, but did not know what he had been doing in a religious way since he joined the navy at 16 years of age. If he was a member of any fraternity, his father was not aware of the fact.

Besides his sorrowing parents, deceased leaves, one brother and a sister, Alva Harris of Tokio and Mrs. C. V. McCargo, who is postmistress at Chynne, Texas, and who attended the funeral.

Jeter Has a Very Prolific Brood Sow

W. W. Jeter was in this week for a few minutes to tell us about his young Poland China sow that is probably one of the most prolific in this section of the country, if she has not really put up a state record. The sow has farrowed two litters of pigs up to Monday, with 30 pigs to her credit. The first litter numbered 11 and the last one 19. The last litter was farrowed Sunday night. Mr. Jeter did not tell us whether all of them were alive or not.

Mr. Jeter has just returned from a visit down on the Colorado river and brought back some mighty nice pecans which he is selling to people here, including some very large ones for 20c per pound. W. W. has also a good cotton raiser, as he has turned in about 40 bales to the Co-ops, he tells us.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Williams, a boy the 30th ult. They now have a pair of boys.

Plenty Snow on the Ground Here Tuesday

Mr. Weatherman has had a hard time of it deciding what to do lately, and despite all the advise the Weather Boorow at Washington has offered, assisted by the daily newspapers, the Weatherman has usually decided different. In fact, several months ago, we learned to quit fooling with the Weatherman, and have actually got along better with that bird than ever, since. He makes out that he is attending to his business and expects other people to do the same. The Boorow and dailies have been insisting for the past week or two that we were due some nice weather. The weekend dailies told us in dispatches from Washington that we were due for a week of warm, pretty weather.

No one here believed it, however, for wern't the wind from the southeast, and weren't there marlett clouds, thunderheads and gulf clouds everywhere and running helter-skelter through the air? So neighbor Brown looks over his specks at neighbor Smith and says, says he, "What the heck do those birds way up there know about West Texas?" "Not a dang thing," returns brother Smith. So, as Andy says, you have it in a couple of nuts shells, or sumpen. Yet, with all our fun at the expense of the Weather Boorow at Washington and Houston, who are just giving us a general outlook for a few days in advance to cover an immense territory, all of us more or less forget this and turn in despair to our almanacs for weather information, covering perhaps a year in advance.

Only this week an old friend said to us: "Jack, have you examined the 'Ladies Birthday' almanac lately? These windjammers up at Washington don't know a frazzling thing about the weather." He is right, and we have about reached the conclusion that neither Boorow or Almanakers know a frazzling thing about West Texas weather, although we have to acknowledge with some embarrassment that we have a copy of the Ladies Birthday almanac for every year that we have been in Terry county hanging on a nail conven-

LOCAL PAPERS HAVE HAD A HARD STRUGGLE TOO

Many, Many Country Weeklies Were Put to the Supreme Test To Keep Up the Pride and Reputation of the Town as A Trade Center. Many Friends Stayed With Us.

Most people seems to have an idea that local papers have had easy sledding going through the worst of the depression, which really hit the South Plains section last winter, but was at its worst through this past spring and summer, especially as to Terry county. But it wasn't easy sledding, however, but a struggle every inch of the way. Yet, did you hear many newspaper men aching? No. On the other hand, they were doing everything they could to keep up the courage of the people of the community, but got no thanks for it.

They were the last places to cut wages or let any of the force go, yet firm after firm cut their advertising to the quick and others cutting it out entirely. But the very fellow, generally speaking, that you would expect to cut their advertising, was making a struggle to keep his ads in the paper. It is to such men and firms that the newspapers of South Plains as well as other sections of Texas and the nation owe their ability to weather the storm, and personally the Herald shall always love them, and hopes that neither they or we ever have to battle again as we have battled for the past year.

The trouble with most of us was that we had made debts when times were prosperous, and suddenly found that we had to make our payments on greatly lessened incomes. We cut everything we possibly could in the way of what may be termed luxuries, we quit running about so much, and many of us made the old clothes go through another season. As a consequence, many of us have paid off some of the heavy debts and lessened others. We have kept our heads above water—we have about won the battle.

And in doing this, the Herald, despite added expense, has tried to keep the Herald up to standard size, when most of our exchanges were reducing to six and most instances only four pages of a six column paper. But really that was all the business

Terry County Turkey Growers Meet Sat.

The Turkey Growers Association of Terry county will meet at the courthouse, Saturday, afternoon, Dec. 5th, 3:00 o'clock, in the Chamber of Commerce office. The purpose of the meeting will be to pool turkeys for Christmas market.

Remember that if you want to pool your turkeys you must be present in person to list your turkeys and guarantee delivery. Anyone not able to be present at this meeting can list their turkeys with Mr. Shelton at his office.

(Signed) J. A. Johnson, Pres.

Mr. C. B. Powell of Cisco, father of Mrs. Geo. W. Neill of this city, died at the family home last Monday, Nov. 28th, and was buried Wednesday 29th, of pneumonia. He was buried at De Leon. Mr. Powell visited here several times in years past, and was a guest in the Neill home last summer. He was a pioneer West Texas citizen.

Well, as we have killed a lot of space in this article rather than get out in the snow and hunt for live matter, we will now proceed to tell you it snowed Monday night to the tune of perhaps four inches. Fell pretty, and there were some six inches added to the fence posts, wash pots, tubs, etc. Tuesday morning, and the little forest over at the courthouse gave you a miniature of the Canadian forest you see in the movies where a Canadian mounted is after his man.

Old man winter is here in all his glory. Yes, there is lots of cotton and corn in the fields—lots. But there is also lots of sparrows and sausage in the pantry. So why worry.

Come to Terry, the Safe Farming Section."

SUPERVISOR SMITH FINDS NO FAULT IN ANY DEPT.

Saw Very Much of a Pleasing Nature—Nothing to Criticize. Good Buildings, Better and More Equipment, a New Gym, and Best of All Some Superior Teaching.

School Supervisor, H. O. Smith, of Austin, was here early in November, and in company with Supt. A. B. Sanders, made the rounds of the city schools. What we might say of them is another question, but what a State Supervisor has to say of them is something else altogether. Supervisors, in most cases can offer a lot of criticism. Indeed it seems that some of them are very hard to please. But Supervisor Smith found so much good in the Brownfield schools that we are reproducing herewith the entire report for the benefit of readers, patrons and friends of the Brownfield schools:

State Department of Education. High School Division. Austin, Texas.

Report of School Supervisor on Brownfield High School. Superintendent A. B. Sanders, November 12, 1931.

Pres. of Board red Smith, Supervisor H. O. Smith.

The work of classifying and accrediting the public schools of Texas is under the direction of the State Committee composed of fifteen members representing the high schools and colleges of the State. This Committee, by establishing educational standards, determines the conditions upon which high schools, are classified and accredited and is interested in encouraging schools to attain these standards and in certifying those that have attained so as to facilitate the transfer of students to any other school or college.

The regulations as prescribed by this Committee are administered by the State Department of Education through high school supervisors. In the visit of the supervisors and in their reports to school authorities, recommendations are offered in the spirit of cooperation and helpful suggestion, with the earnest desire that all school authorities will join with the State Department of Education in their efforts to maintain the necessary standards of secondary education in Texas.

In order that the schools may be properly certified it is essential that minimum requirements be met. To that end the supervisor who recently visited your school makes the following recommendations:

1. That highest commendation be expressed for the following material improvements:
    - a. New high school with auditorium.
    - b. New gymnasium.
    - c. Additional high school equipment.
    - d. Grounds in front of buildings set to grass.
    - e. Piano purchased for high school.
  2. Further praise is merited for the excellent organization and morale of the school. Some superior teaching was observed. The responsiveness and general attitude of the student body were most gratifying. The buildings and grounds were well kept.
- The entire personnel is to be complimented on the many evidences of efficient and faithful work. It is indeed a pleasure to visit in such a well ordered progressive school system.
- The many courtesies of Supt. Sanders, the principals, and various members of the faculty are sincerely appreciated.

Clyde Gross Has Well Equipt Machine Shop

The Herald is truly glad that Brownfield is possessed of such a machine shop as is possessed by Clyde Gross, with Edwin Hamm as chief mechanic. It is worth much to the town, for in this shop, most anything you may want around a plant that has machinery can be duplicated in a few hours, whereas days may have to elapse before the article can come from the factory in which the machine or machinery is made, which may be half across the continent. Just recently a piece of work was turned out by him for Tudor Sales Co., that had to be exact to the one-thousandths part of an inch. The piece fit accurately.

Mr. Gross informs us that most any kind of cam, shafting, cog wheel or such like can be turned out in a few hours at the outside of his shop, and that it will be right when finished. And right here we wish to hand a bouquet to Edwin Hamm, for we love better to scatter our flowers to the living who can appreciate them than to the dead who cannot. Edwin Hamm is just off the farm by a few years. He has learned what he knows right here in Brownfield in the last few years. The Harris boys, Roy and Glen helped Edwin after they saw what was in him, and now he with his natural gift of mechanics, has gone beyond even his tutors, perhaps. Anyway, he is given up to be one of the best if not the best at the forge, the welding torch or the lathe on the South Plains.

When you get a break, be sure to call on this home machine shop before sending half across the continent for another. The charges will be in line with any other.

Roosevelt to Lead Democrats—Walsh

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 27.—Senator Thomas J. Walsh, democrat, of Montana, in an interview here today, said he expected Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, to be the next democratic nominee for president. He added that he believed Roosevelt would be overwhelmingly elected.

"Roosevelt will undoubtedly be the democratic nominee, in my opinion," Senator Walsh said. "No one else is given thought of in my section of the country."

Junior High School Exhibit at Institute

During the Terry County Institute to be held in this city on December 10 and 11, there will be a school exhibit at the Junior High School. The purpose of this exhibit is to show the teachers of this section and the parents in this town just what is being done in our Junior High School. Each room in the building will have its own exhibit. Guides from each room will be available to explain the posters, maps, booklets, etc. The work exhibited will be work that has been done in the classroom this year. It is not the purpose on this show to make an appeal to the people through work done by the teachers. Every article has been made by individual pupils.

Every patron of the Brownfield schools is cordially invited to come and see just what we are doing. It may surprise you what is being done in spite of all the depression. The boys and girls are highly interested in the work, and you will only be showing your interest and appreciation by coming to see them. These boys and girls will be disappointed if a goodly number of parents do not come out to see what they are doing.

ALFRED A TAYLOR OF TENNESSEE DIES

Johnson City, Tenn., Nov. 25.—Former Governor Alfred A. Taylor, 83, for years one of the most colorful figures in Tennessee politics died early today at Appalachian hospital here.

It was Taylor who participated in the famous "War of the Roses," a campaign for the governorship that he and his brother waged side by side against one another.

He had been in ill health since 1929 but it was only recently that his condition became critical. He lapsed into a coma Monday. The old political leaders two sons, Frank and Blaine Taylor were at his bedside when the end came.

Complications arising from uremic poisoning caused his death. Roses, red ones and white ones, played an important part in the life of "Uncle Alf" who lost his "War of the Roses" back in 1885 and built a house by the side of the road so he could be "a friend to man and hunt foxes."

That war is still fought by the firebrands in Tennessee's mountains. Read the Ads in the Herald.

Do You Want Laundered Leather or TANNED LEATHER?

Any cheap shirt can be starched and ironed to be hard and glossy. That does not make it a good shirt!
Any inferior hide can be quickly "doped" and rolled into a hard and glossy leather. That does not make it good leather!

Rural Dance Places Reveal Nature to Visitors

New York City.—There was a time when there was no synonym for Broadway to describe a certain kind of good time, good food and good entertainment. But Broadway has met its Waterloo with the introduction and popularity of the roadside roadhouse, according to Buddy Wagner, who came to New York via Kansas City and became a famous conductor.

Wagner, amazed to find Broadway with not one rival, but many in the way of attractive and smart inns scattered about on every main highway, says that the popularity of these country-side amusement places started on the Pacific Coast.

"Twenty years ago, I don't suppose Broadway dreamed that its crown would fall to Pelham or Bronx River Parkway, or the high roads of Long Island," he comments, "but it has, and now you'll find many of the best-known dance orchestra directors doing their stuff out where the breezes play an accompaniment through the trees.

The fact that city folks are getting out into the country and seeing the stars for the first time, experiencing for themselves, and not synthetically through the movies, what moonlight, clouds, birds and flowers really mean, has also made possible such hits as "There Ought To Be A Moonlight Saving Time" declares Wagner.

"Years ago, before America became so urban-minded, we had such nation-wide hits—hits that went back to mother-nature for their appeal," he points out.

"Harry Richman, who got his inspiration for 'There Ought To Be A Moonlight Saving Time' when he glanced at the moon while changing his grandfather clock over to daylight saving time one evening in his Long Island home, merely had the genius to hit upon a song that would appeal to the city-dwelling public's reversion of the country and its beauties."

First Iceland Settler
Traditionally the first settler in Iceland was the Norwegian chieftain, Ingolf, who named the place where he landed Reykjavik—i. e. Smoky Bay, from the steam rising out of the nearby hot springs. After him came many Norwegian viking chieftains and their followers, who fled, mainly from the west coast of Norway, to escape King Harald Fairhair's oppression.

Province of Beauty
Where men are not kept in mind of beauty, they become lower than the beasts; for a dog, I will maintain, is a very tolerable judge of beauty, as appears from the fact that any liberally educated dog does, in a general way, prefer a woman to a man.—Francis Thompson.

Peculiarities of Echoes
Echo effects are often different when a hall is full. It has been found that an echo which may be there if a hall is filled with women may be entirely absent when the audience is a male one. The silk of women's garments absorbs sound far less than the thicker tweed and woolen clothing of men.

PARADES, THE CEMETERY AND PLAYGROUNDS

Thirteen Armistice day parades have swung down the road since word echoed around the world that peace had come. Thirteen times men have paraded to triumphant music.

There has always been a thrill to marching men, ever since the first knights went forth, steel clad, to seek the Grail. Small boys instinctively parade to the sound of a round red drum and little tin horn. There is an innate martial rhythm in man that makes him join ranks.

But war itself is a bitter reality. The heraldry that precedes it is nothing more than a dazzling flash in the pan.

Broken ranks, mute reminders of half-remembered battles, show that. Slim green beds in other lands, too far away for flower tributes, are added testimony. The dream-scoured hearts of the men who came home aren't always pleasant places. Battle fires leave scars sometimes, that 13 years are slow to heal.

An army on parade is a glamorous thing. An army in action is a tragedy. The brave gleam of the passing helmets doesn't lead to a playground.

The bravery which the soldiers displayed in battles, half-lost under the tangled weeds of 13 years, isn't forgotten. It made a tremendous impression on civilization. Because the suffering that went with it has dragged its scar across the years is added reason that the time for the abolition of war, so far as is possible, is at hand.

World leaders aren't seeking a millennium. They aren't pleading for pity—just workable principles of carrying on the game.

Men should march. They keep step better when they swing down the way. But they should not have to march to battle. Nor should they be called upon to surrender their common heritage—lamplight at dusk, firelight on the floor, rain on the roof, children's voices.

The fragment of a marching army should be a plea for universal disarmament.—Terre Haute (Ind.) Star, Nov. 7, 1931.

Grady Terry came in Tuesday morning from Dallas where he went to buy goods for the Terry store. Said he saw a big bus and several cars all jammed together in a dip and high fill near Weatherford Monday afternoon.

Our editorial capacity is going to be as light as a feather this week.

The big snow sure slowed up gathering this week and there has been more farmers in this week than for two months.

It will be a great convenience to a large number of taxpayers to take advantage of the new split tax law.

One of the largest, if not the largest, mail order firms in the United States recently disposed of its printing plant and turned its work over to a privately owned plant.

Well, the Democratic clans are moving in on Washington this week with their necks all bowed up and the donkey braying, for they are determined to wrest the halls of the lower house from the ancient enemy next Monday.

Slowly, one by one, the old pioneers who came here in the early days and stuck it out, are passing from the scene of action, and going out to the great beyond to what we hope is a just reward.

Attorney General Jimmy Allred is filing suit against a number of the major oil companies of Texas in obedience to the wishes of the Legislature and in harmony with his oath of office and the information he has gathered.

We are not in a position to say what the big oil companies are doing owing to a limited knowledge of their affairs, but we do believe that thousands of Texas farmers have been swindled out of thousands of dollars each year for several years by chain gangs operated in violation of Texas anti-trust laws.

Editor Jack Stricklin of the Brownfield Herald took a 'sourcastic' dig at us last week when he wasted time on the following:

"Say, listen, Bro. Estlack, what had YOU been trying to make last week? When the Leader reached us, there was either honey or 'lasses all over it. Better watch out or the revenue men will get you."

Hoover investigating commission has been able to ascertain. This must have been one of those occasions, Jack—Clarendon Leader.

For the information of the tax payers, the law makes it the duty of county commissioners to have quarterly report of the county treasurer published. Most commissioners' courts do not observe this law on the ground that it costs too much.

Terry County has had the quarterly report published every 90 days for the past 23 years that we know of.

NOT FAR APART BRO. STRICKLIN

"Sam" Sam Braswell of the Clarendon News is a trained musician. He is not only a singer of note, but a good band master, and when they want some special music over at Clarendon, Sam is called in to put the matter over, or at least help.

We believe Bro. Stricklin of the Herald didn't get us exactly right on our grand opera editorial—what we were trying to say was that the woes and joys of grand opera "characters"—not the actors—were present in the every day lives of our acquaintances and that we should be prepared to sympathize with them in our daily contacts.

NAMES IS NAMES

Jack Stricklin of the Terry County (Brownfield) Herald sallied forth last week with the following anent names of their post office and mail-carrying force.

"We note that some of our exchanges have what they call a 'colyum' in which they inform readers of the interesting as well as curious happenings in their communities. Well, Brownfield might carry on such a column for several weeks without running out of soap.

Brownfield may have Rails bested for 'beverages, crops, roads, etc.,' but we have a fragrant flower and sparkling gem in our post office in the persons of Lily and Ruby—and they are both Brown.—Rails Banner.

It is now reported that a young physician in Chicago has discovered one way to keep hair from falling out and to grow hair on bald head: that are as hard as ivory and as slick as door knobs.

Editor Asks For a Fair Deal For West Texas

A congressional redistricting bill was defeated at the regular session of the legislature because it provided for two new districts in West Texas to which she was entitled, and because it did not provide for a new district in East Texas to which that section was not entitled.

While a representative redistricting bill was introduced, little effort seems to have been made to pass it, probably because West Texas did not have sufficient strength in the legislature to get her rights.

When the next legislature meets, all other legislation should be blocked by West Texans, if that course should be necessary, until she is given just representation in that body.

The constitution provides for redistricting the state following each decennial census. The present districts are based on the 1920 census.

Cass county, adjoining it, with a population of 30,000 constitutes the second district; and the Bowie, Cass, and Marion constitute the third district with a flatorial representation.

In North Texas, Grayson county, with 65,843 people, has two Representatives; Collin, with 46,180, has one Representative, and then Collin and Grayson have an additional or flatorial Representative, giving the two counties with a combined population of 112,023 four Representatives, or one for each 28,000 population.

Now let us come to West Texas. Our own district, composed of Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Gaines and Dawson counties, has a population of 100,249, with one Representative.

The Amarillo district with seven counties has a population of 71,608. The San Angelo district with six counties has a population of 66,692.

In other West Texas districts the population is not so large but in most of them it is much larger than in other parts of the state.

In North Texas, the Sherman district has a population of only 131,142. In Central Texas, the Waxahachie-Hillsboro-Cleburne district has a population of 140,084, while the Temple-Stephenville district has a population of only 120,106, and the Bastrop-Brenham district a population of only 131,595.

The Lubbock district has a population of 227,500; the Amarillo district a population of 238,618; the El Paso district a population of 273,438; the Abilene district a population of 216,631; and the San Angelo district a population of 189,862.

Candidates who offer for the legislature from West Texas next year should pledge the people that they will do all in their power to procure the redistricting of this state into new Representative, Senatorial, and Congressional districts, and that they will make this a major objective.

West Texans should see to it that only able men are sent to the legislature from this section next year so that the rights of West Texas may be ably asserted and maintained.—Tahoka News.

Work is Resumed on Road Out of Odessa

Odessa, Nov. 22.—Construction has started on Highway 137 from the Andrews County line north to the city of Andrews.

Highway 137, known as the Potash Highway, running north out of Odessa, is paved to the county line, and the recent contract calls for completion half way across Andrews County.

Hockley county also has a small strip of 7 miles in Ropes section that will not be paved. No, Terry is not the only county behind the time on the road proposition.

DEATH OF OLD TIMER SUNDAY

Mrs. I. H. Hudson 61, of the Johnson community, and one of the most beloved on the old time settlers in Terry county, passed to her reward Sunday night. Mrs. Hudson was carried to Lubbock one day last week where she underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Lubbock Sanitarium.

The home of Mrs. Hudson was always open to neighbors, friends or strangers, and the writer counted her among his very best friends. Besides her husband, she leaves three sons, Paul, Carl and Hattie, and three daughters, Mrs. Wood Johnson, Mrs. Garland Miller and the youngest Stella, the later of which we were unable to learn who she married.

Jot Akers, one of our hustling layrmen, called at the Herald office Monday.

Mrs. Flem McSpadden reports that her husband is doing quite nicely at Hot Springs, N. M., and will likely be home next week.

Who Is Cheated?

Why do high school students keep flunking in their work? Is it laziness or ignorance?—The teachers or pupils? Is it not an honor or bright saying to say to some of your best friends, "I flunked in English this month." Teachers do not flunk students because they do not like them, nor do they pass them when they do not produce the goods. Some students try to make their grade by cheating and copying but this kind of work will never do anyone any good. When you do not know an answer to a question you will never learn it by copying a fellow student's paper. If you do not know what it is about, what is the use of making a good grade. This kind of work will not prepare you for life and that is why you go to school. Then who is cheated, the students or teachers?

Loading The Ark

What do you suppose would have happened if Noah had waited until the last minute before he began loading the Ark for the flood? He evidently would have forgotten half the animals that were to go therein and probably would have been drowned himself. Those who load the ark ( cram for exams) forget half time important facts and of course are drowned in the flood of examinations. It has been observed that those who keep their eyes and ears open and their mouth shut in daily classes are those who swim safely through to the shore of good grades. And, too, those who listen attentively in class and study as they go, get a real enjoyment out of examinations while those who have not studied fear and dread "exams" as if they meant life or death. So you see that it pays to start loading the ark when you first get the warning.

An Indian Story

Before the white men invaded this country, there lived an old Indian Chief. His name was Great Wind. Great Wind lived with his mother, Raving Wing, and daughter, White Swallow.

There was a war between two tribes at this time. The Black Tree tribe was fighting the Chawonock Indians. Great Wind was the chief of the Black Tree tribe.

White Swallow and Raving Wing arose early the next morning, because Great Wind and his warriors were leaving at sunrise. Raving Wing cooked deer meat for Great Wind's breakfast. After he has eaten breakfast he told Raving Wing and White Swallow to be very careful while he was away. After he had bade them good-by he left the wigwam.

That night White Swallow dreamed that her father was in danger and that he needed her. When she awoke the next morning she told Raving Wing her dream. When she had finished she grabbed a wrap and before Raving Wing could stop her, she had run out of the wigwam into the woods. Raving Wing started after her but she could not see in front of her for the snow was very thick. Raving Wing went back and sent a message to Great Wind because she knew White Swallow would be lost.

White Swallow had run until she was tired and cold. She sat down by a tree. She was about to go to sleep when she saw a tall dark figure creeping behind a tree. She managed to get to her feet and ran. The dark object was right behind her, and it seemed to be gaining on her. She ran until her body was numb. She could not run any more so she fell in the snow. The figure she had seen was a Chawonock Indian. He picked the little girl up and took her to the Chawonock village. White Swallow was taken to a wigwam where she was held as a captive. She was not afraid because she knew her father would come for her.

Great Wind had received Raving Wing's message and was hunting for White Swallow. Great Wind had several of his warriors with him. He could not see any tracks because the snow had covered them. Some of his warriors asked him if White Swallow could have been captured. They traveled toward the Chawonock village. Just before they came to the village they found White Swallow's shawl. They knew that she was in the village. They stole up to the village quietly and captured the village. Great Wind found his daughter and they went back to Raving Wing and they all lived happily ever after.—Student Theme.

Public Speaking in High Schools

The student in high school who is taking public speaking is fortunate.

If he is naturally timid in class it helps him to conquer his timidity and speak with freedom and self confidence. Every high school student should take public speaking if possible. Often when a high school student gets up to make a public speech he feels queer; perhaps he will blush, stammer, a few words, and sit down. Public speaking develops the high school student in a way that will fit him for an active part in the world, as well as it helps him through his high school course.

This year there were 35 freshmen,

47 sophomores, 36 juniors and 49 seniors enrolled. Civics, history and English 10 seems to be the leading subjects, being 31 in Civics, 29 in English 10 and 28 in history 9.

An Appreciation

The senior class of 1930 gave to the Brownfield High school a beautiful blue velvet curtain trimmed in gold fringe and with the year "1930" written on it in gold letters. This curtain adds beauty to the new auditorium and we should think of the time spent in making money for the purchase of this curtain. Some classes might have given up or probably was undertook this project. But this was not true of the 1930 class who worked so hard putting on plays and other programs. They even sponsored a circus for which an unusually long time was taken to make the animals. The 1930 class, who never had classes in the new building or chapel in the new auditorium, certainly showed their appreciation for their education and the following classes will help show theirs by taking care of this curtain.

Seniors Hold Class Meeting

Tuesday morning, November 24th, at the second period, the seniors met in the math room for the purpose of selecting the class ring. The ring committee submitted sample rings from three different firms. The class agreed to buy from Mr. C. N. Woods, a local jeweler.

Lee Brownfield, Vernon Bell, and Tight Graham were appointed to find some home in which the class might have a Christmas party.

Mr. Lawlis was again called to Mineral Wells about 9 o'clock Monday night, November 30, on account of the very critical condition of Mrs. Lawlis.

New 1932 Chevrolet On Display Tomorrow

Chevrolet's new car for 1932 goes on display Saturday at dealer show-rooms throughout the nation.

Embodying silent synchro-mesh transmission in combination with selective free-wheeling, a twenty percent increase in power, top speed of 65 to 70 miles an hour, streamlined bodies and a wealth of other new features, the new car remains in the price range of the current series, the lowest at which a Chevrolet has ever sold.

Heralded as "The Great American Value for 1932," the car boasts more extensive changes than any annual Chevrolet model since the change-over to a six in 1928. Yet changes are mostly refinements over the basic design of the 1931 car which, from the standpoint of public acceptance, was the most successful in the history of the company, and brought Chevrolet first place in the industry during the highly competitive market of the past twelve months.

Practically ever proven automotive feature of recent years is incorporated in the new 1932 Chevrolet, as well as a new "stabilized" front end construction embodied for the first time on any car. Outstanding improvements in the '32 line over last year's models are down-draft carburetion, counter balanced crankshaft, smaller wheels and larger tires, radically changed front end appearance, "finger touch" front seat adjustment, cowl ventilator on all models, hood doors instead of louvers, improved clutch and an additional cross member in the frame.

The 21 domestic plants are now busy producing the new line. The stimulus to employment in the Chevrolet organization, in affiliated Fisher body plants and among independent suppliers made possible by the introduction of the car, it is conservatively estimated, will add to the earnings of 200,000 people.

Twelve standard body styles are in the line this year—three open and nine closed Fisher bodies—all in new Duco color combinations and all with smart new features. In addition, eight models also are available with deluxe equipment, making possible individuality of ownership and providing selection from twenty different types.

Of the mechanical changes, the outstanding one is the new transmission unit, which is entirely Chevrolet-built and is said to combine for the first time in any car the combination of synchro-mesh with simplified free wheeling as standard equipment at no extra cost. Free wheeling is provided by an overrunning clutch, engaged at the discretion of the driver by a control button on the instrument panel. This optional feature enables the driver to utilize the full breaking power of the engine if he desires, and to use the free wheeling feature only when traffic conditions make it desirable.

While the wheelbase remains at 109-inches, the car looks longer than last year, lower, speedier and more powerful—promises borne out by the greatly improved power plant.

The most striking change in exterior appearance is the new front end, which has been completely redesigned this year.

The new "stabilized" front end mounting is an important feature of the new car. In conventional mounting the radiator, fenders and headlamps are supported from the sides of the frame, and in driving over rough roads the front end weaves and vibrates. This is annoying to occupants of the car and frequently results in the origin of squeaks and rattles at points of stress.

In the new Chevrolet, the fenders, radiator and headlamps are carried on a single fender support unit, which is anchored to the center of the front cross-member of the frame. This pivotal anchorage enables the front end to sway with the body as a unit, thus reducing the annoying weaves as well as the possibility of squeaks and rattles developing at points of stress.

EL PASOANS HERE FOR THANKSGIVING

He and Mr. Reiver returned to El Paso Saturday.

TWO BROTHERS, REARED AS GIRLS, ASK COURT ORDER

Two fully grown brothers, of Anderson, Ind., who said they had been reared from birth as girls, have applied for a judicial decree officially designating them as men.

The brothers, Nola Lee and Geneva Armstrong, filed a petition in the circuit court asking permission to assume the Christian names of Noel and Gene. In effect, attorneys said, the action asked the court to designate their sex as masculine.

The story was that their mother, who had six sons, longed for a daughter and masqueraded the two boys as girls until her death. The brothers said in their petition that she dressed them in feminine clothing to satisfy her maternal cravings. Until their mother's death seven years ago the two boys had never worn masculine clothes.

Some of the more intimate friends of the family were aware of their dual life, but there were others who actually believed them to be girls.

WILL THE ARMY-NAVY "OLIGARCHY" RULE?

It is passing strange that a small group of militarists, aided and abetted by the jingo press, can year after year defeat the wishes of the American people. Our army and navy appropriations top those of every other nation, and American taxpayers stagger under the most crushing burden of taxation ever imposed. How much longer are we to be ruled by the army and navy oligarchy?

—Ventura (Cal.) Free Press.

Alpine—12 new stop signs erected at entrances to boulevards.

Among the most astonished persons when the secret was revealed was Arthur Call, an Anderson attorney, who filed the petition. He had visited the Armstrong home several times and had always regarded Geneva and Nola as girls. When they called on him dressed as men he did not recognize them until the situation was explained.

Cotton Delegations Adopt the Texas Plan

Southwide Conference at Mississippi Capitol Quickly Agree to 50 Percent Cut
NO DISSIDENTING VOTES

Dr. Tait Butler, Memphis, Named Chairman of Executive Committee To Carry Message To All Cotton Belt Governors

Without a dissenting vote among eighty accredited delegates at the Governors' South-wide Cotton Conference at Jackson, Mississippi, November 23rd, seeking uniform legislation on acreage reduction, an acreage control law similar in effect to the law now in force in the State of Texas, was chosen as the legislative star to which the cotton growers should hitch their hopes for better days.

Active in the calling of the conference and present taking part in its proceeding were Governors Parnell of Arkansas, Bilbo of Mississippi, Blackwood of South Carolina, and Russell of Georgia. Governors of other states sent specially appointed and personal representatives.

The states of Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Tennessee and Texas were represented in the conference, while messages of co-operation came from the governors of Arizona, Florida and New Mexico.

Resolution Unanimously Adopted

WHEREAS, the conservation of soil fertility, the elimination of plant disease and the prevention of insect damages, as well as the prosperity and happiness of the people of the Southern States, demand a reduction of the acreage now planted to cotton and other soil exhausting plants; and

WHEREAS, the only method of securing such reduced acreage now being generally considered, is by state laws of cotton producing states bearing equally upon all cotton producers; and

WHEREAS, it is imperative that such laws, if adopted, shall be uniform in effect and adopted in states producing not less than 75% of the cotton crop of the entire South; therefore

BE IT RESOLVED, by the Conference of Governors and Members of the Legislature, and other representatives of the Southern States held in Jackson, Mississippi, on November 23rd, 1931, as follows:

SECTION 1. We recommend that an acreage control law similar in effect to the law now in force in the State of Texas be adopted by all cotton producing states, with such modifications of administrative features as will prevent grave injustice to citizens of sections of such states, and we further recommended that the independence and sovereignty of other states in adopting laws securing, at least a fifty per cent reduction of cotton acreage, be respected.

SECTION 2. We recommend that cotton producing states adopting laws securing a reduction of at least fifty per cent in cotton acreage during the years 1932 and 1933 shall repeal such laws unless laws of similar effect are adopted prior to January 20th, 1932, by states producing at least seventy-five per cent of the cotton crop of the South, as shown by the reports of the Federal Census Bureau for the year 1930.

SECTION 3. We urge the Governors of those states that have not enacted laws similar in effect to the law recommended herein to immediately convene their Legislatures for the purpose of enacting laws as provided for in this resolution, to the end that all of the cotton growing states may enact such laws on or before January 20, 1932.

RESOLVED, FURTHER: That the Secretary of the Mississippi conference furnish a copy of this resolution of the Governors of all the cotton growing states and to the press.

Executive Committee Named

To carry on the work of the conference an Executive Committee was named, consisting of Dr. Tait Butler of Memphis, editor of the Progressive Farmer, chairman, and Harry D. Wilson, Commissioner of Agriculture of Louisiana, J. E. McDonald, Commissioner of Agriculture of Texas, E. F. Creekmore, general manager of the American Cotton Co-operative Association, and W. H. Hodges, chairman of the Louisiana Relief Committee. The committee was directed to follow up actively the work of the Conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Don H. Smith of Portales, N. M., were here the past week, visiting her brother, J. L. Dunn and family. The two families visited another sister, Mrs. E. F. Sparks and family at Odessa over the week-end. This was the first time Mr. Dunn had seen his sister at Odessa in about 20 years.

Rev. H. D. Heath was a pleasant visitor at the Herald office recently to renew for the Herald and Star-Telegram.

Mr. North Carolina Florida Kentucky Foster called in last week to renew. He said that is what his initials, N. F. K. stands for.

Meadow Briefs

Last Wednesday the 18th, I mounted the bus and sped away westward for the Zuni Mountains, of N. M. My mission was to bring back a little three and a half year old boy that he might be comfortably cared for during the winter while his mother and father continued to live out a claim in this region.

We had not gone far from Roswell, N. M. before we encountered snow and rain with a stiff north wind. The only occupants of the car was the writer, driver and a little Mexican girl of thirteen.

We reached Alburquerque, N. M., at 6:45 P. M., and boarded a bus for Grant, New Mexico. It was one of the large kind seating some forty people, but on this occasion there was an old woman a man and two children with the driver and myself.

The old lady was above the average size and very much resembled the description of Meg Merillies the Gypsy in Guy Mannering, one of Sir Walter Scotts Novels. She sat down immediately behind the driver, and when the car would lurch forward crossing dips she would grab his chair and pull him backward. He would look back and mumble something but the next lurch she would grab for "leather." We finally stopped at a way station where we were told the car would stop for fifteen minutes and that coffee and other necessary things could be obtained. He then turned on the old lady: Now madam you move your traps from behind me and cease pulling on my chair and quit tramping around or you will fall through that hole in the car. The old girl rose to the occasion and informed him she would fall through the hole if she wished and it was none of his business. She spoke broken English but most of it was easily understood.

I tried to pour oil one the troubled waters but was promptly told to shut up and go back to my seat, which I promptly did—most married men know when they have said enough. However she proceeded to move over on me but I was meek as a mouser.

When I reached Grant about 11 o'clock, it was bitterly cold and no one to meet me. Next morning I found a man who lived near where I was going and he offered me a seat in a converted Ford car truck, and the ascent of the mountains began. It was a long painful process, we glided across some level stretches and laboriously climbed the sharps inclines until in the afternoon some twenty miles from the starting point we reached the Continental Divide, which is marked by a board six feet in length. We had reached about eight thousand feet. On the north side of the highway was an extinct volcano and the legend that a flag pole had occupied the spot for seventy-five years. Piles of lava—which they call mallipi or something like that—filled the low lands and pine pinnons with occasional spruce, grew on the hillsides and valleys.

My companion asked if I had ever seen the Ice Cave and on being informed that I had not, he informed me that it was near by and stopped the car. We walked about two hundred yards at right angles to the road and came on a depression in the bed lava, or it might more appropriately be called a cave in. We descended about thirty feet and underneath a shelving rock, icicles were hanging from the rock overhead while less than twenty feet away in the open vegetation was green. Beyond the icicles there was large bodies of ice. I broke off an icicles about 18 inches in length and devoured a portion but could detect no foreign taste or odor. There was a small pool of water just outside that was not frozen.

I have never heard an explanation of this remarkable phenomenon. There are currents of air through all these piles of lava but there is some chemical changes that reduce temperature at this opening in the Lava Bed. It is one of Natures Freaks that baffles the scientist as well as the ordinary individual.

If told among those who have not seen or heard of it and so easily proven one would be classed along with Gulliver or Barron Munchausen. It's worth going to see if one has the time. It is far more interesting if not so picturesque as the Carlsbad Cavern. The Cavern is easily understood, not so the Ice Cave.

We reached our destination, El Moro, which makes one think of Havana and the Spanish-American War, but it is nothing but a log house sheltering a few groceries and Uncle Sams Mail. Some two miles beyond the store we came on another interesting object, Inscription Rock. It is related that the early Spanish Conquistadors camped here in their meanderings through this territory and inscription dating back to 1609 are to be found on these sand stone columns. The Old Santa Fe Trail also passed through this region.

Many have taken up claims in these mountain valleys and it is really worth taking up by those who will never own one in this country. The valleys are narrow but extremely fertile and grow anything suited to this elevated climate. Irish potatoes, cabbage, beets, wheat, corn, oats and other things that matures in about three months can be grown. The large snow fall with summer showers

Gas Leaks Are Expensive

About 15 per cent of the gas you buy is lost through small leaks in your house piping, according to government experts.

This waste, which is often the cause of high gas bills, may be prevented easily.

A leak that may appear trifling to you will, in the course of a year, increase your bills considerably. A loss of only one cubic foot every 15 minutes will waste almost 3,000 cubic feet in a month.

The waste of gas is considered so very important by the West Texas Gas Company that it spends a large sum annually, in an effort to keep the leakage in distributing systems as low as possible.

How To Find Leaks

On every domestic meter is a dial marked "One Foot" or "Two Feet". This is used for detecting leaks.

Turn off all the fires in your house and note the position of the hand on the small dial of your meter. Then look at it a little while later. If the hand has moved, there is a leak—for the meter will not work unless gas is going through it.

To find just where the leak is located, cover each joint with strong soap suds. If the gas is escaping, it will bubble through the suds. If you then do not know how to fix the leak, call a plumber.

THOUSANDS OF W. O. W. PILGRIMS ATTEND IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES AT NEW CHAPEL

Above is a photograph of the new Woodmen of the World Chapel at San Antonio, Texas. Inset is W. A. Fraser, president, for whom the chapel was named.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 22.—By auto, train, airplane and foot came thousands of members of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance association from nearly every state in the Union to help celebrate the dedication of the William Alexander Fraser chapel and bird sanctuary this afternoon.

The beautiful chapel is on the grounds of the W. O. W. War Memorial hospital a short distance from San Antonio.

From early morning until late in the evening, the exceptionally large number of W. O. W. pilgrims inspected the chapel and bird sanctuary, as well as the hospital and its spacious grounds.

They were thrilled by the masterful oration of U. S. Senator Morris Sheppard, national treasurer of W. O. W., who made the principal address.

National officers of the association took part in the formal dedication of the building, as well as ministers of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths.

The Ninth Infantry band from Fort Sam Houston played. An elaborate program of music included a recital by St. Mark's Church choir, a number by the San Antonio Liederkreis, a feature by the Beethoven Maennerchor and organ recitals by Ben Stanley of Omaha, Nebraska, Walter Dunham and John M. Steinfeldt.

The beautiful chimes of the Chapel lent much atmosphere to the impressive occasion.

Thousands were guests of W. O. W. at a huge barbecue of produce from the farm of the W. O. W. hospital. Many members of the association came as guests of W. O. W., having won their expense to the dedication by special performance in a large membership campaign.

The chapel was named for William Alexander Fraser, president of W. O. W., because of his personal enthusiasm and long devotion to the building of a great W. O. W. center at San Antonio. Mr. Fraser began the task of raising funds to purchase the hospital grounds twenty-five years ago.

Everyone in attendance agreed that Woodmen of the World has contributed much to the wonders of Texas by the unusual architectural design and the unusual physical beauty of the new building.

State Teachers Decry Athletic Ethics Lack

Amarillo, Nov. 28.—The Texas State Teachers Association Saturday adopted a resolution condemning unethical practices in school athletics, and recommending adoption of the eight-semester rule and the one-year transfer rule.

That a committee be appointed to work out standardized fees for officials, and that school boards limit the time devoted to athletic councils were other recommendations for the regulation of high school athletics.

The teachers condemned half-holiday for athletic contests, the proselyting and subsidizing of players, and willful failure of athletes to graduate.

A Panhandle man, Dr. J. A. Hill, today was officially declared president of the state association. It was the first time the association had met in Amarillo. Hill was the first Panhandle man to be elected president. He defeated Dr. A. W. Evans, head of the education department of Texas Technological College, and Superintendent W. D. Weeks of Van Horn. He received two-thirds of 1,100 ballots cast.

The delegates turned down the recommendations of the nominations committee and re-elected Miss Eula Hunter of Fort Worth, a member of the executive committee from the Twelfth District, and B. H. Miller of Eagle Pass from the Fifteenth District. Miller was serving by appointment.

Through other resolutions, the teachers pledged support of the outlawry of war and disapproval of military training in secondary schools; support of an educational campaign in behalf of prohibition; condemned "pernicious cigarette advertisements" and recommend exclusion from the schools of magazines carrying such advertisements.

They urged a secretary of education in the President's cabinet, that education be given its share of radio broadcasting time, equalization of taxes, employment of teachers on the basis of merit and without regard to marriage status; that the week of March 2 be made Texas Week, and that the people of Texas be given an opportunity to vote on an amendment providing for tax-supported libraries and a teachers' retirement fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Don H. Smith of Portales, N. M., were here the past week, visiting her brother, J. L. Dunn and family. The two families visited another sister, Mrs. E. F. Sparks and family at Odessa over the week-end. This was the first time Mr. Dunn had seen his sister at Odessa in about 20 years.

Rev. H. D. Heath was a pleasant visitor at the Herald office recently to renew for the Herald and Star-Telegram.

Mr. North Carolina Florida Kentucky Foster called in last week to renew. He said that is what his initials, N. F. K. stands for.

Attendance and Honor Roll at Junior High

The Brownfield Junior High school is very proud of its record of attendance and its honor roll for the month of November. We realize that there is room for improvement and we are going to have a better report for December.

Our general average in attendance for last month was 92 per cent. When one considers that a great many of the boys and girls were out part of the time pulling bolls or doing other work, this does not sound like such a bad record.

Grade five A was leader in the percent of attendance for the month with an average of 96.6 percent. Five B came second with 93 percent. Six and seven brought up the rear in the matter of attendance. There were entirely too many tardies to suit us. There was a total of 55 for the entire building. There should not have been any. If parents will co-operate with us we feel that this number can be much lessened. The boys and girls should be here on time. That means they should be here not later than 8:45 o'clock each morning. Let's see if we cannot make this matter a little better for December.

The honor roll for November contains forty-eight names. Twenty of these honor roll students come from the seventh grade. Fourteen come from the sixth grade and fourteen from the fifth grade. This is the best record we have shown on the honor roll for this year.

Elray Lewis seems to be setting the pace with an average for the month of 97 7-8; Sam Chisholm gets second place on the list with an average of 96 3-8, and La Rue Barrier comes next on the list with an average of 95 7-8.

Others making the roll are: Lucille Harris, Sallie Stricklin, Iris Lewis, Shariene Graves, James Burnett, J. D. Stewart, Verna Brown, Shirley Bond, Daphne Moore, Charles Michie, Mattie Jo Gracey, Bill Joe McGowan, Wendell Smith, Barbara Henson, John Jr. McLeod, Ruth Brazelton, Virginia May and Melvin Spear for the seventh grade.

In the sixth grade we have Mildred Adams, Betty Jo Savage, Lucille McSpadden, Joe Bob Burnett, Ralph Jeter, T. I. Brown, Barton McPherson, Kathleen Perry, Albert Bell, Jim Shelton, Vernal Brothers, Beatrice Perry and John S. Gathings.

The following names appear on the fifth grade list: Olivia Barrier, Vondie Lewis, Florene Williamson, Nellie Johnson, Doris Lee Gore, Shirley Burnett, Helen Quante, Billie Graves, Thelma Ferne Harris, Faye Hogfee, Hazel Brown, Marjorie Sue Bynum, Texana Woodbridge and Guy Tidwell.

The faculty and student body are proud of this list. We are hoping to make it more impressive as the months roll by.

WELLMAN P. T. A. MEETING

American Education week was observed when the following interesting program was given Nov. 27.

"America, The Beautiful"—Audience. Prayer—Mr. J. J. Woodard. "Educating for Worthy Home Membership"—Gracie Moon. Piano Solo—Margaret Schroeder. Quartet—Misses Chisholms from Brownfield. "Educational Address"—Rev. Drennon; Duet—Miss Hardin; Benediction by Mr. C. A. Wilhite.

The program rendered to an attentive audience. We would have liked to have had more mothers and fathers out. Some of the members attended the meeting of the County Council at Meadow.

It was moved and seconded that the Certificate of Standardization be formed.

Lumber Shipments Ahead of Production

Austin, Texas, Nov.—Little change occurred in the Southern pine lumber industry during October except for the sharp decline in the average unfilled orders per mill, it was indicated by the report of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Average weekly production per unit was only 197,500 feet, or .6 per cent under the September figure, and was the lowest for the year. Production schedules continued practically one-third behind those for the corresponding month in 1930. "Average weekly shipments per mill gained .7 per cent over those for September, and were 19 per cent less than those in October, 1930," the report said. "The ratio of shipments to production, however, made a much better showing during October this year than it did in the corresponding month in 1930. Shipments are now running about 20 per cent ahead of production.

"Unfilled orders declined gradually throughout October, the average unit losing 20 per cent during the month. At 471,500 feet on October 31, average unfilled orders per unit were 34 per cent under those at the end of October last year."

Ed Evans, who works at the Home Gin, was in this week to renew for the Herald and Star-Telegram. Mr. Evans has out 39 bales of his own cotton.

Farmers Endorsing Our Road Article

In many counties when a bond issue for good roads is to be put over, one of the first things that is done is to organize a Good Road Committee, and these in turn appoint speakers to go to the highways and byways, the school houses and community centers of the county to speak to the farm population, for it is they that have to be convinced that the thing is good if they succeed in putting over the issue by the required two-thirds majority. Many weeks perhaps are spent on just such a campaign, and when the vote is turned in, maybe it is defeated by a small majority, usually by a few rural boxes.

But in Terry county, this order of procedure seems to be in reverse. We believe that if a good road issue is ever put over in Terry county, it will have to be initiated in some of the rural communities, and Educational Speakers will have to be appointed from among the rural residence to educate the town people about the value of good roads. We have two reasons for saying this. Not a man living within the corporate limits of Brownfield had one comment, ya or nay about our article last week. We really expected some town people to comment on it favorably or unfavorably. But to be perfectly frank, we expected most of the opposition to be developed in the rural communities, if there were any opposition expressed. We know there are people opposed to all bonds issues whether in or out of town, and these people don't all live in town or in the country. This is certainly their privilege and their right. They have purchased a poll tax and are property tax-payers and have as much right to their opinion as we.

On the other hand, a number of farmers have favorably commented on the article on the streets when they met us. At least four of the most prominent farmers of the county made special trips to the printing office to voice their support and endorsement of the article. They are all men of means and influence in their communities. This is reason No. 1 why we believe that rural people will have to take the lead in road building in Terry county. The second reason is that when bonds were voted to pave around the courthouse a number of rural communities gave the heaviest majorities for it. Indeed, we believe one made it unanimous. Practically all of them gave a heavier majority than did Brownfield, although Brownfield was to benefit the most from the bond issue.

Anyway we thank these good farmers for their interest in the matter, and their candid expression. Others are invited whether favorably to ours or not, either orally or are for these columns. We are also sure that many people right in Brownfield or in Meadow are for good roads, but have neglected or not interested sufficiently to express their opinions.

GARFIELD ANNIVERSARY

November 19 marks the 100th anniversary of the birth of James Abraham Garfield, twentieth President of the United States and the second chief executive of the nation to meet death at the hands of an assassin.

Garfield's early life was spent on a farm in Ohio, where the poverty of his family and lack of opportunities in that day prevented his obtaining much schooling as a boy. He worked on a canal boat and as a carpenter finally being able to attend Williams College, from which he was graduated in 1856. He was president of Hiram Institute from 1857 to 1861, and served as a member of the Ohio State Senate.

He was made lieutenant colonel of volunteers at the outbreak of the Civil War and rose to the rank of major general. He left the army to become a Congressman from Ohio in 1863, serving as such until his inauguration as President in 1881.

On July 2, 1881, after less than four months in the White House, President Garfield was shot at a railroad station in Washington by Charles J. Guiteau, a disappointed office-seeker, and died from the effects of the wound on September 19, at Elberon, N. J. Guiteau was hanged on June 30, 1882.

While a Congressman, Garfield was accused with others of accepting a bribe in connection with the Credit Mobilier, a financial enterprise, but no corruption was ever proved, and it is generally believed that the charge was false. In any event, it did not prevent his election to the presidency, although the rumor was used against him during the campaign. He received 214 electoral votes, while General Hancock, his Democratic opponent, received 155.

Garfield's short time as President was marked by a bitter controversy over appointments with leaders of his own party, and their attacks on him were thought by many to have influenced his assassin. Upon his death he was succeeded in office by Vice-President, Chester A. Arthur.
