Brownfield Gets Huge Feed Pens

STEERS BROUGHT FROM OLD MEXICO RANCH

Hearst Ranch Interests To Give Feeding A Trial Operation Here. If A Success, It Will Mean Much To Terry County Farmers.

What may prove one of the greatest things we have had in many years almost handed up on a silver platter, was made known this week when Mr. Leon Goodman, of Midland, Texas, representing the great William Randolph Hearst newspaper syndicate, of New York and Los Angeles, put a proposition before the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Goodman, we will state, only represents the Cattle and Ranch interests of Mr. Hearst, and has had many years experience in feeding cattle both in the north and California.

At this time no deal has been closed, but we understand that the Hearst interests have had their eyes on Terry county for some time as a feed producing center with a minimum of feed crop failures, and Mr. Goodman has finally convinced them that this is the section to start their experiments. They propose to put in cattle feeding pens near Brownfield that will handle about 4000 cattle at a time, and as fast as 1000 of these are fattened, they are shipped out and another 1000 from the ranches shipped in.

They propose to buy all their material for the pens, stack lots, etc., which at present will cover from 20 to 30 acres of ground from local lumber dealers and use local carpenters and local men in the feeding operations, and pay them with checks on local banks.

Not only that, but it will create a market for corn and feed where there is none now. The only thing he asks of the town is to get 6000 tons of corn, and 4,000 tons of bundle stuff pledged by the farmers in Terry county, to be delivered and paid for when the feeding operations start. Mr. Goodman says that after he will take care of matters himself, and do his own engaging.

The more you think of the matter, the better it sounds for our people. It will not be just a temporary affair, but will last perhaps throughout the year, and for years to come. Mr. Goodman also stated that as they experimented with feeding in this section, that the pens and amount of cattle handled at a time will be enlarged.

We will not know for sure for a day or two whether we get the pens or not, as several committees are out in the county to see if they can get the initial 10,000 tons of feed pledged.

Since the above was written last week, these huge feeding pens have been secured for certain. All the above article was intended to be run in the Herald last week, but when we got ready to go to press, the article had to be killed, as it looked like last Thursday morning that we were going to let the opportunity pass through our fingers. It seems that the committees sent out to engage corn and bundle higeria had some trouble, as some of the farmers there was a graft in the proposition somewhere, and rather than keep on in the face of this, some of the committees came in and gave it up as a bad job.

There were other towns wanting the pens, and Midland, the home town of Mr. Goodman, and of which he is mayor, was especially anxious for it, but he had already found that Terry county is the center of the feed growing section of the South Plains, and he wanted the pens located here, and especially since he had persuaded Mr. Hearst to try out the feeding proposition in this section, he wanted it to be a success. Since Midland might have had to ship in a lot of feed, as there are many cattle in that section, Mr. Goodman decided to come on here anyway and buy his own feed without any pledges.

With Mr. Goodman here this week, was Mr. J. M. Barbee, manager of the Babiera ranch, belonging to the Hearst interests at Madera, State of Chihuahua, Old Mexico. It is said that Mr. Hearst has alone, 45,000 mother cows on this huge 900,000 acre ranch. It is our understanding now that high grade Hereford steers will be shipped in here to feed. Mr. Barbee was helping Mr. Goodman to plan the pens, buy the lumber and get the pens started in order that the initial shipment of 5000 steers might reach here not later than December 1st if possible. Mr. Goodman, as stated above has had lots of experience in feeding cattle, and will personally superintend the feeding operations here. As soon as 1000 of these young steers are ready to ship, another replacement will be shipped in. If this experimental feeding proves to be what Mr. Goodman as well as Mr. Barbee believes, it is said the feeding operation here will be enlarged from time to time.

A huge crusher of the hammer type, capable of converting from seven to ten tons per hour into feed, will be installed at the pens. Local carpenters and local men will be given work on the pens and in the feeding operations, after the pens are completed. Pen grounds of 20 acres were secured from Ray Brownfield, and lay just west of the Brownfield feeding pens.

As we stated above, as this is an experimental operation, we can never tell where it will stop. Besides an encouragement to local ranchmen and farmers to feed, other big concerns may decide to locate feeding pens here, and in the end, Brownfield may be in a class with some of the big corn belt towns as a feeder center. Not only that, but right now it is going to give our farmers a market for corn and other feeds where they had none. It is our understanding that they will get practically the same price for corn here now as if it were shipped to Fort Worth and the freight paid. Many of our farmers who were in the hail belt will not drag a sack in their cotton fields, but they have a big surplus of unsaleable feed.

The Herald joins the other business men of the city as well as our farmers in welcoming this concern to our town and country.

Practically every dry goods store in Brownfield now has a big sale on, and although they have been having a good business, most of them have decided that they have over bought what the condition and price of the crop will stand, and have decided to unload regardless of profits. Of course this will be good for the buyer, as these goods are reasonable and new, and the prices compared to a mere two years ago will almost make you think you have stolen them.

The Jones store had the Herald print several thousand circulars for them two weeks ago, and they report a real sale, and still going good. This week, we printed a great lot of circulars for the Clyde Lewis store, and they will open up Friday with a real storewide sale, and with real cut prices. Read their ad in this issue of the Herald.

Sales Galore Are Going On In Brownfield

The Collins store is also running a sale, and the Cobb Department store starts this week with one. Both stores have also cut to the quick, and if you are looking for bargains in dry goods, get in the old jitney and hike for Brownfield.

W. S. Brown of the Brown Tailor Shop, was in this week and informed us that it was mighty hard on him to stay here and his wife at Mineral Wells where she is teaching. She will complete her Master's degree at Tech next summer, and they hope to get a school nearer Brownfield.

The Hands That Rock the Cradle---

Some Mighty Sorry Cotton In Old Terry

Mr. and Mrs. K. B. McWilliams started out for a spin Sunday afternoon and invited the writer and Kyle Graves to occupy the back seat both as ballast and back seat drivers. Mack is known to be a guy who does not hesitate frequently as a driver, and we understand he needs two besides his wife to dispense advice on how to best navigate turns and corners. But, his friend wife said he (Smack McWilliams) did unusually well Sunday afternoon, and was not called down more than two dozen times by all hands.

Our (root) and if route spells (root) we are a Chinaman, lay over old 137 to Meadow, then to the Lee Walker place west, and south into Brownfield. There is some good cotton on the route, but none that will make what was hoped for a month ago, and there are many fields that were hailed out in July and replanted in cotton that will not have a sack dragged through them. Those hundreds of big bolls that fairly bent the large stalks a few weeks ago are now drying up like a washwoman's thumb, and a few drops of water can still be squeezed out of them. Those heavy rains of September and October played hailey with cotton crop in Terry county, especially the late cotton, and hurt all of it.

But corn! Man it is here like that which grows in the river bottoms back east. Bushels, barrels and tons, anyway you wish to measure it. Acres, thousands of acres, tens of thousand of acres, still waiting the man with the mules and wagons to gather it. If turned into red licker, it would not only souse, but drown all the people in the state of Rhode Island, according to a local statistician. Thousands of bushels of it is being burned as fuel, and they haven't enough stack lots in Delaware to hold the binded feed.

The lot of us dropped in on old man T. M. Dobbs, who says he is batching, but we saw plenty company around every available empty crib and grainery. He has more Mexican cotton pickers than you can shake a stick at. We were invited out to see his hogs, and he has a lot of good ones. Not for show purposes, but to make meat and lard, and he is gradually adding good blood to the herd. He is now trying a cross between the Poland and Red that is proving to be a good around hog. About 50 real youngsters were scattered about the premises, but he has

Have To Cut-off Subscribers—But Listen

The past week we went over our subscription list and sent out a notice to all whose papers have already expired, or will expire any time up to December 1st, this year. We found that nearly 400 are due us a dollar, and in several cases, we found out our dismay that there are a lot on the list whose papers expired in 1931, and in one or two cases even back of that. These people, or many of them, have asked us to continue their papers, and we have been faithful to do so, even though we were sometimes pinched to find cash to pay paper and ink bills. They must come. Also, our grocery men and dry goods men somehow insist that we pay them every month, regardless, and our bankers appear to have all our paper they want without overdrafts.

Inasmuch as we have sacrificed to keep the Herald going to you, won't you do your part to help us now. Tax paying time is coming on, and we'll have to pay them. We are going to wait until the first of December, and then all who are as much as a year behind will be clipped from our list, as we can no longer carry this burden. Sorry, but business is business. Others will be carried a little longer. This applies only to Terry and Yoakum county people. Those elsewhere have always been cut off when their time expired and they were given notice.

It will be like losing old friends to cut a lot of you off. But we are not begging you for any donation. We are merely asking you for what you certainly owe us.

Let's see who will be first to keep their obligations?

Terry county will not make more than half the cotton it made last year, but has one of the biggest corn and feed crops on record.

one or two brood sows that are getting so big they'll their pigs and he will have to sell them.

He is also gradually eliminating his Jersey herd and breeding up a milk Durham herd. This herd is headed by a mighty fine red Durham male. Mr. Dobbs does not sell cream, but his farm has a reputation on the production of a prime butter, which has a fine sale locally. He says that a good milk Durham will produce more milk and as much butter as a Jersey, and that the surplus males are worth something as beef.

Interest In Blooded Cattle Being Revived

Clyde Briley bought in a male Hereford calf last Friday which was purchased by Red Tudor, and will be put out on the Tudor stock farm from which Red hopes to produce some fine stuff in the near future. This calf was seven months old and weighed 675 pounds. There was not a blemish about the animal, and was as near perfect type of the white face calf as one ever sees. Mr. Tudor has a nice little herd of thorough bred Hereford heifers, and will add to the herd. The calf which he purchased from Clyde is out of a $375 cow, and an $850 bull. This herd of Red's will be watched with interest.

And talking about Hereford steer yearlings, Ray Brownfield now has several hundred head on feed near the stock pens. Real feeding operations have not started as yet, as the calves are running on a stalk field for the present, but as soon as that gives out, they will be confined to closer quarters, and Terry county corn and other feeds poured to them. Ray is taking a great interest in feeding out cattle from his big ranch, and is welcoming all other feeders who wish to do so, to locate here.

Ray is enough of a business man to know that the more cattle, sheep and hogs that are fed out here, the greater will become our market, as it will bring buyers here that would not visit us otherwise. These men will not come as buyers of range cattle as heretofore, to be shipped north and finished, but to buy a finished product for the many packeries of the United States.

While we are on the subject of feeding proposition, we wish to mention K. W. Howell, who confines his business monthly to swine. He buys, fattens and sells hundreds of carloads of porkers each year, which bring thousands of dollars back to Terry county. While hogs, like cattle, are not bringing much of a price just now, they bring something, and every dollar is a dollar these days.

Don't forget the big carnival at the Gomez school Friday night, and Saturday afternoon and night, Nov. 25-26. Fun for everybody—lots of prizes. Come.

Mrs. Dick Denton, of the Willow Wells community was up this week and obtained supplies to write for the Herald from that community. We ask that the people of the community assist her all they can.

"The Washington Masquerade" Has Powerful Appeal

Lionel Barrymore Tops All Previous Roles as Vivid Political Leader.

Lionel Barrymore, as a brilliant, domineering leader who rules men, but is in turn ruled by a woman who almost plunges him to ruin, is the unique figure of a unique story in "The Washington Masquerade," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's sensational drama of national politics opening Sunday at Rialto Theatre.

Barrymore probably never had a greater role. In "The Claw," on the stage, he made the role theatrical history. In the "The Claw," on the modernized and with authentic inside facts added by Samuel G. Blythe, famous political writer who collaborated with John Meehan, he has a mighty portrayal. In his speech before the senate he even outdoes his famous work in "A Free Soul."

Karen MORLEY and Lionel BARRYMORE in "THE WASHINGTON MASQUERADE"

Karen Morley Scores

An elaborate cast surrounds Barrymore. Karen Morley, who played with him in "Arsene Lupin," scores as the wily charmer, employed by lobbyists to keep the recalcitrant senator under control. Nils Asther is effective as the suave foreign affairs lobbyist, whose love affair with the wife finally precipitates the astounding denouement.

Charles Brabin, who directed "Sporting Blood," "Beast of the City" and other recent hits, directed the new story, presenting Barrymore in a "Barrymore-sized" role.

Cotton Ginnings Reveal Decline

Washington, Nov. 21.—Cotton of this year's growth ginned prior to Nov. 14, was reported today by the census bureau to have totaled 10,532,745 running bales, counted as half bales, and 5,075 bales of American-Egyptian.

To that date last year 14,207,613 bales, including 484,680 round bales and 6,184 bales of American Egyptian, had been ginned.

Texas led all other states with 3,448,736 bales.

Few perhaps knew it, but those who retired late last Wednesday night, the 16th, saw it snowing, if they were outdoors about eleven P. M. All gone Thursday morning.

TOKIO

The local Baptist church sponsored a box supper on Thursday of the week, the proceeds of which go to the piano fund. According to the report of the treasurer of the church, Mr. Norman Lovelace, approximately thirty-eight dollars was taken in. A large number was present and a pleasant evening was had by all.

Little James Calvin Sappenfield, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Sappenfield, was taken to Lubbock on Thursday of this week for medical attention. The ailment was pronounced by physicians as a serious spinal trouble. The baby has been taken back to its home in Tokio.

At this writing (November 20) the local gin has turned out eight hundred and forty bales of cotton. Taking into consideration the number of bales which it is estimated have been taken to Brownfield over one thousand bales have been harvested in this particular section of Terry and Yoakum counties.

Among local visitors in Brownfield Saturday were E. K. Roper and family, Hugh Snodgrass and family, Ted Anderson, Grady Bridge and wife, John Pfrimmer, Virgil Eily and family, and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Odell Heal, teachers in the Lahey community were visiting relatives in Tokio Sunday.

At the local Baptist church Sunday school meeting Sunday morning it was decided to prepare a special Thanksgiving program to be given on Thursday evening of the week following.

The Sunday school of the Nazarine church was well attended Sunday afternoon. After the classes, Mrs. Boucher made a short speech on 'Looking of Christ,' which was followed by comment by the pastor, Mrs. B. M. Wade.

If pleasant weather prevails during the next eight or ten days, approximately seventy-five percent of the cotton in this section will be out. With such situation existing, we believe that school could be started at that time as well as any other part of the year. If school could be taken

LITTLE THEATRE GROUP TO PRESENT ANOTHER PLAY

A little theatre group of Brownfield will begin work within a few days on a delightful comedy, which they are to present at the high school auditorium on a date in December. The play will be staged under the auspices of and for the benefit of the P. T. A. and the proceeds will go to complete payment on the high school piano. The play will be directed by Mrs. M. L. Penn.

You'll delight in this play of Christine's wayside refreshment stand. It's full of catchy comedy. Sometimes it's Homer Bird, blundering adoringly after cute Etta, that gets the laughs. Sometimes it's Phyllis and Drusilla, drinking their way through the list of soda pop, that touch the funny bone. But whoever it is, there's always laughter.

The comedy offers interesting contrasting roles on those of Mr. Angus and Mr. Beasley; the one polished and successful, and the other blundering and inefficient. The real center of interest is Christine. She rented the land for her refreshment stand from Mrs. Van Dyke's agent, and when Mrs. Van Dyke, unwilling to have anything so "low-brow" as a stand on her property, sets out to dispossess Christine, she finds that she has a person to deal up at about December 5th or 12th, opening each morning at eight and turning out each afternoon at two-thirty or three, thus allowing the children to go home and work in the field, we believe the cotton could be gathered as economically as otherwise. With school opening at an early date it would make it possible for the session to be ended early in May so that the boys could take part in the planting of next year's crops. If you believe that it would be better to open sometime early in December, see the local board of trustees who have the interest of the community at heart.

The Nazarine Young People's society held an interesting meeting Sunday evening. It was followed by a short sermon by Mrs. B. M. Wade.

At a recent election in the Nazarine church, Mrs. Luther Johnson was elected superintendent of the Sunday school and Miss Wilma Comestock was elected secretary.

The B. Y. P. U. of the local Baptist church held its usual well attended meeting Sunday evening.

Canning Gets More Action This Summer

More than five million tin cans of fruits and vegetables and a million and a half jars of fruits have been preserved by the women of some 18 counties in Lubbock's trade territory over the South Plains, based on estimates made by home demonstration agents and others in touch with the situation.

Value of the food preserved is estimated at over $1,675,000, based on an average of 25 cents per quart.

Does Not Include Meats

These totals do not include the probable canning of meats, beef and pork and also chicken, this winter.

Eight of the 18 counties included in the estimate have home demonstration agents. These women are preparing their figures now for annual reports, based on reports to them of pantry demonstrators and co-operators.

Last year 365 4-H pantry demonstrators and 3,756 co-operators in 22 counties in district No. 2 of the extension service, preserved 2,135,171 quarts of canned products, valued at $616,955.07. Total preserved by these women, including cured meats and dried fruits was $765,943.52. The same year 280 garden demonstrators and 3,094 co-operators sold, consumed and canned $253,136.93 worth of vegetables from their gardens. Total was $1,019,080.45.

Majority Distributed Here

Between 40 and 50 car loads of cans and jars were sold this season in these counties, the greater part coming through Lubbock wholesale houses or houses connected with houses represented here. Besides this, a large amount was trucked in from other towns outside the territory.

Lubbock county is leading the estimated number of cans and glass jars sold, approximately 1,200,000, with Hale county reporting 1,100,000 second.

Yoakum, Gaines and Cochran counties, sparsely populated, have the smallest number. None of the trio have county agents, but a woman is at work at Morton instructing farm women and others, how to can.

City Women Can Also

The work has not been confined to farm women alone. Agents report many city women making inquiries about canning processes, etc.

By counties, the estimates are:

BROWNFIELD EDITOR VISITOR IN TAHOKA

A. J. Stricklin, editor of the Terry County Herald, and his son, Jack, who is also interested in the publication of that splendid journal, were visitors in the News office last Friday. They had started to Post to witness a football game but got no farther than Tahoka, due to a couple of punctures. Mr. Stricklin has been editing and publishing the Herald since the time when the memory of man runneth not to the contrary and he is serving his town as well as his day and generation well. And the way the business men of Brownfield back him up must be a delight to his soul, for he usually has an eight-page paper even during these stressful times.—Tahoka News.

Elder M. O. Daley and wife, accompanied by N. W. Jones, went to Hobbs, N. M., Monday to see a nephew of Elder Daley, who was in a gas explosion about a week before. While badly bruised, the injured man is said to be recovering. Another worker standing near was killed.

Letters From the People

Dear Editor:

The two reproduced editorials from the Houston Post Dispatch were good. Right now we are faced by the first since the organization of the Legion against veterans benefits by the National Economy League. The only way to arouse the veterans to the menace of this organization is to launch a counter-offensive against it and do it NOW.

The National Economy League is organized down to a chairman in each county. It is highly financed by a group of war profiteers who induced several World War veterans to become officers in it. All of their propaganda refers to their organization as "figures put out by a group of veterans." Al Smith's article in the Saturday Evening Post never mentioned the name of the group he quoted. Why? Nearly everyone of them is drawing either a pension or retirement pay, all the way from $45000 for Admiral Byrd to $21,000 for General Pershing. They even mentioned the fact that any of them draw a government pension but talk about the little fellow who draws $12 a month disability allowance being cut off for "economy."

I suggest that the Legion News get "the low-down" on these fellows who have so suddenly become interested in "saving the government from the treasury raiding veterans" from congressman Wright Patman, who has it all for his use at the convening of congress in December, and publish it in full. Why be afraid to publish the sinister motive behind this move? If The Legion News doesn't show fight how does it expect us fellows to show any? It has to arm us with truthful and righteous information. Too many of the fellows now drawing disability allowance will hardly admit it. When forced to speak of it do it in an apologetic manner. Why? Because so many citizens and tax payers have been poisoned against veterans benefits.

Every veteran draws disability allowance should get in the Legion and help combat the Economy League. All benefits have been secured through the concerted efforts of the Legion and other veterans organizations. The first objective of the League is to cut off in to all drawing disability allowance, then all hospital privileges. After this is done then they will work on cutting the service connected men fifty per cent. The service connected men must stay with the non-service. If the non-service or disability allowance men are cut off, they will then refuse to support the service connected men and they will get a flat fifty per cent reduction in compensation. One of the principal things the League has in mind is to split the two classes drawing benefits, weaken the Legion, diminish its membership, and whip it. Every veteran drawing either compensation or disability allowance owes it to the Legion to join and fight for his own protection.

The disabled veteran should remember that he is largely supported and protected by the membership of the able-bodied men who are not drawing a red dime. The able-bodied men outnumber six to eight, or possibly ten to one, the disabled. If a veteran who is drawing either compensation or disability is not interested enough in continuing to draw his check by joining the Legion, the able-bodied veteran will say: "He is drawing—not me—I don't get a crying dime—if he will not join the Legion and fight for himself, why should I worry about him?" Which is exactly right and exactly what he will do.

The public will not have confidence in this Economy League when it knows that Byrd, Pershing, Sims, Roosevelt's mother and brother, and others draw big pensions when they cry about cutting off the little $12 a

THANKSGIVING

Some had meat, and some had Turkey to eat. And some there was that wanted it. We had meat and turkey to eat, so we thanked the Lord for it.

And we who had meat should feel no guilt in our enjoyment. For ever dollar spent these days, puts some one to work, and to that extent lessens the number of the needy unemployed.

Then why not have that NEW LIVING ROOM SUIT, and those odd pieces to enjoy as you linger with your family and discuss the Christmas shopping? Today's low prices are sound arguments for your prompt action.

month private. It costs $35,000 an hour for an N. B. C. radio speech. The League has two or three speakers each week for half an hour over the N. B. C. Who pays for this? Who got the money out of the war? Who pays the income tax—the tax that mostly pays the veterans' expenses?

The most defensive weapon the veteran has is a big Legion membership. Congress is afraid of votes. Also the Legionnaires might be told that Sen. Connelly, who voted against the bonus, was a member of congress during the war. He was commissioned a captain and drew his salary as a congressman, which at that time was $7500.

H. E. McBride, local superintendent of State Highways, was in Saturday afternoon to renew for his Herald. He stated that they were building some mighty good caliche roads west of town, and we are going out with him to see them some of these afternoons.

Williamson & Draper received a contract this week to build 3690 feet of feeding troughs for the Hearst interests. They will be built of unfinished lumber, and will be 3 feet wide and one foot in depth. Nearly three quarters of a mile of troughs.

Mrs. Tom Thompson, accompanied by her daughter, Christine and baby, were in Monday and reported they had out 11 bales of cotton. They will not get as many bales as they thought a month ago.

Rev. W. L. Porterfield, who is preaching for the Methodist church at Plains, was in one day recently to become a regular reader. He is trying to finish his education while holding down charges, and will likely attend Tech college again next summer.

Mrs. J. L. Davis has leased the Smith Hotel from R. Barrier, and will have charge of it from now on.

As Purple T. C. U. Norther Put Longhorns to Rout

The weather was bad for Texas Longhorns at Fort Worth Friday. A rip-roaring norther in the form of purple clad gridiron warriors of T. C. U. swept them aside to score twice, while the Longhorns battled the Purple wind with little or no avail all the way. Texas forwards were of firm belief, after the game, that they had played against an opposing line of seven tigers, instead of seven men. So was Texas' all-star backfield of this belief, for that matter. In the picture Red Oliver heads low for a gaping hole in the Longhorn line. Oliver rose to new heights Friday, and the Horned Frog team now stands firmly on the pinnacle of the Southwest Conference ladder.

And remember, this is the time to buy your dry goods, for the local merchants are certainly offering bargains. And other lines are sold proportionally. You will save money by coming to Brownfield for your needs.

The Herald is certainly glad to see the effort that is being made in Terry county to increase the purity of not only the livestock, but the poultry herds as well. It takes no more feed for a thoroughbred than a scrub, and a third more fat can be put on the better breed with the same feed. Also, a good grade fowl will lay a third more eggs with the same amount of care.

On account of drouth in the wheat section of the Panhandle and South Plains section in the fall, only about 60 to 75 percent of wheat was sown corresponding to the same time last year. It is a pity they did not get all the big rains we had in September and October to plant their wheat. We would certainly have made a better cotton crop. But the weatherman knew just where he wanted to empty his water barrels whether it suits us or not.

The two farmers way down in Georgia who wired Henry Ford an offer of a bet of a 201 acre farm against a Model V-8 Ford that Roosevelt would be elected, never did hear from Ford. As a special inducement, the farmers offered odds by wire of a cow named "Prosperity" along with her calf "Moratorium," but this still did not interest "Hanry." But it does look like he would have backed his judgment against two, common, ordinary, Georgia farmers.

At this section becomes more and better known as a feeder section, every effort should be made by the Chamber of Commerce and other leaders to secure a cottonseed oil mill for Brownfield, as that is one feature of the feeding business that we do not have right here on the grounds. It takes a certain amount of cottonseed meal or cake to balance the ration for feeders, we understand, and if a mill of even small capacity could be secured to start with, it would be a great help.

Contract is to be let Monday at Austin on grading and draining highway No. 137 from here to the Hockley county line, this side of Ropesville, and at the same time will be let on the road from there to the Lubbock county grading. Those in charge here and at Lubbock believe that the grading and drainage contract will be let early in December from here to the Gaines county line about two miles this side of Seagraves. This is another thing that is

A Hnge Task Before The Nation This Winter

While we of the rural sections, and especially this section of the good old U. S. A. will not see much of the bite of cold and the gnaw of hunger like they will in the large cities and even in the thickly populated rural districts in the east and north, we are going to see some. And we as well prepare to meet it. The main burden will be placed upon the cities of course, and they are preparing as never before. This is no time for a shirker. People are not only subscribing well to the Red Cross, but to their community chests as well.

This will make the third winter for some of the people in the industrial centers to be out of employment, and of course what little they had laid aside has now either been spent or has about played out. Many of their children are too near naked to attend school; they are ragged and under nourished. Contrasted with that, most all our people who are able to work, have had more or less work this year, and their graineries, pantries and cellars are bulging with food. They have made and sold enough cotton, poultry, cream and other products to buy warm clothing for the winter, and the kids are in school.

Therefore, while it may not be our duty to help any city raise its community chest, its our duty to renew our allegiance to the Red Cross in order to help that organization in national calamities and extreme cases of hunger and cold. Therefore, we believe that our Red Cross Chapter should be revived, and get some one started to see all who can possibly spare a dollar and get their badge as a member. Chris Quante had charge of the matter last year, but he told us that he received very little encouragement. What if Brownfield and Terry county was the next place to face the grim horror of hunger going to give a lot of work to Terry county people, as soon after the grading operation, contracts will be let for the caliche and the hot topping on this long stretch of highway. It will certainly be a great help just when help is most needed. Terry county people do not want charity; they do not like begging and borrowing. What they want is something to do with a little pay attached, and they'll come through alright.

It is sincerely to be hoped that President Hoover and Gov. Roosevelt in their meeting this week will be in agreement, and will put at rest all further attempts of European nations of raiding the United States treasury. Both in their recent campaigns, said they were strictly opposed to cancellation, and reading between the lines, are getting fed up on extensions and moratoriums. Those nations owe us a just debt, and should pay it. This money was not United States government money at all, but was borrowed from the American people by our government and loaned to Europe in good faith. Every one of us poor devils who had to raise money to buy war saving stamps and liberty bonds or be called slacker, know what that meant. At the same time we were living on corn pone and molasses, while these borrowing nations were eating our wheat and sugar.

and cold? We never have applied for any kind of outside aid in this county, but we never can know when we will. It is true that some got seed and feed loans this year, but this will have to be returned as it was borrowed money. However, we understand that the Red Cross has considerable flour left yet to be given to cities for the poor, and we do not think it would be amiss to apply for a few thousand pounds of it in case we have some that will need assistance this winter. Some few will perhaps have to have clothing and fuel. But as a whole, very little help will be required from people who have been here all the year.

If the nation is divided politically, religiously and otherwise, this seems to be one year in which all clans and factions are united against hunger and cold of the poor. The newspapers, the pulpit and the public speakers are lending their columns and talents without stint. A few night ago, one of the big National broadcasting chains gave one hour to raising community chests, in which they used every star performer they had, who also gave their time.

To use the language of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was speaking of balancing the Federal budget, "whether we are able to balance this budget or not at this time, we shall not let any citizen of the United States starve or die of exposure to cold."

The Alexander Drug store reports that they had a wonderful Rexall sale last week-end. They were rushed at their One Cent Sale until far into the night Saturday, which was the last day.

Assessor T. C. Hogue was in to see us this week. His hard work is over now until spring.

Ben Broughton Has Some Good Syrup

Last Saturday, our good friend, Ben Broughton of the Gomez community, presented the Herald with a half gallon can of syrup he made on the farm this year. He said, "Jack, I know they make good syrup in east Texas, for I have helped to make them down there. But I want you to take these home with you and try them, and if they are not as good as any you ever tasted, just frankly tell me so. I know you would not tell me they were good unless they really were."

When we first carried them home, the lady of the house was not feeling well, recovering from flu. But by Monday, she was able to eat some good hot biscuits, and had some good butter on the table. We had the time to try the Broughton syrup, and we are now ready to pronounce our verdict. Frankly, we want to tell the readers that we never did eat sweeter, better tasting syrup in our lives. Not the least touch of that "strong" taste to them, and as clear as honey, although thick enough to keep in the hottest weather. If you want to get some real good syrup, you will make no mistakes in visiting the Broughton farm.

But—and here is the sad story. Ben announced that he guessed this would be about the last year that he would ever try making syrup as east Texas syrup had been shipped in and the price cut so low that he could not afford to meet the prices. Farmers are thrown to a great disadvantage here on account of high fuel prices.

But, we have eaten sorghum syrup from here to the pine woods of north Mississippi and southern Tennessee, whose white sand cutover lands are said to be the finest in the world for sorghum, and they have nothing on Ben Broughton's syrup.

Spur Bulldogs made out a claim this week that inasmuch post had some ineligible players, the Cubs would have to play them. At a meeting of the district officers of the league at Lubbock this week, Spur lost in its protest.

Ralls is putting on a Poultry show this week. About time we were having another.

The No-No Bird

By Col. Bill Talbot

There has been a recent discovery—a new kind of bird. It is the No-No bird and flies backwards. The fool bird doesn't want to see where he is going—just wants to know where he has been. There are a lot of us right now in Texas that can be compared to the No-No. We know where we have been, but do we know where we are going?

The only sure indication of a return to normal is when commodity prices increase in value. The uptrend started in July and, with few fluctuations, has continued to improve. If we could face the situation sanely and determined to do something about it, we could materially hasten recovery in our own State. The time has come when we must stop thinking of our individual prosperity and think of people as a whole because we can only be prosperous in proportion to their prosperity.

The condition we have passed through was occasioned by the curtailment of buying power of millions of people. This naturally was reflected in their inability to purchase the commodities we have to sell. Therefore, isn't it logical if we can create buying power that it will return to us in proportion to our efforts? But if there is no buying power the best efforts we can make are useless.

Texas produced last year $415,000,000 worth of agricultural products at much below production cost. This condition cannot continue, as we well know. You have in your power the means of production a greater value to Texas than all agriculture. It would cost nothing but your determination to help your neighbor and yourself. We must manufacture our raw materials to the finished product and give that difference in wages to our people, and quit sending our multiplied millions for products from far-flung communities that can be produced right here.

Texas, today, by manufacturing the finished products in ore, cotton, wool, beef and mutton could increase her wealth approximately $750,000,000 annually, which is 1 1/2 times our agricultural crop. In the past we made gold our master. Let's make gold our servant. Remember, Uncle Sam puts one hundred cents in the dollar when he makes it. Let's put common sense in our dollar when we spend it.

In one of the night clubs last week a gentleman and a lady were quietly supping when another lady entered, strode up to the man, fixed her eye on him coldly, and said: "I may be your wife, but—" and, picking up the tomato bisque before him, poured it over his shirt-front. We report this rowdy incident only to call the attention of the Humanists to the masterful way in which the head waiter met the emergency. With suave reproach he admonished the wife: "Madame, the place for that is in the home."—The New Yorker.

RED GOOSE The Ojibwa

(Synopsis)

On the very first day Red Goose had ridden out with his father, Red Eagle, Fort Rirgley had been attacked by Sioux Indians on the war path. There were only three white men in the Fort, and Red Goose had risked his life by riding through the arrows of the Red Men and bring back Captain Suter with over a hundred American soldiers.

Red Goose, the only fourteen years old, was a real hero among the white folks in Minnesota.

The story of his daring ride right through the flying arrows of the Sioux Indians, was told over and over again.

This made Red Eagle, the good Ojibwa Chief, very proud of his young son, but he was careful not to let Red Goose think he had done anything but his duty.

About a month later, Captain Roberts came to take command of Fort Ridgley and, having heard the story of the brave Indian lad, he invited Red Eagle to visit him and told him to be sure to bring his son with him.

So it wasn't long before Red Eagle knocked at the gate of the stronghold.

"Who's there?" asked Captain Roberts.

"Red Eagle and son, Red Goose—Good Indians," was the answer.

"Come in—Come in, Red Eagle," said the Captain, opening the gate quickly. "I am Captain Roberts."

"How?"

"And this, I suppose, is Red Goose. Well-well! I'm glad to see you both. I've been wondering if you would like to do some work for me, Red Eagle?"

"Red Eagle like to work for White Chief." "Red Goose like to work for White Chief, too," said the slim Indian lad who stood straight and handsome beside his father.

"That's fine! How would you like to act as Indian Scout for this Fort, Red Eagle?" the Captain asked.

"Red Eagle glad to be Indian Scout for White Chief. Red Goose him good scout, too."

"Of course he is. He can work with you, Red Eagle. And now, I want you both to meet my daughter, Betty," said Captain Roberts, as a pretty little girl about the age of Red Goose came over and joined them.

"Oh, Daddy—is this Red Goose?" asked Betty. "Is this the boy who saved the Fort?"

"That's right, Betty. And this is his father, Red Eagle, Chief of the good Ojibwa Indians."

Betty smiled prettily and held out her hand first to Red Eagle and then to his young son who had been looking at her with admiration in his keen, bright eyes.

"Little pale face squaw very pretty," he said simply. Then he added, "Betty like to ride on Spot-on-tail with Red Goose?"

"Is Spot-on-tail the name of your pony that flies like the wind?" asked Betty.

"You come see," answered Red Goose.

But little did either of them realize the danger they were to face together within the hour.

CARD OF THANKS

In health friends make life worth living. In sorrow friends are the most precious jewels, which makes us able to endure in the recent loss of our dear little baby. The friends who so generously assisted and remembered us by their presence, sympathies and flowers, in fact in every way that any thing could be done, softened the heart pangs which was overpowering us. So we might look beyond the burden oppressing us to a brighter day to come when we may be permitted in some small way to repay the debt of gratitude which we owe to each and every one of you, who was so thoughtful of us in this, our saddest hour of bereavement. We also thank Dr. Jacobson for his wonderful efforts to save our little one.

Coach

It is always easy to praise the man who is already a great success. We are always glad to count ourselves the friend of a winner. Rightfully we say that the world loves a winner, but there is no nook or corner, be it ever so small, that will offer itself as a haven of rest or comfort for him, who loses. Whether this principle is right or wrong is a difficult problem to decide. Human nature itself is the greatest of all psychological problems and human nature is at the bottom of the above mentioned principle.

When one stops to analyze a winner, however, it is easy to find why there are many who turn and cast longing glances in his direction. He, in the first place, is bound to contain within him certain characteristics that aid in determining his success. Such a man is bound to be blessed with such inalienable traits and characteristics as courage, character, perseverance, faith, hope, patience. All of these go to make up what is commonly called personality. There are two types of personality —positive and negative. The winner is inlived with a positive personality. He is that type of personality that draws people in his direction, and causes them to give their best to satisfy his demands. At the same time that he is receiving, he is giving; giving of his time his thought, his energy, his devotion—himself, to the cause for which he is working.

He is a builder of character in others. His prime motive in life is to see others succeed. He is not most interested in himself, but in the welfare and happiness he loves. His greatest joy comes not in personal gain but through the happiness of those who succeed under his tutelage. His greatest success does not come at the time of his achievement; but in later years when the characters he has had a part in molding that their places in the realm of life, and the investment he has made in them begins to yield dividends.

Such a man as this we have in our town. None other is doing more to mold the character in our young men than he. Right now he is enjoying some of the popularity and esteem due him. It is right that he should receive these plaudits. His success has come because it was inevitable; because he has built something from what was apparently nothing; because that something is founded on the principles of which he is made. Right always wins in the long run. This man is right. He is right mentally, physically, morally and spiritually. So praise on all ye citizens. Give justice where justice is due. Lend a helping hand to our coach in instilling and developing the principles on which our successful team has been built.

Here's to you c-o-a-c-h! Live long, be happy and prosperous!

SOME SUPERSTITIONS

Among the hundreds of superstitious beliefs still held by otherwise intelligent people may be named the following, compiled by a recent writer:

It is bad luck to spill salt or break a mirror. Putting on a garment backwards or wrong side out, by mistake brings good luck. Fish is a brain food. Handling a toad will cause warts. Only the good die young. It is unlucky to light three cigarettes with one match. Friday and the 13th of the month are unlucky, especially if they happen to fall on the same day. To pick up a pin means good luck. Crops should be planted according to the moon. Knocking wood averts a penalty for boasting of former good luck.

The list of such superstitions and beliefs is almost endless. And it is not only the ignorant who act upon such beliefs. Most people, including those who achieved greatness, have their pet superstitions. To mention only a few:

President Lincoln was superstitious about dreams. President Cleveland always carried a horse chestnut in his pocket for luck. Mussolini consults astrologers. Bill Tilden of tennis fame carried a four-leaf clover. Poi Negri thinks her screen career was damaged by a black cat crossing her path. Chalapin, famed opera star, always puts on his left shoe first. Sarah Barnhardt would not let any of her company wear yellow. Napoleon feared cats and maneuvered his armies according to the stars. Stanley Baldwin carried a rabbit's foot. And many hotels and office buildings omit the number 13 in numbering their floors in deference to superstitious guests and tenants.

A small minority of persons are hardboiled enough to call all these superstitious the bunk, and defy them accordingly. How about yourself? Would you walk under a ladder, or open an umbrella indoors.

Wednesday 23. The fourth grade is divided into two classes, Miss Hardy and Mrs. Savage teaching these classes.

Mrs. Savage's room is giving the following program: A play—Grandmother's Surprise Party. Songs.

The room is filling a basket for an old couple, so that they may also enjoy Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Hardy's room is putting on the following plays:

"First Thanksgiving" and Friends.

Whittlin'

On the evening, November 17 and 22nd, the dramatic club sponsored by Miss Perkins, presented a three-act drama, "whittlin'" in the High School Auditorium. The money from this play goes to buy books for the High school library.

Girls Basket Ball

The Basket Ball Girls have been working out nearly every afternoon; however, we have missed a few, since Mr. Lawlis says we must give way for certain other activities. Our regular season opens after the Thanksgiving holidays, but we may play one or two practice games before then.

Mr. Lawlis has been explaining the changes in the rules to us. The most radical changes are the manner in which the ball is put into play and rules as to guarding. The team work is developing and prospects are very good.

Clerk—"Do you want something?" Leroy—"Have you got enough sense (cents) to change a nickel?"

Kyle—"Can you take a joke?" Helen—"Oh, Kyle, please don't propose!"

Kathleen—"I seldom think of my audience when I'm singing."

Mr. Hayhurst—"But you ought to have some consideration for them, Kathleen."

Mr. Lawlis—(entering a drug store) "I want an ounce of philetanmosis."

Druggist—"You mean mustard oil?"

Mr. Lawlis—"Yes, yes, I can never think of the name."

OUR DAY OF RESPONSIBILITY

(By Henry Chandler, Los Angeles Times, Past President American Newspaper Publishers Association.)

Take away the newspapers—and this country of ours would become a scene of chaos.

Without daily assurance as the exact facts—so far as we are able to know and publish them—the public imagination would run riot. Ten days without the daily newspaper and the strong pressure of worry and fear would throw the people of this country into mob hysteria—feeding upon rumors, alarms, terrified by bugbears and illusions.

We have become the watchmen of the night and of a troubled day.

If the American newspaper has occupied a position of high responsibility before, its weight of responsibility has been doubled during this trying period.

This period of depression has wrought a great change in the mood of the American public. In the years immediately following the World War it seemed as though our quondam sense of care and responsibility had been recklessly tossed away. Nobody seemed to care about anything—or to think about anything except having a good time, of making money and spending it.

The collapse of an inflated era of spending has suddenly sobered them. It isn't jokes and cocktails that they want now. It is bread and butter—and facts.

This changed mood opens for the newspaper publishers of America a new day of increased opportunities and responsibilities.

A frightened public looks to us for the truth. We have become a sheet anchor in the storm.

It has been suggested to me many times that the members of the publishers association take a united stand on this or that public policy. I feel that in doing so we would surrender the greatest strength of the American newspaper. Each newspaper should stand in a position of responsible stewardship to its own people acting on its own convictions and answering to its own conscience.

No one knows what the immediate events of the future may bring forth. It is enough to know that out of this period of suffering much good must inevitably come. If we were nursing vital and dangerous errors in our commercial and industrial system—if we were started on a dangerous and ruinous path we can well give thanks that the crash has happened now—rather than later when its correction would involve more peril.

Every publisher who may read these words believes and knows in his heart that in every fundamental element our country is on a firm foundation. There is nothing the matter with the U. S. At heart it is strong and firm. It will ride out the storm, but during the period of the hurricane it is up to us—the newspaper publishers to stand with resolution at the wheel.

These are the times when the conduct of a daily newspaper ceases to be a commercial enterprise. It becomes a stewardship that often involves great self-sacrifice and great courage.

As I believe in the U. S. so I believe in the honesty and good faith and unselfishness of the newspapers of the U. S. And I believe in their consecration to this trust and in their ability to keep the beacon lighted during a period of very rough weather.

The public offers us faith and trust.

We will return them honesty of effort.

"NEW DEAL" FOR COTTON MAN SEEN IN DEM. REGIME

Oklahoma City, Nov. 12.—Pointing out that president-elect Roosevelt is a member of the Georgia Cotton Co-operative association and John N. Garner, vice-president elect comes from the leading cotton growing state, the Oklahoma Cotton Grower, official organ of the Oklahoma Cotton Growers' association sees in the new Democratic regime "a new deal" for the cotton man.

"With this new deal, let us take courage and look to the future with faith," the newspaper says. "It should be remembered, however, that agriculture is not going to be taken by the nape of the neck and be pitched over into a garden of Eden or a field of prosperity."

CURIOSITY

A short time ago a certain man decided to see just how strong a woman's curiosity was. He cut a small "personal" item from the newspaper and left the paper where his wife would be sure to find it. When he returned home the next evening he was surprised to find the domestic atmosphere hanging heavy with thunder clouds. Investigation revealed that his wife had borrowed a neighbor's paper to see what he had clipped. He fumbled in his vest pocket for his clipping and was electrified to find, on the opposite side from the "personal" item this headline:

"Prominent Citizen Figures In Wild Party At Roadhouse. Due to Prominence of Participants, No Names Are Given At This Time."

And now a certain man has no further interest in feminine curiosity!

B. C. Hancock of route five, was in this week to renew and informed us that he was preparing to buy livestock in his community.

Mack Chamber and Lee Hulse, were among the shoppers here Monday.
