Terry Farmer Plows Up Indian Bread Tray

B. N. Burroughs young Terry county farmer made a valuable find in the way of early Indian relic this week when he plowed up what is known as an Indian bread tray, or grater, for the rock tray used for grating as well as mixing the dough, it is thought. The find was made on the old Alvin Eastham farm just this side of where Terry, Dawson and Gaines counties join. The tray is 22 inches in length, nearly a foot wide and weighed 22 pounds. It is perfectly flat on the bottom and of course tray shaped on top, and picked up until rough and grater-like.

Mr. Burroughs was plowing when his plow point struck the rock, and there being no rocks on the place, he was surprised and investigated. It was standing on end in the soil, and his plow broke a small piece out of it. In taking it out of the soil, Mr. Burroughs broke the rock through the middle where it was thin from dishing. He will try to get in touch with the Panhandle-Plains Historical society at Canyon, in an endeavor to place the relic with them.

Mr. Burroughs lives about eight miles this side of Cedar Lake, and it is a well known fact that Indians made that lake a stopping and watering place in passing through this section, and it may be that the tray was lost off a pack horse while the tribe was passing to and from the north Plains to the brakes below the cap.

Perkins Family Moving Back To Amherst

Eli Perkins and family have decided to move back to Amherst, where they came from nearly three years ago, when Eli accepted a position with the Herald. "Perk" has made the Herald a mighty good hand, but since business has been very slow the past few months, he has had only part time work. As conditions are now, the editor and son, Jack Jr., will be able to handle most of the work.

Mr. Perkins has been offered a good thing for the present, at least, by his father-in-law, Sid Morris. Mr. Morris is a groceryman, but also has produce, coal and small grocery in another part of the town that Mr. Perkins will have charge of. We hope the Perkins family the very best of success.

We Are Expecting You Here For Tradesday

Tradesday has rolled around again, and a large crowd of traders and buyers are expected here Monday to join in that monthly feast of bargains for the buyers that are here for the coming each First Monday. As the farmers have about all their land up and their corn gathered, it is expected that one of the largest crowds in the history of the Tradesday for Brownfield will be here.

Remember that Brownfield is one of the few cities in this section that did not suspend the Tradesday during the fall and winter, but went right on with it, gaining strength and numbers. The merchants will have a lot of bargains for you. Be here. Bring your trading stuff.

I'm Telling You!

Despite our great road building program, our roads are still 4 times more crowded than the roads of Europe

EUROPE —
1.6 CARS PER MILE OF ROAD

U.S. —
8.6 CARS PER MILE OF ROAD

Poor roads cost you 2¢ a mile more to drive on than Good Roads

Every dollar diverted from the Gas Tax means 90¢ LESS for LABOR

How will the roads in OUR state be kept in good condition if the road fund (gas tax) is grabbed for other uses?

Hawkins Has Optimistic Outlook On Future

H. S. Hawkins of the Meadow community, was down early Monday. Indeed he almost beat us to the Herald office, as he decided to pay up on the Herald while he was here. Mr. Hawkins, had, like most of us, hit it pretty hard the last year or two, but he says that while his farm products, such as eggs, chickens and cream are not bringing much, they are supplementing his larder on things that were not raised, canned, preserved or dried on the farm last year. This of course includes coffee, sugar, flour, etc.

Mr. Hawkins had some money in the Meadow bank when it closed recently, but he is not the least grouchy about the matter. He believes that the officers and directors of the bank are good honest men, and that the occasion for the shutdown was not entirely their fault, but rather the fault of frozen assets that cannot at this time be turned into cash. However, he believes that as soon as this can be done, depositors will get every dollar that is possible for them to pay.

Former Postmaster General Visits Seagraves

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sidney Burleson, former Postmaster General in the Wilson administration, and their daughter, Miss A. Sidney Burleson, registered at the Simpson Hotel Wednesday night and spent several hours here Thursday on business. Miss B. is the owner of several sections of land 14 miles southeast of Seagraves and one section northeast of town. They inspected the land while here. Mr. Burleson is living in retirement at his home in Austin, but he keeps well posted on state and national affairs. His conversation with local friends radiated full confidence in the future of the country under the Roosevelt administration. He and the president have been close friends for years.—Seagraves News.

Looking for you here First Monday.

Genius Direction

John Ford, Who Produced "Air Mail" Learned His Job From The Ground Up

A veteran director who has literally learned motion picture production from the ground up, John Ford is reaping the harvest of his early training in the silent picture days with the direction of important talking productions to his credit.

The man whose seasoned sense of dramatic values and screen technique is clearly evident in his latest Universal picture, "Air Mail," scheduled to open an engagement Sunday at the Rialto Theatre, began his work after coming to Hollywood from the University of Maine when pictures were in comparative infancy. Grounding himself well in the fundamentals of the screen, Ford soon under his brother, Francis Ford, and later direction of comedies and short pictures until his abilities boosted him to the chair of a full fledged director and he was entrusted with several important feature films. His first feature starred Harry Carey.

Among the more notable of his

pictures are "The Iron Horse," "Four Sons," "Hangman's House," "Men Without Women," "Up the River" and "Arrowsmith," although he has literally scores of pictures to his credit. And now it's "Air Mail," Universal's first great production of the year. Its direction exhibits genius.

Trustee Election Sat. Aldermen On Tuesday

The voters of the Brownfield Independent School district will be asked to name two trustees at an election here Saturday to serve two years. On next Tuesday three city aldermen will be elected to fill the places of J. B. Knight, M. J. Craig and Tom May, providing these men are not re-elected, and all three have been asked to stand for re-election. The following names have been submitted to the voters, from which they are to choose three:

J. B. Knight, M. J. Craig, Tom May, Homer W. Nelson and Cecil Smith.

As we stated above, two trustees are to be elected to fill the expired terms of A. C. Green and R. A. Simms. The following names have been certified and will be on the ballot: S. H. Holgate, A. C. Green, R. A. Simms and E. L. Redford.

At Meadow we failed to learn how many trustees are to be elected, but the following appear on the ballot: A. J. Nelson, Pearce Warren, J. L. Millsap and C. R. Lackey. At Gomez, the following will appear on the official ballot: J. W. Ball and W. A. Tittle. No other districts have had tickets printed up to this time.

"Of course you talked about me after I left you?"

"No dear; you had yourself covered the subject perfectly."

respect for the actor. "Any good actor will enhance the value of a tribute something of his own to it," is his belief, and briefly summarizes his modus operandi. He prefers to draw out a characterization rather than to inject one of his own.

Ralph Bellamy, Pat O'Brien, Russell Hopton, Slim Summerville and Gloria Stuart enact the feature roles in "Air Mail," a gripping story of fearless sacrifice and devotion to duty by intrepid flyers of the government mail. The picture is said to include some of the most spectacular aviation photography yet brought to the screen. The story is from the pen of Lieut. Comm. Frank Wead, who wrote "Hell Divers."

Some Old Timers Get Real Reminiscent

A couple of the old time Terryries were in from Tokio Tuesday after supplies, in the person of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Rushing and their daughter. Meeting them on the street reminded us of old times, and the conversation started. The first time that we ever remembered seeing Mr. Rushing was when he came out from Wise county and bought his land. He later shipped a car of household goods to Tahoka, where they were loaded on wagons and brought to Terry county.

Mrs. Rushing told of her first experience on the memorable stage between Brownfield and Lubbock. She came out with Mr. Rushing to see how she would like Terry. After returning home, she told her kinsfolks of her bumps over the prairie, while a driver cracked his long whip over the backs of four mustangs as they galloped away. Her folks said they knew she had always been noted for the truth, but that tale sounded fishy to them.

The subject then came up of the comparative honesty then and now. Mrs. Rushing said their place, when first built on the Plains road was handy for campers and freighters from Tahoka and Lubbock, headed for Plains and New Mexico, and that some nights a dozen wagons would camp at their windmill. After the family moved to Brownfield to send the children to school, the two older boys remained out there, but would usually come in Saturday and stay until Sunday afternoon. Never was anything missed from the place. But not now, she said. Have to keep every thing locked.

Which reminds us of the old Congregationalist preacher that came down here from Chicago about 1912 to look at a section of land he and his wife bought when they were young people teaching school in Ohio. In those days, Texas gave so many sections of land for every mile of railroad built in east Texas. The railroads in turn would peddle the land out among the people in the north who had money. This aged couple, who now live at Long Beach, Calif., providing they were not killed in the earth quake, had never seen their land. One summer he came down to see it.

He had been a reader of the Herald for years, the paper going to him at Oak Park, a Chicago suburb, and late that afternoon, he walked into the Herald office and made himself known. We remember how he complained of the inhumane way the driver on the Brownfield-Lubbock stage treated "those poor little ponies." We assured him that it would take something more than running those mustangs a dozen miles or so twice a day to kill them, that they were as tough as buchskin.

The preacher put up at the old Hill Hotel that night. Next morning just before Judge Neill came to carry him to see his land, he came back to the Herald office, entering with a grin. We knew that something unusual had happened, so asked him to out with it. "Well," he said, "Mr. Hill carried me to my room last night, and after a few words bid me good night and a good rest, and turned to go. I asked him where the key to the door was."

Mr. Hill looked surprised for an instant, and then in his characteristic language, it came: "Key! key! what in hell do you want with a key. Nobody's going to harm you." Then says the old minister, "I went to bed and soon to sleep, for I knew he was telling me the truth. But to save me I could not help but think that this was considered the wild west and Chicago the polished east. Yet, we had to lock up everything we had in Chicago each night."

To which we might add: Up until a railroad was built into this town, if anyone had a key to their house, they were tied on a string behind some door. They were never used, no matter how long you expected to be away from home.

For every dollar spent last year by farmers in fighting insects and diseases attacking field crops in Texas, $12.50 was returned in increased income. A total of 166,452 acres was protected by 6669 farmers with the aid of county agents.

Monday is Tradesday.

Bynum Partly Agrees With Herald Editorial

We had a personal letter from W. A. Bynum, editor of the School Voice, of Abilene, in which he in part agrees with our editorial in the last issue, in which we defended the existence of Texas Technological College. Mr. Bynum, however believes that while Tech should be made a senior college with full instruction in agriculture, poultry and livestock, he says that the engineering department is costing too much per pupil. He would reduce the Canyon school to a junior college, and remarks that the School of Mines at El Paso is worthless to Texas outside the small area around the city where mining is practiced.

But, Mr. Bynum hits the nail on the head when he states that the state cannot afford to stick a college down in every town, nor can it afford to spend around $300 per pupil on higher education, when there is a question mark on just how little we are going to have for the pupils in the grade schools. After all, when the state of Texas guarantees that its children can have a high school education, it appears that it has done its duty by them, and many people are adverse to a wholesale training of teachers. He states that we now have 44,000 teaching and as many more without schools, yet we are turning them out by the thousands each year. He asks where the justice is, when we are hampering our fundamental schools by lack of funds.

He also states that Iowa, which is at the top in literacy, has only three teachers colleges. But Iowa is very small both in area and population in comparison to Texas. With the Herald, Mr. Bynum believes that the tuition ought to be raised in our state colleges. Our denominational schools do not have their hands in the public till all the time, yet they manage to exist, and are turning out lots of good, well educated men and women. Mr. Bynum hints, however, that state colleges would stop these schools if possible, by removing their power degrees to give permanent certificates.

In the discussion of a higher fee in state colleges to partly take the place of less taxes, Mr. Bynum says that the poor boys from the "forks of the crick" could be exempted if they were not too proud to admit their poverty, and cites the example of former governor Dan Moody, who admitted his poverty at the U. of T. and waded tables.

Finally, in closing, we quote: "I never went to a church college in my life, and care for them only because they don't plaster the capitol with the palm of their hands outward. I can't say that for state colleges."

Fifteen South Plains Counties Produce Half Million Bales

Jones county ranks first in the state with 107,265 bales, the only county to exceed the 100,000 mark. There were 30 counties in west Texas with 40,000 bales or more. Lubbock ranks second in the state this year. The following is the production this and last year on the south Plains:

San Jacinto Day Should Be Observed

Schools, patriotic organizations, clubs of all kinds should have patriotic programs on San Jacinto Day, April 21st, commemorating the 97th anniversary of the battle of San Jacinto, one of the most noted events in the history of the country.

The Battle of San Jacinto closed the struggle for the independence of the Republic of Texas and opened the way for the Anglo-Saxon settlement and development of the United States from the Gulf of Mexico to the Pacific Coast.

Suggestions for programs will readily occur to everyone at all familiar with Texas history and may be as diversified as are the talents of those participating in the exercises.

It is especially suggested that native Texas flowers, especially the Texas bluebonnet should be used for decorative purposes and that the Texas Flag be displayed at all meetings and in all schools. This would be an opportune time for the presentation of flags and pictures of Texas pioneers to schools and patriotic organizations with impressive ceremonies.

The Texas Centennial Committee is prepared to furnish data for San Jacinto Day addresses to those who write to it for such material.

At Austin plans are being arranged for presentation to the state of a flag used on the battlefield at San Jacinto, which was for a long time preserved in tatters in the museum of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas and which has been restored by Legislative appropriation.

No Banker's Holiday In Backwood Kentucky Town

One bank has been discovered that had no "banking holiday." The banker upon being informed by telegraph that he might again resume normal operations at his bank rode horseback to the nearest telephone to "find out what it was all about." He was told that all restrictions were lifted and that he might begin normal operations. He answered that his bank had not yet failed to cash a check. Being told that 10 years imprisonment was the penalty for violation of the banking proclamation, he answered, "I won't live that long." The bank is located in a backwoods village in Kentucky and the banker explained that he had understood that the holiday was optional with the bankers and accordingly he had not closed his bank.

Athens Hornets Still Basket Champions for Fourth Time

The Athens Hornet basketball squad buzzed through to a stinging defeat of Jeff Davis of Houston Saturday night at Austin, to become state champions in the basketball game for the fourth time. The score was Athens 36, Jeff Davis 20, with the North Texas boys outplaying the Houston outfit all along the line. Previous state titles were won by the Hornets in 1927, 1929 and 1931. It looks like an odd-year affair.

Motor Vehicle And Rail Accidents Decline In 1932

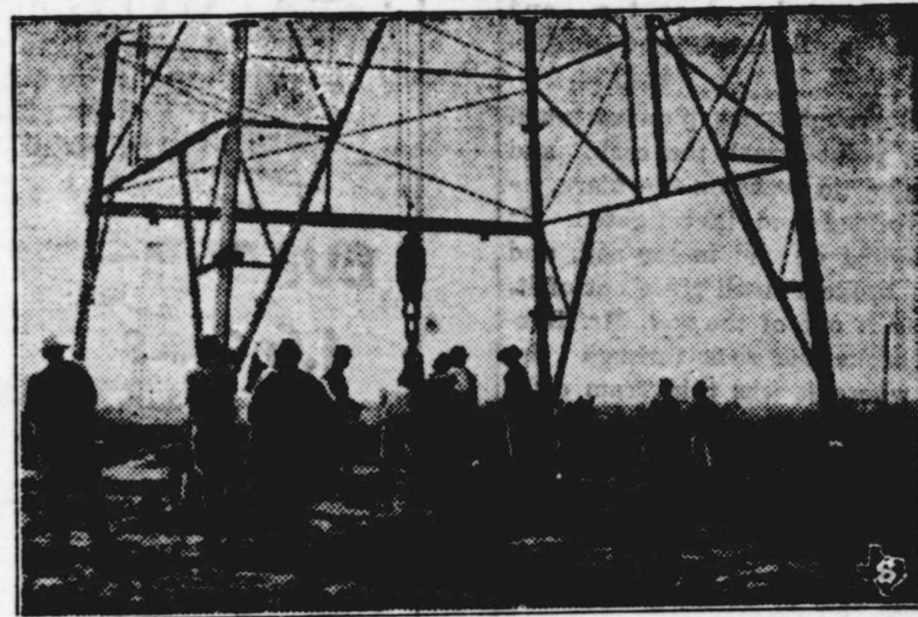

Both railway and motor vehicle accidents decreased during 1932, according to statistics of the National Safety Council, with a greater decrease in motor vehicle accidents than in those of railroads.

According to Interstate Commerce Commission records, the number of persons killed or injured in steam railway accidents continued to decline in 1932, the Council reports in its magazine "Public Safety" for February, 1933. "However," the magazine continues, "fatalities did not decrease as rapidly as railway traffic, and the death rate per million locomotive miles rose from 3.84 in the nine months of 1931, ending in September, to 4.36 in the same month of 1932. The injury rate decreased slightly from 27.39 to 26.99 or .4. Locomotive mileage showed a decrease of 19 percent.

Motor vehicle travel, according to the figures of the Council, decreased 6 percent from 1931 to 1932, but showed a decrease of 13 percent in vehicle fatalities. Credit for the superior safety record of motor vehicles is due in part to the increasing no accidents records being established by truck fleets throughout the nation. These records are reported from month to month in the Council publication. The February issues cites several cases, one of which is the central division of the Oklahoma Gas & Electric Co., which holds the record with 818,000 miles without accident of any kind.

Other remarkable records of this kind included companies reporting records of 654,652 miles, and ap-

See Violence in East Texas Oil Blasts

Occurrences of violence marked the high tension in the East Texas oil situation last week, when four devastating explosions of oil properties occurred. Three of the dynamite explosions resulted in damage to pipe lines; one blew the gate valve off of the well pictured above, the Gulf No. 8 Spear on the Van Winkle survey. The photo was taken just after workmen had succeeded in re-capping the well, which ran wild several hours after the explosion. No explanation of the blasts has been made.

RED CROSS OFFENDS CATHOLICS

The story, "A Blessing for Juanita," tells of a Spaniard whose donkey became ill. Fearing that the animal would die, the boy takes the donkey before the parish priest for communion. The priest administers the sacrament of communion and the animal recovers.

The drawing shows the donkey, held on a string by the child, being administered the sacrament by a priest in vestments. A Somerville school official says the illustration can only be interpreted as "ridiculing the great central act of worship of a great religious denomination."

John Barton Payne, Red Cross chairman, apologized for the publication, stating that it had been passed by a Catholic editor. Archbishop Curley of Baltimore asks Catholics not to interpret the affair as evidence of anti-Catholic bias on the part of the Red Cross.—Pathfinder.

Business Men Take Money To Open Banks

Washington, March 20.—Business men looking to a restoration of prosperity have dug into their own pockets and furnished funds that will permit forty of the closed banks of the Nation to reopen in the immediate future on a 100 per cent solvent basis.

Secretary Woodin Saturday said boards of directors and stockholders of the forty banks—which he did not name—had personally raised the cash needed to restore the capital structure of the institutions. Their condition had been impaired by the recent flurry and heavy withdrawals by depositors.

The Treasury Secretary interpreted the move as an expression of belief by these trained business men that assets of the bank now frozen would be worth their full value in years to come.

MRS. HATTIE HENRIE MAY TEACH MUSIC HERE

Mrs. Hattie Henry, who is now teaching in the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Lowe, was in one day last week and informed us that she was thinking of taking Mrs. W. H. Dallas' place here teaching music at least until Mrs. Dallas is better physically. She informed us that she had a talk with Mrs. Dallas about the matter, but that the later was not in condition to talk with long at a time, and that she figured on coming back again this week to have another talk with her.

Mrs. Henrie came here from Ohio about three years ago and taught music in the Jenkins home for a year or two, but has been in the Lowe home in the south part of the county for about a year. She is of French descent, a lady of accomplishment and refinement. She not only teaches piano, but voice and expression as well.

Those who have known Mrs. Henrie for some time are loud in their praise of her ability as a teacher. She lost her husband about five years ago and decided on coming South, and seems to like Texas people fine. She remarked that no one seemed to have much money now, "but they set remarkably good tables."

Mrs. J. F. Winston returned last Friday from Greenville, where she attended the Odd Fellow-Rebakah grand lodge. She reports a fine time. The next one will be at Mineral Wells.

Mrs. J. H. O'Connor is visiting her daughter in Amarillo, leaving the old "he" to batch.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gracey of the Harmony community, were in after supplies this week.

When Gasser Went Wild in Refugio

A peculiar well in Refugio, Texas, was responsible for this fire, which destroyed eight buildings in the South Texas town. It was an artesian water well, but suddenly started spurting gas, which ignited, setting fire to nearby buildings. Rapidly, the well dug itself a crater and threatened several nearby wells before being quelled. Firemen played water on the surrounding buildings all day, but the intense heat won the fight and they were burned, one after the other.

Raising 80 bushels corn on one acre, making another acre produce 1020 pounds of cotton, raising a flock of 120 pullets which are now producing a monthly income, and on top of all making his hogs pay him a net profit of $56—this is the accomplishment of Alvin Weidener, 4-H club boy of Long Point Community in Washington county.

Nights are Sleepless for Acidity Victims!

Night after night of tossing on your bed—morning after morning of dragging yourself out more dead than alive, will soon put you "on the rocks". Nothing withers faster than a sleep-starved body! Yet many cases of sleeplessness are but cases of Acidity—an acid condition of the system.

Acidity is brought on by the formation of too much acid in the stomach. The acid upsets digestion and causes sour stomach, flatulency, gas pains and often sick stomach. Not infrequently it steals our health and strength and makes our nerves so restless that we can't sleep at night, fagged as we may be.

Especially for Acidity
McKesson's Milk of Magnesia is especially effective for acidity. It contains 32 to 40 grains of Magnesium Hydroxide. This is considerably more than the United States Pharmacopoeia requires. It is so highly antacid that a tablespoonful in a little water neutralizes 10 times its volume in acid. Its mild laxative effect makes it efficient as an internal purifier. Once you try McKesson's you will realize there is a difference in milks of magnesia. Absence of carthy or chalky taste, makes it pleasant for young or old to take.

Mare this Sleep Test

Take a tablespoonful of McKesson's Milk of Magnesia in a little water before retiring for a few nights. See the results that soon show. Mark the improvement in digestion and the absence of old distress. Note how much less your nerves bother you and how much more soundly you sleep at night. A week tells the story. McKesson's Milk of Magnesia is more economical to use. The 8 oz. bottles cost only 25c and the 16 oz. bottles only 39c. Always ask for McKesson's by name.

OUR 23 YEAR COLUMN

Taken from the Herald of April 2, 1910.

On the first page of our issue of April 2, 1910, we find that the Harris reported a very windy March. That the Harris school closed the previous Friday. Bill Stamford was in from the settlement looking after Dr. Miles' cattle. Cattle were doing fairly well, and grass was coming fast. Needmore items: Rev. Edgar Owens filled his appointment. Singing Sunday night at Lee Walker's. Claude Davis of Brownfield was visiting in the community. Lumber was on the ground for a new school building. The school closed after running continuously for 13 school months. Wesley Shook was working a crop on the Hanks place. He hailed from Comanche. Jay McPhaul of Plains, was buying corn at Needmore. Meadow: William Long was the only pupil to make the honor roll. The young folks attended a party at W. P. Brown's. R. G. Way sold 25 head of mules to a Big Spring buyer. Mr. Evans had maize up. Easter Sunday was a lovely day and the youngsters enjoyed an egg hunt at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Campbell. Primrose: The school children rendered a fine program at the school house Friday night. Miss Bidie Williams of Plainview was visiting Mrs. Rose. The young people enjoyed a party at the Lee Cowan home. Hershell Timmons visited his brother in Lynn county. R. G. Wood was raising some alfalfa on his place.

On the second page we said editorially that "cotton might some day be the staple crop in Terry county, providing that some hardy plant was introduced, but for the present, corn was king in Terry." Twenty-three years this side of that editorial, we find cotton the king of plants in Terry, although corn runs it a close second. A new land man in the person of T. O. Shelton had located here. Mr. E. J. Cowart was down from Lubbock to see about putting in a tin shop.

Third page: "April Fool," we asked and if there were any tricks played on our readers. Neill H. Bigger was over from Yoakum. Mrs. Geo. DeShazo was home from Lubbock. Dr. Maddox of Gomez, was a caller at the Herald. Farmers were directed to get their cotton seed from Jack Bryan. J. L. Clark was in from Gomez country. Two sermons and a dinner on the ground was announced for Needmore comin Sunday. J. E. Bryant was in figuring on a new house. Fred Peyatt and John Hudson of Plains, were visiting here. W. A. Shepherd was assessing taxes.

The little folks enjoyed an Easter egg hunt at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Tiernan. Rev. A. L. Estes and family were moving to Tahoka. A very fine Easter program was rendered at the Methodist church. Bob Kinard of Plains, was visiting his parents in Jones county. Frank Tomlinson, of Big Spring was here looking after his property interests. H. H. Longbrake was installing a private water system and bath in the W. A. Bell home. (Most of us were using wash tubs up to that time.) J. F. Holden had received a yellow wheeled delivery wagon, and was ready to deliver groceries anywhere in the city. The Groves school building had been completed except for paint. Citizens helped a stranded lady here on her way from Lubbock to Brady. Thad Durst had accepted a position with the Scurry County Telephone Co. E. L. Duke and Brock Gist had received commissions to take the 1910 census in Terry county. Jim Cummins of Canyon had accepted a position with the local telephone company. The Gomez school was to close with the play, "Topsy Turvy." J. K. Epperson of Pride went to Big Spring after an incubator. All for this week.

NANTUCKET FROM PAW

There was an old man from Nantucket,
Who kept all his cash in a bucket,
But his daughter named Nan,
Ran away with a man,
And as for the bucket, Nan "tuck it,"

But he followed the pair to Pawtucket,
The man and the girl with the bucket.
He said to the man,
"You're welcome to Nan"

But as for the bucket, Paw "tuck it."
Note: This jingle appeared in the student publication of the Kansas Agricultural College more than 30 years ago, which shows that times really haven't changed much, because today we frequently hear of just such occurrences.

The Brownfield High school girls will play Junior High school Tuesday afternoon, for first and second places in tennis.

Girls Volly Ball

There are about fourteen or fifteen girls coming out for volly ball. There seems to be prospects for a good team out of this bunch. There will be six best players picked out and one or two substitutes. This comes off at 9:30 Friday morning.

Junior Play Given

The play that the Junior class put on Friday evening of March 4th, was about as successful as could be expected.

There was a fairly good audience and we certainly appreciated the number who came. The proceeds which amounted to about twenty-one dollars, will help the Juniors a great deal in putting on the Junior-Senior banquet. We thank all who came.

Seniors At Work On Annual Play

The Seniors are hard at work on the annual senior play which is to be presented on Friday, April 7. This promises to be a high class production of which the school may well be proud. "Leave It To Dad" is the title of the three-act comedy, which will be given, and it is full of laughs from start to finish.

A low price is to be made, the admission being only ten cents for adult or child. At this price the class hopes to fill the auditorium. The money taken in will be used to defray various expenses connected with commencement exercises, such as traveling expenses of a speaker, for the occasion, the printing of programs, decoration, and etc. After these expenses are taken care of, any remainder will be used to buy some useful gift to leave with the school.

Red Goose—The Ojibwa

An Indian Story for Boys and Girls

By Carlyle Emery

Chapter Three Story No. 21

(Synopsis)

Red Goose is on his way back home from the Blackfeet country, where he had been captured and held prisoner for three days and nights by Chief Raven Feather. He is riding in the engine cab of the Iron Horse with Mike Doyle, the engineer. At home, his father, Red Eagle, has given him up for lost, believing that his son has been taken away forever on the Silver Trail.—Now go on with the story.

"The Iron Horse will come back today," said little Beaver to Red Eagle. "Maybe, it will bring Red Goose, too."

Red Eagle was a brave warrior, but, like the other Indians who knew nothing about railroads, he had been afraid of the big steaming locomotive. However, when Little Beaver told how Red Goose had touched it without being killed, Red Eagle knew that it wouldn't hurt him to look at it.

So when Little Beaver reminded him that the Iron Horse was returning he gathered together a few of his braves, and together they started out for the Silver Trail.

Red Eagle had little hopes that it would bring back his lost son; but at any rate, it would do no harm to watch from a safe distance.

Red Goose Returns on the Iron Horse

When they arrived at a point distant from the station about the flight of an arrow, the good Indian chief signaled his braves to halt and dismount.

They knew that their ponies would be frightened when the train came in, so they tied them to trees, and stood around waiting for the whistle that would announce the coming of the Iron Horse.

"Red Eagle hear whistle," grunted the Chief before long, as the Indians listened, they too could hear the far away whistle of the locomotive.

"Iron Horse will soon be here, too," added Little Beaver, "who had been permitted to join the party."

It wasn't long before they could see the smoke-stack and hear the roll of iron wheels on the Silver Trail.

The braves tried not to show signs of fear, for their Chief had promised no harm would befall them. But their blood began to tingle just the same, as the great Iron Horse came roaring down the track, whistling, blowing, bell ringing, and steam coming out from both sides in big clouds of white mist.

It was at that minute, Red Eagle, looking through the cloud of mist and smoke, saw the face of his son, Red Goose, looking out of the cab window.

It was a wonderful reunion; thus in true Indian fashion, neither Red Goose nor Red Eagle made much show of emotion.

For riding on the Iron Horse, Red Goose received an eagle feather, and another one for escaping the Blackfeet.

"I wonder if he will miss me?" crooned the vaudeville blues songstress.

Finally, after she had sang four verses, all with the same refrain, a voice from the rear of the audience responded: "Well, if he misses you after that, he don't deserve to have a gun."

Mrs. Murphy—Be consoled Mrs. Flaherty. You must just think of Patrick as striking the harp with the angels.

Mrs. Flaherty—You don't know Pat, Mrs. Murphy. It would be more like him to be striking the angels with the harp.

An average return of $250 for labor and investment was made by the 4397 Texas farmers and 4-H club boys who conducted demonstrations in cotton growing last year. The demonstrations averaged 28 acres.

Willow Wells Worries

Well, folks, my news missed connection with the train last week and arrived too late to be published. I don't know whether the Editor will put it in this week or not, so I'll put in some news that's kinda old.

The new play, "Quack, Quack, Quack" is being practiced on now and will be given in the near future. When you see one of our plays people you'll get mighty impatient waiting for the date of the new one.

Bro. Fisher preached at the school house Sunday. We have a large Sunday School crowd every Sunday.

Grandpa Alldredge of Lubbock visited his son J. W. O. Alldredge the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Carson and baby visited Mrs. Carson's parents Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Willingham Thursday and Friday.

Everyone enjoyed the entertainments at Burness Holleys Wednesday night and Wade Hamptons Saturday night.

Don Hart had some bad luck last week when he lost his pocket book with five dollars and thirty cents in it while plowing. Most everyone has lent a hand in helping him dig up his field, but was unable to find it.

Mrs. Denton visited Mrs. Ethel Eubanks in Brownfield Saturday.

Mrs. Ray Rouse and daughters, Marie and Mrs. Burness Holley visited relatives in Hobbs over the weekend.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Bigham on March 16. The little lady was given the name of Marguerette Sue.

Among those who were in Brownfield were J. W. O. Alldredge and family, T. L. Murray and family, A. G. Bigham and Mr. and Mrs. Denton.

The Willow Wells Worriers met Loop on the Loop diamond Sunday and played the first game of the season. Our team was worried from the start by the refusal of Dick Denton to play ball or even go see any ball games this season. The game was well under way when a car was seen coming at top speed from Seagraves. Everyone thought someone was bringing a death message to some one at the game, but it turned out only to be Dick Denton who came rushing up. He had arrived too late to enter the game on the start so he sat on the side-line one inning. The next inning he was up to his ears in the game with his shirt tail flying. The scores were 13 to 6 in our favor. The Loop nine will meet us on our field Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Brown spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Noah Horner.

Florence Lonis spent Saturday night with Selma Lovelady of Loop.

The preacher and family were dinner guest of Carl Bonham and family Sunday.

J. W. O. Alldredge and family and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rouse visited in Lubbock over the week-end.

The small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gary has the whooping cough.

There will be an entertainment at Wayne Willingham's Saturday night after the play.

Mrs. Ira Allen and Mrs. Carl Bonham visited Mrs. Bigham and new daughter last Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Hart visited Mr. and Mrs. Shorty Sisco of Tokio Sunday.

"Quack, Quack, Quack," will be staged at the school house Saturday night, April 1st. Everybody is invited to come.

Elder and Mrs. M. O. Daley left Monday for San Antonio to visit their children. He will be back to fill his appointment here Sunday.

So Tom Mooney, San Francisco preparedness day parade bomber is to be given another chance to prove that he was not the one who threw the bomb that killed and wounded a number of people that day. If he can, he has suffered unjustly, and should be given his freedom at once. But, if he cannot prove his innocence, he should be allowed to rot behind the bars.

Watch your step. Remember that the sun is right up and down the streets now of mornings and afternoons, and that you are likely to be blinded and get run into or run into the other fellow. You may not get up early enough mornings to endanger yourself or others, but most of us drive late in the afternoon, when the sun is low and blinding if you are headed west. Watch your step.

It is deplorable to see the state of unrest and yielding of so many to the temptation of robbing and killing. And most of the accounts of hijacking and robbing tell of young men and young women who are guilty of these crimes. It is a sad day for any young man or woman when he or she decides to undertake to make a living without working for it. It is one of the economic truths of life that we cannot get something for nothing and not suffer for it. Don't try it. It is just as true that one can not do wrong and be happy.—Rochester Reporter.

Speaking of rumors and how they spread, the Wink Times tells one about that city. It seems that some fellow remarked, when the banks were closed, that he hoped the post-offices wouldn't close. Another perhaps heard the remark and told it that they might close. Another half heard what he said and told it that they would close, and here you go, when there was nothing whatever to it. And the one heard over the radio about Herbert Hoover trying to slip out of the country with some gold was just about as silly. Probably some one heard a comedian crack a joke about the matter and took it seriously.

The tragic death of Mayor Cermak of Chicago draws attention to a man who was a living example of American democracy, who rose from the station of a humble immigrant's family into one of the high places of our land. It takes amazing force of character to do that. His life is a vivid example of the opportunities which America offers to ambitious youngsters, no matter what their background. Mayor Cermak played a notable part in the dastardly attack on President Roosevelt, showing no concern for himself but only for the concern for the country. A man with such power and spirit had already achieved much for Chicago, and would have done far more had he lived.—Wink Times.

I said about girls wearing knickers last week. She said she couldn't stand it. I told her that was my opinion of bobbed hair when it first came in, but at this time it was alright by me if they shaved their heads. This idea of wanting the other folks to follow our personal rules of likes and dislikes is the bunk. As for clothing making the woman, it never did. I know some who could not cover up a cranky disposition with a thousand dollar coat of silver fox fur. Clothing helps, but it won't put the whole show over by any means. On the other hand, I know a woman who wears a twelve dollar print dress and makes and sells about 40 pounds of rich, golden butter every week. She wears a smile all the time and is truly a "lady sunshine" and angel of mercy. She has a happy family—they could not be otherwise living in that environment. All three of them work and help the family budget and keep it on an even keel. That is what I call a "million dollar disposition." The best part about her disposition is that you don't have to buy it, you can make yourself one at home.—Clarendon News.

One of the best editorials that we have seen on the beer situation for Texas, was in the Star-Telegram one day last week. They made a clean cut argument that each Texas county be allowed to say whether or not they wished 3.2 percent beer dispensed in that county, and how it be dispensed, whether by the old method, or in drug stores, or cold drink stands, cafes, etc. In other words, whether behind blinds or in the open, where all can see. And, as one paper states, if the 3.2 beer is not an intoxicant, why not serve in the open and to all mature people? To continue with the Star-Telegram editorial, it informed us that in all probability, a small state tax on the beer would add some $4,000,000 to our depleted state revenue, much of which could be used mightily well by the public school system just at this time, and relieve our people of some heavy tax burdens. And like our road or gasoline tax, those who drink beer and use the roads pay for them. Of course, this is not going to suit our extreme dry friends, for they are not going to sanction beer under any circumstances, if possible. But just the same, millions of bottles are made and drunk in Texas each year, and not one penny revenue is derived. To be perfectly frank, the time has arrived when the sentiment of the people is so constituted that it means either modification of our drastic pro-laws or outright repeal or nullification as the 14th amendment is now nullified throughout the south. Some level headed writers believe that if the people are allowed this light beer and wine that the demand for hard liquor will diminish, and that in all probability the 18th amendment will never be repealed by two-thirds of the states, and that real temperance will be the result. Tens of thousands of firey, unseasoned gallons of liquor is now consumed in our state by young and old despite all officers can do, and if we can break the taste of our people from this hard stuff, we have gone a great length toward true temperance. The reason people prefer hard liquor now, is that it is more easily hidden from the law. And you would probably be surprised at how many people, and how well they stand in your community, secretly violate our prohibition laws. Yea, how many take every opportunity to cross the border that they may drink a few without feeling that some spy is in hiding to watch their every act. It is pure hypocrisy the way we're going.

LEGISLATURE TO DISTURB AS LITTLE AS POSSIBLE

Except a few of the most radical of the radicals, there is a disposition in the Legislature to do nothing just at the moment to disturb public confidence. This is finding expression in the frown with which Senators and Representatives alike greet any mention of any further investigations by anybody.

In members' desks, especially in the House, repose a number of resolutions for investigation for everything from the insurance companies up and down. But for the bank holiday many of them would have been introduced this week.

A canvas of the putative authors, whose identities are known to everybody, reveals that virtually all of them will lie in the desks until the end of the session.

Members who have been looking forward to a Roman holiday in various directions through these inquiries have resigned themselves to the most conspicuous sentiment of the moment in either house.

What's The Matter With Texas?

By S. W. Adams—Room 65, Driskill Hotel, Austin

Representative Winningham is demanding the House Rule preventing loggists on the floor of the House during sessions; and now the galleries are lined with them, looking for all the world like a lot of buzzards awaiting a chance to swoop down for food. Winningham is a man of the people.

The first step towards a dictator was set up here today—the House and Senate passed a "bill drawn from behind closed doors" with the bankers, the despoilers of our substances, dictating its verbage, which places in the hand of the Banking Commissioner extra-constitutional powers, giving him the power to write ORDERS and DECREES and enforce them, which makes him Legislator, Judge and Executive. The Governor must consent.

One of the top railroad men of Texas said to me this week: "We must have a dictator—we need a Mussolini, and will have him."

Simultaneously with the closed-doors bill writing, there appeared (not by chance) an ECONOMIST from the East who said many axioms, then built into the heart of his speech before a joint session of the House and Senate, the Bankers objective, in this statement: "The government MUST take off the banks hands all their mortgages, bonds, and frozen assets, and relieve them of this handicap, that they may again serve the people."

There you have the whole dirty story. Ruthlessly the banks have labored with criminals like Insull, Mellon, Dawes and Morgan, as they robbed a nation of its confidence, its credit, and its substances, and have piled their vaults full of worthless mortgages and other securities, as the officials piled up billions for themselves; now they are in every state, 26 have responded, urging moratoriums, to be followed by this demand that their dirty loot be taken off their hands, in the name of protecting THE PEOPLE and small banks.

This ECONOMIST from the East was not a chance visitor. There was one in every state capitol this week, and last, and will stay on the job, sowing lies.

What is the matter with Texas? She is in the grip of the most merciless ring of hijackers known to history, and the fires of revolution grow apace. A man from Fort Worth said this morning: "All Fort Worth needed yesterday to start it was a leader who had the courage to step out and fire the first gun, and it would have been off." Boys of the Weekly Press, the people have ONLY YOU to stand between them and fratricide. For God's sake wake up and fire your communities with patriotic zeal.

REDISTRICTING

Redistricting gets off to a bad start. The veteran senator from Elkhart, the Hon. Julian P. Greer, has introduced another bill which promises to extend, even farther, his reputation as a trouble-maker.

His bill would do some amazing things. For instance, in the middle of great congressional sea defined as his 7th district he places an island, Harris County, and calls it the 8th.

Then the senator blows hot and cold. To some 180,000 people in his 17th, he gives one congressman; he is the magnanimous Senator Greer.

WANTED—To buy all you hand shelled milling corn.—Flippin Food Store.

But to the 294,000 people in his 10th, he gives no more, and the magnanimous Senator Greer becomes the niggardly Senator Greer.

He permits each group of 262,000 real "down east" Texans to name a congressman; but in West and Southwest Texas he cannot spare a representative to less than 271,000 citizens. These figures are obtained by averaging the populations in his East Texas districts numbered 1, 2, 3, and 21, and his West Texas district numbered 15, 16, 18 and 19.

Some of his districts are grotesque—if not worse. His 15th, for example, is a sway-backed monstrosity that begins at the mouth of the Rio Grande and loses itself in the sheep and cattle ranges of latitudes lying north of the State capitol—Texas Opinion.

Eugene Brown presented us with one of those old pre-depression silver dollars this week on his subscription. Prosperity must be around the corner as we have seen several of those old wagon wheels of late.

Be here Monday, for Tradesday.

He Gets Cash for His Champion Beef

Nelson Ainsworth, farm boy, didn't know when he brought his 950-pound baby steer to the Amarillo Fat Stock show that he was going to go home with $627 in cash money in his pocket. His steer won first prize and sold for 66c a pound to a major oil company, which donated it for resale to Amarillo charities. Nelson got cash, and kissed his calf goodbye when it was sold.

WHAT MUST A YOUNG GIRL KNOW BEFORE MARRIAGE?

There is a true story of an ingenious Budapest bookseller, who—faced with hard times—advertised that he had for sale a volume of information indispensable for a young girl contemplating matrimony. He said that this book would be found—not what every young girl is told before marriage—but what she will find it indispensable to know.

Thousands sent their mail orders. Then—complaints began to pour in. Finally an outraged man brought the bookseller into court. He said that he sent for one of these compendia of indispensable information . . . and that he received by mail a 19th Century Cook-Book, "Lazy Little Lulu Learns Cookery." He wanted the bookseller found guilty of obtaining money under false pretenses. . . .

But the judge acquitted him, saying that he was in thorough accord with the bookseller's views that a knowledge of cooking was of primary importance to the prospective bride.

The modern newspaper could be advertised truthfully in the very same way. The most indispensable knowledge to a young wife is knowing what to buy . . . how to get the most for her money . . . how—on a limited budget—to keep her home fresh, new, attractive . . . how to dress herself and her children inexpensively, yet in the very latest styles . . . how to serve on her table, foods of the most dependable quality.

In other words—the advertising that appears in your local newspaper contains information of real value . . . NEWS! Announcements of the latest and best in the shopping world. This is indispensable information to every woman, especially to those with families. It helps them run their homes successfully. Surely that is what every woman must know!

New Anti-Gasoline Boot-Legging Law Has Teeth

Austin.—The shroud of darkness that has robbed Texas of $4,000,000 in tax revenue yearly and permitted development of a tremendous "racket" in the gasoline business, has been torn away by the teeth of the new gas tax enforcement law, in the opinion of close observers at the capitol.

The bill, passed by both houses, was signed by the Governor Tuesday. It became effective immediately as an emergency measure, and repeals all previous legislation on the subject.

The new law makes deliberate evasion of the gasoline tax a felony, with fines of from $100 to $5,000, jail sentences of from one to six months and penitentiary terms up to two years.

It creates a motor fuel tax division under the state comptroller, with two lawyers and a full force of investigators, auditors, chemists, etc., yet at no new cost to the taxpayer, for a fraction of one percent of the gas tax is set aside to pay them. Their activities are expected to recover at least four million dollars a year.

The new law sets a chemist standard for gasoline. Provisions of the law dealing with manufacture, transportation and marketing of gasoline are regarded as "thief proof" as possible. Complete sets of interlocking records must be kept, from the run of crude oil until the gasoline goes into the motorist's car. They must be kept open to inspection at any time. Books must also be kept on kerosene, naphtha and other tax free fuels commonly blended with gasoline, and retailers may be checked to see if they have sold such fluids under their proper names. This will be a serious check on blending, the commonest form of tax evasion, by which a retailer mixes tax-free fluids with tax-paid gasoline, and collects tax on the entire amount.

The old familiar answer of "I don't know" to official questioners is now outlawed. The records must show. Every dealer must post the gas tax separately from the price of gasoline, so that a motorist with average intelligence can draw his own conclusions.

And every dealer must show the name of the firm which paid the tax.

Even trucks, tank cars and other vehicles that transport motor fuel must be ready at all times to give proof that the tax has been paid. Every truck driver must carry a manifest showing the type and amount of his cargo, its origin, destination and amount of tax paid. In addition, every dealer must record the number of any truck bringing him motor fuel.

The Texas Good Roads Association, which favored the new law, pointed out today the fact that every peace officer in Texas is empowered to stop and investigate any carrier, and urged them to do so. Only by general interest and by widespread public education can this $2,000,000 be recovered for the motorists, and $1,000,000 for schools and $1,000,000 for the repayment of county bonds, they said.

SKY-TOWERS, BLIMP, AND BALLOON OFFER AIR VIEWS OF FAIR

See the 1933 World's Fair—and see Chicago—from the sky.

A variety of bird's-eye views will be offered visitors to A Century of Progress.

From the two 625-foot towers supporting the great "Sky Ride," the great thrill feature of the Fair, one will be able to gaze across the blue waters of Lake Michigan to the Indiana shoreline to the south, while north, south, and west the busy chimneys of Chicago's myriad industries will rise in endless parade.

Those really air-minded can go much higher for their views. An observation balloon, electrically operated, will carry passengers 1,000 feet into the skies of Chicago. An airship ride is offered by the Good-year Tire and Rubber company in its dirigible Puritan, which will carry six passengers a trip on fifteen minute air tours of the Fair grounds and surrounding areas.

This "blimp," already in service, operates from a base below the Travel and Transport building.

With horseflesh the cheapest in many years, you rarely hear of a horse thief. But one was convicted and given a pen sentence at Odessa last week.

Grandson Of Crockett Edits Weekly Paper

Granbury.—In a thin frame building near the city square here, a 76 year old editor-printer, the only surviving grandson of David Crockett, busily sets type for his weekly newspaper.

Ashley W. Crockett is one of Texas' few living echoes of the tragic battle of the Alamo, when David Crockett, frontiersman from Tennessee, forfeited his life with his Texas comrades.

A few miles from the print shop is another memento of those historic days. In the old cemetery at Acton is the grave of Mrs. David Crockett. Above it rises a white stone shaft. On top is the figure of a woman, her left hand shading her eyes against the sun, facing westward, watching for the return of a husband.

As early as 1876, this woman's grandson, Ashley Crockett, became associated with a weekly newspaper then known as the Granbury Vidette, meaning "outpost."

Later the name was changed to Granbury Graphic, finally to the Hood County Tablet. Crockett has edited the Tablet since the '80's. Now bent and grey, he still edits the copy, sets the type and sends the paper to press on Thursday afternoons.

Other Converts To Our Feeding Operations

Another convert to the South Plains as a cattle feeding and meat producing area, was made in Lubbock last week during the third annual Quality Meat Show, in the person of George W. Scaling, Ft. Worth cattle buyer for Armour & Co. Perhaps not exactly a convert, as Mr. Scaling is familiar with this territory, but a strong booster was added to the list.

With Mr. Scaling was a group of Fort Worth commissionmen who attended the show. They likewise, although perhaps more familiar with the territory than the buyer, are all leaving more enthusiastic over the show and sale and the area, than they have ever been.

While here Mr. Scaling took time to run around the territory and inspect cattle feeding operations. He visited those of Fred Snyder and associates at Levelland and Whiteface; W. R. Hearst at Brownfield; Dr. E. I. Barr, south of Slaton; the Pete Boeson pens at Sudan and several other places there, as well as local pens.

"You are producing a beef cattle out here that is in demand, not only in Los Angeles and Fort Worth, but in Chicago and Kansas City," said Mr. Scaling. "You are feeding a class of cattle that I think is in demand all the time. It is a light, tidy type.

The public, the buyer pointed out, is not buying as large steaks and meat as it formerly did. Where a loin or porterhouse steak from a 1400 to 1500 pound steer used to be in demand in hotels, a steak from an 800 to 1200 pound steer is now sought. "Again, the families are not as large, and with the larger steaks, there is meat left over," he added.

Most of the cattle on feed, Mr. Scaling added, were showing a good job. Some feeders were doing a better job than others.

"The meat show and the calf sale are among the best projects that Lubbock is sponsoring, according to Mr. Scaling. Buyers find it an opportunity to get in closer touch with farmers and producers of beef.

Armour & Co. do not buy cattle direct from the cattleman or farmer, but at the major cattle yards thru the commission houses.—Lubbock Avalanche.

The Human Heart Performs A Mighty Work

Austin.—Pumping 15 gallons of blood per hour is the astonishing work of the heart, according to Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. The heart is about the size of a man's fist; it never sleeps, loafs or takes a vacation from the beginning of life to the end. The only rest it gets is between beats. Yet with all the work the heart has to do it does not give out suddenly unless it has been injured or ill-treated.

Under the pressure of work, the average person neglects his heart, and unwittingly abuses it. The chief cause of heart trouble, aside from deterioration of old age, is rheumatic fever, acute infectious diseases, chronic infections, syphilis, to abrupt return to activity after a serious illness, too strenuous exercise, and overweight may be a factor.

Many of the signs which you may think is heart trouble can be caused by some other disorder. Indigestion, lung trouble and nervousness may cause pain near the heart, shortness of breath, fainting and irregularity of beat. If you have any of these symptoms, do not try to diagnose the condition yourself, but go to your doctor for an examination. He will be able to find out what is wrong and tell you that your heart is sound. Have an examination every year and follow your doctor's advice.
