

Congress Leaves Roosevelt Free Hand

After three months of record-making passage of some of the most record-breaking laws in the history of the country, the extra session of the 73rd Congress adjourned, leaving the affairs of the nation almost wholly in the hands of the President. But while Congress has adjourned it will not be entirely idle until its first regular session which, under the newly ratified 20th amendment, convenes in January. There are rumors of another extra session in the fall, providing emergencies arise which necessitate congressional action. With the broad powers conferred on him, however, it is not likely that the President will find it necessary to call on the lawmakers before the regular session.

The general impression may be that Congress turned everything over to President Roosevelt in order to go home for a glorious vacation until the first of the year. Such is not the case, however. During the summer and fall exactly a dozen investigations are to be carried on.

In case the extra session worked so fast that you were not able to keep up with the output of the legislative mill the House passed every measure requested by the President. The Senate passed all the requested legislation except two bills—the one giving the president power to declare arms embargoes and the bill to permit the appointment of a non-resident as governor of Hawaii. The Glass-Steagall bank reform bill was not requested by the administration but is regarded as one of the most important measures passed by the extra session.

Congress was called into special session on March 9 to deal with the banking emergency. In the three months that followed it passed 14 major pieces of legislation which are expected to save the government almost $900,000,000 annually. These measures make the President virtual manager of the country with the broadest powers ever conferred on any president of the United States. Then in the order of their importance to the country as a whole, the measures and what they mean are, briefly:

1.—The Industrial Recovery Public Works Act aimed to create an emergency partnership between the government, industry and labor, and authorizing a three billion dollar national public works program, financed by new taxes, designed to put millions back to work.

2.—Farm Relief—Farm Mortgage Relief—Inflation, the great experiment in agricultural rehabilitation, combining domestic allotment, acreage leasing, option plan and equalization taxes on processors of seven major farm products; providing two billion dollars for farm mortgage relief; consolidating all farm credit agencies (all designed to restore the farmer's income and relieve him of his mortgage burdens), and giving the President three sorts of inflationary powers.

3.—Emergency banking act taking the country off the gold standard, providing for the reopening of banks after the bank holiday and giving the President war-time control over credits, currency, etc.

4.—Glass-Steagall Bank Reform Act regulating private banking practices, extending branch banking and divorcing investment affiliates from banks.

5.—Securities Control Act, setting up machinery for publicity of private issues of stocks and bonds—regarded as the most drastic "blue sky" law ever passed by Congress.

6.—Gold Clause Repeal Act, canceling the gold clause in all government and private bonds.

7.—Wagner-Lewis Act providing $500,000,000 jobless relief—direct doles to the states and municipalities for hunger relief.

8.—Wagner Jobless Exchange Act carrying $4,000,000 a year to set up in the states a state-federal system of free employment bureaus.

9.—Economy Act cutting federal costs by 25 percent which the administration claims will reduce the operating budget by $1,000,000,000 or more and make balancing possible in the near future.

10.—Home Owners Mortgage Relief Act carrying $2,000,000,000 for refinancing small homes.

11.—Railroad Relief Act to help the country's carriers get back on a paying basis, and creating a federal co-ordinator of transportation.

12.—Act creating Civilian Conservation Corps and authorizing the enrollment of 275,000 men for forestry conservation.

13.—The act legalizing 3.2 percent beer which is expected to bring to the treasury $150,000,000 annually.

14.—Muscle Shoals bill providing for governmental operation of the power plant and for development of the whole Tennessee Valley under the Tennessee Vally authority.

Sanders Family Moved To Littlefield Tues.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Sander and children bade farewell to Brownfield as home, and loaded out for their future home at Littlefield Tuesday of this week. Earlier in the year, Mr. Sanders was elected Supt. of the Littlefield schools, and being much larger than the local schools and a better future opening, he accepted the position. Of course the Sanders family will visit here occasionally. They have too many good friends not to do so.

Mr. Sanders came to us from Ralls, Texas, two years ago, and as superintendent, has made rapid progress in leading our schools to a higher plane despite adverse conditions. He not only has worked well with the board of trustees, but with the faculty and student body, and we are sure he will make good at Littlefield. The Herald has always found him a genial fellow, reasonable in all his undertakings and beliefs. He has furnished this paper with more information about the progress of our school than any predecessor since we have been here. He was a firm believer in publicity and practiced what he preached. He also believed in having all the printing done at home that could be done here.

He came to the Herald office on Monday afternoon to say good bye and have his paper changed. He thanked us profusely for our cooperation, and stated that he wanted us to tell all the folks through the Herald how much Mrs. Sanders and himself had enjoyed their two years stay here, and to thank the people in general for their cooperation. This family will be greatly missed in our community, as they were fine civic workers and had the interests of the community at heart.

As Predicted, a Good Crowd Was in Monday

No, Trades Day lacks a heap of being dead in Brownfield, despite the fact that old mercury probably went to a new high Monday, and not much prospects of rain during the day. Some are still planting, it is true, but most people had finished, and as there has not been enough rain this year to make grass boom, most of the farmers, their wives and children were in Monday to trade and to see what was going on.

Most of the merchants had prepared for the day with some real bargain specials, and the stores were busy places, especially in the afternoon. In conversation with some of these merchants, they informed us that they had a real busy day, and they and their clerks were dog tired when night fell, and they had another chance to rest and an early to bed and a good snooze.

There was some trading it is true, on the "Yard," but it was so all-fired hot most of the men, and practically all the farm ladies sought the friendly shade of the trees in the court park. Six souls were made happy with the gifts of money as usual and of course enjoyed the day much the better than their less fortunate neighbors.

The burden of conversation with most of the farmers was, "when is it going to rain." The other fellow in most cases admitted they didn't know. But some with a shy grin would cast their eyes heavenward and hazard some kind of prognostication, just to please his fellowman, we suppose. But it did rain around close by that night.

10.—Home Owners Mortgage Relief Act carrying $2,000,000,000 for refinancing small homes.

11.—Railroad Relief Act to help the country's carriers get back on a paying basis, and creating a federal co-ordinator of transportation.

12.—Act creating Civilian Conservation Corps and authorizing the enrollment of 275,000 men for forestry conservation.

13.—The act legalizing 3.2 percent beer which is expected to bring to the treasury $150,000,000 annually.

14.—Muscle Shoals bill providing for governmental operation of the power plant and for development of the whole Tennessee Valley under the Tennessee Vally authority.

Despite the fact that all these important measures were passed by the special session only enacted into law one percent of the bills introduced, the other 99 percent failing to get the necessary action. In other words there were approximately 8,100 bills introduced during the three months session and only 81 were passed. Compared with the 14 major measures outlined above the other, 67 were of minor importance.—Pathfinder.

The Old Town Was Deserted on Fourth

Some of the neighboring towns may have had the crowds on the "Gland and Glorious Fourth" but they had certainly left Brownfield to celebrate. There were a few business men seen in the forenoon, and once in awhile a stray farmer could be seen moping along as if he had lost his best friend, or was hunting the tomb of a friend in a strange cemetery, but he could not seem to find anything. It looked more like church time on Sunday instead of a week day. A few put out their flags early in the morning, but there was none but tourists to see them, and they were far apart.

But it is just as well we guess that the day was like that. It was a national holiday, and most people wanted to get out of town and see how the other man's burg looked, or how the crops looked—if any—on the way over. The time was when this city always scared up some kind of a celebration either on July 4th or some time in August. But we have become too POOR for that now, and all we ask is that folks stay away and just let us pine away. One year we remember that there was a general picnic or barbecue given by the American Legion in July, followed by a Farm Organization barbecue and picnic in August and to cap the climax, the crowd was fed during the County Fair.

Anyway, Tahoka, Lamesa and other places got perhaps enough out of Brownfield and Terry county people to have had a good sized crowd here if we had pulled a picnic. But as stated above, we guess our folks got sorry for the poor Lamesites and Tahokaites and wanted to go over and spend some money with them. They certainly went somewhere that day.

In the afternoon, there was nothing open here but the drug stores and the Herald office, and the only three men on the streets were Ed Shelton, T. I. Brown and Dr. Stevens, according to information given out by our spy.

Crowd Pays Final Tribute to Arbuckle

New York, July 1.—Broadway bade farewell today to Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, rotund comedian who made millions laugh in the days of the silent motion picture.

Some 300 persons crowded into the Broadway funeral church for services for the comedian who died in his sleep early Thursday. A crowd estimated by police at 500 gathered outside.

There was no disorder, except for the crowd in the street rushing close to the hearse as the casket appeared. This furnished a marked contrast to the funeral of Rudolph Valentino, screen star, which was held from the same place and at which persons fought for places and police reserves had to be called out.

The widow, Mrs. Addie McPhail Arbuckle, was dressed in plain white. She was supported by friends in leaving the chapel for Fresh Pond, Middle Village, Queens, where the body was cremated.

Campbell Charged With Selling State Jobs

Nacogdoches, July 1. A. B. Campbell, 52, district supervisor for the livestock sanitary commission was arrested last night on a felony charge "for selling state jobs and accepting money for appointments."

The commission discharged Campbell yesterday.

Idle folks have the least leisure.

New Gasoline Tax Law Brings Results

Austin, July 1.—Comptroller Geo. H. Shepherd wore a broad grin today as he announced to the harassed taxpayers of Texas the first comparative figures on collection of the gasoline tax under the drastic new enforcement law. Here is his good news:

In the great East Texas area alone, gasoline tax payments have increased 150 percent in 90 days. At the May rate, the state's tax income will be increased over two million dollars a year from this single district.

This $2,000,000 "melon" the comptroller emphasized, will be only a fraction of the state's added revenue as a result of the new law, for it includes no returns from the other five district offices he has created. In these, the bulk of the increases are expected to come from prevention of blending tax-free fuels with gasoline, he said. This practice, as well as the out-and-out evasion, is a felony offense, now.

"The remarkable record in east Texas proves that we were right," Comptroller Shepherd declared. "In February, the tax was paid in that district on 2,826,847 gallons of gasoline. In March the figures leaped to 4,011,227 gallons, in April to 5,534,313 and in May to 7,004,463 gallons, or 250 percent of the February income. Furthermore, this is only a beginning, if the people will be watchful of evaders and help us. We do not want prisoners. We want the tax money. Getting all of it will help everybody."

W. O. Huggins, president of the Texas Good Roads Association, added to the Comptroller's statement a reminder of the widespread good which will come from these recovered taxes.

"We must not forget," he said, "that under the present distribution of his tax, $500,000 a year has been added already to the common school fund, $500,000 to the county bond refunding income and $1,000,000 to the highway fund. It is literally finding money for the state."

Predicts Prohi Cause To Go Right Onward

Milwaukee, July 4.—Mrs. Ella Alexander Boole, about to retire after eight years as national president of the Women's Christian Temperance union, predicts the cause of prohibition would survive and move on to a world conquest.

Into the world wide fight against alcohol she proposed to throw all her strength. And when the convention elects officers today she will say that she wishes to drop the national presidency so she may devote all her time to her office as president of the World Women's Christian Temperance union.

"Leaving a sinking ship? I should say not!" Mrs. Boole asserted. "Let there be no misinterpretation of my action. I remain with the cause, merely move over to a larger front."

"With slow and sometimes faltering steps prohibition makes progress throughout the earth," Mrs. Boole said.

Farmer Prays for Rain—Killed by Lightning

Pecos, Texas, June 30.—Catherine Carrasco, 60 year old Saragosa farmer, prayed for rain to break the 8-month drouth in this part of West Texas.

It rained Thursday. As Carrasco hurried from his field, a lightning bolt hit him in the head. Death was instantaneous.

'Wets Have Won Only Wet States'—Wilson

"There is, we are told, a wet sweep. This may be true, but certainly it is not yet definitely shown. The wets have not yet carried a single state where the dries had a right to expect victory. There was certainly a chance in Indiana and a remote chance in Delaware, but no more."

"It may be that the wets will carry other states which the dries have a right to expect to win, but they have not yet done it. They have been skimming the cream."

The above was taken from the last issue of the Editor's Clip Sheet of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, which is edited by Dr. Clarence True Wilson. Since Dr. Wilson wrote the above, both, both Iowa and West Virginia have joined the ranks of the wets by husky majorities. So, in his next release, he will have to revise his figures some, as both these states have always been considered dry states by both pros, and antis.

Red Cross Swimming Classes Complete Work

The Swimming and Life Saving class closed its work with good results on Thursday of last week. All the persons who stayed through for the full course of instruction learned to swim. Several of the folks passed the Red Cross beginners test and several others the Swimmers test. Two boys passed the Junior Life Saving Test.

The enrollment of the class was as follows:

M. J. Craig, Herby Lees, Mary Jean Lees, Ruby Nell Smith, J. E. Smith, Bettie Joe Savage, Kathryn Pynn, Majorie Sue Bynum, Alfred Smith, Mary Nell Adams Mildred Adams, Irene Adams, Margene Griffin, Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Dave Finney James Powell, Windell Smith, Mattie Joe Gracey, Bill McGowan, Stella Maurine Hensley, Mrs. Wayne Allen Maxine Hill, Marien Hill, Twilla Graham, Mrs. Bowers, Mrs. Spenser, Gene Hill, Jackie Holt, and Elizabeth Ann Smith.

Those who successfully passed the beginners test were Herbie Lees, Elizabeth Ann Smith, Kathryn Bynum, Majorie Sue Bynum, Irene Adams, Ester Ruth Smith, Mildred Adams, Mrs. Dave Finney, and Mary Nell Adams. Those who passed the more advanced swimmers test were: James Powell, Twilla Graham, Margene Griffin, Stella Maurine Hensley, and Bill Savage. The two boys who passed the Junior Life Saving test were Bill McGowan and Windell Smith. These boys made exceptional good grades and can really do the work. Other persons not mentioned, learned to swim, but not efficiently enough to pass either of the above mentioned tests.

Liquor Question Not Only One Up Aug. 26th

Besides the liquor questions, there will be several other important things to be voted on during the year. In addition to the two liquor problems which will be decided on August 26, there will be two other unrelated problems for the voters to decide.

Six other constitutional amendments will be decided on at the general election in 1934. On the slate for August 26th, are:

Modifying the state constitution to permit the sale of 3.2 beer; a state referendum to say whether Texas will vote repeal of the 18th amendment; conferring home rule on counties of 62,000 population; authorizing the legislature to issue $20,000,000 in bonds for unemployment; and perfecting the amendment exempting $3,000 homesteads from ad valorem taxes so as to include certain coastal counties within its provisions.

Among the issues for determination in the 1934 general election are the following: Permitting four year terms for city officers; abolishing the fee system; providing that taxes be equal and uniform, and classifying property for taxation; permitting changes in county boundaries and providing for the consolidation of counties.

Mr. W. F. McCracken of Lefores visited in the Treadaway home over the week end, and returned home Sunday with his infant daughter and Miss Mozelle Treadaway.

Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Graves spent the Fourth in Lubbock.

Santa Fe Ry Report on Texas Crop Conditions

Excepting in the Panhandle and western areas, general agricultural conditions in Texas are satisfactory, and crops are progressing favorably. Beneficial light to heavy showers occurred, with the exceptions noted, during the first half of June, but additional rains will be necessary to mature the growing crops.

Wheat harvest in the northwest is at its peak; yield variable, but generally low because of dry weather. Production for the state probably will not exceed 16,000,000 bushels, compared with 29,580,000 last year, and the five year average of 32,559,000 bushels. Quality of wheat threshed to date generally has been good.

Most of the state has had a month of favorable weather for satisfactory cotton crop progress. The crop as a whole rapidly is overcoming a late start, but is still slightly behind the average. Drough, hot winds and blowing sands have made cotton prospects poor in the northwest and south plains areas. In the central areas an average crop is in sight, and about 20 percent of the plants are blooming, and moisture and weather conditions are favorable. Northern and eastern sections will harvest an average crop if conditions continue normal. These sections had suffered from excessive rains, but are now becoming dry, although sufficient moisture probably remains for current needs. Southern and coastal areas are assured an average crop or better.

Whether farmers will agree to destroy a part of their growing crop in order to raise prices on the remainder cannot be foretold at this time. A lively campaign is in progress now.

Tokio Boy Killed By Lightning Bolt

Clifton Blevins, 20 year old Tokio boy was instantly killed last Thursday afternoon while running a cultivator on the Yoakum county farm of his uncle, David C. Blevins. It is said that the bolt literally split the hat brim of the youth as if it had been cut by a knife. The team was not badly hurt. There was not much rain in that immediate section.

The body was brought to Brownfield, followed by a large concourse of people from that section, and the body was laid to rest in the Brownfield cemetery.

County Official Denied Bond in Tatum Killing

Lovington, N. M., July 1.—J. H. Simpson, Lea county commissioner, was bound over to district court action yesterday without bail after some 30 witnesses had testified at a preliminary hearing that he was involved in the fatal shooting of Oscar Adams at Tatum, N. M., last Monday.

Simpson was returned to the county jail here where he will be held pending his trial. It was brought out during the hearing that there had been a misunderstanding between the two men over a period of years and that both had been known to carry guns.

Five Day Old Hobo Veteran of Freights

Clovis, N. M., July 1.—"Hobo Bill," five day-old knight of the box car, blew in here late yesterday on a freight from the east. It was a hot and dusty trip and Bill's face was pretty badly blistered, but aside from that he seemed to have suffered no ill effects of his trip.

"Hobo Bill" was born in Dalhart, Texas, after his mother, Mrs. Flora Pearl Farmer of Bolinger, Ala., was removed from a freight car in the yards there and taken to a hospital.

Since his birth five days ago, the baby boy has ridden on three freight trains, but probably will settle down now for awhile. Mrs. Farmer came here to visit her sister, Mrs. Annie Crocker.

Mrs. J. L. Randal and daughter, Mrs. Percy Spencer and children, went to Palo Pinto county last week end, where the three sisters of Mrs. Randal, Mesdames Farrar, Carley Randal and Harris met at the home of the later for a family reunion. This is the first time the four sisters have all been together in 20 years.

A cotton classing school will open at Tech College Monday.

City Not in Position To Put in New Mains

The Herald had in mind the possibility of getting the city to put some large water mains up the streets that were skipped when the original water system was built here, and had a talk to that effect with Mayor Bell this week. It just seemed to us that we were using or proposing to use a lot of money we are to receive from the Public Works Recovery act to put in projects for purely pleasure, and it occurred to us that some of them could be used that would benefit the home owners of the city. But as usual, we suppose we were mistaken.

Mr. Bell stated that he thought a portion of these funds could be used to put down the mains, and we had in mind using man power labor instead of ditching machines. But unlike the RFC funds, it seems that the folks at Washington want us to use these public work funds to build pleasure projects and forget the depression. So mote it be.

Anyway, when the waterworks were put in here, it was found that bonds sufficient to put mains in all the streets had not been voted, as the reservoir and well cost a goodly sum of the funds, so it was up to the city council to distribute the mains to the best advantage. A line was run down Cardwell, skipping Tate and Broadway, one on Main, and several more skips. As a consequence, the property owners on the streets that were missed had great expense in piping across a block or two and a street, and several had to go in ca-hoots. And when one of these party lines is in use, the others just as well lay off as there is no pressure save for one at a time. Every one of the main streets should have a main so that property owners could have individual connection.

But Mr. Bell says that the mains would cost a sight of money to be borne wholly by the city, and as they have been to great expense on the well, this piping could not possibly be purchased this year without raising taxes, and that is not to be thought of this year. Another time, perhaps.

Speaking of using the RFC funds, we have heard that it has been stated on the streets that these funds were used in building and finishing the new well. This is not a fact. The material and pump were purchased and paid for out of the city's own funds. RFC labor was used, and the city was in its rights to do this just the same as if they had used it on the streets or elsewhere. No RFC funds were used for material of any sort for the new well.

And speaking of the new well, Mr. Bell informed us that the new well tested 500 gallons per minute, and he believed it could be developed into a 750 gallon per minute well.

Federal Farm Loans Explained by Rogers

Loans to farmers by the land bank commissioner, as authorized by the emergency farm mortgage act, are intended to be used as entirely supplemental to the federal land bank loans.

R. S. Rodgers, who as a director of the federal land bank in Houston, is Lubbock county correspondent of the farm loan commission, made the explanation Saturday. Many of the applications taken here, he said, are for "straight federal bank loans with the idea of supplementing them." The two loan plans are complimentary rather than competitive.

Decisions Expected
Thirty to 40 applications had been sent to A. P. Graves, farm credit administration agent for Texas, from Lubbock county since taking of the applications was begun here about June 12, Mr. Rogers said. Mr. Graves' office is in Houston. Decisions upon the applications first group of which possibly will be had here within the next several weeks, Mr. Rodgers said.

Territory served by Mr. Rogers, whose office is in the Citizens National bank building, embraces much of the Lubbock trade territory overlapping into Crosby, Lynn, Terry, Hockley and Cochran counties.

Referring again to the supplementary object of loans made under the emergency farm act, approved May 12, Mr. Rogers said many farmers could not borrow enough to tide them over from the land bank alone but could obtain a sufficient amount from a supplementary loan from the land bank commissioner. The land bank sometimes lends on security of a first mortgage and the commissioner to the same farmer upon a second mortgage.—Lubbock Avalanche.

That old boy down in east Texas who started plowing up his cotton just as soon as he signed up for acreage, might stand a chance to lose both his cotton and his labor. The safest and only way for the farmers is to wait for orders from Washington before they plow up a row. If insufficient acreage is not promised, the plow up plan will be abandoned, if we understand aright.

Secretary J. E. Shelton, of the Chamber of Commerce, in his article this week, seems to think the Herald was attacking all his projects, when as a matter of fact, we only mentioned one. Well, that is what we get into by butting in where our advice was neither asked for nor desired. We have men capable of figuring our needs, and we regret we ever mentioned the matter. Be assured we won't do so again, Mr. Shelton.

No, the Herald is no bureau of information. It is hardly capable of knowing anything about its own affairs. But our friend A. B. Davis, of Lubbock, seems to think otherwise. He wrote us a hurry, hurry, letter and a complicated questionnaire wanting to know how many people were unemployed in Terry county. All we know is that there appears to be several, some of which have been on the unemployed list for the past twenty odd years for no reason that we know of. There are perhaps a lot of others that would work if offered a job.

We heard a man talking in one of the barber shops lately, who had just returned from the east Texas oil fields, who told a pitiful story of the way some of the old time darkies have been cheated out of their homes and good oil royalties by scheming racketeers and shyster lawyers. The old negroes are asked to sign some instrument to develop oil on their land, and later find that they have signed a deed to their farm. One case this man told about, the old negro was actually kidnapped at the point of a gun, carried to a court-house down there and forced to sign his home away. Such justice! If it be true, and this man says it is, the State of Texas should send these crooks to the pen for life. They have the negroes afraid to say anything in their own behalf, and especially to a stranger.

Two or three times lately we have got so dazed and mad that we wanted to cuss good and loud. We have had several letters from the Graphic Arts Society and the Texas Press Association wanting the Herald to join them in trying to stop cut-throat competition and restore prosperity to the printing and publishing industry, raise wages, and "whatnot." But we have decided to let them clean house right down there at Dallas first, and then we may raise some kind of hue and cry. For the past two years some of those birds have been printing and delivering circulars in this city cheaper than we can buy the paper, almost, and as a consequence, we had to let a hand that was spending some $1500 a year in Brownfield go, and put another man on part time. And we are sure that the other west Texas small town weeklies have felt the same crushing competition. Let the big city printers first clean house, then they can ask the weeklies to cooperate with some degree of consistency.

Editor Estlack says the racketeers in the good old U. S. A. have bested the bandits of China so badly in the art of kidnapping, that the latter have practically ceased to practice the trade. For disgusting, revolting and dirty kidnapers, the United States has every other nation backed off the map. And the sad part is that the racketeers seem to have the big city "law" up a tree. Like Mr. Estlack of the Clarendon Leader, the Herald is of the opinion that the federal authorities will have to take a hand, and we hope will catch and electrocute every kidnapper or their sympathizers in the United States. Such a breed of dogs (apologies to Rover) has no right to exist in a free country.

Editor Hill of the Tahoka News says that he will promise to forgive Mr. Roosevelt several other faults if he will restore prosperity to the farmers. We know one of the faults he holds against the administration, because it is wet. But what the others are, we can't possibly fathom. In fact we thought E. I. and FDR were on right good terms aside from the fact that the former is dry as Sahara, and the later moderately wet. We can't ever remember that Editor Hill found any fault with Mr. Hoover during his administration. If so, we did not see it expressed editorially in his paper, and we read his fine paper mighty close.

ONLY ONE ISSUE

"The issue in Texas is not liquor alone. It is Fergusonism," exclaimed Rev. J. Frank Norris in Fort Worth Friday, announcing a series of joint debates on the question with Farmer Jim.

No doubt Mr. Norris and other dry leaders figure it would be advantageous to their cause to have this wisdom of the step does not pan out in the light of last year's primary election. It might be the part of wisdom for the drys to stick to their knitting. The issue is not Fergusonism, but repeal of the 18th amendment. Texans have fought enough battles over Fergusonism to do them quite a while. There is nothing to be gained by mixing up a vital issue like the 18th amendment with the political fortunes of any man.

The only issue before the voters of Texas on August 26 is simply whether or not to retain the 18th amendment in the constitution. That is the only question with which the people have to deal. What Jim Ferguson thinks of preachers and what Frank Norris thinks of Jim Ferguson have no place in the picture.—Abilene News.

SON OF A DALLAS EDITOR INVENTS NEW TYPEWRITER

Chicago, June 30.—At the Century of Progress Exposition there has just been held an international commercial school contest in typewriting. The first, second and third prizes in typewriting, and second in dictaphone transcription, were won by a small group that had used a new patented keyboard devised by Prof. William L. Dealey and August Dvorak of Seattle.

Dr. Dealey, who is the son of James C. Dealey of the Dallas News, studied finger motion work under Dr. Frank B. Gilbreth, the great engineering expert. Prof. Dvorak, son-in-law to Editor Dealey, is thoroughly versed in educational methods. These two professors made long experimental tests on the typewriter keyboard with the result that a rearrangement of the keys practically doubles the speed, yet with less fatigue to the fingers.

Many schools in the state of Washington are now testing the new keyboard and a few of the most proficient students from these schools were taken to Chicago to test the new system in world competition.

Some rain has fallen lately over the county, but this has not kept the weather from being about the hottest felt here in years. There is so much dry territory around, and none with any too much rain, that the ground itself is baking hot.

BOOTLEGGERS PASSES

Ours is a paternalistic government which, in theory at least, strives to help rather than injure its wards (everybody is a ward in this present scheme). But for all its conscientious striving the government often must hurt some while helping others.

Prohibition was undertaken to help the weak, to help certain types of business, to help the government, to help win the war. It enriched the bootlegger but impoverished the brewer and saloonkeeper. It made a certain type of professional reformer a puerile politician to whom the old-time politicians had to make themselves subordinate or retire.

Beer was brought back to help the weak, the government, certain kinds of business and to help beat the depression. It is helping the brewer and legitimate retailers of beer, but it is putting the bootlegger and wild-cat brewer and distiller out of business. The reformer who got his power from prohibition is in retirement and no doubt another sort of politician will come to take his place.

ONLY TEN PARDONS GIVEN BY GOV. MURRAY SO FAR

Oklahoma City, July 1.—In nearly two years and a half as governor of Oklahoma, William H. (Alfalfa) Murray issued only ten pardons. During that period, however, he released 611 convicts on parole and revoked 131 paroles issued by himself and previous governors.

The governor says he works on the theory that few pardons should be issued, but that deserving convicts should be released on paroles which may be revoked if they are arrested for other offenses.

Murray has not attempted to commute death sentences once they have been upheld by courts of appeal.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

The State of Texas.—To the Sheriff or any Constable of Terry County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Bert W. Stewart by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Terry County, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Brownfield, on the Fourth Monday in August, A. D. 1933, the same being the 28th day of August, A. D. 1933, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 24th day of June, A. D. 1933, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court as No. 1681, wherein Violet Stewart is Plaintiff and Bert W. Stewart is Defendant, and said petition alleging:

That for twelve months past Plaintiff was an actual bona fide citizen of the State of Texas, and resided in the county of Terry for the past six months preceding the filing of the petition. That Plaintiff and Defendant were legally married in April, 1925, and lived together as husband and wife until July 1931, and since said time have not lived together; Plaintiff alleges that during the time she and the defendant lived together that defendant was cruel to her striking and beating her and thereby inflicting serious bodily injury which caused great pain and humiliation to such an extent that their further living together is insupportable. That defendant left her in the State of Kansas destitute with two small children to care for. That defendant never supported plaintiff or their children. That they have two children, ages 5 and 7, and plaintiff is asking for the care, custody and education of them. Plaintiff prays for dissolution of the bonds of matrimony, and that she be granted a divorce from defendant, for the care, custody and control of said minor children, for costs of suit and for general and special relief in law and in equity to which she may be entitled to receive.

Herein fail not, but have you before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Brownfield, this the 24th day of June, A. D. 1933.

A BANK REFLECTS THE LIFE ABOUT IT

Loans and Investments on Which Condition of a Bank Depends Determined by the Kind of Business Surrounding It

POLITICAL and popular misapprehensions toward banking are due to little else than failure to realize that it is what the people themselves do that the condition of banking reflects, and that banking cannot of itself reflect events and conditions other than those that actually originate from surrounding circumstances.

The character of an institution's notes and investments indicates whether it is in the farm regions, a manufacturing center, a mercantile neighborhood or a great financial district, he says, and furthermore, besides identifying the institution as to its locality, a study of its notes will equally clearly indicate the economic conditions surrounding it.

"If a farm district bank's note history shows that its loans rise and fall with the normal cycle of production and marketing of the products of the region, it may be taken as an index of economic good health for the locality," he says. "But if, over a period, the loan volume shows a dwindling trend it may mean a region that is losing ground, becoming exhausted or being robbed of business by another community. Or if a large proportion of the loans are not paid at maturity but are chronically renewed, or if stocks or bonds or real estate have to be taken as additional security, these too have economic significances, reflecting perhaps crop failures, over-production or inefficient, high cost farming methods in a highly competitive national or world market, such as wheat. Inevitably all these facts are reflected in the condition of the local banks.

City Banks Too

"If the loans of a bank in a manufacturing or merchandising field show a smoothly running coordination with production and distribution they, too, mirror a healthy economic situation. Or there may be here also signs that reflect growing unfavorable conditions, such as excessive loan renewals, over-enthusiasm and therefore over-expansion of credit extended to makers or dealers in particular products, and similar circumstances. Similar conditions apply to banks engaged in financing the activities of the securities markets.

"The foregoing is merely suggestive of the infinite aspects of the life outwardly surrounding the banks which form and control their internal conditions. Although these facts seem obvious enough, the discussions and criticisms that have raged about the banks often appear to set them apart as somewhat separate from the lives of our people, casting forth a malignant influence upon agriculture, industry and trade from forces generated wholly within themselves.

"The truth of the matter is that the fate of the banks is inseparably interwoven with the fate of the rest of the people and of the nation. What happened to the country happened to the banks and what happened to the banks is in no way different or detached from what happened to the people. They are all part of the same pattern, of the same continuous stream of events. No one element in that stream can be called the cause of business depression.

"If the banks caused trouble to some of our people it was because they were irresistibly forced to pass on troubles that came to them from other people. These troubles impaired the values of their securities and customers' notes—and rendered some unable, in turn, to pay back to other customers their deposits that had been properly used to create these loans and investments. Unless these truths are kept continually in mind there is no such thing as approaching an understanding of the banking problem or of properly safeguarding the very heavy stake of the public in that problem."

Professor Piccard Plans New Flight Into Stratosphere From Soldier Field at A Century of Progress Exposition

Chicago, April 30.—Last summer Professor Auguste Piccard captured the world's imagination by soaring 53,850 feet above the earth into the stratosphere—in a hermetically-sealed aluminum sphere. He reached the greatest height ever attained by any living being and brought back a startling description of the strange world that lies beyond our atmosphere.

Because the ascent was made from the Dübendorf aerodrome near Zurich, Switzerland, only a few thousand people witnessed this historic event.

This summer, however, when the daring Swiss scientist-adventurer makes his next expedition into the stratosphere, he will probably start from Soldier Field on the grounds of A Century of Progress—Chicago's 1933 World's Fair—in the presence of hundreds of thousands of spectators.

Discusses His Plans Plans to make the World's Fair, which opens on June 1, the starting point for his next scientific excursion were disclosed by Professor Piccard when he visited A Century of Progress recently with his brother, Jean, as guest of Prof. Henry Crew, chief of the Exposition's pure science division. Conferences are now being held with American rubber and metal manufacturers.

The grounds of A Century of

Progress are a peculiarly fitting place for Professor Piccard to start because the Exposition itself is a huge demonstration of man's progress during the last century in scientific achievement—progress that Professor Piccard's new flight is admirably designed to dramatize.

In addition to this Chicago is the home of Professor Arthur Compton, winner of the Nobel prize for his discovery of the mysterious cosmic rays, which continuously bombard the earth from outer space and which may provide man with a new source of energy after his present fuel resources are exhausted. It is the observation of these mysterious rays that is the object of Professor Piccard's flights into the stratosphere.

The tremendous, startling possibilities involved in a successful solution of sources of energy that can be transformed into heat and power may be grasped mentally, by Professor Piccard's illustration: "Calculations show that energy liberated from the modification of atoms contained in six drops of water would suffice to light up a city for several hours."

Answers Queries

In making tentative plans for the flight, Professor Piccard replied to queries of those curious to know just what the upper regions, 10 miles or so above Chicago, looks like.

"The sky is beautiful, ten miles up—a bluish purple—almost black—but not quite dark enough to see the stars."

The practical side of Professor Piccard's expeditions into the stratosphere has already been demonstrated, he points out. Stratosplanes are already being constructed in various countries on principles developed in the aluminum sphere used on his last voyage. A flight between New York and Paris will undoubtedly be made in from six to eight hours by use of this new plane, he predicts.

The aluminum gondola in which Professor Piccard soared above the earth at Zurich, August 18, 1932, will be seen by visitors to the Exposition in the Hall of Science. It is a globe about six feet in diameter, hermetically sealed, equipped with observation windows, parachutes and breathing apparatus.

Willow Wells Worries

The Willow Wells district has been missed again by rain. Everything is still very dry. A few sprinkles fell Thursday and Sunday, but not sufficient to lay the dust. A cotton crop in this section is entirely out of the question. Perhaps we will get rain in time for a feed crop.

W. C. Cutrell, who has been in the W. O. W. hospital at San Antonio the past 17 months, gave his family and neighbors joyous surprise Friday by coming home. He is greatly improved and we hope he is back for a long time.

Quite a lot of the local men attended the cotton reduction meeting in Brownfield, Monday. This plan, which is in action now, won't help this district as we haven't any cotton to plow up. Our acreage is cut 100 percent.

Golden Temple Of Jehol At Chicago's World's Fair Discloses Romantic Episodes Of Chinese Emperors

Chicago, May 30.—All the legendary glamour, mystic rites of the Lama and Buddhist religions, and romantic episodes in the lives of Emperors who once ruled Chinese millions, have been brought to life for the western world in the resplendent Golden Temple of Jehol, at Chicago's 1933 World's Fair, A Century of Progress, which opens May 27.

Around the famed Golden Pavilion are woven some of the most colorful and stirring chapters in Oriental history. Bloodshed, court intrigues, the love affairs of kings, and the beginnings of a religion that once swayed the millions, have their part in the story unfolded for the Exposition visitor.

The Chinese Lama temple, originally built in 1767 at Jehol, the summer palace of Manchu emperors, is now crumbling to ruins. Here in Chicago it has been faithfully reproduced and will be preserved on the shores of Lake Michigan for future generations.

Brought in 23,000 Pieces It was brought over land and sea, with all its bright oriental rods and girds, by Dr. Sven Hedin, the famous Swedish explorer-author, for Vincent Bendix of Chicago. Reconstruction of the shrine in Jehol was the work of more than two years. More than 23,000 pieces of wood were cut and fashioned in fabricating the historic shrine.

Dr. Hedin was particularly suited for the task of seeking out a Chinese temple that would be typical of the Oriental type of architecture and at the same time tell something of the splendor and pomp of Celestial history.

While engaged in research work incidental to the building of the Lama shrine and in the collection of rare treasures which it houses, Dr. Hedin discovered many interesting facts concerning the decadence of Lamaism. He learned that while there were 600 Lamas, or priests of the faith in 1911, their number has diminished to 100 today. The earliest Lamaism, visitors to the Fair will be told, was a mixture of Buddhism and ancient native demon-worship, having been brought from India by Guru-Padma-Sambhava in 747. In its early history, a large number of complicated rites were developed, in which mystic adulations and sacrificial acts predominated.

Rose to Great Influence

Lamaism rose to great political influence during the thirteenth century when Kubla Khan, Emperor of China, gave it his sanction and protection. In 1261, the emperor recognized the religion after representatives of other faiths had been given an opportunity to compete for the honor in demonstrations of miracle-working and mysticism.

In succeeding centuries, the idea grew that Lamas, or high priests, were emanations from the gods, and had been reincarnated to protect religion on earth. The number of these "living gods" increased very rapidly until they occupied prominent places in almost all large temples in Tibet and Mongolia.

The Mongolians were converted to Lamaism for the second time about 1570, when Dalai Lama, the First, made a ceremonious visit to the King of the Tumul-Mongolians in the temple city of Kukulhoto. Since that day the Mongolians have been ardent worshippers of the Lamaistic code.

The Chinese Emperors of the Manchu dynasty, who ruled until China became a republic in 1911, found it to be highly politic to support Lamaism. The religion had a brilliant era of greatness in the reign of Ch'ien-Lung, 1736-96, under whose patronage the original Golden Pavilion of Jehol was built.

Treasures Unfolded

In its replica at A Century of Progress, temple bells, images of gods and dragons, prayer rugs, ceremonial robes, rare silks and tapestries and other treasures unfold for the Occidental visitor the colorful story of romance and intrigue that was enacted in and about the shrine during the centuries.

The student will find much to interest him in the Lama Temple, aside from the stories of court intrigue and romance woven around its existence. At the entrance is a "Laughing Buddha" made of solid wood covered with red gold lacquer, sitting on a broad chair of the same material.

Replica of the Golden Temple of Jehol, celebrated Chinese Lama Temple, at Chicago's 1933 World's Fair as viewed at night. It is a reproduction of the place of worship of the Manchu emperors.

CRAIG & McCLISH

OUR 23 YEAR COLUMN

We note from our issue of July 9, 1910, that we had a big picnic here on Saturday July 2nd in the Courthouse park, and that a big feed at the noon hour was enjoyed by all as well as much amusement that was provided by the committee, such as sack and potato races, and last but not the least a burro race.

This is the first time we have ever had the rare pleasure of chronicling our own marriage. In fact, we don't have even a faint recollection of ever having worked in double harness before.

Before some nervous reader fires in to bemoan us for our absentmindedness, we will tell you "she" was before her slaughter. Her name was Miss Texie Holden, and was and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Holden, and was dressed to kill, and he groom—that's us—had on some ght respectable clothes.

Texas Day at A Century of Progress

Railroad preparations to handle Texas Day trains to A Century of Progress—the Chicago World's Fair—on Wed., August 23, were announced yesterday by V. W. Baker, assistant passenger agent of the Wash-bash railroad.

More than 15,000 people, headed by Governor Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson, Texas woman governor, are expected to attend the celebration.

"For the convenience of those who plan to visit Chicago World's Fair," said Mr. Baker, "arrangements have been made to gather all trains from the state of Texas over the Missouri Pacific lines into St. Louis.

From there the World's Fair visitors will be concentrated on special trains and rushed into Chicago over the Wabash lines.

"In order to perfect the best concentration in the state itself, parties from the west portion will gather at Longview; those from the Rio Grande valley at Palestine as will parties from east Texas.

A benefit performance of Verdi's opera "Aida" will be the feature of the Texas Day celebration.

Vice-President John Nance Garner is expected to attend the performance as a guest of honor.

The papers every day are chuck full of optimism from every corner of this old United States.

Factories are firing up and the wheels are beginning to turn once more again.

More help is being employed, wages are being increased in almost every line of business.

People are beginning to buy more liberally. Dog-gone our sisters cats if it don't look like we have at last turned the "corner."

We have been trying to get around for three years. Never did see a corner with so many angles.

Look like there is going to be a fried chicken in every dinner pail and a couple of cars in every garage, but it took a Democrat to do it, and we mean a real sure enough old "HE" Democrat that has the interests of the common people at heart, one that can look every man in the eye and tell him to jump in the river and take a swim if he don't especially like his proposition.

He takes the "boys" as they come, big, little, or what not, they all look alike to him. He is absolutely "Daddy" of every proposition that bobs up, and believe us he sure does rule the household.

Why, look what the oil boys did. They walked right up and said: "Mr. President we place our business in your hands, we have made a mess of it. You set the buying and selling price and it will suit us." Can you imagine that from such an organization, smart fellows, too.

That is "faith" in big capital letters. Oh, yes! we have turned the corner and are well on our way down the path of prosperity.—Lockney Beacon.

E. Powell, formerly of Lamesa, who has had the City Tailor shop here leased for the past several months, turned it back to the owner, Cye Tankersley this week, and will return to his old home in Grayson county.

Mr. Powell has made many friends in the short time he has been here, and as he always turned out good work, had done mighty well, considering the times. He says that the Brownfield people have been very nice to him.

Chamber of Commerce

By J. E. Shelton, Secretary

The writer is sure the editor of the Herald did not fully understand the different projects that were covered in our application to the Rehabilitation Commission, for a grant to construct a recreational center, or his article appearing in the paper of last week would have been of a different nature.

The Recreational Field and Amusement Center is intended to provide a place for the residents of this section, who desire to have an outing of one or more days, without having to go elsewhere from 40 to 200 miles in order to reach it.

Included in the project is the construction of a lake for fishing and boating, a swimming pool surrounded by a park and club house for the use of those who desire it.

It also provides for a district fair ground, with all the necessary buildings and it is of course, educational, as well as recreational.

We have a territory composing not less than four counties and a portion of Lea county, New Mexico, and have the setup for the best district fair of any county in west Texas.

In addition is included, a race track for horses or automobiles, whichever we think the most important, and an athletic field for football and baseball.

The golfing ground is included with the other projects and as a matter of fact will be among the least expensive to construct and maintain, as the club house will be available and no other building will be necessary.

It is true that while we may not have over fifty people who indulge in golf, it is a fact that the field will furnish a very considerable portion of the funds that are necessary to tire the loan that will have to be procured if the deal is put over.

County or District Fairs, where permanent plants are located, have maintained themselves and paid a very substantial profit, up to the last two years, and since that time, neither they or anything else has broken even. But this will not last and the fairs will be among the first to come out from under.

Even such an athletic field as we have in Brownfield, has more than paid its way and as long as the people are interested in athletics, they will continue to be profitable and more so if a suitable place is provided for them.

The fishing lake, park and swimming pool certainly do not need to be enlarged upon as no one will deny that they are badly needed. We all know that the only available spot for an outing is the sandhills east of town or some stock tank in the middle of some cow pasture.

If some of us desire to have an outing of a day or more to catch fish, the nearest available place is Lubbock 41 miles away, of Post, 58 miles east.

The committee is willing to admit that its program includes a number of proposals, but they all have merit and everyone of them have revenue bearing possibilities which must be shown to the commission if we succeed in getting favorable action on our request for an allotment.

Estimates have been made on the cost of construction, which includes the land, the material and the labor, and we have asked for an amount to cover it all. It is further estimated that work will be provided for not less than 60 men over a period of six months, at an estimated wage of 30 cents per hour for common labor, with pay for such skilled labor as may be necessary, being paid in proportion.

Construction can begin within 30 days after the granting of the application.

The writer is not any golf player, as he gets more kick at the business his aunt, Mrs. J. F. Ruchs.

Oath of Office Taken

By New Federal Atty.

Lubbock, July 1.—Clyde O. Eustus of Fort Worth took the oath of office as United States district attorney for the northern district of Texas before Judge James C. Wilson here today.

He was recently appointed to the post under the Roosevelt administration.

At noon today, Mr. Eustus was honored by members of the Lubbock bar and business men with a testimonial dinner. Approximately 50 person including court attaches were present.

CLAUDE G. BOWERS AT MADRID

It was in a spirit greater than mere formality that Claude G. Bowers, American Ambassador to Madrid, said to the President of the new Republic of Spain, when presenting his credentials:

"The common dedication of both nations to the democratic concept of the State implies an identity of interest which President Roosevelt hopes will mean cooperation for the preservation of the peace of the world and the advancement and well-being of both peoples."

"Spanish-American relations are closer than ever."

The American Ambassador's remarks were taken as a confirmation of the President's assurance of a good neighbor policy proclaimed before the Pan-American Union recently.

This attitude will do much to establish close and friendly relations between Spain, now a sister republic and the several Spanish-American countries.

Furthermore, the Spanish Republic, now in those first racking uncertainties of existence, deserves unstintingly the understanding sympathy and help of every lover of religious and political liberty.

Red Goose—The Ojibwa

An Indian Story for Boys and Girls By Carlyle Emery Episode No. 34

While Red Eagle and the Ojibwa warriors were on a hunting expedition, the Sioux attacked the Ojibwa Village.

Red Goose went North and brought the Ojibwa just in time, and when Yellow Thunder, the Sioux Chieftan, tried to kill Red Eagle, Red Goose saved his father's life.

Now go on with the story.

Red Goose was given another eagle feather by the Ojibwa Tribe for his splendid work in warning them of the attack by the Sioux.

The white people were gratified by the brave Indian lad, too, for through his efforts a serious uprising had been put down. They gave him a brightly colored cloth vest that was made by one of the women at the Fort and Red Goose was so proud of it, he often wore it even when he slept at night.

About the middle of the next January, when the ground was covered with snow, Red Goose put on his snow shoes and went to get Little Beaver, with whom he was planning to spend the day.

"Will Little Beaver get well soon?" asked Red Goose anxiously.

"Sun-On-Mountain does not know. The Medicine Man is not here to help her. If Medicine Man returns, maybe he will drive the Bad Spirit away and let Little Beaver get better."

"Where is the Medicine, Man Sun-On-Mountain?"

"Up North with the Otter Tribe, near Lake of Pines."

Then Red Goose will go and bring him here."

"No, Red Goose. The trip is too long. And besides, it is too cold. Even big warriors could not go to Lake of Pines now."

"Red Goose could try."

"No. You would die of cold." But Red Goose was not satisfied, and to his father, he said: "Little Beaver is ill, my father. Spirit will leave her until Medicine Man returns."

"Where is the Medicine Man?" asked Red Eagle

"Up North with the Otter Tribe, near Lake of Pines."

"Umph. That is long way. Too far for brave to travel in this weather."

"Red Goose would like to go for Medicine Man," pleaded the anxious Indian lad.

"No. Red Goose could not make the trip. Even your father could not make the trip. It is too far-and too cold."

The thought of Little Beaver lying sick, with no one to help drive out Bad Spirit, was too much for Red Goose, and as he walked slowly away, he decided that something must be done, at once

HOW ONE WOMAN LOST 20 LBS. OF FAT

GAINED A SHAPELY FIGURE

If you are fat how would you like to lose it and at the same time gain in physical charm and acquire a clean, clear skin and eyes that sparkle with buoyant health. Why not do what thousands of women have done to get rid of pounds of unwanted fat? take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast and keep it up for 30 days. You can help the action of Kruschen by cutting down on pastry and fatty meats and going light on potatoes, butter and cream. Then weigh yourself and see how many pounds you have lost. Kruschen Salts are a blend of 6 salts most helpful to the body health. Best of all, a bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last you for 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Ask any druggist for a bottle and start to lose fat today. It's the safe way to reduce but be sure you get Kruschen—your health comes first.

RUTH BRYAN OWEN SPEAKS ON EDUCATION AND CITIZENSHIP

In an address before the recent meeting of the Kentucky Educational Association, at Louisville, Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, a Member of Congress from Florida and now Minister to Denmark, spoke on the subject "Education for Political Service." She urged greater attention by educators to the increased importance of citizenship in a democracy. She asked that the teachers "bridge the centuries" by keeping before the children the sacrifices that have been made by constructive leadership to keep the republic a government "of the people, by the people and for the people."

Speaking of her own efforts to this end, she stated that she gave a certificate to each high school, college and university graduate in her congressional district, which was to remind the graduate of the importance of his new status and increased responsibilities as a citizen. Mrs. Owen called attention to the competitive selection of the best citizen in the schools of her district, in which she took a deep interest. Those selected were given trips to Washington to observe at first hand the machinery, she stated. Referring to the turn out of the fire departments and bands in communities to see the "best" citizens off to Washington, she said it became as popular to be a "best citizen" as it was to be a star football player. This is one way, she observed, to direct the minds of our youths to the higher, nobler activities of life.

Reminding the audience of the part women are taking in the life of the nation, Mrs. Owen said "The greatest advance of the last fifty years is the place good citizenship has in the community. Women," she asserted, "should be represented on all councils where war and peace are at stake." During the four-day meeting of the Kentucky Education Association, James H. Richmond, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, deplored "endeavors to force upon the public schools a disproportionate measure of government retrenchment. Dr. Charles J. Turck, president of Centre College, stated that any economy plan should put first the maintenance of "all essential community services, including the public schools."

DIFFERENT TASTES

Ham was the name of the new colored preacher. After his first sermon to the new flock, a sister in the congregation greeted him. "Brothah what mou' you' name be?" she inquired smilingly. "Sistah," he answered, "Ah is named after de bes pah't of de hawg." "Brothah Chittils," said she, "Ah's proud to meet-cha." If a revolution breaks out there'll be such a demand for troops of government will have to give us all jobs.
