Church of Christ to Open Revival March 4

In an enthusiastic business meeting last Sunday afternoon it was decided to open an evangelistic meeting next Sunday morning, March 4, to continue as long as interest demands. The new minister, O. M. Reynolds, recently from Abilene, is to do the preaching, and Dick Chisholm, the very efficient local song leader, will direct the congregational singing. The minister for some five years directed the singing in gospel meetings for many of the Church's strongest men, who will also be a help in the song services, which will be an inspirational part of the meeting. For three nights this week a group of the singers are meeting for song practice.

Minister Reynolds has been as successful in evangelistic meetings as in working for local churches, therefore, he promises well-prepared sermons preached in an energetic and persuasive way. Members of the church throughout this section are urged to attend, and the general public is cordially invited. A cordial welcome and a glad hand are promised you.

The following will be the subjects for nights, beginning Sunday:

Sunday 7:45 p. m.: "How to Learn the Bible."
Monday night: "The Unpardonable Sin."
Tuesday night: "Contrast of Old and New Testaments."
Wednesday night: "Christ in Promise, Prophecy and Type."
Thursday night: "John the Baptist's Life and Teaching."
Friday night: "Why I Believe in the Christ."
Saturday night: "He Died That I Might Live."
Sunday night: "Was the Thief Saved?"

There will be Bible study at 10:00 A. M. next Lord's day, and the morning sermon subject will be: "He that Winneth Souls is Wise."

Members of the church and friends are not only urged to attend all services, but are asked to bring as many with you as possible.

May Have to Serve Term in Penitentiary

Joe Stapleton, a negro, who received a 5-year penitentiary sentence here for murder of a negro, was arrested this morning at Brownfield upon request of the Lubbock county sheriff's department. Sheriff Tom Abel said case of Stapleton, who had been free on appeal bond, had been affirmed.—Lubbock Avalanche.

This may mean that Joe will have to serve out a term in the penitentiary, which was for the killing of his wife's step-father, who was said to have been drunk and became abusive to Joe's wife and other members of the family, once when Joe and wife were visiting in Lubbock. Joe came back to Brownfield before being arrested.

Joe has proven to be a very faithful servant in the W. C. Smith home for the past several years, and he has many friends both white and black, who will regret to see him go to prison.

MEAT CURING DEMONSTRATION AT LORENZO

Lubbock, Texas, Feb. 24.—Forty-four farmers were present at a hog and beef killing and meat curing demonstration at Lorenzo conducted by Texas Technological College students in agricultural education. Two hogs and three hogs were used in the demonstration.

Students in charge were Harlan Howell, Brownfield; Bill Gregory, Lubbock; Matt Hitchcock, Lexington; and Odiss Holly, Spur.

Preparation For Tradesday Under Way

Brownfield merchants are preparing this week for the monthly first Monday Tradesday, which will be here the coming Monday, as well as the usual specials to cover Saturday, March 3. As the reputation of our Tradesday spreads, the more time the merchants devote in preparation for the event, as good special to the occasion must be stocked, and extra help secured to help out the regular sales forces.

Brownfield is fast becoming known far and wide, too, as a "Jockey" town, and many good horses, mules and jacks are brought here for sale. Almost any day, one can visit the OK wagon yard and find a large assortment of trading horses, and if you are art minded to stay long enough, you might get to see a pony or two rode. Then too, all the cattle buyers seem to headquarter here, and stall their buys until they have secured a car load, at which time they are either shipped or sold to some one who wishes to put them on feed awhile.

However, you will find a small amount of stock there on regular days compared to Tradesdays. On First Mondays, the yard could no more hold the amount of stock brought here than a creek could channel the waters of the Mississippi but they are spread out over several vacant blocks in the vicinity of the yards.

If you are looking for a horse or cow deal of any kind; if you are looking for some pigs to make your meat this year; if you are looking for bargains in dry goods, groceries, or even drugs and drug sundries, don't forget that great day of all tradesdays in this section is at Brownfield each First Monday. We'll be looking for you.

Jones is Returning To Spur Position

Clifford B. Jones, announced Tuesday in Ft. Worth that he would return to Spur and resume duties as manager of Spur Farm Lands office and Swenson interests in West Texas, the position he was holding when appointed as regional advisor for Texas, New Mexico and Louisiana.

Mr. Jones returns to Spur, as the PWA is eliminating the ten regional advisors over the country. The PWA has decided to accept no more applications for the financing of projects therefore, the services of the regional advisors are no longer needed.

Mr. Jones will be relieved of duties as regional advisor February 28, and is expected to return here as soon as possible.

Mr. Chas. A. Jones, who has been in charge of the duties of the office during C. B. Jones' absence, states that he has no definite plans for the future but that he will remain here indefinitely. Mr. C. A. Jones was manager of the Swenson interests when the town was opened and is in fact, "The Father of Spur." He was manager of the Swenson interests here until 1913 when he went to Freeport as manager of the Freeport Sulphur Co., his son Clifford B. Jones, became manager here. Last year when Clifford B. Jones was appointed regional advisor of the PWA for Texas, New Mexico and Louisiana Mr. C. A. Jones returned to Spur and resumed the duties of his former office, and it is with real regret that we again see him retire from the office.—The Texas Spur.

Announcement

To The Voters of Terry County: After re-considering, I have decided not to make the race for County Judge and School Supt. My private business has grown so much I feel I would have to make a personal sacrifice to serve as Judge. I thank everyone for their support and encouragement given me in every way, whether political or business. Thanking you again.
Sincerely,
HOMER WINSTON.

RAIN AND SNOW

Rain starting along about 7:30 Wednesday night had amounted to about three-quarters of an inch Thursday morning. Some snow had fallen during the night also.

Pink Boll Worm Bill Passes the House

The following is a copy of the Senate Pink Bollworm Bill, which Senator Duggan writes has already passed both houses and he feels sure will be signed by the Governor. The Senator says that if farmers will have their seed fumigated, it will save the trouble and expense of having all their cotton and seed fumigated this fall. The bill follows:

Be it enacted by the Legislature in the State of Texas:

Section 1. That the sum of fifteen thousand ($15,000.00) dollars be and the sum is hereby appropriated to the State Department of Agriculture, out of the funds allocated or to be allocated to the State Department of Agriculture from the Special Racing Fund in the State Treasury, to cover the cost in the state of Texas of conducting and putting into effect a cotton planting seed sterilization program (as authorized by Chapter 3, Title 4, Revised Civil Statutes of 1925 as amended in Articles 74 and 75 by House Bill 162, Acts of the Regular Session of the Forty-First Legislature) involving the treating of cotton planting seed now on hand in the recently discovered pink bollworm infested area of the state. This recently infested section is more specifically defined as the counties of Bailey, Lamb, Cochran, Hockley, Yoakum, Terry, Gaines, and Dawson.

Section 2. The fact that the United States Government now has in effect intrastate quarantine governing the movement of cotton lint and cotton products from the pink bollworm regulated area of the state; and the fact that the free movement of cotton lint from the entire State of Texas is dependent upon the sterilization of cotton planting seed in all counties known to be infested by the pink bollworm, and because of the fact that cotton seed produced in and now in the newly infested area was found after practically all cotton had been harvested and ginned; and the fact that the failure to sterilize this planting seed will not only be an important factor in perpetuating this worm in the newly infested area and will enhance thereby the possibilities of spread of this worm which will also interfere with the movement of cotton and cotton products from the state of Texas into interstate and international trade; and because of the fact that there is no practical way to insure the proper sterilization of the seed in time to give protection to the cotton industry of this state unless the necessary machinery is built and operated under supervision of the state creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity that the constitutional rule requiring bills to be read in three several days be suspended and said rule is so suspended, and that this Act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and it is so enacted.

All Time High Chevrolet Employment Record

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 26.—A new all-time high in employment was achieved by the Chevrolet Motor Company for the week ending Feb. 10 when direct company payrolls totaled 56,545 people, M. E. Coyle, general manager, announced here today.

The high mark prior to this year was 52,847 men and women employed in June, 1929, while last year at this time factory payrolls numbered only 32,079 people, Mr. Coyle stated.

The present record force also set a new high daily output figure for the present year's program when they completed the assembly of 3,770 new 1934 cars and trucks on Friday, Feb. 16, Mr. Coyle stated. Through the first fifteen days of the month the company completed the assembly of 33,545 new units which have already been shipped to dealers. This is within 12,000 units of production for the full month of February last year, Mr. Coyle stated.

Plants are now headed toward capacity, with dealers making delivery of new 1934 models to consumers, and the rate at which orders are being received indicates capacity operations for some months to come, the Chevrolet head declared.

YOU ARE INVITED

The play "Here Comes Charley" will be presented at the Harmony school Friday evening March 9. The cast consists of Harmony outsiders and teachers. Everyone is cordially invited. No admission.

NEXT MONDAY IS TRADES DAY

Baer, Carnera, Dempsey to Appear in Film

Myrna Loy, Max Baer, Primo Carnera, Jack Dempsey, Walter Huston and Otto Kruger comprise the distinguished group of actors and sporting personalities gathered together by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for "The Prizefighter and the Lady," a gripping story of the prize ring which starts Sunday as the attraction at the Rialto theatre.

Miss Loy, last seen in "Night Flight" and "Penthouse," has recently established herself as one of the most popular and outstanding of the screen's feminine stars. Baer, challenger-up for the heavy-weight championship of the world, and generally acknowledged as the most colorful fighter in the prize ring today, makes his first screen appearance in this picture and has been called a virile exponent of the new vogue in leading men.

Battles with Challenger
Carnera, heavyweight champion of the world, also faces the cameras for the first time in his ten-round fight with Baer in "The Prizefighter and the Lady." The giant heavyweight's battle with his challenger before the time set for their real fight is without precedent and has aroused the interest of the entire world of sports. Their film bout is refereed by none other than the famous Dempsey.

The plot of the new film, based on a story by Frances Marion, depicts the career of a hard-boiled youngster who rises from the position of "bouncer" in a speakeasy to that of a fighter of championship calibre. The sensational scenes laid against the colorful sport background, the romantic interlude with the night-club entertainer and the difficulties placed in the way of the fighter by a racketeer gunman provide the elements of what is described as the most realistic and absorbing story of the prize ring ever to reach the screen.

Walter Huston plays the role of the booze-ridden, down-at-the-heel fight manager who recognizes in Baer championship material and trains him for his fights. The part, a "natural" for Huston, marks another step forward in this actor's brilliant career. Prominent roles are also filled with Otto Kruger as the racketeer, Vince Barnett, Robert McWade, Muriel Evans and Jean Howard.

Great Fighters Present
Scores of internationally famous ex-champions and their contemporaries appear in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature to add realism to the great prize fight sequences. Among these great fighters of yesterday are Jess Willard, James Jeffries, Frank Moran, Joe Rivers, and Billy Papke.

"The Prizefighter and the Lady" was directed by W. S. Van Dyke, responsible for such photoplay successes as "Tarzan, the Ape Man" and "Trader Horn."

ART STUDENTS MAY CONTEST IN LEAGUE

CANYON, Texas, Feb. 24.—For the first time in its history, the Texas Interscholastic League is giving students of art a chance in the regional contests, and such students from 45 counties will compete against each other at Canyon on April 20 and 21.

Miss Isabel Robinson, head of the art department, of the West Texas State Teachers College, will direct the art contests. She announces to contestants that any member school may enter one contestant in each of three events which are, to draw in charcoal a group of still life objects; to paint in color, with any medium, a group of still life objects, and to model in clay, wax, soap, or other material, an animal or figure, the nature of which will be given out only at the hour of the contest.

Schools entering contestants should notify Miss Robinson, giving names of its contestants and events to be entered by April 14. Students will furnish their own materials, except easels and drawing boards. The winners in the regional contests will be entitled to enter the State Meet at Austin, May 3, 4, 5.

National Commander To Visit Texas Posts

Definite arrangements have just been completed for the visit of National Commander Edward A. Hayes to the Department of Texas on March 7, 8 and 9 and an urgent invitation is extended to every Legionnaire in the state to attend at least one of the meetings that will be held in his honor.

The National Commander will come into Texas from the Department of New Mexico where he will pay his official visit to that state on March 6.

His first engagement in Texas will be at San Angelo on the evening of March 7 when it is expected that thousands of Legionnaires of the 16th and 17th Districts will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear him discuss the issues confronting the Legion this year.

At noon on March the 8th, the Legionnaires and citizens of Sweetwater have arranged a luncheon for Commander Hayes and invitations have been sent to all the Posts of the 17th District to join the reception for our leader. Sweetwater is the home of Past Commander V. Earl Earp, who has promised the greatest reception in the history of the Department of Texas.

Breckenridge will have the honor of entertaining Commander Hayes on the night of March 8, and elaborate plans are being made for his reception and entertainment in that city.

Following the night meeting at Breckenridge the Commander and his party will proceed to Mineral Wells where they will spend the night and have breakfast on the morning of March 9th with the Legionnaires who will entertain the Department Convention this fall.

At noon of the 9th the gang at Granbury is throwing a big luncheon for Commander Hayes and his party and this promises to be one of the most outstanding events of his visit to Texas.

Commander Hayes will complete his visit to Texas on the evening of March 9th when he will address the Legionnaires of North Texas at Denison as the guest of Fred W. Wilson Post No. 62 with the cooperation of all the Posts of the 4th Texas District. From Denison the Commander will go to Springfield, Missouri.

Football Sweaters Are Awarded '33 Players

Last Friday afternoon the boys on the Brownfield football team of '33 were awarded sweaters.

Even this late in the year we have not forgotten the games during the football season in which our boys tried so hard to bring honors to dear old B. H. S. Each boy receiving a sweater was entitled to it for they, with the help of Coach Daniel, put out an honest effort to place Brownfield on the map. Whether we win or lose a good saying to remember is "For when the one great scorer comes to write against your name, he writes not that you won or lost, but how you played the game."

The sweaters are very nice looking and are similar to those awarded last year. Those lettering were as follows:

- O. D. Thomas (Captain)
- Woodrow Chambliss
- Kenneth Purtell
- Roy Chambliss
- Truett Flache
- J. D. Stuart
- John McLeod, Jr.
- James Burnett
- Wilton Smith
- Wayland Parker
- Horton Howell (Manager)
- Leroy Crane.

Others who played enough to letter but for various reasons were not awarded a sweater are:

- Guy Tankersley
- Robert Pharr
- Clarence Thomas
- Ollie Warren
- Elmer Ferrell
- Claude Tankersley.

Coach Daniel states that there will be eight letter-men back for 1934-35.

Meadow School Superintendent Re-elected

Homer Franklin, superintendent of the Meadow Public School for the past two years, was recently re-elected for a two year term. Mr. Franklin came from Ropesville. Re-election of other members of the faculty will be considered soon.

During the two years that Mr. Franklin has been in Meadow, with the aid of the Board of Education, the school has been brought out of financial chaos in spite of the Bank failure and the drought. The first step toward relieving the situation was the re-financing of $85,000.00 worth of bonds, thus saving $30,000 through reduction in interest rate over a 40 year period and principal.

The next thing that helped was the securing $2,145.00 state aid, for which Meadow had never been eligible until this school year. These two items together with a reduced budget has enabled the school taxes to be reduced 40% in two years.

With the aid of a good faculty, the addition of an extra teacher in the grades, the curriculum has been enlarged and enriched. In the High School, chemistry and glee club have been added. In the grade school, since the addition of the extra teacher, there is now a teacher for each grade. The grade school building was cleaned up, the rooms kalsomined and new sanitary indoor toilets installed.

Next year, with no increase in taxes, buses are to be added for the transportation of pupils, both inside our own district and from adjoining districts of those who care to transfer to our school. Also the curriculum will likely be overhauled to make room for vocational agriculture and Home Economics. This could only be done through the elimination, or consolidation of some of the old traditional subjects.

Prof. Holden to Lead Expedition to Old Mexico

Lubbock, Texas, Feb. 26.—Setting out March 1 on what is to be a modern research expedition into the Yaqui River country of Old Mexico to collect information as to the history and customs of the Yaqui Indians, Dr. W. C. Holden, historian and anthropologist of Texas Technological College, will lead a group of scientists who plan to bring back accurate and detailed reports of the natives and their country. Penetrating 350 miles into the interior with the nearest town, Guaymas, in the state of Sonora, 80 miles away from their camping base, the group will camp outdoors for the entire period except for stops in Van Horn, Texas; Tucson and Nogales, Arizona; and Hermosillo and Guaymas, Mexico.

H. N. Gould of Tulane University, a protegee of Hrdlicka of the Smithsonian Institution, will be physical anthropologist.

Dr. R. A. Studhalter, head of the Texas Technological College department of biology, who discovered the ruffe plant growing wild in the Davis Mountains of Texas a few years ago, will be ethnobotanologist.

Bennie McWilliams, Tech student in anthropology and first string tackle on the Matador football team, from San Benito, will act as interpreter, cook, and truck driver.

Dr. Charles J. Wagner, Lubbock physician, and Charles A. Guy, editor of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, will complete the party.

14 Letters Awarded Meadow Girls Team

MEADOW, Feb. 24.—Coach H. C. Osborn's Meadow High schools girls basketball team, champion of Terry county and the winner in the southwest quadrant by virtue of victory over the Pettit girls, will represent this section in the District 2 tournament at Littlefield next weekend.

Letters have been awarded to fourteen members of team which ran up surprising victories over nearly all opponents in the school's most successful cage season.

Players receiving letters were: McAtee, Justiss, Ward, Donohwo, M. Deckard, L. Deckard, B. Deckard, Peeler, Timmons, Rice, Branch, Furnace, Dobbs and White.

Coach Osborn, also an official of the district committee, announces that all county champions are eligible to play in the tournament at Littlefield Friday and Saturday.

NEXT MONDAY IS TRADES DAY

Spend "Part" of Winter in Southern Calif.

We will note from our headlines that we say we spent PART of the winter in California—southern California at that. Now aint dat sumpum? Well, from what we can learn from the natives here, we sure did miss sumpum in the way of a sandstorm which they say raged for two days and a night on the 17th and 18th. To say these two days were ideal in "southern California" would be stating the case very mildly, for they were not unlike two of our best balmy days around the middle of May.

Two months ago, we had no more idea that we would go to California in the next several years, than that we would solo across the Atlantic in a balloon. It all came about one Sunday afternoon early in December, when Elmer Roberts and wife were at our home. They had a vacation coming. In fact, they had planned their honeymoon after sixteen years of married life. You know Elmer went to a training camp at San Pedro, Calif., next day after being married, and this was to be their honeymoon trip. They kindly invited us to go along. In fact they insisted and said if we would go, the trip wouldn't cost us a penny. Do you blame us for taking that trip? Another such an offer may not occur in our life time, and this fine nephew of our wife and his fine lady, has our thanks always for this trip.

This week, we are not going to bore our readers with a very long article, but we are going to tell some of the incidents of the trip out there. Leaving Seagraves early Sunday morning the 11th, we arrived in Seminole a half hour later and put some air in right hand rear tire. That was the last time air was put in any tire going or coming. Reached Odesa around ten o'clock, and saw some of the kin folks that use to live at Cohoma, as well as Otis Longbrake.

The city of El Paso was reached slightly after mid-afternoon, and we saw the city of The North Pass for the first time. No time for Jaurez, so after a drive through the center of the business section, we were off for Las Cruces, N. M., where it was our intention to spend the night.

There we had our first insight of a real wide open town. There was plenty of people that night at the churches, but the pool halls, the beer and whiskey dispensaries were running full tilt, and it appeared to us that every other kind of store was open. But so far as the stores are concerned, you could not even tell that it was Sunday after reaching the T. & P. in Texas. They were as busy as the stores here on Monday, apparently, and this was the general observation clear into California as far as we went. Las Cruces is a beautiful little city with one of the state colleges there, and is in the irrigation district. We left before daylight as we had a long run ahead of us to reach Glendale, Ariz. by night. We had breakfast at Deming. Globe was reached for the noon meal, and while we had been seeing mountains, we thought, we had the real thrill coming that afternoon going over the mountains and down the Devil's Gulch. There is a good paved road all the way, but to one who has been used to level plains for years, looking up a thousand feet and can't see the top of the mountain, and over on the other side it appears to be 2000 feet almost straight down to the bottom of the gulch—well something or other seems to ooze up and down the spine, and the bottom of your feet itch, and the road don't seem to be half wide enough, although two cars can pass nicely. But you had better stay on your side of the road.

Those Arizona birds whiz around those mountains nearly as fast as we go on flat ground, but we took our time, and as little Jeff says, used some discretion. Many men are working widening these highways, and we would often find one of the highway trucks turned crossways of the road dumping rock into the bottomless pit, and not least, we would meet one occasionally with a lot of red flags on it and the word DYNAMITE emblazoned across the front. Well, we'd give those birds all the space we could spare. Phoenix, the beautiful capital of the State was reached about five their time and a half hour later we were in that fine little town of Glendale, and were being welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Munnford Smith, both formerly of Brownfield. We told them that we were apparently clean, as we had been examined twice since entering the state, and we had been allowed to

The Lubbock Journal tells us that parents no longer require their children to change from one weight of underwear right on the seasonal dot, regardless of what kind of weather we have. Our observation has been that the young people never change these days, but regard it as sissy and oldmaidish to wear'em long any time. But of course the Plainsman formed the habit of changing 50 or 60 years ago, and it is hard to break an old habit.

Up at the Tech College, they have discovered that our sandstorms are worth something after all, as they produce millions of volts of electricity, and the time may come when each householder here on the plains can set up his own storage outfit and together can use enough electricity to run the universe. But the Tech has discovered nothing new; they've only told us how much electricity is going to waste in each sandstorm. Any newspaperman, and specially the pressman could have told them all about electricity on press day, even down to how much energy it takes to do the press room cussing on press day, when the paper sticks together like the Siamese twins.

The Virginia Quarterly Review has the same idea as The Texas Weekly as regards the trade expansion of the south. Being a great raw material country, producing in such large quantities that we must have good trade relations other than the United States, the south must always fight against tariffs on imports that are likely to cause a retaliatory tariff against the products of the south in foreign nations. Neither of these magazines believe in taking down all bars and making free trade with the world, but they do believe that a tariff can be put so high that it stifles good trade relations between nations.

It seems that everyone who rides the air are having one wall-eyed fit after another because the administration found that there was a lot of loose business in the air mail contracts, and a lot of guys with an original investment of a few hundred dollars had a million in just a few years. Even Lindbergh was persuaded or voluntarily condemned the administration for stopping the big pay, and it is said that even Will Rogers sobbed out a sad story last Sunday night during his time on the radio broadcast. The big cry is that the army fliers are not experienced. Maybe not, but they can learn just as the private fliers did. Personally, we do not believe that the fliers themselves were in on the graft and that most of them will soon be back on the job under new contracts.

THE MAN WHO WAS KING

Regal trappings have been sadly tarnished in late years. The business of being a monarch has fallen into disrepute along with the Kings themselves. The institution of royal heredity has discouraged its success, blood strains having a way of thinning out after a few generations. Occasionally, however, royal figures produce an outstanding figure, in whom character and ability unite to form all that Kings were meant to be to their people. Belgium was fortunate in finding such a man in Albert.

He was a King who caught the fancy of democracy, for he was such a man as democracies would themselves choose because of his gift of power. Around his tall, fine figure played all the color of romance. Roland and Du Guesclin lived again when in 1914 his ringing "Aux armes!" thrust Belgium, as the fragile and hopeless dike of the Western powers, in the path of Von Kluck's gray flood, standing only long enough to enable France and England to mobilize behind it.

Nor was Albert a King who, like old Peter of Serbia, could live on the fleshpots of Paris or, like Wilhelm II, accept cheerfully the issue of defeat. Only a tiny corner of his land remained to him by 1915, but Albert went into comparative exile with his army, shared its perils, and was a far more familiar figure at its command posts than on the boulevards. It might be argued that Albert could have saved Belgium lives, money and property by opening his country to German passage in 1914. But for decades Belgium had realized that the land was the dormat to a Franco-German war and had formulated its policy of resistance to maintain independence. The King resolutely and in the end profitably carried out that policy. The continued love and confidence of his people is the full measure of his judgment.

The world mourns the great King of a tiny country. It can not lament the manner of his passing. Albert died as he would have wished to die, in the full vigor of his manhood, suddenly, in a tilt with natural forces that he had conquered so often before.—Dallas News.

Needmore Notes

The Needmore outsiders staged a play last Saturday night, which was enjoyed by a large crowd. The title of the play was "The Path Across the Hill."

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Langford of Challis, and Mr. Elmer McCutcheon were visitors in the J. C. Crowover home Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. J. D. McDonald visited with Mrs. Hyman, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bart Brown and family visited Saturday night and Sunday with Mrs. Brown's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lewis of Challis.

Mrs. Rosalie McDonald visited with Mrs. J. C. Crowover, Tuesday.

Mr. Earl McCutcheon and family, Mr. Oscar Hughes and family, all of Ropesville, visited with Mr. B. B. McCutcheon Saturday night and Sunday.

Forrester Items

The little four-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Chambliss has been very low with pneumonia, but is improving.

Mr. Francis Mathis and Miss Elma Baldwin were married Wednesday. We all wish for them happiness and success.

Mr. Dewey Hulse is able to be back in school again after a short illness with the flu.

The play was well rendered Friday night and everybody enjoyed it.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Baldwin visited Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Thomson Sunday.

"I understood that your wife came from a fine old family."
"Came is hardly the word — she brought it with her."

Moral: Don't make up your mind too quick unless its an emergency. Another candidate may come out in the next block.—Wichita Banner.

ATTEST: W. A. Bell, Mayor.
31c Roy M. Herod, Secretary.

And it's also said that in the ready-to-wear store that the average woman will spend about a quarter of an hour in the store for every dollar she spends. This means that if she purchases a $100 suit that she will take up about 25 hours making its selection. Of course this average includes those who look and look and look at suits and then don't buy.—"Tac" in Amarillo Globe.

Miss Price has gained special recognition on the campus for her work with the Baptist Training Schools conducted by Baylor College in different sections of the state. Miss Price has made several trips with the B. T. S. groups and she is fast becoming a leader in this field.

Belton, Feb. 26.—Miss Orvalene Price of Brownfield has recently been initiated into Royal Academia society at Baylor College. A sophomore in college, Miss Price was made an active member of the society after she attended the tea given during pledge week for those students eligible to pledge one of the two senior societies on the campus.

Royal Academia is the oldest society on the campus, having been organized before the college was moved to Belton from Old Independence. Their tea this month carried out the Alice in Wonderland motif.

TRUCK GARDENING PROFITABLE HERE

California, Florida, the valley district in South Texas have no monopoly on truck gardening twelve months in the year.

A. Judd, pioneer Lubbock merchant, who for the past eight years successfully has operated a truck garden southeast of Lubbock, declared seasons may be disregarded with a numbr of vegetables in this section of the state.

At the present, he is selling turnips, onions and other vegetable products planted as late as October. He has several acres of radishes, turnips, carrots and other vegetables coming up at this time that were planted ten days ago.

When cold weather comes, Mr. Judd waters all his growing vegetables until the ground is soaking wet. This moisture takes the cold into the ground leaving the vegetables undamaged, he said.

Vegetables produced here have a much better flavor than those grown in the valley of Texas or elsewhere, Judd said.—Lubbock Avalanche.

SANDSTORMS CREATE MUCH ELECTRICITY

Lubbock, Texas, Feb. 26.—Two small frame structures have been built by the Texas Technological College department of physics to be used in housing equipment for carrying on research on the variation of the earth's magnetic field and the effect of sandstorms on these measurements, according to Dr. E. F. George, head of the department.

One magnetometer has already been set up and another will soon be installed for readings. These instruments are accurate to one part in 10,000, and for this reason are isolated from all iron and steel which might deflect them. The buildings are made with copper nails and are insulated with tar paper to keep out flying sand.

Previous experiments carried on at the college by the physics department have proved that there is an electric current generated in the West Texas sandstorm. In 1930, Charles Houston, an assistant of the department, measured 40,000 volts generated during a sandstorm and collected on an antenna connected between the towers of the Tech administration building.

POSTERS PROMOTE SCOUTING

Several of 20 billboard-size posters that will be placed in the South Plains Boy Scout council area in Lubbock. Eight posters will be used here, D. T. Jennings, area executive, said. Only five had arrived. Tentatively scheduled distribution of the others was: Amherst, Littlefield, Ralls 2, Crosbyton, Idalou, Levelland, Tahoka, Brownfield, Lamesa, Slaton and Post.—Lubbock Journal.

Jeff Medford, Misses Wynona Burnett and Cathrine Holgate drove over to Carlsbad Sunday and went through the Cavern.

Judge the new FORD V8
on what it will do

Thousands of people who can afford to spend two or three times as much for a car, are today choosing the Ford V-8 for 1934, instead. Here are some of the reasons.

POWER. The Ford V-8 for 1934 gives you better than 80 miles per hour with the quicker acceleration and greater smoothness of an 8-cylinder motor. Power has actually been increased by 12 per cent over last year's model.

COMFORT. The Ford V-8 for 1934 offers more actual body room than many other cars that cost considerably more. It offers you new Clear-Vision

VENTILATION, with the window in one piece. It offers you free action for all four wheels—plus the comfort of Ford Cantilever Springs and the proved safety of a front axle.

SAFETY. With the new Ford V-8 you get an all-steel body, safety glass, welded steel-spoke wheels, exceptionally low center of gravity and more braking surface per pound of weight than any other American-made car we know of.

ECONOMY. Gasoline economy is increased by two or three miles per gallon with the new Ford V-8. Test runs show that the new engine will give 20 miles per gallon at 45 miles per hour.

body had become aware that something was in the air. As there was much sniffing, the professor in charge decided that an investigation was in order. However, upon opening the door, he clutched at the facing and staggered back, almost in a swoon. Quoting a popular student, "The air was positively pu—trid!"

After reviving somewhat the professor continued investigation, followed by some of the braver students. As a detective would track down a desperate criminal, they slipped along the hall. Down the stairs, around the corner, and into the chemistry laboratory they stole. There their quest ended. For there they found the chemistry students deep in an important experiment—that of H₂ S. hydrogen sulphide.

Whereas the Biology students had hesitated on whether to operate or not, the Chemistry students had operated. As some tobacco company is always saying, "The nose knows." And in this case the operation must have been performed on some old hen's once cherished hope for a family. Ain't science wonderful?

VOLLEY BALL TEAM HOPEFUL

The volley ball team at B. H. S. is getting under way, and, according to Coach Penn, is promising well for another county championship.

Some fifteen girls are reporting daily for work-outs. They go thru some lively scrimmages and show the Cub spirit in these sham battles.

The girls meet at the Physical T. periods and at four o'clock after school five days each week. Those reporting for this activity are: Naomi Drury, Virginia May, Mary Jo Neil, Mattie Jo Gracey, Clydene Polk, Francis McPherson, Minnie Hazel Gore, Nina Bess Brisco, Dora Faye Jenkins, Doy Murphy, Geneva Thompson, Ester Ruth Smith, Ethel Pippin and Kathy Hunter.

This group is working faithfully, and it is hoped they will make a good showing in the County Meet.

BEFORE AND AFTER

Before the sculptor had his inspiration it was only a mass of rock. It was hidden from view by the soil. A quarry was dug and this mass of marble—for so it was—was cut into blocks. It was unpolished and not a beautiful sight. It went through several processes and was sold to the sculptor. For a long time it had lain in a forgotten place; as it had been too small for any of the sculptor's inspirations. It had become tarnished slightly in its waiting.

Finally the sculptor had an inspiration for which he used this block of marble. After months of work he unveiled before the people his piece of art. It had wings and a human form. A flowing garment fell from its shoulders. The feet were sandaled, the head was bare, and the arms were outspread. This masterpiece was called "The Flight of Fortune." This was the first time fortune had been depicted as a thing with eyes. A truth had been brought to light. Fortune is not blind. One should not pursue it as such, for fortune flees from her pursuers and alights on the hard worker at home. She sees clearly indeed! But such was the stone after it had known the Master's touch.—Joe Bob Burnett.

DEBATE TOURNAMENT

The debaters of Brownfield High took a little trip over to Littlefield to attend a debate tournament held there Saturday, February 24. The boys, Woodrow and Roy Chambliss, won second place, defeating Lubbock and Littlefield. The girls, Marian Chisholm and Queenelle Sawyer, beat Slaton but were defeated by Littlefield. Since the boys won a medal which will be sent to them later, B. H. S. is very proud of them.

Mr. A. L. Burnett took the teams to Littlefield, Saturday morning. They arrived about 11 o'clock and got right to work. The boys debated Lubbock, Littlefield and Ralls, and the girls against Slaton and Littlefield. Everyone enjoyed the day although there was a terrible sandstorm there. Mrs. M. L. Penn, as coach, stayed with the teams to make possible and share in their success.

BOYS' GLEE CLUB

The boys' glee club met in the auditorium on Friday morning, Feb. 23. They entertained the remaining boys of Brownfield High by singing some songs from the school song book. Among the numbers given were: "Long Long Ago" "Old Kentucky Home" "Sing Low Sweet Chariot." After these they sang two popular numbers "An Old Spinning Wheel" and "Lazy Bones."

This organization has been getting underway ever since mid-term examinations. The boys with Mr. Ledbetter as sponsor have been meeting on Thursday evenings for brief periods of informal singing. Miss Gertrude Rasco, public school music teacher has been accompanying on the piano for the boys and helping them with part singing and harmony. For some four weeks they have been meeting on Friday mornings also.

Beginning Monday, Feb. 26, they are to meet as a regular glee club for systematic practice. They will

If we do not we will not only hurt ourselves but we will injure our school! Surely no one wants to make grand old B. H. S. hang its head in shame. "Lift her up!" for we want Brownfield's reputation for good sportsmanship to go down in the pages of time.

Many schools will be represented here, so let us make them feel at home, encourage those who are about to enter, and solace those who have met with defeat.

We can make every contestant who enters the Terry County Meet glad he came our way, glad to have met us. And we can win the Meet while we are at it! Seniors, Juniors, Sophomores, Freshmen, teachers and patrons, are you willing to do your part?

Let us make this school which is ours because of the sacrifices of our mothers and fathers, this institution which has grown and progressed and at the same time lent its assistance to every individual—let us make it honored and respected for its high type of Sportsmanship even as it is feared for its excellence in any contest!

WHO'S WHO IN B. H. S.

1. What class in B. H. S. is going to have a party Friday night?
2. Why were all the football boys anxious to go somewhere Friday night?
3. Why is there so much scandal in B. H. S.?
4. How did our boys' and girls' debate teams come out in the Littlefield Tournament last Saturday?
5. Why is it that all high school student's thoughts turn to love and marriage?
6. What Sophomore boy took four girls to the show Monday night?

LITERARY CLUB

Monday, Feb. 19 the Literary Club held court for the purpose of trying Margene Griffin for stealing A. T. Fowler's heart.

The court room was called to order by Judge Gore. The Prosecuting Attorney, Naomi Drury, called her witnesses to the stand. They were A. T. Fowler, Roy Chambliss and Ruby Nell Smith. The sheriff, Maxine Hardin, saw that they were sworn in properly (with their fingers crossed). Mary Jo Neill was defense attorney, and her witnesses were Jocelyn Lambert, Woodrow Chambliss and Margene Griffin.

There were some interesting facts uncovered in this case. Mr. Wester, the club sponsor, stated that the Literary Club must have some fairly rough characters in it by the evidence used in this case, and he would have someone else to fill his place in the future. The bell rang before the trial was finished, so it was continued, Monday 26th.

The trial was completed on the day set, but, to the disgust of the faculty and student body, it resulted in a hung jury.

SMELLS—THAT MAKE US WONDER

Thursday morning, February 22, as the students of second period study hall came up for a breath of air, after delving deep into the mysteries of English, algebra, history or what-not, their nostrils were pervaded by a peculiar odor, which gradually grew stronger.

The wee, small voice of a freshman was heard to whisper, "Limburger cheese." Then an upper classman came up with a lusty shout, "Skunks! Skunks!"

By this time the whole student

OUR 23 YEAR COLUMN

We not in our issue of March 3, 1911, that we were again making an argument over the feasibility of discontinuing the mail service from Big Spring, and get a route from Tahoka west through Brownfield, Gomez and Plains to Bronco. At that time a letter had to go to Big Spring, 2 days, Midland, one day, Seminole, 1 day, and another to Plains, a total of 5 days to reach a point only 32 miles west of Brownfield. In order to reach Tahoka, 28 miles east of us, it went to Big Spring, 2 days, Fort Worth one day, Amarillo one day, and another to Tahoka. But it was fine on the phone company as a merchant naturally would use the phone to call the Santa Fe agent at Tahoka to ask about his goods, and send a freight wagon after it and have it in his store before a letter would reach Tahoka.

On the second page, we find that a big Arbor Day had been celebrated at Needmore, and each tree put out was named for some one. One was named for ye editor—among the other great men. Rev. J. E. Stephens, presiding elder of the Big Spring district, was holding quarterly conference here. Many from Gomez attended the play Sat. night. Fred Wafford carried a fine span of mules to Plainview to sell. Luther French had been hunting for his bicycle pump. Uncle Tom Holly had been plumping on horseback. Howard James was putting in a phone for Joe Lane at the ranch. Jno. W. Gordon and Will McPhaul, were in on legal business from their ranches. J. L. Randal was putting out trees around his place. Dr. and Mrs. Ellis had tendered some of their friends a turkey dinner. W. H. Gist was in from the Needmore community. Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Timm were in from west Terry shopping. Earl Hill was recovering from an attack of rheumatism. J. R. Hill was a business visitor in Midland.

Harrison Holden was here from Memphis, Texas, visiting his sister, Mrs. Stricklin. Mrs. L. T. Brooks was over and renewed her paper and the one going to her daughter, Mrs. Cleveland of Duval, Texas. A summer normal with six participating counties, was assured for Lamesa. Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bell, a girl, the past Monday. A. L. Ater had traded his place one mile south of town to Chas. Copeland, and was moving to Roscoe. Good rains had fallen over Terry again. R. H. Banowsky was representing the Odd Fellows, and Mrs. J. L. Randal was representing the Rebekahs at the Grand Lodge at Waco. Word was received here that an old timer, John Daniels, had passed away at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Dixon at Columbus, N. M. Mr. Dixon was Terry county's first county and district clerk.

Col. Neil H. Bigger had announced that he was preparing to publish a paper at Plains to be known as the Yoakum County News. Broken Links had proven one of the best home talent plays ever put on here. The proceeds amounted to $41, not had at this time, when the city has more people than the county did then.

All for this week.

Ralph Bennett was over from Yoakum county Saturday and informed us that he would as usual take in the Fat Stock Show this month at Fort Worth. Ralph is one of the best ropers in the state.

Mesdames Stricklin and Arthur Sawyer left Tuesday for Big Spring and Coahoma, Mrs. Sawyer to visit her sister, Mrs. Rance King at the former city, and Mrs. Stricklin will visit her sister, Mrs. J. A. Roberts at Coahoma.

Louis Hampton, 31, (colored) died here on the 15th from an abscessed liver. The body was carried to Paducah for burial beside his mother. He leaves a wife and two children. Louis was highly regarded by both white and black race here.

SENATOR CONNALLY

Senator Tom Connally, on January 24 of last year, addressed the senate in advocacy of a measure to reduce the gold content of the dollar—to devalue it, in other words—as the essential step toward recovery. One year later the Democratic congress was considering an identical measure, submitted by the administration, and three days later it was adopted. The Texas senator had conceived and advocated a measure that met the approval of the president and his advisers and has become a law—a law expected to be powerful in returning this country to the normal condition of trade and its normal condition of living, which has been absent several years.

In his address in Dallas some days ago, in which he attacked the record of Senator Connally, Joseph Bailey stated that Martin Dies of the Second Texas district introduced a dollar devaluation bill in the house the day before Connally made his speech in the senate. Mr. Bailey would evidently have the people of Texas believe that Mr. Dies conceived the bill and that Senator Connally took advantage of it to make his address. Mr. Bailey gives Mr. Connally credit for being unusually smart in that he infers that the Texas Senator grasped the details of the devaluation bill in one day and was able to make in the senate next day an address that covered the subject in every particular.

Texans have done some foolish things in politics but it is unthinkable that they will be so foolish as to deprive themselves of the services of a man with the ability of Tom Connally in order to elevate Mr. Bailey to that place. Mr. Bailey's principal claim to recognition seems to be that he favored repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and campaigned Texas for repeal while Senator Connally was "less enthusiastic" than Morris Sheppard in opposing repeal.

Senator Connally is in Washington attending to the things which the people of Texas sent him to Washington to do. Mr. Bailey came to Texas to represent a client in a damage suit against the states of Texas and Oklahoma in the matter of a toll bridge across Red river, for which his client demanded pay when the states built a free bridge. While here he took occasion to begin his attacks on Senator Connally. When the time comes that Senator Connally is free to leave Washington he will tell the people of Texas how he has represented them and his statements will satisfy any reasonable man that he has been a good and faithful legislator who should be returned to his seat.—Paris News.

MELVIN A. TRAYLOR

The death of Melvin Alvah Traylor removed one of the chief of the remaining examples of that favorite American tradition that "from poverty and obscurity to wealth and fame" is here but a transition which may be accomplished in one man's lifetime. Mr. Traylor was born in a log cabin and attained during his comparatively short life a position as one of the foremost bankers of the country, a leader in public enterprise, and a man whose abilities were so well recognized by his fellows that he was advanced as a candidate for the presidential nomination of one of the Nation's two major political parties.

Mr. Traylor's business career was one of progressive advancement and enlargement, and genuinely spectacular although essentially sound. He entered the banking trade in Texas, which was his home during his formative years, and so thoroughly did he master the special problems of banking in this State that recognition of this mastery brought about his successive removals to St. Louis and Chicago. At 47 he became president of the First National Bank of Chicago, one of the largest in the country. At 51 his abilities were drafted for the organization of the Bank for International Settlements, the institution set up by the nations to facilitate post-war economic adjustments. In 1932 there was a strong movement to make him the Democratic presidential nominee.

Mr. Traylor was one of the few great figures in finance and business who came through the depression with heightened prestige and public respect. He thought in human terms of business, and his sympathy with the difficulties and aspirations of the average individual made him an exponent of that liberal spirit which is working mighty changes in the economic structure of the Nation no less than in the political structure. Possessed of an intellect which was fully developed and a disposition to public service which ripened early, Mr. Traylor was a man from whom the American people might expect great services added to great services. His untimely death constitutes a material national loss.—Star-Telegram.

CONGRATULATIONS TO A. C. C.

An educational institution that can spend almost $900,000 for lands, buildings, equipment, improvements and other forms of permanent investment in half a dozen years, and emerge from the task with all its obligations liquidated, is entitled to congratulations and several hearty cheers. And when it can do all this at a time such institutions were having particularly rough sledding, and without making a fuss about it, the congratulations and the cheers should be doubled.

Abilene Christian College has done just that. It has liquidated its obligations and at the same time maintained a high standard of scholarship, built one of the finest educational plants in the Southwest, and increased its enrollment to record numbers.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Hardin of Burkburnett, with a gift of $160,000 made possible the final clearance of the liquidation hurdle. In helping A. C. C. these philanthropic Texans helped Abilene, West Texas, and the cause of education in general. The A. C. C. gift brought this couple's beneficence to about a million and a half dollars.

Behind such a story of achievement is a fine spirit of loyalty, a great sacrifice of time and personal business, and a steadfastness of purpose that cannot be shaken. The official board of Abilene Christian, the officials of the college and the faculty members, as well as the patrons and friends of the institution far and wide, deserve the highest praise for their splendid achievement. It should be an encouragement and a beacon light to other denominational schools which are wrestling with similar problems of debt.—Abilene News.

Our California Trip

pass on. The first time you get the once over is near the border of New Mexico, and that is to see if you have stolen the car you are driving. They want to see a bill of sale, but the receipt for your license plate will satisfy them. They are really nice and polite to those who are of like mind, but they are fortified with a forty-some-odd swinging to their belt in case a fellow might get ugly. After a fine nights rest and two great meals, we were ready for travel again next day. Let us add however, first, that here was the first time we ever pulled oranges off trees and ate them. Mumford and Jimmie also were eating their own grapefruits for breakfast each morn. Wickenburg was the first town reached after leaving the valley, and it was some ten miles west of that town where we had to get off the pavement on the entire trip out, but the detour was good—better than our roads. It was here that the bus loaded with some 25 Mormons ran through the signal lights a few nights ago, and several were killed and wounded. A heavy rain had extinguished the lights. It didn't look like it had ever rained or ever would when we were out there to us, but you never can tell. It may rain again some day for all we know.

At the line we were examined again, not so much because we were from Texas, and had bugs on us, but because we had come through Arizona, it seemed to us. However, a few Texans might bring enough boll weavils into those states to eat up their entire cotton crop in one night, and we sympathize with them in their endeavor to protect themselves. Well, as at the Arizona line, this search and seizure act was done so nicely that one almost wanted to thank them, and as soon as we could put the stuff back and fasten up our suit cases we were on our way. This place was Blythe, Calif., and we sang "California, Here We Come" in our best barefoot tone. It was here that we had our first taste of the "famous" California wine, and let us add that Californians do not think much of their wines. They seem to like their "blended" whiskies better. But for our part, we would prefer Terry County Corn to any of that blended stuff we tasted, and the cost is terrific. The wines are sixbits a quart and taste good, but we guess the "blends" touch the spot quicker.

Now for a few words on some of the foolish laws of the three "wet" states of New Mexico, Arizona and California. In the first, you can buy all the hard liquor you want, but you must have a sandwich with beer. That is you can buy all the hard liquor you want providing you sign a slip stating that you need it for medicinal purposes. Arizona has no restriction, but you drink nothing on the premises except beer. Californians will sell you anything you want, but if you drink wine on the premises you must sit down and have something to eat—a cracker or a stale slice of bread will answer. We suppose the purpose is that if a fellow fills up on food, he is less likely to get soused. There are no saloons as we older folks understand them, but you get your liquor, if you want it, at the big chain markets or drug stores. And let us tell you that they are not overrun with business. It is too high, and we imagine the boot-logger are still getting most of the business out there.

From Blythe, you pass through an uninteresting desert until you reach Box Canyon, and that is the prettiest drive on the entire route (root) as the Californians say. After passing through Box Canyon, you are in the valley and begin to see the Golden State in all its glory. But we forgot to tell you that you are searched for any Arizona oranges, lemons, or grapefruit. You know California and Arizona sure have it in for each other's fruit. They won't even let a peel go across the line. After the search and seizure act, they present you with a nice booklet telling you

SAYS . . . "I CAN BUY NOW BECAUSE I COOK WITH GAS"

CARL JOHNSON is a life insurance salesman, and planning savings is his daily work. He and his wife use the same plan in their family budget that he recommends for others. Carl thinks that some savings should go for insurance, some for other stable investments and some for taking advantage of special prices on goods for future consumption.

The Johnsons have found that judicious buying is one way to save that many overlook. They count gas for cooking as one of their greatest bargains because it is worth $1.75 more per 1000 cubic feet than is asked for it, as compared to substitute fuels, based on the findings of a large university.

They multiply $1.75 by the number of thousands of cubic feet of gas used for cooking per year and find that their total annual savings amount to $26.25 on this one item, used for one purpose.

This money goes to Mrs. Johnson to take advantage of other bargains, because they apportion the money for insurance and other investments directly from Carl's earnings. Recently she has noticed some exceptional bargains advertised in this newspaper by local merchants. Economic forecasts, present prices and the advertisements, themselves, all say "Buy Now." Mrs. Johnson intends to do that very thing with the $26.25 she has saved by cooking with gas. It is surprising the number of items that this amount of money will buy.

We take this means of advising our customers that we are now in a position to sell you the world famous MAYTAG Washing Machine. We will maintain stock of machines on our floor for display.

The former Maytag Agent, Mr. Jim Moore, will continue in our service as salesman and field representative.

Anticipating an advance in the present low price of washers, we have split a car load with Lubbock in order to be in a position to make deliveries to our customers before the advance.

Yours truly,

THEY ALL LOOK ALIKE . . . but WHAT A DIFFERENCE!

To our trained pharmacists every drug . . . every solution . . . every compound must be fresh . . . of highest quality. As prescription specialists, we have always maintained a high standard of excellence.

The most important part of our business is the filling of PRESCRIPTIONS.
