That Trip To The Old Volunteer State

Let's see? Where did we hang up the broadcast last week? Oh! yes, Hot Springs, Ark., and at that time, it certainly suited its name. To a fellow who had just come off the caprock, 3200 feet above sea level the night before, it would not have taken a great deal of persuasion to get him to bet that H-1 was not 30 feet from that burg. After a hot repeat, the whole bunch of Texans in that apartment took off just about all that was allowable to comply with decency and order in a vain endeavor to be comfortable. Right down in between the two mountains, with not a breath of air. When bedtime came, we tried a room for awhile, but wound up on a back porch that was three stories high there, but only two in front. If those Arkansawyers could once see the south Plains country, they would think that Jehovah had caused a great steam roller to run over this country to flatten the mountains. All buildings there must have stilts in front and a deep basement in the rear. But they are great people—those "sawyers."

It was not hard to wake up on the morning of the 11th. To put it in the simple language of City Marshall E. Brown, we were as "hot as a fire-cracker" all night, and frying bacon and eggs and steaming coffee held a great bid for us to crawl out next morning and ease our ankles under the table. Our bus for Memphis, Tenn., left at 10:30 so our accommodating brother-in-law kept us in motion till that time arrived. He knew all the interesting places, and we saw most of them before the bus left. One of the most interesting drives of the morning was the gradual climb of the mountain to the east of the city, which is well paved, but you come down on the other side. This is quite a high mountain, with all the natural beauty of woodland and rock of that section. Nothing artificial. At the top, one can see half of Arkansas it would seem. But there is still a steel tower that runs 200 more feet in the air that the fire rangers use to keep an eye on the surrounding country. For a fee of two-bits, you may take the elevator in this narrow and apparently none to sturdy tower of steel on up to the very roof of the earth and see quite a bit more of Old Arkansas. While we had the two-bits, and Leo Holmes of the State Bank and Dick McDuffie of the First National had kindly hinted that they would take care of any reasonable drafts we might send in while on the trip, we declined with thanks the prospects of seeing more of Arkansas. In fact, we looked up toward the top of that little scaffold that morning as swift fleecy clouds scurried north, and the darn thing looked like it wanted to sprawl some three hundred feet down that mountain side, and our old gizzard felt like it was crawling up into our throat. We were as brave as a lion when our wife and kids are along to keep up the old "bluff" but mountain heights make us as timid as a wren. We saw a guy washing windows some 20 stories up in Dallas, and while we need a good job we decided not to cut prices on him.

The bottoms of our feet quit itching when we got to the bottom of that dabled mountain, and we felt really at home amongst the lowly herd. We tried to explain to our brother-in-law that we aimed to ascend the heights of glory in that final day, but as the feathers in our wings were kinder clipped at that time, we would enjoy a lower altitude for the present. He admitted that he had a "flesh crawling" feeling on that tower himself.

Once more down from the crags and crevices, we went to one of those fountains where the water comes out so dingled hot that you have to "blow" it. We looked for a saucer, but none existed. We then drove up a street that was in fact just a hollow

Merchants Enjoy Great Business Sat.—Mon.

The dry goods, the grocery men and the other stores cashed in with big business here both last Saturday and Monday, the latter being the regular First Monday Tradesday. The fact that Monday was the opening day of the fall term of district court helped considerably in augmenting the crowds on hand. But they were here from all over Terry and many of the adjoining counties, and they were spending some money.

There was the usual excitement of the giving away of the usual $50 in the afternoon, and six people of the city and community had a nice fresh crisp bill tucked away in their 'jeans' when they left for home, or else they transferred it to some merchant in exchange for needs of the home. Everybody seemed to enjoy the day.

The Herald has no criticism to offer for the way the Trades Day has been conducted in the past, for it has succeeded in bringing many to town that had been in the habit of going elsewhere, but it does believe that there ought to be some more means of amusement provided. We note that one town is going to have a water fight next time, sides to be chosen from town and country, and have two water hoses, leant by the city, with rules to govern the fight and a small prize to the winning side.

Some other forms of amusement might be thought out by others that would amuse the women and children that come and have to stay most of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schulze from Tribune, Kans., visited Mr. and Mrs. Roy Collier last week. Mrs. Schulze will be remembered as Miss Lera Welch and a sister of Mrs. Collier's.

or pass in the mountain, and came to a spring that was called the Arsenic Spring, said to contain a great deal of that drug. When a lad we heard that some of our playmates had a very good dose of that chemical while feasting on some old fellow's melons. None died, but when they quit vomiting, it was said they felt as if their inside had turned to the outside. So, thinking of that incident, we did not tank up any too freely at that spring. Hot Springs, with some 30,000 people, native and transient, is a beautiful little city, with many fine hotels and apartments. It is a part of a great government park that extends over much of that section, and is perhaps as large as three counties. It is constantly being enlarged and beautified to the benefit of the tourist. Big lakes and forest are on every side, and ordinarily it is no hotter there than elsewhere, and is considered a great winter resort with outdoor games, such as golf the year round. Moving slowly down the streets in a car, you do not see a predominance of Arkansas cars as in Little Rock and other places, but in a line of them it reads like a list of the states of the Union, not to mention Canada, Alabama, Georgia, Iowa, Illinois, New York, Pennsylvania, and what have you. They are there from every section, and for the same purpose—health.

Being a resort town, one would suspect that prices for this and that would be rather high, but we were told that apartments as well as food was well in line with other cities. The places where people received baths including attendants and helpers, were reasonable, and that one need not be rich to go there for three or four weeks and take the usual number of baths. Of course, if one wishes, he can spend a lot of money, but it is not necessary. One strange thing to us was that we did not see a house fly while there, and our sister-in-law who had been there about two weeks had not seen one. The town is spotless and they keep it that way. In fact, we saw no flies amount to anything after leaving the caprock country, and mosquitoes are a scarce article in the east now, as crude oil is used on water that cannot be drained.

The great Spa city of Arkansas was left at 10:30 Saturday, August 11th, on a big Missouri-Pacific bus for Little Rock and Memphis. Those big busses certainly sway and glide around those hills and mountains across creeks and sloughs, and while they cling to the roads mighty well your feet kinder itch on the bottom at intervals.

This is the end of episode 2.

Bank. Services begin each evening at 8:15 o'clock. There is special singing every evening. Everyone is invited to attend, says the pastor, Homer Sheets.

Rural Rehabilitation To Be Pushed Sep-Oct.

The Texas Relief Commission's program of rural rehabilitation will be pushed to the limit during the next two months, it was announced today by J. E. Stanford, director of the department, as he issued instructions to his field supervisors to employ assistants to help them carry out the program during the next eight weeks.

It is the aim of the department to house every family possible and supply them with capital goods before the winter season arrives.

Federal authorities have been asked for a grant of $800,000 for rural rehabilitation in Texas in September as against $250,000 for the current month.

Stanford reported the program now being carried on in 142 counties and said it will be extended to others as soon as rains break long existing drought in these counties.

Conciliation Commissioner Appointed Here

Mr. E. G. Akers of Brownfield has been appointed Conciliation Commissioner for Terry County by Judge James C. Wilson, according to an announcement by R. J. Murray, Supervising Conciliation Commissioner of the Northern District.

Under the terms of a recent amendment to the National Bankruptcy Act, Federal Judges are required to appoint a Conciliation Commissioner in each agricultural county and at any time within five years after the amendment takes effect, a Commissioner, stating that a farmer is insolvent or unable to meet his debts as they mature and that it is desirable to effect a composition or extension of time to pay his debts. The County Conciliation Commissioner then attempts to work out a settlement which will be satisfactory to a majority of the farmer's creditors, both in number and amount. If a Commissioner secures their approval the Court may then make the settlement binding on unsecured minority creditors, even though they disapprove the basis of settlement.

The final step which the debtor may take as a last resort after all other efforts have failed is to file a petition in Bankruptcy under the recently adopted Frazier - Lemke amendment. Under the provisions of this amendment, the debtor may be allowed to retain possession of his farm for a period of either five or six years. During this period he may make certain payments under a six year purchase plan, including the payment of taxes and one percent interest on the principal each year in addition to certain payments on the principal of the debt. This plan is followed provided the secured creditors give their consent. If they do not accept the plan, the farmer may retain possession by paying into the Court a fixed annual rental. At the end of this five or six year period or before the debtor may repurchase the farm by paying a price set upon it by three appraisers appointed by the Federal Court.

Murray, who is Chairman of the Texas Farm Debt Conciliation Committee, strongly recommends that every effort be made by distressed farmers to secure a voluntary adjustment of their debts through the Farm Debt Adjustment Committees already appointed in each county, or with the aid of the County Conciliation Commissioner before resorting to bankruptcy proceedings under the Frazier - Lemke amendment. This amendment requires farming under the jurisdiction of the Court, and gives the farmer no assurance that he will be able to borrow the money at the end of the six year period to pay the appraised price of the farm.

FEDERAL PROJECTS FOR STOPPING WIND EROSION

A project for controlling soil erosion from wind has been established covering a tract of sixteen square miles located at Dallam, Sherman and Hartley, and Moore Counties, according to Dr. Geib.

The basic factor in preventing soil erosion by winds is moisture conservation, Dr. Geib said, and so level terraces with closed ends will be constructed. In addition, deep listing by contours and strip cropping will be tried.

One of the reasons for the present condition, Geib stated, is that the one way disc plow has been in use, and this plow breaks the soil only to depth of a few inches. When a strong wind comes all this top soil is blown off.

There is light and heavy soil in this area, and so the experiment should give far reaching results. H. H. Fennell, formerly director of the Oklahoma Experiment Station at Goodwell, has been put in charge of the project.

Terry to Have Exhibit At South Plains Fair

Mr. A. B. Davis, manager of the Panhandle South Plains Fair Ass'n, has written the Herald enclosing a copy of the letter he had written the local chamber of Commerce in regards to Terry county having an exhibit at the Lubbock fair. We understand that before this time Mr. Davis has been informed that as usual, Terry county will be represented with a creditable exhibit.

Few fairs in recent years have been passed up by Terry county as close to us and as important to us as the one held annually at Lubbock. In fact, it would hurt us much more than it would them for us to miss any year. Last year, Terry took 1st place at the Lubbock fair, and is perhaps a better position this year than last to meet most any competition in this section, as the crops are considered generally better in this county than any on the south Plains.

In conversation recently with Mr. J. E. Shelton, secretary of the local chamber of commerce, he not only stated that we would have a creditable showing at Lubbock, but intimated a Terry county exhibit likely would be shown at both Amarillo and Dallas.

Mr. Davis stated in his letter to us that both the Star-Telegram and Dallas News would likely have a staff writer at Lubbock during the fair, and that counties represented there this dry year would get some mighty fine publicity.

Gov. Has Bought 5405 Head of Cattle

W. A. Bell, secretary of the Terry county government cattle buying here, informed us this week that the government had purchased 5405 head of cattle in Terry county, of which 3241 had been condemned and killed, and 2164 have been shipped to processing plants. An even 574 people have shared in these sales representing a cash total of $58,540, most of which is now in the hands of the owners.

It was personally the opinion of Mr. Bell that many more cattle in this county should be sold and slaughtered, as they mostly represent young heifers that will never be good milk producers—some of which he believes will never produce over 1½ to 2 gallons of milk a day. These he believe should be sold, and the basic stock re-established with a high grade of producers.

Mr. Bell informed us that the big boss was down this week and reported that he had less complaint from those who have sold cattle here than from any county in this section.

Public School Opened At Seagraves Mon.

The Seagraves schools will open for 1934-35 term here Monday morning September 3, with the enrollment of approximately 350 students.

All teachers have returned home from their summer studies at the various colleges and are ready to assume their duties.

With the addition of one teacher to the faculty this year the Seagraves school will have twelve teachers, six of which did not serve here last year.

Three Cities Bid For Centennial Location

AUSTIN, Sept. 1.—Bids of Dallas, Houston and San Antonio for the main celebration of the Texas centennial in 1936 were considered in secret session here tonight by a sub-committee of the Texas centennial commission.

Next week at an unannounced place and time, the entire commission will consider the bids and may select the winner of the principal unit of Texas' greatest celebration.

Mrs. Harvey Gage's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Chester of Littlefield visited her last week.

Mrs. McCoy of Brinville, La., is here visiting in the Dr. John R. Turner home. She is Mrs. Turner's mother.

Shelterbelt Location No Aid to West Texas

A "shelterbelt" may be a shelterbelt to the world at large wherever it is located, but it wouldn't be a shelterbelt to West Texas unless it were located west of West Texas, is the theory of President Bradford Knapp of Texas Technological College at Lubbock.

"West Texas Today," official mouthpiece of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in its August issue, prints Dr. Knapp's views and says that the W. T. C. C. "already is protesting that the plan is inadequate in the respect that it is proposed to end the tree belt virtually at the northern border of Texas."

Registers Protests

Dr. Knapp protest that the belt "should be moved at least 200 miles westward between the areas of 20 and 15 inches of annual rainfall and along the northwestern boundaries of the Panhandle-Plains, and at least southward to the Pecos river."

Both protest are based on President Roosevelt's approval of the most unique and daring forestry undertaking in the nation's history.

A massed attack on drought, dust and winds, plans call for the planting of trees in strips seven rods wide, one mile apart, running north and south in a belt of prairie country 100 miles wide and 1,000 miles in length from the Canadian border to the Texas Panhandle.

"As the plan now stands," says the magazine, "it would enter Texas roughly halfway between two lines marking the average 25-inch rainfall belt. That would be along the northeastern line of the Panhandle, north to south, taking in parts of Ochiltree, Roberts, Donley, Gray and Hall Counties, and all of Lipscomb, Hemphill, Wheeler, Collingsworth and Childress Counties—and there it would stop. The central and western Panhandle counties, would be left unprotected."

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce, it is indicated, "is working" on the U. S. Department of Agriculture through Senator Tom Connally. Dr. Knapp has registered his colleges protest in a letter to E. A. Sherman, associate chief forester.

Submits Another Plan

A map of his own, submitted by Dr. Knapp, shows an alternative routing of the belt. He would include the following Texas counties, from north to south: Dallam, Hartley, Oldham, Deaf Smith, Farmer Castro, Bailey, Lamb, Cochran, Hockley, Yoakum, Terry, Gaines, Andrews, Loving, Winkler Ector, Midland, Ward Crane Upton and Crockett.

He would also include a belt of about equal width in eastern New Mexico so that the celebrated shelterbelt would lie about half way in New Mexico.

His letter in part to Mr. Sherman reads:

"I think I am correct in saying that these dust storms, particularly in this territory, come from the west. . . The west, southwest and northwest winds are the ones doing the chief damage."

Panhandle Unprotected

"In the plan that you have suggested, you leave out a protection for this entire area, with the principal cities, Amarillo, and Lubbock, which latter is the center of the fast developing farm area in the South Plains. The city of Lubbock itself has more than 20,000 population; Plainview about 12,000, and Amarillo, 43,132. The heaviest population, both urban and rural lies along this center of the Panhandle and the South Plains area, and approximately following the line of the Santa Fe railroad.

"To run the belt in Texas as suggested is a very serious matter, because it is the equivalent of condemning all of the land west of the belt as unfit for development, when, as a matter of fact, year in and year out in the South Plains area you can produce more cotton per acre than in any other area in the south; you can produce feed crops as cheaply as other sections, and statistical material could be easily assembled to show the millions and millions that have already been invested in conservative improvements in this section of the country.

Final Count Gives Allred 43,346 Lead

DALLAS, Aug. 28.—The Texas Election Bureau's final tabulation of returns from last Saturday's Democratic runoff primary, announced tonight showed that James V. Allred led Tom F. Hunter by 43,346 votes for the gubernatorial nomination, on the face of the returns from 252 out of the state's 254 counties with 211 complete.

The final count represented a total vote of 948,746 and the bureau estimated that approximately 12,000 votes remained untallied in the unofficial count.

The final count showed:

For Governor—Allred 495,546, Hunter 452,200.

For Lieutenant Governor—Walter Wodul 513,433, Joe Moore 367,519.

For Attorney General—William McCraw 493,457, Walter Woodward 408,664.

For Railroad Com.—Lon A. Smith, 499,588, John Pundt 389,452.

For Supreme Court Justice—John H. Sharp 445,655, Hal S. Latimore, 428,461.

May Ask For New Relief Commission

AUSTIN, Sept. 3.—Dissension that has rocked the Texas relief commission for many months was described in biting language before members of the Texas legislature today.

The legislature, called into special session to authorize issuance of $9,500,000 in relief bonds, has instituted an investigation into activities of the commission.

Three Members Heard

Three members of the commission, Jack Reed of Mountain Home, Carl Estes of Tyler and W. A. Brooks, Jr., of Dallas, testifying before senate and house investigators, recommended drastic changes in personnel of the commission.

Estes and Brooks declared that "political hickering" and "factionalism" had so disrupted the commission it was impossible for the board to work in the best interests of relief subjects.

"I wouldn't issue $9.90 in bonds under the present set-up," Estes asserted.

Farm Income Biggest Since 1930 is Claimed

It appears assured that aggregate farm income this year will be the largest since 1930, says Standard Statistics Company in a survey issued recently.

"It is tentatively estimated," Standard Statistics says, "that agricultural income including bounties, relief payments, etc., will approximate" $8,250,000,000, an increase of 29.3 per cent over last year.

"Based on carefully compiled estimates," the statistical organization places farm income for the year at $6,950,000,000 and including relief payments, bounties, etc., paid to date and in prospect for the remainder of the year, anticipates a total figure of $8,250,000,000.

Total for 1933, including Federal benefits, is placed at $6,383,000,000. The totals given for 1931 and 1930 were $6,911,000,000 and $9,414,000,000, respectively. The peak for recent years was $11,918,000,000 for 1929.

The company expresses the opinion that the drought as a factor in the general business outlook has been overemphasized.

Most of us are found wanting before we are tried.

the question whether the belt might be to a great advantage carried to a point along the west line of the Panhandle and South Plains area rather than the east line, for the following reasons:

(1) That is the country from which our sandstorms come;

(2) It is less thickly populated therefore, there would be less disturbance of the present existing population, and land could be acquired much more cheaply.

(3) It would bring protection to that area which is on the average the best farming section in Northwest Texas."

Pledge
 I will think—talk—write... Texas Centennial in 1936! This is to be my celebration. In its achievement I may give free play to my patriotic love for Texas heretofore past; my confidence in its glories that are to be....

West Texas is convalescing in a magical manner. Old Man Drouth seemed to have us prostrated with a killing blow below the belt but the fine rains contained the elixir needed to put this section on its feet. Watch it coming thru the rye—Big Spring News.

Clarendon, like most west Texas towns enjoys good showers when it is dry. They even like a good one or two inch rain, if scattered out, but when it comes to about five inches in a few hours that flood their streets with several feet of water and ruin their goods, it is too much of a good thing. But Clarendon is a great little city that can take it on the chin and grin about it.

We understand that the Brownfield Rotarians royally entertained their visitors from the Falls Club at the banquet last Friday. This inter-city visiting of the clubs are good to promote friendlier relations between the towns, and to dispel selfishness and surliness. A representative of the Banner paid the Herald a fraternal call after the luncheon.

The Cleburne Times-Review came to us last week with a 64 page edition, which was the forerunner of a celebration of the 80th birthday of grand old Johnson county. That county was our first Texas home for the first six years we were in this state, and the edition was very interesting to us way out here on the south Plains. One section contained the picture of the Commissioners Court of 27 years ago, and in it was Judge G. W. Humphries to whom we hired to make a crop the year 1904, 30 years ago.

We ask the reader's indulgence in a lot of mistakes that have appeared in the Herald of late. Many words with "is" "he" and "es" were missing, caused from shortage of those letters. A fast linotype operator will set a line of letters faster than they will get back in the channels of the magazine, hence many words did not have the required letters. These shorts should have been ordered before we left for Tennessee, but we failed to do so, and there was only five "hs" in the magazine when we returned and ordered new sorts.

Seminole has a moderate oil boom and the Sentinel is complaining of a dearth of houses and apartments in that city. They state that family after family of oil men have to be turned away each day for lack of facilities. As far away as is Brownfield, we are feeling the effects of the oil operations and leasing in Gaines and Yoakum counties, and the same crowded condition exists here. No houses for those who want to move here on account of better crop conditions than some places; no place for oil people who wish to headquarters here; no place for those who would move here to send their children to school. It seems to us that some moderately priced cottages and apartments would be a good investment here.

TO THE VOTERS OF PRE. NO. 2
 I want to thank the voters for their loyal support and influence during the runoff primary in which I was successful. As your next commissioner I will do my very best to handle the office to the best interest of all concerned.
 Again I thank you.
 GEO. W. HENSON

PROFITEERING
 Just one instance of profiteering of many at the present time. Cotton seed oil mills purchased cotton seed last fall for $6 and $7 per ton oil from same probably sold for enough to pay for the seed and cost of processing, leaving them the cotton seed cake and meal clear above all cost. Now that the drought has caused almost a complete feed crop failure and farmers "must" have feed for their livestock, the oil mills are taking advantage of the necessities of the people and demanding $42 per ton for cotton seed cake and meal, a 500 or 600 per cent profit. They, as every business institution, are entitled to a reasonable profit for their products, but "not" that large a profit; especially under present conditions. The Federal Government tells other business institutions what wages it shall pay, number of hours it may work its employees, per cent profit above production, then why not the same Government powers tell "those birds" where to stop. Surely what sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander. Farmers, who have cotton seed this fall should sell their seed direct to livestock growers who can and will crush the seed themselves and feed it to their cattle and sheep at considerable saving in cost.—Hope (N. M.) News.

REV. M. D. WILLIAMS PASSES
 Our old friend, Rev. M. D. Williams passed away at his home in Glendale, Ariz., last Saturday afternoon about 6:30, while milking his cow, according to a letter received this week from his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Tom Williams. Rev. Williams was in his 70ties, and had with his wife visited here last summer. Rev. Williams came to Terry county with his family some 30 years ago from Comanche county, when this county was in its infancy. He was a Missionary Baptist minister and added much in the cause of that church in the early days. Not only that, but he was instrumental in the building up of schools and society in general in the early days here, and in case of sickness or calamity, he was always to be depended on.

As the letter was very brief that Mrs. Williams wrote to Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McCormack here, presumably he was buried Sunday in the Glendale cemetery. He leaves a wife, several children and grandchildren to mourn his departure. Peace to the ashes of this old pioneer!

cent years they have developed a bunch of so-called leaders who will not co-operate with other towns unless the project directly benefits Lubbock. In fact, nothing pleases them better than throw a monkey wrench into the machinery if they cannot see dollars in it for Lubbock. They are not broad minded enough to see what helps other towns will eventually help them. The smaller towns are fast catching on to this racket, and if Lubbock does not put some better leaders forward who will sympathize and co-operate, they will lose a lot of the business they are now enjoying with smaller towns. Chas. Gay will likely try to make this article and comments ridiculous in his comments next week, but his recent dictatorial methods as regards the congressional race should have learned him a lesson about the temper of the smaller towns of this section.

We made a statement last week that Messrs. J. E. Taylor and Randle would run the cafe on the north side. They will only have charge of the beer sales. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moreman, of Plains, have recently purchased the cafe, and are running it.
 District Court is grinding at the courthouse this week, and we understand is trying some of the Terry county chicken thieves.
 Dr. John R. Turner returned Sunday from Rochester, Minn., where he took Mrs. Turner for an operation. He said she was doing nicely and would soon be able to come home.
 Mr. and Mrs. Elmo McClellan of Lubbock visited Mrs. McClellan's parents, Rev. and Mrs. Sharp, Sunday.
 Smiles lighten the trials.

TO THE PEOPLE OF COM. PRECINCT NO. 4
 This is to thank my good friends and neighbors for their loyal support in my race for Commissioner of your precinct. "To the victor belongs the spoils" but I want to assure you that I am equally happy in the knowledge that I have been fair and clean in my race, and can look back with no regrets and have no remorse of conscience. I want to say to those who used unfair means to defeat me that vengeance belongs to God, but you will surely reap a just recompense of reward.
 Respectfully,
 J. E. EAKIN.

The Herald was greatly pleased to have a visit Wed. of this week from Mrs. Emmett Whitaker and two children, of Abilene, who is visiting in Lubbock and Seminole, and was on her way to the latter place. Her husband is joint editor of the Abilene Times, and once worked for the Herald. He is also pastor of one of the Baptist churches in Big Spring.
 Frank Wier returned Sunday night from a visit with his mother of Hasco, Texas, who recently underwent an operation at Dallas.

MERCHANDISE SALES WELL OVER 1933

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 27.—Average dollar sales in the 95 retail establishments reporting to The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research were 13.4 per cent above those in July last year, according to reports of this July. For the first seven months of this year aggregate sales were 26 per cent greater than in the corresponding period in 1933.

The decline in sales from June to July was however, slightly greater than the average seasonal decline for the preceding seven years. Collections again made a favorable showing compared with last year. The percentage outstanding accounts collected by 66 reporting stores was 32.4 per cent against 28.8 in July last year.

To Prepare Cactus For Hungry Cattle

AUSTIN, Aug. 27.—The wide cactus covered expanses known to the Southwest Texas ranchmen as pear flats may be invaded this winter by relief roll clients seeking sustenance for drouth stricken livestock. The prickly pear, rid of its small stickers, is a choice bit of vegetation upon which ranchmen have been known to fatten their herds during winter for many years.

Relief commission officials are considering a plan whereby an army of relief roll clients will go into the flats with pear burning machines, singe the stickers from the plants, and make the pear safe for consumption by the hungry herds.

Meanwhile, officials are seeking thousands of acres of pasturage for cattle in acute need, most of them in the extreme western part of the state. Federal Surplus Relief corporation has urged that up to 200,000 head of cattle be pastured but it is doubtful that sufficient acreage for that number can be found in the state according to C. Z. Crain, head of the surplus commodities department, in charge of the cattle program.

"I want it made clear," Crain said, "that the Relief Commission will not go into competition with ranchman in the matter of leasing land. If there is available sufficient pasturage at a price we know to be right, we will take it, but if owners begin to raise prices in anticipation of competition between government and the private livestock owner also seeking pasturage, then we will get out of this program."

Many counties have been reluctant to offer pasturage because they are in the emergency drouth classification and fear they will lose such designation if land is leased for grazing purposes within their borders.

Crain explained that leasing for pasturage will in no case have any hearing on county's drouth classification.

The leasing program also has been made difficult because of lack of grass in North and West Texas. Although there is some grass in South and West Texas, tick quarantine covering many counties will prevent movement of cattle into much of that area.

Remember, singing at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. A number of people from here attended the singing at Brownfield Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ducey McDaniel and children of Seagraves spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ball. Mrs. Scott and daughters of Canyon, were here the past week visiting her brother and sister, Mr. W. H. Black and Mrs. Willie Winn.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Cope and children visited Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Webb, of Lahey, Sunday.

Mr. Carl Jenkins of Brownfield, and Miss Annie Childress of this community, were married August 25 at Brownfield. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Childress. We wish this couple every happiness. They will make their home in this community.

Mr. and Mrs. Oden Miller and children, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Bingham, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Bingham and children and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bullington and little son of Midland, visited Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Bingham, Sunday.

Mrs. C. F. McNeil and daughter, Estell and Miss Dollie McLeroy visited in the W. F. Collins home Sunday.

THE VALUE OF LIME

A few years ago, in a hospital clinic it was found that the blood in one of the patients did not coagulate or thicken quickly enough, and chloride of lime (not the chloride of lime used for disinfecting), was given in 15 grain doses in a sirup three times a day.

The blood then coagulated in normal time, but the physician was surprised to see that an old varicos ulcer on the leg, which had resisted treatment for a long time, had healed. He immediately gave the lime to a number of cases with varicose ulcer and had very satisfactory results.

A short time ago it was found that while lime would not cure cancer it greatly relieved the pain. It was given in the form of lime or calcium gluconate 5 to 7 grain doses three times a day.

Recently Dr. F. Fabry, Munich, reported a case where calcium chloride was injected into the veins in cocaine poisoning. He states that the convulsions ceased, the rapid shallow breathing became slow and deep, the rigid hands and feet relaxed, and the pulse grew stronger.

In other cases physicians have been using the calcium gluconate in cocaine poisoning. Recently, also, calcium has been shown to be of great value in cases of lead poisoning.

As you know poisoning by lead can continue in the body for a long time without apparently showing any symptoms, but if the system becomes too acid some of the lead in the system becomes free and gets into the blood. Where the symptoms become acute the use of calcium gluconate gives relief to the colic and other painful symptoms.

Research men are of the opinion that calcium or lime may soon be proven to be of service in the treatment of poisoning by mercury.

Dr. J. H. Stokes, in the Journal of American Medical association, says that lime is of great help in preventing poisoning and irritation must be given for certain diseases.

But you do not need lime for any poisoning or other ailment in the body; of what use then is the above knowledge to you?

If you will take plenty of lime daily in your food you will not only maintain the structure of the tissues ward off various ailments, and any sore or irritation will heal more rapidly.

The foods rich in lime are milk, green vegetables, eggs and cheese.

Can Those Stalk Fields

By Chas. N. Sheppardson
Head of Dairy Husbandry Dept.
Texas A. and M. College

Hundreds of tons of feed that could be used to save cattle this winter are wasting in the fields today. Corn stalks that failed to make, or that have had the corn removed, are being lost by allowing them to stand in the field. These stalks if harvested and put in a trench silo can be made into palatable and nutritious feed. Normally these stalks are hardly worth the cost of harvesting and few farmers have machinery for handling them.

But, with hay prices approximately doubling those of a year ago and prospects of going higher, it will pay any farmer to cut and save his stalks even though they must be handled by hand.

The trench silo is easily constructed and can be dug to fit the feed available. Texas housewives know the value of the tin can in saving fruits and vegetables for winter food. Many Texas farmers still have to learn the value of the silo in converting coarse, dry stalks that are normally wasted by the cattle into a juicy, palatable feed that will be consumed readily. Stunted sorghum and other crops of that type can be materially increased in feeding value if handled in this way.

Another advantage of this method is the elimination of danger from sorghum poisoning. There have been several accounts in the papers recently of cattle losses due to grazing sorghum. This is caused by prussic acid on the sorghum, which is lost when the sorghum goes through the fermentation process in the silo.

In putting these crops in the trench care should be taken to see that they are packed tightly. Add plenty of water to moisten the entire mass. Cover with about one foot of dirt. The ensilage will be ready to use in about two weeks. Fed with one to two pounds of cottonseed meal per cow per day, it will make a good maintenance ration and will return from fifty to one hundred per cent more feed value than the same crop fed dry.

C. C. FORBES

Funeral rites were conducted for another pioneer settler of this community Aug. 20, 1934 at 3 o'clock p. m. from Rix-Bynum funeral home when the Rev. R. M. Hoker, pastor of the Nazarene church paid a beautiful tribute to C. C. Forbes. Mr. Forbes succumbed in an ambulance where he was being taken to a sanitarium for treatment.

Friends of many years standing paid their last respects to deceased one who came to this community 18 years ago. He came here from Fanin county and was considered one of the most successful farmers of the community. Mr. Forbes worked untiringly to build up the country he loved.

It is doubtful if there is a man in this community that was known better, or loved greater than "Curlee" as he was commonly called.

He had a kind word and a smile for everyone and was a man who enjoyed helping his neighbors and friends. Consequently his passing means a huge loss to this community.

The deceased was born April 14, 1883 at the old home in Mississippi. He came to Texas with his parents when quite a small boy. Mr. Forbes home is 1 1/2 miles north of Canyon community.

Survivors are a wife, three daughters, Mrs. John R. Pugh, Houston; Mrs. Charley Sherrod and Miss Nettie Forbes, Lubbock; a brother W. P. Forbes, Brownfield; three sisters Mrs. F. C. Taylor, Houston, Mrs. J. S. Richards, Lubbock and W. O. Curlee of Anton, Texas.

Pall bearers were J. F. Sherrod, J. B. Sherrod, J. W. May, J. A. Kofer, F. A. Hawkins and G. T. Crawford.

Texas meat canning plants—to that is planning to make the facts number of 19—are doing their level best to take care of the cattle drought relief; 8,585,134 No. 2 cans of meat had been placed on the pantry shelf of the Relief Commission by the middle of August. Eight and a half million cans of meat is quite a bit. All these cans are filled with beef products. Meat will come the program of buying sheep and goats and the meat of these animals will be conserved in the same way. That is the New Deal in drought relief. The old way was a heap of whitening bones on the prairie and a total loss to the producer.

There is another feature to New Deal handling of drought problems—

RED GOOSE—THE OJIBWA INDIAN BOY

An Indian Story for Boys and Girls
By Carlyle Emery

Raven Feather, a Sioux Indian boy had been in one of the canoes that struck a rock and overturned while in pursuit of Red Goose. The river current dragged him down near Red Goose and he called for help. Red Goose held out his hand and said, "Here! Take my hand! I will pull you into canoe."

Now go on with the story.
Raven Feather seized the outstretched hand that was offered to him, and after a considerable struggle, Red Goose pulled him out of the water into the canoe with him.
And all the while, Red Goose was thinking to himself, "Good! I escape Sioux—many down—and I bring back prisoner." Then, turning to the exhausted boy lying flat in the bottom of his canoe, he said:

"Raven Feather is my prisoner. Wind die down—we drift to shore now, and I make paddle from tree,"
Sure enough, it was only a few minutes before the canoe crunched on a beach and Red Goose half lifted and half dragged his prisoner up on shore.

"Your people die in river. I take you to Ojibwa Village." As Red Goose spoke, he started toward a likely looking sapling, but a blinding flash of lightning struck a huge tree nearby and down it crashed, sweeping Red Goose down with it.

How long he was unconscious, he never knew, but when he opened his eyes again, Raven Feather was looking down at him with a knife in his hands.

"Wake, Ojibwa!" said Raven Feather. "Wake! Rain has gone. The sun comes. Wake, Ojibwa!"
Red Goose blinked his eyes and, rising slowly, found that no bones had been broken.

"Here, Ojibwa—this is your knife. Take it."

Red Goose couldn't quite understand this and was about to speak when Raven Feather continued.

"Thunder come. Great lightning strike tree. You fall down. I not hurt. I find knife in your belt and try to kill you—but I cannot kill. You save me. You take me from water, so I cannot kill. I wait until sun come. Now I wake you. Here, take your knife."

Raven F. spoke hurriedly, as though he were ashamed of his weakness.

For a minute or two Red Goose seemed dazed and couldn't believe his own ears.

"You Sioux—I am Ojibwa—and you not kill?"

"No."

"Then I kill you. You Sioux—Nadoway Sioux. You my enemy.
"Kill—I do not care. Out there in storm, my father die. I am alone."
"You are brave. You have honor. How old?"
"Twelve winters."

During this conversation between the two boys, Red Goose had been fighting against his natural Indian instincts. He had been taught to hate and fight the Sioux and to kill his enemies. It was the old law of protection that was the code of those days, but now, with the opportunity at hand, something held him back.

MEADOW CHURCH OF CHRIST TO HAVE ALL-DAY SERVICES NEXT SUNDAY

Splendid audiences are attending the series of Gospel meeting being conducted at the church of Christ at Meadow, in which O. M. Reynolds, of Abilene, is doing the preaching. Fine interest is being manifested and there have been several additions to date. Services will be held throughout this week, with night services only, which are being held at 8:15 o'clock.

There are to be all-day services next Sunday, as follows: 10:00 A. M. Bible study; 1:00 A. M. Sermon and worship, and subject: "The Jerusalem Church;" basket lunch on the ground at noon; 2 to 4 P. M. there is to be lots of fine singing by the large group of singers from all over this section, interspersed by short Bible talks by such Gospel preachers as John T. Smith, Lubbock; Jas. A. Fry, Brownfield; R. P. Drennon, Tahoka; Otis Gatewood, Abilene, and others. Members of the church and friends throughout this section are invited and urged to come and spend the day or come for the afternoon services.

Meadow Church of Christ.

Mrs. H. G. Lees and children of Big Spring returned home Wednesday after a ten day visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dallas. During their stay in Brownfield Mary Jean and Dicky Boy celebrated their eleventh and fourth birthdays with a circus party.

Mrs. Rufus Rush and son George Rufus of Lubbock visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Powell latter part of last week.

Texas, Blow Your Horn

By W. A. DEAN

A Century graces your Garland's brow!

O Texas, blow your horn!
One Hundred years of history tell
Of the land your deeds adorn.

Columbia, the cradle of Texas,
Where the Lone Star State was born,
Let trombone wave your palms and pines
Like your trumpet did that morn.

Give Stephen Austin a clarion call,
Then Fannin—to's last hero,
And Travis, Bowie, Bonham—all
Whose blood embalmed the Alamo.

A trumpet blast for Tennessee,
Whose sons gave all for you—
Sam Houston, Crockett and Ellis Bean
Are brands of her fearless—true.

For Milam blow the hero's march,
For old Deaf Smith the same;
Hail Serman, Burleson, brave and arch!
And the Soldiers without a name!

A softer strain for women brave
Who kept the home intact,
Support and service always gave,
Drove wolf and savage back.

These pioneers and those at front,
The builders of your State,
Who blazed the way and bore the brunt
Let bugle cheer your Great.

Six Texas flags! Five long since furl'd—
Salute them—malice free—
Float these Ensigns with Stars and Stripes
Over Texas' jubilee.

Now sound abroad this last refrain:
"Ho, States and Nations far!
The Great Centennial welcomes you—
Her Gates are all ajar."

WOMEN NATURAL APPEARANCE MAKE-UP

If you see a girl all rouged and lipstick up to the ninth degree these days she is decidedly a back number so far as make-up goes. The smart thing now is to look natural. In other words, the current aim is to use cosmetics so as to present that lovely, unmade-up look. Young girls, especially need very little make-up in the first place. They are healthy with natural red lips, rosy cheeks etc. Another good sign of the times is the gradual passing of the habit of continually dabbing at the nose with the powder puff. Nothing could be more unbecoming or repulsive than a nose already encrusted with layer after layer of powder receiving more powder. To let you in on the secret, shiny noses are now in fashion. A shiny nose, you know is, the sign of youth and since they are in style, some older women who have lost their youth are actually trying to grease their noses in order to give them that natural, youthful shiny effect. So let your proboscis be shining light of your make-up—Pathfinder.

Fresh Meats Being Given to the Needy

Issuance of fresh meat cuts, begun two weeks ago in the metropolitan districts, was extended to all families on relief rolls in the state today by order of C. Z. Crain, director of commodities distribution of the Texas Relief Commission.

Fresh meat will be shipped to all relief food depots in Texas in 75 pound cartons containing approximately 2½ and 5 pound cuts, wrapped separately in parchment paper. Families of 5 persons and under will receive two of the smaller cuts per week while families of 6 and over will receive two of the larger cuts per week. The meat will be kept fresh by packing each carton with dry ice, which will keep the meat fresh approximately 12 hours after delivery.

Families will be divided into three groups for the purpose of establishing a uniform flow of distribution throughout the week. On this group basis issuance will be made twice weekly to individual families as follows:

Group one, Mondays and Thursdays; group two, Tuesdays and Fridays; group three, Wednesdays and Saturdays. Case workers will ascertain the requirements in the various counties and meat will be shipped into the counties to meet the needs reported.

Counties were warned against ordering supplies to exceed demands, as none of the meat may be returned to storage after delivery at the food depots, Crain said.

The program will get under way 10 days after state officials have received reports of requirements from county administrators and "we hope" Crain said, "to reach every possible family on relief rolls in the State of Texas."

REFUGE FOR MIGRATORY WATERFOWL

By a recent act of congress, all persons over 16 years of age who wish to hunt migratory waterfowl will hereafter be required to carry a Federal hunting stamp. These stamps will be sold at $1 each at all post offices in towns of 2,500 population or more and also at all county seats.

The fund derived from the sale of these stamps has been set aside by Congress to be used in purchasing or leasing marsh and water acres to be acquired as inviolate refuges for ducks and geese and other waterfowl. Naturalists, sportsmen, and conservationists have long realized the necessity for an extensive system of such refuges not only on the breeding grounds in the North but on the southern wintering grounds as well. Recognizing that without such refuge in the natural concentration areas, many species of ducks and geese are almost certain to become extinct, sportsmen have advocated measures, which at a cost of only one dollar for each hunter, will provide a fund for establishing refuges.

The Biological Survey of the Department of Agriculture, which has the task of selecting and acquiring the refuge areas, as well as of administering the refuges thus acquired, expects that the sale of the new stamp will produce from $600,000 to $1,000,000 or more each year.

Y. W. A. MEETING

Last Monday night the Y. W. A. met at the home of Mrs W. W. Price. The last time the union met they agreed to disband until after the Baptist meeting.

The evening was spent putting together a quilt that the girls pieced some time ago. The next meeting will be Monday at Annie Letha Hamilton's.

Hot tea and cookies was served to Frances McPherson, Ora Belle Chambliss, Lillie Mae Johnston, Annie Letha Hamilton, Cordia Mae Shepherd, Orvalene Price, Mary D. Thomas and Mrs. M. L. Penn.

A speaker was to be in Lubbock this week to explain the plan of the Federal Housing Plan, wherein borrowers can get from $100 to $2,000 to repair their homes. This will benefit each community in more than one way. The Herald hopes to be able to give an outline of the plan in these columns next week.

Treatment and Care Of Pellagra Cases

Six hundred and forty-five Texans died last year of pellagra, declared Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. Pellagra is a disease that is caused by lack of proper foods. It comes on slowly and may not be recognized until the victim begins to have a sore mouth, stomach trouble and reddening and scaling of the skin. When these symptoms appear the disease has been present for some time.

The longer a person has pellagra the harder it is to cure, so one should be on the lookout for the early symptoms such as nervousness, indigestion, and burning of the feet and hands. The disease may become so severe as to affect the mind.

Pellagra is not contagious. As long as a person eats enough of the right kind of food and is not otherwise diseased, he is in no danger even if he lives with a pellagra patient.

The prevention of pellagra depends upon eating the right kind of food at all times. To make sure that the diet is right, it should always include plenty of milk daily, some fresh meat, and as many fresh vegetables as possible. Tomatoes, whole wheat products, salmon, brewer's yeast and fresh fruits are especially valuable. Having provided these essentials of a proper diet, the rest may be arranged according to family and personal likes. In this way pellagra may be avoided.

Com. Elect, Lee Lyon wrote us from Mineral Wells last week that he was helping the other ex-service men hunt "Elmer," at the big state convention of the buddies there. He would he said, continue his trip on to Oklahoma to visit relatives before returning to Terry.

W. G. Harris sent in the coin this week from Roswell to keep this great religious weekly headed his way, and from the tone of his writing, he still feels his keeping.

PASSING OF A GIANT

One of the oldest living things in the world a giant California redwood crashed to the ground the other day after 4,000 years of life. It was the Mariposa grove and was known as the stable tree because cavalry used to park in the great hollow at its feet.

Ninety two feet in girth, 266 feet tall the monarch of the forest finally succumbed to the ravages of time. It was two thousand years old when Christ walked the earth and its life span compassed two thirds of recorded history.

There is something a little sad in the death of such a gallant battler against time. It serves to show mankind how very puny and insignificant he is, how fleeting is his moment on earth. He has so much to do and so little time in which to do it.—Abilene News

Our old friend, Rev. J. C. Lewis was down this week to renew his Herald for about the 25th time since we have been the boss hereabouts. While a bit more feeble than 25 years ago, he still gets about on his own power.

OUR 23 YEAR COLUMN

In our issue of Sept. 8, 1911, there was a lengthy article on the opening of our school on the following Monday, and it was announced the graduates from Brownfield High could enter Stamford College and the East Texas Teachers College without examination. The latter had also offered a free tuition to the honor graduate. Tom F. Hunter, recently of Fort Worth, was principal; W. G. Hardin, first assistant; Miss Clara Randal, intermediate and Miss Deane Lowe, primary. The first two had degrees, and the two latter had first grade state certificates. The state legislature had just finished a tumultuous special session, and accomplished little—as usual. Dr. J. W. Lively of Marshall, in an article about Uncle Joe and Mrs. Hamilton, told the story of two other east Texas boys, John Shepherd and John Patterson, who left home and got broke in the cow country, resorting to hold a revival meeting for the people. The former was the evangelist and the latter singer. They received enough money to buy suits and get home from their meeting, but both retired from evangelizing. Sheppard became congressman, and Patterson an able lawyer.

Robt. Forrester was back from California, and pronounced that god's country. Mr. Carrol Phillips of Gomez and Miss Emily Bridges of Brownfield married the 3rd. L. H. Hudson was in from the farm. John Slaughter was over from Post, looking for grass. Will Black of Gomez, was over. Rev. and Mrs. Thomas had moved into the Harris home. M. V. Brownfield and daughter, Miss Effie, and Miss Butler, were Lubbock visitors. Will Belcher was over from Plains. Teachers Institute was being held here. Some more showers had fallen. Dr. Hall of Plainview was to be here to do dental work. S. P. Bradish of Rhode Island, was here looking after his land. Misses Eldora Lewis and Myrtis Walker of Needmore, were here attending the Baptist meeting. Alvin Duke had sold his cold drink business to Jake Beall. Dike Clinkenberg came in from Roswell. Elbert Proctor had left for east Texas. Tom May was a Lubbock visitor. E. M. Townsend of Lampasas county was here prospecting. Dick Jarrott and sister, Miss Bessie, were visitors here. Mr. Benson of Ft. Worth, owner of the T-4 ranch, was out. A. E. Moore was selling peaches at a dollar a bushel. Mr. Dee Brownfield and Miss Mattie Harris were quietly married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bell at sunrise, Sept. 7. Dr. L. W. Price of Graham, was here visiting his brother, T. J. and family. W. R. Harris and family, early settlers, left for Roswell, to make their home. Mrs. John S. Powell left for a visit to Marshall, and her daughter, Miss Kathryn, left to enter Stamford college. Pappy John and Miss Mamie attended the S. S. institute at Lubbock. G. J. Rose harvested 4,000 bins of white maize off 10 acres.

Ever since April 7, 1933, when beer was legalized, there has been much discussion about the age of the beer that was on the market, with all sorts of indefinite claims being made as to the age of various beers. Now comes news from Milwaukee, one of America's foremost brewing centers, that a leading brewing company has devised ways and means of assuring beer drinkers exactly how long this beer has been aged. This announcement on the part of one of the leading "shipping" brewers is undoubtedly one of the greatest advancements in the brewing industry in twenty years. Those who are familiar with the process of production of beer are unanimous in their opinions that to be good, beer must be fully aged. Only nature and time can bring out the flavor, the mellowness, the full body and strength that must be in good beer. There can be no artificial or hurried processing. This announcement on the part of the Blatz Brewing Company of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, is that, from now on, every bottle of Blatz Old Heidelberg Beer will carry, plainly printed on the neck label, the exact date on which the contents of the bottle is brewed. When consulted as regards this announcement Mr. "Smookey" Taylor of the Roosevelt Cafe, local distributors for the Blatz Brewing Company, said: "Yes, indeed, the brew-dated beer is here—and its story is a very interesting one. "You know the Blatz Brewing Company has had more than 83 years' experience in brewing the highest quality beverages. Knowing that the public would be insistent on nothing but the best, this company has invested millions of dollars in increasing the capacity of its great Milwaukee brewery. This included enlarging of buildings, the building of new ones, and the installation of row after row of huge ageing vats. "Months ago, as their brew was brewed and placed in the fermenting and ageing vats, each vat was sealed and placarded with the exact date its contents had been brewed. Only when that beer is fully aged by natural processes is it bottled. Then the exact brew-date is placed on every bottle of Blatz Old Heidelberg Beer and acts as a guarantee that the beer has been fully aged. "We are very happy to say that we have received our first shipment of brewed beer and we are proud that we can assure our customers of getting a product that is guaranteed fully-aged by the manufacturer, and which has the absolute proof of exact age on every bottle. Our customers already call it 'the beer that tells its own age,' and I guess anyone would have a hard time thinking up a more fitting description."

second honors, $40 for third and $25 for fourth. Prizes of $25 each will be awarded to all other counties entering the agricultural show. Hundreds of individual exhibits will be entered from each county. Horse racing is expected to again lead the field in amusements, augmented by the John T. Wortham Shows with the only "Loop-O-Plane" ride east of California, vaudeville acts, band concerts, and fireworks.

BILIOUS

Condition Needs Double Action Treatment

Stimulation of liver bile flow is not enough for complete relief, but combined with intestinal stimulation that relieves temporary constipation, quick, soothing results are certain. Herbine, a combination of herbs, combines BOTH actions and so those dizzy, headachy, indigestions, gas, rundown feelings get relieved when both liver and bowels return to normal action. Get your bottle of Herbine from druggists.
